

PROCEEDINGS
OF THE Church Missionary FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

FIFTY-SECOND YEAR,

CONTAINING THE ANNIVERSARY SERMON,
BY THE RIGHT REV.
JAMES THOMAS,
LORD BISHOP OF OSSORY, FERNS, AND LEIGHLIN,
ONE OF THE VICE-PRESIDENTS OF THE SOCIETY,
THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE,
&c. &c.

LONDON:
PRINTED BY WILLIAM M. WATTS, CROWN COURT, TEMPLE BAR.
Published for the Society,
BY SEELEYS, FLEET STREET, AND HANOVER STREET, HANOVER SQUARE; HATCHARDS, PICCADILLY AND J. NISBET & CO., BERNERS STREET.

Two Shillings.

Communications on the General Business of the Society to be thus addressed—“SECRETARIES, CHURCH MISSIONARY HOUSE, SALISBURY SQUARE, LONDON.”
All Bills and Orders for Money to be made payable to one of the Secretaries—Vide p. iv.
The Office of the Society is open Daily (Sundays excepted), from Nine in the Morning till Six in the Evening.

One of the Secretaries attends at the Office daily, between the hours of Eleven o’Clock in the Morning and Four o’Clock in the Afternoon, unless particular business should render it necessary for them to be absent.

The Committee meet, at the Society’s House, every Second Monday in the Month throughout the Year, at Eleven o’Clock.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND CONTRIBUTIONS WILL BE RECEIVED AT THE SOCIETY’S HOUSE;

At the Society’s Bankers’—MESSRS. WILLIAMS, DEACON, LABOUCHERE, and Co., 20 Birchin Lane;

And at the following Places:

MESSRS. HOARE, 37 Fleet Street.

MESSRS. SEELEYS, 54 Fleet Street, and Hanover Street, Hanover Square.

MESSRS. HATCHARD, 187 Piccadilly.

MESSRS. J. NISBET & Co., Berners Street.

In Dublin, by

MESSRS. JOHN DAVID LA TOUCHE & Co.

THE NATIONAL BANK OF SCOTLAND.

. The Committee of the Church Missionary Society beg to suggest to the Committees and Officers of Associations, that the most convenient and economical mode of making their Remittances is through the medium of a Banker in the Country to the Society’s Bankers, through the Banking-house in town with which the Country Banker corresponds, advising the Secretaries of the payment.

PROPER FORM OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

IN consequence of some late decisions with regard to charitable Legacies, it has been found necessary, in order that a Testator’s benevolent intentions may not be frustrated, as has been the case in several instances, that the following forms of Bequest should be substituted for that hitherto printed in the Society’s Reports.

No. I.—Form of Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of a voluntary Society meeting in or near London commonly called or known by the name of “The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East” the sum of Pounds *free of Legacy duty for the general purposes of the said Society† to be paid within calendar months next after my death. And in order that the said Legacy [or Legacies] for charitable purposes may be paid in full I direct the same together with the Legacy duty thereon to be paid exclusively out of such part of my Personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may be bequeathed for charitable purposes and in priority to all my Debts and funeral and testamentary expenses and all other Legacies bequeathed by this my Will or any Codicil thereto. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society [or each of the said Societies] shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy [or Legacies respectively].

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue, or a Share of the Residue.

And in order to give full effect to the bequest hereinafter contained for charitable purposes I direct that my Debts, the expenses of my funeral and of the probate and execution of this my Will and the Legacies bequeathed by this my Will or any Codicil thereto shall be paid out of such part of my personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may not be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the primary Fund§ and in case only of the same being insufficient for payment thereof then out of such part of my personal Estate as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the ultimate Fund; and subject as aforesaid, I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of a voluntary Society meeting in or near London called or known by the name of “The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East” for the general purposes of the said Society such part of my residuary personal Estate as by the Laws in force may be bequeathed for charitable purposes [or if a share only of the residue be intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say, “such sum of money as shall be equal to (one-fourth or one-half, according to the intention) of my whole residuary personal Estate to be paid exclusively out of such part thereof as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes or such less sum as the said last mentioned part of my personal Estate will extend to pay”]. And I declare that the Receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said residue [or sum of money, as the case may be]. And as to the remainder if any of my general residuary personal Estate I bequeath the same &c.||

* If so intended.

† If there be other charitable Legacies, they may be here added thus—“and to a certain other voluntary Society” &c. “and I direct each of the said several Legacies hereby bequeathed for charitable purposes to be paid” &c. as in the remainder of the above form.

‡ In case there be other charitable Legacies, insert here, “other than and except charitable Legacies.”

§ If it be intended also to charge the Debts and Legacies on real Estate, then add “and in the next place out of my Freehold and Copyhold Estates.”

|| The latter Clause to be filled up according to the Testator’s wishes; but it must not be for any charitable purpose.

At the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Exeter Hall, Strand, on Tuesday, May the 6th, 1851, being the Fifty-second Anniversary—

The Right Hon. the EARL OF CHICHESTER, President, in the Chair,

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE HAVING BEEN READ BY THE REV. JOHN VENN, M.A., PREBENDARY OF HEREFORD,

On the Motion of the RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF HARROWBY, V.P., seconded by the RIGHT REV. THE LORD BISHOP OF BOMBAY, V.P., and supported by the REV. ALEXANDER DUFF, D.D., Missionary of the Scottish Free Church, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report, of which an Abstract has now been read, be received, and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of this Meeting be given to the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Ossory and Ferns for his Sermon before the Society last evening; to His Grace the Vice-Patron; to the Right Hon. the President and the Vice-Presidents; and to all those friends who, during the past year, have exerted themselves in its behalf; and that the following Gentlemen be appointed the Committee for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies—
[See List, p. iv.]

On the Motion of JOHN PEMBERTON PLUMPTRE, Esq., M.P., V.P., seconded by the REV. FRANCIS CLOSE, M.A., Incumbent of Cheltenham, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That, contemplating the aggressions of Popery, during the last year, as a blow aimed at the very heart and centre of Protestant Missionary zeal and resources, this Society renews its declaration of attachment to the Protestant and Evangelical principles which it has ever maintained; and pledges itself, in simple and entire dependence on the Divine blessing, to renewed efforts for the spread of Christ's Gospel, as revealed and contained in His written Word, throughout the earth.

On the Motion of SIR EDWARD NORTH BUXTON, BART., M.P., seconded by the REV. JOHN HARDING, M.A., Rector of St. Ann's, Blackfriars, and supported by the REV. HUGH STOWELL, M.A., Minister of Christ Church, Salford, Manchester, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the extension of the Society's operations to Kurachi, in Sinde—to Fuh-Chau, in China—to the Punjab—and to Syria—demand the zealous exertions of its friends for sustaining its resources; and form an especial ground of appeal to the Church at home to furnish men able and willing to devote themselves to the Missionary work.

At a Meeting of the Society, held at Exeter Hall, in the Evening of the same Day—

The Most Hon. the MARQUESS CHOLMONDELEY, one of the Vice-Presidents, in the Chair,

EXTRACTS FROM THE REPORT HAVING BEEN READ BY THE REV. JOHN VENN—

On the Motion of the REV. JOSEPH RIDGEWAY, M.A., Editorial Secretary of the Society, seconded by ROBERT BAXTER, Esq., Secretary of the Doncaster Association, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the evidence afforded from different quarters of a general and increasing preparedness for the reception of the Gospel in the minds of the Natives of the East, especially in the northern provinces of India, is a ground for more lively hope, and a motive for more earnest prayer to "the Lord of the harvest" to send forth a large increase of labourers into fields which appear to be thus already white for the harvest.

On the Motion of COLONEL ALEXANDER, late Adjutant-General of the Madras Army, seconded by the REV. E. FORBES, M.A., Perpetual Curate of St. George's, Isle of Mann, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the fact of the steadily-increasing Contributions of Christian friends in India to the Missions of the Society in their different localities, is to be regarded as a cause for thankfulness to God; inasmuch as it is an indication both of increased confidence in the Society's Missionaries and their labours on the part of those to whom they are personally known, and also of the extension of vital and practical religion among our fellow-countrymen who are placed as lights shining in a dark place.

On the Motion of the RIGHT HON. EARL WALDEGRAVE, V.P., seconded by the REV. JOHN CALE MILLER, M.A., Rector of St. Martin's, Birmingham, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting regards the circumstance of the collecting together and exhibiting in this country the productions of the industry of all nations, and the gathering of the representatives of so many nations of the earth in a season of prolonged universal peace, as a special call, in the providence of God, to the Church of God to make renewed efforts to convey to all nations "the unsearchable riches of Christ"

LAWS AND REGULATIONS

OF THE

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

I. THIS Institution shall be designated "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and shall be conducted by a Patron or Patrons, a Vice-Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a Committee, and such Officers as may be deemed necessary, all being Members of the Established Church.

II. The office of PATRON of the Society shall be reserved for such Members of the Royal Family as may honour it with their protection; and that of VICE-PATRON for His Grace the Primate of all England, if, being a Member of the Society, he shall accept the office. The PRESIDENT shall be such Temporal Peer or Commoner as may be appointed to that office; and VICE-PRESIDENTS shall consist of all Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, who, being Members of the Society, shall accept the office; and of such Temporal Peers and Commoners as, being also Members, shall be appointed thereto.

OF MEMBERS AND GOVERNORS.

III. Annual Subscribers of One Guinea and upward, and if Clergymen, Half-a-Guinea, with Collectors of Fifty-two Shillings and upward per annum, shall be Members of the Society during the continuance of such Subscriptions or Collections. Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, Clergymen making Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying to the amount of Fifty Pounds, shall be Members for Life.

IV. Annual Subscribers of Five Guineas shall be Governors during the continuance of such Subscription; and Benefactors of Fifty Pounds and upward shall be Governors for Life.

V. Members and Governors of Associations who contribute the above sums shall be considered as Members and Governors of the Parent Society.

VI. The Committee shall have the power of appointing such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Members for Life, or Governors for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS.

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the First Tuesday in May; unless that day shall fall on the 7th of May, in which case the Annual Meeting shall be held, for that year, on Tuesday the 30th of April; when the Proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and a Treasurer and Committee chosen.

VIII. A Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a Quorum, shall be called at any time, at the requisition of the General Committee; or by any Thirteen Members, on addressing a Letter to the Secretary, specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in Three public Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Rules of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones established, but at the Annual Meeting, or at a Special Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the General Committee. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed, for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The Committee shall consist of Twenty-four Lay Members of the Established Church; and of all such Clergymen as are Members of the Society. Eighteen Members shall be annually appointed from the Old Committee, and Six from the General Body.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds, a Committee of Correspondence, and a Committee of Accounts. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall report the same to the General Committee.

XIII. The office of the Committee of Patronage is, to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate, to the General Committee, proper persons, as Patrons and Vice-Presidents of the Society.

XIV. The office of the Committee of Funds is, to circulate information respecting the Society; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as Agents for the Society in the principal Towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful; the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee; and Three, each of the others. In case of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XIX. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, and President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, and Secretaries, shall be considered, ex-officio, Members of all Committees.

XX. Governors, being Members of the Established Church, shall be entitled to attend and vote at all Meetings of the General Committee.

XXI. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting.

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee, annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society; of whom, Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued: The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made, by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence, of his qualifications; and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next Meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least Three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a Special Meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot, to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose: respect, however, being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretaries.

XXIX. Each Candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. That all questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between any Colonial Bishop and any Committee of the Society, shall be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, whose decision thereupon shall be final.

XXXIII. That the object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as, in any other respect, to alter the principles and practice of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations, and explained in Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Report.

The proposed reference shall be made, through His Grace the Primate, by the Committee, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the Committee may deem advisable; and the Committee will be bound so to refer all questions, falling within the scope of the Rule so understood as aforesaid, which the Colonial Bishop shall require them to refer.

While all decisions of the Bench of Bishops on questions so referred will be considered by the Committee as binding on them and their agents or representatives, the Colonial Bishops or other Ecclesiastical Authorities, unless concurring in the reference, cannot properly be considered as so bound.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The following passage, from Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Annual Report, illustrates the practice of the Society in reference to this Rule:—

"The Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] our Missionaries—these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same Colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church."

APPENDIX II. TO THE THIRTY-NINTH REPORT.

REFERRED TO IN THE NOTE TO LAW XXIX.

REMARKS ON THE CONSTITUTION AND PRACTICE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY, WITH REFERENCE TO ITS ECCLESIASTICAL RELATIONS.

It is the object of the following Remarks to show, that the constitution and practice of the Church Missionary Society are in strict conformity with Ecclesiastical principles, as they are recognised in the constitution and practice of the Church of England.

Throughout the system of the Church of England there is a recognised co-operation of temporal and spiritual functions in MATTERS ECCLESIASTICAL; that is, the Laity and Clergy have not only their separate and distinct provinces, but, in many important respects, they unite their agency for the accomplishing of Ecclesiastical acts.

For instance, in supplying a vacant Church, a Lay-Patron selects and presents "his Clerk"—as the Clergyman is technically called—to the Bishop; who thereupon invests him with authority to minister in that Church. So, also, there are certain Lay-officers appointed to every Church—the Churchwardens or Sidesmen—whose duty it is, not only to guard, in conjunction with the Minister, the temporalities of the Church, but also to watch over the due performance of Divine Service, the morals of the parishioners, and the conduct of the Minister; and to report, from time to time, on each of these matters, to the Ecclesiastical Authorities. The duty of these officers is implied in the old appellation, "Sidesmen," or "Synodsmen"—men summoned to attend and give information at Synods and Visitations.

The distinction and co-operation of lay and spiritual functions in the Church of England might be further illustrated in the case of Ecclesiastical Courts, and various relations which arise out of the principle, that the Sovereign is the Supreme Ruler of the Church.

Keeping the foregoing distinction in view, the Church Missionary Society may be regarded as an Institution for discharging the temporal and lay offices necessary for the preaching of the Gospel among the Heathen. It is strictly a Lay Institution: it exercises, as a Society, no spiritual functions whatsoever.

Such being the constitution of the Society in theory—are its proceedings conducted in conformity with this theory, and with the Ecclesiastical principles of the Church of England?

In order to review these proceedings, they may be conveniently arranged under the Four following Heads:

I. THE COLLECTION OF THE HOME REVENUE, and THE DISBURSEMENT OF IT ABROAD.

These acts are altogether within the province of Laymen.

II. THE SELECTING AND EDUCATING CANDIDATES FOR MISSIONARY EMPLOYMENT.

In this department there is no necessary encroachments upon spiritual functions. The Colleges in our Universities are Lay-Corporations, and may, in many cases, be administered and presided over by Laymen.

Yet it may be urged, that in this department there is an approach to the peculiar province of Clergymen; because spiritual persons seem the more proper judges of a Candidate's fitness for Missionary employment: and it is generally admitted, that a Bishop may exercise a control over the education and training of Candidates to be advanced by himself to Holy Orders. Now, in both these particulars the Church Missionary Society has carefully guarded its proceedings. The examination of Missionary Candidates is referred to a Clerical Sub-Committee; and the General Committee consult and act upon the report of this Clerical trial and judgment. In respect of the other point, the education and training of Candidates for Holy Orders, the Church Missionary College at Islington has the sanction and approbation of the Bishop of London; who, in this country, admits to Holy Orders all the Society's Candidates: and his Lordship has repeatedly expressed his satisfaction at the results of the system of instruction, as they have been manifested in his examinations for Holy Orders.

III. The Third general head of the Society's proceedings is, THE SENDING FORTH, TO PARTICULAR STATIONS, THE MISSIONARIES THUS ORDAINED, OR OTHER CLERGYMEN WHO HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY ORDAINED.

Now, here an objection against the Society has been founded on the use of the term "sending forth:"—it sounds like an exercise of Ecclesiastical power. But, Ecclesiastically speaking, the Bishop of London "sends forth" every Missionary ordained by him. The Law of the land has sanctioned the Two Archbishops, and the Bishop of London, in ordaining persons to officiate abroad. The Secretary of the Church Missionary Society requests, by Letter, the Bishop of London to ordain, in conformity with the provisions of the Act of Parliament, such and such persons, whom the Society is willing to support in some Foreign Station. The Bishop, by the imposition of hands, gives them authority to preach the Gospel, with a view to their Foreign location.—In the case of persons already in Holy Orders, who may join the Society, they may be said to go forth by their own voluntary act; but their Letters of Orders, given by a Bishop of our Church, are their mission and commission, Ecclesiastically speaking.

Hence, to call the acts of the Church Missionary Society—in selecting the station, paying the passage-money, and agreeing to provide the Missionary's salary—to call these acts a SENDING FORTH of Preachers, in an Ecclesiastical sense, is to confound names with things, and to lose sight of all true Church principles.

IV. The Fourth general head under which the proceedings of the Church Missionary Society may be arranged, is, THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF MISSIONARIES IN THEIR LABOURS AMONG THE HEATHEN.

Here a distinction must be made between the case of those Foreign Stations which lie within the jurisdiction of a Colonial Bishop, and other stations, which are not so situated, and may therefore be termed Extra-diocesan.

In the first case, the Church Missionary Society has expressly determined, that all its ordained Missionaries shall be submitted for licence to the Bishop of the diocese in which they may be stationed; and that no Missionary shall exercise his spiritual functions in such diocese without a licence. The Society has further recognised the uncontrolled discretion of the Bishop to grant or withhold his licence, and the propriety of specifying in such licence a particular district as the field of labour; so that a Missionary cannot be removed from one district to another without the sanction of the Bishop.

These principles were stated in a Letter from the Society to the Bishop of Calcutta, signed by the Right Honourable the President—December 17, 1835—in a manner so satisfactory to the Bishop, that he embodied them in the four following Rules, expressed for the most part in the words of the Society's Letter: which were, at the Bishop's request, entered upon the minutes of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, as the recognised Rules of their practice:—

"1. The Bishop expresses—by granting or withholding his licence, in which the sphere of the Missionary's labour is mentioned—his approbation or otherwise, of that location.

"2. The Bishop superintends the Missionaries afterward, as the other Clergy, in the discharge of their Ecclesiastical duties.

"3. The Bishop receives from those—the Committee and Secretary—who still stand in the relation of Lay-Patrons to the Missionary, such communications respecting his Ecclesiastical duties as may enable the Bishop to discharge that paternal superintendence to the best advantage.—The Archdeacon of Calcutta or Bombay acting under the Bishop's immediate directions when he happens to be absent.

"4. If the Bishop* or Archdeacon fills, at the request of the Society, the offices of Patron, President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, &c., he receives, further, all such confidential information, on all topics, as the Bishops officially neither could wish nor properly ask [to receive]."

The Bishop also wrote to the Parent Society in the following terms:—"You seem to me to lay down the principle most correctly. . . . This is to me perfectly satisfactory; as I shall instantly inform the Archbishop of Canterbury, to whom I report all the proceedings of the diocese."—9th June 1836.

It will be perceived, that the Missionaries, thus licensed, stand toward the Bishop in the relation rather of Stipendiary Curates, than of Beneficed Clergymen. For a Bishop in England cannot refuse a licence or institution to a benefice, without assigning a reason which will bear investigation before a Court of Common Law; nor can he deprive a Clergyman of his benefice without a judicial process. But no law has provided any such check in the case of Missionaries: the Bishop has the power of withholding a licence, or of withdrawing it, at his sole discretion, without assigning any cause, as in the case of Stipendiary Curates in this country.

If it be asked, What are the checks and safeguards against the undue exercise of this discretionary power of the Bishop?—it may be replied, in the words of the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Parent Society, April 12, 1837:—

"We are not to take for granted, that discretionary power will be abused; but, on the contrary, to provide, by a cheerful and friendly spirit and conduct, against the likelihood of such an occurrence. If the event of arbitrary conduct should arise, or be supposed to arise, the remedies are—public opinion—an appeal to the Archbishop—and the Society's refusing to make other appointments and locations than those unreasonably objected to. Nothing is the least likely—and probability is the guide of life—to arise to impede or cramp the Committee; since they unquestionably and avowedly possess, The choice of men—The appointment of spheres of labour—The temporal power, including pecuniary support."

But though the Bishop's licence is at once the pledge and proof that the Society's Missionaries are under Episcopal superintendence and jurisdiction, and that the spiritual oversight rests altogether with the Bishop; yet the Society may seem, to some persons, to keep up a kind of spiritual jurisdiction and oversight, by requiring accounts from the Missionaries of all their proceedings, and by giving them directions, from time to time, which may bear upon their spiritual duties. But it must be remembered, that the Society stands toward its Missionaries in the relation of Trustees of the fund out of which their salaries are paid. In the case of a Beneficed Clergyman in this country, the Minister is the guardian and possessor of the temporalities of the benefice, because the benefice is an endowment; and the Patron has no further connexion with the Minister whom he has once presented to the Bishop. In our case, the office of Patron is, in a sense, perpetuated by the payment of the salary, and the possession of all the temporalities of the Mission.

This matter has been well explained by the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, May 26, 1837:—"The Missionary Committees," says his Lordship, "have a far greater latitude in India than any Lay-Patrons at home. Upon presenting his Clerk to the Bishop, the Patron at home is functus officio. The Clergyman is removed, on being once instituted and licensed, totally and for ever from the Patron, and is transferred to the superintendency of the Bishop. The Patron has nothing whatever more to do with him. But in India, the Committee is (1) the continued paymaster of the Missionary after he is duly licensed;—for institution and induction there are none. (2) They correspond with him. (3) They supply him with Catechists. (4) They report his chief proceedings home. (5) They propose removals and changes of Station to the Bishop. (6) They exercise, unavoidably, an influence which does not belong to the mere Lay-Patron; and are aiding, in a variety of ways, to the comfortable and honourable discharge of the Missionary's most exalted and most spiritual duties."

It remains to consider the case of those Stations which are Extra-diocesan; i.e. where there is no Colonial Bishop of the Church of England having jurisdiction over them.

In these cases, the Society has endeavoured to procure for such Stations the benefits of the Episcopal office from the nearest Bishop of the Church of England. Application was made by the Committee both to the late and to the present Bishop of Madras, to extend, as far as circumstances would admit, these benefits to the Mission in Travancore; which, as an independent state, not forming a part of the British Dominions, was not included in the diocese of Madras. A similar application was made on behalf of the New-Zealand Mission, to the Bishop of Australia; who at once acceded to the request, and kindly promised to visit New Zealand as soon as his other duties would permit; stating, in a Letter to the Society's representatives at Sydney, "It is highly satisfactory to me, that our friends at home are taking a view of these things which proves them to belong, not only to a Missionary, but also to a Church Society." (See Annual Report, 1838.)

Such is a General View of the Constitution and Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society.

It is not intended to assert, that errors are not sometimes committed in the application of these principles to matters of detail. It must be remembered that Missionary operations are, alas! new and anomalous in the system of the Church of England; and that it is not always easy to draw a definite line between the two provinces which belong respectively to the Bishop and the Committee. It has been observed by the Bishop of Calcutta—Letter, May 26, 1837: "The boundaries of the power of Committees, as they approach to those of the Bishop, can be ascertained, in many points, only by time and observation." Perplexities have consequently occurred; and, unhappily, misunderstandings have sometimes arisen between the Representatives of the Society abroad and Ecclesiastical Authorities. But these are the principles by which the Home Committee have endeavoured to guide the proceedings of the Society: and they confidently respond to a sentiment expressed by the Bishop of Calcutta—"The principles of our new relations are now fully recognised: the details will soon find their level."—Letter, 9th June 1836.

In reviewing the Ecclesiastical relations of the Church Missionary Society, there are two or three points which it seems very important to notice.

1. Missionary operations, as they are conducted by the Church Missionary Society, though apparently anomalous in the system of the Church of England, are yet in strict conformity with its constitution and principles: they are analogous to many other instances of voluntary exertion for the extension of true religion within the Church, in which Ecclesiastical authority and Lay co-operation unite for the accomplishment of the same end: so that these operations may be regarded as the acts of the Church of England, putting forth its energy for the Conversion of the Heathen World. For it has been shown, that the Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth our Missionaries—that these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church. Even in the few cases in which Lutheran Clergymen are employed, this rule is observed; and all the congregations which are gathered into the fold of Christ are trained up as Members of the Church established in this land.

And here it may be observed, that nothing less than the sanction of a duly-assembled Convocation can more fully identify the acts of any Missionary Society, within the Church of England, with the Church.* Without such sanction, all associations of Churchmen must stand in the same position. Still further, not to notice the present abeyance of Convocations, it may be asserted, that even if the Church were to assemble in her provincial Convocations, and to decree and to regulate Missionary operations, such proceedings could not essentially add to, or alter, those important particulars which, under present circumstances, entitle the operations of the Church Missionary Society to be regarded as Missionary operations of the United Church of England and Ireland.

2. It must be ever borne in mind, that Missionary operations are, in their very nature, temporary and preparative;—that they are to be gradually but eventually superseded by a different order of things, when the Heathen Nations shall have become Christianized. In some cases, as in the West Indies, this change is further advanced than in others. Now, it must be expected, that, in proportion as this change advances, difficulties and perplexities will arise in our Ecclesiastical relations, peculiar to this TRANSITION STATE—from Missionary operations, to that happy consummation when there shall be an endowed and established system of Christian Instruction, and a territorial division of Ministerial labour.

February 1839.

This consummation the Church Missionary Society has ever kept in view, and devoutly desired; and, as far as possible, has prepared for its approach. In an interview with the Bishop of Barbados—April 1835—this point was expressly alluded to; and it was stated by the Committee to his Lordship, "that whenever a district should be brought into the state of an organized Christian community, it should assume entirely the Parochial form, and cease to be occupied as a Missionary Station.—The Bishop entirely acquiesced in this view; and only expressed his anxiety that it should not be so acted upon as prematurely to deprive a district of the Missionary's services."—(Extracts from Committee's Minute.)

3. Lastly, it must be evident, from a review of the whole subject, that our Ecclesiastical relations depend, in many important respects, upon a mutual confidence and good understanding between the Committee and its representatives, and the Ecclesiastical Authorities both at home and abroad. This must be the case, to argue upon no higher grounds, while those relations are governed by Ecclesiastical laws and canons made without reference to Missionary operations, for an Established Church in a Christian country; and where so much is also necessarily left to the discretion of both parties. If we look to our Home operations, the Committee places confidence in the Bishop of London, that he will continue to ordain the Missionary Candidates introduced to his Lordship by the Society, according to the provisions of the Act: and the Lord Bishop of London relies upon the Committee's using every means to select, train, and duly qualify proper Candidates to be thus introduced to him.

So also, in its Foreign operations, the Society places confidence in the Colonial Bishops—as it has been already shown, in a quotation from the Letter of Bishop Wilson—that they will not exercise an unreasonable or arbitrary discretion, in withholding or withdrawing licences from our Missionaries, or in refusing ordination to our Candidates. And the Bishops, by granting licences and ordination to the Missionaries of a voluntary Society, whose income is liable to fluctuations, and whose agents are constantly changing, manifestly place confidence in the Committees, that they will use every endeavour to keep up the Missions once established; and that they will not, on their part, act in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner, or withdraw the salary from a licensed Missionary, without reason sufficient to prove to the licensing Bishop the necessity of the proceeding.

It seems impossible to supersede this conventional understanding—as it may be termed—till Missions are supported by endowments, or till a code of Missionary canons be established by competent authority.

This mutual confidence and good understanding now exists, it may be thankfully asserted, between the Committee of the Society and the Ecclesiastical Authorities of every Colonial Diocese in which Missionaries are labouring. And may He, who is the God, not of confusion, but of peace, and "the great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls," unite together the hearts and hands of those who are labouring in this Holy Cause—"that all and every of these may, IN THEIR SEVERAL CALLINGS, serve truly and faithfully, to the glory of His name!"

AT THE SEVERAL STATIONS OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY: MAY 6, 1851.

 By MISSIONARY, is to be understood one in Holy Orders; and by CATECHIST, one who engages in such religious care and instruction of the people as may be consistent with his character as a Layman. The letter (m) means Married; (w) Widow.—Wives of Missionaries, &c., though not named, except when engaged in some specific employment, are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among Native Females; such as, cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing Female Adults.

A STATION is the place at which a Missionary or European Catechist is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers sent from Europe show the date of their first leaving England.

The asterisk (*) denotes that the Missionary is on his way out; The mark (†) that he is on his way home.

Suggested Order of Proceedings at a Meeting preparatory to the Formation of an Association in aid of the Church Missionary Society.

1.—Mr. _____ will move, and Mr. _____ will second, a Resolution, "That _____ be requested to take the Chair."

2.—The Chairman will briefly state the object for which the Meeting is assembled, and then call on the Rev. _____ to offer up the usual Prayer to Almighty God, for a blessing on the proceedings of the day.

3.—After Prayer, the Chairman will make such further observations as he may deem necessary, and then call on Mr. _____ to move the First Resolution.

FIRST RESOLUTION.—Moved by
Seconded by

That this Meeting fully recognises the duty incumbent on Christians to employ all suitable means for the propagation of the Gospel throughout the world; and hails, with thankfulness to the Great Head of the Church, the labours of the CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY in its various Stations in Heathen Lands, and among decayed Christian Churches.

SECOND RESOLUTION.—Moved by
Seconded by

That an Association be now formed, and entitled, "The Church Missionary Association;" and that the following be its Officers and Rules.

PRESIDENT.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

TREASURER.

SECRETARY.

COMMITTEE:

with power to add to their number.

RULES.

I. Annual Members of this Association shall be all persons subscribing annually One Guinea or upward; or if Clergymen, Half a Guinea; and also such persons as shall collect in its behalf One Shilling or upward per week.

II. Life Members shall be Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward; or if Clergymen, such as shall contribute Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas; and Executors paying bequests of Fifty Pounds.

III. Annual Governors shall be Subscribers of Five Guineas per annum.

IV. Life Governors shall be Benefactors of Fifty Pounds.

V. Members will be entitled to receive the Annual Reports of the Parent Society, and to vote at its General Meetings. Collectors of Five Shillings and upward per week will receive a copy of each Monthly Number of the "Church Missionary Record"; and Collectors of Two Shillings and upward per week will receive a copy of the Annual Report, in addition to the "Record."
Governors will be entitled to receive the Reports; and, if Members of the Established Church, to vote at Committee and General Meetings of both the Association and the Parent Society.
Clergymen will have the same privilege as Governors. Contributors of 1*d.* a-week and upward will be entitled to receive the Parent Society's "Quarterly Paper."

VI. The objects of this Association shall be, to call forth the zeal of well-disposed persons, and particularly those of the Established Church, in support of the Church Missionary Society—to recommend proper persons who may offer themselves as Missionaries to the Parent Society—to disperse as widely as possible Missionary information—to promote the formation of Branch Associations—and to procure Collections and other Contributions.

VII. The whole of the funds so obtained, after deducting incidental expenses only, shall be remitted to the Church Missionary Society, in aid of its designs.

VIII. A General Meeting shall be held annually, on such day as shall be fixed by the Committee; when a Report of the Proceedings of the Association shall be read, and an account of its receipts and disbursements presented, duly audited.

THIRD RESOLUTION.—Moved by
Seconded by

That the success which, under the Divine Blessing, has attended the Church Missionary Society, in its efforts to make known the Gospel of Christ among the Heathen, is a loud and providential call for increased exertions, for devout thanksgiving to Almighty God, and for continual prayer for a more abundant outpouring of the Holy Spirit, to render the means employed successful.

FOURTH RESOLUTION.—Moved by
Seconded by

That the new and enlarged openings for Missionary exertion, in different quarters, demand our best energies to make known the blessed Gospel of Christ to Heathen and Mahomedan Nations.

COLOSSIANS I. 18.

THAT IN ALL THINGS HE MIGHT HAVE THE PREEMINENCE.

IN the interesting passage of which these words are the conclusion, it seems to be distinctly set forth that the end of all that has been done, from the beginning, whether in nature or in grace, is this—that in ALL THINGS Christ might have the preeminence.

The passage describes Him as the Son of God's love, in whom we have redemption through His blood, even the forgiveness of sins : as the image of the invisible God, the first-born of every creature : “for by Him,” it is added, “were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers : all things were created by Him, and for Him : and He is before all things, and by Him all things consist. And He is the head of the body, the Church : who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead ; that in all things He might have the preeminence.” This, then, is His distinction—that to Him is given preeminence in ALL THINGS. Preeminence over certain things, and within certain limits, belongs, by God's appointment, to different beings both upon earth and in heaven. Amongst ourselves, “the powers that be are ordained of God.”¹ And in the verses which I have just read we are told—what we are taught in so many other places in Holy Writ—that, as it is in the visible world, so is it in the world concealed from our view—that there, too, there are thrones, and dominions, and principalities, and powers. And of course, to all who sit upon these spiritual thrones, and rule in these unseen dominions, preeminence in different degrees belongs, by the appointment of the Most High. But it is needless to say, that even to the very highest of these spiritual potentates, but a subordinate authority and a limited dominion are assigned. And not to the most exalted of these exalted beings does "preeminence in all things" belong; but to Him who "by inheritance" has "obtained a more excellent name than they."¹

And the foundation on which His unlimited supremacy rests is very clearly declared in the passage referred to—in full accordance with the testimony of other parts of Scripture. And first, as to His preeminence over the whole creation—material and spiritual, visible and invisible—as the "first-born of every creature"—born, that is, before all created things—the Heir of the whole creation—His title is very distinctly laid down, when it is said: "For by Him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by Him, and for Him: and He is before all things, and by Him all things consist." No firmer or broader foundation for universal sovereignty over all created beings can be conceived than this. He is the Creator of all things: He is the Sustainer of all things: and all were made not only by Him, but for Him—the very end of the being of all things was, that they might minister to His glory.

But a part of His creation refused to fulfil the great end for which all things were called into existence. Of the earliest part, the angels—so highly distinguished, who "excel in strength"²—many, we know, rebelled against their Creator, and fell from their first estate.³ What the penalty of their rebellion was we are told, in very awful language—"God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment⁴:" and they are "reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day."⁵ And then they are to be cast into "the lake of fire and brimstone"⁶—the "everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels"⁷—where they "shall be tormented day and night, for ever and ever."⁸ Such is their terrible doom. But it appears that, until the judgment of the great day, this awful sentence is executed but in part; and they are meanwhile allowed to wage a terrible, though vain, war against the Most High. And—as we sometimes see among ourselves—the dissociating and anarchical tendencies of sin are so kept down by the necessities of this great conflict, that these fallen spirits present the spectacle, not of insubordination and disorder—of a kingdom divided against itself—or of a house divided against itself—but of an orderly and regular community under the control of one head, and with subordinate degrees and authorities, apparently derived, or preserved, from their happier state. For as we read of thrones, and dominions, and principalities, and powers, in Heaven, so among the followers of Satan we are told of “principalities” and “powers,” “the rulers of the darkness of this world,” and “spiritual wickedness”—or wicked spirits—“in high places.”¹ And though the abyss which is to be the eternal dwelling-place of these fallen angels seems to be even now their stated abode², yet the chains of darkness which bind them are so far relaxed—doubtless, under strict laws, though unknown to us—as to allow all needful liberty to carry on the war which they are permitted to wage. And all their craft and all their energies are unceasingly engaged in a desperate struggle to frustrate the purposes of the Most High.

How this mysterious conflict has been carried on in other parts of God's boundless dominions we do not know, for it has not been revealed to us. But we do know that our earth became a battle-field as soon as man was placed upon it, and that it has continued so ever since. The leader of these rebel spirits tempted man, just fresh from the hands of his Creator, to rebellion. And man, formed after God's own image—so richly endowed, and so bountifully provided for—gave ear to the tempter; was persuaded to distrust the truth and goodness of his Creator, and then to disobey Him—to cast off his allegiance to God, and to become the subject and slave of Satan. So man too fell. And the lower creation, made for his use and comfort, shared, in a mysterious way and extent, in his degradation. And even the earth, which was his dwelling-place, was in some sense transferred, with its inhabitants, to the dominion of Satan. And so while the fall of angels seemed but to impair the glory which the great Creator was to derive from that exalted part of His creation, when man fell, it appeared that thenceforth, except in the manifestation of His justice in the punishment of sin, the Creator was to derive no glory from this favoured work of His hands.

But Satan was not to be permitted so far to frustrate the purposes of the Most High. Before the exigency arose—doubtless from all eternity—the wisdom and the goodness of God had devised a plan by which the malice and the craft of the evil one were baffled, and the ruin of the fall repaired. Redemption was to undo Satan's work, and to free this creation—man, and the lower animals, and the earth itself—from the curse which one sin had brought upon them all. And the means by which this restoration was effected were even more wonderful than their effects. The angels who had fallen, God in His wisdom left to the fate which they had chosen for themselves. But for our fallen race a wonderful deliverance was provided. "God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son" to be a sacrifice for man's sin.¹ He "spared Him not, but delivered Him up for us all."² And so He who had created man, Himself undertook the work of his redemption. He was with God in the beginning, and He was God³, *God over all, blessed for ever*⁴—the fellow of the LORD of Hosts⁵—His well-beloved Son. But to do this work of mercy He became His messenger and His servant⁶; and having *emptied Himself*⁷ of all that was incompatible with His humiliation—laid His glory and His power by—He descended upon this lower world, and took our nature upon Him. And even among the fallen beings whom He came to save, He assumed no preeminence; but, though Lord of all, was servant of all, "despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief."⁸ And having endured this deep humiliation, He further humbled Himself unto death, even the death of the Cross; bore the shame and the agony of the Cross, and still deeper sufferings—sufferings unutterable and inconceivable—for us sinners, "the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God."⁹ And because He thus humbled Himself, and for the great work of obedience which He wrought in His humiliation, He was once again exalted; attained again the preeminence He surrendered; He was glorified, according to His own prayer, *with the glory which He had with the Father before the world was*¹⁰; all power, as He Himself has declared, *was given to Him in heaven and in earth*¹¹; and as the Apostle, in writing to the Philippians, testifies—in the well-known passage to which I have been referring, in which he sets forth the Lord's glory, His voluntary humiliation, and His great reward—"God also hath highly exalted Him, and given Him a name which is above every name: that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father."¹²

*able to save to the uttermost all who come unto God by Him.*¹ All are invited to turn, and repent, and trust for forgiveness to the great atonement for sin which He has wrought. And all who obey the call, and trust in this mighty Saviour, and accept the salvation offered in His name, are freed from all guilt; their sins are blotted out in the blood which *cleanseth from all sin*²; they are accepted *in Him*³, *as dear children*⁴, according to the word, "As many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name."⁵ They are born again, as in the same place the Evangelist testifies, "born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God⁶;" born, as St. Peter declares, "not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever."⁷ Yea, they are created anew. Of all believers it is declared that they have undergone this wonderful process, that they are "created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them⁸;" that "the new man" which they have put on, is "after God"—that is, after the image of God—"created in righteousness and true holiness⁹;" and that "if any man be in Christ he is a new creature."¹⁰

Now, of those who are thus created anew, the Church of God—the Church *which He has purchased with His own blood*¹¹—is formed. This is not said of the visible Church. The visible Church of Christ is made up of all who, having been baptized in His name, continue united to Him by an open profession of faith in Him, and an outward acknowledgment of His authority, whatever may be the state of their heart and affections, however little they may trust in Him or love Him. But it is not so of His invisible Church, which is contained in the visible Church. Each of the living stones of which that *spiritual house*¹² is built, is a new creation. To all of them the desire has again been given, by divine grace, to promote the great end of their being, which rebel angels and rebel men refused to fulfil; to show forth the praises of Him who hath *called them out of darkness into His marvellous light*¹³; *to live no longer unto themselves, but to Him*¹⁴; and to glorify Him with their bodies, and with their spirits, which are His.¹⁵ So that, in repairing the ruin of the fall, Redemption restored to the great Creator the glory through His work, of which that calamity seemed to have robbed Him altogether.

But it did far more than restore this glory. For the new spiritual creation which it has called into existence is a far brighter manifestation of all the Divine perfections—a far more glorious and excellent work—than the original creation, out of the ruins of which it has been formed. It would be hard to doubt that such must be the case, if we only considered the way in which both were produced. Wonderful as the productions of the first creation were, a word served to call them all into existence. Of all worlds and all their inhabitants it is said: “He spake, and they were made; He commanded, and they stood fast.”¹ But when the second creation was to be brought forth, how did the great Creator groan and suffer! Can we look at His humiliation and His passion, His poverty and His destitution, His shame and His pain, the anguish of His body and His mind, and all the travail of His soul, without feeling sure that the creation produced at such a cost was far more precious than that which was so much more easily brought forth?

But every sober mind must feel that in a matter so high, great uncertainty attaches to any such conclusions, however naturally we are led to form them. And that we can only put any confidence in them when they are confirmed by the testimony of Holy Scripture. But in this case such confirmation is certainly not wanting. To take but a single example. When the Apostle, in his Epistle to the Ephesians, is speaking of the bringing in of the Gentiles to a participation of the privileges of God’s people, as a mystery which had been hid from the beginning of the world, but which was then made known by the preaching of the Gospel, he adds—“To the intent that now unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places might be known by the Church the manifold wisdom of God.”² Here he distinctly points to the Church as the consummate monument of the Divine wisdom; as manifesting God’s wisdom, not to us only, who see Him but “as through a glass darkly;” who know but a part of His works—and that part most imperfectly—not to us only, but to the angels who stand in His presence and behold His glory, who witnessed the first creation—*when all the Sons of God shouted for joy*³—who have since seen all His wondrous works in all places of His dominions—yea, who have themselves been continually employed as His instruments in all the various exercises of His power and goodness⁴—to beings who have such near views of God, and such a wide knowledge of His works—to these exalted beings, and to the very highest of them—to the “principalities and powers in heavenly places”—the Church is described as disclosing depths in the Divine wisdom before unknown!

Ps. xxxiii. 9. ² Eph. iii. 10. ³ Job xxxviii. 7. ⁴ Ps. ciii. 20, 21.

Here, however, as the Apostle notes, Christ's preeminence is clear and certain. Of this glorious body He is the all-glorious head: not only are its members the work of His hands—they are redeemed by His death—washed in His blood—sanctified by His Spirit—incorporated in Him by faith, in a union so intimate that they are described by the Apostle as “members of His body, of His flesh, and of His bones.”¹ He took their nature upon Him on earth. He bears it now in His glory in heaven. And when at the last He shall appear in the glory of His Father and His holy angels, it is to be, we are told, as “the Son of Man²,” the head of the human family which He has redeemed, the spouse of the Church which He has bought with His own blood, “to be glorified in His saints, and admired in all them that believe.”³

Having thus declared Christ's preeminence over the creation at large, and over the new and more glorious creation of which He is the acknowledged head, the Apostle might seem to have said all that was needful or possible to say, in order to set forth His preeminence in all things. But he still goes on to mark an additional particular of special interest and importance connected with His preeminence over the Church. For the Church of the redeemed is made up of two portions. One consisting of those who, having died in the Lord, are blessed—blessed in being *with Christ*⁴, and in resting from their labours.⁵ The other portion, though often suffering, as in a world of trouble and change, are happy too—happy in the enjoyment of present peace—the peace of those who are justified by faith—and in the hope of future glory. Both these portions of the Church are in union with each other through their union with Christ; and both are deriving from their glorious Head blessings suited to their state and circumstances. But for both something more remains to be done. For those who are at rest, are happy only in a part of their nature: their bodies lie mouldering in the grave. And with respect to those who are still in the body, how often do they find this part of their nature a burden and a hindrance instead of a help! the flesh lusting against the spirit, so that they cannot do the things that they would.⁶ So, the saints who have departed, and those who still remain, are both in an imperfect state—in a state of expectation—waiting and looking for that consummation of Christ's work which is not to take place till the resurrection of the dead, when the bodies which we sow in weakness, shall be raised in power: those bodies which we lay down corruptible, we shall receive again incorruptible.⁷ And even as the dead are raised, so, we are told, shall those that are then alive be changed. For both, this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality: the natural bodies of both shall be made *spiritual bodies*¹; no more a clog or an obstruction, but glorified bodies, fit dwelling-places for the glorified spirits which shall inhabit them, yea,—for so it is written—bodies like to that which the Lord Himself now bears in Heaven, and in which He is to appear when He comes again to judgment!²

Now here, in this great work of the glorious change of the body, Christ, as the Apostle notices, has in a singular manner the preeminence. It is not only that—like all other blessings which we enjoy or hope for—this crowning blessing is His gift to us—the purchase of His work for us. Nor only that it is to be effected by His own almighty power—for we are told that it is HE, *who, at His appearing, shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto His glorious body*³—but, moreover, He was Himself the first who underwent this wondrous change, the first who was raised from the grave with a glorified body, as the seal of His triumph over its power. Of the many sons whom God is to bring, body and soul, to glory, HE, the CAPTAIN *of their salvation*⁴, was the first—“the first-fruits of them that slept⁵”; “the first-begotten of the dead⁶”; “the first-born from the dead—that in all things He might have the preeminence.”

It is only when all this is done—when those who are His are raised by the same power by which He Himself rose, and given glorified bodies like to His own—that this great design of God, of giving Him the preeminence in all things, shall be fully accomplished. It is often spoken of in Scripture, indeed, as if it were already accomplished. But this is only what we find with regard to many of the purposes of God, the fulfilment of which was in the Prophet's day—and of some is still, even in our own day—undoubtedly future. Whether the Prophets so spoke, because, by taking in imagination the position of one living at or after the fulfilment of their predictions, they were able to speak more impressively; or whether they adopted such a manner of speaking naturally and unconsciously, from the ever present conviction which they felt, that what was determined in the Divine councils was as certain as if it were already past; or whether it was that they spoke and wrote from scenes vividly presented to their minds, in which, as in pictures, there was no mark of time, or means of accurately determining time—whatever be the way of accounting for the fact, it is the fact, as every one knows, that such is a very common style of prophecy. And in the matter before us, the Apostle tells us expressly, that this style has been actually adopted. He is speaking of the remarkable prediction which is found in the eighth Psalm, of this great design of God of exalting Christ after His humiliation, and giving Him universal sovereignty; and having quoted the words of the Psalmist, which speak of the design as actually accomplished—"Thou hast put all things under His feet"—he says, in the way of explanation, that this declaration cannot be regarded as fulfilled until everything, without exception, is made actually subject to Christ—that is, of course, as he elsewhere notes, everything save Him who thus subdues all things unto Him. And then he adds, that every one must see that this is not yet done—"Thou hast put all things in subjection under His feet; for in that He put all in subjection under Him, He left nothing that is not put under Him. But now we see not yet all things put under Him."¹

Since the Apostle thus spoke, nearly eighteen centuries have passed away: and notwithstanding, we too, my brethren, must take up his language, and say, that we see not yet all things put under Him. He reigns, indeed, but it is in the midst of His enemies.² Signal as His victory over Satan was, and decisive as it is to be in its ultimate results, the war with Satan still rages. Satan is still the *Prince of this world*³, yea, the God of this world.⁴ The world which Christ made, still *lieth in wickedness*⁵; and though those whom He has taken out of the world are no longer the servants of sin as heretofore—though sin no longer reigns over them as a master⁶—it has still power to assault and vex them as an enemy. Their great enemy, and God's great enemy, still "goeth about as a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour."⁷ And the last enemy, Death—though for believers, blessed be God, his sting is taken away—is not yet destroyed.⁸ And as to this earth, which was created by Him and for Him, and which, though subject to Satan by man's revolt, was made His again by right of conquest—*the uttermost parts of which are given to Him as a possession*⁹—what vast portions of it are there, in which there is not even an outward acknowledgment of His sovereignty! Of the Heathen who are given to Him as an inheritance, what multitudes are there still ignorant of His name! How few of the nations which He has made have, as yet, come to worship before Him, even outwardly! And if, out of the numbers who call themselves by His name, and in word confess Him as their Saviour and their King, those only were to be gathered who are really His followers and His subjects, what a little flock would they still appear!

And yet, ever since the accomplishment of the work by which His kingdom was founded, the agency by which it was to be extended has been in operation. During the forty days which intervened between the Redeemer's resurrection and His ascension, we are told, He prepared, by personal instruction, the Apostles for the great task which He was about to lay upon them. He "opened their understandings, that they might understand the Scriptures¹;" in particular taking away the ignorance and the prejudices which kept them from seeing in His sufferings a fulfilment of the whole course of prophecy from the very first.² But, moreover, we are told, "He spake to them of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God."³ And brief as the glance at this part of His discourses is, it can leave no doubt upon our minds that it included all needful information with respect to the momentous subject to which it related. We learn, indeed, incidentally, that it gave them no knowledge as to the times and the seasons of the fulfilment of God's designs.⁴ And all that it did communicate, it would be presumptuous to attempt to determine. But we cannot doubt that it made them fully acquainted with the constitution, and government, and laws of His kingdom, so that everywhere, in their labours to extend it, it might be established upon its true principles and in its proper form. And, finally, as He was about to depart from them, their great commission was delivered to them; and the power which was to enable them to execute it was promised to them. He commanded them to *go into all the world, and to preach the Gospel to every creature*⁵; to go and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost—and to teach them to observe all things whatsoever He had commanded them.⁶

This was their commission: they were, first, so to preach the Gospel—*repentance and remission of sins in His name*⁷—as might dispose and qualify men to embrace it as His disciples: then to admit them into the Church, by baptizing them in the name of the triune God, who had been preached to them: and, finally, to train them, as members of His Church, in the practice of all He had commanded to His followers. And this was to be done throughout the whole world. The Gospel was to be preached to every creature.

All nations were thus to be proselytized. Christ's messengers were to go forth to contend with all the forces of the world, and of the Prince of the world; to persuade all the nations of the earth to abandon the various forms of false religion which they had invented for themselves, and to which they were bound by so many and such powerful ties, and to receive a new religion at their hands. What an enterprise for a few poor unlettered Jews!

But they were not to engage in this enterprise in their own strength. He who gave them the commission declared, that "all power had been given to Him in heaven and in earth¹," and that He would "be with them alway, even unto the end of the world."² This was enough of itself, if there had been no more, to assure them that their weakness would be abundantly strengthened, and all their deficiencies abundantly supplied. But more special information as to the way in which they were to be fitted for the work was given. They were by their office to be "witnesses³"—witnesses of what they had seen and heard during their attendance on Christ in His ministry⁴—of all that He had taught and all that He had done. And they were in a more especial sense, *witnesses of His resurrection*⁵, which was the seal of what He taught concerning His own nature and His work—the work of redemption which He had come to perform, and the work of judgment which He is to come to execute.⁶ But, moreover, they were charged with the ministry of reconciliation. They had a message of mercy from God to deliver—to announce that His part in the work of reconciliation had been accomplished, and, as His ambassadors, in His name and in Christ's stead, to beseech sinners to be reconciled to God.⁷

The great truths which they were to declare, and the gracious message which they had to deliver, brought powerful forces to bear upon every mind, if once they were believed. But how were these obscure men to procure a belief in them? How were they to be accredited, either as witnesses or as ambassadors? This was a question which must have arisen to fill their minds with anxiety, if not to drive them to despair, had not the Lord Himself graciously supplied an answer to it by anticipation. The promise that they should be baptized with the HOLY GHOST was renewed to them. This baptism had been promised by the Lord's forerunner as the distinctive character of His work.⁸ And in His last discourse to His disciples, before His passion, the Lord repeated the promise—declared to them that when He was departed from them, the Holy Ghost, the Comforter, should be sent to supply His place, not to comfort them only, but to guide, to enlighten, and to strengthen them.¹ And before His ascension the promise was further explained, so as to show that the gift contained a decisive attestation of their commission as from God; for they were told that *these signs should follow them that believed the Gospel which they preached—that in the Lord's name they should cast out devils; they should speak with new tongues; they should take up serpents; and if they drank any deadly thing it should not hurt them; they should lay hands on the sick, and they should recover.*² They were at the same time commanded not to depart from Jerusalem, but to tarry there for the fulfilment of this great promise.³ And when it was fulfilled, they went forth, we are told, and preached everywhere, “the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following.”⁴

How effectual this confirmation was, is sufficiently declared by the first effects that were produced. The Word was to be first spoken to the Jews only. And at the very first preaching after the Holy Ghost was given, three thousand converts, who “gladly received the word⁵,” proved that His power accompanied it. They were baptized according to the Lord's commandment. And we learn further, that, in obedience to His command, the training of those who were so brought within the fold was not forgotten. For they “continued stedfastly in the Apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.”⁶ Very soon after this we read of the converts having so increased, that *the number of the men was about five thousand.*⁷ And this was the work of a few days! It seemed as if the whole people were to be brought to believe in Him, whom in His lifetime they had so obstinately rejected. But it was not so to be. It soon became manifest that the mass of the nation was so hardened in unbelief, that all efforts to turn them to the Lord were to be unavailing. There was “a remnant according to the election of grace⁸,” who did embrace the proffered mercy, submitted themselves to God's way of salvation, and *obtained the righteousness that is by faith.*⁹ But the rest were *blinded.*¹⁰ And when they determinedly put the Word of God from them, and counted themselves unworthy of everlasting life, the preachers of the word *turned to the Gentiles.*¹¹

The chief labourer in this new field was one who had not originally belonged to the Apostolic body. The Apostles themselves, soon after the Lord's ascension, filled up the vacancy in their number which the treachery of Judas had occasioned.¹ But another was soon added by Christ Himself. He had been an unbeliever, and a blasphemer, and a persecutor. But the Lord was pleased to turn him from his desperate course, and to bring him to the belief of the Gospel; to raise him to the place of an Apostle, and to qualify him for the office, not only by sending upon him the gifts of the Holy Spirit, but by showing Himself to him², so as to enable him to bear a part, as a witness of the resurrection, with those to whom He had shown Himself alive after His passion.³ And, moreover, to qualify him as a fellow-teacher with them, He vouchsafed, by direct personal instruction, to acquaint him with the truths of the Gospel which he was to preach.⁴

He was called as a chosen vessel to bear the Lord's name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel.⁵ But his more especial mission was to the Gentiles, to open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they might receive forgiveness of sins, and an inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in Christ Jesus.⁶ Not long after he entered upon the Apostolic office, the sacred narrative is confined altogether to his work. But though he "laboured more abundantly than they all," the rest no doubt continued to labour in the same cause; and we have from other sources some traces—though faint and broken, and often very uncertain—of their labours. Other labourers were soon joined with them in the work. They acted, no doubt, under Apostolic instruction or direction, and received the miraculous power necessary to confirm their teaching by the laying on of the Apostles' hands. And without attempting to follow the progress of their labours, it is enough to say, that at the close of the second century we find, not merely that the Gospel had been preached through the Roman Empire, but that Churches were established almost everywhere, by which not merely was provision made for the religious training of the old and the young within their own limits, but for extending the kingdom of Christ among the heathen population by which they were surrounded.

This extension went on, though it appears that about this time the faith ceased to be propagated by the miraculous gifts, which had been poured out upon the first preachers of the Word so abundantly, and exercised with such striking effects. It appears that they were only intended for the first days of the Gospel, to serve for the foundation of the Church, when in feeble infancy it had to sustain itself, and to win its way against all the powers of Satan and of the world; and that when it was built up, they were to be withdrawn. This great change, however, seems to have been made, like all other changes connected with the new dispensation, not abruptly or violently, but gradually. In fact, it does not appear that when these gifts were most widely diffused, any who enjoyed them, except the Apostles themselves, could impart them to others.¹ So that with the death of the latest of those who received them by the imposition of the Apostles' hands, they disappeared naturally—no provision for renewing them having been made. And thenceforth, we have to look upon the Church as extending itself among the heathen only by those moral forces with which it is still invested.

But these forces, under the guidance and blessing of the Great Head of the Church, and with the aid of His Spirit, were abundantly sufficient for its further extension. It is to be remembered, that those who were faithfully engaged in executing their Master's last command always enjoyed the fulfilment of His promise that He would *be with them alway*²: and that the Spirit which He promised, and which He had sent, the Comforter, was to abide with them for ever.³ His presence in the Church was no longer manifested, indeed, as at the first, by miraculous powers diffused among its members. But not only were these less valuable than His hidden graces, as regards the individuals upon whom they were bestowed, but their efficacy for the purpose for which they were given, and which they seemed so fitted to secure, depended altogether upon the accompaniment of such secret power. And as in providence God is not less the Supreme Ruler of the world now, when He does not openly interfere in the course of human affairs, than He was of old, when His hand was so often seen visibly directing it, so is it in grace. In taking away from His Church the miraculous powers by which it was extended at the first, He did not limit or impair His own power of making the means which it retained effective for the same purpose. Every one must feel that it was upon the exercise of such hidden power that the growth of the invisible Church always depended. When the outward signs that accompanied the Word were most striking, and, as it seemed, overpowering, it was only by the exercise of a power that was hidden from all eyes that it made its way to the heart. Even when Paul was the preacher, his words were only received by hearts which the Lord had opened.¹ And the same seems to hold good as regards the progress of the visible Church. While Paul planted, and Apollos watered, it was still God alone who gave the increase.²

And He was pleased to give the increase still. The difficulties with which the Church had to contend augmented as it grew older. Persecution, which assailed it from the first, now raged more fiercely, and spread more widely, so that it seemed to threaten at times to blot out the Christian name from the world. Within the Church, too, heresies, unknown in its infancy, had arisen to corrupt and divide, and so to weaken it. And the persecutions were fiercest, and the heresies most numerous, just at the time when the Church's visible means of contending with difficulties seemed so greatly reduced. Still it grew steadily. It did not, indeed, for a good while, go beyond the geographical limits which it had reached in the first two centuries. For within that period, as I said, it had spread so widely throughout the world, and occupied so many positions, and several, no doubt, with very slender forces, that its energies seemed to be sufficiently tasked in combating the heathenism by which it was surrounded, and advancing and extending the faith in those regions in which it had already obtained some footing. And how wonderfully it had advanced upon Heathenism by the close of the next century, and how vast the number, and how great the importance, of this once-despised sect had become, is sufficiently evidenced—to say nothing of other proofs—by the fact, that it is even now disputed whether Constantine was influenced by conviction or by policy, when, in the early portion of the fourth century, he took the Christian Church into alliance with the Empire.

How the Church was affected by this great event in its history, it is quite beside my purpose to notice, except so far as to say that added power was given to it of propagating the Christian faith; while it was relieved from the pressure which appeared to be among the chief causes by which it had been restrained from extending itself more widely. However, as before, heresies within the Church, and Heathenism without it, still opposed its progress—first, Heathenism as it lingered in the Empire, after the establishment of Christianity: then as increased and strengthened for a time by Julian: and again, when it seemed to have almost passed away under the edict of Theodosius, receiving new accessions from the barbarous tribes which harassed, and finally overran, the Empire. So that a long time passed before any vigorous efforts could be made to bring distant nations under the Christian yoke.

