NOTICE IN REFERENCE TO BEQUESTS.

As the kind intentions of some of the deceased friends of the Society have been rendered abortive for want of correct knowledge of the law relating to Charitable Bequests, the Committee call special attention to the following directions:—

By Statute 6 Geo. II. cap. 36, commonly called the Mortmain Act, it is enacted, Section 1, that after the 24th June, 1736, "no manors, lands, tenements, rents, advowsons, or other hereditaments, corporeal or incorporeal, whatsoever; nor any sum or sums of money, goods, chattels, stocks in the public funds, securities for money, or any other personal estate whatsoever, to be laid out or disposed of in the purchase of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall be given, granted, alienated, limited, released, transferred, assigned, or appointed, or any ways conveyed or settled to, or upon, any person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, or otherwise, for any estate or interest whatsoever, or any ways charged or incumbered by any person or persons whatsoever in trust, or for the benefit of any charitable uses whatsoever, UNLESS such gift, conveyance, appointment, or settlement of any such lands, tenements, or hereditaments, sum or sums of money, or personal estates (other than stocks in the public funds) be, and be made by DEED, intended, sealed and delivered, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses, twelve calendar months at least before the death of such donor or grantor (including the days of the execution and death), and be enrolled in His Majesty's High Court of Chancery, within six calendar months next after the execution thereof; AND UNLESS such STOCKS be transferred in the public books usually kept for the transfer of stock, six calendar months at least before the death of such donor or grantor (including the days of the transfer and death), AND UNLESS the same be made to take effect in possession for the charitable uses intended immediately from the making thereof; AND BE WITHOUT any power of revocation, reservation, trust, condition, limitation clause or agreement whatsoever, for the benefit of the donor or grantor, or any person or persons claiming under him."

The third section of the statute enacts "That all gifts, grants, conveyances, appointments, assurances, transfers, and settlements whatsoever, of any lands, tenements, or other hereditaments, or of any estate or interest therein, or of any charge or incumbrance affecting or to affect any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or of any stock, money, goods, chattels, or other personal estate, or securities for money to be laid out or disposed of in the purchase of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or of any estate or interest therein, or of any charge or incumbrance affecting, or to affect, the same to, or in trust for, or for the benefit of any person, living or dead, which shall at any time from and after the 24th June, 1867, be made in pursuance of any power, authority, or privilege whatever, shall be void, null, and utterly without effect in law; and any other form than by this Act is directed and appointed, shall be ABSOLUTELY, and to all intents and purposes, NULL AND VOID."

Upon these enactments it may be observed:—

1st. That the Baptist Missionary Society is a Charitable Institution, within the meaning of this Act.
2ndly. Land, money arising out of land, or money secured on land wholly or partly, and whether freehold or leasehold, can be given to a charity only by deed in manner directed by the statute.

3rdly. Not only cannot a will pass to a charity any property of the above description, but no money-legacy given to a charity can be satisfied out of such property. If, therefore, a testator has only land, mortgages, rent-charges, debentures, or securities on land, the legacy will fail altogether; if his estate be mixed it will fail to the extent of the proportion of this property to pure personality.

If A, having £1,500; namely, £500 at his bankers, and £1,000 on mortgage, gives £100 to a charity, the bequest will only be worth £33 6s. 8d. Railway and canal shares are pure personalty, and may be used to satisfy a charitable legacy, but not railway debentures.

By 1 Vic. cap. 26, sec. 9, it is further enacted, "That no will shall be valid, unless it shall be in writing, and executed in manner hereinafter mentioned (that is to say): it shall be signed at the foot or end thereof by the Testator, or by some other person in his presence or by his direction; and such signature shall be made or acknowledged by the Testator in the presence of two or more Witnesses present at the same time; and such Witnesses shall attest and shall subscribe the will in the presence of the Testator; but no Form of Attestation shall be necessary."

N.B.—Wills executed prior to the first day of January, 1838, are not affected by this act; but any alteration therein, or codicil thereto, must be executed in the manner before mentioned.

The following Form of Bequest may be safely adopted by those who wish to bequeath such property as may be left by will for this purpose:—

FORM OF BEQUEST.

I give to the Treasurer or Treasurers for the time being, of the Baptist Missionary Society, the sum of £ sterling, to be paid exclusively out of such parts of my personal estate, not specifically bequeathed, as may lawfully be given by will to charity, and not to abate unless there should be no other fund for the payment in full of my other legacies, and in such case only rateably with my other pecuniary or general legacies.

If any friends wish to bequeath property for Translations or Schools, it is only necessary to say instead of the General Fund, the Translation Fund, or the School Fund.

It is proper to observe, that the above restrictive statute does not extend to Scotland, Ireland, or the Colonies.

GENERAL TESTIMONIES OF BRETHREN TO THE YEAR'S WORK.

Beginning nearest home, our agents in France speak of their work as having been more than ordinarily encouraging. The influence of the character of the members of our churches is such as to excite inquiry concerning the doctrines they profess, and the remark is frequently made, "If the conduct of these Protestants is the result of the truth they hold, it is worth while knowing what that truth is." The year has been characterised as singularly free from official interference, the Republic being decidedly more favourable to freedom in religious matters than the Empire was. Of the work in Italy, from all we learn the hopes of our agents there are raised to a high degree, and they are looking forward to their realisation. A spirit of earnest inquiry is abroad; and, since the beginning of our Mission in that country, the simple doctrines of the Gospel were never more seriously listened to, nor with more manifest results. In Norway, the testimony of all our agents is that the year has been one of more than ordinary blessing. Mr. Svenson, of Christiania, says: "During the last year the Lord has abundantly blessed us in our work. Has it in several respects been a year of many tears, it has, however, been a year of gladness. We have had many difficulties to overcome, but the Kingdom of God has succeeded." And Mr. Sjödahl, our new missionary in Trondjhem, says: "God has wonderfully worked amongst us this year." Accounts from our West Indian stations are not quite so encouraging, but the missionaries are far from speaking despondingly. It is from India, however, that the most cheering testimony comes. The following are among many statements of the same character:—

Mr. Guyton, of Delhi, says: "Brief as my report is, it is an outline of very pleasant work, in which I am sure I have been blessed, while I hope I have been of use to others. I cannot consider that the year ~~has~~ been an eventful one, but it has been, in the truest sense, prosperous."

Messrs. Kerry and Martin, reporting of the Barissal district, say: "The number of the Christian people is steadily increasing. The increase is, doubtless, chiefly from within, but there is a quiet and steady increase from the heathen constantly going on. The number of the Christian community, counting men, women, and children, is nearly double what it was sixteen years ago. The people are learning, and evidently have learnt, that there is a high and pure morality as an essential part of the religion of Christ."

Of Jessore, Mr. Spurgeon reports: "The church has grown in unity, independence of spirit, and, I trust, also in grace."

Mr. Bate, of Allahabad, says that the last year was one of the most interesting and happy of all the years which he has spent in connection with the Mission.

BENARES.—Mr. Jones, recently accepted as a full missionary, writes: "Our Mission in India is progressing; the scoffs, the ridicule, and the calumny of our enemies, notwithstanding."

Finally, Mr. Bion, of Dacca, expresses the following conviction: "But one thing I feel surer and surer every year, namely, that a harvest is coming which shall overshadow all our toils and self-denials; when our hearts, if not in this world, then in the next shall be filled with joy unspeakable and full of glory at the marvellous doings of our risen Saviour."

This testimony is fully entitled to our credit. It is that of earnest men who are certainly not oblivious of the difficulties that surround their work. Some of them have been in the field for many years, and have often had to speak of their disappointments and trials. They are not, as a rule, apt to take too sanguine views of things. When, therefore, they deliberately express their convictions and hopes, we may trust them and be thankful.

HINDRANCES.

So far as these spring from the depravity of the human heart, the Gospel has to meet with them everywhere, at home as well as abroad. Abroad, however, they are strengthened by the influence of ages of heathenism. We have to speak, not of these, but of such as act locally, and which arise partly from the opposition made by decaying systems of false religion to the truth as it is in Jesus, and partly from perversions of Christian truth itself. As an illustration of the first, we quote the following from the report of Mr. Bate, of Allahabad:—

On other occasions persons have been actually paid by natives of wealth and position to dog my steps and do their best to stop the preaching. For this purpose the most unscrupulous rowdy is generally selected, and everything which a reckless disregard for truth could devise is uttered against the British Government, against the Queen and her people, against Christ, and against His followers. Of course, all such cases have to be treated according to their respective requirements. It has to be continually borne in mind that the object of the opponents and of those who send them is to divert attention from the main thing and prevent the Gospel from being made known. On one occasion a Yogi (Hindu ascetic), whose speciality it is to create a most hideous and uproarious noise with his mouth (the said noise being the means by which he frightens the more timid of the people into giving him alms), comes into the midst of my hearers, and all on a sudden frightens everybody by setting up his noise. Of course his object is attained when the attention of the people is diverted and some of them go away. My only way of keeping them together under these circumstances is to preach on as if nothing had occurred. But the people are so priestridden that they are afraid to tell the noisy intruder not to make a fool of himself. How should they, for he is holy, and it is his way of earning his living? Besides, an imprecation pronounced against them by one so near to God as he is, would blight their families and their fields for generations yet to come. On one occasion a man brought a cage, containing a large bird, which gave forth a series of frightful screams. He held the creature aloft so as to divert attention from what I was saying, and to create amusement.

Of the second class of hindrances are the proselyting efforts of the Roman Catholics, who, in some of our stations, as, e.g., in Khoolnea, bribe excluded members to join them. They prefer this work to seeking to teach the Mohammedans and Hindoos. Mr. Rouse gives the following account of these Romish manœuvres:—

A striking feature of the work of the last few years has been the persistent efforts of the Roman Catholics to draw away the Protestants of the South from the Gospel which they have received. Thus far they have not met with much success among our people; but the Church of England Christians have gone over to them in shoals. Thirty or forty years ago the Propagation Society sent its agents among our people, establishing rival places of worship in villages where there were Baptists, and, by plentiful donations of money, drew off a great many of our people. With the measure which they meted it has been measured to them again. The Roman Catholics, adopting precisely the same tactics, have drawn away a large number of the adherents of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel—in some places, almost the whole of them. It is a cheering fact that thus far our people have, for the most part, held fast. Some, of course, have gone over to the Romanists—that is, as far as outwardly joining them is concerned; but they have no real faith in the system; it is the money which has drawn them over. Some who have left us have come back, and others may come back too, especially if the money should begin to fail! And, of course, those who have left us for money were no real strength to us. But, considering the poverty and comparative ignorance of the people, the subtlety of the priest's arguments, and the convincing effect which a few rupees would be likely to have, it is certainly a cheering fact that so few of our people have gone over to them. A sermon which I preached lately at Luckyantipore led to a challenge from the priest to a public discussion, which, under the circumstances, I thought it wise to accept. It took place on February 9th of the present year (1877). I hope good may come of it. I think the trial to which our brethren are exposed in this matter will tend to strengthen their faith, and thus that God will, as He so often does, bring good out of evil. The Romish estimate of the comparative strength of our position and that of the Church of England, in resistance to their claims, may be judged of from the fact that they say the Church of England is moderate Satan, but the Baptist system is out-and-out Satan!

Another hindrance is indicated in the following extract from Mr. Carter's report of work in Ceylon:—

If our object were to employ any and all means to bring men into the Christian name, we might succeed in enrolling a great many; but as we wait till persons give evidence of disinterested piety, we find but few to approve of. We are at times under the painful necessity of exposing and seeking to counteract that soul-destroying error of baptismal regeneration to be found in the Church of England prayer-book and catechism, both in Singhalese and Tamil, in which it is translated in some passages with even more distinctness and force than it has in English.

It is to be hoped that the present ecclesiastical agitation in Ceylon will result in the Church missionaries and their society not only striking a decisive blow for freedom from man, but, what is of far more consequence, for freedom from what even they themselves regard as error. May the Spirit of God guide us all to teach only what is truth, and to build into his church only what will bear the test of fire.

And, lastly, here and there our brethren have been tried by the intrusion of Plymouth brethrenism. In Norway, for instance, it succeeded for a time in seriously dividing the church at Bergen. This was sorely felt, as it was an added trouble to the hostility of the Lutheran clergy, who represent Baptists as heretics who deny the divinity of Christ, and as hostile to the religious welfare of children.

THE NATIVE CHURCHES.

The most important consideration in connection with these churches is the character of the religious life which is being developed in them. Are the native Christians honouring the profession they have made? Do they advance in Scriptural knowledge? Are they growing in grace? Is their influence on the surrounding heathen such as to commend the truth they have received? To all these questions your Committee can give satisfactory replies. The reports received from India substantiate the testimony which was given by an experienced missionary from Bengal some time ago; a testimony which may apply to other parts of India as well:—"They bear a character differing widely from that of the heathen. They take a deep interest in the worship of God, and evidently rejoice in the spread of His Kingdom. Their moral sense has been quickened, and, as the result of this, those immoral deeds which are exceedingly prevalent among the heathen are very rare among them. . . . Their treatment of their wives contrasts with the harsh treatment which many Hindoo women are subjected to. They treat them with far more consideration and kindness, and make them to a much greater extent, I believe, their companions. . . . I regard them as being fairer in their dealings with one another, and more honest than the heathen. In respect to the use of bad language the difference between them and the heathen is very noticeable. The heathen think little of giving false witness in courts of justice; our genuine converts shrink from doing what they have learned from God's Word to be so wrong. . . . I know a good many who have made such progress in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour that I confide in them almost, if not quite, as much as I do in our fellow-Christians in England." Equally decided is the testimony of Dr. Caldwell, one of the most experienced missionaries of Southern India:—"I maintain that the real earnest Christians of our Indian missions have no need to shrink from comparison with the real earnest Christians in a similar station in life, and similarly circumstanced, in England, or in any other part of the world. . . . I do not for a moment pretend that they are free from imperfections; on the contrary, living amongst them as I do from day to day, I see their imperfections daily, and daily do I reprove, rebuke, exhort, as I see need ; but I am bound to say that when I have gone away anywhere, and look back upon the Christians of this country from a distance, or compare them with what I have seen and known of Christians in other countries, I have found that their good qualities have left a deeper impression on my mind than their imperfections.' *

A very important question in connection with the growth and development of the native churches is that of self-help, and so of independence. That the native churches should be permanently dependent upon Mission funds and under Mission control, was never contemplated by the earliest missionaries of the Society. When, as yet, the number of native Christians was very small, the missionaries were clear that it was their duty to advise the converts to form themselves, as soon as possible, into separate churches, to choose their pastors and deacons from among themselves, and to learn to act without the interference of the European missionary. It was taken for granted, also, that, under such circumstances, the native churches would naturally learn to support their ministers and provide for the continuance of all the ordinances of Christian worship. This healthy principle, though cordially assented to, has not been carried out to any such extent as might have been expected. Till comparatively recently, everything has been done for the native churches which they were thought unwilling and unable to do for themselves. Their unwillingness was the natural outcome of their dependence, and their pleas of inability, in many instances, were exaggerated. Your Committee are now pledged to the development of native independence and self-support. English missionaries are no longer to be the pastors of native churches, except in cases where the necessity is imperative, and such cases are very rare. In this matter, as well as in the general application of the principle above stated, it is gratifying to know that the missionaries are now in almost complete accord with the Committee. Mr. Smith's experiment in Delhi has been very stimulating to others. In the native churches of the South villages, Mr. Kerry for years has carried out the Committee's instructions, and the churches have been urged to supplement, by their own liberality, the yearly diminishing help given from

* Indian "Christian Spectator," 1873.

England. Mr. Kerry and Mr. Martin are entrusted with the same duty in the churches in Backergunge. The experiment is only a partial success, and it is just possible to press changes forward a little too fast. But neither abroad nor at home is it likely that we shall forget to use the means by which a stronger and more manly Christian life may be developed. Your Committee feel sure that, year by year, there will be increasing progress in this direction.

It is needful, however, that the churches at home should understand the difficulties with which our missionaries have to contend. These are very forcibly as well as faithfully put by Mr. Kerry in a paper which was read at the late Conference in Calcutta. We abridge them here, but in substance they are as follows :—

1. "The people have not really been taught to give to the cause of Christ. In word probably they have been taught faithfully enough, but in deed (the most effective way of teaching) they have been taught the reverse. An evil custom has been established among the people—they have had only to ask and to get ; often they have got, almost without asking, from the Society, chapels, rents, mats or seats, books, pastors, and teachers. Some of the facts which have come to my knowledge make me ready to think that all has been done possible to make it more difficult to return to a more Scriptural order of things."

2. "Another difficulty arises from the natural dependence of the people. Most of those who are connected with us want to lean upon some one ; and certainly and especially was it so in the early days of the Mission. The converts became exposed, as they do still, to many new dangers and troubles when they left the faith of their fathers. But these difficulties are much less than they were."

3. A third difficulty arises from the tendency to dispute and divisions among the people.

4. General ignorance.

5. "One more difficulty arises from interference of other denominations. There are two quarters from which opposition to our Missions has come in the past—the agents of the Roman Catholic Church and the agents of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts. Opposition has come from both of these amongst our people to the south of Calcutta. This opposition, so far as the agents of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel are concerned, has very much abated of late years, but it has been increasing during the last five or six years from Roman Catholic priests. If we had only been opposed by the introduction of controversy, the difficulty of maintaining our ground would not have been so great, but mercenary influences were used freely by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel's agents between thirty and forty years ago; and now the priests of Rome are, I understand, largely spending funds with the view of increasing their adherents from among the Christian communities of the South. In the first attack upon our Missions in these villages south of Calcutta it seemed at one time that all our work would be destroyed.

BIBLE AND PUBLICATION WORK.

It is hard to realize the wonderful change wrought during the eighty-five years of our missionary history in connection with the spread of the Word of God almost all over the world. Let us be permitted to offer to our friends the following brief summary. It is computed that at the close of the last century there were probably not five millions of copies of the Word of God, in whole or in part, in the whole world, and these not accessible to more than forty-five or fifty millions of persons. At that time there were districts in Scotland and in Wales in which the Bible was to be found only in the parish churches, and even in London there were whole streets in which, it is alleged, the Bible could not be found in any house. It was, primarily, to meet the home need that, in 1804, the British and Foreign Bible Society was formed. The whole heathen world was without the Word of God. Our first missionaries had the high honour of commencing the great, the holy, the essential work of Bible translation; and how they were specially fitted for their task, and how the Lord prospered them, need not be repeated here. Suffice it to say that, not our Society alone, but all kindred societies besides, are profiting to-day by the fruit of their labours. Since the beginning of the work, the Bible, as a whole or in portions, has been translated into two hundred and ten of the languages spoken among men. These languages express the thoughts of nearly four-fifths of the whole human race, and the time is not far distant when men of every tribe will be able to read "the wonderful works of God" in their own tongue. Thirty-six of these languages had no written form until Christian missionaries created it. They have done the work of heroes: work which had it been accomplished for secular purposes would have secured from the world their lasting renown: but they did it for Christ, and "their record is on high."

Not only is the Bible circulated in so many of the vernacular languages of the nations, but, with the wonderful spread of the English language, there is also a wide circulation given to our English Bible. At Madras, in 1807, a gentleman endeavoured to purchase a Bible, but failed to procure one in any of the shops there, as the Bible was not a marketable article in India. Now the English Bible may be purchased cheaply in almost every town in India, and very frequently the natives purchase it in preference to the translations in their own languages.

During the past year a good share of the work has been done by Mr. Rouse, in connection with our dear and revered friend, Dr. Wenger. Mr. Rouse reports his literary labour as follows:—

This work has been a good deal hindered by my illness. I have, however, been able to go on with the Commentary on Isaiah in Bengali. Notes have been prepared to chapter xlix., and the work is in type to chapter xl., uniform with Dr. Wenger's Commentary on the New Testament. I hope the whole will be finished in two or three months, and that then I may be able to commence a Commentary on Jeremiah, or some other Old Testament book. I have prepared a small tract on idolatry, consisting chiefly of selected Scripture passages, which has been accepted by the Calcutta Tract Society. Feeling the great importance of providing systematic Christian teaching for our village Christians, I have also commenced the preparation of a monthly tractate, called "Scripture Teaching." It contains twelve pages, 12mo., and consists of eight selected chapters of the Bible, two for each Sunday of the month, with brief and simple practical lessons. The January number will give an idea of the plan proposed:—Gen. i. (The Creation); John i. 1—18 (The Word, in the beginning, Who became incarnate); Gen. ii. (The Earthly Paradise); Gen. i. 1—3; Exodus xx. 8—11; Isa. viii. 13, 14; Matt. xii. 1—13 (The Law of the Sabbath); Eph. v. (Christian life; Sacredness of marriage, dating from Eden); Rev. xxii. (The Heavenly Paradise); Gen. iii. (The Fall); Rom. v. (Recovery through Christ). On each chapter there are eight or ten practical remarks. This is an experiment; how it will succeed I do not know; but many, of different denominations, have expressed themselves as much pleased with the idea.

Mr. Bate reports on his literary work as follows :—

I have, during the year, examined several vernacular publications of the Tract Society, and of the Christian Vernacular Education Society. At the beginning of the year a letter was sent to me from the Government of India, asking for an expression of opinion in reference to the improvement of vernacular literature. My reply received the thanks of Government, and was afterwards printed in the Friend of India. I send you herewith a slip containing the article. The new translation of the Old Testament into the Hindi language progresses slowly. You were good enough to mention in your printed Report that my book, "Studies in Islam," would contain counsels to my fellow-missionaries in reference to their work. Not at all; the nature of the enterprise is adequately indicated in the title of the book. I could not presume to be an instructor of a class of men from whom I would willingly learn. The book will be rather a kind of storehouse of facts and arguments in relation to the points of difference between the doctrines of the Crescent and those of the Cross; and I am seeking so to construct the work that missionaries throughout the Mohammedan countries may find in it a sure reply to every objection which a Moslem, as such, can raise against the claims of Christ. Already I have been labouring at the work for four years, off and on; and I hope to see it completed by the expiration of the next seven years, if God sees fit to continue to me life and health.

Mr. Carter, of Ceylon, says :—

In giving a report of our work for the past year, we have to record with thankfulness and joy, that one work, on which the greater part of my labour for more than thirteen years has been expended, is now brought to a conclusion—the work of translating and printing the Old Testament in Singhalese. Including the New Testament, it is nearly twenty years since the work of translating the whole Bible was commenced. My hope is that I may yet be spared to put a finishing stroke to the work by revising the New Testament and issuing it uniform with the Old.

At the close of 1875 we had printed as far as the end of Ezekiel, and during the past year the remaining portions—the Books of Daniel and the minor prophets—have been printed. These would have been finished before the middle of the year, but that our supply of paper ran short, and it was some months before we could procure any more, and the printing was not finished till December. We have had a few copies bound, but they are done so indifferently that we must have the binding done in England. The average cost of each copy—paper, printing, and binding—will be about ten shillings. We shall generally have to sell them at much below this price, though some of our native members and friends have subscribed as much as £1 each for a copy.

In 1875 we had revised twenty-five chapters of Matthew and five chapters of Mark. We have now finished Matthew and Mark, and as far as the 19th chapter of Luke. An edition of a Singhalese hymn-book, which we had prepared, containing only fifty-five hymns, and printed about five years ago, being exhausted, and in great requisition amongst our churches, we have increased the number of hymns to 125, re-arranged the whole, and printed an edition of one thousand. These will be bound in a good permanent form, and sold at one shilling a copy. Eleven of these were made by our native pastor in Kandy, who had come to understand what was required, and the burden of the rest fell upon me; for no Singhalese persons have yet succeeded in making verses in regular foot and accent, or at all answering to their various designations.

Mr. Ellis has completed the Bengali Manual of Christian duty, the Gospel of Matthew, in Bengali-Mussulmani. He has also translated into Bengali the first and second English reading-books of the Calcutta Tract Society. Messrs. Wenger, Rouse, and others greatly assisted him in his Bengali-Mussulmani work. Mr. Ellis was also requested to visit Delhi at the time of the Durbar, and there he presented several copies of the Scriptures to the chiefs then assembled.

Among the publications of the year we must notice the "Life of John Chamberlain," written by our respected brother, C. B. Lewis, of Calcutta, in the midst of much bodily weakness. The Committee purchased five hundred copies of it for sale and distribution. The following resolution also was passed:—

That the very cordial thanks of the Committee be given to the Rev. C. B. Lewis for his stimulating and sympathetic sketch of "John Chamberlain," which, in the judgment of the Committee, cannot fail to do good, and which they hope, in the words of the writer of it, "may awaken a spirit of kindred consecration in the minds of many who may read it."

BIBLE CIRCULATION.

This useful work is being done by all our agents, of every degree; by missionaries, native teachers, schoolmasters, colporteurs and the visitors in the Zenanas. It is difficult to approximate very nearly to the numbers of the circulation of Scriptures in different parts of the world, but probably they have been no fewer, in all directions and from all sources, than eight millions of Bibles and portions during the past year, i.e., at the rate of more than fifteen per minute the whole year round. Into how many hands these Scriptures may have fallen it is not possible to tell, but it will not be considered an exaggeration if we multiply the number by five, and thus suppose that some forty millions of persons may have obtained at least a sight of the Word of God. Our own share in the distribution is hard to calculate, as so much of it is done through different Auxiliary Bible Societies, but probably some hundred and fifty thousand copies have passed through the hands of our agents. In Italy alone, through the generous kindness of Mr. Rylands, of Manchester, Mr. Wall and his colleagues, have had the disposal of fifty thousand copies of the New Testament in Italian. One encouraging feature of this department of our work is the fact that the greater proportion of the Scriptures thus put into circulation are not given away, but are bought, at a low price indeed; but still they are paid for. As a proof of the awakening of religious interest this is valuable. Here and there, indeed the circulation of Scripture is looked upon with special dislike, and some instances have occurred in which the Bible has been ignominiously torn to pieces and flung away. Even then the torn fragments have not been shorn of their Divine power. Mr. Bate illustrates this, and says:—

Let it not be supposed that the fragments of leaves of books and tracts torn up and thrown to the winds are forgotten by the Master. Instances have not been few of late years in which a piece of a torn leaf has conveyed the seed of eternal life to heathen men. You have heard of some instances, and have printed accounts of them in your Herald. Another instance has during the past year come to my notice. A young Mohammedan of Futtehpore, a city some 120 miles westward of Allahabad, strolling slowly along the bazaar, picked up a scrap of printed paper which lay on the ground. The broken piece contained a few verses of the 7th chapter of the Gospel of John. The words were used by the Divine Spirit for the production of conviction in his mind, and the result was his conversion to Christ and his identification with His people in that city. Torn up in umbrage, as no doubt the little book was, God once more fulfilled His word, and caused even the wrath of man to praise Him.

Mr. Jenkins, of Morlaix, gives us the following interesting case:—

Passing through a small hamlet one day, our colporteur heard of a man who was said to be a Protestant. Surprised, he looked for him, and found him. He was a farmer in good circumstances, of very inquisitive turn of mind. Dissatisfied with the political and religious state of the country, he went about saying everywhere that a reform was necessary, and would come. What was remarkable was that, although uneducated, he had laid hold of the scanty passages of Scripture contained in the map book, had learnt them by heart, and attacked the clergy right and left on that ground. To such a man a copy of the Scriptures was a boon. He read it, committed large portions to memory, and went about his neighbours' houses reading the book and reciting what he knew. Apart from our influence, an interesting work has begun here. I have often asked this friend to allow me to preach in his house, but he has thought it more prudent to wait until full liberty is given; "and then," he says, "I'll put my own shoulder to the wheel."

AUXILIARY WORK.

Temperance.—There was intemperance in India before the influence of English rule and the introduction of intoxicating liquors from Europe. There can be no doubt, however, that of late years drunkenness has been on the increase. Hence the earnest efforts of not a few of our missionaries to diminish the evil. Crusades against intemperance are not the preaching of the Gospel, and your Committee would regret the diversion of the energies of your missionaries into a channel which, though legitimate enough for others, is not that into which theirs should chiefly run. We do not think there is any reason for alarm on this account. Some of your most active missionaries are among the most earnest promoters of the temperance cause, using it as an auxiliary to the Gospel. Thus, Mr. Gregson, of Agra, whose missionary activity is well known, says:—"The importance of this special department of mission work is becoming more and more recognised. As a power for good in furthering the Church of Christ in India, the work is needed among civilians as well as soldiers, and we have had great cause to thank God for the abundant blessing He has granted to this work. Many have been led to give up drinking habits and accept the message of redeeming love, and we hope that the work of Temperance will be so conducted that it may always receive the gracious approval of the Divine Master." In this wish we most devoutly concur.

Rather more than a year ago several of the members of the Missionary Conference met in Calcutta to consider the desirability of forming a Temperance Association in connection with their Mission work. Among them were brethren Rouse, Evans, Anderson, Etherington, Hallam, Jones, S. P. Buksh, and Brojonath Banerjee.

The brethren above mentioned are all interested in the good cause, and many more are so ; in fact it is almost the exception not to find a Temperance Society in connection with the Stations. The native churches, particularly, have taken up the matter with some zeal. Our native preacher, Amritta Lall Nath, writing about the church at Johnnugger, says :—"Drunkenness, which prevailed to an alarming extent, has been apparently thoroughly eradicated. A few months ago a Total Abstinence Society was started, and I am thankful to say that about forty members have solemnly promised to abstain from all intoxicating drugs all their lives ; a need which has long been felt." Mr. Evans says of the native church at Monghyr :—"The members are ardent supporters of our temperance movement ; nearly all are pledged abstainers." The Committee know that an increasing number of the friends of the Mission sympathise with this department of the work done. The wisdom of the missionaries may be trusted to keep in its true position as an auxiliary to the preaching of the Gospel and to the moral influence of the native church. As such may the movement abundantly prosper.

Work among Soldiers.—Our missionaries, whenever they have been placed in favouring circumstances for the purpose, have always shown a deep interest in the religious and moral condition of the British soldier in India. What our brother J. G. Gregson and others have done for him is well known. This good work is still carried on. Our brethren have lately found a very invaluable helper in Mrs. Rouse, of Calcutta, accounts of whose labours have already been made public. The following is the last account your Committee have received. Mr. Rouse writes :—

In last year's Report I referred to the work which was commenced among the men of the 3rd Buffs. When that regiment was ordered to active service in Perak, the 40th Regiment came here for a few months, and, as in previous years, my work has been somewhat varied.

The other cheering department of work has been among the soldiers of H. M. 12th Regiment, now stationed in Fort William. We removed to Dum Dum in February, as soon as the 12th Regiment was ready to come here. We asked the Christian men of the 40th to find out, before they left, any like-minded men in the 12th, and to bring them over to us. Three or four thus came over, one of whom was a Baptist ; but we found that, although the colonel of the regiment is an earnest Christian man, who has much at heart his men's welfare, yet the Christian brotherhood in the regiment was very small. As soon as we had become pretty well acquainted with these few brethren, we asked them to invite their comrades to a tea-meeting in our house. About sixty men came, and our room was quite filled. After tea several of Sankey's hymns were sung, a few pointed addresses on personal religion were given, and the men were invited to come to the Sunday services. The following Sunday evening more than twenty came to the service, and from that day we had them attending regularly, morning and evening—the morning attendance averaging about ten, and the evening about twenty or thirty. We followed up the first tea meeting by a few others of a similar character, held in our house or elsewhere.

Schools.—The value of educational instruction, as auxiliary to the spread of the Gospel, does not now need to be discussed. Many thousands of children in our various mission-fields are under the teaching of our missionaries and their helpers. Secular learning of an elementary character is imparted to these children ; but, in addition, in all these schools the truths of Christianity are regularly taught. Thus, in France, some 200 children are under instruction. Here, in the case of every child, a written permission to teach is obtained by the missionary from the parent, this being an incidental proof of the sympathy which exists in favour of our Protestant teaching. A large proportion of the present members of the Church in Brittany is composed of persons who received their first convictions of saving truth at school. The same may be said respecting the mission in Norway, where schools are regularly maintained in Bergen and Trondjhem. In Delhi, and the surrounding districts, the schools have been maintained, and they have improved in attention and in general efficiency. The standard is being lifted up to that of the Government system of education. In all the schools religious instruction is imparted, and in some the New Testament is the only reading-book in use. More than 600 boys are daily taught the Scriptures.

In the Barisal district schools are established at thirteen stations, six of these schools being wholly supported by Government Grants. This is sufficient test of their efficiency. The missionaries, though thankful, will not be satisfied till there is a good school in every station.

At Monghyr, a day school for Christian boys, and a theological class, have been established ; and in Ceylon, where school-work is the principal means of Evangelisation, there are in the Colombo district alone no fewer than forty-three schools, with upwards of two thousand scholars. It is worth noticing that Government Grants are largely available for the support of these schools. Thus, in Ceylon, a sum of about £420 was received last year from that source.

Zenana Work.—No account of mission work can be complete without some reference to this. It is not our duty to enter into details, as these will be furnished by the excellent society, connected with us, and which deservedly secures the sympathy of us all. We would here simply point out that the new enterprise is almost doubling the field of our operations in India; that it is gradually securing on behalf of Christianity the influence of the women of India—potent there, as it is everywhere else—and that it is instrumental in leavening with Christian truth the children, the future population of that vast empire. Your Committee devoutly say, “God speed” to the Zenana Mission.

The Cyclone in the Backergunge District.—Famine, pestilence, and inundations have often proved to be opportunities for Christian work, of which our missionaries have always been ready to avail themselves. Whoever else may forget the cyclone of October 31st of last year, we cannot. Our brethren Martin and Kerry were on their way to the doomed district from the Missionary Conference in Calcutta, so near to the time of the great catastrophe that, had they started some forty-eight hours sooner, they might have been involved in its perils. We devoutly recognise the Divine hand that kept them safe. We are glad to believe that the loss of life was not so great as was at first stated, nevertheless it was appalling. Our own stations suffered but little, and the life of none of our native Christians was lost. Mr. Kerry was appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor as agent for the administration of relief, and in that capacity he had the opportunity of preaching the truth and administering the consolations of the Gospel to many thousands whom he might not otherwise have reached.

THE MISSIONARY STAFF.

The movements of our brethren during the past year have been of an unusually chequered character. The Committee have been gratified by the fact that several missionaries have been sent out to various fields of labour, but this gratification has been crossed by the disappointment arising from the return of some who had but recently gone out, the retirement of others who had been specially honoured in their work, and the death of two brethren and one sister in the midst of their hopeful toils. These contingencies, of course, are likely to arise during any year of the history of the Mission, but there are periods during which they seem to accumulate, and last year was one of them.

