PROPER FORM OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

No. I.—Form of Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of _____ Pounds free of Legacy duty* for the general purposes of the said Society to be paid within _____ calendar months next after my death, exclusively out of such part of my Personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may be bequeathed for charitable purposes and in priority to all other payments thereof but to be subject to abate proportionably with other Legacies in case my general Personal Estate shall be insufficient for payment of them all in full. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society [or each of the said Societies] shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy [or Legacies respectively].

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue, or a Share of the Residue.

And in order to give full effect to the bequest hereinafter contained for charitable purposes I direct that my Debts, the expenses of my funeral and of the probate and execution of this my Will and the Legacies bequeathed by this my Will or any Codicil thereto† shall be paid out of such part of my personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may not be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the primary Fund‡ and in case only of the same being insufficient for payment thereof then out of such part of my personal Estate as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the ultimate Fund; and subject as aforesaid, I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East for the general purposes of the said Society such part of my residuary personal Estate as by the Laws in force may be bequeathed for charitable purposes [or if a share only of the residue be intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say, "such sum of money as shall be equal to (one-fourth or one-half, according to the intention) of my whole residuary personal Estate to be paid exclusively out of such part thereof as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes or such less sum as the said last mentioned part of my personal Estate will extend to pay"]. And I declare that the Receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said residue [or sum of money, as the case may be]. And as to the remainder if any of my general residuary personal Estate I bequeath the same &c. &c.

* If so intended.

† In case there be other charitable Legacies, insert here, "other than and except charitable Legacies."

‡ If it be intended also to charge the Debts and Legacies on real Estate, then add "and in the next place out of my Freehold and Copyhold Estates."

§ The latter Clause to be filled up according to the Testator's wishes; but it must not be for any charitable purpose.

XI. The Committee shall consist of Twenty-four Lay Members of the Established Church; and of all such Clergymen as are Members of the Society. Eighteen Members shall be annually appointed from the Old Committee, and Six from the General Body.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds, a Committee of Correspondence, and a Committee of Accounts. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall report the same to the General Committee.

XIII. The office of the Committee of Patronage is, to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate, to the General Committee, proper persons, as Patrons and Vice-Presidents of the Society.

XIV. The office of the Committee of Funds is, to circulate information respecting the Society; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as Agents for the Society in the principal Towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful; the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee; and Three, each of the others. In case of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XIX. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, and President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, and Secretaries, shall be considered, ex-officio, Members of all Committees.

XX. Governors, being Members of the Established Church, shall be entitled to attend and vote at all Meetings of the General Committee.

XXI. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting. *

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee, annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society; of whom, Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued: The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made, by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence, of his qualifications; and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next Meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least Three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a Special Meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot, to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose: respect, however, being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretaries.

XXIX. Each Candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. That all questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between any Colonial Bishop and any Committee of the Society, shall be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, whose decision thereupon shall be final.

XXXIII. That the object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as, in any other respect, to alter the principles and practice of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations, and explained in Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Report.

The proposed reference shall be made, through His Grace the Primate, by the Committee, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the Committee may deem advisable; and the Committee will be bound so to refer all questions, falling within the scope of the Rule so understood as aforesaid, which the Colonial Bishop shall require them to refer.

While all decisions of the Bench of Bishops on questions so referred will be considered by the Committee as binding on them and their agents or representatives, the Colonial Bishops or other Ecclesiastical Authorities, unless concurring in the reference, cannot properly be considered as so bound.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The following passage, from Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Annual Report, illustrates the practice of the Society in reference to this Rule:—

"The Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] our Missionaries—these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same Colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church."

APPENDIX II. TO THE THIRTY-NINTH REPORT.

REFERRED TO IN THE NOTE TO LAW XXIX.

REMARKS ON THE CONSTITUTION AND PRACTICE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY, WITH REFERENCE TO ITS ECCLESIASTICAL RELATIONS.

It is the object of the following Remarks to show, that the constitution and practice of the Church Missionary Society are in strict conformity with Ecclesiastical principles, as they are recognised in the constitution and practice of the Church of England.

Throughout the system of the Church of England there is a recognised co-operation of temporal and spiritual functions in MATTERS ECCLESIASTICAL; that is, the Laity and Clergy have not only their separate and distinct provinces, but, in many important respects, they unite their agency for the accomplishing of Ecclesiastical acts.

For instance, in supplying a vacant Church, a Lay-Patron selects and presents "his Clerk"—as the Clergyman is technically called—to the Bishop; who thereupon invests him with authority to minister in that Church. So, also, there are certain Lay-officers appointed to every Church—the Churchwardens or Sidesmen—whose duty it is, not only to guard, in conjunction with the Minister, the temporalities of the Church, but also to watch over the due performance of Divine Service, the morals of the parishioners, and the conduct of the Minister; and to report, from time to time, on each of these matters, to the Ecclesiastical Authorities. The duty of these officers is implied in the old appellation, "Sidesmen," or "Synodsmen"—men summoned to attend and give information at Synods and Visitations.

The distinction and co-operation of lay and spiritual functions in the Church of England might be further illustrated in the case of Ecclesiastical Courts, and various relations which arise out of the principle, that the Sovereign is the Supreme Ruler of the Church.

Keeping the foregoing distinction in view, the Church Missionary Society may be regarded as an Institution for discharging the temporal and lay offices necessary for the preaching of the Gospel among the Heathen. It is strictly a Lay Institution: it exercises, as a Society, no spiritual functions whatsoever.

Such being the constitution of the Society in theory—are its proceedings conducted in conformity with this theory, and with the Ecclesiastical principles of the Church of England?

In order to review these proceedings, they may be conveniently arranged under the Four following Heads:

I. THE COLLECTION OF THE HOME REVENUE, and THE DISBURSEMENT OF IT ABROAD.

These acts are altogether within the province of Laymen.

II. THE SELECTING AND EDUCATING CANDIDATES FOR MISSIONARY EMPLOYMENT.

In this department there is no necessary encroachments upon spiritual functions. The Colleges in our Universities are Lay-Corporations, and may, in many cases, be administered and presided over by Laymen.

Yet it may be urged, that in this department there is an approach to the peculiar province of Clergymen; because spiritual persons seem the more proper judges of a Candidate's fitness for Missionary employment: and it is generally admitted, that a Bishop may exercise a control over the education and training of Candidates to be advanced by himself to Holy Orders. Now, in both these particulars the Church Missionary Society has carefully guarded its proceedings. The examination of Missionary Candidates is referred to a Clerical Sub-Committee; and the General Committee consult and act upon the report of this Clerical trial and judgment. In respect of the other point, the education and training of Candidates for Holy Orders, the Church Missionary College at Islington has the sanction and approbation of the Bishop of London; who, in this country, admits to Holy Orders all the Society's Candidates: and his Lordship has repeatedly expressed his satisfaction at the results of the system of instruction, as they have been manifested in his examinations for Holy Orders.

III. The Third general head of the Society's proceedings is, THE SENDING FORTH, TO PARTICULAR STATIONS, THE MISSIONARIES THUS ORDAINED, OR OTHER CLERGYMEN WHO HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY ORDAINED.

Now, here an objection against the Society has been founded on the use of the term "sending forth:"—it sounds like an exercise of Ecclesiastical power. But, Ecclesiastically speaking, the Bishop of London "sends forth" every Missionary ordained by him. The Law of the land has sanctioned the Two Archbishops, and the Bishop of London, in ordaining persons to officiate abroad. The Secretary of the Church Missionary Society requests, by Letter, the Bishop of London to ordain, in conformity with the provisions of the Act of Parliament, such and such persons, whom the Society is willing to support in some Foreign Station. The Bishop, by the imposition of hands, gives them authority to preach the Gospel, with a view to their Foreign location.—In the case of persons already in Holy Orders, who may join the Society, they may be said to go forth by their own voluntary act; but their Letters of Orders, given by a Bishop of our Church, are their mission and commission, Ecclesiastically speaking.

Hence, to call the acts of the Church Missionary Society—in selecting the station, paying the passage-money, and agreeing to provide the Missionary's salary—to call these acts a SENDING FORTH of Preachers, in an Ecclesiastical sense, is to confound names with things, and to lose sight of all true Church principles.

IV. The Fourth general head under which the proceedings of the Church Missionary Society may be arranged, is, THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF MISSIONARIES IN THEIR LABOURS AMONG THE HEATHEN.

Here a distinction must be made between the case of those Foreign Stations which lie within the jurisdiction of a Colonial Bishop, and other stations, which are not so situated, and may therefore be termed Extra-diocesan.

In the first case, the Church Missionary Society has expressly determined, that all its ordained Missionaries shall be submitted for licence to the Bishop of the diocese in which they may be stationed; and that no Missionary shall exercise his spiritual functions in such diocese without a licence. The Society has further recognised the uncontrolled discretion of the Bishop to grant or withhold his licence, and the propriety of specifying in such licence a particular district as the field of labour; so that a Missionary cannot be removed from one district to another without the sanction of the Bishop.

These principles were stated in a Letter from the Society to the Bishop of Calcutta, signed by the Right Honourable the President—December 17, 1835—in a manner so satisfactory to the Bishop, that he embodied them in the four following Rules, expressed for the most part in the words of the Society's Letter: which were, at the Bishop's request, entered upon the minutes of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, as the recognised Rules of their practice:—

"1. The Bishop expresses—by granting or withholding his licence, in which the sphere of the Missionary's labour is mentioned—his approbation or otherwise, of that location.

"2. The Bishop superintends the Missionaries afterward, as the other Clergy, in the discharge of their Ecclesiastical duties.

"3. The Bishop receives from those—the Committee and Secretary—who still stand in the relation of Lay-Patrons to the Missionary, such communications respecting his Ecclesiastical duties as may enable the Bishop to discharge that paternal superintendence to the best advantage.—The Archdeacon of Calcutta or Bombay acting under the Bishop's immediate directions when he happens to be absent.

"4. If the Bishop* or Archdeacon fills, at the request of the Society, the offices of Patron, President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, &c., he receives, further, all such confidential information, on all topics, as the Bishops officially neither could wish nor properly ask [to receive]."

The Bishop also wrote to the Parent Society in the following terms:—"You seem to me to lay down the principle most correctly. . . . This is to me perfectly satisfactory; as I shall instantly inform the Archbishop of Canterbury, to whom I report all the proceedings of the diocese."—9th June 1836.

It will be perceived, that the Missionaries, thus licensed, stand toward the Bishop in the relation rather of Stipendiary Curates, than of Beneficed Clergymen. For a Bishop in England cannot refuse a licence or institution to a benefice, without assigning a reason which will bear investigation before a Court of Common Law; nor can he deprive a Clergyman of his benefice without a judicial process. But no law has provided any such check in the case of Missionaries: the Bishop has the power of withholding a licence, or of withdrawing it, at his sole discretion, without assigning any cause, as in the case of Stipendiary Curates in this country.

If it be asked, What are the checks and safeguards against the undue exercise of this discretionary power of the Bishop?—it may be replied, in the words of the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Parent Society, April 12, 1837:—

"We are not to take for granted, that discretionary power will be abused; but, on the contrary, to provide, by a cheerful and friendly spirit and conduct, against the likelihood of such an occurrence. If the event of arbitrary conduct should arise, or be supposed to arise, the remedies are—public opinion—an appeal to the Archbishop—and the Society's refusing to make other appointments and locations than those unreasonably objected to. Nothing is the least likely—and probability is the guide of life—to arise to impede or cramp the Committee; since they unquestionably and avowedly possess, The choice of men—The appointment of spheres of labour—The temporal power, including pecuniary support."

But though the Bishop's licence is at once the pledge and proof that the Society's Missionaries are under Episcopal superintendence and jurisdiction, and that the spiritual oversight rests altogether with the Bishop; yet the Society may seem, to some persons, to keep up a kind of spiritual jurisdiction and oversight, by requiring accounts from the Missionaries of all their proceedings, and by giving them directions, from time to time, which may bear upon their spiritual duties. But it must be remembered, that the Society stands toward its Missionaries in the relation of Trustees of the fund out of which their salaries are paid. In the case of a Beneficed Clergyman in this country, the Minister is the guardian and possessor of the temporalities of the benefice, because the benefice is an endowment; and the Patron has no further connexion with the Minister whom he has once presented to the Bishop. In our case, the office of Patron is, in a sense, perpetuated by the payment of the salary, and the possession of all the temporalities of the Mission.

* The Three Bishops of India, and the Bishop of Australia, are the Presidents of the Corresponding Committees in their respective dioceses.

This matter has been well explained by the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, May 26, 1837:—"The Missionary Committees," says his Lordship, "have a far greater latitude in India than any Lay-Patrons at home. Upon presenting his Clerk to the Bishop, the Patron at home is functus officio. The Clergyman is removed, on being once instituted and licensed, totally and for ever from the Patron, and is transferred to the superintendency of the Bishop. The Patron has nothing whatever more to do with him. But in India, the Committee is (1) the continued paymaster of the Missionary after he is duly licensed;—for institution and induction there are none. (2) They correspond with him. (3) They supply him with Catechists. (4) They report his chief proceedings home. (5) They propose removals and changes of Station to the Bishop. (6) They exercise, unavoidably, an influence which does not belong to the mere Lay-Patron; and are aiding, in a variety of ways, to the comfortable and honourable discharge of the Missionary's most exalted and most spiritual duties."

It remains to consider the case of those Stations which are Extra-diocesan; i.e. where there is no Colonial Bishop of the Church of England having jurisdiction over them.

In these cases, the Society has endeavoured to procure for such Stations the benefits of the Episcopal office from the nearest Bishop of the Church of England. Application was made by the Committee both to the late and to the present Bishop of Madras, to extend, as far as circumstances would admit, these benefits to the Mission in Travancore; which, as an independent state, not forming a part of the British Dominions, was not included in the diocese of Madras. A similar application was made on behalf of the New-Zealand Mission, to the Bishop of Australia; who at once acceded to the request, and kindly promised to visit New Zealand as soon as his other duties would permit; stating, in a Letter to the Society's representatives at Sydney, "It is highly satisfactory to me, that our friends at home are taking a view of these things which proves them to belong, not only to a MISSIONARY, but also to a CHURCH SOCIETY." (See Annual Report, 1838.)

Such is a General View of the Constitution and Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society.

It is not intended to assert, that errors are not sometimes committed in the application of these principles to matters of detail. It must be remembered that Missionary operations are, alas! new and anomalous in the system of the Church of England; and that it is not always easy to draw a definite line between the two provinces which belong respectively to the Bishop and the Committee. It has been observed by the Bishop of Calcutta—Letter, May 26, 1837: "The boundaries of the power of Committees, as they approach to those of the Bishop, can be ascertained, in many points, only by time and observation." Perplexities have consequently occurred; and, unhappily, misunderstandings have sometimes arisen between the Representatives of the Society abroad and Ecclesiastical Authorities. But these are the principles by which the Home Committee have endeavoured to guide the proceedings of the Society: and they confidently respond to a sentiment expressed by the Bishop of Calcutta—"The principles of our new relations are now fully recognised: the details will soon find their level."—Letter, 9th June 1836.

In reviewing the Ecclesiastical relations of the Church Missionary Society, there are two or three points which it seems very important to notice.

1. Missionary operations, as they are conducted by the Church Missionary Society, though apparently anomalous in the system of the Church of England, are yet in strict conformity with its constitution and principles: they are analogous to many other instances of voluntary exertion for the extension of true religion within the Church, in which Ecclesiastical authority and Lay co-operation unite for the accomplishment of the same end: so that these operations may be regarded as the acts of the Church of England, putting forth its energy for the Conversion of the Heathen World. For it has been shown, that the Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth our Missionaries—that these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church. Even in the few cases in which Lutheran Clergymen are employed, this rule is observed; and all the congregations which are gathered into the fold of Christ are trained up as Members of the Church established in this land.

And here it may be observed, that nothing less than the sanction of a duly-assembled Convocation can more fully identify the acts of any Missionary Society, within the Church of England, with the Church.* Without such sanction, all associations of Churchmen must stand in the same position. Still further, not to notice the present abeyance of Convocations, it may be asserted, that even if the Church were to assemble in her provincial Convocations, and to decree and to regulate Missionary operations, such proceedings could not essentially add to, or alter, those important particulars which, under present circumstances, entitle the operations of the Church Missionary Society to be regarded as Missionary operations of the United Church of England and Ireland.

2. It must be ever borne in mind, that Missionary operations are, in their very nature, temporary and preparative;—that they are to be gradually but eventually superseded by a different order of things, when the Heathen Nations shall have become Christianized. In some cases, as in the West Indies, this change is further advanced than in others. Now, it must be expected, that, in proportion as this change advances, difficulties and perplexities will arise in our Ecclesiastical relations, peculiar to this TRANSITION STATE—from Missionary operations, to that happy consummation when there shall be an endowed and established system of Christian Instruction, and a territorial division of Ministerial labour.

* The American Episcopal Church has, in Convention, thus identified itself with a Missionary Society.

February 1839.

This consummation the Church Missionary Society has ever kept in view, and devoutly desired; and, as far as possible, has prepared for its approach. In an interview with the Bishop of Barbados—April 1835—this point was expressly alluded to; and it was stated by the Committee to his Lordship, "that whenever a district should be brought into the state of an organized Christian community, it should assume entirely the Parochial form, and cease to be occupied as a Missionary Station.—The Bishop entirely acquiesced in this view; and only expressed his anxiety that it should not be so acted upon as prematurely to deprive a district of the Missionary's services."—(Extracts from Committee's Minute.)

3. Lastly, it must be evident, from a review of the whole subject, that our Ecclesiastical relations depend, in many important respects, upon a mutual confidence and good understanding between the Committee and its representatives, and the Ecclesiastical Authorities both at home and abroad. This must be the case, to argue upon no higher grounds, while those relations are governed by Ecclesiastical laws and canons made without reference to Missionary operations, for an Established Church in a Christian country; and where so much is also necessarily left to the discretion of both parties. If we look to our Home operations, the Committee places confidence in the Bishop of London, that he will continue to ordain the Missionary Candidates introduced to his Lordship by the Society, according to the provisions of the Act: and the Lord Bishop of London relies upon the Committee's using every means to select, train, and duly qualify proper Candidates to be thus introduced to him.

So also, in its Foreign operations, the Society places confidence in the Colonial Bishops—as it has been already shown, in a quotation from the Letter of Bishop Wilson—that they will not exercise an unreasonable or arbitrary discretion, in withholding or withdrawing licences from our Missionaries, or in refusing ordination to our Candidates. And the Bishops, by granting licences and ordination to the Missionaries of a voluntary Society, whose income is liable to fluctuations, and whose agents are constantly changing, manifestly place confidence in the Committees, that they will use every endeavour to keep up the Missions once established; and that they will not, on their part, act in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner, or withdraw the salary from a licensed Missionary, without reason sufficient to prove to the licensing Bishop the necessity of the proceedings.

It seems impossible to supersede this conventional understanding—as it may be termed—till Missions are supported by endowments, or till a code of Missionary canons be established by competent authority.

This mutual confidence and good understanding now exists; it may be thankfully asserted, between the Committee of the Society and the Ecclesiastical Authorities of every Colonial Diocese in which Missionaries are labouring. And may He, who is the God, not of confusion, but of peace, and "the great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls," unite together the hearts and hands of those who are labouring in this Holy Cause—"that all and every of these may, in THEIR SEVERAL CALLINGS, serve truly and painfully, to the glory of His name!"

discretion of the Bishop to grant or withhold his licence, and the propriety of specifying in such licence a particular district as the field of labour; so that a Missionary cannot be removed from one district to another without the sanction of the Bishop.

These principles were stated in a Letter from the Society to the Bishop of Calcutta, signed by the Right Honourable the President—December 17, 1835—in a manner so satisfactory to the Bishop, that he embodied them in the four following Rules, expressed for the most part in the words of the Society's Letter: which were, at the Bishop's request, entered upon the minutes of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, as the recognised Rules of their practice:—

The Bishop also wrote to the Parent Society in the following terms:—"You seem to me to lay down the principle most correctly. . . . This is to me perfectly satisfactory; as I shall instantly inform the Archbishop of Canterbury, to whom I report all the proceedings of the diocese."—9th June 1836.

But no law has provided any such check in the case of Missionaries: the Bishop has the power of withholding a licence, or of withdrawing it, at his sole discretion, without assigning any cause, as in the case of Stipendiary Curates in this country.

If it be asked, What are the checks and safeguards against the undue exercise of this discretionary power of the Bishop?—it may be replied, in the words of the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Parent Society, April 12, 1837:—

1. Missionary operations, as they are conducted by the Church Missionary Society, though apparently anomalous in the system of the Church of England, are yet in strict conformity with its constitution and principles: they are analogous to many other instances of voluntary exertion for the extension of true religion within the Church, in which Ecclesiastical authority and Lay co-operation unite for the accomplishment of the same end: so that these operations may be regarded as the acts of the Church of England, putting forth its energy for the Conversion of the Heathen World. For it has been shown, that the Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth our Missionaries—that these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church. Even in the few cases in which Lutheran Clergymen are employed, this rule is observed; and all the congregations which are gathered into the fold of Christ are trained up as Members of the Church established in this land.

And here it may be observed, that nothing less than the sanction of a duly-assembled Convocation can more fully identify the acts of any Missionary Society, within the Church of England, with the Church.* Without such sanction, all associations of Churchmen must stand in the same position. Still further, not to notice the present abeyance of Convocations, it may be asserted, that even if the Church were to assemble in her provincial Convocations, and to decree and to regulate Missionary operations, such proceedings could not essentially add to, or alter, those important particulars which, under present circumstances, entitle the operations of the Church Missionary Society to be regarded as Missionary operations of the United Church of England and Ireland.

2. It must be ever borne in mind, that Missionary operations are, in their very nature, temporary and preparative;—that they are to be gradually but eventually superseded by a different order of things, when the Heathen Nations shall have become Christianized. In some cases, as in the West Indies, this change is further advanced than in others. Now, it must be expected, that, in proportion as this change advances, difficulties and perplexities will arise in our Ecclesiastical relations, peculiar to this TRANSITION STATE—from Missionary operations, to that happy consummation when there shall be an endowed and established system of Christian Instruction, and a territorial division of Ministerial labour.

* The American Episcopal Church has, in Convention, thus identified itself with a Missionary Society.

This consummation the Church Missionary Society has ever kept in view, and devoutly desired; and, as far as possible, has prepared for its approach. In an interview with the Bishop of Barbados—April 1835—this point was expressly alluded to; and it was stated by the Committee to his Lordship, "that whenever a district should be brought into the state of an organized Christian community, it should assume entirely the Parochial form, and cease to be occupied as a Missionary Station.—The Bishop entirely acquiesced in this view; and only expressed his anxiety that it should not be so acted upon as prematurely to deprive a district of the Missionary's services."—(Extracts from Committee's Minute.)

3. Lastly, it must be evident, from a review of the whole subject, that our Ecclesiastical relations depend, in many important respects, upon a mutual confidence and good understanding between the Committee and its representatives, and the Ecclesiastical Authorities both at home and abroad. This must be the case, to argue upon no higher grounds, while those relations are governed by Ecclesiastical laws and canons made without reference to Missionary operations, for an Established Church in a Christian country; and where so much is also necessarily left to the discretion of both parties. If we look to our Home operations, the Committee places confidence in the Bishop of London, that he will continue to ordain the Missionary Candidates introduced to his Lordship by the Society, according to the provisions of the Act: and the Lord Bishop of London relies upon the Committee's using every means to select, train, and duly qualify proper Candidates to be thus introduced to him.

So also, in its Foreign operations, the Society places confidence in the Colonial Bishops—as it has been already shown, in a quotation from the Letter of Bishop Wilson—that they will not exercise an unreasonable or arbitrary discretion, in withholding or withdrawing licences from our Missionaries, or in refusing ordination to our Candidates. And the Bishops, by granting licences and ordination to the Missionaries of a voluntary Society, whose income is liable to fluctuations, and whose agents are constantly changing, manifestly place confidence in the Committees, that they will use every endeavour to keep up the Missions once established; and that they will not, on their part, act in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner, or withdraw the salary from a licensed Missionary, without reason sufficient to prove to the licensing Bishop the necessity of the proceedings.

It seems impossible to supersede this conventional understanding—as it may be termed—till Missions are supported by endowments, or till a code of Missionary canons be established by competent authority.

This mutual confidence and good understanding now exists, it may be thankfully asserted, between the Committee of the Society and the Ecclesiastical Authorities of every Colonial Diocese in which Missionaries are labouring. And may He, who is the God, not of confusion, but of peace, and "the great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls," unite together the hearts and hands of those who are labouring in this Holy Cause—"that all and every of these may, in THEIR SEVERAL CALLINGS, serve truly and painfully, to the glory of His name!"

THIRD RESOLUTION.—Moved by

That the success which, under the Divine Blessing, has attended the Church Missionary Society, in its efforts to make known the Gospel of Christ among the Heathen, is a loud and providential call for increased exertions, for devout thanksgiving to Almighty God, and for continual prayer for a more abundant outpouring of the Holy Spirit, to render the means employed successful.

FOURTH RESOLUTION.—Moved by Seconded by

That the new and enlarged openings for Missionary exertion, in different quarters, demand our best energies to make known the blessed Gospel of Christ to Heathen and Mahomedan Nations.

At the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Exeter Hall, Strand, on Tuesday, May the 1st, 1855, being the Fifty-sixth Anniversary—

The Right Hon. the EARL OF CHICHESTER, President, in the Chair,

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE HAVING BEEN READ BY THE REV. JOHN VENN, M.A., PREBENDARY OF HEREFORD,

On the Motion of the MOST REV. THE LORD BISHOP OF MEATH, V.P., seconded by JOHN FRYER THOMAS, Esq., late Member of Council at Madras, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report, of which an Abstract has now been read, be received, and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of this Meeting be given to the Rev. W. B. Mackenzie for his Sermon before the Society last evening; to His Grace the Vice-Patron; to the Right Hon. the President and the Vice-Presidents; and to all those friends who, during the past year, have exerted themselves in its behalf; and that the following Gentlemen be appointed the Committee, for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies—[See List, p. iv.]

On the Motion of the VERY REV. THE DEAN OF CARLISLE, seconded by the REV. FRANCIS CLOSE, M.A., Incumbent of Cheltenham, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the political aspect of the world, especially in respect of the war into which the allied powers have been forced for the maintenance of a righteous cause, as well as in respect of the civil war raging, in the far East, throughout the vast empire of China, calls upon the church of Christ to work "while it is day," to seize opportunities as they arise, and to mingle amidst the convulsive elements of human affairs the knowledge and grace of the Saviour, for the establishment of His kingdom "in whose days the righteous shall flourish, and abundance of peace so long as the moon endureth."

On the Motion of the VEN. ARCHDEACON HUNTER, Missionary from the North-West-America Mission, seconded by MACLEOD WYLIE, Esq., from Calcutta, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the great impulse given by the late government measures to education in India, encourages the Society to strengthen and enlarge its educational institutions, with the special view of raising up a native ministry, and elevating the social condition of its native converts.

On the Motion of the RIGHT REV. THE LORD BISHOP OF MELBOURNE, seconded by the REV. JOHN CALE MILLER, M.A., Rector of St. Martin's, Birmingham, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That while this Meeting acknowledges, with gratitude to God, that, through the exertions of their friends during a year of great pecuniary pressure, a large amount of benefactions has been raised, and that the contributions from Associations have suffered no serious diminution; yet, viewing the providential calls upon the Society, and its present financial position, they pledge themselves to renewed exertions for increasing the funds, under a sense of the paramount duty of bending their endeavours to raise the finances to the measure of its work, rather than to contract that work to the measure of its finances.

At a Meeting of the Society, held at Exeter Hall, in the Evening of the same Day—

The Most Noble the MARQUESS CHOLMONDELEY, one of the Vice-Presidents, in the Chair,

On the Motion of LIEUT.-COL. ROWLANDSON, seconded by the REV. R. BURROWS, Missionary from New Zealand, and supported by the REV. DR. MARSH, Honorary Canon of Worcester, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting acknowledges, with unfeigned thankfulness to Almighty God, the marked progress which Missionary work has made during the last forty years, as evidenced in the establishment of native churches in various parts of the heathen world, and looks with fervent prayer and earnest hope to such a development of their resources as will place them in the high position of Missionary churches, thus reinforcing us in the field of operation, and extending the preaching of the gospel on a scale of increasing magnitude to the heathen world.

On the Motion of the REV. J. W. WEEKS, Bishop Designate of Sierra Leone, and formerly Missionary of the Society in that Colony, seconded by the REV. SAMUEL HASELL, Missionary from North India, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting rejoices with a holy joy in the remarkable state of preparedness in many idolatrous nations, and especially in India, China, and Western Africa, for the reception of revealed truth; and being alive to the conviction that the gospel standard cannot be planted without a struggle, they recognise the duty to respond manfully, under God's assistance, to the call thus made upon British Christians to come over and help them.

ACTS IX. 6 (PART).

LORD, WHAT WILT THOU HAVE ME TO DO?

SUCH was the inquiry of the most energetic and successful labourer that ever wrought in the Lord's vineyard, on the occasion, never to be forgotten, of his own conversion to God. It will be my duty to endeavour to quicken your zeal in the most momentous and blessed work which can engage your prayers and energies—the sending forth men of faith, and love, and power, to bear the glad tidings of God's salvation to a ruined world, and to open to men the scriptural prospects of immortal glory, “before they go hence, and are no more seen.”

Your prayers, my honoured brethren and fathers, I doubt not, have been, and are now, offered to God on my behalf. Without His gracious Spirit, the ablest human agency is nothing; while the weakness of the instrument “makes perfect” the strength of the Almighty Hand that wields it.

Confiding, then, on His promise and presence, before whom we all now are, I propose to consider from these words,

I. THE PERSON EMPLOYED.

II. THE WORK ASSIGNED.

These, I trust, will suggest some materials for thought, and motives for diligence, suitable for this important occasion.

I. THE PERSON EMPLOYED.

St. Paul's conversion combined external miracles with internal power. Intent on his mission of death, and not far from the appointed scene, at noonday, he and his companions were wrapt in light, sudden, incomprehensible, and appalling. All stood motionless with wonder, or fell to the ground in fright. To them, it was but a scene of terror which soon died away—to him, it was the grand turning-point of his existence: they saw the light—he beheld the Lord Jesus: they heard a sound—upon his ears fell words of startling rebuke and condemning expostulation—“Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?”

It was no trance, like St. Peter's at Joppa—no vision, such as appeared to St. Paul at Troas; but, with his own eyes, he beheld the Lord Jesus, as palpably as the other apostles before His ascension. He entered Damascus, not a persecutor, "exceeding mad," but led by the hand, blind, trembling, astonished.

Left to himself, in a dark and solitary lodging—for the Jews would not, and the Christians dare not, visit him—fasting and praying, the Spirit of God visited his soul, and convinced him of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment: of sin, that he had not believed in Jesus; of righteousness, that that Jesus, to whose death he heartily consented, was proved to be none other than the predicted Saviour of the world, now exalted to the highest heaven, Lord of all; of judgment, that Satan's kingdom, which he had striven with all his might to uphold, was an usurpation doomed to fall.

Three days he thus passed, big with portentous results, affecting himself, the Church, the world, which will continue while eternity itself endures. His proud spirit was broken down to the humility of a penitent, and the gentleness of a child. He might say, what a modern infidel wrote concerning himself when converted to God,

"The proudest heart that ever beat,
Hath been subdued in me!
The wildest will that ever rose
To scorn Thy cause, and aid Thy foes,
Is quelled, my God, by Thee."

But Saul obtains peace—lasting, filial, sin-forgiven peace with God, through the blood of that same Jesus, whose Name he had striven to erase from the earth. He is amazed at the incredible mercy of God, which could reach down to a sinner like him. He sees himself, "a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and injurious," snatched from the brink of perdition—delivered from guilt, within a hair's-breadth of being unpardonable—plucked, by almighty grace, as a brand—a burnt, scarred brand—from the flame itself, where God might have too justly left him, to wilful sin, and to merited perdition.

From that moment St. Paul looked upon himself as a monument of the grace, mercy, and power of God—"a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on Him to life everlasting." Deep convictions of his own nothingness, and the abounding goodness of God—abasing experiences of the exceeding sinfulness of his own heart and life, combined with the unfaltering assurance, by the witness of the Spirit, that, being now justified by faith, he has peace with God. He thence became the most contrite and confiding, the most loving and laborious, of the servants of Jesus Christ. His grateful adorations for God's distinguishing grace, in calling him, justifying him, sanctifying him, preserving him, never ceased. Language failed him to give full utterance to his heart, throbbing with thankfulness and love to his divine Master, who had saved him by His grace. He looked within, and could not help exclaiming, "By the grace of God I am what I am." He looked backward, and could say without a murmur, "I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ." He looked forward, and had but one desire, "to depart, and to be with Christ."

Here, then, we see the sort of agent which God's Spirit forms for Himself. He imparts the rich experience of God's unspeakable mercy, issuing in glad self-consecration to His service, which inquires first, Lord, what wilt Thou have me to be?—and then—"Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" Without this living experience of the power of God in his own salvation, a man will tell but a tame story to others. Oh, the energy with which the early Christians could say, "We believe, and therefore speak; knowing that He which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus." These are the men whom God prepares and honours; men of apostolic stamp; men like the Reformers of our beloved Church; men like the venerable Fathers of the Church Missionary Society; men of no faltering faith or stammering lip; but men who knew, for themselves, whom they believed, and left the footprints of their faith and zeal upon the character of the world.

God has no children without graces—so He has none without gifts. All have not ten talents, nor five, nor even two; but all have at least one. It may be only like that of the poor widow on a stormy shore, who kept a lamp burning in her cottage window to warn others of danger: she had her one talent, but she used it well. And you have yours. It is false humility in any Christian to say, "I can do nothing." A Christian without influence cannot exist. A light must shine. Salt must season. Lazarus had no special gifts; he was neither a teacher nor preacher; and yet his very Christianity was his talent—a talent used with such irresistible fidelity, that the chief priests consulted to put him to death, because "by reason of him many believed on Jesus." There is a vast mine of Christian energy—latent, unknown—embedded in this country, which, like modern gold-fields, has long waited to be explored. Taking the estimated millions of Sabbath-day worshippers as some index to the amount of spiritual religion in the country—making all allowances for tares among the wheat—there must be myriads of persons, soundly converted to God, to whom the Spirit has given ability for being really useful in the work of teaching and evangelizing others. How few the labourers! How many are "hearers only, not doers!" In many of our great Societies, both as managers and contributors, the same names occur over and over again. Probably more would co-operate, if we set them their work. It is said of king Saul, "When he saw any strong man, or any valiant man, he took him unto him." Napoleon Buonaparte used to do the same, and thus found himself surrounded with able agents. The demands of the age require us to keep our eyes upon the people, whence we may replenish the Lord's army with many an agent, "valiant for the truth," whether as laymen to fight the battles of our Protestant Christianity at home, or as Missionaries to proclaim the salvation of God to the heathen world.

II. THE WORK ASSIGNED.

Selfish, slothful loiterers have no place in the Church of Christ. There, at least, "no man liveth to himself."

The Lord told St. Paul at the first, "I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee; delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee, to open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in me." (Acts xxvi. 16)

He felt that the salvation of men was thenceforth to be the great business of his life. He understood from the first his Divine commission to preach, and pray, to spend and be spent, in bringing others to know Christ Jesus. This he tells the Galatians—"It pleased God, who separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by His grace, to reveal His Son in me, that I might preach Him among the heathen." (i. 15, 16.) And it was so. To convert sinners to Christ was the master purpose of his life. In Judea, in Asia Minor, in Macedonia, in Greece, in Rome, and the furthest extremities of the west, did he continue, in season, out of season—on land, on sea—in public in private—in prisons, in courts of justice, in the palaces of kings—to blaspheming Jews, to scornful Greeks—wherever he found a human being, bond or free, wise or unwise—he knew that he had good tidings of God's mercy to tell him. Thus he lived and laboured—doing his appointed work, until, the time of his departure at hand, he shed his blood, the vanguard of "the noble army of martyrs," on Roman ground.

But I need not stop to show that the Missionary principle is not peculiar to St. Paul, but lies deep in the bosom of every real servant of the Lord. Conversion, evangelization, are associated terms: the one brings in the other. A converted man must labour for others: to labour successfully, a man must be converted. David, after imploring God to re-establish his own soul in His forgiving mercy, added, "then will I teach transgressors Thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto Thee." The diffusive nature of Christianity itself—the consentient voice of Scripture—the example of the Lord Jesus—the uniform convictions and lives of His real followers—the condition of the world, and its relationship to the church—the sharp reproofs for slothfulness—and the bright distinction that hereafter awaits them who "turn many to righteousness"—all concur in establishing the great principle, that the Church is the appointed teacher and evangelist of the world. Not meaning, by that much-vexed term, any privileged or exclusive class, but the true company of Christ's faithful people; including in the Church, every soul that knows the grace of God in truth—that was once dead in sin, but is now alive to God—once of the world and without Christ, now in the world, but delivered from its condemnation, and kept from its evil—the "called, and chosen, and faithful"—these are the Church, which the Lord has appointed to be the teacher and evangelist of the world; and "every member of the same, in his vocation and ministry," must be brought to feel his own solemn obligation, and, in some way or other, to contribute his own personal co-operation, inquiring, in the self-consecrating spirit of St. Paul, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?"

That man mistakes the condition of the world, and misinterprets the signs of the times, who is not solemnized, ashamed, roused, by seeing how much there is to be done?

Glance at home. In what condition are the people in our great cities, our unwieldy manufacturing districts, our swollen suburban parishes? One hardly knows how to define the contradictory features in the physical, social, spiritual condition of our country. We are the most Sabbath-observing nation in the world, yet five millions of our countrymen spend every Sabbath-day in undissembled profanation. We suppress Sunday-trading by law, and yet, each Lord's-day, there is as much traffic going on in some parts of London, as in Constantinople, or Rome, or Paris. We are the great bulwark of Protestantism, because we believe it to be the salvation of God, and the strength and glory of the nation, yet do we clasp Popery to our bosom, and fix upon its brow the broad seal of our national approbation. We know that "righteousness ex-alteth a nation," and yet how little is done, year by year, that "truth and justice, religion and piety, may be established among us," and still less is done for the religion of our countrymen abroad! We are a strange combination. As a people, we are richer and we are poorer—more luxurious and more famished—more enlightened and more ignorant—more moral and more depraved—more blessed and more destitute of blessing—than any other people within the sphere of modern civilization. When we think that more than one-fourth of our population are habitually absent from the public worship of God—that a vast portion of the children belong to no schools—when we think of the habits—religious, social, political—of large masses of our working men, hitherto unapproached, and unapproachable except by the agents of infidelity, or abettors to vice—with what intense solicitude ought the bosoms of Christian patriots to yearn, as they ponder this great inquiry—"Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do!"

But look abroad, at the work to be done there. How shall we attempt to describe it? Nations teeming with men, made by the same Creator, and of the same blood with ourselves; continents of immeasurable extent, peopled with beings, intelligent, immortal, awaiting the judgment of the great day, just as we are—millions of them, hundreds of millions: they are born, they flourish, they expire; and yet, to this hour, they have never known why they live, or what must become of them when life is ended. "Good God! and must these people die?" exclaimed the holy Swartz, surveying the idolaters of India: "must they all give a strict account of their lives? must they all appear before the tribunal of Jesus, the Mediator and Judge? How little do they mind their end, and the consequences of their lives!"*

I will not stop to show how heathen live. Recent descriptions add nothing to St. Paul's dark portraiture in the first chapter of Romans. Since then they have become no better: they could not grow worse. St. Paul beheld them given over to vile affections—our Missionaries tell us, with tears, how reprobate they are now. The apostle was ashamed to speak of their "abominable idolatries"—our Missionaries dare not lift the veil, to disclose their temples to the public eye. They were then "without God, and without hope in the world"—and now, they live to be miserable, and die to be lost. The temples of Apis and of Moloch, of Jupiter and Diana, are seen no more; but Brahma, Siva, and Vishnu, usurp their place, and perpetuate their abominations.

* Wylie's "Bengal as a Field of Missions," p. 24. W. H. Dalton, Cockspur Street.

Here is the sphere. What, then, is the work to be done? To civilize them is not our work. To institute juster governments, and teach the arts of life; to establish secular schools, and introduce European literature; to construct bridges and railroads, and commercialize the resources of the country—this is not our work; though indirectly this invariably follows from it, as statesmen now acknowledge. To baptize native heathen, and leave them still heathen in practice, but Christian in name, is not our work. That is done by the Church of Rome.

The very first sentence which the Church Missionary Society ever put forth to the world, stated, in no obscure terms, what our work is—"Of all the blessings which God has bestowed upon mankind, the gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ is the greatest. It is the sovereign remedy for all the evils of life, and the source of the most substantial and durable benefits It not only meliorates the state of man in society: it saves his soul. It cancels his guilt, reconciles him to God, raises him from death to life, makes him an heir of the kingdom of heaven, and crowns him with glory and immortality."

The work before us is, to proclaim a message to every creature—a message of God the Father's eternal love—of God the Son's atoning death—of God the Spirit's quickening and sanctifying grace: a message so plain, that none can mistake; so imperative, that none can neglect; so pressing, that none can delay, but at the certain peril of his own soul: a message, to be delivered with a heart kindling with compassion, and with direct, personal application, of which St. Paul sets the example, when he says, "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God."

It is only about half a century ago, that, after the sleep of ages, the Christian Church awoke, in earnest, to fulfil the work which the Lord appointed her. The first Mission labourers went out in the spirit of the father of the faithful, to traverse an unknown country, and pioneer the way. From the perils of pestilential climate, or the ruthlessness of savage men, many an honoured name is already recorded among the Church's losses. "Still, we are not to be discouraged," said Mr. Bickersteth to the Committee on his visit to Africa in 1816, "if, in storming this last great fortress of Satan, entrenched as it is by its numerous languages, its climate, superstition, ignorance, and idolatry, many fall." The graveyard at Kissey bears testimony to the havoc of the African climate, and the enduring faithfulness of Christian labourers, who "counted not their lives dear unto them, so that they might finish their course with joy."

After the earth had so lately received the remains of Haastrup and Clemens, and, as we are apt to think, the name of Paley was added prematurely, little did we expect that its first bishop, just in the freshness of his labour, and receiving the affectionate welcome of his people, would follow them to the grave so soon. Little did he think that he was so soon to verify the truth which, in his Ordination Sermon, he urged as peculiarly illustrating the spirit of an African ministry; a truth which, alas! now may fitly be inscribed upon his tomb—"So then death worketh in us, but life in you."

And if this were not enough, the tablets at Calcutta, recording the names of Martyn and Corrie—of David Brown and Thomason, and Weitbrecht, remind the world that the early Christianity of India, as well as Africa, has cost the Church some of her noblest energy, some of her heavenliest saints.

But we are not here to hang our harps upon the willows, but rather to blow the trumpet, and gather the people of the Lord to action. Assailants may fall before the walls of the fortress, but the assault goes on.

Glance, for a moment, at the agency at work. At the close of the last European war, twelve Missionaries were all our staff—six for Africa, and six for North and South India. China was not thought of; Ceylon not occupied; Western India untouched; East Africa unknown; the Yoruba country fast bound in misery and iron; New Zealand cannibal; Rupert's Land untrodden by any Christian agent. Now, after forty years, 180 clergymen occupy our 121 stations; catechists 1700, nearly ten times the number of clergymen; and communicants 18,000, about ten times the number of catechists.

Or, take India alone. Glance at the combined amount of Mission labour there. Twenty-two Societies, European and American, are now at work, employing 400 ordained Missionaries, besides forty-eight ordained natives, and 700 native catechists. Three hundred and thirty Christian congregations are already gathered together, including 18,500 Communicants giving satisfactory evidence that they know the interior power of Christianity; and besides these actual converts, 112,000 more are brought under Christian instruction, and form so far the visible Church in India. Ten translations of the whole Bible, and five other versions of the New Testament, feed these inquiring multitudes with the words of life. Twenty-five printing-presses are kept at work, throwing off Christian tracts by thousands, and scattering them among the people. This mighty Missionary apparatus is supported at the cost of 200,000*l.*, of which our Church Missionary Society provides one-fourth.

These figures show that Mission labour is beginning to tell upon the heathen world. Indeed, it must be so. For consider, in India these 1200 Christian labourers, men of faith and prayer, month after month, and year after year, are spending their best energies in teaching and preaching Christ Jesus; not living in ease and seclusion, but mixing themselves among the people, just as the Lord did, and His apostles; conversing with them in streets, in houses, in bazaars, festivals, fairs, ever labouring to evangelize the people; translating the Scriptures into their mother tongue; distributing Bibles and Testaments with their own hands; scattering Christian books and tracts; gathering thousands of their children under varied Christian instruction; thus, employing every means, to bring Christianity before their minds, and press its realities upon their consciences, as men themselves solemnly alive to eternal things. All this amount of energetic labour to make Christ known, cannot go on without producing some indications that it begins to tell upon the heathen world.

Not that the energy of man can do the work of God. Who ever laboured with more determined purpose than the Jesuit Missionaries in India? But where is the fruit? It is man's part to plough the ground, gather the stones, build the tower and the fences; but after all, it is the living seed, the word of God, which yields the harvest. Ask the Missionaries: they will tell you it is the translated Bible that does the work. "Sir," said an old man to a Missionary at Krishnagurh, holding up a much-used copy of St. Matthew, "a few years ago I met with this book: I have read it through and through: the more I read it, the more I am convinced of your religion. I am therefore anxious to obtain a larger book of your religion, and then I will read it through all the day long. Your God shall be my God, and you shall be my teacher."

Yes, it is the word of God, preached and explained with the living voice, and put into the people's hands, that they may read and ponder it for themselves—this is the means which the Holy Spirit makes "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." The Bible, without a preacher, may be disregarded and useless. The preacher, without the Bible, would be a lighthouse without a lamp—a physician without medicine—a soldier without a rifle—a field without seed. The Bible Society supplies the weapons; these Missionary Societies provide the soldiers; but it is the Spirit of God alone that can make their operations mighty to the pulling down the strongholds of heathen superstition and vice.

And, thank God, heathen society already feels the assault. The chain of African slavery is almost broken off, so that Ethiopia may soon stretch out her hands to God. Widows are not now burnt on the funeral pile of their husbands. Female infanticide is denounced by Indian society. Swinging festivals in Lower Bengal are not what they were. The craft of idol-making is less lucrative. Offerings to their temples are less costly. The Brahmins are not held in honour as they were : while the Missionaries are gaining the increasing confidence of the people. Annual festivals betray a declining interest. Many temples are allowed to go to decay. Besides, the female sex is beginning to receive education, whereby woman will occupy her place in Hindu society.

No doubt things are progressing. Compare the work after some interval, and signs of progress are apparent. How immensely expanded will the West-African Mission seem to Mr. Weeks, when he shall return to preside over a diocese on which he spent his unwearied labours as a Missionary ! In India, too, things are not without signs of life. More attention is paid to the claims of Missions : few as they are, yet the number of Christian labourers increases ; new ground is occupied ; large towns are brought more under Christian teaching ; Christian libraries are formed ; languages are studied ; Bible and Tract Societies are multiplied ; heathen superstition is more exposed, and some of its monstrous evils put down by public reprobation ; large masses in some places have too much knowledge to remain Hindus, but, as yet, lack faithfulness to their convictions to become Christians : they are lost, indeed, to idolatry, though they cannot yet be counted among the triumphs of Christianity. Indeed, testimonies are not wanting, both from Missionaries themselves and intelligent Christian laymen—yea, and heathen too—that an under-current of Christian influence is evidently set in : it is checked—thrown back again—but still it moves, and it will move, in fuller and stronger tide, and myriads of wretched idolaters will be borne along thereby into the Church of Christ.

But we may advance further. We may say something (“ Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto Thy name give the praise !”) of the results of Missionary work in actual conversions to God. And it is not for us to say how far that is going on. But we know it is. We have the same proofs of conversion, perhaps more, in our Missions, that we have in our home parishes. Just the fruits which St. Paul found at Thessalonica, Berea, Corinth, the same the Holy Spirit grants to our Missionaries labouring at Tinnevely, at Freetown, or Red River. Just as St. Paul found Timothy and Titus, native converts, so faithful and established as to be wisely entrusted with the office of teaching others, so have our Missionaries approved the fidelity of Devasagayam, Crowther, and Budd, and others, who are now ordained to the ministry of Christ. Just as the apostles had numbers of Christian labourers, male and female, who helped them much in the Lord, so we have associated with us the 1800 lay-teachers, our fellow-workmen in the Gospel. Just as the apostles addressed their converts—"saints scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia"—so might we address our heathen converts, scattered throughout India, Africa, New Zealand, Ceylon, and Rupert's Land, as "elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, through sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ." Just as the apostles reminded their converts what they were in time past, and how they once lived, and what they are now become in Christ—so do we remind our Mission-saints, that they were some time darkness, but now light in the Lord; once walking as other heathen walk, "having the understanding darkened, alienated from the life of God, through ignorance;" "but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God." (1 Cor. vi. 11.) Just as the apostle has grouped together "a cloud of witnesses" (Heb. xi.) who lived, and suffered, and "all died in faith;" so in the "Oriental Christian Biography" the names of nearly one hundred converts are recorded, and others occur continually in our Church Missionary Records, who by faith endured persecution, gave up caste, took joyfully the spoiling of their goods, left father and mother, and houses and lands, for Christ's sake; and these all obtained a good report through faith, and died in the certain hope of a better country, that is, a heavenly.