The northern parts of our own continent—some which had not been reached in earlier Missionary efforts—some which had been Christianized, but had relapsed into Heathenism, or been brought back to it again by heathen conquerors—furnished the first field for the labours of the Church, when from time to time it awakened again to a sense of the importance of this part of its duties. But it was not until the beginning of the sixteenth century that systematic and vigorous efforts were made to bring more distant regions under the dominion of the Church. The history of the Missionary labours which then commenced, is most interesting and most instructive; but, on the whole, deeply painful and depressing. When we look at the zeal and energy, and even heroism, which they at times displayed, and on the wide region over which they spread the Christian name, we are led to hail these enterprises as a happy evidence of renewed life in the Church, a revival of her early Missionary spirit, and, with it, a renewal of the early triumphs of the faith. But a little closer examination serves to dissipate these first impressions. The Church had become deeply corrupt before these Missions began; and therefore they could, at best, only have conveyed Christianity in a most corrupt form to the Heathen. Still, even in such a form, one cannot doubt that it would have been a beneficial exchange for the false religions which it displaced. But in some of the chief scenes of Missionary exertion it underwent, deliberately, still deeper corruptions, to facilitate its diffusion amongst the natives, by bringing it into a nearer conformity with their own creed and worship. And this most daring and impious device is only a specimen of the unscrupulous character of the means by which the success which attended upon these efforts was secured. Everywhere ambitious, hollow, and unscrupulous, Rome appears nowhere more in her true character than in her Foreign Missions. The object of her emissaries in the chief scenes of her success seemed to be, to add to the number of the professed members of the Church, and to keep them in subjection to ecclesiastical authority. And to effect this object any compromise with Heathenism which seemed necessary was submitted to, and any means employed—not merely such means as worldly men freely allow themselves to employ, in the prosecution of worldly objects, nor even such means as they regard of a questionable character, but such as by universal consent they condemn and reprobate—as fraud and forgery, and even darker crimes—were resorted to, professedly to advance the Kingdom of Christ among the Heathen! Brilliant as their success was, it was, as might be anticipated from the means by which it was attained, for the most part only short-lived. It lasted only so long as the means by which it was procured continued in operation: it then ceased everywhere, and in most cases its fruits soon passed away. In one place, when the corrupt compliances with heathen practice are abandoned, we see conversions coming at once to an end. In another, when the country passes from a Roman-Catholic to a Protestant Government, the converts that had been made by the Roman-Catholic Missionaries pass over to Protestantism or Heathenism. And other of their conquests from Heathenism—some of the most extensive which they had made—are won back again by heathen conquerors, in some places almost without a struggle. The faith of the converts—not merely of new converts, but of those who had been born in the faith—in some places after Romanism had been for two centuries in the land—melted away before the first touch of the fire, from which the faith of the early Christians only came out refined and purified; insomuch, that in one case a Roman-Catholic Missionary records, with natural sorrow and indignation, that, of 60,000 professed Christians subjected to this trial, not even a single individual was found who had courage to confess his faith, and become a martyr to his religion!

The century in which the Missionary labours to which I have been referring were begun, was the century of the Reformation. It was about the time when Rome commenced this course of vigorous efforts to add members to her Church in distant lands, that she was driving in different parts of Europe many of her own children from her communion. And it deserves to be noted, as showing in what sense she is unchangeable, that while such additions were made to her manifold corruptions in order to extend her limits abroad, no one of these corruptions would be sacrificed to keep her soundest members in her communion at home. A spirit of resistance to some of her grosser errors and abuses had often, from time to time, manifested itself before; but never before in a form which she found it difficult to suppress. But it now rose in such strength as to defy all her arts and her violence. And, first upon the continent, and then in Britain, multitudes renounced her errors and corruptions, and emancipated themselves at last from her spiritual tyranny.

In reviewing this wide and successful struggle, it has been often remarked as a special felicity of this much favoured land, that while elsewhere the authorities of the Church always, and sometimes those of the State, obstinately upheld the usurpation and tyranny of Rome, here, both resolutely led the opposition to it: and so, while elsewhere the blessings of religious truth and religious liberty could only be secured by casting off obedience to legitimate authority, civil and ecclesiastical, and by giving up, in the issue, the benefit of Episcopal government, those inestimable blessings were here obtained without any such sacrifice.

I do not mean to imply, that there ought to be any doubt whatever that those who were obliged to choose between truth on the one hand, and order and authority on the other, made a right choice in cleaving to truth. I am very sure that they did. But still I must feel that, however far short of their gain it were, their loss was not light. And I am sure that we may and ought to thank God that He was pleased to bestow the greater blessing upon us, without requiring from us any sacrifice of the lesser—that here the Church emerged from the Reformation, retaining its primitive constitution unimpaired, and its Apostolic descent unbroken—in every thing the same, except that it was purified in doctrine and in ritual, freed from Romish errors, and corruptions, and superstitions. We ought never to look back upon those eventful times without thanking God anew for the grace which He then bestowed upon the Martyrs and Confessors, who were His instruments in effecting this great work—for the holy resolution which He vouchsafed to them, while the struggle lasted, and for the holy wisdom which He bestowed, when the task that remained was to secure the fruits of the victory. And renewed cause for thankfulness often arises, as we see in the after pages of the Church's history through what dangers the blessings bestowed upon her at that time, were preserved to her.

But these are considerations on which it would be altogether out of place for me to dwell. I only glance at the history of the Church as it is connected with the history of Missions. And certainly, amidst all the great and manifold grounds of thankfulness which the history of the Church at and since the Reformation furnishes, the tardy appearance of one sure token—if we may not say of vitality, yet most certainly—of health and vigour, in the Church—a Missionary spirit in it—cannot but cause painful surprise.

We easily understand how this spirit must have lain dormant for a considerable time, even after the first struggle was over. Because the task which devolved on those who survived the struggle was by no means light. And when the great leaders of the work of the Reformation had done their part—established a true confession of faith, and a pure form of worship, and guarded both by laying down a sound rule of faith—other cares awaited them. For those who were qualified to preach and teach were so few, as to be for a good while altogether insufficient for the ordinary duty of instructing the old and the young within the pale of the Church. And all this task of arranging, consolidating, and edifying, was to be carried on in the face of a watchful, active, and most unscrupulous enemy, ever devising plans to harass the labourers and impede their work. Then there were dissensions and divisions—often produced by the machinations of the same wily adversary—which soon arose, and still further wasted the strength of the Church. And we cannot be surprised that, under such circumstances, no thought was bestowed upon any duty beyond those near and importunate ones for which they could so inadequately provide. But when we find not-merely that the residue of the sixteenth century passed away, but that the next century was far upon its wane, without a single effort being made to extend the kingdom of Christ in Heathen lands, we cannot but feel most painful perplexity. It would require, indeed, very strong evidence of vitality in the Church to overcome the presumption which such a fact affords, that, though it had a name to live, it was dead.¹ Happily, such evidence is not wanting in the case. But the fact remains still to perplex and grieve us. And whatever causes may be alleged to lighten the blame which attaches to our Church in this matter, none can be pleaded which will take it wholly away.

Cromwell's great design of forming and endowing a Council for the Protestant religion, in opposition to the Congregatio de Propaganda Fide, at Rome, is generally set down as the first Missionary project of which there is any record in this country. But though his intended Council was to embrace in its operations a great part of the world, it seems to have been designed rather to protect Protestantism everywhere against the machinations of the Propaganda than to provide for the preaching of the Gospel anywhere to the Heathen. Still, the design deserves to be noticed as exhibiting something clearly akin to a Missionary spirit, inasmuch as it was a recognition of the principle that it is the duty of a Christian State not to confine its exertions to the maintenance of true religion amongst its own subjects, but to maintain and defend it in every part of the world. And the fact that the project was never executed may be well accounted for by the troublous character of the Protector's rule, without any imputation upon his sincerity, which, so far as regards such an object, was sufficiently evinced by the prompt and effectual interposition on behalf of the persecuted inhabitants of the Valleys, which so honourably distinguished his Protectorate.

somewhat later date. The first Missionary Society formed in this country was after the Restoration. A Charter was then obtained for an Association having for its object the conversion of the North-American Indians in New England, and the adjacent parts of America. This seems a very limited object. But the fact that it was so confined is no proof that the founders of this early Society did not recognise to the fullest extent the duty of preaching the Gospel to every creature.¹ It might be—and it is only reasonable to suppose that it was—a prudential limitation of their exertions to a sphere which they might hope to occupy effectively. And the selection of the particular sphere was probably made, from the feeling that the near relations into which we are brought to a country, by colonization or commerce, give its aboriginal inhabitants a prior claim to those with whom we have no such connexion. The Society was placed under the direction of an eminently wise and pious man, Robert Boyle, and it employed Missionaries of rare devotion and very high gifts. But, though we cannot doubt that there is a bright record of the fruit of their work on high, where there is *joy even over one sinner that repenteth*², yet, in our way of judging, the effects of their untiring labours and their fervent and unceasing prayers cannot but appear small, and no permanent results of them remain.

The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, which was the next in order, adopted the same principle in selecting the objects to which its exertions were to be directed, though it took a much wider range. It chose for its sphere the British Colonies generally; and its primary office was to supply the spiritual wants of the members of our own Church in those distant Settlements, where but a most insufficient provision for such wants was made. How much this Society has done in the important field which it laid out for itself is well known. The pressure of the population on the means of subsistence in the mother country, and their own enterprising, independent, and energetic character, have scattered the inhabitants of these islands widely over the face of the habitable globe. And in how many remote regions would such emigrants and their families have been cut off from the ordinances of the Church, from the guidance, and restraint, and comfort of her ministrations, if the beneficent agency of this venerable Society had not followed them, to avert this worst evil of their voluntary exile! Nor has it been unmindful of the duty of preaching the Gospel to the Heathen. Wherever its Ministers are placed, so far as it can be made compatible with their primary duty, the conversion of the Heathen within their reach is an object to which they are to direct their exertions.

And it ought to be noted in the same way, that a nearly contemporary Society, the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, though not originally a Missionary Society, showed itself honourably ready to meet a call to aid in the work, and for a time to engage more directly in it. It first generously assisted the Danish Mission at Tranquebar, and afterwards maintained an independent Mission at Madras.

It is evident that, however successfully the Societies which I have named pursued their labours, they would have left a wide field for Missionary enterprise unoccupied. And if I do not dwell upon the exertions made during the same century in different parts of this extensive field, whether by Missionaries of other lands, or by Dissenting bodies in our own country, it is not from thinking lightly of the evidence which they exhibit of a Missionary spirit, or of their actual results.

The Danish Mission indeed, which I have just now mentioned incidentally, is not merely eminently interesting from the character of the men engaged in it—from their simplicity, piety, and zeal—but moreover as an example of what ought not to be, but what unhappily is, very rare—of royal zeal in this great cause. For it was not only protected, and favoured, but actually sent forth, by the king of Denmark.

As to the Moravian Missions—when we consider the small numbers of the community from which they proceeded—its slender means—the wide field which they embrace—the special discouragements and difficulties which particular parts of that field presented—the devotion, patience, wisdom, and faithfulness, with which they have been carried on—and the success which has on the whole crowned their labours—all these things taken into consideration, I think they must be felt to form by far the most wonderful portion of the entire record of Missionary enterprise and achievement.

The Missionary Societies which have been formed by different Dissenting bodies in this country, have been supported on such a scale as to furnish happy evidence of the existence of a Missionary spirit in their respective communities. And in the history of their operations no doubt much might be found of a most interesting character, if we had time to look at it. But we have not. This sketch, indeed, slight as it is, has already detained me so long, that I have hardly left myself time for a very brief notice of the Society which, even independently of the special claims that the present occasion gives it, has so much stronger claims upon our attention and interest.

THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY did not take its rise until the two earlier Church Societies, of which I have been speaking, had been in existence for a century. In an interesting abstract of its history—which is, I dare say, as it ought to be, in the hands of most present—it is stated to have owed its origin to a few excellent men, devoted servants and attached members of the Church, who felt that though part, at least, of the field which the Propagation Society left open had been occupied by Missionary Institutions in connexion with Dissenting bodies, the Church was not released thereby from the duty of labouring wherever there were heathen souls to be converted; and who also felt that, however they were able to wish success to all who laboured to make Christ known to those who were ignorant of Him, and to rejoice in their success—yet that, both for the sake of the Church, and for the sake of those who were brought out of the darkness of heathenism—they could not but desire that the work should be hers. They united, therefore, to send out Clergymen of the Church of England to preach the Gospel to the Heathen. They chose Africa and the East as the principal scenes of their operations. All the officers of the Society were to be members of the Established Church; and all its proceedings were to be carried on in conformity with the doctrines and discipline of the Church. And how faithfully its principles have been carried out may be regarded as sufficiently attested by the number of Prelates, both of the Church at home and in the Colonies, whose names are found in a connexion with the Society which they could hardly continue to hold, if they did not believe that it on the whole honestly maintained the title which it had chosen, and the principles which are put forward in its Laws and Regulations.

Its beginnings were small, but its advance has been constant, and, for the last half of its history, rapid. Its income last year was nearly seventy-fold its average annual income during the first ten years of its operations! And in such an increase there is a double ground for thankfulness. For if there be any bounty which is twice blessed, it is surely that which is contributed to Missionary objects. The increase of the funds of such a Society is not merely to be rejoiced in, as adding to its means of extending the knowledge of Christ in Heathen lands, but as evidence of an increase in the extent and strength of a Missionary spirit in our own land. And there can hardly be a happier indication of the spiritual growth of a Church than a large increase in its compassion for perishing souls, and in its readiness to make sacrifices for their deliverance. I am far from thinking that the increase is what it ought to be. It has neither kept pace with the growing wealth of the country, nor with the growing demands upon the Society. Still it has been, as I said, very great. And, of course, the range of the Society's operations has widened with its means. It has entered upon new fields of labour, established new Stations in those already occupied, and increased the number of its labourers of all ranks. It has also multiplied its Schools, in which it is stated that Christian instruction is now given in twenty languages, to about forty thousand scholars. While both at home and abroad it has established higher educational Institutions for training Candidates for the ministry, or for the inferior but most important offices of Catechists and Schoolmasters. It has wielded on a still larger scale, as it has advanced, the power of the printing-press, which has long been brought into the service of the Missionary cause. And the visible results of its operations have increased—if not in the ratio of the increase of the machinery, yet still very considerably. The attendants on Christian worship in the Society's Missions throughout the world are stated to be 170,000; the number of Communicants 14,103, being an increase, in the course of the year, of 552; and the number of Baptisms in the same period are reported as 4933.

It is not my intention to go further into such details. I leave every thing of that kind to the Report which will be read to-morrow, as a much more satisfactory channel for such information. Indeed, in going even so far into statistics, I have deviated from the line which I laid down for myself. But in closing the sketch which I have given of what has been done to execute the Lord's parting command, it seemed necessary to furnish some means of judging of what had been actually effected. And the occasion seemed to point out that this was to be done by presenting some of the results of the labours of the Church Missionary Society.

Such results will affect different minds differently. No one not utterly dead to the infinite value of souls can contemplate without deep thankfulness the good which has been actually effected in bringing so many "from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God." But it cannot be denied that, when the result is compared with what still remains to be done, it must appear to be trifling indeed. And accordingly many, who are not disposed to deny that the review which we have been going through affords much ground for thankfulness, are yet inclined to regard it as taking away all rational foundation for hope as to the final issue of the contest. 'We see, indeed,' it is said, 'the little rill which rose in Judea, soon becoming a river, broadening and deepening as it flows on, sweeping away in its course the altars and the idols of paganism, and bearing far and wide the knowledge of God which is at the last to cover the earth, as the waters cover the sea.¹ But how soon do we see it arrested in its course, and becoming fixed and stagnant! And when, after many an age, it begins again to flow, how slow and feeble is its progress, so that one may naturally doubt, and often does doubt, whether it is moving at all!

‘Or, leaving the uncertainties of figurative language, and coming to facts, let us take the Church Missionary Society, as affording fair means of judging of the prospects of Missions in general. It is confessedly in the enjoyment of a large measure of public confidence, and, as a natural result, receives a full share of such public liberality as is extended to Missions. And it is more than half a century old. And yet we find it unable to send out to the chief scene of its labours one ordained Missionary for every million that it has to convert there! We find that it regards an accession of five hundred Communicants in all its Stations, in every part of the globe, as a matter to be recorded with exultation; while, in all, the whole number of Communicants is little above fourteen thousand!

‘Now, when we consider how many hundreds of millions of Pagans and Mahometans there are in the world—to say nothing of any other objects of Missionary labours—and how vast a portion of the earth is possessed by them, and then look at the result of fifty years’ labours of one at least of the most powerful of the Missionary Institutions by which Satan’s empire is to be overthrown, and the world is to be brought under the dominion of Christ, what time can the most sanguine fix in imagination for the termination of this conflict?’

This, if not the very language in which it expresses itself, is, I believe, no unfair representation of what passes through very many minds, when such results are brought before them. It is certainly not an unnatural, but I cannot think it either a wise or a wholesome state of feeling. But, before I make any attempt to correct it, I think it necessary, in order to obviate misconception, to premise, that I am not to be understood, in any thing which I say of Missions, as if I expected that they are to bring about the final accomplishment of God’s great design of giving to Christ the preeminence in all things.² I suppose, indeed, that no one who has considered the subject in the light of Revelation, doubts that when Missionary labours have effected all that they are destined to effect, a work beyond them will remain for a more direct exertion of Divine power, before all Christ’s enemies are put under His feet, and His kingdom is established in the peace, and happiness, and glory, which are promised to it in prophecy. But how far towards its consummation such labours are to advance this great purpose, and where they are to give place to a higher agency, is a question on which interpreters of prophecy differ, and may be expected to continue to differ. It is among the questions connected with my subject which I have found it necessary to decline, not as thinking lightly of their importance, but because I felt it to be impossible to consider them in any way which could be at all satisfactory, and I thought it better to omit them altogether than to treat them hastily and superficially. And with regard to this particular question, I am anxious to say that, however interesting and in other ways important it is, I think not only that the decision of it has no practical bearing upon our duty in regard to Missions, but that it ought not to exercise any material influence upon our feelings in reference to them—that it ought not in any degree to abate the interest and hope with which we look upon their progress, and the joy with which we hail every measure of success which from time to time God sees fit to accord to them.

As to the question of duty, no one, I suppose, can doubt that this is one of the cases in which duty is independent of all consideration of results. It rests upon a command of our Lord which is so clear and express as to leave no doubt of its meaning, and so large that the obligation which it imposes upon us continues until the GOSPEL is preached in all the world, and to every creature.¹ And the duty is not more clear than the encouragement and support which have been supplied to those who are engaged in the discharge of it. For the promise is as distinct as the command. The Lord is not more express in enjoining upon us the preaching of the Gospel in all the world, and to every creature, than He is in promising that always, when we are engaged in this work, even to the end of the world, HE HIMSELF will be with us.² Can we ask for more? We cannot doubt that our Master is looking with interest upon the progress of a work which He has so solemnly commended to us by command and by promise. And can more than this assurance be needed to make its progress a matter of lively interest to us?

But, however true this is as regards the way in which we are engaged in the Missionary work by conscience and reason, and by what ought to be our strongest religious affections in addition, yet it certainly has a distinct and strong hold upon our interest, when we regard it as really advancing the great design of the Most High to give to Christ the preeminence in *all things.*¹ And it seems to be felt by some, that the progress of Missions loses that power of interesting us, when we are led to believe that, after all that they can do, a part of the ~~work~~ of evangelizing the world will remain to be done which they cannot do, and the more particularly if we are led to think that this residuary part is a very considerable part of the entire. Now it appears to me that this would be a very mistaken use of such a view of the testimony of prophecy. For at whatever stage of their progress Missionary labours are to be displaced by Divine power, they are no less a real part of the forces by which the design is to be accomplished, than if they continued in operation to the end. And if they be so, surely we ought to regard them with the same feelings, whether we take one view of the interpretation of prophecy or the other. In either case, what is doing at any stage of their progress is really a link, and in either but a link, in the chain by which the sufferings of Christ are to be connected with *the glory that is to follow.*² And if this be the case, if, in our own day, Missions be really a part of the train of causes and effects which is to issue in the utter overthrow of Satan's kingdom, and the supreme exaltation of Christ, then, whether we believe that all the future parts of the train are to be of the same kind or not, we seem to have the same reason for looking at the progress of Missions with interest and hope, and for rejoicing in every measure of success which God sees fit from time to time to accord to them.

I have thought it right to say so much to obviate this abuse of Prophecy. For abused I am sure it is, however rightly it may be interpreted, when it disposes us to think lightly of the importance of Missions, or to look with unconcern on their progress. But such a state of feeling often arises from a different cause. And when I began to speak of it I was rather thinking of those who profess to view the subject in the light of reason, than those who endeavour to look at it in the light of Prophecy. For there are many, as I said, who think, that a sober comparison of the nature and extent of the work to be wrought, with the feebleness of the instrument by which it is to be effected, is abundantly sufficient of itself to satisfy us that but little progress in evangelizing the world is to be expected from Missions; and that if this conclusion were in need of confirmation, it is decisively confirmed by the fact, that they have been so long in operation and have effected so little.

rightly using Prophecy. No one can question the vastness of the enterprise in which Christian Missionaries are engaged; and no candid person can deny that but a small inroad has been hitherto made upon Satan's wide dominion by their labours. And no doubt such a state of things necessarily gives rise to serious and anxious feelings. But if we look at it fairly, we shall see, I think, that it offers no reasonable ground for despondency or apathy in this cause—no justification for those who allow themselves to be overwhelmed and paralysed by the greatness of the work before them, and who are unable to rejoice cordially in the good actually wrought, under the feeling, how small it is compared with all that remains to be done!

I will not inquire to what causes the scanty fruit of Missionary labours, which gives rise to such depressed feelings, is to be ascribed—whether it springs from the discredit which is brought upon the Christian name by the lives of professing Christians in Heathen lands—or from the divisions among Christians at home, by whom Missions are sent forth—or from the deadness and coldness of their prayers on behalf of the Missionary work—how far, that is, our Missions have failed of a larger measure of success, because, in our hearts and in our lives, we are so little like the early believers, of whom we read that *the multitude of them that believed were of one heart and one mind*¹; and because we so little resemble them in the spirit of prayer, in which they strengthened the hands of the first preachers of the Word, when they *lifted up their voice to God with one accord*², and implored Him to protect and to aid His servants, and to bless their labours. I will not inquire whether the failure, so far as it is real, arises altogether, as it undoubtedly does in part, from these deficiencies both at home and abroad, because my object is not to account for this state of things, but to mitigate, if it cannot be wholly obviated, the impatience and dissatisfaction to which it gives rise.

And I think it ought to be enough to bring us to a sounder and happier state of feeling with regard to Missions, to consider, that we are necessarily most imperfect judges of what has been really done by them to advance the great purpose of the Most High. For, supposing that we could perfectly appreciate such of their effects as are tangible and visible, we are absolutely no judges at all of what may have been effected by them in the way of preparation. This is an effect of the very highest importance, and yet one which, from its nature, cannot meet the eye, and submit itself to be examined and ascertained by us. Who can venture to say what may have been done in this way by labours which have been going on for years without any visible fruit, but which have been all the while keeping a witness for the truth before the eyes of the benighted Heathen, and ringing the message of mercy in their ears, and, what is perhaps above all, putting in their hands the Book of Life, wherein they may read, *every man in their own tongue, wherein they were born, the wonderful works of God?*¹ We may easily understand that, if Missions had done no more than this, they may have been making effectual preparation for a sudden and wondrous change in the face of the world, under the influence of some event which may itself take place at any moment, not merely by an extraordinary exertion of the Divine power, to which all things are possible, but by what is entirely in the ordinary course of God's dealings—that is, by His bestowing suddenly, in some particular quarter, a blessing upon His servants' labours, and giving an answer to their prayers, which, to try their faith and patience, He had long delayed.

What preparation, for example, is made for the effects of the conversion of the Jews upon the minds of the Heathen, by the Missions which have put into the hands of the Heathen the history of that wonderful people, and the prophecies concerning them, which are contained in the Word of God! What a preparation is here for wide and striking effects, from the bare event of the conversion of the Jews, whenever God sees fit to accord this fruit to the labours of those who have been working long in that field with slender encouragement! And what a further preparation is in the same way made, for the Missionary labours of the Jews when so converted! What preparation, in the way of natural cause and effect, for making them what we are taught to expect them to be—the great and effective Missionaries at the close of the Christian dispensation, as they were at its commencement. We can easily conceive how in this way—and assuredly we cannot doubt that there may be other ways—the whole aspect of the world may be changed, almost in a moment, and this, not by a miraculous interposition, but in the course of operation of the train of cause and effect which the wisdom of God has laid for the accomplishment of His purposes. And how, in particular—as the result, in good measure, of the preparation made by those Missionary labours which have been so long carried on without hitherto bearing any visible fruit—what seems now to be the work of centuries may be effected in a space of time far shorter than any which, even in our most impatient moods,

we should have ventured to assign as sufficient for its accomplishment. And so in the rapid accomplishment of His purposes, as in, what to our impatience has seemed, the slow preparation for it, it will appear that His measures of time are widely different from ours—and *one day shall be with the Lord as a thousand years, even as a thousand years have been but as one day.*¹

And assuredly this consideration, if there were no other, ought to prepare us for long delay in the appearance of any considerable fruits of Missionary labours, and ought to keep us patient under whatever delays God may see fit still to appoint, before He begins visibly to accomplish His great designs.

But it may please Him, not only long to delay the accomplishment of His purpose, but meanwhile to allow the awful contest which is carried on in order to bring it to nought, to assume an aspect much less favourable to the promised issue of it than even now it wears. So that, looking over the whole earth, we shall not merely see, as now, the light struggling with the darkness everywhere, and everywhere gaining upon it—with whatever difficulty and however slowly—but giving way to it everywhere; flickering and nigh to be extinguished where it is still shining, and in many places where it once shone brightly, quite gone out. Even for such a conjuncture as this, He has provided the amplest means for confirming the faith and sustaining the patience of His servants. We ought indeed to need no such confirmations. The declarations of His purpose of giving Christ the preeminence in all things, and putting all His enemies under His feet, are clear and unequivocal; and such declarations ought to be sufficient at all times to assure us that this purpose shall be accomplished, whatever be the forces opposed to it, and whatever be their apparent success. But there are seasons in which every thing appears so perplexing and alarming, the forces on the Lord's side so feeble, and His enemies so strong, that the believer's faith has a sore struggle with his fears. And, in gracious condescension to our weakness, God has supplied us with the confirmation of our faith which we need in such conjunctures, by showing us what He has done in past times, when His cause appeared to be desperate. And we may with the greater comfort avail ourselves of this provision, as we see His servants of old having recourse to it, and drawing strength from it in their time of need. Thus the Psalmist, when he finds his faith sinking under his long-continued trials—so that, as the title of the Psalm in our Bibles (it is the lxxvii.) well expresses it, he has a fierce combat with diffidence—obtains the victory—as the same title goes on to tell us—by consideration of God's great and gracious works. After describing his grievous perplexity and his faithless fears, coming to his right mind, he says, “And I said, This is my infirmity: but I will remember the years of the right hand of the Most High. I will remember the works of the Lord: surely I will remember Thy wonders of old. I will meditate also of all Thy work, and talk of Thy doings.”¹

And so, too, even when the great contest between light and darkness wears the most discouraging aspect—so too should we be confirmed in our confidence that the light will prevail and the darkness disappear, by seeing, as we look back at the past history of the conflict, not only that light was brought out of darkness at the first, and long kept alive in the midst of darkness, but that the very occasions on which it appeared most certain to be extinguished were those out of which it was made to shine more brightly than before; and that, in fact, the most signal successes of the Prince of Darkness have only visibly advanced the cause which they seemed to have utterly overthrown.

Let us look back then for a moment, through the past history of the world, at some of those conjunctures when, to the eye of flesh and blood—probably to all finite perception and judgment—all seemed to be lost, that we may draw from them the lesson of faith and patience which they are so fitted to teach.

And let us begin at the very first stage of man's history. How complete did Satan's success then appear! There were but two human beings in the world at the time, and they both were persuaded to cast off their allegiance to their great Creator, and to put themselves under the dominion of His enemy. They fell. And in their fall was involved the fall of all who were to descend from them to the end of time. In this utter ruin of our first parents and all their posterity, how entirely did the Divine purpose of ministering to Christ's glory by the creation of man appear to be confounded! How completely did Satan seem to have defeated the councils of the Most High! Yet we know that it was then and there that he secured that his own head should be crushed; his power utterly destroyed; that this, as regarded himself, was the fruit of his signal success in that great enterprise. As to man, whom he seemed to have irretrievably ruined and degraded, his fall was the occasion of raising him to a height of glory and happiness far exceeding that from which he fell.

And as to man's great Creator, whose glory from this part of His works seemed to have been utterly extinguished by the fall, we have seen that the new creation, which was called into existence by reason and as the consequence of that calamity, is to Him a source of far ampler and brighter glory than He could have reaped from the work of His hands which Satan seemed to have marred and confounded.

Passing over all minor examples of the same kind which the long interval offers, let us look at Satan's great triumph over the second Adam Himself. When the great Deliverer, long promised and long waited for, at last came to God's chosen people, Satan succeeded in securing that He should be rejected by them—"He came to His own, and His own received Him not."¹ But were God's designs for Him thereby frustrated? Nay, He had long before foretold this failure of His labours among those to whom He was sent; and, at the same time, made known that He had provided an ample recompense for the failure.² "It is a light thing," He says by the mouth of His prophet, "that Thou shouldst be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give Thee for a light to the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth." And not only was this recompense given in its season, but we are to note that it was given through the apparent frustration of God's plans for which it was to compensate; that here, as before, Satan's success was made the occasion, and in a sense the means, of augmenting the glory which he seemed to have impaired. The rejection of Christ and His Gospel by the Jews only led to the calling of the Gentiles; and so to the securing to Him of the brighter glory and wider dominion which His rule over them was to bestow. While it is not to be forgotten, as showing that none of God's purposes are brought to nought, that as He was given, not only to be a light, to lighten the Gentiles, but also to be *the glory of His people Israel*³, this latter purpose is not defeated or abandoned by reason of their perverse rejection of Him, but only delayed. When God's purposes for the Gentiles are fulfilled, the blindness which has happened to Israel shall pass away, and so all Israel also shall be saved.⁴

But the arts of the Evil One, at that time, went far beyond securing the rejection of Christ by His chosen people. Satan was able to gather against Him both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles, and the people of Israel.⁵ It is true that it was but to do whatsoever God's hand and His counsel *had determined before to be done.*¹ But to human eyes what a frustration of God's great design did their work appear! They were able to bind, and to scourge, and to buffet Him, and to spit upon Him, to mock Him, and to crown Him with thorns, and at the last to put Him to a painful and a shameful death. His timid followers were scattered, as sheep flee when the shepherd is smitten; while His enemies exulted openly, as though their victory was complete. It was natural that both should so feel. When they saw Him who had so often triumphed over Death now at last his victim; when they saw Him who had so often saved others now unable to save Himself—when the challenge to Him to come down from the Cross was unanswered—when the taunt, “He trusted in God, let Him deliver Him now, if He will have Him, for He said, I am the Son of God²,” was added in vain—above all, when His own loud cry was heard, and there was no answer, but He was left to breathe out His soul in helpless agony—it was natural that His followers should be dismayed and confounded, and that His enemies should triumph—that His people *should weep and lament, and the world should rejoice.*³ But it was only because both were *slow of heart to believe all that the Prophets had spoken concerning Him.*⁴ Had they read and understood, they would have known that the Messiah *ought thus to suffer, and to enter into His glory*⁵; that it was in this way that God's great designs for Him and for His people were to be fulfilled. For us, we know that all that we enjoy, and all that we hope for, is the fruit of all that was done in that sad time, which was *the hour of His earthly enemies, and the power of darkness.*⁶ Had not His precious blood been then shed, our guilt would not have been washed away—we had been still *in our sins—without hope, and without God in the world.*⁷ For Himself, had He not thus suffered from the successful malice of wicked spirits and wicked men, He could not have seen of the travail of His soul, which fills Him with holy joy⁸—had not His soul been made an offering for sin, He had not seen that spiritual seed which has been given to Him.⁹ That great multitude, which no man can number, of all nations and kindreds and people and tongues, all are the fruit of His sufferings; all who, *having come out of great tribulation, stand before the throne clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands*¹⁰, and all who are journeying through the same tribulation to the same glory and joy, all are redeemed and glorified only because the enemy was then able to oppress and afflict

Him, to bow down His soul in anguish, and to lead Him as a lamb to the slaughter.

And so was it with His Church after He was departed. It seemed left in feeble infancy, an easy prey to His bitter and successful enemies. Yet you know that all the assaults which the Evil One directed against it, even when they seemed most certain to overthrow it utterly, only served to strengthen, and to extend, and to purify it. If we could pursue its history, even for the short period for which we have it in the New Testament, we should find striking instances of the same kind—instances in which what seemed most calculated to defeat God's great design of giving Christ glory, by and in His Church, is seen to turn out only to the furtherance of the Gospel.¹ But I feel that I have dwelt too long on this point; and the cases through which we have gone ought to be abundantly sufficient for our purpose.

We seem to have reason to believe that, before the consummation of all things, there will be a more fearful manifestation of the power of Satan than he has yet been permitted to make—that his struggles will be more terrible as the time draws nearer when they are to cease for ever. And when he does rise, apparently in resistless rage—when the people of Christ seem abandoned to his fury—when the cause of Christ seems to be overthrown—and the declared purposes of God concerning Him to be brought to nought—in the midst of all that to sight and to reason seem only to speak despair, shall not His people be kept steadfast and confiding, as they look back and see what God has drawn in times past out of conjunctures which to flesh and blood, to sight and to reason, spoke only of despair?

But this is, perhaps, not our most practical concern with such instances. For even if we can be certain that we are right in the interpretation of prophecy, which holds out such a season of trial to the Church, we cannot be sure that we shall be reserved to witness it. But it is not only in times when the power of Satan is so awfully displayed, that the lesson which such instances are fitted to teach may be needed by us. To one who is looking for the accomplishment of God's great design of giving Christ the preeminence in all things, as the great object of hope, and who believes that this purpose is to be accomplished through the extension and purification of His Church, there is quite enough in the most ordinary state of the Church and the world to perplex and sadden—enough to make him anxious and fearful, whether he looks within the Church or without, at its state or at its progress. But shall not those examples which are drawn from more alarming conjunctures, comfort and strengthen us under all lighter trials of faith? If we limit the lesson of faith and patience which they supply to such conjunctures as they were drawn from, we may be, as I said, defrauding ourselves of the use of them altogether. But this would be plainly a perverse and unreasonable mode of dealing with them. When the host which was sent to seize the prophet compassed the city wherein he was, "both with horses and chariots," and he seemed a defenceless prey in the midst, his terrified servant, who had given up all as lost, was allowed to see that God had made effectual provision for his master's security, and that they that were with him were more than they that were with his enemies—"for the LORD opened the eyes of the young man; and he saw: and, behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha."¹ Could he afterwards have doubted, under less imminent dangers, that his master's safety was secured, because he did not see the same provision for his protection?

And the cases to which we have been referring are no less of daily use and application, under the discouragements which the ordinary circumstances of the Church and the world supply. To our apprehensions, God's great purpose of giving to Christ the preeminence in all things will sometimes seem to stand still, and sometimes to retrograde. But if we read rightly the lesson which the past history of the Church supplies, we shall feel that this is only because we are dim and shortsighted, and that if we could look upon the course of human affairs as it appears to the all-seeing eye of God, we should see His purpose steadily and constantly, and at every moment, advancing. We cannot so penetrate beyond outward appearances. But has not enough been done to secure our faith from the discouraging influences which they are calculated to exercise? When we have seen that all Satan's most decided successes have only served to secure and to hasten his final overthrow, can we doubt that the preparation for that consummation is going on, when his cause is less visibly prospering? When we have been allowed to see that God's great design has been signally advanced by what seemed to have defeated it altogether, can we doubt that it is still progressive, when the worst that can be said of the actual appearances is, that we do not see it advancing?

Thus used, the past history of this great conflict will bring us to a more wholesome frame of mind. We shall be less tempted to indulge in impatience at the slowness of its progress, or to give way to despondency when it assumes an unfavourable aspect. And while we look upon the course of the conflict more calmly and hopefully, we shall be able to take our appointed part in it with more cheerfulness and resolution. We shall be ready to sow in hope, in full assurance that *we shall reap in due season, if we faint not*¹—remembering, too, what we are so prone to forget, that it is not for us to determine the time of harvest—that that must be left to Him who has emphatically kept the times and the seasons in His own power.² And we shall be prepared to welcome any earnest of the coming harvest which God may afford, to rejoice at every indication which may be vouchsafed us of the great consummation when Christ shall have the preeminence IN ALL THINGS.

In some of these appearances we may be deceived. We may miscalculate in estimating the value of the successes of those who are engaged in advancing God's great design, as we so often do in regard to their failures. Some fruits of Missionary labours, even those which wear the fairest appearances, may melt away, and leave no trace behind. But in every individual case of the real conversion of a soul to God, we have a work for eternity. Every scene of Missionary labours has furnished some such cases, of the genuineness of which we can have no doubt, and they form a part of the record of Missionary successes on which we may dwell with joy, unclouded by any apprehensions of disappointment. Over the slaves of Satan in heathen lands who, not outwardly only, but in spirit and in truth, have been made the servants of Christ, by the power of the grace wherein we ourselves stand—if, indeed, we stand—we may rejoice with those who have won such seals to their ministry, and with the angels of God.

I should have wished to refer to some cases of this kind, which must seem to afford sure grounds for such thankfulness and joy. But though I have put aside altogether some questions which present themselves to every one who engages in the consideration of the subject of Missions, and have treated others very slightly, my discourse has already extended to a very inconvenient length, and I must not now be tempted to enter upon a new and fruitful field, however attractive. I have, indeed, left little time for the personal application of what I have been saying. But, however short it must be,

I cannot feel it to be right, even upon such an occasion, to omit it altogether.

It remains, then, my brethren, for each of us to ask himself the practical question, What am I doing with respect to this great purpose of the Most High? On what side am I standing in this great contest? Am I, in my place and measure, endeavouring to promote God's great design? Or do I hold back from taking a part in the conflict, and regard its progress as a matter in which I have no near concern, and often forget that it is going on? It is, no doubt, of little importance to the progress of God's purposes, how such questions are answered. Doubtless, all His designs are going on steadily to their accomplishment, independently of all human aid, and in despite of all human opposition. And especially with respect to this great design, of which we have been speaking, of exalting Christ, and giving Him supreme dominion, how impressively does the Bible convey to us the utter impotence of all resistance to it, where it tells us, that when the heathen, and His own people, and the kings and the rulers of the earth, band themselves together to oppose it, they shall move not Jehovah's anger only but His scorn: "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh; the Lord shall have them in derision."¹ And, indeed, were Scripture silent, reason would of itself make it certain that all the efforts of all wicked men, and of all wicked spirits, to defeat and to delay this purpose of God, must be as vain as a child's heaping up sand on the sea-shore to stop the flowing of the tide. To the accomplishment of His great design to give Christ the preeminence in all things, it is of little moment on what side we stand in the contest. But it is of infinite moment to ourselves. We cannot doubt that it is. When Scripture reveals to us that Satan has set himself against this purpose of the Most High; that he is employing all the resources of his own power, and his own craft, to frustrate it—and wielding to the same end all the forces of wicked spirits and wicked men which he has at command, can we think that they only who are openly arrayed on the side of the Evil One are objects of God's wrath? Can we doubt that all who are looking on with indifference at this great conflict, careless about its progress and issue; are also objects of His sore displeasure? That all, in fact, who are not on Christ's side, are regarded as His enemies now, and that, if they be not found on His side before they are taken away to judgment, they will have the portion of His enemies for ever?

It is, then, of infinite importance to us to be sure that we are really on the Lord's side in this awful conflict. And can we be sure of this, if we are not endeavouring to advance His great design by all the means which He has placed in our hands?

Our means of promoting it are widely different; but there is no one who cannot do something to forward it, if he be really anxious for its accomplishment. Knowing that it is through the extension and purification of His Church that Christ is to receive the preeminence destined for Him, we shall be indifferent to nothing by which the state and progress of His Church are affected. As to its internal state, we shall seek in our place to correct its errors, to cleanse its corruptions, and to heal its divisions. We shall mourn over the evils which we cannot remedy, and pray to Him who can, to abate them, and in His own good time to take them all away. And as to its extension, the great work of making Him known to those who are ignorant of Him will have our aid in every form in which we can render it, whether by labours, or by contributions, or prayers. Both these heads might be advantageously enlarged upon. And the last in particular would afford a natural occasion for speaking of the claims and the wants of the Church Missionary Society. But I have already said that I think it better to leave all such matters to another opportunity, and to other hands.

But there is another mode of advancing this great design on which I am anxious to say something before I conclude. It is one which does not depend on times and seasons, upon the gifts or means of individuals, but which is equally within the reach of all, and at all times; and it is one which the most exalted and the humblest member of the church are alike able and alike bound to employ.

When the Pharisees asked the Lord "when the kingdom of God should come," we are told that He answered them and said, "The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you."¹ Not meaning, of course, that the kingdom which is "to break in pieces and to consume all the kingdoms"², and "to fill the whole earth"³, can be established without observation; but that its first approaches are unobserved: it *cometh not, with observation*⁴—it does not come in those great outward changes which men can mark and point out to each other, but by being established in the hearts of men—"the kingdom of God is within you."⁵

Dan. ii. 35.

⁵ Luke xvii. 21.

The world within us, as the world without us, has passed from the sovereignty of its rightful Lord, and is under the dominion of His enemy. Indeed, he only continues the ruler of the world without us, because he is enthroned in the breast of every fallen son of Adam. And until the usurper is cast down within us, and the rightful Lord restored, the outward extension of His kingdom is doing but little to advance God's great design of giving Him the preeminence in all things. Here then is a way in which each of us may do something to advance this great purpose of the Most High—by giving to Christ the preeminence in our own hearts. When we have really done this, we have done something to advance God's great design. And moreover, when we have done this, and He has the preeminence in all things really in our hearts, nothing that we can do to secure to Him the preeminence without us will be wanting. While, on the other hand, until He has the sovereignty in our hearts, every effort that we make to obtain it for Him in the world without, must be insincere or self-deceiving. We know, for we are told, that if we give all our goods to feed the poor, yea, our bodies to be burned for them, and have not charity—the principle of love really in our hearts—it will profit us nothing.¹ And so it is here. We may labour, and labour successfully, in extending the kingdom of Christ, and in carrying the cross of Christ into distant lands. We may aid in giving the Word of Life to those nations which are perishing for lack of knowledge. "But if He do not rule in our own hearts, if His cross be not planted there, if His word be not engraven there, then are we ourselves aliens, miserable aliens, from that kingdom; and at the last, when *many shall come from the East and from the West, and from the North, and from the South*²—brought in, it may be, by the Missionary labours in which we have been aiding—and shall sit down with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the kingdom of God, we ourselves shall be cast out."³

Besides, therefore, and before all that we do to advance the cause of Christ in the world without us, we are bound to surrender our own hearts to His dominion. And if we would know upon what side we really are in the great conflict which is going on in the world without us, this is the first question that we have to ask—we have to examine our own hearts, and see whether Christ has there the preeminence in all things. He certainly had not always. Has He now? They did not always render homage to Him as their rightful Lord. Do they now? Can we take up the word of His ancient people and say, "O LORD our God, other lords beside Thee have had dominion over us : but by Thee only will we make mention of Thy name.”¹

And we must begin at the foundation, and ask, Has He the preeminence in our justification? Have we been made to feel that we are sinners—sinners in thought, word, and deed, against His Divine majesty ; violators of His holy law, having done what He has forbidden, and left undone what He has commanded ; rebels in heart, even more than in outward act ; defrauding Him even more of love than of obedience ; and offending Him even more by the state of our affections than by the course of our lives—condemned, righteously condemned, without the power of defending ourselves ; lost without the power of delivering ourselves ; helpless, hopeless, and undone? It is very easy to say all this. But have we been made to feel it? And have we been made to feel the sufficiency of the help and deliverance which God has provided for us in Christ Jesus? Have we received our justification—our pardon and acceptance with God—as wrought for us and purchased for us by Christ—as His work and His gift ; and, casting away every other ground of dependence, are we cleaving to Him and trusting in Him alone?

If He is not thus your sole ground of dependence before God, but is joined with something else as the foundation of your hope—something that you have done, or that you are to do ; something to be wrought by you, or something to be wrought in you—then are you defrauding Christ of the preeminence in your justification, which is His undoubted right. And if you are withholding it from Him there, you cannot give Him the undivided sovereignty in your hearts. And if He is not sole lord there, He is not lord at all. He has Himself declared it. We cannot serve two masters. We may deceive ourselves, and believe that we are serving both. But we are really the slaves of one. As long as you are attempting to do so, you are building on the sand ; and your wisdom lies not in attempting to improve the edifice, but in taking it down and building it anew, founding it upon the Rock.

And if you have done this, if you have given and are giving to Christ the preeminence in your justification, you will be enabled to give Him the preeminence in all things. Within us, no less than without us, the work of securing it for Him is a gradual work, and every child of God has to mourn how slowly it advances, and through how many hindrances, and with what delays. But he has the happiness to know that the same Almighty power is engaged in advancing it within as without ; and that if we put ourselves in God’s hands, and surrender ourselves to the leadings of His Holy Spirit, this work will advance steadily to the end. And though within us, as without us, we see not yet all things put under Him, yet we know that, within as without, all things shall be made subject unto Him, that every imagination and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God shall be cast down, and every thought brought into captivity to the obedience of Christ¹; and that at the last, in God's own good time, all His enemies shall be put under His feet.² And we may comfort one another with these words.³

REPORT,

&c. &c.

THE Committee commence this their Annual Report with special thanksgiving and praise to God, that, during a year of unusual tumult and distraction in the Church and nation, the interests of this Society at home have prospered beyond any former year; and that the success abroad has been at least as great as it has ever been the privilege of former Committees to record.

STATE OF THE FINANCES.

INCOME.

The Income of the Society for the year ending March 31, 1851, arranged under the usual heads, has been—

I. GENERAL FUND — Associations, Benefactions,	£	s.	d.
Legacies, &c.	99,006	14	3
II. SPECIAL FUNDS—
Disabled Missionaries', &c., and Missionaries'
Children's Home	1995	13	7
China-Mission	894	1	5
		2889	15 0
Total of direct Contributions to the Parent Committee,	101,896	9	3
III. LOCAL FUNDS, raised and expended in the Missions,	10,356	9	4
Grand Total. . . .	£112,252	18	7

This statement exhibits an increase over last year of 7979*l.* 11*s.* 9*d.* An encouraging fact connected with the increase is, that the contributions from Associations have exceeded those of last year by 6398*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*, having amounted to 80,753*l.* 14*s.* 11*d.* This is a larger sum than has ever before been received through the Associations, except in the year 1839-40, when a special effort was made to supply a deficiency, and to meet the expenses of the awakening at Krishnaghur. This source of income, as indicating the confidence of Christian friends throughout the country in the principles and proceedings of the Society, is the true index of our prosperity, and a ground of special gratitude to the Lord.

The Goodwin Fund.

In addition to the general Income of the Society, the Committee have to record, with gratitude to God, an important benefaction of 15,000*l.* Consols, invested upon a separate trust by the late Miss Goodwin, of Blackheath, for the purpose of contributing to the comforts and welfare of the widows and orphans of deceased Missionaries of the Church Missionary Society, beyond the regulated allowances which the general rules of the Society provide; such cases being recommended by the Committee to the trustees of the fund.

EXPENDITURE.

The Expenditure of the Society has greatly increased during the year, having amounted in the gross to 104,753*l.* 14*s.* 11*d.*, which exhibits an excess of 6886*l.* 7*s.* 5*d.* over the expenditure of the preceding year. This excess is in some measure accounted for by a larger amount of foreign bills than the regular proportion happening to fall due within the year. But the greater part of the excess is owing to the increased operations of the Society in its various Missions; and forms an urgent call upon our friends to increased exertion for augmenting the general income of the Society, to meet the demands which arise from the enlarged blessing which the Lord vouchsafes to our Missions.

Part of the surplus of the income has been transferred to the Capital Fund: the remainder will be employed in the maintenance of the Missions.

SPECIAL FUNDS.

Fund for Sick and Disabled Missionaries, and for providing a Home for the Children of Missionaries who have died in the service of the Society, or who are still labouring abroad—This Fund is supported partly by the interest of funded property specially contributed or set apart for this purpose, and to be applied to no other objects, and partly by voluntary annual contributions. It will be seen, by the financial account, that the expenditure out of this fund has amounted in the last year to 6924*l.* 19*s.* 1*d.*; while the income of the fund has reached only to 1995*l.* 13*s.* 7*d.*: the excess, amounting to 4929*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.*, has been taken out of the General Fund.

The Committee venture to entreat their friends to bear in mind the special claims which this fund has upon the sympathy of Christians at home. It was established as a separate fund, that no part of the General Fund of the Society might be withdrawn from the direct work of Missions. And where-ever this fund has been brought specially before the friends of the Society, many have been found willing to contribute liberally to an object so touching to the heart, without diminishing their aid to the active labourers of the Society.

China-Mission Fund—The expenses of the China Mission will be henceforth defrayed out of the General Fund of the Society. The invested sum of 10,000*l.* Consols is reserved for the time, to which the Committee anxiously look forward, when the Lord may open a way for the extension of Missions into the interior, or may grant such a blessing to the labourers at the open Ports, that a sudden demand may arise for an increase of expenditure, as in the case of Krishnaghur, and other special occasions in the history of the Society.

Capital Fund—The Committee have from time to time referred to the essential importance of this Fund in the financial operations of the Society, arising from occasional inequalities in the rate of income and expenditure, and also from the annual deficiency of the funds during the early part of each financial year; since, while the expenditure is equable throughout the year, the income chiefly flows in at the close. The want of such a working capital a few years ago involved the Society in serious difficulties; and it was strongly recommended by the Finance Committee, in the year 1840, that a Capital Fund should be formed, amounting to about one-third of the home income. Special contributions have been made to this fund from time to time, and the surplus of income in the present and former years has gone to its augmentation, till it has now reached the proposed amount. The trustees of this fund are charged with the special duty of guarding against its permanent diminution, by requiring the Committee at the close of each year to replace the amount which has been borrowed from it, or at least to make provision for its early replacement.

Jubilee Fund—Since the last Report a few contributions have been added to this Fund, making up the amount, since the commencement, to 57,845*l.* 2*s.* 4*d.* The distribution remains as explained in former Reports.

ISLINGTON INSTITUTION.

The Principal's Annual Report bears testimony to the general healthful state of the Institution. The appointed studies have been pursued with diligence, an increase of brotherly love has been exhibited, and there has been in the main an earnest and prayerful pressing forward to attain the true standard of spirituality and Missionary devotedness.

Fourteen Students have been admitted during the year, while nine have left for their Stations, and a like number on account of ill health, or other causes. The number of Students in April last was only sixteen, the smallest number reported for many years. On this point the Report states—

The Principal is most anxious that the attention of the Society's friends should be drawn to the very inadequate number of Labourers which the Institution, at its present rate of supply, is likely to yield. He feels confident that the knowledge of this fact, taken in connexion with the daily multiplying appeals from every quarter of the globe, will have the desired effect of stimulating special and fervent supplications to the Lord of the harvest.

MISSIONARIES' CHILDREN'S HOME.

"The Home" has been conducted, much to the satisfaction of the Committee, in the temporary houses engaged for the purpose. The number of children now amounts to 32, and many applications for admission remain. The Committee hope that measures will be immediately taken for the erection of a suitable building, capable of receiving all the children for whom admission is sought, whether of Missionaries who are now labouring abroad, or who have died in the Society's service.

DECEASE OF MISSIONARIES.

It has pleased God to remove from their labours in the Missionary field of the Society the following individuals—

West-Africa Mission—Mr. John N. Ashwood, the Medical Adviser of the Mission, died at Freetown on the 21st of April 1850. The Rev. John C. Clemens died at Kissy on the 25th of June, of fever.

Yoruba Mission—Mrs. Van Cooten, wife of Mr. E. C. Van Cooten, died at Badagry on the 14th of May, of fever, after a short illness. The Rev. John Christian Müller died at Abeokuta on the 16th of June, of dysentery.

Calcutta and North-India Mission—Mrs. Hechler, wife of the Rev. D. Hechler, died at Chunar on the 14th of July, of fever.

Ceylon Mission—The Rev. J. F. Haslam, B.A., died at Cotta on the 19th of March 1850, having for some time suffered from affected lungs. The Rev. Charles Greenwood was drowned on the 21st of June, while bathing in a river at a short distance from his residence at Baddagame.

Sinde Mission—Mrs. Schreiber, wife of the Rev. C. C. Schreiber, died at Kurrachee on the 11th of March, of fever.

RETURN HOME OF MISSIONARIES.

West-Africa Mission.—The Rev. J. Warburton and Mrs. Warburton left Sierra Leone on the 4th of May last, in consequence of ill health; and arrived in London on the 9th of July. They were accompanied by Mr. Samuel Crowther, son of the Rev. S. Crowther, who has come to England to be further prepared for employment in the Mission.

East-Africa Mission.—The Rev. Dr. Krapf, having left New Rabbai for Europe, both on account of health and to confer with the Committee relative to the extension of the Mission, arrived at Cairo in May 1850; and, after a short stay in Germany, reached London in July last.

Calcutta and North-India Mission.—The Rev. C. H. Blumhardt and Mrs. Blumhardt left Calcutta on the 27th of January 1850, in consequence of impaired health; and arrived at Gravesend on the 11th of May. Mr. W. Wilkinson left Calcutta on the 23d. of April 1850, on account of ill health; and arrived in London on the 19th of September.

Madras and South-India Mission.—The Rev. B. Bailey and Mrs. Bailey left Cochin on the 13th of March 1850, on account of health, having laboured in the Mission nearly thirty-four years; and arrived in London on the 9th of July. The Rev. E. Newman and Mrs. Newman left Palamcottah on the 1st of June, on account of impaired health; and arrived at Southampton on the 24th of July. The Rev. C. Rhenius and Mrs. Rhenius left Madras on the 13th of March, in consequence of Mrs. Rhenius' ill state of health; and arrived at Southampton on the 21st of April.

New-Zealand Mission.—The Ven. Archdeacon W. Williams left New Zealand on the 21st of December; and arrived at Plymouth on the 29th of April. He was accompanied by Mr. Basil Taylor, son of the Rev. R. Taylor, and by a New-Zealand Chief, Thompson Te Rauparaha, son and successor of the late well-known Te Rauparaha.

DEPARTURE OF MISSIONARIES.

The Missionary band has been strengthened during the year by the following labourers—

West-Africa Mission.—Three Missionaries have returned to their labours in this Mission. The Rev. F. Bultmann and Mrs. Bultmann left Gravesend on the 21st of October, and arrived in Sierra Leone on the 2d of December. The Rev. T. Peyton and Mrs. Peyton, accompanied by Mr. James Quaker, an African Assistant in the Grammar School, left the same place on the 18th of November, and arrived at Sierra Leone on the 30th of December. The Rev. C. F. Ehemann and Mrs. Ehemann left Gravesend in January, and arrived at Sierra Leone on the 11th of March.

East-Africa Mission—The Rev. Dr. Krapf left Dover for Trieste on the 4th of January, on his return to the Mission, accompanied by the Rev. Conrad Diehlmann and the Rev. Christian Pfefferle, Students from the Institution. At Trieste they were joined by three German Mechanics; and on the 16th of January the Missionary party left that place on their way to Aden. At this place, the Committee regret to say, Mr. Diehlmann relinquished the work of the Society, and returned to Europe.

Bombay and Western-India Mission—The Rev. Charles Christian Schreiber, Student from the Institution, with Mrs. Schreiber, left Portsmouth on the 2d of August for Bombay, on their way to the Sinde Mission: they arrived at Bombay on the 25th of October, and at Kurachi, Sinde, on the 1st of December.

Calcutta and North-India Mission—The Rev. Thomas Valpy French, B.A., Fellow of University College, Oxford, and the Rev. Edward Craig Stuart, B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, left Portsmouth on the 11th of September for Calcutta; and arrived there on the 3d of January. The Rev. C. T. Hærnle and Mrs. Hærnle left Portsmouth on the 1st of October for Calcutta; and arrived there on the 11th of January.

Madras and South-India Mission—The Rev. John Thomas and Mrs. Thomas, on their return to Tinnevely, and the Rev. John George Beüttler and Mr. John Whitchurch, Students from the Institution, with Mrs. Beüttler, left Portsmouth on the 26th of August for Madras, and arrived there on the 3d of December.

ORDINATION OF MISSIONARIES.

Nineteen individuals in connexion with the Society have been admitted to Deacons' Orders in the course of the past year—eight Students from the Islington Institution, by the Bishop of London; two Native Catechists in Western India, by the Bishop of Madras; three Candidates in North India, by the Bishop of Calcutta; five Native Catechists in South India, by the Bishop of Madras; and one Native Catechist in North-West America, by the Bishop of Rupert's Land.

NUMBER OF MISSIONARY LABOURERS.

The preceding statements show that, during the year, four Clergymen and one Layman, beside three wives of Missionaries, have been removed by death; that five Clergymen and one Layman have returned home, five of whom on account of ill-health of themselves or families; that nine additional Labourers—five Clergymen, one Layman, and three Mechanics—have been sent out; that four Clergymen and one African Layman have returned to their labours, with two other Clergymen who had spent only a few months in this country.

The number of Clergymen and Europeans at present in connexion with the Society as Missionary-Labourers, not including the wives of those who are married, is 201, viz.

Abroad—

Ordained European Missionaries	129
Native Clergymen	21
European Catechists, Teachers in Schools, and others,	42

Ordained European Missionaries	8
European Catechist	1

------------	-----

In addition to these there are 1554 East-Indian, Country-born, and Native Catechists and Teachers in the service of the Society.

PUBLICATIONS.

The Committee are happy to report a very considerable reduction in the cost of Publications, connected with an increase in the numbers circulated, owing to the sale of three out of the four Monthly Publications of the Society. The Church Missionary Record is still distributed gratuitously to the voluntary collectors of the Society, and creates a heavy item of expenditure. Friends are respectfully urged to promote the sale of these Publications, especially of the Church Missionary Intelligencer, which contains an amount of information, geographical and historical, upon all the Mission fields of labour, which cannot be found elsewhere. It is sent to every Missionary abroad, and is therefore a medium of communication between the Society at home and its distant branches; instructing or animating all the Labourers throughout the world by reporting the trials and encouragements which the Lord sends to each particular Station.*

* Attention is earnestly requested to the Advertisement of the "Intelligencer" and "Gleaner" on the cover of this Report.

MISSIONS.

WEST-AFRICA MISSION.

(European Missionaries first arrived in 1804.)

Mission Establishment :

12 Ordained European Missionaries.	5 Native Catechists.
3 Ordained Native Missionaries.	48 Native Teachers and Schoolmasters.
1 European Catechist.	4 Native Schoolmistresses.
3 European Female Teachers.

Our Report of this Mission will be comprehended under the three heads which were distinguished in the last Report.

I. PASTORAL MISSION-WORK WITHIN THE COLONY.

The last year's Report stated that, in consequence of the increased number of European Missionaries, the pastoral supervision of the Colony had been greatly extended. The Committee have now to report, that the number of Missionaries has been diminished by the death of the Rev. J. C. Clemens, and the retirement of the Rev. J. Warburton, after an honourable service of upwards of twenty years, during which he has laboured zealously and faithfully for the good of Africa. The Mission has also lost the services of two Laymen—the Medical Adviser, Mr. J. N. Ashwood, who was removed by death ; and Mr. John Johnson, who resigned the office of Industrial Agent shortly after he had entered upon its duties.

The pastoral work throughout the Colony has, however, been maintained in its full extent by Native agency under European superintendence. The following extracts will convey a description of that work.

The New Church in Pademba Road, Freetown.

The Rev. J. Beale, in a Letter dated Feb. 21, 1850, thus gives an account of the new Church in Pademba Road, and its Schools—

The Sunday-school is a monster, requiring a vast amount of energy to carry it out. Could you see us, you would be delighted to see the impetus which is now given to education in this part of the town among the adults. Six months and more have now elapsed since we opened, and the novelty is therefore past, but not the interest felt among the people. Crowds of adults, children, and day-scholars still regularly attend. We are obliged to exclude, or we might have three or four hundred more. Multitudes who never read a letter of a book before, may now be seen, from Sabbath to Sabbath, spelling out the Primer. Fatiguing as it is to preach twice, and be twice in the Schools—such Schools!—we hardly ever miss. The Day-school is already the largest, perhaps with one exception, we have; and the Congregation promises well. In the evening we have not fewer than eight hundred present; and in a short time I doubt not it will be quite full. Many of the pews are let to respectable Natives and Europeans. Our work was never more prosperous in this town. Every Service is well attended, and many are being brought out from Satan to God.