The following brethren have gone out into the field during the year:—Mr. Alfred G. Jones, from Manchester, has gone out to the help of our brother Richard, of Chefoo, China, so long single-handed and alone in his arduous work; Mr. Edward S. Summers, B.A., of Cambridge University, has gone to India, where he is now pursuing his studies as a missionary probationer; Mr. H. Comber, after completing a two years' course of study in medicine and surgery, has joined the missionaries on the West Coast of Africa; and Mr. Sjödahl, a young Swede, who has studied for a time at Regent's Park College, has been added to the staff in Norway. In addition to these, the Rev. John Landels, of Kirkcaldy, has been accepted for Mission work in Italy, where his brother is already engaged; Mr. John Ewen, formerly an agent of the Free Church of Scotland Mission in Sonthalistan, is pursuing his supplementary studies at Bristol College with a view to his going out to India again; and the Rev. Thomas Lewis Johnson, an American freedman, and formerly pastor of a church of freedmen in Chicago, is pursuing his studies at the Metropolitan College with a view to missionary work, probably in Africa. To our list of fully accredited missionaries must be added the name of the Rev. D. Jones, of Monghyr, who has most successfully passed his two examinations in the vernacular.

Since last October, and after the Autumnal Meetings at Birmingham, the Rev. Q. W. Thomson and Mrs. Thomson have returned to the West Coast of Africa; the veteran missionary, Thomas Morgan, and Mrs. Morgan to Howrah; and the Rev. John Williams to his old field of labour in Muttra, accompanied by Mrs. Williams, whom he had married during his visit to this country. It is gratifying to be able to report that these brethren derived much advantage to their health during their sojourn in England, and that they went to their work in recruited physical vigour, as well as with increased hopefulness. The Rev. F. Pinnock, also, who, after some eighteen years of quiet, plodding labour in our West African Mission, was anxious to visit Jamaica (his native land), and also to come to this country, has accomplished both objects, and he is once more at his post of duty. During his short stay in this country he had the opportunity of visiting several of our churches, and his simple and unobtrusive accounts of his work have done much to strengthen the sympathies of the friends of the Mission towards the small but interesting field which Mr. Saker and his colleagues have occupied so long.

Turning now to the losses of the year, the Committee regret they have to report the following :—The Rev. C. C. Brown has returned to this country, having resigned the pastoral charge of the church at Lal Bazar, Calcutta, after having previously relinquished his relation to the Society ; Mr. Miller, on account of broken health, has been obliged to leave Benares, and he is now in this country ; Mr. Henry Tucker has left India from the same cause, and Mr. Francis has terminated his connection with the Society. Each of these cases, on its own grounds, has been such as to create much anxiety in the minds of the Committee. They have yielded to the inevitable, but with much pain. Not only have their own fondly-cherished hopes been frustrated, but they also deeply enter into the disappointments of the brethren themselves and their immediate relations, as well as of the friends of the Saviour, to whom every check in their holy enterprise seems a postponement of the object they have at heart—the speedy evangelisation of the whole human race.

Not less to be regretted is the final return to this country of the Rev. J. C. Page, of Darjeeling, after more than thirty years of self-denying and successful labour in India, his native land. A serious attack of illness some few years ago has so undermined his health as to oblige him to relinquish his work, and he is now in England, where, the Committee hope, his earnest advocacy of the claims of the missionary enterprise may yet put it in his power to help on the cause which has for so long lain upon his heart and absorbed his great energies. The Rev. W. A. Hobbs, too, has been forced to yield, partly to his own weakness of health, and partly to that of his beloved wife. In him the Society loses the services of a most successful and indefatigable itinerant missionary. The Rev. Alfred Saker, also, has finally left Africa. He has come home, worn with some thirty-six years of labour in a deadly climate, and after a course of toil which, should the history of it ever be told, will prove to be not less heroic than that of our most devoted workers in any field.

Death, also, has been permitted to invade our ranks—the Rev. John Edgell Gummer, of Hayti, has been called away to his rest, at the early age of thirty-one. He was a native of Bristol, the birth-place of not a few of our missionaries, and was educated for the ministry at Bristol College. He was obliged, through the partial failure of his sight, to leave college and go abroad. For two years and a half he laboured happily and successfully in Demerara, where he married. At this post his Baptist views became a hindrance to him, and he went to Jamaica, where, for rather more than three years, he acted as pastor of several of the hill churches of the island. On the retirement of Mr. Hawkes from Hayti, the Jamaica Missionary Society pointed out Mr. Gummer to your Committee as a fit man to fill the vacant post. He went, accordingly, early in 1875. His earnest and successful work was soon checked by the insurrection which broke out in the island soon after he reached it. For a time he was separated from his wife, whom he had sent to Jamaica for safety. During their separation he lost one of his children, and when, the insurrection being at an end, Mrs. Gummer rejoined her husband it was to do little more than minister to him in his days of sickness and at the hour of his death. Mr. Gummer died on the 28th of August, 1876.

Sad and startling as was the news of Mr. Gummer's decease, the news of the death of the Rev. Robert Smith, of the Cameroons Mission, was even more so. He had so recently been amongst us in health and vigour that it was very hard to realise that his work was done. Through exposure to weather in the pursuit of his duties, he caught a fever which terminated his earthly life on the 30th of last August. He left behind him a wife to whom he had been married only about two months, and whose skilful as well as loving ministrations to him during his illness will be a happy recollection in the minds of our dear brother's friends for many years to come. In Mr. Smith the West African Mission has lost a devoted missionary, and at a time, too, when he seemed to have reached the highest point of his efficiency.

The missionary staff in West Africa has been still farther weakened by the death of Mrs. Grenfell early in this year. She was sister to Mr. Hawkes, late of Hayti, and she had gone out with her husband in perfect sympathy with his aims and projects. Though her residence in Africa was so brief, she had endeared herself in a remarkable manner to the whole missionary family there. Not to her afflicted husband only, but to the mission also, her death is a heavy loss.

Several missionary brethren are still at home, most of them, however, expecting to return to their posts in the autumn of the year. These brethren are the Rev. James Smith, of Delhi ; the Rev. Isaac Allen, M.A., of Dacca ; the Rev. John Trafford, M.A., of Serampore, whose stay in England has been unavoidably prolonged through the pressure of parental affliction and suspense ; the Rev. H. R. Pigott, of Colombo, Ceylon ; and the Rev. C. Carter, of Kandy. All these will most probably have returned before the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Etherington, of Benares, also, are on their way home, and Mrs. Bate has come to England for a time in the hope of recruiting her health.

In the Jamaica churches the following movements require to be noticed. Our venerable friend Mr. Dendy has intimated his intention to resign the pastorate of the church at Salter's Hill, and the Committee are seeking a suitable minister to succeed him. The churches at Bethany and Brown's Town, under the care of their faithful pastor, the Rev. John Clarke, have passed through a period of trial owing to the intrusion and hostile action of some who were not sent out by us, and the Rev. Geo. H. Henderson has been appointed co-pastor with our aged friend ; and Mr. Hewitt, of Mount Carey, has been forced, through severe illness, to visit England for a time.

It must be plain to all the friends of our work that the circumstances thus narrated present an urgent plea for sympathy and prayer. The Lord's blessing and comfort and guidance be with each of our brethren, according to their need !

FINANCES.

The financial position of the Society at the commencement of the year was such as to cause the Committee the gravest anxiety.

Not only was there the large balance due to the Treasurer from the year before of £4,579 8s. 10d., but a most careful re-examination of the year's estimated receipts and expenditure by the Finance Committee indicated a probable further debt of nearly £4,000, mainly due to the recent large and rapid extension of the Mission, entailing a permanent expenditure considerably in excess of the regular contributions,

It was under these circumstances at the first meeting of the Committee, early in May, that a letter was received from the respected Treasurer of the Society containing the following suggestions :—

That with the sacred impressions of the recent delightful missionary services fresh in mind, and having in grateful remembrance the kind sympathy so generously expressed in the state and prospects of the Mission, an earnest and affectionate request be made to the pastors of our various churches to devote a Sunday in May to bringing prominently before their congregations the pressing needs of the Society, with the special object of obtaining an increase in the amount of their subscriptions from those who already contribute to its funds, and a regular annual support from others who have not hitherto done so, not, of course, excluding an earnest appeal for donations from friends who are in a position to render aid in that form also.

Mr. Tritton further suggested :—

That our Pastors be requested to arrange for Special Missionary Prayer Meetings to be held in furtherance of the effort on behalf of the Society, so that with the willing gift the voice of supplication may ascend from the length and breadth of the land “unto Him who is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think.”

In accordance with these suggestions a special appeal was at once issued by the Committee to Pastors of Churches throughout the country, together with a copy of the Treasurer's letter, and the Committee are now in a position to report some of the results arising out of this action.

The effort was commenced with special PRAYER, and called forth special supplication in all parts of the country ; and the Committee feel that in the review of the year they have abundant cause for PRAISE—they thank God, and take courage.

Notwithstanding the severe and long-continued commercial depression of the trade of the country, specially in the Principality of Wales, and in the Iron and Coal Districts of the North of England and of Scotland, and the urgent and widespread appeal that has been made to raise a large capital sum for the Denominational Ministerial Annuity Fund—happily so generously responded to—the accounts which the Committee are now able to present, exhibit an increase in the amount received from the Churches for the general purposes of the Society of £4,041 0s. 2d., as compared with the receipts of the year previous. It is also an encouraging fact that this increase is largely due to new and augmented personal subscriptions, and consequently may be regarded, in great measure, as of a permanent character. Instead of any addition to the debt of last year, the receipts for the period under review have not only been sufficient to meet the year's expenditure, but they have reduced the balance due to the Treasurer by £741 15s. 1d.—viz., from £4,579 8s. 10d. to £3,837 13s. 9d.

Excluding Donations for the Debt and contributions for Special Funds the receipts of the year amount to £38,359 6s. 10d. and the expenditure to £38,330 18s. 10d. as compared with £33,888 9s. 3d. receipts, and £39,433 6s. 3d. expenditure for the previous year, showing an increase in the General Receipts of £4,470 17s. 7d. and a decrease in expenditure of £1,102 7s. 5d.

To this increase in General Receipts should be added the £591 9s. 1d. specially contributed towards the liquidation of last year's Debt, and £94 10s. 2d. increase in contributions for the Widows' and Orphans' Fund, MAKING A TOTAL INCREASE IN RECEIPTS FOR THE YEAR OF £5,157 16s. 10d.

Satisfactory, however, as this increase is, it should be remembered that it falls far short of the present needs of the Mission, leaving out of view any further extension of the work.

The advances from the Calcutta Printing Press, in consequence of the altered conditions with regard to all such business in India, are becoming less and less, and these annual reductions must be made up by a corresponding increase in the general Contributions.

Nor should it be forgotten that every year the income of the Society is lessened to the extent of many hundreds of pounds by deaths and removals, and that from these causes exceptionally heavy losses have fallen upon the Mission during the year just closed, some of the most liberal and devoted supporters of the Society having entered into their rest.

A further permanent increase in the contributions to the Mission of at least £5,000 is urgently called for, and the Committee earnestly hope that during the coming year, through the deepening interest and liberality of the churches, this sum may be obtained.

The year now opening before us, politically, commences in gloom, and may end in blood. A great crisis is impending in Europe, the magnitude and the issues of which, God only knows. The Christian heart grieves over the sins and the sorrows under which our poor humanity groans; but Christian faith may be calm and fearless. We wage a warfare to whose assured victories the Lord God omnipotent, who reigneth, makes all national catastrophes and changes subservient. There is in them a Divine "needs be" even in wars and rumours of wars, to which it ought not to be hard for us to submit, knowing as we do, and perceiving, too, more clearly, year by year, the "far-off result" towards which they tend. The kingdoms of this world must become—are becoming—the kingdom of our God and of His Christ. To the believer, the whole history of the world, until the Saviour's advent, was an announcement of His coming. The burden of the Gospel is, "Christ is come!" and the whole history of the world since the Ascension is, "Christ is coming again:" a continuous coming; so that He is more completely, to-day, in the world He died to redeem, than ever before. Still, the cry of the Church is, "Come, Lord Jesus! come quickly!" To this cry may the zeal and consecration of the churches increasingly correspond.

REPORTS FROM THE STATIONS.

The population of Calcutta was found to consist of 794,645 persons by the census of 1872, of whom 21,356 were stated to be Christians. The suburbs of Calcutta contain 285,910 persons. The city is therefore the second for population in the British Empire.

Benevolent Institution for Instruction of Indigent Christian Children.

As several friends desire to know something of the origin and history of this institution, the following account, from the pen of J. C. Marshman, Esq., C.S.I., which was embodied in the report for 1838, is reprinted.

“The state of the numerous indigent Christian children in Calcutta, who were growing up in ignorance and vice, early attracted the attention of the Serampore missionaries, and after they had provided in some measure for the spiritual wants of the adult population by the erection of the Bow-Bazar Chapel, they directed their views to the rising generation, and resolved upon the establishment of a school, which might rescue them from destruction. To give it as broad a basis as possible, they determined that it should be open for the gratuitous instruction of all children of this class, without distinction of religious creed. During the progress of this plan, Dr. Leyden, the literary friend of Dr. Marshman, gave it all the benefit of his great talents. The prospectus was discussed item by item at his house, and it was not sent forth to the world before it had received his final revision. Indeed, of the individuals who assisted at the erection of the institution, the two who may be considered as having borne the greatest share of the labours, were Dr. Marshman and Dr. Leyden, the latter of whom, notwithstanding the difference of his religious views, went heart and soul into this plan of benevolence. On the publication of the prospectus, in 1809, he submitted it to Lord Minto, the Governor-General, who was pleased to encourage it with his approbation. Among the early friends who gave it their warmest support, the managers were happy to reckon the late Mr. Colebrooke.

“The subscriptions, however, came in but slowly. A subscription paper for a public institution was then a novelty in Calcutta; and many deemed it presumptuous in three comparatively obscure individuals, to solicit public support for their plans. The managers, however, determined to persevere, and to conquer public patronage by steadiness and vigour. Indeed, no institution which enjoyed the benefit of Dr. Carey's undiminished zeal, which disappointments only served to sharpen, could long continue to languish. Before the state of the funds appeared to authorize it, a house was taken in Emambaug-lane, in which the private seminary of Mr. Cumming had formerly been held; and within the first six months more than eighty children were in constant attendance.

"The institution, however, had not been long in operation, before the Rev. Dr. Ward, the Junior Presidency Chaplain, fearing that it might interfere with the well-being of the Free School, in which he felt particular interest, came forward in one of the weekly journals, and cautioned the public against supporting it. A controversy thus arose between the managers and the chaplain, which was carried on for several weeks. They maintained that it could not possibly interfere with the Free School, since it only embraced those whom the older institution could not receive; that a day-school could not affect an institution in which the scholars were taken in and boarded; and that there was ample scope for both schools in Calcutta. The Senior Chaplain, the Reverend David Brown, then resident in Serampore, and who was on terms of the closest intimacy with the missionaries, gave them the aid of his advice in this controversy; and it was he who carefully revised the successive replies which appeared in the public papers on this occasion. This controversy proved eminently serviceable to the institution, by bringing its existence and its claims prominently before the public. Of this, the subscription list which was issued with the succeeding report, bore ample testimony. The gifts of the public were poured in with such unusual munificence, that the managers were enabled to purchase premises, and subsequently to erect the present commodious school-house, which, with the ground, cost 24,000 rupees. The continued encouragement of the public enabled them also in 1812 to enlarge the plan of the institution, and to erect accommodations within the same enclosure for a female school.

"The perfection to which Joseph Lancaster had brought his system of popular education in England created a desire on the part of the managers to give this institution the benefit of it. They accordingly wrote to the Reverend A. Fuller, the secretary of the Baptist Missionary Society, to select and send out some young man who had been trained up under the tuition of that eminent philanthropist. Mr. Fuller was dead before the letter could reach England, but his successors in the management of the affairs of that Society, by the advice of Mr. Lancaster, fixed upon one of his most eminent pupils, Mr. James Penney, for the appointment, and he embarked in 1816, with a warm and affectionate letter of recommendation from the founder of the system to Dr. Carey. Soon after his arrival in India, he was placed in charge of the institution, and the control of the female department was at the same time confided to Mrs. Penney. He has continued now for more than twenty years to direct the studies of the institution, with ability, zeal, and success; and so completely has he identified himself with its welfare, as to have won the entire confidence of the community.

"As the funds of the institution continued in a flourishing state, the managers were induced in 1816 to open a branch school at Dacca for the numerous Christian children who were growing up in that city without the means of instruction. This seminary was placed under the care of

Mr. Leonard, who had previously been in charge of the parent institution in Calcutta for several years, and he has continued his labours in it to the present day.

"The condition of the Native Christian families at Chittagong, who were equally in a state of destitution, appeared to call for an additional effort, and in the year 1818, a school upon the plan of that in Calcutta was opened in that ancient port, the first settlement of Europeans in Bengal, which still continues under the able management of Mr. Johannes, to spread the light of divine and secular truth among its benighted population. The European community at that station have from time to time aided a subscription for the erection of a suitable school-house, which is now nearly completed.

"It was about the year 1818 that public institutions began to multiply in Calcutta, under the fostering care of the late Marquis of Hastings, the first Governor-General who boldly repudiated the ancient maxim that knowledge was dangerous in India, because our empire was one of dominion. Under his genial encouragement, public benevolence began to expand, and to seek out new objects of regard. The division of public support among a variety of institutions, however, necessarily limited their individual strength, and the older establishments more particularly began to feel their funds weakened in no ordinary degree by the multiplicity of competitors for public patronage. The Benevolent Institution, though supported by an increased number of subscribers, experienced an annual diminution of its funds, and a gradual accumulation of debt, which at length threatened its existence. The managers were therefore constrained to submit its claims to Government, and Lord Amherst was pleased in the year 1826 to make a donation of 10,000 rupees for the liquidation of its debt, to grant 3,000 rupees for the renewal of the roof, and make a monthly donation of 200 rupees for its future support. The only condition required by Government on this occasion was, that the branch schools at Dacca and Chittagong should be separated from the parent institution and provided for from some other source. The monthly allowance is still continued and has served to preserve this valuable institution from decay. It still remains as one among the numerous monuments of piety and zeal of the three illustrious men who gave the first impulse of Christian benevolence to the community of India. The laborious duties connected with the management of the institution devolved from the commencement on Dr. Marshman. He watched over its interests with the tender solicitude of a parent; with two exceptions he compiled all its reports, and submitted to the labour of writing with his own hands, on the issue of every report, to the more distinguished members of the community, to solicit a continuance of their support; nor could he be induced to relinquish his labours, till the progress of disease left him incapable of affording it any other aid than his advice."

The following are the principal provisions of the Trust Deed:—

"The trustees for the time being shall be managers of both the boys' and girls' departments.

"The teaching is to be entirely gratuitous.

"The said departments shall admit for gratuitous instruction as many Christian children of both sexes, in European habits, as the funds annually raised by voluntary subscription will educate; yet, nevertheless, that it may be discretionary with the trustees to admit such a limited number of children not in European habits as the trustees may deem proper; provided always, that the number of children not in European habits do not at any period bear a greater proportion than one to three of those in European habits.

"That no person, deriving any emolument from the funds, be at any time elected to the office of trustee or manager."

Report for 1876-77.

"In presenting to the public their report for the year 1876-77 the trustees would record their gratitude to Almighty God for the measure of success which has attended their efforts on behalf of the institution during the year. They also tender their hearty thanks to its many friends for their generous support. When the last report was presented, Mr. Aratoon was officiating as head master, but the arrangement with him was not a permanent one. The trustees are now glad to report that he has taken full charge, and will devote all his time and energy to the work of the boys' department. By all that they have known of his previous training and experience, and by many things that have come under their own observation, they are encouraged to hope that, if his life be spared, he will be eminently useful in his present post. He is well acquainted with the method pursued by the late Mr. Penny, in the palmiest days of the school, and he has entered upon his work with much of Mr. Penney's energy and enthusiasm. The trustees have observed with peculiar pleasure his manifest sympathy with the class for whose benefit the institution exists.

"He reports very favourably of the conduct of the boys during the year, especially those in the two senior classes. In former reports the trustees have deplored the great irregularity in attendance which an inspection of the registers disclosed. Though they wish the attendance were yet more regular, the improvement in this respect is very cheering, as the following table shows:—

	No. on the rolls.	Average attendance.

"Two of the teachers who have been connected with the institution for a long period left during the year. Mr. Lawrence was one of Mr. Penney's pupils and assistants. He receives for the present a small monthly allowance, in return for which, he renders service in connection with the admission of new pupils. Mr. Austin was endeared to most of the boys by his great kindness to them. As a teacher he was very useful in directing the children's singing, and his open and truthful conduct exercised a most wholesome influence.

"Mr. Aratoon has endeavoured, as will be seen in the remarks of the Inspector of Schools, to raise the standard of teaching in all the classes, and he reports that a more earnest and hearty spirit now pervades the school. The number of holidays has been greatly diminished, and Saturday has been made a working day. One or two of the parents object to the change, but it has received the cheerful acquiescence of the majority of parents and pupils.

"His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal visited the school on the 24th of April, 1876, and, after fully inspecting it, expressed his warm sympathy with the work. The managers have been encouraged by the additional help afforded by the Government in the shape of a capitation grant for new pupils, which, however, must not exceed 75 rupees per mensem.

"The school was also honoured with two visits from the Inspector of Schools and one from the Rev. R. J. Ellis. Their reports are given, along with those of the examiners, on a subsequent page.

"It will be observed that while some of these reports are highly favourable, others are less so. The head master has noted all the defects pointed out; they will receive his careful attention with a view to future amendment. The managers would draw attention to the remark of Mr. Thomas as to the boys getting easily confused when under examination. Their imperfect knowledge of English and their shy sensitiveness account for this, and also for the very different impressions different examiners receive of their acquirements. During his long connection with the school, Mr. Williams has frequently observed that questions which received no answer when put by one examiner, received ready replies when put by another. The obvious remedy for this is, more frequent visits to the school on the part of interested friends, that the lads may require confidence in the presence of strangers, and greater aptitude in expressing themselves.

"The girls' department has laboured under great disadvantages on account of changes in the teaching staff. Mrs. Wallace entered upon her duties only in October last; but, by the end of the year she was able to report an increase of twenty-eight in the number of pupils. She, like the head master, complains of irregularity in the attendance. This, in fact, constitutes the chief difficulty of the school.

"The premises are greatly in need of repairs. The trustees were in hopes that a legacy which had been bequeathed to the institution would have been available for this purpose; but they are advised that through a technical informality the bequest is invalid. Thus disappointed, they appeal earnestly to the public for help to meet not only the ordinary expenditure, but also the cost of repairs now overdue."

II.—CHURCHES IN CALCUTTA.

Rev. G. H. Rouse reports as to:—

1.—Circular Road.

Pastor, A. WILLIAMS.

We have no report from this very interesting church, which, indeed, is not dependent upon our funds. We, however, reproduced a short paragraph from the Herald of February last, which will abundantly prove the earnestness and practical zeal of our friends. Mr. Williams thus reports of his return to his people and what had been done during his absence, as well as what was about to be done:—

"I found the friends at Calcutta anxiously awaiting our arrival. Very glad and thankful was I to be among them again. They had proved their strong affection for me in many ways—first, by extending my leave; next, by presenting me with £170 to defray the cost of my return passage; thirdly, by repairing and re-matting our house, and renewing and polishing all the furniture in it; and lastly, by adding a new room to it at a cost of nearly £200. This they have done at a time when they are hard pressed for money, for the chapel repairs have cost over £500, and it was most desirable and necessary that we should mark our sense of Mr. and Mrs. Rouse's eminently useful and faithful services by some token; and this, too, has been done. Our people have, therefore, an extra expenditure this year of nearly £800. And we are contemplating the building of an evangelistic hall as soon as we have paid off our present debt which is about £300. Our numbers continue to increase, but our means are less."

2.—Lal Bazar.

Pastor pro tem. C. H. ROUSE, M.A.

There is no report from this church.

It has been without a regular pastor. ever since the resignation of the Rev. John Robinson. It is hoped, however, that before long, a brother will be found to take charge of what is really a very important sphere of ministerial activity. Mr. Rouse is very kindly adding just now to his other arduous labours the superintendence of the church and the conduct of its services."

3.—"The Southern Village Churches.

"When Mr. Kerry removed to Barisal, in April, he asked me to take over from him charge of the churches in the villages South of Calcutta. As I hoped, on Mr. Williams' return, to be free from English Pastoral work, I consented, and I have been in charge of this district since April. To the south-east of Calcutta there are four churches, which are under the care of Mr. W. L. Wenger, the total number Christians in which amounts to about 175. The churches under my care are ten in number, the nearest about ten miles from Calcutta, and the furthest about forty. During the year I asked for statistics from these congregations, the result being as follows:—Men, 367; women 369; boys, 283; girls, 203—total Christian community, 1,222. The church members number 286. Men able to read, 163. Women able to read, 64. Boys able to read, 42. Girls able to read, 6. About 100 boys are in school. Hardly any of the girls are in school. The whole district is one vast rice field, covered with water two or three feet during the rains, gradually drying up during the cold weather, and dry in the hot season. The villages are situated on artificially raised mounds, a few feet high, which are little islands for half the year. The people are exclusively agriculturists, their one source of support is the cultivation of rice, in some cases supplemented by fishing or the making of wicker fish-traps. They are, for the most part, very poor, and if through excessive rain or draught the rice-crop, wholly or partially fails, a not unfrequent occurrence, they are put to great straits.

"During the past year the churches have been deprived of the advantages which they formerly enjoyed, by the superintendence of the Rev. Romnath R. Chowdhry. Our brother's long illness necessitated his retiring to Monghyr and resting from all work. For some time it was feared that he would never recover, but, through God's mercy, he is now very much stronger. Still, it was felt to be inadvisable that he should resume work in this damp district, and he has, therefore, removed to the drier climate of Beerbhoom. Though deprived of his services in my district, I have received much assistance through Bahu Khristanga Biswas, who was formerly Head Master of the Allan Vernacular School in Calcutta, but has lately become an Evangelist, supported by the Auxiliary Missionary Society. He is an earnest man, who loves his work, and I think he will be of considerable help to me. He has paid several visits to the churches, and is now conducting a theological class at Bishtopore. I hope, also, that Babu Jonah Sant, of Bishtopore, will be able to take a general supervision of the northern circle of churches.

"The review of the work of the year is partly hopeful and partly discouraging. The endeavour to make the churches self-supporting is still on its trial. From one point of view, it might be called a decided success. In all these climates, the total sum paid by the society to the pastors has been only six rupees a month, during the year, so that, on a superficial view, it might be said that the churches are already almost self-supporting. But when we look at the other side, the view is not so hopeful. The people contribute very little indeed towards the support of their pastors. At Khari and Lakhyantipore, the pastors are two pensioned preachers of the society—what will become of these places on the death of their present pastors, I do not know. At Russool Mahomed Choke and Narsigdarchoke, the people do nothing, or next to nothing for their pastor. Their pastor, who has been many years connected with the Society, ought, I think, be pensioned, as other old preachers have been; otherwise it will be very hard for him. At Rajarampore and North Lakhyantipore, the schoolmaster or colporteur is acting as pastor, but the people give him nothing. At Bishtopore the schoolmaster is pastor, but the people do little for him. I cannot see clearly what can be done in the matter. In all the churches but two, the people are very few, and in all they are mostly poor, and depending as they do almost exclusively on the rice crop, which often partially fails, it is often very difficult for them to give anything. The difficulty is aggravated by the fact that it is something new for them to be asked to give at all, and that other missions do not act on the principle on which we are now acting. Again and again has it been to me, “Why do you throw the burden upon us? Other missions, the Propagation Society, London Mission, and so forth, are not acting so, why do you?” Hence I look forward with considerable anxiety. There must be some plan by which Bengal village churches shall become self-supporting, but what that plan is to be I do not see. I am inclined to think that a small land-endowment for each church will be the plan that self-support will take. It falls in with the ideas of the people, and if the endowment be not too large, I am inclined to think the plan will work well, however great heresy such an opinion may be considered in England!

“Another source of anxiety relates to the education of the people. Unless they learn to read the Bible, they will soon fall a prey to the seducing influences of Romish priests. There are schools now in all the stations, but the people do not show the interest in their children's learning to read, which one would like to see. still a fair number of boys are learning to read, but very few girls. In Mrs. Ellis's school at Intally there are hardly any from this district; three or four girls are learning in the boys' school, but otherwise the girls are growing up in ignorance. The people do not seem to trouble themselves about it. I have even heard, that in one of our largest churches, the people do not wish to have girls that can read as wives for their sons, because they think they will not attend well to household work; there seems, therefore, even to be a prejudice against girls learning to read! How to induce the people to take a due interest in the secular instruction of their children, especially of the girls, is one difficulty, and how to secure their religious instruction is another. Sunday schools are either not carried on at all, or are not well managed. I fear there are very few persons in our churches able to teach children in such a way as to interest them, nor do the people themselves take sufficient interest in the matter. Hence there is double ground of anxiety regarding the future; the Society does not now provide pastors for the people, and they must therefore get their teaching themselves in the best way they can, and the children, especially the girls, are growing up with but little systematic religious teaching.

4.—“Other Work.”

“During the year I have had to continue acting as Secretary and Treasurer of the Benevolent Institution, and of the Calcutta Auxiliary Missionary Society. The Benevolent Institution, I think, is prospering; the Government Inspector visited it lately, and gave a very favourable report. There are now about 250 children taught in it, for the most part poor Eurasian children, though Jews, Armenians, Chinese, Mugs, Burmese, and other children are found in it. The Auxiliary Society supports two preachers, Brethren Khristanga Biswas, and Motti Ullah, and also a small vernacular school in Intally, a suburb of Calcutta. For half the year I continued acting as editor of the Christian Spectator, but the small support received, in the way both of literary articles and of subscriptions, rendered it necessary to discontinue the periodical. It is increasingly difficult to keep up magazines in India, now that there are so many first-rate ones in England, which the Suez Canal brings here so quickly. I have also continued in charge of the South Australian Mission in the Fhurreedpore district, about 100 miles north-east of Calcutta. The six colporteurs under my charge have sold, during the year, more than 5,000 Scripture portions to Hindoos and Mussulmans."

5.—Intally.

Pastor, GUGUN CHUNDER DASS.

Number of members, 72.

"Sustained by the grace of God I was able to carry on, during the year in review, the arduous duties that have devolved on me since I have taken the pastoral care of the Church. The Sabbath-day service was regularly held twice on every Sunday. The Lord's Supper was also administered as heretofore on the first Sabbath of every month. A weekday prayer meeting was regularly conducted on Thursday evening of every week. The number of members now belonging to the Intally Church is seventy-two. This figure does not include any that have disconnected themselves from the Church some years since. The usual attendance on the Lord's day, chiefly in the evening, is about sixty. The number of communicants that come to the Lord's table on the evening of the first Sabbath of every month is about sixty. Only one young man was baptized during the past year. Some might be admitted, but I and some senior members of the Church think it to be our duty to be very cautious and circumspect in the admission of members into the Church by the ordinance of baptism. It is our settled conviction that much harm has been done by the indiscretion of some ministers as displayed in the act of hasty admission of members. The number received from other churches by direct reference and permission is only two. The number of the brethren taken into the flock that had no church connection is two. The number of people that applied for transference to other churches is five. Four persons have been excommunicated for very serious and shameful charges. Only one has been removed by the Lord from the land of the living.

"As a pretty large number of the people attending the Intally Chapel for divine worship was composed of the girls of the Intally Boarding School for poor Christian females, and as this school now contains about twenty girls, whereas in other years it had about sixty children, the number of heads present in the Church on the Lord's day has been consequently very much affected.

"The Sunday classes in connection with the Intally Church have been given up from August last, owing to the desertion of the lads that composed them. These lads belonged to the Intally Institution, and came to our Sunday-school while they were regular in their attendance in the other. But, as most of them were decoyed by some wicked and rebellious Hindoo teachers of that school to be the alumni of an opposition school, and were instigated never to come even to the Sunday-school, we were under the melancholy necessity to close the Sabbath-day classes. The majority of the lads that composed them were Hindoos. Satan, in India as everywhere, is always busy to oppose the cause of Christ in every shape. However, we are waiting on the over-ruling providence of God, that will surely foil all the foul attempts of the great enemy of God and man.

"Although I have sufficient cause to mourn over the cold indifference, apathy, nay, even deadness of some souls belonging to my flock, and to implore the Lord to quicken them by His Spirit, I have also, I must thankfully acknowledge, ample ground to praise God for His blessing my ministerial labours in relation to others, that are edified in their souls, and thus experience the preached Gospel to be the power of God unto salvation. May the Lord be praised for all the good visible in His church militant !

"I may add here that in addition to my various pastoral duties, I was enabled by the Lord to publish the glad tidings of joy and salvation to some scores of Hindoos and Moham-medans almost every day. I was engaged in this most trying but delightful work in several places in Calcutta. May the Lord bless my labours for His own glory alone."

Mr. Ellis writes as follows :—

"The beginning of the year found me acting for the Rev. John Robinson as Government Bengali Translator. Mr. Robinson's health had entirely failed, and he had, therefore, been ordered to sea, while our destination was still doubtful ; so, with the consent of the brethren, I agreed to take Mr. Robinson's place for three months. During this time I kept up daily street-preaching in the vernacular, and had besides numerous engagements in the English chapels of the city.

"On our permanent removal hither

the pastorate of the Dum Dum Church devolved upon me. At that time a new regiment—the 40th Infantry—had just come to the station, the 3rd Buffs having gone to the Straits, leaving the chapel nearly empty. It was my pleasing lot to see the chapel gradually fill up with eager and attentive listeners, some of whom have since put on the Lord Jesus.

"Owing to the retirement of Mr. Brown, I was afterwards requested to assume charge of the Lall Bazar Baptist Church, as a temporary measure, involving duties greatly more onerous than the pastorate of Dum Dum, and for six months this was my work.

"From the beginning of April also Mr. Kerry made over to me charge of the Intally Institution, while my dear wife took charge of the girls' school from Mrs. Kerry.

"A good deal of vernacular literary work has also fallen to my share, among which I may mention the completion of the Bengali Manual of Christian Duty, published early in the year ; the Gospel of Matthew for Bengali Mussulmans, in the preparation of which I was greatly assisted by Dr. Wenger, Mr. Rouse, and others ; the translation into Bengali of the first and second English reading books of the Calcutta Tract Society, &c., &c.