It takes some time before the seed of Christianity becomes naturalized. Great works for good are almost invariably slow in their growth. God seldom answers our first sanguine hopes. By delays and disappointments He purifies our motives, leads us to compare our plans with Scripture, makes us to profit by our failures and experience, more simply dependent on His grace and blessing, and more earnest and persevering in prayer.

Nearly sixteen years elapsed before Christianity showed signs of life in New Zealand; in Greenland and Tahiti the same number; but that preparatory period being over, "its branches spread, its beauty was as the olive-tree, and its smell as Lebanon." In Sierra Leone, fourteen years of discouragement and death proved the faith of its early labourers. Whereas, in North-West America, after eleven years, Christianity took root downward, and bore fruit upward. In Rarotonga an entire change from heathenism to Christianity took place in the first ten years of Williams' labour. In 1823 he found them all idolaters; in 1834, he left 6000 persons worshipping God. He found them without a written language: he left them reading, in their own tongue, the wonderful works of God. He found them without the knowledge of the Sabbath: when he left them they did "no manner of work" on that holy day. He found them ignorant of Christian worship: in ten years there was not a house in the island where there was not family prayer every morning and every evening.

Of course there are difficulties in the way. Difficulties! Did our blessed Lord—did the apostles—ever lead us to think, for an instant, that there would be no difficulties? Surely we have our difficulties at home. The world, the flesh, and the devil are not conquered in a day in our own hearts, or in our own parishes. Surely, then, to assault and overturn the stronghold of idolatry, which Satan has consolidated with all the powers of darkness for forty centuries, how can it be otherwise than difficult? Listen for a moment to what Mr. Scott stated, fifty-four years ago, in the first sermon which was preached before this Society, about the inevitable difficulties of Missions—"Men may be friendly when you trade with them, and carry them such things as they value; but if an attempt be made in good earnest to turn them from their idolatry, superstition, and wickedness, to the spiritual worship and service of God our Saviour; if their riveted prejudices and criminal practices be fairly though meekly opposed; if their fears be excited, and guilt charged home on the conscience; if works meet for repentance be insisted upon; if the strict precepts and awful sanctions of the divine law, and the offensive doctrines of the gospel, be explained to them; if, in short, Christianity be thoroughly preached, as the apostle preached it, many of them will be exasperated. However they may endure gradual introductory instructions, of which they do not clearly perceive the tendency, when they fully understand what is meant they will consider the preacher as 'exceedingly troubling the city or country, and teaching customs which they must not observe.'" Compare that sagacious prognostication with testimony just given, in a sermon preached at Benares, the heart of Brahminism—"We see things as they are," says William Smith of Benares, "and form some judgment of facts which we daily see. Hence we know well, that while utter carelessness prevails with regard to religion generally, with regard to Christianity, hostility is almost universally manifested. While much knowledge and information have been conveyed to the understanding, by which the people are convinced that Christianity is a very different thing from what they once supposed, and that their own systems cannot for a moment stand in comparison with it, there is not one in a hundred that would not as soon think of being hanged as becoming a Christian. While things are so," he adds, "why should we blink the matter; and, by imagining and representing the state of things as more encouraging (it will become so), slacken the prayers and succours which we so much need, from the head-quarters of the camp of our God?" It must be so. The very nature of the religion of Christ originates its own difficulties. "I am not come to send peace on the earth, but a sword," is as true in India now, as it was in Jerusalem 1800 years ago. We do not go there to prophecy smooth things, but to tell dying men all the counsel of God, by which they must be saved. Worldly men never did like the gospel of the grace of God, and they never will.

But let us not shut our eyes to another difficulty—the immense territories hitherto unvisited by Christian Missionaries. Recent tours in East and West Africa, by Dr. Krapf, Mr. Crowther, and Mr. Townsend, reveal the astounding fact, that the interior, which was all solitude for aught we knew, is densely occupied, with town after town teeming with inhabitants, many of whom evince a readiness to receive Christian teachers. Then, passing to Asia—Persia yet worships the sun; Tartary is not Christian; Arabia venerates the impostor of Mecca; Thibet adores its own sovereign; while in China itself the work of evangelizing its countless millions is in the merest infancy. What a colossal undertaking yet lies before the Christian church!

And even as to India itself, now, almost fifty years since Henry Martyn landed at Calcutta, with all the helps derived from its dependence on the British crown, the labourers are so few, that the mass of the native population have never yet beheld the face of a Christian Missionary. What do we think of half a millicn of people for one pastor? Scotland has 2400 ministers; the county of York has 4000 ministers; but what if Scotland had but three ministers—if Yorkshire had but two—if Wales had but one—if London had but three? And yet this is the pastoral provision for India at this moment. Burdwan, with two other districts, having a population equal to all Lancashire, and London added to it, has yet only four ministers to teach them. Rajputana, a territory with a population equal to that of England and Wales, has no Missionary. Lucknow, and two other cities, each nearly as large as Manchester, have no Missionary. Mr. Wylie mentions sixty-five towns, averaging about the size of Brighton, with no Missionary. He mentions 150 smaller towns, each with less than 5000 inhabitants—to these he adds 5000 other towns, each with more than 1000 inhabitants, and 67,000 smaller towns; with scarcely a Missionary or Catechist in any one of these places. Mr. Fox says he rode 250 miles in a straight line, among villages every three or four miles, and towns in all directions, without a single Missionary. Nay, you may cross from Nasik to Agra—550 miles, without touching a station of our Society. You may go from Bombay to Cochin, 600 miles; from Bombay to Masulipatam, 600 miles; from Masulipatam to Calcutta, 700 miles; and not a Church Missionary station comes in your way. Surely this is an appalling view. Even in India itself, which God has placed under our own government, which yields a net revenue of more than twenty millions per annum, yet we allow these immeasurable districts to remain unvisited by a Christian teacher; and millions of mankind, with souls immortal and precious as our own, to pass into an eternal world for which they are not prepared, and to stand before a holy God of whom they never heard.

Thus, some of our difficulties are from the appalling magnitude of the work, and from the insignificant provision of labourers. Some are from the deep-rooted superstitions of the country; from the iron system of caste; from the ignorance of the people, their levity, and their utter indifference to God, and the soul, and eternity. No wonder that their conscience is silent, and, indeed, their moral convictions dead. How can it be otherwise, when the very deities they worship are the examples of every vice? Would you corrupt a nation to its core? Give it a false religion. No darker picture can be drawn of a community, rotten at the heart, than that which Jeremiah sketched of the Jews, and which now describes the heathen—"The prophets prophecy falsely, and the priests bear rule by their means; and my people love to have it so." What can such a people be, but a mass of putrescent corruption? And there our Missionaries have to live and labour. Difficulties, again, arise from the care of native Christians; their small numbers—their feeble character—their easily besetting sins—their want of zeal and decision. Then again, another class of difficulties—though we hope less—is from the lives of Europeans.

But the difficulties which arise from the enfeebling climate, and the horrid familiarity with sights and sounds of heathen abominations, emitting their pestilential influence upon the Missionary's own soul, are among the greatest. For, of all hardships which oppress, and hinder the progress of the work, the greatest—that which fills the man of God with trembling and terror—is the peril which besets his own soul while living, year after year, in the frightful solitude of a country “wholly given to idolatry.” Yes, the real difficulties of Missionary work are what the world cannot appreciate or understand—internal, spiritual conflicts, which strike at their own faith, and love, and hope. They feel themselves as solitary soldiers in the thickest fight with the legions of the prince of darkness. While they are intent on infusing God’s truth into heathen minds, they feel as if Satan himself stood at their right hand, instilling his falsehoods and unbelief into theirs. Their bitterest lamentations are drawn forth by the inherent evils of their own souls, forced into tropical luxuriance by the deadly atmosphere of doubt and despair, of levity and licentiousness, which they must daily breathe. Who can wonder, if they feel themselves lonely, forsaken, useless? Who can wonder, if, after years of toil like this, disease breaks down their vigour, and compels them to suspend the work? Who can wonder, that they look imploringly for sympathy and prayer at home? Do not add to their burdens, by expecting continual announcements of successful labour. To live the life of faith himself in that land of the shadow of death—not to be paganized himself, while trying to Christianize pagans—to live, and pray, and labour at all as holy witnesses for God, in the very heart and citadel of Satan’s empire—this is a triumph of God’s grace, and ought to be the theme of your adoring gratitude and joy.

Lastly, let the question of the text be personal—“Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?”

1. Begin at the beginning. “Give me thine heart!” is the Lord’s primary demand from every one of you. Oh, the unutterable peril of that man, who lives among the noonday glories of this Christian land, and yet neglects his own salvation! Do not incur the guilt of seeming anxious for others’ souls, while your own heart is not right with God. Wherever your home may be, go this very night, throw yourself upon your knees, and cry, from the depths of your heart—“O God, who savest others, send these saving mercies to this poor heart of mine!” The man who knows whom he has believed, is ready to do the Lord’s work. Faith first, then works. Nothing accelerates the progress, consolidates the energies, ensures the blessing of God upon Mission work, so much as the soul-pervading piety of its agents, managers, and supporters.

2. Make yourself acquainted with what God is doing among the heathen. Knowledge is power: if misdirected, power to do immense harm. But Mission knowledge is power that may turn to great good. The Crimean war has drawn public attention to those regions. We want graphic, bold, compassionate portraiture of heathen people, that shall reach the heart, and show us how they live, and languish, and die. Thus many an one, cold and selfish, will be excited to sympathy and effort. Let the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" be diligently read.

3. Be sure, that the Lord has given you something to do in this great work. All may do something. Most of us may do far more than we have done. You have given your entire self—body, spirit, soul—to the Lord. Your own secret chamber, perhaps, in times of "need, sorrow, sickness, or other adversity," is witness of your self-consecration. The Sacramental Table, where you commemorated the death of Him whose love to you first kindled yours to Him, is witness how sincerely you did "offer and present yourself, your soul and body, to be a reasonable, holy, and lively sacrifice to Him." Well, then, remember those vows. Ask the question, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" Seek just to do the Lord's will day by day—leaving results to Him. Think of St. Paul, from the time of his conversion at Damascus, to the hour when he gave his body to death for the sake of the Lord Jesus—what he did—how he altered the face of society—how many he met on earth, and how many more he met after he left the earth and went to heaven, who will bless God for ever that they ever saw him. So live, and so labour, that men shall glorify God in you. Remember the reproductive power of Christian energy. When a man begins to do good he never knows where it will end. When Andrew brought Peter to Jesus, he little thought what results would follow. When Thomas Scott was brought to feel the force of truth—when the Bishop of Norwich silenced worldly murmurers, and ordained Edward Bickersteth—who foresaw what instruments of blessing those men would prove? When Mr. Simeon suggested to Henry Martyn to go to India, or when Henry Fox responded to a like suggestion made elsewhere, the issues of those events, since developed, though but in part, were hidden. The man who gave a tract to a thoughtful Chinese, little thought that it would work a silent revolution in his bosom, making him the leader of a movement that promises to revolutionize the country, and throw it open to the truth of God, and commerce with the world. Good produces good in indefinite succession. It awakens other energies. It is a beacon-fire, which not only burns, but sets others burning. It gives "seed to the sower," as well as "bread to the eater." Thus, Baxter wrote the "Saint's Everlasting Rest:" its pungent truths awakened the mind of Doddridge to do the Lord's work. Doddridge wrote the "Rise and Progress of Religion," and the Holy Spirit used that book to convert the soul of Wilberforce; and thus that immortal champion was raised up to rescue practical Christianity from the scorn of an unbelieving age, and deliver Africa from the slave-trade. Wilberforce wrote his "Practical View," and that was the means of Legh Richmond's conversion, and all the varied good which he was enabled to originate. Thus good produces good. So it is with the labours of Societies—with the efforts of faithful individuals to do good. You light a beacon which may kindle other fires, which, in future ages, shall guide numberless wanderers into the way of peace.

4. This is the want of our day—Christian energy; labourers, not loiterers. Not men of routine, and forms, and precedents; but men of repentance, and faith, and prayer. The exigencies of this eventful age loudly demand such men, both for Church and State; men of practical understandings, who can discern the times, and what they ought to do; men who fear nothing but to sin against God; who covet nothing but His glory and man's good; who look for nothing but the smiles of God to cheer them here, and the presence of God to irradiate them with His glory hereafter; men of one heart, and that given up to God; of one Book—the Book of God; of one Church—the Church of Christ; men whose wisdom is gathered fresh from the Bible, and whose strength is renewed by much communion with God. We want such men. Our beloved Church, betrayed and forsaken by some, but loved by Christ's chosen flock, because she ever leads them to Him, wants these men. Our country, mighty in the world, and would be mightier still, if she were valiant for God's truth, wants such men. Our various institutions—the claims of our home population—the demands of foreign Missions—the times we live in, marked with the shadows of coming events, which betoken that the Church's redemption draweth nigh—demand such men.

Yes! things wear a critical aspect. Enough is now developed upon the world's dark stage, to force serious reflections even on the careless and worldly. The drying up of the Mahomedan power; the fervid interest excited for the Jews, as if "the time to favour Zion" were come; the cries for Mission labourers for the opulent cities of India, for the newly-discovered towns of Africa, from the Arctic regions, and yet, we trust, to be renewed in the thundering voices of the millions of China, exulting in expected triumph—these cries, which become louder and louder year by year, are the utterance of a deep longing, with which “the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.”

5. These are not common times. Man is confessedly unequal to the age. Events, mighty beyond conception, are at hand, but we have not the men to meet them. It is something, however, to feel our wants. This is God’s usual method. He makes events to shoot ahead of the agents. It is so now. The world looks on, and feels that there is a void. It wants agents that can grapple with difficulties—agents equal to the crisis; but they are not forthcoming. God seems to say, Stand aside: “be still, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth!” Yea, many a heart here responds, “Lord, be Thou exalted in Thine own strength; so will we sing and praise Thy power.”

This is our position now. God is marvellously working now. This restlessness; this consciousness of want; this expectation pervading the community; this decay of Mahomedan power; the impending struggle with Rome, more and more imminent; the thunder-clouds of war gathering intenser blackness around, in spite of all attempts to disperse them; these are ominous prognostications. But they are no hindrances to our work. Nay, they beckon us on. Almost all our Missionary Societies were cradled in the storms of European war. The building of the city of God advances most in troublous times. Our Lord launched His Church in Jerusalem itself, when He knew it would soon be encompassed with armies, and not one stone would remain on another which was not thrown down. Many nations are yet straitly shut up, as Jericho was. Political convulsions are sent forcibly to break down the barriers, and throw the world open to the unrestricted preaching of the salvation of God. It is a great principle in His government of nations, that they must either help His Church forward, or they must fall. “The nation and kingdom that will not serve Thee shall perish; yea, those nations shall be utterly wasted.” Ancient Babylon, Egypt, Greece, pagan Rome, all did their utmost to crush the Church of God, and now lie in ruins, to warn succeeding kingdoms against their downfall.

6. But the sign which cheers us most, is that of the heathen world just awakening from its sleep of forty centuries. The Christian Church is listening to its cry. Compassion for dying souls is kindled. Many a hearer now present is inquiring, I trust, with earnestness, “Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?” India, with its millions, heathen still, replies in your ears, "Come over, and help us." China, expecting her freedom, repeats the call, "Come over, and help us." Africa, trampling on her fetters, now raises her grateful hands on behalf of her teeming population—"Come over, and help us."

And will you refuse their cry? "No," says some one, who had pondered Mission work himself, "I can quench my convictions no more. Here am I, send me." "No," replies another, who has allowed parental affection to control a Christian duty; "my objections are at an end; however dear my children are, this very night I will give them to the Lord to do His work." "But I can neither go myself," responds another, "nor have I any son to give: what can I do?" You can give the means to send others. Give more largely, because the work makes larger demands. Give tens where you only gave units; give hundreds where you only gave tens. Collect from others who will give. Give more in proportion to the Lord's gifts to you. Thus, whether it be your ownself, your sons, your property, your labour, give as your Christian duty, for the Lord hath need of it: give as a privilege, for the Lord can work without it: give gratefully, remembering that the Lord gave Himself for you.

But, above all, continue instant in prayer to Him, who strengthens us in Mission work with the assurance that He has all power in heaven and on earth. He alone can raise up helpers, open doors, remove difficulties, and give success.

7. Soon, the opportunity of giving, labouring, praying, will be over. God can raise up His own instruments as and when He pleases, and—He can take them away. Our first Missionary Bishop in Africa—gone! The first English Clergyman who offered himself as Missionary to the Society, the beloved William Jowett—gone! And many friends of the Society departed in the faith of the gospel this year. They are gone to reap: we yet remain to sow. Sowing must come first, then, in due time, the reaping. When the apostles, with one accord, waited in prayer for the promised Spirit, that was sowing; when 3000 converts were baptized into the Church, that was reaping. When the founders of the Church Missionary Society met together, praying again and again for wisdom and guidance in doing this great work, that was sowing; when we count 18,000 communicants from among the heathen, that is reaping. When Nyländer and Johnson landed on the coast of Africa—when Buchanan, and Brown, and Martyn, began to preach in India—that was sowing; when we think of Abbeokuta, of Tinnevely, and Krishnagurh, that is reaping. When God's own believing people give themselves to His work by much earnest prayer—by unwearied consecration to God—by cheerful contributions—by seeking to glorify Him, by their holy lives, by their unwearied diligence in doing His will, this is sowing; but when at last the angel shall proclaim, “The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of His Christ; and He shall reign for ever and ever,” that will be reaping.

This is our time of sowing. “Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?” Soon the reaping time will come. May you and I be found bearing our grateful testimony to the great Lord of the harvest, that we have finished the work which He has given us to do, assured that “he who goeth forth weeping, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him.” “Blessed,” eternally blessed, “is that servant, whom his Lord when He cometh shall find so doing!”

REPORT,

&c. &c.

THE Committee present their Annual Report, on this occasion, under very different circumstances from those which have characterised each Anniversary of this Society since its year of Jubilee. Hitherto, your Committee have been able to report both an advancing income and a surplus income; and they have made their appeal specially for men. On the present occasion, your Committee have to report a large increase of men, but a deficient income, and a debt, instead of a balance in hand; so that they are not without apprehension of considerable difficulty in meeting the demands of the coming year.

The financial statement shows that the total Income received in the United Kingdom has been 107,343*l.*, whereas the Expenditure has been 116,256*l.*; leaving an excess of expenditure over the income of 8913*l.* Deducting the balance of 3292*l.*, in hand at the beginning of last year, this year commences with a debt of 5621*l.*

LOCAL FUNDS.

Raised and expended in the Missions	£16,917	1	5

It will be seen from this statement that the Local Funds exceed those of last year by no less a sum than 6300*l.* It is a most gratifying fact, that such exertions to enlarge the income should have been made by friends on the spot, especially in North India, who witness the work of the Missionaries. If these local funds be added, as in former years, to the amount raised in Great Britain and Ireland, it would present a grand total of 124,260*l.*—the largest amount ever received. But as the sums raised abroad are all expended in the Missions, and do not come into the Home Treasury, they are not available for the liquidation of the debt upon the Society. This debt of 5621*l.* has been met by a loan from the Capital Fund, which the Committee are pledged to repay: and the experience of the last year, in which the whole capital was employed in meeting the inequalities of the year, has shown the indispensable necessity of keeping up that Fund to its full amount.

The Committee do not hesitate thus to avow before their supporters their financial embarrassment. When the Society had a large balance in hand, in 1852, it was distinctly declared, at that Anniversary, that the balance would not be hoarded, but laid out in the extension of the Missions: and the Society at large, by the acceptance of this announcement at the various Meetings of the Associations, have confirmed this determination. As labourers therefore presented themselves in greater numbers, they were sent into the field. In 1852, the Society had 109 stations—now it has 121. The number of Clergymen was then 162—now it is 189. The establishments have been increased in proportion. So the expenditure has risen: but the income has not kept pace with it. Home expenses have been retrenched to the utmost. The increase of expenditure is wholly abroad; and this, not in expensive buildings, or optional outlays, but in food and raiment for additional Missionaries.

ISLINGTON INSTITUTION.

The number of students who have resided for a longer or a shorter period during the last year in the Institution is 38. The average number in residence has been 27. Five have left for their stations. The following are extracts from the Annual Report of the Principal—

In conformity to discipline, in a willingness to receive admonition, and in readiness for every good work, the pupils have left nothing to desire. Their diligence in study, their brotherly kindness, and their devotional habits, have borne a comparison with those of former years. Still, one and all would concur in the acknowledgment that the standard of personal piety needs to be raised yet higher and higher, and in the fervent and unfeigned aspiration to “forget those things which are behind, and to reach forth unto those things that are before.”

The increasing benefit to the Institution of the Mission to the Irish courts is very apparent. The novelty of the enterprise has worn off, but the delight in it grows stronger and stronger. Besides being a positive blessing to the neighbourhood which constitutes the field of labour, and a direct preparation for their work abroad, it proves a bond of union and a means of edification to the students themselves; provoking a godly emulation, calling forth mutual sympathy and counsel, and suggesting topics of conversation at once interesting and profitable.

HIGHBURY TRAINING COLLEGE.

This College has continued to render important aid to the Society by receiving schoolmasters designed for the Missions, and training them for their future work. Five have been sent from thence to the Missions during the last year.

MISSIONARIES' CHILDREN'S HOME.

This Institution has supplied, as far as possible, the advantage of parental care and liberal education to 80 children of Missionaries labouring in foreign parts, or of those who have died in the work. The expenses of such an Institution are considerable; but the Committee are encouraged by the grateful acknowledgments of many parents, whose minds have been relieved from anxieties which would otherwise have pressed heavily upon them in the midst of their Missionary toil; and by the satisfaction of seeing a home provided for many destitute orphans whose parents, like the great Apostle of the Gentiles, have "not counted their lives dear unto themselves, so that they might finish their course with joy, and the ministry, which they had received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God."

From the foregoing lists it appears that in the course of the last year two Missionaries, and the wives of six, have been removed by death. Fifteen Ordained Missionaries have come home, three of whom returned to their labours within the year. Thirteen Missionaries, five having been clergymen at home, and seven laymen, have been sent out for the first time. Six Missionaries have returned to their Missions. In other words, while fourteen have been withdrawn, most of them only temporarily, from the active force of the Society, twenty-six labourers have entered the field.

ORDINATION OF MISSIONARIES.

Nineteen of the Society's candidates have been admitted to Deacons' Orders during the past year—ten students from the Institution, Islington, one by the Archbishop of Canterbury, and nine by the Bishop of London; two native catechists at Abbeokuta by the Bishop of Sierra Leone; two native catechists by the Bishop of Bombay; one native catechist and one Lutheran clergyman by the Bishop of Calcutta; one catechist by the Bishop of New Zealand; and two catechists by the Bishop of Rupert's Land.

NUMBER OF MISSIONARY LABOURERS.

During the last year the number of Missionary labourers has been diminished by the two deaths already recorded, and by the withdrawal of six Missionaries who had returned home through the failure of health, and other causes, which will prevent their resuming their Missionary work. At the same time, some new labourers have joined the Society abroad, so that the whole number of Ordained Missionaries and European lay teachers is considerably increased, being—

Death of Bishop Vidal.

THE first event in the review of the West-Africa Mission is the death of the able and devoted Dr. Vidal, Bishop of Sierra Leone. At our last Anniversary he declared upon this platform his cordial attachment to the principles of the Society, and his earnest desire to promote its great work. At the close of last year he returned to Africa, proceeding at once to the Society's Yoruba Mission, accompanied by Archdeacon Graf. One short month he spent in the discharge of his episcopal functions. He visited each station, guiding with his counsel and refreshing with his presence all the Missionary labourers. Some notice of his visitation will be given in the account of the Yoruba Mission. He embarked at Lagos to meet his family at Sierra Leone. But his warfare was accomplished. Before the vessel reached its destination, the hand of death had removed him into the presence of the Saviour to whose service he had consecrated his life.

The Committee recorded their sense of the benefits which the church of Christ and the interests of this Society had derived from his brief Episcopate in the following Minute—

The Committee have received the intelligence of the death of Dr. Vidal, Bishop of Sierra Leone, with profound grief. His deep spirituality of mind, his gentleness and Christian humility, united with great decision of character, and uncommon philological attainments, seemed to have marked him out as an instrument of eminent usefulness in the evangelization of Africa. He has been removed, in the inscrutable providence of God, after the brief exercise of his office for eighteen months in his diocese, but not till he had won the respect, confidence, and affection of all classes, and had gained much information respecting the wants of Africa, and had digested various plans for its benefit.

The bishop had evinced his deep interest in Missions as soon as he entered into holy orders, by acquiring the Tamil language, in order that he might correspond with the native Christians in Timnevelly in their own tongue. When a Mission was about to be established in Borneo, he contributed to the undertaking by editing a Malay grammar. He afterwards directed his attention to the languages of East and Central Africa, corresponded on this subject with Dr. Krapf, and published a pamphlet to show the facilities which existed, especially of a philological kind, and consequently the providential calls upon the Church Missionary Society, to undertake the establishment of a chain of Missions between the east and west coasts of Africa.

These labours and interests were pursued while he was acting as the devoted pastor of a rural parish, in which he was singularly beloved and valued.

When the bishopric of Sierra Leone was first proposed to him, he did not hesitate to receive it as a call from God, and he at once prepared to undertake the office. While still bishop designate, he rendered great service to the Rev. S. Crowther, at that time in England, in the preparation of a new edition of his Yoruba Vocabulary, and prefixed a learned and very valuable preface upon the structure of the Yoruba language, and the position which it occupies amongst the other African languages.

He was consecrated on Whit-Sunday 1852, and reached his diocese at the close of that year; but after fourteen months' residence he was compelled to bring home his wife, who was in a state of extreme illness. As soon as her health was sufficiently recovered he left her, to visit the Yoruba Mission alone, and she was to rejoin him upon his return to Sierra Leone. Full accounts have not yet been received of his visitation of the Yoruba Mission, but sufficient notices have been given to show that it was attended with important results, by settling several linguistic questions which had arisen, and by the ordination of two native ministers, and the confirmation of nearly 600 converts in that interesting infant church.

The bishop left Lagos in apparently perfect health, but was attacked with country fever, and died within forty-eight hours of his reaching Sierra Leone. He was interred in the cemetery of Freetown, and added another illustration of the touching remark made in his first ordination sermon, preached soon after his arrival in Sierra Leone, in these terms—“Hitherto the African Mission has been conducted in the midst of danger and of death: trials have been the portion of the African Missionaries above all others. The church-yard at Kisse, with its multiplied memorials of those ‘not lost, but gone before,’ is a silent but eloquent witness to the kind of schooling which the Missionary for Africa requires. Oh, faint not, brethren, in the hour of your coming trials, but look upon them as the training for your future usefulness and eventual success.”

The Committee record their earnest prayer that the great Head of the Church may raise up a successor animated with the like faith and love, and endued with the same graces; and they beg to add the expression of their sincerest condolence with the parents and other relatives of the late bishop, and of their hope that the Lord may support and comfort them under this heavy bereavement.

A successor has been already appointed, of whom the Committee will only say that they recognise the great goodness of the Lord in directing the selection of Mr. Weeks, one of the former Sierra Leone Missionaries of the Society, whose return will be welcomed by a thousand grateful hearts, many of whom, as children in the schools, were taught by him the first rudiments of the faith of Christ; and some of whom, grown in grace, and furnished with every suitable branch of human learning, will now be presented to him, as bishop, for holy orders.

I.—PASTORAL WORK WITHIN THE COLONY.

The statistical returns show a considerable increase in the number of communicants, who now amount to 3354. When it is remembered that these are all registered, and met in frequent classes, and that a very large proportion of the number are under the pastoral superintendence of native ministers and catechists, the Committee are persuaded that there is here good evidence that Christianity has taken root, and shall grow and increase till it become a large tree, and its branches overshadow the land.

In Freetown, the Pademba-Road church has been successively in charge of the Rev. W. Young and the Rev. E. Dicker.

The Society's church in Kissey Road, under the pastoral care of the native clergyman, the Rev. T. Maxwell, exhibits before the people an example of the native pastorate. The congregation contains 305 communicants, who all attend classes held by the minister for their spiritual improvement. The church during the year has been considerably enlarged, chiefly through the contributions of the congregation. After the pecuniary collections had been exhausted, Mr. Maxwell called together a meeting of the people, who cheerfully entered into an engagement to complete the work. One engaged to plaster the whole walls, another to supply an east window, another a south window, another the communion rails and table, another to do the remaining carpentering work without charge, and another to construct, at his own expense, a stone vestry outside the building; while a master builder was engaged closely to superintend the whole work without charge. Mr. Maxwell observes, upon this native effort—

I am confident that this little work has been an awakening means to the liberality of my people. It has brought to the test their sense of duty; and from what I have experienced I am fully convinced, and it is my privilege to state, that, had it been in their power to do more for the cause of religion among themselves, they would gladly have done it. I have spared no pains in endeavouring to bring before them the example of other Christians in this matter; and for their encouragement, have commended those principles on which they carry on helping objects among themselves. I hope it will not be long ere the children of Africa will not need to be taught the duty of consecrating, with willing minds and cheerful hearts, their humble offerings to the sanctuary of the Lord.

The Rev. William Young gives the following account, Sept. 30, 1854, of the village of Kissey, to which he was transferred from Pademba-Road church—

The number of communicants is 439: they are divided into two classes. The candidates for baptism number 213: they are divided into eight classes. The number of candidates for confirmation and the Lord's supper 60, colony-born: they are divided into two classes. The number of those persons (backsliders) who have returned to the fold is 10, and form a class. These 722 persons, less the last 10, are met once a week in their respective classes by myself.

The distinctive character of the people in the district is becoming professedly Christian more and more. Heathenism is decidedly losing ground, but the followers of Mahommedanism, although by no means gaining ground in the district, appear to be defending their position with more watchfulness. I see they have their muezzin diligently calling them to prayer in their seasons, and the morimen coming among them at periods.

It is a source of encouragement to be able to state that we have had instances, during these months past, of decided religious progress of some of the communicants and the candidates for baptism. It also must be stated, where there is so large a number of communicants, and professedly religious inquirers, of different degrees of Christian knowledge and practice, under our ministerial care and instruction, some will, under temptation, fall into sin, and be cast off for a season. Those persons never like to remain long separated from our Society, but return again and confess their offences, and ask for forgiveness, and readmission to their Christian privileges. That affords us an opportunity of searching their character, on the foundation of their own confession of human depravity, and faithfully pointing out to them the guilt and the folly of casting off the service of Jesus Christ, through the love of sin, and the misery of being cast off by Him. We do hope, that, by the Lord's blessing accompanying the prudent exercise of practical church discipline, our people are kept somewhat awake, to watch against the temptations to which they are constantly exposed.

Wilberforce, Regent, and the whole Mountain District, have been placed, in the present paucity of European labourers, under the care of one Missionary—the villages Gloucester, Bathurst, Charlotte, and others, having native catechists residing in them. The Rev. N. Denton, the superintendant, gives a very satisfactory account of their faithful and efficient discharge of their pastoral duties: he writes—

Feb. 2—I have now visited and administered the Lord's supper in all the churches in the district. It is with pleasure I state that I have found the congregations much improved in numbers, in devoutness, and general decorum, which reflects great credit on the native catechists.

Mr. Denton's account of one of the out-stations belonging to Wilberforce presents an interesting specimen of such native pastoral charges.

Nov. 10—I examined a number of candidates from Lumley. I was glad to find them pretty well informed, and to learn from my native helper that their conduct was such as to afford a good hope that they were under the influence of Divine grace. On the following Sunday I went to Lumley for the purpose of baptizing them. This place has not long been occupied by us as a Mission station, and it was the first time I had been there since it had been taken up. I was quite cheered and refreshed by what I saw: there were present in the little country-made church, whose floor was covered with fine white sand, 133 persons, who were very orderly and devout. It was the first time, perhaps, that baptism had been solemnized in that place: the people therefore witnessed the ceremony with interest. Ten persons having been baptized, a very old man, a resident of Lumley, whose head had become quite white, and much bowed down with age, presented himself to be admitted into the church. He had been baptized by Mr. Johnson at Regent, and now he wished to be admitted a member of the church at Lumley. It was a pleasure to address these simple-minded and attentive villagers, in a discourse as simple as I could make it, from the words, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me."

The native catechist, Mr. T. Campbell, gives the following account of one of the people at Regent—

July 10—I visited Maria Hughes, who had been keeping her bed for years. As soon as I entered her house it was announced to her, when she immediately greeted me; after which she observed to me her readiness and pleasure to hear the word of God. In answer to my question, she replied that her sickness began since the time of the Rev. J. W. Weeks, and from that time it went on from bad to worse, till she was laid prostrate on her bed, and obliged to give up all hopes of ever seeing the sun, except when it shone through the crevices of her house to assure her it was now day. So long has she been in this state, that she is of opinion she could no more have the use of her sight, even if she should recover. But, as if unwilling that any should consider her complaining, she began immediately to recount God's goodness to her; at the same time remarking that she willingly and patiently submits to His hand, being well assured that an all-perfect and ever-loving God cannot willingly afflict His beloved people. She said that the Lord has been "making her bed" since her illness, and she has consolations afforded by God's word at command, which she applies to herself always, especially when clouds and darkness are round about her. Surely none could utter those words but who is an Israelite indeed. From her lips escaped no word of complaint nor any expression of repining. After directing her attention to certain passages of Scripture for comfort and encouragement, I prayed with and for her.

The following account of a Missionary meeting held in one of the villages in the Mountain District is given by the resident native catechist—

It is a most delightful thing to witness the peculiar attention our people pay to any discourse relative to Missionary operations abroad, and to hear some of the principal members drawing, in their addresses, a striking contrast between their past and heathenish state, and their present and Christian state. I shall take occasion to give but a brief account of the address of one of our communicants, the overseer of the village—

"My dear Friends—God is very good to all men, especially to us poor blacks. He brought us from slavery, and set us free, and placed us under the sound of the gospel. If any one man has more cause for gratitude than another, I am that man. I will show it.

When a lad of about twelve years, I one morning went to my father's farm, in company with five other boys. While engaged in pulling up yams, we were unfortunately kidnapped, and sold to the Dahomians. After staying with my owner for about three months, he took and sold me to Dada, the chief and tyrant of the land. After being under this savage oppressor for some nine months, I one morning found myself among forty-nine of my fellow-slaves, formed in a row in a large yard, to be slaughtered, simply to gratify the desire of the chief. I was the last individual in order. After beheading all my fellow-victims, the executioner came to me; and when I cried out, with trembling to see death coming upon me, 'Osha daureh!' which is equivalent to, 'God, I leave myself to Thee!' the slayer was asked by the chief to stay a minute. And having fully learnt I was an Aku person, he ordered me to be sold, and not killed. So I was sold, and brought into this land of true liberty; and I stand now in the house of God, to talk of His mercy and goodness to me. I consider myself restored to life, plucked from the jaws of a premature death. If I be not saved in the last day, the fault will be my own."

Mr. Denton has been compelled, by the failure of his health, to return to Europe. A notice in his journal before his departure, though it belongs to the early part of the year 1855, may be, however, given here. It shows the progress and power of the gospel amongst the people—

Feb. 18, 1855—This morning I administered the Lord's supper. The people, knowing that this was probably the last time that I should be present with them on such an occasion, were all anxious to attend. Those who, from their own neglect, had been a long time absent, and others who for a while had been suspended, came and begged that they might be allowed to attend. The number of communicants could not have been less than 400. This is surely a rich reward of Missionary labour at Regent. The scene was truly gratifying, and made a lasting impression on my mind. In the afternoon I preached my farewell sermon, from the words, "And the Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you; to the end He may stablish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all His saints." The church was crowded, and the deepest interest seemed to pervade the whole congregation. After the service the people crowded around me to say "Good bye," and many followed me home. The remainder of that evening, and the whole of the next day, were fully taken up with receiving those who came to take leave, and pour out their good wishes for me, and their regrets at my leaving.

The station of York is in charge of the Rev. C. F. Ehemann. The following retrospect, which we find in his journal under date of Dec. 9, 1853, presents a correct estimate of the progress which has been made at this station—

This day is the seventh anniversary of our first arrival at York. When looking back over the seven years we have now been in this station, much as there is in ourselves to humble ourselves in the sight of God, and manifold as our shortcomings are, and great as our unbelief many a time was, we have abundant cause to rejoice and to praise the name of the Lord for His mercy vouchsafed to us, and the blessings bestowed upon our feeble labours. I well remember the time when, seven years ago, we arrived as strangers among strangers, and how I had to be glad, and was glad, if one or the other, from curiosity, condescended to attend our services. These were times when I was tempted to despise “the day of small things.” When lately administering the Lord’s supper to fifty-five communicants in my new church, I could not but remember how I administered this holy sacrament for the first time in York to two Europeans and Mrs. Ehemann, in our house, under the same roof with the rum-shop; and now I am permitted to administer it to more than half a hundred, and in a proper place of worship; and in a few days a school-house will be opened, which is partly built of the old materials of our grass-house, so that the church will be henceforth only used for divine service. The number of communicants is at present 65, and 23 candidates.

II. EDUCATION.

The number of pupils in the Fourah-Bay Institution has been reduced to 15. In the Report of the first half-year Mr. Jones remarks—

‘The difficulty of getting a supply of students possessed of the requisite qualifications still continues, and calls for increased prayer that the Lord might raise up labourers suited to the work. There is no lack of piety on the one hand, nor of capacity for learning; but there is unhappily a great want of young men in whom the two qualities shall be found combined—the union of godly simplicity and mental ability.

Of the conduct of the students generally I feel constrained to make a most favourable report. They take great interest in all that concerns the institution, and, I trust, are growing in grace, and in qualifications for usefulness.

The Grammar-school is designed to promote the general interests of Christian education in the colony, without exclusive reference to Missionary employment. The institution is self-supporting.

Since the death of the late lamented principal, the Rev. Thomas Peyton, the school has been kept up with much ability and diligence by the native tutor, Mr. James Quaker, under the general superintendence of the Rev. E. Jones, who reports, at the close of the half-year ending March 31, 1854—

At the commencement of the half-year there were sixty-three pupils in connexion with us. This number has been greatly diminished. The fourteen liberated African boys have all been sent away: eight are in the normal school; four in service in Her Majesty’s navy as apprentices; one is engaged at the Mission Press; and one is maintaining himself. The three Gallinas youths, who have been supported by the Colonial Government, had leave in December to visit their friends, and it is uncertain whether they will return. Others have also left, making a total of twenty-six who are no longer connected with us. On the other hand, there have been eight admissions, of which three are from Fernando Po. I am in daily expectation of receiving still further additions from that island. The whole number of students now at the grammar-school is forty-five.

Mr. Quaker's report, September 30th, thus concludes—

The conduct, both moral and spiritual, of the pupils, and their diligence in studies, have, on the whole, been satisfactory, though still far from what I could wish. Their lively interest in Missionary meetings, and readiness in contributing something towards aiding the progress of the gospel in their fathers' lands, I take much pleasure in reporting, have continued.

The Rev. E. Dicker took the superintendence at the close of the year, and reports, Jan. 20, 1855—

I was much gratified by finding the school, containing about 45 pupils, in so high a state of discipline and good order. There was every thing to encourage me to exertion. The pupils appear generally to be making a steady advance in the various branches of knowledge they are pursuing. Here I must do Mr. Quaker the justice to say that he is very devoted to his duties, into which he throws himself with great zeal and diligence.

The Female Institution—A due proportion must be sustained in the intellectual development of the sexes; otherwise, if education progress in one, while it remains neglected in the other, a disparity arises which must be prejudicial to the future happiness and welfare of the young people, and the general improvement of the colony. Since the return of Miss Sass to Europe, for the recovery of her health, the institution has been under the superintendence of the Rev. E. and Mrs. Dicker, assisted by Miss Wilkinson. Mr. Dicker reports, March 30, 1854—

During the past year the institution has progressed in point of numbers, in both day-scholars and boarders. At the end of the March quarter there were eleven day-scholars and fourteen boarders, one from Fernando Po; to which were added, a few days after, two others from the same place. The pupils from Fernando Po have been quite an encouraging testimony to the importance of maintaining a really good school for females in the colony of Sierra Leone. These pupils are the fruits of Mr. Jones's visit down the coast.

The bishop and Mrs. Vidal have several times visited the institution during school hours, questioned the pupils, and frequently addressed them in an affectionate manner, much to the encouragement of the children, who were always pleased at seeing them enter the school-room. In November last four foundation-pupils were confirmed, after a long period of preparation. It was a season of much promise.

Model and Training School—A new and commodious school-house, capable of containing 400 children, has been erected at Kiskey, under the superintendence of Mr. Hammond, for a model industrial school, and for training masters. It was opened on the 20th of April 1854, and the liberated African boys were transferred to this establishment from Gloucester. In September Mr. Hammond reports that there were 175 liberated African boys boarded in the school, for whom the government pays, and 24 colony-born boys as day-scholars, paying twopence a-week. Many of the former class have been lately admitted from captured slavers, and they have to be instructed both in the English language and in the Christian religion.

A farm is attached to the school, in which casava, cotton-plants, coffee-trees, arrow-root, &c., are cultivated to a considerable extent. A carpenter and a tailor are attached to the school, who give instruction to the boys. The whole school are employed in industrial employments from half-past six to half-past eight in the morning, and again from three to five in the evening. Their in-door studies occupy them from ten till three.

The liberated-African girls'-school at Charlotte is under the care of Miss Hehlen.

Transfer of the elementary schools to local management and self-support.

The Society having for nearly fifty years nurtured the church of Sierra Leone, from its infancy till it now exhibits so many proofs of stability and progress, it was felt by the Committee that the time had arrived when it ought to be placed upon a more independent and self-supporting system. The appointment of a bishop over the church gives additional facilities for such a transition. The converts had, indeed, been trained from the first to contribute liberally, by weekly collections, to the funds of the Society, and by payments for schooling, which amounted to many hundred pounds a year; but the Society had the whole responsibility and payment of the schoolmasters, at the cost of 800*l.* per annum. It was therefore determined last year that the contributions from the native converts should be, in the first instance, appropriated to the self-support of their own institutions, beginning with the vernacular schools; and that, while the Society should still continue the whole support of the superior educational establishments, viz. Fourah-Bay institution, the grammar-school, the model and training-school, and the female institution, the grant for the elementary and village schools should be diminished by one-fifth each year, till it ceased.

The past year has been the critical period in which this transition from dependence on the Society to self-support and self-government was to take place, and the Committee have reason to thank God for its complete success.

The first step was for the Missionaries to institute an examination of all the schoolmasters, with a view to ascertain their relative qualifications, and consequently their suitability for particular stations, as their income was hereafter to depend upon their power of keeping up a good school. The prospect of this examination gave a great impulse to self-improvement, and only two of the number declined to undergo the test. The next step was to assemble the people of the congregations together, and to propose the plan to them. A few extracts from the journals will show how this measure was effected. All who take a just view of the establishment and progress of a rising native church will appreciate the interest and importance of such statements.

The Rev. W. Young thus reports the measures which he adopted in the village of Kissey—

Our School Committee is elected from the different tribes in the town, and they are using their efforts among their countrymen to make the school plan known, and to procure a reserved fund. They invited the elders of the town, in my name, to meet them in the church on the 8th ult., when about sixty persons came, and were addressed by four members of the Committee. These four men bore testimony to the unwearied charity of the Church Missionary Society towards the people of their country for about fifty years, and also to the great benefit, in a physical and in a moral point of view, which they derived from the powerful and peaceful government of Great Britain. It appeared to myself that there was in the people a readiness to come to the meeting to hear and understand the school plan; and also in them a readiness to will and to do what they were told was required of them, viz. to support the education of their own children cheerfully, and independent of the help of the Church Missionary Society.

The Rev. N. Denton records in his journal similar measures.

Aug. 30—I have been much occupied during the past month in selecting and organizing Parochial Committees, for the purpose of carrying on and supporting the day-schools upon the new system, to be introduced on the first of October. The people looked at the matter at first with considerable amazement. Some of them strongly—rather obstinately—maintained that they were unable to do any thing, supposing thereby to escape from a duty they saw coming upon them, but which they had evidently no desire to undertake. This, however, was the exception only, and not the rule; for in most places the people began at once to make subscriptions among themselves, and to devise plans by which to obtain the means of keeping up their schools.

The Rev. T. Maxwell, the native minister of the Kisey-road congregation, gives the following account—

According to instructions of the Finance Committee, a Parochial Committee is already formed in this station, consisting of ten persons, exclusive of myself. The members were chosen in the presence of nearly all the male communicants. It was with thankfulness that the congregation accepted the solemn charge now made over to them by the Church Missionary Society. A resolution was unanimously passed by them on the occasion, thanking the Society for the zealous and unwearied care they have for many years past bestowed on the children of this colony, and expressing an humble hope that they might be faithful to their new and solemn charge.

Mr. J. C. Taylor, a native catechist situated at Benguema, on the outskirts of the colony, thus describes more at length the difficulties which he apprehended, and the unexpected success of the measure—

The self-supporting system which has been long foretold, though slow in its movements, yet was sure to come. I kept a copy of that valuable letter from Salisbury Square, dated January 10, 1846, and have shown it to many schoolmasters to prepare themselves for it. I have also endeavoured to impress the seventeenth and eighteenth clauses, which read as follows—"But in the mean time the Committee wish to send you all a message, which they desire that you should carefully consider in your minds, viz. that the Church Missionary Society must one day cease to give salaries to native teachers in the colony; and that the native teachers who live in the colony must be supported by their country-people, in order that the funds of the Society may support Missionaries and native teachers among the heathen and Mahomedans beyond the colony. When you consider this, the Committee hope you will not inquire, How much can native teachers obtain from the Society? but, How little can they do with? What must they be content with when they receive their support from their countrymen?"

I have passed many restless nights to unfold this system to my church members. The more I think of it, the more I shudder to broach it out: but I must be faithful to lend my help in bringing forward this new era. What lies heavily on my mind is, how the result would be.

August 3—To-day I have made known the intention of the Parent Committee to my church members, of the new system which will soon be in operation. At first they thought it would be hard if they were left to themselves in managing their church affairs. After some explanations in reference to the important subject, I remarked, that the double amount of privileges they have received under the fostering care of the Committee, in the supplies of Missionaries, the valuable lives which have fallen victims to our climate, and the pecuniary aid during these interlapsed fifty years, were sufficient to induce as well as to stimulate them to exert themselves, and to escape the curse due to Meroz, to come forward and support nobly a cause of vital importance. The interesting results I have to record are as follows—Two elderly men stood up, with grateful feelings heaping up blessings upon the Committee thus—“We thank God and the Committee for what they have done for us: truly they are God’s people, and seek the world’s peace. They do not know us; they never saw us in the flesh; and yet have done so much for us already, whereof we are glad. Tell them that we send our deep gratitude to them, and shall try, by God’s grace, for ourselves. We have no more to say. If we begin to talk all, it will never be done, and nobody can be tired to speak of the Church Missionary Society for the good they have done.” Would to God that the teeming population of this colony might use their talents in this new era! What a picture would Sierra Leone be! She will, ere long, brave the reproaches which were once cast on her. Instead of cannibalism, spiritual fraternity; instead of idolatry, a nursing mother, whence the heralds of salvation shall be sent to make inroads to the territories of Satan, quenching the sparks of intestine wars, until Africa shall become what she ought to be in the eyes of the Christian world, “the joy of the whole earth.” Hallelujah!

III. EFFORTS TO EXTEND CHRISTIANITY BEYOND THE COLONY.

The Magbeli station, situated sixty miles from Freetown, is now regarded as the head-quarters of the Timneh Mission: Port Lokkoh is retained as an out-station, under a native teacher. During the first part of the year the Rev. D. H. Schmid superintended this Mission, and latterly the Rev. C. F. Schlenker; but as each had also a district within the colony under their charge, they were only able to pay occasional visits to Magbeli, and to spend a few weeks at the place. A resident Missionary has since been placed there.

The following extract from the journal of Mr. Schmid describes a Sunday spent at Magbeli—

Jan. 22—In the morning about fifty hearers were present, to whom I spoke from Isaiah. lv. 4. They were very silent, and listened to the word eagerly. After the second lesson I baptized two infants and one adult, a woman who has joined the class of candidates from the beginning. She leads a steady life, and appears to be deeply concerned about the salvation of her soul. She is a liberated African, and has, during a residence of twenty years in this river, obtained much influence among the trading population. No Timneh adult had time to attend the services, since they were engaged in their dark and abominable Bundu fashion. I am much afraid that, in respect to them, the work here is as difficult and unpromising as it is at Port Lokkoh. And it is my opinion, that unless a Missionary, who is master of the language, is placed here, one able to go daily from house to house with the gospel message, compelling the people to come in, we shall see very little fruit of our labour among the adult population. For the present we may be thankful for the little but standing congregation of liberated Africans, as well as for the day-school of about twenty children. Who may tell whether this "day of small things" may not prove a seed for a large harvest?

Linguistic Labours.

The Timneh language has been cultivated to a considerable extent. The people read with facility the Primer, Catechism, and Bible stories, printed in the Roman character. The materials have been collected for a grammar, and a Timneh and English dictionary, also a few fables current in the country, and the traditions of the Timnehs about the creation of the world and of man, the entrance of death into the world, and the first kings of the country. The Timneh language is spoken not only in the Timneh country, but also by many persons in the neighbouring countries—the Bullom, the Susu, and the Limba country.

Mr. Reichardt has commenced the study of the Fula language.

