NOTICE IN REFERENCE TO BEQUESTS.

As the kind intentions of some of the deceased friends of the Society have been rendered abortive for want of correct knowledge of the law relating to Charitable Bequests, the Committee call special attention to the following directions :—

By Statute 6 Geo. II. cap. 36, commonly called the Mortmain Act, it is enacted, Section 1, that after the 24th June, 1736, "no manors, lands, tenements, rents, advowsons, or other hereditaments, corporeal or incorporeal, whatsoever; nor any sum or sums of money, goods, chattels, stocks in the public funds, securities for money, or any other personal estate whatsoever, to be laid out or disposed of in the purchase of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, shall be given, granted, alienated, limited, released, transferred, assigned, or appointed, or any ways conveyed or settled to, or upon, any person or persons, bodies politic or corporate, or otherwise, for any estate or interest whatsoever, or any ways charged or incumbered by any person or persons whatsoever in trust, or for the benefit of any charitable uses whatsoever, UNLESS such gift, conveyance, appointment, or settlement of any such lands, tenements, or hereditaments, sum or sums of money, or personal estates (other than stocks in the public funds) be, and be made by DEED, indented, sealed and delivered, in the presence of two or more credible witnesses, twelve calendar months at least before the death of such donor or grantor (including the days of the execution and death), and be enrolled in His Majesty's High Court of Chancery, within six calendar months next after the execution thereof; AND UNLESS such STOCKS be transferred in the public books usually kept for the transfer of stock, six calendar months at least before the death of such donor or grantor (including the days of the transfer and death), AND UNLESS the same be made to "take effect in possession for the charitable uses intended immediately from the making thereof; AND BE WITHOUT any power of revocation, reservation, trust, condition, limitation clause or agreement whatsoever, for the benefit of the donor or grantor, or any person or persons claiming under him."

The third section of the Statute enacts "That all gifts, grants, conveyances, appointments, assurances, transfers, and settlements whatsoever, of any lands, tenements, or other hereditaments, or of any estate or interest therein, or of any charge or incumbrance affecting or to affect any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or of any stock, money, goods, chattels, or other personal estate, or securities for money to be laid out or disposed of in the purchase of any lands, tenements, or hereditaments, or of any estate or interest therein, or of any charge or incumbrance affecting, or to affect, the same to, or in trust for, any person, or persons, living or to be hereafter born, or to be hereafter created, or to be hereafter made, or to be hereafter devised, or to be hereafter bequeathed, or to be hereafter assigned, or to be hereafter conveyed, or to be hereafter transferred, or to be hereafter appointed, shall be absolutely, and to all intents and purposes, null and void."

Upon these enactments it may be observed:—

1st. That the Baptist Missionary Society is a Charitable Institution, within the meaning of this Act.

2ndly. Land, money arising out of land, or money secured on land wholly or partly, and whether freehold or leasehold, can be given to a charity only by deed in manner directed by the statute.

3rdly. Not only cannot a will pass to a charity any property of the above description, but no money-legacy given to a charity can be satisfied out of such property. If, therefore, a testator has only land, mortgages, rent-charges, debentures, or securities on land, the legacy will fail altogether; if his estate be mixed it will fail to the extent of the proportion of this property to pure personality.

If A, having £1,500; namely, £500 at his bankers, and £1,000 on mortgage, gives £100 to a charity, the bequest will only be worth £33 6s. 8d. Railway and canal shares are pure personalty, and may be used to satisfy a charitable legacy, but not railway debentures.

By 1 Vic. cap. 26, sec. 9, it is further enacted, "That no will shall be valid, unless it shall be in writing, and executed in manner hereinafter mentioned (that is to say): it shall be signed at the foot or end thereof by the Testator, or by some other person in his presence or by his direction: and such signature shall be made or acknowledged by the Testator in the presence of two or more Witnesses present at the same time; and such Witnesses shall attest and shall subscribe the will in the presence of the Testator but no Form of Attestation shall be necessary."

N.B.—Wills executed prior to the first day of January, 1838, are not affected by this Act; but any alteration therein, or codical thereto, must be executed in the manner before mentioned.

The following Form of Bequest may be safely adopted by those who wish to bequeath such property as may be left by will for this purpose:—

FORM OF BEQUEST.

I give to the Treasurer or Treasurers, for the time being, of the Baptist Missionary Society, the sum of £ sterling duty free, to be paid exclusively out of such parts of my personal estate, not specifically bequeathed, as may lawfully be given by will to charity, and not to abate unless there should be no other fund for the payment in full of my other legacies, and in such case only rateably with my other pecuniary or general legacies.

If any friends wish to bequeath property for Translations or Schools, it is only necessary to say instead of the General Fund, the Translation Fund, or the School Fund.

It is proper to observe that the above restrictive statute does not extend to Scotland, Ireland, Colonies.

All moneys received on behalf of the Society shall be lodged in the hands of the Treasurer, or of Trustees to be chosen by the Society. When the amount received shall exceed the sum needed for the current expenses of the month, it shall be invested in the Public Funds, until required for the use of the Mission.

ALTERATION OF CONSTITUTION.

No alteration in the constitution of the Society shall be made without twelve months' notice having been given at a previous Annual General Meeting.

THE ANNUAL PUBLIC MEETING OF THE
WAS HELD IN EXETER HALL

ON THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 26TH, 1883.

4. The CHAIRMAN addressed the Meeting.

5. The following resolution, moved by Rev. SAMUEL VINCENT, of Plymouth, and seconded by Rev. LL. BEVAN, LL.B., D.D., of Highbury, was agreed to unanimously :—

That this Meeting reviews with devout gratitude to Almighty God the course of the Society's operations during the past year, and records with especial thankfulness the uninterrupted blessing which has attended the labours of its Missionaries in all parts of the world.

They rejoice to learn from the reports of workers scattered all over the mission-field of the manifestation of a widespread readiness to hear the Word of God, a growing spirit of inquiry, and, in some countries, especially in India, of a marked change in the attitude of the people towards Christianity, with a growing disbelief in their own heathen systems.

This meeting earnestly trusts that these tokens for good may impel the disciples of Christ to more importunate prayer and consecrated effort.

6. The following resolution, moved by Rev. A. G. JONES, of Tsing Chu Fu, North China, and seconded by Rev. J. SMITH, of Delhi, N.W.P., was agreed to unanimously :—

That this Meeting, believing that the possession of the Gospel of Jesus Christ which this land has so long enjoyed constitutes one of the highest obligations and most powerful motives to extend it to every land, cannot but regard the present position and needs of the world—especially the marvellous openings for preaching Christ that exist to-day in the vast continents of India, China, and Africa—as imperatively calling upon all true Christians for largely extended effort, and more thorough and complete consecration of service and means.

That this Meeting, while gratefully recording the fact that the receipts of the Society for the past year have been considerably larger than in any previous year—representing, in many cases, rare self-denial and loving sacrifice—would yet earnestly urge upon all the churches and upon every individual Christian the urgent and pressing need that exists for further and increased support in order to maintain the large additions to the Missionary staff recently sanctioned by the Committee under the clear conviction that the churches would sustain and uphold them in this forward policy.

7. The Meeting closed with the Doxology and Benediction.

NINETY-FIRST REPORT.

SEVENTY years ago, writing from the banks of the Hooghley to Andrew Fuller, William Carey said :—

“Just now God seems to be opening up a great door in the East ; doubtless in answer to the earnest prayers of His faithful people in England. Soon, I begin to think, all India may be open to the preachers of the Gospel. How marvelously God works in this matter.”

Fifty years later, David Livingstone wrote :—

“The door is opened wide into Central Africa. For years past Christians at home have been praying for this. I sometimes wonder if they expected the prayer would be answered so soon. Now God has sent the answer in a truly wonderful fashion, and the solemn responsibility of entering in and possessing this vast continent for Christ rests upon the whole Church catholic, and so, of course, upon every individual Christian.”

To-day it may be said the whole world is open to the missionaries of the Cross, for to-day, with a few very trifling exceptions, the Christian missionary may preach and teach in all lands.

In sending forth this Ninety-first Report of the Baptist Missionary Society the Committee feel that no words seem so fittingly to describe the present position of the Mission enterprise as those of the Divine Master Himself :—

“ *The harvest plenteous,
The labourers few.*”

From all lands the cry resounds—

“ COME OVER AND HELP US.”

From India—the first, and by hallowed memories of saintly and devoted lives, perhaps the most cherished of all our Mission fields—comes the following appeal, the earnest, pleading, beseeching cry of five hundred Christian toilers, met recently in conference in Calcutta :—

“This gathering of missionary workers is deeply impressed with the vastness of the work which remains to be performed before India can be won for Christ. Even in the great centres of population, where there is the largest number of missionaries, there are far fewer labourers than are imperatively required ; while many districts, with millions of inhabitants, are left to the care of but one or two ; and other tracts of country, equally populous and yearly becoming more accessible, have not a single Christian missionary resident among them. From all parts of the Indian Empire the cry is heard that there are abundant openings for labour. The whole land is free to the missionary, but no labourers ready to take it up ; and the numerous representatives from all parts of the mission field in India, Burmah, and Ceylon who are here present feel that an earnest appeal must be made to the churches in Europe and America for far more missionaries, both men and women. They therefore earnestly commend this subject to the prayerful attention of all the home churches and societies ; and, in the great Master's name, they urge with all the emphasis in their power the necessity of every effort being made to send forth a largely increased number of labourers into this vast and most important field, which is 'already white unto the harvest.' "

From China the appeal comes—

"Forty years ago China was a sealed country. Then, no missionary durst stand up in any city in China to preach Christ, and even twenty years ago there were only five spots in the whole of the empire on which the foreigner might pitch his tent.

"To-day the missionary may go and preach the Gospel in every province, and in almost every city, town, and hamlet of the land.

"Forty years ago there were only six church members in the whole of China ; to-day there are twenty thousand, and a Chinese Christian community of from thirty to forty thousand.

"The entire Protestant Church gives to China about 300 missionaries—less than one missionary to a million of souls.

"We MUST plead and pray, and appeal for more men, while we have any pleading power left."

From Africa our own brethren on the mighty Congo write :—

"To-day Central Africa lies wide open before us 1,400 miles of navigable water-way right into the very heart of the continent. We are only just now starting upon the unknown reaches of the mighty Congo. Trade and commerce have already passed on before us, and trading depots are already established towards the interior. Shall traders, palm-oil, and rubber hunters dare and do more than men who long to win jewels for the Saviour's crown? Will the churches at home allow this grand opportunity to slip by? The whole land open to the heralds of the Cross, and but a handful of missionaries!"

Other equally importunate and stirring appeals might be quoted from Ceylon, Japan, and Italy.

Surely, in the presence of such facts as these, the Christian Church stands in a new position of power and responsibility in respect to the evangelisation of the world. The work spreads out before us as it never did in the olden days—a field [white for harvest at our very doors. Now obligations are surely and swiftly springing up; it will not suffice to make our past efforts the standard and measure for the efforts of to-day; our opportunities are unexampled, and our efforts must correspond.

To-day it is within the power of the Christian Church to publish the glad tidings of salvation all the world over, so that speedily the blessed message may fall upon every human ear. To-day it is possible to do this, not after generations have passed into darkness and beyond the grave, but now—within the limit of a few years only. Statistics amply justifying this statement might easily be given, but they would scarcely aid us in grasping the practical problem. Did commerce need it, a mercantile agency would be established in every centre of human life in less than ten years; and cannot Christianity, with its far loftier motives and sublimer consecration, outrun mere trade and worldly greed?

As individual Christians, surely to-day our own personal fidelity to our Master is brought to the test. To stand with the Gospel in our hands, the Saviour's last command ringing in our ears, and the whole world lying in darkness before us—face to face with such grand opportunities and such sublime privileges, content with the meagre measure of past efforts and past sacrifices—this surely is faithlessness to Christ and cruelty to our brother. “He that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?”

EASTERN MISSIONS.

INDIA.

Undoubtedly the close of the year 1882 will be memorable in future days from the gatherings of the Decennial Conference of Missionaries of all Denominations and from all parts of India and Ceylon, which commenced its sittings in Calcutta on December the 28th under the presidency of Sir Henry Ramsay, K.C.S.I. One of our missionaries writes:—

“This great Conference was by far the largest assemblage of missionaries which the world has ever seen. Including members of the Calcutta Missionary Conference, nearly five hundred workers were present. The members belonged to a large number of different denominations; they came from all parts of India, with varying religious views, personal idiosyncracies, and strong convictions as to modes of work, yet there was not a word spoken or an act done that was inconsistent with Christian love.

"It was no part of the object of Conference to pass resolutions on any of the many subjects that came under discussion, but one resolution it did pass. An earnest appeal from the whole Conference to the home churches and missionary societies to send out more labourers to the great Mission field of India. Not only is it a field which, entrusted to us as it has been by Providence, we are bound to cultivate; but it has begun in many places to yield rich and astonishing results. Very touching were the words of Mr. Bennett, the father of the Conference, when with a full heart he spoke of what God had wrought since he came to India fifty-three years ago, and what might be confidently hoped for and expected in the future. He had found on his first arrival only a few missionaries, among whom were Carey in Serampore, and Judson in Burmah, and he had been spared to see a host of workers and a larger amount of fruit than he could ever have hoped to see reaped in his time.

In connection with the gatherings of this Conference a most important volume of Decennial statistics for 1871-1881, relating to Protestant mission work in India, Ceylon, and Burmah has been issued.

The facts reported in these tables are most cheering and stimulating. Seed sown long years ago by heroic, self-sacrificing men is springing up in many directions, and to-day is bringing forth fruit.

Taking the whole field covered by these statistics—viz., India, Ceylon, and Burmah—the results may be thus summarised:—

"Native Christians: Ratio of Increase.—The general summary of results given below shows an advance all along the line, and in some of the most important items on a progressing ratio of increase. The number of native Christians in India, Burmah, and Ceylon was—

In 1861 . . . 213,370	In 1881 . . . 528,590

In India alone there were—

In 1851 . . . 91,092	In 1871 . . . 224,258
In 1861 . . . 138,731	In 1881 . . . 417,372

The rate of increase in India from 1851 to 1861 was about 53 per cent.; that from 1861 to 1871 was 61 per cent.; that from 1871 to 1881 has been 86 per cent.

"Church Members.—The number of church members is, perhaps, the best test of progress. In India, Burmah, and Ceylon the numbers stand thus:—

For 1851 . . . 17,306	For 1871 . . . 78,494
For 1861 . . . 47,274	For 1881 . . . 145,097

In India alone the numbers are—

For 1851 . . . 14,661	For 1871 . . . 52,816
For 1861 . . . 24,976	For 1881 . . . 113,325

Thus the number nearly doubled between 1851 and 1861 ; it more than doubled between 1861 and 1871 ; and again it has more than doubled between 1871 and 1881.

“Stations and Missionaries.”—The number of central stations in India has increased in the decade from 423 to 569, the foreign ordained agents from 488 to 586, and the native ordained agents from 225 to 461. This increase of foreign missionaries is worthy of more special notice, because in the previous decade their number was almost stationary, and the compilers of the 1871 tables regarded this fact as ‘a sign of diminishing interest in Indian Missions.’ They instanced the five societies that had the largest number of Indian missionaries, and showed that those societies had 27 fewer foreign missionaries in 1871 than in 1861, and, but for the new societies, the number of foreign missionaries in India would have diminished in that decade. In this decade no such ground exists for apprehending ‘diminished interest in Indian Missions’ on the part of those five societies : their foreign missionaries number 23 more in 1881 than in 1871, and their native missionaries are 279 in 1881 against 140 in 1871—that is, the number of their native missionaries has about doubled in the decade. The following table shows the foreign and native missionaries of these five societies, not including native evangelists :—

Native Christian Contributions.—Nearly two rupees, or four shillings sterling, a-year is shown to have been contributed for church purposes by every church member in the native churches.”

In their Report for 1881-82 the Committee stated, in connection with the visit of the recent deputation to India and Ceylon, that they had not, up to that date, had opportunity for deliberating upon various important matters referred to the examination and report of their Secretary during his travels in the East. They are now, however, in a position to say that two or three of the most weighty and difficult of these questions have been deliberated upon and settled—viz., the Indian Mission Secretariat, the Calcutta Mission Press, and the College at Serampore.

On these subjects detailed reports were presented to the Committee, and, as the result of careful consideration, the Committee resolved to separate the duties of the Indian Financial Secretariat from the conduct of the Mission Press, and laid down certain plans of action for the future, which, in their judgment, they confidently believe will prove of much advantage to the work of the Society in India. In accordance with these plans the Rev. George Kerry has been appointed Indian Financial Secretary, and the Rev. J. W. Thomas Superintendent of the Mission Press.

With regard to Serampore College—in view of the urgent and pressing need of a thoroughly well equipped institution for the education and training of NATIVE Christians for the work of evangelists, school teachers, and pastors in Bengal—the Committee have resolved to relinquish the college classes as at present constituted (for the preparation of students for the University examinations), to give up the heathen teachers at present employed on the college staff, and to make the institution, for the future, mainly and avowedly a Native Christian Training Institution to be presided over by an experienced Vernacular speaking missionary.

It is also intended that the native Christian students shall have the practical advantage of becoming personally familiar with evangelistic and itinerant work by association with the president of the College in bazaar and village preaching, and so be the more fully prepared for their life work by actual contact with it while under training and preparation.

In taking this step the Committee believe they are only acting upon some of the main lines laid down by the illustrious men of Serampore who founded the College.

Dr. Carey, in the first record that can be found relating to this institution, writing to Dr. Ryland in 1817, says :—

“We have bought a piece of ground adjoining the Mission premises, on which there is an old house, and which, for the present, may be sufficient for the instruction of those whom God may give unto us. But we should be glad to see, before our removal by death, a better house erected. I conceive that the work of duly preparing as large a body as possible of Christian natives of India for the work of Christian pastors and itinerants is of immense importance. English missionaries will never be able to instruct the whole of India. The pecuniary resources and the number of missionaries required for the Christian instruction of the millions of Hindustan can never be supplied from England, and India will never be turned from her grossness of idolatry to serve the true and living God unless the grace of God rest abundantly on converted natives to qualify them for mission work, and, unless by the instrumentality of those who care for India, they be sent forth to the field. In my judgment, therefore, it is on native evangelists that the weight of the great work must ultimately rest."

And many other extracts to the same effect could be quoted, if needful.

When the requisite plans are finally arranged, the Society will have in India two institutions specially designed for the education and equipment of NATIVE CHRISTIAN youth—viz., one in the North-west, at Delhi, under the care of the Rev. R. F. Guyton for Hindoo and Urdoo speaking young men, and the other for Bengalis at Serampore.

In this connection it should also be reported that the College Council has recently been filled up by the appointment, by the Rev. J. Trafford, M.A., and Meredith White Townshend, Esq. (the only surviving members), of the three following gentlemen, viz. :—

HENRY MASON BOMPAS, Esq., Q.C.

EDWARD RAWLINGS, Esq., and

ALFRED HENRY BAYNES.

The Council therefore now consists of five members, the full number provided for by the Royal Charter of Incorporation.

For the arduous and noble work that Serampore College has done during a long and memorable past the Committee feel they cannot be too thankful; for the faithful and devoted services of a long line of specially qualified and gifted men who have been at its helm they bless God, and they desire to treasure the remembrance of their names and toils as a sacred trust, calling upon their successors to emulate their labours and continue their struggles, not, perhaps, on precisely the same lines, for the "order changeth," but yet with precisely the same aims and spirit.

Without at all entering into the question of the relative importance of what is known as the higher culture in Christian colleges as compared with other branches of missionary enterprise, the Committee desire to point out that in the great matter of education India has undergone a vast change during the past twenty-five years.

What the outcome of the recently appointed Royal Commission on Education that is now sitting, and which has been engaged in taking valuable and important evidence all over the continent of India, may be, is, of course, uncertain; but it is most certainly to be hoped that one result will be a reversal of the policy represented by the present division of the education vote, and the apportionment of a much larger sum for primary and elementary education, leaving, to a large extent, the higher collegiate and university education to be paid for by those who are well able to do so, and should be compelled to do so.

Undoubtedly, one great need of the Christian Native Church in India to-day is a well-equipped native ministry. One of our missionaries writes—

“What are the native Christian churches, associated with our Mission, to do when their present pastors pass away? There are no agencies at present at work to train and prepare suitable successors, or to furnish either evangelists or school teachers. Our urgent, pressing need is a good native training institution where this special work shall be carried on, for without it it will be, I think, almost impossible to consolidate and extend the Native Christian Church in Bengal.”

The Committee feel, therefore, that, in making the arrangements now contemplated with regard to the future of Serampore College, they are only endeavouring to meet one of the pressing needs of the Native Church, to longer neglect which will only mean to imperil the noble work already achieved.

All the reports of the past year from the missionaries at work in Bengal and the North-West, the Committee are thankful to say, indicate progress.

One special feature common to Upper and Lower India alike is the increasingly large numbers of Scriptures and Scripture portions sold to the people. In many districts there is a marked and growing spirit of inquiry, and a manifest desire to read the “sacred book of the Christians,” and in not a few cases the people have brought difficult passages from the Scriptures with an earnest request that the missionary would “make them plain.”

The Rev. Robert Spurgeon, of Barisal, writes:—

“Brother James and I sold large quantities of gospels and distributed tracts by the hundreds daily in the streets and squares. Almost every evening we disposed of 160 gospels. This we did in the following way:—We would stand at a street corner with our hands full of books and sing some sweet Bengali hymn; after which a short address about Jesus would be given, and then the books would be offered for sale. The people would very frequently reply, ‘You go on singing and we’ll buy the books.’ And they were as good as their word. So we continued singing and selling, selling and singing, until we sold all we had and the people had been supplied. If all had been supplied, we would move to another street corner and work in the same manner. Thus we went from street to street, selling and preaching and singing continually, until, in a little more than a fortnight, we disposed of a very large number of gospels."

Mr. Evans, of Monghyr, reports the SALE of 2,800 copies of the gospels and 7,200 tracts; these were eagerly purchased, and more than Rs. 180 were realised by their sale. Over 76,000 Christian tracts have been issued from the Monghyr press. Referring to this work, Mr. Evans writes:—

"At the great Kumbh Mela at Allahabad, with Mr. Bate and his party, we sold in a few days no less than 1,000 gospels and 3,000 tracts. I consider the selling of Scriptures and tracts THE work to be most of all attended to in Melas, where the people have little or no time or inclination for quietly listening to preaching, though both works should be attended to."

Systematic and repeated itinerant evangelistic work has also been carried on with most cheering results.

With regard to the importance of system and method in this kind of aggressive work, an experienced missionary writes:—

"No one who is acquainted with the darkness in regard to spiritual things that enshrouds the heathen mind, and the strength of their attachment to idolatry, expects much immediate fruit from the occasional presentation of Divine truth to heathen auditors. In the great majority of cases it requires repeated hearings of the truths of Christianity before a heathen learns to apprehend the new ideas which the familiar words of his own language are intended to convey to his mind. The Christian ideas of sin, of salvation, of happiness, of misery, of the future life, of God and worship, are all so different from those connected with these words in the heathen mind that the hearers need to be educated in the new ideas before they in any measure apprehend them. And until they come to understand these new ideas, they will not affect their hearts. For Christianity affects the heart by the enlightening of the mind. As the heathen have no just conception of the holiness and majesty of God so they have no adequate conception of the nature of sin. Indeed, the hearers must get the idea of the true God, the Creator and Preserver of all things, before they can get the first idea of their obligation to fear and worship Him; for hitherto they have believed in and served those which, though called gods, are not gods. They must then be convinced that these gods which they have worshipped are vanity.

And the experiences of many of our most successful and devoted missionaries confirm the truthfulness of this statement.

Mr. Bion, of Dacca, who may most fittingly be termed the "Apostle of Eastern Bengal," calls special attention to this matter, and urges strongly that "districts should be regularly and repeatedly visited, so that the message of light and life may be as 'line upon line, and precept upon precept, here a little and there a little,' as it is only by the frequent reiteration of the 'old, old story' of the love of God in giving His Son to die for sinners that we can confidently hope that the rays of Divine truth will enter into the darkened minds of the peoples of India."

Our native missionary Brojo Nath Banerjea, of Jessore, reports that

"in one of my regular preaching tours I remained in the town of Bongong for a fortnight, during which time we preached the Gospel in the bazar and houses, and in the surrounding villages and markets. A young man named Beepin Beharry Haldar heard the Gospel of our Lord; his heart was opened by the blessed Spirit of God; he came one morning to our lodging and expressed his desire to become a Christian.

"After a few days we came to Jessore from Bongong, when Beepin Babu followed us, and, after careful examination, I baptized him; this young man suffered much persecution from his relatives and friends, but I am glad to report that from the time of his baptism he has been leading a devoted Christian life, and is a good example to our people and to the Hindoos and Mohammedans.

"I am very glad to write something which happened after the baptism of our dear Beepin Babu. His father-in-law, a very rich man who lives in a village about sixteen miles to the south of Jessore, took him to his house and showed him all his money and other things which he has, and told him that if he denied Christ he would give him all his money and everything which he had, as he had no other son. Beepin told his father-in-law that he could not deny his Saviour; if his father-in-law were to allow him to live at his house as his son, and not object to his confessing his Saviour, and allow him to preach the love of the Saviour in the nearest market, he would have no objection to take those things. His father-in-law would not consent, and shut him up in a room for twenty-one days as a prisoner for Jesus Christ. On the last day of his imprisonment he saw the key of the room through a venetian, and at midnight of the same day he opened the door and came to my house just like a man who comes from a prison."

From Barisal, Mr. Martin writes—

"We spent two months and a-half among the church during the rainy season, and had ample opportunities of witnessing their attachment to their Lord and Saviour. On Sundays we had overflowing congregations. The people evinced no lack of interest in religion, and many of them gave proof of their love to Christ by a cheerful submission to the ordinance of baptism. 162 men and women 'professed a good profession before many witnesses,' and put on Christ by baptism. At Koligram, thirty-eight were baptized; and at Chocksingha, twenty."

From Delhi, Mr. James Smith reports—

"The weekly services have increased to about forty, and the attendance, on the whole, has been both steady and encouraging. The schools have grown both in numbers and usefulness ; they now contain nearly 1,000 pupils, 150 of whom are the sons of native Christians. The boarding school has 25 scholars, and the preparatory normal classes will, we hope, soon supply material for a regular training school, capable of supplying teachers, evangelists, and pastors equal to the increasing wants of the extensive field we are trying to cultivate. Thirteen passed the lower standard at the last Government examination, a larger number than on any former occasion. The churches have grown towards maturity ; three of them have chosen pastors by unanimous votes, one of whom will be sustained entirely by his people ; the other two are schoolmasters. This is a step we have long desired to see taken, and trust it will, ere long, be followed by others. Forty-six have been baptized, and the cases where discipline had to be exercised have been few. On the whole, the churches appear to be in a peaceful, healthy state, and give good promise of future prosperity."

With regard to Scripture translation and literary work during the past year, Mr. Rouse reports "That he is engaged upon the Bengali New Testament Commentary commenced by the late Dr. Wenger, and has brought out a revised edition of Mark.

"That for the Calcutta Tract Society he has prepared during the past year a new Elementary Catechism, one or two tracts in English and Bengali, and commenced a series of tracts for Mohammedans, written in simple Bengali, with a small amount of Mussulman phraseology, chiefly religious."

The monthly Bengali magazine, Khristeya Bandhab, has been much appreciated and largely circulated.

In the North-West, Mr. Bate, of Allahabad, in addition to much Scripture translation and revision work, has prepared a valuable work entitled an examination of "The Claims of Ishmael as viewed by Mohammedans;" and Mr. Etherington, of Benares, has been engaged upon a revision of the Hindi Commentary.

"On all hands," writes a veteran brother, "there are most encouraging signs ; the intelligent, thoughtful natives are fast losing faith in their heathen systems, and turning their careful attention to the truths and the claims of the Christian religion. Soon, very soon, I believe, there will be a marvellous upheaval in this land. The temples everywhere are crumbling to pieces. New ones are seldom built, and never by the united efforts of the people. The great festivals are less numerously attended ; idols are regarded, not, as formerly, with devout veneration and unmingled awe, but with a suspicious superstition which must soon give way to contempt and indifference.

" 'I see the dawn and long for the day.' "

Keshub Chunder Sen, the head of the Theistic movement in the East, said, in a lecture delivered during the recent sittings of the great Missionary Conference in Calcutta :—

“It is no longer a question, how India shall be taken for Christ, for it is already His.”

This is by far too favourable a view to be accepted by Christians ; but, nevertheless, the progress of Christianity in India is truly remarkable. Christianity has become so prominent, and is spreading so rapidly, that it has in very many districts become a matter of thought and inquiry to the native mind.

More than eighty years ago, before a single convert had gladdened his heart, William Carey wrote :—

“India for Christ ; the day may be far distant, but it surely will come. My path seems hedged round with difficulties ; my fellow-countrymen here oppose, suspect, and hate me ; but I care not, for above all and over all GOD REIGNS, and my trust is in Him.”

India has two hundred and sixty millions of souls. What shall their future be ? Their faith in their old religions is being gradually undermined, the heathenish customs of thousands of years are rapidly and irrevocably passing away. Caste, that formidable barrier to social progress, and to the advancement of Christianity, is yielding to the mighty and persistent forces brought to bear against it. The youth of the best Hindoo families annually cross the ocean to England for their education, and by so doing break their caste ; but on their return, to be the doctors, barristers, and magistrates of the land, are still tolerated within the pale of Hindooism, because Hindooism cannot do without them. She gladly draws to herself any element of apparent strength to stave off what, after all, is inevitable. Hindooism is honeycombed with infidelity.

A new and Western civilisation is struggling with an old and Oriental civilisation for supremacy. The result is certain—the old, and with it all that goes to make it up, must disappear. Whether the new will be a blessing or a curse depends on the efforts of the Christian Church and her missionaries. Civilisation without religion is a curse, as it only increases men's capacity for wickedness ; but civilisation springing from true religious principles and sound morality, is the highest type of national existence. Shall this be given to India ? This is the aim of the Church, and she has grand encouragement in her noble enterprise.

But we need patience and persistence. It took more than two hundred years for Buddhism to conquer India, although it called to its service missionaries whose zeal, self-sacrifice, and heroic daring were equalled only by the servants of the Cross, while in numbers they were immeasurably more. It is a stupendous work to upset the faiths and traditions of a country ten times the size of our own.

A beautiful legend runs current in India to-day to the effect that, at the close of the present century, the vast Ganges River is to lose its sacred character, which will be transferred to the great Nerbudda, or some unknown stream much farther west.

May we not indulge the hope that, in some dim and prophetic fashion, this legend, so common and wide-spread, may point to that more blessed river of God's grace, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb, which already during all these nineteen centuries has made glad the hearts and lives of God's children, and which yet to the millions of India shall bring rest and purity and peace?

CEYLON.

The reports from our missionaries in Ceylon indicate steady and solid progress.

The plan adopted a few years ago of native evangelists going out "two and two" on preaching tours has been greatly blessed of God, and in many districts the seed of the Kingdom sown in this manner has sprung up and brought forth a rich harvest.

The school work has also greatly prospered.

Writing of the Colombo district, the Rev. F. D. Waldo reports :—

"We have 2,212 scholars in our day-schools, as compared with 1,965 last year; of these, 609 are girls and 1,603 boys; the large majority are children of Buddhist parents. The Sunday-school work, also, in connection with the native churches has much increased, and we have a much larger number of teachers as well as scholars."

In connection with these day-schools in Ceylon it should be remembered that they are thoroughly Christian schools, and that all the scholars are well grounded in the Scriptures and the great facts of the Christian faith; they are indeed most powerful and direct missionary agencies, and cannot fail to produce rich and blessed results. Between three and four thousand children are in this way brought under direct Christian instruction, while, through the influence of the teacher over his scholars, a way is often opened up for visitation in their homes, and opportunity secured for pressing home upon the parents the claims of the Gospel.

Mrs. Waldock, writing of her Native Girls' School in Colombo, says :—

“The progress of the girls in their studies during the past year has been remarkably good. Ninety-three per cent. of passes were obtained at the recent Government examination, six standards being presented, and we have since received a most favourable report of the school from the Government examiners.

“Best of all, however, we have to rejoice that several of the dear girls have sought and found the Divine Saviour. Five were baptized in November last, and there are still others who desire to be baptized. It is pleasant to be able to state that three of those baptized are the daughters of our native evangelists ; the father of another is a Buddhist, and her mother a Roman Catholic, but she has since died, trusting simply in Christ for salvation, having been led to Jesus principally through her daughter's reading the Bible to her during a long illness.”

At Grand Pass—so long associated with the devoted labours of Mr. James Silva—it has happily been found practicable to maintain the independence of the native church by the election to the pastorate of Mr. J. G. Ratnayake, a son-in-law of the late Mr. Silva. The native church at Mattakkuliya, also within the bounds of Colombo and on the same side, has been associated with Grand Pass, under one pastorate. Sixteen natives have been baptized during the past year at Grand Pass, “and there are at present many inquirers ;” and new girls' schools have been opened at both places.

At Batagama a new sub-station has been established and a new girls' school with fifty-five on the rolls.

At Madampe, Mr. Waldock writes :—

“The contributions of the people have been larger than in past years ; the people have resolved to bear the expenses of the preaching tours amongst the surrounding heathen for next year ; they have opened a subscription for building a mission-house, and established a society for the relief of the poor.”

From the Kandy district, Mr. Lapham also reports encouraging success. Kandy may be described as the great stronghold of Buddhism ; but even in this district “many have been brought to Christ, and made a public profession of their faith in Him by Christian baptism, while the special evangelistic efforts put forth by the native churches have been the means of carrying the Gospel of Christ into many towns and villages where the name of Christ has scarcely ever been heard before.

From Ratnapura, the centre of the Sabaragamawa district, Mr. Pigott reports :—

“The year just closed, though not without its disappointments and griefs, has yet been one of much encouragement and blessing. Our congregations are larger than ever, and a spirit of friendliness towards ourselves and our work largely prevails.

“The new chapel is near completion, and we trust it may be opened ‘free from debt.’ The new girls’ school-house is fast rising up. The schools are all well attended. Large numbers of Scriptures and Christian books have been sold and circulated, and on all hands the work is expanding and hopeful.”

Since the departure from the island of the Rev. T. R. Stevenson, the pastorate of the English Baptist church in Colombo has been vacant. Early in the current year, however, Captain R. Townshend Passingham, of Dover, very generously consented to take charge of the church for a season pending the appointment of a permanent minister. Already much of blessing has attended the labours of Captain Passingham, and the church is in a very prosperous and united condition, notwithstanding the cloud of financial depression that hangs over the island consequent upon the repeated failure of the coffee crops.

CHINA.

In a recent article on “China and the Chinese,” Consul Medhurst writes :—

“Only let an intelligent Christian spirit once take hold of and possess the millions of China, and you shall secure a permanent investment of highest good for all mankind ; for, although slower and less docile than the Japanese, harder to win by far than the soft islanders of the Pacific, and less sensitive and responsive than the African, the Chinese have vastly more depth and stability than any of these.”

Work done for China will most certainly tell on the future of the world’s history, for the Chinese are a most enterprising, hardy people, and have very fittingly been styled “the colonisers of the world.” Their endurance of all climates, ranging from the icebergs of the North to the most malarious countries of the Tropics, is superior to that of any other race of men. If the hard work of the world were to be farmed out to the lowest bidder, with political protection and honest pay, it seems likely that the Chinese race would take the contract. They defy all competition of other inferior races.

No others can live on less, or make more of a little; none have so much hardihood or such persistent industry; none require less police regulation or restraint; none are more patient under abuse; and yet few races have more stamina or clearer conceptions of their rights.

At the close of last year the Committee thankfully reported that the staff of the Society in China had been reinforced by two new brethren, Messrs. Sowerby and Whitewright, and, during the year now under review, the staff has been further augmented by the appointment of the Rev. Francis and Mrs. James, formerly associated with the China Inland Mission.

Mr. and Mrs. James have just reached Tsing Chu Fu, Shantung, where they will for the present be located with Messrs. Kitts and Whitewright, and carry on the work hitherto undertaken by the Rev. A. G. and Mrs. Jones, recently returned to England for much needed rest and change.

Referring to the departure of Mr. Jones for England, the brethren in China, writing to the Committee, say :—

“The return of our dear brother Jones to England awakens in our minds two very different feelings. The first is a deep regret that we don't have him to guide the growing church in Shantung, where God has so abundantly blessed his self-denying labours in the past; the other is a sincere hope that the advantages gained for our work in China will be such as, in a few years, to far outweigh the immediate loss of his returning.

“We are very thankful to the Society for all the help that has been given us and for sending us more men in answer to our former appeals, but still the rapid changes which are taking place in China, and the vastness of the field, dwarfing our kingdoms at home, make us feel that our Mission ought to be put on a far more efficient basis.

“For weeks before our brother's departure we discussed together various methods for the better furtherance of mission work in China, and he now, fully acquainted with our views, goes home to lay before you these methods.

“We feel well assured you will give to the representations which, on our behalf, Mr. Jones will lay before you, your most careful consideration, and we hope that you will enable our brother speedily to return with a large staff of most efficient and devoted men who mean to live and die to win China to Christ.”

With regard to the principles underlying the missionary policy of our brethren in China, the following extracts written by one of the workers on the field will be read with interest :—

“In our judgment, paying foreign money, or giving any equivalent for the preaching of the Gospel within the range of native church action, seems to be the way of procuring the extension of the truth most surely tending to attract the worst people to it. Use foreign money for what it was given—to plant ; and, once planted, use no more.

“China can never be evangelised but by fearlessly telling the inquirer from the very beginning it is his duty, not only to spread the Truth, but to support teachers of it in such a way as his spiritual instincts and appetites dictate to him.”

“It is contrary to our principles, therefore, to use the funds of the Society for local church purposes. We leave the expense and trouble of teaching to those Christians whom God raises, qualifies, and moves to it. We use the Society’s money for those things that concern China at large ; or such parts as have no organised church.

“We have recognised that, as in the case of civilisation with different forms in each country, so the Christian religion may naturally take different expression and form in various countries, while maintaining its essence pure and intact.

“We have, in our teaching, tried to adapt the teaching of Scripture to Chinese circumstances, to exhibit it in Chinese forms of thought and language, content if the true idea got there, without coining terms barbarous to them, or rejecting their old thought-moulds ; rather seeking to rescue and vitalise them once more.”

Since his arrival in England Mr. Jones has already had more than one interview with the Committee, and appealed most earnestly for a large and immediate reinforcement for the China Mission.

Writing to the Committee, he says :—

“We must have seven or eight men at once, and seven more to follow quickly. This number is very, very moderate—meanly moderate, we consider.

“My colleagues and myself notice that the interest of the churches in China is decidedly low—China is not pushed. We feel that the claims of China will stand weighing as well as counting, and we desire to consent to nothing small, petty, or trifling for her.”

Reporting on the work of the past year in Shantung, Mr. Jones writes :—

“In the county of I-To, where we have our main work, the Christians have pushed out some five new sub-stations. During the summer there were received into the church about 130 persons, of the same stamp, pretty much, as in former years, except that, on the whole, as years advance we generally get a better prepared candidate, and one whose ideal of the Christian Church is something purer and more unmixed than it was to those entering before him.

“This year, for the first time, I can report branches of the church in five counties with regularly established worship, and at our Presbytery or Union we had visitors and delegates from eight counties.”

After reporting on many other deeply interesting matters, Mr. Jones proceeds :—

"The contributions of the native Christians for the year are, doubtless, quite up to the average of former, and may be in excess of past, years, but, as I am writing this on ship-board, I have not the actual returns by me.

"But far, far above contributions in value, stand the faith and patience, the zeal and endurance, that these Christians exhibit.

"We know full well that they can have no motives of a worldly character ; we know that, as missionaries, all we can do for them is indeed very, very little, and whatever of advance in Christian virtue there is must be from some source which is hidden with God above. You cannot account for it in any other way that I know of. Yes, indeed, years as they pass are only showing more and more of the power of God's truth and spirit, and every thoughtful review can only end in a deepened conviction that the work is of God.

"No one can meet these simple, truthful villagers and see them unite in the worship of the true God, no one can watch them as they hear His Word applied to themselves, without being deeply convinced that they are men who are citizens of another and a better country. Yes ; weak, despised, forsaken on earth, pilgrims in semblance, but possessed with that Divine ideal and enthusiasm which have ever and alone made Christ's Church 'all glorious within' among all the organisations of the earth."

Writing from Tai Yuen, in the North, on the work of the Mission in Shansi, Mr. Sowerby says :—

"Mr. Richard left us in July last to superintend the Mission work in Shantung during Mr. Jones's absence. He has not yet returned (January, 1883). The management of the work of this station, therefore, has fallen to the lot of Mrs. Richard and myself.

"We have done our best to maintain the work as if he had been here."

Mr. Sowerby reports most hopefully of the Mission, and gives many interesting illustrations of the patient and devoted labours of the Chinese evangelists.