"Sickness and Bereavement.

"Shortly after relinquishing the pastorate of the Lall Bazar Church, my dear wife and children were seized with a distressing attack of diphtheria, from the effects of which our first-born son died in October, and Mrs. Ellis has not yet fully recovered. As soon as she was well enough to travel, we accepted the kind invitation of the deacons and pastor of the Baptist Church at Allahabad, to take a change thither ; and it was my privilege to occupy the pulpit a month for Mr. Anderson, while he was out in the district on a preaching tour. This change wa necessary for myself as well as for my family, as I also had had a slight attack of diphtheria, while recent anxiety, sleepless watching and sorrow had further weakened me.

"Visit to Delhi.

"Shortly after our return in December, the Committee of the Calcutta Auxiliary Bible Society requested me to undertake a mission to Delhi, at the time of the Imperial Assemblage, to present Scriptures to the influential men from Bengal assembled there, and to endeavour to sell and preach to the others. It was holiday time at the Institution, so I consented to go, and thus the end of the year found me at Delhi. The work there was not such as we expected—very few Bengalis being present. Six copies of the Sanscrit Bible (five volumes each) were presented to chiefs and others, and a few Bengali Scriptures were sold, while copies of various portions were presented to the Babus employed at the numerous railway stations on the East India line from Agra to Monghyr. These were received with great readiness, and at some places with eagerness. At the camp I had an opportunity, with Mr. Gregson, of Agra, and Mr. Morrison, of Umballa, of addressing a large congregation of British soldiers every evening on the subject of their best interests.

"Discouragement.

"The year's work has been far from satisfactory to myself. Several persons professed themselves deeply impressed with the street preaching at the beginning of the year, and one of them, I believe, retained his impressions for months. But he had to remove from the city, and has been lost sight of; while the others were probably moved by a desire for some form of pecuniary help to profess themselves favourably disposed towards our faith.

"Foremost in our discouragement was the breaking up of the Institution, at the end of June, by the heathen masters, who had been employed in it for years. These resigned in a body, and opened an opposition school in the vicinity of the Institution, to which they have by numerous stratagems decoyed away nearly all our former pupils. The virulence with which they have sought, and are still seeking, to close our Christian Institution is shown in their attempts to take from us every new boy who is admitted, representing that, as Christian teachers have been employed instead of the old heathen ones, it is clear my intention is to make all the boys Christians forthwith. Nothing could be better fitted than such a cry to keep our numbers low, and the school work has been extremely discouraging. One of the lads, however, has passed the university entrance examination, out of the four that were sent up, and the elder boys who attend are evidently desirous of knowing what it is we really teach in the way of religion. The Bible class is, as far as I can judge, much more attentive than it was before this outburst of opposition.

"The numbers in the Girls' School have also been smaller than before. On Mrs Ellis's taking charge in April there were but nine girls, the school not having been recalled after the winter vacation, and the number never rose above twenty the whole year. This is partly attributed to the imposition of a small fee (a shilling a month for board, lodging, clothing and tuition!); but the chief reason of the smallness of the numbers, I apprehend, lies in the fact that the charge of the churches, whence the girls in this school were drawn, has been committed to other hands than those in charge of the school, and that the parents do not feel bound to send their girls as they may have done formerly.

"Some Encouragement.

"A work of some encouragement to me, throughout several months of the year, has been the instruction of a Lay Missionary class. At first five persons of different denominations met at my house every morning, for instruction in Bengali and the study of the Scriptures in that language. Two of these (ladies) were by-and-by unable to attend; but the remaining three (gentlemen)—an Episcopalian, a Methodist, and a Baptist—continued to attend till Conference time in October, when the sickness above referred to visited our home. The object of this class is to prepare young persons for Christian work in the vernacular.

"Babu Mohendra Nath Chowdhry has been most diligent in street and chapel preaching in the city, and his labours have been very encouraging as far as the number of his hearers is concerned. He is everywhere highly esteemed; kind friends at Nottingham subscribe for his support, and it will be pleasing to them and others to know that Mohendra took the lead this year in the examination of the native evangelists employed by our society in Bengal, obtaining the highest number of marks; and that since I have known him his character has been unblemished, and distinguished for piety and zeal. The colporteur, Upay Chand Biswas, who is also supported by the Nottingham Juvenile Auxiliary, has, likewise, worked laboriously, and his sales have been on the whole good.

"At Kooshtea, a station on the Eastern Bengal railway, 120 miles off, and of which I have charge, Braja Nath Babu and his coadjutors have been earnest and successful in the proclamation of the truth, and many portions of Scripture have been sold throughout the year. I visited this station in June and was much pleased with what I saw. The people were very attentive to the truth, and our brethren there seemed to enjoy their esteem. For the last few months we have had a Christian school of some thirty pupils there, supported by kind friends in Geelong.

"It is again my privilege to welcome to our home a Missionary probationer, in the person of Mr. Summers, whom I have now the pleasure of helping with his Bengali studies. He has been with us but a short time, but he gives promise of soon being able to master and use the language.

"The Lord own and bless our labours to the glory of His name and Kingdom!"

III.—HOWRAH.

Missionaries, T. MORGAN AND A. C. DUFFADAR.

Number of members, 55.

Howrah, in the district of Hooghly may be regarded as a suburb of Calcutta, and is situated on the opposite side of the River Hooghly. As it is the site of the chief railway-station to the North-West Provinces, it has become a very busy and populous town, its inhabitants numbering 97,784 souls.

The Rev. A. C. Duffadar reports as follows:—

"Preaching at Gunga Sagor Mela.

"Gunga Sagor is an island at the mouth of the Hooghly. It is jungly and uninhabited, the abode of tigers and wolves. It is dangerous for any one to land in this island, on account of these fierce animals. Once a year a fair is held in this island, on the southern side of it. In this fair people from various parts of India assemble and observe it as holy. They gather in such a number at this time, that these fierce animals get frightened of them and enter into the interior parts of the island, when people find an opportunity to clear the southern side of the island of the jungle and make room for the mela. Accidents seldom happen, and men are scarcely ever carried away by tigers, which the Hindoos account for by saying, that at the season of the fair, the presiding saint of the fair shuts the mouths of the animals and consequently they cannot eat men. The grand days of this fair are only three, but it lasts for about eight days altogether. During these days people of various parts of India, and speaking different languages, assemble. Some come to carry on their merchandise, and some to earn religious merit. Merchants bring various kinds of articles, both of European and native manufacture, which meet with speedy sale.

"This fair is observed in commemoration of Kopil Muni, who took to retirement in this island a great many centuries ago. It is said that Kopil had built a temple here, which is destroyed by time. There is none now. There is a statue commonly known as that of Kopil, and it is in the possession of some persons in Calcutta. People assert it to be the genuine likeness of Kopil, but it is impracticable to ascertain the genuineness of the thing. Still it is very much revered by the simple and benighted Hindoos. It is brought down from, and taken to, Calcutta every year. The man in whose possession it is does not himself bring it. He makes money without incurring any trouble upon himself.

"There are some Brahmins who take it on contract, and bring it down to this island. The offerings that are presented to this statue, both in money and articles, are divided at a certain rate, proportioned between the owner and the contractors.

"Motives of the Pilgrims.

"The pilgrims to this island have two objects in view :—First, they come to have a sight of this statue ; secondly, to bathe in the sea-water, where the Ganges meets the sea,—that is at the mouth of the river, which is considered by the Hindoos to be a great virtue. The manner in which they bathe is very curious.

"A number of these people, both men and women, form a group and hold one another by the hands and necks, and sit on the shore at a short distance from the water. They sit and wait till a wave comes over them, and, washing them, subsides.

"When the wave comes they hold each other tightly that none of them is washed away into the sea. When the wave subsides, it leaves them in the same posture in which they had been before the wave came. In ancient times, to be washed away into the sea was considered to be a great virtue. Children used to be thrown into the sea by parents as offerings to their gods. But such notions of virtue have vanished from the minds of the people with the progress of civilization. The British Government interfered in the early part of the century and put a stop to it. But now the people themselves understand the foolishness of it.

"Zeal of the Women.

"There is another fact with regard to this fair which requires mention here. The pilgrims to this place are composed of more women than men. It is not to be supposed that all these women are of the lowest class, or that all of them come out of their homes with the permission of their husbands and protectors. Some very respectable women of the Zenanas come to this fair, but without the permission of their guardians.

"There is a sect of the Brahmins called Pundahs. These men go about visiting people (women) in their houses on various pretexts, and never fail to give a lively description of this and such other places of pilgrimage, and excite the curiosity of their cooped-up hearers. When these Pundahs find that sufficient impression is made on their minds, they try to lead them to go and visit such places. Some women prevail upon their husbands and have permission to go; others, when they find they cannot get permission, run away from their houses with these Pundahs, taking their jewels with them to defray the expenses of the journey. People who have become a little enlightened now never allow these Pundahs knowingly to enter their houses. But those who are still in complete darkness think it a virtue to send any of their family to places of pilgrimage.

"Dangers in Travelling."

"To preach in this grand mela, I left Calcutta on the 9th of January, 1877, accompanied by brother Kristango Biswas. We reached Oolooberiah on the 10th. On the 11th we reached Diamond Harbour, and on the 12th Kurulia Khal, whence we started shortly after and came to Murre Gunga. In both of these places we preached the Gospel.

"On the morning of the 13th we started from Murre Gunga with all hopes of a fair voyage; but, after some time, we witnessed signs of a storm and rain. The wind was chilly. Birds flew away from one side of the river to the other. We had at this time reached a part of the country which is completely desolate. On both sides of the river nothing but dense jungle was seen. We could see no signs of any village where we could take shelter if we required it. To land was to throw ourselves wilfully into the mouths of tigers which were in the jungle.

"To keep the boat afloat anchored seemed to us impracticable in the midst of such a storm. We consulted our map and found the place of the mela was far from the place where we were. Rains fell heavily and winds blew violently. We were afraid to land, and unable to keep our boat afloat. Under such circumstances we could not help but anchor. One day and night we suffered from this storm. During the night we had not a single wink of sleep; danger surrounded us on all sides. Under such circumstances we committed ourselves into the hands of our all-merciful Father, who protects us from all evils and dangers. He heard us when we called on Him in our troubles, and saved us from that imminent danger. In the morning we again called on the Lord, and thanked Him for saving us from a watery grave, for which we had prepared ourselves.

"Next morning, that is, on the morning of the 14th, we had fair weather, and reached the mela after a few hours; as we were detained in the Balaghatta Khal, and also in the Murre Gunga, we were rather late in this mela.

"There were only two days left, after which the place would be as deserted as any other part of the island. There is a stream which runs through this island, and as boats cannot go to the sea, they anchor in this stream.

"Our boat also anchored in this stream. As we were late in this fair we wanted to make the best of the remaining time. Shortly after our arrival, we left the boat, and went to see the fair. Preaching the gospel in a place we directly came to, the spot where the statue had been put up. We saw the statue; it is artfully carved out of a single piece of stone. It has such a grave and solemn appearance about it, that it begets awe in the mind of every beholder. It sits in meditating posture, with eyes uplifted and hands folded at the breast. We stood before it with our umbrellas open, but the Pundahs would not allow us to stand with open umbrellas, and just at the front of the statue. However, we advanced a few steps and commenced to preach. We showed to them the unreasonableness of making pilgrimages for obtaining salvation, when it can be had at home by believing in the Lord Jesus Christ, who invites all that are heavy laden to come unto Him, and promises to give rest unto them who will come to Him. Our preaching was attended by crowds. Many of the people said publicly that it was better for them to remain at home than to take so much unnecessary trouble when their desired object could be had at home. On the 15th we commenced open-air preaching, again and again it was attended by numbers of men and women. During these two days we sold almost all the books that we had with us, still there was demand for more. After all, our preaching was blessed by the Almighty in such a way that many confessed openly and were convicted that theirs was not or rather is not the proper way to salvation.

"When we left Calcutta we expected to see many of our fellow-labourers in the mela. But, on our arrival there, we were sadly disappointed. The harvest truly was great, but the labourers were few. On the 16th most of the pilgrims started for home. They started in batches. The reason for doing so is that all take advantage of the tide, because no boat can come or go without being assisted by the tide. We also started, and, looking back, we saw that the place which had been crowded by boats, was almost empty.

"The batch we joined consisted of 500 or 600 boats. They came and halted in a place near Murre Gunga. We also halted there. At this place of halting we came to know that cholera prevailed. This disease broke out, of course, in the mela, but it was not epidemic there. Here it was brought along with the pilgrims. When we went out preaching at this halting place, we came to know about this. Many died and were thrown into the stream; others lay exposed on the shore. We had taken some medicines with us, but in insufficient quantities. It was not enough for distribution. When we came to know about the disease, we began distributing it to those who were afflicted. Thus another fresh way was opened to us to preach Christ. Wherever we went we preached the great Healer before we gave medicines. Our prayers were heard on some occasions, and some people were healed. People made applications to us to come over to their boats to treat their sickness—calls upon calls were given to us and it became difficult to visit them all. Still we did what we could.

"That very night, when the flood tide came, the boats were all launched. We also launched our boat. The night was dark. We came along peaceably for some distance; but, when we came to the junction, we found the wind against us. The waves were rising high at the junction. We had to cross this junction and come to the opposite coast. We steered, and coming in the midst of the junction, fell into the utmost danger imaginable; our boat was tossed by the waves, sometimes it rose high and sometimes it went down, and frightened us with the anticipations of death; the night was so dark that we could not see either bank, or any boat that started with us. Our crews and we all committed ourselves into the hands of our Almighty Father. Having got into the midst of the stream it became difficult for us to retreat; with great apprehension of immediate danger, in which we had already fallen, we tried to come to the shore and to postpone our voyage till the next tide; with great difficulty we turned the boat and commenced rowing towards the shore, but we did not know, nor could we see, how far it was. However, after some time, we came to the shore, and laying anchor, praised the Father in heaven for His unbounded mercies. His mercies are ever with us.

"Next day, weighing anchor, we came to a settlement called the new settlement at Barratola. We halted there and some of the pilgrims also halted with us; we preached to them. On the evening of the same day, that is the 17th, we came to a place called the Gengra Khal; here also we found an opportunity to preach the Gospel. On the 18th we started again and came to to Kukra Lanti; it is a great market. Rice is the principle article sold; people from different villages bring the fruit of their labour to this place and sell it to the Mahajuns. Calcutta is partly supplied with rice from this mart. We went up to see the market, and finding a nice opportunity we commenced preaching. When we had already spoken a few words, a Brahmin came up and discussed with us for some time on the doctrine of atonement. We explained to him the doctrine of atonement; he understood it and was satisfied. His intention was to prevent us from doing our work, but when he understood and heard from us all that he wanted to know he kept quiet, and gave us all leisure to do our work. We passed almost a whole day in the market, preaching at different places, and were happy to hear from many that theirs was the wrong plan of salvation. In the evening we started and halted at Gaon Khali. Next day, the 19th, we preached at the market of that place. Here are many Roman Catholics. These and the heathens all came and heard us very gladly. Next day, 20th, we came to Shano Gunge. Here we preached, but very few people heard us. It is comparatively a small village. Next day, the 21st, brought us home.

"Many years ago I had made another trip to Sangor Island. In this trip I have seen many new settlements which I never saw before. When I preached in some of these places, we found them always very attentive hearers, but I am sorry to say that the salvation of these souls are very much neglected; seldom or never preachers go to these places to visit them. It is my earnest desire, that means should be adopted, that such simple hearted men should hear the Gospel of Christ, and be brought into the fold of the Great Shepherd. Brethren pray that the seed that is sown in this trip amidst dangers and peril may bring forth fruit in time."

"Work in Howrah.

"In accordance with the arrangements of the Conference before last, my location was fixed at Howrah, a town on the western banks of the Hooghly, just on the opposite side of Calcutta. Howrah is a thickly populated place, inhabited by different sorts of people, but not so busy as Calcutta. In this town I carried on the Lord's work for a period of one year, both in Bengali and Urdu languages, but with less interruption than in Calcutta.

"In this my epistle to you I intend to submit a succinct account of the manner in which I worked and also that of the results which I have experienced during my residence there.

"I made it a part of my duty to visit Hindoos, Mohammedans, and families of nominal Christians in the morning. We had cordial receptions from the Hindoos everywhere we went, and also from the Mohammedans occasionally. These people heard the glad tidings of salvation generally with earnestness. Some of them, stirred up with anxiousness to hear more of our Saviour, visited us often in our houses, when we read the Bible in their ears and prayed with them, and also requested them to attend our Sabbath services. Some of them accepted this invitation, and regularly attended our Sabbath and week-day services, especially two young and intelligent Hindoos, who visited us very often and attended our public services regularly. One of these two, who held service as an English teacher in one of the Anglo-vernacular schools, deserves mention here. He has openly declared, before many of his friends and relatives, his hope of salvation through faith in our Lord Jesus. This young man has since prepared himself for baptism. He has suffered and is still suffering from persecutions, but was and is still firm in his faith. He has lost his employment from two schools successively for preaching the precious love of Jesus to his youthful pupils, and is at present suffering, being without employment. He is without work, but not idle; he is labouring in the vineyard of his family, consisting of his wife and parents. He is at present teaching them the doctrines of our religion from those books which I have given him. He told me, during my visit last time, that he has strong hopes of bringing the whole family into the flock of Christ. I prayed with him that he may be blessed with success, and then departed.

"Howrah and its vicinity abound with Roman Catholic Christians; I have included them in the class of nominal Christians. These people are very much neglected—nobody takes care for the salvation of their souls. They generally lead an un-Christian life. I visited them often in their houses, and exhorted them to join us in our Sabbath-day services, which many of them acceded to and attended.

"During my residence at Howrah (I am posted in Calcutta now), I baptized two, one from among the Mohammedans, and the other from nominal Christians.

"I devoted my time in the evenings to street and bazaar preaching, without confining myself to any special place. Wherever we stood we were crowded on all sides by numbers of people who heard us patiently and attentively. I have observed, at different times, people taking the Lord's name and saying that 'Truly, Jesus is the only Saviour.' In rainy seasons, when it rained suddenly, people invited us to come into their shops and receiving-rooms and heard us read the Bible and sing hymns; in the latter, at times, they themselves joined and told us we were welcome at all times.

"Thus we received encouragement in our sphere of work even from the heathen. I was assisted very much by two of my brethren, Babu Surjoo Coomar Day and Mirza Alijan, both evangelists employed by the Howrah Home Mission, in my outdoor and indoor preachings.

"In the early part of the year, I found an opportunity to go out on a preaching tour towards the villages in the west of Howrah, a short account of which has already been submitted to Dr. Underhill.

"I also had an occasion, during the course of this year, to visit the brethren at Matlah, at the request of Mr. W. L. Wenger. There I baptized six persons—one Mohammedan, three Hindoos, and two Christians.

"Thus was I blessed, by our Almighty Father, in the glorifying of His name among the people of Howrah and elsewhere. May He bless those also who have heard the tidings of salvation, and may He bring them into His fold, redeeming them by the precious blood of our Saviour to the glory of His own and the name of Jesus Christ His only begotten Son.

"Work in Calcutta.

"I am located this year in Calcutta. It is a large and spacious town, and requires labourers according to its size and population. I shall be very glad to labour here. But, if God wills, I will try to itinerate in the districts at intervals. I laboured ten years before in Calcutta. During that time I generally went out on preaching tours. I hope the Society will be kind enough to grant me the necessary pecuniary assistance in carrying on this branch of our missionary work. I have known, from long experience, that this branch of missionary work invites our special attention. I have often found people who have not even heard the name of our Saviour, and, if ever they have heard it, it was some years ago. To work among such people gives me more pleasure than among the callous-hearted people of principal towns. Often hearing the word of God, they do not pay much attention, and often, instead of being attentive hearers, prove to be the cause of interruption."

2.—Mr. Hallam's Report.

During Mr. Morgan's absence from his station, Mr. Hallam occupied the position, and his report contains the following items :—

"The general work has been carried on as usual. Five Sabbath services, three in English and two in Bengali. The Bengali services are conducted by Brother Anundo C. Duffadar. Three week-night services, a prayer meeting and fellowship meeting in English, and a prayer-meeting in Bengali, the latter conducted chiefly by our native brethren.

"There have been ten cases of hopeful conversion; fourteen baptisms, all of which have been received into the Church, save one, who has not applied for admission. Ten of these are Europeans and four natives, one of the Europeans and two natives were Pædobaptists, and one was a Mohammedan.

"Sunday Schools.

"The Sunday-school work has been prosecuted vigorously, in both the European and vernacular departments, throughout the year. Notwithstanding very considerable changes from removals, our numbers have increased and the interest has been unabated.

"We have in all fourteen officers, viz., one superintendent, one librarian, who acts also as secretary, and twelve teachers, all of whom are believers.

"The Bengali Sunday-school has been efficiently conducted by our home missionary, Brother Anundo C. Duffadar, since December last.

"A system of rewards has been introduced with which the lads seem much pleased, and it is hoped that this will tend to increase both the interest and attendance.

"The two day-schools are sustained as usual.

"The Dorcas Society.

"This society has met regularly on the first and third Wednesdays of each month. It was found inconvenient to hold the meetings at the houses of the lady members by turns, as last year, so they are now held at the mission-house, and tea is provided at the expense of the society. Gentlemen visitors still take sufficient interest in the work to come and pay cheerfully the usual fee, one rupee for each visitor, into the fund for the purchase of material.

"The Local Home Missionary Society.

"The work of this society has been carried on persistently and energetically during the year. Its income has been affected to some extent by the frequent changes already alluded to, but the remaining subscribers have increased their subscriptions sufficiently to keep the receipts up to the average.

"Last year we reported one native preacher. Early in the year another was appointed. The two together cost the Society, for salary and house allowance, fifty-one rupees per mensem. Brother Anundo C. Duffadar's house-rent is supplemented by the Society.

"A book-room for the sale of Scriptures and tracts in various languages, has been established at a monthly cost of thirteen rupees. During the first month our sales amounted to about three hundred books and tracts, and the second month to over six hundred, of course at nominal prices, but they were bona fide sales.

"For seven months the society published the 'Berean Leaf' in Bengali at a monthly cost of about seventeen rupees, for which outlay they will realise from sales about thirty rupees in all. This work has been discontinued. The society has also paid fifty rupees towards the completion of a scheme of reward tickets and pictures for Bengali Sunday-school.

"Last year the employment of a city missionary was contemplated, but it was found that our funds would not admit of this outlay, in addition to all that is being done in the vernacular department. The policy of the society is to supply my lack of service in the vernacular work first, and if anything remains it may be devoted to European labour.

"There have been several very interesting cases of inquirers, which were the direct result of bazaar-preaching, under the auspices of the society. Some of these may safely be considered hopeful conversions. One young man, whose case was very promising, has been removed from our influence by his friends. We have not, however, lost hope in his case.

"Another is a young fairly educated Bengali, a teacher by profession, who seems really to have found the Saviour. He is a candidate for baptism, and will probably go forward as soon as his health permits. He is now ill.

"His wife and mother are able to read, and he has supplied them with Christian literature with the most pleasing results. They both holdly declare their desire to accompany him in his profession of faith by baptism. The father alone holds out against all Christian instruction and influence. He is an intelligent man, and well to do, and declares his willingness that his wife, son, and daughter-in-law should confess Christ in baptism, if they wish to do so, but will separate himself from the family immediately on their being baptized. Another similar case, but not quite so far advanced, is in hand, all the direct result of the bazaar-preaching by Brother Anundo C. Duffadar, and his colleagues employed by this society."

Amritta Lal Nath reports as follows :—

"Most of our friends are aware that the great need of our Church is a regular pastoral supervision. The Church, though willing to give a part of the salary of their pastor, is still unable to find one competent and willing to take up the work. Though the duties of the pastor has fallen upon me, still my health, time and position have not allowed me to discharge the regular duties of a pastor. I have received valuable help from the deacon and pensioned preachers in conducting the divine services of Sabbath-day and the weekly prayer meeting.

"The general health of the Church is far better than what it was five years ago, still it falls far short of the scriptural description of a Christian Church. Drunkenness, which prevailed to an alarming extent, has been apparently thoroughly eradicated. A few months ago a Total Abstinence Society was started, and I am thankful to say that about forty members have solemnly promised to abstain from all intoxicating drugs all their lives. This society has supplied a need which has long been felt. 'The sad want of unity and petty jealousies,' of which Mr. Thomas wrote in his report of 1873, is still to be found among the members, though not to the same extent. Attending the public places of worship in order to please the European missionary and pass off as pious Christians, has been growing less and less every day, and it is hoped that it will soon disappear altogether. This one thing, in my humble opinion, has done more to undermine the health of our Church than anything else. The members have defrayed the contingent expenses of the Church out of their small income. There is, now-a-days, more willingness to give than there was five years ago. May the Lord revive His work in the hearts of every man and woman, whether converted or unconverted, in Johnnugger."

Mr. Thomas says :—

"I may add, as a note, that the improvement in the state of the Church has been largely increased, owing to the influence of our brother Amritta ; and partly, perhaps, to the removal from Serampore of some who have given trouble in the past.

"This report of the Church was drawn up, at my request, by Amritta, who is acting as pastor of the church at Johnnugger."

Native Christian Boarding School.

Of this Mr. Thomas reports as follows :—

"A few years ago attention was called both in England and in this country to the fact that while there were schools and colleges for the education of the heathen youth of India, but little was being done for the intellectual improvement of the native Christian community. It was felt that this was an anomaly which ought to be rectified as soon as possible. The first and most natural suggestion was, that the boarding school already existing at Serampore should be enlarged to meet the supposed requirements of the case; the Young Men's Missionary Association at Birmingham promised to devote a portion of their funds to this object, and instructions were sent to Mr. Trafford to try and devise measures by which a larger number of lads might be lodged and educated at Serampore in connection with the college.

"In accordance with those instructions Mr. Trafford read a paper before the Conference of 1872, in which he proposed a plan by which fifty boys might be housed and boarded at Serampore. This plan was intended only to be provisional, inasmuch as it was deemed inadvisable to build a new residence for the boys until the experiment had been tried, and the proposal was approved of by the Conference and was sanctioned by the Home Committee.

"The present boarding school has been in existence four years, and we may now fairly ask whether the experiment has proved successful or not. The answer to this question must, I think, be given in the negative, or, at least, it must be admitted that the expectations we had formed have not been realised.

"At no time have the numbers in the school reached 50. In the first year the total number on the rolls was 41, in the second year 48, but owing to various causes all these were not in the house at the same time. Last year (1875), though there were in all 45 on the rolls during the year, I had hardly ever more than 35 or 38 in the house at one time. This year the number actually in the house has ranged between 30 and 33.

"It may be interesting to note that out of 90 boys, who have been under my charge since February, 1873, about one-half have been from our own mission, 15 or 16 from the American Baptist Missions in Assam and Burmah, and about 30, or one-third of the whole, from other denominations.

"As to the quality of the boys who have come to me, the results have been far from satisfactory. It was Mr. Trafford's wish to receive only, or chiefly, such as had already made some progress in their studies, and who might, on joining the school, be at once placed in the higher classes. In this we have been disappointed; in point of fact, most of the boys who have sought admission to the boarding-school have had to be placed in the lower school classes, and a good many of them have been not a little dull as well as backward; some of these have been sent away from the school after a shorter or longer period of trial, but I have every year admitted some, whom I should certainly not have received had better applicants been forthcoming.

"There have been exceptions, and bright exceptions, even among those who were most backward, when they came to us. I may mention Koylas Chunder Sirdar from Barisaul, who, in January, 1874, was placed in the 7th class and is now in the 3rd. As another instance, I would mention George Looney, a Karen from Rangoon, who, in March, 1875, joined the entrance class, and has proved one of the best students we have had in the college, since I became connected with it. He has done well in every subject except mathematics, for which he appears to have little aptitude.

"These are not solitary instances, still the fact remains that a large number of the boys in the boarding-school have been hardly worth the money spent on them.

"Future Unpromising.

"If our expectations have not been fulfilled in the past, the prospects for the immediate future appear to me to be even more unpromising, as regards the success of the present experiment. Out of thirteen lads who have been received into the institution during the past year, only five have been, as it were, 'our own, and of these one has since left.

I still receive occasionally applications for admission to the school, but not from our own mission, nor do I see that there is much prospect of a change in this respect.

"From inquiries I have made during the year, and from the remarks of some of my missionary brethren, I think it probable, not only that the Government-aided schools throughout the country will be able largely to supply the wants of the people, but also that as the native Christians begin to feel the importance of having their sons educated, they will make use of these schools more and more.

"I had not long had charge of the boarding school before I felt that a mistake had been made; in my first report I stated my conviction that the native Christian community was not yet in a condition to provide us with the boys we wanted, and every year the impression has been deepened, in my mind, that the experiment has been begun at the wrong end.

Suggestions.

"I have more than once, in my communications home, hinted at this, and in a letter sent a few weeks ago to the secretary of the Birmingham Young Men's Association, in reply to several inquiries he had made I distinctly declared this as my deliberate conviction, and at the same time I made some suggestions, of which the following is a summary:—

"1. That attention should be turned to the extension of the system of village schools, and that grants in aid should be made to any missionary needing them, who would undertake to establish such schools in his district.

"2. That boys who gave decided proofs of ability should be assisted, if they desired it, to continue their studies at the Government-aided schools in the Sudder stations.

"3. If, at some future time, it should happen that a few boys who did really well at the Sudder schools, were desirous of prosecuting their studies further, that these might be sent to Serampore, to receive what further advantages the college might offer them.'

"It will be seen that if these suggestions be adopted the boarding school at Serampore will revert to its original condition or nearly so. This, in my opinion, is inevitable, but I think there will always be the need for such an establishment in connection with the college, and that probably it will be larger than it used to be in the days of the old Bungalow, though I do not anticipate having to provide for fifty boys, at least for many years to come.

"During the past session the general health of the boys has been fairly good, except towards the close of the rains when several boys had slight attacks of fever, which, however, did not last long as a rule. We have had two serious cases of illness, and I regret to say that one young man, by name Prio Nath, who was suffering from enlargement of the spleen, died shortly after he was taken to his home in Assam. Had it been possible for him to have been removed earlier, in all human probability his life would have been spared, but there was considerable and unavoidable delay before his father could come down to Serampore to take him away. The other lad is now perfectly recovered.

"I have already remarked that but few of the boys in the school have given me cause to be proud of them. The following, however, are deserving of mention, as having done fairly well at the annual examination last December:—Neelchad, a Garo from Assam, in the 9th class, stood seventh in a class of 25 boys, he gained 61 per cent. of the marks, and would have stood higher had he not been deficient in arithmetic. Hoonbor Judson, from Assam, in the 5th class, stood sixth of 31 boys. Russik, of Barisaul, 4th class, stood ninth out of 27 boys. Koylas Sirdar, in the 3rd class, stood eighth out of 29 boys. In the entrance class, George Looney was facile princeps in almost everything except mathematics, in which subject he utterly failed.

"At home the boys have had their Sunday lessons as usual. My class read the whole of First Corinthians, except the first five chapters, which were read last year. They also read a considerable part of the life of David.

"One young Burmese, who joined the school towards the end of the year, has applied for baptism and will probably be baptized during this session. His parents are not Christians, but I have been informed that they are not likely to make any opposition."

Mr. Jordan writes as follows :—

"I hasten to give you a few details of our work here. As to literary success, the past year's was an unhappy one. I do not think this was the fault of the teachers, but owing to the students being an unusually feeble set. However, we had a good many in attendance all through the session and in addition to our other labours I strove to instruct them in the trust of God. As the result of our labours in this direction we had no baptisms from amongst the Hindoos, but two youths living in the Bungalcw, as it is called, under the care of Mr. Thomas, were baptized by me a few weeks ago. One of these was a Karen, born of Christian parents; the other was a native of Burmah. Both gave pleasing, and as we trust satisfactory, evidence of their hearts being under the power of vital godliness. The case of the Burmese youth was particularly cheering. Though all his relatives are heathen and I strove to put before him the difficulties and persecutions he might incur by being baptized, he cheerfully and deliberately said he would follow Christ, come what might.

"Our English congregations at the mission chapel have not been large nor very steady. We have to contend here, as in most other stations, with Angloanism, and this, notwithstanding its generally smooth exterior, is hostile to Evangelical Christians, and doubly so to Baptists; nor is it at all scrupulous in its use of means generally covertly employed against us. But I trust the day will declare that our efforts for those who speak our mother tongue have not been fruitless. I have also baptized, on various occasions, several persons who have united with the Bengali church at Johnnugger, but cannot give you the exact number.

"When I enjoyed the substantial help of Mr. Martin, in company with him I used to go out preaching in the highways twice a week; but since his removal I have not felt able to keep this up. I have, however, a faithful and earnest Bengali preacher, by name Amritto, who, according to his strength, carries on this work with zeal and efficiency. I enclose one of his monthly journals, containing an account of work out in the country, and I think you will be pleased with it. Haran, also of Johnnugger, preaches with much zeal. Chand and Bhagawan, pensioned preachers living at Johnnugger, also preach more or less; but these two are old, feeble, and somewhat inefficient.

"The Christian village of Johnnugger does not much increase in size. This is mostly owing to the necessity there is of the young men amongst them seeking a wider field and better market for their energies. I believe that the tone of piety in the village, owing to the influence of Mr. Amritto, is higher than it used to be."

"General Remarks.

"It will be seen from the above figures that, the number of our hearers were not very small, especially when we consider the fact that the places visited were all inhabited by rural people, and only thrice the Gospel was preached in the open street. House-to-house visitation has been carried out at all other times, as this was considered a more efficient mode of arresting the attention of our hearers, and thereby secure their understandings as well as hearts. We have generally found ten or twelve men sitting at a large granary, either to sell or buy corn. Our singing to them has gathered others, and so we had the pleasure of preaching to an audience of about thirty or forty men and women. Sometimes almost all the people of a village would come to the place where we were sitting and singing, and hear almost with mute attention the whole Gospel. To many Christianity was a new thing and Jesus a new incarnation of God; though, in short, we had taken six or eight trips before, we do not remember having met with better hearers. It was a happiness which rarely fell to the lot of a preacher. But we could enjoy it only for a time, as two of us were visited by the Lord with fever, and we were reluctantly obliged to return home soon.

"A few interesting facts.