During the past year there has been published Mr. Koelle's "Polyglotta Africana," being a comparative vocabulary of nearly 300 words and phrases in more than 100 distinct African languages, also a grammar of the Bornu or Kanuri language*, a volume of African native literature, being proverbs, fables, tales, and historical fragments, in the Kanuri or Bornu language, together with outlines of a grammar of the Vei language. These works add largely to our knowledge of the people and customs, as well as of the languages, of western and central Africa, and so far lead the way for the accomplishment of the great object of the Society's labours, the evangelization of Africa.

The following simple but touching testimony, from the pen of a native catechist, to the labours of the late bishop for the benefit of distant tribes may be fitly introduced under this head. Mr. J. C. Taylor writes—

Shortly after the first arrival of the late lamented prelate into the colony, I received an invitation from him. He requested me to bring whatever translations I had made in the Ibo language. I took with me the translation of Dr. Watts's first Catechism, and a vocabulary which I have nearly completed. He then gave me many valuable instructions in the phonetic system. We had arranged the Catechism under that system, which took us a week's labour. It was completed and delivered: the Lord's Prayer is attached to it. He gave me many encouragements. Though I feel my weakness and incapability for the task, yet I trust the Lord will help me to reduce it. He also asked me to collect, as much as I can, proverbial and idiomatic sayings in that language. "Press the work of translation forward" was the affectionate address. As my mind begins to be captivated in the arduous but delightful work, relying on the sound experience of one who would aid me in the performance of it, oh, the overwhelming news soon damp my joys. Ah, little did we think that our mutual conference would so soon be marred and dissolved. It must be so, to remind us to look to the rock whence we are hewn, and to cease from trusting in man, whose breath is in his nostrils. We have seen and learnt a good deal from his example, to take a deeper interest in the salvation of souls. His desire for the salvation of other tribes in Africa—of a world—were intense. This was not the evanescent display of excited feeling, but the offspring of real love. It deepened and widened in him. He drank deep at the well-stream of life, and his full soul overflowed with love to all around him, and there was no department of Christian usefulness into which he did not enter with the full feelings of a heart glowing with love to God. His ~~zeal~~ in this glorious work was untiring. Distance seemed only to increase his diligence, and to fan the flame of Missionary ardour in his devoted spirit. We can apply to him, without any presumption, those scriptural words, "Enoch walked with God, and God took him."*

General Remarks on the Yoruba Mission.

THE accounts of the Yoruba Mission have been, for the last year, of a very chequered character. They have contained a good report of converts increasing in number, and standing fast in the Lord; yet they have also recounted, as in the Apostolic churches of old, "trouble on every side; without fightings, within fears." Our teachers have been driven by civil war from Badagry, the first Missionary station in the Yoruba country. Lagos has been constantly menaced by the subtle and powerful chief, Kosoko, the expelled usurper of the throne. Dahomey has continued to threaten Abbeokuta. And Ibadan is at war with the neighbouring tribes. In addition to all these external trials, death has thinned the ranks of our Missionaries.

Under the peculiar circumstances of the country, the Missionaries are too often unavoidably involved in the civil and political affairs of the natives, though always on the side of peace, or to counteract the machinations of the slave-trader. Much work has also necessarily fallen upon them, in proportion as the minds of the native converts become enlightened and expanded, towards promoting their social improvement, and directing their attention to the natural resources of their country. In the hope of relieving their Missionaries as far as possible from these temporal and political relations, the Parent Committee have engaged the services of a Lay Agent for the Mission. Dr. Irving, R.N., having already acquired great experience by serving for nine years in the squadron on the west coast, and having taken a Christian interest in the Missions of the Society, and visited Abbeokuta in company with Captain Foote, R.N., in 1852, offered himself for such an office; and, the Admiralty having consented to his temporary employment by the Society, proceeded to Africa at the beginning of last year. Since his arrival he has frequently visited each station of the Society, has gained the confidence of the native chiefs, and has collected much valuable information respecting the country and its resources. At the same time he acts as medical adviser to the Mission, and thereby greatly promotes the health and comfort of the labourers.*

The Rev. Isaac Smith and Mrs. Smith also rejoined the Mission at the commencement of the last year, and proceeded at once to their old station in Abbeokuta. Thus, during the last year the four principal stations of the Society—Lagos, Abbeokuta, Ibadan, and Ijaye—have been occupied by European Missionaries, with native assistants, and several out-stations have been efficiently superintended.

In November last Bishop Vidal returned to Africa after a visit to England on account of the health of his wife, and proceeded at once by the steamer to Lagos, to hold a visitation of the Yoruba Mission, accompanied by Archdeacon Graf from Sierra Leone. The time was very short, but the bishop was able to visit each of the stations; to hold confirmations at Lagos, Abbeokuta, and Ibadan; to admit two natives, Messrs. King and Macaulay, to deacons' orders, and to confer priests' orders on three of the European Missionaries. He had purposed to draw up for the Society a full account of his visit during the leisure which the voyage would afford; but illness too soon attacked him, and his only record is the following unfinished letter to a near relative, which was cut short by the hand of death, and will therefore be read with deep and melancholy interest—

On board the Bacchante, Dec. 16, 1854—I am now again at sea, on my way to Sierra Leone. . . .

I trust, also, that I have succeeded in all the objects which I had in view—holding confirmations, ordinations, and visitation, and conferences with all our brethren for the settlement of the long-continued and unhappy differences about the language question, the establishment of an educational system, &c. I believe that all are thankful now to have some certain rules on which to proceed, and a prospect of more agreement for the future. And I have had much to delight me in this deeply-interesting tour. These vast cities in the interior of Africa, and the extraordinary cultivation which surrounds them on all sides, are very striking indeed. To stand in the centre of Abbeokuta, and see around you hills and valleys densely covered with crowded houses, conveys a far more real and lively idea of the immense amount of population than any mere record of numbers can. And then such an interesting population too—so hearty, sociable, and friendly, go where you will among them. Their salutation meets you on every side as you ride through the streets—"Aku aku, Akuabo akuabo!" I have met with much kindness from them, being received in the most friendly manner everywhere. I intended to purchase a horse to replace the one that died at Sierra Leone, but had no occasion to do so, the Christian converts of Abbeokuta clubbing together to make me a present of one, and the alaki and chiefs giving me another. I should like to spend many months in Abbeokuta instead of one, that I might really see something of the country and people. As it was, I had very little time for this, as my official duties were very pressing—.

Archdeacon Graf has thus recorded his feelings while in the midst of these heart-stirring scenes—

We were deeply interested by the friendliness of the crowds accompanying us from place to place; by the welcome of the slavery-abolishing chiefs, contrasted with the ill-hidden sullenness of slavery-loving champions: by hearing the things of God read and preached, and sung and chanted, in their own native tongue, in the churches, the Sunday-schools, and in class, while their faces beamed with intelligence, and they eagerly devoured the bread of life: by the simple and modest appearance of men and women in their native attire: by the wonderful facility of the Yoruba salutations in adapting a special word of congratulation or of sympathy to every imaginable though trifling circumstance in life: by the magic charm of being addressed in the street, though a perfect stranger, as “my mother’s child!” thus touching Nature’s tenderest cord: by the confidence in one another, and their general honesty, as evinced by the occasional exposure on the roadside of eatables for sale without a seller, each lot having a certain number of pebbles laid by its side, to be replaced by a corresponding number of cowries by the passing traveller, &c. &c. &c. A volume would be required to detail all!

To me it was peculiarly affecting to meet once more so many spiritual children of former years, who recognised me with feelings of respect and affection, which neither years nor distance had obliterated, but rather deepened. And when, one Saturday evening, I kept Mr. Townsend’s class for communicants, with my former visitor, Andrew Wilhelm, as my interpreter, with numbers of my former church-members, I could not help being deeply affected: it appeared living life over again.

Nov. 27—This was the last day of our stay with the whole of the Missionary clergy of the country at Abbeokuta, the bishop having appointed this as the day for his primary visitation of the clergy. The bishop’s charge was a most judicious and affectionate effusion, made up of the father’s counsels and the brother’s fellow-feeling. He most feelingly touched on the differences which had arisen between the brethren, especially on the subject of the Yoruba language, exhorting them to forbearance, and henceforth to uniformity. He dwelt on the political influence possessed and exercised by some of them. As a principle, he strongly deprecated the Missionaries’ meddling with politics or diplomatics, but candidly admitted, that, from what he had seen and heard, cases might occur where it was allowable, and even became a duty, although he did not then feel at liberty to pronounce an authoritative opinion on the case of the Yoruba Mission. He then addressed the native teachers, and the two deacons especially, warning them not to assume the expensive habits of Europeans, totally uncalled for in their case, and not to assume a distant stand towards their native countrymen, but to endeavour to win them to Christ by all possible means. Both the bishop and the clergy felt deeply affected. The bishop most cheerfully acknowledged, with deep gratitude, that a great spiritual work was begun and prospering in the Yoruba country, and incited them to renewed vigour in their internal arrangements, and to the enlarging their borders far and wide.

I have no hesitation in saying—indeed I feel anxious to bear my testimony—that the Yoruba Mission offers the most cheering and hopeful prospects. The Missionaries are “men fearing God and working righteousness,” whose uprightness and faithfulness having now been tested for a number of years, they enjoy the confidence of the kings and chiefs of the land; an influence which they have gradually and unconsciously obtained. And whilst they are using such influence to the best interests of the country and the church, with a judicious shrinking from public view, and a due sense of the responsibility attached to such influence, they may, nay must, exercise it with gratitude to God, however distasteful it may prove to those who, from interested motives, would rather encourage the ungodly practices, and enjoy the bloodstained emoluments, arising from the slave-trade. For the spread of the gospel the country appears to have been very providentially prepared in the present distribution of its population. The Missionary has not to plod from house to house and from hamlet to hamlet, beginning ever his work anew, and splitting his native agency into small scattered particles, with scarce a sufficient sphere of action for each. The whole country is desolate, its numerous towns and villages have disappeared, and "concentration into a few, but mighty and large-sized, cities," has been the watchword instinctively obeyed from all quarters, and by all of a tribe. Hence the country appears utterly deserted for distances of twenty, thirty, or fifty miles, but the towns, when once found out, are of vast extent, in which the Missionary might preach at twenty different points, and never have the same auditors, and yet return the same day to his own house. As to the most useful and urgent means of evangelization of the Yoruba country, I may mention the following—Foremost stands the need of the Bible, the whole Bible, translated and printed, with all possible despatch, into a hundred thousand copies. The characters of the alphabet are quickly learned by an intelligent and eager scholar: he marvels at the ingenious formation of a word by certain letters—wonders beyond measure that he can speak his own language by certain mechanical signs; and when he at last deciphers the wonders of God in His printed gospel, he seems full of amazement, treasures up the book and its contents, makes it his travelling companion, and spreads the news wherever he goes. Henceforth, let the Missionaries die, and the native teachers be removed, if it must be so, but the living word—with its deep meaning for every soul of man, and its exponent and lifegiving originator, the Holy Spirit—has kindled a fire in the land not to be quenched by many waters stronger than hell, everlasting as God. Oh, give them the Bible!

Mr. Townsend bears testimony to the comfort and advantage of the bishop's visitation, in the following words—

The bishop's visit I trust will prove of lasting benefit to the Mission. We have felt much encouraged by his presence, and edified by his counsel. We feel bound to thank our gracious God for appointing him. One more truly evangelical in doctrine, and amiable in life, we cannot hope to see, and he has a truly Missionary spirit.

It is to be remembered, with much praise and gratitude to God, that though nine years only have elapsed since this Mission was commenced in a country torn by civil wars and the ravages of the slave trade—the bishop now found four principal stations, from 30 to 40 miles apart one from another, each occupied by European Missionaries, with numerous out-stations: that more than 1000 regular worshippers of God had been collected in the several congregations, reading the word of God and the liturgy of our church in their own language, which, for that purpose, had been reduced to writing:

that he held confirmations at three of the stations, and administered the rite to between five and six hundred converts. Here surely is the proof of "power and demonstration of the Spirit" accompanying the word.

LAGOS.

The last Report announced the arrival of the Rev. G. F. Gerst as an associate in this station of the Rev. C. A. Gollmer. The present Report has the painful task of recording his early removal by a fit of apoplexy.

Mr. Gollmer speaks of the increase of commercial prosperity of Lagos in a lawful commerce, the result of the suppression of the slave-trade, and the civilizing efforts of the Missionaries in the interior.

Jan. 3—It is astonishing how much trade has increased between this and Abbeokuta since the free navigation of the Ogu: and even now, in spite of Kosoko's attacks, quantities of produce are brought down and merchandise carried up. Two years ago there was not a puncheon of palm-oil from Abbeokuta sold at Lagos. The last flotilla brought upwards of 300 puncheons of palm-oil, in small pots and calabashes, from five to ten gallons, besides many other valuable commodities for the European market; also a vegetable seed, called beni seed, from which a fine sweet oil is extracted, ivory, gum, and spice, plenty of provisions, and also seven bales of clean cotton, sent by Mr. Crowther to England.

Missionary Work.

Mr. Gollmer's journals contain the following interesting notices of the progress of his work—

Aug. 3—We resolved, for some time past, to hold public Missionary meetings; but fearing the rain would prevent many from attending, we waited till this day, when, after due notice, we had our first meeting, which was well attended; and we collected, at the meeting and afterwards, the sum of 3*l.* 14*s.* 10*d.*, for which we are thankful.

Aug. 27: Lord's-day—A blessed day, one long desired. This morning, after prayers, I had the privilege to admit twenty-four adults, and, in the afternoon, sixteen children and infants, into Christ's visible church. The adults are eleven men and thirteen women, ten of them, viz. three men and seven women, attending Mr. White's place of worship, and who were "brought nigh" through his labours more especially, I may say; and the other fourteen attending our church, and being the fruit of our labour. There were two couples, husband and wife, among the baptized. I might have baptized them sooner, but I would not press them too much as regards the rule to have but one wife, but let them be rooted in grace and the knowledge of His word, to have strength to renounce of themselves the devil and all his work, in which I was not made ashamed, for all have come out from the word, and walk as it becometh Christians. I have bestowed much time and attention to prepare them for the sacred rite ; and I was myself edified sometimes in class in hearing their humble confession, and their simple but decided faith in Christ as their only Saviour. May they be preserved from the evil one, and be found faithful at last ; and may many be added to their number ! I am glad to add, all of them know the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, and the Ten Commandments, several can read the Yoruba Testament, and most, if not all, the Primer. This we call the first-fruit of our Lagos Mission. We take courage, and go on to sow the seed of life, looking to the Lord for prosperity. Ten of the children baptized belong to our converts.

On Sunday, the 29th of October, Mr. Gollmer's new church at Lagos was opened for divine service. The bishop being present, he held a confirmation in it. Though only calculated to hold 500 persons, about 600, including many heathen, were present. The communicants, 75 in number, were presented for confirmation, and the bishop, to the surprise of all, read the service in the Yoruba language. In the afternoon of the same day the bishop had divine service in the open air before the king's house, at which the king, his councillors, and war-chiefs, together with a large concourse of his household, attended, and appeared deeply interested in the bishop's discourse, as interpreted to them, on the words, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."*

ABBEOKUTA.

The stations within the walls of Abbeokuta are, Ake, Igbein, Ikija, and Owu, and at a short distance is the village station of Oshielle. The Missionaries who have been in charge of these posts are, the Rev. H. Townsend, the Rev. S. Crowther, the Rev. I. Smith, and the Rev. J. A. Maser, assisted by the native catechists, Mr. Thomas King and Mr. T. B. Macaulay, General Character of the Work.

The number of inquirers and of baptisms is greatly increased : the number of communicants exceeds 400. Some idea may be formed of the rapid growth of this Christian church, from the fact that the Sierra-Leone Mission had been established for thirty years before it could number as many. So much more rapid is the progress of an offshoot of a native church than the first planting of a native church by European agency.

The national authorities protect, but do not identify themselves with, the Missionaries, none of the chiefs having as yet shown any disposition to submit themselves to the gospel, Ogubonna excepted. National outbreaks of persecution are therefore precluded, but domestic persecution exists to a considerable extent; and in rejecting their idols, and publicly professing their faith in Christ, the native converts have much to suffer. No doubt, in this early stage of our work, such a state of things is overruled for good—the genuineness of those who join themselves to the church is thus tested, and we have the stronger grounds of confidence in their sincerity.

A political event has taken place at Abbeokuta, which it is hoped will have a beneficial influence upon the Mission, both by the general pacification of the town, and by affording a stronger protection to the native converts. Sagbua, a wise, mild, and experienced chief, has been elected alake, or king, of Abbeokuta. He has always shown himself ready to listen to the representations of the Missionaries, and on the day on which the chiefs and people celebrated his election, and were prostrating themselves before him, he called Mr. Townsend to him, to shake hands with him and converse together in the presence of all. Mr. Townsend writes, on another occasion—

July 29—I visited Sagbua, with a view to speak seriously and solemnly respecting his duties and responsibility as king; and especially with a view to dissuade him from taking up some of the old customs and privileges of royalty. I begged him to consider that it was only by God that kings could reign; and that, as he was privileged to hear and know this beyond what his predecessor had done, he must shape his course accordingly, in order to obtain the divine blessing. He promised to endeavour to do so, also that myself or agent should have the same freedom of access to him as before.

Many instances might be given of genuine piety and faith in the converts. Mr. Townsend writes—

Jan. 10—I visited Okke, one of our converts, whom I baptized some time since. She had been long ill, arising out of the bad treatment of her husband. He permitted her house to fall to decay, and she had frequently to sleep on damp ground in consequence, from which she took cold, and consumption followed. She had been visited by Mr. Maser and A. Wilhelm, and her temporal necessities were administered to, but she grew worse, and desired a change of residence. Accommodation was offered her in her father's house, which she refused because of their idolatry, but accepted the invitation of some of the members of the church to come to their compound. I found her very ill, with several friends around her. I spoke of death, of its being the lot of all, and therefore to be expected by all, Christians and heathen; but the great and all-important question was, how we should die, that is, in God or not. Okke exclaimed,

“I trust in Him firmly.” And again, “He”—i.e. Christ—“whom I did not know”—in heathenism—“is very precious to my soul.” She uttered these words with a firm and clear voice, and I felt rejoiced to hear this testimony from her lips—a poor, persecuted, dying negress, her sickness the result of persecution for Christ’s sake, sustained and comforted by an inward joy that the world knows nothing of.

Jan. 12—Okke died yesterday, and this afternoon we committed her body to the ground, in a sure and certain hope of her resurrection to eternal life: a large number of persons attended. Her brother is very favourable to Christianity, and is probably a secret believer: he begged us to bury her after a Christian manner. Her mother is a worshipper of Orishako, and a bitter foe to the truth. Some of the church people visited her, to sympathize with her in her loss; but she uttered most horrid curses against her deceased daughter, stating that, as she forsook orishas to obtain eternal life, now may eternal death and punishment be her portion. How different the spirit of the daughter dying in Christ, and the mother living in heathenism!

Mr. T. King, the native catechist, gives an account of one of the communicants, Isaiah Sonyaolu, who died after a very short illness, but, he adds—

God be praised! death has no sting for him, as it is evident by his last words. When his friends apprehended that he was getting low, by which they manifested much concern, he asked, “Why are you taken up with so much anxiety because I am going to die? I am not afraid, because I know where and to whom I am going.” The last words heard from him were, “How true is the saying of the Scripture, that through much tribulations we shall enter into the kingdom of heaven!”—Acts xiv. 22—and then breathed his last. A few hours before his death he called for his mother, and gave her his last address against superstition, which surprised every one present. Sonyaolu evidenced by his life and conversation the genuineness of his faith: very regular and punctual in his attending the means of grace, and quick in learning to read. He was once a great sinner, a notorious plunderer in the neighbourhood for stealing goats, sheep, &c., and selling women shunned their square on his account, for fear of being plundered. But he was so changed by the power of the gospel, that he would restore a single cowry through mistake paid over to him.

Many pleasing evidences are given of the fact that the native converts exert themselves to spread the knowledge of the gospel among their countrymen. The Rev. J. A. Maser writes—

March 29—Visited, with Mr. Moore, the farm villages around Oshielle, Malaka, Takola, Akoga, and Solu. We were gladly received in these places, in each of which live some hundred persons together, sometimes in a few long houses which are divided into different apartments. They all had carried into this wilderness some knowledge of Christianity, which they had received from relatives, or from hearing the word of God preached. The people of Takola were especially versed in this knowledge.

Translations.

Many testimonies are given of the value of the translations of the Scriptures and other religious works which have been already made. The Rev. I. Smith writes—

Sept. 28, 1854—The arrival of the translations of the Book of Genesis, and the Gospel according to St. Matthew, have been welcomed by our people with much delight: they have purchased from me fifty copies of the former, and forty-four of the latter, in about two months, at the rate of eight strings of cowries each, which make in the aggregate upwards of fifteen heads. It is encouraging to know that these translations are not only read carefully in our Sabbath-schools, but at home, and in the farms, and elsewhere, by our people; and it is no uncommon thing, when on a journey, to see one of our books produced, and the owner poring over its pages when resting awhile under the shade of some wide-spreading tree or on the river's bank.

The Rev. S. Crowther also writes—

March 12—I am thankful to be able to complete a translation of the book of Psalms for the press, which I have handed to Mr. Townsend. I am now reading and revising Watts's Second and Historical Catechisms, translated by Mr. Thomas King. These, with a revised copy of the First Catechism, will, I hope, accompany this. The reception of the First Catechism, which is committed to memory by nearly all, old and young, and which has been an invaluable channel of imparting sound scriptural instruction to the people, leads me also to hope that the following two will prove a rich addition to our stock in this line.

Extension of the work.

The Missionaries from Abbeokuta have visited many towns and villages in its neighbourhood, and have everywhere met a cordial welcome. In many instances they have been earnestly entreated to send white Missionaries. Mr. Townsend has placed native teachers at Ibaru, about ten miles west of Abbeokuta, and at Ishagga, twenty miles in a south-westerly direction, which are each towns containing 2000 or 3000 inhabitants. In a northerly direction Mr. Townsend has extended his visits to various towns, to the distance of 100 miles from Abbeokuta: the furthest is a town of 30,000 inhabitants, called Shaki; and native teachers have already been placed at Bilorunpellu and Awaye, at the distances of thirty and forty miles in that direction.*

* Further accounts of Abbeokuta are given in the "Church Missionary Record" for June 1855, pp. 121—132; and in the "Church Missionary Gleaner" for September 1854, pp. 102—104.

IBADAN.

This large town, which vies with Abbeokuta in importance, presents a new centre of Missionary operations to surrounding tribes, and an advanced post towards the Niger. The Mission is under the charge of the Rev. D. Hinderer and the Rev. J. T. Kefer, assisted by Mr. James Barber and other native agents.

The last year has been one of varied trials and discouragements, inseparable from Missionary operations in every stage, and more especially in their commencement. Each of the Missionaries, and Mrs. Hinderer, have been visited with dangerous attacks of illness.* In the earlier part of the year their time was far more occupied in secular matters than they could have wished, yet they were indispensable matters; such as the completion of a Missionary dwelling sufficiently weather-tight to afford the prospect of better health than they have hitherto enjoyed, and the erection of a church, under the roof of which the people who desired to be instructed might have the opportunity of assembling. These objects have been accomplished.

But the great hindrance to Missionary operations has been a war in which the Ibadan people have been involved. It appears, from Mr. Kefer's journal, that the Fulani, or Phula, the great scourges and devastators of the Niger and Tshadda districts, are amongst the enemies of the Ibadan people. This war has in several ways interfered with the proceedings of the Missionaries. It has diminished the number of workmen, and thrown on the Missionaries, in the erection of the necessary buildings, a great amount of manual labour. In certain districts of the town, where the head chiefs are absent on the war, it indisposes the people to hear the gospel message. "This lamentable war," writes Mr. Hinderer, "is a sad hindrance to our work, for we are often told, 'We cannot join you now; we cannot serve God now; our masters are in the war, and we cannot do any thing without them.'"

Notwithstanding these hindrances, Missionary efforts have been persevered in, and results have been yielded which encourage the Missionaries to believe that they are only drops of a coming shower. Mr. Hinderer's testimony on this point is cheering.

We have been much encouraged by a pretty good attendance on our Sunday services, and a few diligent Sunday scholars, as well as more earnest inquirers into the truth. Eight persons have lately put their names down as candidates for baptism, at which Satan seemed to be alarmed, and therefore began to persecute some of them.

* The Committee have since received the sad intelligence of the death of Mr. Kefer, from fever, at the end of April.

Some others are kept back by the same means; and of one, a Mahomedan, it may be said, "Yet not openly, from fear of the Jews."

June 25: Lord's-day—To-day we celebrated the Lord's supper, for the first time in Ibadan, in a familiar circle in our sitting-room. Nine natives and three Europeans approached the Lord's table, and one was absent from illness. May we not rejoice and take courage by this, as the harbinger of better things than war and bloodshed for this place?

The great work of open-air preaching has been diligently prosecuted, and with increasing energy as the Missionaries became disembarrassed of secular duties. Mr. Kefer, in his journal, expresses his sense of the great importance of this department of labour—

July 4—We consider it as one of the most important branches of our Missionary work in this great town, in order to acquaint the people in general with our intentions; and may it please God to gather a congregation by simply preaching the gospel and familiar conversation on the way of salvation through Christ, in opposition to their system of idolatry!

Sept. 29—We have fixed on ten trees in the different districts, so that, by regular preaching, every quarter of the town will be visited with the gospel once a week.

The manner in which they are received by the people is, on the whole, encouraging. Often remarks are uttered, and admissions made, which show that the hearers feel the truthfulness of gospel teaching, as contrasted with their own unprofitable superstitions. The following extracts are from the journals of the Missionaries—

May 28, 1854—As I had regained sufficient strength, and the most urging work of building was over, I could now pay more attention to the vast crowds of ignorant people in the town. I went, therefore, out in the evening; but, prevented by rain from going about freely, I visited some compounds. The master of the first one I called on said, when I had talked to his people, "This must be from God, that white man meets me now the second time in my piazza. After his first visit I was not able to make any country-fashion again, but now I am still more convinced of the truth exhibited in your words."

To the second compound I went at random, being stopped on my way by a shower. I told the master, an old man, the reason of my coming, and preached the gospel of our salvation in Christ to him and all the people in the yard. He listened well, and said at last, "This is certainly a good word: neither our fathers nor we have heard of such things before: we ought therefore be thankful for it. I did not know the reason of white men coming to this town; but, convinced of your friendship, and struck by your good words, from this day I can fight for you."

August 7—An old man told me, "The word is good, but too deep for us: we cannot understand it fully at once. You must do like your companions at Abbeokuta. They began about ten years ago quietly, and they have succeeded well; but you want to fill whole Ibadan at once, tall-ing in all the streets every day. [We wish heartily we could do so.] You must have patience, and leave us time to think on the words."

August 27—Another man said to me, "You must take courage, and not get tired if we don't know at once how to follow your word: by and bye it will come." This he illustrated with two parables: "God made men," he said, "and beasts, and herbs, and grass. The latter is food for beasts: men may eat herbs, but meat they like best. This, however, was only the case when they had tasted first all herbs. If your religion is found better than ours, we prefer it, as we do meat." Again: "We are like babies: when it is born the father utters the name into the child's ear, though it does not understand the word. But the word is often repeated, and, as the child grows, it knows the name. Therefore go on: if we have not sense enough to comprehend it now, time will come that we understand what we at present only like, because it touches our hearts."

Friendly relations with the Jebu King—Visit to his country.

The chiefs of distant tribes, who have been opposed to those amongst whom the Missionary resides, have sent messages to the Missionary, conveyed, according to the native custom, by symbols. The king of the Jebu country sent cowries strung together so that two and two face each other, and the end of the strings twisted into one, to denote, as the accompanying messenger explained, a wish for close friendship. Mr. Hinderer replied by sending back a lump of sugar in an ornamented bottle, to signify that the message was sweet, but that the word of God, which he wished to teach, would be sweeter than all else. The king returned the stone of a fruit which has an agreeable taste, fastened to another used in a favourite game, to denote his joy in the prospect of pleasant intercourse.

Mr. Hinderer, in company with Dr. Irving, travelled, in a south-westerly direction from Ibadan, through the Jebu country, with a view to conciliate the friendship of that tribe—which, though speaking the Yoruba language, have long been in hostility to the Egbas—and also to open a direct road from Ibadan to the sea coast at Lagos. This latter important object was happily accomplished. When they reached the capital of the country, Ofin, they were introduced to the king, and the following observation was made by the head-man in the king's name—

The Oluwo, head of the elders, replied in his name, expressing his satisfaction at our presence, as well as at our good word; but he had a request to us, namely, that his country people might be allowed to return from Sierra Leone, as the Egbas and Yorubas did: to which our answer was, that this rested entirely with him; that as soon as he would be able to report that he opened the road for us, and received teachers of the word of God into his country, they would come: it was only the risk of danger in their own country that kept them back hitherto.

Mr. Hinderer notices in his journal—

Dec. 22—The elders paid us a visit this morning. On our speaking against war and the slave-trade, they made this remarkable answer—"This is a thing that we cannot understand, that you white people strengthen and sharpen the iron, and then you yourselves slacken it again." We of course told them they labour under a mistake; that it was the Portuguese, &c. &c., slave-dealers, that strengthened the iron, and not the English nation; but that truly the latter slacken the iron again. Yes; and may it soon be made so dull that it may be useless altogether!

Dec. 30—This morning we had to visit the three principal men of the town. The reply on the first message of peace was as affecting as it was sensible—"Peace we want; peace we know you and your countrymen want to bring to us:" and, pointing to the immense crowd of children behind us, he said, "These would not be here were it not for your countrymen; but how is it that Ibadan has one of those peace-making white men, and yet are at war even now?" Our answer was their favourite, "Pelepele" (softly, softly); which the doctor capitably illustrated with the similitude of a hard stone softened at last by water continually dropping upon it, but only dropping.

Archdeacon Graf reports respecting the station of Ibadan, that, though in every way in its infancy, it nevertheless promises well for the future. He adds—"The bishop was delighted with the prospect of this station, especially as it leads immediately to Illorin, Rabba, &c."*

IJAYE.

The Rev. A. Mann has persevered in the work of this station throughout the year. His position is, in many respects, dissimilar from that of his brethren at Abbeokuta and Ibadan. The government of those towns is such as to admit of much freedom of opinion; and however converts from heathenism may have to endure the displeasure of their relatives and friends, yet they are not interfered with by the authorities. But at Ijaye a despot reigns, and the dread of Are's displeasure keeps numbers aloof, who, if free and unrestrained, would frequent the teaching of the white man. It is true, the chief has invited the Missionary to reside in his town, and has sanctioned his giving instruction to his people, but he is himself indisposed to receive it; and the general belief amongst the population is, that Are does not wish them to favour the white man's teaching more than he does himself: so much so, that he has assigned to Arolung, the superior chief of that portion of the town where the Missionary premises are situated, the office of denouncing inquirers to him. Such is the sternness of his rule, and so quickly does capital punishment, inflicted by his own hand, follow an accusation, before inquiry is instituted or the offence proved, that we cannot be surprised at the reign of terrorism which prevails. As, however, there are few evils out of which some good may not be extracted, the vicious and evil-disposed part of the community are so overawed, that, as Mr. Mann informs us, the high degree of criminality is not to be found in Ijaye which exists in other Mission fields.

Still, something has been done. The attendance on church services has increased: besides the families connected with the Society, which amount, with masters and servants, to 16 persons, from 30 to 35 natives attend regularly; and occasionally a number of heathen strangers listen for the whole or part of the service, so that the congregation may amount to 50, and even 70 to 80. The communicants are 12 in number, and during the year there have been a few baptisms. Extracts from the journal of Mr. Mann will illustrate this statement. At the close of his journal for the quarter ending March 31, 1854, he writes—

The work of God in the hearts of a few has made a little progress: those who used to join us have continued to do so, and promise well; but very few have manifested a wish to follow the example of two or three, and none will suffer a little for the sake of Christ. Yet, discouraging as this town seems to be, I cannot but nourish hope against hope, and shall not cease to plead the everlasting mercy in behalf of the benighted people of Ijaye.

At a subsequent date he writes—

I have prepared three persons, chosen from a class of about ten, for baptism, and did not see any hindrance why they might not be received into the church, and be made partakers of the blessings of the ordinance. I had several times closely inquired into their knowledge, as well as disposition of heart. I found that their simple answers are satisfying: besides, two of them had suffered a good deal. One was a Sierra-Leone man: of the two others, one a woman married to a heathen, the other an elderly Mahomedan woman, a native of Gambarini (Hausa), and for the word's sake cast away by her husband. How often the younger Ijaye woman was beaten I related in a former journal. Both women learned the commandments, and showed great zeal in learning to read the gospel.

June 4: Pentecost—I baptized them to-day, during morning service, with much rejoicing and thankfulness. The younger woman, Cybadè, received the name Maria, for she indeed was sitting at the feet of Jesus; the Mahomedan, Martha. I am led to rejoice in small things; but I look to this one thing, that these small things have the seal of grace.

The work is thus seen to proceed slowly. God gives me just so much that I do not fail in faith altogether; yea, He gives me more, and tells me, by the mouth of the heathen, to continue in preaching with faith, patience, and perseverance.

Prospect of further extension.

Mr. Mann thus describes the prospect of reaching the interior—

During the last few days I have often spoken with an interesting Mahomedan, who reads the Korán, and a little in the Arabic New Testament, which he translates tolerably into Yoruba. He has travelled a good deal beyond the Niger. It was known in the upper regions of the Niger that white people had gone up the river upon the recent expedition. At Illorin several caravan roads meet, one to the north-west, by which people travel up the Niger to Timbuctu—or, as they say, Simbuctu; another to the north-east, through the desert, said to be travelled in twelve days. More to the south a road leads to Bornu: this, too, is the road pilgrims take to Mecca. Illorin and Rabba, five days' distance on the Niger, are, as it were, open doors into the interior of Africa. I see no great hindrances in the way of our entering.*

The Niger and Tshadda Expedition.

In the course of last summer an expedition to the Niger was sent out, under direction of the government, to open the trade of the surrounding countries. The conductors of the expedition generously offered a free passage to our native Missionary, Mr. Crowther. The party, consisting of 12 Europeans and 54 Africans, were three months in the river without a death from sickness or accident: they ascended the Tshadda for 300 miles beyond its confluence with the Niger. Mr. Crowther had free intercourse with the various nations through which they passed, and with a large and powerful town near the extreme point to which they penetrated. He writes—

The reception we met with all along from the kings and chiefs of the countries was beyond expectation. I believe the time has fully come when Christianity must be introduced on the banks of the Niger: the people are willing to receive any who may be sent among them. The English are still looked upon as their friends, with whom they themselves desire to have connexion as with the first nation in the world. God has provided instruments to begin the work in the liberated Africans in the colony of Sierra Leone, who are natives of the banks of the Niger. When they go, and with all earnestness invite their countrymen, as Moses did Hobab, "Come with us, for the Lord has promised good to Israel," and all this in his own language, with refined Christian feelings and sympathy, not to be expressed in words, but evidenced by an exemplary Christian life, the services of such persons will prove most useful in the introduction of the gospel of Jesus Christ among the heathen.*

EAST-AFRICA MISSION.

(European Missionaries first arrived in 1844.)

Mission Establishment :

4 Ordained European Missionaries.

Visit of Dr. Krapf to Abyssinia.

DR. KRAPP, having paid a short visit to Europe, returned, at the close of the year 1854, to Africa. But instead of going straight to the East coast, he has been directed to visit Abyssinia.

Many circumstances have led the Committee into this plan. Since their Missionaries were compelled to leave that country, ten years ago, they have not ceased to hope that more favourable circumstances might shortly arise for the resumption of their labours in Abyssinia; or at least for an exploratory tour, to ascertain whether any fruit still remains of the seed sown in much faith and prayer by the zealous labourers who composed the early band of Missionaries—Kugler, Gobat, Isenberg, Blumhardt, Krapf. Since the appointment of Bishop Gobat to the see of Jerusalem, one of the rulers in Abyssinia, and the abuna, or bishop, formerly a pupil in the Society's school at Cairo, have sent frequent messages to Jerusalem. At length a zealous friend of Missions at Bâle, in Switzerland, offered to Bishop Gobat to prepare six pious mechanics at the institution at St. Chrishona, by the acquisition of the Arabic language, to act as scripture readers and schoolmasters in Abyssinia. Bishop Gobat encouraged the scheme, and consented to direct and superintend the Mission. It appeared, however, to be necessary, in the first instance, that some experienced Missionary should visit Abyssinia, to ascertain how far there is a real opening in that country for such an enterprise. Dr. Krapf submitted to your Committee his readiness to go, as the condition of Abyssinia had long rested upon his heart, and he both desired and prayed for an opportunity of revisiting it. Your Committee regarded this object as fairly within their province, as, should a Protestant Mission be established in Abyssinia, it would form a link between your two Missions in Egypt and in East Africa, and would re-act upon each field of labour. Dr. Krapf visited Jerusalem, in the first instance, to confer with Bishop Gobat. There he was joined by two of the Missionary mechanics from Bâle, who will accompany him to Abyssinia; and should it appear practicable to establish the proposed Mission, one of the two will return for the rest of the party, who are staying at Jerusalem, while the other will remain to occupy the ground. Dr. Krapf will then attempt to penetrate from Abyssinia, through the Galla country, to the east coast. An Abyssinian youth, trained at Malta College, has accompanied Dr. Krapf, with a view of remaining in his native country as a Christian teacher.

The Committee are fully aware of the great difficulties and risk, humanly speaking, to be encountered in this enterprise; but, upon a careful survey of all the providential circumstances which seem to point to its adoption, they have commended their zealous Missionary to the grace and guidance of that Divine Master in whose service and for whose sake he is willing to go forth, not counting his life dear unto him. The Committee must entreat the prayers of their friends in behalf of that enterprising evangelist, and faithful man of God, Dr. Krapf.

Proceedings of the Missionaries Rebmann and Erhardt.

The two Missionaries, Messrs. Rebmann and Erhardt, have remained upon the east coast. The former has continued to reside at Kisuludini, and to labour amongst the scattered individuals of the Wanika tribe who resort to him. Mr. Erhardt, after the failure of his Mission to King Kmeri, of Usambara, took up his residence at Tanga, on the coast, at the mouth of the Pangani river, nearly opposite Zanzibar, till compelled, by repeated attacks of fever, to return to Mr. Rebmann at Kisuludini about the close of last year. The aspect of the Mission at the present time is far from encouraging.

Mr. Erhardt has occupied himself chiefly in linguistic labours, in order to prepare the way for future labourers when the state of the country shall be more favourable to direct Missionary efforts. In one of his last communications, Oct. 29, 1854, Mr. Rebmann writes—

My time at Tanga, in the present political confusion, where it is quite out of the question to go about in the country, has been exclusively employed in gathering vocabularies, and speaking to the numbers who constantly resorted to my house—to Wamrima, Wadigo, Wasegeju, Washinsi, and Wasamba.

Of the Kisamba I have gathered a vocabulary of above 2000 words. Of the language of the Masai, the brother-tribe of the Wakuafi, which is very generally but imperfectly spoken by all the Masai traders at Tanga, I have also gathered a vocabulary of about 1000 words. The materials of this most interesting and most important language for the penetration into the plains of Central Africa I got from a Masai slave.

Mahommedanism is stated by Mr. Erhardt to be on the increase on that portion of the African coast, very many poor people having lately embraced it, chiefly Washinsi, in the hope of being exempted from being sold into slavery.

He adds information respecting the character and circumstances of the different tribes on the coast. The Wasegeju interspersed between the Wamrima and Wadigo, who have mostly become Mahommedans, are arrogant, ferocious, and cruel. They are estimated at 8000 or 9000 souls: their chief occupation is hunting slaves in Bondei, or wherever they can be caught. The Wadigo, estimated at 15,000, are the cultivators of the soil, and rich, keeping large slave establishments. They are very tenacious of their heathen customs, and Mahommedanism has made little progress among them. The Wabondei, or Washinsi, are a miserably oppressed and degraded people. They profess themselves to be “the meat,” and their oppressors, of whom there are many, “the knife.”*

General View.

THE deep interest with which the Christian church now views the religious prospects of the Turkish empire, makes your Committee very thankful that they have Missions within its borders, at Smyrna and in Palestine. In the former the Turkish language is vernacular, in the latter the Arabic: so that a foundation, at least, has been thus laid for future extension of operations, should God in His providence call us forward, and supply the means of advancing.

The Palestine Mission has been strengthened during the last year by the addition of Mr. Huber, a German catechist and mechanic, who was for a few years at Lagos, in West Africa, but, his health not allowing of his return to that climate, he has been transferred to this Mission. The Rev. John Bowen, who made a Missionary tour in these parts three years ago, and who was upon his return presented to a living in this country, has again generously placed himself for two years under the guidance and direction of the Society as one of its Missionaries, but paying all his personal expenses from his private resources, to labour in the Palestine Mission. Mr. Bowen was induced to take this step from a strong conviction of the very critical state of the Oriental Christians, and of the Turkish population, at this time, and that the best results may be expected if the Protestant Christian church shall zealously supply them with scriptural instruction, and books of an evangelical piety. He has taken up his residence for the present in Nablous, where there is a large Turkish as well as Christian population.

PALESTINE.

Mission Establishment :

2 Ordained European Missionaries.	1 European Industrial Agent.
1 European Lay Agent.	1 Native Teacher.

The Palestine Mission now comprises as its five stations the venerated names of Jerusalem, Sychar, Joppa, Nazareth, and Bethlehem. To each of these stations the Society has been successively drawn forward by the manifest leadings of Divine Providence. They do not, indeed, lose sight of the fact, that the great Mission of the Society is to the heathen and Mahommedan nations, and that the restoration of fallen churches has chief respect to the influence which the revived light of the gospel will have upon the heathen and Mahommedans mingled with the lapsed Christians of the East, as well as upon the vast regions of Central Asia which lie beyond them.

The Anglican Bishop at Jerusalem, in his annual letter at the close of the last year, thus describes that portion of his Missionary labours connected with this Society—

Dr. Sandreczki and a scripture reader, a native, have the special care of the communities of native Protestants at Jerusalem, besides their duty of seeking to lead others to the Saviour. During the week they meet several times, the sexes distinct, in a private house, under the doctor's direction. The Rev. W. Krusé seeks to edify the few native Protestants at Jaffa, besides preaching to the English, who visit Jaffa in great numbers. The Rev. F. A. Klein has hitherto had the care of the congregation of Nazareth, which has been much tried this year, and is not in a cheering condition: there is probably much chaff among the wheat. At Nablous there is at present a spirit of deeper inquiry, excited by means of my scripture reader, M. Kavar; and as Mr. Bowen has just left us to settle there for a time, I trust and pray that God will abundantly bless His work.

Jerusalem.

Dr. Sandreczki takes the following review of the character of the people, and of his labours amongst them—

I have now had an experience of three years of a pretty minute study of the character of the people with whom I have to deal, and of all the circumstances which have contributed to form it, in the course of so many centuries of darkness, of political and ecclesiastical despotism. Often, I confess it, very often, I have been in a state of mind verging on despair, as to the reform of such a demoralized or depraved character in the present generation; but I have as often deeply felt how wrong I was in judging of a people systematically oppressed and degraded by worldly rulers and spiritual leaders, both equally ravenous wolves, and almost forced to use the abject expedients of servility—fraud, lie, and hypocrisy—in order to secure to themselves an existence, so miserable withal, that the mere prospect of it would every day generate a new revolution amongst the western nations: how wrong I was, I say, in judging of such a people by the same rule which we may, or rather must, apply to our nations and ourselves. Nay, I have learned to appreciate, with justice not only, but even with a sort of admiration, the good qualities, the virtuous dispositions, still inherent to the race, and easily roused up to struggle against the avowed perversity, as soon as the rays of truth break in upon the darkness in which they have been involved ever since they were born.

The year now gone afforded some encouragement. After the defection of all those individuals who wanted to make their labial profession of truth a source of filthy lucre, and therefore tried to disseminate discontent among the others, and pervert them to their selfish views and claims, peace and order were restored, and the principle, that “a follower of Christ must first seek the kingdom of God and His righteousness,” has, I dare say, more deeply penetrated the hearts and minds: although the cares of this world, increased by poverty, or a frequent total want of work, have often tempted our people to yield to avaricious propensities. However, it is but just to say, that nearly all our converts have, for truth’s sake, given up many advantages, the enjoyment of which is held forth by the convents as an allurement, and that the assistance they sometimes request is for the most part confined to real and urgent wants. The accession of the wives of our married people is an encouraging occurrence, as it was the result chiefly of domestic exertions, of the reading of the Scriptures, and family worship; and I trust that some of my female hearers are indeed actuated by the desire of increasing in the knowledge of truth, and that the conduct of all of them evinces a progressive improvement, which, slow though it be, yet proves that they are under the influence of evangelical instruction.

Bethlehem.

I must add a few words concerning the out-station at Bethlehem. I am sorry to say that the majority of our small congregation there betray very little interest in spiritual things, and the women keep aloof, under pretence that the schoolroom is too small for meetings of the two sexes. The bishop's scripture reader spends a day or two every week at Bethlehem, and I go thither from time to time, in order to examine the children and exhort the adults; and many of them coming pretty frequently to town, I avail myself of this opportunity also for admonition, &c. Nearly all of them are exceedingly poor, and although work abounds just now among the Roman Catholics, they are excluded from it, because the Patriarch himself is the employer, and even private persons refuse to employ Protestants.

Nablous.

The Rev. J. Bowen having consulted with Bishop Gobat, and having visited each station of the Society, determined upon taking up his residence for a time at Nablous. He began his residence there in October last. In a letter dated December 16th he states—

As to this (Nablous) Station there is some worldliness, imperfect knowledge, a little intriguing, and a desire to borrow money, without the slightest prospect or intention of paying it back, on the part of some; yet several of the congregation are intelligent and honest Protestants, who have taken up their position after search and inquiry. Of spiritual life I hope there are signs. There is a great leaving off of old sins; and, notwithstanding a little caballing, there is, on the whole, a pleasant brotherly feeling, and a good feeling exists towards the old Greek sect, the chief of whom, and others, have been civil in calling upon me, and I hope to have many opportunities of intercourse with them. There are a good many Moslems: thirty to thirty-five attend the school, but only in the afternoon, to learn writing and arithmetic: to this I add a little geography twice a-week. This is little, but it is something in a town where Christians are still insulted in the streets, for it makes an influential portion of the Moslems civil. The children are getting well inclined to us, and it is a step which may help their reception of the gospel. Several Samaritans, and two or three Jews, also come to the school. The Christian children are younger than those formerly in the school, but are making fair progress in the knowledge of the Scriptures. But we are sadly off for the proper means of teaching and influencing the girls: the mental and spiritual condition of the females is truly deplorable. Two interesting circumstances which are encouraging, and illustrate the truth, "Cast thy bread upon the waters:" &c.

1. The Book of Prayers for a week, printed by the Church Missionary Society at Malta, is used for family prayer in several houses in this town.

2. I lately heard, that twenty-five years ago there were Protestants in Nazareth, a few men who would not kiss the pictures, who would be seen reading the Scriptures with tears, and—so my informant, a leading Protestant here, said—used to pray from their own thoughts. These, perhaps, were some of those who received the Scriptures from Jowett.

Nazareth.

The Rev. F. A. Klein occupies this station. Mr. Huber was associated with him in the view of relieving him from the temporal cares connected with a new Mission, and of introducing industrial employments amongst the people. Mr. Klein gives the following account of his labours in a letter dated July 21, 1854—

The work here presents itself under very different features to what it did two years ago. The Protestant religion was then something new and exciting, causing curiosity as well as enmity. But a Protestant congregation has been organized, and opportunities presented to the Greeks and Latins to see that our faith is not a religion of devils, or of freemasons, but the religion of the gospel; and, in the important points, nearer to the word of God than their own. I have seen several of the Greeks who acknowledge this; but a want of “the love of the truth,” and of a feeling that it is our bounden duty to follow the pure doctrines of the gospel, prevent their discerning the necessity either of a regeneration of their church, or of a departure from it, if not reformed. It may be considered an axiom, I think, not a proposition to be proved, that a member of the Greek church, knowing “the faith as it is in Jesus,” cannot, with a pure conscience, remain a member of his communion, corrupt as it is in its doctrine, as well as its practices. We must therefore, at the risk of being accused of proselytism, carry on our work as heretofore, viz. form separate Protestant congregations. There are, no doubt, great difficulties, and many objections may be made by those who have but a partial knowledge of our work, and are not thoroughly acquainted with the local hindrances we have to contend with. Oriental Christianity has almost unchristianized her adherents—almost deprived them of conscience and the moral sense. The Latin convents, notwithstanding their influence, have done very little for the spiritual good of the nation: they have in a great measure increased the greediness and love of money which the Arabs have by nature, and taught them to sell their religion to the highest bidder.* From without we have to contend with the same obstacles as at the beginning. The spirit of persecution, though at times apparently asleep, now and then takes a vigorous start. My congregation, owing to the return of several of its members, for worldly considerations, to the Greek Catholic church, is smaller, amounting to only fifty-five members. But I am glad that those who, upon longer trial, proved not to be of us, are gone out. Now the spiritual state of the congregation affords me more satisfaction and encouragement than at the beginning. I assemble them twice a-week, when we read a chapter of the New Testament—now St. Luke—which I explain in a catechetical way; while at the same time I get them to learn the Church Catechism by heart. On Sunday mornings we have an Arabic service, with sermon. On account of the want of a proper place for worship, I have given up the afternoon service for a time, but as our own school-room is now ready, I shall have afternoon or evening service. Once a month Mrs. Klein and myself have the young men who choose to come. To the bigger boys in the school I have hitherto given two lessons a week in geography. The school has been carried on as usual: the average attendance is 40 boys and 20 girls.