Waterloo and Benguema.

The Rev. C. T. Frey gives some encouraging particulars of the enlargement of the Church in his District—

Feb. 24, 1850: Lord's-day—After the Second Lesson of the Morning Service I had the pleasure of baptizing fifteen female adults, varying in age from about twenty-two to fifty years. They all belong to Waterloo. Eleven are Yorubas, two Tappahs, one Popo, and one is a Timneh, more intelligent than any of the others. Only two can read, but all have been under instruction for years, and have given satisfaction in their daily proceedings. I trust that a work of grace has commenced within them, and pray that He who began it may also finish it.

Jan. 20: Lord's-day—This morning I preached and administered the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at Benguema, the Communicants belonging to MacDonald and Campbelltown also attending. Benguema is still a prosperous Station, and the Catechist is exerting himself in every way to bring things to a satisfactory state among the people. The Day-school is recovering. The Sunday-school and Services are always well attended, "and the Lord is adding to the Church daily such as shall be saved." Lately I have examined the Candidates for Baptism individually, and have been pleased to find that at least some of them were acquainted with their own sinfulness, and with the means to obtain pardon and peace. One man particularly, who formerly acted as Egugu (the Yoruba devil) in their heathenish dances, spoke very feelingly of the mercy of God toward him.

April 21: Lord's-day—This morning I went to Benguema, where I had arranged to baptize fifteen Candidates, nine men and six women. They have all been under regular instruction for some years, and have given general satisfaction by their steady attendance on the Means of Grace. One of them, particularly, I consider a striking monument of the powerful word and grace of God. It is the man to whom I have referred in my former Journals* as having been in the habit of playing and dancing about the streets, disguised with the terrible Egungun mask. Formerly he was glowing with hatred against those who attended Church, and now he is sitting among them in his right mind, humbly and eagerly listening to the glad tidings of the Gospel, and endeavouring to adorn the doctrine of his Saviour by a pious life.

General Improvement in the Colony—Regent.

The Rev. N. Denton, who returned to the Colony in November 1849, after a visit to England for recruiting his health, writes as follows—

On returning to the Colony, after more than a year and a half's absence, I could not but perceive some advance, both in our Mission and in society generally. It might be difficult to fix on any striking facts which would clearly mark this advance; but, from my past acquaintance with the Colony, my first impressions on returning satisfied me that it was so. It is reasonable to expect that a small community like ours—formed of human beings in the lowest condition, and brought at once under the influence of Christianity, of wholesome laws, and commerce—should at short intervals exhibit marks of its advanced position. Such marks, I think, are not wanting here. A larger amount of property held by the Natives, and an increase in their capital, would be sufficient to prove this.

In the Mission I perceive more of a self-acting and self-sustaining element coming into operation. What is now especially to be desired, and for which we should all labour and pray, is, that, with an advance in other respects, there may be upon all our Churches a deeper baptism of the Holy Spirit, producing in the Christian community a higher tone of piety, less of that profession which is but nominal, or proceeds only from excited feelings, and more of practical godliness and true religion. Our work in the Colony henceforward is more especially to build up—not with wood, hay, or stubble, but with living stones—that Church, the foundations of which have been laid upon “the Apostles and Prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief corner-stone.”

We do well to mark every encouraging token that is given; but in our desires for the advancement of the work we should take care not to think ourselves, or to lead others to think, that our progress is faster than it really is.

Mr. Denton's arrival at Regent, his old Station, is thus described—

Nov. 25: Lord's-day—We landed in the Colony yesterday, and this morning I ascended the mountains to Regent, where I was most gladly welcomed by the people, and took the Morning Service. Their congratulations were numerous, long, and hearty. Were we to judge of the spiritual condition of the people by their expressions of joy and thankfulness at the arrival of a Missionary, we should fix the standard far too high. If indeed at any time we would rightly estimate the spiritual condition of our Churches and Stations, we must look much below the surface of things, and apply a more sure test than the excited feelings and religious phraseology of our people. Should we attach too much importance to these, we should deceive ourselves and those who rely on our statements.

During Mr. Denton's absence from Africa, his Station had been necessarily placed under the superintendence of several different persons. Such changes are always attended with disadvantages to the people. He writes—

Dec. 10—I have found much to do outside our house, in clearing away the weeds and bush; and the enemy of souls has not been slower to sow tares within the spiritual field than the noxious weeds have been to grow up without. The state of the Church and town of Regent is such as to require persevering attention.

Dec. 25—Our Church was well filled this morning. The town, during the remainder of the day and of the week, would have been comparatively quiet but for the Colony-born young men and women, who, in different parts of the town, assembled together—at one time filling the air with the sound of the tumtum and dance, and at another arousing the whole of the inhabitants by the noise of quarrelling and fighting. It afforded me no little satisfaction to find that none of my people, neither Communicants nor Candidates, took part in these revels. They were confined, as far as I could learn, exclusively to the Colony-born.

Jan. 6, 1850—I have been endeavouring to probe to the root some of the evils which during my absence have sprung up, by conversing seriously with the principal parties concerned. Their minds so far seem open to receive all I say; and I am encouraged to hope that, with the blessing of God, I may be able to set things a little in order. Having in some measure prepared my way, I shall now set about this—cautiously, but in earnest.

Visits to the sick—The late Rev. J. C. Clemens.

The following are interesting notices of individual cases in the pastoral labours of the Missionaries. Mr. Denton writes—

After Service at Charlotte I baptized a poor invalid woman who has been for many years confined to her bed, and never, it seems, till lately, felt any desire for spiritual instruction or baptism. Her mind, however, has recently been forcibly directed to these subjects. Mr. Bartholomew and the Christian Visitor have been diligent in their endeavours to instruct and prepare her for baptism, for which she was this morning borne to Church upon her couch. As I baptized her, sitting upon the floor—for she was unable to stand—in the centre of the Church, the scene reminded me of the Paralytic in the Gospel, who, in order that he might be healed by the Saviour, was let down upon his couch through the roof of the house.

The late Rev. J. C. Clemens reported—

April 17, 1850—I was called to a dying man, who was a great idolater. He worshipped his idol, and offered sacrifice to him, as long as he was well; but when laid on a sick bed he found that wood could not help him, and wanted to see one of our Christians. He visited him morning and evening, reading the Scriptures and praying with him. The man said that he had renounced idolatry, and wanted to come to me to deliver up the idol, but was unable to walk. The following evening I was called, his son wishing me to baptize him; but when I arrived, his end was fast drawing near. He was unable to speak, and seemed no longer to hear; and as I could not hear him expressing his heart's desire and simple confession of faith, I could not take it upon me to baptize him, but committed him into the hands of God. I then took the opportunity to speak earnestly to the people who were present; and all listened attentively.

April 19, 1850—This morning I was called to an old woman who has been sick more than five years. I found her feet were very bad—she had long been unable to walk; but on looking at her face, how glad, how cheerful! She uttered not a word of complaint, but rejoiced greatly in the Lord. I was struck on calling to mind what I heard this woman was fifteen years ago—once an idolater, now a worshipper of the true God; once a heathen, now a Christian; once a bond-woman, now free; once a servant of sin, now a servant of righteousness; once alienated, now reconciled and adopted into the family of God. The power of the Gospel could be seen; and what encouragement it conveyed to me! I could not but think, if it has this effect on one, why not on thousands and tens of thousands? After talking with her, I read part of Rom. viii. and prayed. When I shook hands in parting, she said, "Master, I am glad! glad! If God will to-day, I lie down and die; if He will to-morrow, I wait to lie down to-morrow. Master! all peace here," pointing to her heart.

May 19: Whit-sunday—On calling to mind the state I was in a year ago, and comparing it with the present, I cannot but praise my God. On this day I got the second attack of fever. Since then, oh, how wonderfully has God dealt! I must say—

Through all the changing scenes of life,
In trouble and in joy,
The praises of my God shall still
My heart and tongue employ.

Troubles, sorrows, change, and joys, have come near, all to glorify God. The Church was quite crowded; and the Rev. S. W. Koelle delivered a good sermon on John vii. 37. After the sermon we administered the Holy Sacrament to about 190 Communicants: it was blessed, I trust, to many souls. In the evening I preached to a good, attentive Congregation on the Epistle of the day. O that all might be baptized with fire and the Holy Spirit!

The following is the last paragraph in Mr. Clemens' Journal, written only nine days before his death—

June 16, 1850: Lord's-day—I performed the duties as usual, in the morning at Kissey, and in the afternoon at Wellington. Thank God! He gave me freedom to speak. Would to God that the seed might bring forth fruit an hundredfold!

The reflections of the Rev. J. U. Graf upon the sad occasion of Mr. Clemens's death are thus recorded—

June 25, 1850—I went into the mountains to join the deputation in examining the School-buildings at Gloucester and Charlotte. Whilst thus engaged, we were startled by an indistinct report that Brother Clemens was dead, which took us the more by surprise, as most of us knew not even that he was indisposed, whilst I myself only thought that he was laid up with a common intermittent, which we do not generally consider dangerous. It was a very cold, rainy day, when I hurried over the hills to know the truth of the report. I was just in time to attend the funeral, and to render what little assistance and comfort was in my power to Mrs. Clemens. I stayed several days in this house of mourning, where just ten months before I had, in the same room and on the same bed, closed the eyes of our Brother Haastrup! These trials are well calculated to remind us that we are still at Sierra Leone, notwithstanding that the sparing hand of God has been mercifully protecting the Mission for some years past. No doubt we especially, who have spent a goodly number of years in this climate, needed this wholesome check to our presuming on long life. May it deepen our sense of dependence on the Lord's daily care and keeping, and stimulate us to lay ourselves out for the Lord and His work to the very best advantage "whilst it is day!"

Reception of the tidings of Mr. Bickersteth's death.

The tidings of the death of the Rev. Edward Bickersteth created a lively interest. His visit to Africa in the year 1816 led to the occupation of the Colony of Sierra Leone as the principal field of labour; and the fruit of his visit now appeared in the fact of a Native Ordained Negro preaching a funeral sermon in Sierra Leone upon the occasion of his death. The Rev. G. Nicol writes, June 15, 1850—

How very sorry we are to hear of the death of our dear, lamented friend, Mr. Bickersteth! what a loss to the Church of Christ! But our loss is his gain. As he had been here, and some of our people either saw him, or knew the time he was labouring here, I thought I would preach a sermon to improve on his death; which I did last Sunday evening at Kissey-Road Church. It was crowded by many respectable and intelligent persons, who listened with deep attention to details in the life of this devoted servant of Christ. The Colonial Secretary was present. The people are deeply interested in the mention of such names as Johnson, Nyländer, Butscher, Renner, Düring, &c. Mr. Denton told me he endeavoured to improve on the death of dear Mr. Bickersteth at Regent.* I think it is important that our people should know these things. We must lay before them such examples—such devoted men, who have spent, and were spent, for their salvation, that they may be stirred up to do something for themselves.

Appeal for Prayer.

The Rev. J. U. Graf thus feelingly commends himself and his fellow-labourers to the prayers of the Church at home—

Pray for us—poor, weak, though honoured instruments—that we may be wise to win souls, and have a right understanding in all things; and be enabled, in our private, ministerial, and official intercourse, to adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour. And we pray that the Parent Committee may have grace to wield the helm of home proceedings and of foreign affairs according to the mind of the Lord: and that we all, at home and abroad, may never weary in the work of the Lord; but that our faith, strength, and moral courage may increase in proportion to the accumulation of our trials and difficulties. Happy are we to know that the work is the Lord's, and that it must prosper whether with or without us.

* "Church Missionary Record" for May 1851, p. 109.

II. EDUCATION, AND OTHER PREPARATORY MEASURES ADOPTED FOR THE EXTENSION OF THE MISSION BEYOND THE COLONY.

The transfer of the Liberated African children, hitherto supported by the Government, to the care of the Society, has been effected; but their number is small, not amounting to 200, in consequence of the large emigration which has been encouraged by the Governor to the West Indies. The Lay Agent engaged to introduce the industrial system into the Schools left the Society, as has been already mentioned, soon after his arrival in the Colony.

About 6000 children and adults receive elementary instruction in the various Schools of the Society, in which a knowledge of the Word of God forms a chief part.

A higher education is provided for the upper classes of the youth of the Colony, and for such as are likely to become instructors of their countrymen, in the Grammar-school and Fourah-Bay Institution.

The Grammar-school.

During the Rev. T. Peyton's absence in England, the Grammar-school has been under the superintendence of the Rev. J. Beale, assisted by the Native Minister, the Rev. T. Maxwell. Mr. Beale gives the following Report of this important and interesting Institution—

With few exceptions, our course has been that of steady attention to duties, marked among the students by considerable regard and affection for their Teachers. Among several of the elder students I have reason to believe that this ready obedience springs from the higher motive of obedience and love to God. I have not been able to give more than two hours daily to the wants of the students; and have taken no part in the instruction since the arrival of Mr. Maxwell, except correcting their compositions, and generally overlooking the conduct of the pupils. They have daily access to me after Morning and Evening Prayer; and I have had many serious conversations with the youths who have sought my advice and counsel on matters of eternal moment. After using all the care I am capable of, to prevent their entering on religious duties with other than religious motives, I have admitted nine as Candidates for the Lord's Supper, and one for Baptism. Others are inquiring.

Among those who have been awakened to feel their need of a Saviour are two of the young Chiefs from Badagry and Abbeokuta. The son of the Popo King of Ajido is very anxious about his salvation ; but in both there is a marked difference in their conduct. Formerly they exhibited very heathenish ferocity of temper, were excessively passionate and resentful, so that I began to entertain serious thoughts of applying for their removal from the School. Once the Popo youth, and the one we took from the Barracks, were brought to me with broken heads, and covered with blood. In each case it was really little less than a murderous affray. On this occasion I placed each of them out to learn a trade, only returning at night, pro tem. The Abbeokuta youths have each now learned a little carpentry and shoe-making, and promise to be quite masters of each of these trades before they return to Yoruba. After this I had no more complaints for several months, and perceived a gradual change in their deportment: each became gentle, and much more attentive to his improvement. At length they unbosomed their minds to me, and asked for admission to the Church by baptism. I have since received one of them into the class of Catechumens for Baptism, and I believe neither of them to be far from the kingdom of God. The humble diligence with which the Popo youth now pursues his studies, and the proficiency he is making in every branch of knowledge, as well as his exemplary Christian conduct, hold out the promise of future usefulness. This is the more to be desired, as our friends at Badagry find the tribe to which he belongs very stubborn and determined in rejecting the Gospel message. I have been much gratified with the earnest Letters he has addressed to his father, exhorting him and his people to put away their cruel rites and human sacrifices, and begging them to receive the Gospel from the Missionaries.

In December last we held the public examination, at which many of the Brethren were present, the friends and relatives of the pupils, the Wesleyan Missionaries, and others. The examination gave much satisfaction, especially in Bible History, Geography, History, and Mathematics. A gentleman from the West Indies tested them severely in Algebra and Euclid, and declared that their attainments were highly creditable. He had been present at much larger establishments in the West, which had passed much worse examinations. The plan is in substance the same as Mr. Peyton's, with the addition of a little English composition and Bible History.

We have averaged fifty-five scholars—eight supported by the Society, five belonging to Yoruba, and one to the Timneh ; leaving forty-one paid for by their relatives or benefactors in the Colony, from whom I have received, during this year, 187*l*. 16*s*. 2*d*.

The pupils have been fully and very usefully engaged in the Sunday-schools at Kisse and Pademba Road. Both Schools are advancing in intelligence, and in the knowledge of God's blessed Word.

A plan has been projected for their further improvement, by the formation of two Evening-schools, one at Kisse and the other at Pademba Road. These Schools are held twice a week each: they are conducted by two pupils from the Grammar-school. Each person pays one shilling per month. With part of the proceeds, books and other apparatus are purchased, and the remainder the Teachers are allowed to appropriate to their own use. In August last, the two at Kiskey Road had in hand a balance of 1*l*. The manner in which they disposed of this sum pleased me much. They laid out half the amount in the purchase of two good Bibles for themselves, and brought the remaining ten shillings to me as an offering of the first-fruits of their labour to the Lord. Both Teachers and scholars show the greatest zeal in this good work. They are making very encouraging progress in Writing, Reading, Geography, Grammar, and Bible History.

It may be truly said that these people thirst for knowledge. I am convinced that the Grammar-school will be, in days to come, a vast blessing to this country, and will well repay the Society for all its toil. The forty-one paying students include among them the sons of the most influential families of the Colony. Many of these will never forget their early attachments, and I trust not a few will become the ornaments of our Churches. The week-day connexion draws them together on the Sabbath. At Church I am often delighted to see former scholars, now in business, taking their place by the side of the present students.

Fourah-Bay Institution.

This Institution is in charge of the Principal, the Rev. E. Jones, assisted by the Native Minister, the Rev. G. Nicol. The Rev. S. W. Koelle was absent for part of the year, on a Mission to the Gallinas River.* Mr. Nicol's return to his former position in the Institution caused much lively joy and gratitude.

The course of study embraces Scriptural instruction, Hebrew, Greek, Mathematics, Geography, Mechanics, &c.

There are at present ten students in the Institution, of whom the Principal, in his Report for the half-year ending September 1850, is enabled thus to speak—

All the students are Communicants; and it is a cause for thankfulness that our whole term has passed away without any of the elements of discord. It is my decided conviction that they are growing in grace, and in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ.

At no period of my connexion with the Institution have I felt more encouragement than at the present time. The orderly conduct of our pupils, their satisfactory progress in study, and their apparent interest in the efforts to disseminate the Word of God and the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, all call upon us for devout thankfulness to Him in whose hands are the hearts of the children of men. Knowing the weakness and frailty of our nature, and how often, in the past history of the Mission, our fondest hopes have remained unrealized, I would rejoice with trembling. But knowing, also, that the excellency of the power is from above, "I commend them to God and to the Word of His grace, which is able to build them up, and to give them an inheritance among all them which are sanctified."

* P. lxxxvii.

To this we add the Report of Mr. Nicol.

With but one or two exceptions, the students have shown great diligence and much thought in their pursuit of mathematical knowledge. They have gone through the first two books of Euclid, and in Algebra are now reading simple equations. Hind is our text-book. In Geography, the second class, consisting only of three students, has gone through Chambers's Geographical Primer. Since then, all have joined in taking lessons on the globes twice in the week; and it affords me satisfaction to mention, that they have read carefully through Ewing's Problems on the Terrestrial Globe. The principle and use of Hadley's quadrant have also been familiarly explained. In addition to these their regular studies, I have lately commenced Lectures on Natural Philosophy on Friday evenings; four of which, on the properties of matter, have already been delivered. Joyce's Dialogues is our book of reference.

I must now speak a little of the two Yoruba men who have recently entered the Institution. They pursue their studies with a diligence and fidelity worthy the Christian name and character; and although they entered the Institution with comparatively far less than the usual amount even of elementary knowledge, yet their progress in learning is highly creditable. Their wives come to Mrs. Nicol for instruction in reading and needlework, from ten to three o'clock every afternoon. Their progress is, on the whole, satisfactory.

I have only to add the expression of my earnest desire and prayer that our work may be blessed by the great Lord of the vineyard, that this College may be a nursery for Africa, whence many faithful and pious men may go forth to preach the Gospel in the dark places of this benighted land.

The following is the history of one of the students alluded to by Mr. Nicol: it may illustrate the capacity of the native mind for receiving instruction. Mr. Graf writes, on reporting the admission of the man to the Institution—

He has been liberated these ten years. He was located at Kent, and subsequently removed to Tumbo. Seven years ago he was admitted a Candidate for Baptism, and three years since became a partaker at the Lord's table. He is a married man, a farmer by trade, and by dint of perseverance he has learnt to read, and now speaks better English than most of his standing, yea, and than those above him. He is in the habit of returning from his farm about twelve o'clock, when he studies until two or three o'clock, and returns to his work. From some fancy or other he has learnt to read German, in which Messrs. Bultmann and Frey have occasionally assisted him. We found that he could not only read, but knew the meaning of a great many German words. Wherever he goes he carries with him book and Dictionary, in which he looks for every unintelligible word; and if his Dictionary does not convey a sufficiently clear meaning, he carefully marks the word, and goes in search of a living interpreter. He is a Yoruba. We thought we could not do better than give him an opportunity of further improvement, and only wish that such cases were more frequent. He is at the same time a consistent, pious Christian, and had been recommended by Mr. Young as a Christian Visitor.

Female Institution, Freetown.

The following is the Report of Miss Sass, the lady in charge of this Institution—

The number of pupils is thirteen, six of whom reside in the house. All have made some progress, I trust, and I have been encouraged lately by an improvement in general behaviour, but especially by their attention to the daily Scripture lesson. I am led to hope that its truths are kept in memory, and will, after a while, be as a lamp to their feet and a light to their path.

The Sunday-school has not kept up in numbers during the rains, though in my own class the attendance has been generally good, averaging from twenty to thirty every Sabbath. The falling off has been mostly in the elementary classes.

Kissey Female and Infant-school.

The character of this establishment has been altered, so as to render it distinctive in its object from the Female Institution at Freetown. It now embraces a Sewing and an Infant-school. In the Sewing-school the children, who, in March of last year, were 24 in number, are carefully instructed in the Holy Scriptures and trained to industrial habits. It is under the charge of Miss Hehlen, who also, as time permits, visits the sick people in the hospital at Kissey, and has succeeded in forming a Sunday-school for the women and girls, which she attends every Sunday afternoon. The sick people receive her with much gladness, and learn diligently.

Native Languages.

The Rev. S. W. Koelle has continued his study of the Bournu. He has also extended his inquiries to the dialects of Western Africa generally. In a Letter dated June 22, 1850, he writes—

Since my arrival in this Colony it has been my duty to select a language for cultivation. One chief consideration in so doing ought to have been the relation which such a language sustained in regard to other languages. But how was this possible, most of the African languages being known by name only, and many, very many, even not at all? I was compelled to make the selection without reference to relationship. Now I believe that the Gospel must be preached to all the nations of Africa, and therefore that their languages must be studied; but unless Missionary Societies set apart men for this work, each will labour under the difficulty which arose in my case. I felt, however, that something must be begun toward bringing these languages to light; and having, at the same time, the following instructions—“The Committee look to you to collect important information respecting the whole question of African languages and dialects”—

I ventured to make a beginning. The whole month of April last, it being the vacation of the Fourah-Bay Institution, I devoted to this object, and I have also hitherto continued the work; but, to encroach as little as possible on my Bournu studies, I have sometimes had to work from six o'clock in the morning until nine or eleven o'clock at night. When I started with the subject, I expected to get about sixty languages together in this Colony; but now my collection of specimens comprises already seventy languages, and my expectation is raised to a hundred. Perhaps you are saying, "You must be counting many dialects as distinct languages;" but I assure you that this is, I am sorry to say, far less the case than you may think. My collection of specimens includes the countries from the Kandins in the Zahara down to Benguela, and from the banks of the Senegal East to the Shoa Arabs, yea, even to the coast of Mozambique and Sofala. As it is very difficult and patience-trying to make many of our people understand even the commonest English words, I could not take up too many words amongst the specimens I am endeavouring to collect. They consist of only about two hundred words altogether; but, as I ask the same words in all languages, it will yet be something toward making out the affinity of these languages when I have finished the collection. I must go over it again with different men from those of whom I got the words at first; and not till then shall I consider it completed. You may imagine what trouble I had to find out all these people. My inquiries have made some stir among the Liberated, and many have come of various nations—especially the Nūfi, Idshūmus, Gallas, and Bassas, to the East of the Niger—to beg me to take them back to their countries. Once a number of young men came from Waterloo, and offered to work for me on the road, if I would only take them back to their country.

III.—MISSIONARY EFFORTS FOR EXTENDING CHRISTIANITY INTO THE INTERIOR.

The Parent Committee having desired to reinforce the Yoruba Mission with a few Native Teachers and Christian settlers from Sierra Leone, directed a proposal to be made to this effect to certain individuals who appeared to them to be suitable agents. The following extract from a Letter of the Rev. J. Warburton, dated Jan. 17, 1850, will show how this proposal was received—

It was very gratifying to us to find that all whom you recommended to be transferred to the Yoruba Mission were willing to go thither; and that we have found a pious and tried Communicant who is also willing to go with his wife and family to the same Mission as a carpenter, and who is also able and willing, if wanted, to assist in the important work of a Christian Visitor. We trust that our friends of the Yoruba Mission will be sensible of the benefit, and also of the sacrifice the Sierra-Leone Mission has thus made. We cannot here avoid the remark, What has God wrought, that we should be enabled to help them so largely! This transfer of labourers will tend to strengthen the bond of union between the Missions.

Mr. Beale thus describes the interest excited among the people by the departure of these Christian Natives to their fatherland—

We had a delightful meeting in Pademba Church on the occasion of our brethren, King, Barber, Whyte, and Buddicom, with their families, departing for Abbeokuta. The people took a lively interest in our proceedings. Messrs. Jones, Nicol, Maxwell, and myself, took part in the proceedings. Not fewer than 1000 persons were present. They go forth with the prayers of thousands in this Colony. On the 18th of February, amidst the sobs, and tears, and prayers of their countrymen, they embarked. Mr. King, in particular, was almost exhausted in saying farewell. We see how much he was valued and loved by the people. Without doubt he was one of the most useful in the Mission. I long for the day when men of good common sense, fair amount of knowledge, and fervent piety, shall be admitted into the sacred ministry. He has been many years associated with me as a Catechist, and I ever found him a faithful and useful labourer. I part with him with as much affection and tenderness as if he were my brother. Our people have testified their interest by contributing of their substance: a considerable amount, for them, has been laid out in Bibles, Testaments, and useful books. Mr. King must have books to the value of 8*l.* or 10*l.* Our operations are now certainly taking deeper hold on the hearts and affections of the people than heretofore. They now better understand the nature of Missionary work.

Missionary Tours.

In the early months of last year, three of the Missionaries were engaged, almost simultaneously, in ascertaining the facilities for Missionary work presented by various localities lying between 10° and 7° N. latitude.

Mr. Graf, whose attention had long been directed to the Susu language, undertook, during February and March, a tour into a district of that country, called Labaya, situated due E. of the Rio Pongas, and about 120 miles N. of Sierra Leone. He penetrated into the interior, from the coast town of Burumia, to the capital, Bubuya. On the banks of the Rio Pongas he found some traces of the earliest Mission of the Society, the grave of seven of our first Labourers, and abandoned finally in consequence of the destruction of the Mission premises by fire, at the instigation of the slave-dealers, which forced the surviving Missionaries to take refuge in the British colony of Sierra Leone. Within the last ten years the slave-trade has, under the repressive measures of the squadron, all but ceased there; but Great Britain has not yet succeeded in entering into treaty with the Native Chiefs for its final extinction. Our Missionary's inquiries did not encourage him to hope that the Labaya country was ripe for immediate occupation; but he trusts that his visit has not been altogether in vain, and that he has been enabled "to spy out the land, form acquaintances, establish friendly relations, and give the Natives a favourable idea of Missionaries, and their principles and operations."

In October 1849 three sons of the Chiefs of the Gallinas, a river about 120 miles S. E. of Sierra Leone, were offered, through Commander Dunlop, of H. M. Sloop-of-war "Alert," for reception into the Grammar-school at Freetown. Our Missionary, the Rev. James Beale, learnt, during his interviews "with that energetic officer, what had been effected by our vessels of war at the Gallinas toward the extinction of the slave-trade in that den of human misery, as well as the facilities presented for the introduction of the Gospel." "Some of the enthusiasm," he continues, "of the captain took possession of my own breast, and I hailed this as a providential opening, and felt anxious to see the Missionary corps take possession of that advanced post in the name of the Lord."

Mr. Beale at once resolved on visiting the locality. In February 1850, in accordance with despatches which had just reached him from the Committee at home, and which had remarkably anticipated his own views on the subject, he embarked at Cape Sierra Leone in a trading canoe, as furnishing greater facilities for touching at various points on the coast, though offered a passage both in the Queen's and in a merchant's ship. After a cordial interview with the American Missionaries at Kaw Mendi, he drifted down to the celebrated slave-mart, Shebar. "On this wide water we sang the Morning Hymn, and had Morning Prayer in the canoe."

The Sabbath was spent in the Kittim country; but our brother's heart bled to find that, even amongst the traders from Sierra Leone, all reminiscence of that sacred rest was obliterated. Resolved to lose no opportunity, he gathered the children around him for at least one day's instruction; and, after reasoning earnestly with the adults, prayed that they might be led to repentance and newness of life.

The forenoon of Tuesday brought them to Karsi, a frontier town of the Gallinas, where the demoralizing effects of the slave-trade were exhibited in the impudent mendicancy of the inhabitants. After escaping with difficulty from their importunity, a walk of upward of five hours, through a swampy country, brought our Missionary to Gendomar, the metropolis of Prince Manna, which he thus describes—

As we entered through the gates of the barricade, the town greatly surprised us, the houses being so substantial and well built. We passed through the King's yard, and were welcomed by Bremah, Scoka—the latter is a gentlemanly man—and about twelve of the Prince's brothers. I was conducted to the Prince's house, built much in European style, with board floors, partitions, doors, and windows, all well made. The houses are surrounded with piazzas; there are rooms at each end, with a large open space in the centre; the whole raised about 3 feet 6 inches from the ground, with quite a comfortable, superior appearance. Such I never saw before in Africa. The houses are also furnished in European style, with pier and other glasses, crockery, sofas, chairs, &c.

The Prince was at war with the Zaros—a tribe formed by his fugitive slaves, instigated to continue in rebellion by the Spaniards, who thus hoped to revive the Slave-trade there. Mr. Beale announced by Letter his intention of visiting the Prince; but the latter at once left the camp to meet him, and their first interview took place beneath a large tree, a considerable distance from the town. It is thus described—

Through his interpreter, he informed me that he had come from the war on purpose to meet me, and that now he was at my service, and any thing I had to say he was ready to hear. I told them that God had taught us to love them and their country; and having been made partakers of the Gospel of Christ, which we felt had done us and our country good, we were anxious, according to God's command, to give it to them too. After my address was concluded, the Prince said he had understood, and would send for some other Chiefs, and then give me an answer.

After another meeting Mr. Beale states—

They all silently listened, and then retired to the large tree, as yesterday, to consult. After some time, during which I felt very anxious as to the result, they returned, and I was officially informed that they all approved of my object; but if I would wait till Tuesday, they would send to tell the Chiefs in the other parts of the country; the Prince himself promising to carry the news to those in the camp. As the morrow was the Sabbath, I asked of the Prince permission to speak to his people the Word of God, to which he immediately consented. He sent word afterwards to say that he would not return to the camp until Service was over. In the evening a crier was sent round the town to tell the people that "to-morrow was the Sabbath, and that all the people must come to hear what the White Man had to say to them."

March 10—At half-past ten we began by singing, "I will arise, and go to my Father," &c. We read the Liturgy and a chapter from the Bible, sang a hymn, and I then gave out the text in John iii. 16,

“God so loved the world,” &c. The motley group, of Princes, Chiefs, and people, were very attentive. It was to me a most interesting and novel scene. I was surrounded with many of the King’s warriors and brothers, most of them armed with daggers, muskets, swords, and spears, just as they had returned from the battle-field, with many of their wives and children. I fain would hope that this is the first ray of the rising Sun of Righteousness on this hitherto notorious “land of darkness and the shadow of death.”

On the following morning Mr. Beale was visited by King Robin, of Cape Mount, who has ever been anxious to cement his connexion with England; and he proceeded, after breakfast, to Jiddaro, a town an hour’s distance from Gendomar, variously estimated as containing 500 or 2000 inhabitants.

At length the day came—March 15—when the Chiefs were to give their final decision, as to the residence of Missionaries amongst them. It gave our Agents full permission to avail themselves of the treaty which our naval officers had concluded on behalf of England; and expressed the hope that such a residence might have the effect of putting an end to the Zaro war—a hope reminding us strikingly of the remarkable position which our New-Zealand Missionaries have repeatedly occupied as peacemakers between two hostile tribes.

The following day Mr. Beale started on his return to the Colony by land. On the 7th of February 1851 he writes, in reference to his tour—

We have endeavoured to make our trip to the Gallinas serve for awakening a Missionary spirit in our people, and not in vain. Great interest has been excited, both in and out of the Colony, by it. Up to this time the country people come in great numbers to see me from the Sherbro, Kittim, and Gallinas; and two of the Chiefs have brought me children for education, while others are about to send. In the Colony there is also deep interest manifested, and many are led to cry mightily to God for these lands in prayer. Thousands of the people have been sold and bought in these countries, and whilst there experienced many shocking cruelties. Gallinas especially is regarded by them with as much horror as the infernal pit. Though the Liberated Africans wander far off, and trade much with the surrounding countries, few have dared to visit that land; and those few have generally suffered for their temerity by the loss of their property, and sometimes of their liberty. Hence, of late years none have dared to pass Karsi, on the borders. But the attempts we have been privileged to make for the introduction of the Gospel have awakened among our people a feeling of compassion for them, and now there is no lack of volunteers from among our people for the work. Many, very many personal applications have I had from pious young men of the Vy and Mendi nations, who are ready at any time to accompany Missionaries to their fatherland—men anxious to impart that Gospel which they have received. I have been no less surprised than thankful to see how the Lord is preparing the future Evangelists for the interior of this vast continent. I believe good men might be found ready and willing to go to almost any tribe in Africa from this little plot. In my own Congregations many thirst to carry the tidings of salvation to “the regions beyond.” I have from time to time an opportunity of putting these professions to the test. A few months ago, the Americans applied for help in their Mendi Mission. We made it known, and from those who had already offered themselves to the work we selected three Schoolmasters, a Christian Visitor, and an Interpreter, who, with their families, have entered upon their work among the inhabitants of that benighted land. Letters from the Missionaries express the warmest thanks for this help. I am now just sending them two mechanics—sawyers—members of my Church.

These men have not attained much knowledge, beyond reading and writing, and a fair amount of Scripture; yet they all, I trust, love the Truth, and out of a fervent heart can testify, in their own tongue, what they have known and experienced of the Word of Life. Such, in my opinion, though not learned, will be most useful labourers in the Lord’s vineyard. The Truth will be doubly forcible when presented to the Heathen in their own tongue, and by their own brethren. Multitudes of such labourers we might send forth at any time. To the Church at home they may appear unfit; but when it is remembered that they are as much in advance of their countrymen as our own Ministry at home are above the people, the case alters, and a fitness is found, I think, suited to the circumstances of the people. On my going to the Gallinas, one of the above men entreated me, almost with tears, to allow him to accompany me—if I could only allow him “to go and speak one word for Christ to his country people with stammering tongue.” “Master,” said he, “no more than I want. I sorry for my country people.” Besides his food he declared he would look for nothing. This is an African, be it remembered! I sent him some months ago to the Mendi country. The Missionaries write—“We thank you much for J. J.: he is just the man we want. He talks to the country people, prays with them, and in every place around the Mission publishes with great power a Saviour’s love.” At a later date it is added—“I would not part with J. J. for four times his salary.” With the assistance thus rendered from our Colony, these Missionaries are about to “lengthen their cords and strengthen their stakes.” They propose shortly to advance further into the interior.

Perhaps my remarks may be remembered respecting my reception by the King of the Sherbro—Caulker—at Bendo, and his desire for Missionaries.* Since that he has written to me upon the subject, and sent his people to me several times. During last month he was in the Colony on business with the Governor. On the 27th of January he called upon Mr. Peyton, to place his son at the Grammar-school, and most freely opened his mind to him on the subject of the Society's Missionaries going to his country. He said that he was now anxious to hear if any thing could be done by us for the instruction of his people. We afterwards waited upon him, when he told us that he had now done with slave business and war, and wished the Gospel to come to his country: that the Americans had written to ask him if they might come to Bendo; but that, as I had been first to his place, and he had known us many years, he preferred English Missionaries, and those of the Church Missionary Society: he must therefore hear answer from us, before he could say any thing to them; but if we would not come, he would receive them. Mr. Peyton most heartily thanked him, before all the company, for his kind invitation, and said that his wishes should be laid before the Committee, and an answer returned to him. He has repeatedly visited us, both at Kissey Road and the Grammar-school, as well as attended Divine Worship at Pademba Road. The rapid advance of civilization in the Colony seems to strike him very forcibly, especially as he is able to make comparisons with what it was twenty years ago. Though an old slave-dealer, and involved in the late desolating war in the Sherbro country, which has been kept up for more than eight years, still, from his present state of mind, I should not doubt of his becoming shortly a member of the Christian Church, were a Mission commenced in his land. Of course, if we cannot take up Bendo, we would immediately recommend him to receive the Americans; but as he is closely connected with this Colony—Bendo, his town, being on a central cape, between the Colony and the Gallinas, as well as at the mouth of several rivers; and he and his family having been educated in our Schools—his land would seem to be pointed out as our first out-post from Sierra Leone.

These interesting notices of inviting openings into the interior for the preachers of the Gospel will, it is hoped, stir up the hearts of many to pray the Lord of the harvest to send forth labourers sufficient to occupy the land. For opportunities are rapidly passing away, and sin and Satan are too often beforehand with the agents of mercy, to hinder or destroy their prospects of success. Upon receiving the intelligence of the Gallinas, Mr. Koelle was at once directed to proceed thither, to lay the foundation of a Mission. But just before his arrival a fearful catastrophe had taken place. A Native, formerly engaged in the Slave-trade, was unhappily appointed British Agent at the Gallinas. He was murdered. One of Her Majesty's cruisers demanded the murderers; and upon the refusal of the Chiefs to give them up, the towns of Gendomar and Jiddaro were laid in ruins, by bombardment and conflagration. The Zaros took advantage of the opportunity, invaded the Gallinas, and scattered the people. Prince Manna fled into the interior, and took refuge among the Mendi people. The whole tribe appears to be now dispersed; and it is impossible to say when the country will be again accessible to Missionaries. Mr. Koelle returned to the Colony, to resume his labours at the Fourah-Bay Institution.

Timneh Mission.

The Rev. C. F. Schlenker has been labouring for several years at Port Lokkoh, in the Timneh country, about sixty miles east of Sierra Leone, with few perceptible results. Two Native Teachers are employed in assisting him there. Three children only were baptized during the past year, and there are but forty-two boys and girls in the Schools. It has proved hitherto but a barren soil. From various adverse circumstances—the death of a friendly Chief, the ill lives of nominally-Christian traders, and the enmity of Mahommedans—the Corresponding Committee in Sierra Leone advised the abandonment of the Station altogether. Just at this time, however, circumstances arose to show that the occupation of Port Lokkoh has not been without its fruits, if only as furnishing a salient point for further aggression on Heathendom.

In January last, at the invitation of some of the Chiefs of the Big and Little Scarcies—two rivers northward of Port Lokkoh—Mr. Schlenker visited them for the purpose of establishing Schools in their country. One of these Chiefs had promised “a fine place to live on, rent free, and many children for education.” Another, Bey Yingkah, proposed to put his own son under the Missionary’s care. Mr. Schlenker accordingly left his Station on January 21st, and after passing Tauya, the border town of the Port-Lokkoh territory, crossed the Little Scarcies in a canoe, and reached Mungkeh, the residence of Bey Yingkah, King of the tribe, “a considerable place on the left bank of the river, as high up as canoes can go; for here the river ceases to be navigable, it being full of rocks above.” Mr. Schlenker writes—

Next morning I went to see the town, accompanied by the King. I was much pleased with the people, who seemed to be much more disposed to receive the Gospel, and to have their children instructed, than the people at Port Lokkoh: and it is very much in favour of a School being established here, that there is not a single Mahommedan here: the King and the people do not like nor favour them. This territory comprises a large tract of country on the right and left banks of the river.”

A journey of two days through Kbongoh and Buitah brought our Missionary to Woolah, the residence of another Chief, named Satan Saib, who received him with much hospitality, provided him a comfortable house, and furnished him and his people with a supply of fresh beef and rice.

The day following the Chief sent two men to accompany him to Kambia, a large town lying two hours and a-half distant from Woolah, on the right bank of the Big Scarcies, and up to which point that river is navigable by native canoes. Mr. Schlenker sums up the result of his trip with the suggestion that Mungkeh should be at once occupied as a Station of the Society; and eventually Kambia, as soon as the claims of certain rival Chiefs shall be peacefully adjusted.*

YORUBA MISSION.

Mission Establishment :

4 Ordained European Missionaries.	1 European Mechanic.
1 Ordained Native Missionary.	2 Native Catechists.
1 European Catechist and Surgeon.	8 Native Teachers and Schoolmasters.

THIS Mission has during the last year been strengthened by the return of the Rev. Messrs. H. Townsend and C. A. Gollmer, and by the addition of Mr. E. C. Van Cooten, from England, and of several Native Teachers from Sierra Leone. It has suffered loss, however, by the death of one able and zealous Missionary, the Rev J. C. Müller; and by the death of Mrs. Van Cooten, within a fortnight after her arrival at Badagry.

Voyage of Native Catechists to Badagry.

The setting apart of the Native Teachers in Sierra Leone for this Mission has been already stated. The voyage of this Missionary party to their new destination is one which suggests many deeply-interesting reflections. But a few years ago many of the members of that party had been borne along the same track, as the miserable victims of the Slave-trade, cruelly torn from their country and families, chained, and concealed in ships which stealthily shaped their course to evade, but happily in vain, the vigilance of the British cruisers. Now they were sailing homeward to their long-lost country, a company of free men, in a vessel owned, freighted, commanded, and manned by Liberated Africans, welcoming the British cruisers as their deliverers and protectors. Very striking, also, was the difference in the moral feelings of the two parties. In the one case, it is painful to imagine the dark and cruel thoughts of slave-traders, engaged in their accursed enterprise. But in the present ship's company the Native Catechists, though at a distance from all European help and superintendence, faithfully improved the opportunities of usefulness presented to them, entering into conversation with the passengers, and in this, and other ways, affording to them religious instruction. They assembled them each morning on the poop for prayers, and, instead of the sounds of human suffering to be heard on board a slave-ship, "the vessel echoed with the song of the Redeemer's praise." On the first Sunday they spent at sea, the 24th of February 1850, Divine Service was attended by many of the passengers. Mr. King says in his Journal—

I addressed the people from Luke vii. 2, and two following verses. I took the liberty of pointing to my fellow-passengers, in my lecture, the gracious design of a kind Providence in liberating us by the instrumentality of the friends of the Africans, in all His watchful care over us during our residence at Sierra Leone, and in permitting us to return to our fathers' land, with ardent expectation of beholding the faces of our friends again, a thing which we did not at all expect. I showed them how that the Lord on purpose carried us to be witnesses of His mercies, and to make known His love to our heathen relatives. Many of them appeared deeply impressed.

Mr. King bears testimony to the vigilance of the cruisers. Approaching Quitta, the vessel was boarded by a boat's crew from Her Majesty's ship-of-war "Countess;" at Quitta they were boarded again; and two hours after they fell in with another boat belonging to the same vessel, which, on some delay in the hoisting of their flag, saluted them with a shot. The next day a shot from Her Majesty's sloop-of-war "Ranger" compelled them to shorten sail; nor were they allowed to proceed until an inspection had taken place. On the 11th of March, at Porto Novo, they found two ships lying in the harbour, anxiously watching for some opportunity of escaping with their cargoes of slaves, of which there appeared to be little probability, as, not long after, they met two boats belonging to Her Majesty's steamer

"Hecla," and, subsequently, the steamer herself cruising to and fro. We can scarcely be surprised at Mr. King's adding, "The diligence of the ships-of-war stationed hereabout is such, that even a bird in its flight could scarcely escape them."

Continued Discouragements.

The discouragements at this Station, noticed in former Reports, have increased rather than diminished during the last year. For the first quarter, the Rev. I. Smith alone sustained the labours of superintendence. Mr. Van Cooten, after his arrival, remained for the rest of the year. Mr. Smith, upon the death of Mr. Müller, removed to Abbeokuta.

The Rev. C. A. Gollmer gives the following dark view of the state of things after his return, in a Letter dated Aug. 23, 1850—

As regards Badagry, I know not what to say. Since my return, trial after trial have been linked together, as the links of a chain. Bodily affliction in my own person does not come into consideration; and even the severe trials connected with Mrs. Gollmer's serious illness, &c.—who, God be praised! is nearly restored again, and has commenced to attend to her duties, a modern miracle of God—are not so trying as the spiritual trials that heavily weigh me down.

On my arrival here every thing appeared bright as African scenery, but soon the dark clouds appeared, and cast a dead gloom over our spirits. The love of many seems to have grown cold: this is one source of great sorrow to my mind. One newly-baptized—ten months ago—is suspended for sin; yet I have great hope for the man: he was ensnared and fell, not having faith and strength enough to withstand. Another fell some time past into the sin of drunkenness, for which we must dismiss him: his case, pending now, is another source of great grief.

Again, since my return I have endeavoured to act up to your instructions—viz. "not to give"—with a few exceptions, for exceptions there will be—and what was the consequence? I know not how it is, but it would seem that not only Chiefs, but the people in general, and especially the parents of our boarders, expected "presents" on my return. I brought nothing, and nothing I had to give. They waited and waited, especially as our house was like a hospital—all sick—but nothing was forthcoming. At last, one by one expressed his disappointment—to my surprise, no such thing as a promise having been made on my part before leaving—and one by one called his boy home; so that during the last six weeks no fewer than ten boys have been taken away from us, the parents alleging that they expected presents, and stating that they will not leave their children without profit to themselves.

The adult population is still as averse to God's Word as in former years ; and often I must exclaim, “ Who hath believed our report ? Lord, make bare Thine arm ! ”

Mr. Van Cooten on Oct. 25th writes to the same effect—

I am at a loss what to say about Badagry as a Station : we need it, if only as an inlet to the interior. At times I am disposed to say, Abandon it, and teach this people, by so doing, that it is a bitter thing to reject God’s offer of mercy ; but again I feel it is our duty to continue sowing in faith, and that we shall reap, if we faint not ; or at least others may be called to reap the harvest. I believe God is trying our faith, and would teach us that the work from first to last is His. The people are becoming worse and worse. I fear they are filling up the measure of their iniquity with a quick hand. Many of them look upon us with an evil eye, and would rejoice if we left the place and Portuguese slavers came in our stead : indeed, some of the people tell us plainly to go, and let the Portuguese come, that they may again trade and receive presents, for we do them no good. The Chiefs Possu and Mewu still continue friendly, and attend Church. The others all appear friendly, but I fear it is only in appearance, not in heart. The town is kept in a state of excitement, in consequence of a palaver between the Popos and the Sierra-Leone people, and also the Egbas. I fear the Popos will not rest until they have brought destruction on themselves.

Education.

The Boarding-school at Badagry has been much tried by the withdrawal of scholars to which Mr. Gollmer alludes. Mr. James White, one of the newly-arrived Native Teachers from Sierra Leone, was placed in charge of this School. In a Letter dated Nov. 25, 1850, he writes—

The ignorant parents of the unfortunate children have snatched them away from us, one after another, as soon as they began to make some advance in their studies. This, however, has not discouraged me, but only served to make me the more anxious to train up others in their places. Mr. Gollmer has succeeded in bringing up the children to habits of order and punctuality. Our Sabbath-school is also encouraging.

In the same Letter he thus expresses the feelings of his heart in the work in which he is engaged—

I trust that God has made me to see clearly the honour of being called to this glorious work, and the reward that is attached to every faithful soldier of Christ. Were you to be acquainted with the vast extent of this part of the heathen territory which is yet unexplored by the Gospel of Christ, for want of sufficient means, your heart would bleed, your pity would be excited, and you would not cease to pray that the Lord would send more labourers into His vineyard for the extension of His kingdom. The number of officers in this part of the work is inadequate to the wants that are felt. I am called to bear a hand in this important matter : at least, I flatter myself so.

But the following queries naturally arise. Who am I? How weak and inefficient for so noble an undertaking! But what objections can I advance, which the all-wise God cannot refute? Moses' objection, that he was not eloquent, did not fail to meet with an answer. O that I were more zealous and devoted! O that I were more guided by the influences of His Holy Spirit!

Missionary Tours.

It was part of the Instructions given to Mr. Van Cooten, that he should visit the various towns in the vicinity of the Station. This employment opened a new source of encouragement and interest. In the Letter already quoted he writes—

I determined, on my restoration to health, to make the most of the blessing granted, and therefore set out to visit the towns and villages around Badagry on foot. Up to the present time I have visited some sixteen, and in most have been well received, and have had an opportunity of bringing before very many people the plan of salvation, and making known to them the blessed Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. Many of them had never heard it before, and several of the places had not been visited by a White Man. It pained my heart much to think that they might be months or years before they heard God's Word again. I cannot tell you the deep sorrow that filled my heart. Many asked me how they should find the way I had told them of, unless some one was with them to teach them.

In a subsequent Letter, Nov. 27, Mr. Van Cooten alludes to the same work in these words—

Badagry, as a Station, is important, and I would on no account abandon it. There is ample work for one Missionary, to visit the thousands around Badagry, as from a centre, in many towns and villages: it should be kept, therefore, if only as a key to unlock the interior. The country-people are willing, very willing, to hear: in almost every place I have been to I have been received with gladness. Since the 1st of October I have visited twenty-five towns and villages, some of them twice. War has closed the road against me in many places, or I should have gone to many more. God willing, I purpose visiting, next week, an old town called Adu, and others from thence. I am anxious, also, to visit Porto Novo, but in consequence of war I cannot go there yet.

ABBEOKUTA.

Persecutions.

In the last Report an account was given of a severe persecution against the converts in some parts of the town, which was only quelled by the authority of the superior Chiefs. Upon Mr. Townsend's return to Abbeokuta, after his visit to Europe, he met the assembled Chiefs, and remonstrated with them upon the late persecution, stating that if the persecution had succeeded the Missionaries would have been driven from the country, and the hopes and benevolent exertions of the Queen and people of England would have been frustrated. The Rev. S. Crowther then introduced to the Chiefs Mr. King and Mr. Barber, who had just arrived from Sierra Leone, and then remarked, "Had you, by the late persecution, compelled the Missionaries to quit your town, would the parents of these men, now sitting before you, have had the pleasure of seeing their children again? And thus might you have shut the road against many who might hereafter come from Sierra Leone." He next alluded to the preciousness of that invaluable treasure sent to them by Her Majesty, viz. the Bible, affirming that had there been any thing beside, which constitutes England's happiness and greatness, the Queen would undoubtedly have added it for their good. After this, Sokenu, the General, or the first in rank among the War Chiefs, with the approbation of the rest, stood and spoke to this effect—That they were deeply afflicted for what had lately occurred; that, small as a family may be, and however few the inhabitants of a town, we always find persons of different dispositions among them; much more in such a populous and extensive town as this, comprising people of various towns. What had happened, he affirmed, was by no means with the consent of the majority, neither were they at all pleased, but it was done by certain people of rough character. To corroborate this, he questioned Sagbua if he did not send, as soon as the tidings came to him, to put a stop to the matter; to which the latter responded in the affirmative. He then begged the Missionaries not to be grieved, neither to let that spoil their minds, but to go on; and he concluded by assuring them that such should not happen any more.

Notwithstanding, however, this assurance, there continued throughout the year to be indications of a persecuting spirit on the part of some; and at the close of the year it again broke out into open violence in Mr. Crowther's District. Mr. Gollmer writes, Dec. 2, 1850—

At Abbeokuta, according to Letters received this morning, persecution is still going on at Igbore. The cause, Mr. Townsend says, is the close blockade of Lagos, in consequence of which the Slave-trade is almost done for in that dreadful den of iniquity. The slave-traders can ship no slaves, and therefore refuse to buy any more—of 135 only 7 were sold last market—which so much enrages the head slave-trading Chief at Abbeokuta, that he seeks to annoy, defeat, and drive away, if possible, our friends, by threatening even death, as he has done the last few days, to every one who dared to go to Church. However, four persons, Mr. Crowther tells me, came in spite of this law, and others went to Ake and Ikija Churches. Three good men from Mr. Crowther's district came to take refuge here, their relatives and friends persecuting them. May God strengthen the faith of our converts to remain steadfast and faithful! I often long to see something of these unmistakeable signs of God's work here; but, oh! what a dreary field! what a barren soil! what a fruitless tree! Yet we, with our work, are God's.

This attempt to renew persecution was soon quelled, chiefly through the arrival of the British Consul, Captain Beecroft, at Abbeokuta, who effectually stirred up the Chiefs to protect the converts, and gave additional confidence to the Sierra-Leone people settled in the town. Mr. Crowther, also, in a Letter from Abbeokuta, dated December 5, 1850, writes—

It will be a cause of much joy to you, as we ourselves feel it to be in this country, that, in the midst of much trial and affliction from the emissaries of Satan, our converts stand steadfast in the faith, and are, as it were, more riveted into the Church, and their faith seems to take a firmer hold of Christ since the last persecution than ever. Those afflictions surely did not come from the dust. Only one baptized convert has relapsed since the persecution. Last Sunday week I administered the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and it did my heart good to see sixty Communicants present to commemorate the dying love of Christ our Saviour. What a proof that no carnal weapon formed against the Church shall prosper, for the Lord our God is faithful. Though, at the present time, the enemy is making an effort to detach if possible some people from the Church, yet we are persuaded that every attempt of this kind will tend to the furtherance of the Gospel, and to the hinderance of his own cause.

The Native Christians have become as beacons to their idolatrous brethren and relatives, both in their conduct and conversation, and in their love to each other. We beg a continual interest in your prayers, that large blessings may descend upon us from above.

Threatened Attack of the King of Dahomey upon Abbeokuta.

The King of Dahomey, whose country adjoins Yoruba, has long been at war with the Egbas. It was this war which for eighteen months after their arrival on the coast detained the Missionaries from proceeding to Abbeokuta. Upon the destruction of Okeodan the Dahomians threatened that their next expedition should be against Abbeokuta. And when the British Consul, Captain Beecroft, and Commander Forbes, visited Dahomey in the course of last summer, the King persisted in his determination to invade Yoruba, notwithstanding all the remonstrances which could be addressed to him. He advised the Consul to send away the British subjects from Abbeokuta. Captain Forbes communicated this intelligence to Commodore Fanshawe, who immediately sent a message to the King of Dahomey, warning him against doing any injury to British subjects, whether Europeans or Natives. At the same time the Commodore most considerately sent two vessels-of-war to Badagry, with an offer of such protection as could be afforded to the Missionaries, in case their lives or property should be endangered. The naval officers who visited Badagry sent letters to the Missionaries in Abbeokuta, offering to conduct them in safety from the scene of warfare, or to send them arms and ammunition for their self-defence. The Missionaries gratefully acknowledged this kindness in a Letter to Commander Strange, dated September 28, 1850, in which they state—

We feel greatly indebted to Captain Adams for his kind orders regarding us, and to you, Sir, for communicating the same. Our position here is such, that we fear the possession of ammunition would not avail for self-defence. We reside in a town consisting of probably 50,000 people; and I am happy to say we have every assurance from the Chiefs and people of their attachment and faithfulness: we therefore do not apprehend any thing from them. Should the King of Dahomey invade the country, I am afraid our feeble efforts would not turn the scale either way by the use of fire-arms, and therefore we think it will be our safest and best plan to depend upon the Natives for protection. Should, however, any change in our affairs render it desirable, we shall with thankfulness avail ourselves of your kind offer.

The account of the arrival at Abbeokuta of the Missionary party whose voyage along the coast has been described, is deeply interesting. About three hours' distance from the city they met the most advanced of the many groups who had come out to welcome them: first the young men who were training for Schoolmasters; then a party of Sierra-Leone people; then some Natives and School-children; and thus, like Paul when he met the brethren at Appii Forum, on his way to Rome, they "thanked God, and took courage." Mr. King says—

March 30, 1850—About one o'clock we entered the town. Our arrival caused great joy indeed among the people. Could the friends of Africa have witnessed the scene to-day, and heard the many blessings the people implored upon their heads for the return of those whom they had given up for lost, they would have seen how much their services are regarded. The people are deeply sensible of the good that the British Government have done by their generosity in freely restoring their children to them from slavery. Mr. Crowther's house, where we first came, was entirely crowded. The road from Igbein, Mr. Crowther's Station, to Ake, leads through a market. We could hardly walk, for too many people, till we entered the yard.

And here occurred a peculiarly interesting scene. As Jacob, when he fell on the neck of Joseph, whom he had found after having lost him for so long a time, so long separated relatives unexpectedly met and wept together in the streets of Abbeokuta. Mr. Crowther had thus his aged mother restored to him, and now a like event occurred to Mr. King. He thus speaks of it—

Among those who came to meet us in the way was my aged mother; but she was too old to recognise her son among the crowd. When I was pointed out to her, so much was she overcome by her feelings, that she sat down in great amazement, weeping, while all the by-standers were rejoicing with her, and blessing the people of England on my behalf.

There was this difference, however: Mr. Crowther's mother, when found by him, was still a dark heathen, although his efforts were afterward blessed to her conversion; but Mr. King's mother had already heard, and valued, and embraced the Gospel. As she rejoiced amidst her tears, she knew where her gratitude should be directed; and, as she embraced her son, felt the more strongly the love of Him who gave His only-begotten Son for sinners of every nation under heaven. Mr. King thus notices his first Sunday at Abbeokuta—

April 7: Lord's-day—Psalm xiii. 5. "My heart shall rejoice in Thy salvation." This, indeed, was the language of my heart to-day, when kneeling, together with my aged mother, at the Communion-table, as partakers of those holy pledges of our Saviour's dying love.

I had a sight of the Sabbath-school at Ake to-day. The Church was crowded to the door with people who, with glowing desire, were diligently applying themselves to read the Word of Life. So striking was their eagerness to acquire knowledge, which I particularly observed, that after commencing their lesson scarcely would any be found looking from his book until the signal for a close. Nothing was more pleasing than to see old and young actively employing themselves. Among them was the mother of the Rev. S. Crowther, and his two sisters. The Congregation at the public service was still more encouraging. Not only was there no vacant space, but all were closely seated. Reflecting on the shortness of this Mission's establishment—that only a few years ago this people were worshippers of strange and divers vanities—we cannot help exclaiming, What has God wrought! and what change has Divine grace accomplished! The Lord, by the labours of His servants, has achieved and is accomplishing miracles of wonders among the people. I am constrained to say, that nothing less than the conviction of an eye-witness will entirely banish from the mind every suspicion that there may be an exaggeration in the statements of the Mission operations in this place.

Baptisms.

Mr. King thus describes the first public Baptisms which he attended in Abbeokuta—

May 19—I went down to Igbein this morning after the Sabbath-school, where I met them at the Service. The Church was quite crowded. A short time after my arrival the Baptismal Service in Yoruba commenced, which was indeed a most solemn and delightful sight. The individuals to whom the Sacrament was administered were thirty in number—twenty-six adults and four children. The adults had decently dressed themselves in white, both men and women; and the children likewise had nice frocks. The whole of the Services already translated were read with peculiar emphasis by my venerable friend. Scarcely did I ever witness a scene more gratifying. My joy was truly inexpressible. The only language of my heart was, “O that the friends of the Africans could witness this! They would, beyond all doubt, be assured that their prayers and services are had in remembrance in the sight of the Lord, by what the Great Head of the Church is accomplishing among our benighted countrymen.” All these adults, thus now initiated into the visible Church, have been in a great measure tried and proved in the furnace of the late persecution, so that their sincerity, humanly speaking, is not at all to be disputed. After this, Mr. Crowther preached a sermon suitable to the occasion from Acts ii. 37, and some following verses. The season was to us all a time of great joy, of which I trust that the angelic hosts had a share.