"At Ranaghat we preached in the open street. After the preaching was over, we requested our audience to ask us any questions they liked. A young man put to us the following question :—

"Sir, everybody knows that our gods, such as Tarakeshwar and Kali of Kalighat, cure diseases and do other wonderful works; and that is one reason why we believe that they are either incarnations of the one true Deity, or His servants whom He has invested with the power of governing the universe. We have heard also that your God Jesus did many wonderful works, but we do not believe in Him, because now-a-days we do not see anything of that nature."

"We replied, 'It cannot be proved that Kali and Tarakeshwar have cured as many as have gone to them, but we do not deny that some have been cured by going to Kalighat and Tarakeshwar. Some diseases, as every doctor knows, are cured by abstinence and exercise, and everybody knows that men who go to these places always abstain from food, and take so much exercise as would fatigue any healthy man. It is not Kali or any other god that cures these men, but exercise and abstinence. But we will give you a better proof of a living Christ's miraculous power. There are men and women whom you and every respectable man would have shunned for their viciousness, and utter want of any moral principle. These have been so thoroughly cured by Christ that they are now considered pious, and are respected by all. Kali and others, you know, have never been able to cure men of their sinful nature, as they were themselves sinful and vicious; but Christ does this every day; and if there be any before us really anxious that their sins should be taken away, we advise them to go in to their own private apartments, and lift up their hearts to God through Christ, and they shall feel that the all-curing power of Jesus has removed their sins.'

"The young man looked serious and would not believe. 'This is impossible,' says he; 'I have never heard of such a thing as Jesus can cure men from their sins.'

"At the Arunghata bazaar we found many men sitting at different shops, either to buy, or hear and speak about the current news of the place. We separated ourselves in order to visit as many shops as was possible. I went to a place where there were about eight men, most of whom were Mohammedans. While I was speaking to them of sin, its horribleness, and how God abhors it, a Hindoo came and said almost abruptly, 'Is not God the author of sin? Whatever happens in this world, either good or bad, is under the eye of God. If sin were to Him so detestable, why does not He stop it at once ?' I said 'My friend, does God love you ?' 'Yes, or else why should He give me food and other things.' 'Would you like your son, whom you no doubt love, to speak untruth and steal ?' 'O yes,' says the man, 'I have no objection, he can do it if he like.' I said, 'My friend, you must not get angry if I carry the illustration a little further. Would you like that your daughter should commit adultery ?' 'How can you say such a thing, sir ?' 'My brother, I do not like to hurt your feelings, but in order to show you that God loves you and does not wish you to commit sin, I have asked you this question. God can surely put a stop to your sinning, but He does not like to rob you of your independency. He wishes you to turn from sin of your own free-will, and believe in His Son who has given His life for you.' 'Yes, sir, I have understood ; I shall try to believe in Christ.' Very probably he will never try.

"Mundleghata being a small village, is very seldom visited by Christian preachers. Here we went to the house of a petty oil merchant. He had a large granary too, consequently he was the richest man in the village. He was at first very much afraid (hearing us asking where the oilman was), thinking we were men from the magistrate. We soon calmed his fears by informing him who we were and what we wanted. He gave us seats to sit down, and asked us to tell him something about Christianity. Having explained to him, and the people that were sitting in his shop, what Christianity is, we, wishing to have more hearers, asked him if we might sing. Having received his permission (for his house was attached to his shop) we sang the well-known Christian hymn, 'Prepare your boat to cross the river while it is yet day.' The oilman heard with great attention for awhile and then left the place, evidently not liking the words of our hymn, for they were rather pointed, and we doubt not that the Holy Spirit applied those words to his heart. Being a rich man his heart clung to his riches, and it was very difficult, nay, almost impossible for him to leave them and prepare himself for death. But a Mohammedan, who had come to the shop from another village, drank those words and they were sweet to his thirsty soul, for he never heard the Gospel. We asked him what boat he was in. 'Ah, sir,' says the man, 'this world has given me nothing substantial, and how can I say that I can trust to anything that belongs to it ? If Allah (God) would have compassion on my soul and take me to the other side of the river I shall be saved.' We explained to him the message of salvation, and he expressed great delight. He also requested us to go to his village, about ten miles from the place, and he and his friends, who, like him, have never heard about Jesus, would be glad to receive us, and even give us a place to stay in. We said we would try, but could not go. There was a Brahmin too, and we offered him a tract, thinking he was educated, but he was not. This man, though the priest of the village, could not read or write. 'A blind leader of the blind.'

"Haskali is a large village and contains a number of granaries. We reached this place in the evening of the 24th December, and had time sufficient only to visit one granary. The next morning we visited two more. In one of these we met an old man who listened to us with so much attention that, above others, he arrested our attention. His venerable appearance, together with his old age, created in us a longing desire to speak to him more particularly about his own soul.

"When we left the granary the old man followed us, and we asked him what preparation he was making for his soul, as he had apparently few years to live. He lifted up his eyes and said 'Everything have I left at the feet of Allah. I can do nothing.' The voice in which he spoke indicated a deep veneration for God, and an utter helplessness of self. We asked him if he knew anything about Jesus. He replied, 'Yes, Isa is a great prophet of God.' We knew he was a Mohammedan, and, therefore, must have heard about Jesus. We explained to him how Jesus was greater than a prophet, even the Saviour of mankind, and 'He is the way, the truth, and the life.' He looked as if he were trying to understand and believe what we said. He was desirous of hearing more about Jesus, but as we were too tired to sit down with him under the sun, and he was too old to try the sloping bank of the river and come to our boat, our conversation ended there and then. Oh! that the Lord would vouchsafe His mercies to this poor old Mohammedan, and receive him, even at the eleventh hour, in His open arms.

"Discussions with Mohammedans.

"In the afternoon several young men (Mohammedans) came to our boat to receive tracts, and requested us to go to their home, as their elders had expressed the desire of holding religious conversation with us. As the people were then gathering fast for the hât, we asked them to excuse us, but promised to comply with their request should there be time enough after preaching in the open air. When we returned it was almost dark, and yet one of the young men came to our boat and again requested us to visit their home. Though we were quite exhausted, and the place, according to the report of the villagers, visited by tigers at night, we felt the call of the Spirit in so sure a manner that we could not refuse him. We had no weapons with us, either offensive or defensive, yet we had the Lord of Hosts as our guide and strength, and, believing in His promise, we conferred not with flesh and blood, but went to the house of the petty Zemindar, by name Chaud Molla. We saw about thirty men waiting for us. After the exchange of usual salutations, we sat down with them. The first question was, 'What reason do you advance in support of your assertion that Mohammed is a false prophet?' As none of them knew Arabic, and therefore never had the opportunity of studying the Koran, they could not or would not argue much with us, but calmly and quietly heard all that we said. We proved, first, from the principal acts and sayings of Mohammed, that he could not have been the friend of God; 2nd, from his inability to perform miracles; 3rd, from the universal silence of his preceding prophets with regard to his prophethip; 4th, from his making void the laws and the prophets, together with the writings of the apostles (Tourret, Zabur and Ingil), which he said were once given by God, and extolling his own book the Koran (Forkan). They heard with mute attention, and then asked us, what reasons we give for receiving Christ as the Saviour of mankind. We shall not trouble our readers by reiterating the well-known arguments—suffice it to say that the very proofs which were wanting in Mohammed were found in Christ.

"On these two topics we conversed afterwards, and we are glad to say that there was no desire on the part of our hearers either to argue for argument's sake or use unfair means to support their own prophet. They expressed their obligation to us when we left them.

"Many places where the Gospel was never preached.

"The next day on our way towards Kessengunj we saw a small village of about fifty houses, close to the bank of the river. We stopped our boat and went to see the people. We found some of them on the thrashing floor. When we went and sat down with them on the ground, all the men came around us. We opened the sixth chapter of Matthew and read as well as expounded almost the whole chapter. All of them listened and the eldest made some very sensible remarks on that which we read to the others. These were all Mohammedans, but there was only one Hindoo (a milkman), who sat close to us with his sickle in his hand, and eyes sparkling with interest. We had hitherto spoken to the Mobammedans about their religion, not knowing that there was a Hindoo close beside us. Seeing his sparkling eyes we asked him how he liked what we had read. He was all joy. 'Sir,' says he, 'what you have read is very, very good. I like to hear more, for I have never heard the like before.' 'Never heard about Jesus Christ?' we asked in astonishment, taking him to be a neighbour of these Mohammedans, who are visited now and then by a European or native preacher. He replied, 'No, our village is on the other side of the river, about four miles from the place. Sirs, if you all go there I shall be very much obliged.' Surely, thought we, 'the harvest is plenty, but the labourers are few.' Never before in our preaching excursions have we heard so many say that the Gospel has never been preached to them."

V.—SEWRY.

Number of Members, 63.

Sewry is the principal town of the district of Beerhoom, which is situated at the north-western extremity of Bengal. The population is reckoned at 695,921 persons, of whom 111,795 are Mohammedans. Sewry, which contains 9,000 inhabitants, is about 130 miles N.N.W. from Calcutta.

Owing to the illness and return to this country of Mr. Hobbs, no report has reached us from the above interesting and fruitful station. We believe, however, that the field still shows some encouraging signs of progress.

VI.—CUTWA.

Missionary, ANUNDO CHUNDO
DUFFADAR.

Number of members, 19.

A large town on the western banks of the Hooghly, in the district of Burdwan, about seventy-five miles N.N.W. from Calcutta. It contains a population of 7,963 persons, of whom 6,817 are Hindus and 1,131 Mahommedans. The small remainder are Christians.

VII.—JESSORE.

Missionaries, R. J. ELLIS, R. SPURGEON, GOGON CHUNDER DUTT, BROJONATH BANERJEA.

Number of members, 171.

This district of Bengal lies to the west of Calcutta, and contains more than two millions of people, of whom 915,413 are Hindus, 1,151,936 are Mahommedans, and 1,142 are Christians. The rest are of various beliefs. Jessore, the chief town, containing 8,152 inhabitants, is eighty miles from Calcutta.

Mr. Spurgeon writes:—

"The church here has been under my charge since March only, so that I am unable to compare our progress with any previous years. Soon after my arrival, we decided upon having a church meeting regularly every two months, and thus far we have found them very beneficial. The attendance at our services is well sustained. After the visit of the Dhormoodeeponee Shobha, we had three services every week and the zeal of all was aroused. Everyone attended the meetings, and a number who had backslidden were reclaimed. Just then, too, a number of Hindoos and Mohammedans professed to be desirous of joining us, but afterwards they all drew back, so that from without our numbers have not been increased, though from amongst the nominal Christians a number have been added to us. As a whole the Church has grown during the year in unity, independence of spirit, and, I trust, also in grace. We are now holding two week-night services, one on Tuesdays for a general Bible study, and one on Thursdays for prayer.

"Preaching to the Heathen has been carried on as extensively as we could do it without tent, boat, or any other means of transit. The markets around us have seldom passed by without our visiting them. Besides visiting my two out-stations and Begumpore, I have not been away more than twice from home all the year; so that the gospels we have distributed have been very few, and the interest and zeal in our work have sometimes flagged for want of greater opportunity. The results of our preaching are known alone to Him whom we serve. The interest of the hearers is as great as ever, and the numbers are as good. Were we able to give employment to, or otherwise provide for all who are willing to become Christians on such conditions, our Church here would increase very rapidly.

"Of inquirers I have had plenty of a certain kind during the year. It is not possible at first to ascertain their real motive, they appear so sincere; but I have found that on kneeling down to pray that our study of the Word may be blessed by Him who gave it, that they do not care for another interview. I will give an illustration of this. A student from the English school came to me professing to be very desirous of learning the Scriptures, but it afterwards appeared that he desired more an opportunity of improving his knowledge of the English language. He wished only to be taught in English, and thinking he might be sincere I consented. I made him kneel down and pray with me over the open Bible, but I found he was only attempting to catch my pronunciation to imitate it. Such cases are causes of great sorrow and disappointment to us here continually. Hindoo politeness is such a fine cloak for the hypocrite.

"The Schools under my charge have passed the year with little that is noteworthy occurring in any of them. Cholera and fever have raged at varied intervals in almost every village where they are situated. The Bible-class for the teachers of these schools is still continued on Sunday afternoon. From want of funds I have been compelled to diminish their number, but, I hope, if I stay here the coming year, to re-establish them.

"To the number of girls in the orphanage two have been added during the year, and applications for about twelve more have been rejected for want of funds. During the coming year I trust some new subscribers will arise and help us. The present outlay, if continued without some additional help, will leave the orphanage in debt in 1877 for the first time during its very long history. We have been greatly rejoiced by the public profession of their faith by baptism of three of the eldest of the orphan girls, and a young man who was once a boy in the school. 'They witnessed a good profession before many witnesses.'

"An Adult Sunday School.

"About three months ago we commenced a Sunday-school for the children of Christian parents. The number on the roll is only a little more than twenty, but it is a good number for this very small Christian community. There is a good sphere for those desirous of showing their love to Christ, as well as affording a good supplement to the teaching the children receive on week-days. A women's prayer meeting was commenced also, but, after a few Sundays of languid existence, it died out, and we find the number of women too few to re-commence it now.

“II.—Jhenaida.

“The visit I paid to Jhenaida was one of intense interest. Three were awaiting baptism. The rite had never before been performed there. The magistrate, W. C. Deare, Esq., had a tent erected for us by the river side, and, though not quite close to the town, an immense crowd was gathered at the appointed hour. The little community of believers there were never better able to bear testimony for Jesus than on that day. The river’s bank being covered with grass to the water’s edge and gently sloping, almost all the crowd could hear every word that was said. A more glorious scene and occasion one could hardly desire.

“From the monthly journals of Madhob and Gogon, our two native brethren there, I see they have been out on preaching tours, as usual, almost all the year round. Madhob mentions one young man who is very desirous of being ‘on the Lord’s side.’ Others, in the course of the year, have appeared as earnest, but gradually gave way again to evil, and returned to their idols. But, as you see above, the labours of these two brethren have not been in vain in the Lord. They are now making a collection for the erection of a new chapel at Jhenaida, and the amount already received is very near enough.

“III.—Magurah.

“We have no preacher at all at Magurah. The few families that live there are indeed ‘as sheep having no shepherd.’ For a long, long time no services of any kind have been held among them, and that for a number of reasons. The chapel, having fallen down some time ago, has been sold for firewood, and nowhere could one see the difference between the Christians and the Hindoos. I exhorted them to come together for worship, and they promised to do so. While there, we all went in a body to the market to preach. A better preaching-place is not to be found, I should suppose, in the district. The people seemed as though they had never before seen a Gospel, or the good news. Every book we had was sold. I do wish I could send an evangelist there who could look after the little flock and preach around. In their present state, the Christians there are anything but a praise to Him whose name they bear, and whom they profess to serve.

“Bible Distribution.

“Amongst them are two workers, however, that I may mention. One of these is a Bible woman, named Jomona, whom Mrs. Lewis has kindly consented to support of late. She seems to work hard and well. As an epitome of her work, I may mention that during her service five persons have been converted through her efforts, and she says in her report that ‘others are wishing to become Christians, but they are poor, and do not know what to do if they leave their employment. The other one, deserving mention, is a blind young man, who is supported by the Church in Jessore, on condition that he sells gospels and serves the Lord to the best of his ability in any other way. This he evidently does. About forty or fifty books are sold by him every month. He has been a Christian for a long period, and, like other blind men, has an excellent memory. Armed with Scriptures, and able to recite a large number of texts, and sing a great many Christian hymns, he visits the villages around his dwelling at Magurah, adding his mite to aid the great enterprise that we have set before us in this country—the conversion of India to Christ.”

Mr. Dutt reports as follows:—

“During the year our gracious Lord has kept us as the apple of His eye, and we raise our Ebenezer with much gratitude.

“From the commencement of the year up to the end of December I made thirteen journeys to propagate the Gospel, in addition to our work in and about Khoolnea and other stations connected with this mission. In my preaching tours, as I have said in my last report, I always take ten to sixteen brethren as helpers; some of them are paid agents of the society, and others are members of the churches, and receive nothing for their work, except travelling allowance, when they have to work with me. I beg to inform, in a few words, regarding our plan which we adopted for the propagation of the Gospel truths. When we visit a Christian or a Hindoo village, we put up our shaimana (awning) in a suitable place of the village and commence praying, and singing with musical instruments. When people are gathered together, we begin to deliver our addresses, and sing and pray at intervals. When one is engaged in preaching, others help him by mental prayers. Among other advantages the plan is calculated to make our churches self-propagating, because most of those who accompany me I select from the intelligent members of our churches, who by this means receive training as independent evangelists in their own places. In my tours, I read with my helpers the word of God and such religious books which I consider would do them good. We have also, after great discussion, commenced using some of our musical instruments in our religious meetings, except on Sundays. Instrumental music is a great help in singing hymns in our native tunes. Though some musical instruments are not simply gay, but frisky, but the instruments which we use are generally used to sing religious hymns by our countrymen. We cannot think for a moment that India will give up its musical instruments after it has embraced Christianity.

"Success of our plan.

"We had several meetings among our Christians and the Roman Catholics, and all the meetings more or less have been blessed by our heavenly Father. Shawbunya is a new clearing of the Soonderbuns, not far from our Booridanga station, where, in 1874, a few Roman Catholics and a nominal Christian of our churches with their families came and settled. They had no worship among them regularly, and were very indifferent about religious matters. I visited this place several times with my helpers during the year, and I am thankful to say that these people have been greatly changed since our visit at the commencement of the year. They have built a little house for worship and elected one of them to conduct religious service regularly. The Romish priests, having heard the religious activity of these people, tried to entice them away by offering money, but they have firmly resisted the temptation.

"The evangelistic meetings have done great good to the Christian women of Khoolnea, Kalishpore, Kuddumdi, and Booridanga. Our sisters in Christ of the above-mentioned places have, I can safely say, liberally helped us by contributions to disseminate the Gospel truths among the Hindoos and Mohammedans. A poor Christian widow, of Kalishpore, at the time of collection gave two rupees, which she saved by selling her goats. A silver chain, a gold necklace, and a pair of silver bracelets were given by three Christian women as offerings to God. Though the price of these ornaments is not more than three pounds, yet I am glad to see the love of our sisters for Him who has given His life for their salvation. Some of our sisters have attempted to teach the Hindoo women about Jesus by visiting their houses. Our sisters have their prayer meetings once a week, and regularly collect money for our Dhurma deepony Shobha.

"Our visits to Jessore and Begumpore were attended with blessings to some extent. Our friends and supporters have heard about our work in Jessore, the account of which has been published in the October number of the Missionary Herald. The result of our labour in and about Begumpore was the conversion of a young Brahmin, whom I baptized towards the end of the year. Two families, consisting of ten men, women, and children, who apostatized our holy faith, returned among us again, repenting their past sins.

" Our Work among the Heathens.

"There have been about thirteen baptisms, and seven of those baptized were Hindoos formerly. We have visited a great many Hindoo and Mohammedan villages during the year, and everywhere we have been received by our countrymen very kindly. Meerashan, Sholpore, and Moolghur, are the villages where people are more favourable towards Christianity than others.

" The Work of our Churches.

"By the united efforts of our Churches a shobha or society has been established called Dhurmo Woodepony, about which I mentioned I believe in my last report. The objects of this shobha or society are to raise money to disseminate Christian truths among the unbelievers and revive true Christianity among the nominal Christians. During the year this shobha has published a tract full of Scripture texts, and many original hymns, in the form of a tract, which we sing in our meetings. A preacher and a Bible-woman have been entirely supported by this society.

" Our Colporteurs.

"We have three colporteurs; one of them is supported by Nottingham friends and the others are supported by the Bible Translation Society. One of these resides at Begumpore, and his work is confined to Begumpore Mission, and the two others work in Khoolnea and Bagerhaut sub-district. Greater part of the year our colporteur who used to work in Khoolnea and Bagerhaut had a boat of his own for travelling, which I bought some years ago. At the end of 1875 the boat became unseviceable and I sold it for ten rupees, and appropriated the sum for hiring a boat for two months. In February last, I engaged another colporteur out of the travelling allowance of the Khoolnea colporteur who has no boat to travel with. Had the colporteurs been supplied with a boat they could have sold more books than they have done. During the year they have sold about a thousand pice gospels and fifty-four New Testaments. Our colporteurs are efficient men, and they not only sell the Scriptures but also preach the Gospel wherever they visit, which is a great advantage to the Mission.

" Our Schools.

"I have nothing to say about our schools except that I am training eleven Christian children at Khoolnea, and two of these are preparing themselves for the Government vernacular scholarship examination. Our Soonderban schools for the Christian boys and girls are doing pretty well, except Malgasy.

" Our Troubles.

"In the beginning of the year ten Roman Catholic families came among us repenting for their sins and finding Romanism incapable of satisfying their religious wants. We have also received some of them as members of our Church after carefully examining their motives of coming amongst us. The Romish priests tried their best to attract the minds of these people by promising money and other worldly advantages, but were unsuccessful. In July last when we were working in Jessore and other places, the priests during our absence enticed away eight excluded members of our Church by offering about 400 rupees. Two of these men have returned, and six are still among the Roman Catholics. The Romish priests and nuns in this district do not like work among the Hindoos and Mohammedans, but when a member of our Church is excluded, or when there is a convert among us from heathenism, they try to entice him away by fair or foul means. I mention our troubles here, that our friends and well-wishers may remember us in the time of their prayers."

VIII.—BACKERGUNGE.

Barisal.

Missionaries, T. MARTIN, G. KERRY.

Number of members, 1,178.

This low-lying district lies to the east of Calcutta; Barisal, its principal town, containing 7,684 inhabitants, being 185 miles distant. The population of the district is stated to be 2,377,433 by the Census of 1872, in the following proportions: Hindus, 827,393; Mahomedans, 1,540,965; Christians, 4,852; and others, 174. The stations are much scattered, and are found in the northern part of the district.

We extract the following from Mr. Martin's report:—

"At the Conference of Baptist Missionaries, held in Calcutta towards the close of 1875, it was recommended that we should take united charge of the stations and mission work in this district. In accordance with this recommendation Mr. Martin arrived at Barisal early in March, and was joined by Mr. Kerry in April. We have had together an interesting year of harmonious work, and have had the privilege of rejoicing in some tokens of the Divine blessing. We had, in former time, been associated in the charge of the mission at Barisal, but, as many years had elapsed since we left the station, in the one case sixteen years, and in the other twelve, there had of course occurred many changes among the people; some had departed this life, and others, who were children, had grown up to maturity, were men and women now, and the heads of families. Our first work was, therefore, to renew our acquaintance with the people who remembered us, and to make ourselves known to those who had grown up, or who had newly come among the Christians since the time when we were here before. We together visited all the out-stations, thirty in number, and met the people morning, noon and night, and spent much time in conversation, in singing, reading, prayer and preaching. This was a work of time as the stations are widely scattered and many of them are difficult of access, but it was a work which brought much pleasure too, for the people everywhere gave us a hearty and joyous welcome. We were glad to see so many who had held on in the good way for so many years, and to find those who were young when we were here formerly, now taking the places in the church of the parents who were gone. The people remember, with affection, their former missionaries especially Messrs. Page and Sale. Very sincerely did they grieve for the death of Mr. Sale and the loss of their hope of his return with Mrs. Sale to carry on the work of God among them.

"In visiting this field of mission labour and success again, it has been an interesting employment to us, to compare the present state of things with that of twelve or fifteen years ago. We will, therefore, state briefly some of the impressions we have received during the past nine months. The number of the Christian people is steadily increasing; the increase is, doubtless, chiefly from within, but there is a quiet and steady increase from the heathen, constantly going on, though there is no great or marked movement among the heathen towards Christianity, such as appeared in this district twenty or twenty-five years ago. But the number of the Christian community, counting men, women and children, is nearly double what it was sixteen years ago. The violent hostility of the Hindoos and Mussulmans and the landlords, to the Christians, has greatly abated; on the whole, our people get on fairly well with their neighbours, and though they are not generally regarded with much favour by the landlords, they are not molested or oppressed excessively. We have been much struck with the evident improvement of the social condition of our people. Many of them are now thriving peasants—not rich, of course, but certainly not poor; indeed, very few of them seem to be in distress from want of the necessaries of life. Many years ago it was a great trial of feeling to visit the stations, for wherever the missionary went he was pestered with the petitions and almost demands for help from poor and destitute Christian people. During the past year we have been troubled very little in this way; indeed, we may say not at all, for the cases in which we have been asked for help have been such generally as we should feel a pleasure in doing our best to relieve.

“Education.”

“We have been pleased to see some progress made in the matter of education, the progress is not great nor entirely satisfactory, considering how largely the Christian community has grown in numbers. Schools are established at thirteen stations, including Barisal; six of these are supported in whole, or in part, by Government grants. Some of these schools are doing very well, but others are very small and the attendance is irregular. We should like to see a good school at every one of our stations. But at present our funds for village schools are exceedingly limited. There are other difficulties, also, besides that of the want of funds. Our Buckergunge villages are not at all like English villages with the houses near to each other.

The houses are widely scattered. Then it is only for two or three months in the year that the ground is dry enough for walking over it; the rest of the year it is either flooded by water and only passable in boats, or it is one vast puddle of mud quite impassable by little children's feet. But all these difficulties might be surmounted if there existed in the minds of the parents an earnest desire for the education of their children. We have, as others have had, to fight hard and incessantly and with very small success, against this indifference of the parents to education. But this fight must not be given up; success will come at last. We do earnestly desire that every one of our people should be able to read the Scriptures. Unless some fair progress is made towards the attainment of this object there can be little prospect of the Christian churches becoming staple and independent. There is one department of education in connection with this mission, which is new and important. Through the kindness and liberality of the teachers and scholars of Salters' Hall Sunday School, funds were supplied for the education, in English as well as Bengali, of the more promising lads amongst us. At first a school was established at Chobikarpar, at which the lads, their parents paying part of their expenses, were boarded, lodged and taught. It was found difficult for the missionary to superintend the school at such a distance from Barisal, and an attempt was made to establish the school near the missionary's house. This effort has not succeeded, parents not liking to send their boys away from home. But, as in different parts of the district, there are Government-aided Anglo-vernacular schools open to boys of all castes who can pay the fees, it has been found best, for the comfort of the parents and boys, to pay their school fees and the costs of books, &c. During the past year nine boys have thus been learning English; some of them are bright hopeful lads, who will, we trust, be good and useful men by-and-bye.

Census.

"We have taken a census of all the people under our care, from which many very interesting facts are apparent. The total number of our adherents is 4,258; of this number 1,810 are children of different ages, from the infant to the boy or girl of thirteen years old. The number of adults will therefore be 2,448, of whom nearly one-half are baptized believers and in communion with one or other of the churches. Sixteen years ago, when we took a similar census, the number of our adherents was 2,529, of whom 1,001 were children; of the 1,528 adults, 446 were in fellowship with the church, that is, less than one-third of the whole. Having regard to the religious condition of the people, we must acknowledge that there is much which often gives us pain and regret, but not more than might be expected from a people brought out of such unutterable degradation and ignorance as the greater part of them have been. Many of the people included in the four thousand are nominal Christians only, rather proud too of the name often, but with little or no perception of the privileges or duties connected with that name. Some hold their profession, such as it is, very loosely, and are chiefly held by social ties to the community, but there are not many of this kind. The baptized and unbaptized for many purposes form one community or society, and exercise a powerful influence on each other to check various forms of vice and immorality; so that an offender is liable to be called to account and judged, and censured, and for some things excommunicated, by the rest. The internal discipline thus exercised often leads to troublesome results; quarrelling and division often arise which are not easily removed. But the people are learning, and evidently have learnt that there is a high and pure morality as an essential part of the religion of Christ. It appears to us that taking the people as a whole there has been real growth in knowledge and understanding of religious truth.

"It is clear from the figures given above that great progress has been made in the churches. We do not profess to be satisfied, but we do rejoice and give praise to God that among a people so low and despised among the natives of this country as these are, He is showing the riches of His mercy in Christ our Lord. They have been slow to learn their duties as members of Christ's Church; the chief difference between them and the better sort of those not members has been the partaking of the Lord's Supper, and being baptized; also a stricter discipline has been exercised over them by the Church. At the first and till now these churches have certainly been timid and feeble, dependent almost entirely on the missionary for everything connected with their Church organization, but efforts have been cautiously made to prepare them for a better state of things. They have begun to learn to build and repair their own places of worship: they have begun more generally to pay for Scriptures and hymn-books which they need, and they are kind to their poor. We think we see a greater development of Christian life and virtue, and believe that much more is latent, and will, through the blessing of the Lord and by the power of His Spirit, be made manifest.

"Native Preachers.

"With regard to the preachers we feel much perplexity. With some most pleasing exceptions they do not seem to be men of a superior kind. Some of the men whom we knew before have grown in knowledge and Christian experience and matured in character, but others seem to us to have deteriorated much. Of the men who are new to us, mostly young men, three or four are certainly good men and fitted to do good in their humble spheres of labour, but others seem utterly unfitted to be the guides and teachers of their Christian brethren, and equally unfitted for evangelistic work. Very few of them seem to have any zeal for preaching to the heathen; their work is chiefly pastoral, preaching to the Sabbath congregations, and visiting the people during the week. This pastoral work is very important, both in relation to the Church members and the nominal Christians. A few of the men are engaged almost entirely in evangelistic work, and there is a good deal of preaching to the heathen done throughout the year.

"We and our colleague, John Sir-car, have baptized sixty-four persons on their profession of faith; these were all previously approved and accepted by the brethren after due inquiry and examination into their character and their knowledge of the Gospel. We have not baptized any on our sole responsibility.

"Four Bible-women have been employed in the district to visit from house to house and read to and speak with the women about the 'Way of Life.' At Barisal we have a Christian woman employed to visit the Zenanas and hamlets in this vicinity, but the funds from which this woman has been supported are exhausted, and her work will probably end in a month or two.

"The Cyclone.

"Towards the close of the year the south and eastern parts of this district were visited by an awful calamity, to which this country is periodically subject. On the night of October 31st, a cyclone of fearful violence worked up from the south-east from the head of the Bay of Bengal. In the town of Barisal itself innumerable trees were uprooted, and almost every house, except those of bricks, was thrown down; but to the south-east, nearer the sea, the violence of the wind was tremendous, and was accompanied by a huge storm-wave, which swept over a densely-populated tract of country, at once destroying the lives of tens of thousands of people, carrying away almost every vestige of the villages on the banks of the rivers where the force of the flood was strongest. It is not easy to describe the unutterable misery and despair of the survivors, and we shall not attempt the task. One of us took relief (supplied by the magistrate) in food, salt, and clothes to the hungry and naked people, as soon as it was possible to get a crew for the mission boat. The enormous destruction of life had caused the whole region to be covered with the corpses of the unburiad dead, that quickly decomposed and filled the air with insufferable stench. The consequence of this has been the prevalence of a raging pestilence. At the time of writing this, it seems probable that as many lives will be lost by cholera as were lost by the storm and flood. We are thankful that our people were saved from the great severity of the storm, and have suffered comparatively little; still, in a few places, houses and chapels were blown down. There has been a good deal of cholera prevalent throughout the district; every year this disease appears with more or less virulence, and our people have suffered this year more than usual. At the present time the disease has abated, and we hope the worst has passed away.

"We wish to thank, and do heartily thank, the many kind friends of the mission in different parts of the country who have sent during the year special contributions in aid of our work, both evangelistic and educational, and we earnestly ask their powerful sympathy with us in our arduous duties. There are many things to fill us with care and sorrow, whilst, at the same time, there are many more to cause us to be glad and give praise and thanks to our Lord for His faithfulness and truth. He fulfils his promise to His servants who go to distant lands to preach the Gospel—'Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.'"

IX.—DINAGEPORE.

Number of members, 77.

The capital of a district of the same name. It is about 250 miles north of Calcutta. The population numbers 1,501,924. The town of Dinagepore contains a population of 13,042 souls.

X.—DARJEELING.

Number of members, 47.

The hill territory of Darjeeling has a population of 46,727 persons; and the Terai, 47,985.

Owing to the return of Mr. Page to this country we have no recent report from either Dinagepore or Darjeeling. We, however, reproduce the following extract from the Missionary Herald of last August:—

"The four months spent in the plains is hoped will not prove profitless. Of course I had not (and it can no more be expected) the strength of former years, and could not speak longer than three hours a day, yet it was rich mercy which permitted me to do this little. We attended very many markets in the districts of Jalpaigore, Rungpore, and Dinagepore, and one large fair. The congregations were, as always before, large and attentive. In several places my hearers recalled former visits and preachings, and cheerfully begged me to repeat the good words spoken before, and in some instances brought neighbours and friends to listen to what pleased them. Hindoos had not one word to urge, they were too silent, or rather too acquiescent. Mohammedans, now and then, had the old story of Mohammed's claims up again, and showed the same old bigotry; but nowhere did we find people unwilling to hear us, or impatient to be off. They, on the contrary, in more than one place, in spite of the zemindar's toll collectors' efforts to get them to begin their buying and selling, preferred first hearing what we had to tell them. Books were in great demand, the ryots giving a few pice for a gospel or other portions of Scripture without reluctance. I, for my part, having freely received the Word, like freely to give it. This seems to be more worthy treatment of the Holy Book, at any rate rather so in the Eastern mind. But I was deeply impressed with the fact that these teeming multitudes are neglecting their gods and goddesses and priests, or Mohammedans, careless in religious observances, and grossly and wilfully ignorant of their own faith, they are no better than the heathen; but all, all are more than ever absorbed in cares of this life, coveting riches, and knowledge because they see it leads to riches. Men seem to have no religion left, or rather no room left in their hearts for religion. The ever-growing increase of the activities of life is created by this love of the world, and it, in its turn, waxes stronger as new energies spring up in the masses of the population. Every new enterprise undertaken by the Government or by private companies or individuals is warmly discussed. 'Will it bring me money, or benefit my children, forward their prospects, or add to their substance and comfort in this life?' This is the question. The world, the body, time and visible things engross all hearts. All are thorough worldlings, more than of old. For even Hindooism, true and common, as well as everything almost in Mohammedanism, looked beyond this life into another state; but the present tendency of mind is to ignore the other life and put the cares, fears, doubts in respect of futurity for ever away. How feeble, powerless one feels in dealing with such a state of things. I have been told over and over again, 'There is no religion, no fear of God, left in the land. God was angry and sent the famine to punish the people. But even this is forgotten. When next He strikes, He will utterly destroy all nations.' But oh, the multitudes sitting in darkness! Rungpore has just upon 2,500,000 souls; Dinagepore, 1,501,924; Malda adjoining, 676,426; and Jalpaigore, Cooch Behar, Purneah, must have more than four millions, and these eight or nine millions have literally no one preaching to them in their own tongue, if you except my single individual action during four months of the year. Meanwhile the little churches of Dinagepore and Sadhamahal are cold, dead; the communities decreasing and proving a hindrance rather than a help in spreading true knowledge. The Nagpore brethren, settled at Kalkapore, twenty-five miles from Dinagore, alone are holding their ground. They have, however, diminished in numbers by deaths in the famine months. I missed twenty-five men and women who had been baptized before I left for England. I baptized—one comfort—nine others during this last visit, and three more in Dinagore. We must have an earnest, energetic, strong man to settle in Rungpore or Dinagore at once."