As the result of these labours, he says :—

"Many are at present under Christian instruction and joining regularly in worship who, at first, bitterly opposed the doctrine. In many villages there are numerous inquirers—among others, two Buddhist priests, who are most anxious to be taught the way to heaven. Many are waiting to be baptized, and the prospects are most cheering

Referring to one of the Chinese evangelists in particular, Mr. Sowerby writes :—

"Last summer I went with him for a short trip to the north of Tai Yuen, and I was really amazed by the tender patience of this good brother ; his good humour never once failed. He was often weary and hungry, but he still kept on answering the questions of the crowds that came to hear him with untiring patience. He is a most reverent, devout, simple, earnest, and straightforward preacher. In six of the villages where he visits there are little groups of men learning the truth, and some nine or ten will be baptized in the spring, I hope.

"If these numbers seem small, you must please remember that the work here in the North is of a pioneering character, and that the difficulties in our way are enormous. Of these, not the least, certainly, is the intense ignorance of the country people, many of them not having the faintest idea of God, and do not even understand what is meant by their own expression 'tienti' (heaven and earth), and are only saved from absolute materialism by their faith that everything has its appropriate 'shen' (or spirit), and by their belief in devils, classing all foreigners amongst the latter."

During the past year Mrs. Richard has devoted herself with untiring energy to special work amongst Chinese women, and has been greatly cheered in her labours; while school work, the circulation of the Scriptures and suitable religious books, and medical work have been carried on with large and hopeful promise of success.

Reviewing his first year's work in China, Mr. Sowerby writes:—

"It is with profound gratitude to Almighty God that I look back upon my brief past here, and with great hopefulness I look forward to the future.

"In this dark Northern province of Shansi there are indeed evident signs of awakening, and, from intercourse with experienced missionaries, I judge that never before was there so much real ground for hopefulness. The work that lies before us is immense; as I pore over the map of Shansi, and think of its teeming millions, and so few, so very few, to make known to them the Way of life, my heart almost sinks down within me. Can you not send another brother who, in a year or two, might be ready to go north with me and take up a fresh position with me in the front? Are there none ready to do battle for Christ with the same bravery and devotion that were lately exhibited by our troops in Egypt? We do indeed most pressingly need more help, but, till it comes, God help us to battle on alone in His strength as bravely as we can."

MORE LABOURERS!—this is the cry that is sent across the sea by all our brethren in China. This is the one great burden of the appeal of Mr. Jones to the Mission Committee and the churches of our land. MORE LABOURERS, specially for the Chinese; for, in the words of Mr. Jones,

"They have but few to speak for them. The African and the Hindoo have princes and nations to take their part. Brethren, we rejoice in the work of our Society in India and Africa. China, India, Africa! But India has the energy of the British Empire working for it, and the Negro has had for one hundred years the sympathies and efforts of the whole Teutonic family. Let me show you that YOUR LABOURS WILL NOT BE LOST ON CHINA. I know that the emotional characteristics of the Negro are most engaging, but we scan his country in vain for the evidence of weight or greatness. No monuments, no literature, no chronicles, no institutions to carry on the past or guarantee the future ; no laws, no rights, no national spirit nor no social framework.

"IN CHINA YOU HAVE ALL—a Civilisation and a History, a people and their sages excelled by none but the Hebrews ; not the clinging of the vine, but the massive proportion and durability of the oak. A people in the fulness of their vigour, and never manifesting it more than now. Such is the people and such the task to which the Baptists of England are called."

J A P A N.

One of the greatest of modern authorities on Japan asks—

"Can Japan go on in the race she has begun ? Can a nation appropriate the fruits of Christian civilisation without its root ? I believe not. I cannot but think that unless the people be thoroughly educated, and a far mightier spiritual force replace Shinto and Buddhism, little will be gained but a glittering veneer of material civilisation with the corroding results of foreign vices and sins. Thank God, however, silently, but surely, a new sun is rising on Japan ; gently, but resistlessly, Christianity is leavening the nation.

"With these mighty forces that centre in pure Christianity, and under that Almighty providence which calls up one nation and casts down another, I cherish the confident anticipation that Japan will in time take and hold her equal place amongst the foremost nations of the world, and that in the onward march of civilisation which follows the sun, this 'Sun Land' of the Orient may lead the nations of Asia that are now so prominently appearing upon the theatre of universal history."

And the course of recent events appears to confirm this view of the great future that lies before Japan. On all hands the people are giving indications of a spirit of inquiry into the truths of the Christian religion. They are in many parts losing faith in the old, and longing for something better.

Our one solitary labourer there, Mr. White, reports :—

"The authorities here no longer regard the Christian missionary with distrust ; for, on the contrary, there is every clear indication that they are beginning to recognise in the Christian work he is doing a substantial good to their country ; and not a few Japanese who are in no sense Christians are coming to see that Christianity is the only sure basis upon which the true and lasting civilisation for which Japan so earnestly longs must be reared.

"Just now, while I write, the Minister of Commerce has given permission to a committee of missionaries and others to use a large Government building for the purpose of lecturing upon Christianity. This certainly may be taken as indicating the spirit of those in authority towards the teachings of Christ. It indeed fills me with gratitude to think that here in Japan—famous for her persecutions and for the fierce opposition to Christianity which was manifested only a few years ago—we can preach without let or hindrance the pure Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. The Lord hath done great things for us here in Japan, whereof we are indeed glad."

Mr. White reports most encouragingly of the work during the past year. The native evangelist has had great success following his labours; many have been converted, and many more appear to be "very near the Kingdom."

The members of the native church are also earnestly at work, each one deeming it "a duty and a privilege to be a missionary."

With regard to the work of Christian ladies in Japan, Mr. White writes:—

"Both my wife and myself feel the importance of women's work in connection with our church and general missionary operations. Ladies are able, in many instances, to accomplish a great work and produce great results. I may mention as an instance the work of Miss Sands, a lady missionary of the American Baptist Mission. Miss Sands, besides conducting school work, has been the means, under God, of building up a church which numbers about forty members. This is the result of her own personal work entirely. The place is Chôgo, about a day's journey from Yokohama. Decidedly now is the time for lady labourers to be thrust into this part of the great mission field."

The one earnest, repeated appeal of Mr. White is for further help. He writes:—

"I am often discouraged at what seems like a lack of interest shown by the churches and friends at home in this part of the vast mission field. Five years ago I commenced the mission here in Japan; is it not time I had a colleague?"

"May Jesus, the Divine Lord of missions, constrain the churches to give of their means, so that this, together with the whole of the vast field of the world, shall be filled with labourers.

"Do, I earnestly pray you, send me a colleague. This has been my cry for years past; still I must plead and appeal; I cannot help doing so. Will the churches at home always turn a deaf ear? Would my poor words could secure a response: but the Lord knows all, and I wait on Him."

In the words of one of the most devoted missionaries of the American Board, referring to the marvellous progress of Mission work in this land of the "Rising Sun":—

"Never before has the Gospel wrought such great and speedy changes as during the past seven years in Japan. It is not only the most remarkable chapter in the history of modern missions, but there is nothing in the history of the world to compare with it! We talk about the early triumphs of Christianity, but the early records of the Church, bright as they may be, pale in the light of what is taking place before our eyes at the present time. Even Madagascar offers nothing to compare with Japan!"

WESTERN MISSIONS.

WEST AFRICA—CAMEROONS AND VICTORIA.

Early in the year the Rev. Q. W. Thomson, of Victoria, was compelled, by failure of health, to leave his work for a few months and voyage to England. During his brief visit to this country he has been most untiring in his labours to deepen and increase the interest of the churches in the important work of the Mission on the West Coast, and not a few can bear glad testimony to the power and inspiration of his impressive addresses.

With a view to provide further help for Bethel Station, Cameroons, the Committee, after conference with Mr. Thomson, resolved to secure the services of an experienced missionary school teacher. They also took steps to provide a substitute for Mr. Dixon, of Victoria, compelled by family circumstances to relinquish his work early in the current year and return to England; and, finally, they resolved to send out a third female school teacher, to help in case of sickness, and occupy the post of either Miss Saker or Miss Comber, at Bethel or Victoria, during needful change to this country to recruit health. For these positions, in the good providence of God they have been led to accept the offers of service from Mr. Samuel Silvey, of Manchester, Mr. Thos. Lewis, of Haverfordwest College, and Miss Gertrude Fletcher, of Liverpool; and, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Thomson, these friends left Liverpool early in February for the West Coast, and, by tidings received only a few days ago, the Committee are thankful to learn they have safely reached Cameroons. At the close of last year, also, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson returned to their work at Bakundu.

During the visit of Mr. Thomson to this country the Committee, after prolonged consideration, arranged for a re-adjustment of the financial affairs of the West African Mission in accordance with the plan so successfully adopted in the Indian Mission, and Mr. Thomson has been appointed Local Financial Secretary. The Committee anticipate that the new arrangements will tend much to the efficient and economical working of the West Coast stations.

From the actual labourers on the field encouraging reports have been received, indicating a remarkable measure of blessing and success. The Rev. J. J. Fuller writes from Bethel Station, Cameroons :—

“In almost every department of our work during the past year have we had special encouragement.

“A growing desire to know the truth has sprung up on all hands, and a spirit of active inquiry awakened. I have recently baptized nineteen persons here. We have a large inquirers’ class, and Sunday and day schools are well attended.

“The native church, too, has been doing good aggressive work. They have recently put up, by voluntary labour, a building in a neglected part of the station for preaching in ; and these services are well attended, and conducted entirely by the members of the native church. The church contributions amount to over £50, and, after paying all worship expenses, a good balance is left in hand. It is cheering also to see King Acqua always in his place at all our services.”

From Mortonville, Jabari, Dibombari, and Bakundu, the reports are also encouraging ; many during the past year have confessed Christ by baptism, and the schools are very prosperous.

Miss Saker has continued her self-denying labours in connection with the Bethel school, and has had evident proof that her efforts are producing cheering results. Following in the steps of her heroic and consecrated father, she finds increasing joy in her work, and only wishes she “had more strength and energy to give to it.”

It is also matter for special thanksgiving that the road into the interior seems to be opening up in a very promising manner. Mr. Fuller reports :—

“The water way is now quite open as far as Bakundu, and, by the desire of King Bell, a station is just about being formed at Balung. A plot of land having been given for this purpose to the Mission, I am sending a suitable native teacher to occupy it ;—work towards the interior, so long delayed, seems now most promising—the road is open and the way made plain.”

From Bell Town, or Townhead Station, Mr. Shred reports large and attentive gatherings to hear the Gospel, many inquirers, and increasing attendances at day and Sunday Schools. “1882,” writes Mr. Shred, “has been most richly blessed by God, and 1883 dawns upon us with the brightest of prospects."

At Victoria, Miss Comber and Mr. Dixon have carried on their school work with earnestness and success; their schools have been largely attended, and there is a marked improvement in the scholars—"not a few of them giving hopeful indications of a change of heart." On all hands the future is full of promise, and it seems as if the seed sown in former years was about to produce a fruitful harvest.

THE CONGO.—CENTRAL AFRICA.

In the Report for last year the Committee narrated the steps that had been taken to secure and send out six additional Missionaries to the Congo—in accordance with the urgent appeal of Mr. Crudgington, who had been sent to England, in the name of his brethren, for this especial purpose. At that date three of the six were still needed; during the past year, these have been "thrust forth" by the Lord of the harvest, and Messrs. Moolinaar, Hughes, and Doke have been appointed by the Committee to this difficult, but noble, enterprise.

The entire staff of the Congo Mission now consists of eleven brethren, occupying the following stations:—Mr. Crudgington at Underhill, or Wanga Wanga Station; Messrs. Butcher and Hughes at Baynesville, or Vunda; Messrs. Hartland and Moolinaar at Wathen, or Manyanga; Messrs. Comber and Bentley at Arthington, or Stanley Pool; and Messrs. Dixon and Weeks at San Salvador, with Messrs. Grenfell and Doke to superintend the transit of the steam-launch, Peace, from Banana to Stanley Pool, and her reconstruction at the latter station, as soon as her eight hundred sections shall all have been safely transported thither.

It will be remembered by many that, early in December last, a farewell meeting was held in the Mission House to take leave of Messrs. Grenfell and Doke, who left for Africa a few days afterwards in the mail steamship, Mandingo, taking with them the novel and specially constructed steam-launch, Peace, the generous gift of Mr. Robert Arthington, of Leeds.

On that occasion Mr. Grenfell said:—

"The construction of the ship had occupied a year, and as to its transport they might consider themselves fortunate if they succeeded in getting that done in the same period. It was a five weeks' journey to the mouth of the Congo; then they had a voyage of 110 miles by river to their first station at Underhill or Wanga Wagn. There the cases would be unshipped and placed in the Mission store, waiting the carriers. The first stage is overland to Baynesville, a journey of sixty miles, from which place our next station, Manyanga, a further distance of sixty miles, is reached by water, there then remains the fourth and last stage to Stanley Pool, a journey overland of between eighty and 100 miles. The carriers, under the guidance of one of their head men, marched in caravans, sometimes stretching to a mile in length, so that there was risk of some of the packages being lost or stolen. To avoid risk of that, they had every package sewn up in canvas and numbered, so that a duplicate could be sent from England at once if the original happened to go astray."

Once safely launched upon the Upper Congo, at Stanley Pool, she will have an uninterrupted course of nearly fifteen hundred miles right into the very centre of the vast continent, carrying her precious missionary freight into the regions beyond.

During the past year good progress has been made all along the line of the Mission, and to-day, as the result of the sanctified toil of our missionary brethren, our chain of stations is complete from the mouth of the Congo at Banana to the waters of the Upper River at Stanley Pool.

Ground for all the stations, except Stanley Pool or Arthington, has been purchased from the head men of each district, and rough buildings erected. At Stanley Pool a most suitable plot of land, with good harbourage for the steam launch Peace, has been leased, on very favourable terms, from the Belgian International Association.

In all their work our missionary brethren have been most anxious to make the one great object of their lives perfectly clear. They have carefully, and persistently refrained from identifying themselves in any way with trading or commercial enterprise. In the words of Mr. Comber :—

"We desire never to forget that we have to assume a very different character and standpoint from the Belgian Expedition : our aim is the salvation of the natives, not commerce.

"Nga-Liema, the great chief of Ntamo, had been expecting as large a present as Mr. Stanley had given ; but I told him, once for all, that he must distinguish between our Mission and the Belgian Expedition. We did not come to buy ivory and to trade ; we came to teach his people about God, to give medicine to the sick, to teach the children, and to be his good friends. Our one desire was to teach the people better ways, and make them nobler and happier ; we could not do as the traders did, for we were missionaries of Jesus Christ."

The one cry of the brethren to-day is for further help. In the words of Mr. Bentley :—

"If this Mission is to be worked worthily of the Master we serve, several men should be ready for forward stations by the time our steamer is afloat.

"The Belgian Expedition are planting their second station above the Pool, and there is no reason why we should not begin at once to plant stations among the friendly disposed people, who seem to be ready to-day to receive a missionary among them. A man with a little experience and common-sense might go among them and make good headway; but a new man, unused to language and customs, might easily make a mistake, and bring about a great disaster. If such men are at hand, stations might be planted, and the Peace might carry us forward, and yet forward, to fresh fields; and while she is yet in her prime she may lay the chain of stations up to the great Mburu river. It will be a great pity if she has to lie idle waiting for men to put into promising openings, and only begin to do her real work when she is old and shaky.

"In our anxiety and perplexity we can but plead with the Lord of the Harvest to thrust forth yet more labourers. What else can we do, when this is the waking thought in the morning, the burden on the mind all day—when this work and this field have our hearts, our lives, our every energy?

"If we had settled on the coast, as at Gaboon, intending to do what we could, it would be a different matter.

"But the Congo Mission has higher aims. We have to make Arthington (not Banana) a base for mission work along the vast and unknown reaches of the Upper River.

"If it is to be a puny effort, why all this expense of steamer, boats, and communications? If we are going to do the work in right worthy earnest, why should we not set about it at once? There is no advantage in delay—delay has been centuries too long already."

From San Salvador the tidings from Messrs. Dixon and Weeks are also very cheering. "The attendance at the day and Sunday schools is increasing—many of the boys are giving hopeful indications. The people hear gladly the message of the Gospel, and the surrounding tribes welcome the missionaries."

The one disturbing element, causing anxiety and apprehension, is the presence of the Portuguese Jesuit fathers, who are putting forth their most strenuous efforts to excite a feeling in the minds of the king and his people adverse to our brethren, and who, in the pursuit of this object, have adopted the most unscrupulous and reprehensible courses.

Portugal, true to her traditions and history in the past, is to-day little more than a tool of the Vatican, and the Cabinet of Lisbon is largely dominated by the Papal See.

Under these circumstances it will not be wondered at that the Committee have regarded with the greatest apprehension the reported negotiations of the British Government with the Cabinet of Lisbon with a view to the recognition by Great Britain of the assumed right of Portugal to the sovereignty of the Congo River and adjacent territories, and that, in the memorial which the Committee recently addressed to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the Right Hon. the Earl Granville, they stated :—

“That, having in view the history of Portuguese rule in Africa, especially in the Congo country three hundred years ago ; the deep-seated hatred of the natives of the Congo district to Portuguese authority ; and the terrible wrongs inflicted by the representatives of the Portuguese Crown for a long series of generations on the South-west Coast of Africa in connection with the slave trade, and in other ways, the Committee of the Baptist Missionary Society cannot but view with feelings of the gravest apprehension the proposed action of the Government of her Britannic Majesty in this matter.

“So far as the Committee of the Baptist Missionary Society can ascertain, her Majesty's Government for a long term of years have uniformly refused to acknowledge the assumed right of Portugal to the sovereignty of the Congo River, maintaining that any presumed right connected with priority of discovery in the fifteenth century has long since lapsed, Portugal having ceased for more than two hundred years to occupy the territory in question ; nor have recent events in connection with Portuguese action in this part of Africa tended in any way to alter or modify the judgment of the Committee of the Baptist Missionary Society as to the wisdom and righteousness of the position hitherto maintained by her Majesty's Government on this question.

“The Committee of the Baptist Missionary Society therefore venture to hope that her Majesty's Government will decline to recognise the assumed right of Portugal to the sovereignty of the Congo River and adjacent territory, and to re-affirm, in the words of Lord Clarendon's despatch of 1853, that ‘it is manifest and notorious that the African tribes who inhabit the coast line claimed by Portugal between 5° 12' and 8° S. lat. are in reality independent, and the undersigned must repeat the declaration of her Majesty's Government that the interests of commerce imperatively require it to maintain the right of unrestricted intercourse with that part of the coast of Western Africa extending between 5° 12' and 8° S. lat.’

“In the judgment of the Committee of the Baptist Missionary Society, the true interests of Christian civilisation and legitimate commerce in the Congo district demand that no treaty should be recognised sanctioning the annexation by any Power of the district in question, and the Committee therefore respectfully appeal to her Majesty's Government to take such steps, in concert with other Powers possessing interests on the Congo River, as may secure the free navigation of this great waterway, and preclude any one nation from obtaining exclusive sovereignty or control over it, or over the territories adjacent thereto.”

The Committee are very thankful for the recent debate on this subject in the House of Commons, which, in their judgment, justifies the hope that no treaty of the kind indicated will be entered into by the British Government with the Cabinet of Lisbon.

THE WEST INDIES MISSION.

THE BAHAMAS, SAN DOMINGO, HAYTI, TRINIDAD, AND JAMAICA.

The Rev. Daniel Wilshere, of Nassau, has but a very sombre report to give of the many small churches situated upon the rocky Bahama group of coral islands. Writing of the past year, he says :—

“The evils we have to combat arise mainly from the great poverty of the people, putting aside the salt-trade failure, which we, as a colony, have no control over. This distress is largely due to the growth of the precarious sponge trade, hundreds of young men giving themselves to it, and leaving only children and the very aged to till the ground. The sponge-fisher is away from home and all control, living while on his voyages, it may be, fairly well, and on gains as uncertain as a gambler’s ; a few years of hardship, severe exposure and reckless living, and he soon falls into the grave, leaving his wife and children to struggle on as best they can. Unlike Jamaica, which has soil, the Bahama Islands are rock, nowhere covered by a foot of soil. Digging tools here are crow-bar and rock hatchet.”

Yet, notwithstanding this dark picture, the membership of the churches has increased by nearly four hundred, and Mr. Wilshere adds :—

“We are everywhere received with joy ; the Mission yacht has voyaged 2,100 miles, and at all the out-islands I have been most warmly welcomed ; cut of their deep poverty the people have shown great kindness.”

The church at San Salvador has, during the year, suffered a great loss, owing to the retirement from the pastorate of Mr. Bannister, who, for many years past, has devotedly ministered to the people, and by “life as well as lip has preached the glorious Gospel of the blessed God.”

From Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo, the Rev. R. E. Gammon, reports that—

“Thirteen have been baptized during the year, and the attendance at our Sunday and day schools is most encouraging ; while the local contributions in aid of the work have been considerably larger than in past years.”

From the Turks and Caicos Islands, Mr. Pusey reports :—

“Notwithstanding deaths, great poverty, and many disappointments, the past year has been one of great blessing, and we have abundant reason to raise our Ebenezer, and write upon it, ‘Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.’ More than forty-seven have been baptized.”

In Hayti, Mr. Papengouth has been much encouraged since his return to Jacmel by unmistakable indications of the Divine blessing upon his labours. He has had the joy of baptizing many who appear to be truly converted, and many more are inquiring after the Gospel. There is a manifest spirit of hearing amongst the people ; and he reports that “his spirit is much refreshed, and his joy increased by this state of things.”

From Trinidad the Rev. W. H. Gamble writes from Port of Spain :—

“On Sept. 24th we were privileged to open our new or enlarged chapel, and the following Wednesday I had the pleasure of baptizing twenty-four persons. To give you an idea as to how varied is our church membership, I may mention that of these twenty-four the majority were Creoles, two Germans, two Portuguese, two Spanish. In the last twelve months I have been permitted to baptize forty-two persons.”

During the past year the Rev. W. Williams, of Port of Spain, was compelled, by serious failure of health, to voyage to England with Mrs. Williams, who also urgently needed rest and change.

The Committee are thankful to report a considerable improvement in the condition of both Mr. and Mrs. Williams, sufficient to justify the hope that they will be able to resume work in Trinidad during the coming year.

Mr. Webb, a native evangelist left in charge of the work at Port of Spain, under the general Superintendence of Mr. Gamble, during the absence of Mr. Williams, writes :—

“The work here is going on well, and the blessed Master continues to smile on our efforts. I have recently baptized eight converts, and the Churches all round seem to be having a season of refreshing from on high.”

JAMAICA.

At the time of going to press with this Report the statistics of the Jamaica Baptist Union for the past year have not been received. The Committee, therefore, are unable to supply the usual analysis.

In a letter received by the last Jamaica mail the Rev. D. J. East, of Kingston, writes :—

“Our Jamaica Baptist Union Meetings were held this year at Browns Town, and were very numerous attended—thirty-five ministers and about thirty delegates being present. The services were very effective and refreshing, and a hallowed spirit pervaded all our gatherings. In due time you will receive the Union Report and Statistics.”

During the past year, in response to the earnest request of the second Baptist church, in Montego Bay, so long and ably presided over by the Rev. J. E. Henderson, the Committee consented to undertake the responsibility of finding and sending out a successor to Mr. Henderson, incapacitated for regular work by increasing infirmities.

For this important post the Committee have selected the Rev. J. H. Sobey, of Helston, and they are thankful to report his safe arrival in Jamaica, with his wife and family, after a somewhat stormy and prolonged voyage, on the 28th of February last. The Committee trust that this settlement will prove a blessing to the Montego Bay church, and to the Island churches generally.

CALABAR COLLEGE.

From the thirty-ninth Report of this valuable institution it appears that there are at present twenty-one students in the theological class—the largest number for many years past.

With a view to render efficient assistance to the much-respected President—for more than thirty years devoted to work in Jamaica—the Committee have resolved to appoint a Classical Tutor on the College Staff, and they are glad to report that for this important post they have in view a gentleman, in the judgment of the Committee, specially well fitted for the work in question, whose services they hope to secure.

EUROPEAN MISSIONS.

NORWAY, BRITTANY, AND ITALY.

NORWAY.

From Norway the reports for the past year indicate quiet, steady progress, and a growing desire for extended evangelistic work. Mr. Hubert, at Skien, writes of "a very marked revival in the Church," and of many conversions, while the brethren at work in other parts give encouraging details of conversions and additions to the churches.

BRITTANY.

From Saint Brieuc, Brittany, the Rev. V. E. Bouhon writes:—

"Preaching has been most constantly carried on, and a very extensive Scripture colportage as well. We have sold over five hundred portions of the Word of God. Our schools, Sunday and day, are thriving, and the seed is springing up."

At Morlaix, the scene of the labours of the Rev. Alfred Ll. Jenkins, and at the Madeleine, a village adjoining, active efforts have been put forth. Mr. Jenkins is also engaged in building a small house for mission services at Lanneason, where, for some time past, a good work has been carried on.

The year just closed has been one of special sadness and trial to Mr. Jenkins. Early in February, after many months of suffering and weakness, Mrs. Jenkins was called to her rest, leaving her sorely stricken husband and a large circle of friends to mourn her early removal.

Notwithstanding his heavy trials, Mr. Jenkins feels much encouraged by the present aspect of his work in Brittany, and there are many indications that seed sown long ago is about to spring forth. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning."

From Tremel Mr. Le Coat writes:—

"Until of late years Brittany has been a part of the country entirely closed to the outer world, to new ideas, or new inventions.

"The Breton-born longed only to remain in Brittany, ignorant and careless of all the forms of life. The young men taken away for the army have often been known to die of grief—pining for Brittany.

"Now another wind altogether seems to blow over the land, and all the men want to emigrate. This has now reached such a pass that no workmen can be found here ; all go to Paris, or Havre, or elsewhere, leaving here only wives and children. It is most sad to see what utter demoralisation this has resulted in—vice, disease, and other consequences.”

It is a matter for thankfulness that, notwithstanding many difficulties, our brother is able to report “larger congregations, increasing attendances at day and Sunday schools, and several conversions.” Of the work at Brest he writes :—

“This is a most important station. At one of our places of meeting the room has become much too small ; long before I arrive the room is quite full ; all the windows are kept open for people to hear outside. We much need a larger meeting-place. The people belong chiefly to the working class. Our work in Brest is very promising.”

ITALY.

NORTHERN ITALY.—During the past year the Committee, with a view to revive and render more efficient the work of the Mission in Turin, carried on hitherto by Signor Mattei, have approved of the removal, for a time, of Mr. Walker from Genoa to this important centre. As one result of this arrangement the Committee are thankful to report that a much more suitable meeting-place has been secured in a far more important and central position, and at no increase of cost to the Society. Mr. Walker writes very hopefully of the work in Turin, and reports several inquirers and increasing congregations.

At Genoa, the city hallowed and memorable from the life, labours, and death of John Landels, Signor Jahier has had a year of much blessing ; “crowded and attentive meetings, a large accession of members, many inquirers, and a warm, affectionate, brotherly spirit amongst all.” In his own words :—

“We cannot but thank the Lord for the very and special manifest favour with which, from the first, He has regarded this work.”

During the past year arrangements have been made for leasing the present locale or meeting-place for a term of years. This is a most important advantage gained, as the building is in the very heart of the city, and, by position and arrangement, admirably adapted for the work of the Mission.

From CENTRAL ITALY comprising Florence, Leghorn, Civita Vecchia, Tivoli, and Rome, the tidings are all cheering.

Signor Barratti, in addition to his labours in Leghorn, has largely itinerated in the numerous villages and towns of Tuscany, between Leghorn and Florence, and sold and distributed a large number of Bibles and Testaments.

At Florence Signor Borzi has reaped the advantage of his new locale, and has had many indications of blessing on his toils; while at Civita Vecchia and Tivoli Signors Le Grand and Fasulo have done good work.

In Rome the past year has been memorable for the opening of Mr. Wall's new Mission premises in Trastevere, beyond the Tiber.

Under date of January 17th, Mr. Wall writes :—

“ Last night we opened our new chapel beyond the Tiber. Although the rain fell heavily during the day and at the time of the service, the chapel was crowded, and numbers stood outside in the drenching rain hoping to gain an entrance. Mr. Gibson, of Liverpool, took the chair. The chapel seats about 300, is very neatly fitted up, and to meet the tastes of the Trasteverani, is coloured somewhat in the Pompeian style. The roof, which rests on iron columns, has a large opening, from which plenty of light falls by day, and where gas burns at night.

In all his manifold labours Mr Wall is nobly seconded and sustained by his wife, who, during the last few years, has added a most important medical work to the many other agencies employed for the good of the Italians.

Of this effort, Mr. Wall writes :—

“ In a missionary field like this of Rome it is needful not only to present the Gospel to such as seek it, but also to devise means of bringing such as do not come, and of taking it to those by whom the value of it is not felt. The Medical Mission, while it offers the Gospel to such as desire it, brings many within its sound who otherwise would not come, and affords sufficient reason for visiting many families.

“ The number of persons brought in this method to hear the truth is equal to that of the same amount of labour put forth in any other direction, while the door thus opened is greater and more effectual. So many things combine to help the Medical Mission. It demands but little of the patient—no mental effort—no giving up of prejudices or overcoming scruples; consciences need not be disturbed, or social sacrifice made. It is enough for him to doubt the skill of the native doctor or the quality of his medicines, or to be unable to procure them. The ache, the pain, a feverish pulse suffices to turn his thoughts and direct his steps to the Dispensary. Before entering the consulting room he hears that pain has its roots and draws its strength from sin ; that the removal of sin insures the end of suffering ; that pardon of sin in his case, as it would save him from eternal pain, would help him to bear present infirmity, and probably facilitate his recovery. His case is laid before the Lord, and healing sought. He is surprised and hesitant, but his heart joins in the supplication. He hopes it may be heard, and when health returns believes it has been. Thus a whole system of prejudice and ignorance is undermined and destroyed. In the consulting room, while the doctor's finger touches the evil, or brings ominous sounds from within, or the secrets of his life are being whispered in the silence of the stethoscope, the music of the psalm, the voice of prayer, or the pleading of the preacher sweeps with strange power through his soul. The Gospel uttered amid this variety of disease and sorrow seems to be more of the other world even than when uttered in the catacomb or the great congregation, so that many go away as from something more solemn than their sacraments, and more powerful than the voice of their Church."

During the past year 4,899 cases have come under treatment in connection with the Medical Mission work at Trastevere.

Writing of the condition of Rome to-day, Mr. Wall says :—

"The population of Rome is now more than 300,000, and continues to increase rapidly. New quarters, which, for size and beauty, equal many other Italian cities, are now in construction. Immense public works, undertaken by the municipality and the Government for the transformation of the whole city, attract workmen in great numbers from surrounding places. This noisy, seething mass of humanity is kept in continual agitation under the influence of social, political, and other great questions. The religious question is carefully avoided by all parties, even by many Catholics ; but this reluctance to deal with it arises rather from fear of the result than from real indifference. I refer to this because missionary work in Rome can only be appreciated in proportion as this state of things is known. The crowds have broken loose from Popery and from all religious control ; and, if means proportionate to the end were put into operation, masses of them might be brought under the influence of the Gospel ; but, when we have concentrated and put forth all our strength, we are constrained to ask—and that not without occasional discouragement—what is this compared with the work to be done ?"

Reporting on the work in Lucina, Mr. Wall writes :—

"We think that every one in the church should be a worker, and not merely be occupied with his own salvation. The church has recently had long deliberations on these matters, and has nominated one of the oldest members as a ruling elder, and six other brethren as 'helps' to the deacons.

"We have a number of persons in the catechumen class, of whom nine have been baptized during the past six months. One of the baptized is a student at the university, who gives some promise of being useful ; and one of the candidates employs a considerable number of men, to whom we hope to preach the Word."

SOUTHERN ITALY.—The Rev. William K. Landels, in reporting upon the work of the year, writes from Naples:—

“In looking back we find much to be thankful for and to encourage us in the future.”

Early in the year the new Mission premises were opened. Referring to this, Mr. Landels says:—

“Perhaps the most successful of our opening services was the meeting of the Young Men’s Association. The chapel was filled with young men of the student class, and Signor Greco gave a capital lecture on ‘Liberty and Brotherhood.’ Among the audience I was glad to see three priests, one of whom came to speak with me afterwards, and he is now regularly attending our English class. To-night Signor Greco is to give a second lecture, and after he is finished we are to have the pleasure of hearing a few words from M. Fermaud, the Secretary of the International Committee of Young Men’s Christian Associations.”

Adverting to the many and special difficulties of the work in Naples, Mr. Landels writes:—

“The longer I live in Italy the more I feel the need of hard, untiring work and of constant earnest prayer. Without the former nothing can be done; and, if we fail in the latter, the Holy Spirit does not manifest Himself with power, and, in consequence, our efforts, having too much of the human and too little of the Divine, are utterly useless.”

In Caserta a good work is being carried on, and Signor Libonati has laboured there during the past year with great earnestness; while Signor Nardi Greco has done much to assist Mr. Landels in his arduous labours in the priest-ridden city of Naples.

The Missionary Staff.

During the year just closed the Committee have been able to send out three new missionaries to the Congo, Messrs. Doke, Hughes, and Moolinaar; three to West Africa, Messrs. Silvey, Lewis, and Miss Fletcher; two to India, Messrs. Wood and Bell; one to China, Mr. James; one to Jamaica, Mr. Sobey, and to pay the passage of Captain Passingham to Ceylon, who has very kindly undertaken temporarily to supply the pulpit of the English Baptist Church in Colombo.

The Revs. R. F. Guyton, Isaac Allen, and Gogon Chunder Dutt have, after a season of change and rest in this country, resumed their Mission work in India, and the Revs. Q. W. Thomson and George Grenfell have returned to Africa.

Our veteran brethren, the Revs. Thomas Morgan, of Howrah, and H. Heinig, of Benares, after nearly half-a-century of faithful and devoted service in India, have been compelled by increasing age and enfeebled health to retire from active work.

Of those "fallen asleep" during the past year should be mentioned, first, the Rev. Albert Williams, for many years pastor of the Circular Road Church in Calcutta, and for the past three years principal of Serampore College. He returned to England about the middle of last year in seriously impaired health, which necessitated an immediate change to a cooler climate. Early in February Mrs. Williams and her children reached England, just in time to be with her husband in his closing days of great suffering and weakness. On the evening of the 14th of February he passed to his rest, the end being almost sudden; and on Monday, the 20th, his body was interred in the quiet village of Llangendeirn, near Ferryside, Carmarthen, by the side of his father and mother. He has left a widow and eight young children to mourn his early removal, and the Committee desire earnestly to commend Mrs. Williams and her fatherless family to the affectionate prayers and sympathy of the churches. Although the work of Mr. Williams was for so brief a space only at Serampore, yet he had greatly endeared himself to the students, who, in their own words, "loved him as a father," while amongst his missionary brethren and a large circle of friends he was greatly esteemed and respected.

Early in January the Committee received the tidings of the decease of Mrs. Webley, of Jamaica, who, for many years with her husband, devoted herself to Mission work in the Republic of Hayti; and shortly afterwards the wife of the Rev. Alfred Jenkins, of Morlaix, passed to her rest, in comparative youth, after many months of suffering and weakness, leaving her bereaved and sorrow-stricken husband to mourn the loss of a truly gentle and sympathetic wife, and a rare and self-sacrificing helper in Mission work.

At home the losses by death have been more than usually severe. Early in the year the decease of the Rev. Edward Steane, D.D., was reported, after many years of retirement from active ministerial life.

Nearly sixty years ago, Dr. Steane commenced his ministry in what was then a village in the suburbs of London. He gathered there a large and prosperous Church, which numbered among its active members one of the former secretaries of this Society, and one of its most honoured treasurers, with a large number of generous friends of the Mission and its Missionaries.

For thirty years he was a most active member of the Committee, distinguished alike by his wise counsels, his winning gentleness, and by his bold and energetic support of the extension of its work. When it was resolved, on the appeal of Mr. W. H. Pearce, to send ten new missionaries to India, and later ten new missionaries to Jamaica, he was among the first to support these appeals, and to commend them to his friends. Nor is it without interest to add that it was largely through his influence that Dr. Wenger became an agent of this Committee, as previously, he had taken an active part in sending forth Mr. Oncken on that work in which he has done more, perhaps, for the promotion of evangelical religion on the Continent of Europe than any other Christian worker of modern times.

Nor less noteworthy was the efficient service rendered by Dr. Steane in the controversy which arose in consequence of the withdrawal by the British and Foreign Bible Society of the help they had given for more than forty years to the translations of sacred Scripture made by Baptist Missionaries. He took an active part in all the discussions of the Committee; prepared a most able memorial to the British and Foreign Bible Society; and, when that Society persisted in withdrawing their help, he was a chief mover in the formation of the Bible Translation Society, of which he became the first Secretary, and subsequently its Treasurer.

To the last Dr. Steane was most warmly attached to, and deeply interested in everything that concerned the welfare and progress of the great Mission enterprise.

On November the 11th, after many months of suffering and prostration, the Rev. William Sampson, Secretary of the Baptist Union, was called to his rest and his reward. From 1855 to 1865 Mr. Sampson was one of the most esteemed and devoted of the Society's missionaries in India labouring chiefly in connection with the College at Serampore. His clear intelligence in matters of practical importance, his sympathetic interest in all kinds of missionary work, the geniality of his disposition, the unselfishness of his spirit, the persistency of his application, and the devoutness of his piety, endeared him greatly to those with whom he was closely associated, and gave him much influence beyond his own denomination. After failure of health had obliged his return to England, and necessitated his remaining here, he continued to render much service to the Mission both as a deputation to the churches—to whom his advocacy of its claims was ever acceptable—and as a member of the Committee—to the business of which he gave constant and interested attention. The confidence inspired in this last relation led to his appointment, with the Rev. J. Aldis, as a Deputation of the Society to India in 1879, and in conducting the business—of no small difficulty or importance—devolving on him, the affection of his brethren was increased, and the confidence of the Committee justified.

By the death of Mr. James Harvey, of Hampstead, early in February, the Society lost one of its warmest friends, and an ever generous but unobtrusive helper. Few but those intimately associated with the conduct of the affairs of the Mission are aware of the many proofs he gave of the warm hold the Society had upon his sympathy and support. In his own words, "he had confidence in the Mission because it had a grand work to do, and did it; instead of only talking about it."

"Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." In thankful remembrance of his life and labours we would say, in the appreciative words of one of his most trusted friends, "Doubtless the Lord has in His storehouse ample provision for His people, but not the less is such a loss as that we have just experienced felt to be a real calamity. The energy which was for a lifetime concentrated in him will burst out elsewhere afresh, mayhap in the line of direct descent. In looking at his character and career we are reminded of the saying of the angel to Daniel—'Those that know their God shall be strong and do exploits.'"

Just as the foregoing lines were being written, the sad tidings of the early death of Mr. Doke, of the Congo Mission, were received. No detailed information—a few lines only from Mr. Crudgington written on board the s.s. Corisco on her homeward voyage, and dated, “Gaboön, March 7th.” Mr. Crudgington says :—

“I can hardly bring myself to tell you of our terrible blow. Mr. Doke died at Underhill Station, Congo River (Wanga Wanga), of continued fever, on February 14th, just three weeks after arriving at our station. We cannot as yet believe it. Hitherto we have been so mercifully spared ; the blow is, perhaps, all the more crushing.”

It seems but as yesterday we heard his tender, touching, farewell words, when, early in December last, he started on his much loved work so full of hope and joy :—

“They, perhaps, might never meet again. He might come home again ; if so, good-bye till then. It might be that death's bright angel might call him to higher work, and perhaps they might never meet again till before the throne ; if so, good-bye till then.”

It appears a strange and mysterious Providence that one so well qualified to render special and efficient service, at a time when, apparently above all others, his special qualifications were urgently needed, should so early be removed.

But a few weeks before he left England he wrote :—

“I am full of joy in the near future of my work in Africa ; but yet the Master may have other work for me to do ; so I try and live only by the day.”

And now, the same blessed Master has called him from the pioneer ranks of the Church militant on earth, to the nobler and more perfect service of the Church glorified above, leaving to his comrades in arms the stimulating remembrance of his trustful devotion and self-sacrificing zeal.

FINANCES.

In the last Report the Committee announced, with feelings of great anxiety, a debt due to the Treasurer of £6,273 9s. 3d. on General Account, and £712 15s. 3d. on Widows and Orphans' Fund, or, say, in round numbers, Seven Thousand Pounds.

It is matter for profound thanksgiving that, without any special general appeal, the whole of this large sum has been liquidated. The Treasurer more than paid the debt on the Widows and Orphans' Fund, and by other large and generous gifts, including more than £1,000 from Bristol friends and help from other sources, the whole of the debt to the 31st March, 1882, was extinguished.

During the year the Committee have given careful and prolonged attention to the important and vital question of how best to secure a large and permanent increase in the regular income of the Society.

Careful estimates revealed the fact that, in consequence of the great enlargement of the operations of the Society, especially in Central Africa, India, and China, during the past two years, an increase in the ordinary receipts of at least £5,000 per annum was absolutely needed to avoid the annual recurrence of a large deficiency.

In view of this fact, a letter was forwarded early in the year to the pastors and deacons of all our churches, appealing for assistance and support in a united effort to raise the sum needed by new and increased periodical subscriptions.

In this appeal, the Committee and officers stated that they felt strongly a crisis had arisen in the history of the Mission.