* In a contest lately carried on between the Greek and Latin churches for the possession of Beit-Jala, where the weapons were very far from being exclusively spiritual, the Greeks bribed high to induce the inhabitants to drive out by violence the Latin patriarch, who had taken up his residence in the town. They did succeed in expelling “his holiness,” and then, assuming a perfectly neutral position, declared the field open, and themselves ready to belong to that church which would give them most money.

Reviewing a visit to Akka, Mr. Klein writes—

Some time ago I made a short stay at Akka, had conversations with many Greeks and Greek Catholics, which convince me that the seed we sow does not always fall on barren ground. I had service, and administered the sacrament, in the house of the American Vice-Consul. Protestants are no longer an unknown and foreign, and therefore despised, set of “farmasoons:” they are known by the laity, the lower and higher clergy, and by the government, from the poorest sheikh to the highest pasha; and many of the Mahommedans, too, acknowledge the Protestant religion to be nearer the truth than the other denominations. Great things are coming; greater things are preparing. We are chosen to be the honoured champions in this great anti-Christian war. May the great Jehovah, the Lord of Hosts, teach us to war and to triumph in His name

Soon after this date it pleased God to visit Mr. Klein with the loss of his wife. This affliction, and the failure of his own health, have obliged him to suspend his labours for a time. In a letter at the close of the year he writes—

As to the success of Missionary labour at Nazareth and the neighbourhood, I must state, that it consists not so much in personal conversions, as in the general influence the gospel has exercised on the Protestant congregation and the other denominations at large. Among the Greeks as well as the Latins—including, of course, Greek Catholics and Maronites—there is now more of a spirit of inquiry; our books have been read with less prejudice; and on many points of doctrine and discipline the word of God has been permitted to throw light. The spiritual despotism of the clergy has lost much of its appalling power, and the laity think themselves more at liberty to inquire into the doctrines of the gospel, and to judge for themselves. Religion is now the subject of dispute and conversation in the shops.

In the course of last year a stately house was built for some Roman-Catholic nuns: the Patriarch sees that it is necessary to do something more for Nazareth, and especially for the neglected females. Four fresh nuns, with a chaplain, arrived here a few weeks ago, and will take up their abode in the house prepared for them as soon as it is quite finished. Thus we see the efforts of the Latins doubled, but we remain singlehanded. The field is large, and in some places nearly ripe for the harvest, but the labourers are few.

For the Mahommedans nothing can as yet, under the present state of affairs, be done, but a friendly intercourse cherished with them, which may open the way for more direct labour, should the present war become the means of removing the system of spiritual tyranny, which is the great obstacle in the way of direct Missionary labour among the Mahommedans. A change is certainly preparing, and the labourers should be ready, at such an important period, to occupy the field.

Jaffa.

The Rev. W. Krusé is settled at this place, and exercises a pastoral superintendence over a small flock of Protestants, and receives inquirers. At the close of the year he writes—

Since I have been settled in Jaffa we have a few additional embers to our church, and inquirers are frequently calling upon me, I will not say for instruction, but at the least to learn something of our views. In our conversations I often find a desire after the truth, and a ready acknowledgment of the gross errors of the Greek church; and the few Mahommedans with whom I have spoken feel that their end draweth nigh. One most painful drawback to our work is the seclusion of the females: we have tried in vain to draw them to our services. My wife has used her influence and example, but all without effect: yet we look forward with hope to the time when the girls now being educated may shake off these fetters, and manifest an earnest desire for the salvation of their souls. This feeling at the present seems entirely dead in the female mind, and we cannot hope for much until education has removed their false prejudices. To this end we pay no slight attention to our schools.

General Review.

Interesting as the Mission-field of Palestine must ever be to the Christian—doubly interesting as it is at the present crisis of affairs in the East—there is a third aspect which assumes an importance of no mean magnitude. Central Asia, and the unnumbered hordes of the Arab nomadic population, lie between Russia, India, and Africa—a vast portion of the human family—already seen in the dim future to be rising into political importance. The Society's station at Peskawur, on the confines of Affghanistan, is on the eastern border, and Palestine on the west. And it is easy to infer that, under certain not improbable events, a highway may be cast up through Central Asia, by which the evangelist may travel—and the starting-points of which we have already occupied.

The School at this island can be no longer regarded as a branch of the Society's operations, having been transferred, according to the arrangement explained in the last Report, to the support of local funds, which may be raised by the payment of the pupils, or by friends interested in the work: the Society only allows the personal salary of their Missionary.

Report for 1854, by the Rev. F. A. Hildner.

At the close of the year Mr. Hildner writes—

According to the Resolutions of the Committee, I have laid out a plan for carrying on the three schools on a self-supporting basis. This I am confident to state, relying on the help from above, will be possible, if, together with the adoption of right measures, patience and perseverance be exercised; for, in order not to impair the good progress of the schools, it can be brought about only gradually, even more so than I at first imagined. The distress of the people—caused by their revolution, the war, and the cholera, and the consequent dearness of every necessary article of life, and want of sufficient work—is still on the increase. The scholars in our schools are mostly from the lower classes of the population, and I must wish that this may continue so; for, as I have found, it is among these lower and middle orders of people that a more open field is met to receive the seed of the Bible truths than among the higher and richer. At least I should not wish that, by the application of a full-pay system, the poorer children should be entirely excluded from the benefit of our schools.

I stated in my last report that I had been desired by the Greek Minister of Instruction to unite with two Greek gentlemen of Syra for the purpose of revising a manual for infant schools in Greece. This has been accomplished, and we have sent in our labours to government.

The translation of Dr. Barth's Scripture History into Greek I have been enabled to complete: there is some probability that it will be introduced into the public schools.

My congregation in English, as well as in German, remains small, and is fluctuating: there is, however, a small increase. The number of Protestants here is 31.

SMYRNA.

Mission Establishment :

- 1 Ordained European Missionary.
1 Native Assistant.

Mr. Wolters is the only Missionary of the Society at this station. He is assisted by his native-Greek catechist, Mr. Dalessio. The Committee would strengthen the Mission by additional labourers, did their means enable them to do so.

Mr. Wolters has prepared several translations, in Turkish, of English tracts and books, including parts of Jowett's Christian Visitor and Venn's Duty of Man, a manual of family prayers from the Liturgy, together with a volume of his own sermons, which prove very acceptable to the people.

✠ General State of the Mission.

With respect to his Missionary labours in Smyrna, Mr. Wolters writes, October 28, 1854—

The Greek congregation, since some time past, has not increased: the average attendance on Sundays is about sixteen. Smyrna has always appeared in this respect a very barren spot, though of the greatest importance as a Missionary station, and therefore by all means to be retained. It is the only one of the seven churches where the gospel is preached, and that in six different languages—English, German, Greek, Armenian, Turkish, and Judæo-Spanish.

There are many souls in the Greek church who feel the yoke of spiritual bondage, and desire to be relieved from it. They have an open ear, and even an open heart, for the truth of the gospel, but as yet no Christian courage to stand up and confess Christ, bearing His reproach. "What can we do?" they say: "we are alone, and must wait till we see how things go." The Christian courage they need is a fruit of that saving faith which makes a man decided and bold, so as to be willing to take up the cross and follow Christ, through good report and evil report, and this they do not possess.

At a later date he adds—

We have now a year of experience to testify to the usefulness of a Missionary book-shop. When we opened it a year ago I was somewhat doubtful of its success: now I am happy to say that the result sufficiently encourages us to go on. The total number of Holy Scriptures, either whole Bibles or New Testaments, or portions of the Old, that have been sold until the 31st of December, amounts to 229 copies; and the number of books and tracts 501. These books are all strictly religious, setting forth evangelical truth in a practical way.

The languages in which the books exhibited in the book-shop are written are the following—Turkish—including Turkish for Turks, in the Turkish character, and Turkish for Christians, in the Armenian and Greek characters—Armenian, Greek, Hebrew and Hebrew-Spanish, Italian, French, English, and German.

Our Colportage has been very limited during the past year; for the want of means as to the setting up of our book-shop has caused expenses, which will, however, not be repeated.

At Cassaba we also maintain a book-shop on a small scale. One obstacle to the sale of books there, as well as here, has been the general distress, and dearness of every thing, especially bread. The war, also, has no doubt had an influence on our operations, especially among the Greeks. At Cassaba, for instance, which was visited three times by us during the course of the year, I found a great change when I was there the last time, in December. The war so entirely occupied the minds of the people, that they had no eye for any thing else. I hope, however, that a good work is secretly going on at Cassaba, and the nucleus formed of a future Protestant congregation.

Appeal for Prayer.

At the commencement of the present year Mr. Wolters makes the following animated appeal for the prayers and sympathy of the church of Christ—

Let Christians in England and elsewhere pray without ceasing that the Lord may be pleased to overrule this war for the glory of His name. We Missionaries here are standing, as it were, on the watch-tower, looking around us and asking, “Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?” “Be watchful unto prayer,” is the answer, and, “Do what your hands find to do.” This, then, we will do, the Lord being my helper. And is it not a matter of thankfulness that the ministers of Christ in this country are permitted to preach the gospel of peace, even in these troublous times?

Mission Establishment :

Our Mission in Egypt has been strengthened by the addition of the Rev. S. W. Koelle, from West Africa, who has proceeded to Caïro with the view of itinerating in its neighbourhood. No accounts have been yet received of the Mission of sufficient interest for insertion in this year's Report.

The Rev. G. Candy's visit to England.

THE Rev. G. Candy, the Secretary of the Corresponding Committee, visited England during the early part of last year, which afforded the Committee the opportunity of much conference with him. At the close of the year he returned to India, and an incident occurred on his voyage back which serves, with many others, to illustrate the springing up, in unlooked-for situations, of the wide-scattered seed of the gospel. Writing from Aden, Mr. Candy reports—

We had intended to put up with a family of our acquaintance at the point, but were led by the Lord among the brethren out in the camp, four miles off. There we found out for what purpose. A sepoy of the Madras 16th native infantry had become awakened, and brought to the knowledge of the truth, principally through the instruction of the captain of his company. He had expressed a great desire for baptism, and the brethren there were looking out for my arrival, that they might get it accomplished. Mr. Isenberg and I carefully examined him, and I felt satisfied of his fitness. I then baptized him in the presence of the commanding-officer of his regiment, the captain of his company, and the interpreter of his regiment, all Christian brethren. Two sepoys of the regiment were also selected by the man as witnesses of his baptism—not in any official sense. He received the name of Daniel, which was his own choice. I could not but take this baptism as a token for good.

BOMBAY.The Missionary Force.

The chief feature of this Mission during the past year has been the increase of labourers, by the return of Mr. Isenberg and the addition of four European Missionaries, one an accomplished linguist—Dr. Trumpp, thus raising the number of Europeans from eight to twelve; whilst more recent letters bring the information that two of the native teachers have been ordained, in addition to two already employed by the Society, one of the newly-ordained natives being a Brahmin, and the other a highly-educated Hindu from Calcutta.

The Committee are the more thankful to have been enabled to make this addition, as they had lately received an address, signed by the Bishop of Bombay, the chaplains, and many of the highest officers in the civil, military, and naval services of the East-India Company, pleading for an accession to the Missionary force on behalf of fifteen millions of the unevangelized natives of that Presidency, and closing their statement with these emphatic words—

We add our firm belief that the condition of the native mind in Western India is increasingly susceptible of impression from the truth. We grant that conversions are yet few; but the preparatory work is steadily advancing—inquiry spreads—ancient superstitions are waning—Missionaries are welcomed. Every thing invites to new effort. The Lord is assuredly calling us to preach the gospel unto this people, and we venture, therefore, to add, in the language of earnest solicitation with the Society, “Arise, for this matter belongeth unto thee: we also will be with thee: be of good courage, and do it.”*

General View.

The Missionary work within the city has been carried on by the native catechist, Mr. Appaji Bapuji, one of those recently ordained, and who came to Bombay in the place of the Rev. James Bunter, another native minister, who removed to Malligaum. Divine service has been regularly held on the Sunday with a congregation of between 20 and 30 native Christians; besides which the adult heathen are frequently addressed, especially in the school-rooms of the vernacular schools after the children are dismissed. Mr. Appaji speaks also of many of the youths with whom he converses, who have been brought up in different institutions, as giving the strongest proof that the gospel is gaining a hold on their convictions. His words are, “The time seems to be near when we may expect a harvest like that of Pentecost.”

The Rev. J. S. S. Robertson, who has suffered much from illness, has been principally engaged in the work of collating and revising the Marathí translation of the Scriptures for the British and Foreign Bible Society: he has also a class of educated Hindu youths, who attend him weekly for general instruction.

Education.

The Robert Money school has been, during the past year, under the care of the Rev. Arthur Davidson. The number of pupils is 241, of whom 12 are Protestant and 21 Romanists, the rest Mahommedan and Hindu. “The moral and intellectual training of the boys,” says the Report, “is directed with a view to lead them to Jesus. The Bible is the chief book of instruction, and a spirit of inquiry is evidently excited.”

* Vide Appendix No. II.

The vernacular schools contain between 1100 and 1200 children, and are superintended by Mr. Sargon, under the direction of Mr. Robertson.

Miss White continues indefatigable, through divine grace, in her valuable labours, in which her heart is thoroughly engaged, in directing and superintending eight female and infant schools. The parents and other adults frequently enter these schools, and converse with Miss White, who has great facility in the language. Every Lord's-day she has a Bible class in her house, attended by Brahmins and other Hindus to the number of between 20 and 30. They are very attentive, and appear to be convinced of the truth, but fear the difficulties they must encounter in its open profession.

NASIK.

Summary of the Work.

The ministrations at this station have been carried on by Messrs. Mengé, Price, and Frost, with native assistants. During the year 5 adults and 13 children have been baptized.

Messrs. Mengé and Price have regularly preached to the heathen at Nasik and in the neighbourhood. Mrs. Mengé accompanies her husband in his Missionary tours, and is admitted into many houses, in which she has the opportunity of making known to the native females the Saviour of the world.

A book-shop is established at Nasik, and means are employed for selling religious tracts in the district: in this way more than 1200 tracts have been sold. The Missionaries have been much tried by the unsatisfactory conduct of some of their native teachers, of whom they had hoped better things. Few trials are more calculated to distress the mind, and to hinder the work, of a faithful Missionary. The schools have been remodelled, with a view to their greater efficiency, and the charge of a small fee for tuition has been introduced with success.

Reports from the Missionaries.

The Rev. C. C. Mengé states in his annual letter—

An interesting feature in our work is the fact, that the women also, in most instances, were willing to listen to the glad tidings of salvation, which were brought to their own doors by my wife, whom they gladly admitted into their houses. I look upon this, though humble instrumentality, as not the least efficient means of introducing Christianity into Hindu families. We know from the early history of the Christian church, that women exercised a silent though powerful influence over the members of their families, in inducing them to embrace our holy religion; and females in this country, though uneducated and degraded, exert a greater influence in their respective households than one would suppose; and of course, as long as they are unacquainted with Christianity, this influence can only prove an impediment to the spread of the gospel.

Mr. Price was much engaged during the former part of the year in the preparation of his new residence and orphanage. He writes at the close of the year—

With a few interruptions, for the last three months I have gone forth daily, either morning or evening, in company with Sorabji, to preach the gospel. Once a week our practice is to go early in the morning to some village, within a distance of three miles from Nasik, and to spend the whole day there, so as to give the people a better opportunity of hearing the gospel, and of coming to us for more information. On these occasions we put up sometimes under the village banian-tree, or in Maroti's temple, or in some place of public resort, where we are most accessible to the people.

In the town of Nasik, though we have never lacked a crowd of hearers, yet our message has too often either been listened to with cold indifference, or has been met with cavillings and derision. In the villages our reception has generally been much more encouraging. We have found the people worldly, indeed, and superstitious, but ready to listen to the word of life, and not unwilling to be convinced that idolatry is a lie; and often do they ask us to come and sit down among them, to teach them more fully what they ought to do, and how they should worship God.

The Rev. Andrew Frost, who resigned a living in England to devote himself to Missionary work, having completed his first year at this station, thus describes his employments and his prospects, November 23, 1854—

In the mornings, early, since I could make myself understood, I have had a class of boys from an adjoining Marathí school, who come daily for scriptural instruction. I thus learn more the sad darkness of the heathen mind on all subjects connected with morality. But still I am encouraged by the assurance in my own mind, that the entrance of God's truth, and that alone, gives light. During the day I prosecute my studies in the language, encouraged by the hope of future usefulness. I rejoice to have been able to retain the kind feeling of the resident Europeans of Nasik while carrying out my purpose, formed before leaving England, of declining all visiting, as I was very desirous to show the natives that it was for their good, in every sense of the word, that I came here. I have thus been able to give my evenings to such natives as I could induce to visit me for friendly intercourse. The senior class from our English school have come to me usually twice in the week, and I have endeavoured to give their minds a right bias, by stimulating them to sincere and impartial inquiry after truth, whether in natural science or in religion. At times I have had visits from other natives, and have endeavoured so to introduce the great ends of my mission as not to deter them from further visits. I should rejoice if I might be a leaven amidst this mass of superstition and degradation of mind and soul. It has been my anxious endeavour, since reaching my station, to cement brotherly union and love in our little Missionary body. A monthly meeting has, we all believe, been made useful to us, nor can it fail to prove increasingly so, having for its means the word of God, and prayer.

I am more and more struck with the resemblance between the position held by the Brahmins and by the Pharisees in the time of our Lord. While the fact of one of our native deacons and catechists being Brahmins by caste reminds us that the grace of God is not limited, I feel that the long-continued hostility of that body to the gospel, and the willingness of the Hindus, misled by them, to listen to the word of reconciliation, entitles the latter to our most earnest endeavours.

I would merely close my letter by saying, that although this first year has not been without its great trials and discouragements, yet I can record, with thankfulness to Him that has kept us hitherto, that since my first offer of service to the Society I have never regretted the step I then took. For three years I had considered the subject, and the view which I was led to take of Mission work was founded on the promises of Scripture and the experience of others, and I felt, and still feel, persuaded that each successive Missionary must be prepared to "let patience have its perfect work." The holy devotedness of such men as Dixon, Warth, Valentine, and others, is a stimulus to us who have entered on their work. Would that we may have grace to be followers of them, even as they were of Christ.

JUNÍR.

In consequence of the failure of the health of the native minister, the Rev. Daji Pandurang, this station has been, during a part of the year, deprived of superintendence. He is now returned in re-established health, and an European Missionary, the Rev. C. F. Schwarz, has been appointed to the station. He arrived at the close of the year.

MALLIGAUM.

This station has been under the charge of the native minister, the Rev. James Bunter, who reports that he has had encouragement: though the congregation had diminished through the falling away of some nominal Christians, the conduct of those who remained had been satisfactory. The native Christians only number 23, and one family at Dhulia. Five persons, 4 being adults, had been baptized during the year. Preaching to the heathen had been diligently carried on, and a large number of tracts sold and distributed. There are two schools, one English and one Marathí. The Committee is greatly indebted to the zealous chaplain of the station, the Rev. C. Laing, for his kind supervision of the operations at this station.

KARACHÍ.

The Sindh Mission was, at the commencement of the year, under the sole charge of the Rev. A. Matchett, assisted by the native catechist, Mr. Seal, since admitted to holy orders. In the course of the year it has been strengthened by the addition of the Rev. James Sheldon, the Rev. Dr. Trumpp, and Mr. Goodall, a trained schoolmaster.

Missionary Tour—Translations, &c.

In the early part of the year Mr. Matchett proceeded on a Missionary tour, in company with the native convert Abdullah. They went as far northward as Khanghur, preaching and disputing, in both cities and villages, concerning the doctrines of the gospel. The reception they met with varied as usual. Many of the people were indifferent to religion, and stood by during the time of preaching only out of curiosity: others took a much more lively interest, which sometimes showed itself in a wild determination to say something, no matter what, in defence of the errors which had been exposed, and sometimes in a willingness to enter into quiet and sober discussions as to which religion was true. Mr. Matchett adds—

What has been the result of all this is not apparent. My ground of comfort and confidence is this, that all these people are the lawful subjects of my Lord; and that, as He has appointed His word and Spirit for the spreading of His kingdom, which cometh not by observation, so the Spirit and the word must be successful.*

Mr. Matchett, Mr. Sheldon, and Mr. Seal, were in the habit last hot season of preaching twice a week in the Karachí bazar, the attendance varying between 20 and 60. Mr. Matchett adds—

During the same period a large portion of my time was spent in revising and re-revising Munshí Abdullah's Sindhí translation of St. Matthew's Gospel, and in carrying it through the press. A few chapters only remain to be printed. There have also been translated into Sindhí, and printed at our Mission press, several little books for the Sindhís, such as the parables of our Lord; the miracles, with an introduction, stating some tests of a prophet; the Sermon on the Mount; Bible history; Uncorruptedness of the Bible; a little Catechism, explaining some of the leading truths of the Bible; the Church Catechism, got ready in anticipation of Sindhí catechumens; the Ten Commandments; the Rev. Mr. Simpson's admirable little Primer, prepared by the Christian-Knowledge Society; the Tarikul Higmēt, elucidating as simply as possible the doctrine of gravitation. This last book gave the young Sindhís much pleasure. When it was explained to them why an apple falls, why any thing is light or heavy, why and how the earth moves round the sun, &c., there seemed to come an additional ray of intelligence into their minds, for it beamed forth upon their sweet young faces.

* Further accounts of this tour are given in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for Nov. and Dec. 1854.

The school has been carried on by Mr. Seal. The attendance has been reduced, owing to several causes, but it is hoped that, under God's blessing, it will be brought to a better state by the exertions of Mr. Goodall.

The small native-Christian church at this station, comprising only 14 members, has set a good example by commencing at once collections for the Society, as a mark of their sense of the mercies they have received. Their collections have amounted to more than 4*l.* in the year.

Second Tour, to Shikarpur, &c.

Mr. Matchett left Karachí in November for a Missionary tour with Mr. Seal, in which he was still engaged at the close of the year. He went as far north as Shikarpur, and returned to Hyderabad, from whence he made a tour through Lar country, in company with the Rev. Andrew Burn, who has a good knowledge of the Sindhí. The Mahommedans seemed everywhere to shun discussion, but they had otherwise good congregations, to whom they preached the gospel.

CALCUTTA AND NORTH-INDIA MISSION.

(European Missionaries first arrived in 1816.)

1 Ordained Native Missionary.	30 Native Catechists.
9 European Catechists and Teachers.	50 Native Scripture Readers.
2 European Female Teachers.	223 Native Teachers & Schoolmasters.

General View.

THE statistical returns from all the stations in North India show that there are now more than 7500 native Christians under the care and instruction of this Society, being an increase of more than 400 in the course of the year: 1150 are communicants. The number of scholars under instruction amounts to 8395, being an increase of 900 during the year: the number of schools has also been increased from 113 to 134. The number of Missionaries and Missionary labourers is also increased, and an encouraging feature in that increase is, that it has been greatly owing to the accession of no fewer than five Europeans residing in the country. One of these is no common case. Lt.-Col. Martin, late of the 9th Regiment N.I., having served the government and the country well and faithfully for about thirty years as a military officer, has now come forward to enlist in the ranks of the faithful followers of the Saviour as a labourer in the Mission field. Instead of retiring at the end of a long term of service, to enjoy his pension and an ample private fortune amidst the ease and comforts of his native land, he has gone as a Lay Missionary assistant to the van of our Missionary forces at our frontier Station at Peshawur. He had been long known as a warm and munificent friend of Missions in India; he had observed the Missionary work for many years at Benares, Lahore, and other stations; and he had more lately travelled on a Missionary tour with Mr. Clark through Kashmír, and taken his part in addressing the people. With all this knowledge and experience he has identified himself with the Missionaries of the Society. Surely this instance may serve to show the world that there is something in Missions which can commend itself to those who have no temporal inducements to undertake it; and it may serve also to stir up younger men at home to exchange the comforts of their native land for a work which brings with it its own reward and compensation.

Another encouraging fact in connexion with the North-India Mission is the very large amount of local contributions to the operations of the Society, especially in the north-west provinces and the Punjab. By these funds have been met the enlargement and endowment of Jay Narain's school in Benares, the erection of a Mission church at Agra, and the contingent expenses of the Peshawur station. The whole amount reported in North-India as received in the course of last year was upwards of 13,000*l*.

CALCUTTA.

This Mission has been carried on under the superintendence of the same Missionaries as in the former year, the Rev. Messrs. Sandys, Long, and Stuart, and Mr. De Rozario at Agurpara.

Baptisms.

Between 50 and 60 Christian baptisms have taken place at this station during the year: 13 have been adults.

Amongst those admitted into the Christian church was a Mahommedan of some repute in his sect, and a good Persian and Arabic scholar, who patiently and diligently attended for many months the instruction of Mr. Sandys. He was a Daghestani Mogul, by name Hajee Nejaff Kooly. Eighteen years ago he had visited, as a pilgrim, Nejaff, three days' distance from Bagdad, where is the kerbela, a magnificent mosque erected over the tomb of Hossein. Seven years ago he made also a pilgrimage to Mecca, seeking in vain, in these things, for peace of mind. While residing for a time in Bombay, in pursuit of his business as a jewel merchant, a military officer gave him a copy of Martyn's Persian New Testament and other Christian books, which he read with so much interest, that he resolved to proceed to Calcutta and learn the way of God more perfectly. Here he found peace in the knowledge of Christ. The name he bore signified "the servant or attendant on the tomb of Ali at Nejaff;" and as he wished to renounce this name at his baptism, he adopted that of Abdool Messi, to denominate his new character as the servant of Messiah, and wishing also to follow in the steps of the early convert of our Society who bore that name, in making known the truth to his countrymen. He has already commenced addressing the Mahommedans in the bazars in Calcutta.

Thakerpuker.

This village station, eight miles from the nearest part of Calcutta, is under the superintendence of the Rev. J. Long, who, with Mrs. Long, spends there three full days each week, inclusive of Sunday: the other days of the week are devoted to the English school and Mission work generally in Calcutta. A neat church has been erected at Thakerpuker, and opened at the beginning of the year, for the use of the native Christians, who number nearly 300. There are boarding-schools for 70 Christian children, and a day-school for 140 heathen children. All the instruction given at this station is vernacular. The district is wholly agricultural. Mr. Long has with great success taught and trained the village teachers, and brought the whole community to a degree of intellectual and moral improvement, which would bear comparison with many villages at home. Mr. Long notices the benefit which the people derive from catechetical instruction in Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, "which brings the great practical truths of Christianity before them in a way peculiarly suited to an oriental mind."

The Rev. G. G. Cuthbert thus describes the educational success of Mr. Long at Thakerpuker—

The schools at Thakerpuker are examples to stimulate and encourage earnest and painstaking endeavours for the elevation of our youthful native-Christian population. When it is recollected that, about four years ago, there was no Christian school at Thakerpuker; that the teachers of the heathen school there were of the most ordinary class, i.e. knowing nothing whatever of the business of teaching further than merely driving by rote and the cane the contents of certain commonplace lesson-books into the memories of some thirty or forty boys; and when we now find this same school for heathen boys much enlarged and improved, with mostly the same teachers, brightened up, lively, intelligent, and, to all appearance, really interested in their work; teaching a much enlarged course of lessons with considerable vigour and energy; when we find, too, that since then two boarding-schools have been formed for Christian boys and Christian girls, containing together about seventy cleanly, well-ordered, and highly intelligent-looking children, from about seven to thirteen years of age; when you come to examine these children, and find that the upper classes, both boys and girls, can read and write their own language well; that they have acquired a very satisfactory knowledge, for their time of life, &c., of arithmetic, geography, history of their own country, church history, and natural history—the boys advancing further in all these branches than the girls, but the girls' proficiency not being contemptible; that they can draw maps—reducing the scale from a very large to a small one—some of them very well indeed, so that some of their maps are sold; that they are trained in industrial employments also, gardening, rope-making, boat-rowing—as their district is half water—and the girls, in addition, needlework and house-work, two or three at a time taking turns to cook for themselves and the boys; when, above all, you find that their scriptural instruction is by no means neglected, that they can answer as well at least, in most parts of the Bible, as the pupils of many schools where scarcely any thing else is taught; and when you further recollect, that not only had the raw material to be dug out of its native quarry, but the tools to be made to hew, to shape, and to polish it; or, in other words, that these children were, four or five years ago, nearly all rude, wild, untaught little savages, running naked about their marshy jungles, and most of their teachers little superior to themselves; when we consider all this, I think it may fairly be said, that what is now to be seen at Thakerpuker, though not extraordinary in itself, presents an interesting and encouraging example of what earnestness of purpose and diligent application of mind, energetic personal exertion, and patient perseverance, can do, even in India.*

BURDWAN.

Baptisms—Village Preaching, &c.

The Missionary duties of this Station have been discharged by the Rev. B. Geidt and the Rev. A. P. Neele. The former writes, at the date Oct. 26, 1854—

* A further account of Thakerpuker may be seen in the "Church Missionary Gleaner" for Dec. 1854, pp. 142—144.

The Missionary conference has been held here, and we had a delightful meeting together. Last Sunday particularly was a blessed day, long to be remembered. Mr. Lipp preached in Bengali in the morning, Mr. Schurr in English, and Mr. Lincke gave an address to the natives in the afternoon; after which I had the privilege of adding eleven members by baptism to our congregation—one family, consisting of father, mother, and a boy, seven children, both heathen and Christian, and a promising youth, the first from our vernacular schools at Burdwan who has come forward to embrace Christianity. He attended my school above five years, and is above sixteen years of age. How great our joy was—particularly mine—you can easily imagine, on seeing the first-fruits of these vernacular schools, after so many years of toil and labour, one of them having been established thirty-seven years ago.

The Rev. A. P. Neele assists in the general duties of the station. He preaches in the villages, and has occasionally accompanied Mr. Geidt in his Missionary tours, of which he writes—"Though no immediate fruit of our labours was apparent, I could not but return home thanking God, and taking courage."

Education.

This department is more especially under the superintendence of Mr. Neele, who reports at the close of the year—

With reference to the English school I may report, that on the whole it has been encouraging. In point of numbers, though small, it exceeds the expectations I formerly made. In Sept. 1853 I had to report an average attendance of only 30; in Sept. 1854 the number had amounted to 80; and the average still remains between 80 and 90. The reason why we cannot obtain a larger school than this is, that there is in Burdwan another English school entirely and most liberally supported by the rajah. It has the patronage of government, and is regularly visited by the civilians of the station in rotation, and has likewise the advantage of large scholarships and presentations to the government colleges.

The female-schools and infant-schools are superintended by Mrs. Neele. Of these Mr. Neele writes—

The conduct and progress of the children is, on the whole, very encouraging, mingled, of course, with occasional instances of a trying nature. The great and pleasing difference between the Christian girls who have been regularly instructed, and the children of the heathen, is remarked by all; and it is a strong testimony to the value of such a school to observe its beneficial effect in providing good and suitable wives for our Christian young men during the short period of two years which we have been here. Several from the school have married, and are now performing, consistently and happily, the duties of Christian wives and mothers. The funds for the support of these schools are entirely derived from private contributions. We have to thank several kind friends in England, to some of whom we are even unknown by face, for their subscriptions, and for boxes of ladies' work which are sent out, and disposed of here. Many of the residents in the station likewise subscribe monthly to the support of our schools.

KRISHNAGURH.

General View.

The stations in this district, the labourers, and the statistics of the Mission, remain as in the former year. The number of native Christians is about 5000.

Mr. Blumhardt notices the encouragement which the Mission received from a visit of the Bishop of Calcutta, who held confirmations at two of the Stations, and warmed the hearts of the labourers by his fervent piety and love. The Lieut. Governor of the North-west Provinces—who visited the Mission establishments, examined the schools, and made a careful inquiry into the circumstances and character of the native converts to Christianity—expressed his gratification with what he had witnessed. The reports from the different Mission stations are of varied complexion. The converts mingled among the heathen show scarcely any signs of spiritual life, and too many of them scarcely keep up the semblance of Christianity. But of the larger part, who live in Christian villages surrounding the Mission stations, the report is more encouraging, though, from their isolated and remote positions, these Christian communities exercise but a feeble influence upon the mass of the heathen population in the district. The stations of Santipur and Nuddea, lately taken up, will have a far more important influence, should it please God to raise up native converts in those towns.

The annual reports of the Missionaries have not yet arrived, but Mr. Krückeberg, the senior Missionary, remarks—

During two or three preceding years the people appeared more reluctant than ever to read our Scriptures. A change for the better is evidently stealing over the native mind. As observed on a former occasion, Christianity is growing on them, and supplants by degrees a faith which does not live in their hearts, but only in their habits. The only disadvantage is, that they treat Christianity in somewhat the same fashion, not receiving it into the heart, but into the habit only.

Krishnagurh.

Mr. Schurr, in his annual letter, enters more particularly into the state of his people, and draws the following graphic description of a Christian village. Having noticed the unsatisfactory state of many nominal Christians residing among the heathen, six or eight miles from the Mission station, he adds—

The other 507 Christians are living around the Mission premises, in houses which they have built themselves. Among these there is more encouragement. They visit church regularly on Sundays, and about 40 or 50 attend the evening service, which I conduct myself, so they afford me an opportunity to explain and apply the word of God regularly. They also send their children willingly to school, with but one or two exceptions, and begin to understand that instruction is, after all, profitable, and to be desired, for its intrinsic value, more than any thing else. When comparing my Christians with the untutored people of other places, what a striking and pleasing difference! About twenty married women of my place can be collected for reading the Scriptures with me: their faces are bright and their hearts cheerful, and it is not without reason and evidence that I believe this reading to have proved a blessing. When a visitor comes, the Christians, both men and women, appear before their houses with smiling faces. Their houses and premises are also kept in pretty nice order, without compulsion. Their quarrelsome nature has also greatly changed, for they live now more peaceably together than formerly, and assist each other in brotherly love, although this is not carried to that extent which people in Europe would fain expect. We must consider the wickedness and darkness from which they have emerged, and thank God for the good that exists. Our monthly Missionary prayer-meetings are continued, and the Christians contribute generally above one rupee, which is a considerable sum for them, for they are all either poor cultivators or day-labourers. However, I am pleased to add, that, through their industry, they are gradually rising in prosperity, and day-labourers soon change their occupation for a few acres of ground, with which I can but be pleased, for they render themselves thus independent of support, and will soon be able to render support to the Mission—in fact, have already begun.

Our Missionary prayer-meeting contributions are to meet the extra travelling expenses of their own Missionary brethren, i.e. readers. Last November I made the arrangement that all who were able to feed their children at home should do so, and send them only for instruction: a considerable number are acting on this plan. As we cannot break off every thing at once, we give them clothes every six months, but I dare say this will also be discontinued in future: however, we must wait for greater prosperity of our Christian house-fathers.

In September 1853 my seraphine was destroyed by falling into a river, when crossing. My Christians at once willingly subscribed to their uttermost ability, above 60 rupees, and collected the rest from friends, to purchase a new instrument for the church, as they could not do without it.

The moral tone of the whole community has decidedly been raised. During last year three immoral characters ran away by stealth, because they could not gratify their wicked desires here as they liked. All the 507 living here are baptized: 3 women and 39 children were baptized during the course of the year: 74 have been regular communicants. During the celebration of the Lord's supper a holy solemnity pervaded the whole assembly, not a whit inferior to any in Europe. Several of them demonstrate their faith and love to a crucified Saviour by a consistent life. They have also volunteered to defray the chapel expenses, and paid already for 1855 in advance.

The lending fund has already doubled, and proved a great help to our Christians. It is considered common property: no one, however, can alienate it but myself. The readers manage it most faithfully and capitably, and I have nothing to do with it at all.

Education—Mr. Hasell's Schools.

The Rev. S. Hasell has charge of three English schools at Krishnagurh, Nuddea, and Santipur, besides Sanskrit and Bengali schools in the same places. In a return made to an official inquiry from Mr. Halliday, the lieutenant-governor of Bengal, Mr. Hasell stated that the number of scholars in all is more than 1000; that the holy Scriptures are read, or scriptural instruction is given, in almost all the classes: even the sons of pundits and gosais exhibit no unwillingness either to read the Bible at school or to study it at home; that all the pupils make monthly payments; that there are no scholarships or any advantages held out to the pupils beyond a better education than they can obtain in their native schools. In the conclusion of his official report Mr. Hasell writes—

Permit me to say that it is to me a ground of rejoicing that the day has at last dawned upon Bengal, in which those to whom the guardianship of its millions has been entrusted take so lively an interest in the work of Missions.

In the month of June a deputation from the Calcutta Corresponding Committee visited these schools. The Rev. H. S. Fisher, one of the senior chaplains at Calcutta, thus reports the result of their inspection of the schools—

The school at Santipur is most interesting, containing about 400 fine, intelligent native youths, the vast majority of them being Brahmins, and a good many gosais—or what used to be called Gentu bishops—who were scarcely ever known to attend a Christian school before in these parts. The examination proceeded very satisfactorily; indeed, considering the short time the school has been in existence—about a year only—surprisingly satisfactorily, and so as to do very great credit to the zeal, skill, and judgment of the Rev. S. Hasell, who has been the means of bringing the whole to its present state. Several native gentlemen from the neighbourhood attended and took part in the examination, at the close of which the whole number of youths were gathered together in a large verandah, and rewards, in the shape of useful books, distributed to a great many of the most deserving. Altogether this is a most encouraging school, and all felt that it should by no means be discontinued.

Thence the party proceeded on by palanquin to Krishnagurh, twelve miles distant, and next day examined the Missionary schools at that fine station. There is a government college, and, besides, one or two opposition schools there, so that there is not the same number of boys available as at Santipur; but there were near 200 present in the English school, and their proficiency was highly respectable: they have advanced further in their studies—as was to be expected—than in the newly-formed institution at Santipur.

But perhaps the most interesting, and certainly the most novel scene of all, was at Nuddea, whither the party went on Thursday. Nuddea, that celebrated and sacred place of Brahminical learning, lies about six miles from Krishnagurh, but at the other side of the river, and just at the point where the Jellinghi and Bhaguretty unite their waters and form the Hughly, that being, in the estimation of the Hindus, a peculiarly sacred spot, as is the junction of the Ganges and Jumna at Allahabad; and when the wind, as on the day in question, blows strongly up the river from the south, the passage across is an extremely rough one, not unattended with danger. In the Nuddea schools, which have been established a good many years, but have extended greatly during the last year, there are above 200 of the finest Hindu youths that can be seen. Many of them are sons of the great pundits of that “Oxford of Bengal”—men whose fathers would have scoffed in the loftiest scorn at the bare idea of any of their descendants seeking instruction in a Christian school, or so much as sitting down within its walls, or touching its teachers and its books. Now they sit—even the sons of the very highest pundits in the place—on the same benches with Christian and other boys, and read the Bible and other Christian books without objection. These boys have a look and a bearing indicative of their high birth and pretensions; in fact, quite gentlemanlike—spirited, yet quiet; respectful, but highly intelligent. There is here, as at Santipur, a Sanscrit department, which Mr. Long examined. The lads—though of course not far advanced, as the school has been so lately revived—answered very satisfactorily in the subjects studied during the year, and seemed much rejoiced to receive the rewards in the shape of useful books distributed amongst them at the conclusion. The deputation felt there was every reason to rejoice with Mr. Hasell in the encouraging success vouchsafed to his labours in these most flourishing and hopeful schools. Since the visit of the deputation, which appears to have had a very favourable effect on the people, the number of youths in the three schools has risen above 1000, so that Mr. Hasell has been obliged to decline further admissions, at least to Santipur.

BHAGULPHUR.

Confirmation by the Bishop of Calcutta.

The work of the Mission at this station still rests upon the single Missionary, the Rev. E. Droese. The early success with which it has pleased God to bless this station still continues, especially among the hill tribes. The venerable Bishop of Calcutta, after visiting the Station in his late tour, writes—

Mr. Drøese's Mission is one of the most striking instances that I have seen of solid and yet rapid success. I confirmed fifty of his converts, who had been baptized by him since the commencement of the Mission in 1850. A commodious church is being erected; and I took possession of it in the name of the Society, and addressed the candidates for confirmation in it.

The annual report of this Station has not yet been received.

BENARES.

The long-trying and faithful Missionaries who have for a quarter of a century sustained the duties of this Station, the Rev. Messrs. Smith and Leupolt, still labour in it. They are assisted by the younger brethren, Messrs. Fuchs, Wilkinson, Cobb, and Hubbard.

General View.

In their annual report the Missionaries “acknowledge that they are unable to report any great movement or success as regards their labours, yet they are thankful to say that the work has silently progressed.”

The native congregation has been somewhat diminished, owing to the removal from Benares, from various causes, of no fewer than 33 of the native converts, whilst only 27 children and 3 adults have been added by baptism. The number now remaining is 281. The conduct of the native Christians, with the exception of one individual, is reported as satisfactory. In a temporal point of view there has been a decided advance. The local report states—

Two of our Christians have obtained a footing in the city. They have for years desired to have equal privileges with the Hindus and Mussulmans, and they have at length obtained them, chiefly through the exertions of the late excellent magistrate. The position of our native Christians among their own countrymen being thus obtained, its effects will be beneficially felt in our work. Gharwa has also this year been converted into a permanent branch Mission. The number of our Christians located there is small, only nineteen; yet there also, thank God, we have gained ground. The difficulties we have had to struggle with have been formidable, and more than once have I feared—though never expressed it—that we should be obliged to abandon agriculture. Those who have native Christians engaged in farming will understand me best. In the first place, none of our better class of men ever engaged in farming, and scarcely ever any man, until lately, engaged in it from choice: hence they toiled heavily on, and always despaired of success. This greatest of all obstacles, however, seems to be removed. One lad, a farmer from choice, has made himself independent of our aid. Being in want of a village chokedar, and knowing him to be an active and thoroughly honest man, the place was offered to him. He declined accepting it, and said, “I wish to be a farmer. I shall till the ground diligently, and trust to the Lord for His blessing.” He has succeeded. His success stirred up others. Last year they all paid their rent; and this year, if the Lord continue to bless their toil—for toil still it is—they will all be independent. They will be able to pay their rent in full, have something to spare, lay in a stock of provision for consumption, and provide their own seed for the ensuing season. Some of our friends may smile at these remarks, but to me they are a cause of sincere joy, for I see that success is not beyond our reach.

Those who are acquainted with the difficulties of securing the means of self support to the native converts in India, will fully appreciate the importance of such humble records as the foregoing.

Preaching to the heathen.

The preaching in the city, and, during the cold season, Missionary tours into surrounding districts, have been prosecuted as in former years.* Mr. Smith writes—

I have had several interesting inquirers for a longer or shorter time; but not one has had strength and courage to take the decisive step. One case—that of a Brahmin in the city—was particularly interesting. He had been a great enemy and bitter opponent. I met him after the re-commencement of my work in the city in March. He seemed different, and gradually improved, and became more and more earnest every time I met him. I gave him a New Testament, which he read carefully, together with the Satmat Nirúpan, &c. At last he began to come to my house. But alas! as the event showed, he had not, it is to be feared, “root in himself.” One day, when I was at Bhyronath, he came to me with tears in his eyes, and the books under his arm, with a cloth over them, and entreated me to take them back, stating that he could not stand the gathering storm. I tried to dissipate his fears, and to encourage him to keep them a little longer; but to no purpose. He put the books down on a stool by me, and went off. I have not seen him since, nor our people either. O Lord, pity him!

I have no doubt there is a work going on in the minds of many; but when it is to be manifested I know not. Moses wanted to hasten by forty years the redemption of Israel from Egypt; but “my counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure.” The young Brahmin, mentioned above, told me, in one of our conversations, that the people of the city knew, and acknowledged among themselves, that they had no solid answer to our statements, but that it was necessary for them to make a show and bluster, and appear to say something. We are, at all events, showing them, as I often think, a great moral spectacle in continuing, notwithstanding their opposition and enmity, to go amongst them, and hold up Christ crucified before them. They also, on their part, are exhibiting a great moral spectacle in continuing to refuse to “look” and “be saved,” instead of abusing and blaspheming.

Mr. Leupolt makes the following important remark in connexion with one of his recent Missionary tours—

* Mr. Smith's Journal of one such tour is given in the “Church Missionary Intelligencer” for January 1855, pp. 10—18.

On this excursion one most important fact was brought home to my mind with renewed force, viz. the great importance of our preaching in the city of Benares. Benares being considered the holy city of India, people come from all parts of the country hither on pilgrimage. Hence we often meet with very pleasing men, and yet are disappointed in them. We see them a few times, they listen attentively, converse with us, seem somewhat impressed, hope is raised in our minds that some of the good seed may have taken root, but the men disappear, and we see nothing more of them. The reason of this is, that these men had come to Benares merely on pilgrimage, and consequently stayed but a few days. Our preaching in the city, therefore, is in some measure about equal to continual itinerating.

Mr. Broadway, who engages in bazar preaching as far as the duties of the college will permit, gives the following affecting statement of the moral degradation of the Hindus—

The work, like the preceding year's, presents no tokens of advancement. The people listen attentively to the gospel, and acknowledge the purity of its morals, and likewise its good motive: still, the most convincing arguments, as to the absolute need of their embracing it, seem to produce no effect on them. They still feed upon delusive dreams, considering life to consist of vanity and sorrows, and that death will either annihilate them, or transmit them into some other form, in order to undergo a greater degree of misery or happiness. They consider God to be seated on His throne clouded with darkness and beset with judgment, consigning souls, as they approach Him, to various bodies, according to their works in this world. They have no immediate access to God, or any suitable worship to pay to Him which would be heard and answered; consequently they cherish no great hope, but are confined to the present times, and all beyond it is covered with darkness.

Jay Narain's College.

This institution has, during the last year, had the able superintendence of Mr. Cobb, assisted by two other Missionaries, Messrs. Wilkinson and Hubbard, and a large staff of assistants. The chief officer of government, Mr. H. Carre Tucker, also, a most zealous supporter of all Christian works, has extended a special patronage to this school. And the lieutenant-governor, Mr. Colvin, who succeeded that distinguished and lamented friend of Missions, Mr. Thomason, has given a gracious and cordial assurance that he will follow in the steps of his predecessor in extending his patronage to this college. Under all these auspicious circumstances, the college has been placed in the first rank of the educational establishments of India. It has been recognised in a government order, which records the object of the native founder of the college, and adds—

The Church Missionary Society has shown itself faithful to its trust, as far as its resources has permitted. Education has been carried on with increasing success by its Missionaries, who have been appointed, either directly to the Institution, or to superintend it in connexion with their other duties.*

A more important mark of official favour has been conferred during the last year upon this school, in common with those of the London and Baptist Missionary Societies in Benares. They have been placed upon the same footing as the government college in respect of their pupils becoming candidates for government offices of high salary and responsibility, provided, in each case, that a prescribed standard of knowledge be attained. This privilege is important, not only in respect of the encouragement which it gives to Missionary schools, but also because it will help to dissolve the spell of caste, inasmuch as, hitherto, responsible employments under government have been practically confined to high-caste men, as they alone received a superior education. Now a large class of lower-caste boys, who comprise the great mass of Christian converts, as well as the pupils of Missionary schools, may, by excelling in the studies of the school, compete with the more favoured castes. This important privilege was confirmed by government in October last; and, with a liberality and justice which reflect the highest credit upon the government of the North-west Provinces, a standard of attainment for the Missionary schools has been fixed in reference to their course of study, in which the Bible, Paley's Evidences, and Butler's Analogy, are to be substituted in the place of the moral and philosophical works adopted as the standard in the government schools.

The number of pupils upon the books of this school, at the close of the year, was 581, being an increase of 60. "The principal has great satisfaction in testifying to a marked improvement in regularity and punctuality of attendance among both masters and boys." Much interest has been manifested in the school by native gentlemen in a high position of society. One of these, a Judge in one of the courts of law, has given gratuitously a course of lectures on law to a class composed of twenty-two of the most advanced Urdu scholars. In addition to this branch of secular study, provision has also been made for the pupils studying medicine and practical science. But the great object of every Missionary school has been steadily kept in view. The Bible and religious instruction pervade the whole system, and every opportunity is embraced of pressing home upon the conscience the personal message of the gospel of Christ. In addition to the instruction of the principal and his assistants, the two experienced Missionaries, Messrs. Smith and Leupolt, have given lectures in the school upon the evidences and doctrines of Christianity. The spiritual results of these labours are not as yet manifest in actual conversions. Only one pupil, a Brahmin, eighteen years of age, has had the moral courage to avow himself a Christian, and he was obliged to remove from Benares to receive baptism, to escape the peril which his infuriated relatives would have brought upon him. Nevertheless, the principal is able to cherish much hope that the truth is working in very many minds; and one remarkable proof must be stated of an approach towards the kingdom of heaven, which will be appreciated by those who have an intimate knowledge of the native character. A special day was set apart by the Missionaries for humiliation and prayer on behalf of the Mission. The principal told his pupils that the Christians were on the morrow to assemble in their church to pray to God for a blessing on their work, and, among other parts of it, upon the college, and that if any of them should like to attend they were at liberty to do so. To his surprise and delight, more than ninety came to the public service in the church, “the Brahmins and Sanskrit students sitting down on the same carpet with outcast Christians.” One further extract must be given from the principal’s report—

The principal wishes to testify, that of all the 900 boys who—including those struck off during the year—have been in connexion with the institution in the past year, he is only aware of four cases of boys objecting to read the Scriptures, and only of one actually withdrawing himself from scriptural teaching. With so little truth can it be alleged that we run the risk of driving the natives from education altogether, if we will seek to give them that which can make them wise unto salvation. With their unpractical and metaphysical turn of mind, a mere speculative reception of Christianity is a far more ostensible and formidable enemy.*

JUANPUR.