Death of the Rev. J. C. Müller.

Mr. King gives an affecting account of the illness and death of Mr. Müller.

May 26: Lord's-day—I went to Ikija this morning, to take the Service, as the illness of the Rev. J. C. Müller, which was getting slack before, has fearfully relapsed, so as to confine him to bed again. The sight of the Sabbath-school and Congregation was indeed encouraging. The whole piazza, about seventy feet in length, and some of the rooms, were entirely crowded with people. I addressed them from John xi. 35, showing that it was pity for our miseries that brought Christ down to undertake the work of our redemption: it was the same that filled His heart when He wept at the grave of Lazarus, as well as when expiring on the accursed tree: and it is the same that brought His servants among them to be sick and die. The people were deeply attentive. Their very appearance even encourages one to speak more than he intended. It is indeed a soul-feasting matter to address people like this. In like manner I found them on the two following Sundays—a new flock that Mr. Müller was just collecting before the relapse of his acute and severe sufferings.

June 16: Lord's-day—Mr. Müller, to the inexpressible sorrow of all, after the utmost endeavours of the friends in employing every means for his recovery, breathed his last this morning about six. To effect his recovery there was no means left untried, except what was not within his friends' reach. From about ten days previous to his death the Rev. D. Hinderer was with him till he expired. As a zealous and faithful officer, Mr. Müller gallantly fell in the field of labour. We may with justice exclaim, with the royal Psalmist, "How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battle!" His zeal and compassion towards perishing sinners made him to be unmindful of his personal safety. While making many dead sinners become partakers of spiritual life, he gave up his own, in imitation of his Divine Master. At the interment of his remains the following morning, the whole of our Church members in the three principal Stations of our Mission, together with great numbers of the emigrants, were present. This mournful event, being the first death of an European here, brought great numbers of the Natives, who, in addition to those above mentioned, formed the grand and numerous procession. The Chiefs also were not unmindful of our affliction and bereavement.

Instances of the Power of the Gospel.

The Rev. H. Townsend, in a Letter dated Nov. 8, 1850, reports some striking instances of the power of the Gospel.

A short time since I baptized a young man, of about one-and-twenty years, who appears to me to suffer from some disease like consumption: he earnestly desired to be baptized, and, fearing that he might be suddenly taken off, I baptized him in his house. This poor fellow has been forsaken in his sickness by all his family. Because he would not make Ifa* for his recovery, they would not render to him the ordinary assistance that they give to a relative in his state; but, afflicted in body, and despised by his family and friends, he held on his way. He gave me a very satisfactory account of the views he had of baptism. He did not regard it as a charm, or as any work of merit, but Christ had commanded it, and there was a blessing in it. He did not wish to be numbered with the heathen in death, but to live and die as a servant of Jesus Christ. In reply to a question I asked him, whether he had felt any comfort in the religion of Christ, he said, Yes, more than he could tell of; that sometimes he laughed for inward joy in the midst of his sickness. He still lives: whether he will recover or sink I cannot judge.

I am sadly distressed at the loss of one of my Candidates: he was shot in battle last Monday, and died immediately. He went to the war because he could not tell how to avoid it: it was a national war,

* Ifa is a supposed deity, represented by sixteen palm-nuts. He is consulted by means of the nuts, manœuvred by a babbalawo, or priest. Before commencing operations, the inquiring parties must evince their faith in Ifa by prostration, and by touching the nuts with the forehead. The priest then gives to some of the bystanders pieces of broken earthenware, or something of the kind, some representing a favourable, others an unfavourable response. Having also whitened a board, he shakes the nuts within his hands, and with the right hand grasps a number. Some are left in the other hand, and the babbalawo makes marks accordingly on the whitened board. He now asks for one of the pieces of earthenware, and declares whether Ifa's answer be favourable or not. The people being ignorant as to what pieces represent favourable and what pieces unfavourable replies, they are altogether at the mercy of the priest's arbitrary declaration. If the response be adverse, the babbalawo says the applicants must sacrifice, and Ifa is again consulted as to what sacrifice he requires. The answer may be a sheep, goat, fowls, &c., as the necessities of Ifa—or the babbalawo—may render most desirable.

ordered by the Government of the country. When he went, he took with him provisions and money, because he would not rob by the way, as is the allowed custom. I suppose they have been upward of two months away, and I have heard that the converts made no charms, met together for prayer on the Sabbath, and in battle were amongst the bravest. I feel the loss of this young man very much: he seemed to be of a decided character, and one that we might have hoped much from. Probably he did much good in the camp by his public testimony to the Truth, and by maintaining public and private worship of the one true God.

Many facts show that the Truth of God is not here scattered to the winds and lost: whether it be on a bed of sickness, or in a war-camp, or in the ordinary avocations of life, our people may be known by their works. We have abundant reason to thank God for His mercies to us, for the blessings He has conferred on many through our instrumentality.

Remarkable Influences for Good.

Mr. H. Townsend also writes, Nov. 28, 1850—

I hope our moral influence is extending, while the influence of a white face is declining with its novelty. It is marvellous how we are enabled to maintain a conflict with the works of darkness, with the amount of opposition that is presented to us. A large number of the governing body and priesthood hate our work, but they are kept in restraint by an influence that they cannot shake off. From time to time some of the most devoted followers of their ancient superstitions, led by a power that the priesthood in vain endeavour to resist, cast away, with the utmost contempt, the idols that have been so long adored. There is nothing secret in our teaching or proceedings: we have no high mysteries for the initiated, to which they can attribute the blame or praise of charms, and they are therefore the more puzzled to account for the powerful influence which our teaching exerts over our converts.

The Chiefs come into our Churches, and are overwhelmed with astonishment at the order and silence of the people; for they cannot, with all their superstitious machinery of government, obtain the like. They see our assemblies regularly attended on a given day at a given hour; that there is no waiting about for each other, but all are in time who wish to come. This also is beyond their power to accomplish: at their meetings half a day is spent in waiting for each other. "How is it?" they exclaim; as if jealous of the power that is thus extended through Divine Grace.

It is impossible not to recognise the good hand of the Lord in the protection afforded to the Missionaries, and in the spiritual blessings vouchsafed to their labours. One very remarkable circumstance cannot be withheld. Mr. Townsend, in a Letter dated Aug. 27, 1850, writes—

There is a remarkable circumstance connected with the spread of truth here, viz. that the great superstition of the nation, the great oracle that is to them as a Bible, has been consulted again and again about us; and has, I am told, never been induced to utter a word against us: from first to last it has said that the welfare of the country is in the hands of the White People, and that they must be permitted to teach what they teach. These oracles, as they are regarded by the people, are in the hands of the heathen Priests, whose undisguised work it was to stir up and carry on the persecution; but they were unable to aid themselves therein by an appeal to the will of their god.

It is customary for them to consult their god at the commencement of the year, as to the events likely to take place in it: not long since this took place for the ensuing year—their years seem to commence with the in-gathering of the first-fruits of the soil—and, as heretofore, the good was to come from the White People.

It would almost appear that their oracle, like Balaam of old, had been constrained to bless, when the priesthood would have cursed. There are other circumstances—less remarkable, but still singular—that would seem to mark a high degree of sincerity in their idol-worship, viz. that several cases have occurred of children, infants, having been dedicated by the heathen oracle to the service of God. The idol is nothing; but the worshipper and the Priest or Priestess are human beings; and they by a certain system arrive at the conclusion that it is the will of the idol-god that the infant should be given to God. It is in the power of the Priest to falsify, but he does not, although unquestionably it would be to his interest to do so.

A short time since an infant was brought to me that had been taken alarmingly ill: the father was one of our converts, the mother a heathen. She did what she deemed right for the safety of the infant, viz. consulted several of the gods; but the only conclusion they could come to was, that the child must tread in its father's steps, and that for its recovery it must be brought to me, to do for it what I could. A party of these heathen therefore came, not knowing what I could or would do, and asked me to baptize the child, supposing that to be what their gods meant. I told them I could have baptized the child, had they sought it as they ought to have done, but now I could not. I however administered medicine, such as I could, for several days, but the child died. The mother and her relatives hated Christianity, and sorely afflicted the father for his attachment to it; but when, on their ascertaining, as they thought, that the will of their idols was that the child should be a Christian, they willingly obeyed. The principles that moved them were, doubtless, faith and obedience towards the objects of their worship.

There is not, you will be gratified to learn, any abatement in the confidence reposed in us by the Chiefs and people generally, at least as far as I can discover; and there is another pleasing fact—that up to this time, although we have been receiving from Badagry what to this people would be immense wealth, yet not an article has been stolen by any native of this place.

Visits to Towns and Villages around Abbeokuta.

The Rev. D. Hinderer was appointed to the Yoruba Mission with a special view to the Hausa language, and to the openings which might exist for carrying the Gospel forward into the Hausa country, on the banks of the Niger. But the hopes which led to this designation have not been realized. Mr. Hinderer has met with very few Natives of the Hausa tribes who would listen to Christian instruction. They are, for the most part, bigoted Mahommedans. The country also is not at present accessible, owing to intestine wars and jealousies. Under these circumstances Mr. Hinderer has diligently devoted himself to Missionary duties in Abbeokuta, and to visiting the towns and villages in the neighbourhood. The following are extracts from his Journal—

July 18, 1850—About eight o'clock this morning I went with the Interpreter and Schoolmaster on a Missionary tour west of Abbeokuta. My way led me all the morning through a large plain of partly grass field and partly cultivated ground, rather monotonous. About two in the afternoon we reached Ibara, a small farmers' town, about ten miles due west of Abbeokuta. Some way off the town I sent Sagbua's messenger, together with my interpreter, to acquaint the King with my coming. They soon returned, with a messenger from the King to say that he wanted me to come to his house. I went and saw him. After a little discourse he brightened up, and soon became friendly and cheerful. Meanwhile a host of people had come together into the yard, and I began to tell them the object of White Man's coming into their country; and every now and then, whilst I was talking, one and the other would exclaim, "Amin! * God help English people to do all this;" after which would follow the joined "Amin!" of the others.

July 19—To-day the King was busily engaged all the time in worshipping his deceased father, so that I could only see him for a few minutes in the evening. Early in the morning a sheep was killed for sacrifice, and I was soon presented by His Majesty with a piece of meat, accompanied by the message, "Therewith the King is worshipping Ifa, and he asks you if you will partake of it." I of course sent it back again, with the message, that I would not partake of it, because God had told us in His Word not to worship such, but to serve Him only. As to-day was the market-day, when people from all the surrounding farms come hither with their productions, I availed myself of the opportunity, during the course of the morning, for the purpose of proclaiming the glad tidings to as many as would hear; and, as I am surely not a head taller than other people, I stood upon some broken mud walls of a ruined house, from thence addressing multitudes of market-people on the subject of bodily and spiritual slavery, and the way God has provided to abolish both. These are subjects which especially take well with the poor farmers, as also with tradespeople, for it is peace they want. In touching on the noble acts of Her Majesty, the Government, and good people in England, when speaking about slavery, I asked them if I must say that I had been in Ibara, and told the people there of all the kindness of God and the English towards them, and that yet, in spite of all this, the Ibara people will continue in provoking God with all their bad and heathenish practices. Upon this they all shouted, "No! God's rule we will follow: so you must tell them." In the afternoon I visited some people in their own dwellings, and everywhere the news of a Saviour who died for sinners was well accepted, except in the Mahomedans' yard. In the evening I saw the King again, with some of his inferior Chiefs, and thanked him for all his kindness, and gave him a little present, by which he thought himself greatly honoured.

July 20—I took leave of the King this morning, and started for Isagga, another farmers' town about seven miles west of Ibara. I exchanged some very simple compliments with the King, whose appearance and manners are very much those of a good, plain, and hearty farmer in England. He soon sent for his inferior Chiefs—seven of them—who immediately made their appearance. I was then asked to tell them the object of my coming to their town, of which I was the more glad, as so many people had come together. The above question put to me, I answered by putting another to my own mind, viz. "What has White Man come for to benighted Africa?" Answer: "To deliver it from spiritual bondage, and give it bodily liberty, through the Gospel of Christ crucified." I gave them also a brief outline of what our noble Queen and good people in England had done, and still are doing, for this country against the Slave-trade, and for teaching them the Word of God, which alone can make people happy in this world and in the world to come. After I had done, the King and his elders bowed their heads and rubbed their hands, as a sign of approbation; whilst other people would praise God, and wish God's help and speed to the good people in England; for though the people hereabout have "gods many and lords many," yet would they, as the Egba people, ascribe all power to God in heaven. It can hardly be expressed how thankful the messenger of Christ in such a benighted country feels, after such an opportunity has been afforded to him to speak of His tender mercies, of His "saving health unto all nations," to a people so cruelly fettered by man and the devil. After I had taken some refreshment, evening came on, and I went out into the town with my interpreter, speaking some Gospel truths to the people, who would always numerously surround us.

July 21: Lord's-day—About noon the King and some other people paid me again short visits, to see how it fared with me. Never did I meet with more of African affection than at this place. In the afternoon I had several visits from farmers, who came from their farms to see me. They would tell me how they were working in their farms far away, and all at once they heard White Man was in the town, and was come for good and not for evil, for he spoke very good words. Upon this their hearts could no more "sit down"—their minds were no more at rest—they must go into the town and see if it was so; and now they saw, and were glad it was all true that had been said to them.

As I intended to leave early the next morning, the Chiefs were again called this evening to assemble with the King and myself: we had again some Gospel words together, and the hearty farmers' King thanked me for a small present I had given him on the previous evening, and asked his Chiefs to help him to thank me, and to express their satisfaction at my visit to their town.

Would to God the above two towns, which contain together, as I suppose, about five thousand inhabitants, might soon have a Missionary, especially as many smaller villages would be within his reach.

Mr. Crowther writes, under date Dec. 2, 1850—

Mr. Hinderer has of late been paying much attention to a populous village of farmers—Esielle—about two hours' ride east from Abbeokuta, where he has resided for the last two months, visiting a neighbouring farm-village. He lives in a part of the Chief's house, who appears to be an open-hearted man; and he is now building a temporary School in the village. He is living there quite well.

Missionary Extension.

Dr. Krapf, in his communications from East Africa, formed the large scheme of traversing the continent with Missionary Stations. The Missionaries on the west coast have not been backward to respond to the proposal, and to offer themselves for the glorious enterprise. Mr. Van Cooten writes, Nov. 27, 1850—

I should like to go half way, and meet Dr. Krapf, and shake hands with him. I have afresh dedicated myself and all I have to this work. Africa is henceforth my home. I desire not to dwell in houses, but to be a pilgrim and a stranger from day to day.* I have one great object at heart—the salvation of the sons of Ham. So I may but be used in this work, I am willing to be like my Saviour—without a place whereon to lay my head.

Ere I conclude, I must record my testimony to the faithfulness of my God and Father. He has dealt wonderfully with me, raising me from great sickness and weakness to health and strength as by a miracle, and enabling me to endure fatigue, which He has made conducive to health.

Translations of the Scriptures, Prayer-Book, &c., into the Yoruba Language.

As a first trial of the Yoruba language, Primers and Watts's Catechism were printed. The Primers contained a few short passages from the Word of God. It is pleasing to find that even in this form the Word was not without a blessing. Mr. Crowther writes, April 19, 1850—

The portions which have been selected for the Primer from St. Luke's Gospel, especially chapter vi. 20, &c., have been a great support to our converts during the late persecutions: They told me afterwards that they never experienced the fulfilment of any thing more literally, than of that portion of the Gospel in their own case. They consequently drew the inference, that as this has come to pass, so will other declarations of God's Word be fulfilled in due time, either in this world or the world to come.

* He here feelingly alludes to the death of his wife. He has since been himself removed by death.

Two months later Mr. Crowther writes, July 15—

We have not, as yet, made use of any of the Psalms in our Services in Abbeokuta, for these reasons—the Congregation cannot join us in their responses, they not having a printed copy, unless we teach them to repeat from memory; and the Congregation being composed of converts and heathen, the latter cannot at all enter into the spirit of our prayers, at their first coming. To accommodate them we have made use only of the Prayers, the Litany, and the Ten Commandments, without the Psalms and Hymns, so as not to be too long at first, lest we weary the inquisitive heathen, who come especially to hear our preaching. But such Psalms as the people under my charge have become acquainted with—such as i., ii., xxiii., xxxvii., xlv., liii., lxvii., xc., xci., xcv., c., cxv., cxxxix., and parts of many others, as circumstances called them forth—have met the feelings and state of our converts beyond description: every new Psalm, or portion of one, opens to them a new treasure.

Perhaps you will like to know how these Scripture Lessons are taught to the people. The chapter or Psalm from which my text is taken is made the reading lesson by those classes who can read from their English Bibles in the Sunday-school: the portion is translated to them, verse by verse, by myself and Mr. Barber, each of us taking a class before Service. Thus prepared, they listen to the sermon with the greatest interest; and when they attend classes of Communicants and Candidates on Friday and Saturday, I require any one who remembers to recite to me the subject of Sunday's sermon, which they vie with one another to do, with very great satisfaction. Thus you may imagine with what spirit they will enter into the Psalms of the Morning and Evening Services, when they shall have them put into their hands in their own tongue. In this way their minds have been fortified against the assaults of their enemies, and they have been enabled, with the blessing of God, to endure all trials with patience and firmness.

I will be diligent in my department of translating the Word of God; and by the help of Commentaries and other books, which are great guides in explaining the Hebrew text from which the English was translated, as by the advice and counsel of my Missionary brethren here, I hope I shall be as near as possible in pioneering the way for a more correct edition, by such as God may raise up hereafter to perfect what is lacking.

The arrival of a supply of the translation of the Epistle to the Romans, and of the Prayer-Book, is thus acknowledged by Mr. Crowther, in a Letter dated Dec. 5, 1850—

We feel very thankful for the promptness with which we are supplied with printed copies of my translations. You can scarcely imagine how useful they are to us in this place. The people of my Church take much delight in the Prayers, to which they respond with one voice, and, better still, with one heart. Since they have been enabled to read and respond from a printed book, they have understood more of our Church Service, and entered into the spirit of the prayers with greater interest. The Epistle to the Romans opens to them the best of treasures: it seems to unfold to them those hidden mysteries which hitherto they have only known by hearing them from our lips. How they wonder at the wisdom, love, and mercy of God! How they wonder at the omniscience of God, who has recorded all their heathenish practices in their exact pictures, as if they had been seen in the country before the book was made, especially the first two chapters, but no less of the rest! I hope you have ere this got St. Luke's Gospel and a part of the Acts. I have sent by the last ship the remainder of the Acts, and the Epistles of James and Peter, which I hope will safely arrive in England, and return to us with tenfold blessings upon this country.

In a Letter written to the Rev. J. F. Schön, Mr. Crowther enters into further particulars.

The first part of the Prayers is now well mastered by the reading portion of my Congregation, both adults and children; and the Psalms and portions of Scripture for Morning and Evening Prayers are responded with life and spirit, just as you used to hear responses in the Church, in English, at Sierra Leone. It has enlivened our Services very much, and the people take great delight in it. Many copies have been sold. I used the Administration of the Lord's Supper last Sunday, when sixty members communicated. They who could read had their books for the first time, and I believe it proved a blessing to them. The Burial Service was also used last week, much to the edification of the surviving members. I expect to use the Marriage Service next week, the banns having been twice published already. You can easily imagine how very useful these translations must be to us. The Epistle to the Romans is now nearly read through by the first class, both in the Sunday and Week-day Schools; and I read a chapter out of it every Thursday-afternoon Church, and Mr. Barber a portion of the Morning Prayers daily.*

* In connexion with the Yoruba Mission we may mention an article in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for April 1851, pp. 73—80, on the West-African Slave-trade, with a chart of the coast; and an article on Dahomey, with an engraving, in the Number for May, pp. 97—108.

Bishopric for the West Coast of Africa.

The Committee have the great satisfaction of stating that the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Secretary of State for the Colonial Department have sanctioned the immediate erection of a Bishopric of Sierra Leone, in case an endowment can be raised, to provide a permanent income for the See. The Committee earnestly commend this object to the friends of Missions, and of Africa especially, as holding out the prospect of a happy consummation of England's benevolent designs towards the oppressed sons of Africa, and a noble prospect for the extension of Christianity in that vast continent, by establishing among them a Native Church in its full efficiency, and providing a competent supply of Native Ministers.

Report for the Year 1850.

THE Rev. F. A. Hildner has continued to superintend the Society's Normal School at this Station. He writes, in his Annual Report—

The condition of the Society's Mission in Syra generally, and of the Schools in particular, has been gratifying during the past year. I feel thankful to God that His Word has still had "free course" with us; that the political occurrences in the beginning of the year, and the national affliction occasioned by them, have not disturbed the Schools and other work; and that, though my health has been weaker than usual, from the frequent attacks of fever, I have been enabled to perform, with but little interruption, the more important duties of my vocation.

The Mission comprises a Middle and an Infant-school for boys, and an Infant, Middle, and High School for girls. These five Schools are taught in one building, belonging to the Society, and still go under the name of "The Philhellenic Pædagogion."

The boys have learnt by heart the Bible Catechism and the Parables; and the more advanced scholars other parts of Scripture. The girls have learnt by heart select Psalms, the Parables, and other parts of Scripture. I have myself, besides Sunday, devoted four hours during the week to the High School, and two hours to each of the Middle Schools, in giving Christian instruction. The general condition of the Schools, and the diligence and conduct of both Scholars and Teachers, have been very satisfactory; and it is a pleasing thought that again a goodly number of children have become acquainted with the truths of the Bible, and that a good number of Scriptures and other Christian books have been carried home by them to their parents and relatives.

Mr. Hildner gives the following retrospect of the Society's labours at this Station—

The Boys' Schools have been in existence nearly twenty years, and in them 1692 boys have been educated on scriptural principles. A good many have been employed as Teachers, and at the present time, as far as I have notice, eleven fill the office of Teacher. Two are here in Syra, one of them in an important station as Hellenic Teacher—where I observed him one day teaching the Scriptures to his boys in a manner which pleased me—and the other having a private School of his own. A third will shortly be employed as Teacher in a Boarding-school. Some teach in Asia Minor, some in the Greek or Turkish Islands, and one or two even in Egypt.

Mr. Hildner thus notices the Celebration of the Twentieth Anniversary of the Schools.

May 3, 1850.—This being the twentieth Anniversary of the Society's School Establishment at Syra, I went to the Schools with peculiar feelings. I wished to celebrate it in a simple, but still in a more solemn manner than usual. I took with me my whole family, and at the end of the usual morning lessons I assembled all the children and Teachers in the great hall of the Girls' Middle School. The sight of more than 400 children is always affecting, but much more so on such an occasion. After an appropriate hymn, sung by all present, I shortly expressed to the assembly the feelings of my heart, exhorting all to sincere and humble prayer and praise, and the Teachers especially to new diligence in the discharge of their holy duties, in leading the young children to their Saviour. Upon this, a few verses of another hymn were sung, and then Psalms xxxiii. and cxlvi. were read by the second female Teacher, followed by a prayer read by another Teacher, in which we implored further blessing on us, and the progress of the Institution. Then all joined in singing, "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, &c." It has not been my custom to invite company on such occasions, in order, as much as possible, to keep away from our devotion all distracting thoughts, nor did I invite any to-day; but it happened that the Prussian Consul visited the School with some Prussian gentleman of rank—and his family—who, being a warm friend of the cause of Christ, and one of the more active promoters of the interior Mission in Germany, took the liveliest interest in our School, and rejoiced in having been present on such an occasion.

Mission Establishment :

- 1 Ordained European Missionary.
- 1 European Lay Agent.
- 1 Native Assistant.

During the past year the Rev. J. T. Wolters has laboured alone at this Station, Mr. C. Sandreczki having accompanied the Rev. J. Bowen in his Missionary tour to Mesopotamia.

General View—Translations.

Divine Service has been held in Greek on the Sunday, but very few of the Greeks have attended. A few inquirers among the Greeks and Armenians have occasionally called upon the Missionaries, one or two hopeful characters being among the number. A small Bible class, also, of Roman Catholics, chiefly Italians, meet the Catechist, Mr. Dalessio, to enjoy the privilege, denied to them at home, of reading the Word of God. But there are no signs of any general impression upon the minds of the people in that crowded emporium of commerce.

Mr. Wolters' long residence in the East of nearly eighteen years, and his perfect acquaintance with the modern Greek language, peculiarly qualify him for the work of composition and translation. The translation of Jowett's "Christian Visitor" has been continued; and the first two chapters of Venn's "Complete Duty of Man"—on the value of the soul—have been printed in the form of a Tract.

Spirit of Inquiry—Imperial Toleration.

Though the apparent success at this Station is very small, the Committee cannot withdraw their experienced and faithful Missionary at the present critical season, when a spirit of inquiry is springing up in all the surrounding countries, which they hope may extend to this part of Asia Minor, so that Smyrna may become an important Mission.

The toleration of the Turkish Government towards all its Christian subjects, and its wise protection of those who are separated from the Greek and Armenian Churches for the sake of Protestant truth, indicate the overruling hand of God in preparation of some great change. The Committee may specially refer to a remarkable document, lately—November 1850—issued by the Turkish Government, which must have an important influence upon the cause of scriptural truth, and may well encourage all Missionary labours within the extensive range of the Turkish Empire.

This document is an imperial firmân for the protection of all Christian subjects who may choose to embrace the Protestant faith. A few years ago, inquirers after evangelical truth were often committed to prison, or sent into exile. They had no liberty to assemble for public worship, or to build Schools or Churches. In cases of persecution or injustice they had no practical redress. Now, the Sultân's charter of full toleration and protection is in the hands of all. This remarkable document contains the following provisions—

Whereas hitherto those of my Christian subjects who have embraced the Protestant faith have suffered inconvenience and difficulties in consequence of the Patriarchs and Primates of their old creeds, which they have abandoned; and whereas, in accordance with my imperial compassion, which extends to all classes of my subjects, it is contrary to my imperial pleasure that any one class of them should be exposed to trouble; you [the Prime Minister] will see to it, that, like the other communities of the empire, in all their affairs, and in all matters appertaining to their cemeteries and places of worship, they should have every facility and needed assistance. You will not permit that any of the other communities should in any way interfere with their rites, or with their religious concerns; and, in short, in no wise with any of their affairs, secular or religious; that thus they may be enabled to exercise the usages of their faith in security.*

Exploratory Tour of the Rev. J. Bowen.

Mr. Bowen and Mr. Sandreczki have performed the very extensive Missionary journey which was alluded to in our last Report. Their overland journey commenced at Samsun, which they reached in an English steamer from Constantinople. Leaving that town on the 11th of April, they proceeded to Amasea. Here they remained on Sunday, conversing with Turks and Armenians, and distributing books to such as were willing to receive them.

Reaching Tokat on the 16th of April, they proceeded next morning to visit the tomb of Henry Martyn. The American Agent, who accompanied them, was of opinion that it had been removed, and conducted them to the place where he conceived it had been. As Mr. Bowen was endeavouring to take the bearings of the spot, a Priest came up, and, learning what they were in search of, pointed out the stone, a few yards distant—an humble, flat, small tombstone in the midst of the Armenian burying-place. Recollections of his devoted life, of the suffering meekness of his character, of the circumstances of his death, the loneliness as to every thing of human sympathy and consolation—but which no doubt only served to bring out more distinctly and powerfully the presence of the Master whom he loved—all crowded on their minds. How instructive to be thus reminded of the character and life of those who in their day and generation walked with God, and to remember that the grave, in which their dust rests, contains the seed of a glorious and incorruptible body!

They also saw the Khân where he died. An Oda Bashy, or steward of the Khân, had been accustomed to speak of him; but with the death of this man, which had taken place two years before, all recollection of Henry Martyn had passed away from the inhabitants of Tokat.

On leaving Tokat they traversed a mountainous region connected with the ranges of the Antitaurus, the mountains around still presenting a wintry appearance. Reaching the Halys, a considerable river at this time of the year, they proceeded along the plateau of Sivas, and, crossing the river by a long, decaying stone bridge, entered the town. A Protestant Armenian, Agob Eguili, immediately visited them at the Post-Khân, and offered them hospitality, and they soon took up their abode in his nice and cleanly-looking house. Their host was an enlightened man, and had an astonishing knowledge of the Scriptures. There are in Sivas between 1800 and 2500 Armenian families. In the villages around are many Armenians, and the spirit of inquiry is rapidly extending itself. They found that the Protestant movement amongst this people had excited much interest. In most places it had been made known, and, here and there, the cause had found adherents. The effect produced on the Mussulman population is very important. Mr. Bowen says, in a Letter dated June 6—

The Turks, hearing of a division among the Armenians, are now and then roused from their apathy, and condescend to inquire what is the cause of the disturbance, and what this new doctrine is. The subject, too, is often forced before the Governors and officials in the provinces, by the persecutions of the hierarchy and the adherents to the old system. This occasions the Protestants to have recourse to the Civil Powers for protection; and this gives an opportunity of declaring before the Mussulmans many of the truths of the pure Gospel, and letting them know that Christianity is not the system of idolatry they have been accustomed to consider it. At Sivas we found several families of Armenians that had declared against the errors of their Church, and formed a little Protestant community. We lodged at the house of one of them. Thinking it might be of use to these people, we called here upon the Pasha, who received us with much civility, and was apparently much interested in hearing of the new sect; and he and one of the chief military officers took each, with pleasure, a copy of the New Testament.

After a difficult and fatiguing journey over a rugged country, they reached the Tigris; and, crossing it by a tottering bridge of something like basket-work, thrown over a high broken arch, entered on the table-land of Diarbekir, reaching that city on the 2d of May.

The Native Assistant of the American Mission invited our Missionaries to attend a meeting of Armenians at his house. They were about nine in number. They all appeared to be very zealous in searching the Scriptures. Portions of the Epistles and Gospels were read, and Adadur Aıntablü, the Assistant, closed the meeting with prayer. There was much simplicity and sincerity about these poor people. Mr. Schneider, the American Missionary from Aintab, had been with them for two months, but had been obliged, shortly before the arrival of Mr. Bowen, to return to his Station. "Mr. Schneider," they said, "came, and we all loved him, and wept when he left: now you have come, and stayed a short time, and we wish you to remain and be our Teacher; but you, too, will leave us. Why do not the Protestants of England send us help?"

At Diarbekir, as at Sivas, the Pasha seemed pleased with the account which Mr. Sandreczki gave him of Protestantism, and declared his resolution to protect those who should embrace the Protestant faith. The spirit of persecution is awake at this place. The reformed Armenians are constantly insulted by the children in the streets calling out Prot, Prot, and our Missionaries were similarly honoured.

They reached Mosul on the morning of the 20th of May. During their stay at that place the condition of the Christian population formed the chief object of inquiry. Mr. Bowen states that though there are three denominations, they may fairly be classed under two heads—the Jacobites or Eutychians, and the Roman Catholics, the latter consisting of Chaldeans and Syrians. The Jacobites are not very numerous in Mosul itself. The Church language is Syriac, but scarcely any of the people understand it. The Bishop has, on the one hand, made many steps towards Protestantism; and, on the other, violently opposed the American Missionaries. The Papal Chaldeans are of Nestorian origin, and have been seduced to Popery within the last 180 years. They have five Churches and a Patriarch, and the Church language is that of the Nestorians. Although tolerably submissive to the Pope, the yoke does not seem to sit too easily upon them. Education is at a low ebb. The Papal Syrians have been perverted from the Jacobite Church. They are much less numerous than the Chaldeans, and in about the same state.

Mr. Sandreczki chiefly refers to the Mahommedans—the Arabs of the town—and the Yezidis, who, both by the Christians and Mahommedans, are accounted heathen. The Mahommedans, although bigoted as elsewhere, yet seem to have indefinite fears that the fabric of their faith is tottering to its fall. The language of the Yezidis is generally Kurdish—in some instances Arabic—and they are accessible to any effort which might be made for their conversion.

Mr. Sandreczki's time was chiefly occupied in studying Arabic, and the manners and customs of the Arabs employed by the indefatigable Layard at Nimroud and Kouyounjik. Of this interesting opportunity he writes—

During my stay at Nimroud and Kouyounjik I had ample opportunity of collecting most interesting illustrations of the historical books of the Scriptures, as well as, and especially, of the Prophets. I am laid under great obligation to Mr. Layard's hospitality and kindness, which enabled me to draw my information from a detailed examination of his daily discoveries. I venture to say that my protracted sojourn under his hospitable tent, and in the trenches, as well as among his Arabs, and especially my evening conversations with him, under the starred canopy of the Mosulean sky, have proved to me a Bible-lecture of lasting impression and inappreciable value.

From Mosul Mr. Bowen proceeded on a visit to Erzerum, and Mr. Sandreczki left on the 13th of July for Urumiah, Mr. Bowen having arranged to meet him there. Mr. Sandreczki arrived on the 31st of July, and was received and entertained in the most brotherly and affectionate manner by the American Missionaries, who, at Urumiah and in its vicinity, are labouring amongst the Nestorians. Mr. Sandreczki bears the strongest testimony to the reality and encouraging character of the work in which they are engaged. Mr. Bowen reached Urumiah on the 15th of August, and on the 21st left for Tabriz. Mr. Sandreczki was unable to accompany him on account of indisposition, but he made excursions all over the plain of Urumiah, and also visited Salmas—Khosrova—returning to Urumiah on the 30th of August, Mr. Bowen having also returned on the preceding day.

On the 6th of Sept. they left Urumiah for Mosul, visiting in their way the famous Sheikh Adi, the sacred place of the Yezidis. Mosul was reached on the 26th of September, and on the 1st of October Mr. Sandreczki left on his way to Smyrna, by Diarbekir, Orfa, Aintab, &c. He arrived at the latter place on the 1st of November, and thence proceeded to Scanderun, whence he hoped to get to Cyprus, and thence to Smyrna.

Mr. Bowen left Mosul on the 31st of Oct. for Bagdad descending the Tigris on a raft of skins. At Bagdad he was attacked by severe illness, and received great kindness from the East-India Company's resident, Capt. Kemball. Mr. Bowen's time was chiefly occupied in the study of Arabic, but he has transmitted some account of the population. The Christians are nearly all Papists, and seem to be quite contented with their religion. Mr. Bowen has universally found that the Papal Christians are more shy of Protestant Clergymen than others. There would appear, however, to be a door of usefulness open in the willingness of the youth to receive books and Tracts. The Mussulmans are not very accessible, and Mr. Bowen says—"I am more than ever impressed with the difficulties of a direct Mission to Mussulmans under the existing laws of a Mahomedan country."

From Bagdad Mr. Bowen made an excursion to Babylon—at Bagdad there is a Popish Archbishop of Babylon—and found abundant proof of the fulfilment of prophecy, as well as of the former greatness of the city. "The vitrified masses of brick, like solid rock, in the Birs Nimroud, literally fulfil the words of the Lord by Jeremiah—'I will make thee a burnt mountain.'"

Our last communication from Mr. Bowen is dated Aleppo, March 29 of the present year. He left Bagdad on the 22d of January for Mosul, which he reached on the 7th of February. One extract from his letter, painfully illustrating the almost hopeless bigotry of the lower classes of Mussulmans, may be given. He says—

On the 26th we were at Kyfiâ, a large village or small town, being the entrance to a district occupied by a Turkish Colony, extending along the plain at the foot of the hills of Southern Kurdistan and up to the village of Nebi Youas, opposite Mosul. Here, and at other places through this Turkish district, I heard the Moslems speak of the Korân as the Word of God more than in other places. It used to grieve me much to hear them thus speak of that impudent fabrication; but still, I never felt that it was prudent, or likely to be useful, to contradict them or discuss the matter, as a disturbance or insult would be the very probable result. With Sheiks, or men of some information, you may privately discuss the matter, but the more ignorant they are the more they are fierce and intolerant.

At Mosul Mr. Bowen was received by many "as one who belonged to the place." He states—

During my stay I was interested to observe the apparent increased seriousness of the little party that are rallying round the American Missionary, and also that they are increasing in numbers, while the hearts of many are with them who are kept from showing themselves by the fear of persecution. The most prominent among the Protestants are excommunicated, but the leaven is spreading amongst the villages around.

The Jacobite Bishop continues violently to oppose the movement, while the Papists in general are quietly looking on.

Leaving Mosul on the 22d of February, Mr. Bowen reached Diarbekir on the 11th of March. Here, also, he found the little Protestant flock greatly increased. From Diarbekir he proceeded to Orfa, and thence to Aintab, arriving on the 25th. "The movement there still advances. Last Sunday over 500 persons attended the morning Meeting—the most interesting and largest Congregation I have seen in the East. Indeed, nowhere else is there any thing like it. The nearest approach is in the Nestorian Mission." From Aleppo Mr. Bowen proposed to go overland to Jerusalem. He thus concludes his Letter—

I have not yet been able sufficiently to collect my ideas, after the excitement of a long journey, to attempt giving any general view on the facts I have become acquainted with; but this much I may say, that a wide door is opening here for evangelical truth, the result, under God, of personal labours, and the books of the Bible Society and other publications, including those from the Church Missionary press at Malta. This field is amongst the Christian population; chiefly the non-papal sects. The movement is generally fiercely opposed by the chief ecclesiastics, who, nevertheless, profess a desire to educate their people, but have no means. These ecclesiastics generally profess a regard for the Church of England, but it is because she is Episcopal, not because she is Evangelical. In my interviews with them I always endeavour to describe the English Reformation, telling them that it was brought about by the Bishops working and leading the people to that great event, and that other Churches became without Bishops because those rulers would not reform. This movement, compared to the population, is small, but constantly increasing, and is exercising some influence upon the Mussulmans. But as yet the American Missionaries would not attempt any thing directly for the Moslems, feeling that such a course might compromise the very existence of their Mission in Turkey. The time for preaching the Gospel to the Moslems openly is not come; but we cannot say that the time has not come for doing something in a preparatory way.

CAÏRO.

Mission Establishment :

2 Ordained European Missionaries.	1 Native Teacher.
1 European Female Teacher.	2 Native Female Teachers.

The Rev. J. R. T. Lieder and the Rev. W. Krusé have continued to labour in Caïro. No Report has been received, Mr. Lieder having been called to Jerusalem, to confer with Bishop Gobat, Mr. Bowen, and Mr. Sandreczki, on the state of the Mission generally, and other important matters in connexion with Mr. Bowen's tour.

The Boys' School has been closed, and it is proposed to occupy the Station on a reduced scale for the present. Mr. Krusé will continue at his post during the coming year, when some arrangement will be made to relieve him from active Missionary labour, after a faithful service of more than twenty-six years.

For Abyssinia Bishop Gobat reports that he still hopes to do something. The Abyssinians at Jerusalem have the greatest confidence in him, and when they return to their country—as many have done during the year—they go with the impression that the English alone, with the Bible, can restore their country to prosperity. It seems that all the influential men in Abyssinia have taken this view.

The Proposed Station at Jerusalem.

In pursuance of the hope expressed in the last Report, that Jerusalem might in the course of the year be occupied as one of the Society's Stations, the Rev. Augustus Klein has been set apart for that purpose. His precise location, whether Jerusalem or the neighbourhood, will be considered in the Conference above alluded to. Bishop Gobat mentions that promising openings are presented at Nazareth, Selt, and Nablous.

EAST-AFRICA MISSION.*(European Missionary first arrived in 1844.)Mission Establishment :

4 Ordained European Missionaries.

3 European Mechanics.

DURING the period under review the Station at Rabbai Mpia has been occupied by the Rev. Messrs. Rebmann and Erhardt, Dr. Krapf having been engaged in journeys and in a visit to Europe.

Inquirers—Death of the first Convert.

The encouragement among the Wanika in the neighbourhood of the Station has been very small. A few inquirers, however, are under instruction. Two have already made an open profession of their belief in the truth of Christianity, and of their desire to be numbered among its followers. The one is the father of a family, of independent circumstances and of noble character; while the other is a learned Mahomedan, the Cadi of his village, who once accompanied the Missionaries as a guide, and gave the first indication of a softened heart by weeping at the recital of a Saviour's sufferings, who carried a cross for his sake. This man gave up his office, and the gains attached to it, for the Gospel's sake, and placed himself under the instructions of the Missionaries.

The first native convert, Mringe, whose case was referred to in the last Report, continued faithful, was admitted to baptism, and has since died in the faith. The Rev. J. Rebmann writes, March 22, 1851—

The first-fruit of this Mission has been gathered in. Mringe, who has often been mentioned since 1848 as the subject of Divine grace working in his heart, was baptized on the 24th of November, and went to his eternal rest on the 3d of December last. Seeing that his constitution was rapidly sinking, in consequence of the cancer which had long ago destroyed his hands and feet, I visited him very frequently, being anxious to comfort him in his sufferings, and to ascertain his state of mind—whether he indeed personally and inwardly felt himself a sinner, and his consequent need of a Saviour. Orthodox answers to questions put by the Missionary are not decisive, from a person who for years has been taught the doctrine of salvation by Jesus Christ alone. Such answers may be given rather from memory than from a corresponding state of mind. It was his behaviour, taken as a whole, and especially the mentioning of particular sins in his youth, the remembrance of which he said ached him; his decided refusal of the country medicines, which his mother was desirous to apply, as being almost invariably connected with sorcery; his willingness to make an open confession of his faith; and his readiness to die; which convinced Mr. Erhardt and myself that he was, though a weak, yet a real believer in Christ, and as such entitled to baptism. Nothing remained but to make him understand, as much as possible, the nature and solemnity of baptism, for which purpose I went through the Baptismal Service with him twice; and, as he was so much dependent on his mother, on account of his helpless body, to get her consent to declare her son to be by that act taken out of every connexion with heathenism, and to be a member of the Church of Christ. Having gone so far, I fixed at last on Sunday, November the 24th, for his baptism, which then took place, all in the Kinika language, in the presence of his mother, Abbe Gunja, the Chief and one of the Elders, one of our servants, and a few other Wanika. He was living at the time in a little hut about three miles distant from us, which had been hastily constructed for him some months before his death, as is customary with the Wanika in the case of persons afflicted with cancer. This hut being too small, the baptism was administered in the open air, not long before sunset, that he might not be exposed to the heat of the sun. He was called Johannesi. Thus the first soul of the thousands and millions of this part of Africa has been translated from the reign of Satan into the kingdom of Christ, the pledge of the full harvest for which our faith has still to wait, and our love to labour.

Missionary Journey to Ukambáni.

In the last Report it was stated that Dr. Krapf had determined to set out upon a journey to the north-west of Rabbai, towards the River Dana, to explore a part of the country not previously visited by Europeans. On the 1st of November 1849, accordingly, accompanied by a small body of Wanika bearers, he left Rabbai. On the 6th of November the great wilderness was entered which lies between the Wanika country and Ukambáni. Their marches through this tract were as rapid as possible, on account of the Wakuāfi and Masai marauders. Dr. Krapf mentions the length of one day's march—33 miles under a burning sun. The danger was indeed considerable; so much so, that, on the banks of the river Tzavo, they found the fresh foot-marks of this people, with whom they would, in all probability, have fallen in, but for a delay occasioned three days before. Their sufferings occasionally from want of water were very great; but the uncontrollableness of his people, and their ceaseless importunity for increase of wages, proved more harassing to our Missionary than his fatigues and privations. Dr. Krapf writes—

Let him who travels in these countries never forget, that every occurrence which may happen to him from morning till evening is calculated to annoy and irritate his mind. Hence, he who is not prepared or willing to expose himself to continual inconveniences and privations had better not come to these countries, for he would only be a burden to himself and others. It is easy to form the plan of a journey, when man is at home, and in the possession of civilized comforts; but all these cease as soon as he has left the coast.

Leaving the plain of Kikúmbūliu, they slowly ascended a mountain range, and reached the elevated plain of Yatta. Dr. Krapf says—

Had I been a mere traveller, pursuing only geographical objects, I would, standing on the plain of Yatta, have considered myself amply compensated for the troubles I had sustained on the road, for a great many geographical problems were solved in an instant on the height of Yatta. But, as a messenger of the Gospel, I could not but with deep sorrow look upon the many countries which were presented to my eyes, and which are inhabited by myriads of immortal beings sitting in darkness and in the shadow of death, without God and without hope in Jesus Christ.

As they advanced, the country became more fertile and more populous; until, on Nov. 26, they reached the district of the tribe Kitui, whose Chief is Kivoi, a caravan leader whom Dr. Krapf had met at Rabbai in 1848. By this man he was hospitably received. To him Dr. Krapf explained the object of his journey—that he wished to know whether the Wakamba would receive Christian Teachers. “I fully understand your purpose, and you shall have all your requests,” was the reply. This Chief wanted the Missionary to accompany him on a journey to the interior, returning with him to the coast at the end of four or five months; but the arrangements made for Dr. Krapf’s visit to Europe, as well as other reasons, precluded the possibility of this. At Kivoi’s place our Missionary met with Natives of the Kikuyu country, whom he describes as superior to the people on the coast. “I have no doubt,” he adds, “that the further we proceed inland, the more we shall meet with Natives superior to those on the coast, both in body and mind.” These people wished to take our Missionary with them to their country.

The geographical discoveries made on this journey are of great interest and importance. In conversation with Kivoi, Dr. Krapf referred to the snow mountain Kilimanjāro in Jagga, which he had frequently and distinctly seen, to the westward of his route, towering over the high mountains Bura and Ndára, with a superiority of elevation so decided, as to show it must reach the region of snow. Kivoi said that he had seen the white matter on the Kūma ja Jeu (Mountain of Whiteness), but that there was a second and still larger Kūma ja Jeu between the countries Kikuyu, Mbé, and Uimbu, from whence the river Dana rises; and that, when the sky was clear, both mountains might be seen from his hamlet, the Kilimanjāro being ten days’ journey to the south-west, and the Kenia six days’ journey to the north.

A few days afterward Dr. Krapf saw the Kenia, of which he writes—

The sky being clear, I got a full sight of this snow mountain, which I had been told by Kivoi is situated between Kikuyu and Uimbu. It stretches from E. to N. W. by W. It appeared to be like a gigantic wall, on whose summit I observed two immense towers, or horns, as you may call them. These horns or towers, which are at a short distance from each other, give the mountain a grand and majestic appearance, which raised in my mind overwhelming feelings. The Kilimanjaro in Jagga has a dome-like summit, but the Kenia has the form of a gigantic roof, over which its two horns do rise like two mighty pillars, which I have no doubt are seen by the inhabitants of the countries bordering on the northern latitudes of the equator. Still less do I doubt that the volume of water which the Kenia issues to the north runs toward the basin of the White Nile.

The Dana, which flows from the eastern portion of the Kenia to the Indian Ocean, according to Kivoi's testimony is navigable for boats from the sea to the Ukambani country. He said there were no rocks at all, and that, even in the dry season, the water reached as high as a man's neck, while during the rains it could not be forded. Its ordinary breadth is about 200 yards, and it is the privilege of the people of Mbé to carry strangers proceeding to Kikuyu or other countries from one bank to another. Dr. Krapf says—

This information gratified me much indeed, since I had all along conceived the idea of penetrating the interior by that river, which is on the maps called Quilimancy, but should be properly written Kilimansi, i. e. Kilima mansi (Mountain Water), referring, as it appears to me, to the snow mountain Kenia—as the Natives call the mountain and the white matter seen on it—of Kikuyu, where the river Dana takes its rise, according to the universal report of the Natives.

The probability of being enabled to reach the Wakamba with comparative facility by the Dana or Kilimansi is an important feature, and adds much to the interest attaching to the Wakamba. They are, moreover, a considerable people, about 70,000 in number, inhabiting an elevated plain of some 3000 feet high, about 200 miles from N. to S., and about the same measurement from E. to W. They are a bold and fearless people, using poisoned arrows, with which they defend themselves successfully against their neighbours the Gallas.

And now Ukambani as well as Usambára lies open to Missionary enterprise. These two countries, in their social aspect, contrast remarkably with each other. In Usambára an absolute monarchy prevails. The Wakamba, on the contrary, have no King or leading Chief over the whole or any portion of the tribes: they have no general laws, and every one is free and unimpeded in his movements: there is no despotic power, either to facilitate or obstruct the efforts of the Missionary. Unrestricted in his proceedings by any arbitrary authority, he would probably be free to adopt such measures as might appear to be most conducive to the end in view. The intercourse of the Wakamba with the interior is of a very extensive character. Northward, they go to the frontiers of Abyssinia, and westward they advance a journey of two months. On the eastern coast they have succeeded in establishing themselves in the country of the Wanika; and although a desert tract intervenes, which is often infested by the wild Masai, yet caravans are continually passing and repassing between this advanced section and the main body in the interior. In Ukambáni, as in Kméri's country, Dr. Krapf met with a friendly reception, and the Natives listened attentively to the Gospel truths which he sought to instil into their dark minds.

The following brief extracts from Dr. Krapf's Journals will show the spirit in which he conducted his journey, the readiness with which he seized every opportunity of instruction, and the enlarged schemes for the evangelization of Africa which are suggested by his discoveries.

Nov. 11—The leader of the Wakamba party, fearing the Galla or other savages might search out our camp, took a mixture of some powdered bark, and threw it upon the fire, in order to make the enemies, as he said, pass by our camp unobservingly. I lectured him for this foolish superstition, and directed his mind to the Maker of heaven and earth, in whom alone we must put our trust. It is on such journeys that a Missionary can observe the real character of the Natives. There he perceives how far they are estranged from the living God, and how they put their sole trust in the most foolish means for the preservation of their bodies and temporal goods, in which is all their delight, and which alone they desire to have in a good and safe condition.

Nov. 14—On the banks of the Tzávo we observed fresh foot-marks of men and goats, and also some fire-places. My people judged these marks to be the traces of the wild Masai, who must have returned from the Galla country a short time before our arrival on the river. The delay caused by the fugitive Mkamba at Maungu—he had escaped to the wood in consequence of a quarrel with his uncle—seems, under the providence of God, to have turned out rather to our advantage, inasmuch as we might have met with the Masai if we had reached the river at an earlier period of our journey. Hence we should always patiently yield to circumstances over which we have no control.

Having refreshed ourselves with the water of the river, and the Wanika having bathed in it, and sent off two men with their calabashes for our party in the rear, we walked a few hundred yards beyond the banks, and took up our encampment behind some rocks. The Natives seldom encamp near a water-place, which they deem endangered by lurking enemies—a precautionary measure which I consider very appropriate. With feelings of humble and hearty gratitude toward my almighty God and Saviour, I laid down my tired body under a small acacia tree, and soon fell asleep, but frequently awoke again to take a draught of the cool water, which I liked more than the most costly wine which kings and emperors may have tasted this night. Yea, blessed are all they who put their trust in God! the wilderness is changed into a paradise for them. Still, I should be destitute of veracity if I were to conceal the uneasy feelings which frequently stole upon my mind, and which called forth my desire for the break of day.

Nov. 20—The first rain at this season of the year fell to-day in Kikúmbūliu. This coincidence with my arrival brought me rather into favour with the Wakamba. However, in order to obviate all superstition on their part, I thought it necessary publicly to ascribe all honour and glory to Him alone who had looked in mercy upon the parched land. My people somewhat grudged my proceeding, as they had wished to gain the favour, and some presents, of the Wakamba, by making them believe that, by their own instrumentality, an Msungu (European) rainmaker had been brought to the country. No doubt the liars would have obtained a sheep, or some ivory, from the ignorant Wakamba.

Dec. 2—To-day, being Sunday, my heart felt enlarged to approach the throne of grace to implore a blessing for myself and the poor ignorant Heathen around me. As a multitude of men, women, and children, was assembled in Kivoi's house-yard, I went out to speak to them of the great love of God in sending His only-begotten Son to save the world. First, I related to them the history of man's creation and fall, and then the principal parts of the history of Christ; and, lastly, entreated my hearers to know their estrangement from the living God, and to seek for salvation in the only Mediator and Saviour Jesus Christ, without whom they have no hope, but must await eternal condemnation. On returning to my dark room, I felt unspeakable happiness in the thought that God had favoured me with the privilege of preaching among these distant African tribes the unsearchable riches of Christ, and of naming for the first time among them that name which is above all names in heaven and earth. I remembered how wretched I should be myself if no Missionary had visited my forefathers' country.

Dec. 20—About ten o'clock A.M. we arrived at the top of the hilly range of Ndungúni, which stretches all along the Galla Country and Ukambáni, as far as to Kikuyu. On the top of that hill we sat down under a tree, to look back upon the immense level wilderness which we had traversed. I thought of my fatigues and privations during a period of fifty days. These fatigues had now passed away, but the new proofs of the protecting power, grace, and mercy of my faithful God, shall remain in my mind for ever, and stir it up anew to humble thankfulness, and exertion of prayer and labour for the advancement of His kingdom in these benighted regions of Africa.

The retrospect which I enjoyed on the top of Ndungúni reminded me, also, of a dying Christian; when he, standing on the hill of death, for the last time looks back upon the wilderness of this world, the sphere of his struggles with sin and the devil, and when he, with infinite joy, becomes aware of his approach to the eternal home and rest which his God and Saviour has prepared for him in heaven.

Having rested for a while on the summit of Ndungúni, we resumed our march, and late in the evening reached the house of Mana Zahu, my guide. Thence I intended to proceed direct to our Station at Rabbai, which was yet three miles off; but Mana Zahu, his whole family, and my bearers, were averse to my intention, and begged me to pass the night with them in the house-yard of Mana Zahu. His wife and children endeavoured, to the utmost of their power, to entertain my people and myself with an abundance of milk, meat, and other kinds of food, so that we indeed did not want any thing.

Dec. 21—Having been strengthened by a refreshing sleep and food, about eight o'clock A.M. I arrived in our cottage, and had the great pleasure of joining again my dear fellow-labourers, to relate to them what things the Lord had done unto me during my absence of fifty-one days. May the Lord grant that this and all previous journeys to the interior of this continent may become instrumental toward the conversion of the Hamitic mankind, which is so deeply degraded, and so far estranged from the living God!

Dr. Krapf gives the following general view of the great results to which his discoveries may lead—

When once the time has fully arrived that the Hamitic race of mankind shall be made acquainted with the Gospel, and be received into the family of God's children on earth, the high-roads of Africa will take every observer by surprise. It will then be manifest that the facilities of communication on the African continent are not inferior to those of Europe, Asia, and America. God's providence has certainly paved the way for the speedy accomplishment of His sublime designs. The Niger will carry the messengers of peace to the various states of Nigritia, whilst the Tshadda, the large branch of that river, together with the Congo, will convey them to the western centre of Africa, toward the northern tribes of Uniamési. The different branches of the Nile will lead the Missionaries toward the same centre from the north and north-east, whilst the Jub and the Dana will bring them in from Eastern Africa; and, finally, the Kilimani will usher them in from the south. The sources of all these great rivers are not so distant from each other as our present geographical knowledge would make us believe. It is, therefore, a matter which requires great reflection on the part of the friends of African Missions—a matter which refers to this simple question—Shall we propose and undertake the formation of a Mission-chain, linking together the eastern and western coasts of Africa? or shall we follow up the water-courses of this continent, by establishing Missions at the sources and estuaries of those great rivers? Certain it is, that he who reaches the sources of the Nile will have a more than probable chance of reaching the sources of the Tshadda, of the Congo, and of the Kilimani. All of them verge toward the equator—toward the extensive country of Uniamési, and the territories around Uniamési, which could be rendered by the interpretation “Possession of the Moon,” though I would not venture to pronounce this meaning as indubitable. But should Uniamési prove as important as I believe it is in African geography, would it not be a great luminary to most of the African countries? As the heavenly body of the moon presents itself in different phases to the earth, so does Uniamési present itself to Africa. The African peninsula gets, as it were, its phases—its geographical phases—from Uniamési, from which, according to native conception, is an outlet to the four quarters of the globe. However, I will waive this point, and simply remark, that the Tshadda, the Congo, the Nile, and the Kilimani rivers, either take their rise from the great lake in Uniamési, or very near to that lake; that from the Tshadda we may fall into the Nile, and vice versa; that from both rivers we may run into the Kilimani, through the lake in Uniamési; and that through the Kilimani we may come to the great lake lately discovered in South Africa. If the communication of Central Africa shall be found so simple and so easy, why should we question the speedy spread of Christianity and Christian civilization in Africa?*

Missionary Voyage along the Coast.

In February 1850 Dr. Krapf and Mr. Erhardt proceeded along the coast in a native boat, visiting various places with a view of making inquiries respecting the roads into the interior. At Pangany they met with the people of Kméri, the King of Usambára, who reminded Dr. Krapf of his promise to come back to their King. From thence they sailed along the coast to Msasani. Dr. Krapf writes—

Here we met with people from Uniamési, who had come to the coast with ivory and slaves from the interior.

We then proceeded to the island of Mafia, or Monfia, after which we arrived at Kiloa Kibendje. This is a large town, with 15,000 to 20,000 inhabitants, the principal centre of commerce, and especially of the Slave-trade, on this coast. It has a bad harbour. The Governor received me more kindly than any of the Imâm's Governors hitherto had done. These, and all other places on this coast, are inhabited by Suahélis, who are all Mahommedans, in subjection to the Imâm. At a little distance from the coast, just where the land rises, begin the residences of the Pagan tribes, who communicate with the Suahélis, as the Wanika do with Mombas. From Kiloa there is a road to Uniamési and the Lake Niassa. Not far from the town, to the westward, lives the Wamuera tribe—Pagans, of whom our captain is derived; but he was taken from thence as a slave, and made a Mahomedan. The town is called Kiloa Kibendje, i. e. the beloved, because all that the Suahēlis are fond of is to be had here, e. g. copal, ivory, slaves, corn, &c.

* The Journal of Dr. Krapf during this important journey is printed at length in the “Church Missionary Intelligencer” for September, October, November, and December 1850. An account of the manners and habits of the Wakamba, also by Dr. Krapf, is given in the Number for March 1851, pp. 55—59.

From Kiloa Kibendje we went to the island of Kiloa, which appears to have been formerly of great importance, but at present is of no consequence whatever. Three hundred mosques are said to have been there, of one of which I saw the splendid ruins. The fort also is decaying: decay generally prevails on this coast.

Leaving Kiloa Kisuani—Kiloa island—we came to Kisueri, Lindi, Muania, and Mkindani, all which names belong to villages situated on fine bays on the continent, which form beautiful seaports. Here, also, the Slave-trade is in a flourishing condition. Those four places are collectively known by the name of Mgau. Mgau is the southernmost district of the Imâm's territories. The river Rufuma, or Lufuma, which comes from Lake Niassa, forms the proper boundary: south of this are the Portuguese dominions. It would be important to try, by a small steamer, to go up this river to the Niassa lake. The above-mentioned bays are rich in wood, and the ground fertile: in fact, this is the granary of the Suahēli Country. A colony like Sierra Leone, established in these places, would be of the utmost importance to the cause of Missions and humanity.

We returned in March to Mombas, viâ Zanzibar, where I bade farewell to our friends. My conviction has obtained new strength, that Rabbaï has been most providentially singled out for the commencement of our East-Africa Mission; and that the same Providence will watch over its further progress, and, in God's own good time, will furnish that success which will make it a blessing for many of the still benighted African tribes.

Dr. Krapf's Visit to Europe.

After the completion of these journeys, it was determined by Dr. Krapf and his fellow Missionaries that he should visit England—as he had been already invited by the Committee—in order to print some of his translations, and to confer with the Society upon future plans for the East-Africa Mission. He sailed to Aden, and from thence by a steamer came to Europe, arriving in England in July.