"Never, as in our day, were there so many great and effectual doors open through which to bear the tidings of great joy. The question is whether we are able to enter in where God, in His providence, invites. We believe we are able, and shall continue to cherish this belief until the churches assure us of our mistake. It cannot be that we have yet reached the limit of our resources."

It was proposed that, by special deputations, the growing claims of the Mission should be enforced at public meetings, and that, to such an extent as might be found practicable, personal appeals should be made for individual subscriptions.

Of the results of these efforts, reports have appeared from time to time in the pages of the MISSIONARY HERALD. Most of the Associations generously responded by resolutions expressive of hearty sympathy and willing co-operation, and many hundreds of pastors volunteered earnest personal efforts amongst their own churches and congregations.

From all directions assurances of a most cheering and helpful character were received, affording abundant and most gratifying proofs that the Mission never had a warmer place in the hearts and sympathies of the churches than to-day.

Never before in the history of the Society has so large a total income been received in any one year as in the one just closed.

Including Special Donations for the Debt of last year and Special Funds, the total amount received from all sources has been or more than £8,000 in advance of the gross receipts of any previous year.

Included in this large total of £60,722 9s. 10d. is a sum of £6,986 4s. 6d. in liquidation of last year's debt, £2,531 0s. 3d. for Widows and Orphans' Fund, and £3,485 3s. 1d. for special funds, leaving £47,720 2s. 0d. for the General work of the mission.

While, however, the Receipts for the General purposes of the Mission have shown such a gratifying increase, the Expenditure, in consequence of the great enlargement of the work, has reached a higher figure, being £8,540 16s. 0d. in excess of the expenditure for the year before.

In explanation, of this large increase, it should be stated that it is mainly due to the recent additions to the staff of the Mission in India, China, and Africa—during the past two years a larger number of new missionaries having been sent out than in any similar period of the history of the Society—involving, of course, a large annual addition to the regular outgoings of the Mission beyond the heavy initial cost for outfit and passage.

The expenditure of the year, as compared with that of the year before, shows an increase on account of—

Africa, West	of	£1,403	0	0

With regard to the increase in Africa, however, it should be stated that, it having been found wise and desirable to send out, by Mr. Grenfell and Mr. Thomson, stores in advance, involving an expenditure of about £2,000, the balance-sheet for the past year may be considered as favourably affected to that extent.

At the commencement of the year it was calculated that an increase of at least £5,000 in the ordinary income of the Society would be absolutely necessary to meet the additional liabilities incurred by the occupation of new and promising openings; and the actual figures of the year's Balance Sheet now presented amply substantiate the correctness of the estimate, for, adding the extra expenditure incurred in connection with the West African Mission, and, allowing for decreases in some of the smaller sources of receipt, the total increase of expenditure agrees exactly with the estimate. As the result of this increase the Balance Sheet now presented shows a deficiency on the past year's General Account of £4,575 17s. 10d. reduced to £2,575 17s. 10d., after allowing for stores on new year's account, and on the Widows and Orphans' Fund of £334 9s. 10d., or a total debt of £2,910 7s. 8d.

One of the most gratifying facts shown by the figures now presented undoubtedly is that the ordinary contributions for the General work of the Society show an increase of £3,612 9s. 9d. (inclusive of a Special Donation of £1,000), as compared with the ordinary contributions of the previous year. And although this increase does not reach the £5,000 so earnestly appealed for, yet it must not be left out of sight that many churches that have recently adopted more systematic plans of organisation, and canvassed for new and regular contributions, are only just beginning to reap the benefits arising from such efforts, the ripened fruit being reserved, in many cases, for the coming year.

In view, however, of the pressing and urgent calls, on all hands, for extension and reinforcement, the present financial position of the Society loudly calls for further and united efforts. The existence of a debt undoubtedly tends to check the onward policy of the Committee; and it is earnestly to be desired that this incubus should be speedily removed.

Through the generous kindness of a Friend, £300 has been promised towards the liquidation of this debt in the hope that the balance will be raised within the next two months, and the Committee trust that this desirable result may be secured.

The results of the recent appeal for new and increased periodical gifts clearly indicate, that it is in this direction that the permanent additional support so imperatively needed must be looked for.

Last year the Society lost by death, or inability to continue their usual gifts, nearly three hundred subscribers, many of them most generous helpers, contributing annually nearly £600.

What is most urgently needed throughout all the churches is more thorough and systematic local organisation, which shall evoke and gather up SMALL as well as LARGE WEEKLY, MONTHLY, QUARTERLY, AND ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

One penny per week and one shilling per quarter FROM EACH CHURCH MEMBER in our home churches would furnish nearly THREE TIMES AS MUCH as the present total receipts of the Mission from the churches.

In one small church, where such a plan has been put into vigorous operation during the past year, the subscriptions have increased FIVE HUNDRED PER CENT.

There are reported to be in communion with our churches, exclusive of the General Baptists, 259,000 members. Deducting from this total the 10,600 now subscribing in some form or other to the Society, there will remain 248,400 who do not contribute by regular subscriptions. One penny per week from these would give an additional income of £50,000 per annum, a sum sufficient to admit of a very large extension of mission work and entire freedom from debt.

How is this result to be secured? One of our most valued supporters writes :—

“Let the pastor and mission secretary in each of our churches publicly and persistently urge that all should subscribe—of course heading the list themselves—and appoint collectors to gather up regularly the sums promised, however small or large.”

Above all, what is most urgently needed is a deeper sympathy with the Lord Himself, and a more constant and individual realisation of His presence and power throughout the churches.

* * * * *

Of the ultimate triumph of the Gospel, thank God, there can be no doubt.

The grand idea of evangelising the world for Christ is no chimera—it is Divine. Christianity must triumph, for it is equal to all it has to perform.

We, who gaze only and intently upon small segments of the mighty cycle of God's providence, imagine failure where is often truest success. Could we only but see the larger arc, we surely should oftentimes rejoice where now we weep, and triumph where we now despair.

“Blind unbelief is sure to err,
And scan His work in vain ;
God is His own interpreter,
And He will make it plain.”

“And other sheep I have which are not of this fold ; them also I must bring, and they shall hear My voice, and they shall become one flock, one shepherd.”

Not a few who cherished this missionary enterprise with a living and loving spirit have during the past year gone from us. Across their graves, and from the empty places they have left beside us, they solemnly appeal to us to urge it on, and to fight yet more bravely, with the energy of faith and love, this glorious battle for the truth of God.

Let us not delay—let us rise above the old measure of our faith, and, with a fuller sympathy with the infinite love of the Divine Saviour, and a more sustained and devout enthusiasm kindled at the Divine altar, take our individual part in building up that enduring Kingdom that, through the efforts of His servants, Christ is raising up—not in the East and West only, but all over the world.

Yes, the vision may tarry ; but yet shall it come. We may neglect to avail ourselves of the sublime privilege of helping it on. We may decline to give ourselves or our substance on its behalf. We may turn a deaf ear to the agonising cry for help that night and day rises up to heaven in mournful monotony ; yet shall the earth be filled with “the knowledge of the glory of the Lord as the waters cover the sea,” and

“HE SHALL HAVE DOMINION FROM SEA TO SEA, AND FROM THE RIVER UNTO THE ENDS OF THE EARTH.”

THE following summary, taken from the reports of each station, and, for the most part, in the words of the Missionaries themselves, contains as complete a view as practicable of the individual exertions of the Missionaries during the past year :—

The population of Calcutta, with its suburbs, is about 700,000, of whom about 20,000 are Christians, for the most part of European or mixed descent.

With regard to literary and translating work, the Rev. G. H. Rouse reports :—

“I commenced the Bengali New Testament Commentary where Dr. Wenger left it—at 2 Tim. iii. 11—and have finished notes on the Epistles. Only Revelation remains, which I hope to complete during the present year. I brought out, as a tentative measure, a revised edition of Mark, endeavouring to make it as simple as possible, and yet free from anything that might be considered beneath the dignity of Scripture.

“The Khristiya Bandhab has been continued during the year; but by far the chief work connected with it rests upon my helper, Baboo Mathura Nath Nath, who deserves the credit for whatever excellence there may be in the magazine.

“For the Tract Society, of which I am now secretary, I have brought out a new Elementary Catechism, one or two tracts in English and Bengali, and I have commenced a series of tracts for Mohammedans, written in simple Bengali, with a small amount of Mussulman phraseology chiefly religious. Two tracts have been published in this series—one comparing Christ and Mohammed, and the other proving the integrity of the Gospels. I hope to bring out others during the present year.”

Preaching in Calcutta.

Samuel Pir Buksh reports :—

“Thanks to God, who has graciously spared me to work during this year again in His vineyard in the benighted places of India. I preached Christ and His Cross to the heathen, Mohammedan, and others, both in Calcutta and in the Mofussil; and visited the houses of Hindoos, Mussulmans, and Christians as usual.

I was out on itinerant preaching from 23rd December, 1881, to 18th February, 1882—nearly two months. I visited different places, and talked with several persons on religious subjects; but my principal haltings were Monghyr, Bankipore, Arrah, and Komordolie, near Burrakur. People received me warmly and kindly, and heard the good message of our Lord and Redeemer Jesus Christ with great attention.

“After my return from itinerant preaching, on the 18th February last, I resumed my usual work of writing the commentary on the Psalms of David. From the 1st March to the 30th June last I finished twenty-one Psalms, and twenty Psalms were finished last year; altogether forty-one Psalms, which completes the first part of the book. This volume is in the hand of our esteemed brother Mr. Rouse for examination. I could have done more in this year, but I deferred doing so till I knew the result of the volume mentioned above. Besides this, I have composed seven small tracts for the Tract and Book Society of Calcutta, for the Mohammedans, in Mussulmani-Bengali—one in verse, and others in prose—and translated one from Hindustani into Mussulmani-Bengali.”

Tara Choron Banerjee sends the following report :—

“I went and preached the Gospel to various classes of people among Hindoos and Mohammedans, in most of the chapels in Calcutta built for this purpose. My audiences in these places would usually be pretty large. Some Mohammedans, many uneducated Hindoos, and some English-speaking Babus generally composed the body of my hearers.

“I preached on various occasions at Wellington Square before large crowds of people, both in Urdu and Bengali. I went to Wellesley Square, and held interesting conversations on religion with several well-behaved and educated Mohammedans. I went at times to College Square, and preached in English before respectable and educated Hindoos. On many occasions I went to Beadon Square, and preached also in English before hundreds of English-speaking Hindoo Babus. I frequently went to the Campbell Hospital Square, and preached in English and Bengali before men who would resort to the place in the cool of the day. I often held conversation also with many of them on the subject of religion.

“I preached in the streets near Boitakhana, Lall Bazar, Churchgate, Mullali Durga, Wellington Square, and several places on the Circular Road.

“I preached in some shops at Chandny Chowk, Municipal Market, Terettie’s Bazar, Radha Bazar, and China Bazar.

“I held conversation on religion with several men at the railway stations at Howrah and Sealdah. I often spoke to people on the Gospel religion on tramcars.

“I visited several houses, and had conversation with the people there on religion in general and the Christian religion in particular.

“I preached the message of salvation by Christ alone to hundreds of patients and their companions, who called on me for medical advice or treatment.

“I conducted prayer-meetings in some places; I assisted pastors of some churches by preaching for them on Sundays; I delivered addresses in English and Bengali before assemblies of Christian people; I laboured hard for some length of time, and wrote out in English, with copious Sanskrit quotations, an elaborate paper on ‘The Tantric System of the Hindoos.’

“May the Lord bless my humble services for His own glory and the good of men. Amen.”

II.—INTALLY.

Missionary, Rev. ISAAC ALLEN,
M.A.

Here are two important schools—one a day-school for boys, which is supported by a monthly grant from the Society and by the fees paid by the boys. The pupils attending are Mohammedan, Hindoo, and Christian. Most of the Christian lads are poor, and are allowed to attend without paying fees; also a few poor lads from among the Mohammedans and Hindoos are favoured in the same way. The school is classified as a high school, the course of instruction being up to the entrance examination of the Calcutta University. One boy from the Institution has passed the University examination this year. Daily instruction in Scriptural knowledge is given, and all the classes that are able read daily from the Scriptures.

Native Girls' School.

Superintendent, Mrs. KERRY.

The Girls' School is a boarding-school, with a few day scholars, and is intended for Christian girls. It is under the care of Mrs. Kerry, and occupies her time for several hours every day. In the past year great blessing has been received in connection with this work. The girls are carefully and well prepared for their future life as wives and mothers in Christian families, in country villages, and in the city. Every year some of the girls are truly converted, and give evidence that they are partakers of the saving grace of our Lord. It has been a great joy to us to watch the course of life of a large number of our former pupils, who show that they have not lost the holy influences and impressions they received at school. We hope and pray that in years to come the school may be maintained, and become an ever-increasing means of usefulness to the native Christian church.

Intally Church (Bengali).

Pastor, DANIEL GHOSE.

Number of members, 139.

"We thank God, who has, amidst difficulties, troubles, and afflictions, sustained us during the year under review, and permitted us to see another year.

"I am glad to say that the Lord has helped me to work in this church to the present with some success, though not to the extent desired. I have to mention here the heavy affliction that has befallen me. God has removed my dear wife from this world. She died a peaceful death on the 11th May last. Before her death she said, 'For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain.'

"Preaching the Gospel to our non-believing countrymen has been carried on for some time Sunday after Sunday. After our evening service some of the young men (among whom are foremost Babus Mathura Nath Nath and Milon Chunder Haldar) have stood at the chapel gate singing hymns to popular tunes, and, when a sufficient number of persons were attracted, they spoke to the people of the wondrous love of Jesus, who died for the sins of the world.

"We have had several very interesting meetings in our chapel, especially during the sittings of our annual Bengali Conference; and I am glad to say that all important meetings were held on the premises at Intally, they being more central, and thus our brethren have the advantage of coming in contact with the pious and intelligent Bengali Christians in and around Calcutta.

"I have the pleasure to mention that this year, too, we had amongst us from sixty to seventy Baptist brethren from the different churches of the South Villages, and that they were accommodated at Intally for a week, and during this period we really enjoyed vast blessing. We are very much indebted to Messrs. J. G. Shome and K. C. Banerjee, elders of the Free Church of Scotland, who placed funds in my hands to meet the requirements of the brethren.

"I think it will not be out of place for me here to state that we hold in our chapel a pure Evangelical Union service, at which brethren of nearly all denominations attend. We cannot but sincerely acknowledge that the service is and will prove to be beneficial to many; due care is taken that no one utters a syllable against the respective principles and doctrines of any brother, whether he be a Baptist or of any other persuasion."

III.—South Colingah Church (Bengali).

Pastor, GOGON CHUNDER DASS.

"The church at Colingah is composed of people that are not yet able to maintain a pastor and to meet all necessary expenses. I have taken charge of it simply from a desire to benefit poor Christians by my ministration. By the blessing of God I was able during the last year to conduct Divine service regularly both morning and evening on Sundays, and one week-day for prayer-meeting and exposition of the Word of God. The number of communicants at present is forty-two. The number of people who assemble at the time of worship is about seventy."

IV.—Circular Road (English).

Pastor, W. NORRIS.

"I will describe the salient features of our year's work in a few sentences.

"The services have been steadily maintained. I have continued at my post, without an interval of change, throughout the year, and have enjoyed good health, with the exception of occasional attacks of fever.

"The Taltola Mission is carried on both financially and ministerially by our friends. Taltola is a district of Calcutta, about a quarter of an hour's steady walk from our chapel, in which considerable numbers of poor Europeans and Eurasians, as well as natives, reside. For several years—I think for six—our friends have been working there. Services are conducted in English at certain times, and at other times in Hindustani. Mr. A. T. De Cruz, the brother of the missionary at Chittagong, superintends the English work, and Mr. Samuel Pir Buksh conducts our Hindustani services on Sunday and Tuesday evenings, asking for no return except the hire of his palki. The Taltola Sunday-school is small, not containing more than thirty-six scholars. Total abstinence meetings, house visitation, a literary club, and occasional lectures complete the programme.

"The Calcutta Auxiliary Missionary Society is, with the exception of one or two subscriptions, supported entirely by the Lower Circular Road church. Its income for the year ending in 1882 amounted to Rs.787. The money is used exclusively for mission work. Some months since we made a grant of Rs.500 out of our capital to the Chittagong Chapel Building Fund. Babu Kailas Chunder Bose is regularly employed under the auspices of the society as a Bengali preacher. He visits the homes of the natives as opportunity serves, and preaches in the open air at Short's Bazar, near St. James's Church, and at Moula Ali Durga. We also maintain the Fink Vernacular School at Puddopookur, in Calcutta. This school is attended by a few Mohammedan boys, some chumars, or shoemakers, and a number of the cunnia, or shopkeeper, caste. No fee is charged, as the school is maintained to help the poorest boys of that neighbourhood to get the elements of learning in their mother tongue.

"The Circular Road Sunday-school has in it eleven teachers and eighty-seven scholars, thirty-nine of the latter being boys and forty-eight girls. Owing to the suburban position of the church and the great heat of the climate, the children have to be brought in carriages, and their number can never be large. Mr. R. H. Cann is a devoted superintendent, and is ably supported by the teachers, among whom is included Mrs. Robinson, the much-respected wife of the Rev. R. Robinson, and Indian Secretary of the Baptist Zenana Mission. It will thus be seen that, although we are a people not strong, we are engaged in several important kinds of Christian service."

Pastor, G. H. HOOK.

"The outlook for this year is pleasing, and we are very grateful for the most generous way in which the friends have provided for our wants, and stood by the work of God in this place. In March last, at our second anniversary, the friends raised subscriptions, and bought a horse and gharry, and during the hot season we found it a great source of help to us in our work.

"And then we are truly grateful when we think of the efforts the friends have made this year to secure a minister's house near the chapel. Between ten and eleven thousand rupees have been raised for this purpose through the unbounded liberality of Mr. Dear, of Monghyr, and we hope that we shall get into the house free of debt shortly. The open-air services at the chapel gates have been kept up well during the year, and we are grateful to all friends for the help rendered at those services. Missionaries and laymen have all aided us whenever they have been asked, and we are sure that there are no kinder people to be found in the world than we have found in Calcutta.

VI.—HOWRAH.

Missionary, C. JORDAN.

Number of members, 33 English ;
28 native.

Howrah may be regarded as a suburb of Calcutta, and is situated on the opposite side of the River Hooghly. As it is the terminus of the East Indian Railway, which goes to all parts of India, it has become a very busy and populous town.

Mr. Jordan reports :—

"We have in Howrah a population of about 120,000. Of these there may be nearly two thousand Europeans and Eurasians ; the rest are natives of India commonly so called. In the native community we have about 12,000 Hindustanis speaking either Hindi or Urdu. On making inquiries through the post-office, I have been informed there are more than 2,000 Hindi-speaking children here, and not a single Hindi school.

"1. Preaching to the Heathen.—Besides the settled population, we have visitors from various parts of India. Consequently, the languages most useful here for preaching are Urdu and Hindi, especially Hindi. In some parts of the town our congregations consist of eighty per cent. of up-country people. I have begun to preach in the three languages, and have secured the services of a Bengali who resided some years at Allahabad. But we still need an efficient Western man for preacher here. I generally go out to various parts of the town, with native preachers, four days a-week, and sometimes oftener. Our congregations are good and attentive, and we have sold some seventeen rupees' worth of tracts and Scriptures. Howrah is a great entrepôt—many come and go, and I have even been asked for books in the Gurmuki dialect. Three inquirers have come to my house as the result of our preaching. The last was a Babu, who resided in or near Berhampore for some years. He told me he was pleased with my address, and came to make further inquiries. This man has worship in his house, and, after some conversation, bought a Bengali Testament and departed. The Mussulmans have given us some trouble. One Maulvie has begun to preach close by us. Once he forestalled us and occupied our place, and once he brought another Maulvie to the attack. These men formed congregations on either side of us, and, as soon as it was dark, brought the whole of their listeners to disturb and annoy us; we were hooted and yelled at and clapped out of the bazar. One of our number was struck by a flying missile, but no harm was done. Subsequently, this Maulvie paid me several visits. I have reason to think that his main object in this is to inform his confrères that he has questioned and refuted me.

"Schools.

"We have two Bengali patshalas. I have also built a Hindi school, which is named the Tresidder School, and on the 1st of this month opened an Urdu school in the midst of our opponents. Altogether we have now four vernacular schools. All these lads come to the Sunday-school also every Lord's-day. Of our teachers, two are Hindoos, one is a Christian, and one a Mohammedan. It is a sine quâ non that the Gospels be read in all these schools, and, so far, we have not had the slightest difficulty on this score. The Bengali Sunday-school I conduct myself, and occasionally also the Hindi Sunday-school.

"Native Congregation.

"We have two Bengali services every Sunday, and another on Thursday. This Thursday service is always conducted by myself.

"About six months ago we started a Hindi service. Several native Christians from Chupra and other places have found their way to Howrah. These said they could not understand Bengali, and desired a Hindi service. This is held at 7.30 a.m. every Sunday morning, and is conducted by myself and assistant, and not unfrequently by Mr. Domingo Dias, who is an unpaid volunteer in this work. Our Hindi congregation fluctuates from ten to twenty-five, but we expect increase.

"English Church.

"We have two services in English every Sunday, and a prayer-meeting every Tuesday. On Sunday morning we average about forty persons, and in the evening about fifty. Since the cold weather set in our congregation considerably exceeds these numbers. We have about sixty children in our vernacular Sunday-schools, and also about forty in our English Sunday-school.

"During the portion of the year I have been in charge four have been baptized—two English and two natives. Local collections from all sources, for all objects, amount to Rs.1,221-13-6. Of this, Rs.298-10-3 was given for mission purposes, while our expenditure, including preacher, new school, and new teachers, has amounted to Rs.1,007-4-6.

"Zenana work was begun by my wife a few months ago. After many small difficulties and some refusals, and, in one case, the encountering of insolence, Mrs. Jordan has now fifteen regular pupils. Their houses lie scattered, and it takes much time to reach them, but this work is nevertheless hopeful and encouraging.

This station, to a large extent occupied by the military, lies to the north of Calcutta, about seven miles from the mission premises. The settled population is between five and six thousand.

The work at this station, chiefly among the soldiers, has been very interesting, and much blessing has attended it during the year. Two soldiers have been baptized on profession of their faith in the Redeemer. Meetings are held at the chapel or in the adjoining vestry nearly every evening during the week. These meetings have been conducted by the Wesleyan missionaries on one evening of the week, and on other evenings by Captain Scott, R.A., and Messrs. S. J. Leslie and J. E. Cooke, and many have been brought to the Lord. The 34th Regiment, which has been stationed here for nearly three years, has now been removed; its place will be taken by another regiment, amongst the men of which we hope to labour and have like blessing.

The Southern Villages district constitutes the Middlesex of Bengal, the zillah, or county, in which the capital lies. It extends north, east, and south of Calcutta, its western boundary being the River Hooghly, as Middlesex is bounded by the Thames. Narsigdarchoke is about sixteen miles south from Calcutta, Luckyantipore thirty-five miles, and Khari fifty miles. The other stations, excepting those of the Mutlah Mission, lie grouped around the above. The population of the district is given as 2,210,047 in the census of 1872.

The Mutlah district forms part of the Twenty-four Pergunnahs, and lies to the east and south-east of Calcutta. Canning Town, on the Mutlah River, was started about 1863, and was expected to become the port of Calcutta; but the scheme has quite collapsed, and the place is only a village. Bashanti is to the south of it, in the Sunderbund jungle. The other churches are to the north, in cultivated country.

Babu Kristanga Biswas reports:—

"Thank God, our Heavenly Father, that through His bountiful mercy I was enabled to carry on my work for another year. During the year I had good opportunities to proclaim the glad tidings of our Saviour to thousands of perishing souls in different places of the southern villages and markets. Sometimes I preached with others at different markets, and sometimes alone. In the summer I preached my Lord Jesus in the neighbouring villages, at the police-station and post-office, and elsewhere, by way of conversation and by giving tracts, both Bengali and English. In the summer I worked especially among some educated men, and distributed many English and Bengali tracts. When I conversed with these gentlemen they said, 'We believe that the Christian religion is better than others, but we have doubt about the Divinity of Christ.' But when I explained the power and compared the ability of Jesus with that of God, they were satisfied. Among them was a native doctor, who said, 'I have no doubt as to the Christian religion.' Also the postmaster has taken a copy of the English New Testament, and sometimes he reads the Bible with me. However, though they do not acknowledge the Lord Jesus as a Saviour, yet they heard about Him with attention, and were much pleased. During the year I had to meet with many hindrances in preaching. I am sorry to say that the behaviour of some nominal Christians is always a stumbling-block to our preaching. It is desirable that every church of the south villages should take great care of their own people and correct them.

"At the end of November I went to Baripur Râsh mela, with some others, to proclaim the glad tidings, and spent four days, and preached both by singing and speaking. The audience heard us with much attention. On this occasion we sold Scripture portions of the value of Rs.3-13, and distributed many tracts.

"On the 27th of January, 2nd of February, and 27th of July I went with Mr. Rouse to visit the southern churches, and spent a few days with him. On the 12th of February I went with Mr. Rouse and some others to Port Canning and its neighbouring churches, and spent five days there. On our way we did not fail to preach our Saviour at Protapnagore and some other places. Besides this, on three other occasions I went alone to visit Port Canning and some other churches; also I went to Mackhaltola to decide a case which had arisen against one of our agents. On my way I did not fail to preach my Saviour. In the end of February I had an opportunity to take an itinerating tour, with two others, to proclaim the glad tidings in the Sundarban districts, and spent twenty days. We went from Port Canning to Kaligunge on the Rivers Mutla, Jumuna, and Malunoha. Though we met many dangers in our way, yet, by the bountiful grace of our Heavenly Father and the help of His Holy Spirit, we were able to preach at different places and markets on both sides of the bank, and sold many Scripture portions and distributed many tracts. On this occasion we sold Scripture portions of the value of Rs.6. In this journey we enjoyed great pleasure in the conversation of a native doctor and a Mohammedan compounder, about whom we believe that they are not far from the way to heaven, also they are true, sincere inquirers. They openly confessed that they do not care about any gods and goddesses, because they have no power to save, but regard Jesus as the Saviour. I am sorry to say that, owing to the shortness of our time, we could not spend more time with them, because we were ready to proceed to another large mela at Hudwa. On two occasions I went to Serampore, where many people gather every year from different places for the purpose of worshipping Jagannath. Here I joined with others, and preached my Lord Jesus in different ways, both by singing and speaking; also we sold many religious books and distributed many tracts."

"Report of Bishtupore Boarding School, 1882.—Thank God, through His mercy I have carried on my work in the boarding-school of Bishtupore. The school is opened and closed with prayer. In the morning, from half-past six to nine, the boys are taught Scripture, catechism, and easy English books; from half-past ten to four they are engaged in some other branches. At present nineteen boys and two girls are being instructed; seventeen are supported by us. I have a prayer-meeting with the boys both morning and evening. Every morning the boys are engaged in reading the Bible according to the Children's Scripture Union, which was established by Mr. R. Williamson. Every Sunday the boys are taught the Parables and English First Catechism. In the beginning of this year four of the pupils were sent to the Serampore Boarding School. I admitted six others from different churches. Two were dismissed on account of their small progress. The boys are in three classes; five boys read in the first class, six boys read in the second class, and ten read in the third class. Among them two boys and two girls read the Bengali Primer; but the whole are brought up in the same class in Scripture and catechism. Every morning, from half-past seven to nine, I teach the boys in English, and examine their progress every third month. On the 26th of September the boys were brought up to Calcutta for their examination, and spent three days there. The result of the examination has been sent to Birmingham by Mr. Rouse. I think it will not be out of place for me to mention that the Rev. G. H. Rouse twice visited and examined the boys. On both occasions he was greatly pleased with the boys and their progress. He has an especial care for them, and takes interest in them as regards their moral and religious improvement.

"On the 29th of September, Rev.

T. C. Banerjee writes :—'I examined the boys of the Bishtupore Boarding School, and was glad to find the very satisfactory progress they have made in almost all the books that have been taught to them.'

"On the 29th of September, Rev. Geo. Kerry writes :—'I spent an hour very pleasantly in questioning two of the classes, chiefly on Christian teaching as found in the Gospels, and was pleased with the intelligence of the boys, and the readiness and correctness of their answers, which was all the more satisfactory because I did not rigidly follow the lines of the text-books they had been studying. The boys are learning to think. Their bright cheerfulness was very pleasant to see.'

"On the 29th of September, Rev. G. H. Rouse writes :—'I have examined the boys of the Bishtupore Boarding School in religious knowledge, reading, and geography. I was much pleased with the results of the examination. They answered questions in Barth's Bible History, Dr. Wenger's and Mr. James's Catechisms, and they repeated many texts of Scripture by heart. For the most part they were very ready with their answers. The only exceptions, I think, were in the case of those who had been but a short time in the school. Their brightness and cheerfulness are very marked. Altogether I feel that the children are being trained well, intellectually, morally, and spiritually, nor is there any sign of physical deficiency, for the children look well and hearty.'

"Rev. T. R. Edwards writes :—'I examined the Bishtupore School at Intally Chapel on Wednesday, September 27th, 1882. And now, as the result of the examination, I have to express my full satisfaction with both the amount of work done during the year and the thoroughness with which it has been done. The books studied were the following :—Old Testament History, Matthew and Luke, James's Catechism, and Dr.

Wenger's Catechism ; besides these, they have memorised fifty portions out of a collection of Scripture passages. They have read 'Bengali Prose Reader,' 'Bengali Poetical Reader,' and two Bengali grammars ; added to these, they have done a little geography and arithmetic, and a little Indian history. From this it will at once be seen that the list of subjects was very long and varied. However, all of the boys, with the exception of two who had lately joined the school, answered my questions well, and surprised me with the amount of work they had done. I was also pleased to notice that they understood well the work they had done, which showed diligent application on their part as well as diligent teaching on the part of their teachers. In conclusion, I have only to say that this school is doing good work, and is well worthy of the attention bestowed upon it ; and the teachers, too, are worthy and efficient men, and deserve great praise for the faithfulness with which they have discharged their duties.' Serampore, in the district of Hooghly, is about fourteen miles from Calcutta, with which city it is connected by railway. It lies on the western bank of the River Hooghly. The population numbers 38,463.

The Rev. E. S. Summers writes :—

"Our report for the year is a very chequered one ; we have had much cause for grief, and not a little for thankfulness. Mr. Williams fell ill of a severe fever in March, and, after having sought in vain to regain health by a visit to Darjeeling, was compelled to go to England, whither he was followed by his wife and family as soon as it became apparent that he could not, at any rate speedily, return. While Mr. Williams was away at Darjeeling Mr. Rouse kindly came and assisted us in teaching, and I was also obliged to request Mr. Tucker (then in his first year) to help. After it was decided that Mr. Williams should go to England I took formal charge, and, with the assistance of Mr. Tucker, carried on the college classes.

"Of spiritual results accomplished in school and college we have not much definite to say. The principles of truth have been steadily instilled into the minds of all. As usual, the best students in other branches have listened with most attention to the instruction given in the Bible hour, and we cannot but hope and believe that those who have listened have understood something of what they have heard, and will be different men, and will occupy a different position towards Christianity, from what they would otherwise have done. May God grant that they may not only half see, but have their eyes fully opened.

"In the early part of last year we made an effort in a new direction. As soon as Mr. Tucker arrived I thought that, as there were now three of us, and only one was engaged on Sunday evening in preaching in our English chapel, the other two of us might try to see if we could not get an audience of educated Hindoos to whom to preach in English. We have a walk (what would be called in England the parade) by the river side, and we set to work in a suitable spot. We did not succeed in attracting large audiences, but we had some very interesting services, and succeeded in bringing an increased number of natives to the chapel. This series of services was carried on till the holidays, after which the rainy season set in, and we could never depend on a dry evening, and found it therefore useless to continue them. We hope to recommence them this year.

"Another interesting feature of the college work has been the vernacular theological class. It started with eight students, two respectively from Dacca, Khoolna, Burrisal, and the villages to the south of Calcutta. Of these we had to dismiss one on account of illness, and two others because they did not seem to understand what was expected from men who were preparing for evangelistic work. Of the five who remained we have to report satisfactorily; they seem to have laboured conscientiously, and we hope with some reason that they are all truly converted men. This class was in my care until Mr. Williams fell ill, and, after it was decided that he should leave India, Mr. Edwards, of Burrisal, took charge of it, and I may here take the opportunity of saying how grateful I feel to him for coming to the rescue just at the needful time, when his heart was set on returning to Burrisal, and of acknowledging the hearty and energetic way in which he threw himself into the work. The course for the past year was as follows:—English, Bengali for the less advanced, and Sanskrit for the more advanced; 'Evidences of Christianity' and Stern's 'Catechism of Theology,' Part II.; and the Gospel of Matthew and the Epistle to the Romans, with Wenger's Commentary. Mr. W. R. James is coming to take charge of the teaching of this class during the coming year, and we hope also to form a class of the students' wives from the middle of the year. It is a great joy to us that a class of this character is again connected with Serampore College, and I hope that we are now laying the foundation of a work that shall grow stronger and stronger until the nations of the world become the nations of the Lord.

"The native Christian boarding-school has been carried on during the year; but, as we have been still without a resident Christian native teacher for them, they have not enjoyed religious advantages which were enjoyed by the boys in that school during the time of the late Amrita Babu. Bhogoboti Babu, one of our Christian teachers, has been doing good amongst them, and I hope that, as I shall in future be living much nearer to them, I shall be able to do more in the way of personal influence than I have done before.

"The services in our English chapel have been carried on much as usual. Through removals from Serampore we have lost a considerable portion of our congregation, and have not as yet gained many new attendants, so that the chapel has not been as well attended as usual during the last few months. Johnnuggur is much as usual; I have nothing particular to say about it. The ladies' work has been flourishing during the past year in the hands of Miss Hubbard and Miss Mercado, but their reports belong to another place.

"In conclusion, I must repeat that, while we have had much during the past year to cause us sorrow and anxiety, we have seen enough of the goodness and kindness of God vouchsafed to us through all to enable us to look forward to the coming year and its work in hopeful confidence, knowing that He who has helped us hitherto will help us still."

V.—CUTWA.

Number of members, 19.

A large town on the western bank of the Hooghly, in the district of Burdwan, about seventy-five miles N.N.W. from Calcutta. It contains a population of 7,963 persons, of whom 6,817 are Hindoos and 1,131

Mohammedans. The small remainder are Christians.

VI.—JESSORE.

Stations—Jessore, Magoora, and Jhenida.

Assistant Missionary, BROJONATH BANERJEA.

Evangelists—NEPAL and GOBINDO CHUNDER DASS.

Number of members, 33.

This district, which includes Khoolna, lies to the N.N.E. of Calcutta, and contains a population of over 2,000,000, of whom 1,142 are Christians, the rest Hindoos or Mohammedans. Jessore, the principal town of the district, contains over 8,000 inhabitants. It is distant about eighty miles from Calcutta.

Brojonath Banerjee writes :—

“Work for the Schools.—In this mission station there are fourteen Bengali schools—six at and around Jhenida, eight around Jessore. In these schools 438 Hindoo, Mohammedan, and Christian boys receive secular and religious instruction. To those boys the Word of God was preached over and over by the Circle teachers and by myself, also when I visited and examined the schools. I was satisfied in seeing the progress in study of the boys of five schools of the Jhenida Circle and six of the Jessore Circle.

“In 1881 eleven boys passed the Bengali primary examination—five from the Jhenida Circle, and six from the Jessore Circle. Some boys were sent for the lower vernacular examination of 1882; no information has been received of their passing or not as yet.

“The Work for the Churches.—Sunday services were regularly conducted by myself, by the preachers, and sometimes by the Circle teachers. Only at Jhenida, at the latter part of the year, it was inconvenient to conduct the services regularly, as there is no preacher, and sickness has prevailed in the family of the Circle teacher. I tried my best to see after the spiritual growth of the members of the churches in knowledge and grace by visiting them at their houses, and by the sermons I preached to them.

The number of members of	}	15
the church at Jessore is
At Magoora	-	12
At Jhenida	-	6
Total	-	33

Four were added to two churches by baptism, two of whom are from among our own people at Magoora, and two are from among the Hindoos at Jessore.

“Evangelistic Work.—I have chosen five places in the town of Jessore to preach the Gospel of our Lord. One is near the Doratana bridge, another near the court of the district judge, another near Kotoally Thana, and two others are Jessore market and Jessore bazar.

“I and my brother preacher, Nepal, preached the Gospel of our Lord several times in those five places, and from time to time we got a good number of Hindoos, Mohammedans, and Roman Catholics as attentive hearers.

“Besides this work, in the mornings Brother Nepal visited the shopkeepers, and sometimes I also did the same; and often when I remained at Jessore I visited the Babus in their lodgings, and had religious conversation and discussions with them, and we had house preaching also in the surrounding villages. The name of our Lord was glorified in many places where we thus preached His Gospel.

“I had several preaching tours in the north, south, east, and west of the district, and in the Bongong sub-division. In these preaching tours twice I visited Norail; once the Jhenida and Magoora brethren were with me, and once Brother Nepal was the only person to work with me.

"In my first visit at Norail I was very sorry to hear the Babus and the students of the Norail Aided School speak in such a manner about religion, as if they were Atheists. I tried to convince them that it is a great sin to deny the existence of God and His mercy towards fallen men. By the mercy of God, and as my dear Saviour remains with me, according to His kind promise, I was able to convince them that their being Atheists is a great sin; they do not speak now so much about Atheism as they did before.

"In my second visit the Babus and the students of Norail School bought English Bibles, New Testaments, and tracts and Gospels, both in Bengali and English. In both my visits at Norail the young men, especially the students of the Norail Aided School, heard the Word of God with much interest.

"In one of my preaching tours I visited Chowgacha and Coatchandpore, of the Jhenida sub-division. In both these places the people heard the Gospel of our Lord with great reverence. I had two preaching tours in the Bongong sub-division. In my first, I, Brother Nepal, and the colporteur of Jhenida remained in the town of Bongong for a fortnight, during which time we preached the Gospel in the bazar and houses, and in the surrounding villages and markets. The Babus of Bongong became very friendly to me, and in a dispensary of a Babu we had very pleasant work for our Lord.

"In another of my preaching tours I visited Pollomagro, Miskeedaree, Berhampore, &c. The Mohammedans of Berhampore, who are all the family of a rich Mohammedan, having heard my preaching at Miskeedaree market, told me that 'we want to hear your preaching more particularly, so we invite you to our house.' I went at their request. The Mohammedan to whose house I went fed me with several kinds of sweetmeats and other eatable things which the Mohammedans eat, and many of them heard the love of God most attentively till one o'clock in the morning.

"At Pollomagro I saw some Brahmans and a zemindar Babu sitting on the side of a river and worshipping the idols of Shiva. When a Brahman came up from the river I entered into a conversation with him, and by-and-by all who were worshipping idols came to me, and there was a discussion for a long time, at the end of which the zemindar Babu said to me, 'You have got good knowledge about God; truly there is nothing in worshipping idols.'

"From time to time I had Hindoos, Mohammedans, and others as visitors. I have some hope of two Hindoo Babus and a Kabiraj, and a Mohammedan native doctor.

"Babu Shorno Komul Chuckerbutty is an excise sub-inspector of Khulna, Norail, and Bagarhant sub-divisions, and an educated man. He came one day to my house, with a letter in his hand, to take advice from me how to answer some difficult questions of a Brahman as to the Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ. My advice seemed to him very good. He was a private disciple of our Lord. He came to Jessore for some Government business in the Excise Department. He requested me to teach him something more of the love of our Lord. I saw that he was a sincere young man, told him to bring his box, bed, &c., which he had in his boat, and I invited him to my house while he remained at Jessore. He remained in my house for a week, and during that time he wanted to be baptized. I baptized him on the 27th of March. He boldly confessed his Saviour, although he had to endure many persecutions and trials."

This low-lying district lies to the east of Calcutta; Barisal, its principal town, containing 7,684 inhabitants, being 185 miles distant. The population of the district is stated to be 2,377,433 by the census of 1872, in the following proportions: Hindoos, 827,393; Mohammedans, 1,540,965; Christians, 4,852; and others, 4,223. The stations are much scattered, and are found in the northern part of the district.

The Rev. Thos. Martin writes:—

"In reviewing the operations of this mission during the year, the first and most important duty is to give as correct a statement as possible of the condition of the churches. 'It is required in stewards that a man be found faithful.' We have often had to complain of the want of energy and zeal in the preachers. Their journals have shown that but little efforts have been made to preach the Gospel in the villages round about. But much forbearance must be exercised towards men who live in a district which is six months under water every year. Preaching and school operations must necessarily be greatly impeded. None but a missionary who has lived many years in the district, and is familiar with the people, can understand the difficulties with which they have to contend.