STATIONS AND CHURCHES IN NORTHERN INDIA.

I.—MONGHYR.

Missionaries, T. EVANS, E. JONES.

Number of members, 94.

A town of 59,698 inhabitants. It lies on the southern bank of the Ganges, 300 miles N.W. of Calcutta. The district of Monghyr contains 1,812,986 persons, of whom the Mohammedans number only 182,269 souls. The district contains 1,142 Christians; the rest are Hindoos.

The Rev. T. Evans writes as follows:—

"There has been peace and slow progress among the members. They are ardent supporters of our temperance movement, and mostly all are pledged abstainers.

"The Sabbath-school does good work, and a Religious Knowledge Society, which has been established for some months, has done well.

"Fourteen have been added by baptism, most of whom are promising converts.

"Preaching to the heathen, both in Monghyr and the district around, has been carried on extensively both by the missionaries and the native Evangelists, and over 5,000 copies of the Word of God and tracts full of Christian truth have been sold and scattered far and wide.

"The English branch of our work, both at Monghyr and Jamalpore, has been attended to as well as we can afford leisure for the same, but we have had no fruit in the shape of converts except one.

"The new Day-school for Christian boys, and the Theological class, have been established, and we have reason to hope that both will prove highly beneficial with the blessing of God on the effort.

"Mr. D. C. Jones having been transferred to Benares, Mr. Evans is now alone at Monghyr.

"Our Zenana work has been steadily carried on, and some few encouraging events have accompanied the labours of the ladies engaged therein.

"Enquirers.

"About three months ago as many as fifteen applications were received by the native Church for baptism, and a few of those had for a much longer period expressed a desire to serve the Lord. The Church at Monghyr has long been taught to exercise due caution in the admission of members, and candidates for baptism are made to wait until they 'bring forth fruit meet for repentance' before they are baptized, to which prudent practice, I have no doubt, the Church at Monghyr is largely indebted for its comparatively high tone of morality.

"When the brethren were satisfied that the candidates, of whom I now write, had given proof of a change of heart, it was agreed that they should be baptized on the 3rd of March, which was truly a happy day to us all.

"The Baptism

took place about five in the afternoon, after I had given an address on the nature and the object of Christian baptism. A goodly company of native Christians, Europeans and heathen, clustered around the baptistery in the open air, close to the banks of the great Ganges, where, some sixty years ago, John Chamberlain immersed 'Hingon Misser,' the first convert at Monghyr, whose children's children are now among the bright members of the Church.

"It did our hearts good to see two bands, men and women, standing round the watery grave, all in white robes, anxious to show their love to Jesus by obedience to His command. After a prayer for the converts by my young colleague, Mr. Jones, the crowd sang with great fervour a favourite Hindoo hymn, to a lively native tune, the chorus of which is—

'Victory to the Lord Jesus,
Victory to the King of Kings.'

"It was a beautiful, calm, still afternoon. The sun, as it approached the horizon in the west, covered the heavens with a rich golden tinge, and one could almost fancy that as the people shouted the chorus, at the end of each verse—

'Victory to the Lord Jesus,
Victory to the King of Kings,'

that a melodious echo came from the heavens above, whispering softly in response—'Victory'—'Victory.'

"Among the candidates were the mother and the wife of our devoted brother Bhai-Haran, the shepherd preacher, who, on this day, saw fulfilled the long wished-for desire of his heart. Another interesting young woman was the daughter of our venerable deacon and the granddaughter of 'Hingon Misser,' the first Monghyr convert. He left all for Christ's sake, and being a high-caste Brahmin, he had no small sacrifice to make; and though his wife and children left him for a time, yet they followed, and now, long after he is gone to rest, are his children's children gathered into the fold of Christ? There were also among the baptized the daughter and daughter-in-law of Ramgat, who for many years was a preacher of the Gospel, and the sons of two other preachers gone home to glory. One of the converts was a Mohammedan; both she and her husband, who is assistant postmaster here, were baptized, and she has now a Sabbath-school in her house in the midst of the bazaar, for the benefit of poor heathen children. Another was the only surviving daughter of a dear departed brother whom I knew in the Agra Fort in the time of the mutiny, and who there was Mr. John Parsons' servant, but afterwards a zealous preacher of the Gospel. This dear young disciple left her sick bed to come to be baptized. There were also two aged matrons, who for years have been halting, but at last decided for Jesus.

"Joy and Sorrow."

"As you may suppose, our cup of joy was well-nigh running over; but—ah, yes, there was a sad 'but' here, and a bitter drop in our cup of pleasure. There was one man standing in the crowd over whom we could weep in sorrow, for he, who at one time seemed so promising, had drawn back at the eleventh hour, and as the case is both interesting and mysterious, let me give you some account of it.

"About seven years ago a man from the Punjab, who was a Sikh (i.e., a follower of 'Guru Nanuk'), was here in the mounted police force. He heard the Gospel preached in the bazaar on several occasions; he had some conversation with the brethren, and became sufficiently interested to visit the Sunday services a few times. He could read well, and was an intelligent man. He got a number of Christian books, and, after a while, left the station. About three months ago he wrote to our brother Sudeen to say that though he had been away from Monghyr over seven years, yet he had never forgotten what he had heard there, and might some day be seen there again.

"About a month afterwards he wrote again to say that he had made up his mind to come to Monghyr to make a public profession of his faith in Christ, as it was there he had first found the Saviour. We simply wrote back to say that if he came we would be glad to see him, and that we were thankful to hear that he loved the Lord. About six weeks ago he arrived, having travelled down over 1,000 miles from his home in the extreme west of the Punjab to be baptized at Monghyr. We were, of course, delighted to see such an instance of devotion to the Saviour. The event greatly gladdened our hearts, and we could but thank God and take courage.

"As I was ready to start for an itinerating tour through the villages when Tara Singh (Lion Star) arrived, I thought it would be well to take him out with me that I might get the chance to see and know more about him. He willingly came, and during the tour I had many a long conversation with him, and was glad to find that he seemed to be both a sincere and an intelligent convert. He made himself very useful, helping us in selling Scriptures and tracts; and on more than one occasion, of his own accord, spoke to the assembled crowd of the salvation which is in Christ. We had but one small tent, which we all shared, and he took his turn with us in leading our social daily prayers. In fact, I thought I had found a God-made convert and a preacher, and I was already planning in my mind to send him, after due probation, to an out-station as preacher of the Gospel. After our return to Monghyr a church meeting was held to consider again the applications of candidates, and he made the last of the fifteen that were then accepted for baptism.

"On the day before the baptism our good brother Sudeen came to me, and I at once saw that his mind was troubled, and, on inquiry, found that 'Tara Singh' had drawn back. I asked the reason why, and all the answer was that his heart failed him. I then sent for him. He came, and appeared exceedingly bashful and troubled in mind. I asked him what had caused the change, and I could get no answer but this—'Dil gha-bragae,' i.e., 'My heart fails me.' I asked him if he feared the anger of his friends, or if he had been offended by anyone here, or if he had lost faith in Jesus, to each of which questions he gave a decided 'Nay.' Nor could he, he said, tell what the cause was. As it seemed to me very like a temptation from the evil one, I advised him to wait and see if his misgiving would not pass away. He waited a week, and yesterday came to me to say good-bye, and went his way sorrowful. Such is the strange story of 'Tara Singh,' and in it I would have our kind friends at home see something of the sad disappointments which missionaries in India have often to endure. I cannot yet believe that the man is a deceiver, for I see no adequate cause for dissimulation, and I still hope he will be true to his promise never to forsake the feet of Jesus, though he shrank from the ordeal of baptism after travelling over 1,000 miles to Monghyr for the express purpose, as he told us, of making a public avowal, by immersion, of his faith in Jesus. May I ask those who love the Lord to join with us here in prayer to the Good Shepherd that this wandering sheep may yet be numbered among His flock?

"The Native Church

is making progress in more than one direction. The members become more and more sensible to the fact that they should strive at becoming an independent body, not only to support their own religious ordinances, but also to aid in the extension of the Gospel among the heathen. I only wish I could see this idea carried out into practical results as it ought to be, which is by no means the case yet among any body of our Indian converts, and I fear this all-important duty will be a plant of slow growth in India where converts have hitherto been so dependent on foreign aid. Still it is pleasing to see some little indication of progress in this very desirable direction.

"Children who have been long carried in arms cannot be expected to walk alone at once, but gentle exercise will help to give them confidence to go alone.

"Considerable good has been done among our young people of late by the two societies formed,—namely, the Temperance, and the Scripture Knowledge Sabhas. I am thankful to be able to say that in Monghyr we have little or no trouble with drinking habits, but as this evil is fast spreading in India, and is no small offence to the Gospel, our Christians have thought it wise to abstain entirely from all manner of intoxicating drink and drugs, so that nearly all the members of our native Christian community are pledged abstainers; and the example has done no small good, both among the heathen and Christian people.

"The Gyan Sabha is a society for the cultivation of Scripture knowledge, and the members meet every Sunday evening to hear speeches and papers read on a variety of Bible subjects. These efforts have done much to stimulate our young men to study the Word of God, and, no doubt, the others who come to hear have been profited. I am now about to form a still further auxiliary in this same direction, in the shape of a

of young men who have shown a desire and an aptitude for the work of Evangelists, and I hope that we may see not a few, in time, going forth from here to the 'regions beyond' to preach. One of our young men is supported by the Accrington Sunday-school, and I hope another promising Nepalese sent here by Mr. Page from Darjeeling will be taken up by some other Sunday-school at home. We have also lately opened a new on thorough Christian bases, to which Christian boys only are admitted, and in which Christian teaching is largely imparted. By the generous liberality of a worthy member of our English Church, we are able to impart a liberal education to Christian lads, both English and native, at a low cost, and within the reach of parents of scanty means, and as we have been able to secure the services of a head master who is both an efficient scholar and a sincere Christian, this new school is likely to prove a precious boon to Monghyr and the neighbourhood.

" Vernacular Preaching

has been carried on with more or less regularity throughout the year. During the hot and rainy seasons our out-door preaching is confined to Monghyr and Jamalpore and the adjacent villages, and when the cold season set in, both Mr. Jones and myself have gone out successively with the native brethren to the country around, where the people generally have heard us gladly, and where, in some instances, the glad tidings were heard for the first time by distant villagers. What has given us more satisfaction than the preaching has been the large number of " Scriptures and Tracts sold.

" Since my arrival in Monghyr, a little more than two years ago, about 15,000 copies of Gospels and Christian tracts have been scattered far and wide in the districts around, nearly all of which have been sold to the people at a small sum, but not too small, to secure the reading of the books. During my late visit to a mela at Baidjnath, I had several interesting instances of the eagerness of people to get a copy of the Word of God. Let me give you but one case. As I stood one day selling Scriptures close to the great temple of Baidjnath, I noticed two respectable-looking Hindu ladies peeping at me in a narrow lane close by. They were evidently ashamed to be seen by the crowd buying Scriptures from the missionary, and yet they ventured, partly covering their faces, to come near and hastily to ask me for a book each, which they got and paid for, and at once disappeared in haste as if guilty of theft. I felt thankful for such a desire from heathen ladies for the Word of God, and, to my surprise, in a little while they again timidly approached me, saying, 'Let us have more books,' at the same time handing me the price so as not to make any delay. I again handed them the precious treasure, and they at once hastened back to the house they occupied at the end of the lane.

" In a few days at this mela I sold about 1,500 copies of gospels and tracts, and, as the people had come from far as well as from diverse parts of the country, the seed was sown through them far and wide, and our prayer is that it may in due time spring up and bring forth fruit abundantly to the praise and glory of God.

" The sale of Scriptures to the reading public of India, I consider to be the most promising of all our missionary operations, and I am very glad that my young colleague, Mr. Jones, has proved an apt scholar in this as well as in the acquisition of the Hindi language. No doubt he will do much in this line in the large city of Benares to which he has gone, and where pilgrims from all parts of India come to do homage to the celebrated shrine of Mahadeo.

" But I must close my paper with a very brief notice of our which consists of weekly services at Monghyr and Jamalpore. At Monghyr we have a long-established English, as well as a native church, consisting at present of only about forty members. Some years ago Monghyr was the retreat of Government pensioners, many of whom were zealous members of our English Church here. But gradually they have died out, and, as we have little or no traffic at Monghyr, most of the young people have left for larger stations, while some other large families, who did reside here, have gone out to the country and live at their indigo factories.

" The consequence is our English congregation has fallen off greatly. At the same time, what with legacies left by those who are gone home above, and the aid still given by friends who remain, the English Church supports all our local mission operations most liberally, and a few aid us personally in our work for the Master.

"At Jamalpore our English work is purely evangelistic, and we have as yet had no means wherewith to form a church there. This station is the centre of extensive railway operations, and is inhabited chiefly by young Scotchmen, who are railway mechanics and engineers. We have had service here twice a week, but of late we have been able to attend only on Lord's-day evenings. Mr. Campbell, the locomotive superintendent, has kindly lent us the Railway Institute, where we have a fluctuating congregation and very attentive hearers, and though as yet we have not seen any direct and decided fruit, we believe that impressions have been made which will yet, with God's blessing, result in the conversion of souls.

"I must now close with a word or two on our

at Monghyr. This work has been carried on by my wife and Christian women of our Church here. But for a part of the past year, by the kindly aid of Mrs. C. B. Lewis of Calcutta, we have been able to secure the additional services of Mrs. Deverell who laboured here before, aided by a Bengali Christian woman. The houses chiefly opened as yet are those of Bengalees who are engaged in railway offices at Jamalpore, but who reside at Monghyr.

"The visitors have no easy task, and at times they are subjected to harsh rebuffs from the male members of the families. Yet the work is, on the whole, progressing, and now that we have a member of our Church living in the centre of the heathen bazaar, we have a new hold upon the juvenile and female population of the city.

"I am very glad that the Ladies'

Zenana Society in London have taken Monghyr under their fostering wing, and I hope our lady labourers here will be able to send home, ere long, some cheering news of the spread of Gospel truth in the secluded homes of heathen females at Monghyr."

II.—PATNA.

Missionary, D. P. BROADWAY.

Number of members, 13.

Patna is situate on the southern bank of the Ganges, about 320 miles N.W. of Calcutta. It is largely inhabited by Mussulmans, and the entire population is said to number 158,900. The district contains 1,559,638 inhabitants.

From Mr. Broadway's report:—

"We have made no change in the plan of operations, but considerable diligence has been exercised in securing the goodwill of the people as a requisite medium to stir up in them an interest in the truths of the Gospel.

"Preaching in the streets of the city and bazaars, and the sale and distribution of books, have as far as possible been steadily maintained.

"We have met with every encouragement from the people, from the way in which they have readily come together in large numbers on all occasions to hear us, and the quiet and solemn thoughtfulness evinced by them while addresses have been delivered.

"We cannot help reiterating that Hindoos form chiefly the largest and most interesting part of our congregations, and their inquiries are frequently the precursors of most vivid illustrations of Gospel truths in opposition to the very errors of the systems prevailing among them. They seem to appreciate these illustrations, and state their opinion on the propriety and force of them, confessing at the same time the ultimate acceptance of the Gospel by the entire population as the certain consequence.

"Mohammedans too have come and heard us, though not so freely and with the same spirit as the Hindoos. They are a discontented, vitiated people, and under the influence of the creed they profess no act of benevolence can make an impression on their hearts, nor can they hold gratitude as a principle to be cultivated among them. They cannot endure out-spoken truth, and make it a point to burst into wild vociferations, though every possible care is taken not to embitter their feelings by any allusions to the doctrines of their faith.

"Our coadjutor Imam Masih seems to be an object of extraordinary concern to them. They cannot understand how one of his standing (a Moulvie) could have forsaken the grand faith of the great prophet, to become a follower of the Nazarene who was despised and rejected by His own people, and eventually crucified by them. They have invariably led him into discussions on the subject, which have as invariably ended in their own defeat. Often, on these occasions, the sad and vacant look of disappointment that has followed a defeat, and the question, 'What! is our faith vain! Shall we indeed be lost?' followed up with the answer of their antagonist, 'See to it,' have thrilled through the heart and stirred up pity for them. Several have sought Imam Masih's friendship, and we trust he may be instrumental in rescuing many from the hot-bed of the soul-destroying system which has fixed itself in this city.

Concern of the Mohammedans.

"The Mohammedan community are evidently becoming more and more concerned respecting the extending influence of the Gospel, and have steadily endeavoured to counteract it by engaging men to hold up the doctrines of the Koran publicly. But the love of Christ manifest in His work, His design to save and not to destroy sinners, and the fact of His having laid down His life for them, have rendered their efforts futile, and dislodged them from the preachers' pedestal so boldly assumed by them.

"They have now a new champion, who is by all accounts a disappointed inquirer of the S. P. G. Mission at Delhi. He is a Mohammedan of low birth and can scarcely read the common Urdu; but the instruction he had as an inquirer has not only given him some idea of Christian doctrines, but also sufficiently convinced him that the Koran contains no reasonable matter which he could treat upon to affect his hearers. He has therefore adopted a different course to that pursued by his predecessors. He often casts a New Testament on the ground, tramples it, and then holds it up to the view of people, abusing it and all who believe in it in most vulgar terms. Thus does this man not only desecrate the most Sacred Book of the people and the rulers under whose protection he lives, but also abuses them with impunity. Were a Christian to do anything far less desecrating to the Koran, he would be handed up to the authorities and made to endure a judicial sentence then and there.

"It is perhaps not known that Mohammedans are not allowed by their law to hold up the Koran anywhere they please lest it should be polluted, consequently these men carry about a New Testament, which they have no right to do as preachers of the Koran; and it may also be remarked, without entertaining any bias, or fear of injury in a religious point of view, inasmuch as their own people often tell them that they seem to possess no matter with which they can advantageously oppose Christianity, that it is decidedly injurious in a political point of view;

as the Koran does not sanction peace with others, nor can its preachers recommend it, therefore their addresses must necessarily in some way have hostility couched in them.

Interesting Case.

"One young Mohammedan, Abdool Gunnee, of more than ordinary talent, and quite a Munshi in Persian and Urdu, possessing also a fair knowledge of Arabic, was baptized and admitted into the Church by Moulvie Imam Masih in July last. He came to us and boldly stated that he was a believer in the Lord, and demanded baptism. We told him we could not comply with his request in such a serious matter without knowing something of him, therefore it was necessary that he should give us an opportunity of doing so by staying with us a short time. He strongly objected to our proposal, urging that as a believer he had according to the rule of the Gospel a right to the ordinance, and that he wished no delay in the matter because his design was to leave as soon as it was administered, in case it should be said he had taken the step to secure a provision for himself; but we argued him out of all this. His speech at the baptistery was the most eloquent and striking we have yet heard on such an occasion, either from Europeans or natives. After his baptism he prepared to go, stating that he could no longer be a burden to the mission, and that he had resolved to earn his living, and to work for the Lord wherever his lot should be cast; but we contrived to keep him back from month to month, in order to ground him properly in the doctrines of the faith, till we could do so no more. Parting with him was painful to us all; but we considered it expedient to let him carry out his own wishes. May the Lord be with him and sustain him, and help him in finding a suitable place!"

W. ETHERINGTON, D. JONES, pro tem.*

Number of members, 23.

The most sacred of all Indian cities. It stands on the northern bank of the Ganges, about 430 miles N.W. from Calcutta. During festivals the population is said sometimes to reach 600,000 persons; but its ordinary inhabitants number only 175,188. It contains 4,000 Hindoo temples, as well as many mosques.

Mr. Jones writes:—

"Since out in India, my work has been of such a nature as required but little communication with the brethren at the mission-house. In studying the language, it is necessary that one's whole time and talent be engaged. And when I came to India, of this one thing I was determined, that with God's help and blessing, I would learn Hindi. He granted me aid, and to-day I can speak fluently in the language. I spent two happy years at Monghyr, but being a small station, when I was asked to come to Benares, I gladly consented. There have been two European missionaries at Monghyr, but that is no reason why it should always be so. It is no more mission work in Monghyr itself, than it is in dear old England's favoured towns. The people in the bazaar are well up in the simple truths of the gospel; they know much about Christ. I think that one European missionary for a place of the size of Monghyr is enough. But it may be said that the district of which it is a kind of centre is large. True, but if so much power is given to the English churches, and if the connection between them and the missionaries is to be kept on, then pray don't expect the district to be explored. I feel that I am supported to preach the gospel to the heathens. At the same time I am far from being unwilling to preach to the Europeans of the station on Sundays. Here at Benares I look upon it as a great work. There are here about 500 soldiers, all inclined to chapel-going, though there are not thirty Christians among the whole company; so there I preach on Sunday evenings and on Thursday evenings. But this much is rather a recreation than a burden. Morning and evening the bazaar is to be my resort. I have not been a fortnight here yet, but I have been to the bazaar, and find the people eager to listen. It cheers me not a little to find that the people thoroughly understand me. There is this about Benares that cannot be said of all other places in India—being so holy a place (?) and as a consequence frequented by so many pilgrims, it is in itself a vast district; there is an opportunity of sending the gospel all over the land from this one place. And here I would mention that the sale of scriptures is a very excellent way of dispensing the truths of the gospel. I hope to try it here in Benares. I have been very successful in my attempts. I went to the Sonepore Mela, and there, alone, and being my first outing, I disposed of nearly 1,000 copies of scriptures and tracts. During the four months of last cold season, brother Evans and myself have disposed of 5,000 copies, and during the two years that we were together we sold 15,000 copies. I scarcely need tell you that brother Evans did the greater part of the work. 'This is seed sown; but what the result may be—shall we leave that with God? I would ask this question, because the question is one so often agitated at home as to more visible fruit. Results—converts, &c., is the great cry of lookers on. Depend upon it, none would hail such results, when real and true, more than we, who are longing and praying for the salvation of India. I do hope that our brethren on the Committee shall be kept from this snare. God tells us to be faithful. Will the cry of England continue to be, 'Be successful'? True success does not consist always in that which is seen. And I am sure that the truth does succeed in India. 'The heaven.' Shall we forget that lesson in our endeavour to seek converts? It was a hidden influence at first. Mind, I am not for being satisfied with what we have done in the field, but I would not be dissatisfied either. But press forward, with greater zeal and devotion, sword in hand. It is quite a different thing at home to talk about converts, &c., from what it is out in India. We all believe, at least we should believe it, that God works in a rational manner. It is for the most part, sowing time in India, and this may be said, that where the sowing has been going on longest, there are hundreds, beyond doubt, who if they had but a little more personality about them, would show forth their secret belief in Christ. But the difficulties by which these people are surrounded—caste and costumes, mothers, wives, and daughters, and public opinion, are mighty obstacles in the way of these people to state personal belief in Christ. What we want is to be unceasing in our efforts, untiring in our zeal, to let the people know that we love them. It has such a power. When the Hindoo sees the Sahib with the heart of love, he has but little power to gainsay his preaching. I, myself, long for souls, pray for them, work for them, and shall get them. Of this I am confident. God will save, but He may choose not to let me know. Far away, in some obscure village, a poor Hindoo finds Christ. Does it matter much that we know it not? 'Lord, increase our faith.' Do not, dear brethren, be in too much anxiety about the outward appearance of things. Our Saviour admonishes not to judge from it. Our mission in India is prospering, the scoff, the ridicule, and the calumny of our enemies notwithstanding; and if we who have to contend hand to hand with the foe, and are content to struggle on, and to endure the trying climate of India, &c., feel encouraged, then may you also be at home. I say this not because anything has been told me personally, but I have observed much of late in connection with different meetings at home. And, one thing more, all are not converted that are called converts. Why, there have been cases, that scarcely were the Committee in receipt of a glowing report as to what a noble man, etc., had been converted, before he was a disgrace to the name of Christian. I know of some such. It is better, far better, that we have far less in number and name, and have such as we can trust in. Now, much labour has been put out on and in Benares—not much visible fruit. I lay stress on the word visible, because it is important. That we cannot see results is no proof that there are none. I verily believe that there will be very many souls in heaven who have heard the Gospel in Benares, and who never were known by a missionary on earth. I know not how long I am to remain at Benares, but I know this, that whether I shall see fruits or not, still there will be souls saved through my feeble effort. Pray for me. I shall have excellent practice out here in Hindi, and I hope, ere long, to see my way clear to enter some new field. My idea of a missionary is one out in the jungle, John the Baptist like in the wilderness, and I shall live there some day.

"I am happy to say that my dear wife takes the same view of things—that she has come out with so much missionary spirit. She has already commenced learning the language, and, by what I can see, will learn it even quicker than I did. As yet she has not had opportunity to visit Zenanas, but as soon as we are settled in our own house (we are not yet), she intends at once entering upon her work.

"Brother Etherington leaves for England from Benares to-morrow. I hope he will be very kindly welcomed at home. He has laboured long in India, and needs to be cheered and comforted, and to rest when he gets home.

"I must close this letter, by saying how very happy I am in India, and in my work. My conviction is ever getting stronger, that I am in the place where God would have me be; and it would require a very great deal indeed to get me away from mission work. In fact, nothing but the conviction that God had ordered it would suffice."

V.—AGRA.

Missionary, J. G. GREGSON.

Number of members, 40.

The capital of the district, with a population of 149,008 persons; it is situated on the River Jumna, about 800 miles N.W. from Calcutta.

From the report of the Mission we extract the following particulars:—

"In recording the labours of another year, we have great cause to rejoice in the goodness of God in sustaining health and enabling us to continue at the post of duty without interruption, when so many are obliged to seek relief in the hills during the hot season, and others compelled to take a voyage home. We feel specially thankful for the strength which has been granted, in the good providence of God, that has enabled us to remain, without interruption, at our work in the plains. Our work has been to preach to the heathen, the native Christian community, and European congregations in Agra, and we trust that that which has been done in weakness will be made manifest by the power of God, through whom alone His kingdom can be established in this heathen land.

"Preaching to the Heathen."

"In preaching the Gospel to the heathen in the bazaar, we are sometimes disposed to ask, 'Who will believe?' as we see but small results in the way of direct conversion, but this may be said of every department of mission work, and we should not feel discouraged because we seldom hear of heathens forsaking their idols, or Mohammedans accepting Christ. Of this we are sure, that the Word of God must prevail, and finally triumph over everything that is false and idolatrous, no matter how slow the apparent progress of Christianity may appear to be. He who has revealed the truth will also make it manifest to all the nations of the earth—in His own appointed way, and in His own time. May we be more and more faithful in obeying the command, preaching the Gospel to every creature, whether Hindoo, Mohammedan, or European. All need the same message, and all require the same Saviour, through whom alone they can be saved. For there is no name given under Heaven whereby men can be saved, but the name Christ Jesus.

“During the past year a very pleasing instance of the importance of bazaar preaching came to my notice, through Hunee Ram, one of our native Evangelists. A respectable Hindoo living in the native state of Dholepore, was visiting Muttra on pilgrimage, and while there heard Mr. Williams preaching in the bazaar, and took from him a copy of the Gospel, which he diligently read, and by which he was led to abandon idolatry and believe only the true God and Jesus Christ His Son. This devotedness to Christ soon brought upon him the hatred of his neighbours and his own household, as well as the anger of the priests. He was beaten by his own sons because he refused to worship the heathen gods, and hated as an unclean outcast by his own family because he had become a Christian, although he had neither been baptized nor partaken of the communion, his Christian name did not rest upon Christian ordinances, but upon the name of Christ; neither had he associated with Christians, thereby polluting himself in the estimation of his heathen relatives. He was unclean, to them, simply because he had acknowledged Christ to be his Saviour and refused to worship idols. He has been visited several times by our native Evangelist, and appears to be firm and faithful in maintaining his Christian name. He has changed his name from Annund Lal to Annund Museeh, and writes to me to say that he will never forsake

Christ. May we not cherish the hope that this is not a solitary instance of a hearer of the Gospel going to his village and living out the truth in Christ, without being attached to any particular denominational church, who would insist on the candidate conforming to some ordinance, and be made to repeat some creed? Whatever may be the result of this man upon his countrymen, we feel sure that his sincerity and suffering will prove sufficiently that he has not been converted for the sake of gain, or swelling the ranks of any particular sect. There may be many true-hearted members of the Church of Christ, who have never been received into the nominal roll of the professed Christian community of earth. We shall watch with great interest the progress of this man's life, and pray that it may be the dawn of Divine Light in a heathen state.

“At Bisarna our native Evangelist, Hurree Ram, is very anxious to have a building in which he can meet the people for Christian worship. Although none have declared themselves to be the followers of Christ, many of the villagers meet in Hurree Ram's house for the reading of God's word, and prayer, and praise. During the present year we hope to erect a suitable building for religious meetings in the village. Chitoura is occupied by another Evangelist, Manohur Lal, but we regret that there is no manifest interest in his labours among the people.

“The large melas have been visited as usual, and we found crowds of people willing to hear the preaching; in fact, we never remember so much attention being paid to our preaching as at Butteswbur. The people listened respectfully and attentively, and we hope profitably. These melas afford grand opportunities for preaching the Gospel; hundreds and thousands gather together from all parts of the district and take away tracts and Testaments to the different villages and towns from which they have come; and further, it is a protest against the gross idolatry of the people and national heathenism of the land.

"Havelock Chapel Services.

"During the past year we have been called upon to part with many friends in Her Majesty's 59th, who in the regular course of relief have gone to Dugshai. When the regiment marched into Agra, nearly three years ago, very few had any regard for God's Word or service, but before they left we rejoiced to meet a good many every week at the Bible class and prayer meeting. The regiment that has relieved them is the 4th battalion, 60th Rifles, and it presents many encouraging signs of interest in religious and temperance meetings. At a farewell meeting, the Temperance Society presented a handsome testimonial to Mr. Gregson, in the shape of a marble clock, as a token of their esteem. The congregations have been very encouraging, and the most encouraging feature of our work is to be found in those who have been led to acknowledge Christ as their Redeemer, living monuments of God's grace and mercy.

"We accepted an invitation to hold a series of Evangelistic services at Mussoorie the last week in September, when the meetings were very well attended, and we hope good was done. One peculiarly interesting feature of the services was that they were open to all classes. At one gathering we had Europeans, Bengalees, and a Hindoo fakeer. I had private interviews with members of the Brahma Somaj, and the fakeer, who greatly interested me. He could speak English fluently, and had been educated in Dr. Duff's institution in Calcutta, and held a lucrative appointment in a Government office at Simla, which he had resigned to become a wandering fakeer, seeking, vainly seeking salvation, by wandering from mela to mela and shrine to shrine. We had a long and deeply interesting conversation upon Christ's salvation, wrought out for us by Him, making it the free gift of God. May the words of Jesus be verified in his case! Seek and ye shall find. Seeking, not among idols of mud and stone, but seeking salvation from God alone; and those who seek, find.

"Sunday School.

"The superintendent and teachers have laboured diligently to give the children religious instruction, and we congratulate them on the encouraging attendance of children, who have regularly attended during the year. The annual treat was given in the chapel, when the prizes were given away after the children had enjoyed a good substantial tea, and were amused by a series of dissolving views, which largely tended to the enjoyment of the evening. The lessons taught in the school are the same as the Sunday-school Union in London, and we hope the thorough Biblical character of the instruction will be lasting. May it be good seed sown in childhood bearing a rich harvest in manhood and old age.

"We conclude our annual record of work done for Christ in Agra with the sad consciousness that our best endeavours have been imperfect attempts to serve our God in this heathen land. We recognise all Christian work in India as direct missionary work towards the accomplishment of that object for which all labour—the overthrow of idolatry, and the establishment of Divine truth in its place. Some are called to labour in schools, some in orphanages, some in translating, some in superintending printing presses, and some, like ourselves, in preaching the Gospel to all classes, without distinction of class, or language, or nationality. We are anxious to see all efforts fully acknowledged by those who are interested in the extension of the Church of Christ in India, whether it be by teaching the youth of India secular as well as religious knowledge; whether it be by giving to the people a pure literature; whether it be by removing the curse of drink from Europeans and natives, or whether it be by preaching the Gospel to all people, whatever caste or language. It is one vast army fighting against the kingdom of Satan, which has for ages held the people of India in bondage and sin, that this vast empire may be reclaimed for Christ, and His name proclaimed throughout its length and breadth as the name which is above every name,—that at the name of Jesus every knee may bow—

“Tell how His Kingdom shall through ages stand,
And never cease;
Spreading like sunshine over every land,
All nations bowing to His high command,
Great Prince of Peace!”

GUYTON, and W. CAREY, M.D.*

This ancient capital of the Great Mogul lies 900 miles distant N.W. from Calcutta. The number of inhabitants is usually estimated at 150,000, equally divided between Hindoos and Mohammedans.

The Rev. R. F. Guyton has favoured us with the following report of the operations in progress in Delhi and the surrounding district:—

“In reviewing the work of the past year, I feel most devoutly thankful to God for the prosperity which has been granted to this station. My experience of India, and of our native brethren, is not large, but so much as I do know of it and them is abundant cause of happiness. Throughout the year, the harmony and mutual confidence in which Mr. Smith left us has been undisturbed. I cannot consider that the year has been an eventful one, but it has been, in the truest sense, prosperous. It will be seen by our tabular statement, that although we have been visited by no unusual success, we are able to record a steady increase in the number of members.

“The Sabbath services have been well attended throughout. Mr. Dannenberg has kindly assisted me in these, and his preaching in the vernacular has been listened to with marked appreciation. Besides these services in our chapel in Chandin Chowk, Sabbath services have been regularly held at the following places:—Purana Quila, Pahar Gunge, Kala Masjid, Shahdera, Subzi Mundi, Mahrowlie and Darya Gunge. I have held week-night services regularly also in each of the above places, except Mahrowlie.

“A very pleasant feature in this year's work has been the formation and carrying on of a theological class for native teachers. This was begun at the suggestion of Mr. Smith, and, although it was commenced with many misgivings, at the close of the year it was with surprise and pleasure that I received the result of their examination. Twenty were examined, while about twenty-four usually attended. I hope this may develop into a good class, and believe that it will produce much fruit through the labours of these men in their various districts. The class was held three times a week; once by Mr. Dannenberg, and twice by myself.

