PROPER FORM OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

No. I.—Form of Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of _____ Pounds free of Legacy duty* for the general purposes of the said Society to be paid within _____ calendar months next after my death, exclusively out of such part of my Personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may be bequeathed for charitable purposes and in priority to all other payments thereof but to be subject to abate proportionably with other Legacies in case my general Personal Estate shall be insufficient for payment of them all in full. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society [or each of the said Societies] shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy [or Legacies respectively].

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue, or a Share of the Residue.

And in order to give full effect to the bequest hereinafter contained for charitable purposes I direct that my Debts, the expenses of my funeral and of the probate and execution of this my Will and the Legacies bequeathed by this my Will or any Codicil thereto shall be paid out of such part of my personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may not be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the primary Fund; and in case only of the same being insufficient for payment thereof then out of such part of my personal Estate as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the ultimate Fund; and subject as aforesaid, I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East for the general purposes of the said Society such part of my residuary personal Estate as by the Laws in force may be bequeathed for charitable purposes [or if a share only of the residue be intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say, "such sum of money as shall be equal to (one-fourth or one half, according to the intention) of my whole residuary personal Estate to be paid exclusively out of such part thereof as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes or such less sum as the said last mentioned part of my personal Estate will extend to pay"]. And I declare that the Receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said residue [or sum of money, as the case may be]. And as to the remainder if any of my general residuary personal Estate I bequeath the same &c. &c.

* If so intended.

† In case there be other charitable Legacies, insert here, "other than and except charitable Legacies."

‡ If it be intended also to charge the Debts and Legacies on real Estate, then add "and in the next place out of my Freehold and Copyhold Estates."

§ The latter Clause to be filled up according to the Testator's wishes; but it must not be for any charitable purpose.

NAMES OF MISSIONARIES AND OTHER LABOURERS, MAY 4, 1858.

* * By MISSIONARY, is to be understood one in Holy Orders; and by CATECHIST, one who engages in such religious care and instruction of the people as may be consistent with his character as a Layman. The letter (m) means Married.—Wives of Missionaries, &c., though not named, except when engaged in some specific employment, are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among Native Females; such as, cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing Female Adults.

A STATION is the place at which a Missionary or European Catechist is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers sent from Europe show the date of their first leaving Europe. The asterisk (*) denotes that the Missionary is on his way out; The mark (†) that he is on his way home.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued: The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made, by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence, of his qualifications; and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next Meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least Three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a Special Meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot, to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose: respect, however, being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretaries.

XXIX. Each candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. That all questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between any Colonial Bishop and any Committee of the Society, shall be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, whose decision thereupon shall be final.

XXXIII. That the object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as, in any other respect, to alter the principles and practice of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations, and explained in Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Report.

The proposed reference shall be made, through His Grace the Primate, by the Committee, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the Committee may deem advisable; and the Committee will be bound so to refer all questions, falling within the scope of the Rule so understood as aforesaid, which the Colonial Bishop shall require them to refer.

While all decisions of the Bench of Bishops on questions so referred will be considered by the Committee as binding on them and their agents or representatives, the Colonial Bishops or other Ecclesiastical Authorities, unless concurring in the reference, cannot properly be considered as so bound.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries; or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The following passage, from Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Annual Report, illustrates the practice of the Society in reference to this Rule:—

"The Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] our Missionaries—these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same Colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church."

APPENDIX II. TO THE THIRTY-NINTH REPORT.

REFERRED TO IN THE NOTE TO LAW XXIX. 1

REMARKS ON THE CONSTITUTION AND PRACTICE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY, WITH REFERENCE TO ITS ECCLESIASTICAL RELATIONS.

It is the object of the following Remarks to show, that the constitution and practice of the Church Missionary Society are in strict conformity with Ecclesiastical principles, as they are recognised in the constitution and practice of the Church of England.

Throughout the system of the Church of England there is a recognised co-operation of temporal and spiritual functions in MATTERS ECCLESIASTICAL; that is, the Laity and Clergy have not only their separate and distinct provinces, but, in many important respects, they unite their agency for the accomplishing of Ecclesiastical acts.

For instance, in supplying a vacant Church, a Lay-Patron selects and presents "his Clerk"—as the Clergyman is technically called—to the Bishop; who thereupon invests him with authority to minister in that Church. So, also, there are certain Lay-officers appointed to every Church—the Churchwardens or Sidesmen—whose duty it is, not only to guard, in conjunction with the Minister, the temporalities of the Church, but also to watch over the due performance of Divine Service, the morals of the parishioners, and the conduct of the Minister; and to report, from time to time, on each of these matters, to the Ecclesiastical Authorities. The duty of these officers is implied in the old appellation, "Sidesmen," or "Synodsmen"—men summoned to attend and give information at Synods and Visitations.

The distinction and co-operation of lay and spiritual functions in the Church of England might be further illustrated in the case of Ecclesiastical Courts, and various relations which arise out of the principle, that the Sovereign is the Supreme Ruler of the Church.

Keeping the foregoing distinction in view, the Church Missionary Society may be regarded as an Institution for discharging the temporal and lay offices necessary for the preaching of the Gospel among the Heathen. It is strictly a Lay Institution: it exercises, as a Society, no spiritual functions whatsoever.

Such being the constitution of the Society in theory—are its proceedings conducted in conformity with this theory, and with the Ecclesiastical principles of the Church of England?

In order to review these proceedings, they may be conveniently arranged under the FOUR following Heads:

I. THE COLLECTION OF THE HOME REVENUE, and THE DISBURSEMENT OF IT ABROAD.

These acts are altogether within the province of Laymen.

II. THE SELECTING AND EDUCATING CANDIDATES FOR MISSIONARY EMPLOYMENT.

In this department there is no necessary encroachments upon spiritual functions. The Colleges in our Universities are Lay-Corporations, and may, in many cases, be administered and presided over by Laymen.

Yet it may be urged, that in this department there is an approach to the peculiar province of Clergymen; because spiritual persons seem the more proper judges of a Candidate's fitness for Missionary employment: and it is generally admitted, that a Bishop may exercise a control over the education and training of Candidates to be advanced by himself to Holy Orders. Now, in both these particulars the Church Missionary Society has carefully guarded its proceedings. The examination of Missionary Candidates is referred to a Clerical Sub-Committee; and the General Committee consult and act upon the report of this Clerical trial and judgment. In respect of the other point, the education and training of Candidates for Holy Orders, the Church Missionary College at Islington has the sanction and approbation of the Bishop of London; who, in this country, admits to Holy Orders all the Society's Candidates: and his Lordship has repeatedly expressed his satisfaction at the results of the system of instruction, as they have been manifested in his examinations for Holy Orders.

III. The Third general head of the Society's proceedings is, THE SENDING FORTH, TO PARTICULAR STATIONS, THE MISSIONARIES THUS ORDAINED, OR OTHER CLERGYMEN WHO HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY ORDAINED.

Now, here an objection against the Society has been founded on the use of the term "sending forth"—it sounds like an exercise of Ecclesiastical power. But, Ecclesiastically speaking, the Bishop of London "sends forth" every Missionary ordained by him. The Law of the land has sanctioned the Two Archbishops, and the Bishop of London, in ordaining persons to officiate abroad. The Secretary of the Church Missionary Society requests, by Letter, the Bishop of London to ordain, in conformity with the provisions of the Act of Parliament, such and such persons, whom the Society is willing to support in some Foreign Station. The Bishop, by the imposition of hands, gives them authority to preach the Gospel, with a view to their Foreign location.—In the case of persons already in Holy Orders, who may join the Society, they may be said to go forth by their own voluntary act; but their Letters of Orders, given by a Bishop of our Church, are their mission and commission, Ecclesiastically speaking.

Hence, to call the acts of the Church Missionary Society—in selecting the station, paying the passage-money, and agreeing to provide the Missionary's salary—to call these acts a SENDING FORTH of Preachers, in an Ecclesiastical sense, is to confound names with things, and to lose sight of all true Church principles.

IV. The Fourth general head under which the proceedings of the Church Missionary Society may be arranged, is, THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF MISSIONARIES IN THEIR LABOURS AMONG THE HEATHEN.

Here a distinction must be made between the case of those Foreign Stations which lie within the jurisdiction of a Colonial Bishop, and other stations, which are not so situated, and may therefore be termed Extra-diocesan.

In the first case, the Church Missionary Society has expressly determined, that all its ordained Missionaries shall be submitted for licence to the Bishop of the diocese in which they may be stationed; and that no Missionary shall exercise his spiritual functions in such diocese without a licence. The Society has further recognised the uncontrolled discretion of the Bishop to grant or withhold his licence, and the propriety of specifying in such licence a particular district as the field of labour; so that a Missionary cannot be removed from one district to another without the sanction of the Bishop.

These principles were stated in a Letter from the Society to the Bishop of Calcutta, signed by the Right Honourable the President—December 17, 1835—in a manner so satisfactory to the Bishop, that he embodied them in the four following Rules, expressed for the most part in the words of the Society's Letter: which were, at the Bishop's request, entered upon the minutes of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, as the recognised Rules of their practice:—

"1. The Bishop expresses—by granting or withholding his licence, in which the sphere of the Missionary's labour is mentioned—his approbation or otherwise, of that location.

"2. The Bishop superintends the Missionaries afterward, as the other Clergy, in the discharge of their Ecclesiastical duties.

"3. The Bishop receives from those—the Committee and Secretary—who still stand in the relation of Lay-Patrons to the Missionary, such communications respecting his Ecclesiastical duties as may enable the Bishop to discharge that paternal superintendence to the best advantage.—The Archdeacon of Calcutta or Bombay acting under the Bishop's immediate directions when he happens to be absent.

"4. If the Bishop* or Archdeacon fills, at the request of the Society, the offices of Patron, President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, &c., he receives, further, all such confidential information, on all topics, as the Bishops officially neither could wish nor properly ask [to receive]."

The Bishop also wrote to the Parent Society in the following terms:—"You seem to me to lay down the principle most correctly.....This is to me perfectly satisfactory; as I shall instantly inform the Archbishop of Canterbury, to whom I report all the proceedings of the diocese."—9th June 1836.

It will be perceived, that the Missionaries, thus licensed, stand toward the Bishop in the relation rather of Stipendiary Curates, than of Beneficed Clergymen. For a Bishop in England cannot refuse a licence or institution to a benefice, without assigning a reason which will bear investigation before a Court of Common Law; nor can he deprive a Clergyman of his benefice without a judicial process. But no law has provided any such check in the case of Missionaries: the Bishop has the power of withholding a licence, or of withdrawing it, at his sole discretion, without assigning any cause, as in the case of Stipendiary Curates in this country.

If it be asked, What are the checks and safeguards against the undue exercise of this discretionary power of the Bishop?—it may be replied, in the words of the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Parent Society, April 12, 1837:—

"We are not to take for granted, that discretionary power will be abused; but, on the contrary, to provide, by a cheerful and friendly spirit and conduct, against the likelihood of such an occurrence. If the event of arbitrary conduct should arise, or be supposed to arise, the remedies are—public opinion—an appeal to the Archbishop—and the Society's refusing to make other appointments and locations than those unreasonably objected to. Nothing is the least likely—and probability is the guide of life—to arise to impede or cramp the Committee; since they unquestionably and avowedly possess, The choice of men—The appointment of spheres of labour—The temporal power, including pecuniary support."

But though the Bishop's licence is at once the pledge and proof that the Society's Missionaries are under Episcopal superintendence and jurisdiction, and that the spiritual oversight rests altogether with the Bishop; yet the Society may seem, to some persons, to keep up a kind of spiritual jurisdiction and oversight, by requiring accounts from the Missionaries of all their proceedings, and by giving them directions, from time to time, which may bear upon their spiritual duties. But it must be remembered, that the Society stands toward its Missionaries in the relation of Trustees of the fund out of which their salaries are paid. In the case of a Beneficed Clergyman in this country, the Minister is the guardian and possessor of the temporalities of the benefice, because the benefice is an endowment; and the Patron has no further connexion with the Minister whom he has once presented to the Bishop. In our case, the office of Patron is, in a sense, perpetuated by the payment of the salary, and the possession of all the temporalities of the Mission.

This matter has been well explained by the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, May 26, 1837:—"The Missionary Committees," says his Lordship, "have a far greater latitude in India than any Lay-Patrons at home. Upon presenting his Clerk to the Bishop, the Patron at home is functus officio. The Clergyman is removed, on being once instituted and licensed, totally and for ever from the Patron, and is transferred to the superintendency of the Bishop. The Patron has nothing whatever more to do with him. But in India, the Committee is (1) the continued paymaster of the Missionary after he is duly licensed;—for institution and induction there are none. (2) They correspond with him. (3) They supply him with Catechists. (4) They report his chief proceedings home. (5) They propose removals and changes of Station to the Bishop. (6) They exercise, unavoidably, an influence which does not belong to the mere Lay-Patron; and are aiding, in a variety of ways, to the comfortable and honourable discharge of the Missionary's most exalted and most spiritual duties."

It remains to consider the case of those Stations which are Extra-diocesan; i. e. where there is no Colonial Bishop of the Church of England having jurisdiction over them.

In these cases, the Society has endeavoured to procure for such Stations the benefits of the Episcopal office from the nearest Bishop of the Church of England. Application was made by the Committee both to the late and to the present Bishop of Madras, to extend, as far as circumstances would admit, these benefits to the Mission in Travancore; which, as an independent state, not forming part of the British Dominions, was not included in the diocese of Madras. A similar application was made on behalf of the New-Zealand Mission, to the Bishop of Australia; who at once acceded to the request, and kindly promised to visit New Zealand as soon as his other duties would permit; stating, in a Letter to the Society's representatives at Sydney, "It is highly satisfactory to me, that our friends at home are taking a view of these things which proves them to belong, not only to a MISSIONARY, but also to a CHURCH Society." (See Annual Report, 1838.)

Such is a General View of the Constitution and Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society.

It is not intended to assert, that errors are not sometimes committed in the application of these principles to matters of detail. It must be remembered that Missionary operations are, alas! new and anomalous in the system of the Church of England; and that it is not always easy to draw a definite line between the two provinces which belong respectively to the Bishop and the Committee. It has been observed by the Bishop of Calcutta—Letter, May 26, 1837: "The boundaries of the power of Committees, as they approach to those of the Bishop, can be ascertained, in many points, only by time and observation." Perplexities have consequently occurred; and, unhappily, misunderstandings have sometimes arisen between the Representatives of the Society abroad and Ecclesiastical Authorities. But these are the principles by which the Home Committee have endeavoured to guide the proceedings of the Society: and they confidently respond to a sentiment expressed by the Bishop of Calcutta—"The principles of our new relations are now fully recognised: the details will soon find their level."—Letter, 9th June 1836.

In reviewing the Ecclesiastical relations of the Church Missionary Society, there are two or three points which it seems very important to notice.

1. Missionary operations, as they are conducted by the Church Missionary Society, though apparently anomalous in the system of the Church of England, are yet in strict conformity with its constitution and principles: they are analogous to many other instances of voluntary exertion for the extension of true religion within the Church, in which Ecclesiastical authority and Lay co-operation unite for the accomplishment of the same end; so that these operations may be regarded as the acts of the Church of England, putting forth its energy for the Conversion of the Heathen World. For it has been shown, that the Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth our Missionaries—that these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church. Even in the few cases in which Lutheran Clergymen are employed, this rule is observed; and all the congregations which are gathered into the fold of Christ are trained up as Members of the Church established in this land.

And here it may be observed, that nothing less than the sanction of a duly-assembled Convocation can more fully identify the acts of any Missionary Society, within the Church of England, with the Church.* Without such sanction, all associations of Churchmen must stand in the same position. Still further, not to notice the present abeyance of Convocations, it may be asserted, that even if the Church were to assemble in her provincial Convocations, and to decree and to regulate Missionary operations, such proceedings could not essentially add to, or alter, those important particulars which, under present circumstances, entitle the operations of the Church Missionary Society to be regarded as Missionary operations of the United Church of England and Ireland.

2. It must be ever borne in mind, that Missionary operations are, in their very nature, temporary and preparative;—that they are to be gradually but eventually superseded by a different order of things, when the Heathen Nations shall have become Christianized. In some cases, as in the West Indies, this change is further advanced than in others. Now, it must be expected, that in proportion as this change advances, difficulties and perplexities will arise in our Ecclesiastical relations, peculiar to this TRANSITION STATE—from Missionary operations, to that happy consummation when there shall be an endowed and established system of Christian Instruction, and a territorial division of Ministerial labour.

* The American Episcopal Church has, in Convention, thus identified itself with a Missionary Society.

February, 1839.

This consummation the Church Missionary Society has ever kept in view, and devoutly desired; and, as far as possible, has prepared for its approach. In an interview with the Bishop of Barbadoes—April 1835—this point was expressly alluded to; and it was stated by the Committee to his Lordship, "that whenever a district should be brought into the state of an organized Christian community, it should assume entirely the Parochial form, and cease to be occupied as a Missionary Station.—The Bishop entirely acquiesced in this view; and only expressed his anxiety that it should not be so acted upon as prematurely to deprive a district of the Missionary's services."—(Extracts from Committee's Minute.)

3. Lastly, it must be evident, from a review of the whole subject, that our Ecclesiastical relations depend, in many important respects, upon a mutual confidence and good understanding between the Committee and its representatives, and the Ecclesiastical Authorities both at home and abroad. This must be the case, to argue upon no higher grounds, while those relations are governed by Ecclesiastical laws and canons made without reference to Missionary operations, for an Established Church in a Christian country; and where so much is also necessarily left to the discretion of both parties. If we look to our Home operations, the Committee places confidence in the Bishop of London, that he will continue to ordain the Missionary Candidates introduced to his Lordship by the Society, according to the provisions of the Act: and the Lord Bishop of London relies upon the Committee's using every means to select, train, and duly qualify proper Candidates to be thus introduced to him.

So, also, in its Foreign operations, the Society places confidence in the Colonial Bishops—as it has been already shown, in a quotation from the Letter of Bishop Wilson—that they will not exercise an unreasonable or arbitrary discretion, in withholding or withdrawing licences from our Missionaries, or in refusing ordination to our Candidates. And the Bishops, by granting licenses and ordination to the Missionaries of a voluntary Society, whose income is liable to fluctuations, and whose agents are constantly changing, manifestly place confidence in the Committee, that they will use every endeavour to keep up the Missions once established; and that they will not, on their part, act in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner, or withdraw the salary from a licensed Missionary, without reason sufficient to prove to the licensing Bishop the necessity of the proceedings.

It seems impossible to supersede this conventional understanding—as it may be termed—till Missions are supported by endowments, or till a code of Missionary canons be established by competent authority.

This mutual confidence and good understanding now exists, it may be thankfully asserted, between the Committee of the Society and the Ecclesiastical Authorities of every Colonial Diocese in which Missionaries are labouring. And may He, who is the God, not of confusion, but of peace, and "the great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls," unite together the hearts and hands of those who are labouring in this Holy Cause—"that all and every of these may, IN THEIR SEVERAL CALLINGS, serve truly and pain-fully, to the glory of His name!"

AT the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Exeter Hall, Strand, on Tuesday, May the 4th, 1858, being the Fifty-ninth Anniversary—

The Right Hon. the EARL OF CHICHESTER, President, in the Chair,

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE HAVING BEEN READ BY THE REV. JOHN VENN, M.A., PREBENDARY OF HEREFORD,

On the Motion of the LORD BISHOP OF LONDON, V.P., seconded by the RIGHT HON. VISCOUNT MIDLETON, V.P., it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report, of which an Abstract has now been read, be received, and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of this Meeting be given to the Rev. Dr. Miller, for his Sermon before the Society last evening; to His Grace the Vice-Patron; to the Right Hon. the President and the Vice-Presidents; and to all those friends who, during the past year, have exerted themselves in its behalf; and that the following Gentlemen be appointed the Committee for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies—[See List, p. iv.]

On the Motion of the REV. WILLIAM MARSH, D.D., Hon. Canon of Worcester, seconded by the REV. HUGH STOWELL, M.A., Hon. Canon of Chester, and Minister of Christ Church, Salford, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Society, while it desires humbly to praise God for the "spirit of prayer and supplications" vouchsafed to the Church of Christ during the Indian mutiny, earnestly looks for the continuance of the same grace to revive the work of God at home, in order that the church may be prepared for receiving the blessing of enlarged success for more abundant labours in the establishment of the Redeemer's kingdom in every land.

On the Motion of the REV. DR. COTTON, Bishop Designate of Calcutta, seconded by the REV. GEORGE KNOX, M.A., late Chaplain to the East-India Company, South India, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That while this Society recognises its sacred obligations towards its Missions in Africa, China, and other lands, where the Lord has signally owned and blessed its labours; yet it regards India, under the restored supremacy of British rule, as possessing a special claim upon its enlarged exertions and expenditure for the conversion of its various tribes to the faith of Christ.

On the Motion of the REV. HUGH M'NEILE, D.D., Hon. Canon of Chester, and Incumbent of St. Paul's, Liverpool, seconded by the REV. GEORGE SCOTT, Freny, Derry, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the present state of the world demands of the church at home far larger sacrifices for the cause of Christ than it has hitherto made, especially in the sending forth of men of all ranks of society, whose gifts and graces qualify them to aid the work of Missions.

EPHESIANS III. 8.

“THAT I SHOULD PREACH AMONG THE GENTILES THE UNSEARCHABLE RICHES OF CHRIST.”

“PUT in trust with the Gospel”—“the glorious Gospel of the blessed God, which was committed to my trust,”—and Paul marvelled and exulted and trembled. As “the apostle of the Gentiles,” he magnified his office, with no pride of priestly dignity, with no assumption of priestly power, but in that he had been “made a minister,” of “the glorious Gospel of the blessed God,” and that unto him had “this grace” been given that he “should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.” Not in the peculiarities and specialities of the apostolate, but in that which the humblest of God’s ministers here to-night shares with him, did Paul find the essence and chief glory of his office. The dispensation committed to him was to preach the Gospel.

We are at no loss in fixing definitively the meaning of our text. By “the unsearchable riches of Christ,” he intends the GOSPEL. Of this, he writes, he had been “made a minister, according to the gift of the grace given unto” him “by the effectual working of” God’s “power.” “Unto me,” he continues, “who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach—publish the good news of (εὐαγγελίσασθαι)—among the Gentiles,” the unsearchable riches of Christ.” For the once hidden mystery was now revealed—the Church was now initiated into it—“that the Gentiles should be fellow-heirs and partakers of God’s promise in Christ by the Gospel.”

And we search the page of history in vain for a nobler, a more sublime, moral spectacle than is here presented by “the apostle of the Gentiles,” as he realizes his grand commission and the world-wide work to which he had been called. An Alexander pushing his conquests throughout the East; the boy Hannibal pledged, at his country’s altar, to life-long enmity to his country’s foes; a Napoleon grasping at the empire of Europe; an Athanasius “contra mundum,” the solitary monk, defying, with an open Bible, the Goliath of the Papacy; a Wesley and a Whitfield going forth to arouse a sleeping Church; a Clarkson, a Wilberforce, and a Buxton, girding themselves to the overthrow of the slave-trade—what are these in comparison with the Jewish tentmaker, surveying the teeming Gentile world—an Athens in its philosophy, a Rome in her pomp and pride, a Corinth in her luxury, an Ephesus in her besotted bigotry, barbarians yet more barbarous in every nation and province and island and city—and, unaided by human influence, unsubsidized by human wealth, realizing that he had been called to war against their strongholds, to summon them to “repentance towards God, and faith towards our Lord Jesus Christ,” to tell the story of the Crucified, “to turn them from darkness to light,” to enrich them with riches from heaven and for eternity.

The same trust, undiminished in grandeur, in solemnity, in responsibility, in privilege, is still with every God-called minister: the same awful and precious deposit committed to the Church of Christ. This the treasure in the earthen vessel. For the holding forth of this light has the candlestick been set up. And if, in the providence of the Church’s exalted Head, any branch of his Church has been put in possession of adventitious advantages—planted in the midst of a nation mighty in arms and influence among other nations; endowed with worldly wealth, protected by state patronage, called to a chief place in the ranks of the church militant—if open doors have been presented to her among the peoples and tribes of the earth, the position of such a Church is no less solemn; the call to such a Church no less imperative, no less glorious, than were the position and the call of “the apostle of the Gentiles.” Unto her has “this grace” been “given,” to “preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.”

And if within that Church there band themselves together, in voluntary union, a body of Christ’s people, who deem themselves to have been called of Him to compassionate and to enrich a world in spiritual poverty and bankruptcy, let them distinctly understand and solemnly realize the commission given them, and the work to which they have set their hand. It is with them, as it was with Paul, simple, awful, blessed, glorious,—“to preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.”

Such surely is our position, Reverend brethren, and brethren of the Laity, as servants of Christ, and as members of the Church of England, and of the Society whose Anniversary we celebrate.

That Anniversary, ever solemn, comes round to us at no common crisis ; rather at a crisis unprecedented in the Society's history.

May God the Holy Ghost be with us here, and in yonder hall on the morrow ! O, for a plenteous baptism of His grace, that we may rise above our own littleness, to the greatness of Immanuel's work and glory ! That all that is of the earth, earthly, self-seeking, man-pleasing, may be put away from us. That, in the remembrance of God's chastisement dealt out to a thankless and faithless nation, and to a Church not half awake, in the threatened overthrow of our Indian empire, humiliation may be largely blended with our joy ; and lukewarmness and self-indulgence give place to a love and self-sacrifice more commensurate with the wants of perishing millions, and with the claims of our Immanuel's love !

Consider, from the apostle's words,

I. THE SINNER'S POVERTY AND THE SAVIOUR'S RICHES.

II. THE SAVIOUR'S AGENCY FOR THE SINNER'S ENRICHING.

I. We glance, for a moment, at the spiritual condition of man for whom these riches are provided, and to whom they are proffered. We have to do with man in his relation to his eternal destiny and to his Maker ; a moral and accountable agent, passing to that Maker's bar, and from that bar to endless weal or endless woe. And God declares him to be, in himself, lost ; lost, because guilty ; lost, because corrupt. Simple, but lively, figures set forth his case. Under the curse ; under the evil one ; a child of wrath ; dark ; dead. In himself, helpless, hopeless. True that, in the intellect within him and in the material world around him, he has elements and means of self-culture and self-elevation. He can philosophize on matter and on mind ; can soar to the stars of heaven and delve into the bowels of the earth ; can investigate the laws of nature, and, as the fruit of his skill and toil, surround himself with the luxuries of a highly-civilized age. And, for a moment, in the precision of his astronomy, by which he fixes, to a year, the return of a comet, and calculates, to a second, the occurrence of an eclipse ; following his " Leviathan " as she floats upon the waters ; or laying his electric cable in its ocean bed ; he may ask exultingly " What shall not man attempt ? what not achieve ? " But wilt thou not, O vain man ! know that all this is but for time—" of the earth, earthy ? " That the philosophy of a Plato, the oratory of a Demosthenes, the poetry of a Homer, the paintings of an Apelles, the sculptures of a Phidias,—riches of genius which are even now our stores and models,—were compatible with the most absurd, degrading, systems of idolatry, and left the civilized and the barbarian alike unenriched towards God?

Let our Secularists, our Social Reformers, and our Philanthropists at home—let our would-be civilizers of heathendom, be assured of this, that, if their schemes and efforts for the elevation of the human family shall rise no higher than philosophy and education, and science and art, and wise legislation and civil liberty; if some latent and gradually-developed optimism in man's nature be their strength and hope; they will leave man, in his noblest and most awful interests, a bankrupt and a beggar.

For this is God's plan in dealing with us his creatures. He first sets right the relation of man to God. This will set right the relations of man to man.

"Rich in mercy," He interposes, with a "plenteous redemption," "according to the riches of his grace."

And the terms are such as to present to us not simply the ideas of a remedy, nor only of a remedy just adequate to our need. Here are "RICHES," RICHES "UNSEARCHABLE"—"unsearchable," because incalculable; "unsearchable," because inexhaustible. "Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound."

Let us examine into the meaning and fitness of this figure. Paul shall be his own interpreter.

The riches of Christ—not simply, nor indeed directly, those riches of the co-eternal and co-equal Son of which Paul writes, "Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich."<sup>1</sup> There the apostle intends those riches of the Son, alike "unsearchable" and uncommunicable to his creatures—his eternal blessedness and glory in the essence of the Godhead. Not but that the momentous verity of Christ's proper Deity is necessarily connected with, and indeed at the foundation of, our present subject. But that this alone does not constitute the riches spoken of. There are "the unsearchable riches" of GRACE—

1. Grace justifying.
2. Grace sanctifying.
3. Grace glorifying.

1. The "riches" of Grace justifying.

"In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sin, according to the riches of his grace."<sup>2</sup>

2. The "riches" of Grace sanctifying.

"You hath He quickened, who were dead in trespasses and sins" . . . . and, in a passage which combines the resurrection-life of grace with the resurrection-life of glory, as virtually begun in the whole body of believers, because actually begun in their mystic Head—"God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith He loved us, even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ, (by grace ye are saved;) and hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus, that in the ages to come He might show the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindness towards us through Christ Jesus."<sup>1</sup>

3. The "riches" of Grace glorifying.

"That he might make known the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had aforehand prepared unto glory."<sup>2</sup> With this "glory"—"an exceeding and eternal weight of glory"—"which shall be revealed in us," "the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared."<sup>3</sup> And "Christ in us" is "the hope of glory;" and Christ's coming the time of our glorification: "When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory."<sup>4</sup>

In the combination of these incalculable and inexhaustible riches, man is "rich toward God." Salvation is to be limited to neither of the processes. The justification is so unsearchably rich that it is absolutely free. The recipient of it is justified as in himself ungodly. So complete that it frees him from the very last mite of the law's penalty, and from every iota of the law's requirements. "There is no condemnation." "The filthy garments" are taken away. The soul which had vainly sought to cover itself with those filthy rags is clothed with Christ. And the Old-Testament song and the New-Testament challenge, are put into the believer's lips, for the blood has availed to the cleansing of his foulest stains, and Christ has become "the end of the law for righteousness, to every one that believeth." "I will greatly rejoice in the Lord, my soul shall be joyful in my God: for He hath clothed me with the garments of salvation, He hath covered me with the robe of righteousness, as a bridegroom decketh himself with ornaments, and as a bride adorneth herself with her jewels."<sup>5</sup> "Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? It is God that justifieth. Who is he that condemneth?"<sup>6</sup>

And the sanctification, under the mortifying and vivifying energy of the Spirit, is so unsearchably rich, that the dead has been quickened, the blind sees, the heart has been swept and garnished for the indwelling of God. And, although this internal work of infused or imparted righteousness, wrought upon the believer, unlike the external work of imputed righteousness wrought for the believer, is inchoate and incomplete; although the law in the members is still warring, and the seventh chapter to the Romans the pattern of the heart-conflict of the regenerate; the germ is indestructible. Victory is the law of the hidden life. He who hath begun performs. And sanctifying grace, in its energy and its unsearchable riches, is but the earlier, continuous process, the progressive stages of a work which is to culminate in the incalculable and inexhaustible riches of glory. Thus is the salvation of justification present, complete, final; no progression, no expansion; equal in all the saints: Paul not more fully justified than you. There are no degrees of pardon; no degrees in Christ's justifying righteousness. For Christ is the righteousness.

And thus is the salvation of sanctification inchoate, incomplete, progressive, expansive. And the perfection of grace, glory. Not the glory of the disembodied spirit; though, "absent from the body," it be "present with the Lord." But the glory of the whole compound nature at the Lord's coming. Glory not from Christ only; glory with Christ; glory in Christ. And therefore "unsearchable." The glory of an intellect capacitated for knowing even as we shall be known. Of moral affections holy without conflict, and capable of communion with God in cloudless purity, and with saints and angels in perfect love. The glory of a body radiant in the image of the glorified Son of man, a body raised "in incorruption" and "in power."

And no possibility of falling. Sin found entrance into Adam's paradise. Sin shall have no entrance into the saints' heaven. Man could fall from innocence. Man shall never fall from glory. From the fulness of Deity, shall God pour in of His love to His chosen vessels. And man's nature shall find its perfection in a height above angels, a perfection higher than in the interrupted, unfallen, innocence of the first Adam; in that which from eternity was the idea or type of its perfectibility in the Divine mind—"the image of the heavenly," "the second man," "the Lord from heaven."

Some of our blessings we share with angels; some with the lower animals. But upon man alone have the blessings of salvation been bestowed. We affirm not that man alone is affected by Christ's death. Rather, with Robert Hall, that "it is not improbable that those glorious beings" (the angels) "are themselves, in some respect, involved in the blessings of that stupendous plan, by which 'things in heaven' are gathered together in one centre with 'things on earth.' Angels may probably be secured in that felicity to which saints are promoted, by the mediation of Jesus Christ."<sup>1</sup>

It should seem as if He who doth all things for his own glory, would manifest that glory in every way of which we can conceive, in dealing with moral agents. That which is termed by theologians "a root of mutability," or "negative defectibility"—the possibility of falling—we believe to be an inherent element in the condition and existence of a moral creature. Now, we know but of two classes of created moral agents—angels and men. In "elect angels" we have moral beings defectible, but preserved by sovereign purpose from the operation of that defectibility. Angels defectible, but "elect;" therefore unfallen; therefore needing no salvation; therefore (we say not unaffected by the mediation of Christ, but) unredeemed. But angels too, left in that defectibility, and, though not necessitated to fall, falling; and (we dive not into the awful depth) unsaved, because unredeemed.

Thus is it with angels. How with MAN? Defectible—fallen—redeemed. But, as with angels, a Divine "purpose, according to election;" while yet ("O the depths!") the responsibility of the moral agent is untouched. Here, man perishing without the Gospel, but "without excuse," condemned by the law written in his heart, There, perishing in unbelief, as neglecting or rejecting the "great salvation." But so too, man defectible, fallen, redeemed, chosen, predestinated, called, justified, sanctified, saved in Christ for ever. And in all—angels standing or falling, man elect or unsaved—God glorified in the depth of the riches of his wisdom and knowledge, of his grace, and of his glory. And though his "judgments" be "unsearchable," and "his ways past finding out," waiting only his own time to approve Himself to his intelligent creatures—to the lost, no less than to the saved, from among angels, and from among men—as the God whose sovereignty is the sovereignty of unimpeachable justice, and of infinite love.

But we must not fail to notice, that in our text, as throughout the New Testament, "the unsearchable riches" are stated, with a striking peculiarity of phrase, to be the "riches of CHRIST." In other words, all is centred in a real, living, person; not in an abstract system.

We have to contend, not only among unsound theologians with what has been termed by a valuable Scotch writer of our day an "intuitional idealism" imported among us, i.e. a philosophic Christianity, which strips it of "all that is peculiar to it," and reduces it to the "ethereal and indefinite conceptions of the mind;" but, among sounder theologians, with a "doctrinal idealism." Both lose sight of the "historic or personal element." But as is well observed by the author of "The Restoration of Belief," with whose words the writer just cited fortifies his argument, "the overthrow of polytheism" "was effected by the Christians of the Martyr-age, not by the silent spreading of an opinion, or by the gentle diffusions of a better theologic idea, Platonic, or of any other sort, but in this, namely, that in all the provinces of the Roman empire, a multitude of the people, high and low, had accepted as certain, a belief concerning a person, which belief did, by an incidental consequence therewith connected, forbid their compliance with polytheistic rites, and compel them to suffer."<sup>1</sup>

There is many a dry page in the works of even sound theologians. But there is not a dry page in the New Testament, not even in Paul's deepest reasonings. Why? Why, mainly, but that the living Saviour is ever before our eyes? The living concrete, not the dry abstract. Not Christianity but Christ. Not only does all rest on the basis of His works. Not only does all flow from Him, but it is all IN HIM. We are in Him, and He in us. "Christ re-appears in all; for all the New Testament theology is but different perspective views of the one unchangeable object—the gift of Jesus Christ: seen in one direction it is pardon; seen in another it is holiness; seen in another it is glory. He justifies as Christ crucified and risen without us; He sanctifies as Christ crucified and risen within us; He glorifies in virtue of both, as Christ enthroned in the fulness of consummate power, and at length subduing all things unto Himself."<sup>2</sup>

Contrast with this a disciple of Plato, teaching Platonism; an Aristotelian propagating the Aristotelian philosophy. He may revere his master, cherish his memory, eulogise his life, idolize his name. But he teaches his system. The Christian preacher preaches Christ Himself. Many words indeed which He uttered, many miracles which He did. But the Alpha and the Omega is the living person; atonement through the blood-shedding of the Sin-Bearer; acceptance in "the Lord our righteousness;" the life of grace, in all its purity and growth and health, through the Spirit—but the Spirit flowing through Christ as our sanctification. A chief comfort of that life, the sympathy of One who "now liveth to make intercession for us." The foretaste of eternal blessedness at death, that our spirits shall be "with Christ." The crowning hope that the living Saviour shall come again; that our very bodies shall be conformed to His image; that, body and spirit, we shall see and share His glory.

II. THE SAVIOUR'S AGENCY FOR THE SINNER'S ENRICHING.

The messengers of the good news, the stewards of the riches, are from among men. Their first, and, for true stewardship, their essential qualification, to have been taught their own emptiness, and themselves to have been made rich with the riches of grace and glory. How deep this work in the heart of Paul—of "apostles least;" of "saints less than the least;" "of sinners chief!" Christ formed in the heart before Christ was preached with the lips. Thus went He forth, "as poor, yet making many rich."

To such agents, in themselves powerless, is the Missionary work entrusted. And, inasmuch as the Gospel of the feeble, often the despised, Missionary, is "the power of God unto salvation;" his going forth, his landing, with these "unsearchable riches" as his deposit, on a heathen shore, will be fraught haply with results more momentous to the future elevation of that people than the policies of statesmen and the decisions of senates. A Missionary may succeed where a Governor-General has failed. God may pour contempt on schemes of worldly statemanship. Assuredly God will bless his Gospel. The holy leaven works marvellously, and for a time, unheeded. The seed springs up, men know not how. "The men that have turned the world upside down"—was the testimony of enemies to the leaders of "the sect of the Nazarenes." India and China may yet be more illustrious examples of what, in later years, we have seen in Ireland. We deny not the concurrence of other causes, in God's gracious providence. But, assuredly, had not the noble work of the "Irish Church Missions" been undertaken, and when undertaken, so signally owned by the Spirit, Ireland had been still an English Premier's difficulty.

But let the Church, the Societies, the Missionaries who take this work in hand, give heed that the Gospel preached, whether in India, or in other countries, is Paul's Gospel—the good news of “the unsearchable riches of Christ.” For he, who, in any measure, withholds the fulness of the riches, preaches “another Gospel, which is not another;” betrays his awful trust, and forfeits the Saviour's presence and the Spirit's blessing. The simplicity of the Gospel must not be overlaid by ritualism; nor its positive dogmatic truths weakened by a process of latitudinarian evaporation.

“The signs of the times” among us are portentous. A deadly leaven is at work. On the one side, the Scylla of excessive ritualism and symbolism, combined with a bigoted exclusiveness; on the other, the Charybdis of a churchmanship and a Christianity so broad, that our “most holy faith” is enervated and lost amid the unsatisfying subtleties of a negative theology—a Neo-Platonism and a Pantheism savouring of the schools of Alexandria rather than of the school of Christ. If India will never be enriched by a sacramentarian Gospel, so neither by Missionaries who shall present the written Word of God as other than a volume of infallibly inspired truth. If the authority of that Word, and the humbling truth of the death-darkness and corruption of unregenerate and unenlightened man, are to be lost amid the jargon of “inner light” and “moral consciousness,” by which man is to be guided in his selection or rejection of the teachings of the Holy Spirit, and to pronounce that here Paul may be followed, but that there he was mistaken—if the inspiration of men “moved by the Holy Ghost,” is to be confounded with the genius of a Homer and a Milton—if, in place of the one, “full, perfect, and sufficient, sacrifice, oblation, and satisfaction,” of the great Sin-Bearer, and the special and unique design of his precious blood-shedding and fulfilment of the law, Missionaries are to recite the story of the Crucified as of one whose sacrifice of Himself differed in degree only, from the self-sacrifices of heroic men; if Immanuel is no longer “the Lord our Righteousness”—where are “the unsearchable riches?” And if the benevolence and love of God are to be exalted at the expense of his holiness, his justice, and his truth—and fire which He threatens as unquenchable, and a worm which He threatens as undying, are to be argued and explained away, that a stumbling-block to man's pride of reason may be removed, and a specious Universalism substituted for “the smoke of their torment” which “ascendeth up for ever and ever”—if the offices and work of God's most blessed Spirit in the hearts of God's chosen are to be confounded with other workings of his power which involve no bestowal of saving grace—if Christ's brotherhood to God's sons and daughters, bone of his bone, and flesh of his flesh, by reason of their mystic oneness with Him, is to be merged into a universal brotherhood to man, flowing from the simple fact of his incarnation—if Christ's return is not to be presented in its liberality and personality, not only as the blessed hope of his Church, but as a day of judgment on quick and dead—then indeed we have a Broad Christianity—but it is the breadth of a Christianity from which spiritual truth has been eliminated—a “caput mortuum”—“another Gospel”—a magnet with no attractive virtue—a Gospel which must fail to enrich man and which will bring no glory to God. From such a Churchmanship and from such a Gospel, may God preserve the Church Missionary Society!

We speak plainly, not in party heat nor polemical bitterness, but as trembling “for the ark of God.” The danger is subtle, specious, insidious. Peace is sweet; union is strength. And while, on the one hand, the natural temperament, the early training, and the strong prejudices of some may lead them to exact the pronunciation of their darling Shibboleth too rigidly, and to magnify the importance of their views and tenets with a narrow-minded and intolerant exclusiveness; on the other hand, men of loving hearts and candid judgments and of a practical turn, may forget the truth—truth which is not ours to surrender—truth, God's awful deposit committed to his Church—must be dearer than peace. Let the ministers and members of the same Church cherish towards each other an enlarged forbearance and charity. Let not party badges be offensively brandished, nor party nicknames wantonly bandied. But when we see the tendency to base a policy of fusion on the undeniable comprehensiveness of the Church of England, let us beware that we lose not for ourselves, and destroy not before our people, the distinctive landmarks of truth. There is a point at which charity becomes surrender, and fusion treason. Nice shades of Calvinism or Arminianism, questions of prophetic interpretation—we cannot separate on these. But the inspiration and infallibility of God's Word—the atonement,—these, and such as these, must not be “open questions.” They are first principles; they are at the foundation. And no aspersions on the sincerity or orthodoxy of our churchmanship, no charges of party-spirit or narrow-mindedness, must daunt us. With humble thankfulness—not as glorying in Missionaries or Committees, or Secretaries, nor as claiming infallibility for this or any other Society; we rejoice to know that, for well nigh sixty years, the Church Missionary Society has thus held fast “the Gospel of the grace of God.” In its choice of men it has erred rather in excess than in defect of holy jealousy. And thus, indirectly and incidentally, has become a rally-point and a bulwark in our Church. So that the first symptoms of vacillation or trimming or compromise here, would spread dismay throughout the Reformed Churches of Christendom. Let the Church Missionary Society Committee be cajoled or frightened, and many an Eli would tremble.

Temptations have not been wanting. Blasts of heresy have swept across our Church. The last five-and-twenty years of the Society's existence have been no ordinary times. But, blessed be "the God of all grace" in whom, and not in his wisest, holiest, servants, is our confidence, the principles of our sainted founders yet prevail. And could Venn and Scott and Simeon and Goode and Biddulph and Richmond and Robinson and Burn and Pratt, resume their seats at our council-board, they would find no change in the truth propagated, in the principles which animate, in the spirit of the men selected. The same atmosphere of truth and faith and prayer and love.

And the same breadth—not the breadth of a vague Christianity, but the breadth of an enlarged Catholicity. They refused not, nor do we, to recognise Divine call and gifts and blessings among those who follow not with us. We read in the plain dealings and in the free dispensation of the Church's Head, the spirit He would have his Church to cherish. And we cannot class with Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, nor consign to imaginary uncovenanted mercies, men, who have been honoured by the Spirit with their Carey and their Morrison and their Williams; and who can yet point us to a Duff, a Moffat, and a Livingstone. We are profoundly conscious of loving loyalty to our Church. We mould our Missions in accordance with her polity. We would, judiciously and as occasion demands, multiply our Bishops in the Mission field. But we would recognise in Presbyterians, not Samaritans but Israelites indeed. We put our Prayer Book as a precious treasure into the hands of our converts, as fit to be "the Common-Prayer Book of the world." But we cannot unchurch the Wesleyan or the Independent who circulate it not. We train up our Catechumens in the teachings of our Catechism. But we cannot and would not shut our eyes to the patent fact, that, with other Catechisms in his hand, a Duff has vied with us in the grand work of Christianizing the young of our Indian Empire.

And such an one—such in apostolicity of doctrine, such in catholicity of Spirit, was he who for five and twenty years was spared to the Church in India. To the members of this Society, the venerated Bishop of Calcutta was one of the few remaining links between this generation and our founders; the last survivor of the six earliest voluntary travelling advocates of the Society; and twice (in 1817 and in 1846) preached its Annual Sermon.

How clearly that masculine and vigorous intellect, enlightened by the Spirit's teaching, grasped the grand outlines of the Gospel in their simplicity, and knew "the things freely given to us of God;" how boldly and uncompromisingly he proclaimed them, dwelling throughout a lengthened ministry on the substantial virtues of the Gospel, to the rejection of curious questions, unprofitable speculations, and "vain janglings"—let every page of the writings which he has left as a legacy to the Church bear witness. A champion of this Society, when, amid prejudice and misconception, it was signally honoured with "the reproach of the cross"—his defence of it is classed with the ablest productions of a pen which has given us a faithful, lucid, and vigorous exposition of a New-Testament Epistle, a defence of Christian Evidences, and an invaluable and exhaustive series of argumentative and practical Sermons on the Lord's Day.

That Daniel Wilson, "baptized for the dead," the fifth Bishop of Calcutta in nine years, was to be preserved for so lengthened an episcopate, few of us who listened to his last sermon in the pulpit of the like-hearted and beloved Henry Blunt, in 1832, could have ventured to anticipate. That episcopate was a signal token of the Lord's favour to our Church in India, as we may best appreciate by supposing that, for a quarter of a century, a metropolitan of another spirit had filled the see of Calcutta.

And what he preached, consistently and untiringly at Worton, at Chobham, at St. John's, at Islington, and in India, that he lived on experimentally. The Gospel, the theme of his sermons, was the anchor of his soul. Christ, the riches of his preaching, was his own riches for eternity. The foundation of the work of grace had been laid deep, under the searching and self-abasing convictions of the Spirit, and he grasped the cross humbly but firmly. Thus at the close of his seventy-first year—"The infinite virtue of the Saviour's love is my hope. There I cast anchor, whatever others may have to plead, I have nothing but the atonement and the propitiation of the Eternal Son of God to rely on for one single moment."<sup>1</sup>

Let Bishops and Missionaries, Churches and Societies, recognise and understand the true wants of the heathen. The crisis at which it has fallen to my lot to occupy this pulpit has almost necessitated the comparative forgetfulness of our other Missions, by concentrating our minds and hearts on INDIA. But AFRICA, with the first-fruits of its Native Ministry—and now yet more endeared to us as the grave of the accomplished Vidal and the simple-hearted Weeks—still challenges a foremost place in our prayers; that the churches of Sierra Leone, gradually consolidating into parochial order, may be established in the faith of Christ; that the vigorous offshoot in Yoruba may fulfil our fondest hope; that a Crowther and a Livingstone may announce that the Niger and the Zambesi are henceforth highways for the pioneers and soldiers of the cross. NEW ZEALAND, in the peculiar perils of its transitory state, but with the Word of God in Maori, as the fruits of Mr. Maunsell's untiring labour—RUPERT'S LAND, with its apostolic Bishop—are no less in our hearts. CHINA, where the conflict between the Mantchoo Tartars and the Tae-ping revolutionists is yet undecided, but where insurgents among whom the Protestant version of the Word of God is in circulation, in a tongue read and understood by the people, already rule over a territory comprising not less than twenty-five millions, and where the issues of negotiations now pending between the Emperor and England, France, and America, may be big with results the most momentous, not to commerce only, but to Christianity—CHINA is a point of inexpressible interest in the Missionary horizon. But if these and other Mission-fields, where our work is but tentative, or carried on with, as yet, no striking results to cheer us—as in Palestine, Greece, Asia-Minor, Egypt, Ceylon, British Guiana, and among the Tamil Coolies in the Mauritius, whither, as to Madras, to Bombay, to Rupert's Land, and to West Africa, the great Head of the Church has directed the feet of a truly Missionary Bishop, sympathizing not with the work only, but with the principles of our Society—if these in some measure give place, at our present Anniversaries, to INDIA, it is not that we have forgotten the names of men and countries treasured in our Missionary sympathies and prayers.

But, at this juncture, INDIA stands out in all but engrossing prominence. And we record our profound conviction that the great want of India is CHRIST. In this sense is Christ "THE DESIRE" of India, as "of all nations." She wants railroads, enlightened government, our science, arts, and civilization. She wants schools and a vernacular literature; here and there another Bishop. But above all, India wants CHRIST. Give her all else—add to the riches which she possesses in her own material elements of agricultural and commercial wealth, all other elements of national growth and greatness—destroy her faith in the absurdities of Buddhism and Brahminism—sweep away the atrocities and the obscenities of her idolatrous systems—destroy caste—abolish every mosque—send forth from English Colleges and Schools a new generation versed in our glorious Anglo-Saxon literature—but you have left India poor, if you have not enriched her with the wisdom whose “price” is “above rubies,” “the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus,” the “Lord.” And India, enlightened, but infidel—educated, but Christless—will never be held by England; or, if held, held only by English bayonets.

Not the CHURCH only, but, in some measure, the NATION, has been aroused to a sense of the responsibility of a professedly Christian people as the rulers of such an empire. But a few months ago, a debate on India would scarcely have commanded forty members in our House of Commons. From Missionary pulpits and platforms the claims of India were urged almost in vain. Statistics, facts, principles, motives, fell dead upon the national conscience, and were but feebly responded to by the Church’s love. A Wylie stood among us, and in trumpet-tones of unsparing and unflattering faithfulness, told us that we were scarcely on the threshold of our work:—“It is undeniable that there are at present, and that there have been for many years, a greater number of persons in India, actually accessible to Christian Missions, than in any other country in the world; and, more than that, it may be added, that in no other possession of the British Crown can one-tenth as many persons be found, who being thus accessible, are, and have been, so long, and so greatly neglected.”<sup>1</sup>

In terrible array he presented to us, on his startling and humbling page, “All Rajputana, with seventeen millions of people, has no Missionaries; Oude, with three millions, has none; the Punjab, with nearly six millions, has only five; Nagpur, with five millions and a half, has two; the Nizam’s territory, with ten millions, has none; Sindh, with a million and a half, has one; Gwalior, with three millions, has none; Nepal, with two millions, has none.” (page 24.) And he set in columns before our eyes, districts and cities with their teeming thousands, hurrying Christless into eternity, and thrilled us as he closed the catalogue—“NOT ONE OF THESE CITIES HAS A SINGLE MISSIONARY.” (page 25.)