"One event occurred during the year which threw a gloom over us all. We refer to the death of our beloved brother and faithful preacher, Roghunath. The church over which he presided, and the Christian community generally, will long miss him. His death, according to the resolution of the Committee, has thrown that church upon their own resources. God, by the removal of the Society's agent, has conferred upon them the duty and the privilege of choosing and supporting a pastor of their own. At first the blow which fell on them by the death of their pastor stunned them, and the thought of independence came to them like a dream. They could look at the matter calmly from a distance, but when it came home to them as a reality they seemed ill-prepared to assume the responsibility. Many arguments were used to show how difficult it would be to stand alone. They much wished the Society to bear at least half the burden, but they were told decidedly that that could not be, and that it was not necessary. The church was large, and there were wealthy men in it—two or three men who, if they chose, could support a pastor themselves without feeling the burden. Ready cash is not always available among an agricultural people like these, and consequently the future pastors of these churches must be satisfied to be supported chiefly in kind. The church at Digaliya had a young man in view—a son of their late pastor—and they seemed anxious that he should take the oversight of them. We have just heard that they have chosen him to the pastorate. It was best to leave them to their own deliberations, and to work out the problem in their own way. We have no fears as to the future independence of the churches if a judicious non-interference be observed. As God removes the Society's agents one by one, the people will supply their places, and will support them, not in hard cash, as the Society has done, but chiefly in kind. Already there are indications that the people have made up their minds to stand or fall by their own resources.

"There have been sixteen day-schools at as many sub-stations in operation during the year. Upwards of 300 boys have attended these schools, but the attendance, as usual, has been very irregular. The reason is that the parents are unwilling to spend a pice for a boat and boatmen to bring the boys to and from school during the rainy season, and this season is the best for school-keeping in this district. Less than one-half of the boys in attendance are the sons of Christian parents. A good number, however, have learned to read and write, and some of them can read well. We hope the day will soon come when the Christians will see that, if knowledge is not gain, it is at least power. The following death-bed incident, recorded by Mohesh, the preacher at Ashkor, will show that even Hindoo youths obtain light and peace from the reading of the Scriptures at our schools. Mohesh writes:—"I cannot rest satisfied without giving you an account of the death of Gunga Choron Dhoba, a pupil of our mission school. The age of this young man was sixteen or seventeen years. He was well acquainted with the life of our Lord, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments. At times he was wont to reflect about religion, and he had faith towards Christ. When he was attacked with cholera Anundo Chunder Kobiraj went to give him medicine, and he saw that his end was near. He ascertained by conversation with him that he had no faith whatever in the gods. Seeing he had faith in Jesus Anundo prayed with him, and the dying boy himself declared, "I believe in Jesus; pray to Jesus for me." At his own request two hymns were sung and prayer was offered. After a little while he became unconscious and fell asleep in death. We are persuaded it is well with him. By the attention which he formerly paid to the religion of Christ, and by the conversation which he had with Anundo, we know that the Lord has received his spirit."

"We turn with more satisfaction to the Boys' Boarding School at Barisal. Twelve boys, ten of whom were boarders on the mission premises, attended the Government Anglo-Vernacular School daily. Three of the boys were in the second class, and the rest in lower classes. In the early part of the year the teaching was a good deal interrupted in consequence of the prevalence of small-pox and cholera in the town and villages about. All the boys were sent to their homes for a month, but after that there was no interruption until the school closed at the end of the year. The Christian boys board and sleep on the mission premises, and are thus under our own care and superintendence. They were diligent in their studies, and regular and punctual in their attendance at school. Their conduct, too, was all that could be desired. In the beginning of April last we had the pleasure of baptizing four of the more advanced and older boys, sons of native preachers. They give promise of being intelligent and useful men. All the boys have been in the habit of coming to our house for an hour every Sunday afternoon, and we have taken them carefully through twenty chapters of the Acts of the Apostles.

"We are thankful to say that we have been able to continue the English services in the mission chapel throughout the year. The attendance varied from twelve to twenty. A large audience is not to be expected at a small station like this, but we are thankful that even a few come to hear the Word of God expounded and to worship in His sanctuary. It is a lamentable fact that many Europeans in India pay little regard to the Lord's-day. The day of rest is to them a day of amusement.

"Preaching operations have been carried on earnestly and diligently during the year. Many preaching tours have been made to different parts of the district. Fairs, markets, and bazars have been attended. The Gospel has been preached in them all, and many Scriptures and tracts have been sold; but, no doubt, Mr. Spurgeon will give details of these things.

"We cannot bring this report to a close without bearing an emphatic testimony to the diligence and zeal of the young men who have been living with us during the year. In the acquisition of the Bengali language they have been most painstaking and laborious, and for some months past they have been in the habit of going into the bazar almost every evening to preach the Gospel and to sell portions of Scripture. They have also encouraged young men from the school and town to come to the house and converse freely with them on religious subjects. In this way, whilst learning the language, they have made themselves useful, and have done good service for the Master.

"At the end of 1881 the number of members was 1,491. To this number we have to add those baptized during the year, 162; re-admitted, 40; making a total of 1,693. Died, 32; excluded, 61; showing the present number of members to be 1,600—a clear increase of 109 during the year."

Dacca, the educational and commercial capital of Eastern Bengal, lies on the banks of the old Ganges. It is about 190 miles N.E. from Calcutta. Its population is said to number 69,212 persons; but the entire district contains 1,851,764, in the following proportions:—Hindoos, 793,789; Mohammedans, 1,050,131; Christians, 7,844.

“The English service on the Lord’s-day evening has been, on the whole, well attended both by Europeans and educated natives.

“The visit of our Home Secretary, A. H. Baynes, Esq., with the Rev. G. Kerry, of Calcutta, last December, was a very pleasant break in the usual monotony of our Dacca life. A social gathering was held at the chapel on the last evening of their stay, when addresses were delivered. Friends in town decorated the chapel very tastefully within and without, and our hearty thanks are due, especially to W. R. Kelsall, Esq., and the ladies, who worked very hard to get all done in time.

“Baptisms.”

“One European and two Hindoos were baptized during the year, the first by myself at Dacca, and the latter two by Upendra Ghose at Munshiganj, and near Roypur, on the Megna.

“Native Christian Women’s Bible-class.”

“This has been carried on regularly on the Lord’s-day afternoon by Mrs. Bion; only a few, however, care to profit by it.

“Vernacular Work in Town.”

“Nothing new has taken place in this part of the work. If large and attentive crowds of both Mussulmans and Hindoos are signs of encouragement, then we have had these signs throughout the year, but we cannot report any conversions.

“Sale of Scriptures.”

“The sale of Scriptures has not been so great as in former years, but this is chiefly to be accounted for by the people having been well supplied from year to year during our frequent journeys. The sum of Rs.32-6 has been realised, not including those sold by the assistant missionary and the colporteur at Comillah.

“Babu Chand.”

“During our absence in December and January the last of our old preachers, Babu Chand, passed away to enter into the rest of the people of God. He, too, like the late Ram Jiban Roy, was brought from Calcutta to Dacca by my late father-in-law, the Rev. W. Robinson, who trained him for the work of a preacher. During his last years he suffered very much in body, but for many a long year he preached the Gospel, in company with other preachers (now deceased) and myself, in town, as well as on our journeys. He preached both in Hindustani and Bengali, and proved himself a workman who needed not to be ashamed.

“Itineraries.”

“The preachers, Upendra Ghose and Dina Bandhu, have made various preaching tours in the Dacca district. During four months in the rainy season Upendra Ghose, at Munshiganj, visited Biokrampur, the tract of land between the Dulaserry and Padma Rivers, as well as the various markets and bazars along the Megna, Luckys, and Dulaserry Rivers, and the mela at Lojung. The Ruth Jattrra, at Dhumrai, and the villages and markets north and west of Sabhar, were visited by Dina Bandhu.

“Our longest and chief tours have been made in the Mymensing district, and so an account of them will appear in the report of that district.

"In March I visited the northern division of the Dacca district.

"Incidents.

"At Narsingdhee, during our two and a-half days' stay, we found several Hindoos who seem to be not far from the Kingdom of God. By their conversation it was evident that the Spirit of God was striving in their hearts, and the questions they put and the inquiries they made showed a considerable amount of the knowledge of the Bible. On a subsequent visit made by Upendra, in the rains, it was found that their state of mind was even more satisfactory than it had been, and several professed their sincere faith in Christ. We hope to see them again during our present cold weather tours.

"A new proof of the power of the Gospel unto salvation in out-of-the-way places came to our knowledge during the past year. Some eight or nine years ago, when preaching at a place called Attayadee, on the old Luckya River, a Brahman, at the end of our preaching, said, 'There is a man at Roypur (on the Megna) who talks about Jesus Christ to the people just as you do, but he has to suffer very much from his neighbours on account of his new religion.' Fancy, then, our pleasure when, in the month of February, this very man, with three others, paid us a visit at Dacca, expressing his desire to be baptized. One of the three, a talukdar, had bought a Bible on one of his visits to Dacca. He now bought another, and all the four asked for instruction. This they got during their few days' stay at Dacca by Mr. A. C. Duffadar. He paid them a visit soon after they had returned to their home, staying with them for some days.

"A second visit he paid them later on, an account of which will probably be in his report. Upendra Ghose, of Munshiganj, also paid them two visits during the rainy season, teaching and instructing them, and remaining with them a week at a time. On his second visit, in October, he baptized the one mentioned above, who had been the first to embrace the Gospel. This he did after repeated requests from the man. The others, who seemed somewhat alarmed, have kept back for various reasons; but we cherish the hope that God, in His own time, will remove their present difficulties, and that at no distant period a new church will be formed.

"When we were out on a preaching tour last March, at a place called Karkhanna, we found three Mussulmani women who, to our surprise, could read even in this out-of-the-way place. Each of them bought a Mussulmani Gospel from us."

Mr. Barnett writes :—

"The detailed report submitted by my colleague renders it unnecessary for me to do more than notice a few events intentionally left by him for me to record, and to report on the Sunday-school, of which I have charge.

"Mr. Baynes's Visit.

"On December 3rd, 1881, we received a visit from A. H. Baynes, Esq., of London, the beloved Secretary of our Society, who was accompanied by the Rev. Geo. Kerry, of Calcutta. On the following Sunday morning, December 4th, Mr. Baynes attended the Sunday-school, and gave a deeply interesting and impressive address. The evening service was conducted by Mr. Kerry. Unwilling that Mr. Baynes should leave Dacca without receiving an expression of the pleasure his visit had afforded the church and congregation, it was arranged that a public meeting should be held, at which such an expression should be given him. This meeting was convened on Monday evening, December 5th. Within a few hours all that needed to be done to make the meeting both a surprise to Mr. Baynes and a pleasure to all was accomplished. Under the supervision of R. Kelsall, Esq., who spared neither time nor labour, and who secured the loan of carpets, flags, and bannerets from the Nawab Assanoolah, the usual unadorned appearance of the chapel, both external and internal, underwent a surprising transformation. Tea was provided at half-past six on the chapel veranda, converted into an illuminated bower of evergreen flowers and flags. The public meeting commenced at seven o'clock, Mr. Bion presiding. After a hymn had been sung, and a prayer offered by Mr. Kerry, addresses of welcome to Mr. Baynes, evidencing suppressed affection for him personally, and expressive of hearty sympathy with the cause he represented, were given by the chairman and Mr. Barnett on behalf of the church and congregation, and by E. C. Kemp, Esq., proprietor of the Bengal Times, on behalf of the strangers present. These were followed by an address of thrilling interest and forcefulness by Mr. Baynes, whose stirring appeals for a thorough consecration to missionary work on the part of his hearers will long be remembered and felt by those who heard them. The Rev. Geo. Kerry followed in an appropriate address, after which the interesting meeting was brought to a close.

"The Sunday-school."

"Religious instruction has been given every Sunday in the Sabbath-school during the year.

"In the adult Bible-class we have studied the first six chapters of the Gospel by John. Our progress has been slow, partly because of the importance of the questions discussed, and partly because of interruptions consequent upon my absence during the rainy season, when I accompanied Mr. Bion on his tour to the Garo hills. Questions suggested as to the genuineness of the Gospel led to the preparation of a paper embracing a summary of the evidences which affect those questions, and this the class took down in writing from dictation. We have endeavoured to keep steadily before our minds the object for which, as John says, the Gospel was written: 'That ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that, believing, ye may have life in His name.'

"There is a small library in connection with the school. Most of the books have been read by the children, and it is very desirable that the library should be enlarged. May we not confidently appeal to the friends of Sunday-schools to help us by the gift of books suitable for children, and to aid us in our work of love and faith in any way that may suggest itself to their minds? 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these My little ones, ye have done it unto Me.'"

Mymensing, to the north of Dacca, is a very populous district, containing 2,349,917 inhabitants. The chief town, of the same name, has 10,068 residents.

This portion of the East Bengal Mission is mainly supported by the Baptist Churches of Victoria, Australia.

Mr. Bion writes :—

"Several changes have taken place in the staff of preachers since we wrote our last report.

"Of the five students who had gone to Tura to be educated in the school of the American missionaries, three had to return to the plains last March, on account of the frequent attacks of illness from which they suffered. The other two have continued their studies, and are preparing for the work as schoolmasters and preachers.

"Two journeys were undertaken by me to Biri Siri—one last December and January, when Upendra Ghose, of Munshiganj, went with me; and another in July and August, when Mr. Barnett and Dina Bandhu accompanied me.

"On both journeys we had Gunga Charan also with us. On the former he joined us at Biri Siri, accompanied us to Dacca, and on the latter he joined us at Mymensing. Besides this, Gunga Charan paid a visit to Biri Siri last May, and made a prolonged stay there. Ram Dayal and Chandra Mohun visited various Garó villages in the neighbourhood of Biri Siri.

"The ways in which the Gospel has been received are as varied as the many men and women to whom it was preached; but, on the whole, we can testify to the fact that, with a few exceptions, it has been read and discussed with increasing zeal by both Hindoos and Mussulmans everywhere.

"In places like Bhyrub, Meeta-meen, Itna, Gaglajjoar, Maidhmegur, Ramnugur, and Kattirghat, near Durgapur, and all along the Kuria and Kungoar Rivers, people invariably heard with attention, and even seriousness.

"During our stay at Kattirghat my wife used to go into the neighbourhood and collect from ten to twelve women, and read and talk to them. Gradually they became interested in the Gospel, and came to our boat several times. Two widows among them seemed all but ready to embrace the Gospel, and obtained some knowledge of the way of salvation. Before we started they and half-a-dozen other women came to our boat, where we had a regular service with them, praying and expounding a part of a chapter in the New Testament. My wife advised these two widows to go either to Mymensing or Biri Siri for more instruction. This, however, they have not yet had the courage to do, but Ram Dayal has visited them from Biri Siri to keep them from losing the good impressions they have received.

"Our second visit to Biri Siri was unavoidably short. It lasted only half-a-day and a night. Via Mymensing, it took us thirteen days by boat to get there, and when we were at a distance of one and a-half day's journey from Durgapur we had to return for want of water, and move up the Kungsa River to Nathur Konah. From this place, which is eight miles distant from Biri Siri, we made the journey by land. It took us three hours to get to Biri Siri; eight nullahs and khals had to be crossed, and the last two miles had to be got over through rice-fields under water. To crown the whole, rain overtook us before we had reached. Mr. Barnett, being on a pony, got thoroughly wet. I fared a little better than he did, as I was carried on a sort of open palkee, with my umbrella to protect me. The heat was intense, and it was eleven o'clock before we reached the chapel. Once there, we were thankful to be able to lie on the ground on mats and stretch our legs. There were no tables or chairs; only a few morahs, as furniture. During the day a good many of the Garos were away from home, but at about eight o'clock they gradually dropped in, and then we examined nine candidates, and had a church-meeting afterwards.

"Baptism of Nine Garos."

"At ten o'clock p.m., Mr. Barnett, with the preachers and about forty Garos, left the chapel for a certain piece of water half-a-mile distant. The gong was sounded all the way, partly to frighten away wild beasts, and partly to give notice to the heathen Garos, who might wish to witness the ordinance of baptism. Much to my regret, I was unable to accompany them, being too tired and ill after the heat of our day trip. After offering up a prayer, Gunga Charan went down into the water and baptized one after another in the presence of more than a hundred heathen Garos. After the baptism the party returned to the preachers' houses, and Dina Bandhu, with some others, sang a 'song kirton' (song of praise), which lasted till midnight.

"On our homeward way, at Mymensing, another Garo and a Hindoo convert were baptized by me.

"English Bibles were much sought after at Mymensing by the school-boys, and all we had brought were sold. Another supply sent afterwards from Dacca was sold in no time, and a third supply is now on the way.

"It is to be hoped that a separate European missionary will shortly be settled at Mymensing, who will acquire both the Bengali and Garo languages, and who will make it his chief aim to visit the many Garo villages in the plains of the Mymensing district. To do this promising work among the Garos he will need a tent and a good pony in the cold and dry season, and a boat in the rainy season. Who will go?

"Besides Mymensing, there are the Pubna, Sylhet, Cachar, and Tipperah districts, in Eastern Bengal, without a missionary.

"The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few.' (Oh! how few!) 'Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harvest, that He would send forth labourers into His harvest.'"

A district in the chief-commissionership of Assam, lying between 24° 14' and 25° 50' N. lat., and between 92° 26' and 93° 29' E. long.; area, 3,750 square miles. The Census of 1872 returned a total population of 205,027, excluding the mountainous sub-division of Asalu or North Cachar. The administrative head-quarters are at the town of Silchar.

The district is bounded on the north by the Barail range, forming the watershed between the river systems of the Brahmaputra and the Barak, which separates it from the Naga hills; on the east by the Manipur State; on the south by the hill country occupied by Lushai or Kuki tribes; on the west by the district of Sylhet.

A large number of tea-gardens are in Cachar, which employ a very considerable number of labourers.

We have received no detailed reports from this district for the past year.

Hindoos, and 2 per cent. Buddhists.

Mr. De Cruz reports :—

"It is my pleasing duty thankfully to acknowledge that the past year has been one of spiritual prosperity. The Lord has been with us, and, though we have not yet enjoyed the harvest we hope to obtain, yet already we feel that we are gathering its first-fruits. Many people have heard the simple story of the Cross from us, and have received spiritual benefit.

"Our work divides itself into various branches :—

"1. Our English Services.—English services have been held in our chapel regularly twice on the Lord's-day, except during the rains, when, owing to the smallness of the attendance, the evening one was given up for nearly two months. Apart from this interruption, we have had a fair attendance both morning and evening throughout the year.

"2. The Bengali Services.—These have been favourably attended. In my last report I deplored the spiritual condition of our native Christians. There used to be continually 'wars and rumours of wars' amongst them, but the past year has been one of peace. By constantly visiting them, and holding meetings in their homes, a great change has come over them. Some of them are now spiritually minded, and take some interest in bazar preaching and the sale of the Scriptures.

"3. Educational.—(a.) Our Anglo-Vernacular School has also done well. We commenced the year with only three boys, but we closed it with forty-seven. The school is composed of Christian boys, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, as well as Hindoo and Mohammedan. Our chief object in connection with this school is to win the children to Jesus. Hence, besides the secular instruction imparted, Dr. Wenger's Bengali Catechism of Christian Doctrine and Rotnomala are taught, and I am glad to say our efforts in this respect have not been unsuccessful. The work of grace, we believe, has begun in the hearts of at least three boys, one of whom, son of a native Christian, has already been baptized, while the other two, who were formerly Roman Catholics, are now candidates for baptism. The mother of one of these boys is a regular attendant at our services, and she too has been under religious impressions for some time. (b.) A Vernacular School has also been started in a needy part of the town, in a village inhabited by low-caste fishermen. It has been in existence now for three months, and we have twenty-five boys in attendance.

"4. Evangelistic Work in the Vernacular.—(a.) Preaching outside the station.—Several villages and bazars and one mela outside the station have been visited, and there the Word of Life has been proclaimed to thousands of Mohammedans and Hindoos, with very favourable results. They have heard the Gospel gladly, and have bought many hundreds of copies of the Scripture from us. Though in connection with this work there has been no fruit yet, still two persons had been impressed by the preaching and the prayers, and followed us about a good deal. (b.) Preaching inside the station.—Bukshée's bazar has been visited twice a week, on Tuesdays and Saturdays, by myself and Radha Nath Dass, my native preacher, and several volunteer helpers. Here, too, we have been heard gladly, and many hundreds of copies of the Scriptures sold. Several villages have also been visited, and it was in connection with this kind of work that our Vernacular School was started.

"5. The Sale of the Scriptures.—During the past year we have sold : Scripture portions in Bengali, 990 ; Scripture portions in Mussulmani-Bengali, 325 ; English Bibles and Testaments, 25."

XIV.—DINAGEPORE.

Sub-station—Kalkapore.

Assistant Missionary, RAM KANTO DASS.

Evangelist, SURJYA KOOMAR DEY.

The Rev. W. Bowen James reports:—

"There have been but few additions made to the Christian churches of Dinagepore during the past year.

"Three persons only have made a public profession of Christ, one of whom is a convert from Hindooism ; three more have renounced Hindooism, and have joined the Christian community, but, as their knowledge of Christianity is very imperfect, they have not yet been baptized.

"The work carried on at Kalkapore, and the neighbouring villages, has been to us a source of great comfort and joy. In spite of many disadvantages and difficulties, the brethren there have remained steadfast in their faith, and their strict consistent Christian life has not failed to attract the attention of the heathen around some of whom have manifested a strong desire to cast their lot amongst them.

"Our schools have been temporarily closed for want of qualified teachers, but we hope to open them again as soon as we can secure the services of good Christian teachers.

"Preaching to the heathen has been our chief work during the year. Towards the close of January, brethren Ramkanto Dass and Surjya Kumar Dey and myself set out on a preaching tour through Malda, visiting Mahepaldighi and Mudnabatty on our way. These places have sacred associations for all who are interested in Christian missions.

"Several preaching tours have been made throughout Dinagepore, and the various melas in the district have been visited. Two visits have been made to Dhadipara and the surrounding villages in Purneah, where we hope a good work has been commenced. Day after day the same people came to hear the preaching, and to have the Scriptures explained to them. Their faith in Hindooism has been shaken, and not a few of them have already done away with idol-worship. When on our last visit to them, we found that the Bible had been carefully read in many families ; and the hymns which we, on a previous occasion, had taught them, were often sung in the villages. The Word of God has not only been preached at the various places we visited in Dinagepore, Malda, and Purneah, but 3,025 copies of Scriptures, and 8,000 copies of tracts, have been sold during the year. The number of nominal Christians in the district is now 266 ; that of church members, 115."

The hill territory of Darjeeling has a population of 46,727 persons; and the Terai, at the base of the Hills, 47,985.

At this station, which is carried on quite independently of help from the Society, the Rev. J. Rylands Brown is labouring with great earnestness and considerable success.

Mr. Brown is pastor of the Union Church, and carries on as well a large evangelistic work amongst the numerous Europeans connected with the many and extensive tea-gardens in the Darjeeling district.

XVI.—SANTHALISTAN.

JAMTARA.

Missionary, E. CORNELIUS.

For some time past the Committee has given an annual grant to aid Mr. Cornelius in maintaining himself among the Bengali and Santhal population of Jamtara, in the vicinity of the East Indian Railway.

The following is the report sent by Mr. Cornelius:—

“Last year I built a house in Khamarbad, which is situated in the midst of most of my schools. Since then I have stayed sometimes in Jamtara and sometimes in Khamarbad, preaching in the villages around; but have done so mostly in my schools, as the opportunity to preach is always better in them than anywhere else. The number of our schools has been increased from fourteen to twenty-one since I last gave you an account of the work. The number of them now is twenty-one.

“The schools that I have taken on have always been with an agreement that the pupils shall learn as much by heart of the Word of God as I tell them to. Some learnt Dr. Wenger’s Catechism, some pamphlets of Scripture texts, some Psalms of

David, and other portions of God’s Word. Many have learnt all these. Others have learnt that excellent Gospel tract in rhyme, the ‘Nistar Rotnikor.’

“Many of the pupils, with their teachers, come also to our meetings in our house on the Lord’s-day, both in Jamtara and Khamarbad. Many of them seem to drink in the Word, and I do believe that some of them are true children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. Some of these schools I have kept on for years, but nothing has ever been given me for the keeping of them by any one, except that a lady has, for the last year and half, given a little sum for this purpose. Of all that the Lord has sent us for our own use without our ever having to solicit aid from any one, either by word, letter, or report, we have given for this work as much as we have been able to. The amount of God’s Word that these children have stored up in their memories astonishes those who hear them. The Gospel is listened to with eagerness by the relatives of the pupils and others whenever I go to the schools. If many of these, or even any, have turned to and received Christ Jesus as their Saviour, I cannot tell.

“Two teachers and one young man profess faith in Christ and that they have received Him as their Saviour and Leader—I think they are sincere, especially two of them, but none of them has as yet asked to be baptized.”

XVII.—SOORY.

Evangelists, BENI MADHOB MONDOL,
UMA CHORON NATH, and one

Number of members, 68.

Of the work of the past year in Soory, Mr. McKenna writes:—

“Itinerating.—This has been carried on in the district by the brethren and myself very much as usual. The work is a very interesting one, and not a little interest has been shown in it by the people to whom we have preached. That this work is, or can be, resultless is what cannot for a moment be believed. To arrive at any such faithless conclusion, not merely should we have to ignore the promises of God, which in these days of materialistic prosperity it is to be feared many of us are only too ready to do, but also the history of missions. It is a remarkable fact that of late years the missions in India which, twenty-five or thirty years ago, were apparently the most barren of results, are now, numerically, the most successful missions in the country, whose work increases so rapidly in the hands of the missionaries that it is overtaken with extremest difficulty.

"The Church.—This, in point of numbers, remains stationary. Like a good many rural churches in England, the Beerbhoom Church throws off its increase into the large towns, and into other missions. The reason of this is that employment of a remunerative sort is very scarce in the district, so that our young men have to look for a suitable sphere elsewhere. But whole families at times leave for the same reason, so that this constant exodus, whilst it serves to strengthen other missions, and to further the cause of Christ generally, tends, numerically at least, apparently to weaken us. This must inevitably go on, I fear, till our native brethren betake themselves more largely than they have hitherto done, or at present do, to agricultural pursuits. The church, spiritually, has been blessed with peace and progress during the year, I fully believe, and it has the satisfaction of knowing that many of its members are actively engaged in the cause of Christ in other missions, whose success—and some of them have been very successful—humanly speaking, is unquestionably attributable, in part at least, to the labours of our people. The fact is, some of the most successful missions in Bengal have originated with the Beerbhoom Mission. It is right to notice the deaths of two of our Christian sisters who were taken home during the year. Of these the aged Teeloka, widow of the evangelist Sonathon, a sister full of good works, was one, and Kitty Dass, head mistress of the girls' school, the other. The former was a mother in Israel, who passed away, ripe in years, Christian experience, and well-doing, and in the respect and esteem of all who knew her. The latter was in the prime of life, and in the full tide of Christian usefulness, one, whose influence on the young was especially valuable, but whose Christian example to all, whether in public life or in her own family, was a great power for good. Humanly speaking, she could ill be spared, and her loss must be felt for years to come. But the Master knows what is best. In connection with the church is a flourishing Sunday-school, which has pursued the even tenor of its useful way, under the superintendence of Baboo Prossonno Kumar Dass, a brother whose honorary work amongst us would seem to exceed that of some of our paid agents. There have been several baptisms from the school in the year.

"Schools.—Soory Girls' School.—The learned Commissioner of the Burdwan division, on his visit to Beerbhoom, very kindly gave an hour and a half to a thorough examination of the pupils of this school. He was accompanied by his lady, who takes a warm interest in the advancement of female education. The Commissioner's written remarks on the state of the school were duly forwarded to our General Secretary, Mr. Baynes, and were of a very encouraging kind. The children, their ages especially considered, acquitted themselves uncommonly well, and in nothing did they do better than in Scripture. Female education in Beerbhoom, however, is just at its beginning. Not only is this the only girls' school. the district—for a population of 450,000 females—but even this school has to encounter a good deal of passive opposition from people from whose superior advantages or attainments better things might be expected. But we are thankful that the school has achieved another year of quiet, even if only limited, Christian usefulness, and that without any expense to our Society. The Christian boys' school has not been very successful, though it seems desirable still to continue it. This—a sort of dame's school for our younger Christian boys—was instituted early in the year. The schools of the Christian Vernacular Education Society, six in number, in connection with this mission have done fairly well, the enormous amount of sickness in the district considered. Instances of an encouraging kind, mentioned in a former report, sufficiently demonstrate that the bread thus cast upon the waters, though rarely traceable, returns after many days.

“In conclusion, I would just say that the time, in my opinion, has come for our occupying much more fully than we have ever hitherto done this interesting district. One European missionary and two native evangelists is all the direct agency we have ever had for a gross population of, I believe, nearly 900,000. Our mission, though old in one sense, is really new in another, for it is a mere fraction of the people that has been reached with even the barest announcement of the Gospel.”

A town of 59,698 inhabitants. It lies on the southern bank of the Ganges, 300 miles N.W. of Calcutta. The district of Monghyr contains 1,812,986 persons, of whom the Mohammedans number only 182,269 souls. The district contains 1,142 Christians; the rest are Hindoos.

The Rev. Thomas Evans reports :

“1. Preaching to the Heathen.—This we regard as our chief work, and since the last report was written we have visited the following mels :

“In December, 1881, the Gospel was preached, and books sold, in the Kablas mela. This mela is held far north in Tirhoot, on the banks of a running brook, and the shrine is devoted to Biseshwar, or the god of poison, the people offering gifts here in the hope that they may escape the bites of deadly serpents.

“The mela lasts about a week in all, and here many people from the far North hear the Gospel for the first time. Not many of them can read, and yet about 100 Gospels and 300 Hindi and Kaithi tracts were sold, which realised Rs.7-8.

"Caragola Mela.—This is a large mela, on the north bank of the Ganges, about fifty miles below Monghyr; and, as only one native brother was able to visit it this year (in January), the results were less than usual. He preached for some days, and sold 150 Gospels and 400 tracts, for which he realised Rs.10. A number of Bhotias and people from Nepaul come to this mela to sell skins, furs, &c., and to bathe in the Ganges.

"The great Kumbh mela, at Allahabad, in the end of January, proved a grand opportunity to preach and sell books. We could not get there during the first part of the mela, and had to leave before its close on account of the cholera, which broke out and killed many people. Yet others were there from the beginning, and Mr. Bate and his party had good work before we came. We sold, in a few days, no less than 1,000 Gospels and 3,000 tracts, which realised Rs.85, and I was only sorry we were not able to be there before, and to stay longer than we were able to do.

"In February, we took a long tour in Tirhoot, when we visited Singheswar mela. This shrine is devoted to the tiger-god, and was likely put up when tigers abounded in the jungle there. The Hindoo religion is very accommodating; it has gods for all the ills and ailments of life; but, alas! they are gods that cannot save. We had good preaching here, and we also sold 300 gospels and 700 tracts, for which we realised Rs.18. Here we met our devoted native sister, Chandervati, who had been for months about from village to village preaching the Word, and who had sold some 300 Gospels and 500 tracts, for which she realised Rs.10.

"At a Monghyr mela, across the Ganges, which lasted only a few hours, we sold 50 Gospels and 300 tracts for Rs.6-8.

"Our colporteur has sold during the year about 500 Gospels and 1,000 tracts, realising Rs.25. We have also sold a goodly number in the bazars in Monghyr and Jamalpore, so that on the whole no less than about 2,800 copies of Gospels and 7,200 tracts have been sold, and about Rs.180 realised for the same. This includes our sales in November last at Sonapore, where a week was spent in preaching along with brethren McCumby, Broadway, and Jordan, and a number of native helpers. We sold 160 Gospels and 460 tracts, and realised Rs.20 for the same; while another stall from Dinapore did about the same.

"We have distributed English as well as native books. An edition of 1,000 copies of a sermon by the senior missionary on 'The Resurrection of Christ,' an edition of 500 copies also of a sermon in English on the word of Christ, 'Take ye away the stone,' and an edition of 500 copies of a sermon on 'Real Good in Apparent Evil,' and another of 1,000 copies on 'The Credentials of Christ,' have been very widely distributed gratis among educated natives, and English soldiers and others, as well as 1,000 copies of 'The Testimony of Napoleon the Great to the Divinity of Christ,' also 1,000 copies of 'A Friendly Warning to Teetotallers,' some of whom are carried away with the delusion that to abstain from the use of strong drink is all the reformation they need.

"For these publications gratuitously distributed I am indebted chiefly to the Christian generosity of Mr. Dear, of Monghyr, a man whose benevolent heart is as broad as his fiscal treasury is deep, and to whom many missions in India owe a large debt of gratitude for his unbounded liberality.

"2. The Native Church.—We are very sorry to have to say that our anticipations of the native church undertaking the management and support of its own services have not been realised, and we fear that the only course left is to go back and resume the services in connection with the mission as before. Our earnest hope is that brighter days may dawn, when all our native Christian churches in India will realise the privilege as well as the duty to do all in their power to govern and support their own churches, as well as take an active part in spreading the knowledge of the truth among the heathen.

"3. Our English Work.—The Sabbath and week-day services in Monghyr have been carried on with little or no interruption throughout the year. While the senior missionary was away for the hot season in Mussoorie the Parent Society kindly allowed Mr. W. R. James, from Calcutta, to come to Monghyr to help Mr. B. Evans to carry on the work of the station, so that the English services held in Jamalpore on Sunday evenings were carried on, as well as those in Monghyr.

"The Sabbath-school has been kept at work, and though the children are few yet they have learnt their Bible lessons well and seem to take an interest in the work.

"The evangelistic services at Jamalpore on Sunday nights have sustained their former interest, and we have reason to hope that the good seed sown there has not been lost. We have to thank Mr. Campbell, the locomotive superintendent, for all the kindly help which he is ever ready to afford us in our attempt to benefit the railway people at Jamalpore.

"4. The Mission Press.—This important branch of our work has gone on steadily throughout the year, and 76,120 books, pamphlets, and portions of Scripture have been printed since the last year. As, however, the Kaithi type can be printed just as well in Calcutta as Monghyr, it has been deemed advisable to remove the Monghyr Press to the Mission Press in Calcutta, where all the work needed can be better and more economically turned out.

"5. Bazar School.—Our late Anglo-Vernacular High-class School was closed, as was intimated in the last report, and a lower class school was opened in our Bazar chapel, where the vernacular is chiefly taught and the Bible takes a prominent place. We also give elementary knowledge of English, arithmetic, &c., but our main object is the teaching of the Word of God. The school is attended by about seventy boys, a few of whom only are the children of Christian parents. The fees are low, so as to be within the reach of the poor, while those who are too poor to pay are admitted free, especially poor Christian lads.

"We contemplate opening, or rather re-opening, a few primary bazar schools, which cost but little money, and in which much Christian truth can be taught to a large number of Hindoo boys who have no objection to read the Bible, and to learn off by heart Christian hymns and Scripture catechisms."

II.—PATNA.

1.—PATNA CITY.

Missionary, D. P. BROADWAY.

IMAM MASIH.*

Native Preacher, MATTHEW.

Patna is situate on the southern bank of the Ganges, about 320 miles N.W. of Calcutta. It is largely inhabited by Mussulmans. The Patna Municipality contains 158,900, and the whole district 1,559,638, inhabitants.

Mr. Broadway writes :—

“During the past year some of us were visited in our domestic circles with illness and death. The Lord seemed to lay His rod heavily upon us, and the rebellious heart was ready to assert that God had ‘forgotten to be gracious, and in anger shut up His tender mercies.’ But, blessed be His name, the voice of His Spirit was heard, saying, that we must ‘not despise the chastenings of the Lord, nor faint when rebuked of Him, for whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom He receiveth.’ Thus, in the midst of the gloom by which we were surrounded, He made His light to shine upon us, so that we could say, ‘Father, Thy will be done.’

“We have been appointed to preach the Gospel of the Lord Christ, and to hold Him forth as the Saviour of the world from the wrath of an offended God. But, in reporting on our work, one very discouraging thought saddens the heart. It is this, Will it interest the public? The story is so stale and monotonous, and one in which but few take an interest. The multitudes pass on, wagging their heads, just as did the multitudes of old when the Holy One Himself hung upon the cross, bleeding and dying, under the burden of the world’s sins.

“We have, through God’s help, done as much as we could. The Gospel has been faithfully declared to large crowds of willing and interested hearers, principally in the streets of the city, but also abroad. Inquirers have visited us, and have been visited by us; and we have held converse on the way of salvation, pleasant to ourselves, and, we hope, profitable to them. Melas, of which there have been a larger number than usual through the interested contrivance of the Brahmins, who largely benefit by them, have been visited, and the message of salvation, through the loving Son of the ever-loving Father has been delivered to the multitudes who come from distant places to these haunts of idolatry—where, instead of getting rid of vice, they sink deeper into it. Gospels, and other religious books and tracts, have been sold as well as distributed. The sales, if not as extensive as could be wished, were by no means inconsiderable, considering that similar publications were at the same time offered for sale at other stalls also.

“Our colleague, Moulvie Imam Masih, at the request of the Calcutta Auxiliary Society, undertook another tour, extending to Bombay; and his earnestness, zeal, and ability obtained for him acceptance with the people wherever he went. The particulars of his work in connection with this tour have been furnished to the Auxiliary Society for publication in their Report. The Moulvie has, as usual, helped us very ably and efficiently in preaching to the Mohammedans and Hindoos, and in controversies with them. He has also taken part in the Christian services held on the Lord’s-day in the mission-house.

“We must not close this brief statement without referring to an interesting visit which we had the privilege of receiving from our much esteemed Home Secretary, A. H. Baynes, Esq., and which, while it afforded him an opportunity of seeing and judging for himself, at the same time created a pleasant break in the every-day experience of missionary life. During his short stay with us, a deputation, representing both Mohammedans and Hindoos, waited on him, and presented an address on the desirability of establishing a seminary in the city where high-class education may be imparted on a religious basis.

“My colleague, the Rev. W. J. Price, joined me last February, and has occupied the place rendered vacant by the decease of our much esteemed brother, the Rev. W. Greenway, and has carried on the work in English and vernacular with energy and success. It is a pleasure to be able to state that he has laboured with me in the Gospel as a loving son."

Dinapore is a few miles west of Patna, and contains 61,300 inhabitants. It is the seat of the military authorities for the district. Bankipore lies between Patna and Dinapore, and contains 72,746 inhabitants.

The Rev. W. J. Price reports:—

"I came to Dinapore, at the request of Mr. Baynes, in February last, to occupy the place rendered vacant by the decease of the Rev. W. Greenway. The work may thus be summarised—English: Two Sunday services at our chapel in the cantonments, and a fortnightly service in the Railway Institute at Khagowl. Work in connection with the Civil Branch of the Soldiers' Total Abstinence Association at Dinapore, and recently at Khagowl, where a branch has been formed. A Sunday-school started eight months ago in a private house, under the superintendence of Elder D. Erskine, has now forty names on the roll, and for better accommodation meets in the chapel. A Band of Hope, in connection with the Sunday-school, holds fortnightly meetings, and is in a flourishing condition.

"Rebuilding of Chapel.—In consequence of damage sustained by the present building during the inundation some three years ago, it has been found necessary to rebuild. Elder J. F. Williamson, who holds the position of executive engineer, has very kindly given his professional services in drawing up a plan and estimate for the new chapel. It is proposed to replace the present building by another, on the same site, at a cost of Rs.11,500. Of this sum about Rs.8,000 have been given, or promised, and earnest efforts are being made to collect the remainder. During the year three have been added to the church by baptism, and four others have been accepted for baptism, and are only waiting for the administration of the ordinance. While rejoicing over these accessions we have had to mourn over some who have gone back to the world again.

"Native Work.—A Boys' School was opened in May, and has gone on fairly well. Average attendance, thirty.

"A Sunday-school for native boys has been very well attended. Sometimes as many as eighty, and even ninety, boys, of all castes, have crowded together to sing Christian hymns, and listen to Christian teaching, each boy receiving as a reward for attendance a small card, with a verse of Scripture, in Hindi, printed on it. The average attendance is sixty.

"Native Church.—Finding some native Christians as sheep without a shepherd, we gathered them together to a week-day service in a private house. Among them we found some baptized believers, and these being increased by removals to the neighbourhood, and by baptisms, have been formed into a church, numbering eleven members. Sister Straahan has placed in our hands Rs.150 towards the building of a native chapel, which we hope to attend to as soon as possible. I have had the pleasure of baptizing two Hindoos during the year; both of them are walking worthily, and are in no way dependent on the Mission.

"Colportage.—We have no regular colporteur at Dinapore, but we all do what we can in this important work. During the ten months of my stay at Dinapore Rs.70 have been realised from the sale of tracts and Scriptures. Vernacular preaching has been regularly carried on at bazars, melas, markets, and villages in the neighbourhood."

Missionary, J. E. GREIFF.

Mr. Greiff still carries on his labours in Gya, an important place of pilgrimage to the south of Patna, aided by a grant from the Committee of the Baptist Missionary Society. He writes:—

"My work, as usual, has been mostly street preaching, and in the cold weather itinerating through the district; no doubt there is no work to be compared with street-preaching.

"Several of the Gyawalar (priests) have begun to take copies of the Scriptures, and some of them have taken even the whole Bible, reading and inquiring after the truth, and showing themselves more in favour of the Holy Scriptures than before.

"Several circumstances happened which prevented my travelling in the district as in other years. I joined the brethren in the Sonapore fair, after which I went to the conference; and, after Mr. Baynes' visit to Gya, I made a tour in the district towards Sherghatty, along the trunk-road and the Sone Canal, to Daudnagar, from whence I returned to Gya, after an absence of twenty-two days. In nearly all the places I had a good opportunity to speak and distribute the Word of God, the people hearing gladly. A good number of books were sold, and tracts distributed freely.