During his visit to Europe Dr. Krapf carried through the press the following important works—An Outline of the Elements of the Kisuáheli language, with special reference to the Kinika dialect; a Vocabulary of six East-African languages—Kisuáheli, Kiníka, Kikámbe, Kipokómo, Kiháua, and Kigállá; and the Gospel of St. Mark in Kikámbe.

During Dr. Krapf's visit to Germany he selected three pious mechanics to accompany him to Africa, and one of the students at Bâsle, who was admitted to Holy Orders by the Bishop of London.

Dr. Krapf having fully explained to the Committee the views of himself and his brethren in Africa upon the East-Africa Mission, he returned with his companions at the beginning of this year,* with the view of establishing new Stations—retaining Rabbai Mpia as a starting-point on the coast—in the Usambára, Taita, and Kikámba countries. The providence of God will afterwards show whether it be possible to penetrate to the central country of South Africa, either by a N. W. or S. W. route.†

Bombay as a field of Missionary Labour.

An official statement has lately been published, by which it appears that the island of Bombay comprises a native population of 554,281 souls; of whom only 7456 are nominal Christians—comprising Roman Catholics, Armenians, Greeks, and Protestants. This small proportion of Native Christians becomes the more reproachful to the Christian name when the fact is added, that the island of Bombay has been in the possession of Christian governments since the year 1550, and under British rule since 1661; and that there are in it 5088 resident Europeans and 6750 East Indians; that is, 11,838 persons pledged by their own baptism to “hold forth the word of life” in a dark world. And if the inquiry be pursued a step further, it will be found that, out of the 7456 Native Christians, only between 200 and 300 professedly belong to the Protestant faith, the rest being members of the Oriental or Romish sects. It must be stated, as some encouragement, that the small band of Native Protestant † Further accounts of the East-Africa Mission are given in the “Church Missionary Record” for January 1851, pp. 1—12; and also in the “Church Missionary Intelligencer” for June 1850, pp. 327—330; July, pp. 344—346; August, pp. 376—381; and September, pp. 387—395, with a large sketch Map by the Missionaries.

Christians alluded to is the fruit of the labours of the last few years; and that there are at present in Bombay nine Ordained Missionaries, belonging to four different Societies, together with Native and European Assistants, labouring to enlighten the ignorance around them; and that there are at least 60 Protestant Schools, with nearly 5000 Scholars, in which a Christian education is given to the rising generation.

Native Church in Bombay—Ordination of two Natives.

This incipient branch of labour, which was commenced last year, has suffered a reduction in its numbers, 3 of its members having died, and 14 having removed, while only 3 adults have been added by baptism: so that at present it only numbers 38 Native Christians, of various languages, 15 of whom are Communicants. Seven candidates for baptism are under instruction. This little flock meets together regularly on the Sunday; and at their own desire a weekly meeting is held at the Money School for edification by prayer and meditation on the Word of God. The attempt to educate 6 Abyssinian youths, mentioned in the last Report, has failed. One of the number died; and the rest, one after another, became tired of study, and returned to their country before they had made any considerable progress.

In November of last year Dr. Dealtry, Bishop of Madras, visited Bombay, and held a Confirmation, at which 7 of the native converts under the care of the Society were received. It was determined, also, by the friends of the Society in Bombay, to take advantage of the Bishop's visit to present two of the divinity students, who have been trained by the Rev. J. S. S. Robertson, for holy orders. They were ordained on the 24th of November; and the Bishop thus writes respecting them, in a Letter dated November 29—

They are the first who have been introduced into the ministry in Bombay. Their names are Daji Pandarang and James Bunter—the former, a man of high caste; the latter, of lower grade, but respectable. They have both been under a course of secular and religious instruction for a considerable period, and have borne excellent characters for their diligence, good conduct, and attainments.

Their examination was continued for four or five hours daily, during the three days previous to their Ordination. The subjects in their written papers embraced Doctrines, Scripture History, the Prayer-book, the Articles, and Pearson on the Creed. Their answers were very accurate, but not so full as I could have wished. They each wrote also a short sermon from a given text; and it was a good explanation and application of the passage. In their viva voce examination they exceeded my expectations, as to their knowledge of the Greek text, and in their general replies to the questions proposed. Mr. Robertson, who was my examining Chaplain in the native languages, has given me a most satisfactory account of their attainments in the Marathi tongue; and my domestic Chaplain, Mr. Rowlandson, has been so good as to furnish me with a statement of his impressions as to the result of the general examination. Both of these papers I enclose for the satisfaction of your Committee.

There was but one feeling of grateful joy amongst the Lord's people in Bombay on their reception; and may God grant that prayer may be heard on their behalf, and that they may be kept humble, watchful, and devoted; "always abounding in the work of the Lord;" and may their labour be abundantly blessed in Him.

The preaching of the Gospel has been conducted without intermission during the past year. Divine Service has been held in Marathi, on Sunday morning in Trinity Church, and on Sunday afternoon at the Money School. Other opportunities have been improved for making known the truths of Scripture and for dispersing scriptural Tracts.

Education.

The Money School—Difficulties have arisen in procuring ground, and the necessary funds to meet the grant of 1500*l.*, from the Jubilee Fund, for the enlargement of the school-buildings. The accommodations are therefore still very contracted, and materially interfere with the efficiency of the School.

The Rev. W. S. Price, having resided some months at Nasik to perfect himself in the Marathi language, afterwards joined Mr. Jerrom in the superintendence and instruction of the Money School. The number of scholars has increased from 301 to 341.

The Annual Examination took place in December, in the presence of several friends of Christian education. The examination of the upper division comprised Grecian history, geometry, algebra, practical mechanics, chemistry, and Scripture history. Colonel Lester then distributed rewards, in books, to sixty boys who had distinguished themselves by their proficiency. The proceedings were closed by an address from the Rev. G. Candy, who expressed his gratification with the examination, and his hope that next year it would be still more satisfactory.

The Report of the Bombay Auxiliary Church Missionary Society for the year 1850 states—

The Money School, now in conjoint charge of the Rev. T. Jerrom and the Rev. W. S. Price, though still labouring under the great disadvantages of inconvenient accommodation, is gradually maturing towards a state of efficiency as an educational establishment on Christian principles. The following statistic summary shows its present position—

English Institution . . .	196 scholars.
Marathi School . . .	145 . .
Total	341

The increase would have been much greater but for the want of accommodation, although several rooms of the Mission-house have been given up for the use of the School.

The importance of the Institution, not merely as a School in which religious and secular knowledge is imparted to large numbers of native youth, but also as a Seminary for training Native Teachers and Assistants in the evangelization of Western India, is too much overlooked, we fear, even by our Missionary friends, who are often more ready to look for great and visible results, than to supply the human means by which they are, under God's blessing, to be obtained. If we expect great things from God, we must attempt great things for God. Hath He done great things for us? Why should we not rejoice in such an opportunity of doing something for Him?

Vernacular Schools—There were, at the close of 1850, 15 Marathi and 2 Guzerathi Schools, under the care of Mr. Sargon and Miss White, comprising 620 boys and 212 girls. These, together with the scholars in the Money School, give a total of 1170 children receiving a Christian education, being an increase of 300 since the last Report.

NASIK.

The Rev. J. S. S. Robertson has been the only European Missionary at this Station during the last year. As Principal of a Theological Training College, his time is necessarily devoted to the students; but he also exercises superintendence over the Mission generally.

Native Converts.

Eight adults have been baptized during the last year. The number at present is 571, who are nearly all supported, in one way or another, by the Mission. It is hoped soon to establish a Christian village, in which the converts may support themselves by agriculture. At present, the Missionary cannot speak in high terms of the attainments or religious progress of the converts generally. "Yet there are several of them who give us all much encouragement, and most of the rest at least satisfaction."

Services—Spirit of Inquiry.

There are two public Marathi Services in the Chapel, and the Catechists go out among the Heathen in the city and villages. Many inquirers come to Mr. Robertson from time to time for instruction. In his Annual Report he states—

My firm impression is that heathenism is decidedly losing ground, among all but the Brahmins, in this city, and the country on all sides. Even the Brahmins themselves, from having fallen into such disrepute with the other castes, begin to appear anxious to find a livelihood in some other more creditable way than in performing those religious rites which begin to be so little appreciated, in comparison with former ages. The lower caste seems now to be very much in the same mind, with respect to the pretensions of the Brahmins, as the common people in England were with respect to the monastic orders, immediately before the great Reformation.

Education.

The two Native Ministers, whose ordination has been reported, still remain attached to the Nasik Mission, and pursue their theological studies. The divinity students are divided into two classes, the senior comprising six and the junior five. Nine of the Native Schoolmasters also attend to receive scriptural instruction. There are one English School and six Vernacular Schools, comprising 361 pupils.

JUNIR.

The Rev. C. C. Mengé has continued to labour at this Station, assisted by the Native Catechist Ram Krishna.

Baptism of two Adults.

It has been permitted to Mr. Mengé to see some little fruit of his labour. Two of the converts have been baptized, one a Brahmin, who for upwards of ten years had been travelling on pilgrimages in search of Divine truth, which he has now found in Him who is "the way, and the truth, and the life." The other is a poor native of Junir, who has been for some time under Christian instruction. These are the first baptisms in Junir. There are now nine Native Christians in connexion with the Church at this place.

Public Preaching—Bible Class.

Public preaching of the Gospel has been regularly carried on twice a week in the bazaar of Junir, and also in other places, as strength and opportunity would permit. On Sunday evening all the Schoolmasters attend a Bible Class in the Mission House.

Education.

Mr. Mengé has been obliged to give up two of the out-station Schools through want of Masters: the number of boys has therefore been reduced from 150 to 115. Mrs. Mengé has, however, been able to establish a Female School at Junir.

The Rev. G. Candy visited the Station in September last, and examined the Schools. He was especially pleased with the Girls' School, and anticipates much benefit from the able and zealous labours of Mrs. Mengé in this department.

MALLIGAUM.

This Station is in charge of the Rev. E. Rogers, who arrived there on the 6th of March. He has received into the Church by baptism a weaver and his family, who supports himself by his trade, and eight inmates of the poor-house. The Congregation, at the close of the year, consisted of 31 Native Christians and 4 Candidates for Baptism.

Missionary Tour into Khandesh.

Mr. Rogers during the last season made a Missionary tour in Khandesh for a month. The people seem, for the most part, less under the influence of the Brahmins, and consequently less prejudiced against the Christian religion, than the inhabitants of the Dekkan.

ASTAGAUM.

Trials and Encouragements.

This Station has been the scene of much trial to the Society. The Committee were obliged to dissolve their connexion with the Catechist through whose instrumentality Christian instruction had been first brought into the village, and who laboured gratuitously on his own account for several years, and was afterwards received as an Agent of the Society. Several of the native converts, however, remained firm in their profession of Christianity, and continued to assemble with the native Readers after the Catechist had left them. The Rev. G. Candy visited them in October last, spending several days with them, and was pleased with their simplicity and devotion. Six individuals composed the community, including the two Readers. Mr. Candy writes—

I cannot find it in my heart to recommend giving up the Station. When speaking of this, one of the Readers said to me, "Surely it would not be right to relinquish the Mission at Astagaum. It has been so manifestly a plantation of the Lord Himself in the midst of a wilderness." I was much struck with this remark.

The newly-ordained Native Minister, the Rev. James Bunter, will probably reside amongst them, with the view of trying how far the Heathen may be willing to listen to the Gospel.

Commencement of a Mission in Sinde.

This is an event of great importance; and your Committee would call upon their friends to join with them in praise and prayer in regard to it. It is particularly interesting, as it has chiefly been brought about by the instrumentality of devoted friends of Missions in the army in Sind. Soon after Sir Charles Napier had achieved the conquest of that remarkable country, "A Voice from Sind," a small pamphlet published by a pious officer, called upon the British Government and people to extend the blessings of the Gospel to its benighted inhabitants. Several like-minded friends joined together in supporting the Missionary cause. They contributed largely to the funds of the Bombay Auxiliary Church Missionary Society; and as early as 1845 a School for native children was established at Kurachi, and conducted by a converted Brahmin of considerable talent and genuine piety, a native of Bengal: that School is now reported to be in a prosperous condition. Those pious friends, however, were not satisfied with a School. They again and again urged upon the Church Missionary Society the desirableness of sending out Missionaries to evangelize the country, offering to maintain one Missionary at their own expense: until the Society, strengthened and animated by the Jubilee spirit, yielded to the prayers of their military friends, and set apart the Rev. C. C. Schreiber as the first Missionary. His arrival at his Station, Kurachi, and the death of Mrs. Schreiber, have been already reported.*

Introductory Remarks of the Corresponding Committee.

THE following extract is taken from the Annual Report of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee—

* An interesting article on Sind (with an Engraving) is given in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for August 1850, pp. 361—374.

NOTE... The Stations of the Church Missionary Society are marked +

We have much cause to thank God that death has not been permitted this year to take a labourer from our Missionary band; and that, though some labourers have been laid aside by sickness, the proportion is not greater than must be reasonably reckoned upon, out of our numbers—now increased to nearly forty European families—in any country, and is certainly less than could have been expected in the ungenial climate of the tropics.

Another topic of the same Report is one which recent publications at home and abroad have rendered peculiarly appropriate—

In our last Report we had to repel the unprincipled calumnies of enemies: it is our lot at present to lament the hasty judgments and unfair representations of friends. Notwithstanding our frequent cautions to the contrary, and the statement of numerous facts which might well lead to a more correct view, many well-meaning persons will continue to form an estimate of Native Christians far higher than either truth or reason warrant. When, on actual inspection, these persons find—what a little reflection would have prepared them to find—their judgment and expectations fallacious, they are sometimes ready not only to declare that a delusion has been practised upon the public by Missionaries and Missionary Societies, but they are also unjust enough to deny the existence of any worth or virtue at all in those Native Christians who are not found to possess the amount of virtue which they had inconsiderately ascribed to them.

Now to such hasty censors we have no difficulty in replying, Why should any one expect from these poor Native Christians, whose earliest and strongest habits of thinking and acting were formed on the debased and polluted models of heathenism, who are still surrounded by the corrupting examples and influences of an idolatrous, and consequently a degraded and wicked people, and who have had comparatively little instruction, and that little but imperfect, as given by foreigners not thoroughly acquainted with their language, habits, feelings, and modes of thought—why should any expect from persons so circumstanced higher Christian principles and more consistent Christian conduct than, as we have just said, are exhibited by Christians of similar numbers and rank in life in England or in Germany? We maintain we have practised no delusion upon the community. We have always studied to give a fair representation of the evil as well as of the good; and we refer to our Reports in proof of our assertion.

Allusion is also made to a very valuable auxiliary to the Missionary operations in Bengal.

It would be ungrateful not to acknowledge the valuable aid received by us from the excellent Calcutta Ladies' Society for Native Female Education, formed in 1824. Very early in the formation of the Krishnaghur District Missions it undertook the support of the Native Christian Girls' Schools there, which it has since maintained, increased and increasing as they are, chiefly by its own exertions, assisted by donations of ladies' work and articles for sale from England. In connexion with it at present are our six Girls' Boarding-schools in the Krishnaghur districts, and one at Thakurpukur, south of Calcutta, containing altogether about 330 Christian girls, who are fed, clothed, and lodged, as well as instructed in scriptural and other useful knowledge, almost wholly through the means of this truly valuable auxiliary to the Missionary work of the Church in Bengal.

A commencement of new Missionary efforts in Calcutta is thus recorded—

It is proper to notice in this place the active commencement of a Mission in connexion with St. Paul's Cathedral, Calcutta, and under the direction of the Bishop. Desirous of meeting, in the most cordial spirit, this new Missionary effort of the Church in India, the Church Missionary Society's Corresponding Committee readily consented to transfer to the infant Mission their promising English School at Alipur, in the neighbourhood of the Cathedral, together with its useful Teacher, Reuben Kalachand.

CALCUTTA.

The Rev. Messrs. Sandys, Long, and Hasell, have together conducted the labours of this extensive Mission.

Native Christians, Baptisms, &c.

The Congregation of Native Christians at Mirzapur numbers 172. The number of individuals baptized during the year is 50, of whom 27 were adults. Amongst them were two Chinese, and a well-conducted Mahommedan from the Madrissa, who, it is hoped, will prove an useful Christian Visitor amongst the people speaking the Urdu language. A Confirmation was held by the Bishop of Calcutta in the Cathedral on the 22d of October, when 38 Candidates were admitted to the rite, of whom 13 were males and 25 females.

At Thakurpukur a building has been raised for the sojourn of the Missionary, Mr. Long, during two or three days of each week, including the Sunday. "There are about 300 Native Christians in connexion with this Station. Two Boarding-schools, one for boys and the other for girls, contain about 50 children, and efforts are being made to train them to habits of industry."

Mr. Long continues to give much attention to the instruction of the Native Catechists, Readers, and Teachers, both male and female. He says, in his Report—

By teaching the Teachers of this extensive district, we are doing a good work for the perpetuation of Christianity in it, and for approximating towards an important point—the working of Missions by cheap and efficient native agency. The whole of our instructions are carried on through the medium of the Bengali language, which contains at the present time more than two hundred books of a useful kind.

Education.

The number of boys in the Mirzapur English School at the close of the year was 334, of whom 51 were Brahmins, 257 of other castes, 24 Mahommedans, and 2 Christians. Mr. Hasell writes—

The boys display great willingness to hear, and are as attentive during a lesson on Christianity, or the evidences of it, as a class of Christian boys would be in Europe. They acknowledge the excellence of the morality taught in the Bible, and smile at the inconsistencies of Hinduism; but withal there appears to be no further result, at present, than the cold indifference of an enlightened scepticism. There is not one in the School to whom I can look with even a hope of his embracing the Truth; yet it is difficult to imagine that the Word of Life can be read and explained, day by day, for years, in vain.

In the Report for Agurpara Mr. De Rozario writes—

During the present year not a single instance of open conversion has occurred; but the Lord has cheered the hearts of His servants by extending still further the primary field of their labours—the English School, wherein the number of pupils has increased from 223 to 319. These, together with 118 boys in two Vernacular Schools, show a total of 437 pupils under Christian instruction in this Mission. It is a matter of thankfulness that the Lord thus mercifully balances events to strengthen and preserve our faith, and excite our hope for future blessings.

Preaching to the Heathen.

The Missionaries state—

This branch of Missionary labour has been carried on throughout the year at the Tuntonia Chapel, principally in the Bengali language, and occasionally in the Hindustani also. The attendance is generally very good. Spirited discussions often take place upon the respective claims of the Christian Scriptures and the Hindu Shasters, as well as the Korân. There is apparently a growing desire to be made acquainted with the real nature of Hinduism; and such books as Wilson's Exposure of the Hindu Religion, Mookti Mimangsha, True Refuge, and Holy Incarnation, all of which are well calculated to show the real character of Hinduism, and to direct the inquirer into the true way of salvation, have been much sought after by name during the past year.

The people on the east side of Calcutta appear very ready to hear the Word of God, indeed more so than the majority of the people in other directions. Several respectable Natives have invited the Catechists to visit them at their houses. Upon the whole, it appears that greater attention is now given to the Gospel message, and the messenger is generally treated with respect : but seldom does he now meet with any ill treatment.

Six Scripture Readers are employed to visit weekly the houses of the Europeans who subscribe for the purpose, to read the Holy Scriptures to the native servants and others. The number of subscribers' houses is nearly 70, and the average number of persons who weekly hear the Scriptures read by the Readers is 750. One is a converted Chinese, who visits the Chinese quarter of the city. Two have been brought to Christian baptism through his labours in the course of the year.

BURDWAN.

Native Congregation—Adult Baptisms.

The Rev. J. J. Weitbrecht writes respecting this Station—

The native Congregation is steadily increasing, notwithstanding the unusual number of deaths. It now consists of 200, young and old. I am grateful to observe a marked growth in Christian character, particularly among our young people.

The Rev. B. Geidt remarks—

Called as we are occasionally to mourn over some individuals, both men and women, boys and girls, yet when we consider what God has done amongst us our hearts rejoice, and we feel that we have reason to be thankful.

Mr. Weitbrecht reports, Nov. 18, 1850—

A short time since two young men, one a Kulin Brahmin, and the other of the Kaystho caste, came from a distance, desiring Christian instruction, and admission into the fold of Christ. We soon perceived that the Lord had sent them to us. The question, "What shall we get if we become Christians?" so common among inquirers, and so trying, was never once uttered by them. There was an air of child-like sincerity about the youths which gratified us not a little. Mr. Geidt prepared them for baptism; and on Sunday, the 20th of October, they were, with a third individual, received into the Congregation of Christ's Church. On the following day the father of the Kulin Brahmin met his son on the road near Burdwan. He had been in search of him for some time: when he heard that he was baptized he went away in sorrow. Both these young men give promise of future usefulness in connexion with our Mission.

Education.

The Orphan Boys' and Girls' Schools contain about 66 children, and the English School 112 scholars. The Vernacular Schools in the city and villages are under the superintendence of Mr. Geidt, who writes respecting them—

I have introduced in my five Vernacular Schools a new system as regards pay and attendance, which answers remarkably well, and causes the Sircars to do their duties. The Schools get more efficient, the number of boys increases, and their attendance is more regular than it used to be. But experience has taught me, that unless a European visits each School once a week, and imparts instruction himself, nothing will prosper in this land. I have upwards of 470 children in these five Schools, having since last year obtained an increase of 100. I opened a new one at Goa, four miles from our Compound, in which I have more than 100 pupils. It is a most interesting School. Several men of twenty-three years, among whom are a Brahmin and some tradesmen, are attending it. Even the hurkaru of the School has given up his little earnings, and has become a scholar at an advanced age, that he also might learn something. Among the old people present at School when I instruct the boys, is a blind man, more than forty-nine years of age, who affords me, by his prudent questions, sincerity, and attention, much pleasure. He knows some of the Commandments by hearing the boys read them. His memory is very good: names forgotten by the boys are remembered by him, even those which occur in geography.

Preaching to the Heathen.

This important branch of Missionary labour has been regularly carried on by both Missionaries. The encouragement afforded by several Missionary tours to a distance from the city was very great. Mr. Weitbrecht writes—

The native gentlemen in many places treated me with most generous hospitality, supplying the Catechists and servants with food; and in several instances the youths were so eager for Tracts and Gospels that they readily paid for them.

The impression produced on the mind of this experienced Missionary was, that the day is rapidly approaching when that dark land shall hear the gracious call, "Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee."

KRISHNAGHUR.

The Sudder Station—Failure of the Papists.

The division of districts in this extensive Mission has remained as last year. The Rev. C. H. Blumhardt having been compelled to visit Europe on account of the health of his family, the duties of the Sudder Station devolved wholly upon the Rev. J. Innes.

It is a gratifying circumstance that the large building erected in the Sudder Station by the Romanists in 1846, when they invaded the Krishnaghur Mission, and endeavoured to seduce the converts to Popery, has lately been converted into an hospital, under the charge of the civil surgeon, having continued long vacant after the entire failure of their insidious attempt.

General Review of the Mission.

A general review of the state of the Krishnaghur District has been sent home, which will sufficiently show the present state of the Mission.

The following Table presents the number of Christian flocks, their attendance on the Means of Grace, and their enjoyment of the benefits of education for their children—

Name of Station and Sub-District.	No. of Native Christians.	Average Attendance at Divine Service.	No. of Communicants.	Christian Boys' School.	Christian Girls' School.
Krishnaghur .	312	120	60	35	20
Chupra. . .	516	316	66	59	45
Kabastanga .	893	305	83	82	61
Bollobpur . .	688	357	52	46	62
Solo	791	360	27	86	26
Rottenpur .	1017 }	769	162	87	56
Jogindo . .	200 }
Total . .	4417	2127	450	394	306

Here we see, that of the 4417 Native Christians more than half—when the School-children are taken into account, and nearly half without them—attend public worship: that more than one in ten—and of the attendants on public worship more than one in five—are Communicants, although in some of the districts the standard of qualification for admission to the Lord's Table is fixed very high for Native Christians of a low class; and many who formerly attended have absented themselves on account of the specially earnest and faithful instructions of some of the Missionaries on the subject of the holy character becoming Communicants. We see also that about one-sixth of the whole Christian population is under instruction as children and youths in the Schools; whilst, to show that the attendance is not compulsory, it may be mentioned, that one Missionary states there are fifty children in his district who might attend School, but do not; and so, doubtless, in other districts too.

Now we cannot but say that the state of the Mission, viewed merely in respect of these numbers and proportions, is far from unsatisfactory. We think it will bear comparison with the state of Congregations of a somewhat similar class in any part of Christendom. There are many large scattered parishes in England itself in which the average attendance on public worship does not amount to half the population, where the Communicants are much less than one-tenth, and the children under instruction below one-sixth of the whole body, and this with all the advantages of English circumstances over Indian ones.

So much, then, for what can be exhibited by means of mere figures. This however is, we are aware, far from being the most important point of view in which to contemplate the Mission. The question will be and ought to be asked—What is its condition within? What is the state of the Native Christian body, as to its religious knowledge, spirituality, and moral practice? To this we undoubtedly reply, that it is, on the whole, very low. The people are ignorant: there is little true spirituality of mind amongst them as a body, and there remain many old evil habits, prejudices, and customs, which often break out in open sin. This must be stated in fidelity and truth. But here again, making due allowance for difference of early cultivation, national character, and the very slender advantages they have enjoyed since they became Christians, their religious and moral state is not far, if at all, below that of many parts of countries long Christian, and enjoying a settled ministry, and all the other benefits of established Christianity. The Rev. C. W. Lipp writes—

Some time during the year the Christians in general gave me great satisfaction, cholera and other troubles having a little softened them: but I regret to say that these impressions soon pass off; and if the Missionary is sanguine, one day he hopes he has been the means of doing a great deal of good, and the next day may say that the Bengalis are an incorrigible set. The truth, however—as in every other matter, so also in this case—lies in the middle. In one of my visits to Anandobas I was greatly cheered, having a Congregation of 200 people and 27 baptisms. In a visit to Jogindo I had the same pleasure; but very soon things changed again. A disturbance had taken place, in which the Christians were prominent, and on the wrong side: they thought themselves aggrieved by my not taking their side, and their temporary anger not only fell on the Missionary but also on the service of God. Some of the Christians have settled in other districts; and the sum total of old and young connected with this Mission is now 1217 souls, among which number I have reason to believe some are Christians in heart and life. Many appreciate what is done for them, and attend to the Means of Grace; but the majority neither hear nor fear, and all appears to be thrown away upon them. I have had the grief to see that a whole village of 117 Christians, after my refusing them pecuniary assistance, have left off going to Chapel, with the exception of eight persons. It is forgiveness of rents, and not of sins, that they would like to hear of. However, as so much is said against the Christians, it is also right to say something for them. It happened quite lately that the subject of subscribing for sacramental vessels was brought before them, and within a few hours they subscribed the sum of forty rupees and odd annas: half of this sum was indeed subscribed by Readers, but the rest by common day labourers and garden kulies. They also subscribed, towards a Vernacular Library, eleven rupees and four annas.

The Rev. F. Schurr reports—

Seven men are employed for the several wants of the Congregation, &c. In some instances I have had cause to rejoice with regard to their spiritual life; but this joy is constantly mingled with bitterness, and I can only rejoice with trembling. I am thankful to say none of them have been found guilty of any serious misconduct: on the contrary, their external demeanour has been exemplary. I have repeatedly observed signs of true repentance, as also its fruits, in almost all of them; but their growth in grace is very slow, and I wish them to live more exclusively in and for Christ than they generally do. I instruct these men eight hours a week on an average, three of which are in an evening, when we unite in prayer for ourselves, our work, the Congregation, and the whole world. Some of them pray with great fervency. I invariably enjoy these hours, and feel that the Lord Himself is present, as He has promised. They always take a lively interest in my proposals (of duty), and use every effort to carry them into execution. These men are appointed to instruct and pray with the Christians both here and in the surrounding villages; and two of them have covenanted to take no rest, but continue to visit every house, and endeavour to bring souls to Jesus.

It will be seen how high is the Christian standard aimed at here: and it is little to be wondered at if the weak believers of our native Church often fail to reach it, when we doubt if there are many parishes in England in which many of the people do.

Another of the brethren, whose standard is no lower, gives many such pleasing particulars.

The few awakened souls have, during the last year, also proved faithful: some among them especially have given me much comfort, and sometimes joy; e. g. — and —, who, with compassionate love, have always helped me to bear my burdens, coming to me at night for united prayer; and one of the female teachers, who is so faithful as constantly to overwork herself, and also prays with the girls privately, and does a great deal amongst the women by instructing and praying with them; and —, whom last year I merely counted among the serious ones, astonishes me with his knowledge of the Testament merely from hearing it read now and then. No sooner do I commence to speak to him of the love of our Saviour than he is moved to tears. He was a thief. Several more amongst men and women have become serious, and tell me that they are praying: the conversation of some shows it too.

One very ignorant woman, on account of a very trifling quarrel with her sister, stayed away from the Lord's Supper, thinking herself unfit. Another, formerly most notorious for quarrelling and insulting others—even my presence could not subdue her dreadful passion towards her husband—went about seven miles to settle some slight disagreement with her sister-in-law before partaking of it. A man who for a whole year stayed away came again: but after the first preparatory meeting he declared he was unfit, and that I should only permit him to attend the other preparatory meeting, and to come to me now and then for instruction. He said, "People may think me good, but I know now that my heart is exceedingly wicked."

Visit of the Principal of La Martiniere College, Calcutta.

During the last year, in the month of April, H. Woodrow, Esq., Fellow of Caius College, Cambridge, Principal of La Martiniere College, Calcutta, visited this Mission, and stated that he had inspected the School of Mr. Innes, and was much pleased with the management of it; that at Rottenpur he had witnessed the laborious and interesting work carried on by Mr. Lipp with 1200 converts; that a most cheering work was going on at Solo under the energetic and zealous conduct of the Rev. C. Bomwetsch, a Training School for Teachers and Catechists being established, and promising to supply a crying want of these districts. He continues—

In the evening I accompanied Mr. Bomwetsch in his preaching walk. Crowds of people willingly gave ear to the Gospel preached by the Missionary. He visited Dwipchunderpur, where the Rev. W. Keane had ministered among these simple people for the past eighteen months. He pointed out to me the spot where first the Word of Life evidenced its power among the people; and there, under a spreading tree, we joined in prayer for a blessing from God upon the people who were about to lose this their friend.

In the Christian Boys'-school in the Sudder Station, to which Mr. Woodrow refers, a measure has been introduced to which the Committee attach much interest, namely, industrial training: they hope that in each of the districts the same trial will be made. It is stated respecting it—

The general plan is followed of giving four hours to study and four hours to trades, besides preparation for lessons out of school-hours; with the exception of the youngest boys, who cannot join in trades, and some of the elder, who are entered in the English School, and are, it is hoped, under training to be School Teachers. The trades pursued are cotton-making, tailoring, and weaving. The latter has received the most attention during the last year.

The experiment of introducing industrial employment has been quite successful, and within seven months of the commencement of the class two boys were able to work a loom for themselves, and two looms have been set up for them, which they will work under the superintendence of the weaver and his brother. Thus a beginning has been made of this useful employment amongst the boys, and there is every reason to hope that, if carefully kept up, it may furnish a maintenance to several youths when their school-boy days are over.

BHAGULPUR.

Commencement of the Society's Labours here.

This place appears now, for the first time, in our Reports as a Church Missionary Station. The Rev. E. Drøese arrived there in March 1850, and entered at once upon [Missionary work, having previously acquired a good knowledge of Hindustani whilst in connexion with the Berlin Missionary Society.

It will of course be expected that the work must be in an imperfect state in so new a Station, where a Missionary never laboured before, except for a very short period, terminated by the death of the labourer, the Rev. T. Christian, of the Propagation Society, in 1828. What had to be done twenty or thirty years ago in other Stations has now to be commenced here. Absurd prejudices and fears as to the ultimate design of the Missionaries have to be met and overcome.

The work, however, goes on, notwithstanding prejudice and opposition. "The word of the Truth of the Gospel" is preached amongst the people, and heard by them without much objection. Already some few, chiefly of the Hill people from the neighbouring mountain range, have been received into the Church by baptism, and there are some hopeful inquirers. Mrs. Drøese has a School for native girls, who, though still few, are increasing in numbers. At present there are about 18. The want of well-trained and effective Teachers, both male and female, is most grievously felt in this, and indeed in all our Stations.

BENARES.

The Congregations at Sigra and at Ghurwa have been increased by the addition of eight individuals. No striking events have occurred; and the Missionaries have met with some of those disappointments and trials inseparable from pastoral work where the Gospel of Christ has been long preached, and children have grown up under its sound.

Education.

The Orphan Schools have been diminished in the number of children by the settlement in life of the elder scholars. A promising class of eight boys, forming a kind of head Seminary, receive a superior education, to be trained as Native Teachers.

Jay Narain's College.

This important Institution contains about 500 pupils, and the number might be largely increased if there were a sufficient number of European Masters. During the last year the Rev. M. J. Wilkinson, who was the Superintendant, and his brother, Mr. W. Wilkinson, have both been laid aside by illness. Mr. Acheson undertakes the English department. It is much indebted for its prosperous condition to the zeal and ability of Mr. Mackay, the senior Master. It is reported—

The distribution of prizes took place at the close of the year: the Honourable the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-West Provinces, being at Benares on his tour, kindly consented to preside. He distributed the prizes, after hearing some of the principal classes in each department. In distributing the prizes he took occasion to encourage the boys as they came up, and also made some encouraging remarks to the whole School as they stood before him. A large company of friends from the Station were present, and expressed themselves much gratified at what they had witnessed.

The Rev. Messrs. French and Stuart spent a few days at Benares on their way to Agra, and examined the head boys, "not in any previously prepared books, but taking a larger range," and reported that they had acquitted themselves well. They add—"The College is certainly in a most interesting state at present, and any well-educated man would find at once his every talent most fully called into exercise. There is nothing which has struck us so much in India as the importance of Benares for a central College."

Preaching to the Heathen.

This department has been carried on with great efficiency. The Rev. W. Smith and the Rev. C. Reuther give their whole labour to proclaiming the glad tidings of salvation to the Hindus and Mahommedans, and Mr. Leupolt also a large portion of his time. Mr. Smith reports—

I arrived at Benares, from my trip to England, in the beginning of March last. After getting a little settled, I commenced my work in the city as usual, going eight or nine times a week, and setting apart Friday morning for receiving inquirers, &c., at my own house.

At a later date he writes—"Things were never so promising before in our Mission as they are at present. Glory, glory be to God! I am ready sometimes to weep tears of joy." Yet Mr. Smith is not the less sensible of the difficulties with which he has to contend. He gives this conclusion to his Annual Report—

With regard to the work generally, I am not discouraged. The cause of God, I feel quite sure, is advancing. But the difficulties—which are all to be removed—I seem to see the more clearly the nearer we approach them; and the approximation is daily increasing, which must eventually result in a collision of the contending causes of Christ and Belial, the immediate consequences of which no one can tell, but the ultimate results we all know.

One of the difficulties under which we labour, and which we have often mentioned, is to find support for—as far as we can see—candid, sincere inquirers, who, when they become such, are cast off by their friends and countrymen, and must be entertained as probationers at least for some months before they are baptized; and a still greater difficulty is, to find suitable employment and support for them when they are baptized.

Another difficulty arises from the paucity of European Preachers. Where we have one we ought to have at least three, to enable us to act more extensively and simultaneously upon the immense population. The Native Readers and Catechists can yet do nothing by themselves.

Then, again, we have that crowning difficulty—that curse of India—caste, continually besetting us, together with all the prejudices of the Hindus and the pride and ignorance of the Mussulmans.

Nehemiah Nilkanth has been received as a Catechist, and is going on well, promising to be very useful. His father is still in great distress of mind on account of his conversion. On one occasion he observed that time diminished other people's sorrow, but it increased his. He has been forsaken by all his friends, and virtually put out of caste, because he persists in receiving visits from his son—his lamb, as he calls him—whom I, the wolf, he says, came and stole from his bosom. Still the old man receives even me when I go, and lately, very patiently and with some attention, heard me explain a chapter of the New Testament as his son read it. The case is a deeply affecting one. It is almost impossible to see the man without weeping. I would most earnestly entreat our Christian friends to pray for Nehemiah's father. Nehemiah fondly hopes he will yet be brought in, and I by no means despair.

Mr. Leupolt reports respecting this department of his labours—

I have during the year had frequent visits from native gentlemen. Many are convinced of the truth of Christianity. Thus the other day one remarked to me, "If the truth be not found in Christianity, where is it to be found?" But he added, "Suppose I became a Christian, what would become of me and my children?" Oh, for more grace for ourselves, and a richer outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the people, so that they may no longer stifle their conviction, nor prefer the honour of men to the honour that cometh from God only, but that all, rich and poor, may come to Christ and say, I am Thine.

I find that my duties do not decrease. All is right, however. The work is the Lord's. May I be His too! May I be faithful, approved of God, and "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed!"

GORRUCKPUR.

Native-Christian Congregations.

There are two Christian Congregations at this Station, one in the city and one at the Christian farm of Basharatpur, about two miles off. The local Report states—

The village and settlement of Basharatpur present a pleasing picture of a Christian colony. The great unhealthiness which at first—as is often the case in newly-cleared land—rendered the place formidable, is fast passing away. Out of about 110 individuals of all sorts, not a single death occurred during the year, and comparatively but little sickness. This is a cause of great thankfulness to the Lord. The Christian settlers now find the advantage of steady industry, and are growing independent and comfortable: their conduct, also, has been on the whole very satisfactory. The Church forms a lovely object at the head of the regularly-arranged little village, and is well attended by the people, both at the Lord's-day and Week-day Services, which the Rev. J. P. Mengé regularly performs, and the attention of the people to the worship and Word of God is very pleasing to witness. Thus the experiment, so long of doubtful result, and so often and so unfairly spoken against by inconsiderate and hasty friends, is now in a fair way of receiving the blessing of success. One thing is wanted—a resident Pastor. Mr. Mengé resides at the Gorruckpur Mission Premises, and, with his multifarious and laborious duties, cannot give the Settlement all the attention it would require.

Education.

There are three Christian Orphan-schools, and a large English School, originally established by a zealous friend of Missions, Mr. H. C. Tucker, which contains 160 boys.

JAUNPUR.

Need of a Missionary at this Station.

This Station has continued without a Missionary since the Rev. Robert Hawes left for Europe in 1848. The Rev. C. B. Leupolt, of Benares, visits it as often as he can, to superintend the Society's work, and to perform ministerial services for the residents. The Mission-work is confined to Schools under the care of Mr. J. P. Cæsar, with an East-Indian and Native Assistants.

Education—Native Congregation.

There are in the four Schools, including a small Sunday-school, about 382 scholars, intelligent native boys, who have the Truth brought before their minds through the medium of both the English and vernacular languages. One of the Schools is at Azimgurh, forty miles from Jaunpur. It is maintained chiefly by the residents of that Station, and is held in the excellent School-house built by the Government for a School under their auspices. Mr. Cæsar visits and examines the School twice a month. His arrangements appear good, and the Institution presents considerable appearances of vigour.

There is a small native flock, consisting of about 20 individuals, to whom Mr. Cæsar reads the Church Services when Mr. Leupolt is not present. The Church is being repaired and much improved by the residents, at their own expense. They express an earnest desire to have a Missionary settled among them. Two adult converts and two children have been added to the flock.

CHUNAR.

Departure of the Rev. D. Hechler.

The Rev. D. Hechler's illness and consequent departure for Europe has left this Station also without a Missionary. It is in several respects an interesting place. There is a considerable and very respectable Congregation, above 100 in number, of Natives and East-Indians, whose language is the Hindustani; but they belong to the army, and are properly objects of the care of the East-India Company's Clergy, and not of those of a Missionary Society. Their attention to the Means of Grace, their devotional and consistent habits, and their liberality in relieving the distressed, and helping forward the Lord's work according to their means, are calculated to be most encouraging to a Minister. We trust a Chaplain, competent by knowledge of Hindustani to minister to the large Christian flock at Chunar, will be sent thither.

At present the Schools in the Bazaars are superintended by a Native Catechist, and are well attended. Mr. Leupolt also visits this Station.

AGRA.

The Orphan Press at Secundra—The New English School.

The Local Committee, in their Annual Report, state—

The work has been going on in its usual course; but two important events, long desired and hoped for, have marked the history of the year. The first is that the Secundra Orphan Press has at last arrived at such a position that it will from this time be able to defray from its profits the expenses of the Orphan Institutions. The second and more important event is the realization of the long-cherished wish of the Committee for an English School in the city, of a high and efficient character.

The Clergymen who have devoted themselves to the important work of Christian education, to which allusion is made, are the Rev. T. Valpy French, M.A., and the Rev. E. Craig Stuart, B.A.* They arrived at Agra at the close of last year. A sum of 1500*l.* has been raised at the Station to meet a similar sum appropriated to this object out of the Jubilee Fund.

Native Congregations.

There are two Native-Christian Congregations at this Station, one in the city and the other at Secundra. The Rev. C. G. Pfander has charge of that in the city: he reports favourably of the attendance upon the Means of Grace, but no addition has been made to the number. They amount to 122, of whom 35 are Communicants. Mr. Pfander quotes at the conclusion of his Report, as applicable to his own case, the experience of an eminent Missionary—"That a Missionary's greatest troubles and trials commence with the time when he has collected a Congregation of converts around him." Yet he is not without encouragement. He writes, respecting one of the members of his Congregation who was removed by death—

* The Instructions of the Committee to these Clergymen, with their replies, &c., are printed in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for October 1850.

The Reader George was a really pious character, and his loss is much lamented both by myself and the Congregation. His exemplary conduct, and his meek and quiet spirit, made him esteemed and loved by all: and his devotion to the Mission work, as well as his abilities, gave the promise of his becoming a faithful and useful labourer. He died of consumption, brought on by a fever which he caught on his last Missionary tour, at the commencement of the hot season.

The Rev. F. E. Schneider, who is in charge of the Congregation at Secundra, reports that the Christian village consists of 79 houses: the Congregation consists of 274, with 130 Communicants, of whom the Missionary reports favourably.

Out-station at Runkutta.

An Out-station is maintained at the village of Runkutta, a few miles from Secundra, where two Native Christians are placed, having voluntarily surrendered more lucrative employment for this service. They keep up a Boys' School, and read and explain the Scriptures to the people.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Each of the Missionaries bears part in this work. Mr. Pfander writes—

The Catechists and Readers also, who in turn went out into the villages of the Agra district during the cold season, met with much encouragement in their preaching. People were everywhere willing to hear, and in many instances made earnest inquiries about the way of salvation, and often openly confessed their disbelief in the deotas and idols, and freely expressed their conviction that our religion would ultimately prevail, and all India become Christian. At the Batesur Mela, for instance, a Mahaut—Mahaut is the head either of a mat, i. e. a cloister, or of a body of bairagis—who for three days regularly attended the preaching of the Gospel, openly declared before his bairagis and all the people that he had now been hearing the preaching of Jesus for four years, and was convinced that Ram's incarnation was a made-up story—that the idols and deotas were nothing—and that Jesus Christ was the only true Anta—i. e. the only Divine Incarnation—and that through Him alone salvation was to be obtained. Many of the bystanders called him mad; but others, and that not a few, both of the bairagis and the people, assented to the truth of what he had been saying. Another time, when preaching at Wheler's Chapel, a Hindu of the Kabir sect, who had often attended our preaching, after listening for some time to the Catechist's address, turned to the people and said—"I confess that Jesus Christ is the true Incarnation, and the only Mediator between God and sinful men, and in Him I place all my hope of salvation. God has opened my eyes to see all this. But," turning to the Catechist he said, "I cannot as yet externally embrace Christ, nor eat with the Christians, out of fear of the Hindus; but if once a great many have embraced this religion, then there may be no difficulty; and I am convinced that in a short time many of the Hindustani people will join themselves to this religion." Again, one of the Catechists was preaching in the square before the fort, and about 100 persons collected around him. A stranger, and that a Brahmin, came up to him, and, patting him on the shoulder, said, "Please let me also say a few words." He then, turning to the people, said, "Oh, brethren! believe me that the nine Antars are not Divine Incarnations: if they were, those who believe in them, and call upon their names, would have become free from the power and pollutions of sin. If there were any power in the idols, or in the Gunga, or in the holy pilgrimages, then not one of the Hindus would have remained a sinner, and our land would never have fallen into the power of the Sahibs. The real Antar is the Lord Jesus, and in Him is that Divine power which makes the believer holy and fit for heaven. He it is who has helped the Sahibs in their wars, and given them the victory. If I think of Him, then He appears to me like pure light." Here he was interrupted by one of the people giving him a severe slap in the face. The Catechist then interfered, telling the people to beat him if they wished to do so, but to leave this stranger unmolested. The Brahmin, however, replied, "Let them do so: if they beat me even with their shoes* I shall not mind it: I am willing and happy to suffer all this for Jesus' sake: these things they do in their blindness." The people then accused the Catechist of having bewitched the man; to which he replied, that his prayer to God was, that they all might be thus bewitched, and be brought, through the hearing of God's Word, to the true faith. In the mean time the Brahmin had walked away, and the Catechist was unable to hear more of him, or to learn whence he had come, or how he had heard of Christ.

This might be thought to be a solitary and extraordinary incident, but not so. Mr. Pfander, one of the most experienced of Missionaries, having been fifteen years on the field, and a first-rate native scholar, adds—

Such confessions constantly occur, and they are becoming more general from year to year. They evidently prove the working of the leaven of Divine truth—thrown into the long stagnant masses by the preaching of the Missionaries and the distribution of Scriptures and Tracts. This observation affords some consolation in our grief that so few conversions take place.

Mr. Pfander states that in the course of the year there had been visited, by himself or his Readers, five melas, 22 towns, and 419 villages.

Mr. Schneider reports respecting his Missionary tours—

I had with several respectable Natives interesting conversations about the things belonging to God. The remarks made by some on

* The greatest indignity a Hindu can suffer.

Christianity were very striking, and showed how thinking men, who are not blind idolaters, seem to be “not far from the kingdom of God.” I was very much pleased with our work during this mela, and happy to see our Catechists rejoicing in the preaching of the Gospel. Although we cannot show the effects of our preaching, yet it is very encouraging to hear from the mouth of the heathen themselves expressions like these—“Your words are good, and worthy to be accepted.” “Your books are true, and better than our Shasters, which are unintelligible even to most of our pundits.” “Your work is a work of charity for our good; and we know that, as the rule of the English has spread over the whole of Hindustan, so their religion also will finally become the religion of the Hindus.” Such and similar expressions I have heard often, and also at this mela.

General Review.

Mr. Pfander has given this general view of Missionary labours—

If you ask, What is the fruit of all this labour? I can only answer, It is an humbling fact, that very few conversions can be pointed to. And this fact is rather a general one, not only in Agra, but in every Missionary Station. Why is this? No doubt many reasons might be given from the character and institutions of the people. Yet it is an humbling fact, both to us and to the Societies, and to every friend of Missions. Assuredly we should humble ourselves before God—not only the Missionary, but every Christian: the whole Church has to bear her part in the blame. If there ensue a greater spirit of earnest, humble prayer, of self-devotion to God and His work, of a holy life, the blessing will not be withheld.

On the other hand, the preaching of the Word has not been without its important effect. A gradual change has been visible in the native mind. One of my Catechists has often remarked this to me, calling to mind the days of his first conversion, when there used to be bitter and clamorous opposition; whereas now we are quietly and attentively listened to. Many of the Hindus confess that God alone should be worshipped, and not idols, and that Christianity is the right way, and will prevail. This has often encouraged me. Only a few months ago one of the Catechists, when preaching in the bazaar, was interrupted by a man declaring aloud that all he had said of one God and Christ was true—that Christ must reign. The crowd got exasperated with him, and were about to beat him, but during the uproar he disappeared. The work and labour is not in vain; but we have to carry it on with more correctness, greater devotion, more prayerfulness, more simplicity, and a deeper sense of our own weakness and God's almighty power.

MIRUT.

The Rev. R. M. Lamb has been encouraged in his labours at Mirut by four Converts from heathenism during the year, and one from Popery. The Congregation attending the blood on the posts and doors of the temple and houses. All this shows that the hill tribes of the Himalaya Mission at Kotegurh are far from being in a savage and entirely uncivilized state. They understand all the terms of our blessed religion. I never found the least difficulty in making them, even the women, understand the great truths of the Gospel, if only brought before them in simple language. These Hindu mountaineers are the first to be benefited by our Mission; and in a great measure, as we have been without assistance and help, our efforts hitherto have been confined to them.

The second are the wandering Tartars, or the Buddhist mountaineers of the higher hills. These people are very peculiar in every way—in their habits, religion, language, &c. They come down from the high table land of central Asia, from Upper Kanowar, Chinese Tartary, Ladak, Mahashin, &c., to spend the winter months in the valleys of the Sutlej, Byas, Parbatti,* and the smaller rivers. There are thousands of them, all divided into small families of from eight to sixteen or twenty persons each. They have their flocks of sheep and goats along with them, carrying the produce of their country—raisins, borax, wool, dried apricots, silk, precious stones, &c. All these they dispose of during the winter months, from November to April. Whilst they stop in the valleys of the different rivers, feeding their flocks—in their own countries they would find no food for their flocks at all—they go down as far as Umritsir, Lahore, and Ludiana. In May all these different Tartar families move on again, going up to the sources of the different rivers, and crossing the high mountain passes into their own countries, with the small bags, which the sheep and goats carry, now filled with grain: so they avoid the rainy season of the lower hills, and enjoy the fine summer of the higher hills. Now, these wandering tribes alone form a very interesting field of labour. They are always the same, with very few exceptions, who move up and down annually. They generally keep lower down than our house, in the Sutlej valley. But since I have treated medically several of them who were very ill at Kotegurh, many of them come up regularly. As far as I have been enabled to ascertain, there are four different dialects of their language, based on the Thibetian. I have not been able yet to obtain a clever and well-educated Lama, to teach the Thibetian in our Schools: but since Ladak has been opened for a year, there is no doubt that such a man will be obtainable. Four of the elder School-boys have learned the first elements of the Thibetian Grammar, and will prove a great help to the Missionary, who will be soon, I trust, appointed to devote his whole attention and labours to this class of people.

Their religion is Buddhism; and there are plenty of monks and nuns among them. The rosary, amulet, and holy water are not unknown to them—in fact, they are in daily use; and, besides, they have an instrument by which they perform their prayers. This is the mani, or prayer-wheel. In their temples they have it in the form of an iron frame, pasted all over with paper, forming a cylinder six feet high by two or three feet in diameter, on which prayers and holy sentences are written: it is turned by one man; but many more sit round to catch the wind caused by its turning, which is considered blessed. Those who have running streams behind their houses stick a prayer-wheel up in the water, to be turned by the stream: the water which has driven the wheel is considered holy. Wheels on a smaller scale are carried in the hand of the Clergy, as well as laity: they must be turned from left to right: if turned the contrary way, the prayers all go against those who hold them.

These Tartars have no caste. I cannot express the relief I felt the first time I sat down with a family of those wandering Tartars under a large shady tree. They were eating their food with small spoons, and showed no abhorrence at the approach of an unclean stranger, as the Hindus constantly do; but, on the contrary, made signs to invite me to sit down among them. They are a very interesting class of people in every way. The eldest of our converts belongs to this race; and every one who has seen much of her is pleased with her superior character and consistent Christian walk.

The third class are the Sikhs: there are very few in the hills around Kotegurh, but their number increases towards Kotkangra, and Umritsir is the centre of them. It is, in fact, the holy city—the Kasi (Benares)—of the Sikhs: the holy tank is there, to which Sikh and Tartar pilgrims resort. The Sikhs, on account of their being a religious sect into which any one can be initiated—Hindus, Mahomedans, and even Europeans, and all of them being of one caste—are the more ready to be influenced by our preaching: and those of them who have been converted to Christianity at Cawnpur and Benares are very highly spoken of—as being far superior to the Hindu converts.

The Punjab Mission, therefore, as being a thank-offering to Almighty God for the victory He has given us over that warlike nation, ought to be planted in the midst of the Sikhs, that is, in Umritsir, and from thence branch out and meet us. Mr. Merk, my successor at Kotegurh for the present, is to go to Kangra as soon as Kotegurh is strengthened, and then Kangra will form the link of connexion between Kotegurh and Umritsir. I have already, besides the Schools on this side of the Sutlej, three branch Schools in the hill country of the Punjab, very promising indeed. Mr. Barnes has greatly assisted me; and only lately he built a School-house for one of those Schools, without any solicitation on my part. Then, again, from Kotegurh the Mission for the Thibetians must branch off to the east.

And now when you ask me, What success have you had in your Mission? I must confess, with deep humiliation, visible fruits of our labour I have few, very few; but, considering all the difficulties which have beset us from our very first beginning till now, I am not discouraged; no, not by any means. I am very much encouraged. The seed has fallen into the ground: it will spring up at God's own the two gentlemen were about to cross, and that it would be much more advantageous for them to release him and take the gentlemen prisoners. The boundary was very unsafe. Then the Sikh war broke out, and, as Kotegurh was so near the boundary, I was warned to come with my family into Simla: even that place was considered unsafe. Having placed my family in the Station, I went out alone to Kotegurh, and heard, for months together, firing out of the small hill forts opposite our house, day and night. The small Sikh posts along the Sutlej had taken refuge in these forts when the Kulu people had arisen throughout the land to drive them out.

Peace was restored after some months, and the Sikhs evacuated the hill countries opposite Kotegurh. These countries were annexed to our immediate territories; and only lately, after the second Sikh campaign, the final settlement has been completed, under a British officer who is beloved everywhere in the hills, and had exercised a most beneficent influence over the simple, but strong-minded and able-bodied Kulu people, Mr. George Barnes, the Deputy Commissioner.* After all had been settled and arranged towards the north, the old Rajah of Busahir died, of whose Rajahship the fine grape country, Kanowar, the Himalayan Switzerland, forms a province, and who was an enemy of our cause, and positively prohibited us from attempting teaching in his Rajahship, which forms the boundary of Kotegurh on two sides. He has appointed an heir of about eight years old, whom the British Government has acknowledged, and sees that he be educated in some measure. Still, the country is virtually under sole British control, and consequently the countries towards the east and south are now open to us; and we can go, and teach and preach, undisturbed and unmolested, towards the north and east, and south up to the boundary of Chinese Tartary and of Golab Singh's territory, and those petty Chiefs whose small Ranaships form the boundary of Kotegurh towards the west. They have, since the settlement of the Punjab, assumed the greatest politeness, and shown us many favours. Instead of being confined, as to our direct labour, to some twenty or thirty villages, with a population of a few thousand inhabitants widely scattered, we have now large countries open before us, with millions of immortal souls, who are ready to listen, and are entirely unacquainted with the arguments of the Brahmins and priests of the plains, as their priests are, with few exceptions, taken from their own number, without any education or training in the tenets of idolatry.

All this is sufficient to show that the Lord Himself has opened a wide door before us, which ought not to be neglected. But even more has been done by Him who guides, as the rivers of waters, the hearts of kings and rulers. The Governor-General has ordered a road so nearly level to be constructed through the hills, that the ascent or descent does not exceed three or four feet in a hundred. This road, it is intended, shall be made as far as the boundary of Chinese Tartary, and it will be twelve feet wide. From the foot of the hills to Simla, and from Simla to Nogkanda, eight miles before you come to Kotegurh, it is finished—that is, about one hundred and fifty miles—but as yet only eight feet wide; and in Kanour, near China, a large portion has also been finished. Now it is evident that this is the doing of the Lord; that this road is constructed for Him and for His holy Word's sake.* Have we not the promise that His Word shall run all over the earth, and accomplish the end for which He has sent it? Will He not fulfil, in His own time, all He has promised? Most assuredly He will; and we have the blessed command—nay, privilege—to pray for it, and help towards the accomplishment of those great ends. What an honour to be invited by Him, the King of kings, to help in His glorious cause!

I have shown how the door has been opened wider and wider. The road being made, not only ready, but easy for all conveyances, we have only to enter and to advance—and we have already been invited by the Superintendant of the Hill States to do so—to advance further into the interior, and occupy Chini. As soon as Kotegurh is strengthened, we shall be in a position to do this, and occupy Chini, or any other suitable place in Kanour, which will then be the Mission for the Thibetians: but as Chini is so far, and the winter so very rigid, the Missionary must retire during the winter to Kotegurh.

This leads me to speak about the people in the midst of whom, and for whose benefit, we labour. There are three distinct classes or races of people, to whom the Missionary must address himself. First of all, the Hill People, who are all Hindus, though their ways of living and of worship are very different from those of the plains. Simple, without that cunning and craftiness which the people of the plains possess; of an independent cast of mind; not under the spiritual tyranny of the Brahmins; all of them are agriculturists, living in most substantially-built and comfortable houses, in the midst of their fields, and all well off as to worldly things—not wealthy, but, on the other hand, no poor being among them. In their rites and manner of worship they bear a great resemblance to the Jews of old. They carry their Deotas—i. e. wooden chairs dressed up, with human faces fixed to them—on their shoulders, and dance before them in a peculiar manner, as the Jews of old before the ark, waving branches of trees, or punkas, or swords in their hands. These Deotas, when they have no temples of their own, rest in the houses of the Zemindars. In their music, their observances of the new moon, fasting, and many other things, they also greatly resemble the Jews; but, more than any thing else, in their sacrifices to atone the wrath of the Deota, namely, the sprinkling of

* It is worth remarking here, that the Romans, the people commissioned by God to prepare the world, by their wide-spread conquests and dominion, for the peaceful diffusion of the Gospel at the first, were sometimes called "The road-making nation," because immediately on getting possession of a province, they set to work constructing roads through it, to facilitate the transmission of their troops, supplies, &c. These Roman roads afforded passage also to the preachers of the Gospel to the remotest places. The conquerors of the world were, unawares, road-makers for the "GOSPEL OF THE KINGDOM."—Ed. "Calcutta Christian Intelligencer."

Hindustani Service in St. Paul's Chapel amounts to about 100, and the Communicants to 43. In January 1850 Mr. Lamb commenced a Christian village, with a view to gather the native flock together in the neighbourhood of the Church and Pastor. It already numbers sixteen houses.

Missionary Tours.

The Missionary has also been well received, and very much encouraged, on two or three excursions, in which he was accompanied by his excellent Catechist and Munshi, Paul, the first-fruit of his labour at Mirut, and now a very useful assistant, being well acquainted with the Hindu Shasters. At Ghermuktezer mela, in the midst of the once magnificent, imperial city of Delhi, and in the villages on the road to Agra, the Gospel has been heard by crowds of attentive listeners.

Out-Stations—Bareilly.

Mr. Lamb has tried the interesting experiment of forming Branch Missions in connexion with Mirut, to be supported entirely by local funds.

At Bareilly local friends have taken the lead themselves, encouraged and countenanced by Mr. Lamb, and are forming a very hopeful little Christian Settlement, under the immediate charge of a Native Catechist sent by Mr. Lamb, who occasionally visits the Station. The Catechist goes about, reads to the Natives, converses with them, and tries to direct their minds to Christ's precious Gospel and their grievous need of its saving power. He has been well received in several quarters, and seems especially acceptable and useful to the lower orders of East Indians—writers, drummers, and other families—to whom the Company's Chaplains are seldom qualified to minister, and who need a Missionary almost as much as the heathen themselves.

Probable Increase of Converts.