"The schools in Delhi and the surrounding districts have been carefully maintained, and, in the number of scholars and general efficiency, have been improved. The standard of instruction has been also raised, and, in many of the branch schools and in the central school, the Government scheme of studies has been introduced at the suggestion of the Government Inspector of Schools. This will involve a somewhat larger expenditure for books, maps, &c., as only a very few of the boys are in a position to purchase books for themselves. In all of these schools religious instruction predominates, while in some, especially in the village schools, the New Testament is the only reading-book in use.

"Our whole object is to convey to our pupils a knowledge of the truths of the Gospel, while to prepare their minds for the more intelligent reception of these truths, we find it desirable to enlarge the area of their general knowledge. More than 600 boys have been thus daily taught in the Scriptures. Besides the ordinary work of the school, our teachers have been employed in the evening in house-to-house visitation and in holding open-air services. I believe much good is being thus effected, and the general population is being leavened with the Gospel.

"During the year itineracy has not been neglected. Our outside stations have been frequently visited, and I have made short tours to more remote villages. I have always been cheered and encouraged by these visits. The people listen to the Gospel with surprising interest, and show little disposition to anger or controversy. Sometimes two or three hundred have remained with us for several hours, making free inquiries, and evincing great readiness to accept the Gospel. I remember with especial pleasure a visit paid to Chamrawal, when I was accompanied by Mr. J. P. Phillips, son of a missionary of our Society. On this tour fifteen villages were visited, and with most encouraging results. Mr. Phillips has also accompanied me on several occasions to Shahdera, Subzi Mundi, Parana Quila, Futtahpore and Mahrowlie. Chunni Lal has also visited Badshahpore, Bhainpur, Sonah, and other villages with me, besides several independent journeys. Munshi Abdul Wahab has also kindly been with me to Togluckabad and other places. Seetul Das, Lal Das, and Cheetum Das have travelled over a large extent of country, preaching the Gospel in every town and village.

"The Sabbath and week-day services in English have been carried on by Dr. Carey and myself, as usual, and Mr. Phillips has also carried on a prayer-meeting for soldiers.

"Of Dr. Carey's work you will, doubtless, receive a report from himself, and the Zenana Mission Report and the Female Medical Mission Report have been already forwarded to Mr. Angus.

"The Native Panshayat have continued to maintain Chunni Lal as their evangelist at a monthly cost of fifteen rupees.

Missionaries, J. D. BATE and J. H. ANDERSON.

This important city, situated at the junction of the Ganges and Jumna rivers, is now the seat of Government for the North-Western Provinces of Hindustan. It contains 143,693 inhabitants. It is about 600 miles from Calcutta, with which it has communications both by rail and river.

Mr. Anderson reports as follows :—

“During last cold season I went with my native helper to villages in a north-westerly direction from Allahabad, lying on either side of the Grand Trunk road. Some eight days were occupied in the tour.

“About the beginning of 1876, I resolved upon adopting a plan of village-preaching, which was recommended at the Conference in Calcutta in 1875. I went to a place sixty-two miles from Allahabad on the Jubbulpore Railway, pitched my tent there and kept it there till the beginning of March.

“During the two months which intervened I visited some thirty places, several of them over and over again. My native helpers went to a few besides, which were less accessible than those I went to. In this way we preached in nearly every village and hamlet within a space of 100 square miles. The villages were for the most part small. The population in the north-eastern part of the Bandah district in which these villages lie is sparse. The reason for selecting this particular locality was that I hoped to find among the hills through which the Jubbulpore railway passes, an aboriginal race, and I was not disappointed. I found that the Kols have spread over the Rewah district and form a large element of the population on its western frontier, close to which Manickpore and the villages we visited lie. They are a simple people, destitute of any knowledge of reading and writing, and are in a position of serfdom to the Brahmins, who abound in those parts. They are all engaged in cutting wood and tilling the land. They have lost the knowledge of the language of their ancestors and speak Hindi. A good many of them listened attentively to the Gospel message and seemed well disposed towards us.

“I put up a small house at Manickpore, and the native evangelist has been three or four times to look after those of the people living around in regard to whose conversion we were hopeful.

“Our native Christians in Allahabad are very few—some sixteen in number. Of these a family of seven live close to the American Mission station in the Kuttra, and though the parents commune with us, they are all accustomed to worship at the Presbyterian chapel there. The native evangelist is industrious in preaching and teaching. With his aid and the aid of my daughters I have established two native Sunday-schools at which about seventy children have attended. In our native day-school there have been some thirty children. A pressure of work in other directions has prevented my engaging in bazaar-preaching.

“English Work.”

“A great deal of evangelistic work has been done among the Europeans and Eurasians. Tract distribution was carried on throughout the year, with the exception of the last two months. In the earlier part of the year united evangelistic services were held, in which Mr. Carr took a prominent part, and people were preached to in their houses. Several were converted, of whom a few connected themselves with us and a few with the Methodists. Some, who have not made an open profession of faith by baptism, have been, we hope permanently benefited.

"In April last a brother, a member of our Church, resolved to give up his situation as fireman on the railway (he had formerly been a station master), and devote himself to preaching the Gospel. He was converted and baptized at the beginning of last year. He possesses natural and spiritual qualifications, which led the Church to approve of the step he took. He has been usefully employed in holding meetings in different localities, in visiting residents of the station standing specially in need of the visits of a Christian visitor, and he has commenced visiting Chunar and Mogul Serai on the East Indian Railway.

"There seems to be great need of an evangelist at some of the railway stations, and a strong desire, too, on the part of the residents to have some one like Mr. Fitzgerald to preach to them. He proposes, however, as soon as his knowledge of the language will admit of his doing so, to devote himself to native work. The Lord has blessed my efforts to raise money for his support, and we are able to pay him £8 per mensem.

"The Zenana work, which Mrs. Anderson superintends, provides instruction for some twenty persons. It is carried on by a lady who devotes part of her time only to this work. She has had an efficient native assistant; but, owing to the field being so much more discouraging than that which Calcutta presents to the Zenana worker, this assistant has left us and returned to the metropolis.

"The Church has been in a peaceful condition. The usual changes have taken place; several have joined and several have left to go to other stations.

"There are sixty-six resident members and a few communicants besides. Seven of the members are natives. Some of our members, who work for the railway company, were kept so much employed on the Lord's day during the earlier part of the year, that they could not come to worship with us for more than one Sunday out of the four, and, when there is no excess of work, they are often occupied all the Sabbath on the line. So I drew up a petition for the ministers of religion of the towns on the railway from Delhi to Howrah to sign, begging the railway company to discontinue the running of goods trains. In almost all cases it was readily signed. Episcopal and Roman Catholic chaplains, and missionaries of all denominations, numbering in all between thirty and forty, attached their signatures.

"A petition was drawn up for the men to sign, and they were generally very ready to do so—327 attached their names to it—and the two petitions were forwarded by the agent to the directors. Mr. Marshman has been written to and asked to befriend the railway employés.

"The temperance movement has engaged the attention of some of our members, and Good Templarism has become popular in Allahabad, our members, for the most part, taking the lead in the work of the total abstinence associations.

"A New Station.

"By the help of Mr. Fitzgerald we are able to supply Chunar weekly. Chunar is on the Ganges, and is noted for a fort held by a detachment of European soldiers. Some thirty years ago it was a station of our Society, and Mr. Heinig stayed there. A member of the Allahabad Church went to reside there some two years ago. He has been trying to do good. Through his instrumentality a commissariat sergeant was converted. Two other soldiers were led to embrace our views of baptism. I baptized one of them in November last, and early this year (1877) I baptized the two others in the river. The state of feeling characterising the little flock is most pleasing. There are three others desirous of following Christ, and I hope we shall be permitted ere long to organise them into a Church."

"I.—Preaching to the Heathen.

"Street - preaching.—Our street-preaching, or Bazar-preaching has been conducted in the following places :— (1.) Near the Medical Hall. (2.) Near Christ's Church. (3.) Boileaugunge. (4.) Lawrencegunge, and (5) occasionally at Chota Simla and Sunjolee. The number of our hearers varied from 20 to 200. We had the largest number on those occasions when the evangelists Mr. Nelson and Mr. Ewing joined us and sang hymns with music. In our preaching we always tried to convince the people of their miserable condition as sinners, and of the love of God in giving His only begotten Son to die for sinners, and that Jesus Christ is the only Mediator between God and man. We earnestly invited our hearers to accept the free salvation by Jesus Christ. We are thankful to say that last year, as in previous years, we have often been favoured with an attentive audience, and at times we felt that some of our hearers were not far from the kingdom of God.

"Village preaching.—We are thankful to say that in this most difficult but delightful work of speaking about the truth as it is in Jesus to the hill people in their villages from house to house, we have not laboured in vain. The Lord gave us some encouragement last year. The nearest villages Dhar and Bhogoge, have often been visited. Many have indeed disappointed us ; for at times they appeared to have been convinced of the truth of what we told them regarding their eternal welfare, but on a subsequent visit we found them again standing on the same ground of unbelief and superstition. Notwithstanding this general discouragement we rejoice to believe that during the last year the heads of two families have made some evident progress in their religious knowledge.

Their superstitious belief in fatalism, which is so common among the hill people, has been removed. They have believed that they are responsible beings; and that they will have to give an account of their deeds before the righteous Judge of the world, also that their gods and goddesses cannot save them from their sins ; but we cannot say that they have yet been able to grasp the gospel plan of salvation, which we tried to explain to them. We ask, therefore, the prayers of the Lord's people on their behalf.

"Preaching in the Melas.—At Mahasoo the Sippi Devi's Mela was held as usual in May last ; it lasted for three days, and we had the joy of preaching to a very large number of people assembled there. Our tract and book-shop was put up in a suitable place in the midst of the fair by our colporteurs, who remained there till the end ; they were able to sell only a very small number of tracts. On the principal day of the mela, while preaching to the people, we found two very attentive listeners, who remained with us for a long time after our preaching was over, and made many inquiries regarding the way in which a man may become a true disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ ; and at parting they promised to see us at Simla.

"The Taroka Devi's Mela was held on the 25th September, and as usual lasted only one day. Our colporteurs were present there and sold only forty tracts for eight annas. We regret much to say that from an unforeseen circumstance we were deprived of the pleasure of attending this mela.

Itinerant preaching.—We had one such preaching tour for three days only, and we went as far as Arkie, a populous place about sixteen miles north-west of Simla. This trip was very pleasant and profitable. Our colporteur was with us, and we visited many houses and shops at Arkie with the Gospel message, and the people received us with courtesy. In 1872 we visited this place for the second time, and we then sold and distributed several of our tracts and books. In this our third visit we rejoiced to find that the tracts which we left that year were not in vain. Two persons had read the tracts they received, and told us a little of their contents. One of these was the chief priest and pundit of Arkie.

He is well versed in Sanskrit and is a man of humble disposition. He had read a portion of the book called Matpariksha and of one of the gospels. On our inquiry as to the opinion he held of the Christian religion, he answered that he entertained a very good opinion of Jesus Christ and of his teaching, and said that it was right to worship one God and to keep his commandments. In his estimation there was no difference between the doctrines of the Vedas and those contained in the Christian books. We tried to explain to him the chief doctrine by which Christianity excels all religious doctrines of the world, viz., the utter inability of man to save himself by his own merit, and the love of God in giving his only begotten Son to save sinners by His precious blood and intercession. He expressed surprise as he heard this attentively, but he appeared to think that it was too good news for him to believe. This we gathered from his subsequent conversation with us. At the time of our leaving Arkie, the pundit again came to us on the way with a large number of attendants, and desired to have our address, which we gave him, with an expression of our parting desire that they would find their way clear to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ for the salvation of their souls.

"At Arkie we sold about seventy-five tracts for Rs. 1-2. We had a desire to see the Rajah, but as he was busy that morning, we sent him a copy of the New Testament in Hindi and one tract (Mukti Mala). The Rajah accepted our books and sent us a message of thanks, and he informed us of his desire that we should remain one day more at his village, in order that he might have an interview with us, but we were sorry that we could not comply with his request.

"Preaching to the Beggars.—Some money had been placed at our disposal by a kind lady, for the purpose of distributing a few pice each, on every Lord's-day, to as many beggars as came to us to hear the gospel. A service was accordingly held for the beggars every Sabbath, below the Union Church, in which the lame, the blind, the leper, the old and infirm were assembled and heard the precious words of salvation. 'To the poor the gospel is preached.'

The number of hearers at this service varied from fifteen to twenty-five. Some of them were attentive hearers and have learnt a few words on the principles of our holy faith. One of the beggars has learnt a portion of two of our hymns (Bhujans), and as he goes begging from house to house, he sings those Bhujans.

"The Gospel has also been preached every Lord's-day to the Jhampan-bearers below the Union Church, while their masters worshipped God in the sanctuary.

"We have often had interesting conversation with some of the attendants of the Rajahs that came up to Simla, especially with those of the Rajahs of Nabha and Jhind, and some of them have bought our tracts.

"Thus we have tried to spread the glad news of salvation to various classes of people in Simla, in various ways; and now we ask the prayers of the Lord's people for a great blessing from God on the work done.

"II.—Our Church and Congregation.

"Three services have been held every Lord's-day, one in Hindustani, and two in Bengali. Our Bengali services have been held in the morning at 8 a.m. in the chapel, and in the afternoon at 3 p.m. at 'Boxmoor,' and the Hindustani service at 11 a.m. in the chapel. The attendance at the Bengali service varied from twelve to thirty. At the Hindustani service from forty to sixty, including about thirty of our boys and girls.

"There have been three week-day prayer-meetings among the members of our Church, two meetings among the brethren living near the Simla bazaar on Wednesday and Saturday evenings, and one meeting at Boileaugunj every Wednesday evening.

"There has been a Bible-class every Friday evening for our school teachers, and we are glad to say that some of them attended the class regularly, and have made some progress in their Bible knowledge.

"We have not had any accession to our church this year, but there were five inquirers, three of whom were regularly under instruction, and expressed a desire to be admitted into our church by the rite of baptism.* We hope the Lord will draw them by His Spirit, and bring them to His fold in His own good time."

PENINSULAR INDIA.

I.—POONAH.

Missionary, HORMAZDJI PESTONJI.

Poonah is situated in the Western Presidency of Bombay, in Western India. It has ever been, of old, the capital of the vast Maharashtra country, and is renowned for being the seat of the ancient Government of Peshwa. It still sways somewhat Governmental authority, and continues to command considerable power and influence all around. It has been recognized by our British Government also as its seat of council, and is to the Governor of Bombay what Simla is to the Governor-General of India.

"1. Let me first of all tell you of my work in the city and camp of Poonah, whenever not out on preaching tours in the country.

"Here, then, I have been taking, during the year just closed, a daily Marathi service in our Baptist chapel, which has been attended by some girls of an orphanage in the neighbourhood, who favour us with singing our Marathi hymns, and by native servants and friends of our own and of our Christian neighbours, and by inquirers and disputers I meet with in the course of street-preaching.

"Also a weekly Bible-class, in Marathi, in the chapel, every Wednesday morning, especially for the benefit of the above said girls, from fifteen to twenty-one in number, and a few outsiders.

"Likewise, a weekly Bible reading, in Marathi and English alternately, held in my house on Tuesday evenings, for the benefit of those especially who attend my Sunday ministrations in both these languages. This has been characterized as 'Mrs. Hormazdji's Bible reading,' partly because the Lord employed her instrumentality in originating it, amidst many and strong difficulties, and partly because she not only played the Marthas in serving at the preliminary tea-supper, but also took an active and influential part with me in the conducting of the subsequent meeting, as my helpmeet indeed, in which twofold capacity she is already missed by us all, now that she is in England this year.

"I have also preached every Sunday in Marathi, and every alternate Sunday in English, in our own Baptist chapel here at Poonah, whenever at home, which was mostly in the very hot and rainy seasons, and at reasonable intervals during the other seasons of last year.

"I have in like manner maintained, though not very regularly for obvious reasons, vernacular preaching in the streets of the city and suburbs of Poonah twice a week.

"The services have all along been greatly required by the very state of things here, and even requested by the friends of missions in general; and hence I have, in cheerful compliance, conducted them to the best of my powers. Though not much encouraged by cases of actual conversions as the results of each and all of them, the gospel of the grace of God has been pointedly put forth in connection with every one of them, in the assured confidence that it shall not return unto the Master void, but shall prosper in the thing whereto He has sent it.

"2. Let me next tell you of the Preaching Tours I have taken in the different parts of the country, and therefore in their various languages which I have the privilege to make good use.

"These preaching tours abroad have been more encouraging than

* Two of these are Hindu Bengali women. They have come down to Calcutta, and were baptized in the Free Church at Cornwallis Square on Wednesday, the 21st February, 1877.

the above said stated services at home, both as regards immediate fruitfulness, and prospective harvest of souls still richer and ampler in view. In fact, it has been more or less while taking these tours, that any souls have been brought to Jesus, both last year and the year before. Some tours, during last year, had been devoted to preaching in Marathi, some in both Marathi and Hindustani; some others, again, in all the four languages at my command—Gujarati, Marathi, Hindustani, and even English; while one, almost exclusively in Gujarati (my mother-tongue), during parts of October and November last, when I went the way to Gujarat, as far as Daman.

“Aiming at brevity, I cannot help here advertng only to the last of these, as deserving special notice. Some of the villages there that I remained at and preached in—such, for instance, as Gorabunder, and Bassein, and Chainbordi, and Daman itself—were to me of intense interest, associated as they were in my mind, with the incidents and history of my boyhood there. It was at Chainbordi I was once lost, while in search after some berries, when it cost my poor dear mother her life almost, to find me, by not only sending her servants in quest of me in different directions, but in venturing out personally seeking me in the jaws of death. And in preaching in my mother-tongue to the people of my own nation gathered on that very spot, it was given me vividly to represent how our dear Redeemer, with more than a mother's love tender and deep, not only sent His prophets and apostles, but personally came to seek and to save the lost. Again, it was at Daman I for the first time received a copy of the gospel of Matthew and a tract from the late Dr. Wilson, on a missionary tour there. And oft as I now preached there, I read out, and made over to my hearers, the New Testament itself, as translated and printed in Gujarati by myself and my fellow-labourer Mr. Dhanjibhai from the original Greek, at the Bible Society's request and expense. But I must not enlarge.

“Suffice it to say, that, considering the vast ignorance of the millions of this Western Presidency of India, I have found it more necessary and desirable than any other engagements to put forth these efforts of enlightening and evangelizing as many of them as I can, by means of such preaching tours, and of revisiting the same districts, and remaining therein for days and weeks at a time, so as to repeat the message of salvation, and to impress the minds and interest the hearts of the people therewith. The results of such efforts come to our knowledge only casually and sparingly, as if to humble us; but the last day alone will reveal the fulness of those manifold hidden but not uncertain results. I have used the word ‘casually,’ and here is an apt illustration of it. On Monday the 4th of December last, at a monthly Missionary Meeting in Marathi (which I am in the habit of holding in our chapel on the first Monday of every month), I happened to give an account of the Gujarati preaching-tour I had just then returned from, and to say at the close of my address, that while much good had resulted from the said tour, I could not report any actual conversion on this occasion as I could on a previous one. The convert Rama, whom I had baptized in September last, and who had accompanied me on this tour as a servant and a colporteur, began now to reveal, after having heard my report, that there had been a case of conversion he secretly came to know of at Bandora just on our leaving it for Poonah, in consequence of my vernacular preaching there, and, he might have added, of his own occasional speaking too. And it would have infinitely more gratified the friends of our Mission than this my poor report can, if they could have only seen and heard him then pray most thankfully and earnestly for that secret Nicodemus!

"3. All this now leads me, thirdly, to plead for Dixal as our sub-station. Dixal has been the terminus of my tours in the Sholapore direction mostly for the present. Thither I had been divinely directed, nearly two years ago, when one of its inhabitants expressly came to invite me, as with the Macedonian entreaty of old, 'Come over to Dixal and help us.' Accordingly I went, 'assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us to preach the gospel unto them.' The results which followed and are still following have quite justified my having done so. Being uncommonly encouraged by the manifest reception and subsequent embracement of the Gospel I preached there among the natives, I frequented my visits to them; and though only half-a-dozen of them have been the fruits I have hitherto gathered (three of them I baptized last year and three the year before last), the field promises a much richer harvest of souls in time to come.

"These six converts themselves have set to work for the Master, on their own individual responsibility, and not without good results. For instance, two of them (a married couple) had in their unconverted state adopted a lad that had been unmanageable; but since my frequent visits there, and especially since their conversion and baptism, he too appeared to be quite changed, and, as he said, converted; so that he had applied to me for baptism also. Meanwhile, the Lord saw it fit to take him to Himself very suddenly; for he was one of the three natives that died of cholera within a week at Dixal. However, while the other two were cut off at once in the beginning of the week, he lingered till near the close of it, as if to leave his dying testimony ere he went up higher. When Christians and heathens came to see him, and as he saw the adopting parents and friends weeping, he said to them:—'Mother, father, why weep? I am not now going to be throttled by that cruel but imaginary Khundoba whom you and I need to fear before: I am going to Jesus, who died and lives for me and you. You will come there also to Him; for, don't you remember all that the Missionary told us of Him?' Texts like 'Him that cometh to Me, I will in no wise cast out;' 'The Son of man came to seek and to save the lost,' were often quoted at his deathbed, with great realization of them by faith. And as for his dying without being immersed, he well knew that the thief on the cross had not been baptized and yet was assured by the Saviour, 'Verily I say unto thee, to-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise.' Such is a brief account of the little flock at Dixal, to which I go once in six weeks or two months, both to administer to this flock the Lord's Supper, and to preach to them and others in the different vernacular languages, as well as in English, as the case may be.

"Now for my plea for Dixal! As it has thus providentially become what may be termed sub-station of our Mission, will it be too much for me to ask of our friends in England to supply me with a catechist who can also do a coolporteur's work permanently in that fertile field? I can get a proper man for the post, if you sanction his salary, which won't be much above (perhaps not more than) £15 a year. The little flock there (which has not been without doing something meantime for this object) is really too poor to support one, especially as the distress of this present famine is telling on them very sadly. I mean to go again to that famine-stricken district in a week or so, all being well.

"4. Now I have done, except to give you my statistical statement. We have no school. No regular catechist. Six members resident at Dixal. Next to none here at Poonah, except the above-said Rama, who was baptized last September, and our Ramji, immersed by the late Mr. Adam White. Four natives baptized last year, i.e., only one more than the year before, when I had three. No case of discipline, thank God. None withdrawn. English hearers on Sundays, about from 30 to 100. Native hearers on Sundays, about from 50 to 80. About 10 to 40 at the daily Marathi Service in the chapel; 20, 30, and 35, at the Marathi Bible-class, and the English and Marathi Bible-readings, respectively, every week. Dozens, and scores, and sometimes hundreds of hearers in the suburbs and streets of Poonab. Hundreds and thousands on preaching tours out in the country."

II.—MADRAS.

Missionary, S. J. CHOWRYAPPAH.

Number of members, 12.

Mr. Chowryappah reports as follows:—

"I have truly much reason to thank God for His wonderful works to the children of men, more so to me personally; the Lord has wonderfully blessed the work of my hands in this part of His vineyard in the conversion of many of my fellow creatures; this is good news indeed, when I remember that many of God's servants have laboured faithfully for many years without being able to see a single instance of conversion amongst those for whom they have laboured. May all the praise and glory be unto Him who is worthy of all praise, honour and glory! O that God may direct me to more simple trust and reliance on Jesus the Lamb of God who taketh away the sins of the whole world!

"Meetings and services in the church, Sundays and on week days, all regularly conducted, where members of other churches also attend. I also hold a Bible-class in my house every Thursday evening. During the past year, the Lord has privileged me to baptize twenty-three, who professed to have repentance towards

God and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ; three more, who were baptized in other stations, joined us as members. One of the twenty-three that I baptized died a month after he was baptized; he died after giving proof that he was the child of God by faith in the blood of Jesus Christ. I am, therefore, glad to be able to say that our baby church numbers thirty-seven now.

"Preachings in the streets two and three times every day, with the exception of Sundays, are still kept up, where many thousands of heathen of all casts are brought within the sound of the Gospel. May He who has said 'My word shall not return void,' bless the words spoken to their souls!

"I have had a very delightful conversation with a wealthy native. He is the proprietor of a large printing establishment in Madras; he freely acknowledged that Hindooism is rotten at the roots and that Christianity was the only true religion, but that there were some obstacles in his way which prevented him becoming a Christian; and another native, who is also a wealthy man, had a long talk with me about Christ, and in order to know more about Him he purchased a Bible from me for twelve annas. He, I believe, is now searching for himself whether it is so or not. There are several others who are, like Nicodemus, anxious to know. Amongst these is a native gentleman who is a manager of the Madras gun-carriage manufactory; I think his family are in his way, but I trust the Lord will make all rough paths smooth for him. I have had a very nice conversation with him, and on leaving him I gave him a few English tracts, which he promised to read carefully. I pray the Lord will bless him and his family and cause them all to decide for Christ.

"I have, as usual, left Madras to visit several of the villages surrounding, and have been absent some fifteen or sixteen days each time.

I have sold tracts and copies of the gospel very largely, and to those who were not able to purchase I have freely given them. Many thousands have heard the truth most gladly, and I trust the Lord will bless the truths to their everlasting good.

"I am about to form a sub-station, which I mentioned in my last letter to Mr. Baynes. May I not now be permitted to ask you to give me an helper? I have long since made this request, but see no answer forthcoming as yet. I have been ably helped, ever since I have come to Madras, and especially in the past year, by my brother Mr. Reenan.

"One word more and I have done. You, I dare say, have heard ere this, that famine in Southern India is growing to a frightful extent, and those who are connected with us in church membership are poor indeed, and the expense in the past year has been telling on me. I only ask you, in conclusion, to take this subject into your kind consideration.

"And, in conclusion, may I ask that all who love the Lord Jesus and His work amongst the heathen, pray that our little may grow to be a very large church, and that God may be glorified through the fulness of preaching."

III.—OOTACAMUND.

Missionary, GEORGE PEARCE.

We have no report from this station.

CEYLON.

I.—COLOMBO DISTRICT.

Missionaries, H. R. PIGOTT, F. D. WALDOCK.

Pastor of the Pettah Church, T. R. STEVENSON.

Number of members, 530.

From the report of Mr. Waldock the following particulars of the mission are taken:—

"Colombo.

"After considerable trouble and disappointment, a suitable site has at length been secured for the new mission house and native boarding school, towards the erection of which many friends generously contributed during my stay in England.

"The Pettah.

"The Rev. T. R. Stevenson, the pastor of this church, has kindly furnished the particulars given in the tabular return.

"Grand Pass.

"I have received from Mr. James Silva, the pastor of this independent native church, the report which I enclose. His very serious illness was one of the greatest trials of the past year; but God has graciously restored him beyond our expectations, and we earnestly pray that he may yet be long spared to us.

"Welgama and Hanwella.

"These stations are in a condition far from satisfactory. New arrangements are contemplated by which, with God's blessing, it may be improved.

"Byamville.

"Mr. John Melder, who, though a pensioner, was fully employing his remaining strength, was removed by death towards the close of the year. At my request, one of our brethren has forwarded me the following account of his life:—"It is difficult to find out the exact year of his birth, but when Mr. Chater came to Ceylon to establish the Baptist Mission in 1812, he was a lad of about fourteen or sixteen years, so that we can guess that his age must have been about eighty or little less. He attended the first Baptist Mission school at Grand Pass, Colombo, and received tuition under Mr. Chater and Mr. Siers. At this time he was living with one of his uncles, after whose death he was obliged to live with Mr. Siers. It was about this time that he became earnest about his soul. When Mr. Siers was sent to Hanwella, Mr. Melder also accompanied him, and lived with him and was there immersed by him in 1828, and at once began to work for his loving Redeemer. In the same year he was appointed as a school-visitor. In 1830 he was sent to Byanville, to work there as an evangelist. In 1832, the Church was formed, and he was ordained by the beloved apostolic Daniel as its pastor, and ever since until his death, he lived there and was the pastor of the Church, except the five years he laboured at Batagama. He lived a good life and his end was peace. He died October 15th, 1876, in Colombo.

"Arrangements are being made to connect this station with Gonawala, so that they may be worked by the same agent with some little assistance. There are reasons to expect for this long-established Church revived activity and influence.

"Kotikawatte.

"D. B. Lewis who had been compelled to leave Matale in the Kandy district on account of illness, was appointed to this station at the beginning of the year. He reports that he has visited all the villages in his district, and some repeatedly; and that he has found the people in general very poor, mostly Buddhists, and some very ignorant and uncivilised, although living only a few miles from Colombo. The Church itself is wanting in life and liberality, but then there are some signs of improvement. One person has been baptized, but two have been excluded.

"Makewita.

"J. M. Perera has removed to this place from Kotikawatte. He reports nothing special.

"Hendala and Batagama.

"D'Boteju reports the continuance of his work, and the commencement of a new girls' school by a former scholar in the boarding school, which he believes will be productive of much good.

"Gonawala.

"I extract from J. G. Ratnayake's report the following:—

"Although we cannot show an increase of membership, yet we are not without success. There are three candidates for baptism, and four real, earnest inquirers, who can be reckoned as candidates, although, owing to several good reasons, we were obliged to keep them back a little.

"One of our sisters has died, firmly trusting in the blessed Redeemer, and telling us how happy she was notwithstanding all the physical pain she had. She lived amongst us having Christ in her heart, and she left us to be with Christ for ever.

"Several of our brethren and sisters have been in very trying circumstances owing to severe domestic calamities, but we found in every case their sincerity and love to Jesus were proved. Among these was a brother whose neighbours and near relatives are nearly all Roman Catholic. He and his wife, who also is a member of the Church, and their child had a very severe attack of fever. Our sister grew daily worse and became delirious. Our poor brother could do nothing to assist his wife, as he was laid up in bed himself. On going to see them while they were in this sad state, I found our sister was very ill, and when I went near, the women who were there told me that this sickness had much to do with a devil, as could be seen from her features. Then our brother, hearing what was said, replied, "No, it is the Father's hand." After this, although their relatives tried hard to induce them to have some sort of devil ceremony performed, they refused to do so, and, until their recovery, I always found them peaceful and happy.

"One of the Sunday services is always conducted by one of our deacons. The Gospel is preached and tracts are distributed in the villages. We have a Sabbath-school with forty-five on the list, and eight day-schools, with more than 500 scholars, which I firmly believe will prove very useful for the extension of Christ's Kingdom. From the middle of the year, owing to the severe illness of the minister of the Grand Pass Church, I was obliged to take up Colombo work, so that my undivided attention could not be given to this station. Besides this, owing to the death of our good old brother, Mr. Melder, of Byamville, I and our good deacon had to take the services there alternately.'

"Weyangoda, &c.

"There is nothing special to mention about this station.

"Medampe and Chilan.

"H. M. Perera reports improvement in the day-school. He says that fifty of the scholars have attended the week-day service in the chapel; that the people are coming to see the value of education, and that, through the use of the lesson books at home by the children, many of the grown-up people come to hear the word of God contained in them. The Buddhists, though not prepared to accept the Christian religion, are willing to hear it explained and to receive tracts, and, while still a few deny that there is a Creator, nearly all admit His existence.

"Raigam Pasdun, &c.

"Juan Silva says:—'Concerning my work, during the past year, there is good hope. More subscriptions were received than before. On one occasion I prolonged my itineration among the villages to more than two months, travelling four hundred miles and preaching to more than a thousand persons. I baptized one person at the beginning of the year, and there are several candidates. I beg that the brethren would pray that we may be enabled to labour, relying only on God.'

"Sabaragamana.

"H. Markus writes:—'Although, owing to affliction, I was unable fully to pursue my work, by the Lord's grace I laboured as I had ability. At Ratnapura, a person, who for some time opposed Christianity, has not only confessed that he is now a Christian, but has asked for baptism. At Hanwella, in the neighbourhood of Pelmadulla, an aged woman has accepted Christianity. She is the mother of one of those who were baptized last year. We have begun a school at Medampe. There are now forty children on the list. I have several times heard that there is discussions among them, some taking the Christian and others the Buddhist side. This is a good sign. I have laboured in many other villages, but there are no matters of importance to write about.'

"The school examinations for Government grants during the year have gained nearly £420.

"The total of contributions for all purposes at the native stations, including Grand Pass, was about £227. Still our great need is efficient labourers to fill the places of those whom death has removed or advanced age has partly incapacitated, as well as to occupy new ground. Our native brethren are becoming more alive to this, and are doing more to use and develop the gifts of their members. I have commenced a class at Grand Pass for those who desire to engage in preaching, and we are hoping it will bear fruit."

Grand Pass.

Mr. James Silva reports :—

"In the tabular statement which I have given, our regular Sunday and week-day services only are mentioned. The pastor and many of the members of the Church are endeavouring, in their visits to others or others visiting them, to make known the way of God's salvation in conversation, and besides giving suitable tracts. Visits to the sick are availed of as good opportunities for impressing the minds of the afflicted to get their earnest attention to the one thing needful.

"We have often to attend funerals, and they are good opportunities to address large congregations both in the funeral house and at the grave.

"Excessive work, exposure to rain and night-air brought heavy sickness and debility upon the pastor, and consequently a cessation of his working for about five months; but the Lord's work did not suffer, but continued by the continued kindness of the Rev. Messrs. Waldock and Ratnayeke, and occasionally the Rev. T. R. Stevenson, H. Markus, Juan Silva and others, to all of whom it will be ungrateful if we do not thus publicly acknowledge our sense of deep gratitude for their valuable services in a time of great need, whilst they were attending to their own appointed duties. As the Lord does everything for the good of them that love Him, the affliction of the pastor has done good to him in various ways. The sincerity of the affection of our people to their pastor was abundantly manifested and testified in the great sympathy shown, favours conferred, attention paid, and prayers offered by them. It was really affecting to see the intense anxiety and care with which they vied with each other to do all they could to help the pastor in his sickness and for his recovery.

"May the pastor be enabled to feed them and continue to see that this affectionate flock be abundantly blessed!

"We have cause to render thanks heartily, for the Lord has helped us in our difficulties, and, in this the 13th year of our existence as a self-supporting Church, we are without debt, having been enabled to get rid of that 'ghost' and meet every demand fully, and this we did by the great liberality of the members of our Church, who have not only given according to their ability, but even beyond it.