* “Bengal as a Field of Missions.” By M. Wylie, Esq., 1854.

"The total population of India is estimated at 180,000,000.

"The number of Missionaries of the Church of England is 161.

"The Church of England, therefore, at present, does not provide so much as one ordained Missionary for every million of the population.

"But if to the Missionaries of our own Church we add those of every Protestant communion, American as well as European, there still remains the humiliating proportion of

One Missionary to . . . . . 400,000.

"But the Missionaries are by no means evenly distributed over the country, and, consequently, there are large provinces, and many millions of people, far removed from any Christian Station.

"In the North-West Provinces (i. e. Delhi, Mirut, Agra, Rohilcund, Allahabad, and Benares)—the district which has been the focus of the recent rebellion—the density of the population reaches its highest point, viz. 420 to the square mile, a population of thirty millions and a quarter, being comprehended within an area of 72,054 square miles. Only forty-six Missionaries of all Protestant denominations are labouring amongst these masses, and only thirteen of this number belong to the Church Missionary Society."

Mr. Wylie stereotyped the language of the Calcutta Bible Society—"There have not been published three millions of Scriptures altogether, for all the millions of India, who since this century began have passed away to death and judgment, and for its living millions who are hastening to their eternal doom." (page 198.)

The tornado rose. The flash of a telegraph—our Indian Empire was convulsed to its centre.

At MIRUT ("Verily there is a God that judgeth the earth!") the storm burst in blood. And, in a few brief weeks, the eyes, not of England only, but of the civilized world, were centred on British India. Mirut—Cawnpur—Delhi—Lucknow—we gasped with sickening anxiety. And in the wondrous providence of Him who vindicates His own cause and honour, our hope, under Him, was in men whose names were foremost upon the subscription lists of Missionary Societies, and in whose hearts was the fear of God and the love of Christ—the chivalrous Lawrence, the heroic Havelock, the noble Edwardes. Yea, the humble Missionary of your own Society, the veteran Leupolt, was the channel of supply between a people who had learned to love and trust him, and English warriors beleaguered by their bloody foes.

The lesson must not be in vain. The giant mistake of English policy has been discovered. The press, with scarcely an exception, has echoed much of what the friends of Missions had been urging, and urging to little purpose—rather amid obloquy and hostility—for years.

And now our demands may be briefly stated; as indeed they have been temperately and wisely stated in the Memorial and form of Petition officially put forth by our Committee.

We deprecate with "Indophilus" "the introduction into India of a low type of spurious, state-manufactured Christianity."<sup>1</sup>

But we ask that a Christian nation, ruling over millions of Mohammedan and idolatrous subjects, should, in its own enactments and proceedings, distinctly avow its Christianity; and for itself, its recognition of the oracles of God's truth. That thus no second Ramohun Roy may affirm, "It is your Government which has prevented India from becoming a Christian country long ago;" nor another Jay Narain declare that, "Had the Christian religion been true, the Company Bahadur, which had, in other respects, benefited his country, would not have withheld from, at least, commending this religion to their notice." We ask that all connexion with the maintenance and practice of idolatrous worship shall, at any cost, be forthwith and finally abandoned. That Trusteeships for idolatrous temples, their revenues, their worship, their priests, their dancing girls, be so renounced as to involve no breach of faith or national honour; but so as to free us utterly from the pollution of the accursed thing. Nor must any future Maitland be called to choose between his duty as a soldier of England, and as a soldier of Christ. We ask for no interference with the rites of those false systems, so long as humanity and decency be not publicly outraged. For no State-propagandism; but for the same freedom for the diffusion of Christianity, by voluntary effort, as is enjoyed at home. For no coercion which shall violate the rights of conscience. For no bribe, direct or indirect, to make native hypocrites instead of native Christians. But we do ask that neither Sepoy nor civilian shall be endamaged in his wordly prospects by conversion to the faith of Christ. That the mournful story of the Mirut Naik, Prabhu Din, never be re-enacted.<sup>2</sup> We ask that native Christians be equally eligible with all others to Government employ and preferment. That in 1859 there be no repetition of the dismissal in 1849 of a native high-caste gentleman from a College in Calcutta, because of his

Christian baptism.<sup>1</sup> We ask, not that caste be forcibly abolished by legislative enactments, but that it be not recognised or indulged in the British service. We ask, that in schools where the Korán and the Shasters are taught, the Book of God be not only on the shelf, accessible as a book of reference, but taught, where no reluctance is expressed, no objection tendered. Or, if we be told that our Government, in its peculiar relation to such a country, will not venture on such a policy, then we say plainly, and we say earnestly—Let Government stand aloof from the education of India. Leave it to the Church of Christ. Better, far better, that you put not your hand to the work, than that you present to the natives this startling, this terrible anomaly—a Christian Government, standing forth as the educator of the idolatrous subjects of its empire, but shutting out from its teachings that Book which it professes to receive and reverence as the Book of God.

And we ask that you should no longer oppress and demoralize the opium-growing districts of your empire, for the maintenance of a traffic, of which, four of your most distinguished lawyers have declared formally, that, although it be “not an actual and direct infringement” of your treaty with China, it is “yet at variance with its spirit and intention, and with the conduct due to the Chinese Government, by that of Great Britain, as a friendly power, bound by a treaty which implies that all smuggling into China will be discountenanced by Great Britain.”<sup>2</sup>

For we would urge that our attempted neutrality has been a signal failure; and, could the Indian mutinies be traced to their sources, we believe that to this attempted, but unsuccessful neutrality, the outbreak is mainly to be assigned. For what have the natives seen? A problem and a puzzle, on which their suspicions and their fanaticism have fastened the worst interpretation. The profession of neutrality by their English rulers, concessions to their caste and their worst idolatries; too long and too often, underhand discouragement of Missionary efforts. But, concurrently with all this, the abolition, by Government, of practices inwrought into their very creeds and systems—barbarous and bloody in our eyes, but dear to them; the progress of civilization, the spread of education, and, as the necessary consequence, the undermining of their systems. The profession has been neutrality. Such has been the actual effect. And their inference has been this —the neutrality of the Feringhis is a mask. They are working under it, stealthily, but surely. They are bent on the subversion of our religion.

The policy pursued has been tortuous. It has not been the policy of Christian truth and manliness. It has been unintelligible, and it has failed. We have sown the wind, and we have reaped the whirlwind. The policy we advocate is that which loyalty to the God of truth demands. It is honest. It is intelligible. And it will be blessed.

And when the last spark of these mutinies shall have been trampled out; when the last Sepoy shall have fallen, and peace shall again reign throughout British India; though other incidents and other subjects will arise to divert the interests of the world, and the Peers and Commons of England must be discussing other questions which await them, but which, under the all-absorbing claims of India, have been held in abeyance; when other questions than India Bills shall be deciding the fate of Cabinets; then must not the Church of Christ turn with abated interest from the work of Indian evangelization. Rather, then must she recognise that her hour is fully come, and enter in at the open door, through which she is to urge her holy enterprise of enriching 180,000,000 with the unsearchable riches of Christ.

"I believe," writes the apostolic Bishop M'Ilvaine, privately, "God will make all this horrible up-rising of Satan's kingdom praise Him wonderfully. I look upon it as the strong indication how the powers of darkness are alarmed at the progress of light. England's dominion in the East and her standing in the earth, is, under God, the shield of Missionary work, the opener of its doors, and the protection of its labours, among the nations in darkness. Popery knows that, and therefore rejoiced at Rome, (as when the St. Bartholomew was heard) over the Sepoy massacres. It is a great scheme of Satan to destroy the influence of England. All Protestantism anchors and works behind that breakwater. God will not permit. The blood of His people recently poured out in India will be avenged. But how? On the kingdom of darkness, by the increase of the kingdom of light. I see the spirit of a greater, more bold and wide Missionary work rising in England, for her Indian colonies. And I have no doubt all that denial of Christ and sad bowing to the religions of Mohammed and Brahma will pass away from the policy of the Government. God grant it!"

We stand to-night on high and holy ground, higher than all questions of double Government, and of party strife. Our stand is beneath the cross. We survey the myriad millions of the heathen; not from a side in the House of Commons, but in the light shed upon their condition and destiny, from the pages of David and Isaiah, of Ezekiel, of Zechariah, of Malachi, and of John. Not the command only is in our ears, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature;" nor alone the glowing visions of prophecy; nor the promises given to the Church, as they point to "the fulness of the Gentiles," and the ingrafting of the Jew; but a yet more lofty utterance. There is vouchsafed to us a yet more thrilling revelation—the revelation of an eternal covenant between God and his Christ, "Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." Such is our rock. That our faith fail not, nor our hands hang down, in a work which shall be full of trial, and in which "the prince of this world" shall often seem to triumph, and the militant host of "JEHOVAH Nissi," to be beaten back, the very counsels of Deity are laid bare. And lo! this is the Church's work; not a chance work, nor an uncertain work, but to gather in a people covenanted, ere ever the earth and the world were made, to the eternal Son, as the reward of His cross, the satisfaction of "the travail of his soul." Limiting our gaze to our own stage of the mighty conflict, our own corner in the battle-field, we are discouraged if an Annual Report tells us not of signal successes; haply, of temporary defeats. Rise we to a more elevated point of vision. The conflict was not begun in our day. The seed of the woman and the seed of the serpent have been in strife, on this our earth, for six thousand years. We war in an army which is carrying on the work, from generation to generation, to sure victory. Romance, enthusiasm, fanaticism—these are reproaches we can afford to bear, as we stay ourselves, not upon prophecy or upon promises only, but upon the covenant of the eternal Father with the eternal Son.

Were it a contingency which no purpose of God controlled, no decree of God determined; were the issue between Christ and Satan—the Gospel we would preach and the idols we would abolish—uncertain, the Church might well risk her treasure, her energies, and her sons, on the mere probability of enriching millions with "the true riches." But the issue is sure as the unchanging purpose of the irrevocable covenant of the Most High. Ere now the armies of darkness have sung their brief pæans of victory, in the short-sighted and mistaken exultation of a temporary triumph. But the final and the eternal pæan is with the armies of Immanuel, the Church of the living God. Hell shall never know the joy of a defeated Christ.

And—ennobling, soul-inspiring, thought!—it is with Christ that we are this night identified. With Christ are we gathering. Yes, though in the details of the work, in Committee-rooms and on platforms, and in the management of our Missionary machinery, the grandeur of the Missionary principles, and the unction of the Missionary spirit, are too often, in measure, lost, thus it is with us, of a truth. The mightiest projects of man's enterprise, in which the daring experiments of a marvellous science and the vast resources of a country's capital and the bold venture of a speculative age are in combination—what are these beside the grandeur of the Missionary cause? Fellow-workers with Christ, to gather in His covenanted reward—the “glorious Church” of His redemption and of His matchless love!—“Thine are we, David, and on thy side, thou Son of Jesse: peace, peace be unto thee, and peace be to thine helpers; for thy God helpeth thee.”<sup>1</sup>

An opportunity is this night presented to us of giving a fresh impulse to the Missionary liberality of our Church and country. On an ordinary occasion, the example set by many of my predecessors might have been followed, and a passing word only have been given to the collection to be made. For it is not to be forgotten that the preacher at this Anniversary addresses, for the most part, those whose money-offerings are more influentially bestowed in connexion with their own local Associations. But, at such a crisis, when our Society is called, not only to repair heavy losses in India, but to enter upon a permanently enlarged, and therefore costly, system of Missionary effort throughout that empire, what may be the effect throughout our Associations and our Church, if it shall go forth that to-night, and here, the treasury of God bore witness to the intensity with which the friends of Missions felt the urgency of the crisis? That Christian bounty became yet more bounteous—self-denial more self-denying, and that a standard was reached which should urge the friends of Missions in our every Association and Auxiliary to a holy emulation!

Shall to-night and to-morrow be only as this night and that day have been in years gone by? Is the call no louder? the need not more urgent? We live in a day in which the Church of Christ, and too many of her ministers, have come down from the lofty ground of pure Christian principle and motive in the matter of giving. Our very charity is mixed with dross—the dross of self-indulgence and carnal excitement. We build hospitals for Christ's sick and for Christ's poor; schools for Christ's lambs; Churches for Christ's worship; we succour Christ's ministers, in their poverty, by the degrading expedients of bazaars and fancy fairs and musical festivals. The purse-strings are loosened by the miserable quid pro quo of so much pleasure for so much money. Our giving is spasmodic; rarely systematic and proportionate. Oh, Sirs, we could weep to see charity thus tricked out in the meretricious array of worldly fashion, in place of her holy and heavenly and Christ-like garb; to see a cause solemn as the heaven and hell of a coming eternity and the destinies of undying souls, sacred as the tears and groans and sweat and blood of Jesus, degraded and defiled by such conformity to the fashion of a pleasure-maddened world. Ye sons of God, ye servants of Christ—not of this world, but chosen out of the world—ye who have renounced “the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life”—let the gold and silver be consecrated at the cross's foot, in prayer, in faith, in love—Jesus in the eye, Jesus in the heart—to Him whose own they are!

And if we deem that much is given, let our boastings be silenced by the remembrance how much is withheld. Alas! how many among us are more careful to live up to our station in the world, than to our station in the Church of Christ! For not alone in the mansions of the unprofessing worldly, are a luxury, a display and a lavishness to be found, which have drawn forth the well-deserved censure and sarcasms of our press, but the cankerworm is eating out the vitals even of the Church's self-denial and liberality. Those ceiled mansions with their gorgeous trappings, their sumptuous dress, and their luxurious viands—are these the simplicity of the disciples of the Cross, of men and women who call the lowly Nazarene their Lord? Rather do they not approximate too closely to the Dives whom that Lord portrayed for His Church's warning? The trumpet-tone of Gospel rebuke is needed in our day. The families of Christian ministers are infected by this evil. When our very newspapers preach, and often well and wisely and strongly, shall God's ministers hold their peace, and imagine that pointless platitudes are all that such an age demands. If we would draw forth Macedonian liberality, we must urge Macedonian motives—“And this they did, not as we hoped, but first gave their own selves to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God.”

To-night, surely, we are called on for a THANK-OFFERING. While we express our affectionate sympathy with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and other Missionary Societies which have been called to mourn the loss of precious lives, we would express also our thankfulness to Him who has shielded our Missionaries from a bloody death. A mercy the more signal, inasmuch as we have had more extensive Missionary agencies in the districts which have been the scenes of these heart-sickening atrocities, than any other body.

And—as was urged from this pulpit, in the hearing of many of us, by the sainted Daniel Wilson, a TRESPASS-OFFERING is called for. “For they have not served Thee in their kingdom, and in Thy great goodness that Thou gavest them, and in the large and fat land which Thou gavest before them.”<sup>1</sup>

Our troops with bullet, bayonet, and sabre, are hurrying men into eternity—we are blowing Sepoys from our guns from whom we have literally kept the Gospel. They have been treacherous, cruel, monstrous. But is “THAT WELL” as it was significantly termed by one at Cawnpur, who had looked down into its sickening horrors, a witness only against Mohammedan fanaticism and Hindú cruelty? Witnesses it not also that the shedders of the blood of English matrons and maids and children had been untaught and unchristianized by their English conquerors and lords?

If then, through the poverty of Him who “was rich,” but for our sakes, “became poor,” we have been made rich with “the true riches;” if we have found Christ the hidden treasure; shall we not count it a light thing to give up our earthly riches for His cause and glory?

And when the peculiar character of this gathering and this occasion is borne in mind, who amongst you, Brethren, will not forgive the preacher if, to the utmost limits of what becomes a brother among brethren, he seeks to stir up his own heart and the hearts of all to a more solemn remembrance of our responsibilities and our opportunities, in this sacred cause? We who are in the ministry have but little of gold or silver to pour in. But how many centres of holy influence for God are here to night! By determining henceforth that the Mission cause shall be heard from our pulpits, not once a year, from the lips of a deputation only, but that it shall be inwrought into the very staple of our ministry, as it is inwrought into the songs of David, the predictions of prophets, the teaching of Christ, the epistles of apostles, the visions of John; by undertaking local Secretaryships; by circulating the truly valuable publications of the Society; by showing hospitality to those who come among us to plead its claims; by cheerfully taking our place on its platforms; by sounding the Missionary call to young men in our flocks; by sowing the seeds of Missionary interest in the hearts of the little ones; we may each and all do something. To be but a hewer of wood and a drawer of water in such a cause is an honourable employ.

Many of us can do much. For those who have been privileged to go hither and thither, as advocates of this or of other Religious Institutions, must often have been impressed with the influence which may be exercised by one zealous, business-like, friend; gathering together in a district, a county, or a town, the elements of sympathy and strength which must otherwise have been lost. Such a man may give but little from his own scanty purse; but he may secure hundreds to the Missionary treasury, and keep the holy flame burning throughout a wide circle.

For lack of such friends, combining with love and zeal, vigilance and untiring diligence, business-like and methodical habits, many a field is lying fallow which might be bearing a plenteous harvest. Let each man plant himself in thought, at this moment, in his own sphere, whether prominent or secluded, extensive or limited—let each, as he returns to his home and parish from our May-gatherings, remember the responsibilities of that unprized and oft-neglected talent, influence, and carry to that home and parish the inquiry and the prayer, “Lord, what wilt Thou have ME to do?”

And though we may be summoned from the ranks, and leave the battle unwon—India in her heathenism—China unevangelized—Africa benighted—the Crescent yet on high—Babylon unfallen—Zion in heaps—Israel not gathered—yet shall not they who come after us, and “are alive at His coming,” “without us” “be made perfect.” Our jubilant voices will be needed for the advent-chorus; our radiant bodies for the advent-train. Generations, centuries, dispensations, time and space, have separated the saints in their stewardship, and their enjoyments of the “unsearchable riches” of His grace. They must be GATHERED TOGETHER UNTO HIM for the enjoyment of the “unsearchable riches” of His glory.

REPORT,

&c. &c.

THE Committee have again to praise God for a very large increase of Income. The receipts from ordinary sources, during the last financial year, exhibit an advance upon all former years, independently of a large donation of 10,000*l.* which was announced at the last Annual Meeting, but which falls into the account of the year just closed. Including this donation, the receipts are as follows—

INCOME.

| GENERAL FUND—Associations, Benefactions, Legacies, &c..... | £        | s. | d. |
|------------------------------------------------------------|----------|----|----|
| Fund for Disabled Missionaries, &c.....                    | 128,865  | 3  | 4  |

| Total received in the United Kingdom..                     | £155,484 | 15 | 3  |

In addition to the income thus received in the United Kingdom, large sums are raised in the Missions, especially in India, which are expended upon the operations of the Society, by local Committees. Owing to the unsettled state of India, full accounts of such local funds have not yet been received, but they are estimated to amount to at least 9000*l.*

If, as in former years, the sums received and expended in the Missions be added to the income of the Society, the grand total will be 164,484*l.* 15*s.* 3*d.*

The Special Fund for India was opened at the close of 1857, in consequence of the solemn conviction resting on the minds of all Christians that the Lord, by the late calamities in India, has called the Christian Church to renewed exertions for its evangelization; and that He will in His good providence give enlarged facilities for that work. The fund will therefore be applied to the strengthening and enlarging of the Indian Missions of the Society.

A Special Meeting of the Society was held Jan. 12, 1858, before which a statement was laid of the behaviour of native Christians during the crisis, and of the intentions of the Committee in respect of the employment of the Special Fund, which will be found in the Appendix.*

The current expenditure of the Society has kept pace with its current income, as will appear from the following statement—

ISLINGTON INSTITUTION.

The Committee are about to be deprived of the valuable labours of the Principal of the Institution by his presentation to the Rectory of Holbrook, Suffolk. A resolution, which was passed by the Committee, Feb. 8, 1858, on the announcement of this change, records their estimate of the Rev. C. F. Childe's past services to the cause of the Society—

That this Committee receive with regret Mr. Childe's resignation of the Principalship of the Islington Institution, which he has held for nineteen years with great advantage to the cause of Christ and to this Society; and they deem it only an act of justice to record his unwearied zeal and self sacrificing diligence in the important work of Missionary education and training, and especially his maintenance of those spiritual principles in the whole system and tone of the Institution, to which the Committee look as the only foundation of the future Missionary success of the pupils. While the Committee regret their loss of such services, they feel assured that in the new post of duty to which Mr. Childe has been called, the cause of the Society will still have his sympathy and zealous assistance.

The number of students resident in the Institution for a longer or shorter period, during the past year, has been 35:

* V.de Appendix, I. II.

the average number in residence, 22. Seven students have left the Institution, either for their respective stations, or preparatory to sailing.

The report of the Principal contains the following remarks—

The past year, though not marked by any striking feature or any prominent event, has been one of average prosperity. The prescribed studies have been pursued with diligence and with creditable success, and the discipline has been maintained in all its integrity without an effort.

It is gratifying to report that there has been an increase in the number of students. The tide of supply, which had begun to flow anew at the date of the last Anniversary, has continued to advance during the past year. The effect has been at once cheering and beneficial. The new comers have not merely been welcome as a reinforcement, but have already given indications of unusual Missionary promise.

It will, perhaps, not be deemed out of place, if, in presenting his last annual report, the Principal should add a very few remarks of a more general character.

He will not attempt any expression of the varied feelings with which he retires from the scene of such responsible yet happy labours. It will be readily understood that he never before so fully realized the importance of the post which, for more than nineteen years, he has been permitted to occupy, or his own native insufficiency to discharge its duties.

If, therefore, he ventures to express a hope, that, during a period of unusual trial to the church of Christ, the Institution has in some measure answered the design of its founders, it is because he feels, that whilst the undivided glory of such a result should be referred to God, some acknowledgment is due to those beloved brethren who have been associated with him in the work. Next to the generous confidence reposed in him by the Committee, nothing has so tended to sustain him in difficulty or anxiety as the kind and willing assistance rendered by his colleagues.

To the senior Tutor more especially, who, for nearly seventeen years, has shared his counsels and labours, his anxieties and his hopes, he feels that he cannot bear too emphatic or too cordial a testimony.

As regards the Institution itself there is one feature on which the Principal can speak with entire confidence. It is his conviction, confirmed by repeated testimonies from those now in the field of foreign service, that it would not be easy to devise a more practical system of training for Mission work than is supplied by those varied forms of Home-Mission labour in which the students are continually exercised.

The stated visitations of the poor—tract distribution of a special character—teaching in Sunday-schools, night ragged-schools, and adult schools—cottage lectures—schoolroom services—open-air preaching—controversial discussions with Romanists, Mormonites, and infidels—go far to secure a measure of professional aptitude which is rarely acquired by the majority of clergymen until after some years' experience in the ministry. There is undoubtedly still room for great improvement, most especially in those points which are of all others most essentially important.

THE MISSIONARIES' CHILDREN'S HOME.

The number of children in the Home at the close of the year was seventy-four, comprising forty boys and thirty-four girls. The Director makes this statement in his annual report:—

Referring to the cases of at least twenty of the children who have left the Home during the last two years, the Director has the great satisfaction of reporting, that in every single case he has reason to believe that they are walking consistently, and filling their several stations in life as the children of Missionaries should do.

The Director also reported that the children on both sides of the Home underwent an examination before the Midsummer vacation 1857, and that the Clerical Examiners' report was most satisfactory; and that there is at the present moment a remarkably healthy moral and religious tone throughout both sides of the Home.

PATRONAGE.

During the year the Bishops of Norwich and Sierra Leone and the Bishop Designate of Calcutta have accepted the office of Vice-Presidents. The following names have been added to the list of Honorary Life-Governors, having rendered very essential services to the Society—The Rev. Daniel Wilson, Vicar of Islington; the Rev. Cornwall Smalley, Minister of Bayswater Episcopal Chapel; and the Rev. Charles F. Childe, Principal of the Islington Institution.

DECEASE OF MISSIONARIES.

The Lord of the harvest has been pleased to remove from their labours the following Missionaries—

West-Africa Mission—The Rev. William Young died at Brixton on the 7th of April; and Mr. W. Gittens, Catechist at Magbeli, in January.

Yoruba Mission—Mr. William Green died at Abbeokuta, of fever, in February, after six days' illness.

China Mission—The Rev. Francis M'Caw died at Fuh-chau on the 30th of August, of fever. The Rev. William Welton died in London on the 3d of March, after a very short illness.

RETURN HOME OF MISSIONARIES.

West-Africa Mission—The Rev. W. Young, in consequence of failure of health, and Mrs. Frey, widow of the late Rev. C. T. Frey, left Sierra Leone in May 1857, and on the 12th of June the steamer was wrecked off Teneriffe, but the lives of all on board were mercifully preserved. Mr. Young and Mrs. Frey arrived at Plymouth on the 8th of July. The Rev. J. S. Wiltshire arrived in London from Sierra Leone on the 13th of May; and, on the 24th of October, left Plymouth, with Mrs. Wiltshire, on his return to the Mission, and arrived there on the 10th of November.

Yoruba Mission—The Rev. A. Mann arrived in London from Abbeokuta on the 13th of May 1857; and left Plymouth, with Mrs. Mann, on his return to the Mission, on the 24th of January and arrived at Lagos on Feb. 20th. Mr. W. Kirkham left Lagos in October last, on account of ill health, and arrived at Plymouth on the 11th of November.

Bombay and Western-India Mission—The Rev. G. Candy and Mrs. Candy, with Mrs. Price and children, arrived at Southampton from Bombay on the 7th of October, on account of ill health.

Calcutta and North-India Mission—The Rev. E. C. Stuart and Mrs. Stuart left Calcutta in January 1857, on account of Mrs. Stuart's health, and arrived on the 14th of May. Mr. Stuart left England on the 4th of October, on his return to India, and arrived at Calcutta on the 12th of November. Mr. and Mrs. Batstone and Miss Bomwetsch left Calcutta in January 1857, and arrived in London on the 18th of May. The Rev. C. Reuther and Mrs. Reuther left Calcutta on the 6th of August, and arrived in London on the 12th of December. The Rev. J. Fuchs and Mrs. Fuchs left Calcutta on the 1st of December, and the Rev. C. H. and Mrs. Krückeberg on the 24th of that month, on account of ill health. Mr. and Mrs. Fuchs arrived in London on the 31st of March, and Mr. and Mrs. Krückeberg on the 5th of April.

Appointment of a New Bishop, and changes in the Mission.

IN the last Report the Committee had to deplore the removal by death of the excellent Bishop Weeks. That loss has been repaired, in the good providence of God, by the appointment of the Rev. John Bowen, D.D., as his successor. Dr. Bowen for several years acted as an honorary Missionary of the Society in Syria and Palestine. His acquisition of the vernacular use of the Arabic language, will be of use in his intercourse with the Mohammedan tribes of Africa; while the experience which he has gathered in various countries in which he has resided, has qualified him for rendering great service to Africa, especially in directing the rising energies of her sons to the social elevation of their country. The many openings into the interior of that vast continent now present inviting prospects of commercial enterprise and of scientific discovery to the nations of Europe.

The European force in the Mission has been weakened by the death of the very devoted Missionary the Rev. C. T. Frey, who visited Abbeokuta with the late Bishop Weeks, and returned in weakened health; and by the return of the Rev. William Young, after twenty-seven years of labour in the Sierra Leone Mission.* The Committee have been enabled to strengthen the Mission by the addition of the Rev. G. R. Caiger, Samuel Black, Esq., Messrs. Hamilton and Nicholson, catechists, and Messrs. Knödler and Bockstatt, schoolmasters.

I.—PASTORAL WORK WITHIN THE COLONY.

General account of the Native Church.

The pastoral work within the colony has been chiefly carried on by the ten native pastors, who now occupy the posts which were once held by European Missionaries. Only two Europeans now superintend native congregations. In the journals of the native pastors we find notices of the visitation of sick and dying Christians, of Missionary meetings and collections, of subscriptions for enlarging churches and purchasing harmoniums, of building schoolrooms, and suchlike familiar topics of home parochial ministrations. The instruction and baptism of the heathen and Mohammedans no longer occupies a prominent place, because those classes form a small minority of the population. The Rev. George Nicol, native pastor at Kissey, thus describes the change which has taken place—

One encouraging feature observable in our work at the present day I must mention with gratitude, and that is, the hearty co-operation of our people in all the plans of usefulness proposed by their native pastors—the respect, estimation, and confidence reposed in them.

* Mr. Young died a few months after his return to England (Vide p. 30).

In many instances they prefer their teaching. This, we freely admit, is undoubtedly the blessed fruits of the labours of the old Missionaries. Whatever facility we meet with in our work now, the state of things is brought about, by the blessing of God, through their instrumentality.

Fourteen years ago no native could have managed any of the villages singly. Who can forget the troubles the Missionaries had in former times at Regent, Bathurst, Kiskey, and other places? It required then the combined energy and wisdom of the Missionaries and resident managers to govern the people; so much so, that the superintending of two or three villages by one Missionary, without the assistance of European catechists, was an anomaly: now the anomaly is to settle down a European Missionary in one single village. The Lord truly has done great things for us.

The following extracts from the letters of newly-arrived Christian friends, will present their first impressions upon witnessing the spiritual state of the colony. Bishop Bowen writes, Jan. 18, 1858 —

As to the general state of this singular colony, I can, as yet, say but little; but there is abundant cause to thank God and take courage, when we consider what the people were, and what they are. The efforts of Christian philanthropists, so far as Sierra Leone is concerned, have not failed, but have signally succeeded. They have done all they could have wished. They have not made Englishmen of a whole heterogeneous population of African savages; but these have become orderly and peaceable subjects, and are advancing rapidly in civilization, and are not deficient in industry, as many would persuade us. A young man, in the dress of a British officer (he is surveyor to the Colonial and Military Hospitals), said to me the other day, "Look at me: I am the son of a liberated African." It was characteristic.

The celebrated African traveller, Dr. Livingstone, lately visited Sierra Leone upon his return to South Africa, and in a letter to Sir R. Murchison, dated March 30, 1858, published in the Newspapers, he thus describes the colony—

We were here on Sunday last, and saw an Ordination Service by the Bishop, an energetic good man. He was a Missionary formerly, and a better man for a Bishop could not have been selected. The Sunday is wonderfully well observed, as well, I think, as anywhere in Scotland. Looking at the change effected among the people, and comparing the masses here with what we find at parts along the coast where the benign influences of Christianity have had no effect, "the man" even "who has no nonsense about him" would be obliged to confess that England has done some good by her philanthropy—aye, and an amount of good that will look grand in the eyes of posterity.

The Rev. G. R. Caiger, in a letter dated Nov. 17th, soon after his arrival, writes—

I think I shall not soon forget my first Sunday in Sierra Leone. I had the service at Christ Church, Pademba Road, offered me; and I am sure our congregations in England might learn much from their attention and devoutness of spirit. The quiet calm, too, of the Sabbath presents a delightful contrast to the constant hum of busy traders which is heard throughout the week. A hearty welcome awaited us on our arrival here. It would of course be presumption in me to say any thing respecting the state of the Mission; but I felt I could hardly restrain my first impressions of this our new home, praying that our future labours amongst the people may receive an abundant blessing from the Lord.

Mr. James Hamilton thus contrasts the state of Freetown with that of the Portuguese colonies, which he visited on his way to Africa—

At Madeira and Teneriffe the poverty amongst the people seemed great, and it was few who seemed happy. The superstitious rites and ceremonies of the Romish church brought no peace of mind to its deluded followers. The scenes in the streets of the latter place were disgusting, considering they are in a measure an enlightened people. The contrast was so great which presented itself at Freetown: the inhabitants all alive in their various businesses, and seemingly happy in their avocations.

Reports of Native Pastors.

A few brief extracts from the journals of the native pastors will show that the spiritual blessings which formerly rested upon the labours of the European Missionaries are still continued to their native successors. The Rev. G. Nicol reports of the state of Kiskey—

The population of Kiskey is 2500. Communicants number 580, distributed into two large classes, the males meeting on Tuesday, and the females on Friday evenings. The number of candidates for baptism is 144, meeting on the mornings of the above-mentioned days. Besides these, we have an interesting class of inquirers, composed of young persons under preparation for confirmation, meeting on Monday evening. The female portion of this class attend, besides, Mrs. Nicol's Bible class on Sunday afternoon.

The conduct of the people in the church is orderly. But we would like to see seriousness and earnestness more generally diffused in our congregation: we want a higher tone of piety in ourselves and our people. I can never forget their surprise when told of the fact that there are Christians in England and Germany who can spend two hours or more daily in private prayer, and that there are a few friends in England who are naming me before a throne of grace. Such is the natural aversion of man to direct spiritual converse, that we would rather labour night and day, visit from house to house, build houses and churches, than spend one hour in daily prayer.

The Rev. Josiah Thomas, the native pastor of Hastings, writes in his annual letter—

During the past twelve months my care over my little flock has been intense. My chief aim and design has been to encourage them to steadfastness to their profession and to persevering faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. While I kept this object in view, it seems as if the great adversary, who is always busy, was ever on the watch to worry the flock. His wicked attempts have been prevented many times by the Divine resistance of an Almighty Saviour, who is always present with us. In my review of the past year I find I have missed thirty persons of the past year's number, Grafton, the out-station, included. They are as follow—Five have been removed by death, two have removed to another village, sixteen have been excluded for careless non-attendance, including six from the out-station, and seven have been suspended for a breach of the seventh commandment. On the other hand, I have received, in addition to the past year's number, ninety-eight individuals, including eleven from the out-station. Hence I am encouraged to think in this review that the Lord Himself is working among us. The statistics for this station I trust will give you some better idea of the state of the work here. I have attended to my congregation regularly every Sunday morning and evening, and on Thursday evenings. Whenever I go to attend the people at the out-station, or in case of illness, the schoolmaster, Mr. John Merriman, reads the prayers, and if on Sunday, then he reads a Homily, or any other Sermon, instead of making one of his own. The weekly instructions of the adults have been never omitted, unless in the two cases of the deaths of the late Bishop Weeks and of the Rev. C. T. Frey, which circumstances required my absence from the station. I have often visited the sick, and also some heathen, to speak to them about their souls and the Saviour.

The following is an extract from the journal of Mr. Thomas—

January 7, 1857—This day a woman of some consequence, of the Ibo tribe, and of a pious character, came purposely to express her desire to me. She thus commenced—"Sir, I thank God for the mercies which I have received from His hand. I did not cherish the hope of seeing this year. The Lord has mercifully delivered me from the grave. More so, as regards what you said yesterday, of a way about to be opened for the penetration of the light of the Gospel into the Ibo country, my motherland. I earnestly pray that the Lord may bring this to effect, as He has done for the Aku nation. I thank the Church Missionary Society for their love for mankind.

I hope the Lord may help them in all that they do." She then produced 11., all in half-crowns. "I wish you to send this to the Society, to help this good cause of extending the Gospel to my country-people. This I give freely from my heart: the same I give as a thank-offering to God for what He has done for me." She moreover begged me never to mention her name to anybody. I was greatly astonished at her.

Mr. S. Belford, native catechist at Aberdeen, writes in his journal—

July 24—Went to see Williams, whose time was fast declining. Never did I see such a dying scene as this. He was inwardly very happy, as he said that Christ is his WATCHMAN. I found him unable to speak much this morning, and I spoke to him about the precious Saviour. Afterwards he said, "My pain is rather too heavy on me, but Christ will enable me to bear it." In the evening he asked his wife for a glass of wine, and, when brought, he said to all the bystanders, "This wine represents my last sacrament. My time is now approaching. About ten or eleven o'clock at night my Saviour will call me home to receive my full reward, and there is all hope for me." To one of his class-members he said, "Brother, be not weary in well-doing: go on to fulfil the work of the Lord: endeavour as much as you can to do good always." To the neighbours he said, "Tell all the inhabitants of Aberdeen to hold fast and pray fervently: tell them no more to be careless and indifferent, but to hold fast, serving the Lord." To his wife he said, "I do not die, but live in Christ. If you only apply to Him, and keep closely by Him, you will ere long come to that place to part no more." From this he spoke no more.

II.—EDUCATION.

The schools of elementary instruction throughout the colony are wholly supported by the congregations and by the fees of the children. The superintendence is maintained by the native pastors and by native Committees. The Society retains only the management of the institutions for giving a superior education, and the schools of liberated slave children.

The Rev. E. Jones, assisted by the Rev. C. Reichardt, continues in charge of the Fourah-Bay Institution, of which he reports favourably. The number of pupils at the close of the year was ten. Of the first class of four students, Mr. Jones writes—"They have all read the Greek Testament twice over, with frequent repetitions of the Epistles to the Romans and Hebrews, five books of 'Xenophon's Anabasis,' with the whole of 'Horne's Compendium,' and 'Nichols' Bible Help.' They have also read in English History to the end of the reign of Queen Anne. They have acted as Christian visitors in the little town adjoining us." Mr. Reichardt also reports favourably of their Hebrew and Arabic studies.

The Grammar School has been under the superintendence of the Rev. J. Millward, who meets with encouragement in his work. The number of pupils in the latest returns was sixty.

The Female Institution has been under the charge of Miss Sass. Amidst many cares weighing heavily upon her, and deprived of the assistance of Miss Wilkinson, whom failing health has driven from her post, Miss Sass has laboured on, undaunted by the difficulties which encompass her, and looking off from the present to the future, full of faith and hope. "I trust," she writes (October 19, 1857), "to see this institution flourishing and waxing great, with many branches shooting out on all sides, and a place also to which many a Christian mother and daughter may point, and say spiritually, 'I was born there!'" The number in the institution, according to our last information, was twenty-nine.

III.—EXTENSION OF MISSIONARY EFFORT BEYOND THE COLONY.

Timneh Mission, Magbeli.

During the first quarter of the year 1857, the native Missionary, the Rev. J. G. Wiltshire had charge of this Mission. He then left it on a visit to England and the West Indies. At the close of the year he returned to Africa, accompanied by a schoolmaster and a mechanic of African descent. During Mr. Wiltshire's absence the Mission was under the charge of a native catechist, Mr. J. H. Davies.

The Governor of Sierra Leone, Lieutenant-Colonel Hill, visited the Timneh country in the early part of the year under review. Mr. Wiltshire thus describes his visit to Magbeli—

March 4—The Governor met the kings, chiefs, and other headmen in the Bareh, and read the treaty to them, which they signed. The Governor spoke favourably of our Society, and thanked the chief of Magbeli for his attention to the teaching of the Missionary, and for his kindness to the agent of the Society. He also endeavoured to impress upon them the necessity of education, and advised them to send their children to school.

The late Rev. W. Young visited the Timneh Mission in the early part of the year. He thus notices it in a letter dated March 30, 1857—

I visited Magbeli on the 13th ult., where I remained five days with brother Wiltshire. I was very much gratified by the decided improvement of the state of things in the Mission. I only regret that I was not able to assist Mr. Wiltshire in the Sunday duties, as the long journey in an open canoe made me sick. I only instructed his class of candidates for baptism.

Mr. Wiltshire has acquired a sufficient knowledge of the Timneh to converse with the people. For the first time, I heard the school-children read Timneh, and translate into English. The school is opened and closed with prayer and singing in Timneh. Mr. Wiltshire has translated nearly the whole of our Church Liturgy into that language, the collects, prayer for the Queen, &c. The prayer for the High Court of Parliament is altered to suit the Timnehs. Mr. Wiltshire preaches in Timneh. Ba Saba, the King or governor of the town of Magbeli, is very favourable to the Society: he goes to church every Sunday, attended by his pacupples (chief councillors). He has commanded all drumming and dancing to cease in the town, and he himself has abolished palavers on Sunday, and threatens to punish the Sierra-Leone people for trading on the Lord's-day. The King is a pure Timneh by descent of both parents; so is the new King of Port Lokko, also Bey Simrah, the King of the province in which Magbeli is. They are pagans. The King of Magbeli is now building a church, of country material, on the Church Missionary Society's premises, having pulled down the old one, which was too small for the congregation. The estimate for the new church is 45*l*. The King has got about 20*l*. in subscriptions from His Excellency the Governor of Sierra Leone, and from other friends favourable to the King's object, as well as from the Sierra-Leone traders. The King said he wished the Missionaries to come to this country to teach his people, and when the new church is finished he will make a law that the people shall go to hear the word of God.

The chief of Rokon and the chief of Ro-Benting have invited us to begin the good work of the Lord in their towns. They have already set apart some land for the Society, and cleared it of brushwood. Surely these are signs the Lord has opened the door. The Society will do well to enter in, and to strengthen the Timneh Mission.

While in the West Indies, Mr. Wiltshire was enabled to excite no little interest in behalf of Africa in the hearts of her children there located. "The ladies of African descent," he writes, July 31, "have come forward to aid my wife in her Mission. They had a meeting on the 24th, the proceeds of which they handed over to us for the Timneh Mission. They have also formed a Committee in aid of the Timneh Mission, and intend sending contributions from time to time for our Mission. Several gentlemen of African descent have followed the example thus set them by the ladies, and have also formed a similar Committee."

Linguistic labours, and the supply of Christian Teachers for the Niger and Yoruba Missions.

Mr. Reichardt has pursued his study of the Fula language and has collected several native MSS.

The Sierra-Leone Mission has supplied several valuable native teachers for the Yoruba Mission; and as soon as it was determined to commence a Niger Mission, the native pastor, the Rev. J. C. Taylor, a native of the Ibo tribes on the banks of that river, volunteered to become a Missionary to his fatherland, and joined the Rev. S. Crowther in that noble Christian enterprise. Several other native teachers have since joined the same party. The following letter of Mr. Taylor will be read with interest, as an instance of the Missionary zeal which glows in the breasts of many of the native Christians in the parent African Church in Sierra Leone.

It is with the greatest pleasure I now take my pen to address another letter to the Parent Committee of our beloved Society, on the subject of the coming Niger expedition, the undertaking of which fills my mind with delight, for I have long ago been anxiously looking forward to the time when this would be effected.

Difficulties and discouragements have been, till of late, repeatedly presenting themselves, so as to render it impossible for the gospel to extend into the interior of Africa.

The attempts made at different times for the accomplishment of this desirable object have met with little success, and therefore we have been induced to look for that time to a still more distant period.

Many persons of the Ibo tribe have been led by these considerations to infer that British Christians would no more think of doing any good, both in civilizing and Christianizing the interior of Africa; that the many valuable lives lost in the attempt previously made will tend to damp the spirits of English philanthropists, and relax the endeavours of many Christians in coming forward with their means for the benefit of perishing souls in that part of this vast continent. But the ways of Providence are indeed mysterious. He has brought it about, and that in a remarkable manner, when all hopes seemed to fail, and has put it also into the hearts of the Committee of the Society to avail themselves of such an opening to further the Gospel of Christ in that dark region. We trust that God's time is now come for enlightening the interior of Africa, which, until now, is lying in ignorance, heathenism, and superstition.

I greatly rejoice at such a wonderful opening, and I trust that soon the Committee will, as in the Yoruba country, be delighted with the good report of the Gospel working mightily among the Ibos, and also have abundant cause to thank God on their behalf that this has been effected by their means.

I am a descendant of the Ibo tribe, as also my wife, who is more fluent in the language than myself, and therefore I readily and willingly offer my services, should the Committee be pleased to approve of it, for that Mission, which I sincerely hope will soon be established. It has been my desire long ago to become a Missionary to my fatherland, and my earnest prayer, since our Mission to the Niger in the year 1853, that I may be used as an instrument for the benefit of the souls of my countrymen. The more I consider that many of my own relatives are there perishing for lack of the gospel truth, the more my heart burns within, and I believe I can readily say, "Here am I, send me." I desire to declare to my heathen brethren God's love towards a sinful world, if by any means some might be brought to acknowledge the truth as it is in Jesus. Europeans have left their homes to make known this truth to us, and why should we be reluctant in showing the light, by which we have been enlightened, to our own brethren and kinsmen?

We do not speak of accomplishing great things, for we must expect difficulties; but the work is the Lord's, who has graciously promised, "My word shall not return unto me void;" therefore we believe that in the Ibo country also, as in other parts, the Lord has "much people." I therefore wait with patience for the time it shall please Him and the Committee to appoint me also my labours in that field, which appears to be white already to harvest.

The Rev. J. Thomas, another native minister, expressed a similar desire in the following terms—

"I desire to labour in the Ibo country, the country of my father and my mother, who are both living this very day. When a circular from our Secretary of this Mission, dated March 6, 1857, came to my hand, which circular contained the good wish of our Parent Society to send three natives to accompany the Niger expedition in May, the same year I was one of three to offer myself. On another occasion, when our half-yearly meeting took place at Fourah Bay, in May 6, 1857, I again, when asked publicly, yielded myself to accompany the expedition. But because no one could be found to succeed me in this Station, therefore I was baffled in my wish. However I patiently acquiesced in this disappointment, till it should please our Heavenly Father to make a way for me. Should it please Him, by your Committee, to appoint me a labourer in that field which is now opened for Missionary enterprise, I will gladly and cheerfully welcome the offer. I trust that He, by whose guidance I have been enabled to do His work here, will still impart strength, and will enable me to do more in honour of His Name among my heathen countrymen. Thus far I submit my wish to you, and to the beloved Society.

Revival of the Slave-trade.

In the midst of these encouraging prospects, one fearful drawback has lately sprung up. Upon the breaking out of the Russian war many of the vessels of the African squadron were taken off that station. This relaxation of the "marine police" was at once taken advantage of by the old slave-dealers. The high prices of sugar in the European markets stimulated the demand for slaves in Cuba. Though, two years previously, it had been reported that not a single cargo of slaves had left the West-African coast for twelve months, yet as soon as the opportunity was afforded, a large number of these piratical vessels infested the coast. Upon the conclusion of the Russian war the African squadron was again strengthened, and the abominable traffic has been checked. The following remarks upon this subject appeared in the "C. M. Record" of January 1858—

Our steam-cruisers are, however, active, and are doing something; and the old story is renewed of captured slave-ships being brought into Sierra Leone, and cargoes of slaves landed as liberated Africans. In July last, Her Majesty's steamer "Antelope" brought in the slave-brigantine "Jupiter," with seventy slaves on board. On August 1st, Her Majesty's steamer "Teazer" gave chase to a suspicious vessel. The chase was a severe one, the slaver crowding on all sail, casks of meat, quantities of rice, twenty-five stands of arms, cutlasses, cabooses, &c., being thrown overboard to lighten her; and although the cruiser put on all steam and all sail, the prey would have escaped, but that the wind lulled. On board this vessel, the "Abbot Devereux," with two captains and two crews, one Spanish the other American, were found 224 Africans, male and female. They have been landed at Freetown, the men in a very emaciated condition, the women and children well and cheerful. Our last communications from Sierra Leone inform us, that, during the previous week, between 400 and 500 slaves had been landed at that refuge. It is to be feared, however, that a very small proportion only of the slaves come into the grasp of the cruisers, the enormous number of 30,000 slaves having reached the shores of Cuba during the last twelvemonth. So open and bold have these proceedings become, that, in the port of Havana itself, three distinct landings have taken place, one numbering 400 slaves, the second about 300, and the third consisting of 200 negro children. It is calculated, moreover, that not less than sixty vessels are afloat with cargoes. How long shall Spanish Cuba perpetrate her atrocities, America permitting its sailors and ships to become accomplices with the Spaniards?*

General Statement of the Yoruba Mission.

DURING the year 1857 a few changes have occurred among the Missionaries. Some of those who were absent at the commencement returned to their work in the course of the year. The period under review is the fourteenth year since Missionaries first arrived in the country. The rapid progress and extension of the work, and its happy combination of European and native agency, may be judged of by the following statement. The body of Christian Teachers employed in the Mission at the close of the year, consisted of six European ordained Missionaries, six native ordained Missionaries, seven European catechists, and more than forty native teachers, and such numerous congregations, that the communicants numbered 870. Four chief stations and ten out-stations are occupied by these spiritual husbandmen.

The following incidental evidence of the change wrought in the Yoruba country by the preaching of the Missionaries, and the introduction of civilization, occurred in the letter of a native Minister, the Rev. Jacob Cole, at Sierra Leone.

The present state of the Yoruba country I need not mention. Sierra Leone confirms the truth, and the Yorubans themselves in this country, who have gone on a visit to their native land and returned, give ample testimony to the exertions of the English nation, both in civilizing and Christianizing their country. One of them, a communicant here, who has returned from his country the last year, paid me a visit, and with him I had a long and interesting conversation. He is a native of Ibadan, and has travelled there several days from Lagos. After we had conversed about other matters, I inquired about the state of the country in general, and the Mission in particular. He assured me that there was peace in the country, and that an individual could travel to any part of it unmolested; that the different changes that have taken place there have been effected by the English Government, and the Missionaries; that no person can rightly conceive of the good done there, but those who go there and see for themselves ; that when they first heard of Missionaries going to their country, they thought that it would be impossible for them to effect any change in a country long sunk in superstition and idolatry ; but now he has seen for himself that they have done a good deal ; that the present state of the country is greatly altered from what it was when he was sold into slavery ; and that the Missionaries are men of God, therefore their labours have been attended with such success. This man has been one in former times known for his backwardness in contributing to the Mission cause, but I believe the alterations he has witnessed in his country, and among some of his relatives of late, have completely changed him.

Visitation of Bishop Weeks.

In the last year's Report a short notice was given of the visitation of this Mission by Bishop Weeks, which was held at the close of 1856, and the beginning of 1857. Wise and important regulations were adopted respecting the holding of slaves by Christian converts. It was decided that no Christian should purchase or sell a slave ; and that those who possessed slaves before their conversion should afford them time and opportunity to buy out their freedom, and in the mean time should provide for their Christian instruction. It was also decided, that as Christ has peremptorily forbidden polygamy in the Christian church, no polygamist should be baptized, though he might be admitted to Christian instruction and worship, but that the wives of polygamists might be admitted as candidates for baptism.

LAGOS.