"I have sold throughout the year 844 copies of Holy Scripture, of which forty-seven were copies of the New Testament, and thirty-nine copies of the four Gospels and the Acts; separate from this, twelve English Bibles and six copies of the New Testament, besides hundreds of small books from the Allahabad Tract Society, and many hundred tracts received from different Mission Presses, have been distributed. May it please the Lord our God to bless all with His richest blessings, that His people may rejoice, and His name be glorified."

The most sacred of all Indian cities. It stands on the northern bank of the Ganges, about 430 miles N.W. from Calcutta. During festivals the population is said sometimes to reach 600,000 persons; but its ordinary inhabitants number 207,570. It contains 4,000 Hindoo temples, as well as many mosques.

The Rev. W. Etherington reports:—

"Work among the Hindoos.—It is to this class of the people that my efforts are chiefly directed, as they form about five-sixths of the entire population of the city, and probably nine-tenths of the population of the district.

"Not unfrequently, however, those who listen to me are mostly Moham-medans, and then my work is carried on in Urdu and adapted to a Mussulman audience. During the year I have had some opportunities for private conversation and personal appeal to persons of this class, and this is perhaps the best means of reaching them. I have frequently invited them to my house for religious inquiry and conversation, but only two or three have come, and after a few visits they ceased to come, perhaps through fear of becoming marked men.

"Preaching in the open air to Hindoos has been continued during the year, but, I must add, with considerable irregularity, owing, among other things, to the copious rainy season which we had, which, though a great blessing for the country, interferes with such work as this. Certain suitable places in the city have been visited in order, morning after morning, and the truth regarding Christ and His salvation proclaimed to audiences varying from fifty to 200. I have seldom any difficulty in securing an audience; my presence, or the singing of a stanza or two of a hymn in a native tongue, suffices to gather the people around me. They listen, for the most part, attentively, and are exceedingly fond of discussion, which, in Benares, is generally more philosophic than religious. There are always a few present who, by their manner or words, indicate that they are really desirous to know what is truth; now and then I am cheered by an open and frank avowal of the truth of Christianity. When an appeal is made to such men to openly profess their attachment to Christ and His truth, they shrink from the persecution and sacrifice that such a step necessitates, and sometimes are heard to say, 'We cannot do so, but our children will.' I have not heard of any one who has been led by anything that I said or did during the past year to receive Christianity, but I have heard of two or three who became Christians at other places and declared that the truth first heard at Benares years ago was the means of leading them to Christ. Benares, being a great centre of pilgrimage, attracts many who during the few days or weeks they spend here learn about Christ or receive portions of Scripture; they return to their homes and are lost sight of by us.

"The work among Europeans, in which I have been greatly aided by Mrs. Etherington, was far more encouraging last year than the previous year. The greater part of my Sunday congregation, which is as large as can be expected in an up-country station, consists of soldiers, who come voluntarily to our services on Sunday and Thursday. Many of them profess to have received good since they came among us, and not a few are doubtless changed in their outward life. The number of resident church members is very small—not more than a dozen—but in all Indian interior stations, where nearly all the Europeans are like birds of passage, this is likely to be the case. Mrs. Etherington conducts a Bible-class on Monday evenings for English soldiers. This class is generally well attended, and again and again the members of it have acknowledged the spiritual good they have received. She also maintains a small Sunday-school for Eurasian children."

Mr. McCumby writes:—

"I accompanied Mr. James to the Beadon Square and preached in Hindi on two occasions at Maula Ali ka Darga; in Howrah for sixteen days; in Monghyr at two different times of the year; at Jamalpore Station Bazar in Bankipore, at the Sawwani mela, Dinapore Station (Khagaul) Bazar, Sonopore mela, Ajodhya mela, the Allahabad Khumb ka mela; in Agra for two months; and in Benares city, where I am stationed. At all these different places I get large congregations to hear me with attention. The people are much more willing to hear than they were in former days. May the Lord pour out His Spirit on the people to draw them to Christ our Lord and Saviour."

Mr. Ewen writes:—

"I am thankful to be able to report continued interest on the part of the people in our services. Every Lord's-day the attendance at our service at Rajghat increases—not of casuals, but of men who attend Sunday after Sunday. They are mostly intelligent-looking Mussulmen, a few Hindoos, Native Christians, and Eurasians. For some time the attendance has been over sixty: on Sunday evening it was eighty-seven, and many went away because we had not a single available seat. I have only seats for fifty as it is; but they crowded in as only natives can crowd. We must have more seats. There is a general clamour for them. The meeting is so important that I have determined to give up a good part of my time to preparation for it, and trust and pray Almighty God that the interest may continue and terminate in the conversion of some."

This important city, situated at the junction of the Ganges and Jumna Rivers, is now the seat of Government for the North-west Provinces of Hindustan. It contains 150,378 inhabitants. It is about 600 miles from Calcutta.

The Rev. J. D. Bate writes:—

"The account I have now the pleasure of sending you will be found to contain nothing sensational, nothing unusual. It will be the old story, so often told before, of hard work done for the Master; and, if the whole were told, it would contain some of the successes and persecutions which have commingled with the struggles of righteousness against idolatry and its concomitant evils. I must be brief, for the days when I could master time for lengthy report-writing are gone.

"My work during the year 1882

comes under several heads, as follows:—

"1. Journeys, more or less lengthened, among the villages of the great district. The number of miles I have walked, the number of villages I have visited, the number of times I have preached, these and such-like details would be out of keeping with the gravity and solemnity of work done in the name of Christ. My work has consisted of preaching at the weekly and bi-weekly markets, at melas, and in the streets; and my audiences have been composed of Hindoos, Mohammedans, Eurasians, and Europeans. I have also done a great deal in the way of visiting, for the purpose of religious conversation, the houses of native gentlemen, and I have had many a private conversation with native people in the roads, in the fields, and by the well-sides as I have travelled along. Of the work at the great Kumbh mela here, which lasted a month or so, I need give you no details, for much has already appeared in the public prints regarding it from other pens than mine.

"2. Preaching in the streets and bazars of this city has been carried on regularly every day the year through, both by myself and by Ali Jan, who, I am pleased to say, does his work well. Untoward events, such as sickness, &c., have occasionally prevented the one or the other of us from discharging this solemn and delightful duty; but the days have been few when we have not preached together there. I should, of course, make an exception in the case of Sundays, when our duties have called us to the assembly of the saints; though even on Sundays a few melas have been attended for the purpose of preaching.

"3. Besides the usual morning and evening services on Sundays for the native Christians, I have continued the year through the work of instructing, on those days, native servants. This is a work begun by our brother Evans many years ago, and taken up by me on his retirement from work at this station.

"4. When our brother Anderson left us, two years ago, I took over from him the charge of the native Christian church. This little pastorate has occupied much of my time, and has caused much anxious attention. One of the services on Sunday is taken by me, and the other by one of the native brethren. These services are, of course, conducted in the vernacular language.

"5. A large number of tracts and Scriptures have been sold during the year, as has already been mentioned by other brethren who were with us at the mela. We have also succeeded in getting permission from the authorities to sell religious books on the railway-platform at all times. As this is the place where all trains stop which traverse Northern India, it is easy to see how good this opportunity is. May God accept of us this effort.

"6. As to my Bible work, I have written to the officers of the Translation Society. Many other literary enterprises have engaged me during the year, one of which will, I hope, soon be in the hands of our brethren—viz., 'An Examination of the Claims of Ishmael as viewed by Mohammedans.'

"These are but the bones of my year's report; if I were not extremely busy, I would add the sinews, the flesh, and the life."

ALLAHABAD ENGLISH CHURCH.

The following report has been received from the English Church :

"The Allahabad Baptist Church continued, during the year 1882, under the pastoral care of the Rev. E. C. B. Hallam, M.A., who was sent out to it by the Baptist Missionary Society in London towards the close of 1881. We thank the Lord unfeignedly for the many tokens of His loving presence and blessing which we have had during the year, and for the measure of prosperity, both material and spiritual, which as a church we have enjoyed; and earnestly pray that the love of the Lord Jesus and Him crucified may be so understood, believed, and felt by us all as to lead us to lay out, without reserve, whatever of time, talent, or money we possess, in the service of the Master.

"The number of members at present on the church-books is eighty-eight, fourteen of whom were admitted during the year—ten by baptism and four by letters of recommendation from other churches. One member died during the year and one had to be excluded.

"The attendance on Sunday mornings has been about seventy, that on Sunday evenings about one hundred and eighty—sometimes a good deal more. The week-night services, consisting of prayer and praise meetings, lectures, Bible readings, and experience meetings, have lost none of their interest, and have been found, by those who attended them, to be seasons of mutual edification and refreshment. Services of song have also been held in aid of various departments of labour, and have been attended by large and appreciative audiences.

"The contributions of the members of the church and congregation to the various Funds during the year were as follows :—

Poor Fund	-	271	2	0
Dorcas Fund	-	114	14	6
Sunday School Fund		207	10	9
Incidental Expenses Fund		525	14	3
Local Home Mission Fund		730	10	4

Total	-	Rs.3,384	11	10

"The Sunday-school, ably superintended by the pastor and Elder

Carr, had an average of seventy-eight on the rolls—viz., forty-two boys and thirty-six girls. The girls' classes have had a sufficiency of teachers, but much difficulty has been experienced in obtaining suitable gentlemen teachers for the boys. The receipts during the year, including a balance from the previous year, amounted to Rs.274, of which Rs.248 was expended during the year, leaving, on the 1st January, a balance in hand of Rs.26.

"The Home Mission work, which was formerly confined almost exclusively to the evangelistic services conducted by Elder Carr among the railway employés and to the visits of brother Dane, as a Scripture reader, to the very poor Europeans and Eurasians residing in the city, has now been greatly extended, and includes evangelistic work among natives. This latter is carried on through the agency of Brother Joseph, an intelligent and earnest native preacher, and his wife Susan, and is systematised and supervised by the pastor. A book-room has also been kept up in the city, and a colporteur employed, who besides selling books, has seized every opportunity of engaging in friendly talk with Mohammedans and Hindoos on the claims of Christ and His religion. A small school, containing about twenty pupils, has likewise been kept up."

The capital of the district, with a population of 137,908 persons ; it is situated on the River Jumna, about 800 miles N.W. from Calcutta.

"God has been very good to us during the past year ; for the health and strength with which to work for Him we desire to bless Him ; for all His preserving and sustaining grace we praise Him. We have not all been permitted to continue at our posts the year through. My dear wife was ordered home in April, and we now know that it was the best thing we could have done ; although she became much worse during the voyage, and had to be carried on shore, and to many friends appeared in a very critical state, yet God has mercifully spared her precious life, for which we cannot praise Him as we would. To all our dear friends who were so kind to my wife and children, I desire my sincere thanks, and I trust all who pray for our work will also remember us, that we may be sanctified by this trial, and thereby better fitted to serve our Master, Christ. There have been other changes during the year. In my last report I expressed a hope that some one would soon come to help us. And in December, 1881, we had the pleasure of welcoming Mr. Potter, of the Pastors' College. I also mentioned the desire we had for a pastor for the English church. And I am glad to say that, in November of this year, Mr. Wood, also of the Pastors' College, came out to take the entire charge of the English work at Agra.

"1. Preaching to the Heathen.—I feel thankful for the amount of Gospel preaching that has been done during the year. In January and February we went out to the district, and were well received.

"Mr. Potter accompanied me the second time, taking with us a small harmonium and a magic-lantern.

We find singing bhajans (native hymns), which is also singing the Gospel, very attractive, and never fails to secure a crowd of hearers. And thus we went from village to village, preaching Christ as the true Teacher, the spotless Incarnation of God, and the Saviour of all men. The Hindoos are looking for a pure incarnation, which, they say, will be born of a virgin, and he will destroy the sin of this evil age. Our magic-lantern did good work in attracting crowds of men, women, and children, and it did us good to see so many coming out at night, and sitting down to see, and also quietly to listen to what we had to say, which was the 'old, old story.' At one village, in particular, we had a hearty welcome, and a great many attended. There were many mothers who came to see the magic-lantern; and when we came to the mothers of Salem bringing their children to Jesus, we were able to speak to these poor mothers in a way we never had been privileged before. At this place we were invited by a Sikh, in good position, to go and explain to him what we taught. We found him very ready to listen, and we trust that the seed then sown may bear good fruit.

"Later on, I went with several of our brethren to the mela at Brindaban; we had a season of earnest preaching, and sold a great number of portions of God's Word. We experienced here something of what they must have had at Ephesus, when the great crowd shouted out, 'Great is Diana of the Ephesians.' We were one day surrounded by a multitude of people, and they did shout. One, in particular, jumped and leaped until he became thoroughly exhausted by his frantic excitement. The noise at last abated; we, the meanwhile, had stood and looked on, and at length made ourselves heard, and were listened to by many who remained. A Brahman, from Delhi, had come to preach against us, but our Lord was with us, and aided us.

"I went out to a mela at D—, took no tent with me, put up in the Sarai (the caravanserai), and felt very happy. I had our brethren with me, and we ate together. We had a very happy time of work here, and hope that at this capital of a native State we may yet have a good work. In due time we went to the great Bhuteshwar mela—Mr. Potter, six of our brethren, and myself. Here Mr. Potter had many opportunities of speaking to the people, and I was very pleased to hear him speak. He has worked hard at learning the language, and he must have felt rewarded in being able, at this mela, to testify to the heathen of the love of Christ. We sold at this mela more than eleven rupees' worth of Scriptures and books. It was estimated that there were fully 125,000 people at the mela, and we feel confident in saying that only 1 per cent. could read. There were thousands of women there, but I am not sure that one in a thousand of them could read. There is a great work to be done in our district, and room for at least fifty men at once to settle down to labour. Who will give themselves for Christ's work in this vast land? We had many things to cheer us at this mela, several inquiring more closely about 'this way.' One, a lad, a bairagi, or holy man, cast in his lot with us, and came with us to Agra. I sincerely hope that when I write again I may be able to report well of him.

"2. Vernacular Schools.—We could have done much more in this way than we have done had we only trained and faithful men as teachers. We want men who will work for the love of the work, and not for the love of the pay—men who feel that they are servants of Christ, and not merely of the Mission. In our boys' schools—we have had only three during the year, with an attendance in the three of about eighty-five boys—we find a great deal to cheer us. It is mission work of a decided character to teach poor little outcast boys, who, when they came to us, did not know their letters, to read fluently the Gospels of Matthew and Luke, &c. And we have a good number who can do this, and others making progress. These boys, many of them, will live to be men, and if not converted in our schools will be much better able to understand our preaching than if they had not been taught in our schools.

“We have just opened a day-school for our native Christian children and the more advanced boys of our primary schools. We have about fifty children in our Christian community, and for years there has been no school in our mission for these children. We must not omit mention of the good work done by Miss Alexandra for many years. In her school our young children have been taught, but when they have grown older they have had to go elsewhere. We feel we ought to have an influence exerted over our children until they leave school as well as afterwards.

“3. Vernacular Sabbath-school.—On the second Sabbath in the year we started a Sabbath-school, and I am happy to say it is holding on its even way. We had 100 in attendance only a few Sabbaths since. We have old men and women, as well as children, in our school; heathen children as well as Christian; and we hope to have more such schools as our work grows.

“4. Native Church.—I have baptized six persons during the year. Four of these were not of Christian parentage. Some had waited for some time, yet this is not always a sure test of genuine conversion. We would gladly baptize many more who desire baptism could we be persuaded that it is the right thing to do. There are some now waiting for baptism. When Mr. Baynes visited us, early this year, he mentioned to our people what he had seen of free-will offerings in Bengal, and some of our people at once commenced giving; and I am glad to say that we have now weekly offerings, and I trust the amount will go on increasing. Services have been regularly conducted. Jacob, our evangelist, has taken the afternoon service on Sundays regularly. Students from the Agra Medical Missionary Institute have also kindly given us acceptable help in preaching. We are now engaged in enlarging a commodious place for chapel, school, and dispensary, and it will soon be ready.

“5. Colportage.—A great number of books have been sold during the year in our schools, and in zenanas by our colporteur. A great work remains to be done in teaching the people of this district to read, and then there will be a greater demand for books.”

With regard to Havelock Chapel Mr. Jones writes:—

“A change has taken place here for which we are very thankful, but we can only touch upon it. Mr. Potter took a more than equal share of the Sabbath services during the year, he being here alone during my absence at Bombay. The Committee at home kindly selected and sent out Mr. Wood for the pastorate of the church. The church and congregation have given to Mr. Wood a hearty welcome, and are uniting heartily in contributing towards his support. There is a very important work to be done in connection with this place, and we trust for God's blessing on pastor and people. We have been enabled to do some temperance work among the troops. The Sabbath-school has been regularly attended to by Mrs. Marwood, Miss Titherington, and Private Lunier.”

This ancient capital of the Great Mogul lies 900 miles distant N.W. from Calcutta. The number of inhabitants is usually estimated at 150,000, equally divided between Hindoos and Mohammedans.

The Rev. James Smith reports as follows :—

"The past year has been one of especial mercies and privileges. The season has been exceptionally healthy, and hence there has been little interruption in the varied labours of the mission. The weekly services have increased to about forty, and the attendance, on the whole, has been both steady and encouraging. The schools have grown both in numbers and usefulness; they now contain nearly 1,000 pupils, 150 of whom are the sons of native Christians. The boarding-school has twenty-five scholars, and the preparatory normal classes will, we hope, soon supply material for a regular training school capable of supplying teachers, evangelists, and pastors equal to the increasing wants of the extensive field we are trying to cultivate. Thirteen passed the lower standard at the last Government examination—a larger number than on any former occasion. Labouring largely among a poor and uneducated people, who never enjoyed the privilege of education, we find these schools indispensable to real progress and permanence. They exhaust the missionary's strength and patience, and tax his resources to the utmost to supply the needful funds; but, as the future character of the churches of the city and district depend upon their effectiveness, every effort must be made both to improve and increase them. The churches have grown towards maturity; three of them have chosen pastors by unanimous votes, one of whom will be sustained entirely by his people; the other two are school-masters. This is a step we have long desired to see taken, and trust it will, ere long, be followed by others. Forty-six have been baptized, and the cases where discipline had to be exercised have been few. On the whole, the churches appear to be in a peaceful, healthy state, and give good promise of future prosperity.

“Preaching in the bazaar occupies a secondary place in our labours. We have usually occupied five different places in the city suburbs weekly. As we decline public controversy, the congregations have been both peaceful and attentive.

“A large number of itinerant journeys have been made into the district all around us. The people have universally received us with kindness, often supplying us with all the food we required. Thousands have thus heard the Gospel, and a widespread spirit of inquiry has been awakened. Wherever we turn there is an open door, and, could systematic instruction follow our preaching, multitudes would be introduced into the Christian fold.

“The field is wide beyond conception; but, alas! the labourers are few and scattered far apart from each other.

“The colporteurs have sold a large number of Scriptures and tracts. This work is especially needed and useful, as there are many towns in one district where there are neither schools nor native preachers. In such places all we can do is to pay an occasional visit, preach the glad tidings, and leave permanent records of the way of salvation.

“We begin the new year full of hope. The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad.”

Of the Medical Mission work in Delhi, Dr. W. Carey writes:—

“On my return to Delhi last cold season, the Mission Dispensary was re-opened. For the first two months the number of patients was small, but it has steadily increased, till we can report an average daily attendance of forty for the year. Since recommencing work there have been 9,715 cases treated at the dispensary, the number of new cases amounting to 3,963. The dispensary is open every week-day morning, only urgent cases being attended to on Sundays. We have visited upwards of a hundred patients at their own homes on an average three times each.

“At the beginning of the year, Joshua, a native Christian youth trained by me, having obtained his diploma at the Lahore Medical School, returned to Delhi. We have placed him in charge of the dispensary, where he examines and prescribes for all patients coming for treatment, with the exception of special cases. The general superintendence of the Medical Mission remains in my hands. Joshua's salary is Rs.20 per mensem, half of which amount is paid from the general mission funds, on the understanding that he devotes his spare time to preaching. During the year he has given me every satisfaction, and will, I hope, in time, as he gains experience, win the confidence of all classes of the patients. Saul David, our other mission student, is completing his course of studies at the Agra Medical College.

"As to conversions directly traceable to our labours in connection with the Medical Mission, we can report none; but we have no doubt that the skill in treatment, and the attention shown to the wants of the patients, have secured for us a kindlier reception and a more ready hearing than would have been the case otherwise amongst those to whom we have had the privilege of preaching the Gospel every evening. We have had a few interesting cases of restoration to health, while much suffering has been relieved, and we humbly trust that some of our patients have been led to believe in Jesus."

VIII.—SIMLA.

GOOLZAR SHAH.

Voluntary helpers—S. C. BANERJEA, of the Free Church, and C. B. SHAH.

Of the Simla Mission, Mr. Shah writes:—

"By the good hand of God, our gracious Heavenly Father, we have completed another year of our labours in connection with the Simla Baptist Mission. We therefore lift up our hearts in devout gratitude to Him for His special merciful dealings with us in this the eighteenth year of the existence of this mission.

"We also record our hearty thanks to the Lord's people who have helped us in various ways, and strengthened our hands to carry on the work.

"Our mission staff consists of eight paid agents, besides several brethren who have helped us to the best of their ability without pecuniary assistance. Of the eight paid agents, four are teachers, one evangelist, two colporteurs, and one Bible-woman. The two teachers have also devoted a portion of their time to the work of preaching as opportunities were afforded them.

"We now report our work, as usual, under the five following heads:—

"1. The church and congregation.

"2. Preaching to the heathen.

"3. Distribution of books and tracts.

"4. Schools.

"5. Funds.

"1. The Church and Congregation.

"The total number of persons connected with our mission, including women and children, is about 190. Of these, 123 are church members in full communion at the end of this year.

"The following statistics will, we trust, be interesting to the friends of this mission:—

Total number of Baptist communicants - - - - -	96
Add number of members of other churches, who come up with the Government offices, and join our church for eight months of every year - - -	27
Total - - - - -	123

"Of our ninety-six Baptist members, seventy-one are non-resident members, scattered over several distant villages, who come up to Simla occasionally, as their business or trade brings them here; twenty-five are resident members, who live in Simla. Of the twenty-seven members who go down to Calcutta in the winter, five are Presbyterians, sixteen Independents, five Church of England, and one Methodist.

"During the seven months of this year three services have been regularly held every Lord's-day—a Bengali service at 8 a.m., and a Hindi service at 11 a.m., held in the mission chapel; and in the afternoon a second Bengali service, held in the young men's reading-room, Rosna Cottage, for the convenience of our brethren who live near the Simla bazaar. Permission to hold our service in this latter place was kindly given us by the Rev. J. Fordyce, to whom, as well as to the Association, we desire to tender our hearty thanks.

"2. Preaching to the Heathen.

"We bless the Lord that He has graciously given us the privilege of proclaiming His Gospel invitation to all; but, alas! how little we have done compared with the wants of the perishing multitude around us.

"Oh, that we had a thousand tongues to tell every sinner to flee to the Saviour who, moved with compassion towards our sin-stricken race, has invited all to come to Him!

"Our bazaar preaching was carried on regularly before the rains set in, but during the rains there have been several interruptions. In Jutog the Gospel has been preached regularly for one month, and for the rest of the season at intervals.

"As to village preaching, thirteen villages have been visited around Simla and Jutog, and the name of the blessed Saviour proclaimed from house to house in these villages, and from farm to farm, while the people were at their work, or resting for a little from their work. Every opportunity has been taken to ply their consciences with Divine truth. It has been our earnest desire and prayer that these rocks and valleys and every highland glen among these mountains may resound with the sweet name of Jesus.

"Three melas in these hills have been visited this year—viz., the Sippi mela, near Mahasoo, the Jathia mela, and the Taruka Devis' mela.

"3. Schools.

"Our principal school at the mission-house has been much improved this year under the management of our young friend Mr. C. B. Shah. The number of pupils increased, and their progress in reading, writing, arithmetic, and especially in Scriptural knowledge has been satisfactory, considering the labour of a few months only. The school register contains the names of fifty-nine pupils, including nine boys of our boarding-school; average attendance, fifty.

"We have been able to re-open our school at Jutog, in the month of June last, which was closed last year for want of a Christian teacher. This school has been attended by upwards of thirty boys, there being forty-three names on the register.

"The registers of both the schools show that, of the total number of 102 boys, nine are Brahmins, four Kanaits, four Kshatriyas, nine Rajpoots, thirty-three other Hindoo castes, fourteen Mohammedans, and five Christians, and twenty-four Sweepers—the lowest caste."

Poona is situated in the Presidency of Bombay, in Western India. It has ever been of old the capital of the vast Maharashtra country, and is renowned for being the seat of the ancient government of Peshwa. It still waxes somewhat Governmental authority, and continues to command considerable power and influence all around. It has been recognised by our British Government, also, as its seat of council, and is to the Governor of Bombay what Simla is to the Governor-General of India.

A large amount of evangelistic work is accomplished in the Poona district, and both Mr. Hormazdji and Mr. Dillon spend a large portion of their time in purely itinerating preaching work.

Mr. Pestonji reports:—

“As in the case of the Bible-woman, so in that of Mr. Dillon, and Rama, and myself, the stated and occasional services, in the chapel, the camp, the city, and the country at large, have been carried on, ‘in season and out of season,’ with increased energy and zeal, but with no visible success, except in the instance of the four persons I baptized towards the end of last year. Inquirers after truth and further candidates for baptism there have been, indeed, and those not a few; but their cases have not appeared to me to be of a sufficiently encouraging nature to accede to their wishes for the ordinance of baptism. But still we all work in hope.”

In a more recent letter Mr. Pestonji writes:—

“Lately I had the privilege of baptizing Samanya Kushavya, the Burmese inquirer I referred to before. His has certainly been an extraordinary career. When about sixteen or seventeen years old, he had been one of a pack of accomplished thieves; and they all having been arrested in one of their daring expeditions, and sentenced to transportation (some for life and others for shorter terms), he was sent away from his home in Burmah on a sentence of transportation (to India) for life, which was subsequently—on account of his good behaviour—commuted to transportation for twenty years, and thereafter yet further shortened to fifteen years on account of his still better behaviour, especially as, along with moral improvement, he showed steady habits of industry and skill in learning the carpenter’s trade while in gaol. It was but a year ago that he came out of gaol (so that he is now about thirty-three years old), and our Bible-woman, Mrs. Summers, having met him working as a carpenter somewhere, and talked to him seriously about his soul, their interview resulted in her bringing him to me for religious instruction, which he has statedly been receiving ever since—that is, for the last nine months. At our first interview, it was something to see the anxiety of mind and the distress of heart he manifested when I said to him, ‘It is all well to be released from earthly courts and imprisonments; but what of the courts of heaven and the imprisonments of hell? You are pardoned by earthly authorities; but have you received pardon from the Authority of heaven?’ And, when further instructed in the ways of the Lord, his peace of mind, in consequence of realising the pardon of all his sins, was indeed most manifest; and he gave a good proof of his sincerity when put to the test by being asked to give up, for Christ’s sake, Sunday work and Sunday wages, which he forthwith did most gladly. He continues to maintain himself quite independently of our Mission, or of help from any Christian; and his heathen employers even bear testimony to the fact that his is indeed a bond fide case, and that on their establishment he is second to none in points of honesty and industry."

CEYLON.

I.—COLOMBO DISTRICT.

Missionary, F. D. WALDOCK.

Interim Pastor of the Pettah Church and Cinnamon Gardens, Captain PASSINGHAM.

Number of members, 104.

The Rev. F. D. Waldock reports as follows :—

"Colombo.—Pettah and Cinnamon Gardens Church.

Members on the roll, 104.

"The pastorate has remained vacant, but the services have been maintained, and four persons have been added to the church by baptism. It has been arranged for Captain Passingham to come out to take charge of the church for a year, by which time it is hoped that a permanent pastor will be found.

"Grand Pass and Mattakkuliya.—124 members.

"The death of our venerated brother Mr. James Silva, who had sustained the pastorate many years, took place at the close of the former year. Happily it has been found practicable to continue the independency of the church; and Mr. J. G. Ratnayake, our agent at Gonawala, and a son-in-law of the late pastor, has been appointed his successor. Mattakkuliya, also within the bounds of Colombo, and on the same side, has been united to Grand Pass. This increases the resources of the church, and sets free one of our agents for other work. Sixteen persons, including several scholars in our girls' boarding-school, have been baptized, and there are several inquirers. A new girls' school has been begun at Grand Pass and at Mattakkuliya, and at the latter a new preaching-place has been put up. The congregations have improved, and generally there are signs of quickened activity and tokens of Divine blessing.

"Hannella and Welgama.

"29 members.

"Our brother Mr. Henry de Silva has, during the year, baptized five persons. Three Sunday-schools have been opened, with forty-four scholars; and the chapel, which was in a very dilapidated condition, has been repaired and improved.

"Biyamwila.—40 members.

"On Mr. Ratnayake's removal to Grand Pass, Mr. J. M. Perera, of Makewita, was appointed to this station. Having been here only six months, he has little fresh to report, but has been assiduous in his work, and has three candidates for baptism.

"Gonawala.—104 members.

"Mr. J. M. Perera has taken charge of this station also, in conjunction with Biyamwila, with B. Piris as his assistant, who conducts some of the services, and visits villages in the district. A new girls' Sunday-school has been commenced, with twenty scholars. There are four candidates for baptism.

"Kotikawatta.—45 members.

"Mr. D. B. Lewis, having been relieved of Mattakkuliya, now joined to Grand Pass, has been able to extend his work in other directions, and in particular at Kaduwella, a place a few miles off, where there are a considerable number of people, nearly all of whom are Buddhists. He has taken part in two tours, visiting about forty distant villages.

"Makewita.—39 members.

"On the removal of Mr. J. M. Perera to Gonawala, I was obliged, as the labourers are few, to place here a student, Mr. Theodore Silva, and take the pastorate pro tem. myself. As he has had to attend classes with me in Colombo, he has been unable to do very much beyond Sunday work, but I trust he will shortly be quite competent to undertake the full oversight of the station, and, with God's blessing, successfully.

"Hendala.—7 members.

"Mr. Peter Perera, formerly at Hanwella, has now charge of this station. He preaches at the chapel and in the Leper Hospital, and attends to such other work as his age and impaired strength will permit.

"Batagama.—8 members.

"Mr. D. Botieju, having no longer Hendala to attend to, has opened a new sub-station. Two persons have been baptized, and a promising girls' school has been opened, with fifty-five on the roll.

"Koralawella.—18 members.

"Our brother Mr. H. de Silva, who works without charge, reports that, though there have been no additions to the church, there appears to be some improvement in the members. One of these has given himself to mission work, and is to assist Mr. Pigott in the Sabaragamawa district."

"Weyangoda, &c.—24 members.

"Mr. J. J. Gunasekara reports much opposition from the people, who are mostly ignorant and bigoted Buddhists. At the village where he lives, some of the more influential, seeing that some young men had begun to attend our services, formed themselves into a society, erected a place close by for preaching, and got a priest to officiate regularly on the Sunday. Nevertheless, he believes there is a change for the better working in the minds of many. One of the people has promised fifty rupees towards building a chapel, really believing in Christianity, though fearing to declare himself. It is hoped that it may be found practicable to build a new chapel, as it is greatly needed, and a site has been offered. He says that his most encouraging work at present is open-air preaching at a crowded village about six miles off, where many meet and hear with quiet attention.

"A new day-school and a small Sunday-school have been started.

"Madampe.—21 members.

"Mr. M. H. Perera.—This station is about forty-five miles from Colombo, and the Gospel has been preached in villages about thirty miles still farther distant, and has generally been attentively listened to. Our brother compares himself to a cultivator who is trying to clear and sow a wide forest.

"The contributions at the station were larger than in the previous year; the people have resolved to bear the expenses of the preaching tours among the surrounding heathen during next year, and to commence a subscription for re-building the mission-house, and have formed a society for the relief of the poor.

"Rayigam Pasdun, &c.—10 members.

"Mr. Juan Silva continues his itinerant work, and has helped much in evangelistic tours in other districts.

"One person has been baptized.

"General.

"The plan of brethren going out 'two and two' on preaching tours has been continued, and thus much good seed has been scattered in distant fields, and we hope to pursue the plan yet more widely in the coming year.

"The present number of members in our native churches is 469, a net increase of 14, 24 having been added by baptism. Probably the unusual number of changes in the pastorates has led to the postponement of the baptism of a number of others.

"There has been a hopeful improvement in the amount of contributions, but there is much need of larger liberality.

"We have 2,212 scholars in our day-schools, as compared with 1,965 last year. Of these, 609 are girls and 1,603 boys. A very large majority are the children of Buddhists.

"Sunday-schools have received increased attention, resulting in an addition of 92 scholars in the native stations, where the total is 422. Including the three schools connected with the English church in Colombo, we have 627 scholars and 54 teachers."

Mrs. Waldoock sends the following report relating to the Colombo Native Girls' Boarding School:—

"With grateful hearts we have to speak of God's blessing on our work since we sent our last report. Some interruption was experienced for a time owing to the prevalence of small-pox in the neighbourhood, but, happily, none of our scholars were attacked with this terrible disease. We have, however, suffered more from sickness than usual, but, with one exception, all have been mercifully restored to health, though some have been unable to return to school since the holidays.

"The progress of the girls in their studies has been remarkably good. Ninety-three per cent. of passes were obtained at the Government examination, six standards being presented; and we have since received a most favourable report of the school from Government.

"But, best of all, we have to rejoice that several of the dear girls have sought and found the Saviour. Five of their number were baptized in November last; of these, some had been under serious impressions for a long time, others have gained good from the preaching of Mr. Ratnayeke, and from a Bible-class which he holds every week in the school. There are still others who desire to be baptized, but, though they are earnest and sincere, their knowledge is considered insufficient at present. It is pleasant to be able to state that three of those baptized are the daughters of our native preachers. The father of another is a Buddhist, and her mother was a Roman Catholic, but she has since died trusting simply on Christ for salvation, having been led to trust Him principally through her daughter reading the Bible to her, combined with her dutiful attentions during a long illness.

"We ask the prayers of our friends in England that the influence of God's Holy Spirit may continue in the present year in still greater power, and that the school may yet be the means of diffusing the truth in many homes."

II.—KANDY DISTRICT.

Kandy.Missionary, H. A. LAPHAM.

Number of members, 13—4 Europeans, 9 Natives.

Mr. Lapham writes as follows :—

“During the past year the work has been progressing favourably in this district, and, considering the small number of agents employed by the Society in this wide central province of Ceylon, and the difficulties attending the preaching of the Gospel in such a stronghold of Buddhism, the results may be considered encouraging. As will be seen from the reports of the native pastors, additions by baptism have been made during the year to each of our four central churches, whilst the special evangelistic efforts made have been the means of carrying the truth of Christ into many villages where the name of Christ had scarcely before been heard, and of arousing a spirit of inquiry which may be expected to bear rich fruit in the future. The pastors of our native churches have thrown themselves heartily into this work, going forth two by two, and voluntarily ‘enduring hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ.’ But on this subject I will let the narrative of the pastor of the Kandy Church (who has taken a leading part in all this work) speak for itself.”

Kandy Native Church.Pastor, J. S. PERERA.

Number of members, 36.

“1. Evangelistic work.—I commence my report for the past year by thanking Him who has enabled me to proclaim His Gospel more widely than ever before. I have paid monthly visits to the school at Allowwa, in Seven Korles, and that at Korigammana, in Four Korles, holding services at each place for the benefit of the school-children and their friends, and showing the only way of salvation to the natives (both Singhalese and Tamil) whom I met, and distributing tracts to all who were able to read. I have also periodically visited the Haloluwa and Katugastota Schools, and occasionally the Kadugannawa girls' school, distributing tracts and preaching the Gospel to the children and others.

“In the month of August I accompanied the Matale native minister on an evangelising tour. We visited forty-five villages in the Matale district, carrying the good news to hundreds of persons, and distributing about 600 tracts. Afterwards, in company with our native evangelist at Kadugannawa, I visited the Yatinuwera, Harispattu, Tumpane, and Gallegedera groups of villages; and, later, with the Gampola native pastor, the Dumbera and Hewabeta groups; going through, in all, eighty-four villages, and distributing 500 tracts, besides preaching to the people everywhere. Beside these evangelistic journeys, I have, on several occasions, accompanied the missionary to various villages, where we have proclaimed Christ.

“Though we sometimes met with opposition, the people generally listened attentively, and asked of us tracts in order to learn more of the truth. Some not only gave heed to our message, but begged us to visit them again, and often. During the journeys we often had opportunity of holding services in the houses of Christians. I can testify, from my experience, that sending evangelistic workers two by two is of immense benefit, not only to heathen people, but to the Christians who live in lonely places, and to the labourers themselves.

“2. Pastoral work.—Beside the two Lord's-day services (in which I have frequently received assistance from the missionary) I have every week conducted a religious meeting in the house of a brother, and once a fortnight also have conducted a prayer-meeting in the house of another brother, explaining the Scriptures with a view to the spiritual advancement of our church members. I have also attended and taught in the Sunday-schools.

"It is a matter of great regret to me to report that the subscriptions towards the pastor's support are lower than last year. This is doubtless owing to the increasing poverty of the members. I would here thank the Committee of the Baptist Missionary Society for their timely and generous aid, without which the church could not have supported its pastor.

"Whilst we see with sorrow the lack of earnestness and the carelessness of some of our members, it is pleasant to report the earnestness of others, and the warm interest they take in all church affairs. It is also pleasing to see the children of our brethren consecrating themselves to Christ and submitting to His ordinance. During the year two young men belonging to one of our families have joined us by baptism, and are ready and willing to take their part in the church's work.

"In March last a meeting was held in Kandy of the brethren and friends in this district to welcome Mr. Baynes, the esteemed Secretary of the Baptist Missionary Society. We were greatly benefited by the wise counsels addressed to us at that time by Mr. Baynes, and bless God who permitted him to return home in safety after his useful visit to India and Ceylon."

Matale Native Church.

Pastor, CHARLES PERIES.

"I thank God that, notwithstanding great commercial depression in this district, I am enabled to enter upon another year's work with more zeal and more hope than in the past.

"In giving a brief sketch of my work during last year I have to speak not only of work done amongst people of different religions in this town, but chiefly of visits paid to neighbouring villages and distant places. I give the following instances as examples of various encouragements given me in my work.

"On Sunday, 11th June, a very strict Roman Catholic, being induced by one of our members to attend our service, was impressed by the Word, and by witnessing our mode of worship, and from that time continued to attend our preaching until he was obliged to leave the district.

"At a service held by me at Udugama, a very large congregation was gathered together by our brother Abayakoon Korala, and I was thus enabled to preach to a much larger congregation of Buddhists than I or any one ever before had the opportunity of doing in that village.

"In August and September, Mr. Perera, of Kandy, and I engaged extensively in evangelistic work in this district, where we visited forty-five villages.

"The visitation of the Government Civil Hospital and the prison has been conducted regularly. The Sunday services at the chapel have been held regularly. Three persons have joined our fellowship by baptism, one of them having to bear much persecution from Buddhist friends."

Gampola Native Church.

Pastor, C. P. RANESINGHE.

Number of members, 26.

The pastor reports:—

"I am thankful to say, God in His great mercy enabled me last year also to go through my usual work in the town of Gampola and the villages around. Buddhists in this district are in general more disposed now to read the tracts which we give them, and to hear what we tell them of God's religion. There are two men in the village of Kobbawale who have lost their faith in Buddhism, and are inquiring the way of salvation through Jesus Christ. The young men of the church and congregation at Gampola have formed themselves into an association, and are doing much good by going about on Sundays speaking to the people and distributing tracts. During the year we have baptized and received into the church three persons, and there are three more candidates for baptism awaiting examination. Our itinerating work of preaching the Gospel in remote villages we began during the year, under the leadership of Mr. Lapham, and we confidently hope that it will be the means of bringing many heathen to know and serve the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom He has sent."

Kadugannawa.

Evangelist, A. DE SILVA.

"The Singhalese Sunday services in Kadugannawa Chapel are conducted by various friends. The number of the congregation varies from ten to thirty persons. A church has not yet been formed, but, as the number of baptized Christians is increasing, we hope to do so soon. Two young men from the congregation were baptized in Kandy, on a profession of their faith, during last year. There are altogether six persons of Christian standing for the nucleus of a church. A Roman Catholic, who joined our congregation last year, has since rejoined the Church of Rome.

"The girls' school here gets a daily attendance of from twelve to nineteen children. The missionary has visited it several times, examining the children, not only in secular knowledge, but also in Christian truth.

"There is a service in English in the chapel every Sunday, conducted by A. Thorn, Esq., with assistance once a month from Rev. H. A. Lapham. There are also three Sunday-schools, one in Singhalese, one in Tamil, and one for English-speaking children.

"Korigammana Sub-Station.—I visit this village (which is about thirteen miles distant from my residence at Kadugannawa) and preach there three Sundays every month. Here we have a church of seven members, three candidates for baptism, and five inquirers. The congregation numbers about thirty. There is also a Sunday-school attended not only by children, but by many adults also. During the week, those Christians who can read hold meetings for reading the Scriptures to the other members, and to whosoever will come.