Appeal for Sympathy and Prayer.

The Rev. C. Reuther resides at this station, where there is a small flock of 20 native Christians, which has only received the addition of one convert during the past year. The patient and laborious Missionary earnestly pleads for the sympathy and prayers of the friends of Missions, on behalf of a people more than usually indifferent to the gospel message. In his annual letter at the close of the year he writes—

* An interesting account of a visit paid by the Bishop of Calcutta to this Institution may be seen in the “Church Missionary Gleaner” for May 1855, pp 51—53.

When I first commenced bazar preaching in Juanpur the people were very attentive; we used to have large congregations at our preaching-places; many people heard us gladly, and came frequently for religious and friendly discussion; and I could not but hope that the Holy Spirit would stir up and quicken the dead and dry bones. However, the Lord's hour was not yet come. All these hopeful signs have passed away, and at present we can sometimes scarcely obtain a hearing in the city. Some are, like Nicodemus of old, afraid of coming near us, lest they should be seen by others. The greater number are indifferent and careless; and the more bigoted among the Hindus cry, "Ràm kì gai!" (All hail to Ràm!) when they see us, whilst the Mahommedans are altogether inimically inclined.

If there are just now any signs of encouragement at all among the heathen at Juanpur, they are to be seen in our schools, rather than in the preaching department. Our schools are five in number—a school for boys, another for girls, and a third, a Sunday school, in Juanpur; a boys' school at Zafarabad, and a fifth at Azimgurh. In these schools I think there are a number of boys well inclined.

GORRUCKPUR.

The Rev. F. A. Kreiss and the Rev. H. Stern have conducted the various departments of this Mission during the last year. The number of native Christians in the two congregations is 217. Mr. Kreiss reports—

The attendance on divine service is satisfactory. The preaching in the bazar has been regularly carried on. The zemindars of the district, who were in the habit of visiting Mr. Mengé, come also to me for conversation, and I gladly avail myself of the opportunity to speak with them. Several tours have been taken in the district, and in many of the villages we are gladly received. In Biti, a pretty large village, the headman, after we had finished our addresses, brought us some milk and sugar, saying, "You came here to give us the knowledge of the truth. We are not able to reward your trouble, but we hope you will not despise this little, for we gladly give it."

There are a few hopeful inquirers under instruction.

Education.

There is at this station an English school, containing 225 boys; but the want of an efficient European schoolmaster greatly retards the progress of the scholars, and prevents the extension of the work which might otherwise be attempted. Mr. Stern writes—

The public examination was held on the 29th of December 1854: 225 boys were present. The magistrate, C. Chester, Esq., presided; and, after the reciting of Persian and English poetry, gave away prizes, consisting of books, to the most deserving boys.

Previous to this, the boys were examined privately by three of the gentlemen of this station. Lieutenant-colonel Barney examined the boys in Hindí; Messrs. Lesser and Cooper, of the 32d native infantry, in Persian and English respectively. It was most gratifying to both the boys and teachers to see the interest taken by these gentlemen in their education; and this circumstance will raise the school in its estimation among the natives. Two of these gentlemen promised to look into the school from time to time, in future, for which I feel truly thankful.

AGRA.

The Missionary band at this station has been deprived of their mature and accomplished associate, the Rev. C. G. Pfander, who has been removed to open a new and important Mission at Peshawur; "a degree," says the local report, "which he had well earned for himself by his lengthened and successful labours in the gospel. As a true soldier of Jesus Christ, he has obtained promotion to a scene of increased toil and danger, in the forefront of the Missionary ranks." A young Missionary, Mr. Leighton, just entering upon his work, and a trained schoolmaster, have been added to this station.

Christian Congregations.

Mr. Pfander, till his removal, had charge of the Christian congregation in the city, numbering 150 souls. No material increase of members has taken place: the attention of the congregation to the means of grace is reported to be very satisfactory. A new Mission church, of superior character and dimensions, has been commenced, which will serve, it is hoped, to be a witness to the whole city of the Christian instruction dispensed amongst them. The expense has been chiefly met by local subscriptions, and a small grant from home. A second congregation at Secundra, comprising 394 souls, has been under the pastoral charge of Mr. Hoernle: this congregation, also, has received no material addition during the past year. "I should like," writes Mr. Hoernle, "to witness more spiritual life and genuine piety among them, and more growth in the Christian graces; but it would be ungrateful to the Lord not to acknowledge the work of grace in several families, who, by their steady walk and conversation, are ornaments in the congregation, and shining lights in the spiritual darkness round about them."

Preaching to the Heathen.

The preaching to the heathen in the city, and in the neighbouring villages, and in more lengthened Missionary tours, has been zealously carried on. Though at times the Missionaries are tried by the indifference of their hearers, and by the disappointment of their hopes in particular cases, "yet," writes Mr. Pfander, "I am not discouraged in this part of our work. It is of great importance daily to testify against the idolatry and sins of the people, and to bear witness before them to 'the truth as it is in Jesus.' And whenever I am enabled to do so with a warm heart, I return rejoiced and refreshed in spirit, though it may have been but a few who have heard the word."

Mr. French also thus describes the part which he takes in this work—

The city preaching I have continued as strength permitted. This I feel to be the strengthening part of my work. It may be my own fault; but school-work, without preaching, would, on account of its deadening and dispiriting effect, be almost insupportable. Catechetical labours with my boys supply me with subjects for preaching; and from preaching I return with quickened spirit to the task of catechizing. Standing among the people, I realize the privilege of being an evangelist and ambassador. Yet I regret to say I can point to no fruit. I often revert with pain to the parable of the "children sitting in the market-place;" because we have endeavoured to vary the message in every possible way, but unsuccessfully. Yet can we doubt that there are children of wisdom here also, who will rise up to be her justifiers?

Since the last report I have been able to take several Missionary journeys, all necessarily short; the longest about a fortnight, the others varying from eight to ten days. On two occasions I visited Allygurh, a city about fifty miles distant; population perhaps 30,000 or 40,000, with no Church Mission nearer than Agra. There is a greater readiness, on the whole, to listen there than at Agra. In another direction my interest has been awakened by a village in which there is a little knot of inquirers, more or less seriously disposed, the chief instructor of whom is a darzi, i.e. tailor, in humble circumstances, whose heart has been, in a remarkable manner, opened to the gospel, and his understanding enlightened; so that truths which the Hindus often profess to find unintelligible seem to have been apprehended and rejoiced in by him. The movement began even to extend to the thakurs, or higher families, in the village; upon which the pundit interfered with violent threats, and forbade all over whom he had any influence to visit the darzi's house. The poor man has undergone a good deal of persecution since I met with him at the beginning of the year; but the simplicity of his faith has been superior to the trial. Till the spring he had had no portion of the Bible, but only tracts; but at my second visit I left a New Testament with him. During another six months' interval I found he had learnt the value of the "treasure hid" in the gospel field, and had evidently been a careful, and, to some extent, a deep student. He did not seem to think he could hold his ground long. It is a remarkable instance of direct teaching of the Holy Spirit, with little or no aid from any human instrumentality. Here, surely, wisdom is justified! Three or four at the least have been, it would appear, touched by the communication of the truth to them through him. But how far they are prepared to share his afflictions I cannot say. Small as the success of the gospel in Agra must appear, relatively to that, notices of which reach us from other spheres of labour, it is yet not a small thing, we believe, in the sight of God and His holy angels, that we can point to a man in a Hindu village, who is enduring more sufferings for the gospel's sake than any probably who may read these pages.

On a subsequent visit, we were equally gratified by finding how remarkable a familiarity with the Psalms of David the same man had acquired in the course of two months. He could precede us from memory in parts, while we read the Psalms aloud. He only regretted that the Psalms were not metrical in Hinduwi, so as to be chanted in the native measures.

Discussion with Mahommedans.

A chief and very important feature in the Mission work, during the past year, has been a public discussion with learned Mahommedans, sustained by Messrs. Pfander and French, of which Mr. Pfander thus speaks—

The controversy with the Mahommedans has been revived by themselves, and taken up very warmly by some of their learned men here and at Delhi. We have reason to be glad of the movement, as it shows that the preaching of the gospel, and the publication of our books, together with the conversions which have taken place, have made an impression upon them, and roused them from the proud indifference, formerly assumed, to active though virulent opposition. It is a remarkable fact, that one of their champions expressed himself in his letters to me, again and again, very bitterly against the Missionaries' street preaching; showing evidently that even the Mahommedans are feeling the effect of it, though they form but seldom any part of the audience, and have of late kept still more aloof from us.

The circumstances which led to the public discussion are thus described by Mr. Pfander—

Some of the learned Mahommedans here, in connexion with several of their friends at Delhi, have been for the last two or three years hard at work in studying the Bible, reading the controversial books we have published, and searching out our commentaries and critical writers, not, indeed, with any view of learning the truth, but only to obtain materials for refuting it. The labour of searching our own writers has been taken up by the sub-assistant native surgeon here, a former student of the Calcutta Medical College, and, according to appearance, a very stout and bigoted Mahommedan.

The first-fruit of these united labours is the publication of two books, written by a young learned molwí, Rahmat Ullah, of Delhi. The author has informed me, that he, as well as some of his friends, are engaged in writing several other books—as, for instance, a refutation of the Mizan-ul-Haqq; a reply to the Hall-ul-Ishkal, and an answer to the Karachí Questions—and promises that all these shall be speedily published.

In January last—1854—during my absence, the molwí came to Agra to consult with his friends here about the publication of those books. During that time he called several times on Mr. French, for conversation and discussion, and expressed his regret at not having found me here. Soon after my return he sent one of his friends to me to propose a public discussion. I could not do otherwise than accept the proposal, although I was well aware that generally very little good is done by verbal public discussion. After mutual propositions and concessions, it was at last arranged that the discussion should take place at our old schoolrooms, in the Kuttra compound; that it should be carried on, on the part of the Mahommedans, by the molwí mentioned above, assisted by his friend the native sub-assistant surgeon, Wazír Khan, and on our side by myself, assisted by Mr. French; and that the points to be discussed should be, the abrogation and corruption of our Scriptures, as asserted by the Mahommedans; the divinity of Christ and the doctrines of the Holy Trinity; and Mahommed's pretended mission and the Korán.

The discussion was carried on for two successive days, lasting two hours each day, and was attended by most of the learned Mahommedans of the city, as also by a number of our friends and others. The native attendants were the first day about one hundred, and the second more than double that number.

The second morning the discussion was opened by me with putting the question, whether the gospel spoken of in the Korán was that now in use among the Christians? This point the molwí denied, saying that the passages did not refer to the gospel which was then in use among the Christians, but to that which had received no additions and alterations, and which contained nothing but Christ's own words. When asked to produce the gospel he was speaking of, or to mention the time when it had been altered into its present form, he declined both the one and the other, and asserted that the "various readings" which existed in the original copies, as acknowledged and stated by our own writers—as Horne, Michaelis, and others—were a sufficient proof that the gospel is not now what it originally was, but that great alterations and additions had been made to it. This deduction we denied as false, because not proved. To this the molwí had no other reply but his old assertion. He was then asked to agree to one or the other of the two following propositions: either to assent to the fact, that the contents and doctrines of the gospel are unaltered, and therefore allow truth and force of argument to all those passages which should, in the progress of the discussion, be brought forward in support of our Christian doctrines; or, if not acceding to that, he should produce, at the next discussion, proofs showing that the doctrines, commands, and facts, as now contained in the gospel, are different from those contained in the copies that existed before Mahommed. He declined both; upon which I told him that he had thus made it impossible to proceed. The molwí was quite willing to consider the discussion as closed, and the meeting then broke up.

My thus declaring the discussion as terminated was immediately made use of by some of the Mahommedans as a ground for asserting that the victory had been gained by them.

I now rather regret having allowed the molwí thus to get off. It would have been a better course if I had told him that I could not allow the discussion to stop here; that he must either establish his assertion, or allow us to go on with the discussion, and consent to any proof we should adduce from the gospel in establishing our arguments. Had he, in that case, still declined going on with the discussion, it would then have deprived him of the last ground for giving his retreat the appearance of victory. Truth would not have gained any thing by it, it is true, but it would have stopped false boasting.

Mr. Pfander thus concludes his observations on this controversy—

We hope, if spared, to avail ourselves of the opportunity this movement affords of making more widely known to the benighted followers of the false prophet “the truth as it is in Jesus;” and, as soon as our opponents have published their promised works, of writing such replies as may best secure that end. Mr. French has gladly agreed to take an active part in these labours, and the Rev. J. S. Jackson, of the Delhi Mission (of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel), will join us in them.

An incident connected with this controversy deserves to be mentioned: it is, the active assistance which some of the Roman Catholics have been lending to our Mahommedan opponents here, by supplying Wazír Khan, who knows English, both with books and arguments against us, or rather against the gospel. The bitter spirit, also, in which he spoke, in his letters to me, of the Protestants, and of Luther and Calvin, shows clearly the influence under which he has been; for the Mahommedans in general show a much greater regard for the Protestants than for the image-worshipping Roman Catholics, whenever they are aware of this distinction. We of course have nothing to fear from such combinations: neither Pilate nor Herod have prevailed against Christ and His gospel, nor will any combination of error, nor even the gates of hell, ever be able to overcome the truth. And the Roman Catholics have gained nothing, except that molwí Rehmatoolah, in his book against the Trinity, has liberally rewarded them with abundant abuse, and with unscrupulous misrepresentation of some of the Roman-Catholic doctrines and ceremonies.

I feel confident, that, however much the Mahommedans, or at least some of them, may boast against us in their ignorance and presumption, God, in His own way and in His own time, will bring much good out of this stir, and that the inquiry thus caused will yet lead many from among them to the knowledge of the truth. An instance of this kind I may mention, as exhibited in the case of a young Mahommedan student, who is studying Arabic under some learned molwí, in a small town at a distance from Agra, and who, in consequence of this stir among his people, was led to write to me, though we are personally quite unknown to each other, for copies of our controversial books, as well as of our holy Scriptures. When these books were sent him, his teacher much opposed the reading of them; but he firmly declared that he was resolved to inquire for himself, and that he would rather give up his Arabic studies than the reading of our books. Some of the letters he wrote me are of a very interesting character, and clearly proved that he is moved by a spirit of earnest inquiry. More than that I would, however, not say, having no personal acquaintance with the man. But we may hope that there are many others like him, and will pray that the work thus commenced may be carried on, and, under the influence of divine grace, may ripen into a full belief in Christ, and an open profession of Him.*

Education.

The Mission College has been under the superintendence of Messrs. French, Leighton, and Wright. Mr. French has been relieved of much of the routine labour which previously rested upon him. He writes, in his annual report—

A large portion of each day's measure of strength and vigour has been devoted to the College. I could not do otherwise than look upon its improvement as my first object. I have endeavoured to be very jealous over myself when I found in the character of my instructions any tendency to become secularized. This is what I dread, and therefore the conversion of souls to Christ is an object I strive to keep as distinctly in view in the school as in the bazar. The number of boys on the books has averaged about ten fewer than the former year. Though I should have been glad if it had been otherwise, yet I feel sure, that, were the very unfavourable circumstances known under which we have been working, it would be felt that we had rather reason to be thankful that the numbers, on the whole, have been sustained so steadily. Difficulties have been met according to the means we had at our disposal. I have been losing some of my oldest boys lately: they are among the first who have gone out from us with their education in any sense completed.

We look for much blessing, under God, from the new spirit which may be thrown into the institution by the arrival of our brethren from Europe. We have had nothing to flatter us as yet. The richer and more influential natives withhold both their interest and pecuniary support. Yet there are the elements of better things. The controversy with the molwís, in which Mr. Pfander took the principal part, stirred up at the time a good deal of feeling among the boys, the Hindus sometimes defending the Christian view against the Mahomedan; but the agitation, so far as it was undesirable, has long since passed, and only increased that wholesome measure of inquiry which we are always rejoiced to see. The questions sometimes proposed have been very interesting, and have exhibited considerable thought, and an awakening to the true purpose which Christianity was to accomplish in the world. The Epistle to the Hebrews always appears to arrest attention, and has a peculiar charm for my boys—at least I have found it so in the case of two different classes.

The vernacular schools are eight in number, and contain 348 children, comprising boys, girls, and infants.

The local report states, respecting this infant branch—

The two Christians—catechists—at this place have continued their work of faith and love during another twelve months, without having been permitted to see any more fruit than the fact of the knowledge of the gospel spreading more and more in the villages which form their sphere of labour. This I could easily perceive when I visited a number of those villages in the last cold season. Everywhere the people seemed to know what a man must do to be saved, and many did not hesitate to acknowledge the truth as it is in Christ. It gave me, moreover, joy to perceive, in many instances, that the people are attached to our Christians, and speak well of them and their visits to their villages. But further the impression does not go.

MÍRUT.

During the greater part of the year the whole labour of the superintendence of this station rested upon Mr. Lamb. At the close of the year he was joined by the Rev. A. Medland, and he has been able to procure an European schoolmaster from one of the regiments quartered in the place.

Christian Congregation.

Mr. Lamb thus reports respecting the congregation at the Mission chapel—

There are many circumstances in a Mission which cause joy to a Missionary; and one among the rest is, when he finds a necessity for increased accommodation for his flock. Latterly our congregation has been gradually increasing; so much so, that, in a late visit of the Secretary of the Corresponding Committee, he agreed with me that it was desirable for the church to be enlarged, and quite approved of my plan of doing so by taking in the east verandah as a chancel, which has been done, and affords accommodation for 50 more at a very moderate expense. It is very encouraging to be favoured with a visit from our Secretary, as we feel that our hands are strengthened, and the different wants of the Mission more easily explained than by correspondence. The number of our congregation amounts to about 170, among whom there are 60 communicants. During the year we have had six adult baptisms; and though fewer than usual, we are not left without hope, that, as there has been no diminution in the labour, but the usual zeal and activity displayed, an abundant harvest will yet some day be reaped. We have a few promising inquirers.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Mr. Lamb is assisted, in his pastoral labours with the native Christians, and in his preaching to the heathen, by valuable native catechists. Respecting the latter branch of the work he writes—

In addition to the preaching in the different bazars and city, daily visits have been paid to the neighbouring villages. From time to time I have received very encouraging statements from those who have paid these visits. Paul, who has had the most leisure for this work, having nothing to do in the schools, has been most frequently; and I have been much gratified, when, at the close of the day's work, he has related all that has been said and done. His opinion is, that the village people not only listen with much greater attention, but appreciate the visits that are made to them, and take a deeper interest in the subject brought before them. I am certainly of the same opinion, and feel convinced that they will much sooner be converted, from what I have experienced in my visits among them, having had so many opportunities of judging during the last eight years.

Mr. Lamb has also small congregations and a school at Bareilly and Landour, which may therefore be regarded as out-stations to Mírut. He visits these places as often as his other duties will admit, and makes his journeys in every sense itinerant preaching excursions.

Bareilly Branch.

There is here a congregation of about fifty converts, amongst whom there are nineteen communicants. Mr. Lamb writes—

The work here is only in its infancy, but is forming a good foundation upon which a healthy and flourishing Mission may be established. It is to be hoped that ere long a resident Missionary will be appointed, or even an European catechist, who would add fresh life and vigour to the work that is progressing. Unless this branch Mission is thus strengthened we cannot reasonably hope for great things. I had fully intended paying a second visit to the Mission during the year, but as my work at Mírut increased upon me, being single-handed, I could not possibly accomplish it.

Landour Branch.

At Landour and Mussoorie there are twenty-seven converts, comprising twenty communicants.*

JUBBULPUR.

Jubbulpur is a new station of the Church Missionary Society in Central India, on the road from Benares to Bombay, to which Mr. Rebsch was last year sent as a school teacher and lay Missionary labourer; several zealous Christian residents of the station having long desired to see a Mission opened there. It is a subject of no small thankfulness to find fruit already beginning to appear in this lately-stirred field: but, indeed, it has had some of the seed of the word scattered over it for some time past by the active zeal and labour of the servants of God, who have felt an interest in the place and its people: amongst them should be specified Mosely Smith, Esq., C. S., lately Commissioner, and the Rev. A. F. Dawson, formerly chaplain, and now retired from Indian service.

Christian Inquirers.

The following communication is from Mr. Rebsch—

Jubbulpur, Oct. 13, 1854—I think you will be thankful with us when I tell you that shortly we hope to receive the firstlings of this Mission into Christ's visible Church by baptism. There seems to be a work of God going on in a village near this, where we have a school now. Four men, among them the pundit I mentioned in my last to you, are anxious about their salvation. Some others are yet too timid to come forward; but we can trust, if the work is of God, to see in that place several families soon worshipping Christ as their Saviour, and only Mediator between God and man. The pundit is bearing now the greatest share of reproach for this, and is therefore desirous to be as soon as possible admitted into our church. He has at present not only to cope with the Hindus, but with learned Mahommedans, who try their best to confound these poor people, and prevent them from their object. The pundit received, twelve years ago, the New Testament, in Cawnpur, from Mr. Williams; but only the last six years, he says, he has been reading it with interest, not only in his family, but to those friends, of whom four have left off all idolatry, and wish to join our church too. They never met with a Missionary. Even when Mr. Smith was here they were too timid to come forward. Some are busy in the day-time to earn their bread, therefore they generally assemble together in the evening and night to read the word of God, and converse about the contents frequently till midnight. I have been among them at least once a week, and felt quite at home and happy.*

KOTGURH.

The Rev. Dr. Prochnow has been the Missionary at this station for the last year, and states in his annual report—

The Station school for boys has been suffering very much in consequence of the baptism last year, and of the stir which has been excited all over the district; and only lately, when a young intelligent man of the Rajput caste came forward, asking for instruction in the Christian religion, and breaking his caste of his own free accord, a panic spread over the people, and they will not send their children. This panic, and the fact that the pecuniary rewards the children used to receive, simply for attending the school, have been withdrawn, being considered, we cannot at all be surprised that the parents withhold their children from school. However, the desire for instruction is so great, that a short distance only from here the greater part of the old pupils, and some new ones, have assembled, and are instructed by a teacher brought up in our school. They read our Christian books, and are, at stated periods, visited and examined by me; but they will not come to Kotgurh, nor stay on the Mission compound, fearing they might be forced or bewitched into Christianity.

Kadshu, the son of the late Mukia Rania, who was baptized by Mr. Merk, has gone on well, and is engaged as probationer for the work of native catechist. He gives great promise of usefulness, if he continues to study the word of God and to pray diligently; and as he and his family are known over the hills, the influence he will be able to exercise, if well grounded in God's holy word, will be great. The other three youths have all drawn back; and though they confess that they believe on Christ Jesus as their Saviour, they cannot summon strength to bear His cross with Him and take His name upon them.

Itinerating labours.

Dr. Prochnow regards the opportunity of itinerating which Kotgurh affords as the most important department of his labour. He writes—

During the present year the duties of the station and neighbourhood prevented the Missionary from making extensive Missionary tours towards the boundary, as he intended; but, as soon as the station is supplied with schoolmasters, he intends to proceed, not for a short time merely, towards Thibet, but to settle down for some months near the boundary, spreading the Gospel message as far as possible. Two introductory tracts, one a small catechism of the chief Bible truths, the other a translation of Bible passages about idolatry, suitable to the lamas, have been prepared, with the assistance of a lama. They were written here by the lama on transfer paper, sent up for that purpose from Agra, and excellently lithographed at the Agra press for the Agra Tract Society. They are very much inquired after, and readily taken and read.

Industrial Schoolmasters.

The Trustees of the money bequeathed by the late Mr. Gorton for assisting the Kotgurh Mission have enabled Dr. Prochnow to carry out a measure which he has long desired, of establishing European industrial agents at the place, "who will endeavour, under the blessing of Almighty God, not only to teach the children in the schools, but also to train them, and to labour with them in the fields, introducing in this way habits of industry and perseverance, and also, if possible, new branches of industry and trade." Two German mechanics have already arrived at Kotgurh for this purpose.

KANGRA.

The Rev. J. N. Merk is the Missionary at this station, assisted by a native catechist. There is a small congregation of ten native Christians, and a school of forty-two children. Mr. Merk writes, in his annual letter at the close of the year—

I have visited, during the course of last year, every place of note about Kangra, and, from personal observation, I am convinced that Kangra presents an interesting and important field of labour.

Almost immediately after our arrival I commenced preaching the gospel in the bazars of Kangra, and in the surrounding villages. It has often met with much opposition, which, however, can scarcely be wondered at, if we remember that Kangra, and the neighbouring town of Jwalamukhi, are hotbeds of Hinduism in this part of the country. The beautiful and richly-decorated temples are strong proofs of this fact.* About 150 priests in each place—certainly a large number for comparatively small towns—are little pleased with my preaching, and do not take it quietly when I proclaim the gospel truths to the thousands who, from every part of India, come to visit these holy shrines.

The gospel is often listened to at Kangra quietly and attentively, and has, in the course of the last year, gained at least one victory in the conversion of an adult, a native of Lucknow. He was originally a Brahmin, became afterwards a gosain, and was for several years teacher of a boys'-school at Jwalamukhi, where I first became acquainted with him. After having given him regular instruction for some time, I baptized him in September last. His baptism was a solemn and joyful event. I am truly thankful to add, that Taphazul-hasih—that is his name—has since been going on very steadily. I trust the Lord has commenced a good work in him, and will also perfect it, and make him a blessing to others.

Soon after our arrival at Kangra, T. D. Forsyth, Esq., made over to me a school consisting of two classes—a Persian and a Sanskrit. All the boys were required by me to read the Bible. The Sanskrit class objected, and persisted in their determination to read nothing but the shasters, and even these not on the same floor with the Persian class. I would of course not give way, and the whole Sanskrit class left the school, while the Persian class submitted to my arrangement.

Most of the Europeans who last year resided at Dhurmsala, a hill station opposite Kangra, and about eleven miles distant from it, have shown a warm interest in our Mission, and given it their liberal support. As there is no chaplain at that Station, I have been requested by the residents to go over once or twice a month, in order to have divine service with them, which I did during the last hot and rainy seasons. On the Sundays I was thus absent, my catechist held divine service with our, as yet, small native congregation. When I am at home they assemble twice every Sunday for service; and on week-days I have, every morning, prayers with them, with a short exposition.

THE PUNJAB.

Native-Christian Church.

This Mission has only been established three years, yet the number of native Christians is fifty-one. The number baptized during the last year has been twenty-three.

The pastoral care of a native congregation so recently emerged from heathenism has tried the faith and patience of the Missionaries. "The pastoral charge of 10,000 at Bishop Ryder's church in Birmingham, where I was curate," writes the Missionary, Mr. Fitzpatrick, "did not cause me more anxiety and prayer." And again—"The experience of the Mission, up to the present time, would seem to lead to the conclusion that the trials of converts from heathenism, however dreadful at the time of baptism, are not for one moment to be compared to the spiritual trials and dangers which await them after they have been baptized." Such statements should stir up a spirit of prayer in the church at home for the Missionary abroad, that he faint not in his arduous work. Yet some of the native converts are the joy and rejoicing of the Missionaries; especially the native teachers, who exhibit a strength of character, and a power of argument on behalf of the truth, which are truly encouraging. One of this class, David, has been admitted by the Bishop of Calcutta to holy orders. He was formerly a Sikh, and is one of the fruits of a sister Mission, at Cawnpur, of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, where he was baptized nine years and a-half ago. He has great influence both with Christians and heathen, and had been already the instrument of bringing others to the knowledge of the truth. He is unacquainted with English, Greek, or Hebrew; but the bishop regarded his sterling qualifications as a native pastor to his countrymen as sufficiently proved by better tests than those of human learning.

A school has been established, of which the average number has only been thirty-one; "but out of this small number no fewer than five young men have renounced their former religions, and have been publicly baptized into the faith of Christ in the midst of the school itself."

The heathen and Mahommedans have been constantly addressed. It is stated, in the local annual report—

The principal stir is apparent among the Mahommedans. Several instances are known in which young men of fair abilities are carefully studying the Bible, in hope of being able, from internal evidence, to prove it untrue. Many Mahommedans of all ranks have constantly been at the house of one of the native teachers, the molwí Aziz Ullah, and listened there to his clear and forcible reasoning, as well as to his powerful and convincing preaching in the city, to which they have been generally unable to answer a word.

The greater part of the cold seasons has been spent, by one or other of the Missionaries, in tents, either in itinerating in the neighbouring villages and towns, or in journeyings to more distant places. In this manner almost every one of the important cities of the Punjab, between the Sutlej and Peshawur, have, at one time or other, been visited. The magnitude of the work has been thus presented to view. It has become evident that the whole of the Punjab is open to Missionary efforts, and presents a sphere of labour second to perhaps none other in any part of the world in importance, and in the opportunities which it presents. The character of the people, their geographical position, and their readiness, at this present time, to hear the word of God, together with the zeal and liberality of those Christian friends, who, by the providence of God, have been sent here since the occupation of the country, have all united to give an importance to Missionary work in this country, which it is difficult to express in any adequate terms.

A Missionary journey has been also made to Kashmír and to Middle and Little Thibet, during the past hot season, by Mr. Clark and two native-Christian readers, together with a kind and experienced lay friend, Major Martin, late of the 9th regiment native infantry. The journey, which was one full of encouragement, lasted for five months and a-half. Nine weeks were spent in different parts of the Kashmír valley, and a few days at each of the important places in the two other countries, of which Ladak, or Leh, and Iskardo, are the capitals. Many opportunities were given for preaching and distributing the word of God, which has been thus widely diffused. No hindrance of any kind was met with in the prosecution of this work, and it would seem that the time has come for the preaching of the gospel in all these countries. An account of this journey has been forwarded home.*

PESHAWUR.

The most important event connected with the Punjab Mission is the establishment of a second station at Peshawur. The last Report recorded the heart-stirring appeal of Major Edwardes and the residents of the place in behalf of an extension of the Mission in that direction. The Committee could not refuse to respond to that appeal. As it was thought desirable that in such a post the work should be commenced by one of the most experienced Missionaries, Mr. Pfander was removed from Agra, and Mr. Clark from Amritsar, and these were joined by Major Martin. Under such auspices, the Mission at Peshawur was commenced at the beginning of this year. It is the frontier position of the empire of British India, the key to central Asia. The feelings of Mr. Clark, in entering upon this new station, were thus expressed to a friend—

I am sure you will all congratulate me on my preferment, in having been appointed to Peshawur, the frontier Mission, and the nearest to the untouched fields of central Asia of any, I may say, in the whole of Asia. This is indeed an honour and a privilege. I shall again have the distinction of walking in the apostle's steps, who sought to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, but to those to whom He had not been spoken of, and not building on any other man's foundation. At Amritsar we were not the first in the field, as the Americans had been there before us. At Peshawur every thing is as yet untouched: no Missionary, to do any work, has as yet crossed the Indus, beyond which all our work will lie, and we shall be separated by that river from all India, and have to look forward to the stillness of death. I think, if you look on the map, and take Peshawur as a centre, you may draw a very great part of a circle without going near any Missionary field, and you may extend the radius to almost any length without trespassing on any man's labours. To the north you may go, I think, almost to the Arctic Ocean; to the east, almost to the five seaports of China; to the west, almost to Europe, that is, through the whole length of Asia, and pretty nearly the whole breadth of it, without meeting with any fellow-labourers. You will see, then, the position in which we are placed. I need only say that I feel utterly unfit for the post, and only go because I am sent. However, if you will all help me with your prayers, perhaps some little use may be made even of me: otherwise, I shall not do much. You will, I am sure, not forget me in that way, although removed from you all even further than before. Indeed, that is the very reason, I am sure, why you will wish the more to assist me, and the best way, and almost the only way, you can do so is by prayer. This, I think, we are entitled to, and may fairly expect it, and even demand it, from the whole of that church who has sent us out, and whose agents and representatives we are; and especially we may, I hope, look for it from those in that church with whom we are more particularly connected: and if there is a God above who sees and orders all things, He will, I am sure, answer those prayers, and that, too, abundantly. Many, I believe, of our mercies at Amritsar we have received through the prayers of people in England, and it will be the same, I hope, also at Peshawur.

* Vide "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for Jan. 1855, pp. 19—22; March, pp. 68—71; and April to October. The August Number contains a map, by Arrowsmith, of the Punjab, Western Himalaya, &c.

Liberality of friends on the spot.

One further matter remains to be noticed. It has pleased God to incline the hearts of the chief civil and military officers in the Punjab to an unusual liberality on behalf of the Mission, and this, not only in the contribution of large sums of money, but also in devoting time and labour to relieve the Society of the temporal cares of a Mission.* Nearly 1000*l.* a-year is contributed in the Punjab, which covers all the expenses of buildings, schools, and catechists; so that the Society has only to pay the personal salaries of the Missionaries. One instance of this liberality, originating with a friend of the Mission who has been called to his reward above, the Committee must here record in the words of the local report—

A village station has been lately established at Jhundiala, an important country town or village, situated about ten miles from Amritsar, on the road to Julundhur, and the centre of a populous neighbourhood. A resident catechist, together with his family, has been placed there, and a school has been formed. The commencement of this branch station originated with the late Captain J. C. Lamb, one of the Mission's warmest and most valued friends. He had proposed, shortly before his death, to build, entirely at his own expense, three school-rooms and catechists' houses at three of the most important places on the road on which he was engaged as civil engineer. One of them was at once begun at Jhundiala, but he was called away by death before it was completed.

The proposal of Captain Lamb to build branch village schools has not fallen to the ground in consequence of his death. Another kind and Christian friend has offered to defray the whole cost of the erection of a similar building at another most important neighbouring town. It has been thought, also, that the time has come when preaching chapels may be advantageously made use of in Amritsar itself; and a third friend has been raised up, and has come forward to contribute the whole amount—probably about 600 rupees—of the first to be built. Such chapels will give the opportunity, it is hoped, of speaking to quiet congregations more fully and in detail than can be done in the streets.

Remarkable preservation of a copy of the Pushtu Pentateuch and New Testament.

The Committee cannot omit the record of a most remarkable incident in connexion with a copy of the Pushtu Scriptures, which was required for the use of the Affghans. The Pentateuch and New Testament had been translated by the Serampur Missionaries in 1818, but no copy could be found. After much unsuccessful correspondence on the subject, the thought occurred to Major Edwardes, that, many years before, he had, in the Derajat country, himself seen a copy of the New Testament in Pushtu, in the hands of a Puthan chief. It had been given to the chief by a Missionary at Hurdwar, and had been most carefully preserved by him, as he said, from fire and water, with the secret conviction that the English power would one day advance onwards to his own country, when it was his intention to produce it. This copy Major Edwardes wrote to procure. It was at once sent to Peshawur, and its place was supplied by a Persian Bible, but the old chief died the day before the latter arrived. Thus was a native chief, Muhamed Ali Khan, of the Sundapur tribe of the Puthans, in the Kolāchí country, made instrumental in preserving one copy of the Pushtu Scriptures, until the time arrived for making known the gospel amongst the Affghan tribes. He was then led to send it to where it might be reprinted, and copies multiplied for their use, and immediately afterwards he died, as if the work for which he had been prepared and preserved alive were then finished. It was also remarkable that Major Edwards himself had been led especially to notice this book in Kolāchí, as far back as 1848, in order that, by his means, it might become available, in 1854, for the benefit of Peshawur, where the providence of God had called him to occupy the position which he now does. It has been from this book—although another copy was afterwards found and sent from Serampur—which had been thus remarkably preserved, that reprints have been made.

Alliance of Dost Mahommed with England.

Another most striking fact connected with this Mission is, that, simultaneously with its establishment, Dost Mahommed sought an alliance with England, and agreed to send his son and heir, Hyder Ali Khan, to meet the British commissioner on the plains of Peshawur, for the purpose of negotiating a treaty of amity. Thus the first Christian Mission to Affghanistan is opened simultaneously with an alliance with Affghanistan, sought for by the people of that country themselves. "Dull," writes an officer in high authority, "must be the understanding of him who can see no significance in this coincidence—no token from above that the Lord has purposes of mercy towards that country."*

office have been, indeed, ably discharged by Lieut.-Colonel Browne, to whom the Society is deeply indebted. But the Committee earnestly plead for some experienced clergyman to undertake an office, which, while it affords an opportunity for the exercise of his ministry in English, presents the noblest opportunities of Missionary usefulness.

General View.

The statistical returns, made up to Dec. 31, 1854, exhibit an encouraging increase in the number of converts. They show an aggregate of 33,231 converts, being an increase of nearly 800 upon the returns at the close of 1853. Out of this number, 22,355 are baptized and registered native Christians: the remaining 10,876 are under instruction with a view to baptism. These Christians are distributed in 531 villages, possessing 390 places of public worship. The number of communicants is 5147, which is an increase of 382 within the year. The number of schools is about 400, and the scholars amount to 10,931.

It is an additional encouragement that the Missions of other and kindred Protestant Missionary Societies, chiefly of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and of the London Missionary Society, swell these numbers to more than 77,000 native Christians in South India, and more than 36,000 children under Christian education.

MADRAS.

The Mission in the city of Madras comprises four chapels, amongst which are distributed about 600 Christians: many heathen occasionally attend the public services. The difficulty of sustaining the full ministrations of the various departments has been great, in consequence of the diminished number of labourers, two out of four Missionaries having been removed from the district. The Rev. J. Bilderbeck, in his report for the half-year ending Dec. 1854, gives the following account of the native congregations—

Amidst much that is humiliating in the condition of these people, whether composed of caste men or otherwise, signs more favourable appear here and there, which encourage the hope that all are not destitute of the grace of life. It is cheering to know that there are some who are “the salt of the earth,” whose piety and consistency would bear comparison with those of Christians in more favoured lands, and who appreciate the means of grace, love their teachers, and are anxious to second their endeavours to promote spirituality among them, and to advance the cause of the Redeemer. An aged native widow sent, the other day, six rupees as her annual donation to the Black-Town Poor Fund, while the Sacramental and Sunday offerings show that, poor as most of them are, they are willing to evince their love to the Redeemer, not by word only, but also by deed. Would that these poor members could be visited more frequently than they have been; but, crippled as is the agency at present, this has not been found practicable.

Christian Deaths.

Mr. Bilderbeck bears a pleasing testimony to the Christian character of one of the teachers lately removed by death.

The Mission has to lament the loss of catechist Chapman, who, after a long period of service, departed this life on the 15th of August last. He was an unostentatious, earnest, and faithful "fellow-labourer in the kingdom and patience of Christ." His sphere at John Pereira's, though small, was still, through God's blessing, a thriving one under his care. He died enjoying the peace of that gospel which it was his privilege, while living, to make known.

The death, also, of an aged Christian man is recorded, whose consistency and zeal may be cited as a proof that the Spirit of God is not withheld from the labours of our Missionaries.

Pragasum was one who was well known and beloved by every Missionary who had any thing to do with the Church Missionary chapel Tamil congregation in Black Town, since the time of the late Mr. Rhenius. Pragasum was a staunch Romanist in his younger days. As he himself mentioned, with deep feeling, he was enlightened by a copy of the New Testament which he received from a Protestant Missionary; and, having been convinced of the errors of the church of Rome, and being anxious about the salvation of his soul, came over to the Protestant church. In consequence of this he had to endure much persecution from his Romish neighbours; notwithstanding which he was enabled to stand fast in the Lord to the end of his pilgrimage. I have been acquainted with him for the last nine years. His temper and character had always been sweet and amiable. He was one who honoured the word of God by his frequent reading and meditation. Whenever I met him at his house, I found him almost every time with some portion of God's word, or with some devotional work, in his hand. He was sure to ask, on these occasions, about any thing which he had difficulty in understanding, or to speak about any passage he was much struck with. Whenever he called on me, his conversation was of nothing but a religious nature. Next to Scripture, the history of the Christian church was his delightful study. Wherever he went he used to carry with him a portion of God's word, and a copy of Barth's Church History. He used to read the lives of various believers, as given in the Church History, with deep interest. He was in the habit of telling about the Saviour to his friends and acquaintances whenever he met with an opportunity. He was a very regular attendant on the means of grace, and used to pay uncommon attention to the gospel preached.

Another Missionary writes—

Pragasum was an eminent Christian and an aged disciple. Although greatly advanced in years, being upwards of ninety, yet his sight and hearing were, mercifully, not much impaired ; and as for his mind and soul, they preserved their elasticity almost to the last. It did one's heart good to be with him. He was always ready to bear grateful testimony to the love and faithfulness of his covenant God. He was full of zeal and of meekness. Enriched with a large measure of Christian experience, and well stored with an enlightened knowledge of divine truth, he could derive comfort himself, as also speak to the edifying of others. Whether at home or abroad, among strangers or friends, his thoughts as well as his lips were ever occupied with striking incidents or portions of scripture, or with some remarkable sayings in a sermon, or some facts in church history.

Education.

The Schools connected with the Station are twelve in number, containing an aggregate of 581 pupils, viz. 287 boys and 294 girls. One is a superior native English school, under the management of Mr. E. K. Johnson. Of this institution we find the following notice in Mr. Bilderbeck's report for the half-year ending December 1854—

Its second annual examination was held on the 20th of November last, rather earlier than usual, to afford an opportunity to the Rev. W. Knight, Clerical Secretary and deputation of the Parent Society, to witness it before quitting Madras to visit other stations ; and though the notice was brief, and questions were proposed by the Chairman and Mr. Knight, independently of the teachers, their examiners, yet the lads showed themselves ready and intelligent in all the subjects, scriptural and secular, in which they were exercised ; and the Hon. J. F. Thomas, Esq., who kindly presided, spoke the sentiments of all present when he expressed himself pleased and satisfied with the result of the examination, and added a few words of encouragement to the boys and their tutors. There are some in this school who, it is firmly believed, possess more than mere head-knowledge, though difficulties at present obstruct their way. One most promising lad of the senior class, had he lived, would have brightened the countenances of many present on this occasion ; but he was carried away a little before by the prevailing epidemic. Long, however, before the cold hand of death had seized him, and even while he was dying, he could speak of the rich treasures contained in the Bible, and declared how grateful he was to the gracious Providence who first directed his steps to this school.

Several instances similar to that above mentioned occur, which show that the Christian instruction given to heathen children is producing a deeper impression upon their hearts than is often apparent. Another case of this kind is recorded in the same report.

A senior girl, for some time under serious concern for her soul, in the central school, was suddenly attacked by cholera, and, during her struggles with this direful disease, remonstrated with her friends for hitherto preventing her baptism, and finally prevailed on these heathen people to ask the Rev. D. Gnanamuttoo to come over and baptize her, that she might die a believer in the Lord Jesus, and her remains be laid side by side with those who have slept in Christ.

School for Mahommedans.

The Committee have been able at length to fulfil an obligation which has long rested upon them, to commence a school in Madras for the benefit of the Mahommedan population, the Society having received, nearly twelve years ago, a legacy of 1200*l.* from the late Hon. Sybella Harris to be devoted to such a purpose. The Rev. Luke Cradock, a clergyman experienced in education, proceeded to Madras at the close of last year, with the view of commencing the school.

Preaching to the Heathen.

There has been daily preaching to the heathen, either by the Missionaries or their assistants, in appointed localities, especially in the Tinnevelly settlement, and on the south beach amongst the fishermen and boatmen, who, though they comprise a large class, had been neglected till this year by Protestant Missionaries. It is pleasing to reflect that efforts are at length made to spread the tidings of the gospel amongst the class from which our divine Saviour chose His first apostles. Mr. Bilderbeck reports that "the scripture readers are generally well received; and it is interesting to see sometimes the fishermen squatted here and there in groups on the beach, either drying or mending their nets, and the two readers engaged in reading or explaining some appropriate Scripture parables or portions to them."

Mr. Bilderbeck thus speaks of the amount of work which has been done, and the manner in which the evangelists have been received by the masses round—

Almost every place of public resort has been visited by the agents, in order to communicate the knowledge of Christ and Him crucified. From one end of Madras to another, north and south, east and west, as far as practicable, the living voice, as well as tracts and books distributed, have told of the love of that Saviour who offered Himself a willing sacrifice for sinners of mankind, that through Him all that believe might be saved. Boatmen, scavengers, horsekeepers, cartmen, coolies, private servants, and Hindus from the higher to the lower walks of life, have all been addressed in their turn. Catechists Daniel and Waldegrave go with this view to cart depôts, sheep markets, jails, hospitals, house of industry, and dwellings of private families, and also assist the Missionaries at other regular preaching stations. The people have generally listened with much attention, and if sometimes the enmity of the carnal heart has been aroused by the exhibition of the truth as it is in Christ, there have been at other times pleasing and hopeful instances of conviction and awakening. Some have made an open profession of the faith in connexion with this Mission, while others have been directed to quarters where they received the first elements of truth, the path not being clear to entertain them here. But this is of small account, as, after all, it is the cause of the same Divine Master. Missions are advancing, and where "the field is the world," and the enemy is a common foe, it does not signify under which division of the Master's army the convert finds a shelter, so that he gets no husks to eat, but "the bread which endureth to life everlasting."*

TINNEVELLY.

General View of the Mission—Statistical Returns.

In such an extended Missionary field as Tinnevelly, and where so much of the work consists in the pastoral superintendence of native-Christian flocks, the Committee cannot attempt to do more than give a few of the most striking features of the work, and specimens of the influence of true religion upon the hearts of the people, and to point out some of the evidences of the progress of Christianity throughout the district.

This Mission has suffered during last year the very severe loss of one of its ablest Missionaries in the prime of life, the Rev. James Spratt, whose devotion to his Master's work, and knowledge of the native language and habits, gave the best promise of future usefulness.

The Rev. Septimus Hobbs and the Rev. E. Sargent have both returned home on a visit, but Mr. Sargent has again sailed for India.

The Mission field of Tinnevelly is still divided into eleven districts, which are occupied by sixteen Missionaries, European and native, besides European assistants, native catechists, readers, and schoolmasters, who number between 500 and 600. During the last year there has been an increase in the number of baptized members of the congregations, but a still larger decrease in the number under Christian instruction with a view to baptism, many names having been removed from the lists on account of their unsatisfactory behaviour. The whole number at the close of last year was 27,436, of whom 16,882 are baptized, and 3703 communicants.

Testimony of a former Missionary.

In the course of the last summer the Rev. G. Pettitt, who had been transferred from Tinnevelly to the Ceylon

* Further accounts of the Madras Mission are given in the "Church Missionary Record" for August 1855, pp. 169—177.

Mission, revisited the scene of his former labours, and has borne striking testimony to the Christian progress and stability of the Mission. Writing from Tinnevely, he says—

I was happy to find, when at Palamcottah, that the printing-press, the seminary, the English school, the Preparandi Institution, and the congregations, both European and native, were all in a very satisfactory state of progress. I was not a little gratified with hearing, for the first time, the beautiful tone of the bell, which the kind liberality of friends in England enabled me to send out five years ago, sounding from the church tower for early morning prayer soon after our arrival. It was rather more than nineteen years since we first arrived in Palamcottah, and the increase and improvement visible in every direction, and especially in our Missionary establishments, were highly gratifying to our minds.

Mr. Pettitt's account of a Sunday spent at a station which he had himself formerly superintended, gives further evidence of the progress of the work.

August 13: Lord's-day—Meignanapuram. I cannot easily describe the gratifications of this day, arising as they did, in a great degree, from the steady advance of every thing good in this village, so manifest to me who remember what it was nineteen years ago. Then I used to hold divine service in a little church, so small and low, that, after it had been crowded with the people for a couple of hours on the Sunday, it was almost impossible to escape without exhaustion and a violent headache. Now there is a magnificent church half built, and already used, beautiful also for its pure English style of architecture, in which all the people of the village, and many of those from the neighbouring villages, can meet together for public worship without inconvenience. I preached to a noble congregation, who listened with the greatest attention while I addressed them on the glory of the redeemed multitude in Rev. vii., eliciting frequent and correct answers from them as I proceeded. I observed a person counting the congregation during the sermon, and, on inquiry after, found that the number present was no less than 1504.

After the sermon Mr. Thomas and myself administered the Lord's supper to 224 communicants, only one being an European. Besides the general decorum of the communicants, I was much struck with the large number of young women—most of them married—neatly attired, approaching with so much seriousness and devotional feeling. The sight, to me who could contrast such an appearance with that of the women in heathen villages, in the same rank of life, could not be otherwise than most gratifying; and one cannot but hope that, as mothers of the rising generation, their influence will be very great and permanent.

Reports of the Missionaries.

The Rev. J. Thomas, in his annual letter for 1854, writes—

In all the congregations I have been much gratified with observing an improved tone, more intelligence, more steady attendance upon the means of grace, and more earnestness in listening to the preaching of the gospel. The number of adults baptized during the year amounts to 112. The increase in the number of communicants appears to be 65 ; but this does not show the full number received, as many of our communicants have died during the year. Among the candidates I have been much delighted to see a large proportion of young people. Last month, when I was at Arumuganerie, a village which I well remember some years ago as the stronghold of heathenism, I admitted ten well-instructed intelligent young people to the Lord's table, and administered the Lord's supper to seventy communicants. The native clergymen have rendered me much help in the villages more especially under their charge. The catechists have given me much satisfaction, and there are generally many able and faithful men amongst them. The catechist Paul I have appointed to Saththankullam, with Mr. Hobbs' hearty concurrence, and we both hope that much good may be the result of this arrangement. The weekly instruction has been continued as hitherto, the catechists coming in every Friday. Three or four hours are spent upon different subjects ; and in the evening I always preach a sermon more especially with reference to them.