During the earlier part of 1857, the Rev. Samuel Crowther was in charge of this station. When Mr. Crowther joined the Niger expedition, the Rev. G. F. Bühler removed to Lagos. In his annual letter he thus describes the peculiar trials, and yet the great success, at this station—

“ Our converts here are in many respects surrounded by greater dangers than those in the interior. There are many emigrants from Sierra Leone, Cuba, and Brazil, who, though they outwardly confess to be Christians, deny Christ and His word openly. They are active to draw others after them, by conversing with them about the great advantage when separated from the church of God. “ We are permitted,” say they, “ to work on Sunday, or to lie down, to keep slaves, to take as many wives as we like.” These poor people are so blind that they scarcely know they have no peace. I need not say that they are a stumbling-block for many—for other emigrants as well as for Gentiles. Few of the Cuba and Brazil emigrants have joined us, and these few are troubled by many others on account of it. Many amongst these emigrants are worse, by far worse, than the heathen. Our Lagos converts, whose number is considerable, are also every now and then troubled by the King's first councillor, and I have been frequently called to defend them. That man, though a priest, is a very proud and wicked man. Had he more power he would do much harm, but he is checked by Her Majesty's Consul. Our congregation is large, and the number of schoolchildren very considerable. And I am happy to say, that in spite of all the difficulties, our work makes good progress. The Lord has done more than we could have expected. The services on Thursday evening, and especially on the Lord's-day, and the classes, have been well attended. The number of communicants, as well as that of the candidates for baptism, have increased considerably. Such as absented themselves for a long time from attending service have returned. Thirty-two adults were admitted to the holy sacrament of baptism, and a comparatively considerable number have left idolatry, joined class, and are now under regular instruction. Amongst the latter is an old Shango priestess, whose conversion is very remarkable. To look at her, and to see her childlike spirit, her eagerness to hear more and more of Jesus, her peace and joy in the Holy Spirit, is a very great comfort and encouragement for me.

Mr. Bühler, in his journal for September 1857, gives an encouraging proof of the liberality of the people.

During this quarter I opened subscription towards defraying the expenses of the re-building of our Breadfruit chapel. The present Breadfruit chapel is not only far too small, but is also in such a state, that it could not stand another rainy season. After I had called the elders of our church, and several other members, in order to acquaint them with my plan, I found that they had already spoken among themselves of the re-building of the chapel, when, coming here, they handed over to me a list of subscribers, who had subscribed upwards of twenty bags of cowries. This encouraged me very much. I made an appeal to our whole congregation at Lagos, and they all responded liberally. Most of them are poor, but they did what they could. Some other friends gave their assistance. Yet the wealthier Sierra-Leone emigrants, those who absent themselves from public worship, subscribed little or nothing at all. Nevertheless, we raised a very considerable sum, amounting to 66*l*. Should this not be sufficient, several members agreed to give more.

Mr. Bühler writes respecting the out-stations—

Time has not allowed me to visit our out-stations, but I have received regularly reports from our agents. Badagry, requires much patience: there is but little encouragement: few attend service on Sunday, and even these are not regular. About sixteen children attend school, but not all are permitted to come regularly, though the children would like it. Ikorodu promises much better. Sometimes sixteen or eighteen came on Sunday, and desired to hear, and to be instructed. About ten children visit school almost regularly. This station ought to be in charge of an active catechist. The first chief invited me several times to visit him : formerly he opposed us. Our Christian visitors at Ofin, in the Ijebu country, speaks of little encouragement, but of much excuse from the people.

Ikorodu.

Respecting Ikorodu, Mr. Crowther writes, in his journal of March 18, 1857—

I went round on a visit to the head chiefs of Ikorodu in Ijebu, to sound their present state of feeling towards us, which I found to be more favourable than I had ever witnessed. The failure of Kosoko's attempt, in October last, to attack Lagos, after all the big preparations he had made for its destruction, seems to lower him very much in the estimation of many, who, before that time, had been looking forward to his return to Lagos to re-establish the promised slave-trade. The advantage of the increase of palm-oil trade over that of the slave is so much felt by the people at large, that their head chiefs could not help confessing to me, that they—aged persons—never remembered any time of the slave-trade in which so much wealth was brought to their country as has been since the commencement of the palm-oil trade the last four years: that they were perfectly satisfied with legitimate trade, and with the proceedings of the British Government. The chiefs were very inquisitive to know more of the English—their trade, their work, and the motives of their benevolent proceedings towards Africa. I did not fail to improve the opportunity long sought to give them right understanding, particularly to the last inquiry, that the foundation of it is the influence of the religion which we desire to introduce among them.

Otta.

The out-station of Otta has been under the care of the native pastor, the Rev. James White, who thus reports his labours to the end of the year—

The year that has now come to its close is such an important period in my history, that I cannot, on reviewing it, pass it over without tracing and discovering the gracious hand that has been concerned in the bestowment of so many and unmerited mercies on me, as well as thankfully acknowledging them. At the commencement of the year, the late Bishop of Sierra Leone, was pleased to admit me and others to the sacred office of the Ministry. The ordination was held by the same venerable prelate before whom, some sixteen years ago, I stood passing my examination, with a view of being promoted to the first class of monitors in our village school, at Charlotte, in the colony of Sierra Leone, which parish was then under his superintendence. Could any human foresight have discerned that the grave personage before whom I was then standing was the future Bishop of the West-Africa Mission,—how short, however, was to be the period of his exercise of this sacred office,—and that I was to be one of those whom he was to set apart for the ministry? Oh no! This belongs only to the province of the omniscient God, who is the wise disposer of all events, and to whom is due all honour and glory.

Otta is not now such a large town as it formerly was, being greatly reduced by war and bloodshed; but there is more than enough of work in it for a preacher of the Gospel, as I believe it contains a population of 2000 or 3000 souls. Now from among these an infant church is gathered, though composed of very few, the spiritual wants of whom must be attended to. Christ's lost sheep must be sought for; besides, the few schoolchildren that we have must be provided for; and for all these I have only a single assistant, with whom, nevertheless, I endeavour to do my utmost. I have therefore arranged that he should teach in the day-school, that our few children be not neglected; that he should assist me in the Sunday-school; and that he should visit our sick members whenever I am so circumstanced as not to be able to go myself. In fact, I do not like to trouble him for any thing that I can do myself.

My auditors on the Lord's-day are invariably the same, being all such as have separated themselves from the world, and who have either been baptized, or are under preparation for that ordinance. A few Abbeokuta Christians, who now and then pass this way, join us whenever they happen to spend the Sunday here. We have scarcely any spectators as before, and the people themselves have stated their reason for having ceased to become spectators and attendants of the scene in the house of God in the following words:—"There is nobody, how obstinate soever he may be, who, visiting the house of God for three successive Sundays, will not experience some impression made upon his mind. His heart will become softened, and his idols will become worthless and burdensome things. If he does not wish to become a Christian he must not go to the house of God: he will feel a kind of reluctance to prostrate before idols; and be at a loss what to say to them." Since then they will not come that they may have life, it is indispensably necessary to go after them wherever they are to be found: in their houses, in the streets, in the blacksmiths' shops, under the shady trees, to bring before them the Gospel message with which we are entrusted.

As to our few converts, I have very favourable and satisfactory accounts to report of them. Their regular attendance on the means of grace; the great desire they manifest to learn God's sacred book; their readiness to blame, and yet their sympathy in seeking to restore, a faulty brother; their confidence in us in submitting to us their affairs for our approbation and sanction; their affection towards us, and general good conduct, all combine to prove that the love of God is shed abroad in their hearts. They are, moreover, doing all in their power to invite their countrymen to the Gospel feast. Each one, as soon as he is converted, feels constrained by the love of God to diffuse around him the light which he has himself received. "The Lord gave the word, and great are the company of the preachers."

While meditating in what way sacred music can best be taught, so that men and women, and adults and children, can unite with heart and voice, the thought came into my mind that the Ottas are spoken of as superior to the other tribes of the Yoruba Mission in these things: and I thus argued that our converts, when heathen, certainly had hymns and songs of praise in honour of their gods, might they not also, now that they are Christians, compose songs and hymns in honour of the God of gods and Lord of lords? I immediately proposed it to them, and they readily and cordially responded to it. As not all men are gifted with the spirit of poesy and music, those only among them who are thus talented applied themselves to the work, and each soon returned with what he had done. The women, too, were not backward in assisting in this matter. I examined them, and corrected any erroneous language or expression I discovered, amplifying where they were too brief, and retrenching every superfluity. No attention is paid to rhyme and metre, and they have not been able to manage that verses should contain an equal number of syllables, consequently the same tune cannot be sung to two or three verses. Each verse is a complete hymn, and must have its own particular tune. The people soon got them up, and it is very pleasing to see with what delight and cordiality both the greyheaded and the young sing them.*

The influence of Christianity in promoting peace and goodwill amongst men is strikingly illustrated by Mr. White, in the case of a family of a tribe at enmity with the Egbas, who lost a child by death at Abbeokuta, and afterwards passed through Otta—

They spoke with great commendation of the hospitality and Christian love of the Abbeokuta Christians in promptly providing the funeral materials, and the general sympathy which they manifested. Herein is a striking fulfilment of that remarkable prediction, "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf, and the young lion, and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them; and the cow and the bear shall feed, their young ones shall lie down together, and the lion shall eat straw like the ox." (Is. xi. 6, 7.) The parents of this child are of the Igbesa tribe, whose dialect is closely allied to that of Otta. Now the people of Igbesa, on account of former hostilities between them and the Egbas, still retain and cherish in their breasts such rancorous hatred for them, that all intercourse between them is avoided, and no Egba is permitted to enter their town. To such a pitch have their prejudice and animosity gone, that the Igbesa some time ago rejected Mr. Lawson, the school-master, whom the Rev. C. A. Gollmer sent to instruct their children, simply because he had on Egba marks. But view the two people in another light, and a mighty change will be discerned, which has been wrought on their mind by the transforming influence of the Gospel of Christ. Former prejudices have been dispelled, ancient animosities forgotten, and the Egba and Igbesa converts have learned to esteem each other as brethren. As with individuals, so may the time come when whole nations shall be leavened into one Gospel mass, inveterate and petty animosities laid aside, and when the general contention will be, what nation will best glorify God.

In August the Rev. H. Townsend spent a Sunday at Otta, and he thus describes the favourable view he entertained of the station—

There was a very respectable congregation present, and they were orderly and attentive throughout the service. I think a great work is going on here, and is much to Mr. White's credit. I feel thankful to God for what He enables his servants to do here.

ABBEOKUTA.

This very important centre of Missionary labour has been well supplied, during the last year, with European agency, namely, the Rev. Messrs. Gollmer and Townsend, with five catechists, Messrs. Hollinhead, Meakin, Carter, Smith, and Buckley, who were lately selected and trained for this Mission while working as mechanics, at Manchester, by a zealous clergyman in that neighbourhood. They accompanied Messrs. Gollmer and Townsend on their return to Africa. The native ministers, the Rev. T. King and the Rev. T. B. Macaulay, have also superintended two of the four districts into which the town of Abbeokuta is divided. Many native teachers are also employed there.

The congregations in Abbeokuta have manifested a steady growth and gradual enlargement. A letter from Bishop Weeks having been left unfinished at the time of his death, gives a graphic picture of the work of the Mission, and of his own Christian spirit. It was dated Akropong, February 1857—

On Christmas-day, and the day after, soon after breakfast, the communicants and candidates from Ake and the other churches in and near Abbeokuta, men and women, and their children, began to assemble, to pay their respects to us. They were dressed neat and clean; some, from Sierra Leone, in English, the rest in the Yoruba costume. It was a novel sight to witness from each church some sixty, eighty, or one hundred, squatting on the grass under the agreeable shade of the fine trees in the compound which Mr. Townsend had planted when he first came here. I had some word of advice and encouragement for each company. Andrew Wilhelm acted as interpreter. He was a member of the church at Hastings, Sierra Leone, when I was resident there, and now, after more than twenty-five years, I meet him in his own country, acting consistently all these many years.

When our conversation and exhortation to each company were ended, they would all rise, with pleasant, smiling faces, to express their gratitude and thanks to God for his blessed Gospel, and the rich blessing thereof, and also for the many dear Missionaries whom He has sent to minister to their spiritual and temporal necessities.

Verily, I never spent a more happy day in Africa. The whole scene now passing before me bore the evident stamp of genuine native-Christian simplicity. I was powerfully reminded of the general gathering together of the church of Christ from all nations, when they who have sown and those who have reaped shall greatly rejoice together.

It was truly affecting and interesting to be told by one and another from among these Christian groups, who had been liberated by our Government, and located for a time in Sierra Leone, but who had now returned to fatherland, several of them to embrace their dear parent or parents, or relatives and friends—"You, Sir, taught me to read God's holy book in the Sunday-school."—"You, Sir, instructed me in the Christian religion, and then baptized me at——."—"By you, Sir, I was married at Regent Town."—"You, Sir, sent me to Fourah Bay to be trained for a schoolmaster," &c.

My dear friend, the Rev. C. T. Frey, had far more of these touching recognitions than myself, as the members of the Yoruba tribe were more numerous in and near Waterloo, Mr. Frey's station, than any other part of the colony. Many a time, during my residence in St. Thomas', Lambeth, did I cherish the secret desire to pay a visit to Abbeokuta, yet not daring to hope to have it gratified, and how far less that I should be here performing the holy duties of chief pastor to Christ's flock!

"Marvellous are Thy ways, O Thou King of saints!"

Mr. Townsend thus describes the general state of his district, Sept. 25, 1857—

Persons have been added to the church, and some removed, we hope, to a better world; one died whilst I was absent in Lagos, trusting in Christ for salvation; and another whilst away in the interior. The Sunday-school is very hopeful: 260 adults have their names on the list. Our accommodations are far too small, both as a schoolroom and a church, for our present wants. Mr. Meakin has superintendence of the Sunday-school and night-school; Mr. Carter of the day-school; and Mr. Hollinhead visits the sick. By this division of labour we ensure a more constant and better supervision.

At the close of the year he adds—

The kind liberality of my friends at home has provided the means of building a new church. I have commenced it, and made much progress, the members of the church helping me with a good will. We have, therefore, now the walls about ten feet from the ground. The heathen look on with some astonishment at the size of our building, the thickness of the walls, and the workmanship we bestow on it. I am building a tower to it, to accommodate the turret clock, which the liberality of my friends enabled me to provide. The church will be ninety feet by forty inside, exclusive of tower and walls. Since commencing building the walls, the church people have given me a day's work in a week.

Mr. Townsend notices the first attempt of the converts to send the Gospel to their heathen countrymen—

April 13—Met the communicants this morning about making a collection, and to choose one of their number to send out as their messenger to teach some of the heathen who are destitute of the Gospel. They responded liberally to my appeal, and collected enough to pay an agent for five months. It was also agreed that their agent should be sent to Atawe, a small town where there are always a number of strangers gathered together from Ibadan, Ijaye, and places beyond. It is a small beginning. We look to the Lord to increase our means, and give a blessing to our feeble efforts.

The Rev. C. H. Gollmer describes another feature of home pastoral work in the native church at Abbeokuta—

Aug. 5—Twenty thousand Yoruba tracts distributed. The Yoruba tracts, "Erun Orun," "Heavenly Crumbs," or Sixteen Short Sermons, which the Religious Tract Society kindly printed for me, arrived here; and to day I had the great pleasure to distribute them among our various stations up and down the land, and to the Wesleyan and Baptist Missions in this country. Assisted by Messrs. Smith and Buckley, I unpacked the boxes, sorted and counted out the tracts, put them up in parcels, and sent them to the superintendants of the respective stations, for distribution among the people. The people gladly and thankfully received the tracts. I asked some of the applicants, "Do you understand the word in the little book, and do you like it?" and the reply was, "We understand it altogether: it is sweet too much." May the Lord's blessing accompany and rest upon each of the tracts

The Rev. Thomas King, native pastor, describes the character and happy departure of one of his female converts who died suddenly—

A friend informed me of the remarks she made last Sunday on seeing many of her fellow-communicants withdraw from the table—"What is it that often is a hindrance to many in coming to the Lord's table? As for me, I would let nothing hinder me from partaking, inasmuch as I know not whether this shall be the last that I have to partake in this world." This proved to be the case with her. Poor Lydia may be said to have fought a good warfare. She was brought to the faith when I was here in May 1852, and was baptized by the Rev. S. Crowther at the close of that year. She was one of those who, with undaunted spirit, endured a severe trial and fiery domestic persecution, both from her husband and relatives. Not only her money, clothes, &c., but even her two children were separated from her. Once I was deeply struck at her great submission and forgiving disposition, when she came to me with all her body lacerated by whips in consequence of cruel castigation, and her back streaming all over with blood. I proposed to take her to Alake, who was then a civil chief at Ake, as there was no redress whatever from Apena, the civil chief of Oba, the town she belonged to; but she meekly declined by saying, "No, lest my going to Ake should rather irritate them; but if I bear it, that may soften them." I said to her, "If you do not go, that would perhaps encourage them to inflict severer punishment on you, since you are not going to give up: or do you intend to cease serving God by this?" To this she replied, "Never, unless they can take away my life." When compelled to quit the house by the unrelenting persecution of her husband and relatives, she found a refuge in the Mission compound with Mr. Crowther. Lydia has been an example of unshaken fortitude, and one who, to my knowledge, in this country has very few rivals in point of suffering or privation. Her relatives remained irreconcilable to her to the last, in spite of her endeavours to gain their favour.

An occurrence in this Mission, during the last year, is full of interest, as exhibiting a proof of the new social relations and sympathy which Christianity introduces amongst the people. In the war with Dahomy, one of the native converts, John Baptist Dasalu, had been taken prisoner, sold into slavery, carried into Cuba, and there, through the benevolent intervention of Lord Clarendon, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, through the consul at the Havana, he was released, and restored to his wife and friends in Abbeokuta. The circumstances which followed his return are thus reported. Mr. Gollmer writes—

Sept. 7. John Baptist Dasalu paid us a visit to-day. A friend came with him, who, as many did before, thanked us much for all that was done for Dasalu. Dasalu's return to Abbeokuta has effected much good. The heathen "opened their mouth" in amazement, i. e. wondered. The Christians regarded it as a miracle from God, and praised His name. Dasalu has many times astonished his friends by relating the wonderful things he has seen, especially in England; but what is better, has approved himself as a tried Christian. To-day he purchased a large English family Bible from me. He seems anxious to learn English.

An interesting letter of thanks was written to the Committee, and signed by thirteen of Dasalu's friends, in which they thus express their feelings—

When he told us all the difficulties experienced, both by yourselves and the British Consul at Havana, before you succeeded in procuring his freedom, we are very much astonished.

He who was by cruel hands bound and carried away from us, without the least thought of seeing his home and country again, is by your benevolence restored back to us in a very respectable condition.

That God will still own and bless all your pious and philanthropic endeavours to Christianize and civilize the heathen world, is the sincere desire of your most obedient servants.

(Signed with thirteen names.)

The return home of Dasalu seems to have led, under God, to the salvation of one of his brothers. Mr. King writes—

March 17—This morning John B. Dasalu came to tell me that his brother Lujobi's complaint grew worse with him last night; that they did not expect he would live till this morning; and desired to know my opinion as to whether I had any objection to his being baptized, as he expressed an earnest desire for that sacrament. I took the opportunity to show him the uncertainty and unsoundness of death-bed repentance; that it often proved delusive at the end; but I would come and see his brother, so as to be able to judge what might be done for him. I had visited him once or twice before, and had conversation with him. A few minutes after, I went to see him, and found him labouring under great uneasiness and pain. He appeared to have a thorough conviction of the vanity of idols, and of the need of pardon as a lost and helpless creature in the sight of God. He told me that he had shaken off his confidence in Ifa, &c., since some years before, and would have professed his faith of the book religion since then, had it not been for the combination the Ogboni made to kill him should he venture it. But since the return of Dasalu he had commenced coming to church again. Though labouring under great weakness, his countenance was composed. I asked him several questions, which he answered satisfactorily. Having explained to him the depravity and condition of our fallen nature, and the need of pardon, the nature and benefit of baptism, and found that he placed his entire reliance on the mercy of God through Christ, as a helpless creature, and determined to die with his name in his mouth, or, while alive, to call upon or look to none but Him, I could not deny him the privilege. Dasalu having collected together some of our members who were present at home, about twelve or fifteen in number formed our little congregation. A white cloth being spread on the table in the piazza, there the ordinance was performed, and I baptized him by the name of Simeon. The ceremony being over, we all knelt down, and I committed his soul to God, with whom he had entered into covenant by baptism.

About two months afterwards, Lujobi died in much peace, and in a simple reliance upon Christ. Mr. King thus touchingly alludes to the event—

Such were the workings of Providence. As in the case of Joseph, for whom his father mourned many days, when he was said to have been dead, he at last had to embalm, superintend, and conduct all the affairs of his father's interment; so Dasalu, whom Lujobi thought he was burying after that memorable battle of 1851 was over, has attended, provided for his brother Lujobi in his sickness, comforted and admonished him, and at last conducted him to the grave. "My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither your ways my ways, saith the Lord."

A few extracts from the journals of the catechists sent from Manchester, will exhibit the feelings with which they entered upon their work. Mr. Hollinhead writes, soon after his arrival in Africa—

Dec. 25, 1856: Christmas-day—As I lay awake in bed early this morning, I heard the sound of persons singing. As they were at a considerable distance the sound was much softened and received a sweetness from the distance. Are these the "waits," come to call us to awake from our sleep, and praise the Saviour, whose birth we this day celebrate? Are these the singers of St. John's, come to call me to arise, and once more with them adore the Father's love, who spared not His own and only Son to die that we might live? Alas! no. The persons whose voices I hear know nothing of these things. They have come nearer, and that which sounded sweet before is now changed to the harsh voices of men. They are, however, worshipping, but not God. Strange as it may appear, they are worshipping the work of their own hands: strange infatuation! See what is man when left to himself. Oh that they did but know Him who was manifested, in the flesh, as on this day. How their music would be changed from the coarsest to the most pleasing harmony; and it would not be confined to earth, but would be joined by angels in the realms above, and would be pleasing and acceptable to the Father's ears. Oh, blessed Jesus, help me to teach them this. Teach me to speak, and let thy Spirit accompany my words, and impress them on their hearts, and thine shall be the praise. It was to lead these benighted heathen to "the Lamb of God," to raise them in civilization, and to teach them of the one living and true God, and the happiness of those who love and serve him, to bring them to the church of Christ, and to impart to them those privileges, religious, domestic, and social, which I enjoyed, that I left my native land, my home, my parents, my brothers and sisters, my friends and companions, the Sunday-school class, and the communion of saints in the church, and all that is near and dear to me on earth. It is a happy exchange, and one that I would not forego for the wealth of India, or the gold of Australia. If I can but be instrumental of only one soul being brought to the foot of the cross, I shall be more than repaid for all that I may have to suffer or encounter in its accomplishment.

Mr. Buckley thus takes advantage of his Manchester experience in cotton business—

On our way we had to pass the house of the chief trader of Ikeriku. We called to see him. He received us in a very kind manner, gave us kola-nut, and said he was glad we had called. I noticed that he had a large quantity of cotton packed, and apparently ready for sending off. He, seeing that I was noticing it, asked me if it was not good to sell cotton. I told him it was a good and honest way of trading, and was much better than dealing in slaves. He then began to tell of the time when he lived at Whydah, at Badagry, and Lagos, and dealt in slaves. "Then," he said, "we thought the Portuguese were our best friends, because they bought the slaves from us, and gave us plenty of money, rum and brandy, &c. But by and by the English sent ships, which took the Portuguese ships and slaves. Then they gave up buying, and left us. Now, we thought, every thing is going wrong with us, and the English are our enemies. Every thing became very dear. After a time the English came and told us they wished to do us good. We did not believe them, for we thought they were our enemies; but now they have been with us a long time, and we have proved them to be our best friends." In this strain he went on for some time. After having spoken to him of those things that pertain to his soul's everlasting welfare, and urged him to partake of the spiritual, as well as the temporal advantages which the English had placed in his reach, I returned home.

Mr. Meakin turns to account his strength and skill as a workman—

September 14 to 19—Superintending road, &c. Although the road formation is a secular work in itself, yet I have no doubt but that it will be productive of good. Often, as I pass down, women bearing loads meet me, and call for blessings upon me such as their imagination suggests to them. These are common expressions with them—"God must thank you: we cannot;" "Son of God, I thank you;" "Shango must thank you;" &c. This gives me an opportunity to speak to them, and direct their attention to Jesus, the Son of God, and to thank God for all things. It has also been the means of helping me in the language, directing, as I have done for a greater part of the time, the men engaged in the work, who cannot speak English, and bringing me into contact with people whom otherwise I should not have seen.

Normal School.

The Normal school has been under the care of a European, Mr. Kirkham, who was instructed in Highbury Training College. He has suffered severely from ill health, and was obliged at the close of the year to return to England. The number of pupils has been small; and the want of vernacular books of education has necessarily impeded their progress.

Industrial Institution.

There is attached to the Normal school at Abbeokuta an Industrial Institution, in which the pupils are instructed in the cleaning and packing of cotton for the English markets; and in which various branches of carpentering and the repairing of machinery are exercised. This establishment will shortly become self-supporting. The capital and cost of machinery has been provided independently of the funds of the Society, chiefly through the liberality of Thomas Clegg, Esq., of Manchester, who has laboured most zealously and disinterestedly to induce the natives of Africa to engage in lawful commerce, especially cotton, instead of kidnapping and selling each other into slavery. The success of these measures during the last year has far exceeded the expectations of those most interested in the enterprise. The native chiefs have come forward zealously to cultivate cotton: they have learned to clean it at the Industrial Institution, and have afterwards bought and worked cotton gins at home. They have consigned their cotton to Manchester, and have waited to receive the value of it, when sold, in a return of Manchester and other English goods. Mr. Clegg has stated that he has received above 150,000 pounds of clean cotton, which has been sold at a good price in Manchester, besides various other African productions. About 150 cotton gins have been sold to the natives. The whole of these transactions are conducted by natives. The superintendant of the Industrial Institution in Abbeokuta, is Mr. Henry Robbin, who was brought over from Sierra Leone, and trained for the work by Mr. Clegg, at Manchester, at the expense of the African Native-Agency Committee. The following extract from one of his communications will show that he has not merged his character as an agent of a Missionary Society in his commercial relations: writing under the date, 1st August 1857, he states—

“ Amidst all my temporal labours, I lose no opportunity in speaking to the people about the salvation of their souls, as you will see by an incident or two in the report. Though I am a layman in the Mission, yet I do not consider myself one whose duty is so limited as not to assist in the spreading of the Gospel, when I have the chance of doing so. I consider the extension of the cause of God, especially in this my country, in every respect my bounden duty, and, by God’s help, rest assured that I am not behind those who are directly employed as teachers of the Gospel. With regard to Sunday-schools, if there is any one who is interested in them, I am one. The industrial boys are all staying with me in the same house, and are, I believe, very comfortable. I endeavour always to teach them, not only of things profitable to their bodies, but also to their souls; showing them, at the same time, the worthlessness of every instruction they may receive without first seeking the kingdom of God and his righteousness. . They every morning attend the early prayers at church (conducted by the schoolmaster); commence their business every day at half-past six o'clock; night-schools four days in the week, at seven o'clock P.M., by the schoolmaster; reading of the Holy Scriptures, and prayers at home, every evening, just at nine o'clock. I pray and trust that God will bless us in our spiritual and temporal labour, and enable us to continue the sowing of the good seed until the evening."

The Rev. J. G. Bühler, writing from Lagos, January 5, 1858, states—

Trade is going on, and especially the cotton trade. In a few years England will see what West Africa can do, if the people are only left in peace, and if there is put a stop to the miserable destructive slave-trade.

Out-stations and Missionary Tours.

Mr. Townsend, in addition to his charge of one of the districts in Abbeokuta, has paid frequent visits to those stations which had been deprived of their ordained Missionaries by their temporary absence in England, as well as to the out-stations under his own charge,

Oyo.

This out-station is important as the residence of the Yoruba king, whose supremacy is acknowledged by all the kings of the different Yoruba tribes, as Abbeokuta, Ijaye, Ibadan, Illorin, &c. Mr. Townsend thus describes a visit he paid to Oyo in June last—

June 22—Started for Oyo, and arrived safe. Kept service on the 21st. Next day we visited the king, Mrs. Townsend with me, to give our present in person. We refused to allow our host to give it privately. The Ten Commandments were read to the king, which he said he would receive. We had much conversation about the desirableness of lawful commerce. He was rather surprised to hear that cotton was a valuable article of trade. He wished to have a cotton gin, as also did Are, at Ijaye.

June 25—We fixed upon a large piece of ground on the south east side of the town, as a site for a station: it is on the highest part of a hill, the ground sloping down from it to a brook, on the opposite side of which is another hill, on which the town is chiefly built. This morning I sent all our carriers to the bush to cut materials for a house, and some labourers that I hired to clear the ground.

July—We are trying to get a house erected at Oyo : I hope to put things in such a train as will enable the visitor to carry the work on. At present I feel it necessary to use all my time upon this place and Isein, without going further. I shall, however, be free, I hope, in my own mind, to embrace what openings a good Providence may afford, and receive wisdom and grace to do what God would have me do in this matter ; but at present I feel inclined to try to get these two places established as stations before taking another step in advance.

In the same tour Mr. Townsend visited three other out-stations. At Isein, “ the king, Asein, received us very graciously. He was particular in his inquiries for the white man I had promised to get to settle in his town. I told him that I hoped he would soon be gratified in his wish, and if he was not, it should not be my fault. I commenced the foundation of the church I purpose erecting here with funds placed at my disposal by a friend in England.”

Of Owaye Mr. Townsend writes—

We have a visitor stationed here, who instructs the people regularly, as many as are willing to listen to him ; but it appears to be the day of small things as yet. I assembled the people of the house where our visitor resides, among whom are two who regularly attend his instructions, and gave them a few words of encouragement and advice, and prayed with them.

During his visit to Bioku, Mr. Townsend had this conversation with the chief—

He talked with me a long time about the troubles of the country, and complained against the Egbas going to fight against Aibo. I explained to him that I, for my part, did not know who was right or wrong in the war ; but this one thing I knew, that such persons as himself, and such towns as Bioku, were much to blame, that when they knew a quarrel was pending they used no means to bring about a peace : that as they used no means to bring about a peace, they had no right now to grumble about the war. I was much pleased to find a small chapel has been built here, and that there are two men of middle age who make a profession of Christianity. I spoke to them some time about the atonement, and found them to have been instructed on the subject. There were also two children of the chief's committed to the care and instruction of our visitor. A good work has been commenced, I feel confident, and will increase more and more.

IJAYE.

Mr. Charles Phillips, native catechist, has had the charge of this station during the absence of the Rev. A. Mann, in Europe. His letters thus report the state of things—

May 25—I am glad to report that every thing belonging to this station continues as it was before the Rev. A. Mann left. The Sabbath service continues to be well attended by the members, and a few persons have joined the candidates' class since. No spirit of backwardness has been yet manifested by any of the members, nor has any severe trial occurred. The number of the whole baptized persons is 22—13 men and 9 women. The candidates 16—3 men and 13 women. The Sunday-school is well attended by the members of the church, but the week-day school is very backward in the number of children, as well as for the want of a proper teacher.

Nov. 12—We have great reason to thank and praise God for what He has done here in the midst of all the trials and difficulties of the place. Some continue to be faithful in coming to the Sabbath services. Many often call to inquire after the word we daily preach. Many are convinced that there is peace in the doctrine we preach, though still kept back by the fear of man. Many have confessed the truth that all will soon turn to the word of God, which white men came to preach. The Sunday-school has been well attended by all the converts. Even some of the old men and women, who could not learn to read, often come during the school-hour to listen to what others are reading.

IBADAN.

This interesting station has been chiefly under the charge of Mr. James Barber, native catechist, during the Rev. D. Hinderer's absence on a visit to England for the restoration of his health.

The Rev. G. F. Bühler, who was there a portion of the year, writes, in a letter dated Lagos, June 6, 1857—

When reflecting on the past months, I can only praise the Lord, who has showed his mercy to me in abundance. The Lord never forsook me one moment: He never left me comfortless; and I never felt Him so near with comfort and strength, as since I came to this field of Missionary labour. He is faithful in his promise, "And, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Concerning our Ibadan station, I am glad to hear that another station for a European Missionary is to be established; for though we have hard ground to work on, nevertheless, I repeat what I formerly said, our work in Ibadan is not in vain. We get more and more influence, and the people show more confidence. After my return in March, I was so happy as to baptize five adults and several children, and I hope the same number, if not more, will, D.V., in the course of the year, be admitted to holy baptism. I am sure we could report of still greater things if we had more labourers in that large town—and at least two stations.

There are, besides, many other large towns towards the east paying tribute to Ibadan, which are waiting for us.

There was of late a high officer elected in Ibadan, who has very much influence upon the chiefs and the people, and he is very kind to us. He seems to me to be more intelligent than most of the chiefs. I was astonished at his remarks about our work, when I visited him the first time. He promised to use all his influence in order to promote our work.

Mr. Bühler thus describes the germ of foreign commerce amongst the chiefs of Ibadan—

April 21—Visited the king of Ibadan this morning. I spoke with him about the cotton business, which he heard this time with interest. He said they would pay much attention to cotton if they could see us buy and clean cotton. I told him we shall do it as soon as possible, and encouraged him to plant much cotton, which he promised. Visited afterwards the newly elected Seriki, an officer of high rank and much influence. I met with a very good reception. When I laid the whole object of our coming in this country before him, he not only listened very attentively, but expressed also his astonishment before the large assembly about our affection towards them. He was likewise very much interested in the cotton business, which I brought before him. He is a very energetic and intelligent man. "If anybody should trouble you, let me know it immediately, I will be your best friend." He also promises to give us some of his children for education. If we do not put too much confidence in a heathenish man's words, we may, at any rate, say, that not a second man could be found in Ibadan who would have spoken so much in our favour before so many people. It is very important for our work to have the confidence of such an influential man.

Mr. Barber records the first Christian burial in Ibadan, in these simple words—

April 28—This day I buried an infant four months and twenty-one days old: he was baptized on the 7th of December last. This is the first native we have buried here according to the rite of the Church of England. He was buried in our churchyard. The parents of the infant, and the passers by, stood and witnessed how the funeral service was performed, and they were struck with our feeling for the decency of the burial of the infant, which might be cast away by some heathen parents into the bush, or be buried naked by others immediately after he breathed his last; while we made a little coffin for him, and performed our burial service over him. It was delightful to the people.

In the same genuine expression of feeling he writes, after hearing of the mutiny in India—

When I read the "Intelligencers," with the statements about the outbreak in India, I felt it sore. On Saturday, the 31st October, I told the matter to our few communicants after class in the afternoon, and begged them to assist in praying for the sufferers in India. After telling them the matter as far as necessary, they all felt it sore.

Mr. Hinderer, upon his return to Ibadan, was received with a warm welcome. After a month's residence he writes—

“The native agents have done very well indeed in our absence: not only were they able to keep things a-going, but, by God's blessing, several persons were added to the candidates for baptism. The most interesting case is, perhaps, that of a young man, who has lately, with his wife, joined the class. He was one of the slave-dealers here, supplying Abbeokuta slave-traders, and now he has given up the trade, to the annoyance of his former customers, and has brought me the fetters with which he used to chain his captives: he is going to engage in the cotton trade.*

1 Ordained Native Missionary | 5 Native Teachers.

THE purpose of the Committee to commence a Mission on the River Niger was announced in the last Report; and the Rev. Samuel Crowther and the Rev. J. C. Taylor, from Sierra Leone, were designated for this promising enterprise. These native Missionaries met at Fernando Po, where they joined the steamer, the “Dayspring,” which was expressly constructed for navigating the river. They entered the Brass mouth of the river on July 3, and ascended the stream without difficulty. The first important town at which it was decided that Missionary operations should be commenced was Onitsha: there Mr. Taylor was stationed. This place appeared to present great advantage for the head-quarters of a Mission to the Ibo tribes, to which Mr. Taylor belongs. It promises, also, to become a large commercial dépôt. Mr. Crowther proceeded to Idda, where he found the new chief, or Attah, more intelligent and friendly than his father, with whom the expedition of 1841 had to deal. A site for a Mission station was immediately granted. Mr. Crowther much regretted that he had no teachers to leave in such promising stations. The expedition then reached the Confluence, where they experienced a hearty welcome. As it was determined that this station was to be the main trading dépôt, as most central, and commanding both rivers, the Niger and the Tshadda, a spot was cleared for the factory, and another piece of open ground secured for a Mission compound. The conductors of the expedition engaged to erect a church: a school was at once commenced, and a native, who had accompanied the expedition from Sierra Leone, was appointed as school-master. Thus the commencement of a second station was accomplished. The expedition then proceeded to Egga, which was the highest point reached by the expedition of 1841. Egga presents many advantages for a Mission, as the centre of the Nufi nation, which extends from the Confluence up the river beyond Rabba. The "Dayspring" then ascended to Rabba. This town has lain in ruins for more than ten years, through civil war between two brothers for the right of sovereignty. The expedition arrived at the most opportune season. The sultan of Sokoto had reconciled the hostile parties, and appointed the elder brother, Sumo Zaki, to be king of Rabba, and his brother, Dasaba, to be a kind of viceroy. These two powerful chiefs were collecting their followers at a camp, said to contain 60,000 persons, where they were waiting till the season would allow of their entering Rabba, and re-instating it in its former importance and prosperity. The leaders of the expedition, and Mr. Crowther, visited the camp, and all parties gladly welcomed the white men, and promised every encouragement both to the trader and to the Missionary.

The "Dayspring," after a short stay at Rabba, proceeded on its ascent of the river, with a view of Dr. Baikie's reaching Sokoto from a nearer point of the river. But, about twelve miles above Rabba, the "Dayspring" struck upon a sunken rock, and became a wreck. All the company were saved in boats, but most of their property was lost. The ship's company then encamped upon the banks of the river, waiting for the expected ascent of a second vessel, named the "Sunbeam;" but the departure of this vessel from England having been delayed, it was not expected to reach Rabba before the middle of the summer.

Sumo Zaki and Dasaba, hearing of the fate of the vessel, immediately sent messengers to the heads of all the villages on the river, to command them to render any assistance in their power, and to protect the property of the foreigners. As it was important to send intelligence to the coast by the quickest route, the same chiefs arranged for opening the communication from Rabba to Illorin, from whence to Abbeokuta and Lagos the road is well known to the Missionaries. One of the officers came by this route, with ease, in twenty days. Native messengers have since been found who will make the journey monthly to meet the mails.

Greatly as the loss of the "Dayspring" is to be lamented, and of the valuable property which it contained, the detention has served to test the friendly disposition of the native tribes, and to explore the resources of the country. Mr. Crowther has also been able to perfect translations of the Hausa, and to reduce the Nufi language to writing.

The health of the Europeans, by the last accounts, was tolerably good, notwithstanding their exposure to many risks in their present situation. It is hoped that, before the present time, Mr. Crowther will have been joined by four native teachers from Sierra Leone, and that he will be able to revisit Onitsha, and establish other stations before his return to Abbeokuta. No letters have yet been received from Mr. Taylor, but Mr. Crowther's journals are full of important and interesting information respecting the country and people, and the Missionary prospects which they present.*

MEDITERRANEAN MISSION.

(First commenced in Malta in 1815.)

THE Committee cannot as yet announce the adoption of measures for the enlargement of their Turkish Mission, or for the commencement of operations at Constantinople. The delay is occasioned by the want of suitable Missionaries, and by the peculiar difficulties of the undertaking. But Dr. Pfander, who is on his way home from India, will visit Smyrna and Constantinople, and will afterwards consult with the Committee upon his own location in Turkey. Two students are also in the Islington Institution, one of them a converted Turk, who are under special training for the Turkish Mission.

In the mean time the Committee are thankful to acknowledge that the Missionaries of the American Board of Foreign Missions are prosecuting their zealous labours with much blessing and success in Turkey and especially in Constantinople. They heartily wish them God-speed, and regard them as entitled to the cordial sympathy and support of all friends of Protestant and Evangelical Missions.

General view of the Mission, and testimony of the Anglican Bishop in Jerusalem.

THE only change in the labourers in the Palestine Mission since the last report is the stationing of the Rev. J. Zeller at Nazareth; as it is still considered unsafe for a Missionary to reside at Nablous, on account of the excitement of the Mohammedans. The Anglican Bishop in Jerusalem gives the following general account of the Palestine Missions of the Society in his annual letter—

Nov. 10, 1857 — I observe, from the reports of the American Missionaries at Constantinople and neighbourhood, that there seems to be a door opening for the preaching of the Gospel to the Mohammedans, whose prejudices seem to be diminishing. Not so here. On the contrary, I verily believe that if things are allowed to continue as during the last two years, we must expect to see and experience scenes similar to those which have been enacted in India. True, we can occasionally speak to individual Moslems of the truth of the Gospel: but at the best they hear with coldness and indifference; and in general, during the last two years, their hatred against Christians, European and native, has gone on increasing. It is not a rare thing now, ever since the outbreak of Nablous in April 1856, to hear them speak of massacring all the Christians.

The Christians are chiefly of the Greek church, and Roman Catholics of many colours. Among these there are many who seem dissatisfied with their present religious condition, and who have a faint desire for something better, which they know is with us, even the word of God: but such desires are too faint to enable them to overcome the obstacles which at every step are put in their way when they try to return unto the Lord. The desire of a good number to read the word of God having in some measure been satisfied, there is less hunger after the Bible, than there was a few years ago among the nominal Christians of this country.

The Church Missionary Society has Missions at Jerusalem, Jaffa, Khaiffa, and Nazareth, in each of which places there are small native Protestant communities, except Khaiffa, where the Missionary is new, and yet unacquainted with the language. I fear that one or another is too much inclined to consider himself as the incumbent of the place. There is also a small community at Bethlehem, visited at least every Lord's-day, either by the Rev. F. A. Klein or Dr. Sandreczki. The community at Nablous has suffered much since the riot last year. Some members have left the place altogether; others have returned to the Greek church; yet there are still about twenty male members, almost all heads of families. Mr. Klein and Dr. Sandreczki visit them from time to time; otherwise it is my schoolmaster who conducts the divine services, by reading the Liturgy, and simply expounding the word of God.

All our native Protestants are in very much the same state as when I last wrote. They are increasing in the knowledge of the word of God, which they generally love, and I believe that, for the most part, they walk orderly; but as their increase in number is very slow, so is also their increase in grace: spiritual life is still rare and feeble amongst them.

Jerusalem,

Dr. Sandreczki transacts the temporal affairs connected with the Mission, and has daily opportunities of giving instruction to the members of the native Protestant community, and to inquirers of various countries and languages who resort to Jerusalem. He also frequently visits the out-stations. He bears this testimony to the improved social condition of native Protestants—

As regards our congregation here, we have no longer to complain of the former beggarly habits, most of the members having considerably ameliorated their condition by dint of labour; but we have reason to fear that some of them, for the sake of worldly gain, have begun to neglect the care of their souls. They have been frequently warned of the danger they expose themselves to; whilst this sad experience teaches us that we must increase our own exertions and watchfulness, and pray with and in behalf of them with much more zeal and perseverance.

The Rev. F. A. Klein ministers in Arabic to the congregation of native Protestants. He thus reports its state in his annual letter for 1857—

The Lord having graciously preserved my health, I have been enabled to have divine services on Sunday in Arabic, without interruption, the whole round of the year. As we have not yet our own chapel, the Bishop has kindly allowed us the use of one of his school-rooms, where I have held a regular service, with sermon, in the morning, and a kind of catechetical lecture in the afternoon. The attendance of the members of the congregation, both male and female, has been very regular, especially in the forenoon. In the afternoon I had the boys of the diocesan school, whose general knowledge of the Bible, and ready and intelligent answers, have often given me much pleasure. May the good seed, so plentifully sown in these youthful hearts, not be stifled by the lusts and deceits of the world, to which they will be so soon exposed; and may they become evangelists and witnesses to the truth in their several homes! Besides the regular members of the church, I am happy to say I had almost every Sunday a few attentive hearers from other denominations, and sometimes strangers from various parts of the country—Nazareth, Nablous, Ramleh, Salt, and the villages near Jerusalem. The Mohammedans of the Fellah villages are not as bigoted as those of towns, and I have, on several occasions, had a few attentive hearers: a negro (Moslem) also pretty regularly attends the service. I confess the attendance of these strangers cheers and encourages me even more than the attendance of the Church members, for I feel that thus I am not doing the work of a pastor of a settled congregation only, but the work of a Missionary. A few, no doubt at first attracted by curiosity, have become regular attendants. I have no doubt that a special place of worship will attract a larger audience, and am therefore most anxious soon to see our chapel erected. I embrace this opportunity also of expressing to the Society my heartfelt thanks for the liberal grant of 500*l.* towards the erection of this much-needed place of worship. As to the spiritual progress of our people, I cannot speak in terms of high commendation. A few have made a good beginning, and have experienced the grace of God in their hearts, but there is but little progress in grace, and in the knowledge of self, and consequent true humility of heart. There is a sad want of spirituality of mind in some, and too much love of the treasures and gain of the world in others. They are yet babes, and we have to bear with many weaknesses and deficiencies. In some instances our hearts have, however, been cheered and encouraged by seeing that the word of God still exercises its quiet but sure influence on the hearts of those that receive it.

Mr. Klein also thus describes the state of the work at the two out-stations of Ramleh and Nablous—

Ramleh.

There is here a number of inquirers of the Greek church. They all continue to be members of the Greek church, but search the Scriptures, and assemble at the house of the Bible reader on Sundays, when divine service is held, and the word of God expounded to them. They are also in the habit of meeting on week-day evenings for the sake of conversation on religious subjects. There is evidently a movement in the little Greek community, and some are rising from their long sleep of ignorance and superstition. There are between twenty and thirty boys in the school, who are diligently instructed in the doctrines of the Bible. Several of them have lately, when at church, refused to kiss the images, as contrary to God's commandments; and a party of the better-informed men have made a formal request that, 1st, The images set up in the church should be removed, and the worship of saints abolished; 2ndly, That the Gospel should be preached to them by the priests. When at Ramleh I was specially pleased with two blind men who knew the Scriptures better than many who have the use of both their eyes. They are, as it were, the leaders of the reformatory party, and would to God that all the Greek priests were such blind leaders of the blind!

Nablous.

There is still a congregation here, consisting of upwards of twenty adults, kept together by Dahood Tanoos. The school is in a languishing state. The people are like a flock without a shepherd, and are very anxious to have a Missionary among them. Still, as the Turkish Government has not yet done any thing to punish the ringleaders of the late outrage, the Mohammedans have become prouder and more fanatic: they are cursing and oppressing the poor Christians with greater fierceness than ever before, and it does not seem to be advisable for any European to take up his abode there permanently. The only way in which we can keep up the work, till something shall have been done to secure the protection of the Turkish Government to a Missionary establishment there, is occasionally to visit the place. Mr. Klein proposes for Ramleh, as well as for Nablous, that a Missionary should occasionally stay there for a week or fortnight together.

Jaffa.

The Rev. W. and Mrs. Krusé occupy this station; but, owing to the state of his health, Mr. Krusé is unable to travel about in the neighbourhood. A small company of fourteen native adult Protestants assemble for an Arabic service on the Lord's-day. A boys'-school contains about twenty children; a girls'-school about thirty.

There have been no additions to the congregation during the year. An indirect effect of the Missionaries has been to induce the Greeks and the Roman Catholics to improve their own schools, and to print school-books; also to treat their own people with greater liberality and kindness than formerly, and to allow them to read the Bible, if only they will not openly join the Protestants. Mr. Krusé perceives many indications of the knowledge of Scripture truth and of Protestant views spreading amongst the members of the Greek church. Mrs. Krusé's girls'-school was promising: while it had two teachers, the number of names on the list was then 77; but since Miss Parks left, that number has been reduced to 38. "However, we have encouragement enough to go on in faith and hope." Mrs. Krusé writes—

Mohammedans, Jewesses, Greeks, Catholics, and Protestants, are taught to acknowledge one Saviour. Not one parent opposes our teaching, although we make no secret of our views; and sweet, indeed, it is to hear all join in reading his word and singing his praises. . . . These children, who would, in their untaught state, be playing in the street, using the foulest language, are now engaged in working for their poorer neighbours, or mending their own clothes, while their teachers join with them in singing their sweet Arabic hymns, or asking them questions, and sometimes reading some interesting tract. Perhaps you may have heard of our public examinations at Christmas: all present expressed their satisfaction, and more than one tear of thankfulness was shed when they heard the ready answers to the truths given by our girls.

Khaiffa.

The Rev. S. W. Koelle has resided at this place, visiting Nazareth occasionally. His time has been chiefly devoted to the acquisition of vernacular Arabic, but he has been much interrupted by the illness, both of himself and of the members of his family. As a commencement of a Mission in Khaiffa, he has visited from house to house, offering Bibles for sale, in the Arabic, Italian, Greek, and French languages, at very low prices. Mr. Koelle writes—

My hope was, by thus regularly and richly scattering the word of truth and life throughout Khaiffa, to form the first link of friendly intercourse with the Khaiffians, so that the word might exercise its secret leavenlike operation; till, after having acquired some facility in expressing myself in Arabic, I might undertake a second house-to-house visitation, for the purpose of conversing with the people about the Gospel, with which they might have meanwhile acquainted themselves. I also, at the same time, offered all the assistance in my power to explain difficulties with which they might meet in reading the Scriptures. I have now carried out my plan. I have gone from house to house, to the Mohammedans, Christians, and Jews; so that there is now not one family in Khaiffa which can say that they remained unacquainted with the Bible, because they never had an opportunity of procuring it. But what has been the result? I could only sell seven Arabic and three Greek Bibles, and one French New Testament. The latter was bought by a Jew. I have had generally, throughout the year, a Sunday service in English. On several occasions we had the crews from English vessels lying in the harbour to take in grain; but these English vessels were few in number, and so small, that the crew generally consisted, altogether, of only from about six to ten men. As none of the natives of Khaiffa speak English, and the English vice-consul is a complete master of the Arabic, we had the service in Arabic instead of English for the last two months of the year. The native attendants at this service were a Protestant family, who have come from Jerusalem. Besides these, another man attended, though rather irregularly.

Nazareth.

This station has been under the superintendence of Mr. Koelle for the first part of the year, Mr. Müller and Mr. Huber, European catechists, residing at the place, and having charge of the schools. Mr. Koelle writes—

At the beginning of the year, I found the brethren Huber and Müller usefully and diligently engaged amongst the people of the station. Last summer a number of Greeks and Catholics joined the Protestants; and though past experience leads us to fear that many will return to their former connexions, yet it also justifies the hope that some will remain, and even those who go back must have more correct and more favourable views of Protestantism than if they had never joined us. Our schools in Nazareth and out-stations greatly add to the importance of the work.

The Rev. J. Zeller takes this review of his labours in the Mission, and especially at Nazareth, during the latter part of the year 1857—

During the first year of my residence in Palestine, in the year 1856, I was often reminded of the remarkable words spoken by God to Isaac, in spite of the Divine promise that he and his posterity should inherit the land—"Sojourn in this land." (Gen. xxvi. 3.) That year was a period of constant travelling between Nablous and Jerusalem, and Nazareth and Nablous. My preparatory work, the study of the language, was thus, to my great regret, constantly and sadly interrupted. But this disadvantage was perhaps, in some measure, counterbalanced, by an advantage afforded in consequence of this travelling life. I became the sooner acquainted with our different stations in Palestine, and, by being at once thrown among the Arabs, with their character and customs, and, in some measure, with the vernacular.