"Rabukkana Gan-Sabhawa.—The town of Rambukkana is two miles away from our sub-station at Korigammana, and the Gan-Sabhawa is the native tribunal, which sits almost continuously. Generally, there are gathered at this place some 100 or 150 persons, and when I preach there is much discussion. Sometimes I meet there Buddhists who are earnestly seeking salvation. I preach there regularly as I go to and return from Korigammana."

III.—SABARAGAMAWA DISTRICT.

Missionary, H. R. PIGOTT.

Number of members, 13—3 Europeans, 10 Natives.

Sabaragamawa in geographical extent covers about one-third of the Western Province; the population is about one-ninth of the whole, or 85,000 out of 776,930; the headquarters of the mission are at Ratnapura (City of Gems), the chief town in the district, containing a population of 3,571, within easy reach of over 200 villages and a population of nearly 40,000.

Sabaragamawa is the stronghold of Buddhism in Ceylon. Devil- or demon-worship also universally prevails in this district. Many of the villages visited by our missionaries lie at the foot of Adam's Peak, on the summit of which mountain is the so-called "foot-print" of Buddha, to worship which thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the island visit the shrine annually. This shrine is also a Mohammedan holy place; they consider the foot-print to be Adam's, he being, in their estimation, the first illustrious Mohammedan exiled to Ceylon.

Mr. Pigott sends the following report:—

"The year just closed, although not without its disappointments and grief, has, on the whole, been a year of much encouragement. Our congregations are larger than ever, and a spirit of friendliness towards ourselves and our work prevails. Two young converts whom, with others, we had hoped to have received into our church at the opening of our new chapel have, by the fierce opposition of their friends, been driven back. Our hope and prayer is that, although outwardly they may cease to be Baptists, they may nevertheless continue to be Christians; and so our labour shall not have been 'in vain in the Lord.' Our Sunday-schools—Singhalese and English—are also well attended, the number of scholars on the list being fifty-five, as against forty-one in the previous year. Large numbers assemble at our open-air services, and some 3,250 tracts and religious books have been distributed during the year. Services have also been conducted in the gaol and hospital. Mrs. Pigott's work lies chiefly amongst the ladies of the district, many of the higher class of whom, like their sisters in India, seldom or never leave their homes. One of these, accompanied by her daughters, regularly attends a service which is held in a temporary preaching-place in her garden, and she has promised to attend service in the chapel when it is open. She has also promised to contribute Rs.15 to purchase a chair for the Communion table. Mrs. Pigott also visits the hospital every Monday, and conducts a young ladies' Bible-class every Thursday. She has also, in order to induce the people to value religious books, &c., commenced the sale of small books, at prices ranging from half a cent to six cents each, and quite a number have been sold during the year. The English girls' school established in January last is very well attended indeed, the numbers being—English, two; Burghere, fifteen; Singhalese, ten, or twenty-seven in all. Children of all religions attend—Church of England, Presbyterian, Wesleyan, Baptist, Roman Catholic, and Buddhist. This school exercises a salutary influence on our missionary work in Ratnapura. The following is an extract from the Ceylon Examiner, from which you can gather the opinion of outsiders on this school:—'The girls' school is getting on remarkably well under the accomplished and much-esteemed lady teacher. The establishment and continuance of this school are believed to be philanthropic. This is patent from the fact that the monthly fees are only fifty cents—equal to tenpence—for each girl.' Our boys' school at Pelmadulla, which is supported by our friends at Wisbech, continues to prosper, the average attendance this year being larger than ever, and some three or four of the boys profess to be Christians. The present master of this school is a recent convert from Buddhism. He is a candidate for baptism, and is very active in teaching his pupils and others Christian truth. We have to thank our kind friends at Wisbech for a donation of £30 towards the erection of a new school-house at Pelmadulla. In January last our new chapel at Ratnapura was commenced, and we had hoped to have opened it for service at the close of the year. It will not, however, be quite finished before March next. We have to thank our friends at Victoria Road, Wandsworth, London, for their kind help. In November they sent us out a box of fancy goods for sale for our chapel building fund. These, with some articles locally contributed, were sold at a fancy bazaar held at the mission-house here on December 16, when we realised a sum Rs.300. We shall now, I hope, be able to open our chapel free from debt. We have also to thank our young friends of the Battersea Sunday-school for a baptizing gown and cloak sent out to us by Miss Soule. We were much disappointed in not having had a visit from Mr. Baynes during his stay in Ceylon. We are not, however, without proof of the great interest he takes, and has ever taken, in our work in Sabaragamawa; for, on his recommendation, the Committee have voted £250 sterling to purchase our present residence as a permanent mission-house. We beg to thank Mr. Baynes and the Committee for their great kindness in this matter. We have now a permanent 'local habitation,' and, when our new chapel and school-houses are finished, Ratnapura will be well supplied with all the requirements of a regular mission station. Markus is away at Colombo ill, so that I am unable to procure a report from him this year. G. A. Apenso, who has been a student under Mr. Waldo, has come up to take Markus' place.

"Don Daniel's report:—

"The range of my duty lies at present in the town of Balangoda and in the villages adjoining, where, by street-preaching, and preaching among assemblies and gatherings and in divers other places, I spoke of the way of salvation to no fewer than 2,800 persons, and distributed 840 tracts. Some received the tracts willingly, and others indifferently. There are ten boys in average attendance in the Sunday-school. I find it difficult to get the people to attend service on Sunday. Thus, in the midst of disappointment, I still sow the seed in anticipation of reaping a good harvest at the end by the grace of God."

CHINA.

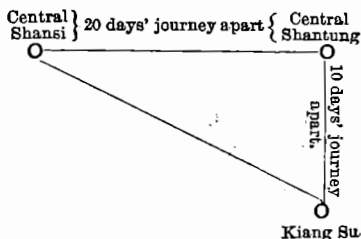

I.—SHANSI, NORTH CHINA.

Tai Yuen Fu District.—T. RICHARD and A. SOWREBY.

Number of members, 20.

Writing generally of the work of the Society in North China, Mr. Richard reports:—

"Our work is now carried on in three provinces, each as large as England and Wales, and the position and the distance from each other may be better realised by looking at following diagram:—

The work in Central Shantung was commenced 9 years ago; in Central Shansi, 5 years ago; in Kiang Su, 3 years ago.

"As I spent the first half of the year at home in Shansi, I will commence about it. I continued the monthly lectures to the officials. Although I cannot report their conversion to Christianity as a result of those lectures, yet that their prejudice is giving way to friendship towards Christian missionaries is some cause for gratitude. A commission of three officials was sent by the Governor to me to ask if I would not undertake the superintendence of the opening of mines in Shansi. We have had about twenty inquirers for about over a twelve-month. As they seem to be steadfast, we intend to baptize them this spring. I have got 'King's Messengers,' 'Daniel Quorn,' and an outline of the 'Great Religions of the World' published. A sermon on 'The Power of an Endless Life' was translated. My wife translated Mr. Rouse's tract on the 'Great Examination;' completed two parts in Jeremy Taylor's 'Holy Living.' She has also translated the lives of several tens of noble Christians. We completed together an extensive work on music.

"Mr. Sowerby superintended the evangelists, schools, and distribution of books during my absence since July. He will report to you.

"His sister, Miss Sowerby, learnt the language very rapidly, and visited many sick Chinese ladies, being very apt in nursing. But now she is married to a brother of another mission. May God's blessing attend her always.

"Owing to Mr. Jones' return to England, I left Shansi in the beginning of July to come and take his place in Shantung. Before I could reach our station there, our mission had to pass through most extraordinary danger. I was taken ill with dysentery, and one day I expected I would die. On hearing this our brethren Kitts and Whitewright travelled 120 miles on horseback with scarcely any rest at all, and the weather was exceedingly hot. Meanwhile, Mrs. Jones had been taken dangerously ill, and had to be watched night and day by Mr. Jones and Mrs. Kitts in turns. There were no other foreigners within several days' journey from either party. The speed with which the two brethren came to my rescue had serious effect on them. They were both laid up like myself. On hearing this, Mrs. Kitts left the Jones's at midnight, without any escort but the natives, in order to nurse her husband. Such was the imminent peril in which we all were for a time. God, however, graciously raised us all again, and by September we were able to begin our work once more.

"Now I had arrived at the scene of Mr. Jones's hard toil. It was with great pleasure that I attended a conference of about 150 delegates from the different village churches. To have such a body of executive workers, and all volunteers, as a result of a few years' labour, was indeed no small thing to be justly proud of. Over 200 have been baptized this year, and the whole church now numbers over 800. These are not living in one town as churches at home are, but scattered all over the country in about 200 villages at various distances from the central station—the farthest ones being about thirty or forty miles distant. Pastor Ching makes a circuit round all these to teach and administer the Sacrament at points where Christians from various villages can meet for Sabbath worship. There are about half a dozen (sometimes more, sometimes less) chosen to be evangelists, and paid by the home Society, to labour on the outskirts of the church with a view to extension; while all the work inside a radius of twenty or thirty miles is done by voluntary evangelists in the native church. In October the evangelists were taken through the 'Philosophy of the Plan of Salvation' and portions of the Scripture. The elder took the newer converts, who are more or less leaders in their respective villages, through one of the Gospels. In December the evangelists and the village leaders of longer standing in the church, numbering between fifty and sixty, were in the city for a fortnight attending classes on 'Preaching' by Pastor Ching; on 'Early Church History' by our elder; on 'Ephesians' by Mr. Chang; on 'Missions, Ancient, Modern, and Mediæval,' by myself.

There are but few places in China where such a work is to be seen. I trust the friends at home will give our devoted brother now in England all the support he needs for the permanence and extension of the work throughout the province. As the work sprang up rapidly, it will require much care to prevent any rapid relapse. Pray much for us to have wisdom from on high to guide us in all our methods.

"Mr. Kitts will write you of the medical work here, and Mr. White-wright of the schools and other matters.

"At the great triennial examination for the Chinese M.A. degree last autumn, there were distributed in each of the provinces of Shansi and Shantung 7,000 copies of 'The Power of an Endless Life.' There was also a prize offered for the best treatise on the goodness of God, on the Kingdom of heaven, and on the soul, and open to the heathen to compete. They were to be sent in by the 7th of February, 1883; with what results we do not know yet. So important do some consider this work that a brother missionary of another Society contributed £20, and a prominent man in China sent me £30 for the work. But the cost of book distribution in each was £50 and the prizes £30, making altogether a cost of £160. This expense the Committee at home says it cannot afford to pay.

"Of the Kiangsu work you will hear from Mr. Kitts. He sends you all the accounts. We expect Mr. James's arrival soon in Shantung, so that I may return to my work in Shansi.

"The work in the province of Shantung seems very ripe for the harvest, whether we look at our own work or that of the American Presbyterians, or that of the American Board, or Romanists. There is only one province in China that can compare with it, and that is Fookien, where the Church Mission has been so much blessed. God has here ripened the harvest. What is wanted is to pray to the Lord of the harvest for men to reap it. In Shansi and Kiangsu it is only sowing time yet. Brethren, pray for us to work in faith, and that it may please God to grant us there also to reap speedily as in Shantung."

Mr. Sowerby, who joined Mr. Richard at the close of 1881, writes:—

"A fortnight before the close of last year I arrived in Tai Yuen Fu, with scarcely half-a-dozen words of the language, and very ignorant of the Chinese people and customs, and of the work to which I believe God has sent me. At the close of this year it is with the deepest thankfulness to Him that I look back upon all that He has enabled me to do.

"A week after I had been here, Mr. Richard secured a teacher for me, and I set to work at the language. For the first six months Mr. Richard left me wholly free to work at my books, and throughout the year I have continued to study as hard as I could. As a result, I have been enabled to read from Wade's 'Tzu Erh Chi,' the forty lessons, eighteen sections, ten dialogues, and a hundred lessons; the four gospels, several chapters of the 'Philosophy of the Plan of Salvation' (translated by Mr. Richard), and have learnt several phrases from Edkins's and Giles's conversational books. I have also, for some months past, conducted morning prayers, and sometimes evening prayers. On Sunday afternoons I have had a Bible-class, and on Christmas-day I took my first full morning service. So much for my personal work, which I just mention that you may see I am trying faithfully to do my best with this most difficult language. Now I come to the work of the mission, which is far more important, and more interesting.

Shantung during Mr. Jones's absence, and since then the management of the station has fallen on Mrs. Richard and myself. We have done our best to carry out Mr. Richard's instructions, and to continue the work as if he had been here. I am thankful to say that while much that would have been done had he been enabled to remain has necessarily been left undone, yet I feel there has been no retrogression; but, owing to our Heavenly Father's goodness, positive advance.

"Evangelists.—The pioneering work has been chiefly carried on by three evangelists—How Shien Sheng, Wang Shien Sheng, and Hsing. Hsing has only commenced work this year, and accompanies How S. S.

"Wang takes the villages lying just around the city, within an area of ten or twelve miles. In one village, Ma Lien Ying, to the south-east of the city, has been very successful, and there are many there under Christian instruction, and joining regularly in worship, who at first bitterly opposed the doctrine. I have been with him to this village, and can testify to the earnestness with which many listen to his preaching, and the hearty way in which they join in the prayers and singing. Mrs. Richard spent the best part of last week at Ma Lien Ying, teaching the women, and was very much encouraged. Wang is an untiring preacher; he will go on most patiently hour after hour, often far on into the night. One of his converts says that it was Wang's tears and earnestness that first induced them to listen. At Nan Pan, Wang Chia feng, and other villages, he has also inquirers; among others, two Buddhist priests, who are anxious to be taught the 'Way of Heaven.' In the spring, when we look for Mr. Richard's return, I hope some five or six will be baptized as the result of his work.

"How is also a good evangelist.

Last summer I went with him to Shin Chow for a short trip, and he amazed me with his patience and good humour, which never failed. In the afternoons we would be visited by crowds, who would continue coming and going till long after dark. He must often have been weary and hungry, and yet he would keep on answering question after question—sometimes very impertinent ones—with untiring patience. He is reverent and devout, and a plain, straightforward, simple preacher. His work has been chiefly among the hsien, and for cities to the north and east of Tai Tuenfu, and about two or three days' journey distant. He has constantly met with insult and opposition, but he has also cause for rejoicing. In six different places where he visits, are little groups of men learning the truth, and I trust some nine or ten men will be baptized in the spring. If these numbers seem small, you must remember that the work here is still of a pioneering character, and that the difficulties in our way are enormous. Of these not the least is the intense ignorance of the country people; many of them have not the faintest idea of God; do not even understand what is meant by their own expression, 'Tien ti,' Heaven and Earth, and are only saved from absolute materialism by their faith that everything has its appropriate 'Shen,' or spirit, and by their belief in devils, classing foreigners among the latter.

"Schools.—Connected with the evangelists' work we have four schools at Wang Chia Feng, Nan Pan, Hwan Kou, and Ma Lien Ying. The school at Wang Chia Feng is very satisfactory. It has at present thirteen boys, nice bright lads, who are making good progress. At Hwan Kou and Ma Lien Ying the boys are also doing well, although their number is rather small. This is partly accounted for by dread of the wolves; these creatures will sometimes come boldly into the village in broad daylight, and seize the children, so that they are afraid to go far from their homes. I am not very well pleased with the school at Nan Pan, but I am making arrangements which will, I think, bring it up to the mark. These schools are conducted at a very trifling expense, and are placed under the charge of the most trustworthy teachers we can get, and so leave our hands free for more important work. The evangelist Wang pays special attention to them, and I know, from personal observation, examines the boys, and does his best to lead them to a heart as well as to a head knowledge of the truth. During the last six months I have given them what supervision I could; next year I hope to be able to pay more attention to them, and raise them to as high a state of efficiency as possible. We have now over thirty boys under regular Christian instruction; at the Chinese New Year I trust the number will be raised to fifty; this is something, and the influence which it gives us over the parents and friends of the boys is also of considerable importance.

Triennial Examination.—During the month of September this great examination of students from all parts of the province was held. The city was full of them for some time, but although we were stared at considerably whenever we went out, no disturbance of any kind took place.

"The students enter the Examination Hall three times. On their leaving the hall the first time, September 21, all the missionaries of the province united to distribute tracts to them, and between 5,000 and 6,000 students received each a small book and a short paper, offering prizes for essays on the following subjects, 'God,' 'The Kingdom of Heaven,' and 'The Soul.' The books distributed were a sermon on 'Eternal Life,' translated and adapted by Mr. Richard, and Rev. G. H. Rouse's tract, 'The Great Examination,' translated by Mrs. Richard. Very few of the students refused the books, and many received them with thanks. On the day of distributing the tracts we were outside the hall at 8 o'clock in the morning, but the actual distribution did not begin till 1 o'clock p.m., and took us till nearly midnight. The missionaries who took part beside myself were Revs. R. J. Landale, T. W. Pigott, S. B. Drake (of Ping Yang Fu), and Dr. Schofield (of the China Inland Mission), and the Rev. M. L. Stimson (of the American Board), who arrived in China a week after I did.

"Sale of Books.—The sale of Christian books has for many years been considered one of the chief duties of a missionary to the Chinese. Whether the method of selling them to an excited and curious crowd be the best one, and whether a number of the books thus sold are not collected and burnt, are questions which have been started, but which I am altogether too young a missionary to answer. I am glad, however, to be able to report that I am making a definite effort to disseminate Christian truth by the sale of the Scriptures and the best Christian books translated.

"For some time past Mr. Richard has been anxious to secure a small shop close to his house for this purpose. Last autumn I thought I had found just the place he needed, and wrote to him about it, asking if he could send a suitable Christian man to take charge of it. It turned out ultimately that the place was unsuitable, but meantime Mr. Richard had received my letter, and despatched a Shantung man for the purpose. I therefore began to look out again, and have secured a small shop (rent about 6s. per month) about five minutes' walk from Mr. Richard's house.

"This has been opened this Christmas, and without any disturbance or excitement taking place. It is situated in a side street, not so busy as to arouse undue excitement, and yet with sufficient traffic that it cannot escape notice. It is the first and only Christian book-shop in Shansi, and I trust will result in much blessing. It will not only be useful for the sale of books, but will also serve as a convenient place to meet with inquirers who are too shy of foreigners to visit us in our dwellings. This is an attempt to win the people of Tai Yuen fu, and will, I hope, prove useful in winning converts from the business men of the place, as well as be an attraction to the scholars and literary men.

"Medical Work.—Dr. Schofield, of the China Inland Mission, is working with so much success in this branch of the work that, with the exception of occasionally helping him at operations, and visiting cases of suicide by opium poisoning, I do no medical work. These latter cases are terribly common here; Dr. Schofield has attended several this year, but occasionally we are called upon for help, and then I go. I have altogether attended twelve cases this year; four have proved fatal. One of these fatal cases was a young girl, who was dead when I arrived, the other three were in a very bad condition when I saw them, and it was beyond my power to bring them round. The remaining eight, I am thankful to say, recovered.

"Such is briefly an account of my first year's work in China. It is with profound gratitude to Almighty God that I review the past, and with great hopefulness that I look forward to the future. In this dark northern province there are signs of awakening, and from conversation with other missionaries, I judge that never before was there so much cause for hopefulness. We are all anticipating a blessing. It is, however, but a beginning, and the work that lies before us is immense; as I pore over the map of Shansi, and think of its teeming millions, and so few to make known to them the way of life, my heart almost breaks down. Can you not send another brother who would, in a year or two, be ready to go north with me, and take up another position to the front, and so open another battery on the enemies of the cross? Are there none ready to do battle for Christ with the same bravery and devotion, as our troops have lately shown in Egypt? We need more help, but till it comes must battle on alone as bravely as we can. Meanwhile, pray for us that we may abound in faith, and hope, and love, in courage, and in patience."

The Rev. A. G. Jones, the senior missionary in this district, writes:—

"Church.—Although the period which this report covers was unquestionably one of continuous difficulty and irritation to the Christians, yet, before all things, we can thank our God that even the apparent progress that we have been making has not been checked to any degree that disappointed the expectations built on the past. Nay, on the contrary, we sincerely hope that all will fall out rather to the furtherance of the truth.

"In the county of I-Tu, where we have our main work, the Christians have this year pushed out some five new sub-stations. Besides this, there have been some new sub-stations divided off from the older ones, which had become too large, rendering sub-division, for many reasons, both prudent and necessary.

"During the summer, there were received into the church about one hundred and thirty persons—of the same stamp pretty much as in former years; except that, on the whole, as years advance, we generally get a better prepared candidate, and one whose idea of the Christian Church is something purer and more un-mixed than it was to those entering before him.

“In the county of Sheu-Kuang, the movement made in favour of Christianity, and toward our Church, early in this year, did not subsequently justify the expectations formed of it; however, some few, and at present unimportant, stations have been thrown out, and the result may yet be to bring true religion to many a home, small and unpromising though the beginnings be. We can now boast two or three fairly strong stations there; but as the Presbyterian mission is there in force we do not feel called on to push our efforts very specially while other fields untouched by any one are still waiting.

“Southwards, in the county of Lin-Ku, some promising stations, two or three, have arisen; and there especially, owing to the extreme absence of direct agency from the beginning, we may look for strong progress in time to come—that is, so so far as one can forecast.

“This year, for the first time, I can report branches of the Church in five counties with regularly established worship; and at our Presbytery or Union, we had visitors and delegates from eight counties. This expansion, much of it far beyond the former limits of our operations, involves relations with many converts imperfectly known to us, and they, on their part, much more slenderly acquainted with us than our older friends among the brethren. This all became the cause of a good deal of affairs calling for patience and cautious action. Again, the greater our area and the wider our frontier, the greater would be the a priori chances of exposure to persecution, and so it proved. From November, 1881, to November, 1882, it was one long tale of provocation and endurance, and one long call for ever varying measures to suit the cases in question.

“The experiences of both the Christians and missionaries passed through many new phases; many things unpleasant to do and suffer, had to be gone through; but I make not the least doubt that it was all necessary for both the guided and the guiders that it should be so; and I make no less doubt that the great God will, out of it, bless us more than by the sunniest of our seasons of prosperity.

“In addition to anything future, or unseen, we can trace even now, and before our eyes, some very tangible results. First,—we succeeded in ascertaining a good many methods whereby the acrimonious action of the native populace could be assuaged. Secondly,—there was a general willingness on the part of the Church to assume a considerable share of the investigation, verification and management of these persecution troubles by means of eleven ‘Stewards,’ who were elected with general powers in the aforesaid matters. Thirdly,—all this has forced home, even more deeply than ever, upon us, the conviction that all measures which can be taken for the teaching and spiritual nurture of the Christians had better be arranged for as quickly as possible. No one can guarantee the consequences of persecution on a weak and ignorant Church. The testimony of history and the outcome of experience on this are one.

“The contributions for the present year are doubtless quite up to the average of former, and may be in excess of past years, but as I am writing on ship-board, I have not the returns by me.

“But far above contributions in value, stand the faith and patience, the zeal and endurance, that the Christians show. We know that they can have no motives of a worldly character. We know that, as missionaries, all we can do for them is very, very little indeed, and what advance in Christian virtue there is, must be from some source which is hid with God above. There is no other account of it that I know.

"Yes, years, as they pass, are only showing more of the power of God's Truth and Spirit, and any review can only end in a deepened conviction that the work is of God.

"No one can meet these simple villagers, and see them unite in the worship of the true God; no one can watch them as they hear His Word applied to their own selves, without being convinced that they are men who are citizens of another and a better country; weak, despised, and forsaken on earth, pilgrims in semblance, but possessed with that ideal and enthusiasm which has ever and alone, made Christ's Church 'all glorious within,' among the organisations of the earth.

"Evangelisation.—I would gladly continue in the same strain about our outer and evangelistic work. Alas! I cannot. Inside and outside the fold are two different conditions.

"I believe I mentioned in my report for last year that, in the capital of the province, Tsi-nan Fu, there had been disturbances in connection with the American Mission there. These matters, despite the interference of the United States Legation and the Chinese Foreign Office, have not yet been settled. They have indeed become an open sore with the authorities, and every official in the province has become prejudiced once more against Christianity; large and small, all are against us and ours. As it happens, the largest number of our evangelists work in the prefecture above named, and so intense is the hatred, that once, even with our own men, it culminated in a riot; and in two other instances retreat in time just saved this issue.

"As the poor live in fear of the powerful, so the reception of Christianity has again been embarrassed, and the prospects reduced to zero.

"No, not to zero. That could not be; but, alas! far down, out of sight, on the scale by which we appreciate matters.

"But although thus, I feel no fears. Were we without experience it might be otherwise; but we know the corn is only in the ground. This is winter time. We must wait God's spring. It will surely come. At one time it was difficult to get the evangelists to return to the field, they asking Consular interference; but this I steadily refused, and maintaining an attitude of indifference, coupled with exhortation and exhortation, they recollected themselves and went back.

"I, however, had to alter our policy westward to somewhat of a bolder cast—one more calculated to inspire confidence.

"The results were as satisfactory as I expected under the circumstances.

"Meantime the work goes on. The district is large and results must, ordinarily, be slow; in a word, we can only work for the future as things are. Before I leave this subject one word—

"Our failure, for the time, is directly attributable to the results of a riot in the provincial capital. This report is not the place to criticise the policy or action that resulted in this state of things. Suffice the fact, missionaries and authorities quarrelled about rights. The result we see. Hundreds of inquirers are frightened off by the scare. Operations are hampered and thrown back. The old trouble is opened up and the message and work of reconciliation is completely nullified for the time. So much for the policy that brings things to such a pass.

“Orphanage.”—Regarding the school I have nothing very special to remark. The number of scholars continued at about thirteen or so. Three of the best were sent, in February, to the High School or College of the American Presbyterian Mission, at Teng-Cheu-Fu, as being hopeful boys. There they will cost about £8 each boy per annum, and their education will occupy several years. I have not taken any steps about the school this year of any decided character, and it is still held, subject to disposal in the future as may be fixed when the general question of education comes up.

“Medical.”—Mr. Kitts will report on this department.

“Kiang-Su.”—As my last report, made, I think, in March, 1882, gave the fullest and most direct information I could send in about the work in Kiang-Su, so now I have nothing more to add, only that all letters received from the evangelists there since then have been in the same hopeful tone and matters have progressed favourably. However, to be more definite, I may report that, in June last, when the native pastor was returning from Nanking he visited the station, was pleased and reported to me quite in concert with the impressions I had formed. They mention some seven or eight candidates for baptism, and thither the pastor will proceed, in March 1883, to examine those in question.

“The Mission in General.”—As the work spreads and the organisation becomes more complicated, I find that my report on any one point must become more of a sketch—an outline—unless greatly swelled in bulk. So likewise the attention of one mind can be given less effectively to any one point, and the multiplication of affairs brings inevitable and literal distraction to that one mind. During 1882, so it has been with me. Not only the points to be attended to, but the points to be defended were greatly increased, and unfortunately, as we would say, this trouble and the incessancy of it proved too much for me. My health showed signs of failure. Simultaneously with this almost, Mr. Kitts had a second attack of sickness. Shortly after the native pastor took his long-promised leave, which I could not find it in me any longer to postpone.

“Just then the assistant I had engaged from Hong-Kong proved ineffective. The yearly accounts and report had to be sent in. The city was in a disturbed state, causing anxiety. An entire tour of the stations absorbed time and energy in a very laborious series of visitations and communions. Then came our inability to procure a cool resort in the mountains, through the superstition and dislike of the people. Lastly, we were overtaken by that chain of misfortunes of which you know, when successively Mr. Richard, my wife, Mr. Kitts, and Mr. Whitewright were involved in sickness that nearly cost each their life.

“All these things coming upon us could not but try us, as a mission. Not by any ingenuity or strength of our own did we survive. God only could bring us out of such a net of trouble. He did so, and I trust we may all long remember the lessons which, collectively and severally, we were then taught—severe, but doubtless indispensable, and none otherwise to be gotten.

“Finally, in September, once more recovered and united, we commenced a series of deliberations on the future policy of the mission, with reference to the questions then burning for a solution, and which I am entrusted to represent to you in England. Previous, however, to my leaving for England, arrangements had to be made for carrying on the various departments of the mission both as regards their general management and the execution of details. This was done as satisfactorily as the circumstances would admit, and having met the Churches in Union on the 24th of October, I bade them farewell, and left the following day for Chefoo.

"I have endeavoured so far to give you, as near as my position as an actor in these matters would permit, a plain account of our affairs during the term indicated.

"Like every report that ever was written in any degree faithfully, it is chequered. Marked everywhere with those ups and downs in circumstances that made it as trying for our cause as for ourselves.

"What answer, it may now be inquired, would I make if asked what I thought of the whole year; how it might be regarded by those who gave of their substance for it, who had prayed and longed over it, and who were watching it? I should most unhesitatingly reply that they and we have cause for the most earnest thankfulness, and fresh grounds for renewed effort. True our 'killed and wounded' may be heavy, but the Dominion of the Great King has stretched its frontiers farther, and the power and efficacy of His truth is doubtless deeper and stronger in the hearts over which it has had sway. May God grant us, whatever we do, so to live and act as that that may be the case whatever else is, and then it will be well."

Of the Medical Mission work in the districts of Tsing-Cheu-Fu, Pei-su Cheu-Fu, and Kiang-su, Mr. J. T. Kitts reports:—

"The past year has been perhaps the most trying with regard to the health of the foreign missionaries, since our mission commenced work in China, the particulars of which I need only touch upon here as they were sent to you by Mr. Whitewright some months ago.

"I myself had an attack of erysipelas in my head and face at the beginning of last year, soon after arriving here from Chefoo, and before I had thoroughly recovered from my dangerous illness at the coast. Dr. Hunter, of the American Presbyterian Mission at Tsi Nanfu, very kindly came down and attended to me.

"Mr. Jones's health had not been good for some time, and as he did not improve, but, on the contrary, began to suffer from heart trouble, it was necessary on this account, as well as others, for him to return home for a temporary rest and change. On this account Mr. Richard left Shansi for a visit here to help us during Mr. Jones's absence. On reaching Tsi Nanfu, Mr. Richard was seized with a severe attack of dysentery. As soon as we heard of this, I started off to his rescue. Both members of the American Mission at Tsi Nanfu were away at the coast. On the road to Tsi Nanfu, a messenger put a slip of paper into my hand from Mr. Richard, on which was written, 'Farewell dear brethren, bury me at Tsing-Cheu-Fu. You will find some notes in my pocket book.' Never can I forget the reading of that note. I enquired of the messenger if Mr. Richard was alive, and on being told he was, I urged my horse on as quickly as possible. The thought that the man whose whole heart and soul was in his work, and by whose effort thousands upon thousands of lives had been saved during the famine, should himself die in a Chinese inn, with no foreigner near him, was terrible to bear. Thank God I reached him in time and found him a little better.

"A few hours after I left here, Mrs. Jones was taken ill, and as the brethren here did not expect Mr. Richard to be alive, Mr. Whitewright started off at once to ask me to return with all speed to attend to Mrs. Jones, and leave him to bring Richard's body to Tsing-Cheu-Fu. When he reached Tsi-nan, I was unable to leave Mr. Richard, fearing that in trying to save two lives I might lose both. In the course of a day or two, both Mr. Whitewright and myself were taken ill. The look-out was indeed black, as we thought that in the course of a few hours we all three might be dead. Mr. Whitewright sent off a special messenger to a medical missionary some distance off, and another to Mrs. Kitts. On hearing how matters were, my dear wife started off at once, although in the middle of the night (as Mrs. Jones, whom she had been nursing, was considered out of danger), accompanied by our native doctor and his assistant. Both of the latter were taken ill on the way with the same complaint, viz., dysentery. Before the foreign doctor or my dear wife reached us, we were all, thank God, much better; but this horrible disease was in the air, and Mrs. Kitts was almost the only one, servants, chair-bearers and all included, who did not suffer from it. On our way back a messenger met us from here, saying Mrs. Jones was worse, and Mr. Jones nearly worn out with nursing, want of sleep, and anxiety; so, leaving the rest of the party, and by traveling all that night, I reached here very early next morning.

"Thank God, He has brought us all safely through that dark time of trouble.

"But how did it all happen? The answer is, our Mission is short-handed.

"Mr. Jones's health failed because he had to do the work of several men—ten years' work in five. Mr. Richard had to leave his work in Shansi because we were short-handed. The work is growing daily, growing beyond our power of control. Last summer none of us went to the coast, but stayed in this city with the thermometer up as far as 100 degrees in the shade, because we could not afford the greatly needed rest and change. Not with greater longing did the garrison at Luoknow look for reinforcement than do your five missionaries in China daily hope and pray for more help from home. The enemy were many and strong in India, are ours less so here? Oh! for men with hearts like Havelock, who, through every obstacle, would push on to the relief, not of Lucknow, but of China, and her four hundred millions!

"Last spring some of the well-to-do people of this city who either themselves or whose relatives had received treatment at the dispensary, presented us with an eulogistic tablet. It is a large board painted vermilion, with gold letters. It was carried through the streets on a stand covered with red embroidered cloth, preceded by a band of music, and followed by the donors—all in full dress. Mr. Jones, the native doctor, and myself were waiting at the dispensary, where the tables and chairs were all covered with red cloth. As the procession approached the outer door we went out to receive our guests, and, having saluted them and the board, they passed on—the band to the inner court-yard—the donors to the outer waiting-room. We then went to the inner waiting-room and were followed by three of the donors (the tablet resting on the table), when all bowed to the ground to each other; we then all kneeled on the floor and knocked our heads three times on the ground, arose, bowed to the ground again, and then those three left the room and three others came and went through the same performance; and so on, till all had paid their respects in this manner, when, with great thoughtfulness, they all left (notwithstanding tea had been prepared for them), for, as they said, we were very busy, and it was no mark of kindness to take up more of our time. They also, at the same time, presented us with a pair of scrolls. The board is hung up over our inner gateway, and is quite an ornament. The names of the donors are written on the tablet, and as these men are well-known in the city (one of them is a leader of the Mohammedans in connection with the mosque in this city, and an M.A.). It is thus a great help to us in giving the people more confidence in the foreign doctor, and (to them) his strange modes of treatment.

"Two of the boys from our orphan school, who had been for some time carrying on their studies at a higher school at Teng Chen fu, were sent last spring to Peking to study medicine under Dr. Dudgeon of the London mission. One of these boys is especially sharp, and was spoken of as one of the cleverest boys at school—we are hoping he will make a very good doctor. There are at present three boys studying at Dr. Mateer's school at Teng Chen fu, but whether they will ultimately study medicine and become doctors is not yet decided. We have now a new arrangement for seeing female patients, an account of which Mrs. Kitts has given in her report. In order to overcome, as far as possible, the many difficulties we have had in this branch of the medical work, we have engaged the services of a young native woman who speaks English exceedingly well. She has been in America and was at school there for a short time. She has lived with foreigners all her life; is sharp, and has fair ability, and will, I hope, make a capital 'go-between' between the native and the foreigner, understanding, as she does, both parties. She is married to a young Chinaman who has been a teacher in the American Baptist school at Teng Chen-Fu. He has come along with his wife, and is also studying medicine. When Mrs. Kitts has acquired a fair knowledge of women's diseases and how to treat them, we hope she will teach other women; for although I am opposed to female doctors at home, it appears to be a necessity here under the present condition of society. Our native doctor Mr. Wên, who has had charge of the medical work at Kiang-su, is engaged to be married to our native pastor's eldest daughter. The marriage will, I believe, take place this summer. We have arranged for him to stay here for a year or so, and for Dr. Nich to go down to Kiang-su. This will give Dr. Nich a rest which he certainly deserves, as the number of patients there is much smaller than here. We hope also that it will help on the work at Kiang-su, as he is more skilful, and his knowledge of medicine and surgery, greater than that of Dr. Wen. The chief object in the temporary change is, however, to have Dr. Wen under my personal direction, with opportunities of adding to his knowledge of the healing art, and at the same time giving him a larger and more varied practice. He is also to begin the study of the English language.

"The prevailing diseases here are:—Diseases of the eye, all sorts of stomach trouble, skin diseases, rheumatism, lumbago, dropsy, lung diseases, tumors, especially goitre, ague, ulcers, worms, especially the Ascaris lumbricoides, and stricture of the esophagus; this latter, a common complaint among those who are habitual drinkers of native spirits.

"The total number of patients seen at the dispensary during the last twelve months is 4,855. Of these thirteen died; reported cured, 1,237; result unknown, 3,635. It is most difficult to find out the result of treatment, as I mentioned in the report for last year, and, notwithstanding all our endeavours, we are unable to give any better account of the result of treatment. For instance, out of 158 patients treated for ague, only two report cured, whereas, in all probability, with perhaps one or two exceptions, the whole were cured; the others however, are like those of whom it was asked, 'Where are the nine?' There were 275 eye cases treated, of these 94 report cured. 196 cases of women's diseases (treated through their friends by means of the printed forms of questions), 81 report cured. Nearly 700 cases of Ascaris lumbricoides. Accident cases are very uncommon. We have, however, had of these, and of wounds from direct violence, 43 cases, 33 of whom report cured; these include two cases of fracture of radius, two of fracture of fibula (one of whom was a woman), and one of fracture of femur; all these report cured. We as yet have no suitable place for treating those who desire to give up the opium smoking habit, and we have very little confidence in treating such cases as out-patients. We have only treated four cases, two of whom report cured.

"Suicide by poison is by no means so common here as at Tsi Nanfu, Shansi, Kiang-su, and other places. The cases treated here were as follows :—

	Total cases.	Report cured.	Died.	Result unknown.
By Opium	21	19	1	1
„ White Lead	8	8	—	—
„ Arsenic	3	2	1	—
„ Bean Curd Water ..	1	—	1	—
Totals	33	29	3	1

"At Kiang-su over 100 cases of opium poisoning were treated; ague, 74 cases. The total number of patients seen, 1,800, and of these only 221 report cured; of the remainder the result is unknown.

"Total number of patients seen:—At Tsing Chen Fu—Reported cured, 1,237; died, 13; result unknown, 3,635; women seen by Mrs. Kitts, 270—total, 5,155. At Kiang-su, total patients seen, 1,800—in all, 6,955.

"There have been many insignificant cases treated of which no account has been kept.

"I enclose a fac-simile of the tablet. Here is a translation:—'Presented to Pastors Jones and Kitts for establishing a public dispensary at which they invited Dr. Nich to assist, and as a token of gratitude for benefit received. Marvellous medicine! Masterly skill!' And to the left of the board are the names of the donors. One of the cases of fractured bone spoken of, happened on the public street when the crowd who gathered round had an opportunity of seeing the doctor administer chloroform, and then attend to the fracture without any pain to the patient.

Mr. J. S. Whitewright, who reached China at the close of 1881, writes:—

"During the past year I have spent a good deal of time in visiting the stations around Tsing Chen fu, and have been very much cheered by all I have seen of the work here. The most encouraging feature seems to me to be the way in which the people go to work themselves, quite apart from the foreign missionary. The great danger is to rely on the foreigner for everything, and, to do nothing for themselves. But here it is quite a common thing to hear of a man leaving his home and going off to some village where he has friends or acquaintances to 'tan ta le'—'talk about the doctrine'; and in this way the work spreads from family to family, and from village to village, chiefly through the efforts of the people themselves.

"I am constantly delighted with the devotion, earnestness, and cordiality shown by the people. There is, to say the least, as high a standard of Christian living amongst our native brethren as could possibly be expected from a people newly brought out of heathenism. Indeed, what I see around me daily is far higher than my highest expectations.

"You will be glad to hear that they have commenced to establish Christian schools in some of their villages, where not only the native classics are taught, but our Christian books. I examined one of these schools a few weeks ago, and was very much pleased with the progress made by the children. During this year we are hoping to see several more established, but, as the people are so poor, some help from us will be necessary. There are at present seventeen children in the orphan school. I examined them a short time ago and their progress was fairly good, and, as a superior teacher is engaged for this year, still better progress may be expected.

"The native evangelists and church officers are a most devoted body of men; there are not a few among them who have 'endured hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ.'

"I am most heartily in sympathy with the methods which have been set in operation here, and am prepared to work in the lines of my senior colleagues. We all hope that very much benefit will accrue to the work in China from the visit of Mr. Jones to England, and that we shall soon have large reinforcements to our staff, both in Tsing Cheu Fu and in Tai Yuan Fu.

"We all rejoice at what is being done for Africa, and most earnestly hope that as much will be done for China.

"Mr. Jones will put the whole matter before you, but this is certain, that, if this station is to be maintained in an efficient state, we must have more help. We all hope and pray that many of the students in our colleges may be led to consecrate their lives to the work in China.

"It is with heartfelt gratitude and thankfulness to God that we look back on the year that has passed, and with much hopefulness we are looking forward to still greater results."

Mr. James only arrived at his station in the early part of 1883.

TOKIO.

Missionary, W. J. WHITE.

Of the work in Japan, during the past year, Mr. White reports:—

"We are just now over Christmas, and are upon the borders of the new year. The present is a busy season in Japan; the people are all making their preparations for the new year, hence the meetings just along at this time are thinly attended; still, we have quite a good number who come in to hear the Word of the Lord. We have just had another applicant for baptism, and there are signs of a good work going on in the hearts of others. My wife is doing a very interesting work among the women; meetings are being regularly held in Mr. Kobayashi's house, and Mrs. Kobayashi herself is full of zeal and love for her Lord. In her my wife finds a true co-worker. The seed which is now being sown, will, most surely, at the appointed time, bring forth the fruits of harvest. The work, all round bears a very encouraging aspect.