"The financial business of the Church is also done efficiently and satisfactorily, for, though the Lord added but one to the number of them that are saved in this year, that one proved to be a God-sent, right man in the right place, in the diaconal office.

"We have also been given good and faithful men, who love the little ones and teach them in the way that they should go.

"Our aim is so to live that we may co-operate in the blessed work which is dear to our Saviour. 'But who hath believed our report?' We move among thousands of our countrymen endeavouring, by sowing beside all waters, to pluck them as brands from the burning, but, at this annual report we can tell only of the reception of one believer immersed and added to the Church. We have attended the death-beds of some who confessed, at the eleventh hour, their faith in Christ. Still our serious consideration is required to ascertain the cause of God's withholding his blessing on our labours, and to seek earnestly, by continued fervent prayers, for an abundant outpouring of the Holy Spirit, that we may see the fruits of our labours in the conversion of sinners to the glory of God.

"We have calls of 'Come over and help us,' from many a place where already a harvest is promising, but, alas! are prevented from occupying or occasionally visiting those places principally for want of men who are willing to obey the call of God, saying: 'Who will go for us?' Let this be a serious consideration for those to whom God has given the necessary talents for the work, but who do not offer themselves to this work, which, though attended with difficulties and sufferings, is glorious, pleasant, well rewarded, and honourable.

"The attendance at Grand Pass and Pettah services are somewhat reduced by the removal of those who were residing near the chapel, to other parts of the town. But, however, their removals were otherwise profitable in bringing the influence of the Gospel to their new neighbours. With this brief statement I beg to conclude, earnestly asking the prayers of God's dear children for us and for the prosperity of the Lord's work."

II.—KANDY DISTRICT.

Missionary, C. CARTER.

Number of members, 100.

Mr. Carter has favoured us with the following report:—

"Kandy.

"I have preached in Kandy, once in Singhalese and once in English, on Sunday, and conducted similar services on my visits to our other stations, in most of which a congregation to profit by an English service can be gathered, as well as one that can only understand Singhalese.

"In the month of March last, one of the most esteemed members of our English church died, after a few hours' illness, with the assurance that all was well—that she was safe in Christ. Last August I had the pleasure of baptizing and receiving into our Church fellowship my second daughter, who had given satisfactory evidence of piety and faith on Christ.

"The Native Church.

"I have received the following report from the pastor of our Kandy native church:—

"Throughout the year service in Singhalese has been held in the Baptist chapel morning and evening; of which the morning service has been generally conducted by the missionary, and the evening service, as well as occasionally the morning service, by the native pastor. The attendance at the morning service has ranged from twenty to forty, and at the evening from fifteen to thirty persons. As the prayer-meeting held during the week in the chapel was not well attended, prayer meetings have been commenced in the houses of three brethren; in that held in Kalukelle the members of five families unite. In Kandy I have often proclaimed the Gospel at the corner of public streets, and that without much opposition from the hearers. During the year I have visited Hangurankette district, distant seventeen miles, twice; the Haragama district, six miles, four times; an estate two miles away, eight times; five times I have gone two miles along the Ampitia road; as far as Matala, seventeen miles, twice; as far as Kurunegalla, about thirty-six miles, with another brother, passing through various villages, once; on these various journeys preaching the Gospel, and distributing tracts to those we met; holding service in the houses of brethren in those districts and giving them suitable advice and instruction. Though no persons have come forward who have derived profit from our work, so that we have to say 'Who hath believed our report and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed,' yet since we have sown the word in faith, we firmly believe the time will come when we shall reap in joy.

"The Baptist association, which has been formed in Ceylon, met on August 29th last in Kandy, for the first time. Its meeting was attended by a large congregation, consisting of pastors, deputies, brethren and friends from our various churches. We trust that all assembled on that day were greatly benefited thereby.

"During the year one sister, belonging to this church, fell asleep in the Lord with a good hope. In like manner, another sister was baptized on the last day of this year, and received into the church, having made a good confession and given evidence that she had surrendered herself to the Lord with all her heart, and obtained salvation. It is that there are three or four who are not far from the kingdom of heaven, but who are prevented by various hindrances from complying with the ordinances of the Lord.

"It is now fourteen years since the Church undertook to support their own pastor. Through deaths and removals the Church has been so reduced as to be unable for some time past to accomplish this, though, for the past seven years, the pastor has been aided by the Missionary Society in return for work in connection with the preparation of the Old Testament. At a church meeting, held at the close of the year, the members thought that something should be done, and the matter brought to the notice of the parent society.

"The present number of members is thirty-seven, of whom twelve only live in Kandy. One has died, and one person been received by baptism. About 700 tracts and sixteen portions of Scripture have been distributed."

"Matale.

"The former pastor of Matale, Brother Don Lewis, was obliged to leave on account of ill health, and take one of the stations in the Colombo district. From the present native minister, Brother C. Peries, I have received the following report:—

"I began my work in this district in March last. The Sunday morning service in Sinhalese in the Chapel has been regularly conducted. The attendance is encouraging. English service has been held once a month, generally conducted by brother E. W. Williamson, assisted by the pastor and another brother who is able. That service also is well attended. During the week two prayer meetings are held. The want of a Sunday-school has long been felt, as religious instruction is not imparted in the Government day-schools. We met this want in opening a school in our Chapel in June last. We had from twenty-five to thirty children attending for about three months, when another Sunday-school was opened in connection with the Episcopal Church. Some children, who were attending our place, were induced to go there; but of these a few have returned to us, and it is gratifying to note that our average attendance up to the end of the year was about fifteen. The teaching of the children is conducted by some of our members. We are hoping that the Divine blessing will cause the instruction to result in good to the young.

"Preaching in the gaol, near the Court-house, and visiting the hospital have been carried on. Many neighbouring villages and a few distant places, including Rattote and Owilikandy have been visited. We have distributed 946 tracts.

"In the village of Dodindenia, some time ago, I spoke to a Kandian woman on the subject of salvation, and sought to convey to her mind something of the truth in the simplest form, as if teaching the alphabet to a child. On the next occasion of my visit to the district, I tried to show her the difference between Christianity and Buddhism; on the third occasion, specially to convince her that she was a sinner, which, to some extent, she seemed to perceive. On the following occasion I spoke to her earnestly about Jesus, and his compassion to her and to all mankind, and prayed with her. She joined me in prayer, lifting up her hands and eyes. I was rejoiced on these occasions to observe that she seemed to feel the truth I set before her. Recently she was taken ill, and has since died. She died with simple faith on Jesus. Her last words were: 'Not Buddha, but Jesus, is my Saviour.'

"The present number of members is fourteen, and there are two inquirers."

Gampola.

"From brother C. P. Ranasingha, of Gampola, I have received the following report:—

"Last year, although my health has not been good, chiefly in consequence of a disease which has not yet left me, yet, by the favour of God, I was sufficiently well to continue my usual work. During the year I visited eighteen different villages, and distributed about 800 tracts in those villages and in Gampola, and at the Gampola Hospital, which I visited regularly almost every week. I have had two services in the Chapel on Sundays, as well as week-day services, and three weekly prayer meetings in private houses. I have been to Nawalapitita, a town about eleven miles from Gampola, from time to time, as health permitted me, and held service at the house of one of our members who lives there. The average attendance at the Sunday morning service in Gampola is twenty-five adults and three children, and, at the evening service, about half that number."

CHINA.

CHEFOO.

Missionaries, T. RICHARD and A. G. JONES.

Number of members, 50.

The time of our brethren has been so much absorbed in the duties and cares incident to the terrible famine which has desolated their district, that they have not been able to send us a formal report. It is gratifying to know, however, that the famine itself has given them unprecedented opportunities for the preaching of the Gospel.

WEST INDIES.

TRINIDAD.

1. PORT OF SPAIN.

Missionary, W. H. GAMBLE.

Number of members, 102.

2. San Fernando District.

Missionary, W. WILLIAMS.

Number of members, 493.

Mr. Gamble has forwarded the following report of his district:—

"The year 1876 has been in no way remarkable, except that God has graciously given health and strength to the missionary to fill his post on every occasion but one. Illness hindered me from conducting only one prayer meeting. For my own health I am truly grateful to God and trust that strength given will be spent in his blessed service.

"The Church at Port of Spain has passed through its usual experience. Some twelve persons have been added by baptism, a brother and a sister have joined the communion above; some four have come to us from other lands; and, unhappily, many have been tempted by the tempter and have turned away from the Church.

"The names on the Church-book are 120; but we cannot correctly regard more than about 80 of these as faithful members."

"We are subject also, as indeed are all churches, to changes from removals of residence, and from the people going home to their native islands.

"Looking at the small number of additions by baptism, we need not be discouraged, for the hindrances to our progress here are very many and very great. No doubt the fact that this is a Roman Catholic country may be deemed our greatest obstacle. No one who has not lived in a Roman Catholic country can imagine half the evils that are the inevitable outcome of that corrupt system. But all who labour for God have their hindrances; but blessed be His holy name, all who work in His vineyard have His gracious aid.

"In former days years rolled away and very few were added to the Church, so that I am not to be discouraged because only so few have been added this year.

"It is with great difficulty that we can keep up our numbers in the Sabbath-school. We purpose having our annual examination soon, and I do not suppose we shall gather more than forty. Here the Sabbath is over after morning mass, and the priests themselves may be seen flying kites and playing cricket on the Sunday afternoons in company with the boys of the 'French College.' This being so, it is not strange that Protestant children do not care much about coming to Sunday-school. Religion is at a low ebb in Port of Spain, and one cause of this sad state is, I believe, the influx of so many from the other islands and Venezuela. Naturally, those who come are for the greater part the lowest of the low; so that when the indolent, unclean and dishonest come to increase the number of those who are very much like themselves, it is not surprising that vice abounds. There are a few faithful preachers here among the Wesleyans and Presbyterians, but their influence is necessarily very circumscribed.

"In the Church here we have some few who are faithful and true—exemplary in all respects—but their number, as everywhere, is very limited.

"Anyone who knows the West Indies is aware what are the evils rampant among the people; and although we cannot say there is no change for the better, yet truth compels us to declare that the improvement of morals among the people is inconsiderable.

"For twenty years I have rebuked sin and laboured to preach Christ, and mean to continue doing so as long as God shall help me, and I know my labour will not be in vain in the Lord.

"This week we are holding the meetings for prayer suggested by the Evangelical Alliance, and they are very largely attended; and we do sincerely trust that God in His mercy will hear our prayers and send us the blessings we so urgently ask and need.

"This year we have done something in the way of getting new lamps for the chapel and painting the building inside and out, which was greatly needed, and it is only fair to our people to say that they have cheerfully enabled us to do this without requiring us to ask a penny from any outside of our own Church.

"During the lifetime of my worthy predecessor a piece of land was purchased from the Crown in McBean's Village. Some time ago I paid for it, and for a long time our good brother, William Modeste Cox, has been labouring with the friends to complete the small chapel.

"At length it is completed. On the 29th December, 1876, I took the steamer and went as far as Monkey Point Corner and thence rode to McBean's Village some six miles. It was a very wet day, yet the people had gathered in good number, so that the little place was more than full. We held a long service and had a meeting afterwards to read over the accounts and to appoint teachers for the Sabbath-school.

"Brother Cox merits commendation for the zeal he has shown in inducing the villagers to help him in building the chapel. Of course, it is a small one—as near as I could judge by the eye, about 20 feet by 12 feet; floored, tapisides, and shingled roof, a cedar pulpit and cedar benches. It had, on the opening day, about a hundred people.

"As usual, in these outlying districts, there are many not married. Now our law in Trinidad is that a place must be occupied as a place of worship for twelve calendar months before it can be licensed for the solemnization of marriages. I explained this to the people and urged them to put by, as they could spare it, small sums, so as to be ready with the sixteen dollars for the document when the time comes round for them to petition the Government.

"I have sent down a supply of books, tickets, &c., for the Sunday-school and we are looking for the blessing of the Saviour upon our small effort at McBean's Village.

"Carenage.

"At Carenage or Mount Pleasant things are about as usual. The people keep up their meetings among themselves, and continue, as in former years, to come up to town on the first Sabbath in the month for the celebration of the Lord's Supper. One of our sisters has been taken from us, to join, we trust, the Church triumphant. Sister Dedier was ill for a long time. She was brought up to town, but the change proved ineffectual and she calmly sank under the disease. The people at Carenage are a very quiet, orderly people, giving us great satisfaction, comparing favourably with the folks in Port of Spain. They are secluded in their valley, and live, principally, by the growth of their gardens and the small stock they raise. A number of them can read fluently, and the gift of song is not wanting, so that their meetings are conducted, not only in a quiet, but also in an intelligent manner.

"Early in 1876 the North London Sunday-school, in connection with John Street, Bedford Row, Church, paid into the Society some £14, which has partly been appropriated in the purchase of crown land at Chaguanas.

"For some years past our good brother William Dunmore has been in the habit of calling the people of Yarraba Village to his house on Sunday and once or twice during the week. In 1874 he came to town, visited me, stated the matter and asked me to pay a visit to Yarraba Village. I did so, hiring a horse, and riding the twenty miles there and back. I have a lively recollection of the ride. I left at 7 a.m. and got back after 10 p.m. I had great difficulty in getting my horse along, he not being the very best, so that, at the end of the days' work, it was difficult to say which was more jaded, the horse or the rider. Since that my visits are by boat and tramway. For a long time paucity of pence kept me from attempting anything at Yarraba Village in the way of buying land, though the poor people had great difficulty in carrying their dead so many miles through the deep mud, in the wet season.

"Providentially our difficulties were removed by the kind liberality of the North London School. Should any of my brother missionaries ask how came this school to remember Trinidad, I answer, because the missionary went to the school and gave a homely talk about Trinidad. If I understand matters correctly, our Sunday-schools are by no means the smallest contributors to the funds of our Missionary Society. So, brother, if you want money for land-buying or chapel-building, by all means go and see such men as Superintendent Halford and his staff of teachers and their boys and girls. At least you have my experience.

"Well, having the money, I petitioned (the only way of acting) for five acres of Crown-land at Yarraba village. On account of our very wet season in 1876, the survey could not be made until November. On the 20th of that month I accompanied the Crown surveyor, and the five acres were lined off. The title, of course, is made out in the name of the Society, and, according to the wish of the superintendent and school, the chapel is to be called after that sainted servant of Christ, the Honorable and Reverend Baptist Wriothsley Noel.

"When the Yarrabas saw me with the surveyor, it would have made you smile to see them open their mouths and show their beautiful white teeth. So soon as the surveyor was ready there were plenty, outlaes in hand, to clear the bush and make the trace. Coming to a ravine, the water over the knee, and not feeling called upon to plunge in as did the surveyor, I got one of them to carry me over. While on his back I asked him his name. He said Moses. I told him that his name would be still better Moses when I took him out of the water. He understood, and began to laugh, so that I was half-expecting that he would let me down.

"Brother Dunmore keeps on his meetings, and I trust that this year we may be able to build our chapel. Now I want to put up one that shall not discredit the good name it is to bear. Looking at my books I find that seventy-two dollars were sent me, that the land and survey and expenses cost forty-eight dollars, so that about five pounds sterling is the balance in hand. We cannot build chapels so cheaply in Trinidad as they do in Sonthalistan, hence we must have some more money, and I am sure that those dear boys who gave the first sum are collecting now for the next instalment. There is wood on the land that will help considerably ; and the people will give their labour out of crop, only they must be fed. It is in this way that Brother Cox has managed to put up the little chapel at McBean's Village.

"Looking over the past year and regarding the work as a whole, I think we have cause to be very thankful to God for the measure of blessing He has granted to us. I long for greater results, especially in Port of Spain, and I pray for them and will continue to labour that more souls may be gathered into the Lord's Kingdom.

"I feel that 'we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God and not of us.'"

I.—NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Missionary, J. DAVEY.

Number of members, 2,143.

Mr. Davey has furnished the following report :—

"Through the goodness of God I have got safely through another year of labour. At times a sense of loneliness has somewhat oppressed me, but incessant work has left me no time for brooding over my circumstances. Of the results of my labour it is difficult to speak. I have reason to think that the ministry of the Word has been blessed to the Church, and though immorality abounds in the land, yet many keep themselves aloof from the society of the wicked, and from time to time one and another separates himself from the ungodly and avows himself on the Lord's side. Though ten persons have been added to the Church by baptism, yet in consequence of the numerous removals to the out islands, San Domingo, Key West, and other places in the Southern States of America, we cannot report any increase. You will be glad to hear that the debt which has rested on our chapel since the enlargement and improvements which were made in 1865, and which was increased in consequence of the damage done by the hurricane in 1866, has been paid, and from this time I hope to begin the diminution of our drafts on the Committee.

"Andros Island.

"This island is the largest in the Bahamas, containing 1,600 square miles, which is more than double the size of any other island of the group; Abaco, the next in size, contains but 776. We have ten churches in the island, several of which are very difficult to visit in consequence of there being no roads in the island save for short distances. Our teacher says he is much exposed in going up and down the shores for want of a comfortable boat. We have 357 members and 244 Sunday scholars in the island.

"Grand Bahama, Abaco and Bimini.

"I place these islands together because they are all under the care of our brother Hanna. He has been tried, during the year, by the misconduct of several of the members, and says, in reply to a question of mine: 'I cannot recommend a single youth who would suit the ministry.' The island was visited by hurricanes in September and October, and for a time the inhabitants were almost reduced to a state of starvation. Numbers of members, 332; Sunday scholars, 278.

"Eleuthera.

"Things proceed very quietly among our people in this island. I hear of no baptisms during the past year. There are two resident Wesleyan missionaries in the island and, till lately, there was an Episcopal minister. Number of members 179; Sunday scholars, 272.

"San Salvador.

"From the letter which accompanied the returns from this island, I cull the following passages:—

"On looking over returns which I trust will give satisfaction, you will see that a large addition has been made to the Church at McQueen's during the year. No less than thirty persons were baptized. The Church now numbers one hundred and ten souls. The Core station, under the head of "excluded," shows the large number of 13 persons put away from the Church there. Most of them were excluded for being concerned in a quarrel which took place in the neighbourhood. The financial columns show a sad decline in the funds of the society when compared with those of previous years. I am desirous to have a conference with the leaders of the churches sometime during the month of January next, and would wish to make known my wishes to you. My object is to speak over the general affairs of the churches, and especially to see if better arrangements can be made for the support of the pastor. I wish it were possible for you to be present, but as I think your important engagements in Nassau will not allow you to leave, I beg you will do for us by letter what you may be unable to render by your personal presence.' Number of members, 700; Sunday scholars, 629.

"Exuma.

"In this island our numbers are not so large as they were. This may arise partly from emigration and partly from the appointment of a resident clergyman, who, at present, is very zealous. Our members in Andros Island and San Salvador have been increased by immigrants from this. Mr. McDonald reports the churches at the different stations as peaceable, but no increase of members. He speaks of the young people as very careless and as being 'lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God.' Number of member, 159; Sunday scholars, 83.

"Ragged Island.

"Mr. J. J. Kerr, late superintendent of our Sunday School in Nassau, has become the Resident Justice in this island, and I am happy to say is doing good service in the Church and Sunday school. I hope to hear of some increase during the coming year. Number of member, 31; Sunday scholars, 30.

"As a general remark I would observe that the maintenance of Godly discipline in our Churches is becoming more and more difficult, and if it is maintained, as I intend by God's help it shall, our friends in England must not look for a very rapid increase in our membership."

INAGUA.

Mr. Littlewood reports as follows:—

"I shall enclose my statistical account for the year. I had hoped for a better state of things than now obtains, but I am sorry to say that the depression so often complained of, not only continues, but increases alarmingly. This is applicable to our Society throughout these islands, and to our Society on Inagua particularly. Through the failure of our salt business and the long drought throughout this part of the colony for the last two years, our poor people have suffered greatly and are quite unable, in many instances, to procure suitable clothing to appear in public worship. This has resulted in many absentees both from the congregation and Sunday-school; in the serious falling off in the finances, the removal and unsettlement of many, and, in some instances, the entire breaking up of families. Hundreds have gone from the Bahamas to Hayti, and quite a number from Inagua. Young men, hopeful and active, leave us from sheer necessity; some stay for a few months, and others for a longer period; but we have to retain their names on our books, which are valuable only as they keep up the number of members.

"We have had some sad cases of delinquency to mourn over, and even now our tears are made to flow copiously.

"On the other hand some little good has been effected; many have been comforted, strengthened and settled. Sixty-four have been baptized, and we number above seven hundred members, some of whom we hope will be saved. It cannot all be chaff. They are, speaking generally, but children in knowledge and Christian experience. Our task is to hope rather than to realise. We have a few intelligent, earnest workers, and were their circumstances better their pious efforts would be more abundant.

"I ought to be thankful for being able to attend to my work uninterrupted by sickness or any other cause. My dear wife is the only sufferer, but she usually gets out and takes her part in our pleasant duties, and they were never more pleasant to us. The want of means has prevented the erection of the chapels at the sub-station on Inagua. We hope to do better next year.

"May we crave an interest in your prayers, and a place in your thoughts now and then?

"We mourn with you the loss of our young missionaries in Hayti and Africa. May the Lord hear His people's cry, that His way may be known upon earth, and His saving health among all nations!"

III.—SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Missionary, R. E. GAMMON.

"The report for this, my first year's missionary labours, is not so encouraging as I could expect or desire; instead of having to write of large additions to the Church, of intensity of spiritual life, and of zeal in Christian work on the part of the members, I have to tell rather of the opposite of each. Nevertheless, there are some redeeming features to relieve the somewhat dark aspect of affairs; though the flashes of light are few, there are a few.

"So far as the statistics go, we stand in the aggregate as we began, having a decrease of forty-nine members, and an increase of the same number. The greater part of the year has been spent in Grand Cay, and although this place has received the largest amount of labour, the result is anything but satisfactory, as we close the year with eighteen members less than we commenced it. There are several inquirers, but only a few, as yet, give sufficient evidence of a spiritual change to warrant us in baptizing them; however, next Sunday week I expect to immerse some five or six candidates.

"In January last we had a Christian concert, in order to raise funds for repairing the mission house, the nett proceeds being £6 3s.; but, as we are not going to stay at Grand Cay, the money has not been used for this purpose.

"In August we had a tea meeting, which, considering the poverty of the place, was a decided success, for we realized £24 13s. 6d., after defraying all expenses—all classes of the community rendering hearty assistance. The greater part of the amount has been spent in repairing the chapel, which had got into a very dilapidated condition, and still further repairs are needed, but funds will not permit us to do much more at present.

"Salt Cay.

"During the year I have visited Salt Cay several times, and am glad to find a change for the better in the little Church there.

"Caicos.

"During my visit to the Caicos some few were added to the Church, and I hear that, since my tour, several have come forward desiring baptism. For the last two years the people have suffered greatly on account of drought, consequently they have been unable to contribute towards the mission funds.

"While at Blue Hills I formed two branches from that Church, viz., Five Keys and Kingston, the people at these places living at too great a distance to attend the former regularly.

"San Domingo.

"I have not sent statistics of this portion of the mission, as the people in Puerto Plata have not yet been formed into a Church; this we have delayed doing until we take up our residence there. In April last, when I visited the stations at Golet and Batay (or Cabaret), where Sigis Murphy has laboured for many years, I was agreeably surprised to find so much simple and earnest piety away in the woods of that beautiful, but benighted country. Next year I hope to be able to give a good and full account of this section of the mission.

"On my return from San Domingo the other day, we stayed a day at Cape Hayti, and in the evening I preached in the chapel there. Brother S. Ker, formerly of Lorimer's, Caicos, gave me a very pleasing account of the members at La Grande Riviere, where Mr. Banmann (I believe) laboured for some time. I mention this, as for a long time they have not been visited by any of our missionaries, thus evidencing that they have, in this religiously dark land, an inward vitality, which is not entirely dependent on external circumstances.

"In conclusion, this year (1876) has been one of arduous and incessant toil for the Master, even though it has not been so successful as we could wish, but we have the assurance that we shall not labour in vain."

JAMAICA.

I.—THE JAMAICA BAPTIST UNION.

"The history of our churches, for 1876, has been, in no small degree, disappointing—it has not realised the promise of its commencement. Early in the year it was confidently hoped that when its history should come to be written it would be recorded that large numbers of backsliders had been brought to repentance, and restored to fellowship; that multitudes of sinners had been brought to abandon their evil ways, to embrace Jesus as their Saviour and their Lord, and to cast in their lot with the Lord's people; that the exercise of corrective discipline had been, to a great extent, uncalled for; and that the several churches, throughout the land, had enjoyed a season of more than usual peace and prosperity, and their bounds been greatly enlarged. Instead of all this the year has witnessed few baptisms—fewer than for several previous years—whilst restorations have not been numerous; and, by deaths, exclusions, and erasures, the membership of the United Churches has been greatly diminished; as will be seen on reference to the Tabular, and to the Epitome of Church Returns included in our present report. He who walketh in the midst of the golden candlesticks, and who is intimately acquainted with the state and character of each several church, has, doubtless, His own special reasons for the rebuke implied in this disappointment of our hopes, and it becomes our duty to seek out the evils which have stood in the way of the blessing He has seen fit to withhold, and earnestly to set about their correction and removal.

"Obituary."

"We have to record the decease of two ministers, connected with the Union, during the year. Mr. James Elliott, pastor of the churches at Mount Lebanon, in Manchester, and Whitfield, in Clarendon, was called from his labours on earth to his rest and reward above, on the 4th of April. He was born a slave, and never enjoyed the advantages of a liberal education; but he was a man of good common sense, and of high moral and religious principle, and he exercised a good influence on those around him. If men 'perceived that he was an unlearned and ignorant man,' they were yet forced 'to take knowledge of him that he had been with Jesus.' 2. Mr. Duncan B. Campbell, who for a short time occupied the churches at Porus, in Manchester, and Ebenezer, Jubilee, and Hayes, in Clarendon, passed away on the 12th of December, in the bloom of his manhood, and before he had had time to make full proof of his ministry in our body. Nor can we fail to record with feelings of sadness, the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Sibley, wife of Mr. Charles Sibley, for many years pastor of the churches at Port Maria, Oracabessa, and Mount Angus, and daughter of the late Rev. David Day. Mrs. Sibley was a faithful and affectionate wife, a tender and most devoted mother, and a very hard-working and judicious missionary, whose influence in the three churches was great and salutary. She died on the 14th of August, of brain fever, whilst her husband was absent from the island in quest of health. She has left a family of eight children to mourn their loss.

"Failure and Restoration of Health."

"It gives us pleasure to report the return to the island, in improved health, of the Rev. John Kingdon and Mrs. Kingdon, who have resumed their work at Falmouth, which we trust they may be long spared to continue with comfort and much success. But we have with sorrow to record that the health of the Rev. Edward Hewett so completely broke down as to render it absolutely necessary for him to go to England, for change and for medical aid. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hewett, and the latest accounts received do not encourage the hope of his speedy restoration and return. We commend him, his family and churches, to the care and grace of our Heavenly Father.

"Ministerial Changes and Settlements"

Have been somewhat numerous during the year. At the last annual meeting the name of Mr. H. F. Humphrey, of Monklands, was dropped from the roll of pastors. Early in the year Mr. Teall, who had laboured for upwards of nine years as a special missionary in St. Thomas-in-the-East, accepted the unanimous call to the pastorate of the church at Annotto Bay, in St. Mary's, in succession to the Rev. Samuel Jones, whose retirement was referred to in our last report. Mr. Teall and the Annotto Bay church have the best wishes of the Union for their prosperity. Mr. Charles Tharpe resigned the pastorate of Mt. Charles, and took the oversight of the churches at Mandeville and Zion Hill, in Manchester, as the successor of the Rev. P. Williams, who has become pastor of the large and influential church at Bethel Town, till recently under the care of Mr. Hewett. Mr. Daniel G. Campbell has resigned the pastorate of Coultart Grove and Canaan churches, in St. Ann's, and is now labouring as a missionary in Portland, having charge of Tabernacle and Hephzibah churches, formerly occupied by the Rev. J. B. Service, who found the field too large for him, alone, successfully to cultivate. Mr. W. A. Tucker, lately a student of Calabar, accepted an invitation to the pastorate of the second church in Spanish Town; and the Rev. George Moodie has taken the oversight of the churches of which the late Mr. Elliott was pastor, till his decease. Mr. George E. Henderson, B.A., of Madison University, has become copastor of the churches at Brown's Town, Bethany, and Sturge Town, with our esteemed brother, the Rev. John Clarke, and has rendered important service to the churches in a season of great trial. The Rev. T. Griffiths, of St. Ann's Bay, has taken charge, for the time being, of the churches at Oracabessa and Mount Angus, in St. Mary's.

"Destitute Churches."

"In the history of the Baptist Mission in this island there were never so many stations, as at the present time, destitute of settled pastors; and it has become a very serious question how the numerous vacancies now existing, and which it is probable may be soon increased, are to be filled. The following churches are at this time destitute:—Monklands, Yallahs Valley, and Green Valley—Port Maria—Porus, Ebenezer, Jubilee, and Hayes—Smithville—Coultart Grove and Canaan. It is known, too, that two or three of those who have long borne the burden and heat of the day would gladly hand over their stations to others, if suitable persons could be found to take charge of them. It seems certain that unless the staff of ministers can be strengthened, and that speedily, many of the churches will greatly decline if they do not cease to exist; and it is now imperative on us to use our best efforts to secure a supply of suitable, well-qualified ministers.

"Church Returns and Reports."

"Owing to the delay of some ministers in forwarding their returns and reports, and the imperfection of many of the returns that are sent, it is impossible for them to be dealt with as their importance requires; and the general report consequently loses much of its interest and value. Of the 110 churches in the Union, returns have been received of 88. Of the other 22 churches we have no statistics whatever; and of those, 14 are under the care of 6 ministers, whilst 8 churches are without pastors. At 48 stations there have been baptisms; and at 40 stations there have been no baptisms: 35 churches report an increase; 47 churches report a decrease; and 6 are stationary as to numbers. At 82 stations there are inquirers on the rolls, and at 6 stations there are none.

"State of the Churches"

As described in the individual reports forwarded with the returns. About one-third of the reports describe a state of matters on the whole very satisfactory, and we have pleasure in giving a few extracts from them:— 'Members take a deeper interest in the cause of Christ. The light of the knowledge of the Gospel is now entering where ignorance, superstition, and false belief once existed.' 'We feel grateful to God that our efforts for the year have not been without some pleasing results. The attendance on the means of grace has been satisfactory. The chapel is too small for the worshippers.' 'All is peace. Members walk together in harmony and love. The house of God is well attended on the Sabbath-days; as well when the minister is absent as when he is present.' 'Our Sunday gatherings are very good, whilst several of our young people are becoming anxious about their souls.' 'The work of the church has gone on steadily. The evangelistic services of the Rev. Mr. Tayloe have had happy results. Although the year has been a hard one, the liberality of a majority of the church has been manifested in increased missionary contributions and in fully sustaining our local institutions.' 'There continues an active and zealous spirit on the part of the church workers. The evangelistic services of Mr. Tayloe have resulted in large additions to the Inquirers' Class. On the whole there is much to encourage. These extracts show that in a goodly number of churches there is a prosperous and promising state of things. Several other church reports are of a very mingled character, and indicate that good and evil in the churches are for the time nearly equally matched. Some of these Churches are redeemed from total failure by the presence in them of a few faithful among the faithless many. A few extracts are given in illustration:— 'A want of co-operation on the part of many of our members, in church work, is sadly felt. Attendance on the means of grace has been very indifferent. Nevertheless we are not without some signs that the efforts put forth for the glory of God have not been unsuccessful.' 'The enemy has prevailed over many and led them captive at his will. We are, however, thankful that others have been kept by the power of God.' 'There has been evinced a considerable degree of spiritual life and Christian activity, by some of our members; but not a few of them appear to have succumbed to their difficulties; while others, either from indolence or covetousness, or both, have failed to discharge their duty in a moral and spiritual, no less than in a temporal point of view.' The extracts just given are sufficiently sad; but sadder still are the reports of some nine or ten churches which are decidedly and exclusively unfavourable. Two of our oldest and, heretofore, most peaceful and prosperous churches have been rent to pieces and greatly scattered by one 'unawares brought in,' who sowed discord and strife where peace had abounded. In others, too, mention is made of a spirit of strife and litigation which has disturbed the peace and hindered the prosperity of Zion; and in some there are 'coldness,' 'indifference,' and even 'deadness,' complained of; whilst in a few, gross evils are said to prevail, to a considerable extent. From this dark and saddening picture let us turn and look on another brought out in several of the church reports, which make mention of the good being done amongst the children and young people in the day and Sunday schools. We give two or three extracts:— 'Thirteen young people, mostly from the day and Sunday schools, have presented themselves for baptism.' 'Our day and Sabbath schools continue to give us great satisfaction. It is from the Sunday-school that our converts mainly come.' 'Our day and Sunday schools have been kept in operation, and a pleasing amount of religious interest has been awakened in the young people, several of whom, from the Sunday-school, have joined themselves to Christ and His people.'"

Mr. East reports as follows:—

"This is my twenty-fifth annual letter. It is now over a quarter of a century since I entered on my work in this land. How vividly do I remember the first communication which I received through my late valued friend and tutor Dr. Murch, making inquiry in behalf of the Committee as to whether I would entertain an invitation to take charge of the institution of which our sainted brother Joshua Tinson had been the first president. At that time I had abandoned all thought of ever being engaged in a foreign sphere of labour; but no sooner had I read Dr. Murch's letter than it was as if I had heard a voice saying, 'This is the way: walk ye in it.' I met with much opposition from personal friends, and from the church of which I was pastor. But the more I pursued my inquiries, and the more I thought over the subject and prayed for heavenly guidance, the more plain the path of duty was made to me;

nor to this hour have I ever for a single moment doubted that in accepting the formal invitation to assume the responsibility, I was following the pillar of cloud and fire which never fails to go before us in life's journey. I embarked for Jamaica with my family on November the 19th, 1851, and landed on these shores on the 13th of January, 1852.

"At that time our Jamaica mission was in a state of sad depression. The first intimation I received on landing was that cholera was raging fearfully, and carrying off the population by thousands. At the port we entered, St. Ann's Bay, it had already made sad havoc. Our late dear brother Millard and his family were in the mountains, though he and his beloved wife speedily came down to welcome us. So prevailing was the scourge that it was thought undesirable for us to remain; and on the third day we hurried off to Calabar, near Rio Bueno; but as we drew near to the place a messenger met us to say that we must drive straight through the place without calling at any house, for the safety of our lives. And the first Sunday after, such was the condition of things, that we were earnestly advised not to go down from the college to the chapel. This terrible plague had overrun the country and was wasting and destroying in every house. What wonder that our afflicted brethren of the mission were cast down: their churches—by the visitation of 1851, and that which followed in 1852, with the small-pox which immediately succeeded—were decimated of their membership. Church receipts also fell off, and the means of living proportionately failed them, while all church arrangements were more or less disorganised. The separation, moreover, between the north and south side of the island still existed; and I soon became aware of painful dissensions between some, irrespective of this.