At the beginning of the year 1857, I went to Ramleh, according to the direction of the Local Committee at Jerusalem, accompanied by the Scripture reader of the Bishop, in order to make an attempt to preach the Gospel there. Some people from this place, and from Lydda, had expressed their desire for instruction in the pure doctrines of the Gospel by a Protestant Missionary. Ramleh, situated on a small elevation of ground in the plain of Sawn, and surrounded by extensive olive groves and rich fields, looks most beautiful, like most of the towns of Palestine when seen from a distance. But, seen from within, this place presents even a sadder picture of ruins, filth, and wretchedness, than most of the larger places in this land. The population may amount to 2000 souls, amongst whom there are 200 Christians, chiefly Greeks. There are three large convents, Latin, Greek, and Armenian, in the town, for the accommodation of pilgrims, on their way from Jaffa to Jerusalem.

After having hired some rooms, I found a great deal to do. For several weeks my room was filled nearly every evening with from forty to sixty people. It was a rich opportunity to explain the true way of salvation, for the people generally remained so long together, that we could read and explain to them four or six chapters of the word of God in one evening. Besides, we were always called upon to discuss the errors of the Greek and Latin churches about the worship of the Virgin Mary and of saints, about their images and relics, about indulgences, pilgrimages, celibacy, purgatory, the five spurious sacraments, the supremacy of the Pope, &c. Some people brought forward foolish questions. Yet, though the discussions became sometimes very animated, the people generally behaved so far orderly, that we could close with prayer.

I visited Lydda several times, and found there opportunity to speak with some of the Christian inhabitants about religious matters. Lydda is a larger place than Ramleh, with about 300 Christians. Many people in both places declared that they had left their church, and wished to join the Church of England. This ferment among the Greeks caused so much apprehension to the head of the Greek convent at Ramleh, that he assembled the elders of the Greek community, and went with them to Jerusalem, in order to get from the head-quarters of their church the necessary assistance in this extremity.

In the beginning of March I arrived at Nazareth. I have now to review the period of the last ten months at this station. It has been a time full of labour and anxiety, but also full of evidences of the mercy and help of God.

The spiritual state of our congregation is not satisfactory, for we cannot yet speak of conversions in the full sense of the word. There are, however, clear evidences of impressions made by the word of God, which has been preached, taught, and read, especially upon our younger people, and upon some children. The consciences of some seem to have been roused, and the good purposes and convictions of many seem to have been strengthened. The state of morality has in general given satisfaction. There is undoubtedly a progress in the spiritual life of our congregation, though a slow one, for the difficulties in our way are many and great. Our congregation is gathered out of four different churches; there are many errors and prejudices deeply rooted in the minds of the people; there is the power of particular customs and bad example; there are very great temptations, and skilful intrigues of men; and there is the more secret, and not less powerful enemy of the truth, the devil. A favourable sign is the great number of people who wish to be received into our congregation. The motives of the people are seldom pure—generally mixed ones; sometimes, for instance, intrigues, sometimes discontent with the management of the political and ecclesiastical affairs in their community, &c.; but never false hopes of pecuniary or worldly advantages to be gained by becoming Protestants: for every one in Nazareth knows that even the poorest of our congregations neither receive presents, nor get their house-rent or taxes paid.

The increasing importance and influence of our work becomes evident in the increasing prosperity of Nazareth; a feature especially calling on our attention, as it is a rare one in Syria; but especially so amongst the inland towns. And it is striking that the beginning of this happy change was about the same date with the opening of Missionary efforts here seven years ago. Before that time, many inhabitants left their home, and settled elsewhere, on account of the oppression and exaction of the Governors, but many begin now to return; for by the interest which the agents of foreign powers begin to take in Nazareth, unjust taxes have been abolished, and the arbitrariness of the government checked. Thus it has come to pass, that the Christian population has become three times as strong as the Mohammedan party, which is a mighty advantage. This year even, a whole colony of 500 Moslems, who had settled some years ago in the plain of Jezreel, removed. The population of Nazareth amounts now to nearly 7000 souls. Thus, by the better guarantee for the security of property, the activity and industry of many have been roused, and their property increased. During this year, for instance, forty houses (in the sense of the word at Nazareth) have been built. But more nearly related to our work are the improvements of another kind. Seven years ago there existed here, in the whole, only three schools, with about 150 children: now there are here eight boys'-schools and two girls'-schools, with, together, about 400 children. Much of the barbarity of the people has been softened down with the decrease of superstition and tyranny, and the increase of knowledge. The degraded condition of the females, and the very small success of our Mission amongst them, demand particular efforts. Only four females attend our services, and none of them ever partake of the Lord's supper. Thus our stoutest opponents are often in the very families of the members of our congregation. This circumstance is a great drawback.

I have still to report our labour in two neighbouring villages—

Yafa and Kefr Kana. In Yafa, two miles southward of Nazareth, dwell four families, which, several years ago, left the Greek church, and, since then, have been constantly in intercourse with the Missionaries at Nazareth. Their children visited the Greek school, but in July they were driven out of the same by the Greek priests, because they professed to be Protestants. Thus I was obliged at once to open a school for them. A useful and diligent schoolmaster presented himself at the same time, and the school promises to become a blessing to the village. I visit this outpost very often, and Mr. Müller goes there regularly twice a week, and, besides this, generally on Sundays, to instruct children and adults, who often assemble in great numbers.

In Kefr Kana (five miles northward from Nazareth) I became acquainted with a Greek sheikh; his name is Elias Essaphure, a very clever man, possessing an extensive knowledge of Scripture, who expressed to me the desire of devoting himself to the work of an evangelist. The Greek Christians there had no school, and several of them begged me to open one, that their children might be instructed in the truth of the Gospel. I encouraged, therefore, Elias Essaphure to begin a school, with the assistance of his two sons, who are clever boys, and very zealous in their duty as teachers.

Sept. 15—The school was opened, and is now regularly attended by eighteen boys, five of them Moslems, and some girls. Six families also left the Greek church, and assemble every Lord's-day, in the schoolroom, with Elias, to read the word of God, and to meditate upon it.

These small but promising beginnings at Yafa and Kefr Kana, as well as several Missionary tours in the neighbourhood of Nazareth, and throughout Galilee, have convinced me that Nazareth is the centre of a region which presents much opportunity and particular advantages for Missionary labour. The south and east of Nazareth, namely, the plain of Jezreel, is inhabited by Moslems, and ranged by the Bedouins; but the N.W. circle, to the distance of about ten miles from Nazareth, contains a Christian population of about 6000 souls, in twelve villages. The Moslems here are more ignorant than in larger towns, but also less fanatical. Lately I became acquainted with one who believes in Christ as the Saviour.*

SYRA.

Mission Establishment :

1 Ordained Missionary.

The expenditure of this Station is confined to the personal allowances of the Rev. F. A. Hildner. The whole expenses of the school under his charge are defrayed by local resources.

The school establishment contains an infant school, and a middle and a higher class school, comprising in all 240 girls. To every pupil the Scriptures are taught; and a dépôt of the Scriptures and other useful books is kept on the premises, by which some measure of scriptural knowledge is diffused among the people.

Mr. Hildner has also services in English and German, for the benefit of the Protestant residents, visitors, and sailors at Syra.

SMYRNA.

Mission Establishment :

- 1 Ordained European Missionary.
- 1 European Catechist.
- 2 Native Assistants.

The Rev. J. T. Wolters is assisted at Smyrna by his son, as well as by Mr. Dalessio. They have met with many discouragements in the diminution of their native congregation, and the difficulty of obtaining access to the people, arising partly out of "the noise and bustle of the place," and partly out of "the fear of the people of being known as having intercourse with Protestant Missionaries." Still, "sometimes in houses, and on the way-side, in the bazaar, and in the bookshop," endeavours have been made to diffuse, in a conversational way, the knowledge of the Gospel; and generally, when these opportunities occur, the people are ready to hear. Private opportunities, have hitherto proved the most useful. Missionary tours have also been made. Of the state of the Turks Mr. Wolters gives the following discouraging account in a letter, Feb. 16, 1858—

The Turks are dull and dead: they are self-sufficient and proud, despising and hating the Christians and their religion with a perfect hatred. The Indian mutinies have made a sad impression on their minds, and stirred up their religious fanaticism. I was told, some time ago, by a gentleman who has been long in the country, and knows well the mind and character of the people, that the Turks would do the same to the Christians that the Mussulmans of India have done, if they had but the power. No direct Missionary labours are as yet practicable among the Turks: they cannot be reached with the preaching of the Gospel. All we can do for them at present is to prepare books for them, to circulate these books when ready, and to hold occasional conversations with individuals who may be willing to discuss the subject of religion. Unless the Lord open the door for more aggressive labour we can do nothing.

The prospect of success with the Greeks, if not as hopeless, is as void of encouragement, as among the Turks. Under these circumstances, Mr. Wolters' chief labour has been bestowed upon translations, respecting which he writes—

According to the instructions of the Committee, I have devoted a considerable portion of my time to direct the translationable labours of Mr. Hagol, our Turkish translator. Our want of small tracts in the Turkish language made it necessary for us to prepare a number of such, in which the truths of the Christian religion are set forth in a practical manner, with close application to the heart and conscience, and which may serve as a call to the Turks to inquire into that religion, of which they have hitherto seen so sad a picture in the worship and life of Christians in the East. Six tracts from the catalogue of the Religious-Tract Society, one from that of the Christian-Knowledge Society, one from that of the Prayer-book and Homily Society, and one written by myself, have been translated into Turkish, and partly revised. Before they can be printed, however, another careful revision will be necessary, which will be my employment for some months to come. The work is difficult, inasmuch as it requires great care to find proper words for Christian ideas in a language which, though cultivated, has hitherto only been used to express the ideas of a false religion.

In the Greek language the following tracts have been printed during the past year:—

I. For the Prayer-book and Homily Society—

“The Form and Manner of Making, Ordaining, and Consecrating of Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, according to the order of the United Church of England and Ireland.” (A very excellent tract for the clergy, as also for intelligent laymen.)

“An Homily against Gluttony and Drunkenness.”

“An Homily against Excess of Apparel.”

II. For the Religious-Tract Society—

“On the Holy Spirit.

“On True Repentance;” both from Venn’s “Complete Duty of Man.”

“The World and the Soul.”

III. For the Church Missionary Society—

“A Sermon on the Third Commandment.”

“The Lord’s-day; or, Three short Sermons on the Fourth Commandment.”

All these publications have been well received by many among the Greeks. Considering that no sound religious books are ever published by the Greeks themselves, our sending forth of evangelical books and tracts among the masses of the people is indeed very important. "Cast thy bread upon the waters, for thou shalt find it after many days."

Our bookshops and colportage have been in operation during the year, and the result has been, as in former years, encouraging. Of the Holy Scriptures in various languages, either whole or in part, we have sold 251 copies. Among these are a few sold to Turks. Of religious books and tracts, 1634 copies were either sold or distributed.

Mr. Wolters thus replies to a question which naturally suggests itself to many supporters of the Missionary cause—

What then can we do? What encouragement is there to continue our labours on a small scale? The Society cannot send out a strong Mission, as the Americans have done. Should we not rather withdraw altogether? In answer to this question, I have, on a former occasion, expressed my humble opinion. I would only say here, that there is encouragement to continue our operations, even on a small scale, for the present. Perhaps within a few years the Lord may open great doors of usefulness before us, and raise up men and means to enter. Light is dawning on these dark eastern regions. Protestant or evangelical religion is becoming more known. It needs not to hide itself any longer, as in former years, even in my remembrance, when it was but too much hid and put under the bushel. "A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid." There stands our church, with its Bishop, on Mount Zion—a centre of light. But there should be more centres of light. The Missionaries of our beloved church, though few, should not quit the field as if they could do nothing. They should stand their ground; otherwise the enemies of the truth will triumph, and certain friends rejoice. But, looking away from man, we must lift up our eyes to Him who has sent us here to labour in his vineyard. "Let us labour while it is day: the night cometh when no man can work." There are thousands of souls around us perishing for lack of knowledge. Let us labour for their salvation, in humble dependence on the blessing, and in obedience to the command of Him, who has said to us, "Go ye also into the vineyard." And when at last our day of toil is over, and the even is come, and the Lord of the vineyard calls the labourers to give them their hire, our work of faith and labour of love, however small it may have been in the eyes of men, will receive its reward.*

EGYPT.

Mission Establishment :

I Ordained European Missionary.

The Rev. J. R. T. Lieder resides at Caïro. After thirty-three years residence in Egypt, he is not able to make Missionary tours, or to undertake labours requiring much exertion. He has services every Sunday in English and Arabic. His influence with the Coptic patriarch and people is considerable, and has contributed much to introduce scriptural education and light amongst them. The Abuna or Bishop of Abyssinia, who was once a pupil of Mr. Lieder, keeps up a correspondence with him. The state of the Mohammedans in Egypt is thus described by the Rev. Dr. Pfander, after a recent visit to Caïro—

March 3, 1858—Among the Mahommedans here, there is no sign of any movement, and no traces of any spirit of inquiry are as yet visible. This is the statement of Mr. Lieder, as well as of all the other Missionaries of whom I made inquiries on the subject. All is dead as yet, but infidelity is spreading among the higher classes. I feel, consequently, the more anxious to learn the state of the Musulman mind about Smyrna and Constantinople.

General view of the Mission.

THE storm which burst over the north-west provinces of India did but very partially affect the Bombay Presidency; but the apprehension of its approach stirred up Christians of all denominations to join in frequent prayer-meetings: so that it has been a season of much religious exercise, of which the benefit will, it is hoped, remain for many days.

At the close of the year the Rev. G. Candy was compelled to visit England for the restoration of his health, and the Rev. J. S. S. Robertson undertook the duties of the Secretaryship during Mr. Candy's absence. Upon Mr. Candy's departure, the Bombay Corresponding Committee placed upon "record their sense of his unwearied attention to their business, and also of the devoted zeal which he has always displayed in the cause of the Church Missionary Society, the interests of which he has so deeply at heart."

The tabular view of the state of the native churches in connexion with the Bombay and Western-India Mission of the Society shews a result of 313 baptized persons, of whom 71 are communicants.

BOMBAY.

The Native Christians in Bombay, having come from various parts of India, and belonging to many tribes and languages, are collected together for divine worship, in the Marathí language, on each Lord's-day, and are visited at their homes. They numbered at the close of the year 160, thirty-two of whom are communicants. Eight adults were baptized in the course of the year. A native pastor, the Rev. Daji Pandurang, ministers to these Christians, under the superintendence of the Rev. C. W. Isenberg. The spiritual attainments of these native Christians are very low, and the means of instruction, owing to the variety of languages, are imperfect. But as they should not be neglected, the Missionaries of the Society are content to do what is in their power for their spiritual improvement, though nothing can be reported of an encouraging kind. Mr. Isenberg has translated and published, by the assistance of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, a useful manual of instruction, in Marathí, for candidates for baptism.

During the apprehensions occasioned by the mutiny, many of the Missionaries were ready to minister to the troops, or to other parties brought together by the exigencies of the occasion. Mr. Isenberg, at the request of Mr. Forgill, the Deputy Commissioner of Police, conducted a weekly service for the benefit of a body of mounted European police, who would otherwise have been deprived, by their duties, of opportunities of public worship.

Mr. Isenberg thus expresses a true Missionary principle—

Numerous applications have been constantly received by me at my house, from persons of various descriptions—Europeans and natives, Christians, Jews, and heathen—for the greatest variety of objects. As much as I have been able, I have endeavoured to act upon Mr. Candy's rule, never, if possible, to refuse such calls without seeking to do them some spiritual good. It is true they often appear to intrude upon one's time and regular work, but very rare indeed are those calls which do not allow us, if we are on our guard to witness for Christ, and show them the one thing needful; and how can time be better employed?"

Mr. Pandurang reports that he has generally a congregation of from sixty to seventy native Christians, in Trinity Chapel, on Sunday mornings. He avails himself of many opportunities of addressing the heathen; but in Bombay the Missionaries have not the same liberty, as in many other towns, to collect together an audience in the thoroughfares. For many months Mr. Pandurang had a weekly meeting of young men connected with the various colleges and institutions in Bombay, who met to improve themselves in the English language, with whom he also discussed the evidences of the Christian religion.

Education.

The Robert-Money School, during the early part of the year, was under the care of the Rev. A. Davidson. In the month of August, Mr. Davidson removed to Nasik, and it was placed under the joint charge of Messrs. Robertson and Frost. The new building is completed, and will afford accommodation for a large increase of pupils. The conversion of a Brahmin pupil, and the opening of a rival school by the Hindús, and other causes, which are now abated, reduced the attendance, in the course of 1857, to less than one-half the numbers reported at the close of last year, viz. from 450 to 213.

Mr. J. Wilson writes—

The shock which we received at the time the Hindú college was opened is still felt by us. Many of our best and most promising young men left us, or rather were removed to the Hindú college by their parents or friends. Since we removed the school into the new building, I am glad to see, latterly, some of them returning. From the regularity of our attendance at school now, and the diligence the young men are manifesting, I may confidently say that a bright day is dawning on the Money school.

The new Madras series of school-books which have been recently introduced into the school are replete with sound Christian instruction, and exposure of idolatry. The whole tone of the series, from the first to the third book, is entirely scriptural, and calculated to set before the minds of the pupils the purity of the Christian faith, and the folly and sin of idolatry. A boy, from the time he is admitted, imbibes the principles laid down in this series. All the resident Missionaries in Bombay take a part in the Money school.

Mr. Frost, having shared in the duties of the school for a time, instead of returning to his itinerating labours, bears this striking testimony to the importance of the institution—

I firmly believe that one who leaves England (except under the peculiar circumstances, and with the special desires I left) simply desirous to spread Christian truth among the heathen, will find in this institution a most hopeful and happy sphere of labour. I say this with the strong impression on my mind that the Lord is now about to bless, in an especial and signal manner, our various labours. At present we can only wait to see how the Lord will magnify his great name ; for I doubt not that God will soon glorify his Son, Jesus Christ our Lord, in a manner suitable to his greatness and majesty, his grace and compassion, his faithfulness and promise.

Mr. Sargon is employed in visiting, inspecting, and teaching four vernacular schools, containing 241 scholars.

Female Education.

Miss White has continued to superintend eight vernacular schools, with much success as to the secular instruction of the children; but their early removal, and the influence of their unconverted parents, seem to defeat the great objects of reaching the hearts of the children, and winning them to the Christian religion. All the teachers in these schools are unbaptized, but they have all renounced idolatry, and express their conviction of the truth of Christianity, though they hesitate openly to profess Christ.

Mrs. Jerrom has a boarding-school of fifty orphan children, from the ages of four to sixteen. Besides the Christian instruction which they receive in the school, they are visited and catechized by the Missionaries. They are all instructed in domestic work, cooking, washing, &c. Mrs. Jerrom writes, at the end of the year—

I am carrying on my Missionary labours as usual, and believe that God owns and blesses them, though I am but an humble instrument in his hands. Several of the native girls in the Orphanage are very intelligent, can read the word of God with understanding, and I do hope a saving change has been wrought in them. I have frequently been cheered by seeing one and another of them go apart from the children, to read and pray in private. Of some I have less hope, and of some I feel anxious, lest, as yet, they may not have had any serious impressions. But we know that God alone gives the increase.

It is interesting to state that the orphanage contains seven African children, formerly slaves, who, together with a Mohammedan girl, were received into the visible church at the end of May, by the Rev. Dají Pandurang. One African girl, aged ten years, died after a long and severe illness, expressing her faith in her Saviour.

NASIK.

During the greater part of the past year, the Rev. W. S. Price, who has the pastoral care of the native Christians, and of the schools, has been the only Missionary at this Station. The Rev. C. C. Mengé having come home on a visit to Europe, after a residence of seventeen years in India, the Rev. A. Frost has removed to Bombay, to take temporary charge, in conjunction with Mr. Robertson, of the Robert-Money School. As Messrs. Mengé and Frost conducted the itinerating branch of the Nasik Mission, it has been intermitted during the past year. Even had the Missionaries been on the spot, it is doubtful whether the state of the country would have allowed of the continuance of that part of the work.

Mr. Price has carried out, with much ability and perseverance, the plans which he devised for the benefit of this Station, namely, the establishment of a Christian village, a mile from the city of Nasik, named Sharunpur, into which all the native Christians might be collected, and in which inquirers might for a time be lodged while under instruction. The village contains a church, schools, and an industrial institution, as well as an orphanage. It has been often questioned whether it is wise to isolate Christian converts from their countrymen, amongst whom they should be as the salt of the earth; but the solution of the question must depend upon the circumstances of each locality, and the character of the converts. No general rules can be laid down. The utility of orphanages, as a branch of Missionary labour, has also been doubted; but here again much depends upon the wisdom and ability of those in charge of such institutions, and upon the adoption of proper measures for the training and employment of the youths when they are of an age for work. The difficulties attendant upon such schemes do not occur in the earlier stages of the undertakings, but when the operations become extensive and complicated. The Committee watch with interest and hope the experiment on which Mr. Price is engaged. His report at the close of the year states—

In the Native Church, since the removal of the Mission to Sharunpur, there has been a gradual increase in the number of church members. Some who had been baptized, and were living in remote places, as sheep without a shepherd, have come, with their families, and settled down here; in several instances bringing friends and relatives with them desirous of receiving Christian instruction. The year round, there have been classes of men and women, candidates for baptism, under daily instruction and preparation for that holy rite. Of these, several have proved unsatisfactory, and have, after due trial, been dismissed, whilst six adults have been baptized, and about thirteen more, of whom I hope well, are still under probation.

The Industrial Institution has made steady progress. There has been no lack of work, our difficulty having been to secure the services of good and steady workmen, as teachers for the boys. We hope ere long to be independent of heathen instructors. I have been anxious to add a weaving or a tent-making establishment, or both, but it would require more capital to commence with than I see any prospect of obtaining for such a purpose at present. I do hope to accomplish this before very long, as either of the above trades possesses advantages which recommend it as an excellent staple for our rising Christian colony: chiefly, it would be remunerative, and at the same time furnish us with the means of employing an unlimited number of hands.

Mr. Price adds these reflections—

The God of Israel, the Lord of hosts, has watched over us in these parts of the country, and has not permitted the thunderstorm to burst over us, by which we were threatened with the same disastrous results which proved fatal to so many a dear life of our kindred people. For this preservation and providence of the Lord we have to be truly thankful, and must ever glorify his holy name. But I, for my part, have still more reasons to be thankful to the Lord; for although the past year has been a stormy and heavy one, yet to me it has been also a year of great blessing, and the small increase of our little native congregation obtained in this year demands my heartfelt gratitude towards my Lord and Master, Jesus Christ, in whose service I rejoice, in days of trouble and in days of ease.

JUNÍR.

At this station the Rev. C. F. Schwarz is assisted by the native minister, the Rev. J. Bunter, and two native teachers and schoolmasters. The Missionaries have itinerated in the neighbouring districts. Several converts have been added to the church, and, amongst the number, a well-educated Brahmin youth, of nineteen years of age, who had been formerly instructed by the Missionaries of Nasik.

Mr. Schwarz thus describes the state of excitement, even in the district of Junír, during the time of the mutiny—

I need hardly tell you, except that it is of interest to mention, that as the Mussulmans and Brahmins elsewhere lifted up their heads in hope that the British rule would come speedily to an end in this land, and the religion of Christ be, with it, driven out of the country, so our Junír folk was likewise animated by the same stimulus, and gloried in their imagination at the prospects they had set before themselves. We often had, in former days, noisy congregations in the town, but during this time they were ten times more so, till we were obliged to suspend public preaching, seeing the poor people too much excited to have profited by it. Whenever we came among them, there was a concourse of people from all classes, upwards of 300, who felt interested and pleased in our having been mocked, and ill-treated by the insulting Brahmins, who went so far as to say in public, "A few days more, and the country will be cleared from such fellows as you are." Had I kept a journal at the time, I could have filled it every day with recording one or another insult or threatening, yet, on purpose, I did not record it, preferring rather to forget it. Even little children, who, of course, must have heard the remarks of their parents at home, cried after us in the streets, and threw mud at me.

MALLIGAUM.

The Rev. E. Rogers, and the native minister, the Rev. Appaji Bappaji, have continued to itinerate through the district of Kandeish, making Malligaum their head-quarters, where there are about fourteen Christians, and a vernacular school. A few instances of apparently sincere inquirers have been met with, but great ignorance and apathy prevail, and sometimes direct opposition, as in the following cases—

The Brahmins employed in the revenue survey now going on in Khandeish are continually plotting against us. This much we certainly know, that Brahmins in Government employ are the enemies of all progress in a right direction. They are opposed to the spread of Christianity; they are opposed to the education of the masses; and they are powerful enemies, in consequence of their official connexion with Government, their position giving them considerable influence, and affording them many opportunities of injuring those who in any way incur their displeasure. It is therefore much to be regretted that nearly all the native officials in Khandeish, connected with the Government, are Brahmins. The history of our Missions in different parts of the world teaches us that the Missionary has often to labour long in faith and patience without seeing the fruit of his labours. Still I cannot write without sorrow that no one of the thousands of Kandeish has been brought into the fold of Christ during the past year through our instrumentality. But though no actual conversions have taken place, there is, I am thankful to say, a spirit of inquiry going abroad. In consequence of our preaching many have begun to doubt the truth of the Hindú religion who never doubted before.

In striking contrast with the Brahmins described in the foregoing extract, Mr. Rogers thus writes of his reception at the town of Dhúlia, in his journal, under the date Sept. 28—

At this place are two or three very intelligent young men, holding situations of responsibility under Government, who were educated in our English school at Nasik. They have not embraced Christianity, though they are, I believe, intellectually convinced of its divine origin. They seem always glad to have intercourse with us, and to assist us in any way they can. An English gentleman at the station, who takes great interest in the welfare of the natives, had informed one of these native gentlemen that I was in Dhúlia, and that there would be divine service in Marathí, in the Adawlut (the judge's court). As there is no church at Dhúlia, the English service is held in the Adawlut, and I had requested permission to assemble the native Christians in the same place for an early service. When I went there, I was most agreeably surprised to find about 200 natives assembled, in addition to the little congregation of native Christians. The native gentleman above alluded to had gathered together a large number of his friends, among whom were many Government officials of high standing; these again had attracted others; so that I had not only a large, but a very respectable congregation. There were present Hindús and Mohammedans, some of high caste, some of low. All behaved with the greatest decorum, and appeared to listen with earnest and serious attention. When reading the Liturgy, I felt very thankful that so much plain simple, scriptural truth was brought together and presented to the mind in the service of our church. Those present who gave only a moderate degree of attention, could scarcely help carrying away with them some blessed soul-saving doctrine of God's word, even if the sermon were a complete failure. Luximan, one of the native Christians, said to me, after the service, "I rejoice greatly: such a congregation never before assembled in Dhúlia to hear the word of God." In the streets of Dhúlia quite as many have probably before assembled to listen to some Missionary preaching the word, but so many never before assembled within the walls of a building in this place for the express purpose of being present at Christian worship, and of hearing the word of God. With Luximan, therefore, I rejoice greatly, because I see in it a sign of advancement in the right direction, and I feel assured, that if the people of this country can be induced to come in numbers to a place of worship, and listen to the preaching of the Gospel, the prejudices which they now have against Christianity will be removed, and the Gospel will prove to many the power of God unto salvation.

SINDH MISSION.

This Mission has been deprived, during the year, of three out of its four European Missionaries. Dr. Trumpp, after repeated fevers, and a severe domestic trial in the death of his wife, has returned to Europe, where he will pursue his linguistic labours, and the printing of his Sindh translations. When these are finished, he hopes to return to India.

The Rev. A. Burn has visited England on private affairs; and the Rev. J. Sheldon, after contending with severe illness for many months, has been compelled to relinquish Missionary labours for a time.

Dr. Trumpp, amidst his many interruptions, has prepared for the press a Sindhí grammar and reading-book. He has also compiled a dictionary, which already comprises "a larger number of words than the newest edition of Shakespeare's Hindústani Dictionary." With a view of ascertaining the pure Sindhí language, he has made a large collection of original Sindhí stories, poems, tales, &c.: a great portion he obtained from original manuscripts, others from dictation. They are partly Mussulman, partly Hindú. These works the Commissioner of Sindh, Mr. Frere, is anxious to have printed at the expense of Government. Dr. Trumpp has also translated about fifty of the Psalms direct from the Hebrew, and one of Dr. Pfander's works entitled "The Way of Life." He writes "My intention has been, from the beginning, first to put the language on a sure basis, and then to translate. The first, I trust, has been done; and I thank God that he has allowed me at least to clear away the rubbish. I have done the drudgery, and the more pleasant and spirit-refreshing task I am compelled to leave to more able hands."

Kurrachí.

This station has been under the care of the Rev. James Sheldon, until his health failed, assisted by the native minister, the Rev. M. Seal. There is a small native congregation. Mr. Sheldon has, during the cold season, taken Missionary tours into the neighbouring districts, and up the course of the Indus, as high as Kotrí. He writes, respecting his tour in the Kurrachí Hill District, which had not been before visited by a Missionary—

It was a source of great satisfaction, that, notwithstanding some expression of opposition, the message of salvation, in its fulness and exclusiveness, was preached in every village. Where readers were found, Sindhí tracts and Gospels were distributed. Readers, of course, were few and far between; yet it is deserving of notice, that, on two occasions, chiefs of villages, who were unable to read themselves, applied for books, saying that when their reading friends came, the books should be read aloud, for the benefit of the household. Occasionally, fakírs were met with at some of the tombs, and discussions held with them on the common points in dispute. These, with only one exception, received copies of Gospels and tracts. Thus the living word was made known. It is true there was little to encourage, but the seed sown will surely be found, even though it be after many days.

Mr. Seal reports—

The excited state of feelings which prevailed here for a time, both among the Christian and other population, prevented our usual operations, especially our bazaar preaching, being carried on for a while; but I am thankful in being able to state, that of late the tone of the people has improved, and the number of our audience in the bazaar has increased. They are more civil to us now than ever.

On one occasion, three Mohammedans ridiculed me, at which a man of their own creed came forward, to my surprise, from among the crowd, and threatened to strike the young coxcombs if they did not hold their peace, or leave the place immediately. People do not unfrequently converse and argue with each other on the subjects of our preaching.

The school at Kurrachí is under the care of Mr. Goodall, a trained master from England: he writes, at the close of the year—

Notwithstanding many discouragements, I am thankful to say, that, on the whole, we have made some satisfactory progress during the past year, although the numbers are now not so great as they were a few months ago. Still there is a greater proportion of such boys as are likely to remain for a good length of time, and I think I may safely say the proficiency is greater than has been attained to before.

Hydrabad and Shikarpur.

The Rev. A. Matchett has been left alone, during the greater part of last year, to conduct the incipient Missionary operations at these stations. He writes, in his annual letter, that the native Christians at Hydrabad are only those connected with the Mission, comprising five adults and five children. The following are extracts from his letter—

A shop has been opened in Hydrabad, under the auspices of the Bombay Bible Society, where the Scriptures are sold, and in which those who cannot or will not buy are permitted to sit and read the word of God. Taking every thing into consideration, this method of doing good comes up to our expectations, and the shop may be regarded as successful on a small scale.

Last cold season Mr. Burn and I, after making a tour through Sindh, remained at the important city of Shikarpur for seven weeks. We always met with hearers in the bazaar, who were sometimes attentive and respectful, and sometimes noisy and rude. They were generally more intelligent than the inhabitants of the smaller towns.

We were much comforted and encouraged by the arrival of Abdullah in July last, who was baptized at Kurrachí, about five years ago, and has since been in the Punjab. He is well fitted for the work of a catechist. I have rejoiced to observe in him signs of growth, both in self-knowledge and grace. He must have been a diligent student of the Bible during the three years of his absence from Sindh, not reading through the Scriptures imperfectly, so as to make their grand truths and principles his own. It would be difficult to find a more honest searcher after truth, looking at it for its own sake, and embracing it at any cost. Add to all this a clear head, an ability to state and illustrate the doctrines of the Gospel fully and forcibly, a facility in refuting Hindú and Moslem sophis tries, and a quiet public demeanour, and you have an unexaggerated description of our new catechist.

At the conclusion of his letter, Mr. Matchett writes—

Abdullah and I are now at Larkanah, a town with a population of 8000. We hope to reach Shikarpur in a fortnight, and purpose staying there two months. We have been treated with respect, and listened to quietly. I am sorry I cannot add that the people have listened with intelligent attention. The dulness and darkness of Sindhi villagers' minds, as regards spiritual and eternal things, are such as may be felt. At the present moment their stupid apathy is not an unmixed evil, for, partly owing to it, and partly to their timidity, they manifest no interest in the events which are now convulsing and degrading India.

Mr. Sheldon gives this account of the hopeful state of the Hyderabad Mission—

The Missionary prospect at Hyderabad is, to my mind, most encouraging. During the whole of my stay there, I always had the conviction that the work was real, and was telling upon a large and influential class in the very centre of the country in which we are endeavouring to rear the standard of the cross. The people, unlike the rabble we have at Kurrachi, are intelligent Sindhis. They are, it is true, earnest contenders for their creed, but they are willing to argue; and to such minds the truth must eventually recommend itself. I feel satisfied that many with whom we have disputed are persuaded that Christianity has vantage ground in the clearness of external evidences.*

Death of the Bishop of Calcutta.

The Committee, in common with the church in India, and with the whole church of Christ, have been called to deplore the loss of that eminent man of God, Daniel Wilson, Bishop of Calcutta. The Committee recorded their estimate of his character and labours in the following Resolution—

The Committee record the death of the Bishop of Calcutta with mingled feelings of deep sorrow at the loss of one of their oldest and most valued friends and patrons, and of praise and thanksgiving to God, that the benefit of his able, zealous, and most effective aid had been continued to the Society for more than fifty-four years; and that he has entered his rest in the fulness of years, and of the grace which is in Christ Jesus.

Mr. Wilson's name appears in 1803 as a member of the Society, soon after his ordination. In 1809, upon his removal to London, he was elected one of the twelve clergymen who, with twelve laymen, then composed the Committee.

In 1814 his name is mentioned as one of six clergymen, who, at the request of the Committee, commenced to visit, as a deputation, the Country Associations of the Society. These honoured names deserve to be recorded as the earliest travelling advocates of our cause—Basil Woodd, William Goode, Edward Burne, Melville Horne, Daniel Wilson, and James Haldane Stewart.

In 1815 Mr. Wilson was appointed Honorary Governor for life, as one who had rendered very essential service to the Society. In 1817 he preached the Anniversary Sermon, characterized by great power, eloquence, evangelical truth, a comprehensive view of the evangelization of the whole world, as well as by a large and catholic spirit towards all other Protestant Societies.

At the close of the same year, 1817, the Society had to suffer the first serious opposition from ecclesiastical authorities, by an attempt of the Archdeacon of Bath to prevent a Meeting being held in that city, and by his protest against the Society. Pamphlets on both sides, to the number of five or ten, were published; but that which was written by Mr. Wilson vindicated the constitution of the Society with so much Christian temper and spirit, and passed through fourteen editions within two months, rendered such aid to the cause, that the hostile attack was turned into an important benefit.

Mr. Wilson continued the zealous advocate of the Society in the pulpit and on the platform, the wise counsellor in its Committee-room, and the most valued friend of the Secretaries in all cases of perplexity or special need, till when, in the year 1832, he was called to the high post of Bishop of Calcutta.

His views of Divine truth having been the result of deep study and experience, by a powerful and independent mind, he was far removed from all party feelings. His attachment to the Church of England was strong and fervent. His sympathy was not the less sincere with every section of the "spiritual church," which comprises, to use his own terms in his Anniversary Sermon, “the invisible and mystical body of true Christians, who hold Christ as the head, are vitally united to him by his Spirit, and obey his laws, though they may differ in minor points of doctrine and discipline.”

The appointment of such a man to the Chief Missionary Episcopate of the church of Christ was hailed by all the members of the Society as a signal blessing from the Lord, and a new era of Missionary prosperity was anticipated. Great and important benefits have been conferred by him upon the Missionary cause. With the aid of his candid and able management, the ecclesiastical relations of the Society have been happily settled in all their main particulars. His holy and paternal intercourse with the Missionaries has done much to encourage and infuse the right spirit in their labours. His bold and uncompromising statement of the truth of the Gospel, and his rebuke of false doctrine, has, under God, elevated the whole tone of Christianity in a Church planted in the midst of the heathen.

The Committee do not indeed wish to pass an exaggerated encomium upon this eminent servant of Christ, as if there were no disappointments or trials mingled with so bright a career, or no occasions on which differences of judgment occurred. But such occurrences never interrupted the cordial interchange of affection and respect.

During his visit to England, in 1846, for a second time, he preached the Anniversary Sermon of the Society; and, on many other occasions, he greatly encouraged its home operations. Upon his return to India, his renewed knowledge of the Society's principles, and his matured experience of the state of Missions, prompted him frequently to enjoin upon the Committee, with the authority of an aged and affectionate father in Christ, the maintenance of its distinctive principles, and of the functions of the Committee, especially in respect of the choice of Missionaries. As a final proof of his entire confidence in the Church Missionary Society, he lately made over to its management the main portion of the fund of the Cathedral Mission, sufficient for the support of at least three Missionaries, which had been chiefly contributed from his own private resources; having proved, as he himself stated, that Indian Missions can be more efficiently conducted by such a Society at home, than upon an independent footing, even though under episcopal management.

In the review of such a lengthened blessing as the Society has enjoyed in the patronage of Bishop Wilson, the Committee would humbly ascribe all the glory to the great Head of the church, and earnestly supplicate the same grace to be given to the successor who may be appointed to so responsible a post of labour and authority.

The Committee proceed to review the North-India Mission under its three principal divisions—Bengal, the North-west Provinces, and the Punjab.

CALCUTTA.

The Mission at Calcutta has been conducted by the Rev. Messrs. Sandys, Long, Vaughan, Greaves, and Millward. The native Christians number about 900 : there are 25 schools and about 2000 scholars.

The Missionary operations of the Society at this station have been considerably enlarged during the past year. In addition to the out-stations at Thakerpuker and Agurpara, two others have been transferred to the Society, at which Missions had been for some time established, namely, the Cathedral Mission at Kidderpur and Alipur, and a Mission of the London Missionary Society at Kistopur on the east side of the Salt-Water Lake adjoining Calcutta.

Messrs. Sandys and Vaughan have charge of the Christian congregation at Mirzapur, preach in the city, and visit some of the out-stations.

Mr. Vaughan gives this candid report of the work—

As regards our native Christians, I can say very, very little. They are weak, many of them insincere and inconsistent. They do not shine as lights in the surrounding darkness. But I can say, that the longer I know them the better I understand them, and I think the more hopeful I am of them. There has been a strong tendency to represent them in the lowest possible light, on the part of many persons, whilst many again have described them as better than they are. I believe they are neither first-rate nor worst-rate Christians. I feel quite sure that their moral standard is considerably raised above that of the heathen. And, as regards vital piety, though the instances are neither remarkable nor numerous, yet there are many decided cases of genuine heartfelt religion amongst our people. It is not shown exactly in the way and form it assumes in a Christian country, in earnest Christian circles ; but I believe many of our people have a hold on Christ which they would not on any account relinquish. I believe the day of trial would show that there is real gold amongst them. This has been shown during the past year. I think my experience of the native Christians teaches me more and more the lesson of forbearance and patient hope—and hope that conceives there may be real good mixed up with much of an opposite character.

I believe our English schools to be an important, a very important part of our machinery. I do not like them because they are English schools. If we could have vernacular, all the better, but children will not come unless English be held out as a bait. As it is, we can, without an effort, get hundreds of fine lads under our influence ; and whatever else they learn, they certainly learn what Christianity is. No boy leaves our schools, if he complete the course, without having as good a knowledge of the Bible, and the doctrines of our holy faith, as you would find amongst a similar class of schoolboys at home. It is true they do not become Christians at heart : very few do. But neither do our national schoolboys in England. Each can answer any question you put as to a scriptural fact, but in either case the Christian teacher has to mourn over a lack of heartfelt religion in his pupils. One thing is certain, that the lads who leave our schools are no longer, in their minds, heathen.

A baptism took place in Calcutta during the season of the mutiny, which has a peculiar interest as exhibiting the gentle work of the spirit of God, in the midst of that awful social convulsion, upon the heart of a native of the kingdom of Oude. His father had held an hereditary employment under the King of Oude's Prime Minister, who has lately become notorious. He went on a pilgrimage seven years ago, and never returned. The mother and the only child, a youth only nineteen years of age, set out upon a pilgrimage to Juggernaut. The mother died. The other pilgrims tried to persuade him still to accompany them on the pilgrimage: but doubts arose in his mind.

He had previously heard the Gospel preached by a Missionary in his native city, Oude, or Ayaudhya, about four years since; and now the thoughts of what he had heard concerning the Christian religion, the invitation of the Gospel, the salvation of the soul, and eternity, were working in his mind, and influencing him to desire to know more concerning what he heard from the Missionary. By the time he had reached Ranígunge, his mind seems to have been quite changed in reference to going on pilgrimage, and he formed the resolution not to proceed to Juggernaut, but to Calcutta, to seek instruction in the Christian religion, with a view to his embracing it. He therefore left the company of the pilgrims, and made the best of his way to Calcutta, during which journey he met with various troubles, and became quite destitute; but he was enabled, with the divine blessing, to overcome all obstacles; and, after much inquiry for a Missionary establishment, he at length arrived, weary and fatigued, at the verandah of Trinity Church, on Monday before Easter (April 6th), while the divine service was being held. He stood in the verandah, and there heard the glad tidings of the Gospel, which proved refreshing to his soul. At the close of the service, he introduced himself to one of the Christian schoolboys, and by him was brought to John Mothur, our native catechist, stating that the man was desirous of becoming a Christian. The catechist, on talking with him, and questioning him as to his motives for wishing to become a Christian, was well satisfied as to his being a sincere inquirer after the way of salvation; upon which he brought him to me. I gave him a Catechism on the principles of the Christian religion, in Urdú, to study and commit to memory; in addition to which he has been supplied with the New Testament, and the Allahabad edition of "The Messiah in the Old and New Testaments;" and now he is giving his attention to the study of these books. The whole of his deportment, as well as his regular attendance on the means of grace, leads me to believe that he is a sincere convert, a vessel of mercy chosen of God through Jesus Christ into eternal life.

On the occasion of his baptism he received the name of Gholaum Mussih (Servant of Christ), which name was chosen by himself. He has a good knowledge of the Urdú and Persian languages, and it is my hope that I may hereafter be able to employ him as an Urdú scripture reader, for which he is likely to become well qualified, if he continues, as we may earnestly hope he will, steadfast in the faith of Christ, under whose banner he has now enlisted.

Mr. Long devotes a portion of his time to the English school at Mirzapur and to the superintendence of the out-station of Thakerpuker. He also renders most important service to the Mission cause by his able and zealous efforts to improve the vernacular literature of Bengal, especially in the supply of schoolbooks, and to promote the education of the masses of the population.

Messrs. Greaves and Millward are regarded as more especially belonging to the Cathedral Mission Fund. Mr. Greaves has charge of the church and congregation at Christ Church, Cornwallis-square :* his Mission is chiefly directed to the educated classes. He speaks of his disappointment resulting from many instances in which a conviction of the truth is freely avowed, but the conscience remains insensible. "One feels (he says) as if each arrow fell upon a rock; which only turned its point, and received no impression. But the word of God can even break the rock in pieces." He remarks that his intercourse with the natives has been hitherto chiefly at his own house, where they call from time to time, or come regularly for instruction and conversation; but he hopes soon to do more in the way of calling upon them. He mentions one interesting case of a young man about 25 years of age, who has embraced the truth, and received baptism.

A district on the south of Calcutta, formerly under the charge of the Cathedral Mission, has been transferred to the Church Missionary Society, in the places called Alipur, Kidderpur, and Garden Reach. Mr. Millward was placed here in June 1857, and has charge of two English schools. That at Alipur belonged, for a good many years, to the Church Missionary Society, until, at the request of the Bishop and the Missionaries of the Cathedral Mission, it was placed under the charge of the latter in April 1850. It is now restored to this Committee's care again. The Garden-Reach schoolhouse was built in 1853, by the late Prince Mohamed Kykobad Shah, one of the family of the celebrated Tippú Sultan, and by him made over to the Bishop of Calcutta, on condition of a school being maintained in it. The Bishop transferred it to the Church Missionary Society in 1857. Both these schools receive grants-in-aid from the Government, and in both the fees paid by the pupils are higher than is usual in our schools, but are readily paid without lessening the number of pupils. There are also vernacular boys' and girls'-schools under the care of Mr. Millward and a few native converts.

* The premises in Cornwallis-square consist of a spacious and well-built church and Mission house in the native part of Calcutta. They are the property of the "Evangelical Fund" of the Old or Mission Church, Calcutta, and were given over for a term of years to the Cathedral Mission, but, at the Bishop's suggestion, they have been transferred to the use of the Church Missionary Society, for as long as it may require them for Missionary purposes.

Agurpara.

This out-station continues under the care of the active and zealous catechist, Mr. De Rozario. The large English school, which has been long maintained by the Society in a state of great efficiency, has been reduced in its numbers by the opening of two or three rival schools, conducted by natives, but encouraged by Government grants-in-aid. The number of boys in the Mission-school consequently fell from 300 to 140, but has risen again to about 200. Mr. De Rozario has employed the leisure occasioned by a diminution of his school, in visiting, with his head teacher, the surrounding villages, where they preach to the people, and distribute Christian books.

Thakerpukur.

Mr. Long has continued to superintend the work connected with this out-station as in former years, chiefly by means of native agency. Five of the village schools have received Government grants-in-aid. Mr. Long is very anxious to see the masses of the people under some sort of instruction, often saying "that it is almost useless to provide Bibles and tracts for people of whom scarcely one in a hundred can read, and nearly as useless to preach to them when their minds are so utterly degraded, and, so to speak, materialized, as to be scarcely able to comprehend any idea unconnected with their physical wants."*

Mr. Long gives this account of his Missionary labour in the district—

"Saturdays are devoted by me, at Thakerpukur, to instructing the teachers, who come from the villages and schools. Mondays are devoted to instructing our Christian boys and girls, over sixty in number. With the senior classes my mode of instruction for years has been lecturing from notes, while they are required to take down the heads: these note-books also serve the village teachers for instructing others. I have delivered, during the year, about 100 lectures in Bengal to them, on the emblems of Scriptures, and the analogy between scriptural things and natural things.

Sunday mornings I devote at Thakerpukur to the Bible-classes; and at ten o'clock I start in my boat, with a catechist and a couple of teachers, and we proceed to preach in the villages.

Kistopur.

The Mission at this out-station was established several years ago by the London Missionary Society, who have transferred it to the Church Missionary Society. A new chapel and schoolroom have been erected in a central spot. One of the native Christians has been appointed reader, and the station is visited either by Mr. Sandys or by the catechist, John Mothur, from Calcutta, every Lord's-day. There are twenty-eight families of native Christians, consisting of above 100 individuals. Mr. Sandys speaks hopefully of the results already appearing from the care bestowed upon this district.

BURDWAN.

The Rev. B. Geidt and the Rev. A. P. Neele have divided the duties of this station. Mr. Neele has the superintendence of the English school.

Mr. Geidt, in his annual report of the station, states—

It is a cause of great gratitude that our congregation sympathized with us during the late trying and sad times. Native Christians felt they had common cause with us: being of the same faith, they must stand or fall with us. It was a great comfort to us to have some brethren with whom we could consult. On the whole, our native flock have walked orderly, with a few exceptions, during the past year. The regular services at the church are attended, and the teachers and some others continue to come to my house for instruction twice during the week, when we read portions from the Old and New Testaments, and at the Sabbath-school we go through the Ten Commandments, the Apostolic Creed, and the Articles of the Church of England. These lessons have a salutary influence. The male portion of the congregation have likewise continued their weekly prayer-meeting, and they have also commenced a devotional meeting entirely of their own accord, in which they read the word of God, and speak on its contents, and read and sing together. It is held in the orphan boys'-school every Saturday evening, and attended also by the elder boys.

We have been permitted to speak the truth in love in the whole zillah of Burdwan, and people heard us gladly. As a proof of this, I would first mention that the two teachers, who are at present itinerating in the district, are often asked by the people whether the Sahib will come in the cold season. Some of our men frequently go about preaching without me. This shows that many in this neighbourhood begin to like to hear us : they listen with delight to the glad tidings. But here it ends. They are still worldly-minded, and will not come forward and embrace the Gospel. Yet I believe our labour in the Lord is not in vain. The present is still the day of small things, where only here and there one comes out from heathenism. May it be as a few drops before a more copious shower, and may the time not be very distant when all India shall turn unto the Lord ! Considering what has been achieved in this land the last fifty years, we need not despair.

Besides going to the bazaar and villages around, I find it a good practice to visit here and there some Babús in their houses, as they will not attend the chapel, nor stand on the road to listen. I am received kindly. I will just allude to a conversation I had with Babú K. M., a well-informed man, who takes great interest in education, and has written several books. He believes only in one God. He said, "that education, not founded on religion was barbarianism, and he saw a great difference between those men who had been educated in Mission-schools from those educated in Government-schools. The former were generally humble and well-behaved, while many of the latter were proud and overbearing. He thought the Missionaries should have a share in the management of education.

Mr. Geidt reports a commencement of collections amongst the native Christians for the Missionary cause, and the springing up of a spirit of liberality amongst them, from which he has derived much encouragement.

Mr. Neele takes the following review of the labours of the year—

For another year I have been permitted to carry on, without interruption my labours in the Lord's cause ; a mercy to be accounted so much the greater, because the experience of many of our brethren in other parts of India has been far different. We were not, however, without our fears during the earlier stages of the mutiny in the native army. Burdwan is situated upon the high road from Calcutta to the North-Western Provinces, and in case of the mutineers proceeding either from Calcutta to Delhi, or coming from the Upper Provinces to Calcutta, they would have passed through this place. On this account considerable apprehensions were occasionally felt. From real danger, however, the Lord mercifully preserved us all. The only way in which the mutiny affected our labours here was, that during the time that mutinous and disbanded sepoys were prowling about the country, we were unable to visit outlying villages, as we did not think it prudent to do so. The town and neighbouring villages were just as open to Missionary labours as previously ; and on the whole, whilst we deeply lament the tragical events that have marked the course of the revolt, we are far from being discouraged in our work.