"The authorities no longer regard the Christian missionary with distrust; on the contrary, there is every indication that they are beginning to recognize in the work which he is doing, a substantial good to their country; and not a few Japanese who are not Christians are coming to see that Christianity is the only sure basis upon which the civilisation, for which Japan longs, must be reared.

"We have now twenty-four members in our little church, with one applicant for baptism, and four or five inquirers. We are looking into the year which is now upon us with great faith and hope—confident in the promise of our Master's presence. We expect in this coming year to do great things for Jesus Our Divine Lord.

"I see by the two last numbers of the 'Missionary Herald' that there is a prospect of a brother being sent out to help. I do rejoice most sincerely that the Master has thus induced those dear brethren to tangibly assist the committee in their desire to send me a colleague. I suppose, now, the matter is only a question of a few months. Well! may the Master send us the right man. May I offer a word as to your selection. A young man, as near twenty-five years of age as possible, full of love and zeal for the Lord, has before him in this land a life of the greatest usefulness. If you can send us a young man about the above age, please do so. He has got one of the most, if not the most, difficult languages in the world to learn. The difficulty is increased if the student is above that age."

The Rev W. H. Gamble writes from Port of Spain :—

"The year, 1882, has been an exceptionally busy one. Before the beginning of the year, we began to do what we could towards enlarging the church, allowing the services to be conducted in it as long as we could. In the month of March we removed our pulpit, lamps, and benches to the Western Market House, kindly placed at our disposal, free of rent, by the Borough Council of Port of Spain. There were, of course, some inconveniences resulting from the change, but on the whole we were favoured in being able to secure so good a place for our temporary sojourn as the Market House. At the end of our occupation of the building, we wrote a note in the name of the Church, warmly thanking the mayor and councillors for their kindness.

"We were away from our own church some months. We were very glad to be permitted to get into our enlarged church. This we did on September 24th. The opening services were very satisfactory. The Presbyterian minister, the Rev Mr. Falconer, preached for me and I for him in the morning, and in the evening I occupied my own pulpit. The following Wednesday I had the pleasure of baptizing some twenty-four persons. To show how varied is our church membership in the matter of nationality, let me say that most of these were creoles, two were Germans and two were Portuguese.

During the year, I have been privileged to baptize forty-two persons. In Port of Spain, thirty-one. At Chaguanus, three, and at the Fourth Company, eight persons. These last I should not have been called upon to baptize had not Mr. Williams been absent in England.

"To speak generally, we may say that the average attendance at the Lord's table has increased from 75 per month in 1881 to 78 $\frac{1}{2}$ per month in 1882. The total of communicants in 1881 were 877; in 1882, 944. We consider attendance at the Lord's table a good test of the state of the church in more ways than one. The attendance at the services has been larger, as we expected it would be, seeing we have made greater accommodation for the people. The collections have been slightly increased. The Sabbath school is about the same in numbers; the younger children just filling up the place of the elder ones who grow too big to attend any longer. It may be said, 'But where are your Bible classes?' I answer, 'You cannot argue from England to Trinidad. The customs of the people are very different, and we do what we can.' West Indian children are proverbially 'spoilt,' and an attempt at discipline will scatter them to the winds. I don't exaggerate when I say that the parents do as the children like them to do. We endeavour to teach and train the children of our members as well as we can, and it is pleasing to know that out of the twenty-four baptized on September 27th, some eight of them were children of our members and scholars in our Sunday schools.

"Our membership at present, after correcting the roll, is 144; 11 of these are Europeans (English and German), 11 Portuguese, and the remainder oreoles of the various islands. I think we may say that our measure of progress in 1882 was not less than in former years. If any advance has been made we humbly thank Almighty God for His mercy and grace.

"I think that we ought to say something of the liberality of the people and their interest in the enlargement of their church. Some gave largely. One of our elders, Mr. Querino Baptista, gave £50 sterling. Robert Wilson, Esq., of Glasgow, gave 100 dollars. Mr. Lewis Inniss, another of our elders, obtained some 200 dollars by service of song and lectures. The members generally gave liberally—the most of them are in the lower walks of life. I must not omit to speak of the liberality of George Goodwille, Esq., a merchant here, an elder and a manager of Grey Friars Church, who not only gave us a double subscription, but has just made the church a present of a handsome set of brass standard pulpit lamps; but this, though a very generous act, is only in keeping with his usual generosity. Some men make money to keep or spend on themselves, others make money to give away to God's cause. Many personal friends gave, some of whom are Roman Catholics, but true charity knows nothing of ecclesiastical distinctions. I may say that I have begged all round the world, for one $5 note came from Gilbert Taylor, Esq., of Glasgow, and another from Mrs. McDonald, of Queensland, South Australia. The property of the church bequeathed by my deceased relative, who was an elder of the church, brought in a considerable amount. Indeed, it may be said, had not Mr. J. P. Tuttleby left the society the property he did, the Baptist Church in Port of Spain would never have been enlarged, at least not in my day. The building now called St. John's Church, is a handsome one. We had to register the church for the solemnisation of marriages, and as we had to appear in the Royal Gazette, we thought we would give the Baptist Chapel a name and call it 'St. John's Church.' I hope to be able to send home some day a photograph of the building. It will scarcely be recognized, it is so much raised, enlarged, and improved. A flat ceiling before almost suffocated us, but now, when full, we are not conscious of any difference in the temperature, and this in the tropics is a consideration. We have said that we have spent 8,000 dollars for a breath of air. We have done this, but also something more.

"As to the anxiety, toil, trouble, and money-getting, I will say no more than that once in one's life is enough, especially when, as in this country, so much rests upon you. We were greatly grieved and sorely put about by the death of Mr. John Gonsalves, the builder. He left here when the roof was barely up, and never came back, for he died at Madeira, his native country. We then had to do the best we could without his experience and oversight.

"With regard to 'Tuttleby School,' East Dry River, it may be said that the day-school, Sunday-school, and week evening prayer-meetings have been carried on as before. The day-school is under Government inspection; but as the official examination does not take place till March, we cannot say how far we have succeeded in the instruction of the children according to the Government standard. I think Mr. Patrick has laboured assiduously, and hope that many of the children will come up to the standard. Should they do so, result fees are paid by the Government of £1 sterling for each child that passes. We need some result fees, for Government insists upon many little accessories that require expenditure. Later, we hope to be able to state results.

"The Sabbath-school is not large, and the week-evening services are on a small scale. It may be said, however, that the wish of the donor of the property is carried out to some extent.

"At Chagnanus, Mr. Patrick continues to labour, conducting the services on the Sabbath-day regularly and satisfactorily. Once in three months the minister visits the church, and administers the ordinance of the Lord's Supper to the members, numbering now some thirteen. A Sabbath-school is kept in connection with this place.

"At McBean's Village Couva, our brother Cox continues to labour among his own family and the few who come together for religious worship. We have not yet been able to form the few members resident in the village into a church. Perhaps later we may have occasion to do this."

Of the stations under the charge of the Rev. W. Williams (in the San Fernando District), who is at present in England, seeking restoration to health, Mr. Gamble writes:—

"Concerning the stations under the charge of Mr. Williams, I can only say that when I was at Montserrat matters seemed to be in a satisfactory state. Mr. Webb writes, in a satisfied strain. Let me quote part of his last letter:—

"I write to say that all is well with us; the Good Master continues to smile on His cause here by adding to the number. Although I often have cause of suspension of members, I am truly grateful to my Heavenly Father for His continual favours towards me, His unworthy servant.

"When you are writing your annual report to the society, please write favourably about me and my work in the Lord, as you had an opportunity of being here on the 6th November last, and baptized eight candidates—also Brother R. C. Williams and his labour in the Lord. I held the last quarterly meeting of last year on the 12th December. The churches seem to be improving in their contributions. The Third Company Church has raised 89 dollars towards the support of the pastor. My contributions here are about 140 dollars. Brother Richard (of Montserrat Church) is coming near to me."

"I have not received any communications from the other native pastors; but, from the above, conclude that matters are all well with them. Mr. Williams baptized all who were ready for baptism before he left, with the exception of the eight referred to above. Mr. Webb asks very kindly after Mr. Williams, desiring to know when he will return."

THE BAHAMAS.

I.—NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

Missionary, DANIEL WILSHERE.

Number of members in the district,

The Rev. Daniel Wilshe, the Superintendent Missionary in charge of the whole of the Bahamas, writes from Nassau, where he is stationed :—

"At Nassau during the year Zion has been preserved in a state of quiet order, but has sadly declined in attendance, owing to absence of members at the sponge fisheries and the sad destitution of their families. Twelve aged members have deceased during the year, but we trust our loss is their eternal gain. Efforts originating in our Sunday-school have resulted in the 'Bahamas Baptist Sunday-School Union,' by which the teachers and children of Zion, Bethel, and the native church, under Rev T. Rumer, are brought into a compact body, and it is hoped happier results will grow out of this.

"At Fox Hill the perseverance of the native teacher and the friends has been crowned with success, the walls of the chapel have been raised two feet and a new roof, shingled, put on the building, making it both comfortable and sightly; the cost has been defrayed without expense to the society. It is a circumstance to be regretted that the spiritual growth has been retarded by dissension this year.

"At Adelalde our aged brother, Smith (after partial blindness for years), is now smitten with a stroke of paralysis, which has rendered him quite helpless. He lies quietly expecting his departure in the joyful hope of the glory which shall be his through our Lord Jesus. The friends hold service as usual with occasional help from leaders of a sister church.

"ELEUTHERA.

"The large body of members at Governor's Harbour is making efforts to complete the new chapel, which is ready for the roof. One feels it had been wiser to have commenced a smaller building, but the wish to have seating room for 400 is the reason the progress appears so slow. At James Cistern, vigorous efforts are made to procure doors and windows for the chapel erected three years since—the great poverty of the members has hindered this hitherto. The spiritual condition is as happy as under the present teaching power one can expect. A day-school has recently been opened here, but I am not able to give any particulars at present.

"SAN SALVADOR.

"This very important island suffers this year a great loss, owing to the retirement of Mr. Bannister from the pastorate. He has been in failing health for some time, and being no longer able to ride to the stations, has felt it his duty to resign. Your missionary has, from the first, expressed his sense of the importance of these churches, and is now exceedingly pained to know of no one to whom the office can safely be committed. Whether we look at the numbers, devotion, or needs of the people, we must conclude they deserve a warm interest. A day-school has been opened at Dumfries, and the one at Bluff is well maintained. An epidemic has destroyed nearly all the horses.

"RUM CAY and WATLING'S ISLAND.

"At Rum Cay very little but sorrow rewards our search. Owing to the failure of the salt-trade, and the drought, positive starvation has been the fate of some old persons. Our blind pastor, G. Hall, is entirely dependent on us for means of existence. The churches maintain numbers, but all growth seems arrested.

"LONG CAY, CROOKED ISLAND, ACKLIN'S, and MAYAGUANA.

"Our brother Green has this year also been enabled to devote himself to the work with zeal and fair success. At Long Cay we decline in numbers, but as the Episcopal minister is a very devoted churchman, this is not to be wondered at. On the other islands cases of starvation are reported. The destitution at one settlement was so great, a mother left her seven children to exist on berries, while she came (200 miles) to Nassau to beg food. The decrease is due to these facts.

"INAGUA.

"One of the most pleasing incidents of the year was the visit paid to this island; nine were baptized, and seventeen others admitted to membership. Great credit is due to brethren Whyllie and Anderson for their self-denying labours during the year. The harmony existing in the anticipated settlement of D. L. D. Kerr, as pastor, is a very hopeful feature, and it is our earnest prayer that such spirit may be maintained and deepened.

"RAGGED ISLAND.

"The condition of the Church continues healthy, despite the privations endured by the residents. 200,000 bushels of salt were on hand a short time since, and no sale was possible, so that men owning a large share of this could not get food to eat. Our brother Maycock has been bereaved of another son by drowning (the eldest), which has given him continued sorrow.

"LONG ISLAND.

"Our two brethren labouring on this large island, persevere in midst of great difficulties. The size of the island renders the population hard to reach. The horse-disease has made its appearance here also, and as all carrying is done on horseback (there is no carriage on the island) grave fears dismay the hearts of the people.

"EXUMA.

"Much interest was manifested on the visit paid to this island, and we sincerely trust a new devotion is being kindled in the hearts of the members. An increased membership, and the earnest effort to resuscitate an old station, testifies to the growth of this feeling.

"ANDROS ISLAND.

"This island, the largest in the colony, is being rapidly settled upon, many new families from other islands having gone there. Our brother Watkins grows in zeal and earnestness. In most stations prosperity exists, and in all peace, but the support raised is woefully inadequate.

"BIMINI.

"Steady progress is made in both church and school, notwithstanding the severe illness of the leader in charge.

"GRAND BAHAMA, ABACO, AND MOOSE ISLAND.

"Here again we have to take up the tale of lamentation; the suffering from drought has been very severe this year. One settlement was for a time quite dependent on your missionary for food; this strain has in measure passed away now. The record of the native pastor is full of privation, and his means of support almost fail. The schoolmaster has left High Rooks to prevent the starvation of his family, and has settled at Sweetings Cay, where he hopes to obtain a better return for his exertions. The Episcopal teacher once here has been removed. At Abaco we have great cause for rejoicing at the growth of earnestness, due in part to the labours of an old native preacher, J. Laroda, who is resident there. The Church at Moose Island is in very great unhappiness owing to prevailing superstition.

"In reviewing the whole field it will be evident to the reader the evils we have to combat arise principally from poverty, and the intelligent enquiry will arise in every thoughtful mind, whence comes this poverty? Putting aside the salt-trade failure, which we have no power as a colony to remove, we may ask how is it these islands (once so flourishing) are now in chronic distress? The answer is largely found in the growth of the sponge-trade. Hundreds of the young men give themselves to this life, by which means only the children and the aged are left to till the ground. Excepting some three or four persons, no one invests capital in agriculture—all else is a hand-to-mouth life. The sponge-fisher is away from home and church control; he lives during his voyages fairly well, but his returns are as uncertain as a gambler's, and his life is very similar. A few years of the hardship and exposure of the reckless living, and he fades away into the grave. It is very painfully evident the wife and family of such men can look for no other future than a ceaseless struggle—whereby sin of the most revolting kind results.

"The 'A. H. Baynes' has visited Inagua, Long Island, Ragged and Andros Islands, and Exuma during the year (2100). We are everywhere received with joy, and increased earnestness justifies the outlay.

"Once more God permits me to urge our needs upon the churches—2,200 children, many unable to get food, or for help to learn of God. Oh, beloved! let them not cry in vain, for if you neglect them it may truly be said of their souls, 'No man cares.' As I think of their future my soul is very sad. The material to regenerate Africa is HERE, but wasted, perishing, for lack of training.

The Rev R. E. Gammon writes from Puerto Plata :—

"The year 1882 has not been very eventful for us, still as we look back, we see we have not been left without a few tokens of the Divine presence in our midst, for while some of the members are far from coming up to our standard, there are a few whose Christian zeal is worthy of all praise.

"On Christmas-eve we had the joy of baptizing eleven candidates, and sincerely trust they will all remain steadfast to their profession. For the year we have to report a net increase to our Puerto Plata Church of thirteen members; this number may appear small to our English Churches, but it is somewhat gratifying to us here.

"The Romanism of this place is not openly hostile to us; on the contrary, the 'Padre' (priest) manifests quite a friendly spirit and comes sometimes of an evening to pay us a visit; but so far as converting our Dominican friends to the acceptance of our view of the Gospel of Christ is, of course, quite a different thing. Certainly the natives have not imbibed the persecuting spirit of their former Spanish conquerors. Probably this is due more to their apparent religious apathy (as contrasted with Spanish religious fanaticism), than to enlightened Christian liberality. However, we trust that the leaven of Divine truth may eventually exert its beneficent influence in this Republic, so long kept back in the march of civilization by its revolutions, ignorance, and superstition.

"In addition to other labours in our Sunday-school, Band of Hope, and Bible-class, we have kept steadily at work. The average attendance at the Sunday-school has been fifty-five (being five more than last year), with an average of ten teachers. We ought, with the numbers on our books, to show a much better attendance, but many come so irregularly.

"We have paid more frequent visits to our country stations at MUNOS and CADARETE during this year, but without many visible signs of success. For some two or three years past many of the people at the latter place have been engaged in lawsuits about land, and thus disquietude about the temporal seems to have smothered to some extent their concern for the spiritual.

"In merely looking back a few months, we see but little improvement, but we are happy to know that, however small, each year shows a slight increase in numbers and in finances. Notwithstanding a rather bad commercial year, the friends here (Puerto Plata) have contributed £46 lls. 9d. in excess of the last towards church expenses, and I trust in moral and spiritual life upon the preceding one.

"The new year opens with but a gloomy outlook; however, we trust things may brighten later on. For this we will work and pray, and for this we beg our friends at home to pray, and then perhaps the Lord may surpass our highest anticipations, and contradict our worst fears."

Writing from Grand Turk, Mr. Pusey reports of the Turks Islands and Calcos as follows:—

"GRAND TURK.

"1882 has left abundant reason to record our gratitude to God. During the year, death, poverty, and disappointments so prevailed, that our soul almost melted for heaviness. Eleven members have died who had been faithful soldiers of the Cross, and many throughout these islands have suffered from extreme want. I am also sorrow to report our disappointment in one of our native young men who has fallen into grievous sin. He studied under my special guidance for nearly two years, and gave me entire satisfaction. I had fully expected him, shortly, to take charge of one of our day schools, as Government schoolmaster. This has been my third attempt to train the native young men here for future usefulness. Evil influences predominate on every hand. Though it tarry, I watch, and wait for it. Our Sunday-school here has been much blessed. The attendance has been regular, and a good spirit has prevailed. I baptized seventeen candidates, thirteen of whom are fruits from the Sunday-school. Our Sunday and week-night services, church and class meetings, and other efforts of Christian work, have been refreshing, and, I trust, profitable times to us. Our materials for the repairs of our chapel are ready, and we only pray for further help to begin work at once. Notwithstanding their deep poverty, our members here evince increased activity in the work of the Lord.

"SALT CAY.

"Here we have a willing people who cannot do much,—very much exposed to poverty. Their cry of starvation a few months past obliged me to procure and send some means of relief for the distressed ones of our church. They are always thankful for the ministry of the Word. I baptized five candidates, who are rejoicing in their Christian profession. I made ten visits during the year.

"EAST HARBOUR.

"Three visits have been made to this island. We have built a neat little out-office, and a little more has been done to the enlargement of the chapel. Much still remains to be done. The members are not as united as I should wish to report. Differences of opinion in small matters, and strife for superiority, are the cause of this disunion. We have had to exercise church discipline upon two of our officers, who are now private members. This has awakened some reflection that I trust will result in their own and the spiritual good of the church. Encouraging prospects lay before us. Candidates are awaiting baptism.

"LORIMERS.

"Peace has always prevailed, but more willingness to work is required. Our good brother, Joseph J. Tucker, has laboured for more than ten years as a native schoolmaster, and is a pattern of meekness. I baptized four candidates, and am thankful to report that some twelve are now awaiting my next visit to become members of the church. I purpose going shortly.

"BAMBARROW.

"Our members are few—much devoted. Membership forms almost the whole settlement, so that there is no outside influence of an irreligious kind by which Christians may be drawn away. Quickly, but surely, a good work is going on.

"MOUNT PETO.

"A most pleasing visit was made to this place and steps taken to strengthen the staff of officers and Sunday-school teachers. A kind-hearted and good people. We thank God for them, and the good work we can report of them.

"BOTTLE CREEK.

"I had much pleasure on my last visit. We had cheering services; all seemed thankful to receive the Word. I baptized five persons. This service solemnly impressed others, who are now anxiously awaiting my next visit to give themselves wholly unto the Lord.

"KEW.

"A lively interest is kept up. Some time ago I mentioned the want of trained young men as day-school teachers to settle at the Calicos stations. I am thankful to report that, with the aid of my tutor, the Rev. D. J. East, I have secured the services of one, Mr. Solomon H. Browne, of Calabar College, Kingston, Jamaica, has taken charge of the day-school here as Government schoolmaster early in August last. He is now just twenty-five years of age, and already evinces signs of success in his work. The school numbers ninety-six on books, and seventy in average attendance. Mr. Browne also earnestly assists in Christian work. We have found the man, and the 'Government Board of Education' here pays him. All the people here are Baptists, and it is of some advantage to settle amongst the children a schoolmaster of like Christian principles. I baptized twelve candidates, who are active in their Christian work.

The resident Wesleyan missionary at Grand Turk is now erecting a chapel here without the prospect of a single member to begin with. How successful he shall be in his doctrine of Proselytism remains to be proved.

"BLUE HILLS.

"A scattered settlement of about 500 people. I made two visits to this place during the year—one in February, and the other in April. The people were all of a cheerful spirit. May they continue so. I baptized four candidates during my first visit. We have nearly finished the flooring of the chapel, and the people now worship more conveniently. 'Five Keys' and 'Kingston' are branches of this station, and are progressing slowly, but, we trust, surely. At the latter place there is no chapel. We expect to commence one shortly.

"We need more men as schoolmasters for the young and rising race of these destitute islands, and trust that means will be forthcoming to settle another here shortly. I am sure our beloved Calabar College will supply us suitable teachers if we can find the means to carry on this good work. I am confident it will repay our efforts.

"Mrs. Pusey accompanied me all through these churches during my former visit of the year, and had much pleasure in setting before old and young the delights of that heaven that is prepared for pious parents and children.

"On a review of our yearly mercies, notwithstanding death, poverty, and disappointments, we have abundant reason to raise our Ebenezer, and cry, 'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.'"

The following are extracts from the 1882 Annual Report of the Calabar College :—

"The Evangelistic and Sunday-school work of the College has been carried on as usual, both Theological and Normal School students uniting in it, aided by the schoolmasters of the Model School and of Allman Town, with some members of the church at East Queen Street. There are now eight preaching stations, each having a small Sunday-school having a total of nearly 200 scholars. The theological students regularly supply the stations at Mount Charles and Rose Hill, besides occasionally preaching at East Queen Street and other places, as their services are required. During the vacations all have been fully occupied in preaching the Gospel.

"The Committee have thankfully to acknowledge the annual remittance from the trustees of the Taylor Trust Fund in England; and with the prospect of a considerable accession of students to the Normal School department of the College, to which exclusively this fund is applied, they indulge the hope that they will still be aided by this invaluable educational trust. Special reports in regard to the five students on this foundation were forwarded to the trustees at Midsummer with the examination papers. The thanks of the Committee are also tendered to the Juvenile Missionary Auxiliary of Myrtle Street, Liverpool, and the Ladies Negroes' Friend Society of Birmingham in England, for their kindly continued contributions.

"With a view to relieve the President of some of his duties, to promote the greater efficiency of the College, and to extend its usefulness as an educational institution, the Committee of the Baptist Missionary Society have offered the appointment of a third tutorship to a gentleman in England, an M.A. of Edinburgh University, and expect shortly to complete their negotiations with him.

"The disastrous fire in Kingston on the 11th December seriously threatened, and to some extent affected, the interests of the College. The Committee have indeed sincerely o thank God and their constituents that the College and church premises have escaped the calamity, though at one time, had the breeze continued in the direction which it took, their destruction, together with a yet more extensive area of the city, would have been inevitable. But while the institution was saved from the conflagration, the anxiety and toll which have fallen specially to the lot of the president were great, depriving him of much-needed rest during the weeks of the Christmas vacation, and making it impracticable to gather in the usual subscriptions in Kingston. The Committee cannot but give expression to their sympathy with the sufferings entailed on the vast multitudes whose habitations have been consumed, and whose property and trade and industrial occupations have been destroyed. At the same time they may record their thankfulness that the disastrous calamity has evoked so large a measure of liberality from all parts of the world for the relief of the distressed.

"The College repairs, with the exception of a few minor ones, are now complete, and an additional grant of £100 from the Baptist Missionary Society, with the express desire that the repairs of the residences of the tutors should be finished, claims to be gratefully acknowledged.

"The Committee have now only to commend the institution to the liberality and prayers of the churches. Some brethren in the ministry are being removed by death and from other causes. Vacancies cannot be filled up for lack of agents; while Hayti and other lands are appealing to Jamaica for pastors and school-masters. The committee would therefore have not only to look to the churches for money, but for earnest prayer, that God would raise up in them earnest-minded and godly young men willing to consecrate themselves as candidates for admission to our training College in preparation for Christian work.

"The following is the report of the Normal School Tutor:—

"The work of this department has been steadily carried on through the entire year. The daily routine, according to the syllabus of studies, has been one of painstaking industry and general progress. The practical work in the day-school has been interfered with by the changes of mastership and the attendance of scholars. The need of the junior students for particular class-work, and the special attention of the seniors in new studies, have also curtailed their day-school work. The usual object lessons have been given in school by all the students, some showing good abilities. Ten Normal School and five Theological students have studied this year in the classes of the Normal School Tutor; of the former being new students, and one, Mr. Gordon, of Hastings, completing his three years' course. Mr. Gordon has had several applications for service, and he leaves with the best wishes and confidence of the tutors for his future usefulness. An endeavour was made to meet the Government examination of Normal students and teachers, but it has been found impracticable this year. The usual examinations were given the first few weeks in December. The great fire of the 11th of December and its exultements and uncertainties, however, tried the students and unsettled the closing engagements of the session; yet to a surprisingly small extent under the circumstances of peril and distress around."

During the whole of 1882, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson were compelled, by the state of their health, to remain in England. Early in 1883 they returned to the West Coast, taking with them Miss Fletcher, of Liverpool, to relieve Miss Comber, by carrying on the work of her girls' school, at Victoria, and so permitting Miss Comber to visit England, the state of her health rendering such a change absolutely necessary.

Mr. Thomson was also accompanied by Mr. Silvey and Mr. Lewis; the former being settled at Bethel station, in the place of Mr. Lyall, and the latter at Victoria, in the place of Mr. Dixon, compelled to return to England in consequence of urgent family claims.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson also returned to their work at Bakundu towards the close of 1882, after a season of change in England, rendered needful by the state of Mr. Richardson's health.

The Rev. J. J. Fuller has had the general charge of the work at Bethel station during the past year, and reports as follows:—

"We must again allow the curtain to drop, and leave the past, which has been crowded with so many mercies and kindnesses. As a mission we have been much favoured. Our ranks have been kept intact, and our work, to all appearance, blessed.

"In looking at the past we have had much for which we ought to be very grateful, for in every department of our work we have been encouraged. The congregations have not only been kept up, but increased, and a growing desire for the truth manifested. A spirit of inquiry is also awakened, and a few have been added to the church. Our native helpers have done what they could to help on the cause, and with but one exception I have been cheered in the good work.

"Here at Bethel I have baptized five persons; with the fourteen before makes up the nineteen since I have been down here. We have a good inquirers' class; both Sabbath and day-school are well attended, and some improvement made in their studies, particulars of which you will receive from Miss Saker.

"The church has also been doing a little for the furtherance of the Master's kingdom. A mat-building is put up in the town by voluntary labour, in which services are being held on the Sabbath by the members of the church, while other meetings are carried on in other parts of the town. Thus, our Sabbath is well filled up. Our congregation in the chapel is over 500, and our week evening services are attended by about 150. We have on the book 113 members, and the inquirers' class numbers 45. The contributions now in the hands of the church are over £50 currency, and, after paying all church expenses, will leave a good balance in hand.

"I have thus far given you some of the bright side, but you will know that there is another; for with all I have said we have often had to rouse them to a sense of Christian duty, and to suspend some. Much evil lurks amongst them, and a want of more spiritual life. From the amount of light we discover much of the evil of the land, and have to grieve over the cruelties, degradation, and superstition that surround us. Yet our God is with us. It is also cheering to us to see the kings take an interest in the services, and King Acquas is always in his place whenever he is at home. Thus far for Bethel; and when we add that, to the best of my ability, I have tried to put things in order, and so save as much of the manual toil as I could, I think I shall leave Bethel, and turn to

"MORTONVILLE.

"Our native brother, Mr. Wilson, I am pleased to say, has done his best; but I am sorry to say that there is a great lack of spiritual life amongst the members, which we need the Divine aid to arouse; but this, I think, arises from the unsettled state of the place. They have been at war among themselves, a sort of family feud, in which some have lost their lives, and part of the town destroyed. Two of my teachers have had to come over here last week for safety, and part of the town have had to run off to a distant town (Sorlco). Yet with all this we have good congregations, and the school good and interesting. We have fifty-four members, twenty-four inquirers, over forty day scholars, and seventy Sabbath-school children, with good week-evening services. Not noticing the influx of the congregation, we have an average attendance on Sunday of 120. The contribution this year has been so bad that I told them it was a shame even to mention it, as it could scarcely pay chapel expenses. It is true that they have had to refloor the chapel, which, with labour given, amounts to about £30. Yet I told them they ought to do more. The state of the town shows the depth of evil existing, and the amount of work we have to do.

has been in a very low state, but I trust they are being awakened, for we have now a small but interesting class of five inquirers.

"DIBOMBARI

all through has cheered me. We have now a church of nine members. One has passed away, bearing testimony to the power of the Gospel, and ten inquirers, a good school of thirty children, and a good Sabbath congregation. Our young native brother is doing all he is able to do, and I have every reason to believe God is blessing him. The contribution, independent of labour, is £2 4s.

has shown the first sign of fruit, and, although our native brother has had much to depress his spirit, yet he has gone on, and now the first young man has offered himself as an inquirer.

"We are also cheered with this favour from our Heavenly Father. The water-way is now quite open to Bakundu, and a station is being formed at Batong. A piece of land is allotted to the mission, and I am removing my teacher from the Kotto station to occupy it, giving Mr. Wilson, an assistant, to carry on the station. Thus you will see I have tried my best; and in whatever I have failed you will pardon me, and I trust my Heavenly Father will see that I failed from inability to do better."

Of the work at Bell Town Mr. Shred writes:—

"It is with pleasure that I send you a brief outline of the work done at this station during the last nine months. After the death of our late brother Lyall I took charge of Mortonville, and was there till March this year. I resumed my work at Townhead the first Lord's-day in April. My first work was to build a native house suitable for chapel and day-school. Up to the time of the school-house being built the congregation was very small, but when we entered our own place the congregation increased. The first few Sundays the school-house was crowded, many being unable to gain admission. After the curiosity had worn off a few ceased to come regularly. Now the room is well filled every Sunday morning and afternoon, the congregation averaging 220. The size of the school-house is far too small for the requirements of the station. We are greatly in need of a suitable and substantial building that would seat about 400 or 450 persons. On Sunday, when the room is filled, the heat is quite overpowering. It is a most pleasing sight to witness the room filled twice every Lord's-day, and to watch with what rapt attention the people listen to the Word of life. God is greatly blessing our Sunday services. It has not been my pleasure to reap into the barn, but it has been my joy to sow the seed of the gospel in the broad field, and to watch in some instances its growth. I have had one of Mr. Fuller's teachers as interpreter, and I am pleased to say that he takes great pleasure in his work.

"We have also two week evening meetings during the week, with an average attendance of thirty.

"We have also a flourishing Sunday-school, and there are about 100 scholars on the books, with an average attendance of 75.

"The day-school, from the beginning, has been most successful, both for attendance and progress. The great majority of the scholars are boys. It is quite surprising the aptness many of the boys show for learning. Their conduct, too, is satisfactory, and good discipline has been maintained. The time has been spent in teaching the elements of education. A short Scripture lesson is taught at every school and the Lord's Prayer repeated twice a day, once in English and once in Dualla. The scholars have been taught several Sankey hymns, which they sing with great heartiness. The day-school is in a healthy condition. I am convinced that too much attention cannot be paid to the training of the young. The future of our mission in Africa depends much upon this.

"I am most thankful to say that my health has very much improved, and I have reason to hope I am becoming acclimatised and the worst of the fevers are past. I have every reason to believe that God has improved my health and blessed the work at this station in answer to the prayers of friends at home. Throughout, God has always been near to sustain and comfort.

"I have had my share of anxiety with the people, but, I suppose, every African missionary has to prove for himself what that is. Throughout the year God has richly blessed us, and 1883 dawns with the brightest prospects.

"'Praise ye the Lord. Praise the Lord, O my soul.'"

"Miss Saker and Miss Comber—the former at Bethel and the latter at Victoria—have most earnestly and devotedly carried on their school-work, which has manifestly received much of the Divine blessing, and is specially hopeful and encouraging—many of the girls giving indications of a change of heart, and proclaiming, by their altered lives, the genuineness and reality of their love to the Saviour."

General Assistants.—JAMES SHOWERS, from Victoria; JOSE SILVER, from Victoria; FRANCISCO WILSON, from Victoria; JOHN HOOD, from Demerara; REDOMBO, from Gaboon.

The Rev. T. J. Comber sends the following general report of the Congo Mission:—

"The year 1882 has been for our beloved Congo Mission one of great activity. In the still preliminary work of forming our chain of stations, the hand of our God has indeed been upon us for good. We have had (for Africa) rapid successes, and have been able to complete our base line of operations. The physical hardship and wearing toll is, to a large extent, over. And although there is left work to be done, important and difficult enough, and also toilsome enough, to suit any enthusiastic missionary, there is no doubt that the most difficult (not the most dangerous perhaps) of the pioneer work is over.

"Throughout the year we have all been marvellously preserved, and while we have been called upon to sympathise with sister missions engaged in similar work to ours, and whose men have fallen in the field, this year has passed away like the two preceding years, without a breach in our ranks. Moreover, although some of us have been nearly four years in what is falsely called sickly and pestilential Africa, yet we are all in good health (although subject, of course, to occasional trying fevers), and I have not heard of any brother expressing himself as needing a change. Not that we would boast of this. Rather do we feel it humble us, as we pray to be more worthy, sanctified, and meet for the Master's use.

"In the story of the year's work there is not much to tell of direct missionary agency, i.e., of preaching God's Word. Where opportunities have occurred we have preached and taught. Our older station of S. Salvador has sustained its usual round of work. Each of us has had one, two, or three St. Salvador and other boys in training. Our medical work has been extensive and successful among Europeans and natives, and we have become familiar with, and respected by all, at our stations and on our lines of route. In some cases even, we have had influence enough to save life when threatened by a cursed 'ndoki' or witch-palaver.

"We do not anywhere find beautiful Arcadian simplicity, and innocent heathen existence 'better left alone.' It is a sin-cursed country, cruelty and filth everywhere rife. But let it be remembered that we have been breaking up the fallow ground, and (although some sowing has been done, ay! and some little fruit appeared too, thank God,) the great sowing, the careful cultivation, is now to come. S. Salvador is, of course, an exception.

"Our Congo Mission will be very little without ladies to work in it.

It is impossible for us to speak to or teach the girls and women. And I am glad to say that several of my dear brethren are intending, shortly, to bring out wives to Africa, and that there are women, brave and earnest, ready to do and to dare for their Master, Christ, and hand-in-hand with their husbands to brave the chances of fever, and to take long journeys into the interior amongst rude peoples, for the sake of the Gospel. The Lord be very gracious to those women, who, during this (1883) and next year, shall join our Congo Mission, coming, as did my own dear wife, nearly four years since, ready for anything for their Master in heaven and their husbands upon earth.

"Mrs. Grenfell is exercising an influence for good upon the people at Underhill. Mrs. Crudgington will, I hope, be out in the course of 1883, and others will, I trust, follow as soon as possible—the sooner the better for our Congo Mission.

"And now, just a hasty summary of the work of 1882.

"Near the end of 1881, Hartland was working at San Salvador, being joined in November by our brother Dixon. Crudgington had brought out our steel sectional boat, the 'Plymouth,' and took Grenfell's post at Mussuca, while the latter went home to see after our steamer; and Bentley having founded Manyanga station, had left Jose Silva (our faithful Victoria assistant) in charge, and had come down to Mussuca to help get up the 'Plymouth.' Three months' heavy work in the rainy season, and in March we arrived at Isangila, with a big overland transport of about 16 tons, including our boat, the 'Plymouth,' and 500 sundry loads. This, of course, was a very exceptionally heavy transport. During these three months Jose Silva 'held' Manyanga station, and Redombo (Gaboon), and Mantu (my S. Salvador boy) held Isangila.

"Screwing together and painting our good 'Plymouth,' we tried her in a first journey to Manyanga at the end of March. She behaved very well in the wild cataracts, and during the months of April, May, and June, made several journeys to and fro.

"Meanwhile, Hartland was able to leave Dixon and Weeks at S. Salvador, and come to assist us in our trying work.

"In June, Hartland and I surveyed a special district suggested by Bentley, and chose our Baynesville station on a peculiarly fine site. This station takes the place of Ieangila, on which it is a great improvement. Baynesville was founded by Hartland in this month of June.

"Going down to Mussuca to examine the route from Baynesville, we, together with Crudgington, chose the ground for our Underhill station (in place of Mussuca). This station was founded and built by Crudgington (June—September), assisted by our new brother, Butcher.

"In July, a special opportunity presenting itself, Bentley and I came up here to Stanley Pool, and chose ground (on the Leopoldville A. I. A. plot) for our new station, now called Liverpool.

"Obliged to return immediately, as there was only Jose Silva again left in charge at Manyanga, and we had scarcely any men to rely upon for carriage, we reached Manyanga, and immediately Bentley went off to the coast to get some people. On his return I was obliged to go down to Baynesville to divide up the barter goods among the stations; and at last, in October, I was on my way to Stanley Pool, which I reached on the 24th of that month, and where I immediately commenced building Liverpool station. During the last three months of the year, I have been here, and Bentley (assisted by Hartland) has been doing good, sound, plodding work among the Babwende at Manyanga, which we have called Wathen station (with our Bristol friend, Mr. Wathen's, permission), a station founded by Bentley, in July, 1881.

"Such is a general outline of the year's work. I omitted to mention that our new brother, Moolenaar, is at Wathen, assisting Hartland, and leaving Bentley free to join me here; and Hughes is rapidly gaining influence at Baynesville station, of which he is now in charge.

"1883 will probably be known as the steamer year, and we shall have the arduous task of getting our good steamer 'Peace' over the 300 miles and more of ground between here and the coast.

"'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.'"

NTOMBO FALLS, CONGO RIVER.
Founded, August 19, 1881.

Missionaries.—T. J. COMBER and W. HOLMAN BENTLEY, and latterly J. S. HARTLAND and H. K. MOOLENAAR.

From Manyanga, or Wathen station, the following detailed report has been received from Mr. Holman Bentley :—

"In reporting the work done at this station there is little need to enter into the details, which have been made so fully public in the Herald. It has been a year of progress, but, in these early times of our mission, the progress has consisted in winning the confidence and esteem of a very wild, excitable people.

"Our first impressions, in August, 1881, were good. The land palaver was arranged quickly and without trouble; but, very soon, we had cause to know that they were of a very turbulent and quarrelsome disposition. Knives were drawn over trifles. The various towns were almost constantly at war. Peace was made by the weakest paying a fine, and, as soon as things were quiet, the people who had paid the fine would catch some people of their enemy's town, demanding the return of the fine, which, when paid, would become the subject of further dispute, and more captives made. These reprisals were constantly taking place, so that a time of peace among all the neighbouring towns was unknown.

"The country markets were often closed, and food was scarcely obtainable.

"The people were thievish, lazy, and superstitious, and could not be induced to work, while it would be considered a case of witchcraft for a father to send his son to us to be taught.

"Questions were frequently arising, and great care was needed to prevent what might have led to serious palavers.

"In all these constant troubles we were able to maintain a uniform attitude — peaceable, patient, and kindly. The wild people came to understand, in some measure, the 'Ingelezu,' as they called us. They found out that the missionaries were their truest friends, whom they could always trust, and who were always ready to help them in trouble. They would seek our counsel and help in all kinds of palavers, and several times showed their appreciation in a most marked manner.

"In no way should we wish the friends at home to think that these people are angels.

"Terrible instances of individual greed, meanness, and ingratitude were frequent; but, for all that, the general opinion throughout the district was as before noted.

"Tawanlongo, the great chief of the western part of the district, was accused of witchcraft, and was compelled to drink the poison test, but I was able so to urge his chief men personally, that they made it only a formal affair, giving him so small a quantity of the poison, and so weak, that he vomited the 'nkasa,' and was declared innocent amid great rejoicings. The chief sent me a very grateful message, declaring that to me alone he owed his life—his enemies would have accomplished his death but for my urgency. Many also remarked this.

"Notwithstanding, three days afterwards, Tawanlongo came empty-handed to see me, and was indignant that I did not give him a very large present, although I had given him a fine cloth, a knife, a cap, and sundries to express my pleasure. He had come back safely from the 'nkasa' ordeal, and now his friends would not give him so and so.

"We have been able to use these Babwende as carriers; they have transported nearly 100 loads since the founding of Liverpool station, Stanley Pool, and we hope that they may help us well in that direction.

"The people are much quieter now and more reasonable in their attitude towards the white men generally.

"We cannot claim the credit of all this; we must acknowledge the share of the Belgian Expedition. While we have not approved all the acts and policy of the Belgian officers, we can but recognise that but for their strength and firmness, and for a punishment in one case that they only had the right to give, we cannot believe that either it would have been safe or possible for us to use Wathen station or the Babwende people as we do now.

"The shadow of their strength, against which the wild folly of the people was powerless, helped us to pass the barricade of ivory traders, which had so often repelled our attempts.