In a review of the labours of the year Mr. Lamb exclaims—

Oh, what a harvest might be reaped had we but sufficient labourers! I am convinced that we shall before very long see the Hindus embrace Christianity, not here one and there one—we shall not have solitary instances—but hundreds will offer themselves for baptism at once. Caste, family connexions, and want of employment, are the chief hinderances at present. As soon as they talk more among themselves in the bazaars about what we have been preaching—for they do already speak about our religion—then they will discover that many hold the same opinion, that the Christian religion is the only true one. Directly they perceive this, they will in a body join us, for they will have nothing to fear.*

KOTEGURH.

The Rev. J. D. Prochnow has laboured as a solitary Missionary at this Station for the last three or four years. He was assisted at the commencement of the Station in 1844 by Mr. Rudolph, and subsequently by the late Rev. M. Wilkinson. Mr. Prochnow has now himself been compelled to retire from his work, in consequence of an affection of the eye-sight, threatening blindness if prompt measures be not adopted for his restoration. Upon leaving his Mission he gives the following able and graphic

Kotegurh is situated about 7000 feet above the level of the sea, and 100 miles from the plains of India. The Mission has now been established there nearly eight years, and, though beset with difficulty and disadvantage on every side, it has taken, there is no doubt, deep root, and will, when carried on with vigour and energy, become one of the most promising Missions in India. Kotegurh is the key of central Asia, and the granary of all the countries to the north and east. The surrounding countries have been opened to us and to our influence every year more and more. When I entered that field of labour in 1844, I was confined, as to direct Missionary work, to a small district which had been reserved for a cantonment at the conclusion of the Nepalese war in 1816. The British authorities watched us and our doings with perhaps more jealousy than the native princes and rajahs round about us; and our position was so confined, that I often had serious thoughts of leaving the field altogether. Besides, I found that the old Rana, from whom the district had been taken at first, still exercised a powerful though an unlawful influence over the people. A Rana is a petty rajah.

The river Sutlej running below our house—the direct distance scarcely more than a mile and a half, but 3600 feet lower down—formed the boundary of the British and tributary States; and it is still fresh in my memory with what an anxious heart we travelled the first and second year along that river to the large Rampur fair, seeing the Sikh posts in small detachments on the other side of the river, and walking within reach of their guns. Very often false alarms frightened us and the people. Once, two gentlemen, travelling in the interior, went down to the river to have a look at the peculiar way of crossing, either by the rope bridge or by inflated bullock-skins. They sent one of their servants over to the other side, that they might see the manner, and judge of the safety of the conveyance. The Sikhs took the servant prisoner at once, and released him only when he told them that time. He, I am sure, will not be slow in gathering in His elect even from among the mountaineers through our instrumentality. A firm footing has been gained: even Rajahs have sent to me frequently, asking my advice. The change which has taken place among the Natives in many important respects is great. The system of polyandria is losing ground altogether around us. Their prejudices are vanishing away: many of them confess boldly that all we say is true, and that they know Christianity will prevail. Many confessed, when they were asked why they did not attend Divine Service on the Lord's-day, that they could not act up to what I said, and what they acknowledged to be true, and therefore did not come any more to hear me, as they would only be more liable to punishment. More than 300 boys, and about 60 girls, have passed through our Schools and learned the Word of God, besides reading and writing. Often I have been asked by some of the boys, after the Service was over, with the Bible in their hands, as to where the passages I had quoted were to be found. Two interesting girls were baptized above a year ago,* and are going on well. About two months before I left the Mission, three of the eldest School-boys wrote a joint letter to me, requesting me to baptize them, as they were fully convinced of the truth of Christianity. They however did not send the letter to me, but they told me of it shortly before my departure: in one way or the other their relatives had heard of their intention, and they had not strength enough to withstand their threats and entreaties.

The paucity of Missionary labourers not only prevents the Committee from entering upon many new and inviting fields of labour, but hinders and often nullifies the success which has been actually obtained. In the case of Mr. Prochnow, as there was no second Missionary upon the spot, nor any one acquainted with the language, the Committee had no other means of supplying his absence than by sending to Kotegurh, from Calcutta, the Rev. J. N. Merk, who is unacquainted with the language, and can only retain, as it were, possession of the ground till he has acquired the facility of communicating with the Natives.†

THE PUNJAB.

Encouragements to commence this new Mission.

The Mission to the Punjab will be commenced, if the Lord will, by two Clergymen of our Church before the close of the present year. The Committee have met with much encouragement in the prospect of this new Mission. The zeal of the military officers stationed in that country has collected the large sum of 10,000 rupees for the Punjab Mission as a thank-offering to God; and the Committee have lately had the satisfaction of receiving a promise from an unknown friend in India of 10,000 rupees upon the arrival in India of two Missionaries for the Punjab. The promise of this munificent gift has been conveyed to the Committee by an American Presbyterian Missionary, himself labouring in the Punjab. With Christian candour and cordiality he invites the Church of England to take its part with his own Society in a second subjugation of that province, by "the sword of the Spirit." The first Station will probably be Umritsir. The circumstances of that city, and indeed of the whole province, seem to be peculiarly favourable to Missionary operations.

The Hon. East-India Company has authorized an annual grant of 5000 rupees for the endowment of a College at Umritsir. The people are anxious for education: their own Vernacular Schools in the Lahore division amount to 1384, where 11,500 boys are instructed in Arabic, Persian, Sanskrit, Hindi, &c.; and it is stated that in the city they have 15 Female Schools, where Mussulmanis are taught by Mussulmanis, and that from the Korân.*

Concluding Remarks.

Before the Committee close their Report of the North-India Missions they must refer to some of the events of the last year, of great importance in their bearing upon the advancement of Christianity in that vast empire.

The first event is the passing of an Act (xxi. of 1850) for protecting liberty of conscience, by securing to those who change their religious profession all their previous rights of property. Of this Act one of their elder Missionaries thus writes—

If the 4th of December 1829 is memorable in the annals of British India, as being the day when the rite of Sati [the burning of widows] was abolished, the 10th of April 1850 is no less so, as being the day in which the British Government, as far as the law of the land is concerned, cut short the arm of persecution, and secured to the Native Christian those civil rights which will in future enable him to profess that faith which God has appointed for the regeneration of mankind, and to worship that God who alone is worthy to be praised,

* An interesting account of this new field of labour, illustrated by a view of Lahore, will be found in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for July 1851, pp. 145—162.

This morning I rode to Pundugul, where we had a conversation about the one thing needful with several Brahmins and others. Here we were pleased to discover that one of our tracts had been read, and even studied, by a young Brahmin; and such was the impression made upon his mind, that he attempted a refutation of it. He offered to show us his production, and, on our wishing to see it, brought it to us, and read several pages of it. As he proceeded, I pointed out to him his gratuitous assertions and unsound conclusions. I was pleased to find him open to conviction, and fond of research. We gave him a copy of the New Testament, and several more Tracts, and requested that he would examine them and communicate with us.

A still more striking fact is recorded—that, in one of the villages a few miles off, a native hawker was found selling tracts which he had gathered in the town; a sufficient proof that, though some may despise them, a general desire for them exists.

The visits of the Missionaries to the villages have been more encouraging than the work in the town. Mr. Sharkey writes, June 30, 1850—

The village of Guntasalah we visited in January last, and our reception there was of the most encouraging character. Several have come to us from the village since. One came daily to me for three weeks. Two others come to see me occasionally, with whom I have had very interesting conversations. A few Brahmins from the same village visit me, and we have just admitted two Pariah girls as boarders in our Female School. Our eyes are towards Guntasalah.

TINNEVELLY.

Statistics of the Mission.

The number of baptized persons on the 31st of Dec. last was 13,518, of whom 2743, being one-fifth, are Communicants. The number of persons unbaptized, but having renounced idolatry, and having placed themselves under Christian instruction, is 11,034, making a total of persons in connexion with the Mission of 24,552. The baptisms have been 296 adults and 728 children, being an addition of 1024 souls to the Christian Church in the course of the last year. During the last five years there has been a steady increase of about 300 adult baptisms yearly.

Spiritual Progress of the Mission.

The Reports which have been received afford evidences of the general progress and establishment of Christianity in the district, as well as of the reality of the work of God's Holy Spirit upon the hearts of the people.

The Rev. J. T. Tucker gives this general account of the district of Pannavilei—

I believe that a steady increase has been going on in almost every department of the Mission. Although a few persons have proved themselves to be not worthy of the name of Christians, I am more than ever persuaded that there are many among the converts who love the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity and truth.

Mr. Tucker gives an interesting account of one of his Catechists lately removed by death.

The Congregation at Panneivilei have sustained a great loss in the death of old Mootthia Pillay, the most devoted and pious Catechist in the district. He was a native of Perungkullum, and of a respected family. While a heathen, he became anxious about the salvation of his soul, and sought for peace in the multitudinous ceremonies of idolatry; but finding all these to be vain, he forsook Hinduism, and for a time studied the Mahommedan religion, with a view to join it. However, there was nothing in the religion of Mahommed to satisfy the cravings of his thirsty soul. At this time he providentially met with David, the present Headman of Panneivilei, who, knowing Mootthia Pillay to be seeking the true religion, advised him to join Christianity, and read Christian books. He then by some means procured a few tracts, and, I believe, a New Testament. These he perused over and over again with much seriousness; and before ever he met a Catechist or Missionary, he became fully convinced that the Christian religion was the one which would afford his conscience peace, and was in the habit of assembling in his house the people of his village, and, according to the knowledge he had derive from these books, of teaching them Christianity, and joining with them in prayer to Almighty God. Soon after this, the late Mr. Rhenius came to Perungkullam, when Mootthia Pillay applied to him for baptism; and Mr. Rhenius, finding that he was really in earnest, and had already obtained a good knowledge of the Gospel, at once baptized him. Mootthia has ever since, till the hour of his death, proved that he was a sincere disciple of Christ. The Rev. G. Pettitt mentions him in his Journal, published in the "Madras Church Missionary Record" for 1840, p. 3. When I took charge of the district, in 1844, I found him devoted to his work as Catechist. I soon afterwards placed him at Panneivilei. He was a man of regular and industrious habits. He usually rose at sunrise, and spent at least an hour every morning in private prayer. After this he would leave his house, and pass the whole day in teaching the members of the Congregation the Catechism whenever he could meet with them. He very often posted himself in the road where he knew the Panneivilei women daily pass to draw water, and would invite the passers-by to learn from his lips their appointed lessons. He was also very attentive to the sick members under his care, visiting them in their houses, and praying with them. I must here mention, that, from the beginning, he entirely renounced caste. He very often partook of food offered him by Christians of a much lower caste than himself, and openly avowed that caste distinction respecting marriage was wrong. His death was sudden: it took place in the old Panneivilei children. Any one passing by, and observing the order maintained and attention paid, might have mistaken this assembly for a regular Christian Congregation; for, considering the nature of the thoroughfare, such an audience of attentive hearers was indeed wonderful.

Oct. 28, 1850—A sepoy called with a Mahomedan youth, and I talked a long while with them. The former said, while he was reading a Tamil Testament I had given him, a Roman-Catholic sepoy in his regiment strongly urged him to desist from doing so, stating that, if he became a Protestant Christian, he would be required to renounce caste and to give up image-worship altogether, so that none in his regiment would associate with him; but that, if he were to turn Roman Catholic, he might retain caste, and even wear a spot on his forehead, and also practise other ceremonies, and thus mix freely with his comrades. My friend, however, appears to have claimed the liberty of thinking for himself in these matters, and of acting as his conscience dictates. He made bold to tell his comrade that if Romanism resembled heathenism so much, he was a great fool for becoming a Roman Catholic, when he might more honestly have remained a heathen, as his forefathers were. At this his friend became enraged and left him, threatening to persecute him, if he could, by reporting against him to his superior officer.

Female Education.

There are two Female Schools, comprising children of all denominations—Protestant, Roman Catholic, and heathen. The whole number amounts to 195, being an increase of 30 during the last year. An annual public examination, in the presence of a number of ladies and other friends of the cause, took place in December. "The replies of the children were very satisfactory, evincing the pains which had been taken in instilling into their minds the truths of the Bible, and in imparting that knowledge which is calculated to emancipate them from the present degraded state of Indian females."

Native Confirmation.

On the 10th of April the Bishop of Madras held a Confirmation in Vepery Church. Mr. Bilderbeck writes—

I presented, in conjunction with the Rev. Messrs. Rodgers and Gnanamuttoo, 26 Candidates from our various Congregations, and also interpreted the Bishop's Address to those confirmed, of whom there were numbers also from other Churches. This beautiful Church was well filled with Natives; and it was a gratifying sight to see so many collected on that interesting occasion.*

MASULIPATAM.

The little company of Christians and of Christian inquirers, amidst the large heathen population of Masulipatam and its neighbourhood, has been increased by a few baptisms during the last year, and now numbers above 100 souls.

* A further account of Madras will be found in the "Church Missionary Record" for March 1851, pp. 49—56.

Education.

The English School at Masulipatam has continued under the zealous superintendence of the Rev. R. T. Noble, with East-Indian and Native Assistants. Mr. T. K. Nicholson, an European Master, has been lately added to the Establishment, on a fund raised by the former and present pupils of Rugby School as a memorial of the late Rev. H. W. Fox. The fund is termed the "Rugby Fox-Memorial Foundation." The progress of the scholars affords much satisfaction to those Christian friends on the spot who have the opportunity of witnessing the operation of the School.

Preaching to the Heathen.

The addition of labourers has enabled the Missionaries to conduct this branch of the Mission with renewed efficiency. They write, June 30, 1850—"Some of the main streets of Masulipatam have again been visited. Again has the Gospel of peace been proclaimed as with a trumpet. Crowds of immortal souls have heard the glad tidings. The news is spreading through the length and breadth of the town." Various objections are urged against Christianity, especially "the neglect with which the British nation and Church have hitherto regarded the spiritual interests of the millions of the Telugu country." But as an encouragement they record, "the civil and almost kind treatment which they everywhere receive from the natives in the town of Masulipatam, as well as in the villages surrounding it. We have thus been enabled, under this quiet reception, to state frequently, and before numerous audiences, the claims of the Gospel, which before an angry and hostile auditory would probably have shared the contempt and rejection of pearls before swine." "There is often a life and sobriety in their inquiries, and a tone of anxiety running through their conversation, which are very pleasing; though they cannot put off the fear of man, and the trammels of caste, to put themselves under Christian instruction, or to seek baptism."

Portions of Scripture, and Tracts upon Christianity, are widely distributed. "In Masulipatam there is quite a prevailing desire to become possessed of Christian Tracts." Often this desire may be delusory, but there are also indications that, in many cases, a real value is set upon them, and an effect produced which alarms the enemies of Christianity. The Rev. J. E. Sharkey writes, March 12, 1850—without fear of losing his all and being reduced to beggary. The Native Christian has been raised to a level with his Hindu and Mahomedan neighbour, and has thus again been reinstated in his natural right to the soil of his forefathers, from which his Hindu and Mahomedan law had debarred him.

Another important measure on the part of the Indian Government is an Order in Council to promote female education throughout India.

A third event is the fact that the head of the Sikh tribes, the young ex-Rajah, Dhulip Singh, has expressed to the Governor-General his desire to become a Christian. Whatever may be the issue, the Committee regard an official report being made to the Court of Directors by the Governor-General, relating to the baptism of a distinguished Native, as a most encouraging fact.

Such events as these indicate a coming crisis, and that the Lord is preparing the way for the entrance of His Word, and for the establishment of His Church, in "the dark places of the earth."*

Review of the state of the Mission, June 1850.

There are in all about 500 souls under pastoral supervision. These have the means of grace provided for them at the Church Mission Chapel, Black Town; at Trinity Church, John Pereira's Gardens; at Perambore; the Tinnevely Settlement; Korakapetta; and the large Parcherry. Six regular services are held every Lord's-day, and two every Wednesday, with four other stated meetings besides, in the week, for exposition, catechetical instruction, and prayer.

Varied Missionary Labours.

The following extracts from the Journals of the Missionaries will show the encouragement which they receive in their labours, and the spirit in which those labours are conducted—

May 7, 1850—At six A.M. I went towards Perambore, and got into conversation with more than a dozen people at the place where they sell cows. I spoke to them on the evil and guilt of sin, and the various means by which men sought to expiate it, intending afterwards to talk about the sufficiency of Christ's sacrifice; but I was interrupted by one of them asserting that sin was a thing which had its seat in the mind, and the only way to get quit of it was immediately to gratify it! Strange and monstrous as was this notion, the rest of the party seemed quite charmed with it, and made themselves so merry as to attract a larger crowd around us. I now, however, looked gravely at these people, and, just after the little mirth excited by this curious remark had subsided, told them plainly what our Scriptures taught us on this subject, quoting the words of St. James, "When lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death." Much order and attention was about this time restored, and I was enabled to address them very largely on the subject, as well as to make known to them the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The man now admitted that he had spoken unadvisedly, acknowledged that sin in every form was most displeasing to God and hurtful to men, and declared his satisfaction with every thing he had heard. I told him he did not know his own heart; that he would soon go his way, and forget every thing, and begin again to wallow in sin, if he did not seek God's grace at once, and take to the Gospel of Christ, for that, I assured him, would prove to be his only safeguard. He betrayed a vacant smile, and then sneaked off, and left me amidst a multitude pressing me on every side for tracts, having seen some in my hands; but as I had no more than eight to give away, I was obliged to turn the inside of my pockets out, to show that I could not satisfy them all.

June 4—I went to the large Parcherry and examined Dawson's School, and afterwards came to Jacob's School and heard the lessons of the children, assisted by the Rev. D. Gnanamuttoo. There were a great many spectators present, Hindus, Mahommedans, and Roman Catholics, all hearing with interest while I was catechising the Church when he was about to commence the prayers. He was sitting on the floor, and fell over on one side upon the ground, and immediately expired. I have the fullest assurance that he will hereafter rise unto eternal life.

The Rev. James Spratt makes the following remarks upon the general character of the work in Tinnevelly—

A variety of causes, alike in their main features, and differing only in points of detail, have been and are overruled by God to induce the heathen around us to profess the Gospel. The instances are few in which individuals have embraced Christianity from a feeling of their own sinfulness, and a desire to obtain that peace of conscience which they have in vain sought in their own system. Let us remember, however, as we have often remarked, that this state of things is not peculiar to Tinnevelly. They once existed in Europe. They existed previously, in Judæa, even in the time of our Lord. The great majority of persons who went to Him, did so that they might receive, not spiritual but temporal benefits; yet they were not on that account rejected. All who came met with a gracious reception; and whilst the Saviour directed their minds from “the bread that perisheth” to “that which endureth unto eternal life,” not a few of them became His disciples, and believed on Him to the saving of their souls. Like results have happened with us. Many of our people who at first knew nothing of Christianity, and had no care for eternal things, have subsequently, through the blessing of God on the teaching and preaching of His Word, become lively, intelligent Christians, affording strong evidence that they have indeed “passed from death unto life, and from the power of Satan unto God.” Many of these have told me with what inferior motives they became Christians, and how entirely ignorant they then were of the real nature of Christianity; but have added, that, in consequence of light gradually breaking in on their minds, they were led to feel their need of the Saviour, and to perceive His suitableness to their wants as sinners; that now His Word has become “very sweet” to them; and that they would not abandon their present hope for any worldly consideration. The benefits of Christianity, however, have not been confined to the few whose lives afford evidence of saving conversion: they have extended to the mass of our people. There has been a marked improvement in the moral character of the people. A conscience enlightened by the Word of God is gradually being formed amongst them; there are more checks to the commission of sin, and a greater sense of its guilt when committed. Lying and covetousness, obscene language and immoral living, and similar evils, still exist, but they are far less prevalent than formerly. And besides all this, there remains that most cheering fact, the existence of a youthful population instructed in the Scriptures, and growing up free from all knowledge and association with heathenism. Many who came under Christian instruction with their parents as children, at the commencement of the Society’s labours in this province, are now employed as Catechists: and to show how little knowledge they possess of the superstitious notions and practices of the heathen, it may be interesting to state, that, upon lately giving this as the subject of an essay to the Catechists, I found that the young men, who had been nurtured from childhood in the bosom of the Church, could give but very little information about them, whilst those who were more advanced in years had much to communicate. All our older Congregations number several who have passed through our Schools; and at the present time there are 800 children, boys and girls being almost equally proportioned, receiving instruction. It is from these that we expect most: upon these we feel it necessary to bestow a chief portion of our labours: and we entertain a sanguine hope that the good seed now being sown in their hearts, being watered by the Holy Spirit, will bring forth the fruits of righteousness to the praise of God.

Advancement in knowledge of the Native Teachers.

As the hope of the Mission greatly depends upon the activity and diligence of the Native Catechists who are employed, the following notices are peculiarly interesting. The Rev. Stephen Hobbs writes—

I feel a degree of satisfaction in speaking of the native agents. The favourable impressions to which I have given utterance in former Reports receive confirmation as they go on. A radical improvement is taking place in that which may be considered as a sort of foundation to a Missionary's operations in his district, and will tend to promote a like improvement throughout the whole. I must add, however, some qualifying remarks to this expression of satisfaction. The work of training Catechists and Schoolmasters is pre-eminently a work of time, and I would not have it supposed that this work has been accomplished in my district so soon. The accomplishment, however, though not realized, is in prospect. I have now, as I firmly believe, a number of men of the right spirit, who are as earnest in endeavouring to qualify themselves for the duties they have undertaken as I can be in assisting them to do so. The periodical examinations, of which we have as yet had but two, have been of great service in stimulating their desire for more knowledge. Mine being chiefly of recent appointment, they are not able to compete with the men of the other associated districts, who are of much longer standing; but there are advantages in this, as it awakens a wholesome emulation in them to be thus brought into contact with those who know so much more than they do. I cannot speak alike favourably of them all; but I can say that the greater number now afford me constant pleasure and thankfulness by the evident proofs they give of sincere piety, and their simple earnestness in endeavouring faithfully to fulfil the duties entrusted to them.

The Rev. James Spratt confirms by his experience the same hopeful symptom. In his Report, January 1850, he writes—

Perhaps the most encouraging feature in our work is the steady progress in piety and intelligence of the majority of our Catechists. Their views of Divine truth are, for the most part, full and clear; and, what is of far more importance, they seem increasingly to experience its comforting, quickening, elevating power; and, as a natural result, feel that it is not to obtain a livelihood, but to labour for the salvation of souls, that they are entrusted with the office of Catechists. And there are many amongst them, I doubt not, who take delight in their work for its own sake. A special blessing seems to have accompanied the exposition of the Epistle to the Romans: the forenoons of one day in each week for the last eighteen months have been devoted to this subject. It has been very gratifying, in my intercourse with them, to hear them advert again and again to the benefits they have derived from the study of this Epistle. These benefits, we may feel assured, will extend beyond them to their Congregations.

At a later date, Oct. 3, 1850, he again states—

The Congregation at Nalamavedi is one of the most hopeful in this district. Since the Catechists have been in the habit of reading the Epistle to the Romans with me, Paul, the Catechist, has been accustomed to expound it in order to the Congregation at the early Sunday-morning Service, and he has frequently told me of the benefits which have resulted from the practice. He mentions one individual, in particular, as having, in consequence, become quite a changed character. A little band of two or three persons, in addition to the members of his own family, assemble in his house at night, after Evening Prayers, to listen to him expounding this important portion of God's Word. On these occasions he of course is able to adopt a more simple and familiar mode of exposition. Several of the Catechists, quite of their own accord, have adopted the plan of reading and explaining this Epistle to their Congregations, and much good, I doubt not, will, under God, result therefrom.

Influence of the Gospel upon the Romanists in Tinnevelly.

The Missionaries in Tinnevelly, as in most other fields of the operations of the Society, are frequently brought into contact with Romanism, and receive from its ranks many who desire to embrace the truth of God. The Rev. T. G. Barenbrück writes, under date June 7, 1850, in his Journal—

In the afternoon I proceeded to Puliangudy, seven miles further north on the same road. The Congregation here consists partly of converts from heathenism, and partly of several families who have come over from Romanism. The conduct of the latter has not been so satisfactory as one could have wished. They have in several instances shown a far greater inclination to keep up certain superstitious practices than those who have come over from heathenism.

The Rev. John Dewasagayam gives in his Journal the following recital, Feb. 11, 1850—

I had a long and interesting conversation with — Pillay, a principal servant of the Rajah of —. In 1833 he was a very zealous Roman Catholic, and had frequent conversations with me. Afterward, although his good knowledge of English, and his situation, brought him frequently into conversation with several pious gentlemen and Missionaries, he was led away into becoming a Socinian. But the Lord has graciously brought him to know that Jesus is his only Saviour. He is now, I feel assured, a sound Protestant. As long as he was a Roman Catholic he was a favourite in the palace, because he subscribed to the heathen festivals, like his heathen fellow-servants, and made use also, as indeed many Roman Catholics do, of the $\text{O} \sqcup \Gamma \text{L} \text{O}^*$ on his forehead. After he became a Protestant, he refused to do so any longer, and persuaded another Christian to follow his example. By these things, and his refusal to work on Sunday, he brought upon himself the displeasure of many in the palace. He still, however, remains in the Rajah's service; and is now here on leave to visit his sick brother. This man and all the family are, I need not say, very sorry that he is no longer a Roman Catholic. Both brothers were once pupils in the English School established by the late Rev. J. Hough in 1818, whose prayers when on earth are, I doubt not, still remembered and answered by the Lord. — Pillay yesterday attended both Services in our Church at Palamcottah, where I was assisting Mr. Newman, with his son.

Education.

The central Establishments in Palamcottah—the English School, and the Seminary for Christian Boys—have during the last year been in a satisfactory state.

Each district has its elementary Schools. Mr. Spratt reports of those under his care—

The Boarding and Day-schools are in active operation. I am particularly pleased that I can report decided progress in the Village-schools, as it was in this branch we were most deficient. The system of instruction through the Schoolmasters to the children is working well, and more than 1000 children, in this one district, are receiving a sound scriptural education in our Schools. For this we cannot feel too thankful.

Religious Societies.

Mr. Spratt, in an appeal for funds for the Tinnevely Tamil Book Society—"which was established with the view of supplying the Catechists and Schoolmasters, and the daily increasing reading population, with books containing religious and useful knowledge"—writes—

The establishment of local Societies, which are to a great extent self-supporting, is one of the most encouraging features of our Tinnevelly Mission. In addition to the Church-Building and Friend-in-Need Societies—which I believe exist in every district—we have our Bible, Tract, and Book Societies, to all of which our Native Christians, considering their means, make liberal contributions. The sum collected for these various objects cannot fall short of 2000 rupees. This fact affords no doubtful indication of the reality of our people's attachment to Christianity. It evidences that the Gospel has already taken deep root; and we cannot but entertain the confident hope that soon it shall fill the land.

The Rev. Stephen Hobbs reports, in respect of a charitable fund established in this district—

The Suviseshapuram District Poor Fund amounts to more than 12*l.* a year. At an Anniversary Meeting of the subscribers, held Jan. 1, 1850, a Resolution was proposed and seconded by Native Schoolmasters—"That the exercise of the Christian law of love is a powerful means of impressing upon the heathen the excellency of the Christian faith, and plainly urges us to lay aside, and to discountenance, all those differences which cause a separation between one class of men and another." In supporting this Resolution the mover spoke to this effect—"In the face of a nation professing to worship thirty-three millions of gods, we profess but one God. We stand before them as strange persons, and they doubtless observe with a keen eye whatever our habits and proceedings are. Now, our religion teaches us that love is the greatest of all the graces. But the Apostle Paul plainly shows us that this love consists in love to man as well as love to God. The evils of caste meet us on every side; and so long as such distinctions exist it is impossible that we can adorn the Holy Gospel which we profess. This evil spirit must be expelled from among us. Let us then, with the old year, cast off whatever remains of our old practices of caste, and with the new year pray for grace that we may 'put on the new man, and be transformed by the renewing of our minds.'"

Printing-Press, and distribution of Tracts.

Mr. Dewasagayam bears this remarkable testimony to the influence which is exerted through the Society's press in Tinnevelly—

Our printing-press is well employed in these days; and I suppose our Committee is already acquainted with the advantage of our present monthly publication, the "Friendly Instructor," and the quarterly publication, the "Friend of Children." These are no small treasure to our numerous readers. Even the boys who keep the sheep and work in the fields are found with our books in their hands.

It is no small pleasure to a Christian to see so many people everywhere reading the Word of God in their own language. We see numbers of instances in which children teach their parents Scripture texts and hymns. They are also accustomed to read the Scriptures to them, and to tell the contents of the books and tracts they read.

The heathen in my district show a desire to hear the instructions, and read the tracts we give them. Some learned and respectable heathen have received, by their own particular request, several important tracts on Regeneration.

Some of my Catechists had an opportunity to distribute more than 400 tracts at Trichendur during a period of three weeks, in which the great annual feast was taking place. Our Catechists wondered to see in these days a favourable change among the people. They could well recollect when the people at Trichendur always endeavoured to insult the distributors of our tracts. But now a great number received them eagerly, and some even thankfully—except in one case, when two men from Tinnevelly tore the tracts after receiving them with a promise to read. Their improper conduct was disapproved and reprimanded by other heathen present. The Catechist availed himself of the occasion to tell them that the duty of a Christian is not to be enraged, but to bear insult patiently, and to pray for the good of his enemies. One of the hearers immediately answered, “Your patience will prove their ruin.”

Union between the Christians in Tinnevelly and the Church at home.

There are not wanting in the history of this Mission many proofs of that community of interests which binds together the most distantly separated branches of our Church. This feeling prompted the Native Christians of Tinnevelly to address a memorial to the Queen of England,* which was transmitted by the Rev. John Dewasagayam to the Archbishop of Canterbury, and presented by His Grace to Her Majesty. In Mr. Dewasagayam's Journal the following notice of the presentation of this address occurs—

Sept. 3, 1850—This day I received a kind letter from His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, from which I shall only extract that portion which relates to the Memorial presented by the Native Christians of Tinnevelly to Her Majesty our gracious Queen. “Some time ago an address was presented to Her Majesty from the Christians in Tinnevelly, expressing their gratitude for the benefits they had derived from the Christian teaching which Her Majesty's English subjects had afforded them. Such a communication was most gratifying to the Queen, as it was also most honourable to those who sent it; and I hope you will assure them that, although the formalities of a Court do not allow of a reply to such addresses, they are not the less welcome or valuable.”

As the Catechists' meeting was held this day, we humbly thanked the Lord for the interest taken in our welfare, both by our gracious Sovereign and His Grace the Primate of all England, and prayed for their health and welfare. It is of no small comfort to us that our valuable Liturgy gives us daily an opportunity of remembering before His throne of grace these servants of the Lord. I sent copies of the letter both to our Missionaries and to those of the Propagation Society. It is intended to publish a translation of it in the "Friendly Instructor," for the information of our Congregations.

The Committee must also record other more humble, but not less interesting, proofs of an interchange of Christian sympathy. The Journal of the same Native Missionary notices a Village School in Tinnevely, significantly named the "Philadelphian School," being "supported by 70 poor persons in England, each giving a penny a month, and promising to pray for a blessing on the penny." And on another occasion the same Missionary writes—

June 5, 1850—I went early this morning, accompanied by my Boarding-school boys and the Preparandi, to the sea-coast. The change is not only beneficial to my own health, but also gives me much more time to devote to the instruction of the boys and the Preparandi. We held our Missionary Prayer-meeting at seven o'clock; and as from the windows could be seen the Roman-Catholic Church at Manapâd, a large Pagoda, and a Mosque, the people who worship in these are called to mind in prayer here more than at any other place. A portion of my time in the forenoon is occupied in dictating in Tamil a good number of interesting subjects from the "Companion to the Bible."

At two o'clock I received from the post the "Record" Newspaper for March 21, 1850; and am much obliged to the unknown friend who has so kindly sent it to me. I read of the state of the Dingle and Ventry Mission with much Christian sympathy, but was greatly distressed to observe the sway the Papal power has under the Protestant Government. The last lines of Mr. Lewis' letter particularly comforted me. "Dingle and Achill," says he, "are the parts of Ireland to which at present the attention of the Propaganda is chiefly directed: nevertheless, they who are for us are greater than they who are against us. Truth is strong, and will prevail." Before Evening Prayers, I gave my boys an account of what I had read about the Dingle and Ventry Mission, in order that they might unite intelligently in prayer to God, that He would preserve it from the hand of cruel enemies, and bless it.

June 6—We were much comforted by 2 Cor. iv. 8, 9, the second lesson for this day—"We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed." The word "persecuted" is translated in Tamil by a word which means hunted. This brought to mind the passage in the "Record," where it says, "Mr. Lewis is dogged day and night by a few men, who are paid daily wages for doing so," &c. May the Lord hear our prayers offered this night on behalf of Mr. Lewis and his people!

The Committee have already noticed the prayers of the Christians of Abbeokuta, in Africa, on behalf of Christians at home : other Missions would furnish the same records. Such a harvest of intercessory prayers from our Native-Christian brethren is an ample repayment for the sacrifices we make to impart to them the Gospel of Christ; and the knowledge of this fact may well encourage the Church at home in the season of its trial. It affords a remarkable counterpart to the history of the great Apostle of the Gentiles, who, when trouble came upon him in Asia, strengthened himself in the Lord by this appeal to the Churches which he had planted in Europe—"Ye also helping together by prayer for us, that for the gift bestowed upon us by the means of many persons thanks may be given by many on our behalf." (2 Cor. i. 11.)

Visitation of the Bishop of Madras.

The Bishop of Madras arrived in the district early in January 1851. His proceedings are thus described by the Rev. T. G. Ragland—

The Bishop has made the most of the short time he spent in Tinnevely. During the first fifteen days he confirmed fourteen times. Very suitable and excellent have his addresses to the confirmed persons been. On Monday, Jan. 27th, the examination for orders commenced at Palamcottah. On Friday, the 31st—the first anniversary of the Bishop's landing at Madras—the Visitation was held, and the Bishop preached a very impressive sermon. After this there was a large clerical meeting in the Mission-house. The Ordination on Sunday was a very solemn occasion : the Congregation were much impressed : Mr. Pettitt preached. There were six Priests ordained—two of them our Native Deacons, the Rev. Jacob Chandy and Jesudasen John—and five Native Deacons : the rest were Europeans and East Indians.

Confirmations were held in each of the principal Stations, both of the Church Missionary Society and of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel ; the numbers being, at ten Stations of the former, 2563 Candidates, and at five of the latter 982 Candidates. The Bishop, in a letter to the Secretary—after alluding to the number of Natives confirmed in Travancore, Tinnevely, Tanjore, and Trichinopoly, being above 5500 in all—adds—

It is impossible to reflect upon the fact of the admission of this large number of Native Christians to the full privileges of the Church without thankfulness to God. And when we think of the preparatory instruction given to them ; the affectionate appeals of their respective Ministers and Catechists ; the earnest prayers offered up to God that they might be Christians indeed ; and connect with all this their solemn pledge made before God and the Church to carry out their baptismal obligations, and the benediction of the Bishop, with his address to them, and the devout prayers of the large Congregation for them; I say it is impossible to consider all this without indulging the most reasonable hope and belief that an amount of good will result from it which is incalculable.

I was especially struck with the readiness with which the Candidates replied to the questions proposed to them during my address. I generally arranged my address as systematically as possible, for the express purpose of assisting the memory of my hearers; and I was almost always surprised and gratified at the accuracy with which they repeated the facts, explanations, reasonings, doctrines, duties, &c., when catechized upon the subjects subsequently. It showed me, not only that they had been attentive hearers of the Word, but that they had an extensive knowledge of the Holy Scriptures. I confess that my heart was often filled with gratitude, and I thought how few Congregations in the populous villages in England could have answered with equal credit to the interrogatories.

The Ordination of the five Catechists of the Society has a character peculiarly its own. Hitherto Native Teachers admitted to holy orders have been regarded as Assistant Missionaries to European Clergymen, and have occupied, in a measure, the position of an European Missionary. They have received an European education, and have appeared before their countrymen as the agents of a foreign Society. The Committee have long felt that another order of Native Ministers was required, namely, Native Pastors, who could follow the Missionary in his work, and receive the charge of a Native-Christian Congregation; and so leave the European Missionary at liberty to break up new ground. It was evident that the fitness of such Native Pastors would depend rather upon their moral qualifications and scriptural knowledge than upon an European or classical education; and that their sympathies and domestic habits should be rather native than European.

With this view a few of the Native Catechists in Tinnevely, of mature Christian character, and for the most part married men, were brought together in one of the villages for a course of instruction and training, first under the Rev. G. Pettitt, and, at his departure, under the Rev. E. Sargent. The education was wholly conducted in the native language. The class thus brought together formed "the Institution." It still remained to be ascertained whether such a class might become suitable candidates for Ordination. The subject was submitted to the Bishop of Madras in England, as soon as he received his appointment: and it was with great satisfaction that the Committee found his Lordship ready to enter fully into their own views, and to confirm them by his long Missionary experience in North India. The Bishop thus alludes to the subject, in his primary charge—

I cannot help expressing my fervent hope that the time is not far distant when a Native Ministry will be raised up to take the pastoral charge of the settled Congregations in the towns and villages. No permanent good can be looked for till this is effected. The Societies must be relieved of the burden of supporting European teachers as settled Pastors. The duty of the foreign Missionary must continue to be that of an Evangelist to preach Christ to the Heathen, and at the utmost to take the general oversight of the pastors and flocks, and to have a limited superintendence over them: but a body of Native Ministers must be raised up to be the settled pastors of the flocks as they are collected. The eyes of the friends of Missions at home are directed to this desired end. We must not disappoint so reasonable and just an expectation. It will doubtless be a work of time; but we must keep it steadily in view, and may our God soon fulfil the desires of His servants!

The Ordination took place in Palamcottah Church on the 2d of February. A whole week had been devoted to the examination, both written and vivâ voce. The examination was a searching one, for it was felt by all parties that the Apostle's injunction to "lay hands suddenly on no man" must have a special application in such a case as the present, which would fix the standard for the Native Ministry in a Native Church. The examination was conducted in the Tamil language, and the difficulty of it was much increased by the need of the double interpretation between the Candidates and the Bishop. The Bishop, in the Letter already quoted, thus describes the Ordination—

My examining Chaplains for the occasion were, your excellent Secretary, the Rev. T. G. Ragland—who acted as my domestic Chaplain in my visit to the Missions—for the general examination; and the Rev. R. Caldwell, of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, for the native languages. I hope it may always be my happy lot to have men of such eminent attainments, discriminating judgment, and true piety, to aid me in such a work. It will take off a great deal of the awful responsibility attached to it.

Of the satisfactory nature of the examination of those admitted, I will only observe we were fully agreed. Of two of the Natives Mr. Caldwell observes—"They acquitted themselves in a manner which would do credit to European Candidates for the Ministry, which was quite surprising in them, considering that they were unacquainted with English, and that they had but few educational advantages. In addition to this, both of them seemed to speak and write with the heartiness and power of men who had experienced in themselves the truth of what they taught." And Mr. Ragland, speaking of the one who, from his imperfect knowledge of English, sometimes did not understand the precise question, observes—"His sentiments were always good, his doctrine sound, and his views of the fundamental truths of the Gospel clear."

On the whole, I would remark that I was satisfied with their attainments, their knowledge of the doctrines of the Scriptures, their sound and correct views of the mysteries of the Gospel, and their experimental knowledge of them in their own hearts. I make no doubt they will do credit to the character of the sacred ministry amongst their countrymen. May God multiply upon them the gifts of His grace, and give them such love for souls and ardour in their work as shall make their ministry a blessing to thousands!

We all felt that so solemn an occasion demanded more than ordinary prayer to God, and religious duties in connexion with it. We had two Services in the course of the week. The prayers for Ember Week were used in all the Churches of the Presidency and the Mission Districts. Sermons were preached, in English or Tamul, by the Rev. Messrs Ragland, Sargent, John Dewasagayam, and myself. The valuable sermon on the occasion was preached by the Rev. G. Pettitt, and, as it is to be published, I make no further remark upon it. We had also a Meeting for solemn and earnest prayer at the Mission premises on the evening previous to the Ordination. The Service on the Sabbath morning was attended by all the residents at the Station, almost all the Clergy in the district, and crowds of Natives; and I can bear delightful testimony to what was said by one of the Missionary brethren after the Service—a more solemn and affecting Service he had never experienced, not even of such as that of Ordination of Ministers; and it was the general feeling of all present. May its results be seen in the most enlarged blessing to the Missions!

On the following day we met and commended the newly-ordained Ministers to their work, and to that God who had called them to it, in devout and fervent supplications and prayers. It is a time to be had in grateful and hallowed remembrance, and I hope will be the means of extensive good to all our Missions.

I have not time to write more, as this is the last day for the mail; but I must express to you the grateful emotions and feelings which have been called forth in visiting your Missions. It has exceeded all that I had anticipated. When I think of the throngs which flocked to the different Churches, literally “as doves to their windows;” of the earnest and devout manner in which they entered into the Services of the Church, both in the responses, in the prayers, and in singing to the praise and glory of God; when I think of the fixed look and attentive manner with which they listened to the word of exhortation, and the intelligence they manifested in the readiness of their replies when appealed to in confirmation of any doctrine, and of their knowledge of any Scripture statement; when, moreover, I call to mind the numbers of intelligent Catechists and Schoolmasters, the crowds of young people, male and female, in the Schools; when I look at the Churches, Mission-houses, School-rooms, Prayer-houses, &c., which have arisen throughout these districts—I say, If there is not reality, actual experience of Christian truth, in all this, then there is no such thing as reality in the world: all that we have taken for it is a name, a shadow, a delusion. But I am satisfied that it is a real and abiding work—the work of God, the power of His grace, the putting forth of His almighty arm in the sight of the nations, as in days of old. It is the same work which the Thessalonian Church experienced when the Gospel came to them, "not in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much assurance," and the effects are identically the same; leading the people to be followers of Christ and His disciples, and examples to believers, and desirous to diffuse the light which has risen upon them, and to abandon their idols, and to look for the coming of the Son of Man to receive them to Himself.

I have given you thus a very hurried and hasty statement of what I have seen and experienced in my brief visit to some of the most interesting Mission-fields in the world. I am sure no devout mind will hear of these things without having his gratitude to God increased, his love to Christ and His cause promoted, and his conviction in the truth of the promises strengthened.*

TRAVANCORE AND COCHIN.

Return home of the Rev. B. Bailey, and removal to Madras of the Rev. J. Chapman.

Among the changes which have taken place during the last year in this Mission, the Committee must specially refer to the return home of the Rev. Benjamin Bailey, after thirty-three years' labour in Travancore. Upon the occasion of his departure the Madras Corresponding Committee passed the following Resolution—

The Committee desire to record their high regard for Mr. Bailey's character as a Christian Missionary, and the sense they entertain of the highly important benefits which he has rendered to the Missionary cause in Travancore during the lengthened period of his laborious service: among which they have peculiar pleasure in enumerating his establishment of the first Malayalim press, his valuable Dictionaries, and that source of untold good to multitudes of the Malayalim people, his translation of the Word of God into their vernacular tongue.

Another change has taken place in the removal of the Rev. J. Chapman from Travancore to Madras, he having transferred his valuable services from the superintendence of the Cottayam College to be employed in preparing young men for Ordination, who were requiring such assistance.

Circumstances occurred among the students shortly before Mr. Chapman's removal, which induced the Committee to close the Cottayam College for a time.

* A sketch of the history of the Tinnevelly Mission, notices of the people, &c., with a Map, will be found in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for May 1851, pp. 108—119. A short account of the Pavor district, the last formed, is given in the Number for July 1850, pp. 349, 350.

COTTAYAM.

Cottayam Village District.

The Rev. H. Baker, after having had charge of this district for six months, thus describes his work, and bears testimony, at the same time, to the labours of Mr. Bailey—

We have here a College in which a succession of good men have laboured diligently; and though not with signal success, so far as man can judge, yet with unmistakeable evidence that their labours have not been in vain in the Lord, in that the best of the Native Assistants in our Missions have had their education, in whole or in part, there. That the chaff has been more than the wheat, is what is common to it and to similar Institutions even in Christian countries. That its operations have been hindered, and even for a time suspended, is no marvel, considering that idolatry, with every abomination that attends it, has in this country its cherished home.

The Church built by Mr. Bailey, who has just returned home after many years' labour, is without doubt the largest and most handsome in Travancore. It has also an excellent organ; and, what is better still, a large and respectable Congregation of attentive hearers: when the College students are all present, there are quite as many as I can well reach with my voice. I must go back a number of years to recollect what an English Congregation is; but it would be matter of great thankfulness if every devoted Minister had as goodly a sight before him, when in the pulpit, as the Church at Cottayam presents on the Lord's-day. The character of the people is, without doubt, steadily improving. Some few individuals have been admonished not to attend the Lord's table until they repent and amend their lives. One or two have lately been dismissed from their employments in the Mission for immorality; but the character of the people, on the whole, is that of quiet, sober, steady, and, to a certain extent, devout people. I wish I could say, with regard to many of them, that I had good grounds to hope they were the subjects of Divine grace; but I fear to do this, though reading the Scriptures and Family Prayer are steadily kept up in many families.

Mr. Bailey has also built a very neat and plain School-room, near the Church, with Gothic windows to correspond with the Church. In this School from 50 to 60 boys are taught, half of them in English, and half in Malayalim.

The printing-press, at present under my charge, was, next to the translation of the Scriptures, which he himself made and printed at it, Mr. Bailey's great work, and must have cost him much labour. The workmen, all Natives, are thoroughly acquainted each with his own work, which they perform with a neatness and accuracy that do them great credit. Punches and matrices are formed, and type cast, paper of an inferior quality is made, and plain book-binding work is very neatly executed. Several editions of the New Testament have been published, and one of the Old, besides large editions of separate portions, as the Psalms, Proverbs, Genesis, and part of Exodus, separate Gospels, as well as great numbers of other useful works, including elementary Sanscrit works, Watts's Scripture History, the Pilgrim's Progress, and Catechisms and Tracts in great numbers. I look upon the printing-office both as an ornament to the Mission, and as one of the most powerful engines employed by our Society for dispelling the darkness of this idolatrous and benighted country.

Mrs. Baker, having now but a small Native Girls'-school, takes from 15 to 20 of the little boys, and our daughter about the same number, to instruct. These are mostly children of the women who attend the Weekly Meeting; and it is very encouraging to see how well some of them come prepared, having been previously taught by their mothers at home. How different the state of the Syrian females around from that of the women belonging to the Mission! The former have, generally speaking, no knowledge of Scripture truths, seldom attend even the mass at their own Churches, and religion in the family, where it is attended to at all, consists in the repetition of the Lord's Prayer and an Ave Maria after the Roman-Catholic fashion. The Protestant women attend Church at least once on the Sabbath; they have Family Prayer in their houses; and their children, both at School and at home, are taught the things that belong to their everlasting peace.

The men, too, from their better acquaintance with Scripture, are now proof against the arguments of the Papists and Syrians in favour of their old and corrupt systems. They see, also, both the old and the new in operation before their eyes, with the good and evil resulting from each; and it is no longer with them a choice between two things, neither of which they see reason to prefer. The Gospel approves itself to their minds. The plan of salvation by grace through our Lord Jesus Christ is understood, as well as the doctrine of justification by faith, and sanctification by the Spirit.

Cottayam and Pallam Districts.

These districts are under the care of the Rev. H. Baker, jun., assisted in the former by the Rev. E. Johnson.

Mr. Baker reports that at Pallam 24 Chogan families placed themselves under instruction, boldly cutting off the marks of distinction on their heads, and coming to Church in a body. They were afterwards exposed to much persecution from their heathen relatives, and in various instances their wives were separated from them. But for the most part they have persevered in their Christian course.

Mr Baker thus describes the state of his district, June 8, 1850—

On Trinity Sunday I had the great privilege of admitting 67 heathen men, women, and children to the sacrament of Baptism.

They had been well tried by persecution, loss of property in some cases, and had been under a daily course of instruction, averaging from two years to eight months. I have still a large number of Chogans, candidates for the holy rite. The Araans just now are peculiarly situated. There is a great deal of fever among them, and the convalescent are hard at work sowing, so that for two or three months we shall make but little progress.

MAVELICARE.

This district remains, as in the last Report, under the Rev. J. Peet, with the assistance of the Native Minister, the Rev. Jacob Chandy.

General View.

Mr. Peet thus describes the extent of his labours—

As another event in the history of this Mission, the re-opening of the Mavelicare Church, gives occasion to write to you, I take the opportunity to state very briefly, that since my last general report of the Mission our work has gone on steadily. The Services of our Church have been regularly conducted, and the Gospel—by which is meant, as definitions are useful in evil times, the doctrine of justification by Christ alone—has been every Sabbath fully exhibited and faithfully proclaimed at our five Stations in this Mission; whence also, as there are Schools and occasional Readers in those places, saving and useful knowledge has been constantly communicated to the people of the surrounding districts, who, to the number of some 150,000 persons, have no other means of knowing the true God, or of learning the value of their own souls, and the miserable state in which they are placed by sin. How important this consideration to the supporters of the Church Missionary Society!

Completion of the New Church.

The completion of the new Church, the building of which was mainly owing to a legacy of 300*l.* from the late Hannah More, is thus described by Mr. Peet, April 16, 1850—

Being situated near a highway leading to the capital and through the heart of the country, it is clearly seen, and admired, or rather wondered at, by hundreds of passers-by, and stands as a noble monument to the honour of our holy religion. Its western door-way, seventeen feet high, and wide in proportion, opens nearly into the highway; so that, on the Sabbath, those who are too holy or too defiled, too proud or too humble, to enter, may stand in the road, and see and hear the whole of our Services. In order that such may receive benefit on other days, I am erecting a covered porch in front of the Church, with seats; and I purpose stationing Readers there, to read and explain the doctrines of Christianity, to dispute with Heathen and gainsaying Syrians or Papists, and to give, or sell, scriptural or other useful books.

On the day appointed for the re-opening, April the 3d, there was an overflowing Congregation, consisting of our own people and Syrians and Heathen. I trust it will be long remembered, and blessed to the good of many.

TIRUWALLA.

This district is under the care of the Rev. J. Hawksworth, who resides at Tiruwalla. A Native-Assistant Minister, the Rev. G. Matthan, resides at Mallapalli.

Cheering Reception of the Rev. J. Hawksworth after temporary absence.

Mr. Hawksworth was obliged to leave his Station for a time, through the serious illness of his wife. Upon her restoration to health, his return to his people was welcomed with joy and gratitude to God. He thus describes, Sept. 16, 1850, the behaviour of the people at one of the Out-stations—

I have just returned from my Out-station at Thallawaddei, greatly cheered by the unfeigned delight exhibited by our dear people on my return, and more especially encouraged by noticing what appeared to me to be a genuine feeling of gratitude to Almighty God. It was peculiarly pleasing to observe, that the people generally regarded the restoration of my dear partner's health as an answer to prayer. I hope to learn something from the people's conduct: their evident gratitude should surely remind me how much I owe. It was a great relief to my mind to find that the Congregation had been preserved from all scandals during my absence, and that my return was looked upon as a fit season for making a complete and amicable settlement of any misunderstandings that might have arisen among themselves. The little Church was crowded, and all listened with deep attention to the sermon, in which the danger and awful sin of becoming lukewarm in the service of Christ were pointed out, the text being the solemn words of our Lord, "Ye are the salt of the earth," &c.

Exercise of Christian Discipline.

Mr Matthan reports in his Journal, June 30, 1850, the exercise of Christian discipline. The festival of St. George is celebrated by the Romish and Syrian Churches with great pomp and magnificence. Large assemblies are collected together, not only for the religious services, but for buying and selling, as a great fair is held on that day. The festival was therefore not held on a Sunday. But this year one of the contending Metrarchs, to court popularity, directed its celebration on Sunday. Some of Mr. Matthan's Congregation attended; but as soon as they had set out their goods for sale they were so struck with remorse that they left off selling, and made a voluntary confession of their sin to their Minister. On the next Lord's-day the subject was publicly referred to by the Minister, and the sinful and scandalous nature of the sin was pointed out. The result was that every one of the offenders made a public confession of their guilt before the Congregation, and bound themselves under a promise to resist such a temptation for the future.

The Press.

A little periodical is published by the Missionaries monthly, and is more extensively read, both by high-caste Heathen and Syrians, than any publication hitherto issued in Travancore. A Brahmin lately applied to the Missionary for a Bible, which he purchased in consequence of allusions which he read in the periodical to the Holy Scriptures. The Rev. J. Hawksworth states—

I have daily opportunities of conversing with the respectable Heathen who come, some from a considerable distance, to the bungalow to see me. Very many have willingly received portions of the Scriptures, which they have taken home and read. I have not had such opportunities of distributing the Scriptures among the higher class of Heathen before. The Gospel has been received and read with interest in a palace near me, and is there spoken of as a good book, fitted to make men wise.

At present the Mission is in its infancy, but every thing seems to say, Go forward.

ALLEPIE.

The Rev. J. Harding remains at this Station. One extract from his Journal will describe the state of the Missionary work.

Confirmations—Review of 1850.

Dec. 30—On Saturday morning, the 28th, we were privileged to welcome the arrival of the dear and honoured Bishop of this Diocese, with Mrs. Dealtry, our excellent Secretary, and Dr. Wilson. Yesterday, eighty-four of our people were confirmed, varying in age from fourteen to seventy-three. They all listened with great attention to the faithful address of the Bishop, and were prepared, I trust, for the solemn service.

During the past year, thirteen of our people have been removed by death; five couples have been united in holy matrimony; and thirty-one adults and children have been dedicated to the Lord by baptism. On the whole, I think I may say with confidence that it has been a year of improvement in Christian character to several members of the Congregation: and this is more gratifying than the simple fact of numerical addition to our flocks, and a surer evidence of the blessing and presence of God.

TRICHOOR.

The Moolicherry Congregation.

The Rev. H. Harley thus speaks, in his Journal, of the Moolicherry Congregation, which is chiefly composed of converts from Romanism—

The Roman-Catholic families who have become Protestants formerly resided at Kotapadi, where they were engaged in various kinds of trade. One of the first who removed to Moolicherry is a man named Waryatha. During his residence at Kotapadi he had read our books, which gave him an insight into the errors of the Romish Church; and both himself and his brother resolved to separate from the Romish communion. Waryatha applied to me, about seven years ago, to establish a School at Moolicherry; but being unable to comply with his wish at that time, he himself taught in the village, and thus, with his relatives, obtained further insight into the Truth. Since that time, the inhabitants applied to me in a body for instruction in the Protestant faith, which has been imparted, and has led to their renunciation of Popery. The greater portion of them now read the Word of God, and use our Prayers; and, I trust, are confirmed settled, and strengthened in the true faith. I have given particulars regarding these from time to time in my Reports.

Romanism and Syrianism.

In another communication, Mr. Harley, speaking of the Romanist converts from heathenism, writes—

It has often appeared to me doubtful whether the Heathen baptized into this corrupt Church have ever been really benefited by it. Their idolatry is kept up in another form; their slothful propensities are gratified by their being prohibited to search for themselves; they have license to sin by the plenary indulgences granted; and, finally, they are deluded with the hope of heaven hereafter by a hollow and shallow profession of Christianity.

In reference to the Syrian Church, Mr. Harley writes—

The Syrians have become more attentive in listening to the Word of God. I well remember the time when I first preached in the bazaars, and the opposition which I had to encounter. At that time the minds of the people were in a state of great spiritual darkness; but now the light of the Gospel has shined, and evidently the priests and people have become more enlightened by the diffusion of God's Word. . . . Although the Syrians hold many doctrines in common with the Roman Catholics, yet there is this wide and essential difference between the two Churches—that the Syrians do not disallow the perusal of the Scriptures, as my Reports will have abundantly shown. Nor have they, as far as I am aware, mutilated the Scriptures, like the Roman Catholics, to suit their own interpretation; but our Authorised Version is acknowledged by them, and they profess to draw their doctrines from thence. . . . Our firm hope and conviction is that gradually the Gospel will prevail.

Baptism of a slave-caste Woman.

On June the 30th Mr. Harley reports—

In the course of the present half-year I have had 22 baptisms at Trichoor and three at Moolicherry. Among the baptized was a woman of the slave-caste, about fifty years of age, whom I baptized in conjunction with the other heathen. Her baptism attracted a great deal of notice, as she is the first slave I have baptized here. It was, besides, a pleasing but novel spectacle at Trichoor to see Chogans receive the rite of baptism in conjunction with a slave-woman. In their heathen state they would have been prohibited from any near approach, for fear of ceremonial defilement; but now in Christ Jesus all such ideal distinctions are abolished, and both are united by the same Spirit into the true faith. "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus."

Mr. Harley has continued to use the means of instruction for the conversion of the slaves; but their timidity is such as to present a great obstacle, and their oppressed state keeps them in such depths of moral degradation, that all the benevolent exertions of the Missionary are defeated, except in a few individual cases.

The Cholera.

At some of the Out-stations the cholera raged with great violence. Mr. Harley writes, Aug. 31—

Both at Yenanaikil and at Moolicherry cholera is prevailing, and several slaves have died. Our Protestant Congregation at the latter place make it a point to meet together every night for prayer, and use the form in the Prayer-Book for deliverance from "any common plague or sickness." I endeavoured to encourage the people to put their whole trust in the Lord, who is a never-failing succour in time of need.

Visit of the Bishop of Madras.

At the close of the year the Bishop of Madras held a Confirmation tour through the Stations of the Society in Cochin and Travancore. The Rev. T. G. Ragland met the Bishop at Cochin, and accompanied him in his tour. They first visited Trichoor, and the event is thus described by Mr. Harley—

On December the 20th the Confirmation was held at the Church, on which occasion the greater portion of our Trichoor Congregation was present. I read the Litany in the Malayalim language, after which the Bishop baptized my youngest son. This being concluded, the Confirmation Service was read by Mr. Peet, and the Bishop very solemnly addressed the Candidates on the solemn nature of the vows they were about to make in the presence of God, and in the face of the whole Congregation. The Candidates, amounting in all to sixty individuals, adhering to their resolution of ratifying and confirming the vow and promise made at baptism, the Bishop proceeded to lay his hands on their heads, and repeated the prayer in the Malayalim language. After the Confirmation he delivered a most impressive and affectionate discourse to the people, which was rendered into Malayalim by Mr. Peet, and is calculated, through the blessing of God, to effect much spiritual good. The daily perusal of the Scriptures, prayer, shunning the company of the wicked, observance of the Sabbath, seeking the aid of the Spirit, and waiting for the coming of Christ, were the points chiefly dwelt upon in the discourse.

From Trichoor the Bishop proceeded to Cottayam, which place he reached on the 23d. The Confirmation was held on Christmas-day. On the previous day all the Clergy of the district met the Bishop. Service was held in the Chapel of the College, at which the Bishop preached and the Lord's Supper was administered, and afterwards a conference was held upon the state of the Mission. At Pallam a Confirmation was held on the day after Christmas-day, when 249 were confirmed. Confirmations were also held at Allepie, at Mávelicare, and at Tiruwalla, at which latter place the Confirmation was held in a Church made of mats; and "nowhere," writes Mr. Ragland, "did I perceive greater or as great signs of the confirmed being disposed to give their hearts to the Lord." The whole number confirmed was 903 Native Christians. The last Confirmation was held in the year 1843. The Bishop and Mr. Ragland visited the Outstation of Mallipalli, and spent a night under the roof of the native minister, the Rev. G. Matthan.*

Deaths in this Mission.