Mr. Neele, also, like his brother Missionary, visits the more respectable inhabitants, and is well received by them. "In such visits he has met with several secret believers in Christ. Of this class, one gentleman, intelligent and well educated, told him that he could not brave the storm of obloquy and persecution he should have to endure in embracing Christianity. Even his European superiors, he said, would oppose him in such a step. He hoped, however, he added, to be baptized upon his dying bed."

Education.

The schools have always been an interesting feature of the Missionary work at this long-established station. A Christian boys'-school is under Mr. Geidt's superintendence, and a Christian girls' and infants'-school are under Mr. and Mrs. Neele. An English school is also under the charge of Mr. Neele in the town of Burdwan, which has to contend with the powerful rivalry of a similar school, supported by the Rajah of Burdwan, with teachers of high attainments and valuable scholarships. The chief effect of this rivalry is to draw off the elder boys, but they carry off with them a large knowledge of Scripture truth. The Mission schools were examined by Archdeacon Pratt and the Rev. G. G. Cuthbert at the close of the year, who found them in a vigorous and satisfactory state. There are also vernacular schools in the neighbouring villages.

KISHNAGURH.

General account of native Christians—Behaviour during the rebellion.

The Committee have, on former occasions, frankly stated the dark features of the Kishnagurh Mission, especially in the discouraging reports of some of the Missionaries themselves. They may therefore claim the confidence of their Christian friends in reporting on the present occasion the very satisfactory behaviour of the native Christians during the time of the mutiny. It has been proved, by this crisis, that even a low state of nominal Christianity is far preferable to heathenism; and that when the time of trial comes the feeble Christian does not renounce his faith, or yield to his former superstitious associates.

Upon the first intelligence of the outbreak the native Christians of Kishnagurh prepared and forwarded an address, in the Bengali language, to the Governor-General, dated May 28, 1857, and signed by many individuals as representatives of their countrymen. It was, as Mr. Schurr states, "the unprompted expression of their sentiments towards Government." It deplores the treason of their fellow-countrymen, and offers such assistance as they could render, in the following terms—

This bad news we have learned through many of the newspapers, and in the trouble of our governors we are troubled; and with troubled minds we give our signatures to state, that in case any further troubles should arise, we native Christians in the Kishnagurh Districts, if called on, will be ready to aid the Government to the utmost of our power, both by bullock-carts and men, or in any other way in which our services may be required, and that cheerfully, and without wages or remuneration.

If a letter be sent to the Missionaries in the Kishnagurh District, what we have said shall be cheerfully done: they will exert themselves to give their people, or to aid in any way that may be required. We, native Christians, being happy in the prosperity of the Government, desire to share in the troubles that may come upon it.

Review of the work.

The Kishnagurh District is still divided into nine stations, three of which are under the Rev. F. Schurr, and two under the Rev. J. G. Lincké: the other four have each one or two resident Missionaries.

The senior Missionary of the station, the Rev. H. C. Krückeberg, in charge of Chupra, has been compelled by ill health to return to Europe after twenty-seven years' experience in India.* His account in the last Annual Report was of a discouraging character. But upon the eve of his departure he took another annual survey of his work, comparing especially its present state with that of eleven years ago, when he returned to his work after a former visit to Europe. The review of this long interval presents a brighter picture of the Mission, and leads him to this conclusion—

Much remains to be wished for. Still, if any one, who was here ten years ago passes our place, and looks about in the Christian village, he will observe great improvements. Coming from a heathen village into this Christian village, he will see the latter in many ways superior. He will see that this is properly divided by roads; that every dwelling has its proper opening into the thoroughfare; that the dwellings, for the most part, have their enclosures; that the hedges are kept in proper shape; and that here and there a bad hole has been filled up; though it should be observed that only few as yet entered on these things by their own impulse: most must be driven to it by the Missionaries. As to means of support, many of the people get through the year without much difficulty: others find it very hard to get through. Some never get out of debt, though this is not always a proof of want. It is in some a disease very common in the country, but it is not tolerated in any teacher or reader.

The number of houses in the village is 166, including 80 family dwellings. They cultivate about 452 biggahs of land, for which they pay about 415 rupees rent. Readers and teachers had, in former years, their houses built and kept in repair by the Society. This is no longer done for them: only two houses are kept in order by the Local Support Fund: one is for the poor, and one for the sick.

To speak of the internal state of any native-Christian community requires a great deal of caution, lest we mislead or discourage the weak. The individual character of the people of this clime must be taken into consideration: next the crooked motives which have brought them together under our influence, their actual intellectual, moral, and uncultivated state, and their continued operations in a heathen land, together with our own unfitness in speech and mind to read their understandings and feelings of heart. As far as I can see, the Gospel exerts its saving and reforming power among this people in the same degree as in Germany, or any other land. There are some among my people of whom I can say that the word of God has touched their hearts, and convinced their understandings. Their conduct is consistent and refreshing to the mind. I enjoy their company. I could live and die with them. There are many others who are no dishonour to Christianity; they represent a large class in Christendom. But there are others who have never admitted any of the good seed to enter either head or heart. They are still thieves, as they ever were. Two of them were convicted last year of cattle stealing, and are now in irons: in fact, my own people assisted so that they were caught.

The last Annual Report spoke of the "experiment" upon which Mr. Schurr had entered of placing experienced native teachers in charge of stations, so as to enable one European Missionary to superintend several stations. Mr. Schurr had thus undertaken the care of Rottenpur and Joginda, as well as his own station of Kapasdanga. He writes in his report, after the experience of another year—

The experiment of superintendence has hitherto proved remarkably successful: it entails an uncommon amount of labour and fatigue on me, and partly on my wife; but we are rejoiced to have the opportunity of doing good, and carrying on so much work with so little outlay. The Lord has blessed us signally with good and devoted native helpers, otherwise we should not be able to carry out the important scheme. May He multiply their number, and glorify Himself in his saints! I can also add, to the praise of God's mercy, that there are now a few spiritual characters who are a light to others by their devout and consistent conduct. Particularly have the catechist, readers, and teachers led a blameless life, and most faithfully attended to their duties. As I am now only able to superintend, without teaching much myself in the schools, they feel that the responsibility is thrown upon them, and they labour, therefore, the more cheerfully.

At Kapasdanga the communicants are very devout at the Lord's supper, and show that they feel the importance of that divine institution. Two adults have been added by baptism, of whom we have strong hopes that they are true followers of Christ: both are women; the one the wife of a planter's servant, both of whom were brought to Jesus through the planter's instructions. Would to God there were many such planters and civil and military servants! I am convinced we should then have no rebellion. The other woman, an ayah, was instructed by Benjamin, the catechist. At the Lord's supper, monthly prayer meetings, and other occasions, they have given above 50 rupees for the poor and sick, and for the purchase of medicines. They have taxed themselves for the latter object, and give about one rupee a month. This is a small trifle, yet it is a beginning. Were they independent, like the peasants in my country, they would soon be able to support their own churches, schools, &c.; but the planting and zemindar systems nip every good attempt in the bud, and it will be for many years that the European Christians will have to maintain these churches, unless the natives obtain justice and protection. They have been most industrious, but no one likes to toil for nothing. When the time comes to enjoy the fruits of their own labour (Isaiah lxx.), then they will become more able and willing to give liberally: now it is impossible for them.

At Rottenpur the catechist has had grace to conduct his duties to my entire satisfaction. He has succeeded in gaining the confidence of the Christians, and has thus drawn them together again. There has been no serious misdemeanor among them during the past year, and they have likewise been willing and ready to show kindness to the poor and needy. The teachers also have faithfully performed their duties, and instructed the children remarkably well.

The day-schools, four in number, have greatly improved, and the Christians and heathen in the neighbourhood have been visited. The work is in a most flourishing condition, and gives evidence that our labour has not been cast away, nor has the expenditure for our Missions been unattended with adequate result.

Mr. Schurr has been obliged to dismiss the catechist at Joginda for misconduct, so that the report of this station is less favourable.

Mr. Lincké's report of the Bhollobpur and Solo Districts is discouraging, chiefly in respect of the inefficiency of his native agency, and the grinding oppression, as he alleges, of the European landlords of the indigo plantations on which the native Christians work for their livelihood. Representations have been made to the authorities on the spot. The evil complained of in this and too many similar cases was brought before Parliament, in the last session, by the Hon. A. F. Kinnaird, and the attention of the home authorities was promised to be given to the subject. The Mission has been exposed to the trial of a papal aggression. Mr. Blumhardt describes, in his report of the Kishnagurh Sudder station, the great evils which have arisen from the presence at that station of a Romish priest, with ample funds at his disposal. He has been eighteen months at the station. Without making a single convert from heathenism, but he has allured thirty-five adults, with their thirty-seven children, to turn back from scriptural truth. Not one of the communicants has been beguiled, but only those who were dissatisfied, insubordinate, and worldly-minded. Thus division has been introduced into the small flock of native Christians at this station.

The Rev. S. Hasell has had charge of the Nuddea station, of which the chief work is educational. He has opened a Sanskrit school, which has attracted the sons of many of the learned Pundits, who will even read the Scriptures in that venerated tongue.

Santipur—The Bengal Training Institution.

The Institution at Santipur for training native teachers is a most important Institution to the future prosperity of the Mission. It has been conducted with great zeal and ability by the Rev. C. Bomwetsch and the Rev. A. Stern. The number of pupils at the close of the year was forty-five. The labour of the superintendants would be both lightened and rendered doubly effective if the schools at the different stations could supply the Institution with more advanced pupils than they are able to do at present.

The Rev. C. Krückeberg gives the following account of the Institution at the close of the year—

The training-school at Santipur receives the most promising boys from the boarding-schools at the several stations in Kishnagurh. The teaching is wholly carried on in Bengali. The pupils are made well acquainted with our Protestant biblical Christianity, in contrast with the prevailing false religions of their own country. Sanskrit is also taught, as every native must cultivate that language to render himself useful and respected among his countrymen. Other branches of education are not neglected, as history, geography, &c. In the evenings, when the Missionaries go out to preach to the heathen, some of the most advanced pupils accompany them, and thus learn how to defend the Christian faith, and to recommend it to the acceptance of their fellow-countrymen. I have been one of the bi-annual examiners of the school, and have been always favourably impressed with the manner in which the teaching is carried on, and with the proficiency of the pupils. The pupils are generally be-spoken before they have finished the course, Government wishes to employ them in their vernacular schools. Missionaries of other denominations apply for them; but our own Missionaries have the preference, and, amongst these, the Missionary who has sent them to the school. The school has been seven years in operation. The number of pupils who have gone out is eleven or twelve. One is employed by Government in their Húgly Vernacular Normal-school. The number at present under instruction is about thirty.

The following incidental testimony of an experienced Missionary to the value of this training institution is given in a letter of the Rev. J. Long, of Calcutta, dated Oct. 22, 1857—

I have got a teacher from Mr. Bomwetsch's training-school on twelve rupees a month: six men like him would be far more useful in a rural district than a young Missionary for his first seven years in India.

A large school for native boys is connected with the training institution as a practising school for the young men under training for teachers, and in this school Christianity is taught of course.

A female-school, too, attended by about forty females of the better class, is also managed by Mrs. Bomwetsch, and has a considerable number of pupils. This is a somewhat new and very gratifying feature in Missionary work—a school established and conducted by an educated native-Christian female for the daughters of her country. Most cordially do we wish it prosperity in the name of the Lord.

Although the regular work at this station is educational, and consists mainly of the training institution, neither Mr. Bomwetsch nor Mr. Stern neglect preaching and teaching the Gospel to the heathen. In addition to Missionary preaching tours in the cold weather and school vacations, the Gospel is constantly preached in the large and populous town of Santipur and its neighbourhood. And besides the efforts of the brethren themselves, in this way, a native Christian convert, formerly a Brahmin, and considered very well qualified for the work, has been engaged to go about constantly, and, chiefly in the way of discussion and conversation with respectable natives at their houses, to impart a knowledge of Christ's salvation.

BHAGULPUR.

In the early part of the year now under review the Rev. E. Drøese, who had hitherto been the only Missionary of the station, was gladdened by the arrival of the Rev. J. Erhardt, who was transferred from the East-Africa Mission. Mrs.

Dræse has given the following graphic description of the work at Bhagulpur, in a letter to the Society for Promoting Female Education in the East, dated Bhagulpur, May 25, 1857—

Our Mission here in Bhagulpur has been now exactly seven years in existence, and a vineyard has been planted which has already borne rich fruits. A good-sized Mission house, an orphanage, a church, and several schools, show to the bodily eye what we owe to the help and co-operation of those interested in our Mission; but the Lord, on his side, has shown that his holy word has the same power it had in earlier times, and that He works as He did of old. We have a church of about 200 souls, without reckoning those who have been called up to the church above from the midst of us. If we look at individual members, we cannot say the greater number are all we could wish. Most of them are but as children in understanding, and must be brought before the Lord as children. Some give us cause for uneasiness from their lukewarmness and instability, and but few could be taken as examples of matured Christian character. My desire is very earnest that our friends may be stirred up to pray for our Mission specially. Many, both in Germany, and probably in England, are impressed with the mistaken idea that the new converts from heathenism are models of holiness and piety. They forget how many hindrances these converts have to contend with, and to what evil examples they are exposed from childhood.

This is the case with all Missions among the heathen, but our Christians in Bhagulpur seem particularly to need, in this respect, the intercessory prayers of our friends at home: most of them are soldiers in the native regiments, and therefore they cannot, like other native Christians, live apart from the heathen, but must dwell with their families in the barracks, where often a Christian and his wife must live in the same room with ten or twelve heathen soldiers.

Here Satan exercises his power: these lambs of Christ's flock are surrounded with wolves, ready to entice them to the grossest sins, and, if they cannot succeed, persecuting them with scoffs and mockings. If our friends could see how often the members of our church are tormented by their nearest relatives, and exposed to every kind of scorn and persecution, they would put up redoubled prayers for them. How can we wonder that persons so circumstanced should often fall? We must look on it as a special grace from the Lord when the bruised reed is not quite crushed, nor the smoking flax quenched; and yet we have Christians, many, in whom the Lord's power has been gloriously shown forth, and who bear witness of what manner of spirit they are, and that the Lord works mightily in weak vessels, who walk in his footsteps, and are an example of all we should desire to see.

The station of Bhagulpur was the only one of the Society's stations in Bengal which was seriously affected by the mutiny. At the close of the year Mr. Dræse writes—harm. If there was, at our station or in its vicinity, commotion, it was for the hurrying away of the elements of mischief. The Dinapur soldiery rose and went westward; the regiment of irregular cavalry at Bhagulpur rose and fled in terror at an imaginary danger; part of the 32d native infantry mutinied and left the Santhal district for the north-west; the remainder were ordered eastward; and thus our district was cleared of the ominous presence of the sepoys. It is true we had several times to leave our house, and our native Christians, as well as we, had for weeks together to keep ready to fly; but, barring this, we had no trouble to submit to. We were prepared to see the worst come to pass, but the Lord has warded off all, and our work stands there unscathed. It was not in the providence of God that we should be hurt, and thus heart was given unto us, and many of our native Christians, to pray continually for being spared. The prayer has been heard. We therefore, as we have done before, do here again acknowledge the great mercy of the Lord our God towards us most unworthy servants of his.

The storm which raged in the land, and still does, has done us no

The anxiety our native Christians had to go through during the time of the disturbances, when many anxious prayers were drawn from them, and the signal deliverance from imminent danger, disposing their hearts to offer up unto God heartfelt praises and thanksgivings, will, it is hoped, have had a lasting effect for good on the hearts of many of our people.

In the last Annual Report an account was given of a proposal which had been made to the Society by Mr. Halliday, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and sanctioned by Lord Canning, the Governor-General of India, in Council, that the Missionaries at Bhagulpur should undertake the establishment of schools for the civilization of the Santhals, of which Government should bear the expense. The Society willingly responded to the proposal, and schools were commenced. By the end of September seven schools had been established with an attendance of about 175 boys, who were taught to read and write in Hindî, and to commit the ten commandments, the Lord's prayer, and Bible texts, to memory. The Santhals nowhere objected to Christian instruction, except in the neighbourhood of a Government school, with a heathen Bengali schoolmaster, who tried his utmost to vilify the Mission schools and Christian instruction.

While the Indian Government was giving every assistance to the Society in carrying out their proposal, the Court of Directors in London most unexpectedly interfered, Lord Ellenborough being President of the Board of Control, and sent out a despatch* to put an end to the arrangement, and to direct the establishment of schools under Government management, from which religion was to be excluded.

* Vide "Church Missionary Record," 1857, p. 365.

The despatch has been met in India by a strong remonstrance on the part of G. U. Yule, Esq., the Commissioner for the Santhal Pergunnahs, and by W. G. Young, Esq., the Director of Public Instruction. M. Yule, in his communication to the Indian Government, characterizes the plan which the Society was prepared to carry out as "the noblest scheme of education ever, to my knowledge, set on foot in India." He contrasts with this the inefficiency and costliness of Government education, and reprobates the exclusion of Christianity from the schools of a Christian Government. He expresses this hope—"Among other changes which late events will produce, I earnestly hope and firmly trust to see swept away that mistaken policy which has hitherto made us appear traitors to our God and cowards before men." He concludes his communication with this energetic protest against the Government system of education—

Assuredly we are not here merely to introduce steam-engines; and the sooner we set about our appointed work the better. The natives have no idea of conversion in general, except by means of force or fraud, greased cartridges, or acts giving patrimonial property to deserters from the ancestral faith. Government might have Christianity taught in all its schools. Once it was known we were in earnest, not a murmur would be raised. We have ourselves fostered and encouraged murmurers by giving way to them, even by anticipation; but murmurs or not, we have a right to teach what we believe to be true, and we are bound to teach the whole truth. I would not force schools on any place; but, if asked for, Christianity should be taught. If Hindús and Mussulmans set up schools themselves, good: let them have a grant-in-aid: they are entitled to that out of the general revenue of the country; but they are not entitled to any other help or encouragement from a Christian Government. I know not which have most pupils, Christian or unChristian schools. It is said the former owe their large attendance to being free-schools, which the latter are not; but this only proves how little many heathen parents care about their children being taught the Bible.

Whatever may be done elsewhere, I pray his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor to support his own scheme for educating the whole of the Santhal districts with all the weight of its influence.

No apology is required for speaking my opinion freely, if, as I trust, I have spoken it without disrespect for the opinions of others.

Mr. Young remarks upon this communication—

I fully recognise the fact, that the teaching carried on in such schools (the Government Mofussil schools) is, generally speaking, not characterized by that earnest conscientious spirit and that character of practical utility which are usually seen in schools superintended by experienced Missionaries. And I concur, also, in the opinion, that if Government deliberately rejects the cheap and valuable service now offered, a great mistake will be committed.—“Reports of the Director of Public Instruction in the Lower Provinces for the half-year ending October, 1857.”

The Committee have reason to hope that the Home Government will not continue their opposition in the teeth of the experience of the highest authorities in India. At all events the Committee are determined to go forward with the scheme, as far as their means and the men at their disposal will enable them to proceed.

II. NORTH-WEST PROVINCES.

The stations in the North-west Provinces were the only stations of the Society in India which suffered in the recent mutiny. The Committee will preface their review of the ordinary Missionary operations by a sketch of the progress of the mutiny as it broke out successively in each station. For fuller details reference must be made to the periodical publications of the Society, which contain the narratives in full of several of the Missionaries.*

The first murderous outbreak of the Sepoy mutiny was at Mirut, on Sunday the 10th of May 1857. The Rev. A. Medland was performing service in the Mission chapel on that fatal Sunday evening, when a messenger rushed in and exclaimed that the Sepoys had mutinied, were murdering all the Europeans, and were advancing to the chapel. He, with Mrs. Medland, fled in the direction opposite to his own abode, which was that from which the sounds of violence came. Just as they reached the friendly gate of Major Scott of the artillery, which, though ordered to be closed, was opened for a moment to admit them, an empty buggy swept by, of which the occupant had just been murdered, and in a very few minutes the mutineer sowars were at the gate clamouring for admission. Providentially, however, the gate was strongly fastened, and, after an attempt at forcible entry, the mutineers rushed forward to a neighbouring house, which they burned and destroyed.

Had Mr. and Mrs. Medland gone to their own house they would almost certainly have been killed, for a large mob from the city attacked it, inquiring for them, and venting their rage upon the buildings by destroying them, as far as practicable, carrying off every thing valuable they could find.

* Vide the “Church Missionary Record” and “Intelligencer,” from August 1857 to April 1858. A reflective history of the mutiny will be found in the “Intelligencer,” entitled “The Rainbow in the Cloud, or Mercy amidst Judgment.”

The native Christians at Mírut, and especially the native teachers, were exposed to insult and the loss of property ; but every life was preserved. One of those teachers was more than once beaten and left for dead. He saw his house and all his property consumed by the flames, and was in ignorance of the fate of his wife and father, yet his faith did not fail: and when, as he thought, his family had been destroyed with all his property, his exclamation was—"The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away."

In connexion with this station God gave a gleam of light in a dark hour. Some native Christians fleeing from Mírut left a part of their goods at a neighbouring village, and, amongst other things, some religious tracts, and a copy of the New Testament. These were read by the villagers, and a spirit of inquiry arose amongst them, which led some of them afterwards to seek, amidst the ruins of the Mission station at Mírut, for a teacher who could explain to them more perfectly the way of life. The Missionary has since frequently visited that village, and has been much pleased and encouraged by its promise. A school has been opened, and a native teacher placed amongst them.

At Agra the outbreak found the Missionaries diligently discharging their spiritual duties for the welfare of the natives. Two flourishing congregations numbered 500 converts; the one in the city, and the other at the large Christian village and printing establishment near Secúndra. The college dispensed a first-rate education to 300 Hindú and Mohammedan youths of that city; the talented Principal spent his leisure time in striving to conciliate the inhabitants.—"Through the first five months of the year," he writes, "I preached as usual in the city, and made it also my object to see what could be done by sitting down before the doors of the houses, and talking with those of the inmates who were willing to converse on religious subjects." In the midst of these benign and Christian labours, the storm which had burst upon Mírut and Delhi began to roll over Agra. On the 31st of May a native regiment mutinied and spread itself through the country, and soon a large force threatened the city. "Round about Agra," writes one of the Missionaries, "plunder, and burning of houses, and murder, is so very frequent, that we are not a moment safe. In fact, we bear our life in our hands. My two flocks of native Christians at Secúndra and in the city, are lying heavy on my heart, for I can do nothing for their security. Oh God, have mercy upon us, and forsake us not in this time of danger!"

When Agra was attacked by the enemy, the whole of the Christian population, comprising above 4000 Europeans and East Indians, and 500 natives, found protection within the enclosure of the fort, but all their property in the city was wantonly and totally destroyed: the new church, the Mission college, the Missionaries' houses and their libraries, the Christian village at Secundra, the church, with its organ and peal of bells, the extensive printing-presses, which had been pouring forth for many years life-giving streams of divine truth, were all irretrievably ruined.

The native Christians were at first denied entrance into the fort, from the apprehension of treachery; but in a few days, so complete was the revolution of feeling, that native Christians were the only natives who could be trusted. Their help was eagerly sought as servants, as gunners, and as police; and had their number been tenfold they would all have found employment. The few converts who remained in the city died the death of martyrs. "The oldest member of my Kuttra congregation," writes the Missionary, "a convert of Bishop Corrie's, who well remembered the taking of Agra in 1803, was cruelly murdered by the Mussulmans when they plundered the Kuttra." Yet the Missionaries still carried on their Missionary labour as far as was practicable, and not without a blessing. Mr. French writes—

Meanwhile we strengthen ourselves in the Lord our God, and have great comfort in committing ourselves, with all that concerns us, into his hands. It is delightful to see how thoroughly those who conduct affairs in Agra are possessed with this spirit. The Lieutenant-Governor and the Chief Magistrate both express their full conviction that there are manifold signs of God's hand, of his over-ruling providence, in the events which have occurred. While acting on this principle, they act with great promptitude and decision, and there is no failing of heart.

At Benares the Sepoys mutinied on the 4th of June, but retreated after a sharp engagement, so that, after ten days, of apprehension, during which the Missionaries found shelter at Chunar, all returned to resume their work. There was here scarcely any destruction of property; and though great excitement existed for many months in the city, and other Europeans went out fully armed, the Missionaries were able to go about the city unarmed and unprotected. "Thus," write the Missionaries, "in the very centre of a tract extending for 800 miles, in which disorganization has more or less prevailed, God has prospered the means used for preserving this city, and all its institutions, from every design and effort of traitorous foes. And this in the stronghold of Hindú prejudice, containing also a large Mohammedan population. For these singular mercies, praise be to God our merciful preserver."

The Missionaries were cheered by witnessing the excellent spirit of the native converts, who received the fugitive native Christians from other stations, comforted them under their distress, and supplied their wants. Here, also, their value was so felt and recognised by persons in authority, that a large number were taken into Government employment.

At Juanpur the mutiny broke out in the middle of June. A single European Missionary family occupied the station their escape with their lives was all but miraculous. The Mission, and all European property, were destroyed, both at Juanpur, and at the out-station of Azimgurh. The Missionary and surviving Europeans reached Benares after five days of great suffering. On one occasion a fierce-looking Mohammedan fixed his eyes upon the Missionary, and said, "Here is the man who used to blaspheme on the Juanpur bridge," and strove to excite his comrades to take away his life, but an influential Hindú interposed, and gave protection to the Europeans. The Missionary bears testimony to the fidelity of the native Christians in these words—"Their sufferings have been great: they have had to flee, like the Missionaries, for their lives. Some have been called upon to deny their faith, but they have chosen to die the death of martyrs, rather than fall away from the Lord." One of the native Christians, when in a most precarious position near the burning Mission premises of Juanpur, resolved in that hour never to deny his faith, but exclaimed, "As for me, and my house, we will serve the Lord."

At Jubbulpur no actual outbreak took place; but early in July so mutinous a spirit manifested itself, and so many of the neighbouring chiefs joined the rebellion, that all the Europeans and native Christians removed into an entrenched position, where they were in a sense besieged for many months, and kept in a state of continual alarm. But no personal injury was incurred. Mr. Rebsch, a European catechist, rendered himself useful in many ways whilst he continued his religious services.

The station at Gorruckpur was undisturbed for three months after the breaking out of the mutiny. Till the 13th of August the various branches of the Mission were carried on as usual. Then the authorities determined to relinquish the station. "I had no choice left me," writes the Missionary, "but to pack a few things together and follow the English flag wherever it might be planted. It was a very sad sight, thus in one long procession to leave the station." The Christian village at Basharatpur, with all the Mission property in Gorruckpur, were placed under the protection of the friendly Rajah of Gopulpur. Some of the Christian villagers found employment in European service. The rest, 162 in number, assembled to take leave of the Missionary: they read together the 71st Psalm, and united in prayer, and the whole party broke out in tears. For a time the native Christians remained in safety; but afterwards the mutineers of Oude invaded them in sufficient force to overawe their Hindú protector. They were offered their lives on condition of their becoming Musulmans, and they were exposed to much ill-treatment; but rather than deny their faith the whole number deserted their homes and property, stole away in small parties by night, and assembled at Chupra. Here their Missionary hastened to join them, and found them encamped in a large mango grove: and they united together in praising the great Shepherd of their souls for having brought them together again.

While the Committee record their unfeigned thanksgiving to God for his preservation of every Missionary of this Society, and of every member of their households during the mutiny, from the dreadful fate of many of their companions in danger, they must add an expression of condolence with other Missionary Societies, especially with the venerable Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, where it pleased God to suffer the ministers of peace to fall under the cruel stroke of murderers. They trust that those Societies may receive of the Lord the compensation they most value, and which He has Himself described in the words "If a grain of wheat die, it bringeth forth much fruit."

The Committee now return to review the ordinary Missionary operations at each station, in their usual order.

BENARES.

Six European Missionaries have laboured at this station during the last year. The Rev. C. B. Leupolt reports of the congregation assembling at Sigra—

Divine Service has been regularly performed every Sunday throughout the year. Our prayer-meetings have continued to be well attended, and the congregations have gone on quietly amidst the excitement. Throughout the revolt our Christians remained at Sigra, but took every precaution to prevent a surprise of the enemy.

The Rev. W. Smith writes—

We were going on as usual in our work as the hot season was setting in, and I was pleasing myself with schemes for visiting all the places in the city where there was any thing like a Hindú or Sanskrit school, when, on Sunday, May 17, we received intelligence that the sepoy at Mírut and Delhi had mutinied. It is indeed only of God's goodness, who so nerved the heart and strengthened the hand of our brave troops, and confounded our enemies, that we have not been consumed. Our adversaries had the will and had the power, and yet, strange to say, we have escaped.

As no Missionary work could of course be done in the city, and as there was no chaplain, and British troops were constantly coming and passing through the station, with the advice and consent of the brethren and Corresponding Committee I took charge of the chaplain's duties, I continued giving all my time and strength to this work for three months.

The result of the rebellion will, I believe, be good, tending materially to the glory of God, to the profit of us and our natives generally, and to the more rapid spread of Christianity among the natives. The two nations did not know each other (though, indeed, we knew them better than they knew us.) Now we shall know and understand each other much better. They will be convinced more than ever of our superiority in every thing, and we shall perceive more than ever that they are, as it were, ignorant, froward children, whom God has entrusted to us, as to elder brothers, to discipline and educate for Him, ruling them, indeed, with a strong hand, yet for their good rather than our own profit. The collision has been rough and bitter, but the issue will be good.

EDUCATION.

Jay Narain's Institution.

The following are extracts of the Rev. C. F. Cobb's annual reports of this Institution—

Our numbers have been affected to a certain extent, partly owing, probably, to the unsettlement of the native mind, and partly to the present scarcity and distress, which makes it difficult for the poor to pay the school fees, and has created a general rush after Government employ among the elder boys. The average attendance steadily increased up to May. At the latter end of that month, the usual recess, during the severest heat, commenced. During this recess the revolt took place at Benares. After this occurrence, the average attendance fell about fifty, and continued to suffer a slight depression. At the same time the Chowkamba branch school was suspended, as it had not altogether worked satisfactorily; and the complete suspension of our communications with Government, and consequently of our receipts of the Government grants-in-aid, rendered prudence in our economy necessary. It has not been taken up again; but another branch school, with about half the number of the Chowkamba, has been carried on during the year at Bisseshar Gunge. The numbers in attendance, thus reduced, have gradually improved of late, and the tide appears to have turned. Seventy-four new boys have brought their admittance fees during the last six months of the year—a most encouraging proof of continued confidence ; so is the fact that the average attendance at the college on the whole year is even greater than that of the previous year. While the heathen have raged, and the followers of the false prophet have vainly imagined, that, by foul and treacherous murder, they would extirpate from this land alike the servants and the religion of Jesus Christ, it has been permitted to us to continue daily training up more than 300 boys and youths in the knowledge of his Gospel of truth, peace, love, and holiness. May his own blessed Spirit make this knowledge effectual !

Mr. Cobb notices a fact which affords an official refutation on the oft-repeated assertion that grants-in-aid to Christian schools would excite the ill will of the natives. "On the appointment of a Lieutenant-Governor to the Central Provinces, the Committee applied to his Honour for the sanction of monthly grants-in-aid, which the suspension of communication made it impossible to obtain from the Government of the North-West Provinces." The matter was referred to the Chief Commissioner of the Benares district, who, in his official report, Sept. 7, 1857, reviews the amount of assistance received by this Institution from Government since 1818, and concludes with this most important declaration—

"Notwithstanding all this direct aid to a proselyting Institution, not a word has been heard against it to the present day ; and the Missionaries continued to reside and teach, at a distance of three miles from the station, without fear of insult or injury, during the troubles. This proves that they must be liked and respected, and that there is no native feeling against Government support to a Christian school.

"It is just necessary to observe, that, at the very time of the revolt, the Missionaries were obliged to fly from their houses, and to remain away for some days. This happened during the college recess ; but since that time, notwithstanding the troubles without and plots within the city, they have been able to reside in the Mission, and carry on the work without sustaining insult or injury."

Chunar.

The work in Chunar has been much interrupted. The number of Christians is sixty. The catechist and his assistant remained at their post throughout the time of danger. The schools were reduced in the number of scholars, but there was no occasion to close them at any time on account of the outbreak. Some of these native Christians are the fruit of the zealous labours of that energetic Missionary, the late Rev. W. Bowley, who not only spent many years of labour here, but bequeathed funds to carry on the work after his decease.

This branch Mission, where twenty-four Christians are located, has been preserved from all injury, though upon the line of march taken by some of the Dinapur rebels. The native teacher, who resides in the village, remained at his post throughout the crisis.

JUANPUR.

The station of Juanpur was occupied by the Rev. C. Reuther until the outbreak occurred. The work was proceeding as usual. There was a small native congregation and a flourishing English school, also English schools at Azimgurh and at Zufferabad, under the charge of resident catechists. All these establishments have been completely broken up, and Juanpur remained deserted by Europeans at the close of the year. Mr. Reuther has returned to Europe for the re-establishment of his health. It has yet to be considered what future plans are to be adopted in respect of this station.

Mr. Reuther, in an address which he delivered at the Special Meeting of the Society, January 12, 1858, bore this important testimony to the behaviour of the native Christians—

When I was at Benares, after our flight to that place, there was this feeling manifestly pervading the minds of the native Christians there, "Come what may, we will remain on the side of the Lord. He has supported us in days of ease and comfort, and we ought to be ready now to suffer in his name, if it be his pleasure."

Our native Christians used to be looked upon by such as did not know them as mere rice-Christians, who were not fit for Government employment, or for any thing else of the least importance; but this rebellion has shown that there is a good deal of spiritual life among them, and that they are a better class of men than they used to be considered. They have gained ground in these days of trials in many respects. Inwardly their faith seemed to grow with growing danger, and as their day was, so was their strength: outwardly they have risen in the estimation of all Europeans. When our Government authorities at Benares, in the height of danger, could not obtain trustworthy officials among the Hindús and Mohammedans, they began to look to our native Christians. Numbers of them were engaged as early as the month of June, during my stay at that place: they gave great satisfaction at that time, and I have since learnt, from letters, that they are giving great satisfaction still.

JUBBULPUR.

During the year 1857, Mr. W. Rebsch, an European catechist, was the only Missionary at this place, the Rev. E. Stuart having been obliged to visit England on account of the illness of Mrs. Stuart. There are only three native-Christian families at this station, and a few inquirers, with whom a Sunday-morning service has been held in the vernacular language at the Mission house. There are four boys'-schools maintained by the Mission. The principal school is in the town, and occupies a commodious building, originally the Government zillah school, but made over to the Mission some years ago, on the removal of the Government school to Saugor. A well-thronged Hindú school in another part of the town affords a good preaching station to the Missionaries. The school is held in a verandah; and as the boys are being examined in their Scripture texts a crowd soon gathers in front, who are thus indirectly preached to while listening to the catechizing of their boys. The other two schools are in adjacent villages.

Jubbulpur shared with the country at large in the alarms and troubles of the past year. With thankfulness, however, we acknowledge that none of our Missionary party, either European or native, suffered any further injury than long confinement, with anxiety and suspense. Mr. Rebsch and his family, with the native members of the Mission, remained at Jubbulpur all through. For some time they were, with other Christians, confined for safety within the entrenched position constructed by the authorities for the security of the residents. But even for some weeks after they had taken refuge within it, as well as before the whole party finally left, Mr. Rebsch continued to attend to the schools, and to carry on more or less of the Missionary work in which he delights. It was not till December that he and his family were able to return to their own house.

GORRUCKPUR.

The Rev. H. Stern, who, since the death of his colleague, the Rev. F. A. Kreiss, has been alone at this station, writes, in his annual letter, Jan. 10, 1858—

“This time I am spared the task of relating in detail what we have been doing—our experiences, our successes, our failures; and indeed this may be well dispensed with, for much of what we have been doing, and, we hope, all that was unprofitable and sinful, has been buried beneath the ruins of India as it was. Futurity only will reveal India as it will be; for most assuredly she will go forth out of this fearful struggle between heathenism and Mohammedanism on the one hand, and Christianity on the other, better prepared to receive the Gospel, which she has so long and so obstinately rejected.

Up to the 13th of August 1857, the various branches of the Mission were carried on as usual. We considered it a special cause for thanksgiving, that notwithstanding the great and many dangers to which we were continually exposed, church and school were carried on without interruption, up to the very day before we were called upon by the authorities to quit the station.

The whole Mission property in Gorruckpur, together with Basharatpur, and every thing belonging to that establishment, were made over, as already stated, to the care of the friendly Rajah of Gopulpur, who agreed to protect it, and to afford every assistance in his power to the native Christians residing at Basharatpur. For two months after the departure of the Europeans, the native Christians, notwithstanding the efforts of the rajah to protect them, lived in continual fear and anxiety, being exposed to the spoliation of their goods, and to personal ill-treatment. At length the Mohammedan mutineers insisted upon their becoming Mohammedans. Rather than deny their faith, they all left their homes and their property, and fled for refuge to Aligung, in the Chupra district, where their Missionary joined them. They were still at Aligung at the close of the year, from which place Mr. Stern writes—

Here, then, we are, 141 in number. Several have found employment in the district, and others are at Benares and elsewhere. We have been waiting more than two months for the re-occupation of Gorruckpur. Whilst writing this, the news has come, that, on Jan. 6, Gorruckpur was retaken by the Ghúrkas, and re-occupied by the British authorities. Thus it has again become accessible to the Gospel, and as soon as the roads are safe for travelling, we shall all return and commence work afresh.

The Lord has been, and is still, doing his work amongst us, and this in a manner we little thought of at the beginning of the past year. He has been preaching to us in the most useful language, a language not to be mistaken. His march through this land, both, as we trust, for judgment and for mercy, for the overthrow of much that was unprofitable, and for laying the foundation of a new and more glorious structure, has arrested for a while direct Missionary work in the more exposed districts, and put also a stop, for a like time, to the Gorruckpur Mission, which at this time is fugitive and exiled.

AGRA.

At the commencement of the year 1857, the Missionaries at this station were all diligently engaged in their respective departments of labour. The Rev. Messrs. Schneider and Hørnle had the charge of the native congregations in the city, and at the large Christian village and printing establishment at Secundra, the Rev. Messrs. French and Leighton conducting the college, assisted by Mr. Wright, a trained schoolmaster. Before the outbreak Mr. Hørnle was obliged to remove, on account of his health, to the hills, and the pastoral charge of the two congregations devolved on Mr. Schneider.

For the first six months of the year all the branches of the Mission were carried on with their usual efficiency. Much time was devoted to preaching to the heathen. Mr. French has furnished a few extracts from his journal, which afford a lively picture of the trials of the work, and of the difficulties attending discussions with the educated heathen.

Jan. 17—Touk. Preached in the corn-market again. This is the new part of the city, and consists of a tolerably broad street, with plantations of trees on both sides. Mosques and Mohammedans meet you at every turn. I went out in much weakness and trembling, but was encouraged by such texts as these—"The Lord stood by me and strengthened me," "Did the contempt of families terrify me?" &c. Job xxxi. 34; and I found the texts fulfilled, for I never was enabled to proclaim with greater fearlessness and distinctness the message of the Gospel. I dwelt especially on the kingship of Jesus—"I have given Him for a witness—a leader and commander." "All power is given unto me," &c. "Yet have I set my king," &c.—in opposition to all those who, like the Mohammedans, hate his name, offices, and attributes. A moulwí, after listening for a long time very patiently till I had finished, wished me to answer some questions as to the manner of Christ's Sonship, which I offered to do if he would take me aside into some mosque or other quiet place; but I said such a discussion could not go on before a crowded bazaar, as it involved mysteries. He said he was afraid of the Nawab, and did not venture to do what I suggested.

Jan. 17—Reached Jaipur, and preached in the bazaar. Though much cast down at first, I afterwards gained confidence. Preached on the old and new things in Christianity, the old sanctioned and confirmed, the new revealed. Was afterwards taken to visit an old ascetic, who represents himself as a kind of visitor of the rajah's schools. He has a school at his own house also. He lives in a quiet humble manner, and appears much respected by the people around him. On the 18th, preached in the great bazaar. I have seldom had a more attentive congregation. I took Genesis i, and contrasted the natural with the spiritual creation, showing the necessity of the sun's light, and the operations of the Spirit of God. "God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness hath shined," &c. Afterwards had service to a small congregation at the Presidency. After this, was visited according to agreement by the ascetic, who brought his New Testament, and begged for some work which would contain the substance of Christian truth in a lucid form. I gave him Dr. Pfander's "Tarik al Naújāt." He had copied out a number of texts on paper, which seemed to him to comprehend the sum of the Gospel, and appeared to have studied the Gospel with attention. He expressed his doubts, and begged for solutions. He is evidently not far from the kingdom of God, and was much impressed with the truths of the Bible. It was really refreshing to find one who was thus honestly inquiring, as it seemed, after the way of salvation. Two or three other men came with him, which sometimes led him to express himself enigmatically, and made it difficult to follow his meaning. We visited a Sunyasi (religious mendicant) of considerable importance, smeared with ashes, who had called us in. He wanted to fly off to all sorts of frivolities about meats and drinks, and postures, which he said I should understand if I had true knowledge.

Jan. 21—After my return I went to visit the Rajah of Jaipur at his request. He was in a place called Rambehg, with a somewhat imposing assemblage of troops and courtiers, though small as compared with those who surround him on public occasions. He is young, and apparently thoughtful, asks questions well, and evidently desires information. We had some conversation about the objects of Missions, and the original institution of them. He asked me to explain why it was, in my opinion, there was so much less faith and religion, and strict moral principle, in the world now than formerly. I dwelt on the necessity of certainty, or very strong probability, in the things believed, before it could sway and influence the heart and control the life; observing that idolatry and polytheism must, in thoughtful minds, produce doubt and uncertainty, thereby making religion utterly powerless to change, renew, and sanctify: that in the Christian religion both of these were discountenanced: one religion, one way of salvation, was proposed, whence our countrymen had something far higher and better to fall back upon, as the support of faith, and the basis of correct moral principle and action. This he fell in with, and expressed a wish to be candid and hear all. Some further conversation arose on the great difficulty of overcoming sin, especially lust and evil affections. He suggested the necessity of some great helper, which led me to speak of Christ as the Helper. This annoyed the rajah's secretary; but I said to the rajah, "Your highness has quoted from your books, and I have also from mine."

Feb. 3.—Mahowa. I here had a lengthened conversation with the Pundit, and other brother Pundits, who all listened with the utmost readiness. Here the question proposed, as usual, was—"What is the 'swaroop' or form of God, that we may meditate on and worship it?" I explained again how there was no outward form to be meditated upon, but the spiritual nature, glorious attributes, words, and works of God and the incarnate Redeemer; that these were to be contemplated but with the inward eye, and so conformity to them to be wrought: but though the Son of God had, in His love to man, assumed a body such as ours, yet it was not so described as to be dwelt upon in the outward form of it, nor was it so intended, for it is written, "Though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we him no more." It was expressly intended, that not the assumed nature, but the essential and eternal nature should occupy our thoughts and contemplations. The Pundit remarked, that if the worship of the image or shadow of God was taken away, worship and religion would be altogether marred. This was the only kind the people could understand. I said, "If there could be a 'pratima' (image or likeness) of God—if it were true that corporeal forms should adequately represent Him—then something might be said for your view; but as there can be no such resemblance and likeness, as all is false and imaginary, then what end is answered by it?" I went on to speak of what constitutes a true and acceptable worship. He said, "Your stages are too long for the people," meaning, evidently, "Your worship is too high and profound."

Feb. 9.—On my way home, I stopped to talk with a bunya, who asked me the object of our preaching. I remarked it was nothing short of entire deliverance from sin, and freedom from its penalty; and inquired of him whether he had, with his whole heart and soul, given himself to the investigation of the subject, or whether he could clearly explain any notions he might have formed regarding it. "Oh yes, I can," said he, and proceeded to produce a tract of the Agra Tract Society, from which he began to read and expound to the people around in a manner worthy of a Missionary. It was really curious thus to hear a Hindú preaching while yet he had the red-ochre mark of idolatry on his forehead. I read to him Acts x., and promised to call on him with a book on the morrow.

Feb. 26.—A learned and respectable Pundit called on Monday evening, who said (I know not with what degree of sincerity) that their worship was fast being forsaken; that the great men cared not for púja as formerly, and the Pundits got a sorry subsistence. I told him this was no surprising matter, considering the uncertainty of the doctrines they inculcated; and that it was high time they should bestir themselves, and try to discover something more truthful, more holy, more impressive, more strengthening to the moral character, than what they now taught.

Upon the breaking out of the mutiny, the whole of the European population and the native Christians were confined within the fort. Here the Missionaries found full occupation in ministering to the various classes, both of Europeans and natives, who, in such a crisis, peculiarly needed the aid and comfort of Christian ministers.

Education.—The Agra College.

Mr. French, at the close of the year, gives this account of the state of the college.—

The college had been steadily advancing before the outbreak, till we had reached the number of 330 students, and we had enlarged our staff of masters, as far as possible, proportionally. After the Midsummer holidays (on the very first day of which the battle of Agra took place), a fortnight's additional vacation seemed desirable, in consequence of the extremely disturbed state of things. With this exception, there has not been a day's interruption of our work in the college. We occupied for a couple of months an old ruined school-house in the immediate vicinity of the fort; and for the last two months have returned to our college buildings in the city. We were the last to cease operations, and the first to recommence them, of the various institutions in the city and station. Though all portable property of every description, even to doors and windows, was carried off or broken to pieces, yet less deliberate malice was shown in the treatment of our Mission-buildings than was exhibited towards the Government college and many other edifices belonging to Government; which was pleasing, in so far as it led us to hope that our motives and intentions were, to some extent, appreciated. At present we have not collected much more than one-third of our former numbers. It seems probable, however, that by slow degrees we shall recover confidence, and rally our fugitives. The upper classes in the college, which had been most under our direct influence and personal religious training, held by us most faithfully, and exhibited a loyalty and genuine good feeling strikingly in contrast with the general indifference, if not disaffection, which prevailed towards our rule. I have ten boys in my first English class, some of whom have made very considerable progress in literary acquirements, and, what is more, given me cause often to feel very thankful for the improvement of their tone of moral and religious feeling. In two, at least (young Brahmins), I see many of those elements of character and principle which would lead me, in more hopeful moments, to picture them to myself as enrolled, at some future time, among the native apostles, or, at least, the Tituses and Timothies of India. But how often it is proved that the instruments we would select as fitted for doing God's work are not those which He is pleased to employ! The raising up of one such I should feel an abundant recompense for the seven years' work which I have expended on the college.

Muttra.

A very promising school had been established at Muttra, which was superintended in occasional visits, by Messrs. French and Wright. Mr. French writes, at the close of the year—

Our Muttra Institute, with its hundred pupils so hardly assembled together, has come to a close. Failure of resources made it absolutely necessary. Leighton and myself spent a week there at the beginning of April last, both preaching and organizing the school, which then bade fair to become a promising spot in our Mission field. We now need to accumulate all our means and energies for the reviving of our central institution in Agra.

The same Missionary, in his annual letter, thus reviews the events, and their probable consequences—

Our work has received such providential hindrances during the past six months, that I experience more than ordinary difficulty in attempting the annual letter. It is not pleasant to have to tell of institutions less thriving, converts less numerous, flocks partially scattered, and the diminishing to such an extent of the means and apparatus which were at our disposal for the furtherance of our Mission objects, before the outbreak took place. As far as my own private feelings go, indeed, I am full of hope and confidence for the future; but I feel that, outwardly, the aspect of things might, with some show of reason, suggest ground of serious doubt and despondency to many who, up to this time, have been our active supporters. I can scarcely tell you of the deep joy and comfort I felt on hearing of your determination to go on building the wall, in these troublous times.

MIRUT.

This Mission has sustained a sad loss in the sudden death of the Rev. R. M. Lamb. At the time of the outbreak he was residing with his family in Landour, far removed from the perils to which his colleague was exposed at Mírut. But so mysterious are the ways of Providence, that while the one was preserved in the midst of surrounding murders and devastation, the other was suddenly cut off by a fall from his horse, in the midst of peace and quietness. Mr. Lamb had been twelve years in India, and had proved himself an active, enterprising, and zealous Missionary, especially in respect of preaching tours.

The native-Christians in connexion with this station had received a considerable increase at the close of 1856, Mr. Lamb having baptized eight heads of families living at a village named Mirzapur, some thirty miles from Mírut, which village he had frequently visited and preached in. Other families also were placed under instruction; and, before long, they also professed belief in the Gospel, and were baptized to the number of about thirty. During the disturbances they were threatened with violence by the people about them, and resorted for protection to Mr. Lamb, in the hills. Paul, the catechist, was very active and useful in attending to their wants and instruction. Of late, endeavours have been made to locate them together in a situation where they will be comparatively secure from persecution, and can carry on in peace their own occupation as agriculturists.

The English school in the city of Mírut was in a satisfactory state, and Mrs. Medland had collected a girls'-school, so that the whole Mission was hopeful and promising when the mutiny broke out on the 10th of May.

In addition to the particulars already given of the spirit of inquiry which sprung up in the midst of the mutiny, at a neighbouring village, Mr. Medland thus writes of the progress of these villagers in a letter dated Feb. 25, 1858—

We have a number of inquirers from a village, Mulyanæ, about three miles distant, who appear very sincere, and who greatly wish me to send some one to instruct them, and also to commence a school for their children. I have several times visited the village, and am much pleased and encouraged by what I have seen. Application has already been made to the authorities for a grant of land on which to erect a schoolhouse; and I have engaged the services of a consistent and trustworthy man to locate amongst them, as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

At the close of the year Mr. Medland resumed his usual Missionary duties in the chapel and schools of Mírut.

KOTEGURH.

At this station the Rev. Dr. Prochnow has been assisted by an European schoolmaster and two European industrial agents. The lay agents are supported by funds independent of the Society. It is intended that they should not only assist in teaching the truth, but also that they should labour as agriculturists, and thus set an example of profitable industry to the peasantry of the country. The experiment is made upon Dr. Prochnow's own responsibility. A school has been opened at Simla, also under his superintendence.

Towards the close of the year Dr. Prochnow felt himself obliged to accompany his wife to Europe for medical treatment, and his report of the operations at this station has not been yet received.

III. THE PUNJAB.

At the first breaking out of the mutiny, the Punjab was regarded as the most perilous and vulnerable portion of the Indian territories. A large force of Sepoy regiments held the country. The fidelity of the inhabitants of the province was questioned, and the uncertainty of the course which might be taken by the Afghan chief, Dost Mohammed Khan, aggravated the causes of alarm. Yet, though the danger was for many months most imminent, and though the Sepoys were disarmed, and half their number destroyed in their attempts to rise against the British authority, the Punjab was preserved from revolt; and new levies were made among the Sikhs of the Punjab, to enable the British army to reduce Delhi; so that the province which, a short time since, was the object of chief apprehension, has become the arm of defence for British India in its hour of utmost need.