In reference to one point referred to by Mr. Thomas, namely, the assistance rendered to the Mission by the native ministers lately ordained, it will be well to add the testimony of the Rev. J. Pickford, in a letter dated October 1854—

I have not seen as much of them as the other brethren who have been long in the country ; but I have seen as much of them as I could, and I hope, although there are imperfections of character—and which of us is free from them—there is much that is cheering. I have often compared them with any five men whom I can remember as having recently entered the ministry, and I think, considering all the circumstances, they do not lose by the contrast. If they err in judgment, it is only just to remember that they are the first of a class, and their position is comparatively untried.

The Rev. J. T. Tucker gives the following encouraging view of the work—

August 8, 1854—I am happy to say that, since the beginning of the year, I have witnessed much to encourage me in my work. I would mention that I am about to administer the Lord's supper in two additional villages, and the number of communicants rapidly increases.

There has not been lately so many new converts from heathenism : however, I do not despair on those grounds, because I have good reason to hope that many who are now worshipping idols are on the eve of throwing up idolatry, and placing themselves under Christian instruction.

The Rev. J. Whitchurch thus states the estimate which he has formed, at the close of the year, of the progress of the Mission—of the work carried on in this district during the past year. I have considered the apparent motives of the new comers, the character of the more established, the increase and decrease, together with the external or internal influences by which either may have been effected. The result is, my honest conviction, that although there have been no dazzling accessions in numbers, and although there is, it is to be feared, still a deadening mass of spurious Christianity, yet that there has been a progressive work going on, both in making further inroads upon surrounding heathenism, and also in consolidating and strengthening the material already collected. The early part of the year seems to have been characterized by trials from without; the latter part more by the test of internal discipline, by which, under the divine blessing, a development of character to some extent, and, in a few cases, visible instances of growth in grace, have been effected.

Individual instances of the power of divine truth.

It is satisfactory to find, in the reports and journals of the Missionaries, in addition to these general statements, individual instances of vital religion in native converts, who let their light so shine before their countrymen, that they, seeing their good works, glorify their Father which is in heaven. The Rev. P. P. Schaffter writes, October 1854—

A few days ago, Aroolappen, the oldest catechist of my district, and of all Tinnevely, died in peace. He had been more than fifty years a catechist. He was a very good man, and a good preacher, and, notwithstanding his advanced age, his death is still a loss to the Mission. I do not recollect that any complaint had ever been lodged against him.

The Rev. J. Devasagayam gives the following account of a native convert in private life—

A Christian called Karuthudeyan, a communicant and a member of my Bible class at Anbinagaram, came to me this evening: he was not able to go there, as the river was very high. He informed me the following—Being a weaver, he went, for the sake of his livelihood, to Paravenkuritchy, in Maignanapuram district: there is only one man, called Aroolappen, a communicant, and a very pious Christian. He is in the midst of thirty-five very hardhearted heathen. Karuthudeyan lived with Aroolappen for about two months, which was a great comfort to him; but the heathen persecuted Karuthudeyan more than the other, because he read the word of God to them. Two of them first left off rubbing ashes on their forehead, telling that it is no use for them: afterwards they followed him to the Christian church in the neighbouring village. The heathen were alarmed, and did their best to remove him from the village. They resolved to render him no assistance in the work of weaving. They threatened Aroolappen, also, that if he would live in his house they will not render him any assistance. Consequently Karuthudeyan was obliged to return to his own village in my district. Karuthudeyan hopes that the heathen who heard from him the word of God frequently will not easily forget it, and that the Lord will graciously strengthen them to renounce heathenism, and embrace Christianity. He spoke, also, much of the piety and zeal of Aroolappen. His patience is wonderful in the midst of persecution. It is the Lord that preserves and strengthens His children. Soon after he left me, a Mahommedan came and informed me that Karuthudeyan is a sincere Christian. Upon inquiry, the Mahommedan informed me that he employed Karuthudeyan for several months as his weaver, but he would never do his work on Sundays. The Mahommedan did his best to persuade him to do so, but he never suffered him to prevail. Karuthudeyan answered, that if he worked on Sunday he should lose all the blessings which he would otherwise receive on that day. The Mahommedan felt assured that he was a faithful Christian, and he appeared to rejoice to see him so firm.

Mr. Devasagayam also records the death of one of his converts, whom he visited in his last illness, adding—

Although he leaves a wife and ten children, he appeared to show no anxiety as men of this world. I congratulated him for the prospect he has for the house of our heavenly Father. His wife and friends found cause to be thankful for what they enjoyed hitherto, and I left them enjoying that happy resignation of the children of God, which induces them to say always, "Father, let Thy will be done."

The same Missionary gives the following notice of a conversation between a scripture reader and an aged female convert, above seventy years old, and suffering from severe illness, yet filled with great joy—

Scripture reader: "Who is the author of your great joy?" Convert: "My Lord Jesus, who suffered to be spit upon His holy face. It is by the blood which gushed from His wounds my sins are washed. This is the cause of my joy: yet when I think of Him, tears flow from my eyes." Scripture reader: "By what means do you believe on Him?" Convert: "I believe on Him by prayer. I wish also very often to go to the Lord's table: whatever may be my weakness or sickness, I like to creep to the church." Scripture reader: "Tell me the word that comforts you in your affliction." She then repeated a verse of a Tamil hymn: "Grant, O Lord, that heaven may be as sweet as honey, and the earth may be as bitter as gall. If my heart is allured or tempted, graciously appear, and draw my heart above. Let me die, O Lord, in the asylum of Christ."

In allusion to such testimonies the same native minister writes—

Our people are deeply impressed with the conviction that no one can be truly comforted and happy in his death but faithful Christians. They see and hear also from living witnesses how much they long to go to the house of their heavenly Father, and what consolation they enjoy from their Saviour Jesus Christ and His blessed word.

The Rev. G. Pettitt, in his visit to Tinnevely, was much gratified by the girls' boarding-school under Mrs. Barenbruck, in which she has met with much encouragement. One of the girls was carried off by an attack of cholera : the hope of heaven cheered her to the last. From the strength of her joyous emotions she actually rose up and stood on her feet a few moments before death, and having expressed with ecstasy her hope in God, and the delightful prospect before her, she laid herself down again and peacefully departed.

The Rev. Jesudasen John reports the following case in his journal, February 3, 1854—

Heard from the catechist, after prayers, that Pakkiam, a pious widow, died of cholera about two months ago. She was one of the leading women among the rest, and no doubt was a good and pious mother to all the men and women in this congregation. I myself witnessed, when Mr. Sargent and I had the charge of this district, how she endeavoured to bring back that Muttupandee, Nadan of Kovindapparí, to the fold of Christ. She had offered up many prayers for him, and had frequent conversations about his state of being in sin. Through her instrumentality he and the whole family left heathenism, and came under Christian instruction. Four days before her death she called all the members of the congregation here, and desired them to be firm in their Christian profession to the end of their lives. I recollect once she gave a rupee in my hand, and desired me to give it to the Bible Society as a token of her gratitude. May God raise up many more such pious people in our congregations!

Contributions by the native converts.

In the last year's report a statement was quoted from the account of the Tinnevely Mission drawn up by the Bishop of Victoria, estimating the contributions of the native converts at 1100*l.* per annum. It has since been discovered that this amount included the contributions of the Missionaries, and of some European residents in the district, so that it is not easy to ascertain the exact amount of native contributions. These are, however, very large, and are each year increasing so largely, that they will in a very few years even exceed the amounts which has been stated. Thus the Rev. J. T. Tucker writes, Nov. 18, 1854—

We have just had our Anniversary Missionary Meeting in the Panneivilei church, and I rejoice to say that the spirit and tone of the meeting indicates the existence of an increasing Missionary zeal among the people. The collection after the meeting amounted to rupees 314 · 7 · 4, about 90 rupees more than the previous year ; and I have since received a few rupees more on behalf of our local Society. I hope these meetings will aid, through God's blessing, to stir up more and more a Missionary zeal amongst the people. The headman of Panneivilei, David, gave last year rupees 3 · 8 ; but this year he has put down 20 rupees, which I consider to be very good for him. Another headman, of the new village Kylasapuram, put down 7 rupees ; others 5, 3, 2, &c. Considering, too, the great

One pleasing instance of “a cup of cold water given to a disciple in the name of a disciple,” occurs in the journal—

We must not forget to notice a touching incident, which affected us all. Our native brother, returning from bathing in the river, about an hour after we arrived, fell in with a poor widow about fifty years of age, a heathen and a Pariah. “Was it true,” she asked him, “that we had missed our way, and were without provisions, without servants?” “Yes,” he said. “Well, then,” she replied, “take these two dooties”—together a halfpenny: “they will do to buy you milk and aoul”—bruised rice: “spend half in each.” It was in vain our friend told her that we were by no means so far reduced; that we should no doubt get on quite well enough: she would take no denial, but, leaving the money in his hand, went away. We had had plenty of milk from the sepoy, so we spent it all in beaten rice, which really was a great refreshment to us during the two or three hours we were kept waiting for our curry. The Lord bless her!

Mr. Ragland thus describes the country alluded to as an inviting sphere of Missionary labour, in the hope that some of his brethren at home may be induced to offer themselves for the work—

Taking the four places just mentioned, viz. Pullicoondah, Amburpetty, Waniccabadey, and Tripatur, the thought has occurred to us very forcibly how excellent a sphere they would form for a new itinerating Missionary. All are comparatively large towns, as yet quite unevangelized, without, as far as we have heard, even one native Christian, and with a people, both Mahommedans and Hindus, generally willing to listen, and receive Christian books. There are several physical considerations, too, in favour of this as an itinerating Mission sphere. At one part, Pullicoondah, the climate appears to be a good deal cooler than in most parts of the low country of South India, and some of us are disposed to think that it is the same throughout, though not to so great a degree. But the country everywhere is pleasant, and there is a good road from one end to the other, forty-two miles; with the exception of the last twelve miles, almost as good as an English turnpike-road, and, besides this, bungalows at each of the four places. But what is more important is the circumstance, that, all the way from Arcot, twenty-seven miles east from one extremity of this line of towns, to Salem, eighty miles west of the other extremity, and on either side of the road for fifty or a hundred miles, there is not, nor, we suppose, has there ever yet been located—except once at Vellore—a single Protestant Missionary. In fact, all the way from Vellore to Salem we have not met with one Christian, except an East-Indian schoolmaster at Darampury, and two Roman Catholics, whom our native brother met one evening in his preaching excursion.

Commencement of a native effort of Tinnevelly Christians to evangelize other lands.

During the last year the native church in Tinnevelly may be said to have entered upon a new era, inasmuch as it has become itself a Missionary church by sending out native teachers in two directions. A large body of Tamil coolies pass over from South-India to the island of Ceylon, to work upon the coffee-plantations. Their destitute condition was brought under the notice of the catechists of Tinnevely by a zealous Missionary friend, Mr. Murdoch, and they were asked whether any of them would be willing to leave their present sphere of labour, and to be transferred to the Mission in Ceylon. Six of the number were eventually selected, and have gone forth as native Missionaries to Ceylon. The event is thus recorded by the Missionaries.

The Rev. J. T. Tucker writes, in a letter dated August 8, 1854—

One little circumstance has recently occurred, which is to me very interesting, inasmuch as it shows that our infant church in Tinnevely is truly a Missionary church.

Mr. Murdoch came over, in April last, from Ceylon, to see if any of our catechists were disposed to go over to that island, for the purpose of proclaiming the gospel to the thousands of Tamil coolies employed in the coffee-plantations. Many of the planters have subscribed a large sum of money for the support of such catechists. While Mr. Murdoch visited Panneivilei there was a monthly Missionary meeting, and he addressed the people on the subject. I also preached upon Isaiah vi., and called upon the readers and catechists to offer themselves for the Lord's work in Ceylon. To my great joy and surprise, altogether eight men came forward and offered themselves. Since then, Mr. Murdoch has written to say he would be glad if we could send six catechists to commence the work. I have therefore selected four of those who presented themselves to be sent over, with two from Mr. Thomas's district, as catechists in connexion with the Church Missionary Society in Ceylon, to be paid by gentlemen in that island. Last year we sent over upwards of sixty rupees for the Colombo Church Missionary Society's church, and now we are sending catechists to proclaim the glad tidings of salvation to Tamil heathen.

The Rev. J. Thomas also describes the departure of the catechists to Ceylon, and their subsequent satisfactory labours, in his letter at the close of the year.

We had a most interesting meeting at the dismissal of the catechists to Ceylon, when instructions were delivered to them as to the mode of pursuing their work. All the catechists were present, and a large number of people, who took a deep interest in the proceedings. Each of them addressed the meeting, and catechist Paul, who had just returned from assisting Messrs. Ragland and Meadows in Missionary work in North Tinnevely, gave them some valuable advice. I have heard that they are fully occupied in their work, and much liked by the gentlemen who superintend the coffee-plantations.*

* Vide pp. 139, 140.

A second instance of the Missionary spirit of the Tinnevelly Christians is still more interesting, because it shows the same spirit, not only in the catechists, but in the body of the people. Messrs. Ragland and Meadows attended the Missionary conference in Palamcottah in July, at which all the catechists of the district assemble together. Here they described the itinerating work in which they were engaged in the northern and less favoured part of the district, and asked whether the native Christians in Tinnevelly would be willing to subscribe for the support of a native catechist to help to evangelize North Tinnevelly, and whether the catechists would be willing to go on such a mission. The catechists present cordially entered into this proposal. One from the district of Meignanapuram at once offered himself for the first month, another for the second, another for the third, and so on. Their congregations, when appealed to, readily undertook to furnish the salary and batta of the catechist for the month of their itineration.

The Missionaries of the Tinnevelly district, assembled at Palamcottah, expressed their views of the importance of the proposal in the following minute—

This project highly commended itself to the judgment of the brethren, especially as being an opening, in God's providence, to the native-Christian church of Tinnevelly to enter upon a new and higher stage of her spiritual existence as a Missionary church. And, with the consent of the Madras Corresponding Committee, they are prepared to further, to the full extent of their power, the progress of this infant Mission, by supplying it with suitable catechists.

The following notice of these measures occurs in the journal of the Rev. John Devasagayam—

July 13, 1854—Agreeably to the request of Mr. Ragland, all the Missionaries, catechists, and a good many of our people, assembled in the church at seven o'clock. Mr. Thomas explained the state of the heathen in the north, and pointed out the necessity of our praying for their conversion, and for sending a catechist from every district for a month, and supported by the contributions of their own congregation. The proposal was very gratifying to us, and we heartily desire to unite in his wishes and prayers, and we gladly promised to do our best. Mr. Thomas immediately pointed out one of his faithful and pious catechists, called Paul, and expressed his wish to send him for a month. I had also the privilege of speaking a few words, and offering the concluding prayer.

Upon the return of the first catechist, after his month's itinerancy in the north, the report he made of his labours to his friends in the south produced the result described by Mr. Ragland, on the 10th of November, in the following terms—catechist. The catechists and congregation of that district had begun to subscribe for a sum sufficient to maintain two catechists the whole year round, and a good man of Pragasapuram, a possessor of palmyra-trees, had been so much moved by his representations, as to give himself for two months every year to preaching the gospel in North Tinnevelly with us, at his own expense. This has exceedingly delighted us.

These instances have encouraged the Committee to hope that there is vitality enough in the native church in Tinnevelly to send forth a third vigorous offshoot into the island of Mauritius. When the health of the Rev. David Fenn obliged him to leave for a time his itinerating companions in North Tinnevelly, and proceed to the island of Mauritius, he found there many thousand Tamil coolies from South India. His knowledge of the language enabled him to communicate with them. He found, also, two Tamil Christians from Madras, acting as scripture colporteurs amongst them on behalf of the British and Foreign Bible Society. The united labours of the Missionary and of the colporteurs laid the foundation of a Mission; but as yet, in Mauritius, the Church of England has been very weak, as the inhabitants were mostly Roman Catholics when it came under English rule. Here, however, the singular providence of God has interposed. The Rev. Vincent Ryan has been appointed Bishop of Mauritius. His zeal in the cause of Missions has led him to take, for many years, an active part in advocating the claims of this Society. He attended your Committee, and pledged himself to exert his influence in raising the means, from local resources, for erecting Missionary buildings and schools, and for paying all the incidental expenses of catechists and schoolmasters, if only he might be supplied with a Missionary of the Church Missionary Society, and see his diocese on the list of our Missions. Our ability to respond to this appeal must depend upon the income of the current year.*

TRAVANCORE AND COCHIN.

During the past year the Rev. J. Harding has been compelled, by the failure of his health, to return to Europe, upon which the station of Allepie was placed under the superintendence of Mr. Hawksworth. The Rev. R. Collins, B.A., arrived in India at the close of the year, to take charge of Cottayam College, and Mr. Johnson has been transferred to the district of Pallam. A second station has been established in Cochin, at Kunnankullam.

The Syrian church in Travancore has been distracted for the last few years by the rival claims of no fewer than four metrans, or bishops, to one and the same see. The rajah and British resident have at length acknowledged one of the number, Mar Athanasius, as the ruler of the Syrian church. He was a former pupil in our theological institution at Madras, under the Rev. J. H. Gray. He is well acquainted with scriptural truth. He has received far greater advantages of education than his predecessors. His responsibilities are proportionably greater. He has now the power and opportunity of doing much for the spiritual welfare of the Syrian community. The Committee wait with no little anxiety to learn what course he may be led to pursue. The Rev. H. Baker thus alludes to his appointment—

He is friendly to the distribution of the Scriptures among his people, and gives offence to some of the old people by allowing the discontinuance of prayers to the Virgin, which he says were introduced by the Romanists, and belong not to their own ancient services. I would hope that the education he received at Madras, under the excellent Mr. Gray, may yet be blessed to him, and if so, who can tell the amount of good it might do to his church and people?

Reports of the Missionaries.

Mr. Baker, the senior Missionary, gives the following general view of the Mission, and of his own district, Cottayam, in particular—

The statistical returns made every half-year show a gradual increase in the number of persons in connexion with the Mission. The last return gave 735 persons of all ages. The number of communicants, including those at Olasa and Appacara, is about 250. The attendance is irregular, and we seldom see any thing near the number present on one occasion; but I do not hear of any inconsistency of conduct on the part of our communicants, and I have every reason to believe that their general behaviour is becoming the gospel. My readers and catechists are, so far as I can judge, faithful labourers in the Lord. I am of necessity obliged to leave them to take the whole duty in the church at Cottayam sometimes, as well as at the several out-stations. I am usually present myself once on the Lord's-day, when they deliver a discourse, as they do alternately in the afternoon, to the Cottayam congregation, and it is gratifying to witness the interest and attention which they excite. The good effects of preaching the gospel in this Mission are less apparent from any sudden or striking conversions, than in the gradual improvement of the character of the people at large; but I am happy to be able to look upon a goodly number, more especially among the younger women of the congregation, in whom I trust God has put His Holy Spirit.

Pallam District, and the hill Araans.

The labour of the Rev. H. Baker, jun., has been divided between the Pallam district and the hill Araans. But these spheres require to be separated, and the Committee have sent out an additional labourer, with the view of relieving Mr. Baker of the Pallam district. In his report of these districts, August 6, 1854, he writes—

I find, from the returns, there are 1141 baptized, and 218 under instruction. I believe, when the district shall be divided, and each portion fairly worked, we shall find that these are but the beginning of the increase. And I doubt not but that, when our Master shall come to make up His jewels, not a few will be found in that day from this dark corner of the earth, who, though giving now but a feeble light, shall then be amongst those forming His crown of rejoicing. Weak though our faith may be, and faint our strength, still may we be kept pursuing our heavenly path in humble dependence upon Him, and ever be enabled, like the martyr Lambert, to say, “None but Christ, none but Christ!”

Of his labours among the hill Araans Mr. Baker writes—

As a body, I am happy to report well of the Mundakym people. Both men and women follow the services with their responses. Some have learnt to read and write.

During the last twelve months I have made some long journeys into the hills, sometimes to the Araans in other villages, and twice on to the central table-land, where I have found Manuans and Ooralies: the last speak Tamil, and their habits and dress are also Tamil.

I trust a beginning has been made, and, if it please God to allow me to live among these people, I hope to bring forward a few promising young men, whom I hope the Committee will allow me to educate with the view of making them teachers in their own hills and forests. I believe a work of the Spirit is quietly going on among these poor Araans.

General View—the Mavelicare District.

The Rev. J. Peet, in his annual letter at the close of the year, gives a comprehensive view of the results of the Mission, and adds a few graphic notices of the work in his own district.

Blessed be God, our teaching among the fallen Syrians is not in vain! Many of them, I have full reason to hope and to believe, have separated themselves from her communion, and joined with us, from an enlightened knowledge and deep conviction of the truth; but I am inclined to think our greatest work among them consists in the light we have, by God's assistance, been enabled to shed among such of the Syrians as come within the range of our Mission influence. Vast numbers, within the last twenty years, have obtained a correct theoretical acquaintance with the saving truths of God's holy word. Many have ceased to repose confidence in creature merit, and other dogmas inimical to truth: they read and reverence God's word, use our prayers in their families, and gladly avail themselves of every opportunity of placing their children under instruction: and to this extent our labours among them have been crowned with much success. Of our converts from heathenism I have, thank God, to speak with more satisfaction, and to report an increase of numbers. During the year I baptized 119, of which number 80 were adults, more than half of them being near relatives, and brought to the knowledge of the truth through the influence of their Christian connexions. Thus does the word of God gradually spread, and God's elect become manifested in the midst of the fiery trials many have to endure.

There are now eight stations in this district, under the superintendence of my native colleague, the Rev. Jacob Chandy, and myself, where we have as many congregations, to whom our Church-of-England services are regularly administered, and to each of which are assigned either a catechist or schoolmaster, or both, according to the means we have of providing for them. In five of these stations substantial churches have been erected.

By the liberal donation of 30*l.* from some unknown but generous friend at home, and 10*l.* raised by my dear and much-respected brother, Mr. Ragland, I was encouraged to lay the foundation of another substantial church. On laying the first stone, Sept. 28, 1854, we had a preliminary service in the temporary church, and I afterwards concluded the service of laying the stone by the public avowal of our faith, as expressed in the Creed, beginning with, "I believe in one God," and which seemed to produce a thrilling effect among the ignorant and scoffing bystanders. To me it was delightful to hear, among others, some fifty voices, not long since accustomed to pray to, and to praise, the gods of wood and stone, now openly and boldly, in the presence of their blaspheming and persecuting neighbours, avowing their firm belief in one God, in one Lord Jesus Christ, who, for us men and for our salvation, came down from heaven, who suffered, died, rose again, and will come again with glory to judge both quick and dead, and in whose presence they would then be able to lift up their heads with joy.

On the 14th of October I was privileged to open a new temporary place of worship among a people now exposed to severe loss and persecution, whose knowledge of and reception of Christ was chiefly the effect of the grace of God in the heart of a woman not long since converted from heathenism. This woman was a member of one of the lower classes, but possessing superior natural abilities, strong, solid sense, and far more intelligence than the majority of her class. Through the influences of God's Spirit she received the truth in love, and has since evinced her sincerity by quietly enduring considerable loss, and what by natives is looked upon as foul disgrace, as well as by becoming chiefly instrumental in persuading part of her family to submit to the yoke of Christ. Finding that the locality where she resided was suitable for the erection of a future church, and by the earnest desire of herself and others, I told them I would consent to fix a schoolmaster, and make provision for the regular performance of Sabbath worship, upon the usual condition—made partly from poverty, partly to test their sincerity—that they should erect a place suitable for a school, and sufficiently decent to allow the creditable performance of our religious worship. The offer was gladly accepted; and the place being finished, I was glad to find a very neat temporary building, all prepared for the performance of divine worship. The floor was covered with a large mat, and the place furnished with a home-made, clumsy, but substantial arm-chair, and a very convenient moveable pulpit; the whole of which, together with a free gift of the land on which the building stood, had occasioned them considerable expense, for persons in their condition. As soon as it had been announced that I came to open the place for worship, and to baptize some heathen, the whole was surrounded by a large number of the neighbours—heathen, Mahomedans, and papists, in whose hearing I was privileged to proclaim the fundamental truths of the gospel, and afterwards to baptize six adults, who fearlessly acknowledged their faith in Christ. It was a joyful season, and I believe we had the approving presence of the Spirit with us. These people still hold fast the profession of their faith amidst loss and tribulation, and greatly need the prayers of Christ's faithful people.

Tiruwalla District.

The Rev. J. Hawksworth, who has the superintendence of this district, writes, July 28, 1854—

The growing knowledge and general consistency of conduct evinced by our congregation at Mallapalli, prove the wisdom of the Committee's plan of placing out-stations under the immediate superintendence of well-trained native clergymen.

Our next out-station westward from Mallapalli is Caveyoor. Amongst those who have recently joined our church at this out-station are two branches of perhaps the most influential and respected Syrian family in South Travancore. The two brothers have long lamented the deadness of the Syrian church, and at length have come out of her. One of them lately said, "It is about eight years since I first began to ask the Lord to show me the true way, and now my prayer is answered." Considering the standing of these men, their long-known strict consistency of character, their extensive connexions, and unaffected piety, I believe there is reason to regard their accession with gratitude, as being the most important that has yet occurred in our Missions here.

The Mission is, I believe, exercising a very salutary influence on the Syrian Christians. Sunday traffic, until lately deemed lawful after mass, is now stopped throughout the entire bazar.

The Mission work among the heathen is carried on, not only viva voce, but by the monthly periodical, which is read throughout all Travancore by the very highest classes of Hindus and Mahomedans, though the readers amongst the latter are, I fear, but few. One design of the periodical has been realized: the object which Missionaries have in view is now distinctly understood throughout the whole country. The little paper supports itself, and has reached its sixty-ninth number. This ought to be considered as an encouragement to make similar attempts in all our Indian Missions.

The Slaves of Travancore.

Mr. Hawksworth's most interesting labours for the Christian instruction of the slaves of Travancore, have been noticed in former reports. He has furnished much additional evidence of the cruel oppression of their masters. The representations of the Missionaries are beginning to excite a beneficial influence in behalf of these victims of an unjust tyranny. Already the native government of Travancore has declared that all the government slaves shall become free after a certain interval; and it is to be hoped that private masters may, before long, be compelled to resign their unnatural dominion over the life and limbs of their fellow-men. Mr. Hawksworth reports, respecting his efforts to instruct the slaves—

Two slaves' schools are regularly attended by about thirty-five adults on Sundays, some of whom give good evidence that their hearts are changed. During the past half-year, two other schools for slaves have been opened north and west of Tiruwalla. About three months ago I was visited at midnight by a party of nineteen slaves, men and women. They had been taught the gospel far in the interior by a Mallapalli slave, and they were going, they knew not whither, seeking freedom to worship God. I was quite surprised at the knowledge evinced even by the women, who are generally most timid and backward, and at their avowed confidence in the Lord Jesus.

A description is given of the baptism of a party of slaves—

You will, I am sure, feel interested about the baptism of the slaves, which took place last Wednesday. On arriving at the school, in a jungle, accompanied by the Rev. G. Matthan, we found that some of the slaves had been in the school all night, waiting our arrival, but, the morning being excessively wet, they concluded we could not come through the heavy rain. The paths through the jungle were converted into streams, so that we had to wade through the water great part of the way, and it was unpleasant having to remain some hours in our wet clothes; but the appearance of the slaves, who soon hurried to the school on hearing of our arrival, abundantly compensated for all. There were about thirty desiring baptism, but it was deemed advisable to admit only two families, consisting of eight souls, in the first instance. Amid the numerous and great difficulties by which we are beset, arising from the bitter hostility of enemies and fear of friends, it is of the greatest possible importance that the new converts should maintain an humble, firm, and consistent conduct. Efforts, which may be truly deemed satanic, are made, not only by the heathen, but by Syrian Christians, to excite pride among the converted slaves, and persecution against them among their masters. Much prayer is called for.

At a later date, Oct. 9, Mr. Hawksworth again writes—

The late baptism of slaves has been followed, as was expected, by direct and bitter persecution. From one of the schools the slaves have been driven away on the Sunday morning, just as they were assembling for prayer; and the following Saturday night, the school in which the baptisms took place was set fire to and burnt down. Great was the grief of the poor slaves, on the Sunday morning, when they found their prayer-house reduced to ashes. This is the second time it has been burnt down. At the usual hour of service the slaves assembled, and, standing among the ashes, they exclaimed, "It was here we first found the Saviour, and here on this spot we will still worship Him." They objected to seek the shelter of a neighbouring tree; so the service was held on the spot which they regard as consecrated ground. The school must be re-erected, though it may be burnt down a third time. The demeanour of the slaves was, I am told, very affecting. Alluding to the destruction of their prayer-house by the enemies of the gospel, they said, "Although they may destroy the outward temple, they cannot destroy the temple which God has set up in our hearts." Is not this the language of brethren in Christ? They claim, and must have, the assistance of more favoured brethren. "Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them." Assistance is needed to re-erect the prayer-house. I trust some Christian friend will regard it as a privilege to help us, remembering that ere long it will be said, in the presence of an assembled universe, and by the King of kings, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."*

Education.

An examination of the pupils of the Cottayam College took place at Midsummer, by the Rev. Messrs. Baker and Matthan, who reported favourably. The Rev. E. Johnson writes, July 14, 1854—

I have every reason, thank God, to be satisfied with the progress of the boys in general, and their conduct has been most exemplary. Their attention at church on Sunday, and at the daily services, is most gratifying.

Mrs. Johnson, the widow of a former Missionary, gives an interesting account of the Female Normal School which she has conducted since the death of her husband—

I have to thank my heavenly Father for countless mercies received during the past eight years, that is, since God in His providence has placed me in my present position. Thirty-five girls have married and left the school, and all, with the exception of one, are well-behaved young women—many of them, mothers of one or two children, which I have the pleasure of seeing them bring early to church, teaching them to behave well. Three only of this number have been employed as schoolmistresses.

TRICHUR (COCHIN).

The Rev. H. Harley reports of this station at the close of the year—

At Trichur the congregation continues to increase gradually by converts from heathenism, several of whom are now placed under instruction. Several of our congregation have gone to Cochin for employment, where labour is much required and largely remunerated.

* Further notices of the Travancore slaves are given in the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" for Jan. 1855, pp. 22—24.

Some of them were reduced to this alternative, as they could not procure sufficient work here in the neighbourhood. They will, however, have abundant access to the means of grace, of which I trust they will avail themselves during their temporary absence.

Kunnankullam.

This place, which had long been an out-station of Trichur, was occupied by Mr. Beuttler at the commencement of the last year. At the close of six months he wrote—"You will rejoice to learn that my little flock has been increased this half-year by 38 souls, making a total of 89." At the close of the year, however, the report shows the usual effect of the introduction of a discriminating ministry in the midst of nominal Christianity. Mr. Beuttler writes—Kunnankullam was a promising out-station in the time of Mr. Bidsdale, some sixteen years ago, as the perusal of the reports of that date will testify; but, just as a flower-garden goes to ruin much sooner in this country than in our own, if it is not constantly watered, so it is with the church. Many went back; though, on the whole, it speaks favourably for the steadfastness of the people that some forty members were remaining when I took charge. However, I regret that, during my short residence here, an inclination on the part of some to withdraw is manifesting itself. In fact, one family, during an infliction of cholera, sent for the Syrian priest to administer extreme unction, and then fell back altogether; and another, of whom I had the highest hopes, is just about to marry his daughter in the Syrian church. The reason of all this is simple. During these sixteen years, although professing to belong to our church, they had their children baptized in the Syrian church, had their marriages solemnized by their priests, and their dead buried according to the Syrian rites. There was little or no distinction, and therefore no persecution from without. But now the case is different: they must break off from their church, must attend our services, and submit to our discipline; and rather than be lax in this, I shall prepare myself to see some more go back.

TELUGU MISSION.

The Missionary band in this district has been diminished by the return home, in consequence of ill health, of the Rev. T. K. Nicholson. Four Ordained Missionaries carry on the various departments of labour at Masulipatam. At the close of the year one of the number removed to the new station of Ellore.

In the city of Masulipatam, two little congregations of Telugus and Tamils have been gathered together. The Telugu congregation consists of 39 native Christians, besides 100 more who receive Christian instruction, but have not separated themselves from their fellow-idolaters, nor received baptism. The communicants number 19, and the baptisms during the year have been 15.

The Tamil congregation is composed of native Christians who come up from time to time from the southern country, and are employed at Bunder, chiefly as servants to the European residents. Besides a Lord's-day morning service, there is a Sunday-school in connexion with this congregation, at which old and young are invited to attend.

Education.

The chief feature in this Mission is the English school, which was originally formed by the Rev. R. T. Noble, M.A., and has been his constant charge. The education is of a comparatively high character, the pupils pay for their instruction, and the Christian tone of the whole establishment is of a marked character, and must tend, under the divine blessing, to the conversion of the pupils. In November last the school contained sixty-eight pupils from twelve to twenty-three years of age.

A girls' boarding-school is under the charge of Mrs. Sharkey, the wife of one of the Missionaries: it contains fifty-seven pupils, respecting whom Mr. Sharkey writes—"Of the girls in our boarding-school we have a cheering account to give. Since the year 1847, when we commenced this institution, we have baptized eighteen girls. We have reason to think that most of these girls have given their hearts to God, and six of them are capable of rendering Mrs. Sharkey efficient help in her school duties." There is also a girls' day-school under the care of Mrs. Darling, with thirty children, and another, of the same number of children, under Mrs. English, both these ladies being wives of the Missionaries. Mr. Sharkey thus describes the effect of the various means of instruction which have been employed in this district—

The Missionary is treated by all with civility, and even with kindness. The prejudices of caste and the worship of idols are evidently on the wane. The influence of mercenary priests, and the veneration for their sacred books, are by no means so strong as they were. History and science, as taught in Mr. Noble's school, are rapidly bringing into discredit the absurd fables of the puranas, and the superstitious reckonings of astrologers. There is everywhere a remarkable freedom of thought, and as remarkable interchange of opinion regarding religious subjects. Female education, which appears to be the root and foundation of a thriving Mission, is not objected to so much as it was ten years ago.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Mr. Sharkey states that every street in Masulipatam has been visited, and the gospel has been preached in all the villages within seven miles. All the large towns, and the idolatrous festivals held in various localities, have been visited. The district which is comprised in the Missionary circuit contains half a million of souls, besides three large towns—Masulipatam, Ellore, and Beizwada. Mr. English thus describes a visit to the last-named town—

In January (1854) I left home upon a visit to Beizwada, about fifty miles from Bunder (Masulipatam). There are many thousands of coolies employed here in the Annicut works. We also visited the villages by the way, and made known the truth. We were generally kindly received; and our tracts and books were taken with eagerness. We found, in the midst of the darkness of Beizwada, a sprinkling of men, holding government employment, well instructed in the saving knowledge of God, from the schools of several Mission Stations. They approved of the goodness of our message; spoke of the purity of the gospel, and the work of the Holy Ghost; they derided and despised the abominations of idolatry; but they are not saved. Thousands are in such a condition in India, only wanting the life of the Spirit of God to make them able ministers of His word. How much we need the prayers of the church, that God would speak the word, and great will be the company of the preachers!

Occupation of Ellore.

At the close of November Mr. English removed to Ellore. He states, in his annual report, that he has been much encouraged by a very kind reception at this large town; that he has received numberless visits from the inhabitants; and that so great a desire has been manifested for education, that he has been induced to open an English school upon the principle of Mr. Noble's school at Masulipatam, in which the scriptures form a prominent part of the instruction. The pupils all pay a small fee. The only limit to his number of pupils arises from the labour of the school resting upon Mr. English himself, amidst all his other Missionary labours. But, in the present state of the Society's means, there is little prospect of the Committee being able shortly to supply a school-master. Mr. English thus speaks of the importance of this station—

Ellore is an important native town, containing about 25,000 inhabitants, situated upon the great north road from Madras to Calcutta, and in the very centre of the Masulipatam district. It is about forty-five miles N.E. of Bunder, and celebrated for the manufacture of carpets and shoes. The trade and population of the place are expected to increase, on account of a large channel which is about to connect the two great rivers, the Godavery and Kistna, passing through the town. A railway, also, is to be constructed from this place immediately.

Education in India.

The Committee cannot conclude their review of the Indian Missions without noticing an important educational measure of the Indian government, which marks a happy change in the policy which, for more than half a century, had led the rulers of India to ignore the labours of Christian Missionaries within their dominions. A despatch, dated 19th July 1854, was forwarded to India by the mail on the following day, and was, on the same evening, ordered by the House of Commons to be printed. This despatch recognises "the noble exertions of Societies of Christians of all denominations to guide the natives of India"—especially of South India—"in the way of religious truth." It acknowledges that they have largely contributed to the spread of that education which it is the proper object of the government to promote; and it authorises grants in aid from the public funds to such Missionary schools as may impart a sufficient amount of useful knowledge, to be ascertained by official inspection, irrespective of the religious instruction which is given at the same schools. Proceeding on the principle that there shall be no direct interference on the part of government in the religious matters of the natives, the despatch directs that the governmental inspectors are to abstain from all inquiry as to the religious instruction given by the schools so assisted. And though in the schools wholly maintained by government no direct Christian instruction is to be given, yet the Holy Scriptures are to be placed in the school and college libraries, and Christian teachers employed in them are to be at liberty to give religious instruction to pupils desirous of receiving it, out of the regular school hours. As regards the government schools in general, a desire is expressed, that, as self-supporting education advances, the government schools should be discontinued; the government ceasing to be the educator, and assuming the position of the patron and promoter of useful education generally, and therein of Christian education, according to the measure of demand which may be made upon it in consequence of the increased efforts put forth by its friends and supporters. The government scheme further includes the formation of an educational department at each Presidency, to be presided over by an official of high standing; the establishment of universities for granting degrees of honour, to be open to students from all affiliated schools, on the plan of the London University; and, finally, sanctions the expenditure of whatever funds may be found necessary to carry the general scheme into effect at all the Presidencies.

In respect of South India, in which this Society has a large number of schools under its supervision, the despatch notices the success of Missionary education, and restrains the establishment of government schools in those localities in which there may be an adequate supply of Missionary schools. The following is the article numbered 96—

In Madras, where little has yet been done by Government to promote the education of the mass of the people, we can only remark with satisfaction that the educational efforts of Christian Missionaries have been more successful among the Tamil population than in any other part of India; and that the Presidency of Madras offers a fair field for the adoption of our scheme of education in its integrity, by founding Government Anglo-vernacular institutions only where no such places of instruction at present exist, which might, by grants in aid and other assistance, adequately supply the educational wants of the people.

Of this document it is not too much to say, that no state paper relative to India has appeared, of comparable importance or ability, since Lord Glenelg's despatch of the 20th of February 1833, which first enunciated the just relations of our government to the religious institutions of the natives, by directing its entire separation from all direct connexion with those "unhappy and debasing superstitions," while it asserted in the fullest terms the perfect toleration of all classes and sects.*

COLOMBO.

THE Mission church at Colombo has fulfilled the hope, in which it was erected, of becoming a point of union between native and European Christians. Congregations of each class are held within its walls, and have been ministered to by the same Missionary; and it has both witnessed the baptism of Christian infants and of heathen adults. The services were conducted during the early part of the year by the Rev. G. Pettitt, and, upon his departure, by the Rev. William Knight, and subsequently by the Rev. C. C. Fenn, until a Missionary could be appointed to the station. The Committee are thankful to add, that, at the close of the year, they were able to send the Rev. H. Whitley to take permanent charge of the Church. The native Singhalese services have been conducted by the Rev. C. Jayesinha, and Missionary labours have been commenced in the neighbourhood. A Ladies' Committee for female education has been established, which supports two girls'-schools at Colombo, containing from 80 to 100 pupils.

' Baptism of an adult.'

The Rev. G. Pettitt writes in his journal, October 26, 1854—

I had the satisfaction of baptizing an adult Tamil convert in our Mission church on the Sunday before last, and hope to baptize a young Kandian on Sunday next, who has been for several years under the care and instruction of a Christian schoolmaster, a Singhalese by birth, under the Government School Commission. I have great confidence in the sincerity of both these young men, and their baptism will, I trust, encourage and strengthen the minds of our small native Tamil and Singhalese congregations. The latter is steadily increasing. We had sermons in the church on the anniversary of its being dedicated, viz. October 15; and collections for defraying the expenses of the services, and care of the building, when the sum realized amounted to nearly 25*l.*, notwithstanding that rain prevented the attendance of some. It will be gratifying to learn that the whole amount collected within the church, on all occasions and for all purposes, during the first year of its existence, is as much as 99*l.*

COTTA.

The Missionary duties of the Cotta district, with the exception of two villages under Mr. Fenn's care, devolve upon the Rev. Isaiah Wood, with the assistance of the native minister and native catechists. He reports—

The past year has been one of severe trial and affliction to the people, small-pox and other virulent diseases having prevailed to an alarming extent. Our congregations and schools have, in consequence, been greatly thinned, and several deaths have occurred.

The inhabitants of the whole Cotta district are, for the most part, professedly Christian; that is to say, the majority of them were baptized under the proponent system some years ago. This kind of Christianity operates as a great barrier to the spread of the truth. The gross ignorance of the people causes them to suppose that nothing more than the rite of baptism is required to constitute them good and true Christians. In fact, many of them would esteem it a great insult to be regarded in any other light, although they never make their appearance at our places of worship. On this account, too, they are continually applying to us to baptize their children as an act of justice due to them as Christians by baptism. This state of things, in my mind, steels their hearts against the reception of the truth, as much, or even more, than their natural apathy or ignorance. It is the aim of the Missionaries to break down the barrier by refusing baptism in such cases, and by endeavouring to impress on the minds of the people the vanity of professing Christianity while the heart remains unconverted to God. And I feel assured that the great Disposer of the hearts of all men will, in His own good time, crown our efforts in this particular with much success. Already we have reason to hope that many of those who habitually attend our services are beginning to understand the spiritual nature of our holy religion. This of itself is sufficient to cause us to go onward unflinchingly in our work.

The number of congregations under Mr. Wood's superintendence is twenty-two: the number of schools thirty-six, containing 1173 scholars. In his annual report he writes—

During the past year fifty children and nineteen adults have received baptism. The infants were all the children of regular attendants on our services. Most of the adults were from twelve to fifteen years of age, several still being pupils in the out-schools: the rest were persons who, though professing Christianity, had not been baptized in their infancy, and they were, in consequence, obliged to undergo a course of instruction previous to their baptism.

Mr. Jayesinhe has under his charge five congregations and thirteen schools, with 408 children. In his annual report he thus records the death of an aged and faithful Christian—

Feb. 26, 1854 — Seekkohewagey Peter Dias died February 26, 1854. He was about eighty years of age, and, up to his death, possessed a strong and robust constitution. He was considered as patriarch of the village. I knew him ever since the Cotta Mission was established. He was zealous in promoting the spiritual welfare of his village people, and was the first to apply to the Missionaries for a school in his village, about twenty-five years ago. He built a substantial bungalow at his own expense, to be used both as a school-room and a place of worship. This building stood until the present beautiful small chapel was constructed, in the construction of which, too, he was the foremost to render every assistance which was in his power. He was a regular attendant on the means of grace thus afforded to his village, and his seat in the church was seldom found empty, unless he was sick. In sickness or privation no murmur or repining expression ever escaped his lips, but he was always happy, and resigned to the will of God.

Cotta Institution.

The Rev. C. C. Fenn, the principal of the Cotta Institution, has steadily pursued the new plans of education which were explained in the last Report. The number of pupils has been between 34 and 36. Twenty-five are boarders: seven of this number are supported by the Society; all the rest pay for their board and education. The Cotta English school, under Mr. Barton, is regarded both as a model English school and the junior department of the Institution. The boys pay 6*d.* a month, and the number on the books is 75. Mr. Barton, a pupil of the Highbury Training College, has been very successful in his management of the school. Mr. Fenn bears this testimony—"He has been a most valuable coadjutor: his zeal, ability, and thorough competency for his work, give me the strongest hopes of solid and progressive improvement in the department over which he presides."

A public examination of the institution was held at Midsummer, at which the Governor, Sir George Anderson, attended, together with many other Europeans. Mr. Fenn delivered an opening address, in which he explained the principles upon which the institution was conducted, observing, "We deny that human beings can be rightly educated without the Bible; but we believe, that, just because the education here given is Christian, therefore it ought to be as wide, as comprehensive, as invigorating to the faculties, and communicating as much of useful knowledge, as, under the circumstances in which we are placed, human efforts can make it." The examination was conducted by the Rev. W. Knight, our Secretary, by the Rev. Dr. Simons, and the Rev. Dr. Kessen, principal of the central school. The Governor expressed the high gratification he had that day received, and repeated the statement which had fallen from a previous speaker, "that the work was God's work, and, like every good work, it must succeed."

At the close of the year Mr. Fenn writes—

The Institution, it may be said, has prospered during the last year, at all events with regard to the carrying on of the plans already in operation. The progress of the pupils is very satisfactory—decidedly greater, I think, than the average progress of boys of the same age in England. In quickness of intellect and power of memory they are quite equal, while in diligence and desire to advance they are superior, to most English boys. That dangerous, but yet in some respects beneficial, and certainly not unpleasing, self-forgetfulness which characterizes our youthful fellow-countrymen at home, is very rarely, and then only to a slight degree, perceptible in Singhalese boys. Self-love, more or less enlightened, seems to obtain the complete mastery over them at a very early age.

That decline in mental activity which has been so often observed in them on their reaching a certain age, I have hitherto been able to prevent, by changing their subjects of study as soon as I perceive the smallest indications of apathy. This seems to awaken them. The change from arithmetic to algebra, from algebra to logic, from geography to popular science, I have frequently found beneficial.

With one or two exceptions, the conduct of my pupils has been satisfactory, and at all religious services they seem devout and attentive. There is one only of whose genuine conversion to God I feel assured. But in this view of the question I shall look with much more interest to the conduct of those who have been educated in the Institution, and have gone out into active life, than on those whose education is still going on. Four of the pupils have been baptized during the last year, three of them Kandians. Five of those trained under Mr. Barton and myself are now employed as schoolmasters or assistant teachers.

The Cotta printing and bookbinding establishment has been under the superintendence of Mr. Wood and native workmen, and has been usefully employed in printing school books and tracts, "The Ceylon Church Missionary Record," &c., in Singhalese.

BADDAGAME.

The Rev. G. Parsons and the native minister, the Rev. A. Goonesekera, have conducted this Mission, which comprises the village of Baddagame and three out-stations upon the coast.

The congregation at Baddagame continues very small, and affords little encouragement. Three adult baptisms have taken place, and there are 25 candidates for baptism, principally young persons from 12 to 16 years of age belonging to the schools. Cottage lectures have been held as in a former year, and the attendance has steadily increased from 90 the first year to 130 in the year just closed, the places of meeting being fourteen in number.

Mr. Parsons thus concludes his annual report—

In conclusion, whilst we mourn over the past as a year productive of very little positive results, we would endeavour to encourage ourselves by the faithfulness of God, and renew our hopes in His promises, that they who sow in tears shall doubtless come again with joy, bringing their sheaves with them. I had hoped that the coming trials would be the forerunners of an awakening among the people, and that, like showers of rain, they were sent to break up the fallow-ground, and prepare it to receive the comforts of the gospel; but, alas! I have watched and hoped in vain.

It appears more incumbent upon us to live and act thus, since we live in such an eventful period of the Church's history. We hear of heart-stirring movements taking place in various parts of the world. The very heathen rise up and anticipate the exertions of the Christian church. In China we see Buddhism itself assailed by tens of thousands of those who were formerly its most bigoted adherents. Surely the Missionary cause is an onward movement, and the glory and honour which attach to the spread of the gospel are rapidly increasing, and call for an increased amount of holy joy and deep humility from those who are the unworthy instruments in the work.

KANDY.

Discouragements at this Station.

In the last annual report Mr. Oakley was able to speak with some encouragement of the increased attendance of the people upon the means of grace, and their attention to the tidings of the gospel; but in the present report, with that fidelity which the Committee desire to cherish in all their statements, he speaks of an unexpected change for the worse in these very respects—

Our congregations have not increased, as we could have desired, and our schools have very much fallen off during the year; nor are we able to give any very encouraging account of the increase of spiritual religion among the members of our several congregations.

In respect of one of the most promising villages of the Kandian district—Ratmewella—of which notice has been taken in former reports, Mr. Oakley now writes—

A very considerable change has taken place in Ratmewella and the neighbouring villages during the past eighteen months. Formerly, many of the heathen, both men and women, were accustomed to assemble together at the schoolroom or church, whenever we went to the village; but of late the heathen, with very few exceptions, have entirely absented themselves. The present number of candidates for adult baptism is, in consequence, very small. But we have reason to think that the change above referred to has been brought about chiefly by the fact, that the people now begin to understand more distinctly the object of our visits and teaching; and, as they do not wish to relinquish their old religion and their old superstitions, they think it unnecessary any longer to listen to our words. A decided spirit of opposition has appeared in some quarters, and there is not the shadow of a doubt that the devil has been stirring up some of his emissaries to thwart and oppose, by every possible means, the spread of truth and light in these parts of his dominions.

The European catechist, Mr. E. R. Clarke, gives a favourable account of the few native Christians at this village. Though the evidences of spiritual life are small, yet their conduct is blameless, and their attendance upon the means of grace constant. He adds—

Certainly at Ratmewella there are two, a man and his wife—their names I need not mention—whose genuine and consistent, though very humble and quiet, Christian walk and conversation, altogether independent as they are at the same time of any thing like pecuniary aid or benefit from the Society—on the contrary, the man has, to my own knowledge, made pecuniary sacrifices for the good of the church there, and grudges not to give something himself towards the funds of the Mission too—are a living example to the Christians and heathen around them. Here is one of the bright spots, precious indeed in Ceylon, which here and there, though “few and far between,” cheer up the Missionary by the evidence that God is in Ceylon too of a truth; that even in this island there are some “called, and chosen, and faithful”—“a few names, even in Sardis.”