THE Ceylon Mission has been during the last year visited with severe afflictions. On the 19th of March the Rev. Joseph F. Haslam, the able and devoted Principal of the Cotta Institution, was removed by death. The local Committee proposed to supply his place by the transfer of the Rev. C. Greenwood from Baddagame to Cotta. But Mr. Greenwood was suddenly cut off on the very day of his intended journey, being drowned while bathing. The Committee cannot withhold the testimony borne to the character of Mr. Haslam in a Letter from the Bishop of Colombo, announcing his death, to the Secretary, April 9, 1850—

The death of my loved and honoured friend, Mr. Haslam, is indeed a loss to your Mission which must be felt for a long time to be an irreparable one—at the present time, especially, when all the meekness of his gentle spirit, the soundness of his calm judgment, and the clearness of his cultivated intellect, combined as they were with so quiet and persevering a devotedness to his work, and such unoffending simplicity of character, were especially needed as an example and guide to your younger Missionaries.*

Arrival of the Rev. G. Pettitt—Formation of a Central Committee.

The Rev. G. Pettitt arrived in Ceylon in May last. Following the directions of the Committee, he visited the several Missionary Stations, residing a few weeks at each, so as to have full opportunities of acquainting himself with the work. His Reports will be very serviceable to the Committee in their management and direction of the Mission.

At the close of the year the Missionaries met in Committee upon the affairs of the Mission at Cotta; after which the proposed new arrangement for the government of this Mission was adopted, by the institution of a Central Committee, composed of five laymen, who, with the senior Missionaries, will form a Corresponding Committee, the Bishop of Colombo having kindly consented to become the President of the Committee.

This Mission is earnestly commended to the prayers of the friends of the Society, that the trials which have been laid upon it, and the new arrangements which have been introduced, may be sanctified to the increase of spiritual life and zeal among the servants of Christ, and to a great enlargement of efforts for the conversion of the heathen.

COTTA.

Mr. Haslam had the general charge of this Station. After his death it was divided between the Rev. A. D. Gordon and the Rev. I. Wood; Mr. Gordon undertaking the charge of the Institution and of the Congregations north of Cotta, Mr. Wood—with the assistance of the Native Minister, the Rev. C. Senanayaka—undertaking the services of the Station, and of the villages south of Cotta.

Ten Native Catechists are employed in the district, residing in the villages, and superintending the Schools. All the Catechists assemble at Cotta on Saturdays, attend an English Service in the morning, give in their Journals or Returns, and receive instruction from the Missionary, either in some English book of theology, or, if able, in the Greek Testament.

Village Congregations—The Buddhist Societies.

The statistical returns of the village Congregations are nearly the same as last year. Mr. Gordon thus reports the completion and opening of a village Church at Cotta—

On the 1st of January the Bishop came to Cotta, and accompanied me to the Church. On this very spot, it is recorded in the heathen books, there stood a temple, dedicated to Siva, about 490 years ago. The ruins of the old temple strewed the ground: some of the stone pillars we have used in the foundation—one lies at the threshold of the door.

The Buddhist Societies, of which mention was made in the last Report, have passed away without effect. The Missionaries write—

It is not of the known doctrine and influence of Buddhism that we have most cause to be afraid.* The majority of the people around us are, secretly at least, devil-worshippers; and it is a painful reflection with us, that, at the time when the fatal fever prevailed, some of our people—and many, more particularly, who had joined the Buddhist Societies—performed when in sickness the rites of devil-worship. It was a time of severe trial; for the native mind, unused to the recognition of a merciful Providence, and regarding death only as an object of terror, readily yielded to the temptation of propitiating the favour of one whom they dreaded. We have been obliged to act decidedly in some of these cases, by excluding or suspending the subjects of them from Christian communion.

Education.

The Cotta Institution, as we have said, has been under the charge of Mr. Gordon. It contains fewer students than in former years, as it was thought advisable to defer the admission of fresh students until a new Principal shall be appointed. The number at the close of the year was eight students on the foundation, and seven on probation. Mr. Gordon has entered upon the charge which thus unexpectedly devolved upon him with much zeal, following up the plans of the late Mr. Haslam.

Mr. Pettitt reports of the examination in the summer, when there were twenty-one youths—

They acquitted themselves well in Latin and Greek. I was not quite satisfied with their geography. They read and write English remarkably well. Indeed, I have never seen a number of native students who have made equal progress in English. The education given is a very superior one for native boys.

Since the first establishment of the Institution, in the year 1828, the number of pupils has been 129, of which number only 48 have been employed in the Mission; and of these 18 have afterwards relinquished Missionary employment, seven having undertaken educational employment independently of the Society. Only 23 out of the whole number have therefore become permanent agents of the Society, of whom three have received holy orders. At the time this calculation was made, 13 remained in the Institution; so that only one in five of those educated in an Institution professedly established for training up a native ministry, and receiving their whole support from the Society during the period of their instruction, have eventually entered upon the work for which they were designed. Such a result seems to show that the state of Christianity in Ceylon is not yet sufficiently advanced for supplying students to an exclusively theological institution. If this be the case, the Cotta Institution should be regarded as one of general education, in which a larger number of pupils may receive a liberal education upon Christian principles, out of whom the suitable agents may be selected for special theological training.

There are also at Cotta an English Day-school and a Girls' School, and, in the surrounding villages, 37 Out-schools, containing 790 boys and girls.

The press has been only partially employed. In Singhalese a Hymn-book and Family Prayer-book have been printed.

KANDY.

The Rev. W. Oakley having resided for three months at Cotta during the last year, and having been obliged afterward to visit Newera Ellia, on account of his health, the duties of this Station have been necessarily interrupted.

General View.

In his Report at the close of the year he writes—

In the town and immediate neighbourhood of Kandy many nominal Christian families are still living utterly regardless of religion. But during the past year several persons, who had previously absented themselves, have been induced to attend Divine Service on the Sundays, though not with that regularity we could desire. We have now a list of about 160 adults residing in the town of Kandy who wish to be considered members of our Congregation. The Congregations and Schools have kept up their numbers pretty well.

Education.

There are five Schools connected with this Station—one English School, three Singhalese, and one Female School. The number of boys is 117, of girls, 10. Mr. Oakley reports—

The donations and subscriptions received during the past year at this Station, for the different purposes of the Mission, amount to 128*l.*, of which 33*l.* have been received from the Natives. I think this may well be considered as a proof of the interest which is felt in the work of the Mission; and, as regards the Natives themselves, is a pleasing testimony of their regard for the work in which we are engaged.

BADDAGAME.

Death of the Rev. C. Greenwood.

The Rev. G. Parsons joined the Baddagame Station in November 1849. His time was immediately devoted to the study of the language. Mr. Greenwood continued the general superintendence and direction of the Station, Mr. Parsons giving only such occasional assistance in the various departments as might serve to initiate him into the work without interrupting his study and practice of Singhalese. The providential nature of this arrangement became manifest upon the sudden devolving of the whole responsibility upon the young Missionary, after six months' residence at the Station, in consequence of the death of Mr. Greenwood. Mr. Parsons thus describes this sad event—

The brethren here had determined that Mr. Greenwood should remove to Cotta, to supply the place of our late dear friend and brother, Mr. Haslam, and that I should fill his place at Baddagame. Accordingly, a few days before the 21st of June, Mr. Greenwood began to prepare for his removal.

He finished his accounts on Thursday night, the 20th, and Friday evening, about five, the packing, and sent off the last waggon that was ready. Saturday was intended for handing over the accounts and affairs of the Station to me; Sunday for taking leave of the people; and Monday for starting for Cotta; but God ordered otherwise. Having finished packing, Mr. Greenwood proposed our usual bathe in the river. We went; and after being in the water about five minutes, as we were both making for the bank, I was a little in advance of him, when I heard a plunge and a call. On looking round, I saw my friend in difficulty. I turned, and reached him just as he was sinking for the last time. Before I could catch hold of him, he had thrown both his arms round my body. We both sank together, and I thought I should never be released from his grasp, nor be able to save either myself or him. But the same loving Father who took my companion to Himself, spared me to serve Him longer. I got away from him, rose to the top of the water, and reached the bank as soon as I could, quite exhausted. I then obtained assistance; but the body was not found till next day, at two P.M.

As for myself, I feel that then I as good as died, and was buried. My life, therefore, is a new one, and shall be doubly devoted to Him who has renewed it to me, and who so distinctly and solemnly calls upon me to work while it is day, seeing the time is short. I am aware that the heart of man is deceitful above all things; yet I feel assured that so solemn an instalment will never be forgotten by me, and that it has left a lasting impression upon my mind, to quicken me to be diligent and zealous for the glory of my Saviour.

Discouraging state of the Missionary Work.

The results of Missionary labour in the Baddagame Station have hitherto been very discouraging. Out of a population of 18,000 souls—which, by the last official returns, is contained in Baddagame and nine surrounding villages, the furthest of which is distant about seven miles—the Congregation in the Mission Church, after having been established for thirty years, does not number 150, a large proportion even of them being School-children.

This is a result which, however discouraging, the Committee cannot withhold; and it may well raise the question whether such a Station should be maintained. The Committee are well aware that a pervading influence for good has been exercised by the Mission, and that a large amount of Christian knowledge has been diffused; and it is in the hope that the mercy and sovereign grace of God, accompanying the means, may yet break up the fallow ground in Baddagame, that the Committee assent to the continuance of the Station. They cannot but recognise, in the very remarkable dispensation under which the present labourer has been initiated into his office, a ground of hope that the Lord designs to arouse a slumbering population, and, by first quickening the Missionary agents, to prepare them for the revival of His work among the heathen.

The Committee further propose to place the Seminary upon an enlarged footing, so as to give a more general education, and to larger numbers, and to do away with the prospect hitherto indulged of profitable employment in the Mission for all who should offer themselves for Christian baptism. The Mission, under its new arrangements, as well as under its late trials, is specially commended to the sympathy and prayers of Christians. Mr. Parsons, in a Letter dated Aug. 9, 1850, makes the following animated appeal on this point—

Baddagame and the surrounding district wants prayer—prayer within and prayer without. Even the Christians know very little about prayer. I fear very few practise it. I will endeavour to stir them up and give them opportunities, and pray for them and with them; and we request you, when you remember this poor benighted people in your prayers, to offer up a special petition for us.

Death of Edward Bickersteth.

Mr. Parsons gives this interesting account of one of his people—

Our oldest Christian, Edward Bickersteth, survived the servant of God after whom he was named but a very few months, and died at the age of 100, with greatly impaired faculties. Yet he knew two things, namely, that he was a sinner, and that Jesus Christ was his Saviour. Since that event, I have been called on to visit another death-bed, an old woman in a most miserable condition, who yet expressed no want but to depart and be with Christ; too weak to raise her feeble body from the ground, yet strong enough in faith to resist all the attempts of her heathen friends to obtain her consent to the performance of devil ceremonies for her recovery.

Education.

The Seminary and the Village Schools have been superintended by Mr. Parsons as far as his time would allow.

JAFFNA DISTRICT.

General View of Chundicully, Nellore, and Copay.

Three Stations are situated in the neighbourhood of the town of Jaffna—Chundicully being a suburb, Nellore about two miles distant, and Copay five miles distant. At each of these Stations a Missionary resides. They have their separate spheres of labour, but the same system is pursued, and the Report may conveniently comprise a survey of the whole district. There is a Mission Church at Nellore. At Chundicully the Missionary has the use of an old Dutch Church. At Copay a Church is in course of erection. The Rev. R. Bren arrived in this district at the close of the year 1849, and was placed in charge of the Copay Station. The Congregations are chiefly composed of children, the adults in the three Stations amounting only to about 200, the children to 400. The greater part of the adults also are in some way connected with the Mission as Catechists, Schoolmasters, or servants. The independent Christian members of the Congregation are comparatively few—a circumstance which afflicts the Missionaries, and too often affords a ground of reproach and cavil to the heathen. Some of the heathen occasionally attend these services. The Missionaries earnestly desire to see a greater degree of earnestness, and a spirit of inquiry awakened among the people. Their hope has been long deferred. They thus write—

If we could embue the few who have enlisted themselves under the banner of the cross with a spirit of energy, devotedness, and self-denial, not only would the reproach be taken away from them, but a direct attack would be made upon the ranks of heathenism, which would break, disband, and, by God's blessing, finally conquer them. I know of no way by which this state of things can be brought to pass except by meeting together, praying together, and exciting one another to love and to good works, and so much the more as we see the day of the Lord approaching.

Although during the year there has been no direct increase to the Mission from the heathen, two or three Romanists have been gained, and a Christian family, who had for a long time neglected the Services of the Church, has under the influence of affliction been brought again to attend the sanctuary. Several heathen occasionally attend services in the Church, but their presence cannot be depended on.

The deaths of two Communicants, though cause for regret on our part, is matter of encouragement, as showing that our labours have not been in vain. One was a Schoolmaster who had been trained in the Seminary, and for the last two years engaged as Master of one of the English Schools. He was with me in the morning, attended his School as usual, went home, and died about ten at night of cholera. His conduct had always been very satisfactory, and he gave us proofs to lead us to the hope and belief that he lived in the enjoyment of religion and the fear of God. He was not able to say much on his death-bed, but expressed himself as not fearing to die, because he was going to be with Jesus.

Perhaps there is no part of the Mission-field which has been brought under a more systematic plan of instruction, or which has had Christianity more prominently brought before it than this province, and yet no part perhaps has been apparently less successful. Religion with the mass of the people is merely matter of opinion. They attach no importance to it further than as it is beneficial to their temporal interests. If they could better their worldly circumstances they would become Christians, but they appear to be unable to comprehend the least idea of a spiritual service and spiritual enjoyment; and as their own religion teaches them that they will finally be absorbed in the Deity, the doctrine of future rewards and punishments falls on their ears and hearts too as an idle tale.

Education.

The whole number of Schools in this district is 31, containing 992 boys and 145 girls. In some of the Schools only Tamil is taught, in others only English.

In Nellore a Girls' Boarding-school has been established by the Rev. J. O'Neill, and is a very interesting Institution. The number of girls is 42. Mr. Pettitt writes—

These are nearly all Vellala girls, of ages from about eight to eighteen. Most of them are children of heathen parents, although many have Christian connexions, by whose influence, and at whose supplication generally, they have been received into the School. They come from different parts of the province. As it is now a rule that the Catechists, Readers, and Schoolmasters must marry young women from this School, girls chosen by some for their future wives are sent here to be educated. No stipulation is made about baptism when they are admitted. The average cost of food and clothing for each girl is 3*l.* per annum. The Schoolmistress is a very superior native young woman, brought up in the School, who speaks and writes English remarkably well.

Since Mrs. O'Neill's death this School has been superintended by Mrs. Long, who is unremitting in her care of it, spending four or five hours with the girls each day.

The Station Seminary, at which 29 boys are boarded and educated, is at Chundicully.

Preaching to the Heathen.

The mode which has been adopted by the Missionaries for some time past for making known the Gospel to the heathen, is the holding of meetings on the evenings of week-days at the several School-rooms, when addresses are delivered and discussions held, if the people are so disposed. Too many of the heathen have long attended such meetings without advancing one step towards the renunciation of idolatry, or a public profession of Christianity.

Mr. O'Neill in his Report notices "the willingness and readiness which exist to hear the moral truths of Christianity, while its exclusive claim, as the one mode appointed by God for saving sinners, meets with opposition. Opposition and strife, however, are preferable to that calm obsequiousness which is but too characteristic of the Hindu mind, which, while it appears to receive every thing, in reality admits nothing."

Mr. Bren writes—"The people almost universally acknowledge that what we say is right and good; so that, if a stranger were to attend one of our meetings, he would imagine that the people were all ready to become Christians. But I am sorry to say, when the meeting is over all is over."

Mr. Pettitt, while he was in the district, visited several of the meetings with the heathen, to which allusion has been made. He has given a more encouraging account of them—

The first of those that I went to was among the Keikullers in the Nellore district, where such a service is held once a fortnight. There were from 30 to 40 adults present, besides a good number of the school-boys. Mr. O'Neill opened with a hymn and several collects, and then introduced me to them. As I addressed them in their own Tamil, on the subject of Christianity, they became much interested; and an elderly man, warming up, burst forth, as I appealed to their consciences, with considerable tact and eloquence. He abused the exoteric (outward) system of idols, which he said was all a lie; but praised the esoteric (inward or philosophic) system, and said he worshipped the only one true God, and had in his own heart already that which Christianity professed to give—the knowledge and belief of Him.

At Colomboturei I had an interesting conversation with the Headman, who justified his retention of heathenism by the variations of Christians, just as Bossuet and others defend Romanism by the variations of Protestants; so that their argument after all has no better than a heathen origin. About 60 or 70 persons assembled, of whom several put questions upon the difficulties which they perceived to the reception of Christianity—some of them very important, which I answered at considerable length. The eternal duration of heaven and hell they considered less reasonable than transmigration.

There are several native young men in these parts who have received an English education from Missionaries, but have either apostatized after a profession of Christianity, or remained rigid heathen in spite of their education, and have been lecturing publicly among their countrymen in several places against Christianity, like the agents of the Sacred Ashes Society in Madras, and perhaps under its patronage. Their occupation, however, has now ceased; but the bad seed, in the shape of cavils and unbelief, which they sowed, has not yet perished from the minds of the people. An argument in favour of Christianity must be repeated and enforced time after time: a cavil or reproach against it is heard once and remembered—a proof in itself that Christianity is true.

These meetings were very cheering to my mind, and I think they indicate a growing disposition on the part of the people towards embracing the Gospel: it is an advance over India, where it is very difficult to get the heathen to come again and again, and shows, too, the effect of the extensive education conferred in these parts. I pressed them earnestly in each place to make up their minds at once and become Christians, as the people in Tinnevely have so extensively done: and if a few families could be persuaded to do it, their example, we may hope, would be extensively followed. They seem—some of them at least—to be waiting for a powerful impulse. May it please God soon to supply it, and to render it effectual!

The Roman Catholics.

In the neighbourhood of the Mission Stations there are large numbers of Roman Catholics. The following remarks of the Rev. R. Pargiter, March 9, 1850, will show the position in which our Mission stands in relation to that body.

Last week a Roman Catholic openly renounced the errors of that corrupt Church. The more I see of and converse with Romanists, by whom the Station is surrounded, the more cause I find to lament over the deep ignorance and superstition which, as midnight darkness, envelopes them. The majority of them have scarcely an idea beyond the Virgin Mary, on whom they depend, and to whom they fly as a refuge in all cases of distress. Our efforts in education have obliged the priests to commence a more extensive and efficient course of instruction, in order to maintain an influence over their people. They find that threats are useless, that excommunications are disregarded, and that the only way to keep the children from a Protestant training is to establish Schools. This will produce its results, and render the mind more open to conviction. But I have less hope of the Romanists than of the heathen. For although, in a heathen mind, superstition is dominant, and attachment to the religion of his fathers powerful, there is not that bitter hostility, and that marked opposition to Christianity, which are manifested by the Romanists. I look upon the heathen as claiming the first and chief part of my attention. Still, however, as the Station is surrounded by some thousands of Romanists, we cannot leave them without devoting some part of our time to endeavours to persuade them to become Protestant Christians.

Proposed Extension of the Mission.

It has been determined to attempt an extension of the Mission into some of the villages and islands which have not yet been occupied; and to induce the Native Christians to subscribe for the maintenance of Schools or Catechists. At a Missionary Meeting, held for this object, the Native Catechist Mark gave an interesting account of the progress of the Mission. The Missionary writes—

When Mr. Knight, Mark said, first arrived in Jaffna, he was obliged to obtain a Native Christian from the American Mission to assist him in his Missionary duties: now we have more assistants than we can employ. Then there was one Missionary labouring single-handed: now there are three. Then there were about three Communicants: now there are above a hundred. Once Mark himself supported the only Village School in Copay: now there are Schools in nearly every village. While he was alluding to the School which he formerly had in this place, he appealed in a very affecting manner to the former Schoolmaster, calling upon his first son, Abraham, to prove the truth of his statements. He also alluded to the fact that, when Abraham became a Christian, his father came to Mark in a great rage, saying that he had ruined his son: now both the father and son were sitting there, ready to testify to 'the truth as it is in Jesus.'

The Map of Hindostan, including Ceylon, given in the present Report, will be found useful in enabling our readers to appreciate both the extent of the Society's operations in that vast field, and also the amount of territory yet unoccupied. The Society's Stations are marked †. Most of the Stations of other Protestant Missionary Societies are inserted on the Map, although not distinguished by any mark.

CHINA MISSION.

Mission Establishment :

7 Ordained European Missionaries.

Arrival of the Bishop of Victoria and Missionary party in China.

THE Bishop of Victoria, and the four Missionaries of the Society who accompanied him, arrived at Hong Kong on Good Friday, March 27, 1850, and landed the next day. It was no little encouragement to the Bishop, at his entrance upon his great Missionary undertaking, to be able to preach in the new Church or Cathedral on the next day, Easter Sunday, to a large European Congregation, with six Clergymen present, one being a naval chaplain, and afterwards to administer the Sacrament to between 70 and 80 Communicants of the higher class of merchants, civilians, and naval and military officers.

Commencement of St. Paul's College.

The Rev. E. T. R. Moncrieff, D.D., at once commenced his duties, under the superintendence of the Bishop, in the educational Institution which is to be the foundation of St. Paul's College. The number of pupils was about 30. Three of the senior boys, having been for some years in the "Morrison" school, were able to speak English well. But it was thought advisable from the first to conduct the School wholly in Chinese—even to teach arithmetic and algebra in Chinese characters. This system has appeared to Dr. Moncrieff to answer, in the greater progress made by the boys and in the exercising of their minds. English is still taught to the more advanced pupils, and scriptural truth is introduced into every class. Dr. Moncrieff reports, June 8, 1850—

I have reason to be satisfied with the progress of the boys. In ability they are fully equal to English boys—I often think superior. They are peculiarly quiet and tractable, and yet not destitute of spirit and energy.

In the course of the summer ten baptized Chinese adults, who had been employed as Christian teachers, were admitted into the Institution for instruction. At a later day it appears that the Bishop and Dr. Moncrieff felt themselves compelled to remove from the School several of the students, in order to preserve its character and efficiency. The number of boys was thus reduced to 17, six of whom were under special training for becoming Teachers.

Upon the departure of the Rev. V. Stanton from Hong Kong, Dr. Moncrieff was appointed by the Governor Acting Chaplain. This office gave him the superintendence of four Government Native Schools, an opportunity which he diligently improved for gaining further experience in his work, and for exercising a Missionary influence over the Teachers and scholars.

Medical Missionary Work.

The Rev. W. Welton, formerly a medical practitioner, soon after his arrival spent ten days at Canton with Dr. Parker, from whom he derived great assistance professionally, from seeing his course of practice, and receiving the results of his mature experience. The visit left upon his mind "a very deep impression of the importance of medical Missionary work, when rendered subservient to the great work."

FUH-CHAU.

Occupation as a Church Missionary Station.

On the 21st of April Mr. R. D. Jackson was ordained in the Cathedral, and after a few days left Hong Kong with Mr. Welton, to commence a Mission in Fuh-chau. The Bishop preached the Ordination Sermon, and earnestly commended the new Mission to the sympathy and prayers of the Christian community.

Fuh-chau-fuh is intermediate between Ningpo and Amoy. It is situated about thirty miles from the mouth of the river Min. It is a place of considerable commerce, especially in the tea trade, the famous hills of Bohea being situated about 150 miles to the north-west. It also bears a high literary reputation. There are resident within its limits between 2000 and 3000 graduates, besides 5000 students. Within the enclosure of the city proper, three hills rise over the dull monotony of native houses. On one of these, called the Woo-shih-shan, or Black-Stone Hill, in the south-west quarter of the city, clusters a romantic assemblage of pleasure grounds and ancestral temples, one of which, through the firmness of the late Mr. Lay, has been appropriated as the residence of the British Consul; and from this elevation of 500 feet a commanding view is obtained of the city and surrounding country.

When Fuh-chau was visited by the Bishop of Victoria in 1845 it was without an Evangelist. He writes—

It was no common trial to my mind, as I gazed from the summit of this hill [the Consulate] on the populous city below, to reflect that here above half-a-million of immortal souls, spell-bound by idolatry or atheism, in the capital of one of the largest provinces of the empire, the seat of a Viceroy having two provinces under his jurisdiction, should nevertheless be destitute of a single Missionary Labourer from Protestant lands, and that no effort should yet have been made to convey to them the inestimable blessings of the Gospel.

Since then several Protestant Missionaries have reached Fuh-chau.

Difficulties respecting the Missionaries' Residence.

In deciding on the occupation of Fuh-chau as a Missionary Station, it appeared most desirable that the Missionaries should be located, not in the suburbs, but in the city itself, and in the midst of the native population. The treaty of Nanking threw open the five ports to British merchants, and the privilege was subsequently extended to all philanthropists and Missionaries. The right thus conceded had been acted upon at Shanghai and Ningpo. Our Missionary at Shanghai, the Rev. T. M'Clatchie, resided for a time in a Chinese house within the city, and might have continued to do so without molestation from the authorities. Our Missionaries at Ningpo, the Rev. Messrs. Cobbold, Russell, and Gough, occupy a house in the midst of the city; and the happy results of such an arrangement are very perceptible. This, however much to be wished for, did not appear to be easy of accomplishment at this Station, as the Chinese authorities had rigorously prevented the American Missionaries from residing within the city, and foiled them in every attempt to do so, compelling them to locate themselves in the suburb, Nantai. Messrs. Welton and Jackson, on their arrival, submitted their plans to the British Vice-Consul, whose assistance was frankly and energetically granted. He made application to the Mandarins and Chinese officers, and requested that a suitable residence might be assigned to the Missionaries, if possible within, if not, without the city. Part of a temple at the foot of the Consular Hill, and within about 500 yards of the British flag, was offered and accepted; the agreement between the lessee, the Priest of the temple, and the Missionaries, signed before the Chinese District Magistrate; and a quarter's rent paid in advance. The literati, who have several Colleges and Schools on the Consular Hill, and who, as at Canton, have much influence with the populace, and thus considerably control the power of the Mandarins, took umbrage at this arrangement. They resolved on the ejection of the foreigners, not only from their immediate neighbourhood, but from the precincts of the city; and no sooner had the Missionaries entered on their new abode, than a series of annoyances commenced. The tiles of the roof were forcibly removed at night, and the garden-door carried away. The Priest, in alarm, hastened to tender the quarter's rent to the Vice-Consul, stating that the Mandarins had threatened him unless he succeeded in getting the Missionaries out. Persevering, although unsuccessful efforts continued to be made to accomplish this. Matters assumed a threatening aspect. The students at a public meeting made use of language calculated to inflame the populace, and on more than one occasion appeared disposed to insult the Missionaries. The Vice-Consul felt it necessary to confer seriously with the high officers, and communicate to them that he should hold them responsible for any acts of violence, either to the persons or property of the Missionaries. Meanwhile, Mr. Welton afforded medical aid to all who came to him: two successful surgical operations for tumours were performed, and many cases relieved. The mass of the people, so far from sharing in the hostile feelings of the literary class, became well disposed toward the Missionaries ; and, instead of offering any rudeness or insult, were kind and obliging in their manners, occasionally sending little presents as tokens of their gratitude. Day after day crowds of suffering people thronged the rooms and verandahs of the temple ; and from ten o'clock A.M. to four P.M. from 80 to 100 patients had medicine administered to them. A feeling of a very different kind from that which the students were anxious to excite began to pervade the city. Individuals of the higher classes, and well-bred Chinese gentlemen, ascertaining from the concurrent testimony of many that they had derived much benefit from the medical treatment of the Missionary, began to visit him, and many came from several miles' distance in the country. Efforts were made, even at this early stage, when the Mission was struggling to obtain a position in the heart of the city population, to make the medical element subservient to the great object in view, the communication of Gospel truth ; and a Chinese Tract, directing the reader to the "True Physician," was placed in the hands of those who were relieved. At length the authorities began to discourage the hostility of the literary men. The point in dispute had been referred to the English Governor of Hong Kong, whose answer vindicated the Missionaries in the line of conduct they had pursued, His Excellency declining to admit the Chinese high functionary's interpretation of the treaty, and stating that he had no power to eject the Missionaries from their present abode. The literati, thus disappointed, reported the matter to Peking ; and the district magistrate, who had affixed the official seal to the agreement, was in consequence brought into trouble. From this unhappy position the Missionaries and native authorities were equally anxious to relieve him ; and an agreement was speedily arrived at, satisfactory to all parties, the authorities conceding to the Missionaries the right to reside within the city, and the Missionaries vacating the Shin-quang-she temple, and withdrawing to another temple in the vicinity, their occupation of which would be unobjectionable to the literary class. Thus, with some anxiety and danger, a point of great importance has been secured ; and our Missionaries, resident in the midst of this populous heathen city, have presented to them a prospect of much usefulness. May they be endued with the wisdom of Him, who, while He healed sickness and relieved distress, aimed at higher objects—the salvation of immortal souls from present misery and eternal death !

The Manchow Tartars.

The Manchow Tartars who reside at Fuh-chau have been visited by the Missionaries. Mr. Jackson writes—

July 18, 1850—Yesterday evening, taking a walk, I met three respectable Chinese, with whom I entered into conversation. They asked me if I had got any Manchow books. I told them I had the Sacred Books, and requested them to call upon me the following day. Two of them came to-day, and we spent about an hour conversing together on the object of our coming to China, and pointing out passages to them in the New Testament.

Aug. 30—About half-past ten, myself, teacher, and servant-boy, went down into the Tartar quarter of the city, where we tried to find some Tartar Schoolmaster, and at last found the head Master's house. I sent in my Chinese visiting-card, and was shown into the School-room, a spacious room, capable of holding a great many scholars. The scholars were not in School, it being the time for their morning meal. When I entered, I saw two of the ushers, to whom I gave, for their principal, part of the Manchow Testament, a copy of Gutzlaff's Chinese Testament, and a copy of the Christian San Sze King.

In the afternoon, I sent, by my teacher, the remainder of the Manchow Testament to the head Schoolmaster, informing him, if any of his friends would wish to have a portion, we could supply their wants. He accepted them with many thanks, and sent me his card by my teacher. His School has 200 scholars.

Aug. 31—In the afternoon, one of the ushers of the Manchow School called upon us, accompanied by five Manchow Tartars, his friends. I gave them a copy of the Manchow New Testament amongst them, and to each a copy of the Chinese Testament. The teacher informed me that it was very good. I suppose he had reference to the translation. They spent nearly two hours with us. We had also a great many Chinese visitors.*

NINGPO.

We rejoice to say that there are to be found at this Port thirteen Protestant Missionaries, English and American, of whom three, the Rev. Messrs. Cobbold, Russell, and Gough, belong to our Society. There is a wide field for usefulness, not only in the population of the city, which amounts to 400,000, but in the fact that foreigners may visit or even reside in any part of the heen or district of Ningpo, extending to the south-west more than fifty miles, and including not only many villages, but even large towns. A visit to one of these, as related in the following extract from Mr. Cobbold's Journal, will help us to form just ideas of Missionary work in China.

* An extended notice of Fuh-chau, and a Map of China, will be found in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for April 1851.

Visit to Sze Che.

Dec. 30, 1850—After an early breakfast, Mr. Gough and I started with a bundle of books for Sze Che. We found our boat outside the west gate, and were well off by nine o'clock. Shortly after eleven we arrived at the junction of the canal with the river, and there left our boat with the servant, and set off on foot for the town, distant about five miles.

On nearing the city it was soon known that we had books to distribute, and the eagerness of the applicants, especially of the boys, was great. We followed a path that turned off to the right, to the chief Taouist temple; and after being sickened with the sight of its hosts of idols, the work of men's hands, within, we turned our eyes to the lovely scene, the work of God's hands, stretching away for many a mile without. After drinking a cup of tea, and explaining to an old man who seemed to have some superintendence over the temple one of our sheet Tracts, we entered the city by the east gate, and, walking slowly through the street towards the west, we left a book at most of the respectable shops, and also gave away a considerable number of sheet Tracts. We went into the Examination Hall, and found in a side apartment a gentlemanly-looking School-master, and four or five very nice-looking boys. We gave him a copy of St. Matthew's Gospel, and one of my books. Entering the Confucian temple, we were followed by a crowd, and I took advantage of the opportunity to address them for a few minutes. We afterward inquired the way to the Ching wang meaou, and on entering saw, in large characters, the two words 敬神 "Honour the gods." As there were many following us, I stood still and addressed them solemnly on the subject of their idolatry, pointing them to Him who was God over all, and showing, by illustrations, the way of salvation. All the crowd present listened with great attention, and I felt—what, alas! I cannot always feel—that knowledge had been conveyed, and some impression made upon the people. I therefore went quietly away, distributing no Tracts, which is always a noisy business.

It was now about time to be getting back again, so we just went to the north gate to look at the two small lakes, the Buddhist monastery and the temple, and the Hall of Precious Virtue, which commands a good view of them all, and then, walking on the walls to the east gate, we followed the path till we came to our boat. We set off at once, and got home by half-past eight.

General Review of 1850.

The Rev. W. A. Russell, in a Letter dated Jan. 31, 1851, takes this review of the Missionary labours at this Station for the last year—

With reference to a principal department of our labours here—our public preachings in our Chapels—little of any special interest has occurred during the past year. The average Congregation in the one we first erected, near the south gate, has probably been about forty, consisting principally of the lower orders, who happen to be passing at the time. Literary men, or men of any respectability, I imagine, seldom condescend to come to hear us. Indeed, the literary and upper classes seldom leave their homes when they can possibly avoid it—walking about for recreation and health being unintelligible to a Chinaman. In the last Chapel we erected, which was opened about three months ago, the attendance has probably averaged about eighty, from its being in a better position. The people who attend there seem, too, to be of a better description—a good many of them men engaged in business. The attention manifested is of a very fluctuating character. Sometimes you are listened to from beginning to end with silence and attention, sometimes from beginning to end all is confusion—no possibility of maintaining order. Sometimes in the beginning we have order and attention, and in the end disorder and inattention, or vice versâ. All this is no doubt trying, requiring much perseverance, patience, and prayer. Yet, nevertheless, by means of this, our constant exposure of idolatry, and earnest exhortations and invitations to accept of forgiveness and salvation at the hands of our compassionate Jesus, I do believe there is a gradual diffusion of the knowledge of Christianity already taking place amongst them.

In our little Day-school the average number of boys has been 20, varying in age from ten to fifteen, principally the children of artisans. These poor children, most of them at least, give clear and intelligent answers to questions on the solemn, soul-saving truths of Christianity. O that their young minds, while yet tender and susceptible of impressions, may have these blessed truths written upon them by the Spirit of the living God!

The Missionaries have been diligent in availing themselves of all opportunities of conversational preaching, and addresses in the public thoroughfares. Three hopeful Candidates for Baptism are at present under instruction.*

SHANGHAE.

Appointment of the Rev. J. Hobson as Consular Chaplain.

In the last Report it was mentioned that the Rev. J. Hobson was acting as Chaplain to the British residents, in consequence of the sudden death of the Rev. J. Lowder by drowning. Application was immediately made to the authorities at home for the appointment of another Chaplain; but owing to various difficulties the appointment was delayed. In the mean time Mr. Hobson's ministry was so greatly valued by the Congregation, that they became anxious to secure him as their Chaplain. Mr. Hobson at first refused to listen to the suggestion that he should relinquish Mission work and undertake the Chaplaincy; but a sphere of Missionary usefulness having opened before him compatible with the Chaplaincy, and the Congregation having made to the Society the generous offer of repaying the whole cost of Mr. Hobson's education and passage to China, the Bishop of Victoria, as well as Bishop Boone, advised the Committee to consent to the appointment of Mr. Hobson to the Chaplaincy, as it appeared, by various concurrent circumstances, to be providentially indicated as the will of God, and as, in their opinion, the Mission cause in China would be more effectually promoted than by his remaining as a Missionary.

* A fuller account of Ningpo is given in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for Dec. 1850, pp. 459—466.

Under these circumstances the Committee have not withheld their consent, and Mr. Hobson has received his official appointment as Consular Chaplain.

A Finance Committee of lay friends has been happily established at Shanghae, and Mr. Hobson will continue to act as a member of the local Committee of Missionaries, so that it is hoped a good foundation has been laid for future enlarged Missionary operations in this place.

Impressions of the Rev. F. F. Gough.

Mr. Gough, who visited this city in April last, on his way to Ningpo, thus describes the proceedings of our Missionaries—

I found Mr. M'Clatchie pretty well, and actively engaged with his inquirers, his walks about the city, and last, not least, an interesting class of blind men, whom he meets twice or thrice a week. Their intellectual apprehension of the Truth was at least cheering, and it is to be hoped that the seed may bring forth fruit. He speaks Chinese with great fluency; and I heard from all that he is very intelligible, and remarkably successful in his attainment of the tones,* the great difficulty of adult foreigners. I walked much about the Chinese city with Mr. Hobson and Mr. M'Clatchie, and felt that it was a valuable opportunity for learning many things connected with my work. I had several opportunities of attending Mr. M'Clatchie's Chinese Services. The number present was not many—perhaps not more than fifty or sixty—but some were very attentive. One day I heard from a Chinaman present a half-suppressed burst of scorn, when Mr. M'Clatchie was led to allude to the worship of ancestors: and he told me that this was the way in which they also sometimes receive the doctrine of the resurrection of the body. How appropriately may this be met by the inspired words, "Thou fool! that which thou sowest is not quickened except it die." Mr. Hobson has four little boys in his house, whose support has been guaranteed by English residents, whom he catechizes, morning and evening, on the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer, or some other portion of Scripture. The morning catechizing is in the presence of his heathen servants, and is a nice way of instructing them. He afterward uses the General Confession and the Lord's Prayer, which he has written out in the local dialect.

Characteristics of this Station.

The importance of Shanghai as a Missionary Station is thus described by Mr. Hobson, in a Letter dated Feb. 15, 1850—

In the neighbourhood of Shanghai, within a day's distance, is a vast number of small towns and villages, through all which we may itinerate. In some of them it will be advisable to hire houses for stated preaching and for Schools. But to work the field properly we must have more help. We do earnestly hope that you will not be influenced by the fact of so many Missionaries of other Societies being in Shanghai, to keep back your men. We flatter ourselves that the Church of England has advantages in her system, with regard to Missionary operations, not exceeded, to say the least, by any other. Besides, if China is ever to be opened—if the spirit of exclusiveness is ever to be effectually broken down—that process will begin here. The rays will diverge from Shanghai. Indeed, the process is even now going on. Our London Missionary brethren go excursions of three or four days' distance. They are going to attempt Fuh-chau, the capital of the province. Parties can go to the hills, and stay as long as they like, a distance of thirty or forty miles. Persons have visited the Tea District, still more inland, without molestation. All this, at present, is merely winked at by the authorities. By and bye we trust it will be legalized, and so gradually extended. All this points out the wisdom of having an effective force in Shanghai, so that we may be able instantly to take advantage of every further opening.

In a subsequent Letter, July 12, 1850, Mr. Hobson furnishes some important remarks, which must be taken in connexion with these encouraging openings.

The difficulties and obstacles in the way of the spread of the Gospel in Shanghai have lately been occupying a good deal of my attention. They are, to the eye of sense, "legion," and at times, when faith is weak, almost overpowering. There is, first, the hardness, indifference, worldliness, atheism, of the Chinese mind. Oh, how impenetrable is this! What "foolishness" does it sometimes appear to preach to such stones, and to think that the simple story of the cross is to be the lever that is to raise their souls to life! Sometimes, when listening to Mr. M'Clatchie preaching, I have looked round upon the hard, unmoved faces of his audience, and my soul has been well nigh carried away with unbelief and disgust. In the second place, there is the bad repute we are held in by the Chinese, in consequence of our supposed identity with the Romanists. It is by no means easy to escape from this supposed connexion. If we are not careful in denying it, we run the risk of denying the God of heaven. It is difficult and mortifying to explain to a Chinese that even Christianity itself has a corrupt branch, that we repudiate. The idolatry and malpractices of the Romanists here have increased, in no slight degree, the difficulty of turning these heathen to the true God. In the third place, is that peculiarity of the Chinese language by which it comes to pass, that after the labours and researches of Morrison, Milne, Thorn, Gutzlaff, and Medhurst, and a host of others, we are yet in the very midst of a controversy as to the term by which we shall name the God whom we wish to make known to the Chinese! The cardinal word of our Christian nomenclature is yet a matter of controversy. I am not going to enter into the merits of the controversy, but only to speak of it under one aspect, namely, that of a great practical difficulty in the way of the extension of our holy religion. I am persuaded that the matter in England is not sufficiently regarded in this light. It is not thought, as it ought to be, that until this preliminary is settled much, very much, preaching and labour go for nought. This is a startling assertion, nevertheless too true.*

Fearful Famine.

In the early part of last year a fearful famine afflicted the country round Shanghai, which called for the generous exertions of the European residents. Mr. Hobson writes, March 18, 1850—

It will be interesting to you to hear how we have been brought into contact with the wretched subjects of the famine. The destitution is frightful to behold: numbers are dying around us. The foreign community here, commiserating this sad state of affairs, have raised a considerable sum of money, sufficient to relieve 1000 individuals per diem. The almoners of their bounty are, for the most part, the Missionaries. In our Church we dispense relief in food to 200 daily. If you could take a rapid flight, and look in upon us any day at two P.M., you would see a sight not easily forgotten—a Church full of the very scum of the land. “To the poor the Gospel is preached.” Before distributing our tickets we endeavour to set before them the bread of everlasting life. I say we, for it has been my unspeakable pleasure to stand up almost every alternate day, and to talk with this people. O that God may do as He ever has done, and manifest His grace upon these despised and wretched beings!

Review of past labours.

The Rev. T. M‘Clatchie, in taking a retrospect of the last year, makes the following statement, Jan. 23, 1851—

As to respect for their own religion, they have none. Even in their temples they will laugh at and ridicule their idols, and the next moment bow down before them. Nothing seems to make any impression on their minds: they appear to be thorough atheists. They are indeed "dead in trespasses and sins;" and the apparent impossibility of rousing them, even to opposition, is in my mind the most dangerous symptom in their moral disease. If I speak with them—in their temples, or in their houses, or in the streets—they assent to every thing I say.* It seems impossible to rouse them into any opposition to the truth. I have now been more than six years in China, and I have only met with two individuals who have entered into discussion with the Missionary in defence of idolatry. This is very discouraging, particularly when you add to this the fact, of a number of inquirers coming from time to time for instruction, attending regularly, it may be, for some months, and then dropping off one by one as soon as they find there is no prospect of worldly gain. Truly the work is not, and cannot be, of man. The Holy Spirit must indeed breathe upon the dry bones before they can live. It is no small comfort, however, that a vast amount of knowledge of the truth exists in this city. I now seldom meet with any one who does not know a great deal about Christianity.

I have during the past year printed the Gospels of St. Mark and St. John. May the Lord make them a blessing to this people! May His Holy Spirit bring home the Word with power to their souls! I am now engaged in the laborious task of compiling a vocabulary of this dialect for the use of Missionaries. Such a work is very much required, and will, if carefully prepared, very much facilitate the future acquisition of the language. I intend to mark the tones of each character, and to give a short dissertation on the tones, which are, I am sorry to say, much neglected by foreigners.

Instruction of the Blind.

Mr. McClatchie's chief encouragement has been found in his labours for the instruction of the blind. We are reminded that it was one proof of the Saviour's advent to a disobedient and gainsaying people of old, that "the blind see." Mr. McClatchie says—

My class of blind afford me much comfort. I look to them with more hope than to any others. The first brought under instruction was poor Dhay, who died rather suddenly in April last. As far as man can judge, the Lord blessed the instruction he received to his soul, and he could rejoice in the forgiveness of his sins through his Saviour's atonement. Another, of whom I had much hope, also died suddenly shortly afterwards. Although they did not live to become members of the Church militant, I humbly trust that they are now happy members of the Church triumphant. At present the class consists of twelve men and five women. Two of the women lead in their blind husbands, and one her son. A fourth is herself blind, and the fifth is an old infirm Romanist, to whom we gave rice during the famine, and who has been our pensioner ever since. I think much good may be done amongst the blind—they seem more open to receive impressions of the truth than others: their affliction renders them thoughtful, and their willingness to be taught is remarkable. I feel my heart peculiarly drawn out towards them. Three of my class have more than once expressed their desire to be baptized. I give each individual 100 cash a week—sometimes a little more in case of sickness, &c. ; but 100 cash is the stated sum. In English money this amounts to about fourpence. Now, if a few friends of Missions at home would each subscribe 1*l.* per annum to this object, I could increase my class considerably, and a large number of these poor afflicted creatures could be brought under instruction. I could furnish a half-yearly or yearly report of this branch of Missionary work, giving such details as might excite a general interest in the instruction of the blind, who constitute so numerous a class in China. If I had funds at my own disposal, I should certainly build an asylum for these poor afflicted creatures, who are frequently left by their own countrymen to starve in the streets. I have not the slightest doubt that, humanly speaking, the blind are more easily impressed with the truths of the Gospel than any other class in China. I must say that they are the objects of my warm affection, and of my constant and earnest prayers. My heart yearns to do them good, temporally and spiritually. My present class has been under regular instruction since last March. The improvement which they have made is most satisfactory, and my happiest hours, as far as Missionary work is concerned, are spent with them. Four of them regularly attend the Sunday-afternoon service—the rest, not so regularly as I could wish.*

General View.

THE Reports during the year which comes under our review, namely, from June 1849 to June 1850, are of an encouraging character. The continued tranquillity of the Natives in this district has given scope to the labours of the Native Teachers who have travelled among the people: and the Missionaries, in their occasional tours, have witnessed a more lively spirit of devotion, and in many instances a perceptible movement, amongst the remaining heathen or lapsed classes, towards union with the faithful members of the Church of Christ.

Thus the Rev. R. Burrows writes, at the commencement of the year 1850—

In comparing the present state of our Christian Natives with our last Annual Report, we are convinced that our work has been progressive. Our Congregations have increased; and there is a visible improvement in their general conduct. The respect which has uniformly been shown to their Missionary has in no way decreased; and the voluntary introduction of religious subjects, with apparent sincerity, more than at any time since the war, is to us an evident proof that the Spirit of the Lord is at work among them. The readiness with which not a few of our baptized Natives respond to the announcement of the day for the celebration of the Lord's Supper is also a token for good, as each one is subjected to an examination prior to his being admitted to that holy ordinance.

When, however, we remember that the great majority of the Natives in this district are baptized, and have been so for many years, the number who evidence the sincerity of their profession by their daily walk and conversation is indeed small. Did we not know that the same comparison holds good with regard to Christian England, we should be greatly discouraged in our work.

Kaikohi—Missionary Tour.

The Rev. R. Davis in his Journal thus speaks of a very encouraging Missionary tour—

This journey has given me and my Christian fellow-travellers much satisfaction. The Lord appears to have blessed the labours of His native servants, who have been again roused up, not only to labour at home, but to visit the places around them. To their labours, under God, I ascribe the present movement. Two of the Teachers returned from a place twenty miles distant from them, while we were there. The account they gave of their reception was very encouraging. As it was their second visit, they found Morning and Evening Prayers had been re-established, for this is a fallen party. One of them had become, during the war, quite a prophet amongst them, and was the cause of much evil. The account then given of him was astounding, and the Natives looked upon him as a prodigy, so that whatever he said was acted upon. This man did not attend; but the Teachers found him out, and entered seriously into his deception, showed him his danger, and pressed him to return into the Church by true repentance, at the same time assuring him if he did not he would be lost. He said he now knew he had been deceived, and felt ashamed of himself, and did not like to unite himself with the praying people, as he was sure they could only look upon him with suspicion. The principal Teacher, Matiu, was much encouraged. It is by such simple means, carried out in sincerity, that the Lord is likely to bless us.

Individual Instances of the power of the Gospel.

A few instances are recorded of the power of Divine grace in softening the hearts, and enlightening the understandings, of a people but lately emerged from heathenish blindness and obduracy. The Rev. J. Matthews writes—

Several Christian Natives have died happily in the Lord. I have great pleasure in reporting the case of Arihia, the mother of a young man named Paul, who died a happy believer in the Lord. Some few years since, this woman was one of the Congregation at Okahu, at the foot of the beautiful mountain range at the back of our Settlement. She possessed a simple, lively, and strong faith in the Redeemer. She often said that she had been a wicked woman in her day, before the Gospel came; and she considered it to be "God's work of mercy" to spare her to hear the words of life. I had known her for many years, and, whether in health or affliction, I esteemed it to be a privilege to converse with her. She could not read, but her memory was well stored with Gospel truths, and her case, as well as numerous others that we have known, serves to show the lasting benefit of our incomparable Church Service, and also of duly and systematically instructing the Native Teachers. The last time I went to see her she repeated the first and second verses of the 23d Psalm. During my absence from home she died happily, conversing much with her Teacher and others of her relatives. I inquired of her son-in-law, "What particular words did your mother leave for her children?" He said, "She talked much with her Teacher; but her chief word to us was, that she had been formerly a great sinner, and that it was God's work of mercy which had made the difference." Her children fully understood this to mean that they were to attend to the same Word, which was able to make them also "wise unto salvation."

Mr. Davis notices, in his Journal—

Sept. 5, 1849—Yesterday we witnessed evident fruits arising from the reading of your Jubilee Letter. About a fortnight ago a baptized woman broke out in bitter lamentations against herself, on account of her sins; not of sins committed, for she is generally a correct-living person, but of sins of the heart. To-day she spoke in the same way, and acknowledged that when she heard your Circular Letter read she was struck with surprise at her careless indifference for the salvation of her soul. She felt that it was of more importance than she had hitherto considered it, seeing others took so much care for her, people of a distant land, whom she had never seen.

Sept. 18—Our number of Native Communicants last Sunday was seventy-three, the largest number we have had since the war. Our previous examination took a fortnight. In some, much and distressing ignorance was manifested, although combined with sincerity and a Christian life; in others, there was a clearer knowledge; and in a few the light of life shone forth. All were, I trust, under the influence of grace; and all have, I hope, received Divine benefit. William Watipu, a Chief and a Teacher, and the writer of one of the Letters to you,* said, in answer to the question, "What is the inward part, or thing signified?" "We eat the body of Christ, and drink His blood, truly, but spiritually. The symbols enter the body: the spiritual benefit, the heart." On my assuring the people that such was the nature and extent of our sins that we each required all Christ's atonement for us individually, and that, nevertheless, there was a fulness of salvation in Him which never could be exhausted, "Yes," replied a young Chief of great respectability, "it is inexhaustible, and may be illustrated in the following way—If a body of water twenty feet square were to be measured off in the sea, a ship might arrive, and take up the quantity from the identical spot, but it would leave no vacancy. Thousands of ships might follow, and do the same, but still there would be no diminution of water, even in the measured spot."

A Chief, Maika, with his tribe, affords much encouragement to Mr. Davis. When the war broke out, being then a heathen, and a nephew of Kawhiti, one of the principal insurgent leaders, he joined his uncle, and fought against the British. Towards the close of it his mind began to change, and he became anxious for instruction. When one of the Native Teachers from Kaikohi, Mr. Davis's Station, heard of it, he went to visit him, and found that he had a person engaged to read for him whose conduct was very inconsistent with such an office. He ventured to point this out to Maika, who became very angry; and the Native Teacher, overhearing some threats which were uttered against him, and fearful lest he might meet with some injury, left as quickly as possible. He had not gone far when he perceived Maika following him with a hatchet in his hand, and, expecting death, he kneeled down to receive the blow. The Chief, although angry, was withheld from striking, and the Teacher, availing himself of the opportunity, spoke so faithfully and fearlessly to the Chief that he was silenced. From that time the Teacher, who is himself a Chief of note, acquired influence over him. Maika was afterwards baptized, with three other adults, before a Congregation of 200 persons. It was an impressive season. Many of those present were much affected; some fine young men especially, who during the war had been tattooed, felt so deeply that the tears ran down their cheeks. The Chief has since erected at his place a decent slab chapel, capable of accommodating 100 people. He now uses the influence which he possesses over his people for their spiritual welfare, and diligently endeavours to advance the kingdom of God among his neighbours.

The Native Institution.

This important establishment, under the superintendence of Mr. Burrows, is designed for the education and training of Native Teachers, and thereby to provide a regular supply of Schoolmasters and Ministers sufficiently advanced in mental improvement to lead forward the people to a greater establishment and ripeness of the Christian character. Upon such a supply the permanency of the good work so happily commenced appears, under God, to depend. The number of pupils is only six, who are under a regular course of instruction, comprehending the Holy Scriptures, writing, arithmetic, geography, and the English language. Mr. Burrows reports—

Four hours each day are devoted to study—three in the morning and one in the evening. In the afternoon the pupils are employed in cultivating food for themselves, or in other work on the Society's farm. Four hours may appear to the Committee a short period for study; but they must remember that these youths have never been under any regular system of School discipline; added to which, the New Zealander quickly tires of one thing. At first, three hours' confinement in the School appeared to them a long time, but now they sometimes express their surprise at the rapidity with which the time has gone.*

Middle District.

This district has been strengthened by the arrival of the Rev. T. Lanfear, who, after spending a short time in St. John's College, was stationed at Hauraki, where the Rev. W. C. Dudley laboured before his departure for England. Mr. Lanfear reached his Station on the 31st of January 1850, and in the course of a few months was able to attempt a short address to the people in their own language. He has found, however, many difficulties to encounter, and writes—"I assure you I find it a very different thing to be a Missionary here in reality, from being one in imagination in England."

* Further accounts of the Northern District are given in the "Church Missionary Record" for July 1850, pp. 153—162; August, pp. 184, 185; and March 1851, pp. 56—65.

General Review.

Archdeacon A. N. Brown gives the following general view of the state of this district—

I have baptized, in various parts of the Archdeaconry, 300 Natives, i. e. 183 adults and 117 children; and administered the Lord's Supper to more than 500 Communicants. There has been an improvement during the year in the numbers attending Divine Service and the Sabbath-schools; and the returns of Baptisms and Communicants show also a slight increase. A large proportion of the adults baptized in the Tauranga District has consisted of old men and women, who have been many years under instruction; and it is a pleasing fact, that, of the old Chiefs who were principal actors during the southern war, there are but few who have not declared themselves on the Lord's side.

This short statement shows abundant reason for gratitude and praise to the Lord of the harvest; but there is another view of the subject which calls forth much anxiety. This goodly work, humanly speaking, can only be carried on in future years through the instrumentality of efficient Native Teachers. The present race, with few exceptions, possess sufficient knowledge to make them proud, but not enough to make them humble. They "need that one teach them again which be the first principles of the oracles of God;" and, as we are almost destitute of Schools worthy the name, a seed-plot has yet to be sown, in order to the production of properly-qualified Teachers. In the interim, the Natives will be exposed to two great enemies; first, the evils attendant on a transition state, through which, at present, they have only so far passed as to exchange a civilized barbarism for a barbarous civilization; and, secondly, the simplicity of their faith will be assailed, if not undermined, by the Roman-Catholic Priests, who, with a zeal worthy a better cause, are incessantly preaching amongst the Natives "another Gospel," pointing them to a material cross in place of that in which St. Paul gloried; drawing them to gods many and lords many, from the one Mediator between God and man; teaching them for doctrines the commandments of men; dogmatically asserting the opus operatum of the Sacraments as conveying salvation, and thus leading them to think lightly of repentance, faith, and obedience, as well as of the influences of that blessed Spirit, without whose assistance no man can call Christ Lord, or be "made meet to be partaker of the inheritance of the saints in light."

Rotorua.

The Rev. T. Chapman, having been compelled by ill health to leave his Station of Rotorua, remarks, at the conclusion of the year 1849—

Rotorua is endeared to us by every tie that should endear a place to a Missionary's heart. We came hither to a people utterly debased by every thing that was savage. Now, there is not a village or place around us where the morning and evening bell does not call to prayer and praise, and where the Sabbath is not observed I am sometimes astonished when I look back upon the past, and remember what we have passed through. If I think only of those scenes which occurred to us during the southern war,* the remembrance seems appalling. Now, peace reigns in every border; the native Chapel stands conspicuous in almost every Pa; wars seem almost forgotten; and, for New Zealand, the promise seems fulfilled, "I shall give Thee the heathen for Thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for Thy possession."†

Otawao.

The Rev. J. Morgan reports of his Station, Jan. 1850—

The general state of the district is satisfactory. In every village daily Morning and Evening Services, and the Sabbath Services, are regularly conducted; and Bible classes are held—in some cases every night—in many of the villages. Although the means of grace are in general well attended, and the number of Baptisms and Communicants have been larger than in any former year since the establishment of the Station, there are in some of the villages a few whose love has waxed cold, and who either appear indifferent to the things of God, or who have openly disgraced their profession by an inconsistent walk. They are few in number, but still they are more than sufficient to remind us of the activity of the enemy of souls, and to urge us to greater diligence in exhorting those committed to our care to "lay aside every weight, and the sin which most easily besets them." We deeply feel our need of a refreshing shower from above, that we may see that which above all things we most desire—not only an outward profession of Christ, and the attendance of a little flock at the Lord's Table, but a deep-toned spirit of piety pervading every heart, and "bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ." During the past year, 84 adults and 87 children—total 171—have been admitted into the Church by baptism; and 153 Communicants have assembled around the Lord's Table.

Special Instances of encouragement.

A few of these may be gleaned from the Journals of the Missionaries in this district. The following are extracts from the Journals of Archdeacon Brown—

Jan. 17, 1849—William Marsh accompanied me from Maungatautari. We met at this place [Kuranui] Paul Uita, who, in his heathen state, murdered the only daughter of William Marsh.‡ To-night they were engaged together worshipping God at their Prayer-meeting, and are apparently on the most friendly terms. Surely the source of this must be looked for in something deeper than natural feeling: who but the Christian loves his enemy?

June 1—I had a long conversation with Zaccheus of Taupo, who has just returned from another journey to Auckland, to secure a Missionary for his important tribe. He has been for years most earnest on the subject, and, although deformed in person, has walked many hundred miles, in journeys to and from Auckland, in order to attain the object of his desire. He is now, poor man, much cast down, and expresses a fear, in which I cannot but sympathize, that the tribes of his district will become the prey of the Papists, who are most anxious to obtain a footing at Taupo. In the evening I instructed the class in another section of the Church Catechism. Zaccheus was present.

June 3: Sunday—There were 300 Natives at Divine Service [at Matamata], and 120 at School. I baptized nine adults and one child; amongst them Pohipohi, the principal Chief of Matamata, and his wife. The other men were leaders during the long war with the Rotorua tribes. How little at that period of savage warfare—fearfully distinguished by murder and cannibalism—could the most sanguine of Missionaries have anticipated such a scene as we have been this day privileged to witness! Not unto us, but to the sovereign grace of God, be all the glory!

June 7—The news having spread that I had received the day before yesterday a supply of Catechisms and books from Auckland, I was besieged throughout the day by applicants for them. Philip wanted a bound Prayer-book, which I told him he must try and purchase. He said he had no money, and urged his plea for a gift. "It is with my heart," he said, "as with your garden: if you had no spade, the weeds would cover the ground; so also, if I am kept without a book, sin will flourish in my heart till it is choked."

The Journal of the Rev. B. Ashwell, April 1850, relates an instance, similar to others which have occurred from time to time in the history of this Mission, in which the interposition of Missionaries has been the means, under God, of averting a collision between hostile tribes after they had armed themselves for battle. In this instance Mr. Ashwell, the Rev. J. Wallis, Wesleyan Missionary, and C. W. Ligar, Esq., Surveyor-General, undertook the work of mediating between the Waikato and Wangaroa tribes. The dispute, it appears, was respecting some land, which each party claimed, though no doubt Wangaroa were the real owners of it; but both parties seemed resolved to decide the dispute by an appeal to arms.