"The state of the institution, also, was very discouraging. More than a year had elapsed since Mr. Tinson's death; and there was much dissatisfaction with arrangements made in respect to the students in the interim. The number was reduced to four; with this small number I had to sit down, for the first time, in the classroom. The college had only been in operation between eight and nine years. It was, still, an almost untried experiment. Some who had entered had failed, and but few had entered on ministerial work, though at that time these were occupying spheres of honour and usefulness, and some of them still hold fast their crown as faithful ministers of Christ. Mr. Tinson's character had reflected most honourably on the institution, and the esteem and love in which he was held, as well as his personal devotedness to it, had proved a tower of strength. The majority of our missionary brethren were full of hope from it; but outsiders looked upon it with disfavour and distrust, while the experiment was too new for experience to answer the cavils of doubters and gainsayers.

"Such were some of the discouragements under which I commenced my work twenty-five years ago. By God's help, however, my heart did not fail me. I was in the vigour of my manhood and full of hope for the future. There were two personal convictions strongly rooted in my mind which were very sustaining. I had the strongest conviction as to my special mission, that the raising up and the training of a ministry, from the churches which God had planted in this or in any other land, was his own divinely appointed method for the establishment and extension of his cause in the other. I had, also, the conviction, a conviction which has never for a moment been shaken, that God had called me, by His grace, to the work on which I had entered. So strong was this conviction that I do not think any consideration, either of life or death, could have shaken it. The Jamaica brethren, also, one and all, gave me a kind and encouraging welcome; and many of them showed no little enthusiasm in my work and its objects. The institution was the child of their faith and prayer, and they nourished and cherished it as a father does his children. With the churches the institution was their hope and pride. They regarded it not only as a means of providing them with future pastors, but as a means of elevating their race, and of proving to the world their claim to be regarded as men and brethren. So it was that I began my work.

"My first thoughts had reference to the possibilities of enlarging my sphere of usefulness. To come out from England to Jamaica, and to be sustained by the Baptist Missionary Society to teach only four young men seemed out of all question. The expenditure seemed far in excess of the possible results. The extension of the institution thus became my first care. It soon appeared that it was hardly probable the churches could supply more than seven students, at one time, endowed with gifts for the Christian ministry and with a groundwork of elementary education equal to the prosecution of a course of theological study. If, therefore, there was to be any considerable enlargement it was evident that it must be by connecting with the theological some other departments; nor was it difficult to think of others needed in the country and by the churches. No other Christian denomination had an institution for the education of ministers; but the Presbyterians and the Moravians had their institutions for general education and for the training of day-school teachers. For these objects an institution was equally needed by our Baptist churches. The only normal school, except the above, was the one founded on Lady Mico's charity. But neither in numbers, nor in quality, was it considered equal to our wants. Why not establish a normal school as a department of Calabar? And, if a tutor were provided, why not also open classes for a general education in conjunction with it? In 1853, therefore, after much thought and correspondence, both in England and in Jamaica, I had the satisfaction of submitting a scheme to a general meeting of ministers and missionaries on this wide basis; and, in 1854, of seeing the institution comprise, in addition to the theological department, a normal school for the training of schoolmasters, a day-school as a training ground for these, and an upper-school for the education of lay pupils. On this basis the college has ever since been worked, although the district of Rio Bueno proved unfavourable to the development of the last-named department.

"After various changes in the normal school, which in this letter I need not follow, in 1868 the college was removed to Kingston; the removal, as you know, having been effected by funds generously contributed in England in response to my own personal applications, at a cost of about £1,500, the premises at East Queen Street being appropriated, and other extensive buildings erected, which, as a whole, are allowed to be an ornament to the city, and comprise probably the noblest range of missionary premises in the West Indies—certainly in Jamaica. I need not call to mind the history of the institution since this date, some features of which have been so gratifying and others so painful. In Kingston the work has grown to large proportions. We have now a students' hall capable of boarding 24 young men, with dormitories, dining-room, library and class-rooms, and two commodious residences for the tutors. There is a first-class model school-room, and spacious class-rooms in connection with it. The students number from 20 to 24; the high school has comprised from 30 to 60 pupils, and the general day-school has numbered from 100 to 150 scholars. During the twenty-five years of my residence in Jamaica the following are the numbers which have passed through the institution in its several departments:—Theological students, 44; normal school students, 69; high school boys, 150; general day-school, 300. In speaking of these results, I cannot say too much of my beloved co-adjutor, the Rev. J. S. Roberts, to whose indomitable energy both the institution and myself are so deeply indebted. He has laboured with me night and day; and, but for his energetic co-operation, the work which has been effected could never have been done. It becomes me also to add that through all these years the institution has been nobly and lovingly sustained by the churches, which, together with their pastors and church officers, have taken the deepest interest in it, and, together with the general and managing committees, have zealously co-operated in the work.

"But, in coming to a country like Jamaica, I felt, and have ever felt, that it behoved me not only to be the president of the college, but, as far as possible, to do the work of a missionary to the people and the churches. And I need not say I have found ample scope. The Church at Rio Bueno, immediately on my arrival, invited me to become their pastor. Soon after, the Church at Kettering became destitute of a minister, and, as a chapel needed to be erected, I undertook the oversight of the people—except during a short interval—till the present building in which the people assemble was erected. At different periods I have held the temporary pastorate of seven other churches, and pro tem., at this time the superintendence of three. This work I have been enabled to do largely through the help of the theological students, who have found in these churches spheres for the occasional exercise of their ministerial gifts.

"Of the work in connection with the Church at East Queen Street, Kingston, I need not say much. You know that the reorganisation of the Church there was one object contemplated by the removal from the north side. And God has graciously crowned our labours with a large measure of success. Instead of the small remnant that we found, numbering about 80 persons, there are now over 400 in church fellowship, upwards of 100 inquirers, three district Sunday-schools, besides the one in the city, and two infant day-schools, conducted by female members of the Church. The spacious chapel has undergone extensive improvements and repairs, about £800 having been expended upon it since we came to Kingston. In the Church work, no less than in the college, Mr. Roberts has been my zealous energetic fellow labourer.

"The annual report of the institution to be presented to the Committee here is not yet prepared. It will, however, show that a full amount of work has been done. The Christmas examinations have this year been conducted by the following gentlemen in England:—Alfred West, Eng., M.A., Amersham Hall; the Rev. R. Glover, Bristol; E. Bassett, Eng., M.A., Bristol College; E. B. Underhill, Eng., LL.D.; D. A. Bassett Key, Eng., B.A., LL.B., Glasgow; J. Walmsley, Eng., B.A., Manchester; A. H. Dick, Eng., M.A., Ph.D., Glasgow; J. Attfield, Eng., Ph.D., Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, and W. S. Dendy, M.A., Jamaica. As soon as the reports of these gentlemen are to hand, I shall forward you a copy of them. During the year there have been under instruction, seven theological students and thirteen normal scholars. At the close of the session, one left to take charge of a school; all the others are only one or two years' students. The course of study will be seen when the examiners' reports are to hand. It may suffice to say that with little variation it has been the same as in former years. The raising of the terms of admission to the high school, and the limitation of its numbers, has told injuriously upon it in many ways; but the employment of a day-school master for the model school has considerably increased the attendance. There are now several applications for admission to both departments of the institution; and there is every reason to expect that both in the theological department and in the normal school there will be the full complement of young men during the present year.

"Besides twenty-five years' service in Jamaica I held the pastoral office at home for fifteen years before. I have thus now to look back on a ministry of forty years. Surely goodness and mercy have followed me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever. But the days of my years, especially of active labour, must be drawing to a close. Just now I am thankful to say I am in better health than I have been for some time, but every now and then I am reminded that I shall not long be able to go on as I am going now. My work grows upon my hands; and I sometimes painfully feel that my strength is being unduly taxed, and I fear it will break down. Ere long I am sure I shall be under the necessity of asking the Committee for some relief. I shall either have to give up altogether, or to carry on the work so as to throw a considerable share of it on other shoulders. How the latter is to be done I do not at present see; nor do I wish to trouble you with the matter till the absolute necessity arises. Yet, I think it just both to you and to myself, to prepare you for an event which I am certain, at no very distant date, is inevitable.

"I am afraid this long letter will have wearied you, though had I followed the full flow of thought as I have gone on, it might have been fourfold its length. I am sure you will be thankful that I have not, and yet, I think, you will bear with me in the hurried view I have taken of the past and present of my twenty-five years' life in Jamaica; and you will join me in magnifying the grace which has upheld me. And in this you will excuse my mention of the loved one, nearest and dearest, who for one and twenty of these years has been at my side, a fellow-helper, sympathizing with me in my work and sharing it, especially in the domestic duties of the college, which in a country like this are neither few nor light. Full of zeal and love, my dear wife has ever been ready for every good word and work; and while her Christian activity and devotedness have aided me, the tenderness of her ministry to myself has been a solace and a strength which words are not made to express."

Though not quite of the nature of a report, the following letter from Mr. Thomson, written soon after his return to his station last year, will give our readers some interesting information as to the character of the people with whom he has to do, and also as to the difficulties that beset Christian work among them.

"I should like to write you a little as one feels in entering upon this work again. On arrival at Victoria, while still on the mail, a report came to me that I was not to be allowed to go up to Bonjongo—that the Bimbia people were determined to stop me. After landing, I was told, on all sides, of the expressed determination of the Bimbia people to make me bring my house down from Bonjongo. I could only remain quiet, make my preparations for going up the mountain, and offer prayer to God for His guidance and help. As day after day passed we found the threat could not be well carried out, as a large part of the things had got up, and I was to go up myself directly the same day. A number of people came from Bimbia; and young King William came to me and told me they had met and had a big palaver about my living among the Bakwillis. A great many wanted to come and take me away to Bimbia and make me live there; but he had quieted them, and now he wanted to warn me not to give things to the Bakwillis, not to trade with them, and not to spoil their prices. He said they wanted a white man at Bimbia, and I was to see about it. Then he finished up by asking a dash (a present) of some tobacco. My tobacco was not opened, so I promised to put some in a parcel and leave it at Victoria for him. He was quite well pleased and we parted friends. So ends for a time the Bimbian opposition; but I hear they are very much vexed at my getting up here in the first instance without them knowing, and teaching these bush people. The Bakwilli people, it seems, said they would come to Victoria and help the Victoria people to fight the Bimbians if they tried to stop me coming up. How different this from the great difficulty we had to get a bit of ground for the house when we came here first.

"When the Kroomen I had brought with me to do work and carry the loads up the mountain found what a long and bad road they had to walk, they stole a canoe, and ran away on the Sunday night. I thought, Well, now we are in a predicament! Not only will this be a clear loss of about £20, but how are we to get the things up, and how is the work to be done about the house? Well, when the people (the natives) saw how we were placed, they came down in crowds to carry the things up—men, women, and children. In talking to some of the men about the Kroomen being afraid of their road and their country, I said, if they would only do the work I should not require Kroomen at all, and they would have all the pay, when they replied, We shall do the work for you, and you need not trouble about Kroomen again. So far they have done pretty well, but they are not quite dependent—as, for instance, a man wanted me to employ him by the month. I agreed, and next day he came and said he wanted to change—it was to be by the day. Well, he began one morning and cut some firewood for about two hours; he then went to find some posts for a house, and I saw no more of him for two days, and then it was to tell me he was going to Victoria, and wanting to carry something up for me. The posts he went to find I have not seen yet. However, bad as this is, it is a vast improvement on what it was when we came here first.

“When I came up and saw the house all looked well, the building was in good order; but when I got inside and saw the furniture, bedding and books, it was most disheartening and depressing—so many things completely ruined, and others very greatly damaged. We have had to go carefully over everything. We have been eight days at the work, throwing away, patching up, trying to clean, and nailing together. Things are getting into a little order, but there are six or seven more days’ work before the inside of the house is right; and the constant sight of the great waste incurred by the moisture of the climate, is most depressing. To-day is my second Sunday up here since our arrival, and the two Sundays have each been very trying. The first Sunday the attendance at meeting and at school was very small, and I was very sad and dispirited; in the evening we met four youths (one quite a little fellow) who together form the inquirer’s class. The conversation with these youths quite changed my feelings, and made me rejoice that my hopes were not altogether in vain. To-day has been a day of dreariness again. Yesterday morning news came that the young Chief of Bonjongo, who had been taken up the country ill a few days before, was dead, and all around was weeping and wailing. The people about the place ran off, and a number of persons went up to the up-country to bring the body. The people at Soffo would not let the body come away. More of the people from here went back last night, and they have been expected all day to-day, but they have not returned yet. I have been asked not to ring the bell for service as they are all in so much sorrow, and everyone crying, so to-day we have had in the morning our inquirers only in the house to a little meeting, then two other boys with them to a school; then in the afternoon I walked out among the people in their houses and had some talk with them about attending our Sunday services, and about the necessity of our all being ready for the day of our death. Although much depressed to-day in thinking of the loss of the young chief, who was one of my scholars, has always been specially friendly to me, was very much disposed to yield to the gospel, and the elder brother of two of the present inquirers. yet the walk among the people this afternoon has cheered me very considerably. I could not fail to notice the marked difference in the very friendly and affectionate way all the people received me—the way they were ready to enter into conversation, and the apparent readiness with which they understood what I said to them. There is still a diffidence and reluctance about coming to God’s house, but the people are more approachable than they were, and they take more interest in what is said to them than they did formerly; and then the one thing above all others that cheers me is the hope that from these inquiries that we have, some earnest, devoted native teachers will be produced, and so the work will be extended. My feelings, you see, are a mixture of depression and hope; at times the difficulties, the solitariness, the slow, slow progress are all but insupportable—hope becomes almost extinct, and one feels very nearly like running away to something less like transportation. If one could only be making advances, one feels so often; but this stagnation—this trying to do that you cannot always see that you are doing—is a trial of faith and patience that is impossible to describe. Then a revision of the difference between what the place is now and what it was—a consideration of the certainty of success, as a result of faithful and persevering labour—the thought of what may result in the future from the very slow work of to-day—these things together reassure, hope revives, and we determine to plod on and sow the seeds of a future harvest, which, probably, we may not live to see.

“Jan. 1st.

“One of the head men has just been to inform me that people are coming to inquire from him why this young chief has died—that their country will not believe what we say, that God has taken him; but they say some one has caused his death, or, literally, ‘eaten him’—this term refers to witching. I explained all about the cause of the death. Some of the boys told how I had told the young man that he was very sick and would perhaps die soon, and altogether they said my explanations were satisfactory to them; but the other people would not believe them—they would say the white man was foolish and talked nonsense, that some one must have witched so fine a young man or he would not have died. I quite fear nothing will satisfy the people generally but charging some person with witchcraft, and killing him or her.”

The following encouraging report is from Mr. Alfred Jenkins:—

“In looking back on the past year, it is satisfactory to be able to say that there has been progress; but what is still more comforting is the hope, or rather the conviction one possesses, that what we have been able to do is but the earnest of yet greater results. At the beginning of the year I expressed my opinion of the significance of the establishment of the Republican form of government as bearing on the future development of our work. A year is a short time to prove the effects of this political event, yet we have not been disappointed; for not only have we been allowed to carry on our work, and open our new place of worship, unmolested, but owing to the strong anti-clerical spirit which now pervades the masses in France, we have had an easier access to the people, and met with more sympathy than in the past. As you are aware, the clerical party have once more succeeded in getting hold of power by using violent means. We are at this moment in the midst of a political crisis, from which there is but one issue, an appeal to the nation. What that verdict may be, when the elections will be presided over by the worst enemies of republican institutions, is not easy to affirm, but according to all appearances there can be no doubt that the old members of Parliament will again be returned, and the republic established on a solid basis. As you may suppose, these events are followed by us with extreme anxiety, as one cannot be blind to the fact that the prospects of our work in Brittany, and of evangelising efforts in France generally, are in a great measure dependent on them.

“As in the preceding year, the work of evangelization has been continued both in the town and the country district.

“With regard to the French part of the work, there is not much of a striking nature to relate. The attendance of our French Protestant friends has been regular and good. We have had to mourn the loss of three by death, one of which, a young lady, who used to act as our organist, we could ill spare. On the other hand, it is rejoicing to see some of our Madeleine friends coming to our French service in town, and becoming regular attendants, as it shows that, in order to get people to overcome their prejudices as to entering a Protestant place of worship they must first be reached by such agencies as are at work at the Madeleine, and that we have adopted the right plan in the matter.

"You will be glad to hear that the good work at the above-mentioned station continues to give us much encouragement, despite the growing hostility of the enemy. Last year I was able to state that the room we occupied was too small and uncomfortable for our present need. During the course of the year the necessity of building a new place was still more strongly felt, and thanks to the help the Committee never fails to give us in our need, and that of a few influential friends in England and Scotland, we have successfully accomplished what we had in view. The new meeting-house answers exactly our purpose. It is a somewhat low and elongated building, standing in its own grounds and surrounded with walls. On entering the front door you find yourself in a gravelled yard, on the right hand side of which stands the house, which has more the aspect of a school than a chapel. The ground-floor is entirely occupied by the meeting-room, in which 200 persons, or more, can find place. There is but one story to the house, which is divided into three rooms, a kitchen, parlour and bed-room for the use of the school.

"The new building was opened on Sunday evening, the 15th of April. The Rev. Boucher of Brest, and our brother Lecoat from Tremel, were able to come, and took part in the service. Despite the inclemency of the weather, and the darkness of the night, the room was completely full. I have seldom, if ever, attended such an interesting meeting in Brittany. The attention and serious interest displayed by the congregation was such that Mr. Boucher told them, that although tired by his day's work, he would not mind it, should he be called to preside over another such assembly that same night. The change from the old stifling meeting-room to the new and well-ventilated and brilliantly lighted one, made us all feel joyful and thankful, and we separated full of hope for the future, knowing that if the Lord had prospered us so far he will continue to direct and support his servants.

"As you may suppose, this extension of the work has not failed to attract the attention and intensify the hostility of our opponents. It was openly stated that all the people at the Madeleine were becoming Protestants, and every effort was made to prevent people from attending. Spies were placed near the house to report the names of those who came. In one church in town the meetings were denounced, and the power of the confession and of the visiting nuns belonging to the staff of the Morlaix Provident Society was brought to bear on those who used to attend. This society is supported by the town and private subscriptions. It might be very useful, but as these 'sisters of mercy' are entrusted with the care of the poor, and of dispensing the needed help in the shape of bread, or clothes, or medicine, it is not difficult to guess how great their power and influence is, and in what way they would be likely to use them when visiting our friends. I know of several cases where help has positively been refused, and where threats have been used by these sisters on this account. There is at present a poor man very ill at the Madeleine. The sisters called and told him his illness was a punishment from God for attending our meetings. He gruffly answered that whether he went or not was no business of hers—that what he wanted at present was a doctor that his sufferings might be allayed. She left and sent neither doctor nor help. Happily we heard of the case, and are supplying all his needs.

"Fearful as I am of mixing material interests with our work, there is but one course to be followed in such circumstances, that is, to give ourselves the help refused by others.

"This persecution has not, however, succeeded according to their wishes, for the reason that most of our friends are in a position not to need their help, and although a few have ceased coming, they have not materially diminished our numbers.

"The average of attendants at our meetings is now between 100 and 150, which is very good, considering that this is the summer season, and that those who come are obliged to come in broad daylight, under the gaze of lookers on, and to bear that persecution which consists in being pointed at and called a Protestant. When I see them undergoing this much for the sake of hearing the Word, I cannot help believing that they have in a great measure felt its power and value.

II.—ST. BRIEUC.

Missionary, V. E. BOUHON.

Numbers of members, 7.

Mr. Bouhon narrates the following incidents, which will give our readers some insight into the peculiar difficulties with which our missionaries in France have occasionally to contend:—

“For several years now I have had intercourse of a religious nature with persons of Chatelandren and the vicinity. Some of these persons, timid inquirers, came now and then to our meetings here (eight leagues distance); others, less timid but unwary, asked me to visit them; others, again, living there, but not of the locality, questioned me elsewhere, and spread in the place what they had been told of our faith. What wonder, then, that I should be sent for to preside at the funeral of an ex-naval officer of the British Navy, who not only was known to be a Protestant, but who confessed his faith before the priest the day before death removed him beyond the intrigues of pretentious and wily believers in their own infallibility? Mr. John Macdonall, aged 72 when he died, was very benevolent to the indigent, and was much liked by many. His funeral was attended by three hundred people; not less than three municipal councillors, and a wealthy agriculturist volunteered to hold the tassels of the pall (in the absence of the relatives). The legal permit in hand, I proceeded with my duty in the house and at the grave before a respectful audience. This was on the 22nd of March, at 10 a.m. Before leaving the locality I despatched a note to the British Consul, at Brest, and also wrote to an Irish friend of the deceased (at the request of one of the local councillors, and in the absence of the Mayor and of the Justice of the Peace). Mr. le Juge de Paix was at St. Brieuc on business, concerning the papers of the late Mr. J. Macdonall.

landren, in view of obtaining the prompt removal of the ‘cadavre Protestant’ from its place of burial. In the night of the 29th to the 30th March, the body was exhumed, another coffin was lowered in Mr. Macdonall’s grave, and, as I have since been able to ascertain, the re-burial was secretly accomplished in a corner, away from all graves, so as to be unknown, the ground being levelled with the surrounding earth! Whereas, when I buried Mr. M., his grave was filled in my presence, and in that of a few respectable friends, and the earth was raised, as usual, so as to form at once a long mound. Two councillors, having heard of this, reported to me on the 31st of March, and one of them lodged a complaint, that day, at the Préfecture. Two English gentlemen were present when the burial took place. With them I also referred the matter to the Prefectural authorities, after having taken legal counsel. My long silence is now explained by the fact that I have had to correspond, in this affair, with the British Consul, the new President of the Consistory, Mr. Bellamy, and the two friendly Councillors at Chatelandren. Besides this, I have had necessarily to make an inquiry on the spot, seeing for this the Mayor, the Councillors, the Justice of the Peace, the constable, and the two local priests, beside other persons.

“Justice has been asked for, patience has been shown, and already certain compensation has been obtained. Mr. le Prefet informed me, on 2nd instant, that that very day he had caused a letter to be written to the bishop, who was then at Rome, to notify to him that, in that affair, he had not acted according to law, as he has not the right to correspond with a Maire direct on civil and administrative matters. The Maire of Chatelandren, said Mr. le Prefet, had been sent for and questioned, his destitution had been asked by the local Municipal Council, and whatever might be decided by the superior authorities, he, the Maire, would undoubtedly receive a most energetic blame or reprimand. On the day following my own inquiry at Chatelandren, viz., on the 13th ult., I invited the Maire to come with me before the Justice of the Peace, and there, after having heard that the magistratedisapproved of the nocturnal deeds (done by the Mayor's order), the said Mayor promised to have the grave arranged so as to appear like a grave.

"The British Consul, informed by an Englishman, and more or less accurately, of the exhumation and reburial, is still in official correspondence with the French authorities on this subject.

"Blessed be God who restraineth by powers that be, that power so inimical to truth, purity, and peace, and which we now behold at work in this land. Notwithstanding priestly intrigues, the Word of God is having free course in this country. Only let us occupy the land more and more till the Master comes."

A few days later Mr. Bouhon again writes:—

"I am now able to inform you that, by a decree dated 15th May, the Maire of Chatelandren has been révoqué or destituted. Besides this, the 'parquet,' or judicial bench, called him to answer about his conduct, which, in that matter, was in contradiction with known rules. Mr. le Préfet informed me that he meant also to advise the Roman Catholic Bishop viva voce that on matters of civil administration he had no right to correspond direct with mayors at all. Thus far there is every reason to be satisfied, for justice has been done as much as one can reasonably wish.

"In Chatelandren, as well as here, also, this affair has most certainly turned out to the furtherance of the Gospel. The councillor, who informed me at once of the nocturnal exhumation, has quite lately asked me to come now to Chatelandren to hold Gospel meetings in his house. In order to maintain our acquired position there, I have arranged with this interesting man so as to gather small groups of men at a time."

III.—TREMEL.

Mr. Lecoat writes:—

"For the first time since we began to work for the instruction of our countrymen, and the spread of the good news proclaimed in the Gospel, the year has passed without any trouble from the authorities; we have been annoyed in no way. This is a subject of joy and thanksgiving to the Author of all Mercy and all power, who in his goodness has permitted our dear country to live in peace under the present Government. The Republic gives the Lord's servant much more liberty of action. You must not think that we are quite free from persecution. The Lord's work will always have difficulties from the Romish priests. Their power is still very great; poor people are afraid of them. They are very wicked against them that follow Christ; they prevent them getting work; prevent them from getting charity if unwell. The Lord did foretell of this when he said, 'Blessed are those that suffer for My name's sake;' the gold, to be pure, must pass through the fire, and the Christian must pass through the furnace of sorrow before he becomes fit for the kingdom.

Tremel.

"Every Sunday we have had two services; the first at ten in the morning, generally frequented by fifty or sixty people, sometimes more and sometimes less. At two in the afternoon we have Sunday-school. About thirty-one children attend regularly; their parents often come with them, and seem to take great interest. Very often, after Sunday-school is over, inquirers come in to ask some explanation about Scripture. At seven at night we have another meeting. I then speak to them of the history of the Church or Reformation, or else some of the texts that are more in contradiction with the Church of Rome. At this hour cometh the timid disciples; those that don't like to be seen come at night, but whether we seek Jesus in the day or in the night we will find him. The spirit of freedom increases among our dear countrymen. The women are the great drawback; the priest always manages them, and of course the husbands follow.

Members received.

"During the past year we have received four new members in our small church at Tremel. We increase but slowly, but still we increase.

Day School.

"Our day school has been kept regular during the past year, and the children have come more regularly. The first part of the year the school was kept by young T——; but we were obliged to dismiss him, because his conduct became very bad. We cannot consider him a member of the church. We see him sometimes; he feels he is wrong, but cannot help it, he said. May God have mercy upon him! The latter part of the year the school was kept by young Guillon. He was obliged to leave Paris on account of his health. The air of Brittany being good, he came for a change. Sixty-four names have been on our register; about forty come regularly. Their reading-book is the New Testament. We are now trying to have our school legally recognized by Government. We want the help of the Consistoire of Brest for this. The new President, M. Boucher, and all the members, seem to take the matter in hand; if they succeed it will make us more free.

Night School.

"The Committee must remember that for two years we were obliged to close our night school, because the authorities opposed us. This year we have been able to open it legally. The priests have stormed and kept up much noise; they did all they could to put a stop to it, but in vain. Fifty-seven young men were registered. I was much helped in this by the son of our old Maire, he has been with us for a year.

Lessons at Home.

"We have kept on, as in the past, to give lessons at home. Catherine Picard and Mary Ricori still go from house to house giving lessons. The priests do all they can to influence against them; but they continue their fatiguing task and work on heartily in spite of their age, and in their simple way make known their Master's love.

Colportage.

"My brother-in-law Lequeré, although having left the Colportage for a while, still spends some of his time holding meetings here and there.

Pont Menon.

"At this station we have built a room large enough to hold 150 people. We hold our meetings here as yet in full freedom; the authorities know we are there, but take no notice. Dear old Prigent goes on with his lessons and teaching portions of Scripture to the people. No one interferes with him; he has twenty-eight scholars at present.

Flounerin

Continues still to receive our visits, and we find many hearts disposed to receive the good news. I could speak of many other places, but we cannot attend to all. The harvest is great, but the workmen are few. If I had ten bodies it would not be enough for the different calls. I saw with much pleasure, when I went to supply for Mr. Alfred Jenkins at the Madeleine, that the work there is most encouraging.

Brest.

"We have a Christian brother at Brest, Mr. Caradee. He had asked me several times to go with him and see some Breton families near Brest. I have been and had very good meetings. One family in particular seems very anxious to have the truth. The father and mother, two young girls, and three sons compose the family. One of the sons is a captain in the merchant navy; he is already a Christian, and wished me to visit his family often."

"Something more must be done at the Madeleine to complete the work, and that is to establish a good day school in that part of our town for children and young girls. We have the building, and we only want a teacher. It is no use trying to compete with Romanism with empty hands; we must have in hand the instruments to do the work. Our position is such, that Protestant parents are positively obliged to send their children to schools directed by the religious order of "white sisters," which has absorbed all the lay schools which existed here formerly. It is difficult to say how far the attempt would be successful at first, as we would have to bear all the powerful efforts of the clergy against us, yet I am confident of success.

"A few days ago a municipal councillor of our town, speaking to a friend, said he had heard we were going to establish a school at the Madeleine, and that he not only approved of this himself, but that he felt sure that all his colleagues would also, and probably make a grant of money once we had started it. Our municipal council here is thoroughly Republican, and I have no doubt that if it saw we did something worthy of commendation they would support us with all their might. I cannot, therefore, emphasize too much the expediency, and even necessity, of adopting this plan, which I trust you will lay before the Committee and support with all the power of that sympathy I know you feel for our work. I think that £40, or, perhaps, a little less, would be sufficient to secure an efficient teacher.

"The work of itinerant preaching has been carried on last year, and during the first part of the present one, with as much regularity as the increased importance of the town work could allow. This branch of our work is not, owing to the peculiar circumstances in which we are placed, carried on with as much vigour and regularity as I should like. The first difficulty comes from the reluctance country people generally have to grant their houses for meeting purposes. It is not from a lack of desire to hear, but it stamps them before their neighbours and village as Protestants, and they are sure to draw on themselves the blame of bigoted persons, and sometimes a public censure from the curé.

"The second difficulty is that these meetings can, as a rule, only be held on Sundays. On week days they could only be held at night, which would necessitate our sleeping in places where no sleeping accommodation can be had.

"The plan an itinerant preacher should follow in Brittany should be to accompany the colporteur, and, biding his time and opportunity, preach wherever circumstances permit, and at a moment's notice. I intend attempting some such plan as soon as we have passed through the present political crisis and things become easier.

"At Scignac we have preached several times in the house of a small farmer. Formerly a drunkard, he was reclaimed by hearing our tract on temperance read, and from that time dropped his evil habit. His worldly affairs have greatly prospered in consequence, and he is ever willing to open his house for preaching. His son he has sent to Tremel School.

"At Botschel we have often met in the house of another and well-to-do farmer. A visit he paid to Rome when a soldier convinced him that Romanism is not the religion that can make a people happy and prosperous. This man has offered a plot of ground for a school if we would build one.

"At Lanleia there are three houses open for meetings. At Plougasnon there is the house of a member. At Pleyber Christ, Croazou-Men, Kerveik, Lanmeur, Couniri and Manati, meetings have also been held several times. The people in whose houses we meet are generally farmers, labourers, or millers. This work has its peculiar difficulties, but I know of none more interesting. Some of my happiest days I have spent in going about the humble Breton cottages; they are far from being clean, and sadly lack in comfort; but the people are generally so respectful and attentive. Many interesting men are to be found in all these places, who, as far as faith is concerned, have none whatever in their own religion, and only need more enlightenment to accept the Gospel; but very few, except such as have intercourse with them, can imagine the depth of spiritual ignorance in which their own priests have allowed them to remain.

"One of the most striking meetings we have held during the year was that of Carhain, a small town about thirty miles from Morlaix. Our colporteur had made the acquaintance of a blacksmith in the neighbourhood, and it led to a meeting being decided upon. When we got to the place in the evening I found that the man was a decided Republican; he extended his hand, saying he was glad I had come to preach, and that I was welcome, since Christ, whose doctrine Protestants held, was the first teacher of Republicanism. A house had been fixed upon, and we soon repaired to it. We found it full of people, and the meeting was of a very enthusiastic kind; at the close we sold all the books, and distributed all the tracts we had brought, and on leaving we were told to return as soon as possible.

"On sending our friend Omnes some time after, I learnt that the priests of Carhaix, furious at seeing their domain invaded by heretics, had created quite a stir about the meeting. They got hold of some of our books and burnt them, and sent the head of the police to make inquiries. Our friend, the blacksmith, and some others, were called to give an account of the matter; they were told that the meeting was illegal, and were threatened, should the offence be renewed. This official then called at the hotel where I had stopped, and inquired of the landlord about me. He was, however, received rather sharply, as the man is a member of the Municipal Council. Offended probably at being asked questions about a person who had stopped at his hotel, he asked the official whether he was sent by the mayor, and, on receiving a negative reply, told him to walk off, and that if the minister came again he would send the crier abroad and get all the people to hear me.

"As the head of the police had the law on his side, we thought it more prudent not to renew our visit to Carhaix immediately. There can be no doubt that had this occurred under the present Cabinet we would have been prosecuted.

"Our colporteur and Br. Omnes has continued his work as in the preceding years. Our friend Francois Le Guère, who had undertaken to make the Bible-stand, for which a Christian friend in England had generously given the sum necessary, being very ill, this matter has been delayed, but I hope we shall soon have it made and put into use. He has momentarily been obliged to suspend his labours, all colporteurs having been required to obtain further authorisation for selling their books, and this measure entails a great many absurd formalities and expense.

"From what I have written above you will see that the past year, taken as a whole, is one that has been marked by special blessings, and calls for deep gratitude to the giver of every good and perfect gift. As to myself, I can only say that I become every year more attached to the work, and every day more hopeful."

Missionaries, JAMES WALL,
JOHN LANDELS, W. K. LANDELS.

Number of members, 96.

The progress of this interesting mission has been noted from time to time in the "Heralds" of the past year. Beyond these accounts we have nothing further to state here. Mr. Wall's hands will be strengthened by the presence and help of the brothers Landels, and also of Signor Grassi, the agent of the General Baptist Mission. Many hearts in England pray, "The Lord prosper and bless them all."

NOTE.—In consequence of the PARTICULARS of Contributions from many of the Auxiliaries not reaching the Mission House until after the close and audit of this Balance Sheet, it will be found that the totals of some of the Special Funds do not exactly agree with the details of the printed lists.

Treasurers, Secretaries of Auxiliaries, and all Friends remitting moneys are therefore very earnestly requested to supply FULL PARTICULARS at the time of remittance, so that corrective entries may be dispensed with, and the Missionaries may be at once advised of all special contributions sent for their use.