This political fact may be variously accounted for by those who trace events no higher than second causes. The vigour and wisdom of a strong administration have been undoubtedly an instrumental cause of this great success; but one who has borne a chief part in that administration has not hesitated to avow his conviction that God has thus honoured the rulers of the Punjab, because they honoured Him by giving their official sanction and most liberal private bounty for the establishment of a Punjab Mission.

The assistance of such friends of the cause, in high position, has been thus described in the last Calcutta Report—
“The lamented Sir Henry Lawrence, from the first, befriended the Punjab Mission.” “When he afterwards became Chief Commissioner of the province of Oude, he declared to the Society his earnest desire that a Christian Mission should be formed there at the same time with the commencement of his administration.” “Mr. R. Montgomery, Mr. D. M’Leod, and other gentlemen in the very highest ranks of the public service in the Punjab, have been steady friends of the Mission; also Mr. C. B. Saunders, formerly Deputy-Commissioner at Amritsar, whose services were very valuable at the commencement of the Mission, as well as Mr. Cooper, the present Deputy-Commissioner, Mr. Blyth, and others, to all of whom the thanks of the friends of Missions are due.”
“At Peshawur, the Commissioner, Colonel Edwardes, from the first espoused the cause of the Mission at that station; and Sir John Lawrence, who succeeded his brother as Chief Commissioner of the Punjab, has shown the kindest interest in the prosperity of the work: they lent their aid to help it forward in every way that was proper for high public functionaries to do. All through the disturbances, these gentlemen continued unchanged in their manifestation of their interest in Missionary Work, and the welfare of native Christians, while, at the same time, they have never wavered in their firm determined course in putting down disaffection and mutiny. They have acted the part of Christian statesmen who fear and honour God; and we trust it will yet be made clearly to appear that God honours them, and accepts their services to his cause.”

One of the rulers of the Punjab has also been the first to avow his determination to adopt a new policy, in respect of Christianity, in his official administration, by encouraging native Christians to become candidates for public employment.

Mr. Montgomery issued, in October last, the following circular—“Memorandum by Mr. Montgomery, Political Commissioner in the Punjab.

“The sufferings and trials which the Almighty has permitted to come upon his people in this land during the past few months, though dark and mysterious to us, will assuredly end in his glory.

The followers of Christ will now, I believe, be induced to come forward and advance the interests of his kingdom, and those of his servants.

"The system of caste can no longer be permitted to rule in our services. Soldiers, and Government soldiers of every class, must be entertained for their merits, irrespective of creed, class, or caste.

"The native Christians, as a body, have, with some exceptions, been set aside. I know not one in the Punjab (to our disgrace be it said) in any employment under Government. A proposition to employ them in the public service six months ago would assuredly have been received with coldness, and would not have been complied with. But a change has come, and I believe there are few who will not eagerly employ those native Christians competent to fill appointments.

"I understand that, in the ranks of the army at Madras, there are native Christians, and I have heard that some of the guns at Agra are at this time manned by native Christians.

"I consider I should be wanting in my duty at this crisis if I did not endeavour to secure a portion of the numerous appointments in the judicial department for native Christians; and I shall be happy (as I can) to advance their interests equally with that of Mohammedan and Hindú candidates. Their future promotion must depend on their own merits.

"I shall therefore feel obliged by each Missionary favouring me with a list of any native Christians belonging to them, who, in their opinion, are fit for the public service.

"The following suggestions will aid the Missionaries in classifying their men—

"For Burkandazes (policemen in the ranks), able-bodied men are required. If the candidate can read and write, and is generally intelligent, he is pretty sure to rise rapidly to the higher ranks.

"For assistants in public offices, and for higher appointments in the judicial and police departments generally, it is imperative that candidates should read and write Urdu, in the Shikarba hand, fluently, and be intelligent, ready, and trustworthy.

"Candidates must be prepared, at first, to accept the lower grade of appointments, in order that they may learn their duties, and qualify themselves for the higher posts.

"Arrangements can sometimes be made to apprentice a candidate for a few months, with a view of teaching him his work; but during this period the candidate must support himself.

"It is suggested that no person be nominated whom the Missionaries do not consider, by their character and attainments, to have a good prospect of success. Better wait till a candidate qualifies himself fully, than recommend an inferior man.

(Signed)

"R. MONTGOMERY."

Mr. Montgomery was soon afterwards, upon the death of Sir Henry Lawrence, raised to the Chief Commissionership of the province of Oude, from whence he addressed the following letter to the Secretary of the Society, which, though of a date subsequent to the year under review, has so important a bearing upon the document already quoted, that its insertion must not be postponed to another year.

MY DEAR SIR,—I learn that the late Sir Henry Lawrence, shortly after taking charge of this Government, addressed you, with a view to Missionaries being sent to Oude; but the late fearful events in India, and our loss of Oude, prevented your Society from sending Missionaries. As Sir Henry Lawrence's successor, I have the privilege of repeating his call, and it will afford me great pleasure to learn that the Society have determined to establish a Mission at Lucknow, where the field of labour is vast and extensive. The city is fourteen miles in circumference, and there are some 600,000 inhabitants.

We have gone, and are still passing, through a frightful crisis. No one can doubt but that good will result from it. Already we see the result in the anxiety of all to employ and elevate native Christians. The change is most remarkable, even amongst those who are Christians in little else than profession: all seek to employ them. But it is remarkable how low they are in attainments, and how few are fitted, except for the lowest posts. I have no doubt but that a higher degree of education will be given them.

An impression seems to have gone abroad, from a memorandum that I wrote some months ago, that the Government were averse to the employment of native Christians. So far as I know, the Government never expressed any opinion in the matter; but Government servants were certainly averse to their employment, and in their hands rested the patronage. It is due to the Government that this erroneous impression should be removed.

(Signed)

R. MONTGOMERY.

Several of the native Christians of the Punjab Mission have received Government employment. One of the Sikh converts of the previous year, who entered the guide corps, was made jemadar or corporal, and within a few months received a commission as subadar, or captain.* Such appointments have proved a great encouragement to the native Christians, and have relieved the Missionaries from the burden of devising means for the support of their converts.

AMRITSAR.

At this station the Rev. Messrs. Keene and Strawbridge, and the native minister, Daoud, with four assistants, have laboured throughout the year. Mr. Keene has suffered many interruptions from fever. After the mutiny broke out, preaching in the city was suspended by the Missionaries for two months, on account of the excited state of the Mohammedans, but was afterwards resumed, and has been continued as usual to the end of the year. The circumstances of the country, and the weakness of the Missionary force, have precluded itinerating preaching.

The mutiny of three Sepoy regiments at Lahore placed Amritsar in great peril, as another Sepoy regiment was at that station. European artillerymen, however, manned the guns of the fort, and overawed the disaffected regiment. The utmost alarm, however, prevailed among the Europeans, and the Mohammedans in the city were in an excited state. There was in the city a small congregation of native Christians, over whom the native minister Daoud was the pastor. The Mohammedans abused and insulted these native Christians, and warned them that their days were numbered. When the Europeans took refuge in the fort, Daoud was invited to accompany them; but he replied that he would rather die in his house than flee. He gave, as his reason, that he daily preached in the city, that the people should not fear him who can kill the body, but should fear God. Should he, then, leave through fear, his conduct might seem opposed to his teaching, and so be without effect. No outbreak took place at Amritsar; but during the season of apprehension, and while battle and murder were raging elsewhere, two instances of the work of the Holy Spirit shone out with peculiar brightness, the one being the conversion and baptism of Daoud's father, an aged Sikh, who had long resisted his son's entreaties to embrace the truth, but at last, after studying with his son the whole of St. Luke's Gospel, yielded himself to Christ. The other instance was that of a soldier in the very suspected regiment which was encamped under the guns of the fort, and threatened with death upon the first symptom of revolt. Under those circumstances the armourer of the regiment expressed to his colonel his desire to become a Christian; and having satisfied his commanding officer that he was actuated by no unworthy motive, and had long before made up his mind to embrace Christianity, the colonel sent him to the Missionary, who found him already well instructed in Christian truth, through the teaching of his wife, who had, many years before, received a copy of the New Testament, and had taught her husband to read, and had herself read through the book forty times, yet they had neither of them ever before conversed with a Christian, till they thus presented themselves to the Missionary, well prepared for admission into the Christian church.*

Mr. Strawbridge superintends a large English school, containing about 180 Sikh, Persian, Cashmerian, and Hindústaní youths. Services in English to the residents are given on the Lord's-day.

KANGRA.

The Rev. J. N. Merk is the only Missionary at this station. In the early part of the year he was engaged in preaching tours, and spent some time at Chamba, where he encountered much violent opposition. At Kangra much excitement prevailed during the mutiny, but no outbreak occurred. The small native flock of twenty-nine souls has remained faithful, and, as the Missionary trusts, have advanced in spiritual attainments.

MULTAN.

The Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick and the Rev. W. J. Ball commenced a Mission at this station in the early part of 1856. Mr. Ball's health soon suffered from the formidable Múltan fever, and he was obliged to remove to Simla for a time, and has since resided at Amritsar, studying the languages. Even the native assistants who came from Amritsar were obliged to leave, chiefly on account of health; so that Mr. Fitzpatrick has been left alone during the year 1857.

Preaching tours.

At the close of 1856, and in the early part of 1857, Mr. Fitzpatrick took two Missionary journeys to the south of Múltan, the first to Shughabad, the second to Dera Ghazí Khan, about ninety miles distant. Of these journeys Mr. Fitzpatrick writes—

On both these tours Mrs. Fitzpatrick accompanied me throughout; and, in the first, our senior reader and his wife; and, on the second, the junior reader and his wife. We were well supplied with Bibles and portions of Scripture, and tracts, for distribution, and suffered no interruption of a single day through change of weather or any other circumstance. The native assistants engaged heartily in their work, and I derived considerable aid and comfort from their zealous co-operation.

On one occasion Mr. Fitzpatrick reports—

While I was preaching to the crowd, a Mussulman came forward who had seen the New Testament somewhere, and even knew the names of the four Evangelists. It surprised us not a little; but we have since met with similar instances in places even more remote, and thus we are comforted in seeing what a wide diffusion the Gospel is gradually obtaining. Go where we may, far beyond the track of any Missionary through this and the adjacent countries, some few traces will be found of a slight knowledge of Christianity, either through possession of the written word, or by individuals having heard the Gospel, in one place or another, from Missionaries or laymen. My late tours confirm this by several striking instances.

No outbreak has taken place at this station during the mutiny, but, as a measure of precaution, Mr. Fitzpatrick was obliged to suspend some of his labours in the city for a time. Leading people of the station suggested to him the expediency of discontinuing his preaching altogether while the country was in a most excited and perilous state. But the Christian firmness of some of the chief authorities of the Punjab encouraging him to go on faithfully and fearlessly with his work, coincided with the promptings of his own Missionary spirit, and he went on without any cessation, and, it must be thankfully added, without any molestation from the people.

Upon resuming his labours, Mr. Fitzpatrick writes, Aug. 14—

I am doing very little work, and feel as if I was out of place. I have now to do every thing alone. Perhaps there is not another Missionary in India without a colleague or a native assistant: but this is my portion. I go to the city alone, and preach, for a short time, every second day. I feel it is a great cross to stand up alone before a very degraded, polluted people, who gainsay in their hearts every word I say, or pity my folly; but if I could realize the love of our Saviour on the cross, and the real state of these perishing myriads, as I ought, I think I should forget self altogether, and entreat them, or reason with them, with unwearied earnestness or tenderness. Perhaps this is what God would have me learn in these trying circumstances.

In another letter Mr. Fitzpatrick thus expresses the sentiments which a retrospect of late events produced in his mind—

What signal mercies we have all enjoyed who have been spared! The deliverances God has wrought remind us of Scripture records. He has restrained the power of our enemies, and shielded his people in such a way, that every Christian is now praising Him. The blessings which God's people have enjoyed during the last six weeks in India have been of no ordinary kind, and I have had letters from several persons, which clearly show that this heavy calamity has been working effectually for their spiritual good. I am much more concerned about the future consequences of this rebellion, than I am about its more immediate effects. The judgment will fall almost entirely upon the native community: the loss of European life, though very melancholy to contemplate, will be comparatively small. The natives will perish by thousands. The rebellion is not national only, it is religious, and, when suppressed, the reaction will be most disheartening to Mussulmans and Hindús alike. The most active and the most aspiring in it are the former, and I believe it will be the last effort of the Mohammedans in India, if our Government rise to the occasion, and will only renounce their infidelity.

I believe the main hindrance to Missionary exertions throughout India is the tone our Government has maintained. Would they but avow their Christianity, and, with a firm hand, discharge their duty, even without direct efforts, except in the maintenance of Christian schools, we should see a prodigious change in the course of a very short time. Now, then, is the crisis. The native army is gone; the Government is no longer dependent upon that army. Brahminism and Islamism will be greatly disheartened by this fruitless rebellion. If our Government will now become Christian, untold blessings will ensue.

PESHAWUR.

The Rev. Dr. Pfander, the Rev. J. A. M'Carthy, and Lieutenant-Colonel Martin, have carried on the various branches of the Mission throughout the year 1857, the Rev. R. Clark having left on a visit to England in the early part of the year. Colonel Martin renders effective assistance as a Missionary, relieving the ordained Missionaries of much secular work, which, in some places, interferes seriously with their proper labour. The local funds have prospered under Colonel Martin's energetic and efficient care, and through the liberality of the many friends of the Mission who have kindly lent their aid.

Visitation of the Bishop of Madras.

The station of Peshawur was visited by the Bishop of Madras and the Rev. G. G. Cuthbert, the Secretary of the Corresponding Committee, in February 1857. The visit was briefly referred to in the letter of the Bishop printed in the last Annual Report. A fuller account of the visit has been since published in the Calcutta Church Missionary Report.

This very interesting and important frontier station was visited in February 1857 by the Bishop of Madras, accompanied by the Secretary, and all the branches of the work personally inspected. The bishop spent the greater part of a day in the Mission, witnessing the examination and instruction of the school, which then contained above 100 fine lads, of various races—Hindú, Persian, Afghan, Cashmerian, and others. His lordship, kindly received the little native flock who came to pay their respects, and addressed them in a scriptural and suitable manner, exhorting them "with purpose of heart to cleave unto the Lord."

Mr. Cuthbert also accompanied Dr. Pfander and Mr. Clark in their preaching visits to different parts of the city of Peshawur, and heard them address, in the Urdú, Persian, and Pushtú languages, large crowds of Afghans and other hearers. Contrary to the previous expectation of many persons, he writes, the preachers were heard, for the most part, with patient attention; though, occasionally, some excitement was exhibited when truths were declared which implied a condemnation of the dearest tenets of their own Moslem faith. At such times, some ardent champion of the Korán comes, favoured with some argument which he supposes irresistible; but finding, with evident astonishment, how readily it is replied to, he, after another effort or two, begins to draw back, saying that he is not learned, but that a moulwí would soon silence the Christian preacher. Sometimes a fiery Moslem raises some exciting cry, and draws off a crowd of his party: and once, whilst the Secretary was present, a handful of filth was thrown over the heads of the listening crowd, to the spot where the Missionary group was standing.

Throughout the whole period of the mutiny, Dr. Pfander continued to preach in the city, except for two or three days, when the excitement was at its height. The school, though depressed for a few months, has since regained its numbers, and is in a prosperous condition. Dr. Pfander left Peshawur at the close of the year, compelled by the health of his family to relinquish India, but still to labour, it is hoped, for the conversion of Mohammedans in the Turkish Mission.

The Rev. J. A. M'Carthy wrote from Peshawur, June 11—

Here, in Peshawur, we have a great many native troops, about eight regiments, and only two English regiments. The people in the city, too, said, that if the Sepoys attacked the Christians, they would join them. You may be sure we were in an anxious state of mind. One day a message was sent round to all the English gentlemen, by the officer commanding the station, to the effect, that they were to hold themselves in readiness to fly to the Residency on the first appearance of danger. When I received this message, I tied up my travelling rug, put away a few things which I valued, and then sat down to get comfort and strength from God's word. I read the Psalms for the day, and found many "comfortable words" in them. Committing myself, and all in the station, to the guardian care of God—pleading his own promise to Him—I was enabled to lie down on my bed that night in peace, and to sleep soundly and securely all night, though, in common with every other person in the station, I slept in my clothes, even to my boots. In consequence, however, of the wise measures taken by our authorities in this place, the Sepoys did not mutiny in Peshawur. That night they were all disarmed, except one regiment, which is considered trustworthy; and though we are not out of danger even yet—though our men have their guns loaded every night, and sleep in their uniform, ready to start up in a moment—yet, as we have been so mercifully brought through the height of the danger, we have a cheerful hope for the future. Dr. Pfander had a bright, happy face all through, although he has a wife and two little children in the station. He said that he did not think that the God who had given India to England, that the Gospel might be preached to its benighted people, would allow it to fall back into the hands of idolaters and Mohammedans.

Dr. Pfander preached in the city all through, with the exception of two or three days, when the danger was at its greatest. He goes on now, as usual, and amidst scowling faces, and, in the teeth of much opposition, tells these fanatical people about Christ the Saviour.

My school was rather thinly attended during the height of our peril. Many of the parents of the boys, reflecting, doubtless, that in case of a general rising of the people, the school would be the first object of attack, withdrew their children for a while. Now, however, that confidence is being restored, they are sending them again; and I have the pleasure of seeing, once more, the bright eyes, and intelligent faces of many, whose absence for a while left a blank in the school.

Dr. Pfander states, in his final report of Peshawur—

Of my labours during the past year, not much can be said. No new inquirers have come forward, and no desire for the Scriptures, or for our books, has manifested itself. Even the distribution of Mr. Clark's tract in Pushtú, though the first in that language, has caused no stir among the people. We have thus had no encouragement in our work, but the commandment and promises of God, and the opportunities afforded for publicly preaching the Gospel.

Mr. M'Carthy, in his annual letter at the close of the year, writes—

Peshawur presents rather a prospective than a present interest. Like Peshawur itself, our work is surrounded by mountains of difficulties, but the eye of faith sees openings in the prospect. And though these openings frown as dark and narrow as the Khyber, we do not doubt that one day we shall enter them into the "regions beyond." The actual work already realized at Peshawur is not great. Our native flock consists of two catechists, and the wife and child of one of these, the head master of the Mission-school and his two children, and three recently baptized members, Yusuf, Jowahie Marih, and Ibrahim Gazih.

Yusuf was a Hiudú of the Brahmin caste, who, during a period of service with an officer at Sealkote, became attracted, through the instrumentality of his pious master, towards the doctrines of Christianity. He came to Peshawur in search of instruction, heard Dr

Pfander's preaching in the bazaar, attended the school, and received religious instruction there; and, becoming convinced of his need of such a Saviour as the Gospel sets forth, offered himself as a candidate for baptism.

Jowahie Masih (the jewel of Christ) is a very pleasing character. He is of the Sikh nation, and was for a long time a seeker after God after the manner of his own tribe. He became a chowkedar of the Mission house, and an attendant upon religious instruction. Having been accustomed, in the days of his ignorance, to seek after purity of heart, though in a way in which he could not find it, he was more prepared for the spiritual requirements of the Gospel than the utterly formal Mussulman, or the utterly careless Hindú. The Spirit of God led him to a speedy perception of the great fundamentals of the Christian faith. He became a candidate for, and subsequently a recipient of baptism. I have seldom met a more gentle, loving disciple of the Lord than this Sikh Christian. During the bright moonlight nights of the summer I have often walked with him on his beat around the house, and have been delighted to answer his childlike questions about God, and Christ, and heaven—questions which often displayed his ignorance, but always his faith and love. Jowahie Masih is not a very clever, nor even a very enlightened man, but he is in the highest sense a religious man. Christ is no abstraction to him, but a living, ever-present friend. Christianity is not only the creed which he believes, but the all-pervading influence to which he submits his daily life.

Ibrahim Ghazi is my own bearer, and was formerly a Mohammedan. He, like Yusuf, was induced to consider the claims of Christianity by the holy life and conversation of a former master. He is honest and truthful, and a diligent student of the Sunday-school, but is still hampered by the self-sufficiency and Phariseism which are such marked characteristics of the Mussulman. I have a good hope for him, however, and often think that our divine religion has made a lasting impression upon his mind.

Thus we have been permitted to gather in, as the first-fruits of our Mission, a representative of each of the great sects by which we are surrounded—a Brahmin, a Sikh, and a Mussulman. We accept the omen with a cheerful hope that India's various tribes and sects will, at no distant day, be all one in Christ.

The school, my own proper sphere of labour at present, is in a decidedly encouraging position. During the gloomy months of the mutiny our numbers became very low, and the expression of one delinquent pupil will suffice to indicate the cause of the decrease—"that there was no further use in learning English, since the raj of the Sahibs was over." We kept the school open, however, all through the reign of terror.

We have at present about eighty names on the school-roll, and most of these bonâ fide scholars, regular attendants, and all, whether students of English, or Arabic, or Persian, recipients of scriptural instruction. This last strong point in our position has not been gained without trouble. Our Arabic moulwí threw up his situation for him a lucrative one, rather than teach the Sunday-school ; and the pupils constantly complain that the city people abuse them for coming to the “Feringhi school.” As, however, the impartation of the word of life must be the prime aim of the Missionary, we have been firm on this point, and have the satisfaction of seeing our numbers decidedly on the increase notwithstanding. The annual examination took place December 21, 1857. Our honoured Commissioner, Colonel Edwardes, presided, and distributed the prizes, addressing each recipient individually, and afterwards the collected school. He promised to keep his eye on the school ; exhorted the pupils to diligence and punctuality ; and avowed his decided intention of preferring candidates for situations from the school, cæteris paribus, to others.*

up to December 31, gives the returns of 35,151, which is a real increase of one thousand during 1857, though the figures in the last Report would show a different result.

The extent of the Mission may be judged of from the facts that more than 800 agents, European and native, are engaged in the work, and that the Christians assemble in 420 churches or prayer houses on every Lord's-day. The number of communicants has been steadily increasing year by year, and now amounts to 5540. The Missionaries exercise much caution in making out their returns. Every name is registered; and should inquirers, after a competent period and opportunity of instruction, fail to acquire sufficient Christian knowledge for baptism, the name is removed from the list. In remoter parts of the districts, which are seldom visited, such inquirers may elude detection for a time. A considerable number of this class were discovered in scattered groups throughout the northern or itinerating parts of Tinnevely, and therefore a Missionary was placed in a central situation to examine into their state. The Rev. Charles Every, lately deceased, was selected for this position, and in one of his last communications he shows the care and fidelity with which his statistical returns were constructed. He states that so many had become indifferent to the concerns of their souls, that he removed 520 from the lists, adding, however—

Even still, the persons not now reckoned have not gone back to idolatry; but, while unable to repeat even the Ten Commandments, they refuse every invitation to come for instruction, neglect the Lord's-day, and complain because I do not take up their law-suits, and make all secular matters perfectly smooth for them. I have by no means given up trying to convince them of their need of a Saviour, yet I feel that, while their state is so unsatisfactory, I should be doing wrong in reckoning them among the "Unbaptized under Instruction." I am thankful to say that there are a good many persons in other villages under instruction, much more satisfactory than those now no longer reckoned; but I do not venture to include them in my return, but hope and pray that our God will mercifully give them his Holy Spirit, enlighten them, convince them of their sin, and lead them to Him who came into the world to save sinners.

The "Madras Church Missionary Record" contains the following statement in reference to the liberal contributions of the native converts to works of piety and benevolence—

It is sometimes stated, by those who have little or no real interest in the salvation of the souls of their perishing fellow-sinners, that the converts who have attached themselves to the agents of Missionary Societies, do so from mercenary motives, and for mere temporal advantage. It is not denied that such cases do occasionally occur, and may have given rise to some of the statements referred to.

But we emphatically deny that such is by any means a general case. The bulk of native Christians derive no benefit whatever from their profession of Christianity, beyond that which ever follows in the track of true Christianity, namely, an improved social and political condition, resulting from the individual and collective development of Christian principles. Speaking generally, the only temporal benefit which accrues to the heathen who places himself under Christian instruction is, that his neighbours of higher caste or greater wealth are, it may be, less disposed to oppress him, knowing that he now has access to the ear of a just and philanthropic Englishman. And yet even this benefit is oftentimes more than counteracted by the constant and depressing effects of that religious persecution which his new conduct brings upon him, and which the Missionary knows and explains to him to be more or less the lot of all who will live a godly life in the kingdom of the prince of this world, and which he therefore recommends to him to endure with patience. But a more satisfactory manner, perhaps, of exposing the falsity of such a statement as the one referred to will be, to show that the parties accused of such mercenary conduct give more than they gain in a pecuniary point of view. In the Tamil and Malayalam Missions of the Church Missionary Society no less a sum than 875*l.* has been contributed by the native Christians alone during the past year. These contributions have been made partly by weekly donations of rice and grain; sometimes in a single gift; more frequently by a daily handful from the grain set apart for the family meal; partly by subscriptions and collections in money; partly in voluntary labour and materials, estimated in the return at their ordinary value.

MADRAS.

The Madras Tamil Mission is under the superintendence of the Rev. J. Bilderbeck, the Rev. A. Younker, and the Rev. J. Gritton. Mr. Bilderbeck reports of the congregations under his charge, June 30, 1857—

Amidst the checks and hindrances the Gospel receives in the eyes of men, it is pleasing to feel it is making its own way, and its knowledge is spreading. There are many, even amongst the most careless, who regard it with a favourable look, and who know and are assured that, after all, it is the only thing which can truly elevate them and make them happy. Though agitation has spread everywhere, and remote stations have been disturbed, yet, blessed be God, his servants here have not been deterred in preaching the “unsearchable riches of Christ.” Their ministrations have continued as heretofore, and they have gone in and out among the people as freely as ever. “On the first day of the week” their congregations, scattered here and there, have never failed to meet for the usual worship; and it was delightful on such occasions to hear the "still small voice" of praise and prayer amidst the yells of surrounding superstition and the clang of arms elsewhere. To the very God of Peace alone be all the glory.

The number of native Christians in Black Town and the suburbs, under Mr. Bilderbeck's care, amount to 462, and the communicants to 145. These all attend the means of grace, either in the Mission chapel or in the prayer-house in the Tinnevely Settlement. In reference to their spiritual state Mr. Bilderbeck writes—

It is not to be wondered at, that, emerging from, and being still surrounded by, the pollutions of heathenism, they should lack much, but their faith exists amidst all their weakness.

In John Pereira's and Mount-road chapel there are 123 Christians and 78 communicants. They are under the ministerial charge of the Rev. A. Younker, who reports—

A meeting of the communicants has been held once a month, when, after prayer and reading a portion of Scripture, an exhortation has been delivered to the communicants. It has been my privilege to visit the members in their houses, for the purpose of conversing with them on religious subjects, and praying with them. These visits have been seasons of mutual comfort and edification. An acquaintance of nearly five months with the two congregations enable me to state with satisfaction and thankfulness that there are a few among them who give evidence of being renewed in the spirit of their minds, while it is pleasing to behold their consistent life and conversation.

Special efforts are made in this Mission to bring the Gospel to several neglected classes of the population. Services are held at a large public stable for the horsekeepers. Amidst several cases of encouragement, the following deserves to be recorded, from the zealous character of the convert—

A gentleman's horsekeeper was thus for a long while under the sound of the Gospel: his interest was awakened, and he began to learn, that he might read in his own tongue the word of God. His family for a time opposed his intentions, but the Lord cleared the way for him. He had a grown-up son on the western coast, and another elsewhere. It was so arranged by Divine Providence that these also should soon be brought under Gospel influence, through the preaching of some German brethren. They referred the matter to the father. The old man of course could offer no objection, but only felt too thankful that his own difficulties were by these means lessened. He and his whole family are now Christians, some at one place and some at another. The man is now employed as horsekeeper-schoolmaster at one of the stables, through the kindness of the proprietors, and has collected about thirty children of the people of his class, to instruct them in letters and in the knowledge of what is good. Here is an instance of what the Gospel can do when it comes home to the heart.

Missionary operations are also carried on amongst the boatmen and fishermen lining the South Beach. Two schools have been established. "It is yet the day of small things, but the work is full of promise, and God grant it may be pursued with unabated ardour." There have also been services held at the emigration dépôt, where many hundreds are met enlisting for the West-Indies or the Mauritius, and Bibles and tracts are given to such as are capable of valuing them. Another large and neglected class to which these benevolent labours are extended, consists of street scavengers, who are generally Telugn people.

Mr. Bilderbeck bears this testimony to the value of the native assistants in the Mission—

There are one catechist and three readers on the list. The first is stationed at Black Town, and assists in the general duties of the Mission. Of the latter, one is employed at Tinnevely Settlement, who also looks after the people at John Pereira's, one is on the Mount Road, and one among the boatmen at the South Beach. There are besides one reader and an assistant reader at work among the scavengers. Some of those who live at a convenient distance have met at the Missionary's house four mornings in the week to receive instruction in Scripture, Christian Evidences, the Articles, and Church History. Once every Monday all come together to deliver their journals, to report upon the state of their districts, to pay collections on behalf of the Poor Fund, and to arrange for their week's duties. These meetings are attended with prayer for divine illumination, assistance, and guidance, and, it is believed, have not been without some benefit. These persons are in effect the working labourers in the field, who bear the heat and burden of the day, who are most frequently with the congregations and people around. Till such agents are multiplied, made more efficient, and properly directed, humanly speaking no extensive good can be anticipated. But it is not to be expected they will rise to their position and obligations, till others teach as well go before them as examples of diligence and devotion. It is well to increase their numerical strength, but not if they are to be proxies, trusted with every thing,—those in the forefront only taking to their work easily. Ministrations in churches should indeed have a prominent part in our labours: still too much importance cannot be placed in more frequent out-door preaching and constant intercourse with the heathen, if there is to be "added to the church daily such as should be saved."

Education.

The schools have been sustained as in former years. The female boarding-school is under the superintendence of two English ladies, Miss Giberne and Miss Meredith. The number of scholars at the close of the year was forty-five, of whom twenty-five were boarders.

Mohammedan Mission.

The Harris School has been carried on for another year by the Rev. Luke Cradock, assisted by Mr. Walker. The pupils are very few in number. The past year has been peculiarly unfavourable, as the Mohammedans in Madras, as in every other part of India, have been in an excited state.

The number of pupils on the books, at the close of the year, was twenty-five, but the average attendance was only thirteen. It was always expected that the first attempt to benefit this class of the population would make very slow progress, but the result is by no means discouraging, under the circumstances of the past year.

TINNEVELLY.

There has been a marked, and steady progress manifested in the native church of Tinnevelly, not only in the number of baptized members, and of communicants, but still more in the increasing intelligence of the native teachers, and the independence of mind manifested in the more advanced Christian congregations. They no longer depend upon the Missionary for the supply of all their wants, and for constant guidance and protection, but are acquiring habits of self-reliance, and are making efforts towards self-support as a Christian church.

The Committee receive from their Missionaries half-yearly reports and annual letters, which enable them to form a correct judgment. But these documents are now so numerous and extended, that they can only present a few passages as specimens, selected with the view of giving a fair description of the work, and the clear indications of progress in a right direction. They will, on this occasion, give the reports of two of the Missionaries; the one a younger Missionary, the Rev. W. Clark, having lately taken charge of three of the less promising districts, Nallúr, Pavúr, and Surrandei; the other the senior Missionary, the Rev. J. Thomas, having also charge of three districts, of which his own, Meignanapuram, is the most encouraging spot in Tinnevelly.

Mr. Clark reports, June 30, 1857, the state of his districts under several particulars—

*“ Agents—*I am thankful to acknowledge the great help I have received from the native pastors associated with me. It is a great comfort to feel that I can leave many things in their hands, which would otherwise be a cause of anxiety to me. Placed among the congregations at a distance from me, they can at once attend to and settle many important matters. Their assistance is much valued by me; and I should be glad if it could be increased by the addition of one or more native pastors. The catechists, as a body, are actively and effectively engaged in their duty; and, at least in many cases, are diligently improving themselves in knowledge. Still there is room for improvement, especially on the part of some, both in spiritual character and intelligence. May God not only give those connected with us all necessary knowledge, but also raise up many more, in every way qualified for his great and holy work. The schoolmasters have hitherto been, on the whole, decidedly inferior in the qualifications requisite for their office. But as the most inferior have now been dismissed, and their places supplied with students from the Training Institution, and as all have been diligent in study, I hope, that from this time a decided improvement will be manifest in this class of agents.

Congregations—Many of the old congregations, and some of the new ones, are gradually becoming firmly established in the profession of Christianity. There is, to all appearance, no probability that they will ever return to heathenism. In these congregations there is also a small proportion of members, of whose zeal and sincere faith no reasonable doubt can be entertained. Among the rest there are, no doubt, some, whose faith, though not so manifest, is yet sincere, and acceptable to God. Of many we can say nothing more than that they call themselves Christians. Yet it is a matter of no small importance that even they are connected with us, for they have thus an opportunity of hearing the word of God, which may be the means of their salvation. There is more hope of professing Christians than of professing heathen.

The Surrandei district, I regret to say, is almost at a fixed point with respect to congregations. There is no material improvement among the converts themselves, nor any indication of a disposition on the part of the heathen to join us. A few have joined us, but they do not represent the general feeling of the body. This district requires to be thoroughly itinerated. A state of stagnation, which is very much its condition, is unhealthy. There ought to be progress, or we shall soon begin to recede. I hope a European Missionary will, ere long, be placed over it; and then, perhaps, with the blessing of God, a change may be expected to take place.

In the Nallúr and Pavúr districts, there is more life, more stir, among the heathen, and some indication of future increasing progress. At the same time there is much that requires trial, before we can pronounce favourably regarding it. Some of the congregations now connected with us are still unstable, and may draw back. May God give them grace to be firm, and to grow in faith and knowledge. The great want, as indeed of all, is the outpouring of the Spirit of grace. Till this takes place, we can never be perfectly confident. May the day when it shall be given speedily arrive!

Schools—The boys' and girls' boarding-schools have been conducted as usual, and, I think, have made progress. In consequence of the low state of the funds of the Surrandai girls' boarding-school, many of the elder girls have been sent home. The funds are still low, though the seasonable kindness of friends has kept us hitherto from getting into debt; but as we have only a few rupees to carry it on with, beyond the usual allowance of the Committee, we have reason to fear that we shall not be able to keep out of debt another quarter. Should any friends be disposed to help us in our difficulty it will be a very great boon.

The day-schools have been kept up as effectively as our inefficient instruments would allow; but they have not, in many cases, given me satisfaction: a few only have succeeded tolerably well. But the want of good masters, which has so long been the crying want of this district, is not the only cause. Most of the people are so poor, that they are much more inclined to send their children to work than to school. Endowed schools for the instruction of the poor in Tamil would be a great benefit, and would do much towards the establishment of the Gospel among them. It will be generations before they themselves so appreciate the benefits of education as to send their children willingly to school.

Heathen—There is every appearance of a decay of heathenism, but at present, I perceive no indication of a general wish to embrace Christianity. Some join us, usually under the influence of motives more or less worldly, and we take advantage of the opportunity thus afforded of instructing them; but at present few only join us from a previous conviction of the excellence of the Gospel. But however defective and unsatisfactory this state of things, it is far from unimportant. The minds of the people are being prepared for a future and not distant change. As soon as every thing is ready, the Spirit of the Lord will arouse these careless multitudes to a right apprehension of eternal things. May He hasten it in his time!

The Rev. J. Thomas, at the close of the year, writes respecting the districts under his charge—

Congregations—The congregations in the three districts, including Pragasapuram, amount to 119, and contain 9291 souls. The attendance on public worship here continues to be good. I have always in the forenoon, a large congregation, amounting to from 1000 to 1400. I have visited the principal Christian villages more or less frequently. Those under the care of the native clergy I have not felt it necessary, nor would it be possible, to visit often. In the month of June, however, I made a special tour through every part of the districts, and held fourteen special meetings on behalf of the Native-Aid Church Missionary Society, which has now been established three years, the especial object of which is to supply our brethren in North Tinnevelly with catechists, &c. The same meetings were also intended to aid the Bible Society, Church Building, and Endowment Funds. The native clergy and catechists addressed the people, and I took especial care to lay the whole subject of giving before them, and the result proved highly satisfactory, for the nett sum collected for the above several objects amounted to 1097 rupees 6 annas (nearly 110*l.*), which is considerably in advance of any previous efforts in thisway. At each congregation the people held a preparatory meeting, to determine how much each person ought to give, and to provide for the payment at the general gathering. After the addresses were delivered, the people came up to the table, and for the most part paid down their subscriptions: scarcely was there a poor person who did not give something.

At the close of the year a meeting, attended by upwards of 1800 persons, from all the congregations, was held in the church here, when the names of subscribers were read, and the sum total distributed in different proportions to the several Societies above named. A list of all subscribers, from one-half rupee, and upwards, was written out in legible characters, and posted on the church-door—a thing altogether new to our people, but very gratifying, especially to the givers of half a rupee; and, I think, this will help forward the contributions of next year.

The attendance at divine service in the villages continues satisfactory, and our people are becoming more intelligent; but the increase from heathenism is trivial. This may partly be accounted for because the Maravers have been universally hostile, and partly because the native mind has, during the year, been in a state of uncertainty as to the result of the mutiny and rebellion in the north. In a village of some thirty families, in the Asirvathapuram district, the people expressed a wish to embrace Christianity. Upon hearing of this the landowner sent for them, and declared that he would get the Maraver to rob them of every thing they possessed if they became Christians, and thus they have been deterred from taking the step.

Village-Headmen.—In connexion with the congregations, I may just notice the great advantage which I have experienced from statedly meeting the headmen for the purpose of inquiring into and directing the affairs, and settling all the disputes which arise among the people from time to time. We meet every Tuesday at eleven; and, after prayers for divine guidance, we proceed in due form to investigate every dispute brought before us. The headmen sit as jury; and it devolves upon me to take down the evidence and assist them in coming to a right conclusion. Many a lawsuit has been thus prevented, and ruinous expense avoided. Moreover, all offences against Christian consistency of conduct—such as absence from divine service, profanation of the Sabbath, &c.—are brought before this tribunal, and disposed of; and, the result is, that we have much greater order among the people generally than I have ever known before.

Native Agents.—I am thankful to say that the usual meeting of the catechists on Fridays, for instruction, which had been discontinued on account of ill-health, has been resumed and held regularly. I attribute the high standing which many of my catechists are capable of taking to this meeting; and I trust that nothing will interrupt the energetic continuance of it so long as I am permitted to remain at my post. This year I have made Church History the basis of instruction, and have translated into Tamil all the principal events of the first four centuries, which may be considered as a syllabus of the subject. The catechists write this from dictation, and a large amount of instruction is conveyed at the same time in way of explanation. We never omit a lesson in singing. My son John teaches them for an hour in geography, or in some other subject that may prove interesting and instructive, such as the elementary facts of astronomy, mechanical powers, &c. Any subject of special interest or importance connected with the congregations, which may not be delayed until our monthly meeting, is brought to my notice, and disposed of on these days. In the evening I invariably preach a sermon, and the catechists leave at an early hour on Saturday.

A danger has arisen, in some quarters, from dismissed catechists, who were found to be unworthy men; but the remedies, if faithfully applied, are, I conceive, sufficient to avert evil consequences. If a catechist is a good man, well instructed as to his position and work, and vigilantly, kindly, and firmly superintended, there can be no very great danger. But if catechists are allowed to carry on trade, and are mixing themselves up with worldly matters, adding field to field, and building fine houses, and allowed to rule the people where they are appointed to labour, it is the fault of the Missionary if such men, upon an emergency, turn round upon him and refuse obedience. It is a rule with me that every catechist should live upon his allowances, and none are permitted to meddle, either directly or indirectly, with any kind of trade. They are required to give up the whole of their time to their proper work; and if I discover the least tendency in any one of them to strike root in any particular village, I instantly remove him to the furthest locality within my charge.

Schools.—The superintendence of all the schools devolves now upon my eldest son, who, from the date of his appointment in March last, has devoted his whole time to this work. Seventy-four schools have been examined by him during the last half-year, and several of them two and three times; and the schoolmasters have been instructed every Saturday. The improvement in this department is very obvious, owing, partly, to this system of continued instruction, but also very much to the operations of the Training Institution at Palamcotta, through which several of the present schoolmasters have passed. When the Government Inspector was here, in March last, eighteen of the schoolmasters passed the required examination, and have ever since received, besides their regular salary allowed by the Society, an additional sum of two rupees per month. This will form a wholesome stimulus to others; and we may reasonably hope to see, at no distant period, a superior class of agents in this important department of our operations. The system of making each pupil pay a trifling sum monthly has been introduced now for nearly two years, and has not very sensibly diminished our number; but many poor people begrudge not so much the payment as the time of their children, for from a very early age they can all get something towards their own support.

Conclusion.—I cannot account for the great change which I see in the moral wilderness around me, compared with what it was twenty-one years ago, upon any other principle than that of a divine and gracious influence poured upon us from on high. The full attendance at our churches and prayer-houses during divine service everywhere—the attentive and solemn interest with which our people listen to the preached word—the increase in the number of our communicants—the far higher standard of attainments and piety among the catechists—the vigorous working of our schools by a trained agency—the intelligent piety of the younger members of our congregations—all these show most clearly that this work is the Lord's; and, considering all things, it is truly marvellous in our eyes. May he mercifully deign to direct us, and bless us more and more, for the glory of his adorable name, and the salvation of multitudes of ~~those~~ among whom we labour!

Mr. Thomas's remarks, in a letter accompanying this review, will well illustrate the spirit of the workman, and the true spring of his great success.—

I am thankful to say that the Lord is graciously pleased to own and bless the work here. Every thing around is so familiar to me that scarcely any impression is made; but all our friends who visit us from time to time seem greatly delighted with all that meets their eyes. I cannot but speak with much awe and solemnity regarding my work. The day will declare it! Whatever good has been done, to God in Christ be all the glory! If He will acknowledge me as a good and faithful servant, I shall be infinitely happy through all eternity. My comfort arises from the perfect atonement—the fountain filled with blood.

The Rev. E. Sargent, an experienced Missionary, gives the following reasons for believing that the work in Tinnevely will be permanent.

With reference to the work generally, I would observe, that there is unquestionably much good being done here; but the great question in which we must all feel interested—Is it good fruit that will remain? Is it of that character which enters beyond the surface, that consists not in mere formal propriety, but in the vital principle of a heartfelt religion? It has pleased our heavenly Father as yet to keep from us the scourge which has so sadly desolated the north of India; but were the Christian teachers forced from their labours here, how would the work, which has been thus long carrying on, stand the fiery ordeal? I cannot but rejoice in the conviction, that, though much would prove as chaff, much precious seed also would be found in the threshing-floor to be gathered into the garner of the Lord. We have, indeed, many empty professors; but, God be praised, we have others, and they not a few, who are "living epistles, known and read of all men." Our native teachers are becoming more and more efficient as spiritual agents, and the rising generation of our Christians are yearly exhibiting a higher tone of Christian profession. It is now about twenty years since I first arrived in this part of the country, and the contrast, in respect especially of two points, is very striking, viz. the character and efficiency of the catechists, and the state of education among the female part of our congregation. But much, very much, remains to be done, when we consider the mass of heathenism by which we are still surrounded; and the degrading habits which cling to those who renounce idolatry after a long service of superstition and sin. Still the power of the Spirit is omnipotent and the Gospel of Christ must triumph. May He give us more zeal for souls, more devotion to the holy work to which we are called, more faith in His promises, and a deeper spirit of prayer to plead them!

The Missionaries have been lately encouraged by the prospect of at length gaining access to families of a higher rank in society than those which have hitherto received the Gospel message. The Rev. E. Sargent writes—

This has been an eventful year to the Palamcotta station. The power of the Holy Ghost having manifested itself in the families of some of the higher classes, a spirit of determined opposition, as might have been expected, has been excited. So long as our progress lay among the lower orders, the higher castes were content to look on with indifference, and even occasionally to give token of good will towards Christian teachers; but now that the cross has been brought to their own circle they have taken alarm, and, for the present, act the part of “the deaf adder that stoppeth her ear, charm he never so wisely.” I need only add, in reference to the converts themselves, that they continue to witness a good confession, notwithstanding the opposition they meet with, and the powerful influences to draw them back by which they are surrounded. In one direction we have reason to hope that the truth is spreading, and that other members of the family are being prepared for professing Christ.

The Rev. John Devasagayam is well qualified to estimate the importance of these events. He thus writes, in his journal of May 1857—

The conversion of the three high-caste natives which took place lately is the subject spoken of by numerous heathen, and they more than ever talk of the doctrine of our religion, and make themselves acquainted with it. Many are inclined to say that the Christian religion is true. The converts, having embraced our religion after being fully convinced of the truth of it, their heathen relatives are not so much enraged as they have been lately, but more friendly; consequently the converts go to them freely, and take a meal now and then in their houses. These three converts, as the former one, a Brahmin, spend an hour daily with Mrs. Sargent, read the Bible, and receive the benefit of her instruction.*

Mr. Devasagayam describes the baptism of the three converts in language of overflowing joy.

Sunday, May 26—As soon as I took my seat in the church, during the morning service, I was exceedingly delighted to hear that our new brethren, the three converts, would be baptized after the second lesson, and I was requested to be one of the sponsors. I gave thousand, thousand thanks to God for the privilege I had in being present on this very important occasion. My earnest prayers were united with others that the three new brethren may receive divine grace more and more, and be truly devoted to the Lord to the end of their lives. Mr. Dixon read prayers, and Mr. Sargent, as usual, preached an important and impressive sermon.

Call for an increase of labourers.

The Rev. J. Whitchurch appeals to the Church at home, to send forth more reapers, by describing the need of them, and the blessedness of the work.

During the past year I have not been unmindful of the wants of the heathen. It is my determination never to visit a Christian congregation without, if possible, going to the heathen villages surrounding. In this way a considerable number of heathen have heard the Gospel during the year. I have also been to several heathen places with the tent, giving myself entirely to them. My reception, on the whole, has been favourable, although the indifference so frequently manifested is very painful to bear. I cannot help feeling that a very important change is going on in the native mind. As a body, I believe that they are becoming prepared for a new religion: it is evident that their own does not give them satisfaction. They are waiting for something. What it is they cannot tell. Oh that more agents of mercy were found willing to go and lead them to Him in whom alone they can find peace! May it not be owing as much to our delay in giving them the Gospel, as to their own wilfulness, that they are still in their present condition? I am sure that caste prejudices are giving way. The ground, I am convinced, is in many parts prepared: we only want the Spirit to give more labourers, so that the precious Gospel seed may be scattered about in greater abundance. I long for the time when I can make a more frequent repetition of my visits to the heathen. All I can do at present is to take them in rotation, unless, indeed, some special occasion calls for a deviation from my plan.

Under this head, I have only to add my testimony to the satisfaction felt in this kind of work. Every year I feel my heart drawn more and more toward the heathen; and in the pleasure I have experienced in making known to them the Gospel I consider I have received already an hundredfold more than any little thing I may have been called to give up. Oh that others would believe our testimony, and give themselves to this blessed work!

The following extract from the journal of the Rev. W. Clark may be given as a specimen of the trials to which the native converts are exposed—

Many instances of false accusation and persecution have occurred; in one of which a catechist and a schoolmaster, together with several of the congregation, were charged with robbery and violence by the Maravars of a neighbouring village; but, after being under arrest for a month, during the continuance of the trial, were declared innocent and set at liberty. The catechist attracted the favourable notice of the Peons and others, under whose charge the prisoners were placed, by their continuous and earnest prayers. At the time of their release they remarked, "Yours is indeed the true God." The courts and magistrates' cutcheries in this country, in consequence of the intense moral corruption of the people are in a very bad state. If any one wishes to injure his neighbour, he resorts to these places with as much confidence as to any thing else. All that he has to do is to secure the officials with a sufficient bribe, and he can prove almost any thing. Justice, free from the influence of bribery and partiality, is almost entirely unknown. This, we might hope, would be in some degree suppressed by the public voice; but there is no public character: all men are debased by heathenism. The wicked are held in honour, if only they are successful in their schemes. But there are happy times in store for India. Its idolatries will cease, and the glorious truths of the ever-blessed Gospel rule in the hearts of the people. But we must be up and doing. We must seek to bring our influence to bear on the mass of evil with which we have to contend, through the Government, the press, the school, and the church. Much has already been done by the Government indirectly towards the overthrow of heathenism, and still more may be done. We must not fail to direct our energies to this quarter.

A few individual instances of the grace of God in the native church of Tinnevelly are selected from the journals of the Missionaries, which prove, that in some hearts the fruits of the Spirit are manifestly brought to maturity. The Rev. J. Pickford gives the evidence of an increase of

Missionary Zeal.

The duty of the people to assist in sending the Gospel of salvation to the dark places in the north of Tinnevelly has been brought before them and responded to in a cheering manner. A hint thrown out at the beginning of the present year has been generally adopted. The head of every Christian household takes a handful of rice or combumpillu from the principal meal of the day, and sets it aside for the native Missionary Society. Also, as many collecting-pots as I could obtain have been distributed. The handful of rice makes little difference in the meal: the giving of it interferes with no other object: but it keeps the subject daily before the eyes of the people; and the last, though not the least, consideration which may be added, is, that I hope the Society will be nearly seventy rupees richer by it and by our rude-looking collecting-pots.

The same spirit appears to be especially manifest in a village, of which Mr. Pickford gives the following account—

April 24, 1857—Visited the village of Kalsettavélei and held service. The influence of the religious instruction given in the girls' day-school has been brought to bear in a very pleasing manner upon the people in this village. The eldest girl in the school has, it appears, for several months, been quietly endeavouring to teach her heathen neighbours. A blessing, I hope, has attended this labour of love, for several spoke to me with earnestness of their wish to be further instructed. I trust a good work has been begun in several families. It has been my prayer that the Lord would stir up the hearts of some to work in this way "for love's sake;" and to my great joy two or three cases of this kind have accidentally fallen under my notice this week. Daniel and John, both of them intelligent and influential men, have for some months past set apart a little time for the purpose of visiting their heathen neighbours, and speaking to them of the way of eternal life. I do hope, that in each of these cases the love of Christ is the constraining motive. In each case the work of evangelist has been entered upon, and prosecuted, not only quietly, but in a way to avoid notice. Such instances of enlargement of heart among the people themselves give cheering hopes of the stability and permanency of the Tinnevely church. The ordination of native deacons, the appointment to native pastorate, and the progress of education are good signs, but the extension of real godliness and holy zeal make the prospect even brighter.