"Medicine and surgery have been effective agents to our work at Wathen. Both the native and the large gangs of Zanzibaris of the Belgian Expedition have given us much work in that department. Indeed, the first people we were able to induce to stay even for a short time at our station were so won. Men, women, and children afflicted by ulcers, and other diseases hopeless to native skill, were glad to come to us, and there has been a large and successful practice.

"The 'Plymouth,' our steel sectional whale boat, is doing her work splendidly, but the exposure and time spent in the constant journeys between Baynesville and Wathen have been found very trying to the missionaries in charge, and you have already given your consent to the engagement of a mariner who should undertake that onerous duty, upon which it was neither necessary nor wise that the missionaries should expend so much time and strength.

"During the nine months of this year that this station has been occupied by a missionary it has been impossible to get native boys to come to us with any regularity, or for any length of time. This is largely owing to superstition, jealousy, and other combinations of foolishness and wickedness which would be incomprehensible to the friends at home. We would teach our indoor hospital patients—the boys—but when they were well they went back. Indeed, only during the last four months would it have been in any way possible, in consequence of wars, palavers, &c., but we are glad that Mr. Hartland has now boys in the house. Having these, others will follow, and there is every prospect of a good school there.

"Two boys, who came from a neighbouring district on the south bank, one of whom first came for medicine, are now at Liverpool station, Stanley Pool, where, with our two Congo boys, they form the nucleus of a household at that station.

"These are strange times. The present is foundation work, and as such not making much show; but those of us who know all the facts, and can understand the material worked upon, can but thank God and take large courage, as we regard the great change that has come over these people during these months between April and December.

"Food, which was in the early times so difficult a problem, is now most plentiful and cheap. Sometimes thirty or forty women and children come down in a day to sell cassava puddings and indescribable sundries. We have also a splendid piece of garden ground beside the river, where we have planted more than 1,000 plantain, besides bananas, yams, manioc, beans, maize, &c.

"Building materials are also handy, and those which the natives can supply cheap.

"It is a great pleasure to report that this second of the two station links, between the Lower River and Stanley Pool, is maintaining its part in the line of communications; that our goods are safe, and throughout the 160 miles, being worked from Wathen above and below, we have none but friends, and we have secured a safe, good, and practicable route to Stanley Pool. The service rendered by the 'Plymouth' can never be fully appreciated. She saves in expense every year nearly, if not all, her cost of construction, &c.; 120 miles of weary hills are saved by an up and a down water journey of five or six days, and ten boys are able to convey by water as much as would require forty-five boys by land. While there is no chief to trouble us but the wild raging river, which we have learned in some measure to master."

From Vunda, or Baynesville, Mr. Hartland writes:—

"It will be a somewhat difficult matter for me to comply with your request to write a short account of one year's work at my station; for, like many of my brethren, I have spent the year partly at one station, partly at others. With the commencement of the year I was at San Salvador; in March I took charge at Isangila, from whence I moved, station and all, to Baynesville in May. Again, in the end of the year, I flitted, and commenced taking charge of the station with which I expect to be connected for some time—Manyanga. But the station in which I was most interested last year, and which I took the privilege of founding, was the one from which I am now writing—Baynesville—so I will send you a short account of its rise and progress.

"Our old station of Isangila was found very inconvenient for many reasons. Food was difficult to procure, and country carriers still more so. The river journey to Manyanga was long and trying. Isangila being on the north bank, and our base station on the south, all goods had to be crossed in boats, and over a nasty piece of water, which rendered regular communication between Isangila and Underhill (then Musuka) a difficult—almost impossible matter. By coming here we save two days' boat journey, and two nasty cataracts, while we only increased the land journey by one day. We found ourselves in a land of plenty, and were able to arrange carriers in fairly large numbers. Communication between the two stations is easy now, as both Underhill and Baynesville are on the south bank.

"In company with Mr. Comber, I landed here about 15th May last year. I stayed to build, while he, after connecting the road with Banza Manteka (the L. I. mission station), went up to Manyanga. We purchased from the people the whole of the island upon which our station now stands for a very small sum, and got an agreement drawn up, to which, after a little difficulty, each of the chiefs put 'his mark'—the first time they ever put their hands to paper, I reckon.

"I found the people very good and quiet, but rather wild and shy. But the attractions of good cloth, knives, and brass nails, speedily drew large quantities of food, palm ribs, string and grass, for thatching. Yet in those early times I could not get the people to send their boys to my house as the Congo people do. I am glad to be able to say that their fears and reluctance are overcome at last, and Mr. Hughes has now several nice boys in the house.

"With the help of the materials the natives sold, and a gang of Kroo boys, I soon got up a nice temporary house and store; and a boys' house, Kroo house, kitchen, and other necessary buildings soon followed. The station grew, and began to look businesslike, if not picturesque; the English ensign flying from the top of a pole some forty-five feet high, and visible from far up and down the river, added to the importance and natural beauty of the place. Since I left the station a nice and much more commodious house has been added by Mr. Crudgington, as well as a garden, from which we have already had beans and Indian corn, and in which other vegetables are rapidly maturing. The building is still continuing in the hands of Mr. Hughes, and Baynesville bids fair to be one of the best, as well as one of the most beautifully situated, of our river stations.

"As for missionary work among the people I can say little. The station (like all our river stations) is far from the town, and on the banks of the river. It is far more difficult to gain an influence over the people here than it would be if we were living in their town. Building and other work connected with a new station quite prevented me from visiting the towns, and the novelty and fear of a white man keep the people from visiting me, except to sell their produce. So, with the exception of teaching my own boys, I have been able to do little direct missionary work. The prospects are most encouraging; the building, though still going on, does not occupy the same amount of a man's time as at first. The people are used to us now, and are beginning to send their boys to the house, and to come themselves more often. When two missionaries are here—I hope it will be shortly—visiting the towns, the people of which are all friendly and anxious that the white man should come to see them, will add largely to our influence among the people and our numbers at school. I think I may safely predict that when the report is sent in next year, it will be most satisfactory in respect to teaching and spiritual work among the people. At present the station is in its infancy (not nearly a year old), but I think the prospects are encouraging. It may never be a large mission here, and its power will be chiefly among the young, but I feel every hope that a small and effective mission will grow up here as well as an efficient transport station.

"With regard to the missionary now in charge, Mr. Hughes, we have every reason to be thankful that he has come amongst us. He has already gained a good deal of the confidence and goodwill of the people, and I am sure will conduct the affairs of the station effectively and wisely. Of course he has not had much experience yet, but he is careful, teachable, and has a sincere love for his work, and I feel that Baynesville will prosper in his hands.

"I might say more, but I have made my report as brief as possible in order that you may be able to print it, or part of it, with the reports from our other stations in the general report of the Society, of work during 1882."

From San Salvador Mr. Weeks reports:—

"1. The School.—There are now thirty-three scholars in my morning classes, which are held between 7.30 and 11.0 a.m. The work of the past year has greatly encouraged me. The boys are earnest, and desire to learn; they are very regular in attendances, and give me but little trouble to gain attention. When in good health it is no small pleasure to be teaching them. Dictation and spelling are satisfactory. Writing on slate and paper is good. Arithmetic is worked very diligently, and there has been good progression made in reading. I have not yet begun to teach geography and grammar in these Fyote classes, but hope to commence some time this year.

"Besides the above classes for teaching the native language, I have also an English class with an attendance of twenty-five boys, and in the afternoon Mr. Dixon teaches Portuguese.

"2. Sunday Services.—Every Sunday morning, when weather permits, we hold a service beneath the 'King's council tree,' in the centre of the town. At these services we have had an average attendance of eighty adults and forty boys and girls. In all our services these people have exhibited a spirit of hearing, and by their regular attendance they show a desire to learn more about Jesus. On two occasions we had good showers of rain while holding our meeting; we thought the people would want to go out of the rain, but when we asked them they said, 'No, the palaver you are talking is good; it is God's palaver; never mind the rain.'

"At present we give the address first in Portuguese, then it is translated by a native into Congo; we sing and pray in Congo. At 9 a.m. I have a Sunday-school, and at 3 p.m. Mr. Dixon has the same; both morning and afternoon classes are attended by all our day-scholars.

"3. Itinerating.—In April, 1882, I began to visit the towns in the immediate neighbourhood of Congo on Sunday afternoons. I have six towns on the list, and have paid in all twenty visits to them for the purpose of holding services. The audiences in these towns range between thirty and ninety, according to their size.

"In all these meetings there has been great attention paid to the addresses, and at the close of each a unanimous desire has been expressed that I should tell them more another Sunday.

"I hope during this year to be able to go more frequently to those towns, if health and weather permit.

"You will remember that I mentioned in a former letter my visit to a large district south of Congo, called Madimba; since that visit the chiefs and people have become more friendly, and our influence has been greatly strengthened.

"There is sufficient work in itinerating about this part to entirely occupy the energies of many men, and we look forward to the time when we shall be able to pay more attention to this important branch of mission work. There are hundreds of towns, which have yet to be visited, in which the Gospel has yet to be preached, even for the first time. Many are opened to us, and many other towns are closed, but we hope by a continuance in well doing to find an entrance into all."

The Rev. V. E. Bouhon sends the following report :—

"Through another year preaching has been regularly carried on in this chief town every Lord's-day, morning and afternoon. In some of the localities around, such as 'the Legué' and 'Plérin,'; and also beyond Guingamp, at 'Bégard,' I was able, on special occasions, to address the people in the open air. This was also the case at our railway station in July, at the removal to Jersey of the body of an English merchant. That gentleman had been very friendly to our cause here.

"Moreover, several towns have, with their vicinities, been evangelised, such as Dinan, Lannion, and Quintin.

"The mission church in St. Brieuc, although yet feeble as to numbers, has been to many people as 'a light upon a hill.' Correspondence with former members, and the receipt of their kind offerings, have been compensations against removals by death or to distant places. Our scattered members are the means of evangelizing their neighbours, and those who have prized the Scriptures made known to them by our instrumentality are inquirers among whom we look for future members. The aged, the poor, and the sick have also been attended to, children particularly receiving, through Madame Bouhon's care, warm and comfortable clothing in the hard winter season.

"2. In connection with translation and publication of the Scriptures, some letters have been exchanged by me with the secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society and their general agent in France. It is contemplated to publish, shortly, the New Testament in Breton, with the French text opposite.

"The Scripture Colportage, under my care, has been carried on by Mr. Quintin, a native of St. Brieuc.

Eighty-seven localities, large and small, have been visited, producing the sale of six Bibles, 142 Testaments, and 380 Gospels, or other portions of the Word of Life. Another colporteur, taken up here by the Bible Society, was usefully employed for a time in and around Rennes (in the next department of Ille et Vilaine). One of our members is an old colporteur of the same society, and now resides in Dinan.

"Finally, a young man of our congregation, who speaks German, presented himself as a candidate colporteur. With a view to his proving useful I have had with him some evening meetings and Scripture studies in French.

"The volumes of our lending library have again served to spread wholesome reading around. Tracts also have been scattered by the Sunday-school, in the meetings, on journeys, and by the post, some of them being sent even to Algeria.

"I will not forget our French Baptist fortnightly, L'Echo de la Vérité, in which I have written some articles. This interesting publication is drawing attention more and more, and proves that Baptists are becoming much more numerous in France.

"3. With regard to Schools, I am thankful to say we have been able to carry on the Sunday-school regularly. But several former pupils, one of whom became a church member, left this city for other localities. I have followed up our church member to Paris by sending him the international lessons and other papers. The day-school, although unsupported by any grants, was an important item among the operations of the year.

"I was able also to assist five governesses and one male teacher in finding situations. The goodwill of the Academical Inspector was again shown towards us by my being asked to attend the prize distribution of the National College, or Lyceum.

"I was able equally to take part in the proceedings at Trémel, when the Revs. Lang and Probert visited the schools, going with them and Mr. Le Coat to Pont Menou afterwards.

Those were busy days, and to be remembered, for the presence of English friends is too rare not to make a strong impression.

"In the early part of the year I had been to Morlaix, supplying in the absence of Mr. Jenkins.

"The intercourse with ministers of the Reformed Church has been again pleasant and courteous. Had I been able, it would have been profitable, doubtless, to be at Lorient when Pastor Kissel was welcomed there; but other duties hindered me. As it was I could go to Rennes when the new place of worship was opened there for the local Evangelical Reformed community, having been cordially invited by MM. Berthe and Arnoux, the pastors in charge.

"Thus another year of work has closed, and its review fills our hearts with gratitude to the Father of mercies, so that, with the prophet of old, we feel bound to exclaim—'Hitherto the Lord hath helped us.'"

From Mr. Le Coat the following report has been received:—

"The year just ended has been one of hard labour, but unfortunately hard work does not always obtain its reward; being strangers here we will get our reward when we shall land at Home. The Lord of the Harvest will keep account of what is done for Him.

"Before entering into details about our station of Trémel and whereabouts, I will just speak a few words upon Low Brittany and its inhabitants. Until of late years Brittany was a country entirely shut up to all new ideas or inventions. The Britons born in Brittany remain there, living as poorly as possible, entirely ignorant of any comfort of life; to live in his country was all he wanted. Some of the young men that were called to the army used to pine away and die of grief if not sent back to their native place.

"Now another wind seems to blow over the country. All want to emigrate. It has reached such a point that no workman is to be found. All are gone to Paris or Havre (there are 72,000 in Havre). Wives and children remain. Our congregations are, of course, much diminished by this emigration. They earn money, but it is sad to witness the demoralisation it brings among the poor class. We can judge better than many others. Mrs. Le Coat, being a kind of a doctor, is frightened to see the increase of shameful disease among those she visits.

"All our dealings with the higher authorities have been very pleasant. Everywhere the police is at our disposal. Our schoolmasters and colporteurs are all very well satisfied, for no one of the authorities annoys them.

"The Prefect named me as a member of the 'Commission de Statistique Agricole,' instead of the maire of our parish. In this quality I had to visit the presbytery and the convent, to the great astonishment of their occupants.

"Our young schoolmaster, Mr. Gerard, who had been with us four years and a half, was obliged to leave us for a place in the south of France, to avoid going to the army. He was at the disposal of Government for ten years as a schoolmaster. He was very sorry to leave; for he spoke Breton well, and was attached to the work.

"To replace him we have a married man of forty-two. He comes from Orthez (Basse-Pyrénées), and, of course, knows no Breton, but, however, people like him very much. He and his wife seem to be nice Christian people.

"The school is, as usual, frequented sometimes by many scholars, sometimes by less, according to the country work.

"During the year we lost one of our scholars, a fine young Englishman of seventeen. He was the son of a London barrister. He lives with his widow mother in Guernsey. Another young boy, who had been with us eight years and a half, we never found out to whom the child belonged. We were regularly paid for his keep, when came a letter saying to send him direct to Southampton. He was fourteen. The poor child was broken-hearted to leave us, and we were also very sorry at parting with him. However, we have good news of the boy. He lives at Rochester. He says as soon as he is free and can earn money he will come home.

"The Welsh boy (my wife's nephew) is still with us; he is a fine lad of fifteen. We intend (D.V.) in another year to send him to Pontypool College, and if God spare him he will become a Breton missionary.

"Mary Ricon and Catherine Picart keep going from house to house, doing as much as their advanced age will allow them.

"During the year five new members have been added by baptism to the church.

"The hospital of Mrs. Le Coat is getting on; the house itself is finished—that is to say, the roof and walls. Inward work is not quite finished. We still hope that some generous friend will help to the finishing of it. A Roman Catholic has given a bedstead. We have plenty of linen and blanket-jog, which are found very useful to lend to the poor people about. We have had a member of our church that is in the army two months as invalid. We have now an old man, seventy-seven, that came for the hospital; his children pay his keep.

"Our Bible-class and our Thursday sewing-class are much better this year.

"Our Sunday-school does not increase in numbers; but the children are very regular.

"Pont Menou.

"The schoolmaster we have there now is a very nice man, and keeps up school very well. He is much loved by the population; so is his wife and his only daughter. His wife keeps a sewing-class every Thursday, and gives lessons every day to fourteen young girls. The worship there is very well followed. It is there we have the largest congregation and the fewest members.

"Plouénérin.

"For a good part of the year we had meetings every Sunday or fortnight, when we were given notice that the Government would take our house to establish a village school; so we ceased for a time, but have taken up again, waiting for new orders.

"Plounevez-Moedec.

"Since my meeting with the Romish priest, we have made arrangements for a room once a month, and either I or one of the young brothers conduct the meeting with great encouragement.

"Pluzunet.

"Since the reception of two young men from this parish as members of our church, we have a large opening. The change in the conduct of these young men has attracted much notice, and they highly proclaimed that the Gospel had saved them from the depth of sin, and made new men of them.

"Brest.

"This is a very important station. At one of our meeting-places, called Annexion, the room has become much too small. An hour before I arrive the room is full. All the windows must be opened, and many cannot get entrance. We hope that our committee or some kind friends will enable us to have a larger place. The attendants all belong to the working class. I asked them whether, in case I should change the house for another place, they would follow. About two hundred rose and said they would. Our kind brother, M. Caradeo, has given £20 towards building a meeting-place.

"In the other places all is going on well.

"Colportage.—The two colporteurs belonging to the British and Foreign Bible Society have sold, in ten months, 1,147 exemplaries of the Scripture. The colporteur of the Geneva Society, who was also under my direction, has during five months sold 4 Bibles, 216 New Testaments, 99 almanacs and 1,567 tracts; I myself, at different places, sold or gave 18 Bibles, 401 New Testaments, 161 extracts of portions, and 10,934 tracts: total, 22 Bibles, 1,925 portions of the Scriptures, 99 almanacs, and 12,101 tracts. I have held 251 meetings, Mr. Lequère 72, the Geneva colporteur 26: total, 349 meetings."

The Annual Report of the Norwegian Baptist Union has not reached us to the date of going to press. We are, therefore, unable to give detailed information with regard to the various churches associated with the mission.

Mr. Hubert, however, the evangelist, wholly supported by the Society, sends very cheering tidings of the progress of the work in the district of Skien. He writes:—

"A few weeks ago I had the pleasure of baptizing four dear souls converted at the week of prayer in the month of January. Yesterday I had one of the greatest privileges and pleasures I believe any one can enjoy on this side of heaven. I baptized fourteen precious young lambs, and amongst that number were my own son Gotfred and two daughters, Kate and Mary—all three truly converted to God some weeks ago. Another brother had also two of his children, and a widow sister, three—two sons and a daughter. Besides these fourteen baptized, a young brother excluded last year was restored and received again into the church. Many more are inquiring about the right way of the Lord, and our hope is that the work will keep progressing. At Fosgrund, the nearest town to Skien, the Lord has also blessed our work. We hope soon to baptize some dear souls gained for the Lord there.

At Langesund and at Ydegaard, a large mining district about thirty English miles from here, a glorious revival has taken place, and many are waiting for baptism. At all these three last-mentioned places we need houses of worship for Sunday-school work, &c. The dwelling-houses are all too small, and our need of places of worship is felt to be great. I wish some of our noble, generous, warm-hearted English brethren knew our situation, particularly in this crowded field of labour of mine, for they would readily and gladly, I think, come to my help with £1,000, for which sum I could get three chapels built. Now is the accepted time; never, in all my life, have my eyes seen such a revival in Norway as I have seen this year. To the Lord's name be all the glory, both now and for ever.

"Last Friday I was down at Langesund, where I had the pleasure of baptizing four souls, who were added to the little church there, and at Odegaarden several are waiting to be baptized. Everywhere souls are gathered into our churches. The Lord is doing great things, wherefore we are glad."

NORTHERN ITALY.

I.—GENOA.

Missionary, R. WALKER.

Evangelist, Signor JAHIER.

Number of members, 46.

Mr. Walker writes from Turin with regard to the work of the mission in Genoa:—

"As we look back on the work of the past year in connexion with this branch of the mission we feel constrained to thank and praise our Heavenly Father for many tokens of His love and favour. We have not realised all we hoped and fondly anticipated, but we have been enabled to work on continually, and not in vain, as the following details will abundantly prove.

"The letters I receive from Signor Jahier, of Genoa, all speak of crowded and attentive meetings, and during the quarter four new members were received, making for the year a total increase of thirteen. The first case of expulsion from the church in Genoa also occurred during this quarter. This was a man who was addicted to intemperance, and although re-proved both in private and in public persisted in his evil way. The total membership now amounts to forty-six. Signor Jabier says they are all regular in their attendance at the meetings, and among them reigns a brotherly spirit which is very encouraging. There are several catechumens waiting to be received, and our prayer is that they may soon be brought into the fold. The opportunities of preaching to the people continue to be great, and many and every possible advantage is taken of them. We cannot thank the Lord as we ought for the manifest favour with which He has from the first looked upon this station. We should like to see larger numbers come forward on the Lord's side from the crowds which frequent the meetings; but the Lord knows them that are His own, and we may hope that many are blessed who do not come forward and publicly profess their adhesion to the Gospel."

Evangelist, Signor MATTEI.

With regard to Turin Mr. Walker writes:—

"I am glad to be able to write to you about the work in Turin in a more joyful strain than I have ever done before. Hitherto we have hoped and prayed and laboured on, but without much encouragement in the shape of any visible improvement in the meetings. My English class, from which I hoped so much, did not help the mission as I had anticipated. It did not prove a failure altogether; in fact, it was the means of bringing many to hear the Gospel occasionally who otherwise might never have heard it. But none of my pupils have remained to the meetings. Now that the class is stopped, and, so far as we see, at least, none have been much influenced by the Word preached, yet the Word, we are assured, 'shall not return void, but shall prosper,' and in this we hope. The change and improvement in our meetings, date from the 1st of April, when we were privileged to open our new locale. The opening meetings were encouraging, and have been followed by others, which show a steady improvement. The sala could be made to seat about 120 or 130, but, as at present arranged, holds 100 comfortably. Several times we have had it filled, and never once has a meeting been disturbed by a disorderly audience. At first some big boys, bent on mischief, endeavoured to annoy us, but they were speedily removed, and now we have as good order and as close attention as we could get at home. On Wednesday and Friday evenings we generally have from sixty to ninety present—rarely under sixty. On Sundays the attendance is smaller, generally thirty to forty in the evening. What encourages and rejoices us is that a goodly number are coming regularly to nearly all the meetings. Several have purchased a Bible or New Testament, and evidently are beginning to be interested in it. We have long prayed for this, and now rejoice in the hope that soon our prayers will be fully answered in the conversion of many souls.

"I have just commenced a Bible-class to which I invite all who are interested in, and desire to study, the Word of God. I trust by this means to get nearer the people, and know them personally, and assist them to overcome their difficulties, and so lead them to Jesus. Several have begun to ask us questions, which show that they are thinking about what they hear. I am anxious that our friends at home should pray for us, that the work may prosper."

Mr. Wall reports the opening of a new centre for mission work in Rome as follows:—

"Between the Capitoline and the Palatine hills and the Tiber, at the base of the Tarpeian rock, is one of the centres of Roman population. Somewhat separated from the other parts of the city, the people here have characteristics and traditions of their own. The centre of this region is the well-known theatre of Marcellus. From the piazza near, omnibuses and trams start for the Corso. St. Peter's, and St. Paul's, outside the gates. Country people come in great numbers, and stand for hours in the hope of being hired. Factories, mills, and ironworks are sending their smoke and dust over the temple of Vesta and the Forum. In this densely populated part of the city I have long desired to open a room for the preaching of the Gospel, but for several years have failed to find a place. An opportunity of renting a room at last presented itself, and I embraced it. On the day I took possession I opened the room for preaching. It was instantly filled. A number of people had gathered round the door, and the roughest succeeded in entering first. We shut the doors, turned some boys out, and began to preach. The Gospel subdued the turbulent, and many were softened to tears. Twice during the week the place was filled, and a considerable number gave their names for instruction in the classes. On the following Sunday there were forty scholars in the school, and now the congregations are as large as the place will hold, and almost as orderly as we could wish.

"Our room is a shop which opens on the street. It is not what we would choose, but it was the only place we could get within the reach of our means. When the doors are thrown open and the lamps lighted, people gather round the door. In the look of many you read the tale of want and vice and crime. Indeed, many of them are ammoniti, a kind of ticket-of-leave people. Rage, dirt, smoke, garlic, alcohol—they are all here. The men enter with their hats on and their pipes lighted, their heavy shoes sounding on the wooden floor, and their tongues noisy in various dialects. Eighty or a hundred fill the room. They are nearly all men; the women will come after. As they have supped on bread and crude beans and lettuce, they have the pods and roots in their pockets. Should the preacher be dull, many will leave before the service is over, not without a noise, perhaps letting fly a Partisan shot in the form of a cabbage-stalk. The influence of this on the preacher stimulates him to keep things from coming to such a pitch. In one meeting I had to descend from the table three times to invite disturbers to come up higher. They took the hint, whereas, in another meeting, a member gave a slap to a boy, and stones were thrown and the evangelist hooted. An inexperienced eye might see in this the hand and power of the priest, but such is not the case. This is the state of this class. The priest, indeed, is active, walking up and down the street; the bells of the parish church are sounding alarms; every now and then a spy comes to the door and looks round, or a mother rushes in and drags a child out by the hair; but the people inside, generally speaking, know little of religion. There is nothing to fear when the preacher has had a fair start, and Christ in the Gospel, walks forth on the troubled waters. His voice is heard amid the tumult, and soon there is a great calm. It is a blessed moment when the love of Jesus brings the quick tear to their eye. This is better than having the guards at the door!

"During the last two months, 2 390 persons have come to the meetings in this room; many have given their names for instruction in the classes; and a Sunday-school has been opened, which, if we had good teachers, would soon be numerous.

"An important phase of this meeting is that many gather round the door and listen. To these, tracts are given, and words of truth spoken. As it is at the door of the meeting that the new-comer receives his first impression, in order that that impression may be a favourable one we try to put a competent worker there; hence the evangelists, when free, share this service with the members of the church.

"In Trastevere, in the new hall, the congregations are excellent. In Lucina we have received eleven from the catechumen class, eight by baptism. From the statistics of last quarter, which I hope to send you in a few days, the attendances at all our meetings show a striking increase. At Lucina and Trastevere the attendances make a total of 15,411. I believe we have a great and open door before us just now in Rome. We have called all the people here to contribute and to help in the work, but the church is young and the converts are feeble, so that for some time we shall have to help them."

FLORENCE.

Mr. Wall writes:—"I recently visited Florence, where I held four services. On the Sunday morning I found the Sunday-school had not more than twenty children, and was in need of almost everything to render it attractive to the children. Being utterly unable to promise help of any kind, I had to limit myself to the best counsel I could give. I am quite sure that much real mission work might be done by means of the Sunday-school in Florence, and, indeed, at all our stations, if I were able to assist the evangelists, to have the books required, and to give some occasional encouragement to the children.

"At 11 a.m. I preached to about fifty persons and administered the Lord's Supper to about twenty-five believers. I was glad to find that Signor Borzi's daughter had learnt to play the harmonium which you so kindly sent last year. On the Sunday evening I preached to about seventy persons. As nothing had been done to secure a larger audience I thought this an encouraging meeting. On the Monday and Tuesday evenings we had meetings for the members of the church, when I baptized six believers. In Florence we have a chapel which is well adapted for the work, situated in a populous district, and an evangelist who is laborious, faithful, and devoted. He has overworked himself, and is, I am sorry to say, beginning to feel discouraged. The members of the church cannot help him very much in his work, neither are they able to contribute much for the poor, the sick, the persecuted, or the expenses of the worship. As these things have to be attended to by some one, in this case as in many others in Italy, it falls heavy on the evangelist."

LEGHORN.

Of Leghorn Mr. Wall reports:—"Signor Baratti is well and happy in his work; I preached for him in the evening to a congregation of about sixty persons. After the meeting I saw that a number of young men remained to sing. Signor Baratti opened the book and began a hymn, in which the young men joined heartily. When this was over they sang a second, a fourth, a seventh; and as I thought they might be going thus through the hymn book I rose and left. After the meeting I found that those young men had belonged to one of the worst secret societies in Livorno, and at first had come to insult Signor Baratti, but that having a taste for singing they had been induced to join in, and had continued to do so until they knew eighty evangelical hymns, and judging from what I saw that night I believed them capable of singing the eighty hymns in one meeting."

ROME.

The following account of Mrs. Wall's work will be read with deep interest :—

"Nearly six years since, Mrs. Wall, witnessing the deplorable state of the numerous poor in Rome, invited several of them to her house. One only, an old deaf woman, accepted the invitation. This day of small things was the commencement of the work, from which the meetings resulted which now have an average weekly attendance of 250 or 300. During the last six years, some thousands of destitute poor have received relief, hundreds have been visited during illness, some rescued from beggary, others brought to Christ, of whom several have died trusting in Him. While little or nothing is being done for this class by the national or local authorities, Christians cannot see them starve without some effort to help them. Their extreme wretchedness and dejectedness, their ignorance and their sin, are additional reasons for carrying the Gospel to them. We had hoped that ere this their social condition might have been relieved, but in this we have been disappointed; indeed they are probably worse off now than they were under Papal rule.

"Christian visitors are requested to attend the meetings and see for themselves.

"The method pursued in carrying out this work is to admit those only whose cases have been enquired into. At the commencement of each meeting the names are called over; after the meeting absentees are sought after by the Bible-woman-nurse. During the meeting they repeat the texts and sing the hymns which all learn; after the exposition of the Gospel a piece of bread is given to each and the meeting closed.

"Visitors to Rome occasionally prefer helping these certified cases of destitution to giving to beggars in the streets. This can be done not only by sending money, but also by forwarding worn clothes for men or women, medicines no longer needed—indeed, anything that can be eaten, taken, worn, made up, or sold.

"In a missionary field like this of Rome it is needful not only to present the Gospel to such as seek it, but also to devise means of bringing such as do not come, and of taking it to those by whom the value of it is not felt. The Medical Mission, while it offers the Gospel to such as desire it, brings many within its sound who otherwise would not come, and affords sufficient reason for visiting many families.

"The number of persons brought in this method to hear the truth is equal to that of the same amount of labour put forth in any other direction, while the door thus opened is greater and more effectual. So many things combine to help the Medical Mission. It demands but little of the patient—no mental effort—no giving up of prejudices or overcoming scruples; consciences need not be disturbed or social sacrifice made. It is enough for him to doubt the skill of the native doctor or the quality of his medicines, or to be unable to procure them. The ache, the pain, a feverish pulse suffice to turn his thoughts and direct his steps to the dispensary. Before entering the consulting-room he hears that pain has its roots and draws its strength from sin; that the removal of sin insures the end of suffering; that pardon of sin in his case, as it would save him from eternal pain, would help him to bear present infirmity, and probably facilitate his recovery. His case is laid before the Lord, and healing sought. He is surprised and hesitant, but his heart joins in the supplication. He hopes it may be heard, and when health returns believes it has been. Thus a whole system of prejudice and ignorance is undermined and destroyed. In the consulting-room, while the doctor's finger touches the evil, or brings ominous sounds from within, or the secrets of his life are being whispered in the silence of the stethoscope, the music of the psalm, the voice of prayer, or the pleading of the preacher sweeps with strange power through his soul. The Gospel uttered amid this variety of disease and sorrow seems to be more of the other world even than when uttered in the catacomb or the great congregation, so that many go away as from something more solemn than their sacraments, and more powerful than the voice of their church.

"It is true that many who come to the Medical Mission, like the nine our Lord inquired after, never return to us; still we may hope that the good received is nevertheless real. Others, however, take their places; the succession of pale faces entering the shadow of death, rather than decrease, becomes greater from year to year, and as they pass on to the last bourne to all are offered words of grace, gratuitous medicines, and a gracious Saviour, whom many with gratitude have received.

"On the premises where this work is carried on, a new hall has been erected which accommodates about 300 persons. At the opening services, and, indeed, until now, the room has been crowded two or three times weekly. It is neatly fitted up, and is supplied with a good harmonium. Situated in a poor and densely populated district, where the people are willing to listen to the Gospel, we find more work ready to hand than we are able to do, and have to pray to the Lord for more helpers. A shop adjoining the new hall is, we regret to say, now used for the sale of wine. When the means are placed at our disposal we purpose converting this into a Temperance Café. We recommend this to the sympathy of our abstaining friends, because alcohol is as deadly in Trastevere as elsewhere.

"Our friends will be glad to hear that we have commenced another Mothers' Meeting in the Mission Hall in Trastevere. This is conducted by the lady who so kindly assisted Mrs. Wall in Lucina, and referred to in her last report. This meeting has grown rapidly, and is now well attended.

"In the meeting in Lucina, work is also given to the women to be done at home, which when finished is exposed for sale in the shop. The improving quality of the work done during the past year has secured for it a larger sale and an increased number of orders. Their weekly deposits this year in both meetings amount to 600 francs, which show growing thrift, and perhaps indicate increasing self-respect and improved condition.

Their more cleanly appearance and orderly deportment have fitted some for situations found for them in English families. The deeper interest many of them show in the reading of the Scriptures and prayer leads us to hope that the good they have received is not only for this world, but also for that which is to come. The shop which Mrs. Wall opened for the sale of their work is now greatly improved. The women during the past year have made 1,033 garments. We are greatly indebted to an English lady resident in Rome, who has taken part in the Mothers' Meeting in Lucina.

"The articles contributed by our kind friends in England and Scotland, and sold at the fancy sales at Easter and Christmas, have greatly assisted this special branch of the work.

"Lengths of print, calico, flannel, or dress material will be very acceptable; also cottons, needles, buttons, haberdashery, stationery, &c., Mrs. Wall finds useful both for the Mothers' Meeting and the shop. She desires particularly to thank those who so kindly responded to her appeal in her last report, and wishes to say that all parcels sent to A. H. Baynes, Esq., at the Baptist Mission House, 19, Castle Street, Holborn, London, will be forwarded to her direct."

SOUTHERN ITALY.

NAPLES AND CASERTA.

The following report of the work in Southern Italy is from the pen of the Rev. W. K. Landels:—

"The year 1882 will long be remembered by our church in Naples as one in which God has especially blessed us. At its very commencement He gave to us that for which so long we had laboured and prayed—a building from which no priestly intrigue can dislodge us, and in which we can attempt and successfully carry on every kind of Christian work. The past year is also memorable as having laid the foundations of some new branches of our work which give great promise of blessing. These new efforts have principally been in the line of education and they have already had a visible effect both on our church and congregation. It is my intention in this report to speak briefly of each of them, and indeed of all the different agencies we have in operation.

"Our weekly list of engagements is as follows:—

"Sunday, 10 a.m., Sunday-school; 11, Public Worship; 4 p.m., German Class for men; 6.30, Advanced English Class; 7.30, Preaching. Monday, 5 p.m., German Class for ladies; 6.30, French Class; 6.30, Night-school; 7.30, Public Meeting of Circolo (fortnightly). Tuesday, 6.30 p.m., English Class for beginners; 7.30, Public Meeting for Bible Study. Wednesday, 6 p.m., German Class for men; 6.30, Night-school. Thursday, 5 p.m., Ladies' German Class; 6.30, Advanced English Class; 7.30, Preaching. Friday, 6.30, French Class; 6.30, Night-school. Saturday, 6.30, English Class for beginners.

"1. We will begin with the English classes. These classes, as will be seen from the above list, are two in number. The attendance at each of them is about ten or twelve. In the more advanced there are a number of men who hold very superior positions, such, for instance, as Signor P—, Secretary of the Central Election Committee for the South of Italy, or Cavalier V—, director of the extensive Government Tobacco Factory in Naples. With all the scholars I am on close terms of friendship, and am warmly welcomed to their houses, to some of which I go in order to extend my acquaintance with educated Italians. By special request, I am about to commence a third English class for working-men, some ten of whom have already given in their names.

"2. The French Class has given us much less satisfaction than the others, principally, I think, because it has not been hitherto so much under our immediate supervision. The Professor is thoroughly capable as a teacher of his language, but is scarcely able to keep the young men in check, and the consequence has been that a considerable number of the twenty who attend have caused us trouble and annoyance. I have decided in the future, at least for some time, to be present myself at the lessons, and I hope to be able to bring the class to something like order, and shall begin by sending away all those who have no serious intention of studying.

"3. The German Class for Men was only lately started, but it promises very well. The students, eight in number, are all respectable young men and anxious to learn, and as the teacher is himself an Evangelical we are able to leave matters pretty much in his hands, only going in occasionally to see how things are going on.

"4. Mrs. Greco some two or three months ago proposed to give lessons in German to ladies; and having collected eight scholars together, all of them persons of superior position, she has ever since been carrying on her class very successfully.

"5. The Night Free School has now become one of the most important branches of our work. Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the working-men meet together for three hours and are instructed in reading, writing, arithmetic, and mechanical drawing. The number of names on the roll is about thirty-five, though the attendance seldom exceeds sixteen or seventeen. As fruit of this school we have already received one man into our membership, and another, who, when he first came was a bigoted Catholic, now frequently attends our meetings, and takes great interest in our work in general. The school is under the immediate care of Signor Greco, who is assisted in the teaching by a number of the members of our Young Men's Christian Association. Before passing on to speak of other matters, I would take this opportunity of thanking Mrs. W. L. Ireland, of Kirkcaldy, who kindly sent us £5 for the school, thus enabling us to purchase the furniture and other things needful for this part of our work.

"6. Our readers will probably remember how many futile attempts we have made to commence a Sunday-school. Since the beginning of our work in Naples, five or six times we have tried to gather children together, but all attempts, except the last, were complete failures. Although we were so often checked, we never altogether abandoned the idea, and towards the end of October last we determined once more to set to work and see what could be done. On Friday, the 27th, we had a special meeting for children, at which we gave them coffee and cake, and afterwards exhibited the magic lantern, and invited them to come to the school on Sunday morning. We had some thirty children that night, all of whom seemed to greatly enjoy themselves, and many of them promised to come on the Sunday. Knowing, however, from former experience what such promises were worth, we looked forward with some doubt to the following Sabbath-day. The morning arrived, and we were greatly encouraged on seeing twelve children assemble to be taught. From that day the school has always continued to flourish, and we trust that it is now firmly established. The highest attendance up to the present has been seventeen, the lowest eight, and the average twelve. By the kindness of Mr. Henry Gribbon, of Coleraiaie, and also by the help of the brethren themselves, we were enabled to give a Christmas treat to the children, which was a success in every way. We began the evening by singing and by the recitation of some chapters of the Bible. Refreshments were then handed round, and these were followed by the traditional Christmas tree. After this a German dwarf was exhibited, and the evening closed with a shadow pantomime, 'Little Red Riding-Hood.' The success of the evening was in great part due to the help of Mr. Guido Parfitt, an English friend who is always ready to give a hand to any kind of Christian work. The year 1882 will always be memorable to us because of the victory achieved in the work of Sunday-schools. The school is as yet very small, but, under the blessing of God, it will grow until it becomes a power for good and a great help to our work here.

"7. In regard to the church itself we are able to report some progress. When we first removed from the Cisterna dell' Olio to our present place, we lost a considerable number of our regular attendants; indeed, on taking possession of the new premises we had almost to begin a new work. In looking back, however, on the past year, we have much to be thankful for. The attendance at our meetings, especially that of Sunday morning, has always been encouraging; and, while we have lost four members, ten have been added to our numbers, so that we have a net increase of six, and our membership now stands at forty-four. Financially, too, we have made some progress. Our members being all of them so poor, it will be a long time before they get into the way of giving regularly to the Lord's work. Our native church, however, during the past year raised some 476 francs, or about £19, which, under the circumstances, we consider very creditable.

"And now, before passing on to speak of our new station in Caserta, a word in regard to one of our most urgent wants. In former reports I have spoken of our need of a printing-press, but with very little practical result. I am more than ever convinced that our work in Italy is dependent on the press to a larger extent than in any other country, and this because of our not being allowed to preach in the streets. I shall hope, when again in England, to be able to visit a number of our churches, especially those in connection with the Glasgow Auxiliary, and to collect enough to purchase all that is necessary for starting a good printing-office.

"8. At the beginning of last year it was decided by our Committee to withdraw from Trapani, in Sicily, and to open a new station in the immediate vicinity of Naples; and it was left with me to decide in which town or village it would be best to commence our new work. After having visited a number of places, and made inquiries in all directions, I was led to conclude that the most urgent call came from Caserta, a town of about 30,000 inhabitants, and situated at a distance of some twenty miles from Naples. It was not long before we found and secured a very suitable locale, situated on a first floor near to the end of the principal street. The premises consist of nine or ten rooms, the three largest of which are reserved for the purposes of the mission, while the rest are used as a residence for the evangelist. Our public meetings in Caserta were inaugurated on the 13th of April last, and, since that time, have been carried on with considerable success.

"The year 1883 has begun in hope; indeed, our work at the present time looks more hopeful than it ever did. In Naples there are at present a number who are desirous of joining our fellowship, and I trust that ere long we shall see our way to receiving them into the church. In Caserta, too, there are already some who are inquiring the way of salvation. Our Young Men's Christian Association (Circolo Luigi Desanctis) is full of life; and in connection with our night-school it has commenced a series of special services, or rather lectures, for working-men. Two of these have already been held, and have been attended by some seventy persons.

"And now I will close this lengthy report by expressing the hope that our friends in England and Scotland will never forget that the success of our work in great measure depends upon their prayers, and that, remembering this, they will never cease to pray for us."