Itinerancy amongst the Kandian provinces has been carried on with much zeal and patient perseverance by the Rev. E. T. Higgins and Mr. Clarke, though each was compelled to withdraw for a few months in consequence of severe attacks of fever. Mr. Higgins gives the following report of his itinerating labours—

The Kandian country, in which the work of itinerating has been commenced, is divided into ten districts, viz. Yattenuwara, Four Korles, Tumpane, Seven Korles, Matale, Harris pattu, Dumbera, Hewehette, Walapane, and Udanuwara, and contains about 230,000 inhabitants. The only towns in the country besides Kandy itself are Kergalle, in Four Korles; Kornegalle, in Seven Korles; Matale, in Matale; Badula, in Walapane; and Gampola, in Udanuwara: and all of these, like the town of Kandy, are inhabited chiefly by low-country Singhalese, Tamils, and Moormen. The Kandians live in small villages or hamlets scattered over the face of the country, and are occupied chiefly in the cultivation of their rice-fields, in the management of which they exercise much industry and skill. They are a very reserved people, possess much independence of character, and care for little beyond the affairs of their own families and village. They are also hospitable, civil, and polite, but free, in a great measure, from that servile and cringing manner so common among eastern people; and, if by the grace of God they should hereafter be led to embrace the gospel in sincerity, will doubtless prove an exceedingly interesting people. At present, however, their character is fearfully debased. The atheistic principles of Buddhism have deadened every moral faculty, and left them the mere creatures of time and sense, slaves of self and the things of this life, and almost without a care or a hope for the world to come.

In conclusion, I beg leave to mention, by way of particulars, that, during the last year, all the villages in one Kandian district, Harris pattu, were visited, and a second tour of visits over about half of that district was completed before the end of December 1854. That tour I hope, D. V., to complete through the remainder of the district before the next hot season. The Committee will remember, that by sickness and other afflictions I was entirely laid aside for more than six months of the past year.

In his annual letter Mr. Clarke writes—

I shrink from the framing of a report or letter purporting to communicate results, when results, alas! there are few or none to show, but a gospel, like its divine Author, despised and rejected of the people—a gospel which had not, indeed, in all, though in many cases, been before presented to them; but now, when seen, “both seen and hated,” both it and its Author. I have ventured to write thus plainly, both because it is my earnest wish that the sad blank of every thing to encourage, the almost total absence of any trustworthy signs, even, of fruit to enliven the labourer to perseverance in his work, should be well understood and realized, and the trial and the want sympathized in, by our friends at home, that they, to borrow the language of your Instructions, “knowing our wants, may be moved to prayer on our behalf.”

The work of itinerancy, of which the labourers themselves speak so humbly, is referred to by other witnesses in far more hopeful terms. Mr. Oakley writes—

Although we have had trials, we have not been left altogether without encouragement. The reports of Messrs. Higgen's and Clark show that something has been done in the way of scattering the seeds of divine truth. It is a cause of thankfulness to know that the glad tidings of salvation have been proclaimed to at least 5000 people in the surrounding villages, comparatively few of whom had ever before heard the sound of the gospel.

The Rev. William Knight also writes, in reference to the same subject—

May 11, 1854—The day following we retraced our steps up the romantic Galegedere pass, and I looked back from the head of it with far more pleasure even than when its scenery first burst upon me two days before. It was now the road to a locality where there seemed a promising opening for Missionary work. I guard against being too sanguine, and know how much mere curiosity has to do with the attention which a strange message obtains; but still my visit strengthened an impression, which has long been growing upon me, that one most hopeful sphere of Missionary labour here, and one which has hitherto been hardly reached at all—but by the itinerancy from which our devoted brother Mr. Higgins has been, only, as we trust, for a time, withdrawn—lies before us in the uninstructed heathen of the Kandian districts.*

The Coolies of the Coffee-plantations.

The mission of native catechists from Tinnevely to Ceylon has been already alluded to under the report of South India. The presence of Mr. Knight in Ceylon was the occasion of commencing this new branch of Missionary operations in the island. Mr. Knight was invited by some of the coffee planters to visit their large settlements of coolies from South India, and to devise, if possible, some means for promoting their moral and religious welfare while they remained in the island of Ceylon, which is usually five years. The zealous labours of Mr. Murdoch, in connexion with Tamil tract distribution, had discovered that amongst these coolies many Christian converts from our South-India Mission were mingled. Mr. Knight ascertained, upon visiting the plantations, that these native Christians were in the habit of forming little parties, electing one of themselves as a kind of catechist, and meeting together from week to week for mutual edification, prayer, and reading the holy Scriptures; and that their sober and honest demeanour had already won for them the good opinion of their employers. He at once seized upon the suggestions which these circumstances presented, and proposed to the coffee planters that they should subscribe to bring over from Tinnevelly, and support in Ceylon, native catechists, regularly trained for their work, and that the Society should support a Missionary to superintend this new and interesting Mission. The way in which this scheme was responded to by the catechists in South India has been already referred to. This scheme happily embraces, beyond the usual aspect of a double blessing to those who send and those who receive the gospel, a fourfold blessing, by the introduction of two other parties who are combined in this blessed work: the coolies in Ceylon receive the benefit—the native Christians in Tinnevelly supply the catechists—the planters in Ceylon liberally provide the salaries—the Church Missionary Society is honoured by the management and superintendence of the whole work.

Mr. Pettitt thus records the commencement of this interesting undertaking—

Six catechists have arrived from Tinnevelly, who are proceeding in a few days to Kandy to be employed as Christian teachers to the coolies working upon the coffee estates. They appear to be entering upon their work in a serious and devoted spirit, prepared to encounter difficulties and trials in the prosecution of it. They have come, cheered and supported by the sympathy and prayers of the Missionaries and the native Christians in Tinnevelly, by whom, at two very interesting meetings, they were commended to the care and blessing of God.*

JAFFNA DISTRICT.

General View.

It is eminently a sifting time for the Jaffna Mission. The labours of the Missionaries for forty years had run in a comparatively even course. At first the Society gave, in various ways, much temporal employment and advantage to their converts. A large number became, through their Christian education, enlightened, but not converted. Many also "for a time believe, and in time of temptation fall away." A crisis has lately taken place, and the discovery of much hypocrisy—of some cases of malignity—of prevailing selfishness and mercenary conduct—under a profession of Christianity, has well nigh overwhelmed our Missionaries with sorrow and disappointment, and led them to inquire whether it was not right to retire from Ceylon, and transfer their labours to the Tamil population of Tinnevely, and resign the care of their Jaffna congregations to some of the many other Missionary agencies in the same district. Under these very depressing circumstances, the visit of your Secretary, the Rev. W. Knight, was peculiarly useful and refreshing. He had much prayer and conference with the Missionaries; and some modifications in the Missionary operations hitherto conducted were suggested for the consideration of the Parent Committee.

The Committee, upon a full consideration of the state of the Jaffna Mission, have come to the conclusion that they cannot withdraw their operations from a field which they have occupied for forty years, and in which success has been granted from time to time, in individual conversions, as well as a large measure of general preparation for the evangelization of the people, until the proposed new scheme of operations has been fully tried, for bringing this Mission field into a more satisfactory condition.*

In addition to other trials and difficulties the district has been visited by severe sickness. The Rev. R. Bren, in a letter dated May 4, 1854, writes—

For the six previous months the work has been much interrupted by cholera and scarcity of food. Numbers of the people all around have been carried off, especially from amongst the young. The schools had been broken up, the people entertaining the idea that it is very bad to assemble together and make a noise at such a time, when the goddess Anmarl is angry, and going about amongst them. Special services are performed at the temples, but it generally happens that the disease spreads just in proportion to the increase of devotion to the idols. The harvest having also failed in this district of Ceylon, there has been much want and suffering. Yet the people turn not to the Lord. Wholly absorbed by this present life, they have no idea of any thing beyond. The soul, its immortality, their need of holiness, are thoughts which concern them not.

An attempt was made to establish a seminary for instructing native teachers in the vernacular language, in order to provide a supply of trained schoolmasters, but a sufficient number of pupils cannot be obtained. An English schoolmaster from the Highbury training college, Mr. Sorrell, undertook the charge of the Chundicully English seminary in March 1854, but owing to a payment being required, and to superior schools upon the same plan in the neighbourhood, the supply of pupils for this institution has also rapidly decreased, and the school has been closed.

The Committee conclude their report of the Ceylon Mission by an extract from a recent letter of the Rev. C. C. Fenn, whose opinion is entitled to the greater weight from his late visit to the Missions of Tinnevely and Krishnagurh.

Looking at the Mission in general, I do not share in the gloomy views of some of the brethren. To me, things appear full of hope and promise. The want of success that has hitherto attended our efforts seems to me to have arisen, for the most part, from obstacles that have either already been removed or surmounted, or are in the process of becoming so. At present, one of our greatest difficulties and discouragements is, speaking generally, the unsatisfactory character, in a spiritual point of view, of our unordained native agents and congregations. We must more earnestly pray for, and—humbly, but yet—with increased confidence expect, the life-giving influence of the Holy Spirit. And we must seek to be ensamples to our flocks. The congregations will perhaps be more influenced by what the catechists are, than by what they teach; and it is certain, I think, that the catechists themselves are far more effectually moulded by what they see of our lives and characters, than by the admonitions which they receive from us.*

The Chinese "Movement."

DURING the last year the hopes of Christians in England, in reference to the Chinese movement, have received a check, and in some instances have given place to an opposite extreme of distrust and despair. This re-action has been naturally caused by certain fanatical and blasphemous publications emanating from the insurgents' camp. But a careful examination of the case will show that these objectionable publications have proceeded chiefly from Yang, called the Eastern King, and his party; while the originators of the movement, Tae-ping-Wang and his party, have not swerved from the course they pursued at the commencement of their great enterprise. There is good reason to hope that the original and sounder party is greatly in the ascendancy; and that the Eastern King—the Simon Magus of the insurgent body, the evil spirit who, by his hypocrisy and ambition, has done much to alienate foreign sympathy—may yet be overpowered and displaced.

The door of hope in the movement is still open; inasmuch as the latest proclamation upholds "the holy books of the Old and New Testament," in the Protestant version, as the class-book for national education of youths throughout China, and as the word to be read in all assemblies of public worship. These measures will at least have the effect of raising up a generation habituated to reverence the holy scriptures, and will create, independently of any errors or excesses in the present leaders, most hopeful materials, which the Christian churches of foreign lands may hereafter cultivate. Upon the whole, the Committee still commend the Chinese movement to the candid sympathy and earnest prayers of all who take an interest in the Redeemer's cause.

Annual Letter of the Bishop of Victoria.

The Bishop of Victoria, in his annual letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, dated Hong Kong, Feb. 1855, thus refers to his Missionary labours, especially in the employment of the press—

The present political disorders in China, the social disorganization of this neighbourhood, the wide prevalence of anarchy, lawlessness, bloodshed, and piracy along the coast; the vast scale on which Chinese emigration is pouring hence to California, Australia, and the West Indies, and the migratory and unsettled character of our local Chinese population, have tended not only to affect quiet Missionary operations in general, but also to interfere with our scholastic pursuits in the college.

At the present time we are largely engaged in printing in Chinese, Japanese, and Loochooan; and Lo-sam-yuen devotes nearly his whole time to this department, and occasional visits to the emigrant ships. In the current year, commencing in July last, we have printed from our College Fund 5000 copies of the "Morning and Evening Prayer" of our Liturgy, translated for us by the Rev. Dr. Medhurst in a first-rate style of Chinese composition. The beautiful prayers of our church have thus been widely dispersed. Of the whole 5000 copies, 1500 copies have been sent in Chinese emigrant ships to Sydney and Melbourne; 500 to the West Indies; 150 to California; 2100 I took with me last autumn to the Church Missionary Stations of Shanghae, Ningpo, and Fuh-chau—from which last place the Rev. W. Welton writes me that he has despatched several copies, by a Chinese colporteur, with the New Testament, to the Bohea Hills and other parts of the interior; and very recently 100 copies were forwarded by request to the insurgent chief at Whampoa, near Canton. An American physician who visited them reports that this independent body of rebels, who now threaten the city of Canton, profess to have lately received some of the Tae-ping religious books from the leaders of the central rebellion at Nanking, and expressed to him their desire to have a supply of Christian books. It was in consequence of this that the American gentleman alluded to visited me while engaged in writing this letter, and obtained from me, for the purpose, 100 copies of our "Morning and Evening Prayer," thirty copies of the New Testament, and 100 copies of the celebrated tract of the late Dr. Milne, called the "Two Friends," as a present supply. As an instance of the great excitement caused by the revolutionary struggle, I may state that, while engaged in writing this letter, I have been also agreeably interrupted by the visit of three Chinese gentlemen from Canton, two of them graduates of the Keyjin degree, who came to me wishing to obtain copies of the Tae-ping books published at Nanking. One of the books they received on loan from me was a portion of the Christian Bible, printed with the imprimatur of the revolutionary chief at Nanking.

Our principal undertaking will, I trust, shortly commence in publishing the complete Liturgy, in two versions, separately; the one in the literary style, the other in a colloquial style of the Mandarin dialect for a less literary class of readers. This work, also, must be regarded as of a tentative character. We have no ordinary guarantee for the excellence of the execution, in the fact of its being translated by Dr. Medhurst, a Missionary and Sinologue of known celebrity. The rough draft first prepared by our Missionary, the Rev. R. H. Cobbold, of Ningpo, was sent to Dr. Medhurst for criticising and corrections; but having just finished the translation of the whole Bible, he kindly gave us the benefit of his extensive Chinese erudition in sending me, portion by portion, during the last twelve months, nearly the whole of the Liturgy in Chinese.

FUH-CHAU.

The Rev. W. Welton has remained another year alone at this station, but two clergymen are now on their way to join him in the Mission.

This city was a few years ago the least considerable of the five open ports; but since the disturbances at Shanghai, several mercantile firms have settled here, and it is found to possess superior facilities for internal communication, and for the entrance of vessels into the harbour. Mr. Welton's medical aid is very extensively resorted to: the number of patients is between 2000 and 3000 annually. Many of the most respectable mandarins invite him to visit them at their houses: every such occasion is improved by communicating religious instruction, both orally and by giving tracts and portions of the Scriptures. He has also a school, consisting of thirty-five boys and girls, who receive instruction in the New Testament. Some portion of his labour is bestowed upon the printing of the New Testament for the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the distribution of these books in the city and neighbourhood by means of colporteurs.

Mr. Welton bears constant testimony to the baneful effects, both physical and moral, of the importation of opium upon the population of China. He hears from the more intelligent Chinese bitter complaints of the ruin which it is bringing upon their country, and reproaches are cast upon the English for forcing this poisonous drug upon the population in defiance of the law of China.

In a letter dated April 3, 1854, Mr. Welton thus describes the state of things—

That the revolution thus far has had the effect of chastening the mind and lowering the haughtiness of both rulers and literati here is manifest, and a marked change has passed over the minds of the common people in regard to their bearing towards foreigners; and it has been a matter of much satisfaction and pleasure to me to perceive the interest and desire manifested by the people in regard to the school which I am now commencing, and no lack of scholars seems probable. Upwards of twenty, male and female, are engaged, and I expect that an enlargement of the building will be required. The workings of Providence, in His judgments upon this land, are doubtless preparing the way for the more efficient labours of the Missionary: as the people become better acquainted with us, so their prejudices and distant bearing subside, and we gain a near access and a more ready hearing. That we have the confidence of this people in a very considerable degree is evident from the fact that credit is readily afforded us in our necessary purchases at the shops, and there seems to be a growing desire to know and see more of us.

Visit of the Bishop.

The Bishop of Victoria thus writes, after a visit to this station in the autumn of last year—

In the month of September last I was enabled to pay a brief visit of about twenty-four hours to Mr. Welton at Fuh-chau. We organized a little prospectus of places for a colporteur agency in disposing of—and, when practicable, selling—Chinese tracts and New Testaments in the city and neighbourhood. Two respectable natives have been engaged. Their journals, periodically forwarded to me by Mr. Welton, show that, although the sale of books has been on a small scale, the gratuitous distribution of them has been carried on to a large extent. One of these agents has laboured in the city, which contains at least half-a-million of people, while the other has made extensive circuits in the interior amid the tea-districts, whence he reports a very favourable reception among the people.*

NINGPO.

This station, having been in some measure removed from the influence of the insurgents, has enjoyed peace during the last year, and the operations of the Missionaries have been carried on with much success. Mr. Gough joined his two associates, Messrs. Cobbold and Russell, in the month of July. The health of the Missionaries has been, on the whole, good, and they have not failed to take full advantage of their exemption from revolutionary hindrances by freely carrying forward their Mission in the city and neighbourhood.

Adult Baptisms—Easter Services.

The following extracts from Mr. Cobbold's journal will show that the Lord is gathering to Himself a people out of China—

Jan. 29, 1854: Lord's-day [Chinese New-year's day]—I called this morning on poor Kyuô-fông, who, I think, hardly knew me: he seemed, however, to understand what I said to him. On some one asking him who was there, he said, "My Lord is here." They thought he meant me; but I knew better, and asked him who was his Lord. He said at once, "Jesus." I asked if he was at peace. He said, "Peace! peace!" I then proposed to pray, and he expressed strongly his desire for this. All the family then knelt; and though there seemed but little hope that our prayer would be answered for temporal recovery, yet we may trust that the spiritual blessings of forgiveness and acceptance would be vouchsafed.

Feb. 12—Mr. Russell administered baptism to a man and a woman, who have long been under probation for this ordinance. The latter especially has for years been desirous of Christian instruction; and when in Miss Aldersey's service, two years ago, was inquiring whether she could be baptized. This long probation has thoroughly tested her sincerity. Her last trial was to resist the persuasion of her mother not to be baptized; and also of her brother, who made a vigorous effort to induce her to refrain from taking this step, trying to get her husband over to his way of thinking; who made, however, a very sensible answer, to the effect that, in such matters as these, interference was wrong, and each ought to follow his own convictions. The former is a carder of cotton wool, who has for a long time been a diligent attendant upon the ordinances of religion, and seems a very quiet and well-conducted man.

March 5: Lord's-day—We had a day of much interest, from an accession to Christ's professing people of three persons; two of them women, baptized by our Presbyterian brethren in their chapel near their residences, and the other the old man, Mr. Djün, who was baptized by me this morning. The catechist, before the service, went over the different points with him, telling him the way he was to answer to each; but when he came to the reality, he made little comments of his own on each, such as, "I repent; I repent with sorrow;" "If I were not baptized, I should not be a disciple;" "I do believe with my whole heart;" "Yes, I will follow the commands of God." His whole deportment betokened great earnestness; and we trust grace will be given him to enable him to struggle successfully against his infirmities, and that he will be brought to the full understanding of the mystery of gospel truth. I chose the name of Mnason for him, on account chiefly of his age.

Mr. Cobbold thus describes the celebration of Easter-day—

On arriving at the chapel this morning, I found many people had already assembled, being anxious to witness some baptisms which we had fixed for to-day. I somewhat shortened the catechetical instruction of the school, for fear of wearying the people, who were some of them strangers, coming for the first time. Mrs. Russell's school being also present, all the seats were completely filled. Mr. Russell read prayers, and after the lesson from the New Testament, the candidates for baptism being arranged, seven in number, I baptized them—two men, three women, and two children. One of the men baptized was my school teacher, who has been for some time in a very hopeful state.

One of the women was a poor recipient of alms, who for a long time has shown a deep interest in spiritual things. She had once considerable property, and now her poverty seems working out her spiritual benefit. "To the poor the gospel is preached." How often is this realized, and how great a barrier does the possession of riches oppose to the hearing and pondering and embracing of the truth! Another of the women was the wife of the catechist, and the third the wife of a bricklayer, who has himself made some promise of conversion of heart.

Mr. Russell, after giving remarkable instances in which the word of God had been read in private with much profit, and recording the baptism of several converts, adds, July 17—

Other reasons induce me to think that the aspect of our work is encouraging. The most prominent among them is the apparent interest in the subject of Christianity which seems to have risen amongst many of the female population of this city. Hitherto, at Ningpo, the sight of a female in any of our churches was quite unusual; and when one did make her appearance, it was only to take a hasty peep at what was going forward, seldom to be prevailed on to sit down and listen. Now, on the contrary, I am happy to say my little chapel is regularly attended by several respectable females, amounting often to thirty persons, who seem to listen to what is said with considerable interest and attention; and about a dozen of whom also regularly come to Mrs. Russell on each Wednesday for catechetical instruction.

Again, in corroboration of my statement, I would refer to the unusually large and attentive congregations I have been latterly having in my chapels.

Lastly, I would mention the constant application there has been to me during the past half year, on the part of parents, for the admission of their children into my day-school, which, if large enough to accommodate so many, might now number some hundreds, instead of forty, which the smallness of the room necessarily confines it to; and this notwithstanding the fact that half of the boys' time is exclusively devoted to the acquisition of religious truth, principally the commitment to memory of the Holy Scriptures in their own mother tongue, through our alphabetic system for writing the Ningpo colloquial, and that the instruction which I myself give these boys is almost exclusively confined to the same.

And then I would remark that the present hopeful state of things seems to have grown up during a season of very considerable political excitement, which perhaps, to human calculation, would be regarded as the most unpropitious; but which, nevertheless, shows the importance of the advice, and verifies the statement, of inspiration, "In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thy hand: for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, either this or that, or whether they both shall be alike good."

During the very hot season the Missionaries were compelled to remit their labours for a time, and to seek the benefit of a change of air. But at the close of the year they resumed their labours with renewed energy, being convinced that the people were more accessible than at any former time, and that Missionary tours might be safely made into the surrounding country.*

SHANGHAE.

The circumstances of this Mission have been for the past year most trying to the faith and patience of the Missionaries. The European quarters have been closely invested by the troops of both parties, imperialists and insurgents. The residents have been kept in continual fear of life and property, occasionally obliged to take up arms in self defence against both sides. Entrance into the city has been often denied to the Missionaries, and the minds of all men are kept in a state of perpetual excitement very adverse to the reception of the message of peace. Messrs. Reeve and Burdon have remained at the station, waiting for better days. The latter, writing under date of March 14, 1854, says—

You will be sorry to hear that one of our very few baptized converts has been killed by a cannon-ball from the city. He was a member of the blind class begun by Mr. M'Clatchie, and I believe was the first who was baptized by him. The name of the poor man was Sau-vá-Dzun. I do hope the poor fellow remembered enough of the teaching he had already received to enable him to cast himself solely on the Lord Jesus Christ for salvation.

Progress amidst Difficulties.

Mr. Reeve notices in his journal, Aug. 14—

I have now a little class of apparently earnest inquirers. Whilst I give God thanks, yet I do it with trembling, well knowing that in too many cases these first awakenings of the heathen mind prove but as the "early dew;" but I would continue amongst them, working in faith, and relying solely on the mighty power of that God who has promised that "a bruised reed He will not break." The average attendance at the church is forty; at the little chapel, fifteen. I should be sorry to find that any circumstance obliged us to give up the use of the latter, as it is in a very suitable locality; and we have reason to believe it will prove a great help to us. Last evening, as I left the city, cannon-balls were flying over my head, and striking houses near me; but as I passed on from these scenes of war and misery, my heart rejoiced in the hope that some were inclining to take refuge beneath the wings of the Almighty.

At a later date the same Missionary writes, Sept. 29—

The prosecution of Missionary work in the city of Shanghae is becoming more and more encompassed with difficulties and impediments. Yet most of us have evidences that, even in troublous times, the wall is being built. Among the rebel soldiery, I fear, little prospect can be afforded of sound conversions. The avocations of war, as carried on here, are utterly repugnant to both the spirit and letter of the Saviour's teaching. Yet though the soldiers, while they continue such, cannot be admitted into the church, there is still hope that the many inquirers among them, when the present exigency has passed away, will lay aside a calling which some even now only carry on from compulsion, and receive baptism.

Visit of the Bishop.

At the close of the year the Bishop of Victoria visited this station, and thus describes its present condition in a letter dated Feb. 13, 1855—

The state of Missions at Shanghae is, generally speaking, of a very anomalous kind. Some twenty or thirty Missionaries (of different Societies), with their families, are congregated in the foreign settlement, where they have little room for extensive labours, being hemmed in between two belligerent powers, and unable to extend their visits far in any direction. I tremble at the ordeal through which Missionaries, living in so peculiar a location, will be called to pass, and the great danger lest a Missionary's zeal suffer decay and diminution through so large a number of Missionaries being thrown together in so close a vicinity, and excluded from their ordinary employments.

I am still full of hope that the changes going forward in this empire will be a great gain eventually to Missions. But it is evident that the transitional period will be one of trial, perplexity, and interruption. If you put together all the views concerning the 'T'hae-ping religionists which have been propounded, and take "the mean of all the observations," you will probably attain the due medium between unduly sanguine hopes and excessively despondent fears. This country was so hard set in all that was self-conceited, proud, and intolerant to foreigners, that nothing short of a heavy national visitation seemed likely to humble its haughty rulers. Their day of visitation has indeed come; and the troubles that now impend over the city of Canton, and the total disorganization of that province, show that rebellion is breaking out in all parts of the coast, and that the Manchow dynasty is hopelessly tottering from the throne.

During my stay at Shanghae I had the privilege of Mr. Cobbold's presence and assistance at the admission of Messrs. Burdon and Reeve to the order of priesthood, and in plans for the publication of a complete Chinese version of our Liturgy. This latter work is now in progress in St. Paul's College. Mr. and Mrs. Reeve were quietly pursuing their work in the Mission school. Mr. Burdon, on the day after my arrival, had the severe bereavement of losing his wife, who arrived about a year before, and was an early victim to the climate acting on a weakened frame after the birth of her first-born, a little daughter, still surviving.*

The Committee conclude their account of China in the words of the Bishop, to which all their Missionaries would give a hearty response—weak company of watchmen, beholding the streaks of approaching dawn upon the horizon, and rejoicing in the hope of a brighter day. But darkness yet overspreads the land; and if the sun appears long in rising, yet we must remember that a generation is but a little point of time in the spiritual history of a vast continent overgrown with the superstitions and errors of thirty centuries.

General View.

THE last Report contained the very encouraging statement by Sir George Grey, the late Governor of New Zealand, of the advanced state of the Society's Mission, and of the wonderful success which had attended its labours, by raising a race of uncivilized heathen cannibals to become one of the most thriving and loyal Christian communities within the wide circle of Her Majesty's dominions.

The Bishop of New Zealand also stated, before the Committee, that the native church in New Zealand had reached such a state of advancement, that it had become desirable to provide it with a more regular ecclesiastical organization, for which purpose the Bishop proposed to divide the Northern Island into four Dioceses, and that the three Archdeacons who are Missionaries of this Society should be Bishops of the new Sees. The Committee, unable to judge how far New Zealand was ripe for such an ecclesiastical division, expressed their readiness to promote the measure if the Bishop and Her Majesty's Government should concur in its adoption; and they thankfully recognised the proof of confidence, and the tribute of just commendation, which the proposal indicated, towards those able and devoted men who have borne in New Zealand the heat and burden of the spiritual warfare which has been crowned with such a signal victory. Her Majesty's Government did not concur in the Bishop's proposal, and therefore, for the present, the Diocese will remain undivided. But the information received from the Governor and the Bishop sufficiently proves that the time is come when the native church in New Zealand may be gradually transferred to self-support, and the annual grants of the Society withdrawn from that island, to be expended upon the unevangelized portions of the world.* When this shall be accomplished, New Zealand will present an encouraging proof that the gospel of Christ has lost nothing of its power; and that the divine truth, which was mighty, through God, to overthrow the sanguinary rites of heathenism 1800 years ago, has been equally efficacious now to prevail over the sanguinary superstitions of the Maories.

We must not conclude, however, that the god of this world will withdraw himself from the field where he has been so signally overthrown, and suffer us to enjoy unmolested the fruits of our victory. He only changes his mode of operation, that those who will no longer serve him as heathen may yet continue to serve him as professing Christians. If he can only succeed in depriving a Christian profession of its spirituality and unction, he may still reign. This is now being attempted in New Zealand. The great adversary strives to mar and spoil the blessed work which has been accomplished, availing himself with dexterity of every existing influence to promote his object. Christianity has taught the natives to lay aside their wars and to cultivate their land. The discovery of gold-fields in Australia, and the increase of settlers there, have immensely increased the value of the agricultural produce of New Zealand, and the Maories obtain high remunerative prices. At this moment the ungodly white man presents himself with his low vices and grog shops, opened in increasing numbers, and in violation of the ordinance of government, to tempt the natives to indulgence in a vice to which, when heathen, they were strangers. The reports of the Missionaries convey mournful intelligence that drunkenness, with its attendant evils, is on the increase: in some instances disease and death have thinned the population, and a withering blight has come over many a hopeful native congregation.

The violation of the sanctity of the Sabbath, and the contempt of the means of grace on the part of profane Europeans, present another snare and stumbling-block to the native Christians. A Missionary reports, that, upon visiting a pious family of settlers newly arrived in his district in the North, they observed that during the whole course of their extensive journey from Wellington "Sunday could nowhere be distinguished from another day, except at native villages."

These things cause the Missionaries, many of them now aged men, severe disappointment and grief. They see themselves called upon to enter upon a fresh struggle, that the truth of the gospel may continue; and they earnestly call upon Christians at home to help them with their prayers to revive the work of God, and to bring again the backsliders into the fold of Christ. Archdeacon W. Williams writes—

The Mission seems to require more care and attention in its present state than it has done before. The great enemy, as in the early ages of Christianity, is using every exertion to bring to nought the power of the gospel, and it remains for us to redouble our energies to counteract his purposes. At the same time it is not an uncertain contest, for they that be with us are more than they that be with them.

One of the native teachers thus expressed, with affecting simplicity, his fears lest many should be carried away by the floods of ungodliness—

The canoe has been upset, and but few have escaped by getting on its bottom. The house has been burnt, and but few have escaped. I am now alluding to the drunkenness which has been introduced among us. This has led to adultery, and much trouble: nevertheless, it is good to look after the few that have escaped.

The Mission has also been subject, during the last year, to a very trying dispensation through the prevalence of epidemics, chiefly the measles and whooping-cough, which have carried off large numbers, and some of the best and most efficient native teachers. The Rev. Joseph Matthews writes—

The past year is one that will be remembered by the natives as the most afflictive, and perhaps the most fatal, they ever experienced. The well-known epidemic, the measles, broke out in our district in the middle of winter, and the malady, in its fatal effects, increased in proportion to the inclemency of the season. The natives generally were very imprudent, and many were without adequate help, having no one to procure firewood and food while the measles were upon them. We lament to say that about one hundred died in our whole district. It is not improbable that the measles have, from their first breaking out until now, been the proximate cause of two thousand deaths throughout the island.

NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Several changes have taken place in the northern district during the past year. Mr. King, the oldest of the Society's labourers, who retired a few years ago from active duties, but continued to live at his station, has been removed by death. He was one of the two first lay settlers who embarked with the late Rev. Samuel Marsden, in 1809, from this country, with the purpose of commencing Missionary operations in New Zealand. Throughout the course of a Missionary life more than usually prolonged, he had witnessed all the changes of the Mission—its night of toil, the dawn of the morning, the full noon of large results, until his own eventide came, and, full of years, he has gone to sleep in Jesus.

The Rev. W. C. Dudley has been compelled, from ill-health, to return to Europe, and disconnect himself from a work on which his heart was set, and his labours highly valued.

The Waimate—Kaikohe.

The Rev. Richard Davis, having sustained the severe domestic affliction of the loss of his wife, who had been his companion in all his cares, toils, and perils, and a mother to the native tribes, has been obliged, by declining health, to remove from Kaikohe to Waimate, where, together with the Rev. Joseph Matthews, he superintends the surrounding tribes, paying occasional visits to his former station. The usual means of grace have been sustained, and the congregations have kept up in point of numbers. But the causes of anxiety already alluded to have prevailed throughout the district to a lamentable extent. Mr. Davis thus expresses himself, in the conclusion of his annual report for 1854, as to the state of the natives in his district—

Much, very much, is grievous amongst the natives generally, and the evil is growing; and things must continue thus until the Spirit be again poured out from on high. But bad as the appearance of things is, we have perhaps more knowledge and piety still existing among us, where the people are attended to, than would generally be found in a similar number of the lower order of people in England. The rising generation amongst us, at present, presents the most gloomy picture—I speak of the children belonging to our congregations: but even here, dark as it sometimes presents itself to my mind, I do not despair.

Messrs. Matthews and Puckey report, at the same date, respecting their station—

The temporal prospects of our natives are progressing, and the various tribes have lived in peace with each other. The means of grace have generally been well attended during the year; and many, who for a long time refused to hear the gospel, calling themselves Roman Catholics, have during the last year given their adhesion to the true church of Christ, and have become hearers of the word. The principal chief of the Papists, a very promising character, was baptized by Archdeacon H. Williams during the last autumn. These good fruits we consider to have arisen from the establishment of the schools at Ahipara. Our people require the utmost attention to bring them on to a state of Christian maturity, especially in these days of increasing worldly wealth. We witness, to our grief, their too independent spirit, which often leads them astray, and their natural character is altogether that of self-sufficiency. On the other hand, we witness much that is praiseworthy; and, in proportion as their minds are enlightened by hearing what other churches have done and are doing, they seem to feel that it is right for them to help one another. They have done so, in a small degree, the last few years, and if we are spared we shall not cease to lead them on to further exertions. Our own feelings, after twenty-one years, are the same as when we first pitched our tents in the midst of the wild brushwood, "that we have no power of our own selves to help ourselves;" but that our sufficiency and strength and success are altogether in Christ; and that, if any blessing whatever has rested upon our labours, we disdain any merit, and say, "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto Thy name give glory, for Thy mercy, and for Thy truth's sake."

The Native Teachers.

Mr. Davis records the following pleasing testimony to the Christian character of one of his native teachers—

During our journey I had some interesting conversation with my assistant, the native teacher. He observed, "I prefer walking to riding, because I can, when I feel a desire, step aside out of the road and kneel down in private prayer to God. The word of Christ and the knowledge of Christ is sweet to my soul, and when I cannot meditate on the word of God with profit it grieves my heart. I am not well, but I do not intend to spare my body: when I feel a desire to go out I shall go and serve Christ: my body shall be for Christ." I asked him what he thought of his people at Ottawa, as I was pleased with their appearance and behaviour. He replied, "Yes, I hope there is some life, but I fear they are looking too much to their teacher"—a nice young man living amongst them, their chief—"and too little to Christ; and if so, when he dies they will fall away."

Mr. Matthews, in his journal, having noticed the exemplary conduct of some of his native teachers, adds the following important reflections—

I was led to see that we have great reason to be thankful for the help our native teachers afford; and I thought many of them are far better instructed scribes in the kingdom of heaven upon earth than we are at all times aware of. Many conversations I had with William on the road—sixty miles—led me to reflect on these things; for I found that he was sound in religious principles, and well versed in the New Testament and the Catechism of the church. He told me of a conversation that he and some of the Ahipara natives had had with regard to the Apostles' Creed. He said his opinion was, that the creed divided the works of creation and redemption between the Sacred Persons of the Trinity, which some were confused about. He asked me if he was right. I told him, "Yes." "Well," he said, "I thought so. I take the words, 'I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth,' to belong to the Father, &c., and so on."

I would give my opinion that some of our best and well-trying Christian teachers, of fifteen or twenty years' standing, should be ordained deacons while we have strength to pursue our work and overlook them, and attend to our work. There should be one ordained native at Whangape immediately. We cannot personally attend to this district more than a very few times in a year; and a native teacher without a salary cannot be expected to attend to the duties required, for those duties would engross all his time. The Whangape district is a fine place to try a native deacon in the ministry. There are a few teachers at Herekino, five miles nearer our settlement; but as they do not attend our meetings regularly, they are but weak, i.e. they do not visit about. It wants one invested with authority to preach, &c.

The Lord's supper ought to be administered in all the respectable chapels in the district, and that every three months. Such is the nature of the times for worldly-mindedness, that our Christian natives are in the utmost danger of falling away unless we can often, both in the word and sacraments, set the Lord before them.

The same Missionary gives the following pleasing account of the Christian character of a native female—

Tipina Newton was the mother of six children, and she had been a Deborah in our families, and her character had been without blemish. She was smitten with the measles, and they were uncommonly severe with her, although she had thought lightly of this disease. She told us, in the commencement, that she did not feel resigned to leave her family at present. She lingered for several weeks; and as her bodily weakness increased, she waxed stronger in spirit, and felt that Christ and His word was her support; and before she died she was enabled fully and cheerfully to resign her husband and children into God's hand. On the question being put, "Are you unwilling to die?" she became animated, and said, "I am not at all anxious. I am as though I had no husband and no children." This she repeated several times, to assure us that it was a reality. It was a delight and spiritual comfort to her to hear portions of the divine word read to her, and to have portions pointed out to her notice. The eighth chapter of Romans was recommended by us for the evening chapter, which was read by a neighbour. The next morning she said, "What a sweet portion that is. I have also been reading to myself the last two chapters of the Revelation." Her conduct for many years had been so uniformly good that Europeans and natives showed her marked respect. She was so blessed during the latter part of her illness, that the tempter had no power so much as to disturb her thoughts. She rested on the strong arm of Christ, and died peacefully.*

MIDDLE DISTRICT.

The Rev. J. A. Wilson has been removed from Opotiki to reside at Auckland, and to attend to the spiritual wants of the natives in the numerous islands and distant stations connected with that district.

General View.

Archdeacon Brown's report is, on the whole, of an encouraging character. He thus concludes—

In the short compass of a report we can do little more than point to a few facts. What conclusion may be drawn from them by others we know not; but our impression is, that, though there are many adversaries, a wide and effectual door is opened unto us; that our song should be of mercy as well as judgment; and that we are bound to look at the past with gratitude, at the present with thankfulness, at the future with hope.

The Rev. T. Chapman's report is drawn in somewhat darker colours, and may therefore be combined with that of the Archdeacon as presenting the aspect of the Mission from another point of view.

The infant churches of this district, at the close of 1854, present anomalies of an unfavourable nature, difficult to realize, and equally difficult to amend. We have, perhaps, too soon relaxed the common appliances of Missionary warfare. We have succoured, with much assiduity and cost, the mother: her children—the church of the future—are ignorant and bare. But new resources may be opening; munitions may be—and I trust are—preparing; and all may yet be well. Yet, as we see appearances at the present day, both in relation to adults and children, they are discouraging in the extreme. The unfavourable change which has taken place among the natives arises—mainly perhaps—from the greatly enhanced value of their produce, which, filling their minds with thoughts of gain, seems to have led to much indifference to their religious duties, unaccompanied by any apparent alteration for the better in their social condition, or any desire, in the slightest degree, to assist those who would help forward the education of their children.

Many instances of divine grace† may be gathered from the journals of the Missionaries, which, after the cautions already given, will not be regarded as specimens of native Christianity generally, but only as proofs that the Lord's hand is still in the work.

The Waikato Industrial School.

The Rev. R. Maunsell has transferred his industrial school from Waikato Heads to a new locality, nine miles up the river, where he has a larger amount of land for cultivation. The Committee made him a grant of 100*l.* for the extra expense of his removal, which drew forth the following admirable reply—

I am now in better hopes than ever that I shall be able to carry out the rule upon which I founded this institution, namely, not to draw in any way upon the funds of our Society. I fully recognise the propriety of your entering now, with all your power, the open door of China and the East, and look forward, with great delight and hope, to the time when I shall be able to make the Institution self-supporting, and, with my other resources, support its teachers and myself without burdening you. Under ordinary circumstances I should certainly have declined the 100*l.* which your Committee has been so good as to vote me; but I feel that I must now accept it, and I satisfy my scruples by taking it only as a loan, with a full determination to repay it as soon as our funds will admit.

I thank God we are getting on very steadily. Our numbers have been a little reduced in these heavy times, but I have great reason to be thankful for the very worthy and steady young people, men and women, whom God has been pleased to place under instruction, and who lend their help in this institution.

Christian Deaths in the Taupiri District.

The Rev. B. Ashwell notices the death of three of his native teachers within a few months of each other, of whom he writes—"They gave evidence, in their lives and deaths, that they loved the Saviour. Although mourning their loss to the church here, I do rejoice in the power of the gospel as manifested in the dying hours of these our New-Zealand brethren." The following striking testimony is given, in his journal, to the assistance which he had received from one of these native assistants—

In the death of Thomas Rangiunoa, teacher at Pepepe, I have lost a most devoted fellow-helper; a man whose consistent conduct, cheerful disposition, sterling uprightness, deep humility, and unwearied perseverance in doing good, gained the esteem and love of all who knew him. He possessed, in a large degree, "the spirit of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." I do not hesitate to say, that, during my twenty years of Missionary experience, I do not remember a brighter display of the grace of God than has been manifested in the life of this simple-minded believer in Christ, once a New-Zealand cannibal.*

The same Missionary notices other instances of a similarly encouraging kind, from which the following may be selected—

The good old chief, Levi Mokoro, was formerly a most desperate, bloodthirsty cannibal, and licentious beyond the generality. When I first visited Otawhao he was feasting on the bodies of the Rotorua natives. At a great meeting of the natives in 1844 he declared himself favourable to the gospel. He was baptized in 1845. Although often urged to join war parties, he never would, and remained steadfast to the last. The day before his death he thanked God for sending the Missionaries; prayed for myself and brethren by name—Maunsell, Brown, Morgan, and the Wesleyans, Wallace and Whitley, not forgetting the bishop and the Church Missionary Society. Just before he died he declared his anxiety to depart and be with Christ, “for,” he said, “Christ only is my support, my hope, and my salvation.” He was a most constant attendant on the means of grace, and always attended our Missionary Meetings—a most consistent Christian. He had been appointed an assessor by Governor Grey.

To these must be added the death of a female convert, whose husband’s peaceful end was described in the last Report.

June 12—I visited poor old Martha Wesley, the widow of Wesley Te Pake, the chief of Tukopoto. I asked her what hope she had. Her reply was, “I have no hope but in the one salvation, Christ my Saviour.” I said, “Martha, after your husband’s death you wished some of his things to be tapu” (sacred). “Yes,” she said, “it is true. It was wrong: great was the sin; but I am dark about it.” I asked her if she prayed. “Yes,” she said: “this is my prayer—O Lord! mine is a native heart: give me Thy Holy Spirit: change my heart: forgive my sins in the blood of Jesus: strengthen me: take care of me, for Jesus’ sake.” She died in the night.

Erection of two churches in the Otawhao district.

In the district of Otawhao the Rev. J. Morgan has succeeded in erecting two substantial churches, to which the funds of the Society only contributed 200*l.*, while the natives raised 300*l.*, and other local contributions made up the amount. The churches were opened on Easter Sunday.

Missionary occupation of Taupo.

The Rev. T. S. Grace has been stationed in the Taupo district. In his previous visits to the place, to ascertain the disposition of the chiefs, he records the following incident—

* Further notices of these three teachers are given in the “Church Missionary Gleaner” for April and June 1855; and of other “Christian deaths” in Mr. Ashwell’s district in the “Gleaner” for August.

At Motutere, after morning service, I called a meeting, and begged Te Heuheu to sit on one side of my tent, and Te Herekiele on the other. I then stated to all present, among whom were many important men, what a great evil it was to them all that the two great chiefs should be living at variance, and endeavoured to show them that if they could not agree, and give up their great jealousies, my work would be injured, and that, instead of my being a messenger of peace to them all, I should always be involved in their disputes; and that when I had been to Auckland, and related to the Committee all that had passed, perhaps, after all, I should be sent somewhere else. I then proposed that their great dispute about a tract of land and the mountain of Tongariro should remain for awhile, until I had been some time amongst them; and that they should now shake hands and “rub noses” in the presence of all, and be good friends, and help me in my work, &c. I then questioned each individually, whether he was willing to do this. They replied in the affirmative. I then shook hands and rubbed noses with each; after which I led each of them to the front of my tent, when they went through the ceremony, to the great joy and wonder of all present. After this the Lord’s supper was administered, at the conclusion of which these two heathen attended the catechism class, and sat side by side. I pray God that this may be a lasting peace.*

EASTERN DISTRICT.

The chief changes which have taken place in this district during the past year are the following—The Rev. C. Baker has returned to take charge of the East Cape, after a prolonged absence, on account of health, in Auckland, and after having received holy orders from the Bishop of New Zealand; the Rev. W. L. Williams has joined his father at Turanga, and has opened a seminary for the instruction of native teachers; and the Rev. S. Williams has taken charge of the Ahuriri district.

Report of Archdeacon W. Williams for 1854. *

The report of Archdeacon William Williams, at the close of 1854, has many dark shades, from the various causes which have operated to retard the gospel in the other districts. He writes—

Those natives who have been led to hold intercourse with the English towns have always been injured in their morality. They copy from our own countrymen an indifference to religion, and pick up all other vices which are so common in an English community. There is now, unhappily, a disposition to indulge in drinking, which is fostered by the English traders, who, notwithstanding the heavy penalties enforced by the law upon all persons who supply the natives with spirits, nevertheless distribute great quantities among them. Thus, after a lapse of fourteen years since the gospel was brought to this part of the island, there is more apparent difficulty meeting us at every step than when we first came among them. When the gospel message was new to the people there was astonishing favour shown towards it: they heard the word gladly. But by and bye many were offended when they found that they were still subject to tribulation and affliction; and in the case of many we have to mourn that, under the influence of the cares of the world and the deceitfulness of riches, the word is choked and becometh unfruitful. Hence is seen the necessity of constant exertion, and of the faithful declaration of the gospel. If in an English parish much, under God, depends upon the labours of the clergyman, and where he is remiss the people fall back into a state of spiritual darkness, much more is care required where we have to encounter the influence of old superstitions and of new temptations. But what means have we for carrying out that which is required, where one Missionary has an extent of country to attend to which is fifty or sixty miles in length? Native teachers have hitherto done great service, but they are unequal to the increasing emergency. From the central training-schools there is every hope, and it gives much encouragement to see a prospect of improvement in this respect; but time must be allowed for the principle to be carried out.

After what has been said of the evils which have risen up among us, it will not be expected that this part of the Mission is in the state in which it is desired that it should be. Still, we take courage. There are many faithful in whom the word bears fruit. These persons are regular in their attendance at the services of public worship, and also frequent the Bible classes as often as opportunity is given them. The average number at the Bible classes has been 500. The communicants during the year have been 804, including those of Uawa and Tokomaru.

I am happy to report of our native clergyman, the Rev. Rota Waitoa, that he labours steadily at Te Kauakaua, but he has had his portion of difficulties to contend with, and needs encouragement and support.

The archdeacon has, since his return from England, revived the adult Bible classes amongst his people. These have evidently been the great means of keeping alive a spirit of true religion, and binding the converts to their Missionaries. These classes are held in each village, and as often as they can be visited. A pleasing instance is given of the interest which the people take in them. "I had thought," writes the archdeacon, "that it might be well to intermit our Bible classes during the wheat harvest, and I mentioned the idea after sermon on Sunday, but was gratified to hear them say that we had better continue them as usual." And a few days later he writes again—"At the Bible class, notwithstanding the people were busy about their wheat, there were 60 present, and 17 at the candidate class."

The archdeacon describes the fearful ravages which the measles created amongst the aged and infirm, as well as the young children, throughout his district.

The Wairoa district.

The Rev. J. Hamlin gives a similar report to that of Archdeacon W. Williams of the present discouragements of the Mission, adding a very sad account of the drunkenness which had been suddenly introduced into the station by the opening of more than one shop, in violation of the orders of government, for the sale of ardent spirits to the natives. Mr. Hamlin thus speaks of the evil influence of ungodly Europeans, and of the altered position of the native teachers—

The conduct of the inland tribes has, generally speaking, been encouraging. Our discouragements lie on the coast, where our fellow-countrymen reside. The schools, however, at the native villages, conducted by the native teachers, have, with one or two exceptions, been nearly discontinued. The high price the natives now obtain for their produce has opened new fields for procuring the things for the body, and has drawn them from their settlements, and scattered them in various directions. The native teachers in many places can no longer with any regularity assemble their people for school on week-day mornings. They do not now possess that influence over them which they formerly did. They themselves require to be constantly urged on and encouraged in their work. At Mohaka and Te Waiiau the native teachers continue to maintain their position, and the work of the Lord goes on more steadily than at some other places.

Mr. Hamlin notices an instance of the way in which the native teachers exert themselves to maintain the Christian profession of their countrymen. He writes, respecting a visit to a distant out-station—

When we had partaken of some refreshment, they had gloomy news to communicate. Six young men, having gone to the Ariki, a place about twenty miles inland from the Bay of Plenty, where two parties of natives had been fighting, and having seen some of them adopt their former heathenish customs, practised the same on their return to their residence, against all remonstrance to the contrary, several others siding with them. The whole of them the native teacher had sent into the bush—or, in other words, had separated them from the rest of the congregation—till they should repent of their sins. Having heard the whole story, I confirmed, with but few exceptions, the sentence of the native teacher, but advised him to visit them often, and try to reform some of them, as it would be no punishment at all to have so many of them living together.

Training Institution at Turanga.

The Rev. W. L. Williams, as soon as he reached his station, collected a class of native teachers for further training in their studies and in their work. He began in May, but the prevailing sickness obliged him to suspend the school for a few months. At the close of the year he writes—

'The teachers' school, I am thankful to say, has proceeded so far in a way as to give me every encouragement. There is no lack of pupils who are ready to offer themselves; but our numbers are kept down for want of accommodation. The present number of pupils is thirteen: eight of these are married, and their wives attend the girls'-school.

WESTERN DISTRICT.