Mr. Pickford also notices another fruit of the Spirit—

Increasing Prayerfulness.

Another feature which I would venture to notice with humble thankfulness is a more pervading spirit of prayer and supplication. I trust I am not mistaken in hoping that such is the case. May it be as the heavy drops which herald the coming shower! On Wednesday morning the catechists in the adjoining villages meet in the little bungalow for the purpose of prayer and the reading of God's word. Oh that our God, in answer to the poor supplications thus offered up, would send down upon us, and upon our work, the time of refreshing! My prayer is for a deeper sense of sin, and of unworthiness and weakness in my own heart, and in the heart of each catechist. This prayer being answered, the blessing will not stop here. Many of the people will follow on with more earnestness to know the Lord, and many will ask in deep concern, "What shall we do to be saved?"

May the Lord be pleased to stir up the hearts of some of his dear people to pray for us! More humility before our God, more zeal, more tenderness and love for souls, are far more necessary for us than silver or gold.

Bright example of zeal for the salvation of others.

Mr. Devasagayam describes the pious zeal of a female convert.

I will give some account of Marial. She is known as a Christian by Mr. Tucker, Mr. Pickford, and Mr. Whitchurch. It has pleased the Lord to bless my instruction to her. Her faith and love to Christ was such, that the late Mr. Rhenius resolved to baptize her at Palamcotta, and I stood as her sponsor; consequently she used to call herself my child. She was from that time very earnest and active in calling her people to Christ, and their present number is eighty-one souls. She suffered also great persecution from the heathen owner of her village. She and her people had once been so severely beaten, that they brought their complaint before the then magistrate, Mr. C. B. Thomas. He fined the owner thirty rupees, who spent more than 1000 rupees to gain his object before the authorities, but the Lord was on the side of his people. The enemy is now silent, and appears to be friendly to our people. Even her own relatives, who were once on his side, are now brought to Christ. The Lord blessed her Gospel invitation, as he did that of the woman of Samaria. We have the same Lord and the same Gospel, and we need not doubt the same success.

A sudden sickness, or a distressing accident, is so universally attributed by the heathen to the agency of evil spirits, that even converts find it difficult to resist, on such emergencies, the entreaties of their heathen friends to perform idolatrous rites. The following incident in Mr. Devasagayam's journal is therefore pleasing—

A few days ago a young man had a fall from a palmyra tree, when several heathen brought him home, and advised him to offer a cock to the devil. He, and his pious father, spoke against it, and showed their displeasure saying that they prayed only to God to have mercy upon him, and repeated the text, "O Lord, correct me, but with judgment, not in thine anger, lest Thou bring me to nothing." The young man is in the way of recovery.

Itinerating Mission in North Tinnevelly.

It was mentioned in the last Report that a permanent station in the itinerating district had been established at Sivagasi, and that the Rev. C. Every had been appointed to it. He commenced his labours with great zeal and promise, but it pleased God suddenly to cut short his days by an attack of cholera. A few extracts from the communications of the Rev. G. T. Ragland respecting this event will quicken the prayers and Christian sympathy of friends at home.

Our beloved brother was seized with cholera while travelling in his district, and gently fell asleep in Jesus on the following day, August 18th. I am still in the schoolroom where he breathed his last, waiting for the sun to go down a little to allow me to travel. His dear remains—dear to the Lord who died for him, and to us his brethren in the Gospel—I have sent on to Paneiadipatti, where dear Mr. Fenn and Joseph and I were to have met this morning, and where we shall meet, please God, this evening; but under what different circumstances! There, happily, the carpenter engaged over the bungalow will be able, I hope, to prepare the decency of a coffin; and my two brethren will meanwhile have decided whether to bury his remains there, or to take them on to Kalbódhu.

I cannot grieve, in the very least degree for him. His travelling things and dress, hat and umbrella, and shoes, left behind, give me, for a moment, as my eye turns on them, a feeling of sadness; but I thank God when I remember that his time of labour, and, still more, sorrow and temptation, is all over! How wonderful this seems! He has set us a bright, bright example, as a holy, stedfast, self-denying preacher of Christ Jesus, withal so humble and amiable. May we only have grace to follow it, and be brought at last to his peaceful and well-assured end! His faithful Saviour is, I trust, ours too.*

Joint report of the Itinerating Mission.

The three itinerating Missionaries, the Rev. T. G. Ragland, Rev. D. Fenn, and the Rev. R. R. Meadows, have furnished full journals of their labours, together with the following summary, dated 30th June 1857—

Nothing striking has occurred during the interval which has elapsed since we furnished our last report to the Committee. Our numbers have continued the same, and, with slight interruptions, we have been able to go on with our work as usual. We regret that we are not able to tell of any more having placed themselves permanently under instruction; and still more, that some of those, who previously gave us good hope, have disappointed us. But we trust that these disappointments will, in some way or other, eventually work for the increase of the Gospel.

We will just allude once more to the congregation at Kalbódhu, which, with its twenty-two baptized and eight or ten under instruction, we handed over to the charge of Mr. Every in December last. At or about the same time, eight of the adults were admitted to the Lord's supper. Through God's preserving mercy, this little congregation seems still going on well; and it is a great pleasure, when one's tent is in the neighbourhood, to go over and pay them a visit. Mr. Every has baptized two more adults and four more children, making the whole number twenty-eight, besides four individuals from a neighbouring village.

Of our second body of inquirers at Mádhámkoílhatti we are obliged to give a much less favourable report. We mentioned six months since, that we had baptized two men in the place, and that the general good conduct of one of them, and especially the great love he seemed to have for the Bible, together with much intelligence, and, as we thought, patience under persecution, gave us great hope. But at the beginning of this year we heard that he was deceiving us, at least in some particulars; and the more we investigated his case, the more it seemed that he had been acting dishonestly. All our efforts have failed to produce in him any genuine sorrow for his sin. He seems to be growing careless and worldly, and his influence among the rest of the inquirers does not seem at all for good. Besides this, we have much less encouragement in the boys and women in this congregation than we had six months ago. They do not come so regularly to prayers. One, a lad of fourteen, who had a very intelligent acquaintance with much of Christianity, and on all our visits pleased us not a little, has now nearly, if not quite, relapsed into heathenism. Others, too, have declined, although they have not altogether relapsed, during the half-year. We feel especially grieved, that we cannot get the men, even those who seem really in earnest, to care for the best interests of their wives.

We have mentioned once or twice before a third body of inquirers, very dull and ignorant people, at a place called Kanjampatti. Though they were nearly a twelvemonth under almost constant instruction, it was with the greatest difficulty we could teach them the Ten Commandments, and it was yet harder to make them comprehend their meaning. About three months ago we were afraid they intended to draw away from us altogether, because we would not interfere in a question of property. Lately we have had a little, though a very little, more hope about them.

Towards the close of January last, a large body of respectable and well-educated people, Shanars of Pandhuvárapatti, a village where one of us was encamped, expressed a wish to become Christians. Every evening during that week they came for prayers. During the three or four following weeks they were visited as often as other engagements allowed; and though there was some trifling, yet there was so much intelligence, and, on the part of two or three, there seemed such an amount of earnestness, as made us very hopeful. After all this, confirmed, too, as it was, by the visit of another of our party, great was our disappointment and sorrow when, about ten days later, they treated one of our native brethren and his message with indifference, refused to learn, or, at least, to repeat any more lessons, or to go to a neighbouring village for service; and, what was worse, said they must continue to maintain a heathen temple in their village, and rub on ashes. "If we wanted them (they said) to become Christians we must appoint one of themselves catechists, must build them a church,"

&c. Lately some of our party, who happened to be encamped near the place, paid them another visit. They showed no desire to come again under instruction, and, though invited to come to service to the tent, next day (Sunday), none of them made their appearance.

In a village called Dévapattanam, near the mountains, we have had a somewhat similar disappointment. A few poor people asked, with some signs of earnestness, to be taken under instruction; but, after one or two visits from us, so little appeared in them to encourage us, that we could not think it right to make any special efforts for them. Two or three of them, however, attend on Sundays at a church about seven miles distant.

We are thankful to say that the Christian congregations in South Tinnevely continue to send their catechists, and in large numbers. We have had twenty-three the last six months. With hardly an exception, they have worked with us very cheerfully, though often put to not a little inconvenience.

One of the itinerating Missionaries thus speaks in his journal of a visit casually paid to the village of Kalbódhu—

It was late at night. I went into the street merely to ask for a little water to drink. The Christians had, however, heard that I was coming, and assembled almost instantly for prayers. I read Psalm cxxi., and spoke especially on the words "He shall preserve thy soul." They were very attentive. I could not help writing in my journal at the time what a great, great mercy it is to see these poor people.

A report given by Mr. Ragland, at the close of the year, presents the same picture of their work, accompanied, however, with some important remarks, which will illustrate the patient and faithful spirit of the labourers.

A few months since it appeared to us far from impossible that the revolt in North India might extend to the South; and, whatever our hopes might be, that sooner or later, through God's mercy, the supremacy of the British would be restored, there was the prospect not only of an intermediate period of anarchy, during which Missionary work would be almost impossible, but a further long period of unsettledness, during which itinerating—if, as is the case with ourselves, at a distance from any military station—could scarcely have been carried on without considerable risk of property, or even life. Through the great mercy of God, we have been spared all this; and even the fear we felt—and this too was only for a few weeks or perhaps days—is rather an occasion for thankfulness. It led us, we hope, to examine our motives; and it now leads us, or ought at least to lead us, to value, far more than previously, the opportunity still continued to us to preach and teach Christ Jesus, no man interrupting us. Our work has been carried on as in previous years, though a little interrupted by ill health. Still, every village has been visited at least once during each half-year, and some villages twice, or even thrice, or even more frequently; and we have continued to have fellow-helpers month by month from the Christian congregations in the south. Seventeen came in the former half of the year, and twenty-three in the latter, making a total of half as many again as in 1856. But we are still not allowed to report success. Yet this, too, will be a cause for thankfulness, if it only leads us, and may it do so, to be truly humbled for all that we are conscious of in ourselves tending to prevent the blessing on our work that we long for. In 1856 we had the gratification of resigning the charge of our first congregation of converts (Kalbódhu) to the Missionary in charge of the Sivagasi district; but there has been nothing similar during the last year. We have not been able to take on permanently any bodies of inquirers during the past year. Some, smaller or larger, in several places, came to us; but though one or two individuals here and there have remained, as bodies they have all gone back after being instructed for a few weeks. Still, however, we are not discouraged. The work was commenced with the expectation that long and patient pressing of the Gospel would be required; and though, soon after commencing, there were signs which flattered us into the hope that this would not be necessary, we ought not to despond, though we have to return to our original expectation. Then God is faithful. It is His Gospel we are attempting to preach, and his own well-beloved Son, whom in the main, notwithstanding all our shortcomings, and variations, we are endeavouring to glorify. We are prepared, I trust, with his help, to labour on, even if success be long denied us, assured that our labour will not be in vain.

But, independently of this, there are some few circumstances, small in themselves compared with what we should like to report, but still encouraging and matters for thankfulness.

Besides those who have heard the truth and been instructed solely and almost entirely by members of our itinerating body, we feel that we have reason to be encouraged by the advance made by persons connected with the congregations of the Sivagasi district. Since May, when Vedhanayagam and Joseph, our native brethren, began to combine with preaching to the heathen the care of the catechists and congregations, and still more since Mr. Every's death in August, the work carried on within the limits of the district has been so blended, that it is difficult to say what is due to the exertions of those connected with the itinerating body, and what to the agents of the district. But whoever may have been the instruments, it is gratifying to think that accessions have been made to the number of inquirers; and that, since the death of Mr. Every, we have baptized a considerable number of (comparatively) well-prepared persons, who had been some months under the care of Vedhanayagam and Joseph—altogether, including children, about fifty individuals. We have reason to be thankful, too, that the heathen throughout the district are beginning to be well acquainted with the principles of the Christian faith. We are sometimes surprised to hear confessions, not only of the folly and sin of idolatry, but of Christ as the only Saviour. And lastly, at our late visit to Palamcotta, it was arranged that, besides the catechists spending, as heretofore, a month with us at a time, four able and good men should be supported in North Tinnevely permanently, their salaries and all incidental expenses to be defrayed by the native Church Missionary Association. And what is still more gratifying, and still more a matter of humble thankfulness, several of our dear Missionary brethren in the south have kindly volunteered to give up labourers for the purpose.

The following incidental notice of the itinerating district occurs in the journal of Mr. Devasagayam—

At our evening Missionary Meeting, catechist A., who returned from the north this week, gave me the following interesting account about the inquirers. I will state it in his own words:—"I went last month to Mattupatti, in Sivagasi district, where are at present several inquirers. One of them, an old woman, is wonderfully desirous to learn the word of God she and her daughter attend the daily prayers regularly. She loves the catechist like a mother. When I about to come away the old woman asked of me, "What shall we do? We are like children who have no mother to feed them. We have morning and evening prayers." She loves the catechists so much no that she is quite a mother to us. The former catechist, G., who was sitting near him, and is going back to Mattupatti next week, informed us that this good old woman is a true mother to us. 'Although she is a Naick or of Gentú caste,' said he, 'she gave up the caste pride a long time ago: she receives me in her house. I was once sick: she gave me a bed and prepared my diet. She is very desirous to be baptized. When she heard of the state of the work of God in the south she was transported, and told me that, although she is too old to walk, she will, however, creep, and come here, and see the glorious work of God. She has only one daughter, who is also under Christian instruction. All her heathen relatives have separated themselves from them: they are afraid to persecute them.'"

Education.

The Educational Institutions which are common to the whole Mission, are at Palamcotta. Mr. Sargent has under his care the Palamcotta Institution for training native catechists and teachers. He gives the following account of its state at the close of the year—

I am thankful in being able to say that the duties of this important institution have been carried on without interruption, and that during the past year ten students have been sent out as catechists and two as schoolmasters to the several districts of the Mission; one left of his own accord; and one has been dismissed. The average number of students for the year is fifty-two.

The brethren have also reported favourably of the students, who from time to time spend a month with them in itinerating. Those who have had this benefit, on their return to the institution give account to the other students of their proceedings, and this has served to stir up the zeal and Missionary spirit of others.

A Training Institution for native schoolmasters has been lately established, which for a time has been placed under Mr. Sargent, who writes—

The Vernacular Training Institution having been temporarily confided to my care, I have endeavoured to carry out the wishes of the Committee by adhering as closely as possible to the plan hitherto pursued. My personal instruction is necessarily limited to only one hour in the day; but the staff of native assistants carry on the main part of the work in accordance with the “training system.” After the examination in July last, twenty youths were sent out as masters. They had been but little more than a year under training, and were not, properly speaking, near the standard we should aim at: but it seemed to have been a settled plan, that, after the examination, they should be employed; and other circumstances rendering this desirable, I made the necessary arrangements. It was, however, Mr. Rodgers’ idea, I think, that these youths should return again to the institution after a given period. I fear, however, that in many cases this plan will not be available.

A Model School is attached to this institution, under the care of Mr. F. Scamell, who was trained at Highbury College.

Mr. Sargent also reports the zealous educational labours of his wife.

Mrs. Sargent, I am thankful to say, is able to give her undivided attention to the girls’ boarding-school, the students’ wives, and other women of the congregation. The girls are with her, of course, every day; the wives of the students (seventeen) four times a week; the poor women and widows, to the number of forty, on Wednesday; and on Thursday she has a meeting of matrons for prayer, on behalf of their children and other relatives. More than fifty women attend this class, and the good effect of such intercourse is daily showing itself by increased regularity in attendance on the means of grace, apparent interest in spiritual exertions, and the endeavour to acquire habits of cleanliness.

The Native-English school has continued to flourish under the zealous and able superintendence of Mr. Cruickshanks.

Government Grants-in-aid.

The Rev. J. Pickford notices the good effect of the Government grants-in-aid upon the village school.

Five masters were submitted to the Government Inspector for examination, and each succeeded. The circumstance is evidently telling upon the other masters, for a more lively spirit of wholesome emulation is abroad; and I doubt not ten more candidates will be prepared to pass the next examination.

The receipt of the grant-in-aid is already, in the estimation of numbers, a guarantee of the master’s ability.

Printing Press.

Mr. J. Bensley is the superintendant of the Society’s printing press, which is kept in constant employment by the printing of various educational works, and the Holy Scriptures, as well for this as for other Societies. It is a very important auxiliary to the personal labours of the Missionaries.

TRAVANCORE AND COCHIN.

No change has taken place during the last year in the number of the Missionaries, European or native; and the ordinary operations of the Mission have proceeded without the slightest interruption from political events.

The Cottayam district is under the Rev. H. Andrews, with the native minister, the Rev. Koshi Koshi, at the out-station of Olesha. The Pallam district is under the Rev. E. Johnson. The Mundakayam district, among the hill Araans, is under the Rev. H. Baker, junior. The Rev. J. Peet has charge of the two districts of Mavelicara and Tiruwella, with four native ministers residing at out-stations viz. the Rev. Oomen Mámem, at Kodawalania; the Rev. Jacob Tharien, at Kannit; the Rev. George Matthan, at Mallapalli; and the Rev. Jacob Chandy, at Thallawadi. The Allepie district is under the Rev. R. H. Vickers. In the kingdom of Cochin there are three districts. The native Christians in the town and neighbourhood of Cochin are ministered to by the native minister, the Rev. G. Curian, under the superintendence of the Rev. T. Whitehouse, a zealous friend of Missions, who is employed by the Madras Additional-Clergy Society. The Trichúr district is under the Rev. H. Harley; and the Kunnankullam district is under the Rev. J. G. Beüttler. This statement will sufficiently exhibit the extent of the Mission. Without attempting to describe each station, the Committee will give a general view of the work, and the points of chief interest in the operations of the last year.

The Rev. H. Baker, from increasing age and debility, having relinquished the care of a district, confines his labours to the native congregation in Cottayam church, and to the superintendence of the printing press. In his annual letter he writes—

Now, in the sixty-fourth year of my age, and the fortieth of blessed service in the Mission field, as an encouragement to others, I may say, that, when I came to India, I was considered consumptive, and I never looked forward to more than a few years' labour. I did not, however, spare myself, fearing the effects of climate; and I can truly say, that the promise given long ago, "As thy day is, thy strength shall be," has been most fully and graciously fulfilled to me.

Missionary Conference—Review of Missionary Success.

At a conference of the Travancore Missionaries held at the close of 1857, the following statement was adopted—

With reference to the general state of the Mission the brethren trust, with thankfulness to God, that it is mainly satisfactory and improving, though much yet exists to make them rejoice with trembling. There is a manifest progress in the various branches of the work. The children of our Christian people are much in advance of others. Caste prejudices among our congregations are gradually diminishing. The heathen are more accessible, and heathen systems are less defended than formerly.

Hitherto, however, the results of Missionary influence are chiefly to be found among the Chogans and lower classes. Probably there are not more than ten Nairs among our converts, and the heathen of this caste are the chief opponents to the spread of Christianity.

In proportion, as the heathen are added to our congregation, the number of the Syrians in them decreases. As Mr. Baker, senior, remarked, “as the heathen walk in, the Syrians go out.” The Syrian laity in the south seem to become more antagonistic. In the north a better disposition towards our Missionaries is manifested at present. As a class, the Syrian clergy everywhere seem decidedly retrograding, but several exceptional cases exist. Our Common and Family Prayer-books, however, as well as the Scriptures, are universally acceptable, and are frequently purchased by Syrians.

Our work is everywhere assuming a more decidedly Missionary character, both as a whole, and in the efforts of individual European and native agents. Many of the latter systematically devote a due proportion of their time to fresh efforts among the heathen.

The Hill Araans.

The Rev. P. S. Royston, Secretary of the Madras Corresponding Committee, visited the Mundakayam district at the close of 1857, and gives this account of the work which has sprung up under the energetic labours of the Rev. H. Baker, junior—

I would first mention that there are two chief centres of Missionary work in this interesting district, viz. Mundakayam, where our Missionary resides, and Malkou, twenty-eight miles further northward. The former has three out-stations, viz. Assapian, Eddacanu, and Mundapulli, the latter, two, viz. Erumapara and Kanikal. In the former station, and its associated villages, I spent seven very happy days, and was much amazed at what had already been done there, and in the prospect, with God’s blessing, of much further progress.

Since Araan inquirers first applied to Mr. Henry Baker, junior, at Pallam, in 1851, the work has, by the divine blessing, been gradually progressing, till at present the number of natives under instruction exceed 790, of whom 523 are baptized and sixty-five are communicants. That the work will be permanent, should God continue his favour, we may, I think, now very well hope. In each of the villages the inquirers have built a school-shed at their own expense; the mountain jungle has been cleared over a very large space of country; that part of it which belongs to the Mission already, pays for one reader, as well as other church expenses; the existing inquirers seem closely attached to their laborious and ever-ready Missionary; and fresh applications for instruction come from time to time from other neighbouring villages. In proportion as cultivation advances, the healthiness of the district is improving; and should it be needful, in the course of a couple of years or so, that Mr. Henry Baker should visit England, and there were no suitable available English Missionary at hand to take up his work, he considers that one of our native clergymen could easily carry on, and perhaps increase, the Mission during his absence.

Mr. Baker, junior, gives a more detailed account of his work, with some interesting statistics, and his prospects for the future.

We have been kept in peace, and God has granted us a measure of prosperity in our work, while some of our brethren have gone as witnesses before the Throne, and others are yet sorely tried. In every case Christianity in India is a vital principle. In the north, both Europeans and natives have sealed their faith with their blood; while in the south, where it has been more known, and its influence felt amongst the heathen, it has preserved peace, and been a strong stay of Government. Romanists and Syrians on this coast are universally loyal, and celebrated the fall of Delhi with Te Deums, firing of guns, and other rejoicings. There are now 718 under instruction in the hills, in seven villages, where there is regular Sunday service, and instruction for adults in classes, and for children, daily. I have, besides, nearly ninety slaves in a Sunday-school. We have regular itinerating tours among the heathen, with promises of additional openings both in the hills and further towards the plains. Schools are wanted among the Nairs and Roman-Catholic Syrians.

I have itinerated in my own district thirty-five miles by twenty-five. There is scarcely a village or collection of huts I have not seen, I have lived in native houses, Romanist and Jacobite churches, (some places were visited often,) and slept on the hill-side by a fire, with a blanket hung up to keep off the dew: my Scripture readers do the same. I have also had many hundred sick folk to attend to.

My people all erect their own school and church-buildings. At Mundakayam the congregation has given 230 bushels of paddy to complete the church: at Malkou and Erumapara they have erected buildings which I could not have built for 120 rupees, this year only, and promise large help towards their church, towards which some friends have given me also 250 rupees. My Mission farm supports one reader, one assistant, and three preparandi. This year we reaped 3000 bushels of paddy. A native doctor and several poor families, are supported by this farm also. When our work is behind, the Christians come and help voluntarily, so as to get it on.

God helping me, I am anxious to render my hill teachers self-supporting by the farm and local contributions. With a little sympathy and help for a few years, I shall succeed, I doubt not. I have now begun a small plantation: it is managed by a Christian Nair, the son of an influential Brahmin. I intend it, by God's grace, to support a native clergyman at the Mundakayam colony.

The Rev. H. Andrews thus describes a baptism of a large number of the converts which he witnessed in April 1857—

As soon as service began, the people collected, the room being exceedingly crowded. I had scarcely space to kneel while reading prayers. Mr. H. Baker then gave one of his stirring, searching addresses, after which came the baptisms. They advanced by families. I must explain the reason of this. When the Gospel was first preached here, one of a family, and two of a village, only received it. These, however, became Missionaries to their several families, and ceased not to labour till the whole of their family was gathered in. It was deeply touching to see the son or father bring forward his relatives, and count them carefully as he placed them in a row before Mr. Baker. In this manner I counted three families of seven, five of six, two of four, two of three, and one of two members, thus brought forward. These, with eight others baptized the previous day, made a total of ninety. Some thirty or more were turned back for longer probation, to their great grief. One very aged woman was baptized with her great grandchildren. She had long opposed, then held aloof, and at last came forward, the first, yet the last of the family—one called at the eleventh hour from standing idle in the world's market-place. The satisfaction of the son in thus seeing, as it were, the termination of his home-work was most evident. Few converts in India show this mark of their earnest belief in their new faith. The Syrians scarcely dream of such a thing when they join our church.

A native Minister's report of the out-station under his pastoral care.

The native minister, the Rev. Koshi Koshi, has had charge of the Thallawadi congregation and district, under the superintendence of Mr. Peet. He gives this account of the progress of the work, and of the state of the surrounding population—

I am thankful to report a small accession during the past year: four Syrian families, consisting of eighteen souls, and one Chogan, have joined us. I believe that, of these, some at least were influenced by sincere motives. There is one man in particular, among the new Syrian converts, who is indeed a Christian of an exalted character. He appears to have outpaced others in spiritual attainments, who, as to time and external advantages, have been long before him.

Syrians and Roman Catholics—True knowledge is spreading among these people, especially among the former, notwithstanding the efforts of their clergy to keep them ignorant. Although many Priests among the Syrians have been wishing for a reform, there is none yet to take the lead. But in some places they hold meetings for reading and prayer, and get a Catanar now and then to preach to them on Sunday. In the Syrian church nearest to us a Catanar, who is considered a man of learning among them, is appointed to preach, though this was done with a view to prevent more people from coming over to us for want of preaching in their own church. In another place a good and well-instructed scripture-reader is going about preaching the pure Gospel, and is paid by subscription from the people. These are tokens for good, and, through the blessing of God, may prepare the way for larger accessions to his true church. The Romanists, among whom I occasionally go about, do not manifest any open opposition, nor do they generally object to hear from us, though they dare not touch our books. But I know a few who privately read portions of Scripture. Our neighbours, both Syrians and Romanists, are well-disposed people, and on that account are looked upon with suspicion by their more bigoted brethren. I hope that, sooner or later, they may be led to value and accept the blessings to be enjoyed only in the communion of our church.

Baptism of slaves.

Mr. Andrews also gives the following account of a baptism of slaves at which he officiated—

March 12—A very memorable day: my first baptism of adults. The slaves at Erumapara have long been diligent in learning, taking every opportunity to come here also. It was arranged that I should accompany Mr. Peet and the native clergyman to the baptism, which I was privileged to perform; the Rev. G. Matthan afterwards marrying the adults. It was a solemn scene which that shed-like slave-school presented. The slaves' masters were present and stood as their witnesses. As each adult advanced to receive the sign of admission into Christ's church militant, I was much struck with their serious deportment. Twenty-six, of whom three-fourths were adults, received the outward sign, and, as far as man could tell, possessed much of the inward and spiritual grace. Many were present, some slaves, some influential men, and all appeared deeply interested.

Education—Cottayam College.

The Rev. R. Collins, with an assistant, Mr. G. Armstrong, conducts the Cottayam college. In his annual letter, he writes—

I trust that God is already giving us some evidence of good amongst the boys: their general good conduct deserves particular mention, and I hope this is an index to a healthy moral condition. Mr. Armstrong now resides in the little bungalow joining the cottage, and sees a good deal of the lads out of school hours, and he, too, has a very good opinion of their behaviour. With my two native teachers as well, who, by the way, were once pupils of yours, I am able to keep a careful watch at all times over the boys' morals.

I hear from our Committee in Madras that the college has been affiliated to the university lately established in this Presidency. This is perfectly in accordance with my own wishes, and I feel deeply anxious about the results of this step, knowing, as I do, that a stimulus and an opening of this kind is needed before we shall ever be able to produce really well-informed and able instruments for our work.

The letter is addressed to the Rev. J. Chapman, who was formerly the Principal of this college. Mr. Collins bears this testimony to the labours of his predecessor—

Much has already been done by this college in past years, and the care that has been bestowed during your own invaluable labours is now, in more instances than one, bearing fruit every day. One need only converse with Ooman Mamen, for instance, for ten minutes (I single out him from others as a bright example), to learn that the Spirit of God has often been within these walls, and perhaps often when the teacher's heart was most desponding, to water the seed sown. A short time ago, when I was at Ooman's house, he read to me some notes that he had taken while in the college, of your sermons, which he told me had been of great value to him since. He evidently was an attentive hearer; and it is delightful to hear him tell of the little band of Jesus' followers that used to surround him, while a boy here, to read the Bible and pray every evening and morning, and often before sunrise.

Cochin.

The native pastor at Cochin thus describes his work, in his annual letter, dated January 21, 1858—

I am truly glad to inform you that the past year has witnessed an increase to the number of our little flock, partly by the breaking up of the Church of Scotland's Mission here, and partly by conversions from Romanism and heathenism, so that our present number is upwards of 300 professing Christians. I have also to record that some perceptible improvement has been effected amongst the major part of our female members in the course of the last year. My work is chiefly pastoral and educational. It consists of a round of duties, and I have more than enough to do in these ways, having no catechist or reader. All our people support themselves by honest labour. Most of them are mechanics, and get wages sufficient for the maintenance of their families. They are pretty regular in their attendance on the means of grace. There are a few unsteady characters, some of whom we have lately had the painful duty of suspending.

We have been trying to instil into our people's minds the duty to give freely, as they have hitherto been accustomed to receive freely. We had a ready and liberal response some time back from the Cottayam young men, on account of the native pastorate, but they were forced to discontinue it by scarcity of work during the monsoon. I am glad to say that some of them have expressed their desire to resume their contributions.

The Rev. Thomas Whitehouse confirms the account given by the native pastor. He describes the peculiar difficulties which have arisen from one of the rival metrans of the distracted Syrian church having fixed his residence in Cochin, who makes a merchandize of ordination and of the other rites of the church. The visit of a Jacobite bishop from Jerusalem has also been the occasion of encouraging new superstitions, by the relics he brought with him, and of impoverishing the native churches by the large contributions he raised amongst them.

The native Protestants having been gathered from many different Missions, and some of them having been long without pastoral oversight, are still in a low state; but Mr. Whitehouse hopes that improvement is perceptible in their general behaviour.

Kunnankullam District.

The Rev. J. G. Beüttler, in his half-yearly report, June 30, 1857, has these remarks upon the importance of preaching the word—

I consider preaching my chief work. It seldom occurs that I do not get a hearing from groups, in whichever direction I take my steps; and I trust that these sermons of mine, wherever preached, without a gown and without a pulpit, will be always numerously attended. When travelling, the open yard, the grassy hillock, a pile of railway sleepers, native verandahs, the chancel steps of Syrian and Romish churches, serve me for a pulpit, and I have had most interesting scenes on such occasions. Still I find, that at places where I am in hopes of establishing a congregation, this casual preaching is not enough. The people must not only come oftener under the sound of the Gospel, but they ought to know of a fixed time also when they may prepare for a service. Hence, at three places I have established such a service on every Sunday afternoon, which I take in turn with my readers. I begin with an extempore prayer, and then read a parable, from which I preach. I usually confine myself to texts from the Gospel and Acts, and interweave my discourse with it, which helps them to retain the matter easier. At the end I pronounce the blessing, and we separate. In two places I have nothing but an open yard, and mats spread on the ground, and in the third I use the school-room. The open yard, if sun or rain permit, is the most suitable, as it affords convenience for the Nair to choose his corner and the slave his. Thus, on every successive Sunday I get a ride of five, eight, or sixteen miles, and never feel happier in my heart than when I come home from my Master's work. Though fatigued, a few Sundays since, I took two friends (one an engineer and the other of the civil service) with me to one of these services. As the monsoon showers were frequent then, we took advantage of a little break, and rode there as fast as we could. Arrived in sight of the house, a smart downpour came on, which collected the people in an instant. Of the 180 present, twenty-five were Mohammedans, who not only conducted themselves decently through the service, but answered a number of questions which I put to them. On our return, one of my friends remarked that he scarcely should have believed that such a peaceful heathen congregation could be collected together in Malabar, nor could he have imagined that twenty-five Moplas would sit for half an hour to listen to the truths of the Gospel.*

TELUGU MISSION.

Masulipatam.

The native-English school at this station continues under the able and devoted superintendence of the Rev. R. T. Noble, assisted by the Rev. J. B. Rodgers and Mr. Francis Goodall. The Rev. C. Tanner, and W. E. Jellicoe, Esq., assist in the school while studying the language. The Rev. J. E. Sharkey and the Rev. T. Y. Darling have charge of the native congregation, and conduct Missionary operations in the district. Mr. Darling has been laid aside by ill health for the greater part of the year. The Rev. G. English has returned to England; so that the Ellore station has been left without a Missionary, the school being kept by Mr. Howley. The Rev. F. N. Alexander has been since stationed there, and is devoting himself to the acquisition of the language. Another station has been decided upon at Bezwarra, to which one of the Missionaries from Masulipatum will shortly remove.

Mr. Sharkey reports respecting the congregation of native converts—

Our Sunday services, conducted in Telugu, in Mr. Noble's school-room, have been attended by upwards of 125 souls, of whom ninety-five are members of the visible church. For about an hour before the evening service, the young as well as the old, formed into various classes, are instructed by Mr. Noble's converts, whose aid we greatly appreciate, and by Mrs. Sharkey's grown girls. Many of the adults, thus carefully and regularly instructed, make good use of their memories, and afford satisfaction to their teachers. They are most of them poor and illiterate, and belong to the lower castes. In the course of the year one of them was baptized, together with his two sons. His brother and his two daughters were baptized the year before. Their wives, however, continue opposed to the truth, and are a source of much trial and grief to their husbands.

We would mention, with heartfelt praise to God, the consistent walk, in general, of all our converts, male and female. Our covenant God has most graciously kept them, by His mighty power, though beset by numerous enemies, the most insidious and powerful being their own corrupt and deceitful hearts. Some of our young people have, we have reason to think, maintained, in numerous trying circumstances, a calm and patient reliance on the precious promises of him who is the faithful and true witness. Others, again, have evidenced considerable growth in knowledge and grace.

The Tamil Christians formed a part of Mr. Darling's charge. During his absence their prayer-room was closed, and they were obliged to attend our Telugu services. But since Solomon David Pillay's return, he has, in addition to his own onerous duties in the English school, most kindly resumed the Sunday-morning Tamil service, at which there is a small attendance, though the number of Tamil Christians exceeds fifty souls. We deeply regret to state, that, with a few rare and solitary exceptions, our Tamil Christians are, for the most part, painfully negligent of the means of grace, altogether worldly, and even openly wicked. This, perhaps, is chiefly to be ascribed to their not having a stated pastor to visit them, and to lay himself out entirely for their spiritual welfare.

The number of baptisms recorded during the past year in our Mission register is twenty-five: eight of these are cases of infant baptism, and all the rest of adults. Of the latter, eleven were girls from Mrs. Sharkey's school, whose history is not altogether uninteresting. One of them, after reading for several years in our girls' school, was forcibly detained at home by her heathen brother and uncle. After the lapse of many months, when it was thought her mind was sufficiently alienated from the subject of religion, she was sent on an errand by her friends. It was a Sunday, and it so happened that she passed by our place of worship during the afternoon service, while we were singing. She stood and listened. Her heart within her grew hot, and the fire burned. With repressed grief she hastened home, and very soon afterwards, early one Sunday morning, presented herself, unknown to her relatives, before our gate, and solicited admission, which was of course readily and joyfully granted.

We spent the last cold season as usual, in the district. Our mode of preaching in the villages has, since 1847, been as follows—A central village is selected, where our tents are pitched. From this centre all the surrounding villages within a distance of three miles, are visited. The tents are then removed to another centre, and the same process gone through as before. In this way about 450 villages have been visited, some of them oftener than three times, without any native help, and in the midst of duties altogether at variance with itinerancy.

A female boarding-school, under Mrs. Sharkey's superintendence, is an encouraging part of the Mission. Mr. Sharkey writes—

Mrs. Sharkey's female boarding-school, under God's defending and cleansing pity, prospers. The number on the list at the close of the year was sixty-six. The elder girls are a great help and comfort to Mrs. Sharkey in her school duties. The school is partly supported by the proceeds from the sale of the girls' plain and fancy work. The younger children are employed in the afternoons at their spinning-wheels. The cotton so spun is woven into coarse cloth by the boys of our vernacular school, which is next printed and made into wearing apparel for both boys and girls.*

Mrs. Cotton, as in former years, kindly presided at the examination of Mrs. Sharkey's school, and furnished an account of the result, in which she states—

It is the especial Christian example as well as precept of this school which so endears and recommends it to those who have the privilege of seeing its work, as it were, go on under their eyes. How would absent friends in England rejoice to get one peep at what awakens the warm feelings, even of those who visit listlessly what is within their daily reach. The self-denial and liberality of years would be repaid by the sight of such ample returns, seventy, eighty, and a hundred fold for the seed sown. But though absent benefactors may never meet on earth the objects of their interest, the meeting is yet sure, and far more pleasurable than any earth can give. The work they assist is one that peoples heaven with souls.

As usual, after prayers Mr. Sharkey gave us a short resumé of the prospects of the school—of the cheering reports made by the inspector of schools after his examinations of all the classes, and the consequent liberality of Government in offering to pay certain teachers. He also mentioned the fact of the girls' own work having this year realized 450 rupees, the afternoon being devoted to this purpose by the whole school: the first hour of the day is given to singing, and all the morning to their various studies, Mr. Sharkey himself giving the first and second classes four hours a day for their different lessons.†

COLOMBO AND COTTA DISTRICT.

Colombo.

THE Rev. Henry Whitley has ministered at this station to the English congregation assembling on the morning and evening of the Lord's-day, in the Mission church, and has carried on a Mission, both in Singhalese and in Tamil, to the surrounding population of Slave Island. A Tamil service is conducted in the church on Sunday morning, at eight o'clock, and a Singhalese service at three o'clock. The whole expense of six schools is defrayed by local collections from the English congregation. The Mission church is thus fulfilling the great object for which it was erected, namely, as a point of union between the Christians of different races.

The whole amount collected at Colombo for Missionary purposes, during the year, has been 583*l.*, of which 250*l.* were raised for a site of a Mission-house near the church. Mr. Whitley has experienced in many ways the zealous and liberal support of the European congregation in his various plans of usefulness. "Taking into consideration (he writes) the increase in the congregation, the additional number of communicants, the proofs of liberality, the active labours of some, and the general interest manifested by others, I am encouraged to hope that the blessing of the Lord is with us. May He yet further pour out his Spirit upon all the Europeans, that many may give themselves to God, and hold forth the word of life to the surrounding thousands sunk in idolatry, superstition, and lifeless Christianity !

The Tamil congregation comprises an average of twenty-five adults, chiefly Christians from South India, only occasionally resident at Colombo. Mr. Whitley writes respecting them—

At a time when so many natives of the adjacent continent visit Colombo, it is very important that we should have a service for the Christians, however few their number. Cases have occurred not many miles from this place, in which some, who, in their own country, were under Christian instruction, have relapsed into heathenism, or become perverts to Romanism, because there was no one who cared for their souls.

The Singhalese congregation averages fifty adults. Other occasional services are held in this language. A zealous catechist visits the heathen population, of whom Mr. Whitley writes—

It is a great comfort to be assisted by the catechist, to whose zeal, abilities, and good report I can testify. Though, in common with nearly every individual of his people, he is slow in giving expression to his feelings, yet, judging him by his works, and by the doctrine he preaches, I do hope that he is a true child of God. I cannot, therefore, hesitate to recommend him for ordination, for which he has long been a candidate.

There are three Tamil and three Singhalese schools in connexion with this station, containing 227 children.

Cotta.

For the greater part of the year 1857, the Cotta district has been under the charge of the Rev. G. Parsons. The Rev. I. Wood returned to Ceylon in October, and resumed the charge. Mr. Parsons trusts "that a silent, steady progressiveness characterizes the Mission work at Cotta, though the progress is slow, and there are many unfavourable circumstances." The congregations, and the number of communicants, exhibit a slight increase, and the schools, and number of scholars, remain the same as last year.

The main feature of encouragement during the year has been the unexpected liberality of the native Christians in supporting a Missionary effort for the benefit of the coolies, in the island. Application having been made to the Home Committee for the salary of an itinerating catechist, which could not be granted, a public meeting of the native Christians was held at Cotta, at which the subject was brought forward, and the result was, the awakening of a new interest in Mission work, and contributions of 15*l.* 15*s.* for the year. "No object," writes Mr. Parsons, "is so popular as contributing to the extension of Missionary work in other districts. For this one object a sum has been contributed rather larger than the whole amount collected for schools, churches, and general Missionary work. It is the discovery of a means of inducing the people to give liberally; and may thus be a stepping-stone to a self-supporting church. Let our Christian people be encouraged to give liberally to the extension of Christianity among others, and they will soon after be inclined to contribute towards its support among themselves."

Mr. Parsons also writes—

During the year I kept an account of the labours of the catechists, which is as follows—There were generally seven catechists: they held 1147 services: these were attended by an average of forty-one individuals, of whom one-third were adults. It is pleasing to note that the number of men and women attending service is nearly equal. Day-schools were visited, for the purpose of teaching Christianity, 1125 times: the number of visits to families was 2405, in which 2553 men, 3581 women, and 8947 children, were addressed. Upwards of 600 tracts have been distributed. These numbers do not include my own labours,

The Rev. C. C. Fenn, who superintends a district, in addition to the care of the Institution, writes—

The year just closed has certainly not been one of stagnation in the Cotta districts: it has been one of effort. We have attempted to take some forward steps. It has pleased God to impress on almost all of us the duty of seeking more earnestly the presence of His Spirit in our work, and, more especially, in our own hearts. Efforts have also been made by Mr. Wood and myself to awaken the catechists to the necessity of rising to clearer views, by experience and the Spirit's teaching, of the Gospel, and to greater diligence in cultivating spirituality of mind in themselves. I see my own catechists twice a week with this view. Mr. Wood adopts a similar plan.

Cottage lectures on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, divided pretty equally between the catechist and myself, and visiting from house to house on Tuesdays and Fridays, when the catechist accompanies me, have been carried on regularly throughout the year. But I can record no case of a sinner awakened from slumber, or of an anxious inquirer led to the Saviour. I cannot be surprised, however, at this, when I consider the feeble and imperfect manner in which I carry on the work. Yet sometimes it pleases God to magnify his power, by blessing the most unworthy instrumentality. May it be so in this case!

The history of the past year in my station may therefore be summed up in a single sentence—prosperity as regards the progress of education and the propagation of an external Christianity, but poverty in the outward manifestation of those spiritual results which are the real objects of our labour. But I anticipate brighter times.

Education.

The Cotta Institution has prospered during the last year. Mr. Fenn has been assisted by Messrs. Barton and Sorrell, who were educated at Highbury Training College: he writes—

Mr. Sorrell's arrival has been a great benefit. The second class, to which his labours have been almost confined, has been greatly improved since he came. Mr. Barton is now set free to devote his time almost exclusively to going about from class to class, and keeping the native teachers up to their work. Six students have volunteered to become Sunday-school teachers. The confirmation, which took place last year, has added twelve or thirteen hopeful young people to the number of our communicants.

In the annual report Mr. Fenn writes—

Our numbers continue to increase. The total number of students, exclusive of seven or eight pupil teachers, has been nearly 140; day scholars between 90 and 100; and a little more than 40 resident students. Indeed the number of resident students in particular is now so considerable as seriously to increase the responsibility of my post, and to render it a matter for great thankfulness that twelve months should have passed away without any instance of serious misconduct among the pupils. It must be remembered that nearly fifty students, varying in age from twelve to twenty-two, some of them heathen, others children of heathen or semi-heathen parents, a very few only having been brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, are congregated together, emancipated from the restraints of parents or elder relatives, with only two or three European agents to watch over them. Under these circumstances it is clear that no human foresight or arrangements could be sufficient to prevent serious evils from arising. From all such, however, the watchful providence of our heavenly Father has graciously preserved us, and I doubt not that He will continue to do so.

BADDAGAMA.

Mr. Parsons having been removed to Cotta during the absence of Mr. Wood, the work at Baddagama has been wholly carried on during the last year by the native minister, the Rev. A. Goonesekera, of whom the "Ceylon Church Missionary Record" speaks as one "in whose devotion to the cause of the Gospel, firmness of principle, and clear views, not only of Christian truth, but also of the real character of Missionary work, the Missionaries repose as much confidence as in any of their European brethren."

Mr. Goonesekera, furnished full reports of his Missionary employments, from which it appears that the full duties of the station, and of three out-stations, have been kept up by himself and the catechists. The following are extracts from his report—

There has been a small increase in the number of adults in the Church congregation, a few of the nominal Christians having been led to be decided by their piously disposed Christian relatives and friends, who are anxious to see them keep close to Christ in all his ordinances, while depending on the virtue and merit of his sacrifice alone for pardon and acceptance.

In the course of the year ten adults and seven children have been admitted by baptism into the number of the little flock at this place, the former having given proofs of sincere repentance and faith, and the latter being of Christian parents.

The number of cottage lectures has been increased by three, and the attendance at the lectures has been generally satisfactory. A few adults belonging to these lectures have become converts to Christianity.

On the 12th of August last we had the pleasure of witnessing the rite of confirmation conferred in our church on twenty-nine adults, most of whom have since been admitted to the Lord's supper, and their conduct has hitherto been consistent.

Mr. Parsons, upon returning to Baddagama at the close of the year, bears this striking testimony to the value of a native ministry—

Twenty months of deprivation of European superintendence was a good test of the stability of our work at Baddagama. I am thankful to find it stood the test; and the result, more than any other consideration, confirms my opinion of the wisdom of moving the head-quarters to the coast. The regularity of attendance on divine worship continued undiminished. The cottage lectures and all other means of grace were carried on with spirit. No relapses into heathenism or indifferentism took place, except one, which would not have been otherwise had a European been here. More success had been gained in raising native subscriptions than ever heretofore, and Mr. Goonesekara's zeal and energy increased, as we anticipated, with the weight of responsibility.

KANDY.

The Rev. William Oakley continues in charge of the Kandy station. The Rev. E. T. Higgins was employed in itinerating labours in the Kandian district until his departure for Europe; the Rev. Septimus Hobbs conducts the Mission to the Tamil coolies employed upon the coffee plantations; and the Rev. J. I. Jones is the Principal of a collegiate school for the upper classes. Mr. Oakley reports—

The work at this station during the past year has presented but little variety from that of preceding years. Fewer discouragements have, perhaps, been met with, but we cannot speak with certainty of any real progress of the knowledge of the Gospel, either in our congregations or amongst the people in the villages around. The number who attend our congregations has been about the same as last year. Two adult Kandians have been admitted into the church by baptism during the year; one, a young man connected with one of our schools in the Kandian country; the other, a middle-aged man, whose knowledge of Christianity was acquired in one of our Kandian schools, chiefly from conversations with the schoolmaster. In our Kandian schools we have now several candidates for Christian baptism.

In the schools frequent changes take place at this station. The people of a Kandian village provide us a schoolroom, and send their children very regularly for a year or two, and then, from some cause or other, the children are withdrawn, the school closed, and the master transferred to another village. In some respects that is very unsatisfactory; but yet it gives us an opportunity of making known the great truths of the Gospel to young and old in many Kandian villages where we should not otherwise have an opportunity of meeting and instructing the people. The great object kept in view in all our Kandian schools is, that the knowledge of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is the only thing which can bring happiness to man. And whenever I visit the schools, some, at least, of the parents and friends of the children are expected to be present to witness the examination, and to hear an address in some of the chief truths of the Christian religion. At the close of the last year the number of schools at this station was eight, viz. seven boys'-schools and one girls' school: the number of scholars on the books was 289.

The entire expenditure connected with the schools at this station during the past year has been 170*l.* 3*s.* 3*d.*, of which 160*l.* 3*s.* 3*d.* has been defrayed by local contributions, leaving the sum of 10*l.* only to be paid from the funds of the Church Missionary Society. The amount of donations and subscriptions received during the past year, for various objects connected with the work at this station, is 286*l.*

An extract from the journal of Mr. Oakley will serve to show the gross darkness of the people, and to enlist the prayers of Christians at home on behalf of those who are labouring amongst so degraded a population.

After family prayers with the Christians I received a visit from a heathen, a man of some intelligence, who was formerly educated in one of our schools, and who is now a maker of gods! The people, in his presence, told me, that when he receives an order to make a god he takes as much gold and silver as the people can collect, and puts as little into the image as he possibly can, keeping the rest himself, and making them pay him well for his labour. I asked him if he kept gods for sale in his house. He said no; he only made them when ordered. The people despise these godmakers, for they know they are great rogues; yet when the gods are made they bow down to them and serve them. The man with whom I was conversing this morning joined with the people in laughing at the credulity of those who entrusted him with their gold and silver, but he seemed to think his trade or business was too profitable to be given up.

The Rev. E. T. Higgins has given the following report of his itinerant labours—

The Missionary work in connexion with this station has been carried on during the past year, ending September 30, in the Kandian districts of Harris pattu, Tumpane, Lower Dumbera, and Upper Hewhetta, and has consisted, as usual, in preaching the Gospel and distributing tracts to the heathen in every place where a congregation, large or small, could be assembled to listen. The work in this district is now being carried on by two itinerating native assistants, who have commenced a system of visiting from house to house in every place in which the Gospel has been previously preached by the Missionary; and it is hoped that they will be enabled, by God's blessing, to effect a complete and systematic visitation of the whole district in the course of a year or eighteen months. These two young men will be almost, if not entirely, supported by the native-Christian congregations at Kandy and Cotta stations.

Education.

A school has been opened at Kandy for giving a superior education upon Christian principles to the wealthier classes of the Kandians, who are able to pay fees of a sufficient amount to make the school self-supporting, excluding the salary of the Missionary. The Rev. J. I. Jones, B.A., Trinity College, Dublin, has been appointed to the Principalship of this institution, and entered upon his work in November last. Mr. Oakley writes at the close of the year—

The Kandian collegiate school, which was opened in November last, has on the list seventy-five students—eighteen in the upper school, and fifty-seven in the lower school. Mr. Jones feels much interested in this work, and much encouraged by the large number of pupils who have already entered the school.

Mission to the Tamil Coolies.

The Mission to the coolies, of which the commencement was announced in the last Report, has, through the blessing of God, progressed with much success. The Missionary, the Rev. Septimus Hobbs, resides in Kandy, with eight native catechists, and two schoolmasters. From Kandy, as a centre, the coffee estates are visited daily. The number of Tamil Protestant Christians on the estates, who, having cast off all idolatry, are on the registry of the Mission, amounted, at the close of the first year, to 381, and at the close of the second year to 504: of these, 154 are baptized, and the rest are candidates for baptism. The number of communicants is fifty-eight. Mr. Hobbs writes—

I have not estimated the number of men who have expressed a determination, with apparent sincerity, to forsake their idols and embrace the truth; they are not reckoned in the list of Christians in the above statistics. I could not know enough of them, under our present plan of operation, to judge of their sincerity. I hope to remedy that defect. If I can carry out my design, there will always be a catechist near enough for any convert, really anxious for instruction, to find him out on the Sunday. The number of different individuals to whom the Gospel has been preached during the year, by the agents connected with the Cooly Mission, is about 100,000.