The Missionaries, accompanied by Mr. Ligar, proceeded to the spot where the two tribes were assembled in hostile array, and earnestly exhorted them to allow the matter to be peaceably settled by arbitration. For some time the attempt seemed hopeless. There were many desperate characters on both sides anxious for war; all were armed with muskets; they had had their war dance; all was excitement, and even some random shots had been fired: but yet they were at last persuaded to defer the attack, and it pleased God, contrary to the expectations of the Missionaries, to bless their efforts, and eventually to restore peace between the parties. Mr. Ashwell writes—

Toward evening Waikato and their allies met together, and sent for Mr. Ligar and myself to hear their determination, which was to this effect—that they would leave it to the Governor and Te Werowero to settle the dispute. The question was put to the whole body, “Do you agree to this?” Four hundred armed Natives answered, with one voice, “Yes, yes.” The question was put a second time, and they again gave their consent. Mr. Ligar giving the signal, we all gave three English cheers; after which the Natives assembled for Evening Prayers, and I trust I felt thankful.

From the above circumstances it will be seen that it is the Gospel, and nothing but the pure Gospel, that can save this people as a people. I would therefore respectfully urge my honoured fathers in the Gospel not to cease to send faithful men to this land, especially to assist Archdeacon W. Williams and the Rev. R. Taylor in their immense districts. The Popish Bishop, accompanied by several priests and nuns, landed a fortnight since in Auckland. They will occupy these districts if we do not. Oh, do not let Popery, soul-destroying Popery, the cursed “mystery of iniquity,” rob us of our people! In conclusion, I would beg an interest in your prayers, that neither Popery nor war may prevail in this district or country. The quarrel cannot yet be said to be finally settled, till we know the result of the interview between Te Werowero and the Governor.

Education—Translations.

The Missionaries of this district have made zealous efforts for the improvement of the Schools, and for securing to the native rising generation the blessing of a sound education.

A Normal Female Institution is under the charge of the Rev. G. A. Kissling and Mrs. Kissling, at Auckland. Mrs. Kissling writes, in a Letter dated May 23, 1850—

We have now eight grown-up girls. By means of our washing system we have employment for them, and gain some means for the general support; ever bearing in mind that the grand object of our wishes, as regards the things of time, is, that they may become useful among their fellow-countrywomen. We hope, by their long residence with us, we may be able the better to accomplish this. We have, next to these, eight nice girls about twelve years of age, and six little ones, of whom, under God’s blessing, I have great hopes; for, having been taken early from their native homes, they will know little of the evils of a native village.

The Rev. R. Maunsell has an important Institution under his charge, which he thus describes—

My Boarding-school on this Station I contemplate with deep interest and much thankfulness. Every thing has prospered far beyond my most sanguine hopes. In the first year the number of pupils boarded was 15; in the second year it was 30; in the third it was 47; and the number now in the Institution, of all ages, is 84: of whom seven are Native Teachers, with their wives, and three are sons of Missionaries. It is a source of much thankfulness to myself to reflect that this Institution has not in the least drawn upon the resources of the Church Missionary Society, but that, on the contrary, it has in many ways, which I need not here enumerate, enabled me to carry out the Society's objects without any expense to it. From the Government I have received—for building expenses, 220*l.*; for the expenses of the Institution during the last two years, 210*l.* From friends I have received in money 13*l.*, and food and donations from the Natives. All the other means of support have been derived from my own private resources.

Mr. Maunsell adds, respecting another department of his work—

My literary labours during the past year have been, the conducting our revision of the Gospels through the press, proceeding with my translation of the Old Testament, and preparing the second part of the Scripture History, which ends at the Ascension of our Lord, and to which I have appended a Harmony of the Four Gospels. The press of St. John's College, at which all the works of the Society are now printed, has just completed the revision of the Gospels, and is now engaged with the sheets of the Acts. The portions of the Old Testament have reached to the first of Samuel. The second part of the Scripture History will soon be ready for distribution. I have to acknowledge the very liberal donation of thirty-six reams of paper from the Tract Society.*

Eastern District.

Archdeacon William Williams observes—

In taking a view of the general state of the Eastern District, there is a marked and regular progress to be observed from the beginning. In the year 1840 the Christian Church consisted entirely of Natives who came from the Bay of Islands, principally as Teachers.

* Further accounts of the Middle District are given in the "Church Missionary Record" for August 1850, pp. 185, 186; September, pp. 202—210; October, pp. 226—228; April 1851, pp. 83—93; and May, pp. 112—115.

The Communicants may be regarded as the fruit of the tree. They are those members of the Congregation who are supposed to walk in the narrow path. Here, then, is abundant encouragement. The little one is become a thousand! In the course of ten years there has been time for the novelty of Christianity to wear away; but while some have gone back again to the beggarly elements of the world, hitherto God has blessed His vineyard with increase. In the district of Turanga the number of Communicants who, during the year, have partaken of the Lord's Supper has been 801. This, out of a population not exceeding 2400, is a large proportion, and yet there are very many who, from various causes, have been kept away from this ordinance.

Need of Missionaries—Arrival of the Rev. R. Barker.

This district has been long deprived of some of its labourers, and Stations once visited or occupied by Missionaries have been left under the charge of Native Teachers alone. Of one Station the Archdeacon reports—

During July and August I spent six weeks in the Waiapu District. There the infant Church has been kept together in a remarkable manner, principally through God's blessing on the exertions of the Native Teachers, though the need of a resident Missionary is much felt. Since I was there last year, Mr. Baker had paid two visits throughout the villages. I examined, while among them, the whole of the Candidates for Baptism, to the number of 951, and admitted 383 adults into the Christian Church. The Communicants are 737.

The Rev. R. Barker has happily arrived, since the last Report, to strengthen the district. His arrival and entrance upon his work are thus reported in a Letter dated May 1850—

Mrs. Barker and myself landed at the Kauakaua on Sunday evening, December the 30th, in company with the Rev. G. A. Kissling and family, six native girls, and two youths from the College.

On the advice of Mr. Kissling, I immediately organized four classes of adult Catechumens for baptism, a Bible class for Candidates for the Lord's Supper, and a sixth class of about 25 Monitors and Native Teachers; thus securing the attendance of a different class for every morning of the week.

I find my work to be emphatically that of Catechist and School-master to these adults, who are extremely ignorant. The adult Catechumens attending each week number 157: the regularity with which they attend, and the eagerness with which they seek to obtain Christian instruction, are truly surprising.

On Friday, January the 18th, I commenced my first tour through my district, in company with Mr. Kissling and Mr. Baker. It is bounded on the north by Mr. Wilson's, and comprises a distance of forty-five miles along the sea coast, and six or seven miles inland up the valley of the Waiapou. According to a census taken by Mr. Kissling some years ago, there are upwards of 5000 souls in this district.

We were kindly received by the people in the different Pas, and most hospitably treated: the expression of many of them was, "Come here, our Father!" and, "He is but a child, and yet he is our Missionary." We administered the Lord's Supper to great numbers in the different Pas. Great attention was always paid to the addresses of our friends Kissling and Baker, and there is evidently great punctuality in attending the means of grace, though, alas! I am often pained by their sad formality.

I would earnestly press on the Committee the importance of sending an additional Missionary to this coast. It might become one of the most interesting Missionary gardens in the world. The facilities for usefulness are great. Crowds of people can be got together at any time for catechizing; the dear children are all anxious for schooling; the Native Teachers and Monitors put themselves quite under your hands, and they are, I think, a very improving and improvable class. I hope soon to have the means of inviting my different Native Teachers here for three weeks or a month, for schooling.

Report of Waitangi, by the Rev. W. Colenso.

The vast district extending southward from Wairoa through the valley of the Wairarapa to the neighbourhood of Port Nicholson, is placed under the sole charge of the Rev. W. Colenso, who has forwarded to us a Report for the year ending December 1849—

The number of baptisms in the district, during the year, is 209 adults and 53 children. The increase in the number of Communicants is 128. The number of Candidates for Baptism is still on the increase, several of the heathen, and a few of the Papists, having come over during the year. Three Chapels have been erected, and six others are now erecting. One of these, at Whangaiwakarere—Wairarapa—is to be built by Europeans, of wood, and to have glazed windows. The contract for its erection has been already made, and upward of 60*l.* collected by the Natives from among themselves toward its cost. Upward of 10*l.* has also been collected to pay for glazed windows for the recently-erected Chapel at Huangarua.

Mrs. Colenso has attended to the Daily Infant and Female-school; but the general attendance, both in this and the Adult-Male-school, save on Sundays and Mondays, is of a very irregular kind.

As usual, I have been annoyed this year with the Popish priests, who have set upon me on both sides, both from Wellington and the north; but they have not, thanks be unto God! succeeded in perverting a single one of my flock. I have also had to conflict with no small annoyance from immoral Europeans—whalers and others. The signal interference of God in behalf of His Church here has delivered us again, for a season, from this foe.

The state of the Natives throughout the whole of this district is perhaps a shade better than it was at the end of last year; although the letting of their lands, apart from the many temptations attendant thereupon, is still a fruitful source of much evil to them, and of anxiety to myself.

Another circumstance, which severely tried the profession of the Natives during the past year, was the wreck of a small trading vessel at Cape Turnagain, in the winter. She had on board a large quantity of property of the most tempting description, which lay on the sand, and was stored in the Natives' huts, for nearly two months, without a White Man in charge. Nearly every article was safely restored to the owners, and for a few things which were missing, and for injuries done to the hull of the vessel, three of the Natives of the place, unbaptized, brought five large hogs a few days ago, according to my arrangement. I must confess, that in this matter I succeeded beyond my most sanguine expectations. To God alone be all the praise!

Karepa, of Te Hawera.

Mr. Colenso, like other of our Missionaries in New Zealand who are similarly circumstanced, spends much of his time in travelling. So widely scattered is the population, and so numerous are his engagements, that months elapse before he is able to revisit the same point again. During the intervening period many changes take place, and on his return he finds, perhaps, the most Christian of the people, who were wont to value him for his work's sake, and kindly greet him on his arrival, removed by death. So it proved on an occasion—April 1850—when, emerging from the dark wood through which his path had lain, Mr. Colenso approached the little lonely village of Te Hawera. Mournful cries were heard; nor was he ignorant of the cause. Since he had been with them, his old friend Karepa, or Caleb, the Chief of the village, with two other baptized adults, had died. The New Zealanders are a people of very strong feelings, and their national expressions of sorrow are very affecting. Soon the relatives and friends were seen defiling from the village, uttering the same sounds of sorrow, until, meeting the Missionary party, they conducted them to a little enclosure near the Chapel, where, on similar occasions, the tent had always been pitched. There, removed a little distance, they bewailed the loss of their Chief. Mr. Colenso was sitting on the very spot where he and Caleb had last parted: now, on one side, was his tomb, neatly fenced in, and the weeping widow and tribe; on the other, the little Chapel which he had erected, and where he had been baptized.

At night the Natives gathered round Mr. Colenso in his tent, and one of them thus related Caleb's last illness and death—

“He summoned us all to come close around him, and with much love exhorted us, talking energetically”—as was his custom—“a long while. He said—

‘You well know that I have brought you from time to time much riches. I have obtained for you muskets, powder, hatchets, knives, blankets, shirts, spades, &c. I afterward heard of the new riches, called Faith. I sought it. I went to Manawatu—in those days a long and perilous journey, for we were surrounded by enemies: no man travelled alone. I saw the few Natives who, it was said, had heard of it; but they could not satisfy me. I sought further, but in vain. I afterward heard of a White Man, called Hadfield, being at Kapiti, at Otaki, and that with him was the spring where I could fill my empty and dry calabash. I travelled to his place, to Otaki, but in vain: he was gone—gone away ill. I returned to you, my children, darkminded. Many days passed by. The snows fell, they melted, they disappeared: the tree-buds expanded, and the intricate, entangled paths of our low forests were again passable to the foot of the Native Man. At last we heard of another White Man, who was going about over mountains and through forests and swamps, giving drink from his calabash to the poor secluded native folk—to the remnants of the tribes of the mighty, of the renowned of former days—now dwelling by twos and by threes among the roots of the big trees of the ancient forests, and among the long reeds by the rills in the dells! Yes, my grandchildren! my and your ancestors once spread over the country, as the koitareke (quail) and kiwi (apteryx) once did; but now their descendants are even as the descendants of these birds—scarce, gone, dead, fast hastening to utter extinction! Yes, we heard of that White Man: we heard of his going over the high snowy range to Patea, up the East Coast, all over the rocks to Turakirae. I sent four of my children to Mataikona to meet him. They saw his face—yes, you, you talked with him. You brought me a drop of water from his calabash. You told me he had said he would come to this far-off islet* to see me. I rejoiced: I disbelieved his coming; but I said, he may. I built the Chapel: we waited expecting. You slept at nights. I did not. He came: he emerged from the long forest: he stood upon Te Hawera ground. I saw him: I shook hands with him: we rubbed noses together. Yes, I saw a Missionary's face; I sat in his cloth house [tent]; I tasted his new food; I heard him talk Maori. My heart bounded within me; I listened; I ate his words. You slept at nights. I did not. Yes, I listened; and he told me about God and His Son Jesus Christ, and of peace and reconciliation, and of a loving Father's home beyond the stars. And now I, too, drank from his calabash, and was refreshed. He gave me a book, as well as words. I laid hold of the new riches for me and for you; and we have it now. My children, I am old; my teeth are gone, my hair is white, the yellow leaf is falling from the tāwai tree:* I am departing. The sun is sinking behind the great western hills: it will soon be night. But hear me: do you hold fast the new riches—the great riches—the true riches. We have had plenty of sin and pain and death; and we have been teased by many—by our neighbours and relatives; but we have the true riches. Hold fast the true riches which Karepa sought for, for you.'

"Here he became faint, and ceased talking. We all wept like little children around the bed of the dying old man—of our father. He suffered much pain, from which he had scarcely any cessation until death relieved him. He prayed much and often, under the trees on the edge of the wood, going—in his pain—from place to place. His prayers, in his exigency, were those he had got by heart—the Collects for Ash-Wednesday, the second Sunday in Advent, the second and fourth Sundays in Lent, and the first in the Communion Service, and the Lord's Prayer. He also well knew the daily Collects of Morning and Evening Prayer, with the Confession, and Chrysostom's, and St. Paul's Benedictory Prayer: these, with the third chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, the old man always used whenever he was obliged to stay away from his Chapel, or to act as Minister. His constant prayer was, however, that of the publican, 'God be merciful to me a sinner!' He said he should like to see your face once more; and straitly charged us to tell you, that, though his body is dead, his love for his Minister still lives: this he often repeated. On Sunday, the 4th of November, while we, the few inhabitants of the village, were at School in our little Chapel, Leah, Mikaera's wife"—who had remained as a friend with Azubah, Caleb's aged wife—"came running to the Chapel to say he was gone! We concluded our School abruptly, and went over to the edge of the wood, where the body was: the soul had fled away to Jesus' city to dwell with Him. With much grief we paid the last rites. In less than a fortnight after, Caleb's only brother, Seth, also an aged man, who was in perfect health at this time, had also died; and now, O our father! your eyes behold the remnant!"†

Western District.Need of additional help.

The Report of the Rev. R. Taylor for the year 1850, and his Journals, afford much information, not only with reference to this important district, extending 130 miles along the coast and 200 miles into the interior, but also with reference to other portions of the Missionary field, which have been visited by Mr. Taylor in his journeyings across the island to attend the Central Committee of Missionaries at Tauranga. It is satisfactory to find that Mr. J. Telford has been at length enabled to join Mr. Taylor, who, since Mr. Ronaldson's departure, has been single-handed in his charge of this vast and populous district. Mr. Telford has been stationed at Pipiriki, a Pa on the Wanganui river, about 80 miles distant from Mr. Taylor's Station at Putiki, where the Natives have generously given up a piece of their best land, in the centre of the village, as a site for his house and garden. Another important Station, Matahanea, 120 miles further up the river, earnestly solicits a resident Missionary. It is central to a very wide extent of level country, where a large population might be brought under instruction; and beyond this again lies the district of Taupo, the heart of the north island, the Chiefs and people of which have for years pleaded for a Missionary; but which, unsupplied with a Protestant Teacher, has been occupied by the Romish Priests, who are diligently improving the opportunity presented to them, and labouring hard to establish their idolatrous system amongst the Natives.

We cannot disguise from ourselves the painful fact, that at this particular crisis in the history of the New Zealanders, when the dangers arising from colonization and its attendant circumstances are so great, and when the Romish apostasy is so energetic and persevering in its efforts, our Mission in the southern part of the island is numerically weak, and unable to meet efficiently the requirements of the work, while the centre of the island is left absolutely unoccupied. We would press on our friends the imperative necessity there exists for increased efforts and contributions on behalf of the New-Zealand Mission, if we would desire to realize and render permanent the results of past labours. Despatches from New Zealand, dated August last, acquaint us with the arrival of a Romish Bishop at Wellington, attended by sixteen Priests of the order of Mary. Are there none from amongst our Clergy willing to offer themselves specially for the service of the New-Zealand Mission?

Rev. R. Taylor's Report for 1850.

During the last year I have been occupied with the usual duties of my Station, and have administered the Sacraments at the chief places in the district. Of the Lord's Supper 1829 persons have partaken. I have baptized 153 adults and 84 infants, and have married 41 couples. I have not had any burials.

In reporting the general state of my district, I fear I have not much to record that is really satisfactory. Whilst we have gratefully to acknowledge the blessings of peace, we have also to lament much deadness and indifference in religion. There are, however, causes naturally leading to the present state, which, in the increase of the Colony, must be expected, for a time at least, to operate unfavourably on the native Church. The demand for native labour has drawn many from their homes, who, though they return for the Sabbath, are still very irregular in their attendance on the Week-day Services. The increasing trade also with Natives is causing them to pay great attention to figures, that they may be able to calculate for themselves the price of their commodities; but although, to a certain extent, this is gratifying, yet with the Natives it is carried too far. Any new thing which they take up so engrosses their minds, whilst the novelty lasts, that they cannot think of any thing else.

I have further to report the rapid increase of Popery in the interior; and I cannot refrain from expressing my fears that, unless aid be speedily given, we shall lose a large proportion of those who for years have been vainly soliciting Ministers from us—especially when they know that they have only to ask for a Priest, and one is immediately given.*

After this Report had been adopted by the Annual Meeting, Archdeacon William Williams stated to the Committee that several of the Missionaries in New Zealand had been subjected to unjust imputations upon their character, as Christians and loyal subjects, in consequence of their Missionary connexion with the Natives who were in arms against the Government during the late war.

Upon receiving this statement, the Committee unanimously adopted the following Resolution—

* The Otaki and Wanganui Districts of New Zealand are reviewed at length in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for July 1850 (with an Engraving), pp. 350—360; September (with an Engraving), pp. 404—408; and October, pp. 418—424. Further accounts of the Western District will also be found in the "Church Missionary Record" for December 1850, pp. 284—290.

That the Committee having learnt that the minds of several of their Missionaries in New Zealand have been painfully affected by remarks which have been publicly made, assigning the origin of the late war in New Zealand, in some degree, to the proceedings in which they had been concerned, feel it right to declare, that there was no intention whatever on the part of this Committee to give the slightest colour or countenance to the charges complained of; and further, that a careful examination of documents submitted to them connected with these transactions establishes the conclusion, in their judgment, that the disturbances in New Zealand were in no respect attributable to any acts of the Missionaries; and that the conduct of the Missionaries throughout those trying and eventful times was calculated to engender in the minds of the Natives loyalty towards the British authority, and respect and affection towards themselves.

Discouragements—Doubtful continuance of the present Station.

For the last few years the Committee have not been able to speak of this Mission in the terms of lively interest and hope in which they could once depict it. The history of Missions is the history of a desperate conflict with the powers of darkness. Though first difficulties may be overcome, new hinderances will be raised, fresh sources of evil will spring up. The opposition to the truth will be varied with a skill and malignant perseverance which mark the presence of an ever-watchful and powerful foe. No sooner is a spot in the wilderness fenced in and sown with good seed by a faithful labourer, than tares are cast by the enemy, and when the blade begins to spring up the tares appear also. Thus it has been in the history of this Mission. The first promising converts brought together at Bartica Grove to form a Church were Indians, and for a time all was full of promise. But the gradual mixture of a coloured population, the proximity of a Government penal settlement, and the growing intercourse between the native converts and the European population of George Town, all became sources of temptation or corruption to the Indians; added to which, the game and food, which had been at one time abundant, became gradually more scarce, so that the subsistence natural to the Indians was with difficulty procured, and many from this cause began to remove into the interior.

Since the Rev. J. H. Bernau's return to the Station from his visit to Europe, in 1847, the operation of these adverse circumstances was more and more apparent, and it has become a question with the Committee whether the Station should not be removed further into the interior. The Bishop of Guiana attended the Committee during his late visit to England, and consulted with them upon the most advisable plans for the future. The Missionaries have also forwarded their opinion. The Committee are reluctant to abandon a spot which has been the scene of much blessedness from the Lord; but they feel that some change is required, and they are anxiously deliberating upon the right course to be adopted.

General View—Encouragements.

Mr. Bernau's health still continues enfeebled; but he superintends the Station, and takes an active share in its duties, while the Rev. J. J. Lohrer takes frequent Missionary excursions into the interior, to speak with the scattered Indians and Hottentots who are to be met with on the banks of the various rivers by which the country is intersected, and to persuade them, if possible, to send their children for instruction to the School at Bartica Grove. In this way the School is replenished, and a little knowledge of Christ is dispersed abroad.

In a Letter dated May 17, 1850, Mr. Bernau writes—

Generally we have a tolerably good Congregation; but I long to see the day when there shall appear more of vital religion among them, and the manifestation of the fruits of the blessed Spirit. We have also had much sickness among the school-children, which has greatly retarded their progress, and induced many parents to carry them away for a considerable time, which could not but be disadvantageous to them. On the whole, we have had many discouragements—I may say more than at any former period; but I do believe that the Lord has gracious purposes still towards this people, and that if we work on, believingly and perseveringly, He will own and bless our labours.

Although, for the present, our prospects are not very bright as regards the Indians, yet past experience has taught me not to despair. Now and then we are permitted to see that our labours are indeed not in vain in the Lord. May He strengthen our faith, and, if so it please Him, let us also see much fruit of our labour! I was called, the other day, to attend the death-bed of one of our coloured people. On my entering the room, he told me, "Well, I am going to die; but I thank God for the hope that I shall go to Him; and I bless you for having taught me about Jesus." I prayed; and he soon after fell sweetly asleep in the Lord. He was an ornament to our place—a diligent attendant on the means of grace, and a faithful Christian, ever since he came to live on the Grove. Thus the sheaves are gathering in—now and then one and another.

At a later date Mr. Bernau writes—

The Indians give us joy. It is the coloured population that makes us sorry, on account of their listlessness and greater depravity; yet to me, who have seen this place a perfect wilderness, the sight of a Congregation, and so many children with happy faces, will be ever a cause of rejoicing and thanksgiving to our God. The place at present resembles a village—houses with gardens surrounding them; and I am glad in being able to state that our Mission gardens have greatly helped in supplying food for the children.

A youth who has been educated in the Mission has now the charge of the School, and carries it on to our satisfaction: he is a half-breed. Poor Erie has sadly gone back in his spiritual state. During my stay in England he fell into sin, and, not being willing to acknowledge and confess the same before his God, he has left us.*

General Views of the Mission—Episcopal Visitation.

THE Bishop of Rupert's Land has transmitted to the Committee very cheering accounts of the state and progress of the Mission during the last year. He has visited all the Stations of the Society, and held five Confirmations, at which above 500 persons have been confirmed. The Bishop writes—

I cannot describe my gratification and thankfulness; nor can I reflect without self-abasement on the toil and labours which others have endured in laying the foundation of the Church of Christ in this land, while I have at once so much enjoyment in reaping the fruit of their self-denial, of their days and years of constant hardship. May God bless and guide me in raising the superstructure! May He enable me, in His mercy, to strengthen and consolidate the whole!

The Rev. W. Cockran, also, in a Letter dated Aug. 1, 1850, presents the following general view of Missionary results in the Colony—

Permit me to congratulate you on the blessing of having so excellent a Bishop appointed to superintend the Church of Rupert's Land. He is truly a Missionary in his feelings and operations, and his heart burns with ardent zeal to spread the Gospel amongst the Indians of this benighted country. He has consecrated the Rapids Church, ordained Mr. Chapman, Deacon, and held five Confirmations—four in the Settlement, and one at the Cumberland-House Station. In these five Confirmations he has confirmed above 500 persons; so that, with the 800 who were confirmed by the Bishop of Montreal in 1844, we now have a band of above 1200 confirmed Christians. At the five Stations we have above 450 Communicants. In the burying-ground of the Upper Church lie 425, who have been committed to the dust in sure and certain hope of a resurrection to eternal life. Each Station, according to the length of time it has been established, has deposited in the earth a number of those who believed. Many of those departed in the faith, love, and fear of God, and are now before His throne, and serve Him day and night in His temple. Thus you see we have a Church triumphant in heaven, as well as a Church militant on earth. We may well ask, in the language of the Psalmist, "What shall we render unto the Lord for all the blessings which He has conferred upon us? He hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad."

GRAND RAPIDS AND MIDDLE CHURCH DISTRICTS.

The Rev. R. James has been enabled to carry on his labours with fidelity and good effect. We regret that the seriously-declining health of Mrs. James renders it imperative that he should visit England. The following are extracts from his Report for the Year ending Aug. 7, 1850.

We have been brought safely and prosperously to the close of another Missionary year, for which we thank the Father of mercies. We have read of Labourers being removed by death from other Missions—from East and West Africa, from India, and China—but the Lord, “the Master of Life,” as the Indians call Him, has spared us and our families.

The work of grace is advancing in the hearts of my people. That work has advanced in this district beyond any former year since I came. I have not been privileged to baptize a single heathen this year, though I have had many close conversations with them, as opportunity has offered. I have seen none but Saulteaux, and they agreed in the sentiment of one to whom I lately spoke, on his way to a great superstitious festival—“We like our way as much as you like yours.” I told him that on my knees I should pray every day to the powerful Spirit of God to convert them all from darkness to light. He angrily and obstinately replied, “We shall be what we are.” Among our Christian people the renewing work of the Holy Spirit has been deepened, the life of Jesus manifested. An evident decision and seriousness can be traced among the adult youths, which calls forth the thankfulness and joy of my heart.

An evidence that God is among us is to be seen in the increase of my Communicants. Last year I reported 180; but this number has decreased by 20, in consequence of deaths, removals, and the administration of the Sacrament at the Middle Church. Blessed be God! however, I have admitted during the last year, after repeated careful examinations and instruction, in which Mr. Hunt assisted me, no fewer than 53, of whom 24 are young persons. The number would have been larger, had I not unsparingly weeded it. Of these new Communicants, two left the Settlement in June; so that there remains the large number of 211 Communicants at the Rapids’ Church, who, I believe, adorn their holy profession, and “walk in newness of life.”

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt had resided at the Red River during the winter of 1849-50, waiting for the opening of the spring to proceed on their voyage to Lac-la-Ronge. They had actively and earnestly shared in Mr. James’s labours; and Mr. Hunt, by his painstaking efforts to instruct the people in Psalmody, in which their progress was most encouraging, had gained much on their affection. The time of his departure drawing near, the people, in various ways, took occasion to express the esteem which they entertained for him, and their anxiety for his welfare. Great difficulties as to obtaining a sufficient supply of sustenance at Lac-la-Ronge being apprehended, they presented him with 35*l.* worth of flour.

INDIAN SETTLEMENT.

Of the Indian Settlement the Rev. J. Smithurst writes—

During the year there have been 30 baptisms, and the number of Communicants now upon my list is 109. I hope all are striving to live according to their Christian profession.

The Bishop spent Christmas-day at this Station, and reports—

There was a very high wind, with a severe and drifting snow-storm. We found, notwithstanding, no empty places at Church: above 250 assembled to celebrate the birth of their Saviour; and out of these 80 joined together in commemorating His dying love at His holy table. There is a remarkable stillness during Service in the Indian Church, and great reverence of manner; and we noticed here that many of them were in tears while kneeling to communicate.

CUMBERLAND STATION.

This Station increases in importance, and promises to become a centre of more extended operations. The new Church has been completed. On the occasion of the Bishop's visit to Cumberland in June, it was opened for Public Worship, and filled by a numerous Congregation of Christian Natives, to many amongst whom Christ is precious, and who faithfully improve the opportunities presented to them of bringing their heathen countrymen to know Him also. Like their new Church, this Christian Congregation is set on a hill, and we trust may cause the light of Gospel truth to fall on the dark path of many an unconverted Indian.

Report for the Year ending Aug. 1, 1850.

The Rev. J. Hunter writes—

During the past year we have been enabled to carry on our work with much comfort and peace, and our people are making perceptible advances in the knowledge and love of the Saviour. The means of grace have been well attended, and Family Prayer has been regularly kept up, both in their houses and tents. Several new houses have been completed, and others begun to be built. Some have commenced farming, for the first time, this spring; and if I had had more seed to give them they would gladly have sown it. They are becoming clean and neat in their persons and houses, and anxious to appear decently clothed in the house of God. They manifest much love and affection to me personally; and I think I have so far won their confidence, that they are convinced I am desirous to do them good, and to promote their highest interests.

The Bishop arrived at this Station on the 29th of June last, and remained here until the 8th of July. On the 5th the Confirmation took place, when 110 were confirmed; and on Sunday, the 7th, the Bishop administered the Lord's Supper to fifty-two Communicants. These Services were most interesting, and will long live in the memories of our people. The Bishop opened this, the first Church of England out of Red River, built in the wilderness, in connexion with this Mission, and purely among the Aborigines; and here we had a Congregation of Natives, who, for the first time, entered a Church. If our dear friends could have seen the devout and reverential manner in which they joined in the Services and repeated the responses, they would have thought that they had been accustomed to the ordinances of the Sanctuary from their earliest infancy. Five years ago there was neither Mission-house nor Church at this place, but God has so blessed our labours that we now enjoy them both. During the same time, the Morning and Evening Services have been translated into their language, and, Sabbath by Sabbath, they sing the praises of redeeming love, and join in the beautiful prayers of our Church, in their own tongue. I have taught them the Church Catechism in Cree, and on Sunday afternoon, the 28th of July, I made my first attempt to preach to them in their own language; so that my people can now say, with those of old, "We do hear them speak in our tongue the wonderful works of God." I am becoming more and more convinced of the importance and necessity of acquiring the native language: it gives us great influence among the Indian Christians, as well as among the heathen. They pay the most breathless attention when addressed in their native tongue. The Indians not only like to hear, but to understand "the Praying Chief;" and our addresses lose much of their effect in passing through an interpreter. It shall therefore be my humble endeavour to imitate the example of St. Paul, who says, "In the Church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, than by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue."

Four adults and 21 children have been baptized during the past year; so that the number of baptized persons on our books is 499.

Our farm is looking remarkably well, and we have the prospect of a good crop of barley, wheat, and potatoes. I sowed nine bushels of barley, a bushel and a half of wheat, and planted fifty bushels of potatoes this spring. The Indians have also planted a great number of potatoes, both here and at the Island, and they report that their crops are looking well.

We have translated into Cree the Gospel of St. Matthew, the Communion Service, the Baptismal Service, the Church Catechism, the Order of Confirmation—which the Bishop used when confirming the Indians at this place—the Marriage Service, part of the Service for the Visitation of the Sick, the Burial Service, and the Service for the Churching of Women.

The Bishop writes, respecting the Confirmation—

All the preparation of the week had been directed toward the Confirmation. Each day I had seen and examined many. I took them in parties; started with the Catechism, the Lord's Prayer, or the Belief, or the Ten Commandments, in Cree; and then I diverged, and asked them questions, which it was impossible to have imagined would be put. This tested their knowledge and practical acquaintance with the truths of the Bible; and again and again I said to Mr. Hunter, that I was surprised at their intelligent and experimental acquaintance with our holy faith. Two were from Lac-la-Ronge, and they evinced an equal amount of knowledge, and fully as deep piety as any of the others. I believe them to be as far advanced at Lac-la-Ronge as at Cumberland. It was my happy privilege to confirm 110 on Friday, July the 5th; and to do so, using over them, two by two, the beautiful prayer, "Defend, O Lord," &c., in the Cree language. It was a beautiful and stirring sight.*

LAC-LA-RONGE.

Arrival of the Rev. R. Hunt.

The Rev. R. Hunt and Mrs. Hunt left the Red River for this distant Station on June the 6th of last year, arriving at Cumberland Station on the 2d of July. Here they were met by two Christian Indians, Paul and Abraham, who had come from Lac-la-Ronge in order to take back with them the long-expected Missionary. Of Abraham Mr. Hunt gives the following account—

Abraham, when still a Heathen and a conjuror, was taken by Mr. S. Mackenzie's father, late Chief Factor of the English-River District, to Norway House, about eight years ago, in order that he might be instructed in the Christian religion. He returned a few months after, and taught what he knew to his fellow Indians, and these Mr. Samuel Mackenzie† invited to the Fort, and taught them to read and write in Mr. Evans's Cree characters. They now correspond in this character, and repeat and attempt to sing many Cree hymns which Mr. Mackenzie taught them. Several of them, after having been further taught by Mr. Settee, were baptized by Mr. Hunter; and Abraham and Paul were confirmed by the Bishop at the Pas, on a special occasion, in order that they might be ready to accompany me on their return to Lac-la-Ronge.

On the 30th of July Mr. Hunt reached his destination, and on the next day he writes—

Here we yesterday offered up our hearty thanks to God, for our safe arrival at the end of our long and weary journey. As yet we have seen scarcely a dozen of our dear people, they being scattered about over a space of lake, and wood, and plain, at least three times as large as England, Scotland, and Ireland, containing about 240,000 square miles; but already do we begin to travail in birth with them.

Three weeks later Mr. Hunt reports, that the School already contained 20 children and 7 adults, and would be greatly increased during the winter. He is actively engaged in preparing the house for a winter residence, and clearing a small plot of ground for agriculture. He continues—

Meanwhile the School is not neglected. There Mrs. Hunt spends four hours daily, assisting Mrs. Settee to teach the children and adult females. There also we have prayers and a lecture at seven o'clock each morning and evening, and on Sundays two full services and Sunday-school. I have commenced part of the Morning Service in Cree, and shall add other parts, I trust, when the examination and instruction of the adults preparatory to baptism is over. When the approaching winter puts a stop to work out of doors, I shall have other daily adult classes. Mr. and Mrs. Settee have done much, and suffered much, since their arrival at Lac-la-Ronge.

MANITOBA STATION.

Trials, temporal and spiritual.

Amidst the wide circle of our Missionaries, there are few that have stronger claims on our sympathy than the Rev. A. Cowley. In temporal matters the difficulties at the Station are considerable. Night frosts, the precursors of the long and dreary winter, appeared in 1849 so early as the 30th of August, and caused apprehension as to the full ripening of the wheat crops. Unusually extended, advancing into the first ten days of May 1850, the winter contracted the usual seed-time, and much difficulty arose in getting in the seed. On May the 25th the rain, sleet, and snow, deluged the lowland, and Mr. Cowley's attention was directed to the necessity of immediately draining it, as otherwise the crops would have been drowned. All these outward hinderances and difficulties would be of little moment, if the work of the Lord seemed to prosper in his hand; but the spiritual winter is still prolonged. The heart of the Indian is still hard and rigid as with the winter's frost, the good seed is sown with difficulty, and the symptoms of vegetation are yet few. Often is our Missionary driven for refuge to Him who is a very present help in time of trouble, and who still consoles and sustains him amidst discouragement. In July last, when the despatches which we are now reviewing were made up, the aspect of the Mission had become unusually trying.

Ordination of Henry Budd.

The Bishop, upon his return to the Red River from his visit to Cumberland Station, was accompanied by Mr. Henry Budd, the Native Catechist, as a Candidate for Holy Orders. Mr. Budd resided with the Bishop for the period which he spent at the Red River. Toward the end of November 1850 the Bishop writes, respecting his studies—

Mr. Budd has read with me very diligently, and succeeds very well, all things considered, in English composition. He has read very carefully Burnet on the Articles, Burton's Church History, Tomline's Introduction, Nicholls on the Study of the Scriptures, Blunt's History of the Reformation, Mills' Analysis of Pearson. I thought it well that he should know something of the mind and the affections, so I gave him Dr. Abercrombie's two useful volumes, to introduce him to the study. He has had, in addition, instruction in the Gospels and Epistles, and Claude's Essay by Simeon, as a help towards sermon writing. He has a good stock of theological knowledge, a very strong and masculine mind; and as regards an examination in pure divinity, he will pass more than an average one. Latin I have not attempted: he would take it up very quickly, but I thought the time more valuable for other things.

I have thought it right to employ his services for the benefit of the Indians. I have therefore, for the last four weeks, had an afternoon service here: the full service in English, after which Mr. Budd addresses the Indians in their own tongue from the reading-desk. It has had the happiest effect. One settler said it was worth all the labour and outlay since Mr. West's time to hear Mr. Budd address his countrymen.

The Bishop thus reports the ordination of Mr. Budd, on the 22d of December—

St. Andrew's Church was filled to overflowing. The sight of the river was beautiful: there might be perhaps 200 carioles passing to the house of God. The number within the walls was thought to be about 1100, and the number of Communicants at the conclusion was nearly 300.

And Mr. James says—

Mr. Budd's Missionary career has been, throughout, full of promise. His diligence in study since he came into the Settlement, and his whole deportment, fill me with joy and hope. Previous to his ordination I examined him in a variety of subjects—church history, the Articles, &c. The extent of his knowledge, and the clearness of his views on every subject which his mind had compassed, quite surprised me.

"He read Prayers on Christmas-day for the first time," says the Bishop, "and preached in Indian in the afternoon, from the words, 'The Day-spring from on high hath visited us.'"

On the 30th of December, again, Mr. James reports—

At the earnest request of my people Mr. Budd came down, and preached an Indian discourse upon 1 Pet. iv. 7—"The end of all things is at hand," &c. At least 500 persons were present. Among them I saw many Indians who still reject the Gospel. They appeared absorbed in what they heard, and kept their eyes steadily fixed on Mr. Budd. I listened, and gazed, and thanked God for what I saw and heard. Among his hearers was his Indian mother. Her countenance was expressive of many hidden emotions.

And of the following Sunday the Bishop writes—

He assisted me at the Lord's Supper at the Upper Church. I preached a farewell sermon to him, from words most appropriately selected by himself—"Finally, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course and be glorified, even as it is with you." After its conclusion, without the previous knowledge of any of us, an address was presented to him from his fellow-countrymen, expressive of their best wishes and prayers for his welfare. It contained a list of names, with promises of contributions of grain, or cloth, or money, towards his own Missionary sphere. It was a delightful proof of their good feeling, and will be a very substantial help. Their offering consisted of eighty bushels of grain, sixty yards of printed cloth, and between 3*l.* and 4*l.* in money.

Missionary Openings.

Connected with the ordination of the first Native Minister, we are happy to report several very encouraging openings in different parts of the Mission. Mr. James writes, in his Report for the year ending Aug. 7, 1850—

During the year I had an appeal from a Chief of a large tribe of Indians, encamping about Fort Pelly, perhaps 300 miles to the north-west of Red River, for a religious Teacher. The case was so irresistible and encouraging, that I felt for a moment impatient to respond, ready to violate my restraint, and return with the messenger. It appears so eligible for a Missionary Station, that I hope the Society will not lose sight of it. O that we had one at hand to enter this door which God has opened, that we could at once take advantage of a desire which may pass away, as Mr. Cockran found among the Indians at Beaver Creek, whom he visited seven years after they had desired a Missionary! Last spring he undertook the journey, about 100 miles to the west of Fort Pelly, to attempt the formation of a Christian settlement. However, his enterprise failed. Every thing discouraged him, and he returned immediately. It is probable that Mr. Cowley will pay a visit to Fort Pelly, to converse with the Indians, and examine the prospect.

Some additional information respecting this application from the Fort-Pelly Indians is contained in the following extract from Mr. James's Journal—

Aug. 20, 1849—This morning a man named Peter Richards came to my house. He said that he was commissioned by the Chief and other Indians of Fort Pelly to see the Ministers in Red River, and ask for a Minister to live among them. Peter himself is a Christian man in the Company's employ. He came to me because all his relatives reside near the Rapids. He gave me the following information. There are at Fort Pelly 300 adults, and a great number of children. They are, for the most part, Crees, with a few Saulteaux. Generous, sober, quiet, they are all sincerely desirous of having themselves and their children instructed in the Christian religion. The men are frequently absent to hunt; but they promise that the women shall remain, and that the children shall attend School. The old men are also stationary. The place abounds with provisions, and is eligible for agriculture and building. There is at the Fort a Chief Trader, who has resided at the Rapids during the last twelve months, and nine servants, chiefly Half-breeds from Red River. This messenger has lived among the Indians twenty years, and, as a Christian man, verily believes that they are sincere in their wish, that they are well inclined, that they would abandon their heathenism and embrace the Gospel. No Priest has ever been there, Protestant or Romish. The Chief of the tribe was very urgent with the man to do his utmost; and, indeed, the man himself pleaded earnestly and eloquently on their behalf. I dismissed him with encouragement, and with a present for the Hookemow (Chief), as a proof that their ambassador had seen me and discharged his trust.

Here is another cry to the Church for a religious Teacher. May He who has created the desire enable us to meet it!

The Bishop expresses his conviction that Cumberland Station must prove a centre of Missionary effort in that quarter of Rupert's Land. It has already afforded indications of this. Itself the reflection of the Missionary work at Red River, it is re-producing around it movements like that in which it has itself originated. Lac-la-Ronge Station has originated in the Cumberland Station work; and now, the following paragraph from a Letter of Mr. Hunter's, dated July 30, 1850, shows that in another direction the same process has begun—

Moose Lake, two days' journey from here, would be an interesting place to commence a new Station: there are more than twenty families of Indians, and some of them have already been baptized. The lake is large, and abounds with excellent fish: it is an out-post from Cumberland House, and also a boat-building establishment. I have visited it several times; and, if some one were sent there to reside, I am sure it would be attended with success.

The Bishop wishes me to commence the same, by sending a pious Indian from here, called John Humphible, who was my servant man last winter, and reads the New Testament very well. John could build a small house, make a little garden, collect a few children and teach them to read, and conduct prayers every evening, and also on Lord's-days, with the Indians who might be disposed to attend him.

Thus a beginning might be made, and a way prepared, should God own and bless the work, for sending a Native Pastor to carry on the movement. The Bishop directed me to pay the expenses of commencing the Station, should John Humphible be willing to go, out of the 100*l.* placed by him at my disposal. Fifty-pounds a-year would cover the expenses for some time to come, should the Society sanction my carrying on a new Station at that place; and it can be visited from time to time by myself and Mr. Henry Budd, when he returns to me in Deacons' Orders.

John Humphible has consented to go, and, like Henry Budd when he set out from the Red River for Cumberland Station, or like James Settee when he left Cumberland Station for Lac-la-Ronge, had arranged to leave in a large canoe, with his family and all necessary supplies, on August the 19th.

At a later period Mr. Hunter visited this Station, and reports—

On the 21st of October last I left home on my intended visit to Moose Lake. I was accompanied by the Chief, Louis Constance, Charles Thomas, and Alexander Bell; and on the following day, about noon, we arrived at the Company's establishment. Here I met with a warm reception from my kind friend Mr. John Ballendine, and his family. He is very anxious for the spiritual good of the Indians; and as he speaks Cree fluently, and is well acquainted with his Bible, he is enabled to speak to them on the subject of religion; and many a faithful lecture has he given them, when visiting his house for the purpose of trade. At all seasons he has a word for them. Formerly they heard him with impatience, but he finds them now more disposed to listen to the truths of the Gospel. From his co-operation with John Humphible, who is his brother-in-law, we may hope, with the Divine blessing, eventually to make some impression upon the Moose-Lake Indians. At present they are wholly given to idolatry, and have gods many: all their efforts are directed to the attainment of long life, abundance of provisions, and fur for the purpose of trade. Beyond these objects they have not a thought: they are ignorant of the God who made them, the blessed Saviour who died for them, and the Holy Spirit, by whose gracious influences alone they can be regenerated, and prepared for the kingdom of heaven. They are unacquainted with heaven and hell—have no desire for the one, or dread of the other. Oh! in what a fearful state are these poor heathen, only two days' journey from our dwelling! And how painful, when speaking to them of the all-important interests of their undying souls, to observe the perfect apathy with which they listen, as if they willingly closed every avenue to the soul, and desired to continue in darkness, rather than be introduced into the glorious light of the Gospel, because they love their evil ways and their evil deeds! May the Spirit of the Lord breathe upon these dry bones, that they may live!

From the Company's establishment I went to the new house, built by John Humphible for the Mission. It is about a quarter of a mile distant, and situate upon the margin of the lake. He has built a comfortable house during the two months he has been here, and fitted it up very nicely. I found a cheerful fire burning, and his wife busily engaged in making a sturgeon net. John was from home, cutting firewood. Near the house a plot of ground has been cleared for a potato-field next summer; two stacks of hay are made for the horse, and the whole had a comfortable appearance. This, I thought, is the commencement of a Station where, I hope and pray, the blessed tidings of the Gospel will be accompanied with power and the demonstration of the Spirit, and from whence it may spread far and wide, that God may be glorified in the salvation of sinners. In the evening I had a good Congregation at prayers, and preached from John iii. 16, 17. I also read a short sermon in Cree to the Indians present. On the 23d of October I held a full Morning Service—about forty present—administered the Lord's Supper for the first time at this Station to eight Communicants, including the Indians that accompanied me, and baptized two infants. As the house is finished, I made arrangements to commence a School this winter, beginning with eleven scholars, who will be taught by John and his sister-in-law, a young woman called Margaret Brass,* who is recently come here on a visit, from Mr. Cowley's School. Thus the fruit of dear Brother Cowley's labours is showing itself even at this distant Station. I also engaged an Indian for three months to assist John with the fishery. Moose Lake is an excellent place for fish, which will make it the more valuable as a Missionary Station. Want of food is constantly taking away the Indians from our Stations, and thus they lose, in a great measure, the means of grace, and their children the benefit of the Schools.

On the 24th I left Moose Lake for home, where we arrived on the 26th, and found all had been well during my absence. The four Indians who accompanied me enjoyed themselves very much, and I trust have benefited by this little Missionary excursion. As all who were with me spoke nothing but Cree, I have had a good week's drill in the language, and on returning home I found myself speaking Cree in the family—although this is no new thing, for sometimes I have made the arrangement with Mrs. Hunter to speak only Cree to each other for a day. Returning from Moose Lake, I amused myself by talking Cree to Louis Constance.†

CONCLUSION.

IN the Report delivered in this Hall two years ago, your Committee, in their concluding Appeal, spoke these words—“ We see the College of the Propaganda, for a time at least, deserted; and France, the great supporter of Romish Missions, paralyzed. But let it be remembered, that though the power of Rome is now depressed, yet at any time there may be a tremendous recoil.” The events of the past year have given the comment! And where has the first stroke of revived Popery been aimed? At the very heart of Missionary zeal and enterprise and resource—the Protestant United Church of England and Ireland!

The Committee have sympathized in the just indignation which has been awakened by the attempts of the Bishop of Rome to trample on the prerogatives of the Crown. But they have still more anxiously watched the progress of Romish doctrine, which it is the design of this Romish Aggression to advance; and by which, if suffered to prevail, the vital power of the Protestant Church will be insidiously sapped, its Missionary energy quenched, and its very existence threatened.

The Reports of the Society have often recorded the contest maintained in India, in New Zealand, in North-West America, in China, and in other Missions, against Romish Aggression and Romish Propagandists: and now Rome is putting forth renewed efforts for the extension of its Missionary operations. Additional Priests are sent to New Zealand; a local dispute long depending between Rome and Goa is composed; and fresh efforts are made upon South India. But we need not speak of particular Missions. Amongst the various Religious Orders of Rome which send out their Missionaries, that of the Jesuits is the most zealous in the annals of Missions; and in a recent Romish publication by authority there appears the following announcement by the General of the Order—"Within the last year alone more than 130 of my Religious have left Europe to go and labour in the Missions. The supplies of the Propagation of the Faith have powerfully contributed to render this number so considerable. It would appear as if Divine Providence wished to reserve for this miraculous and truly Catholic Institution, the glory of having established, or re-constructed, or, at all events, saved all the Missions now existing upon the face of the habitable earth." So Rome presumptuously ignores Protestant Missions, and claims, by the ominous lips of the General of the Order of Jesuits, "all the Missions now existing upon the face of the habitable earth;" just as by her Papal rescript she claimed all the counties of England as her own!

Thus are we involved in one great conflict—the battle of the Reformation—at Home, in the Colonies, and in the Mission-field!

It may be of service in this fearful conflict to present to this Meeting its Missionary aspect.

In the Mission-field Popery appears in juxta-position with Pagan Idolatry; and the close alliance and kindred sympathy between the two is everywhere apparent. Every student of Missionary history will be able to confirm this statement by many well-known historical facts: and in this respect, at least, Rome is unchanged. The Report just read affords evidences of that alliance; and the proofs might easily be multiplied. In South India is witnessed the interchange of idol cars between Romanists and Hindus for their religious processions; and the train of attendants is made up of both parties. In China, the symbols of the Christian name are mingled with the Idol-Dragon on the so-called Christian altar. But more frequently is this alliance manifested in their united persecution of the Gospel, and of all who embrace it. In consequence of this intimate alliance between Popery and Paganism, the witness of the faithful Missionary against all demon-worship, in the face of the heathen, often brings home conviction to the conscience of the Romanists. In South India alone, during the last year, 232 individuals have thus been brought out of Rome, and have joined the Mission of this Society; and the experience of the Society is pledged to the fact, that Popery, if dealt with in the same way as any other idolatrous system, cannot stand the test. A separation will take place; the bigoted Romanists will form their natural alliance with heathen idolaters; whilst the sincere inquirer after the Truth will come out from amongst them, and join himself to the true Church of Christ.

It may seem to some, that to refer to Romish Missions is to venture upon discouraging ground. Sixteen years ago, when the Protestant Missions of Great Britain were yet in an incipient stage—for it is not denied that until this century dawned the Protestant Church had, alas! with one or two bright exceptions, neglected its high vocation—when the work had been for the most part only preparatory work; before the awakening at Krishnaghur and the revival at Tinnevely, and the rapid spread of Christianity in New Zealand, had crowned the efforts of this Society; a notorious Roman Ecclesiastic, in a course of lectures, taunted the Protestant Church with the want of success in its Missions. As justly might a man survey the farmer's field in the spring-time, and taunt him with having no sheaves to exhibit!

With this was coupled a pompous review of Roman Missions for three centuries back, and exaggerated accounts of their success—those very Missions, be it noticed, which the General of the Order of Jesuits has since pronounced to have been at that very time on the brink of destruction; and to have been “saved” as by a miracle in consequence of the Institution of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith in the year 1822.^[1622]

These are not days to suffer boastful assumptions to go abroad unrebuked. The whole system of Rome is built upon bold but baseless assumptions; and their Missionary boasts, when brought to the test, will prove no exception.

If the liberality of the Church at home be a criterion of Missionary zeal, and the comparison be made, the result is remarkable. It appears, from published accounts, that in the year 1847, before the troubles of Europe broke out, the Roman-Catholic Church collected for the one great Romish Institution, the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, throughout France, Austria, Italy, and other countries of Europe, and throughout North and South America, the sum of

Prussian dollars	1,068,770 or £155,843
While in the same year the United Church of England and Ireland collected	1,304,527 or 190,291
And the Dissenters of England	1,436,415 or 199,490
And the Protestants of other countries of Europe (including Scotland) and of America	1,091,483 or 159,174

In other words, the Protestant Church raised far more than three times as much as the Church of Rome! Or to state the fact in another form—the Roman-Catholic Church, with her Pope in the plenitude of his power and ephemeral popularity in the year 1847; with her Emperors and Crowned Heads, and her 160 millions of devotees; and with all her “indulgences, applicable to the souls in purgatory,” to be obtained by every subscriber of one halfpenny a week to her Mission Fund; did not contribute so much for the propagation of the Faith as the Dissenters of England! Nay, not so much as the comparatively small fraction of the Protestants of the rest of Christendom! If Missionary liberality be a mark of the true Church, then that Church is the Protestant!

If it be attempted to shift the comparison to the number of Missionaries employed by the Church of Rome, and the number employed by Protestant Missionary Societies, let the College of the Propaganda publish authorised lists of the agents employed in foreign lands. This has never yet been done. In the mean time, let it be remembered that the great principle of Protestant Missions is Native Agency under European superintendence. Hence our large and expensive Educational Establishments to raise up an educated class. And if all the European and Native Agents employed by the Protestant Societies be numbered, they make up a goodly company, which might probably show a result not very different from the financial statement already alluded to.

If the results of Missions be the subject of comparison, the first point to be settled is the standard of Conversion; and until this be done it is vain to attempt a comparison. Nominal conversions, compromises with idolatry, baptisms in infancy without Christian sponsorship or instruction, form no part of the statistics of Protestant Missions. It is no difficult task to induce the worshippers of gods many and lords many to bow down before the Virgin Mary or the Crucifix. It is easy to baptize unconscious and dying heathen infants by stealth, and thus to swell the number of reported converts. In these respects, the Protestant Missionary can maintain no rivalry. Whatever, also, may be effected in the interior of China or Japan—beyond the range of Protestant observation—judging by those Missionary efforts of Rome which lie within the range of Protestant Missionaries, and where results can be tested, the Committee do not fear a comparison.

But why has your Committee entered upon these topics? Not merely to expose false assumptions—not to triumph in our superior liberality—God forbid! The object is far different. It is because there is truth in the assertion that Missionary zeal in a Church is one proof of its vitality; not the zeal which will compass sea and land to make one pro-selyte, but zeal for bringing souls to renounce all other gods, and to depend upon the one Name given under heaven whereby they may be saved; zeal to make them well acquainted with God's blessed Word, and to partake of the Spirit of Christ. Such is the zeal which is a proof of the vitality of any Church! And the facts which have been now alleged, and the Report which has been laid before you, prove that the Protestant Church exhibits this vitality at home, and that the Lord is with its attempts to spread the knowledge of His truth abroad.

These considerations should excite our gratitude to God, and make us take fresh courage. They show that the conversion of the world to Christianity is committed to the Protestant Churches; and they should awaken those Churches to the crisis which has arrived, and unite all in one great effort—each in their several departments—to establish through the whole earth the kingdom of God and of His Son Jesus Christ.

In one only point is the comparison apparently disadvantageous to the Protestant Church. There does appear to be a greater readiness in the devotees of Rome to go abroad at her bidding to the heathen. There does appear a comparative reluctance in the members of a pure faith to leave the Church at home, and to labour for the Church abroad. Here is the great want of the Protestant Missions—the want of men. The Report now laid before this Meeting shows that this Society has the means to send out a goodly increase of Labourers; that inviting fields of Missionary labour in India, in Africa, and in China, send forth their loud cry to men of experience and talent, “Come over, and help us!” and that Native Teachers wait to be led on to victory by European superintendants. O that the Lord might put it into the hearts of many to offer themselves willingly to the work! O that He might pour down upon all the Spirit of grace and supplication, so that they may give Him no rest till He thrust forth labourers into His harvest!

pp. 114, 115.)

"To my Vizir, Mohammed Pasha, Prefect of the Police in Constantinople, the honourable Minister and glorious Councillor, the Model of the world, and Regulator of the affairs of the community; who, directing the public interests with sublime prudence, consolidating the structure of the empire with wisdom, and strengthening the columns of its prosperity and glory, is the recipient of every grace from the Most High. May God prolong his glory!

"When this sublime and august mandate reaches you, let it be known that hitherto those of my Christian subjects who have embraced the Protestant faith, in consequence of their not being under any specially-appointed superintendence, and in consequence of the Patriarchs and Primates of their former sects, which they have renounced, naturally not being able to attend to their affairs, have suffered much inconvenience and distress. But in necessary accordance with my imperial compassion, which is the support of all, and which is manifested to all classes of my subjects, it is contrary to my imperial pleasure that any one class of them should be exposed to suffering.

"As, therefore, by reason of their faith, the above-mentioned are already a separate community, it is my royal compassionate will that, for the facilitating the conducting of their affairs, and that they may obtain ease and quiet and safety, a faithful and trustworthy person from among themselves, and by their own selection, should be appointed, with the title of 'Agent of the Protestants,' and that he should be in relations with the Prefecture of the Police.

"It shall be the duty of the Agent to have in charge the register of the male members of the community, which shall be kept at the police; and the Agent shall cause to be registered therein all births and deaths in the community. And all applications for passports and marriage licences, and all petitions on affairs concerning the community that are to be presented to the Sublime Porte, or to any other department, must be given in under the official seal of the Agent.

"For the execution of my will, this my imperial sublime mandate and august command has been especially issued and given from my sublime Chancery.

"Hence, thou, who art the Minister above named, according as it has been explained above, wilt execute to the letter the preceding ordinance; only, as the collection of the capitation tax, and the delivery of passports, are subject to particular regulations, you will not do any thing contrary to those regulations. You will not permit any thing to be required of them, in the name of fee, or on other pretences, for marriage licences or registration. You will see to it, that, like the other communities of the empire, in all their affairs, such as procuring cemeteries and places of worship, they should have every facility and every needed assistance. You will not permit that any of the other communities shall in any way interfere with their edifices, or with their worldly matters or concerns, or, in short, with any of their affairs, either secular or religious, that thus they may be free to exercise the usages of their faith.

"And it is enjoined upon you not to allow them to be molested an iota in these particulars, or in any others; and that all attention and perseverance be put in requisition to maintain them in quiet and security. And, in case of necessity, they shall be free to make representations regarding their affairs through their Agent to the Sublime Porte.

"When this my imperial will shall be brought to your knowledge and appreciation, you will have this august decree registered in the necessary departments, and then give it over to remain in the hands of these my subjects. And see you to it, that its requirements be always in future performed in their full import.

"Thus know thou, and respect my sacred signet! Written in the holy month of Moharrem, 1267 (November 1850).

"Given in the well-guarded city Constantinieniyeh."

* * Some misapprehension having arisen with regard to the Association Accounts appended to the Society's Report, the Secretaries beg to state that there is no connexion between the sum total of those Accounts and the sum total of Association Contributions acknowledged in the "Abstract of the General Mission Account" of the Parent Committee. The Association Accounts are made up at different periods, and their sum total thus necessarily varies from that acknowledged in the Parent Committee's "Abstract" above mentioned, which includes the actual payments made at the Society's House between April 1st and March 31st in each year, and is, therefore, quite irrespective of the periods at which, for local convenience, Association Accounts are made up and balanced. It frequently happens, however, that an Association remits the whole of its year's receipts during the Society's financial year (April 1 to March 31), in which case of course the total of that Association, given in its place in the Report, will agree with the total acknowledged in the "Summary of Contributions," &c. (which is only an amplification of the total acknowledged in the "Abstract"). It would greatly facilitate a perfect agreement between the total of the Association Accounts printed in the Report, and the total acknowledged in the "Abstract" and "Summary," if all the Associations were to close their accounts on the 31st of December in each year. Time would thus be allowed to remit to the Parent Society the whole of the year's receipts before the 31st of March following, and nothing BEYOND the year's receipts should be remitted before the 1st of April.

The appending to the Society's Report of the Accounts of the Associations may be regarded as a universal acknowledgment to the Local Contributors that their Contributions have been received by the Parent Committee; though the circumstances above stated render it impossible that the totals of those Contributions should in all cases correspond with the totals acknowledged in the "Summary." It may be just mentioned, in conclusion, that an Account Current is kept at the Society's Office with each Association, by which the actual transmission of its receipts to the Parent Committee is shown.

N.B. Benefactors of Ten Pounds and upward, whose Names have appeared in former Lists of the Associations, will now find them in the List of "Benefactions of Former Years."