This district has been strengthened by the addition of the Rev. Arthur Stock, B.A., who has been associated with Archdeacon Hadfield while devoting his time to the study of the language. Mr. Booth, a schoolmaster, has been compelled by ill health to return from Wanganui to England. The report of Archdeacon Hadfield for the last year has not yet been received.

Christmas Services at Wanganui.

The Rev. R. Taylor gives a description of one of those large gatherings of his people for the celebration of Christmas 1853, which have on former occasions excited much interest, and drawn forth the sympathy of Christian friends at home.

Dec. 25, 1853—A beautiful morning. I again had service in the open air, which has not been necessary for the two preceding years. The congregation on this occasion must have been fully 1000, and the people were most attentive. I told them, in my sermon, that it was probable I might soon leave for England, and reminded them of the many years we had met together, and the happy union of the various tribes who had been assembled together as brethren in Christ; of the seed sown, and of the uncertainty of life, and of our all meeting together again in this world. A solemn feeling pervaded the meeting, and I scarcely ever remember proclaiming the gospel to a more attentive congregation. Afterwards I administered the Lord's supper to 250. We commenced the morning service at 8, and it was past 12 before it terminated. The collection in the service was 1*l.* 10*s.* I told the natives it would be given towards the completion of the church at Parikino; that churches were now what fences in former days had been to their pas—their true defence; and therefore, in giving, each one must remember he was aiding in putting up a post for the protection of the place. They appeared to give most willingly, although it was only the day before I had raised 10*l.* from them for the Church Missionary Society. In the afternoon I baptized Mamaku, and a blind man, and several children, amongst whom was Mr. Booth's. It was a gratifying sight to me to see Mamaku, a noble-looking man, of powerful frame and eagle eye, humbly on his knees receiving admission into the church of Christ. Many are the wars and murders he has formerly been engaged in. I recollect seeing in the interior, many years ago, the altar stones, even then red with ochre, on which the livers of his victims had been placed—a savage offering to his gods ; but now I trust he will henceforth be a faithful soldier and servant of our Lord Jesus Christ. I felt very wearied, but thankful for the favourable termination of this meeting : it reminded me of the building of the temple, which was without noise : so this large congregation peacefully and quietly separated.

After the service on Christmas Eve I distributed a present of clothes to the teachers, and divided a box of the old edition of the Testament amongst all the places in the district. I also gave the head teacher of each place a copy of the new edition.

Missionary Journey of the Rev. R. Taylor.

During the year Mr. Taylor visited every part of his extensive district, being anxious to see and take leave of his people previously to his leaving them for a season on a visit to England. His journal records the fatal ravages of the measles and whooping-cough in his district, as in other parts of the island, as well as a sad declension in many of the congregations through increasing worldliness, arising from the greatly-increased payments for their labour and agricultural produce. In various parts of his district the people are assailed by Roman-Catholic priests and agents, who instil into the minds of the New Zealanders stale and false objections against our Protestant Christianity, and welcome within their pale all who take offence at the exercise of ecclesiastical discipline. These things cause the Missionary much anxiety for the future.

Nevertheless, continual proof is afforded, in individual cases, of the powerful influence of their faith upon their lives and national habits, of which the following incident may serve as an illustration. A native was compelled, by a troubled conscience, upon his death-bed to confess that he had committed a murder. Upon this the friends of the murdered person demanded, in virtue of immemorial custom, that a son of the murderer should be given up to them—not, however, according to their heathen law, to be put to death, but to live amongst them as a kind of substitute for the murdered member of their family ; and, in order to show their sincerity, it was proposed that the youth should be accompanied by a party of his own friends, to witness his kind reception and settlement amongst his new associates.

Native proceedings on Mr. Taylor's visit to England.

As soon as it was understood that Mr. Taylor was about to visit England, the chiefs spontaneously prepared presents for the Queen of England, consisting chiefly of ancient tokens of sovereignty, and deputed one of their number—Hoani Wiremu (John Williams)—to accompany Mr. Taylor to England to present the presents, and to urge their suit for the return of Sir George Grey as governor, and their appeal to the Society for an increase of Missionaries. Various addresses were made to Mr. Taylor upon his departure, of which the following are specimens—

Dec. 11, 1854—I was requested this morning to go to Hori Kingi's house, where the chiefs of the district had assembled to bid me farewell. I accordingly went there, accompanied by Mr. Stock and Hoani Wiremu. We found all the head chiefs of Wanganui, Wangaehu, Turakina, and Rangitikei there. Tamati Wiremu stated that this meeting had been summoned to take a public leave of me and my companion, to express their regard, and to wish us every blessing. "Go," said he, "and strive to increase our wealth: the riches we desire and stand in need of are more ministers to proclaim the gospel. Go, then, and seek to obtain some for us." His thoughts, he said, did not dwell upon the Queen or the governor, though he loved them both as being their well-wishers, but upon the ministers of the gospel. "Go, then, and seek to increase their number; go and see your native land once more, your friends, your relatives, and then return to us, your children. Good bye."

Other chiefs wrote letters to Mr. Taylor, of which the following is a specimen—

Father, our beloved father, we salute you, we salute you. Go truly, go truly, go that you may return. Go to England, to the source of all good works; that is, of that faith which has saved us during these many years which have passed by. Go, but go to return: go, that you may see your relatives and friends, and also our beloved governor: strive to bring him back. If it please the Lord that you should live to return, we shall again set our eyes upon you. These are our last words to you, that is, to our best-beloved father.

The Otaki district.

The Rev. Arthur Stock reports generally of the state of the natives and of the educational establishment at Otaki—

Every one complains that they are not now what they once were, and yet I would not argue that the gospel is less prosperous now than before. If there be a less general attention, those who do attend may be fairly rated higher than they would have been before. They must be in earnest. One essential feature in the Maori is a love of novelty—I see this again and again in our lads—and now the novelty of the whakapono* has worn off. Mr. Hadfield is most decidedly of opinion that this feature was not sufficiently considered before, in the accounts given of the change which has passed over the island; that many unwittingly coloured their accounts, placing what was really due to this to a far higher motive. The Maori is said to be covetous; but I must think much of this is owing to the settlers, who, at their first coming, traded upon the Maori's ignorance of a fair price for his goods.

* Their usual name for Christianity.

I enclose a map of the estate, and a sketch of the appearance of Otaki church, &c.* Our buildings are, the church, the boarding-house, the school barn, and two cottages, and none of these have cost the Society a farthing. All are well and substantially built of totara. About 100 acres of our estate have been reclaimed. Many portions of the rest have drains through them. It is expensive work to clear here: drains have to be cut, flax, &c., cleared away. Another difficulty now is the high price of labour. Two years ago a Maori would work for 1s. 6d. a day: now we cannot get him for 2s. 6d. In fact, we cannot get labour at all.†

BRITISH-GUIANA MISSION.

Mission Establishment :

- 1 Ordained European Missionary.
- 1 European Female Teacher.
- 1 Country-born Teacher.

THE Committee have again to express their regret that they have been unable to meet with a clergyman willing to go to this station, even for the limited term of three years, for which they were willing to provide European superintendence until the native Indian teacher, under whose charge the congregation is now left, might be prepared for ordination. The station has been occasionally visited by neighbouring clergymen.

10 Ordained European Missionaries.	2 Country-born Teachers.

THE number of Missionaries in this Mission has been increased by the arrival of Mr. Henry George from England, and by the reception and ordination of the Rev. W. Mason, lately a Wesleyan Missionary in Rupert's Land. Mr. W. Stagg and Mr. Kirkby have also been admitted to holy orders.

ST. ANDREW'S, GRAND RAPIDS.

This station will be the head-quarters of the Mission by being under the charge of the Secretary: its church will form a centre of Christian union between the two races, who will worship together within its walls, the services being conducted both in the English and Indian tongues.

The Ven. Archdeacon Cockran has had charge of the station during the past year. He has been much encouraged by the orderly and pious behaviour of the people. The number of communicants averages 190. Several have given satisfactory testimony upon their deathbeds of the reality of their faith in Christ. Of one young man, who died in the prime of life, the archdeacon writes—

Every time I visited him he expressed his gratitude to Almighty God for teaching him the value of his soul. He often said, "I suffer a great deal of pain in the long nights, but I have a contented, quiet mind, and an easy conscience. I think upon the sufferings of my Saviour, and then mine become light. He does all things well, and will make my affliction work together for my good." On being asked if he was anxious to recover his health, he said, "No, I leave that with God. When I look upon my wife and children my heart throbs, and I think, 'How will they get on without me;' but when I remember that God has promised to be a friend to the widow and fatherless I am content to leave them and myself in His hands, and cast off all care by saying, 'It is the Lord: let Him do what seemeth Him good.'"

Portage la Prairie may be regarded as an out-station to St. Andrew's. Archdeacon Cockran writes—

During the past year we have visited Portage la Prairie nine times—the bishop once, Mr. Hillyer three times, my son three times, and myself twice. At the Sunday-morning service I counted 60 present: the second time the sacrament was administered to 26. This is an interesting flock in the wilderness, which requires a shepherd.

Mr. Kirkby has charge of a school, which is conducted with a view to provide native teachers, as well as to raise the education of the settlers and Indians. One of the senior boys, whose Christian character and general progress gave promise of future usefulness, has entered the bishop's collegiate school. A Sunday-school and Bible classes are also held, with much encouragement, and Mr. Kirkby has many opportunities of direct Mission work amongst the Indian visitors of the settlement.*

INDIAN SETTLEMENT.

The Rev. A. Cowley was removed from Fairford to undertake the charge of this congregation in March 1854. Soon after he was visited by Archdeacon Cockran, upon the anniversary of the day when, twenty-two years before, the archdeacon had begun, amidst universal discouragement, an Indian settlement in the wilderness. Now he saw around him a Christian village containing several hundred inhabitants, with its church and schools, and partook of the Lord's supper, administered by an European Missionary, assisted by an ordained native, to 110 Indian communicants. "The Church Missionary Society have in this people," the Missionary writes, "redeemed by its means from heathenism, more than a compensation for all the labour and money spent in all their Missions throughout the world."

At the close of the year Mr. Cowley writes—

It is still, in the midst of all drawbacks, delightful to contemplate the blessed results of the Society's labours in this place. I see the rising generation springing up to occupy with more light, a better understanding, and, as we trust, with more exalted piety, the place of their parents. Truly it is said, "Instead of thy fathers shall be thy children," to be, as we hope, "princes" of God. For these we require much assistance. They need to be kept in school if they are to be better than their parents.†

FAIRFORD, MANITOBA.

Mr. Cowley's remarks upon taking leave of his late flock give a lively picture of the feelings of a zealous Missionary, and the nature of his work in Rupert's Land.

This is, for the present, my last Sunday here. I tremble for it. Oh, what shortcomings, and sinful neglect, and misdoings, have I not been guilty of! There remain many souls in heathenism. Pardon this, O Lord! and bless my successor's labours for their salvation, that heathenism may be unknown. I praise and thank God for what He has done by me to make any "obedient to the faith." The sound of the drum is strange; the long tent has fallen into disuse; and Jesus reigns and triumphs here. But around, nearly all is darkness: much remains to be done. In a radius of about sixty miles there are 178 heathen for 163 baptized persons, forty of whom are papists. Though my official connexion with Fairford is closed, my interest in its success and prosperity will live with me. I shall pray for it, and rejoice if a blessing be vouchsafed.

Upon Mr. Cowley's departure to the Indian Settlement, this station was left in charge of Mr. Stagg, who received holy orders from the Bishop of Rupert's Land in June last. At the close of the year Mr. Stagg reports—

The Lord has been pleased to bless His work amongst us by adding a few to His church. One or two cases of baptism gave me much encouragement. I have had in all eighteen baptisms since my ordination in June, for the most part adults. I have carefully examined the cases, and did not admit any hastily. Others have come forward, but I deferred baptizing them, not being satisfied with their motives.

I am earnestly begging of the people to grow provisions for themselves. No one is more anxious to be free from temporal affairs than myself; but I feel it to be a duty to encourage the people as much as I can to settle and to farm. There is no hope of our Mission becoming self-supporting unless agriculture is encouraged.*

FORT PELLY.

The Rev. C. Hillyer has laboured at Fort Pelly among the Plain Indians, who roam in tents over a considerable extent of the plains to the west of the Red River. These tribes are in a state of constant warfare with the Salteaux and Sioux. But as there was a general truce during the last summer, Mr. Hillyer took advantage of this circumstance to make an extensive Missionary tour by Portage la Prairie, Fort Ellice, Qu'appelle Lakes, &c. He was thus occupied during the months of July and August. He was not able to reach the main camp of the Indians, but occasionally fell in with a few scattered parties, whose destitute condition excited his deep compassion. On one occasion he spent a Sunday at a Company's Fort, and held service for the Indians encamped around it, but very few attended. He afterwards went to their tents, and writes—

I found the inmates gambling. I watched them with grief, until the tears came into my eyes, and my heart was lifted up to Him who alone can rule the unruly wills and affections of sinful men.

CUMBERLAND.

This station, first commenced in 1840, presents a remarkable instance of the progress and stability of the work of the Mission. It is itself the centre of a large district, and has two flourishing out-stations at Moose Lake and Nepowewin; whilst a new district has been formed in connexion with it at English River. Cumberland was under the charge of Archdeacon Hunter for the first part of 1854, until he left, in August, on a visit to England.

Details of the Missionary work.

The following extracts from Archdeacon Hunter's journal give a striking picture of the nature of the region, as well as of the habits of the Indians, and of the love they bear, after their conversion, to the house of God and to the ordinances of grace—

April 2: Lord's-day—Sunday-school, prayers, and services, as usual. The school and services were better attended to-day, as many of the Indians have returned from their hunting-grounds. They all complain of the severity of the winter, and many of them have been nearly frozen and starved to death. But God has graciously preserved their lives, and they are now returning again to their forsaken houses, and the ordinances of religion. When scattered through the woods they long for the courts of the Lord's house: they miss the sound of the 'church-going bell,' inviting them to the throne of grace, and the glad news of free salvation through a crucified Redeemer: they feel the pleasure and comfort of worshipping God in His house of prayer, and singing the songs of Zion in the assembly of His people. When sitting solitary in their lonely hut in the woods on a Sabbath morning, they turn their eyes in the direction of the church from which dire necessity has driven them, and feel a longing desire to assemble there with the few favoured ones who are privileged to worship all the winter in His house of prayer. One of my greatest trials is to see the majority of my people for months scattered to the four winds, and the station presenting the appearance of a deserted village, with a solitary house here and there inhabited, especially on the opposite side of the river. One by one they are returning to their houses, and the little curls of smoke ascending from their chimneys convey to us the good tidings that the scattered sheep are returning again to their deserted homes. But, poor things! it is the only way in which they can obtain clothes and food. With all their efforts they are still poor and miserable, and far from being able to keep themselves or their families either clean or comfortable. Indeed, without the assistance they get from the Mission, and kind Christian friends at home, many of them would have little or nothing to wear. The strong and healthy can hunt furs, and clothe their families tolerably; but the aged, sick, widows, and orphans, would be miserable but for the assistance of the Church Missionary Society and Christian friends. Many of them would have died this winter, from starvation, but for the assistance which I gave them.

April 16: Easter Sunday—To-day our church was well filled, as the Indians have collected from all quarters around us, to be present at the table of the Lord. It was my privilege, after the morning service, to administer the Lord's supper to 102 communicants: they filled the communion-rails seven times, and received the sacred elements with much apparent devotion and earnestness of feeling. I have no hesitation in saying that these poor Indians manifest much love to the Saviour, and feel a real pleasure in attending the ordinances of religion. Family prayer is regularly maintained in their houses, and, with all their failings and shortcomings, there can be no doubt that a real work of grace is going on amongst them. We have continual proofs, not only in their lives, but by their deaths, that they know and feel the power of vital religion in their hearts and consciences. Their resignation to the divine will, and their meek but firm reliance on the merits of a crucified Redeemer, in the near prospect of death, are sufficient evidence that the work is of God: to Him, therefore, let us ascribe all the praise, that He has disposed the hearts of 102 of the scattered wanderers of this wilderness to assemble around the table of their Lord to commemorate His dying love.

June 11: Lord's-day—I took the early service in the school-room; attended the Sunday-school—ninety-four children present; and read the morning prayers, Mr. Budd preaching an excellent sermon. In the afternoon I preached a farewell sermon from Acts xx. 32—“And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of His grace,” &c. The church was quite crowded to-day: I never saw a larger congregation here. How different from what I found it ten years ago! We have now more than 100 communicants, 663 names on the baptismal register, 30 to 40 Indian houses, and the healthful appearance of growth and vitality. To God be all the praise! His blessing alone could have effected such a change, and have induced so many from among this scattered people to feel anxious about the salvation of their souls. I have great comfort in handing over this work to the care and superintendence of Mr. Budd during my visit to England: he is well qualified for the post, and his intimate acquaintance with the routine of business here, and perfect knowledge of the Indian language and character, all combine to make him a very valuable instrument for good to his country-people.

Cree Translations.

Archdeacon Hunter has been very successful in his acquisition of the Cree language. The following notice occurs in his journal—

March 24—I finished the fair copy of “Faith and Duty,” and have also written out paradigms of several of the Cree verbs. Correcting the Cree of Mr. Howse's grammar. All my spare time, both early and late, I devote to the Cree language. I am more and more struck with its beauty, order, regularity, and fulness. I think I have now succeeded in ascertaining and arranging all the prefixes and affixes of the Cree verb, impersonal, transitive, and intransitive, throughout its different moods and tenses. A clear arrangement of the Cree verb is still a great desideratum, but it is a work requiring much patience and perseverance to search out and arrange, in grammatical order, such a mass of inflections as are to be found in the Cree language. It would be a work of several months, and fill a large volume, to write out one of their transitive verbs through all the different changes of which it is susceptible.*

The Archdeacon has brought home translations of several books of the Holy Scriptures, and of the Prayer-book, which he is now carrying through the press at the expense of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge.

Moose-Lake Out-station.

This out-station was only commenced five years ago, and the only resident labourer since its commencement has been a Christian Indian, John Umfreville. It was visited by Archdeacon Hunter at the close of the year 1853, who thus reports its progress—

There is a good schoolroom at Moose Lake, and to-day it was arranged for the Lord's supper: the temporary rails, covered with white calico, were put up, surrounding the communion-table, in the same manner as when the bishop was here last summer. After full morning service, I administered the Lord's supper to nineteen communicants, including four who accompanied me from the Cumberland Station. Four new communicants were admitted this time to the Lord's table, and the whole service was gone through with great devotion and solemnity: indeed, I never enjoyed any service more than on this occasion: it may have been because I never expected to see, in so short a time, such fruits of our labours at Moose Lake. The work is evidently progressing, and God is graciously disposing the hearts of the Indians to receive the gospel of His dear Son.†

The Rev. Henry Budd thus describes, Jan. 12, 1854, his first baptisms at this recently-occupied out-station—

On the first day of this month I received into the church, by baptism, four of the first converts from heathenism in this place. One of these is a chief of the Thickwood Crees. He has been with me the whole of last winter, attending the services on the Lord's-day, and, since my arrival from Cumberland Station, has still frequented our house, and has been very diligent in seeking to be taught in the new religion. Since I have baptized him he has been extremely diligent in inquiring after truth. He is in my house every evening, attending our evening lectures, and asking one of my own girls to read portions of St. Matthew, translated into Cree. Indeed, for the whole four baptized I have reason to bless God for the grace imparted unto them, which they evince by the consistency of their lives. These, then, are the first-fruits of this infant Mission. May God grant His blessing on the same, and increase their number a thousand-fold!

Some of the older Indians see the superiority of the gospel to their more foolish rites and vain superstitions, and are on the eve of giving all up, to embrace the praying religion. The last winter I had commenced a small school of seven children, which was all that I could then get: this winter we have more than doubled the number, and have sixteen children in school every day.

The chief, whose baptism is recorded above, bore the name of Mansuk. He died on the 12th of June, just three weeks after Mr. Budd had left the station to supply Archdeacon Hunter's absence from Cumberland. He died in faith and peace. He who had been the fiercest and most determined opposer of the gospel of all his tribe, was thus the first whose heart was opened to the love of Christ, the first brand plucked from the burning, and the first saint transferred to be with Christ from the Nepowewin Station.*

General Review.

At the close of 1854 Mr. Budd thus reports upon the state of Cumberland and its out-stations—

It is with feelings of lively gratitude that I am able to inform you every thing is going on the same way as when brother Hunter was here. The Indians are doing well, and are endeavouring to adorn the doctrine of Christ their Saviour in all things. The Indians keep much to the Mission: they know and feel now the benefit of living in their houses, and of attending the worship of God regularly. Our church is well filled every Lord's-day, and we have an average attendance of 70 children in the school. This station is quite an Indian village: the Indian houses stand thick on each side of the river, and the church and school in the centre. The work assumes more of a regular pastoral work than strictly Missionary. We do not meet with a heathen Indian here for a whole half-year: indeed, there is scarcely one heathen family who strictly belongs to the place—all are professing Christians. The gospel has now taken firm root in the land. Often have I asked the Indians what they would do supposing all the Missionaries were to withdraw, and go back to their native land: would they go back to their gods? "No, we cannot go back: we must try to go forward."

* A sketch of Mansuk's history is given in the "Church Missionary Gleaner," April to August 1855; and further accounts of the Nepowewin out-station in the "Church Missionary Record" for March 1855, p. 65; and the "Church Missionary Gleaner" for February 1855, pp. 21—24.

I have been much encouraged in my visits to the Moose-Lake station. I find the Christian Indians are firm and zealous to bring in their heathen neighbours to the same privileges with themselves. They are always speaking on the necessity of turning from their dumb idols, to serve the living and true God. The consequence is, that the heathen party are being brought in, the wavering are confirmed and established in the faith, and the backsliders are reclaimed and brought back. The school, too, is in a prosperous state: the children are evidently improving.

From the Nepowewin I have seldom opportunities of hearing, but by the last account which reached me they were all very well. The Mission was in a state of forwardness; the few converts from heathenism were continuing steadfast; and the little school was being carried on. I have not been able to visit this station yet, since I have been alone, on account of the distance; but I hope, D.V., to visit them early in spring. I must now conclude by begging an interest in your prayers.

English River.

The Rev. R. Hunt is the Missionary at this remote and inhospitable station. To commence a new Mission is ever a process of trial—faith, in its patient perseverance, conflicting with many difficulties. More especially is this true in a climate so wintry as that of Rupert's Land, where, at the more remote stations, besides the intense severity of the weather, the Missionary and his people are often sufferers from scarcity of food. Yet this feeble, difficult, and discouraging work becomes imperceptibly stronger, and strikes deeper root in the unkindly soil, until, becoming naturalized, it brings forth fruit. It has been so at other stations, such as Cumberland, &c. It will be so, we doubt not, in due time, and with God's blessing, at the English River. But at present the aspect of things is bleak, and the discouragements and privations of the Missionary very many. He needs to hold onward in the spirit of his great Master, of whom it was said, "He shall not fail, nor be discouraged."

The following extracts from Mr. Hunt's journal will give some idea of the difficulties of his position, as well as of the success which has attended his labours. His later journals have not yet arrived.

The end and beginning of winter, and the summer months, are our periods of anxiety about provisions, when we are occasionally obliged to give the school-children, and other parties at the station, each a large hook and a strong line, and send them out to catch a pike or a large trout, or to make a meal of berries; or even sometimes to visit the rocks, which some of them now and then prefer, to strip them of the tripe-de-roche, or to use any other lawful means by which their own exertions may aid their prayer, "Give us this day our daily bread;" a petition whose propriety we have better understood and appreciated among Indians than among Europeans: it is, indeed, in more than one sense, "an universal prayer."

Jan. 19—The intense cold penetrates everywhere, above and below the ground. We are obliged to confine the dear children to the bed-room, the only part of the house we can keep at a temperature that they can support, without roasting their faces before the fire, while their backs freeze. Even in the bed-room, where ourselves and our two dear children slept, the thermometer indicated 29° of frost at half-past five A.M., the time of our rising. In the room where we breakfasted, with a good fire, the temperature on the table was 25° of frost; and at dinner, in the same room, the water froze in our glasses so quickly that we broke the ice again and again in order to drink. If the plates are not taken hot from the fire, any thing put upon them in a semi-fluid state quickly congeals, e.g. mustard. The knives and forks, also, must be put to the fire before they can be used with comfort.

April 16, 1854: Easter Sunday—A very happy day: 41 communicants: about 30 absent from various causes, distance, the season, making it uncertain if the ice would not break up in some of the rivers, so as not to admit of their return to the spring hunting-grounds, &c.*

YORK FORT.

Another station has been added during the last year to the list of those occupied by this Society. York Fort is situated on the west coast of Hudson's Bay. It is the port at which the Company's annual ship arrives, and at that season a large number of natives from different parts assemble.

Importance of this place as a Missionary station.

The Rev. W. Mason, who is well acquainted with the Cree language, has been appointed to this station. He thus describes the Missionary importance of the place—

The Missionary, as opportunities occur, will visit Severn and Churchill, and thus encircle the entire bay with the gospel net. Churchill is the furthest northerly establishment possessed by the Company in this bay, and Severn the only establishment they have between this and Albany. The Eskimos annually visit Churchill; and at present there is an excellent interpreter there, left this fall by Dr. Rae, who accompanied him in his Arctic expedition, which circumstance makes me anxious to visit the place as early as possible, that I may communicate some knowledge of the blessed gospel to these wandering sons of the north. No minister has ever yet visited Severn. In 1848 I met with some Indians from that quarter, who had come with the returns from the Company's establishment to this place. They earnestly solicited me to baptize them then; but not having time enough to know their characters, or even to examine and ascertain the extent of their knowledge, I thought it would be best to defer the matter until some future period, when some spiritual provision could be made for them. I shall never forget, however, their last interview with me, when they knew they must return to their dark abode without the solemn rite being administered to them. I said to them, "Why, you cannot read, you have never been taught." "Yes, we can read," said one of them, pulling out of his breast a small parcel, in which he had carefully wrapped, between two pieces of clean bark, his small library, consisting of Hymn-book, Prayer-book, and St. John's Gospel, all in the syllabic characters. Opening one of them, to my great astonishment he read fluently. I asked him how he had learned to read. He replied, "We teach each other." With tears in his eyes he embarked, saying, "We may never see a minister again."

Adult Baptisms.

Mr. Mason thus records the first baptisms at York, and the evidence of progress in the Rupert's-Land Mission—

Sept. 3: Lord's-day—Another sacred day of rest, and apparently welcomed by the Indians, especially those who had had previous interviews with me, and were this day to be admitted into the outward and visible church of Christ. I could not refuse them this privilege, as it was their last day with us, and I shall not see them again until next spring. Often had they solicited at the hands of passing Missionaries, and solicited in vain. Their minds are now at rest. May they adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things!

In the afternoon the archdeacon read prayers, and I preached in Indian: afterwards baptized seven of the Indians connected with this station.

During this week all the inland freight-boats leave for the Red-River Settlement, and one laden with Mission goods, manned by Christians of the Cumberland Church Mission Station. This was an interesting sight, and showed that the work was enlarging and progressing. Twenty years ago few would ever dream of seeing a Mission boat come down to York for Mission property.*

MOOSE FORT, JAMES' BAY.

Character of the work here.

Moose Factory is situated at the southern extremity of James' Bay, 700 miles distant from Montreal. Connected with this post are numerous stations, whither the Missionary pays periodical visits, such as Albany to the north-west; Rupert's House westward; Brunswick House, on the Moose River, in a south-westward direction; Kenoogoomissee, more remote, in a southerly direction; and Abbitibbe, to the south by east. All these are places where, at certain periods of the year, the Indians assemble for trade purposes, and where the want of a resident teacher must be in some degree compensated for by occasional visits at the opportune moment by Missionaries from the nearest occupied stations. In this district there are about 1000 baptized Indians. The duties connected with a large central station like Moose Factory are in themselves sufficiently onerous; and when to these is added the necessity of long journeys, sometimes at inclement seasons of the year, to visit scattered Indians at some remote point, we can at once perceive that Missionary labours in Rupert's Land require earnest zeal, a strong mind, a cheerful disposition, and a robust constitution. To one, however, who loves souls, and who desires the advancement of his Master's glory, nothing can be more affecting, more deeply interesting, than the anxiety for instruction of these poor wanderers of the plain and forest. They see the Missionary but for a few days, and that after a long interval; but they are hungry for the bread which he breaks to them, and eagerly feed upon the word of life.

The duties at Moose Fort are the same as those described in the last Report. Mr. Horden again bears testimony to the earnest piety of the Indians, and thanks God for inclining their hearts to receive with gladness the engrafted word.

Missionary Tours.

Mr. Horden has made two Missionary excursions during the year; one in the month of June to Rupert's House, and another in September to Kenoogoomissee. Of the former out-station he writes—

I found a large number of Indians awaiting me. With them I remained a fortnight, which perhaps was as blessed a fortnight as I ever spent. Their intelligence, cleanliness, perseverance, and attention, greatly delighted me; for although I laboured very hard, meeting them four times a-day, they flagged not; and generally an hour before I made my appearance in the morning many were walking up and down in front of the house in which I slept, waiting for me, that they might not lose a moment of the time I was engaged with them. I there met with some bad characters; but I hope, and almost believe, that even some of them have been touched by the Spirit of God, and will eventually inherit the kingdom of heaven.

In another communication Mr. Horden states that dreadful crimes have been perpetually practised by the Indians of Rupert's House in their heathen state. He writes—

During the winter before last no fewer than four persons were bow-strung—strangled by their immediate relatives, either because they were sick or getting old: one woman by her son, another woman by her son-in-law. Formerly this was a constant practice at Rupert's House.

Advantages of the Syllabic system.

Mr. Horden had here a remarkable proof of the advantage of the syllabic system in enabling the Indians to teach each other to read. The company he now met had learned the system from other Indians during a short visit to Rupert's House in the previous year; and yet "all above the age of ten years could read well."

A lithographic press for the syllabic characters, which was sent out to Mr. Horden, has proved to be most valuable; facilitating, by its action, the furnishing of portions of Scripture and other useful books to the Indians, instead of the slow process of manuscript, to which our Missionary had before been necessarily confined. The Indians were much astonished at its rapid multiplication of copies, and duly appreciate the boon which has been bestowed on them.

Mr. Horden mentions an affecting instance of the value of even the smallest portions of the word of God, which the Indians are able to carry with them on their hunting excursions. A young Christian had been separated from his companions, and was found on the very brink of starvation. He drew from his bosom a few pages of Scripture texts, written out for him by another Christian Indian, and said that this alone had supported him in his solitude, when death stared him in the face, and he was tempted to think that God had "forgotten to be gracious."

Mr. Horden describes in his journal the departure of his Indians on their hunting excursions at the close of the year, which had always been a season of much anxiety to him on account of their spiritual destitution. "But now," he adds, "I could watch their little canoes until out of sight with less regret than on any former occasion, as I had supplied them with the word of life to take with them."*

FORT GEORGE, JAMES' BAY.

Difficulties at this station.

The Rev. E. A. Watkins has remained at this station, though under constant privation from the scarcity of food, and with scanty opportunities of Missionary effort on behalf of the Indians, very few of whom reside in the neighbourhood, so that his only access to them is upon their visits to the Fort, which seldom exceed a fortnight. In the course of the past year about two hundred thus came under his temporary instruction.

The prospect of reaching the Eskimos was one great inducement to the occupation of this station. Very few of this tribe travel to the Fort, but they assemble at the Little Whale river to barter their goods. Mr. Watkins had given notice the previous year of his intention to meet them in the month of April; but all means of conveyance failed him, and he was obliged to relinquish, though with great regret, the intended visit. This regret was much increased by his learning afterwards that as many as five hundred Eskimos—being nearly double the usual number—had assembled, in the hope of hearing the message of a Christian minister.

At a later period of the year he was able to accomplish the visit, but few Eskimos at that time were present. His observations upon the Little Whale river as a Missionary station are very discouraging, yet it is the only spot at which there is any prospect of a direct and regular communication with the Eskimos.

Thus, while some Missionaries are oppressed by the overwhelming masses of the population around them, this brother is distressed by the difficulty of effecting a meeting with those who desire to hear his word.

The Committee have been led seriously to consider of the continuance of this station. They have suggested to the bishop Mr. Watkins' removal to some other locality; but as yet no change has taken place.*

CONCLUSION.

HAVING thus reviewed the work of the Society abroad, the Committee revert to the question, which its financial position has raised, How is this work to be carried on ?

The strictest economy has been practised. The expense of each Mission has been restricted to the lowest amount. The heart of many a toiling Missionary has been made sad by the retrenchments already required. Many schools are to be given up. Warning has been given to some of the native teachers. It is the solemn conviction of your Committee, that retrenchment cannot be carried further without impairing the efficiency of the Missions; and that no further saving can be made without either giving up stations, or diminishing the number of European labourers.

This, therefore, is the question of the day. Is the work to be contracted to the measure of our finances? Or shall the finances be raised to the measure of the work ?

It is not possible to contemplate the giving up of stations. Shall we desert any native flock to be again scattered among the heathen? Must we withdraw from the stations most recently occupied — Peshawur, Jubbulpur, Ibadan, Ijaye, Jerusalem, Sychar, Nazareth, Nepowewin, York Fort? These are all too full of promise, and of interest! Must we sacrifice those stations which bear least fruit? How can we desert any standard which men of God before us have lived and died to erect, in the face of the enemy? Should it be told, that the Church Missionary Society had given up any station already established as a witness for Christ among the heathen, because there were not funds enough to support it, it would strike dismay into the hearts of thousands of God's faithful servants throughout the whole Protestant church, and would raise a shout of triumph in the camp of the enemy. But if stations must not be relinquished, neither must they be left insufficiently manned. A feeble post in an enemy's country leads to disaster and reproach. The Committee cannot therefore contemplate giving up either stations or labourers.

There are yet higher grounds on which the Committee would place the question. They go back to first principles. The work of Missions is the command of God. In the extension of Missions, the Divine Saviour sees of the travail of His soul, and is satisfied. We advance, because we have assuredly gathered that the Lord has called us to each spot. We send out Missionaries, because, having prayed that the Lord of the harvest would thrust forth men into His harvest, we believe that these are the men. The removal of a candlestick is an act of Divine judgment. These first principles decide the whole question. Your Committee go forward. They will exercise, indeed, all economy and all prudence. They have put a check upon extension till the funds improve. But they will plead with all earnestness, as they do this day, with those who know the love of Christ, to devise liberal things for His Name's sake—in virtue of the great crisis at which we have arrived in the history of the church and of the world—and in conformity with the glorious opportunities which God has opened before us. They look up to Him who is the Giver of all good, to give effect to their appeal, and they take their stand upon this word—"The Lord said unto Moses, Wherefore criest thou unto me? Speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward."

APPENDIX I.

At a Meeting held July 4, 1855—

Present — The Earl of Harrowby; the Earl Waldegrave; the Viscount Midleton; Lord Calthorpe; the Bishop of Sierra Leone; Captain the Hon. F. Maude, R.N.; Sir T. D. Acland, Bart., M.P.; General Nicolls; Vice-Admiral Hope; Captain Washington, R.N.; Mr. J. Gurney Hoare; Mr. A. Mills; Rev. E. Auriol; Rev. H. Venn; Dr. Baikie; Rev. H. Townsend—

A statement was read respecting the late Niger Expedition by the exploring steam-vessel "Pleiad," showing that it had returned safely after ascending the Tshadda to the distance of 330 miles, and spending 118 days in the river, viz. June, July, August, 1854; and that no death or serious illness had occurred among the persons forming the expedition, including eleven Europeans.

That this expedition marks a new era in African discovery, whether by land or by water, as in every former case valuable lives have fallen a sacrifice to the climate.

That the natives on the banks of the Niger exhibited a very friendly disposition towards intercourse with Europeans, for the purposes of lawful commerce.

And that the amount of population, and the products of the country, present encouraging prospects of a lucrative trade, should proper methods be employed for its encouragement through native agency.

Dr. Baikie, R.N., who was appointed by Government to accompany the expedition, gave much information respecting the friendly disposition of the natives, the resources of the country, especially in the abundant supply of palm-oil, ivory, &c.; and explained the improved medical treatment of the diseases of the climate. He stated, also, that, upon his return to Sierra Leone, a large number of natives waited upon him, who had been brought as slaves from countries bordering upon the Niger, and, having been liberated in the colony, had become traders, and were now anxious to revisit their fatherland. A great number were of the Ibo tribe, above the delta of the river; but many individuals were of other tribes. These parties expressed their desire to return and trade in their country, provided that they might not thereby lose their privileges as British subjects, or the advantages of religious instruction enjoyed in the colony.

The Rev. H. Townsend, who has resided for seven years as a Missionary in the Yoruba country, in the Bight of Benin, stated that the labours of the European Missionaries now extend and are welcomed over a large tract of country; that various considerable towns have been visited, and in many of them native teachers have been located; and that there is thus a prospect of a road being soon opened through this country to the banks of the Niger at Rabba, about 400 miles up the river. He described also the active commercial habits of the people, and the extent to which cotton is already cultivated, and their desire for trade and intercourse with Great Britain.

After further information had been obtained upon various matters connected with the subject, it was
RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY—

1. That it appears to this Meeting that the opportunities of introducing civilization and Christianity into Africa, by the navigation of the rivers Niger and Tshadda, contemplated in the expedition of 1841, are shown to be still most promising by the late expedition of 1854, and that they should be promptly improved by this country before they are closed by any change of circumstances, or taken out of our hands by other nations.

2. That it is essential to the success of any plans for the attainment of this object by means of native agency, that H.M. Government should establish or promote the establishment of a regular steam communication between Fernando Po and the confluence of the Niger and Tshadda rivers, in order that native traders may be assured that the way will be kept open; and also that H.M. Government should, at periodical intervals, extend such communication further up the two rivers, with a view to the extension of geographical discovery, of commercial enterprise, and of religious civilization, in the interior of Africa.

3. That the following gentlemen be requested to prepare a Memorial, to be laid before Her Majesty's Government, upon this subject—

Mr. Macgregor Laird, Mr. J. Gurney Hoare, Mr. Charles Buxton, Captain Washington, R.N., Mr. A. Mills, Rev. H. Venn.

4. That should Her Majesty's Government accede to this proposal, there is every prospect of the completion of the great and benevolent object in view, by the spontaneous commercial enterprise of liberated and other Africans in the various settlements upon the West Coast, and by the zeal of Missionary Societies.

Chairman.

APPENDIX II.

ADDRESS SIGNED BY THE BISHOP OF BOMBAY, THE CHAPLAINS, AND MANY OF THE HIGHEST OFFICERS IN THE CIVIL, MILITARY, AND NAVAL SERVICE, OF THE EAST-INDIA COMPANY.

WE, the undersigned members and supporters of the Bombay Auxiliary to the Church Missionary Society, solicit the serious attention of the Committee of that Society to the state and claims of Western India. In doing so, we plead on behalf of fifteen millions of the unevangelized natives of this land. For the wants of these fifteen millions the provision made by the Church Missionary Society amounts to six European and two native clergymen, assisted by ten native teachers and two European and East-Indian female teachers. Our minds are pressed by a sense of the utter inadequacy of such a Mission to the vastness of the field before it, as well as to our own obligations both towards God and man. Under this conviction we are seeking to "provoke one another" to fresh exertion. May God raise up His power, and come among us!

At the same time, we would make a special appeal to the Parent Committee of the Church Missionary Society. We pray them to give to Western India renewed and favourable consideration. They have lately sent us two very valuable labourers; but this reinforcement barely serves to keep existing plans in continued operation. What we desire is, in the first place, to render more efficient existing Missions—the province of Sindh has now but one solitary Missionary—and then to open new ground, to enter on new Stations, and to do so with an effective body of Missionaries in each. For we are more and more persuaded, that it is by making each several Missionary post sufficiently strong to become the centre of a widely-radiating influence that the objects of the Society will be best attained. This is our design at Nasik. The same design we wish to carry out in other places; but without a large accession to our Missionary force it will be impossible.

Meanwhile, we would add our firm belief that the condition of the native mind in Western India is increasingly susceptible of impression from the truth. We grant that conversions are yet few; but the preparatory work is steadily advancing; inquiry spreads; ancient superstitions are waning; Missionaries are welcomed. Every thing invites to new effort. The Lord is assuredly calling us to preach the gospel unto this people, and we venture, therefore, to add, in the language of urgent solicitation with the Society, "Arise; for this matter belongeth unto thee : we also will be with thee : be of good courage, and do it."

ADDRESS FROM THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER AND OTHER CIVIL AND MILITARY OFFICERS STATIONED AT PESHAWUR.

TO THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH
MISSIONARY SOCIETY, LONDON.

SIRS — The information has been lately received at this Station, that your Society is desirous of establishing a Mission at Peshawur. As residents at that Station, and deeply sensible of the duty incumbent on us, in common with other Christians, to endeavour to promote the spread of the gospel in heathen lands, we venture to express our feelings on that most important subject.

As far as we can see from all the circumstances before us, we believe that there are few places of greater consequence in a Missionary point of view, if we look at it in all its details. In the first place, it is very generally supposed, by those who are residing on the spot, and in the midst of the people themselves, that the Affghans are the descendants of the ten lost tribes of Israel. This conclusion is drawn from the assertions of the learned among themselves; from the genealogies of their tribes; from the traditions current amongst them; from the great similarity of many of their customs and names to those of the Jews; from the expression of their features; and, lastly, from the geographical position, East of Media and the Euphrates. Should this opinion be correct, as it appears to us to be, a peculiar interest is at once attached to the people of this country, as being of the lost sheep of the house of Israel, and from the knowledge that they are to be restored to their own land, and, when converted to the faith of Christ, to be highly exalted.

In other respects, the character of the people is bold and independent; and were the unfavourable points in their character removed by the changing influences of Christianity, there is no doubt that, humanly speaking, they would be very able instruments, well fitted, by natural qualifications, to spread abroad to others the knowledge of the truth.

The geographical position of Peshawur, again, entitles it to be considered, in a Missionary point of view, the key of other countries. It is constantly visited by large numbers of natives from all parts, who come here for the transaction of business, and, after remaining a greater or a less time, either proceed onwards from this place, or else return to their homes. There would be, therefore, great opportunities afforded here for the dissemination of books and religious knowledge far and wide. The languages spoken here are those of the countries beyond India; and there is, therefore, the opportunity here, which does not exist in other parts of our possessions, of acquiring those languages; and, by means of translations and direct teaching, influencing the people of the countries where only those languages are spoken.

we see placed before our eyes, and continually brought before our notice, we cannot but rejoice to hear that the attention of Christians at home is turned towards these parts. We believe that the time has now arrived for the preaching of the Gospel of Christ in these Trans-Indus countries, to which we have been brought, by the providence of God, in a very remarkable manner. The people are bigoted, and even fanatical: they must therefore be approached with much prudence and discretion by those who may be sent to win them over to the faith of Christ, and all unnecessary provocation must be carefully avoided.

They are bold and independent, and must therefore be met also with courage. Their teachers are often men of learning, well read in the philosophy and science, as well as the religion, of the Arabians; and the teachers of a new religion should be, therefore, also well qualified to unravel their subtleties, and lay open before them the reasons of their wrong conclusions. The people place great value in European medical aid, as was proved by experience fourteen years ago in the midst of Affghanistan; and it is therefore thought desirable by some, that the Missionaries should possess some degree of medical knowledge. The neighbourhood is one of the very strongholds of Mahomedanism, and results effected here must be felt through many countries. We would therefore venture to suggest that this Mission be made a strong one, and that a band of faithful Missionaries, devoted and also able, prudent and also bold, be at once sent to occupy this prominent and important position; that this Mission be one to the Affghans, distinct from all Indian Missions, and an outpost of observation on "the regions beyond."

In conclusion, we would desire to express to the Committee the great interest which we take in the proceedings of the Society, and the confidence which we feel in its principles and plans of operation. We believe it to be an honoured instrument in the hand of God for the spreading abroad the gospel of Christ in all lands; and we feel deeply thankful for the great results which have already attended its labours, in connexion with those of other Missionary Societies. The time has now arrived for much more extended efforts, and a much wider dissemination of Christianity, than at any previous period. The countries of the earth are opening for the preaching of the gospel; the call seems especially addressed to our Church, and, in it, to its great Societies. As residents in a heathen land, with every error rampant around us, we would desire to encourage to renewed exertions in your great and noble office. The way is plain—"Go forward"—and your work will prosper. Our prayer is, that our Universities and seats of learning may be stirred up to the appreciation of the great openings on every side, and of their duty to engage personally in the work of evangelizing the nations; and also, that the rich may be made willing to give liberally of their wealth to maintain those who may be sent by them in heathen lands, that thus the knowledge of salvation through Christ may be proclaimed to all, to the praise and the glory of God.

We are, Sirs,

Your most obedient servants, &c.,
(Signed)

MAJOR HERBERT EDWARDES, C.B.

Commissioner of Peshawur.

CIRCULAR TO THE SOCIETY'S MISSIONARIES IN INDIA.

DEAR BRETHREN—

1. From the deep interest in the Education question evinced by Government, and the various witnesses who appeared before the Parliamentary Committees on Indian Affairs last year, it may be presumed that great and comprehensive measures will, before long, be announced on the subject.

2. It can hardly be doubted that the Christian Mission-schools, which have afforded education to fourfold the number of scholars taught by the Government institutions—which have almost exclusively established female schools—and have been almost the only teachers of the village vernacular schools of their respective districts—will not be overlooked in the future distribution of the funds appropriated for educational purposes by the several governments of India.

3. It is, however, equally to be expected, that the mere teaching to read and write will not constitute a claim for public assistance to any school. A standard of examination in useful knowledge will no doubt be established, varying, of course, in subjects and degrees, according to the nature of the school; requiring probably much from the Anglo-vernacular schools in towns, but something also of really substantial knowledge in the simplest village vernacular schools.

4. It may also be reasonably expected, that, in order to ensure the acquisition of the amount of useful knowledge which may be prescribed to each description of school claiming assistance from the public funds, inspectors will be appointed, as in this country, upon whose certificate alone the aid sought for will be afforded.

5. The probability of measures of this nature being adopted, and extended indiscriminately to all schools desirous of partaking of the benefit contemplated, and willing to observe the prescribed conditions, cannot but excite the liveliest interest and sympathy throughout the Missionary body in India; and the Society anticipates your earnest and cordial co-operation in giving effect to them, if our hopes of their adoption should prove to be well-founded.

6. It need scarcely be observed, that the Society's interest in the measure is less with reference to the pecuniary aid to be derived from the adoption of the measures referred to—important as that aid must of course be deemed, in the event of any material increase, such as we hope to see, in the number of our schools—than from the prospect which those measures open to our view of the vast impulse to be given to the native mind by the wide-spread establishment of schools, in every one of which some knowledge will be acquired of historical and natural truths, while in all the schools of Christian Missions pure religious truth will be superadded, without interference, much less obstruction, from the public authorities, by whom the pecuniary aid will be administered.

7. The interest attaching to the subject at this time renders it likely that as little delay as possible will be allowed in carrying into effect the scheme which the Government may order to be introduced. It therefore becomes important, that, from every Station where schools of any kind are attached to our Missions, we should learn, at the earliest period, what is the nature and extent of the learning now afforded in the school or schools of your Station. We understand that you have already been furnished with forms of return for this purpose.

8. We are more especially anxious to draw your attention to the means of improving your schools, so as to meet the probable requirements of the Government plan. Where our Missionaries are situated in districts in which conferences are held periodically, we wish that each of the brethren should attend the next conference, carrying with him the fullest particulars relative to his own schools, and prepared to consider, with his brethren, what practical steps can be taken for the improvement of the schools of the district, or station, and to adopt, in communication with the Corresponding Committee with which they are connected, the most effectual measures for supplying the desiderata of the Mission-schools, in order to their being placed on a footing to be presented for examination by the Government inspector, whenever such an officer may be appointed.

9. It is certain that other Missionary Societies are alive to the vast importance of the subject, and it would create great disappointment if our schools were to be found backward, at the proper moment, in the race for extending the benefits of an enlarged education among the people, and for a share of the Government countenance and support.

10. We are in this country exerting ourselves to obtain duly-qualified training masters, and with hopeful prospects of success; and we confidently rely on your state of preparation to turn their services to the speediest and best account.

11. Besides various collateral considerations arising out of the subject, there is one, in connexion with the progress of education, to which we desire to draw your particular attention. It is the opening for public employment presented by the progress of education among the lower castes of the country. We are not without hopes that some amelioration may be afforded, by Government regulations, to the low-caste people (with whom Christians of all conditions are, we regret to think, generally classed) in regard to their admission, either for employment, or as suitors, to the public Courts of Justice and revenue offices of Government; but the difficulty of asserting their admitted or allowed rights, may, notwithstanding, still be experienced in remote situations under sole native authority. Education presents the most obvious means of relaxing the dominion of caste, now that the Government have, by their answer in the recent instance of the high-caste memorial from Mangalore, sustained the course adopted by Mr. F. Anderson, in the Court of that place, of making admission to official employment to be competed for by the test of public examination in learning. By that test of qualification, sundry low-caste youths have effected their entrance to the Court of Mangalore; and the spell of caste—as regards public employment, and consequent social position and influence—is there at an end.

The Church Missionary Society, having under its charge the largest number of native Christians, is both placed on a vantage-ground, and is laid under a special obligation, in respect of this great movement. For if this Christian population be well educated, they must exercise a vast amount of influence over the whole of India.

Commending this Circular to your careful consideration, and to the blessing of Almighty God,

We are, dear Brethren,

Very faithfully yours,

HENRY VENN,	}	Secretaries.