The expenses of the Mission, beyond the salary of the European Missionary, are wholly defrayed by local subscriptions and contributions from the owners of the coffee estates, and other parties interested in the work. The funds so raised during the last year amounted to 343%. Many of the European owners or managers of estates have contributed more than money to the work. They have taken a lively personal interest in the instruction of the coolies, and have commended Christian truth to their acceptance. They have sometimes assembled them together, to hear the Missionary in the midst of their working hours, and have exercised hospitality towards the Missionary and his agents. In some instances the proprietors have attempted to establish Christian schools, at their own expense, upon their estates. But there are peculiar difficulties, from the fact, that the greater part of the coolies leave their families in South India. Two gentlemen offered to employ and pay a Christian school-master, and give up two hours a day of working time to their young labourers, without deducting from their pay. Mr. Hobbs thus reviews the results of the Mission—

One important result of this Mission, which is a source of great encouragement to me, is, that it has helped to develop the genuineness and strength of the Missions in Tinnevely and Travancore. Even if we had no other evidence of this than the catechists themselves supply, the fact that they could spare nine such men, besides others like them sent to other Missions, is a proof of stability and progress which can scarcely be overrated. But in addition to this, the little groups of Christians who have come over as coolies still maintain a Christian profession. We have, indeed, met with sad instances to the contrary, but they are quite exceptions. Now and then some incident occurs which proves the reality of the work in Tinnevely in a very remarkable manner. Not very long since a poor youth, about eighteen years of age, who was in the Friend-in-Need Hospital, and in the last stage of a mortal disease, sent for me. I went immediately to see him, and it is not too much to say that I have not witnessed so great faith even amongst English Christians. I found that he had been educated in the Mission school at Meignanapuram in Tinnevely. He lived only about five days after my first visit to him. But it is not only in the development of the work in India, but also in the effects of the word preached in this island, that we see results for which we cannot be thankful enough.

Tamil services have also been held, throughout the year, in the bazaar schoolroom in Kandy. This is of especial use to the coolies who first arrive in the district, or who are returning to India, and who, in either case, pass through Kandy. The average attendance has been about fifty.

JAFFNA DISTRICT.

The strength of this Mission has been greatly reduced by the necessity of the Rev. R. Pargiter's visit to England, and by the severe indisposition of the Rev. R. Bren. Mr. Bren thus reviews the labour of the year, in his annual letter, at its close—

Notwithstanding Mr. Pargiter's departure, and my own ill-health, the work has been carried on as usual. The people and children are continually instructed, both in meetings and from house to house. Very many are convinced of the truth of Christianity, but few are willing to yield themselves up to the obedience of it. One will not join the Christians because all his friends are heathen; another because he has daughters to marry, and he must marry them amongst his friends, &c. : in this way they seem with one consent to make excuse. We are often cast down on account of the careless, hardened state of the people, but we are not in despair. No adult members have been added to the church at Nellore and Chundicully, and only one at Copay; but we hope the majority of those who have attended the services have been profited. The attendance on the whole, both morning and afternoon, has been good, especially on the part of some of the females, who have managed to attend, oftentimes with difficulty and trouble. With regard to all our assistants, we believe them to be greatly improved; and although some do not yet come up to the standard we could wish, still we think them far better than the agents previously employed by the Mission. Many of them, notwithstanding some little faults, are good earnest working men, and have the good of their fellow-countrymen at heart. While bungalow meetings have not been neglected, greater attention has been given to visiting and speaking with the people in their own houses; what we very much want is, that families would put themselves under instruction: this is difficult, but we are not without hope of succeeding, in some few cases at least. We have already formed one class at Truvale.

Mr. Pargiter, in his annual letter written from Colombo, where he resided during the latter part of the year, previously to his departure for England, writes—

My work at Jaffna, up to the time of my leaving, has been more of a growing character with regard to the Christians than an increase to their number. All the services have been maintained with regularity and considerable interest, and it has been our constant aim and endeavour to preach, in its experimental and practical character, the gospel of the Saviour, as especially adapted to the present state and condition of our converts. The danger of resting in nominal Christianity is very great, and there is far too much of it, even in those to whom we look as our best-educated and longest-established Christians. Incessant exhortations and earnest expostulation, combined with much kindness, and forbearance, and affection, is what they most need; and even after all this there is very much to try the patience and damp the energies of the messenger of the cross. Weekly classes for adult males and females, in two or three localities, have been commenced by the catechists, for the purpose of exhortation and prayer, while I myself have met the whole once a month for counsel and advice.

Education.

Mr. Bren thus reports the state of the schools at the annual examination in July 1857—

We have just concluded our annual examinations, in the whole of which Mr. Pargiter has joined me. In summing up at the end, we were glad to find that all the schools were in a state of greater efficiency than we had known them before. While there is still room for improvement, we are encouraged to find that the standard of lessons is higher, and at the same time more thoroughly learnt: the masters are more efficient, diligent, and attentive to their duties. The vernacular schools are the most deficient, chiefly, I believe, on account of the irregular attendance of the children. Notwithstanding, we hope they are doing a good work. It was pleasing to find, in some of the classes, when they failed in their Tamil lessons, that they always knew something of the scriptures. This is the more surprising, because the children are not only greatly attached to their own Tamil poetry, but have a dislike, imbibed from their parents, for our scriptures. The change, therefore, is a proof of the faithfulness of the masters. The truth of God's word, thus implanted, quickens the dormant consciences of the children, fills their minds with correct principles, and exposes the defects of their own system. Thus, vernacular schools, well taught, and grounded in the truth, so far as the time during which the children attend the school will permit, is apparently the most effectual mode of preparing the people for the reception of the Gospel. But as regards direct improvement in all respects, our boarding-schools afford us the most encouragement. At the examination of the Institution at Copay, the youths answered remarkably well. There was a large attendance of friends present, who expressed themselves much pleased with the progress which the students had made. One youth from the Institution was baptized on Whitsunday, of whom we have much hope. He has long walked as a Christian, and I trust he will prove a true follower of Christ.

Mr. Bren's report, at the close of the year, is of a similar character.

THE hopes expressed in the last Report that the climate of the Mauritius might enable Indian Missionaries to prolong their labours, even though driven by ill health from the Continent, have been realized. The Rev. Stephen Hobbs has been able to pursue his Missionary labours for the whole year under review, and Mr. Paul Ansorge, from Bengal, for a portion of that period. It is proved, also, that the cool labourers in the Mauritius are less under the bondage of idolatry, and more willing to receive Christian instruction, than their countrymen upon the continent of India. Mr. Ansorge writes, in his annual letter—

I am surrounded by a great number of Indian settlers: almost all of them are so-called Calcutta people. There live here many Bengalis, and people from Delhi, Lucknow, Cawnpur, Agra, Arrah, Benares, from the Punjab, and from Nagpur. The state of these Calcutta Indians here is in many respects different from that in their home. Though I cannot say that there is here no caste at all among them, certainly there is very little to be seen of it: there is also not much to be seen of their idolatry. Though the Madras emigrants have here and there some huts, serving for temples, with some idols in them, the Calcutta people have nothing of the kind. The Hindú here cannot observe his festivals as in his own country.

The Rev. Stephen Hobbs speaks of much encouragement. He ministers in Tamil, to the coolies who come from South India, residing in his neighbourhood; and he visits the plantations far and near to address this people, and to encourage and strengthen any scattered converts who may be amongst the number. He sometimes unexpectedly meets with Christians amongst the Tamil people who give him important assistance. He writes, April 22, 1857—turalized. I have met with one who is a Protestant Christian, and has a respectable situation, as interpreter, in the magistrate's office. His house is central to three plantations, and near a place where many natives of India have settled. He is building a school-house, in the hope that, with my assistance, he may get a good school of Tamil and Telugu children.

The following may be taken as a specimen of the encouragement which often attends the visits of Mr. Hobbs.

In my recent journey to Savanna, I met with great encouragement, leading me to hope for great results from travelling about to the different localities, especially when our funds have sufficiently increased to allow of my employing itinerant catechists to assist and follow up the effects of my journeys. I found three Protestant Christians, and several Roman Catholics, who expressed their willingness to join in our worship, if I could establish a service. The heathen, without exception, whom I addressed, heard me with the greatest eagerness and pleasure, and some said they would gladly learn the Christian religion if there were any one near to teach them. In one camp the poor people detained me almost by force, to talk with them and read to them; and when I pointed to the setting sun, and told them I must go, they said, "Sit still: if it gets dark we will take you home on our shoulders." When, at last, I was leaving, one brought a rupee from his house, and begged me to take it, and was disconcerted when I declined, till I told him the love he showed in offering it was better to me than a hundred rupees. A dozen of them accompanied me from the camp to my host's gate, about half-a mile.

Mr. Paul Anson, who had acted for many years as a catechist and schoolmaster, at Kishnagurh, in Bengal, was ordained by the Bishop of Mauritius, soon after his arrival in the island. He preaches in Bengali, and finds many to listen to his word. He resides a short distance from Port Louis, but goes into the town for divine service on the Sundays. Mr. Anson has already under his pastoral care about seventy native Christians, some of whom have been baptized in the Mauritius: the rest are candidates for baptism, or have been baptized in India. As they reside upon estates at various distances from each other, scarcely more than one-half are able to attend at any one place. They gave some proof of this Christian feeling at the time of the mutiny, by making a collection, amounting to between four and five pounds, for the sufferers in India. Two Bengali and one Hindustani school have been established.

Mr. Hobbs bears this testimony, at the close of the year, to the value of Mr. Anson's labours—

Mr. Anson has every encouragement, both in his congregations at Port Louis, and his school in his own premises, at Grand River. The Sunday service is held by permission in a very large room at the immigration dépôt, capable of accommodating about 1000 persons. It is a great advantage to hold it there, as it is always attended by considerable numbers of persons, either newly arrived, or returning to their country, to whom the good tidings of salvation are unknown. The only inconvenience is, that there is always noise and confusion in such a place, and it requires a very strong voice for a preacher to make himself heard.*

No Mission of the Society has sustained greater losses than that in China during the last year. Out of nine Missionaries attached to this Mission at the last Anniversary, two have died; one in the midst of his work, the Rev. F. M'Caw, at Fuh-chau; and the other at home, the Rev. W. Welton. Two also have been compelled to return from China—the Rev. R. H. Cobbold and the Rev. H. Reeve. A fifth, the Rev. T. M'Clatchie, at home for the recovery of his health, is withheld by medical restrictions from resuming his duties in China. The withdrawal of five out of nine labourers is a serious diminution of numerical strength. But the real loss to the Mission is more serious, as it has been deprived of experienced men, who had acquired the language; whilst those who have been sent in their place will require several years before they can attain to the same efficiency. The Mission has been deprived also, during the year, of the benefit and encouragement of the presence of the bishop, who has visited England, and only returned at the close of the year to his diocese.

Political events, also, in China have kept the native mind in an unsettled state: relaxing, indeed, the strict exclusiveness of the former state of things, but at the same time in introducing uncertainty and fear as to the future prospects, both European and native, in China.

FUH-CHAU.

The Rev. F. M'Caw continued his zealous labours of preaching in the city till he was arrested by fever in August 1857, and removed to his eternal rest. As yet Missionary operations are in their earliest stage in this city. The Missionaries have not been able to commence schools. They have no converts, and therefore no native helpers. Under such circumstances they peculiarly need the prayers of Christian friends that their faith and patience fail not. The following extracts from the last journals of Mr. M'Caw will convey a lively picture of the trials of the Missionary—

A man, who was speaker for some grand friends standing near him, said, "Your doctrines are not good, nothing to be compared with the doctrines of Confucius." I said, in reply, "Jesus is greater than Confucius, as heaven is higher than earth." Hearing this, his friends took flight from me; but he himself went for a tract to Mr. Fearnley, who was speaking some distance off, and having brought it, he stood before me and tore it into shreds. I took no notice of the matter, and continued to address the others; but in a little time my antagonist, repenting for having been guilty of a breach of politeness, I suppose, returned and made up friendship with me, and we had a friendly conversation together concerning my clothes, especially my gloves—which article the Chinese never possess—as to the price they cost in my country.

March 16—I often think that our first converts, with the Lord's blessing on our efforts, are chiefly to be looked for from the boys, who always are present at our preaching, and pay great attention. They are more susceptible of religious teaching than the aged, who, already hardened in idolatry and vice, and feeling generally but little moved by our doctrines, are interested in them only so far as they can connect them with worldly advantages, such as, "Can Jesus help us to become rich?" or, "What shall we receive for worshipping Him?" "Can he protect me from sickness and from death?" I am often amazed to see them so little moved on hearing of such a God as we tell them of, and the Scriptures teach; and when I repeat, with all my energy of speech, the blessings of heaven and the misery of hell, until wearied, the only response frequently is, "Is not his shirt very white?" "How many feet of cloth make your coat?" And all this without intending offence. Such will be the heathen heart, until watered by the dew of heaven.

I often assure them "It is Jesus who can make atonement for sins: and, furthermore my book says that there is no other besides who can do the same. Man cannot do it for himself; and only one, viz. this one, Jesus, can do it for him. If you ask me how He atoned for sins, what He did to make this atonement, I answer, that He died for sinful men, in their place, in their stead. For instance, I am a sinful man: I have offended against heaven: I deserve to die, to go down to hell, and suffer everlasting pain; but Jesus came, and died in my stead, atoned for my sins, rescued me that I should not sink to hell, but should rise to heaven. You inhabitants of China do not yet believe these things, and so you do not love Jesus; nay, you hate Him, and ridicule Him; and when I walk along the streets here, the boys shout and laugh, and say, 'Jesus, Jesus, how big? how high?' But I love Him, and reverence Him, and worship Him, and serve Him, and abide by his injunctions. I am called the 'slave of Jesus.' Men have various designations, and that is mine, the 'slave of Jesus.' You wonder, but no need to wonder, I am properly his slave, for he bought me, and paid much, very much, for my price; more precious than gold, or silver, or brass, even the precious treasure of his own blood, which He gave for my price. And so I am his slave, and most willing I am to obey his commandments. If He bids me do thus, thus I do. If He bids me not do that, that I do not do." And presently I ceased, and the books were distributed, and I walked slowly home, followed by many boys, and some grown people. "Behold, a sower went forth to sow, and when he sowed, some seed fell by the wayside, some fell upon stony places, and some fell among thorns; but other fell into good ground." Therefore sow: if in tears, if in fears, if in much faint-heartedness, still sow.

NINGPO.

The Mission at this station is greatly advanced, compared with the state of things at Fuh-chau. The Rev. W. Russell and the Rev. F. F. Gough have divided the duties of the station between them since the departure of Mr. Cobbold. Mr. Russell gives the following account of baptisms at Ningpo, to the close of 1857—

1851, 3; 1852, 5; 1853, 0; 1854, 12; 1855, 16; 1856, 21; 1857, 13: total in seven years 70, being 55 adult males, 7 adult females, and 8 infants. Of these, five have been expelled from the Christian community for conduct, chiefly participation in idolatry, which proved that their profession of Christianity was a false one; five have been suspended from the communion for conduct inconsistent with their profession; eight have died; so that the number of Christians is only fifty-two, of whom thirty-two are communicants, and five are infants.

¶ Mr. Gough writes, July 24, 1857—

Since Mr. Cobbold left us, I have had the whole charge of the little boarding-school which he started. The boys, nine in number, have been selected from our day-schools; and, above all, during the last month, some of the boys have appeared interested in the truth, and are hopeful applicants for baptism.

The Lord gives us peace; and we rejoice in the continued opportunities for the Lord's work, the signs of blessing upon the work, and the assurance, in the midst of human uncertainty, that Jesus will be with us still, and that, "as our days, so shall our strength be."

In his annual letter at the close of the year, Mr. Russell takes this general review of the Mission—

The general aspect of our work at this station during the past year would seem to be characterized with darker hues of discouragement than on any previous one of my Missionary experience, principally arising from the exceeding indifference and deadness to spiritual things, even beyond what is common, pervading this benighted people generally, and possibly, in some degree too, from the same cause operating on my own soul.

But though I feel constrained to take this view of the Lord's dealings with me during the past year, and to regard self-abasement as the most appropriate frame of mind in reference to them, yet I can see, at the same time, in the many alleviating circumstances which have attended them, and the apparently happy issue to which He has brought them, as well as in the profitable instruction which probably this kind of teaching alone could have conveyed to me, the strongest ground for gratitude and thankfulness before Him, who, even in the needful judgments of his people, is ever sure to remember mercy.

Having said so much on the subject of our trials during the past year, I now gladly turn to another feature of our work during the same period, next in vividness to my mind to the one already referred to, and much more agreeable to me to dwell upon—I mean the progress which seems to have been made in spiritual things by several of the members of our little body of native Christians. This feature has been strikingly brought before me, and afforded me much comfort and encouragement in the midst of my trials, by the steadfastness they exhibited during the panic at the commencement of the year, when it was plain, should the rumours then afloat prove to be true, adherence to us and the cause of Christ could only be maintained at the risk of their lives; also by the mutual love they have subsequently often shown to each other, in a readiness, according to their ability, to assist one another in poverty, in sickness, and in other temporal afflictions; by their punctuality in attending on the means of grace, both public and private, therein evincing their desire after spiritual advancement; and by the general tenor of their conduct, which I have no doubt, in most of the leading features of the Christian character, might fairly compare with, if not far excel, many real Christians in our own country, whose means and opportunities of improvement are far greater, and whose difficulties and temptations are far less, than theirs. But especially our four catechists, or readers as they may be called, Mr. Bao,* Mr. Dzing, Mr. Loh, and Mr. Sing, give me much satisfaction in this, as well as in other important particulars. In them it is pleasing, to see not only very marked and decided faithfulness and devotedness to the cause of Christ, but also very great efficiency, too, as labourers in this vineyard. Their ability to present the truths of the Gospel to their own countrymen in simple and unaffected, yet striking and impressive language, and to explain and enforce its glad tidings by illustrations and comparisons adapted to their hearers, has often not only much gratified, but also much surprised me, considering the illiterate class to which they formerly belonged, three of them having been artisans, and the other, according to their own designation, but a "one-sided scholar."

Mr. Russell gives the following account of this interesting out-station—

In the early part of March commenced the difficulties, dangers, and trials we experienced in maintaining our position in the Eo-seen-poh district, and erecting a permanent residence close by Kwun-hawi, one of its principal towns, in the face of much open opposition, and many secret plots, on the part of the authorities and wealthier classes; and there vindicating to the judgment of the people generally our claim to their recognition and support, by convincing them that our coming amongst them, if not likely to be attended with positive good, was at least free from the objections which, from their ignorance of the special objects of Missionaries, they had previously entertained against all foreigners. These difficulties kept me in a state of very anxious suspense for about three months, my mind, in the mean time, constantly alternating between hope and fear as to the ultimate issue, until at length all opposition finally terminated in the month of June, leaving us in the quiet and undisturbed possession of this important outpost.

SHANGHAE.

This station has been deprived of one of its two Missionaries, by the return home of Mr. Reeve. The remaining Missionary, the Rev. J. S. Burdon, has been wholly confined to the duties of the city, by the absence of the Rev. John Hobson, the British chaplain, and formerly a Missionary of the Society. Mr. Hobson has rendered such valuable services to the Mission during his residence in China, that the Committee were happy to facilitate his visit to England, by allowing their Missionary to act as British chaplain in his absence.

The boarding-school has been kept up as in former years, and a small number of inquirers and converts have resorted to the Missionary. Another Missionary joined the station at the close of the year. The city of Shanghai still remains in the power of the insurgents, and is besieged by the im-

NEW Zealand is very rapidly changing its character, and is every year assuming that of an English colony, rather than a native community. The population of the Northern Island has been estimated by official returns as consisting of 70,000 natives, and 30,000 Europeans, including the military. The natives are beginning to claim constitutional rights in a share of the elective franchise for the General Assembly, which they cannot exercise while they hold their lands as the common property of tribes. Hence arose dissatisfaction, and an attempt by the tribes in the centre of the island to set up a native king, but the scheme passed away, after a little excitement.

Archdeacon Henry Williams thus alludes to the effect of the excitement in the part of the island in which he resides, where the former insurrection of the natives occurred—

In the last three months much excitement of an improved character has existed amongst those tribes who had been opposed to the Government in the cutting down of the flagstaff in 1845, which has since continued prostrate. On their hearing that the natives of Taupo and Waikato had proclaimed a Maori king for themselves, and for all others who would join them, the tribes in connexion with the Bay, in reply to a deputation from Waikato to solicit their support to their cause, determined to have no chief but Queen Victoria, and forthwith proceeded to form a council for the restoration of the Government flagstaff at Kororareka. After much consultation this was concluded to be carried out, and in November the various spars for that purpose were conveyed, with much ceremony, to Kororareka, the whole expense being borne by themselves. In order to prevent any disturbance arising from the assemblage of so large a body of natives, the chiefs had sentries placed before the public houses to prevent any of their people entering. After two or three days the whole party dispersed without any unpleasant feeling. This last circumstance I mention as exhibiting the view taken by the people generally of the introduction of ardent spirits: its casts a severe reflection on all parties engaged in so baneful a traffic.

NORTHERN DISTRICT.

Archdeacon Henry Williams gives the following general view of the native Christians in the neighbourhood of Paihia.

The fearful use of ardent spirits, which we had to deplore in our two last reports, appears to have passed away. I have always been of opinion that the people are not addicted to the vice of intemperance, and, in the state in which they were at the time alluded to, they were led into that practice under the persuasion that it was a sovereign antidote against the ill-effect of influenza then prevailing: the health of the people has generally improved.

The native congregation at Paihia is regular and attentive, and forms an interesting community.

Once each quarter the communicants are assembled at Paihia and Kororareka, from the distant villages, for examination, which is always attended with beneficial effect. I meet, at the two places, about 150 to whom the Lord's supper is administered.

Sunday-schools are in general operation at various places, showing a fair attendance. It is to be regretted there are no other schools in the neighbourhood for want of scholars. This is to be accounted for by the large payment given for a moderate portion of work done by boys and girls.

It is a pleasing fact that those who first embraced Christianity have maintained, for the most part, a firm position in their constant observance of their Christian duties.

Waimate.

The Rev. R. Davis superintends this station. He gives the following account of the native Christians—

The natives of the Waimate district appear to be of a hard inflexible character. Their sins of murder, and the cruel murders of their forefathers, lie heavy upon them. Nevertheless, we have good reason to hope that a people has been taken out from among them for the Lord. Several went out from among them to the south as heralds of mercy, and their labours appear to have been largely blessed in preparing the way of the Lord, and numbers have entered into rest as jewels of the Redeemer's crown. And now, after all the sorrowful declensions, we have had to mourn over, when we take into consideration the smallness of the population, the number of our communicants and professing Christians count well. Nor do we despair of the most hardened or the worst characters among the New Zealanders, perhaps the most inflexible-minded of the human race, because the ever-blessed God is infinite in power, and can in a moment subdue, with equal ease, the proudly-determined mind of the stern New Zealander, as well as that of the soft, flexible-minded African. Nothing of an eventful character has transpired to cause fear or alarm for the safety of the cause of Christ amongst us; and however painful it is to witness the conduct of some of the young chiefs, yet they all appear to reverence the faithful followers of Christ; and bad as a few of them are, they are outdone by our own countrymen. Therefore, upon the whole, I humbly hope that the Redeemer's cause—notwithstanding the various excitements and temptations to which the natives have been exposed this year in their transition state—has deepened its roots amongst us. And I further hope that the Lord will yet visit us with the latter, as well as with the former rain.

Kaitaia.

The Rev. J. Matthews and Mr. Puckey, the Missionaries at this station, give the following report of their work—

With regard to the general statistics of our district, we observe, 1st, that last month two officers of Government have taken the census of our people. The actual number has not yet been published (or given to us), but we heard one of the officers say that the increase of children was very considerable: we believe that the births have more than made up for the deaths since the last census was taken, and that there are about 2700 persons of all ages in our district. We may consider that the whole population is Christian, as we know of no tribe which is not anxious to have the regular means of grace, and there are but a few individuals who neglect to attend them when they are afforded. The parties who once favoured Popery have been won over to the word, one by one, and most of their influential men have been baptized: the weapons used were not carnal, but triumphantly successful.

With regard to the general state of our natives, we think that there is much lukewarmness, and, in some, a deadly apathy to spiritual things. But we hope this is not the case with many of them. Applications for books, and for the means of learning to read and write, are frequently made: most of the natives, as usual, learn much in a desultory way, i. e. one teaches the other, and much good is done by Sunday-school teaching. We still urge upon all parties to have regular school in their villages. We have two teachers, with their wives, in St. Stephen's Institution, Auckland, and we should be glad to hear of more being placed in that institution. At the same time our experience has taught us that true and earnest piety, with good sound sense, are of more importance for the present race of teachers and people than a large share of learning without them. Our teachers' meetings have been attended with much interest during the year, and we have had (many times) twenty attend, even during the last severe winter and spring. Much interest was felt while we were proceeding through St. Paul's Epistles to the Hebrews. We are now in the middle of our Lord's Sermon on the Mount, and much profit and delight are gathered from the study of it.

There are two mixed schools at Ahipara, conducted by native teachers: the average number, of both sexes and all ages, who attend is about ninety. There is no boarding-school in our district, not having funds to meet the expenses. In the settlement we have a school for infants and children; not more than fifteen attend.

The Rev. R. Davis gives an interesting account of his visit to this station to administer the Lord's supper, as the Missionary, Mr. Matthews, though he has for twelve years exercised the office of deacon well, has not yet been admitted to priests' orders.

We reached Paringaringa on Saturday, February 21. The natives under the direction of Busby, the principal chief of the Rarawa tribes, had come over to the southern side of the river, or rather bay, to meet us, and we found them nicely encamped on its banks, where was much food for our horses. They appeared glad to see us, and the examination speedily commenced, and lasted to the close of the evening. They formed a church with the large square sail of their vessel, and formed the weather sides with blankets of various colours. A large case, covered with a white cloth, formed our communion table, and altogether it appeared respectable. The congregation was strictly attentive, and the holy sacrament was celebrated in the most devout manner I ever witnessed among the natives by fifty-eight communicants. In the evening, a chief, a pious devout man, and a teacher, who had accompanied us from Kaitaia, preached. This formed together one of the most interesting scenes and seasons that I had ever witnessed in my Missionary life. The day was fine; the natives were well dressed and cheerful; and among the communicants were several intelligent, fine young men: these assembled round our tent in the evening, and we conversed together of the deep things of God, and of things concerning the kingdom.

Mr. Davis, after describing a desolating war which had destroyed this part of the country before the introduction of Christianity, adds the following remark—in the sad affair. I observed to him "It is the power of the Gospel that enables us to travel this beach peaceably now." "Yes," he replied, "we then went to fight; now we go in a spirit of love. When I think upon those I then killed, my heart is filled with love, even for them, and I love their children."

The following is a striking instance of the determination of character in the New Zealander in the acquisition of knowledge: it occurs in the journal of Mr. Puckey—

During my visits to the sick of Ahipara, I visited the hut of a poor man, whom I found with a New Testament lying by his side. I asked him if he could read, as I saw he had a book. He replied in the affirmative. "How did you learn to read?" seeing he had never attended a school. He said, "I used to creep about and pick up (after raking the rubbish thrown out of my neighbours' houses) all the bits of printed paper I could find. Sometimes I got a half leaf of a New Testament, sometimes a bit of a leaf of the Prayer-book. These pieces, which I got from time to time, I used to sew together. Then came the task to learn to read. This I accomplished in the following manner: I pointed to a word, and asked my brother to tell me its meaning. This I often did, till at last I could manage to read a whole verse, and from that to a chapter. I can now read any chapter." "Do you esteem the word of God?" "It is my pillow." I said, "This word is able to make you wise unto salvation, it tells you about Jesus Christ, how He came down and died for you: yes, He died for you. He does not love you the less because you are deformed. He loves you quite as much as He does any one else. Do you go to church?" "No, I should be laughed at because of my affliction." I said, "Never mind their laughing: they would only laugh at their own folly. If you cannot brook their laughing, pray to God to give you his Holy Spirit to enlighten your mind. When you read his word, say, 'Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law: you have plenty of idle time: pray, pray, pray continually.'"

Another extract from the journals of the Missionaries at this station will exhibit the power of divine grace in restraining the natural passions of a once savage people.

A chief married a very young girl, brought up by Mrs. Matthews. Her husband was much her senior; still for a time they appeared to live happily together, although we often heard that he treated her with much asperity. In an evil hour, he, much against the wish of his friends, and his wife likewise, introduced a profligate young man into his house, who eventually stole his young wife's affection, and ruined his own peace of mind for during the chief's absence his wife absconded with the young man. After a few days' search, the delinquents were found, and nothing but the blessings accompanying the reception of the ever-blessed Gospel of peace prevented, perhaps, much shedding of human blood in this wicked affair. When they were discovered—or rather after they were discovered—the delinquent youth was taken away by our chief, Pubipi, (Busby), and made a man of all work. The delinquent's wife was received again by her husband. All agreed that no blood should be shed, and traced the evil to the husband's neglect of the means of grace. We mention this, as it caused us much anxiety, being very fearful of consequences; and also to show how our people reason on the value and neglect of prayer; inasmuch as both Henri (the poor husband's name) and his wife had been for a considerable time observed to neglect the means of grace, both in their own family and church. Well might Moses say, on the observance of God's command, "It is your life."

MIDDLE DISTRICT.

The Rev. R. Burrows resides at Auckland, and acts as Secretary of the Mission. The other Missionaries of this district remain at their respective stations, as in the former year. Upon transmitting to the Parent Committee the annual reports of the Missionaries, Mr. Burrows makes these general remarks—

You will perceive, that whilst the reports furnish sufficient proof that the labour of your Missionaries is not in vain in the Lord, there is much to discourage in the lukewarmness of the majority of our people. The public ordinances are attended with as much, if not with more regularity than last year, but you will observe, that with scarcely an exception, our brethren lament a want of earnestness and spirituality of mind in their people. Much of this may doubtless be traced to colonization. An impetus has been given to trades of various kinds; and the natives are entering largely into the many and varied employments and speculations which the continually increasing white population produces. "The love of money," has proved, and is proving, to be "the root of all evil." On the other hand, you will discover that, in several instances, congregations have contributed considerable sums for the erection of substantial churches or chapels, and that a commencement has been made towards providing something for the support of ministers among them.

In my own district a general meeting of the natives of Mangaru, Puketapapa, and Pukaki, was convened about a year ago, to take into consideration the best means for preventing for the future the introduction of ardent spirits, and other vices, among them. They framed and adopted a number of bye-laws, and appointed their own assessors to administer them. Hitherto the course adopted has worked well, and the result has been most beneficial.

The Venerable Archdeacon Brown takes this review of the state of the native church—

St. Paul, in a single verse, supplies us with a summary report of this district for the past year. "A great door and effectual has been opened, and there are many adversaries." We have been cheered by examinations of candidates for baptism, by the general steadfastness manifested in the band of communicants, by the evident desire for instruction maintained by the native teachers, by the gradual decrease of Popery, and by the apparent attention displayed wherever the message of reconciliation has been proclaimed. And to these causes for thankfulness we might add, that great zeal has been shown, in some few places, in building wooden chapels in lieu of perishable rush chapels. Two such chapels have been erected at Maungatautari, and I received yesterday letters from the natives of that place, announcing that they had collected, on Christmas-day, 73*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* towards the maintenance of a minister; and another letter from Matamata, informing me that they had raised 140*l.* towards the erection of a new church. These are cheering features. But, "there are many adversaries." Quarrels respecting land have issued in bloodshed; the Sunday-schools are not so well attended; the week-day prayer-meetings are, in many places, abandoned; the property of the natives is often squandered on feasts, or useless articles of dress; while their places of worship are sinking to decay, discipline is becoming more lax, and a formal routine of religious duties seems to have taken the place of spirituality of heart and life. The cause of this lamentable state of affairs is attributable, in a great measure, to the pseudo-civilization of the natives; and the great remedy will probably be found when the Lord of the harvest, in answer to the prayers of his people, shall raise up a native pastorate—men of simple habits and simple piety, "apt to teach, having a good report of them that are without;" and who, like the children of Issachar, have "understanding of the times, to know what Israel ought to do."

The experiment regarding boarding-schools has been so far worked out by Mr. Volkner, as to leave on his mind the conviction that each boy, after the present year, could, by steady labour, defray his own expenses, and yet leave sufficient time to carry forward his education in a satisfactory manner. Certainly the experience of the past year tends to confirm the opinion, for there are crops in the ground (about eight acres) sufficient to supply with food those who have laboured at raising them, and yet the children have gradually progressed in their lessons, which consist of scripture reading in English and native, writing, geography, arithmetic, &c.. The average of scholars during the past year has been, of boys thirteen, of girls eight.

The Rev. T. Lanfear reports of the district of Hauraki that there has been a considerable increase of baptisms and in the classes of candidates for baptism during the last year.

The Rev. B. Y. Ashwell also gives the following encouraging report of his station—

The number of scholars at our institution has considerably increased. There are now seventy-six boarders. In October last some of the teachers, i. e. the single men, with the boys, removed to the new building of Hopuhopu, at the school-land, two miles from the station, which, I trust, will become an efficient institution for native teachers. I spend two nights and three days every week at Hopu-hopu, i. e. Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays; the rest of the week at Taupiri, except when visiting the district: so that my time is divided between the two schools. On Friday the teachers meet at Taupiri, to be prepared for their visits to the neighbouring villages the coming Sabbath.

Upon a review of this past year, there is much to cheer us in our work, and something to humble. One of my best native teachers (although repeatedly warned) has been led to take an active part in the political movement now going on among some of the tribes, and his usefulness has been much injured by it, if not absolutely destroyed. On the other hand, our communicants have increased during the year, and more than fifty adults are now candidates for baptism. Our school, also, continues to give increasing satisfaction. We may therefore thank God and take courage, ever remembering it is impossible that our labour should be in vain in the Lord.

The Rev. John Morgan reports upon the flourishing state of his large boarding-school at Otawhao, chiefly consisting of half-castes, and of the aid received from Government in support of the same.

Our institution has been under the care of Mr. Ireland. The number of boarders is thirty-one boys, forty girls, including three married teachers and their wives; total, seventy-one. The allowance from the Board of Education was increased in April last from 150*l.* to 206*l.* for the year, exclusive of 50*l.* for a matron. The sum estimated by the Board, and allowed for each scholar, for board, clothing, and other expenses, is 6*l.* per annum. The remainder of the children are supported by local resources. In the clothing department we have received valuable assistance from donations of clothing, kindly forwarded to us by friends in England, for which we desire to return our sincere thanks. Donations of strong clothing for girls or boys between the ages of eight and sixteen years are most acceptable. The resident magistrate of the district having been removed to Mangaroa, and his house and premises purchased by the Government, but unoccupied, I wrote to the Government requesting the use of the premises for a boys'-school, they being situate within a quarter of a mile of the station. I received a letter in reply from the Under Secretary, saying that the Government felt most happy in complying with my request.

School Farm—My last report spoke of the prospects we then had of an abundant harvest, and which we have since been permitted to reap. By this means we have been, during the past year, independent of external supplies for an establishment. At the present time we trust we have sufficient crops growing for the use of our enlarged institution for the coming year. In this department we feel that we have been greatly blessed.

The Rev. R. Maunsell thus writes respecting the district and institution under his charge at Waikato—

My district, I am thankful to report, continues to exhibit at least an outward regard for the ordinances of religion; and the habits of drunkenness, which threatened once to seriously affect our work, seem to have considerably diminished, those who were once confirmed drunkards having become communicants at the Lord's table. The number of communicants this year was 281, some of these having partaken of the Lord's supper three times, some twice, and all at least once. This (if we remember that Mr. Burrows has relieved me of Mangaru and Puketapapa) must be considered an increase on former years. The amount collected through the district in the year was 57*l*. I may truly say that this sum has been contributed out of the poverty of our people: they are by no means equal in wealth to the population of other districts.

Our School is, thank God, prospering. We have sixteen young men among a total of ninety scholars. These young men are very steady and well-behaved, and some of them regularly take the evening Sunday service in the neighbourhood of Kohanga. Besides these, we have three itinerant monitors, for whom allowances are provided out of the fund I have already mentioned. The monitors of the out-stations are eight in number.

We are engaged now in the erection of a place of worship, the plan having been kindly supplied by the Rev. F. Thatcher. The building will cost upwards of 400*l*. when finished. None of this money, I am happy to report, will come from the funds of the Church Missionary Society.

The Rev. T. Chapman describes the native Christians at Maketu, and throughout the district which he visits, in these terms—"There is no place where I visit but, when the morning and evening prayer bell is rung, those at hand generally attend. Equally regularly are the Sabbath-day services observed. Yet in their social and domestic condition hardly any change is perceptible. Their one-roomed houses I have almost ceased to remonstrate about. I am always met by the one excuse, 'By and bye we shall build better and more suitable houses.' Maketu is becoming an important place, from its being the only sea-port to a large inland district, and as connected with the lakes and hot springs in the interior.

The stations on each side of the East Cape have been left vacant for some time. The station of Kawakawa, at Hicks' Bay, formerly occupied by a Missionary of the Society, is now under the care of the native deacon, the Rev. Rota Waitoa, who is supported by the diocesan fund and the contributions of the natives.

In the month of February and March 1857, Mr. Chapman made a Missionary tour to the east, nearly to the East Cape, to visit the two Mission stations which have been deprived of their Missionaries. Whakutane, Mr. Preece's late station, presented a desolate appearance, and the state of the people was very unsatisfactory. Seven Europeans reside at the place, but only one would attend divine service on the Sunday, even upon the rare visit of a Christian minister. Drunkenness is sadly prevalent among both races. At Opotiki there was a little more encouragement. Here Mr. Chapman met the native deacon, the Rev. Rota Waitoa, "who preached a plain practical sermon, which was most attentively listened to by his countrymen." The congregations were between 200 and 300. Opotiki is an important station, and demands a resident Missionary. Here the Romanists have a resident priest. "It is the only place on that coast in which they have maintained their ground." At these stations there are no schools for the Protestant Christians, and Mr. Chapman expresses his earnest hope that the measures now in progress for training native teachers may speedily supply the need of such help to prevent a retrograde movement, as soon as the European Missionary is removed.

The Rev. T. S. Grace has furnished this report of his new and isolated sphere of labour at Taupo, in the interior—

The circumstances of last year were such as to test the value our natives place upon having a Missionary amongst them. The destruction of our house and property by fire, the great loss of labour, together with a rather hopeless future to look forward to, were circumstances well calculated to cause every native, not animated by a higher motive than earthly gain, to have forsaken us. Had such been the case, the consequence might have been serious, as we could not have made a retreat to the coast without considerable assistance. He who sent the trial has presided over it; and now it is passed, I feel sure it has been attended with good to our work, by bringing to bear more directly upon the natives those views of self-support with which we set out.

Though the year about to close has not been marked with any thing particularly bright, yet I cannot look back upon it without feeling that we have made some advance, not in adding numbers to the Church, but in establishing some of those principles which our Lord laid down for the mission of the Gospel. I am thankful to say that our people have shown a willingness to do what they can to help forward our work, though, in our expectations from them, it should be remembered that the natives of Taupo are the poorest of any in the country.

After Easter I made a request for bearers to go with me to the coast to assist us in bringing in some furniture, &c., to supply the place of what had been destroyed in the fire, when seventeen volunteered. We had a very hard journey, but, so far as the natives were concerned, it was most satisfactory and agreeable.

In June I called together the native teachers for instruction, when twelve attended for three weeks; at the close of which I laid before them the Home Committee's letter of July 1856, and explained to them the substance of their remarks relative to a native ministry supported by the natives. The result was, that they had a meeting amongst themselves, when, native-like, from conviction they proceeded to action, and proposed at once to make collections of food to assist us in calling the native teachers together oftener for instruction; and since that time we have received wheat and potatoes to the value of 7*l.* 18*s.* In November I again assembled the teachers, when thirteen attended for ten days, at a real sacrifice to themselves, it being near the middle of their season for planting potatoes. On both occasions their conduct has been highly commendable, and they returned to their villages greatly pleased, expressing a desire to be called together again for a longer period. The people generally are anxious that the children's boarding-schools should be renewed. At present I know of nothing to prevent our having good schools for both teachers and children. but the want of a little help and means.

The state of the villages is not encouraging, though there is, I trust, some movement amongst them for the better. In one, a very neat chapel has been erected, at which I administered the Lord's supper, in July last, but the people generally are like scattered sheep: their frequent absence at the towns to seek for work, in order to procure clothing, is attended with every kind of evil.

Our people have been providentially kept from war. There has been fighting on every side of us, and we are closely connected with the parties still at war, both at Ahuriri and on the Wanganui river. At the former place one of our people, an important man, who was on a visit to his relatives, entered the war, and was killed. At another time this would have been sufficient for all Taupo to march and seek for payment. The individual tribe to which the man belonged prepared for war, and for some weeks were determined to go, but at length they have listened to good advice, and the payment for the death of their friend they have agreed shall rest upon the Apostolic injunction in Rom. xii. 19—21.

EASTERN DISTRICT.

Archdeacon William Williams gives the following account of his station, and of the state of his district, in his annual report at the close of the year—

Our great business at Turanga during the past year has been the removal of the Mission station to its present site at Waerengahika, and the carrying on a variety of secular occupations requisite to make the place habitable, and further to increase our accommodation for a larger number of scholars. Of the buildings already erected, the girls' school-house, for the present, gives shelter to my own family, together with a limited number of school-girls. The men's school-room is occupied, but in an unfinished state; and a third building is the dwelling-house of my son, the Rev. W. L. Williams. The natives are living in seven raupo houses. The progress of our buildings has been such as our means would allow, but there is still much to be done. The agricultural operations promise well towards the support of the establishment. We have the prospect of good crops from sixteen acres of wheat and four acres of potatoes. Ten acres of new ground have been broken up for next season. All this work, which is purely secular, is indispensable to the existence of our school, but instead of being carried on, as in many other positions, by a paid agency, it must be superintended, and in some measure executed by ourselves, or it will be left undone. It is a part of the means to an end, and if so be the end be attained, we have what we require.

The immediate care of the mens' and boys'-school, with the exception of the first two months, has devolved upon the Rev. W. L. Williams, whose province it is to report upon them; but I may remark, that the progress in knowledge, and the general demeanour of all who belong to our schools, has been satisfactory, and the hope is more than ever encouraged, that from time to time we shall see natives go forth from among us, some as lay teachers, and others as ministers, to their own people. Two men of good promise are now on the point of leaving us, to be placed under the immediate care of the Bishop, preparatory to ordination.

In all that we see before us in connexion with the school we have every cause for thankfulness. We began our operations in the face of numerous difficulties. A sacrifice was to be made of all the hard labour which had been undergone in the formation of the first station, and an expense was to be incurred which we were not prepared for; and the amount calculated as the cost of our removal was found to be very far short of that actually incurred; but God has graciously helped us forward.

It is with the more satisfaction that I look to our operations on the station, because there are many things elsewhere which tend to discourage. There is much apathy among the natives around us, a great deal of profession, but little principle. The love of many has waxed cold, and Satan has taken his opportunity, as he did in the days of the early church, to raise up various superstitious practices. We have had the spirits of the dead speaking to their relatives on all sides through the agency of persons who are gifted with very inferior powers of ventriloquism; and because many of the communications thus made contained good advice, as, for instance, that they ought to pay more attention to religion than they do, the poor natives take up the idea that the voices are those of veritable spirits. This again has encouraged others to resort to various superstitious practices for the recovery of the sick, and thus we have a strange mixture of that which is radically bad, mixed with a religious profession. But considering the circumstances under which these efforts are made by the wicked one, they may be regarded as a proof that his kingdom is tottering to its fall. "He cometh down, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time."

The natives of Heretaunga were engaged in a serious quarrel about their land, which has much interfered with the progress of Christianity; while of those of Te Wairoa, many are in a lukewarm state. These circumstances have materially affected the number of communicants, who are fewer than they have been for some years past, and yet I believe that the general aspect of the natives is better than it was last year. Some of those who have been led away have seen their error, and have given good proof of amendment. We look forward, therefore, to yet brighter times, when, the Spirit being poured out from on high, the careless and the lukewarm, and those who are hardened in sin, shall be all made willing, in the day of God's power, and when all shall know the Lord, from the least even to the greatest.

I went to Lyttelton, to meet the Bishop of New Zealand, and was ordained priest in the temporary church at Lyttelton, on December 21, 1856.

During my stay at Lyttelton I had the opportunity of meeting the natives in the neighbourhood, which I was glad to do, for they were absolutely as sheep without a shepherd, having no one to attend to their spiritual wants. For many years past they have been dependent upon the necessarily limited visits of the Bishop, on his long visitation journeys in that part of his diocese.

The Bishop having offered me a passage home in his vessel, I accompanied him to Chatham Island, where there is a very interesting community of Maories, who have been even more dependent upon the Bishop's visits than those in Banks' Peninsula. We divided the island between us, each taking half, and meeting again on board the vessel. These people are exceedingly anxious to have a clergyman resident among them, and would willingly set apart a large piece of ground for the purposes of a school, but no one can be spared from New Zealand to go there. The Maori population has come principally from Taranaki and Waikanae, and the few remaining aboriginal inhabitants are held by them in a state of slavery. There were some German Missionaries there a few years ago, but they have all either left or taken to other occupations, and now the people have no one residing among them to teach them. At Tupnengi, the principal place in the North West part of the island, I spent Sunday, and baptized four adults and six children. One kainga which I visited was inhabited by none but professed heathen. Had I been free, I could willingly have staid among them; but that being out of the question, I could only pray that God would be pleased to put it into the hearts of some to take compassion upon that remote corner of his vineyard.

With reference to my own pupils, I am happy to be able to report that the general progress during the past year has been, on the whole, very satisfactory. Their anxiety to get on has increased with their increase of knowledge, and I trust their consistency of conduct has, in many cases at least, arisen from a higher principle than mere regard to the good opinion of men. Not but that there still remains much to be done, for even in the most promising there are things which we would gladly see otherwise; but still we have every reason to be thankful for the measure of success accorded to our weak efforts, and to be encouraged by it.

The Rev. C. Baker bears testimony that the same readiness of the congregations to support native teachers has been exhibited in his district as in other parts of the island.

Connected with church building, the very important subject of supporting a native ministry has been brought forward, discussed, and approved very generally. Memorials have been numerously signed by the people of many villages, entreating the Bishop to supply two additional ministers, pledging themselves to support them with an amount which I hope would prove sufficient for their wants. From the spirited way in which the people have proceeded with building churches, it is reasonable to hope that they will come forward to support native ministers, as soon as any are ready to be located amongst them.

The Rev. J. Hamlin continues his labours in his remote and arduous position at Wairoa, under mingled encouragements and trials.

WESTERN DISTRICT.

This district is far too scantily provided with Missionary agency. Archdeacon Hadfield occupies Otaki, and the Rev. Richard Taylor Wanganui, on the coast; Mr. James Booth is at Pipiriki, three days' journey up the river; and the Rev. W. Ronaldson far away on the east of Wellington.

Archdeacon Hadfield writes—

I am not aware of any new feature in the work. What, however, is daily becoming more clear, is, that many have embraced Christianity from a general approval of its excellence, without having ever truly felt its power; but that others have received it into their hearts, and have been enabled, by its sacred influence, to bring forth the fruits of holiness. On the whole, I should be inclined to say, that in this district there has been, during the year, an increased interest in religion, and an improvement in the conduct of the converts generally.

Very valuable assistance is afforded me by my friend and coadjutor, the Rev. Riwai Te Ahu, whose zeal and indefatigable exertions have, in a great measure, supplied what I have left undone, as well as given an earnest of what may be expected from sincere and pious men, though sprung from a race only now emerging from a low state of degradation. As a proof that his ministrations are appreciated by the Christian natives of the district, it may be well to mention that they have supplied timber for his house to the value of 80*l.*, and raised 70*l.* in cash. His house is now nearly completed. They have also raised 45*l.* towards his annual stipend.

Mr. Taylor writes—

panied by several of the most influential chiefs of Wanganui, to try and make peace between the natives of that district and the Nga-ti-rua-mio, who had long been at war with each other; and I am happy in being able to report, that eventually our efforts were cheered with success. The year also was terminated with a visit to the natives of the Upper Wanganui, for a similar purpose, which I trust will likewise prove equally effectual. During the last year I administered the Lord's supper, six times to the Nga-ti-rua-mio, five to the Wanganui natives, and four to those of the Rangitikei district. The largest number of communicants has been 500. The baptisms during the year have been 123 infants and thirty-eight adults.

Relative to the state of my district, with the exception of the quarrel alluded to, all are living in peace: our Sabbath congregations are generally very good, and the Sunday-schools are well attended. Although the attendance at our little daily schools is very irregular, still we average twenty-eight during the week. The Nga-ti-rua-mio have adopted a novel kind of school. The children of several neighbouring villages assemble in one place, where they are taught by the teachers for a month; they then leave for the next village, and remain there for a similar period; then pass on to another place; thus keeping up a kind of circulating system, which has at least the advantage of hindering the children from being wearied by always remaining in the same place. I examined about forty of the children thus taught, and was much gratified by their proficiency. One of the teachers, Peniamini, of Keteonetea, who had devoted himself with great assiduity to this work, lately died. He was attended to the grave by the whole body of his pupils, who evinced much sorrow on the occasion, and showed how deeply attached they were to their instructor.

Mr. Taylor thus pleads for the continuance of Missionary operations in New Zealand—

I fear you think the natives are more advanced than they are. If the Church Missionary Society withdraws from New Zealand the great mass will become infidels. Our countrymen have, alas! too successfully taught them to drink, and to become indifferent to the one thing needful: they have impaired the usefulness of the Missionary; and if the number of Missionaries does not increase, the evil will. Suitable natives for the ministry are few; and though the millions of other countries may seem to have the stronger claim, still an entire race, like that of the Maori, thus secured to our church, should at all hazards be retained. New Zealand is one of the brightest gems the Church Missionary Society has gained.

Mr James Booth, a trained schoolmaster, resides at Pipiriki, half-way up the Wanganui river. He has collected a class of fifteen young men, who are partly instructed in industrial employment. He has also an adult school of nearly as many more. A Romish priest is settled higher up the river, who circulates all kinds of calumnies against the Protestant Missionaries, and, on a late occasion, had nearly excited a tribe to war : but by the judicious interference of the Governor in sending an officer of rank to make inquiries on the spot, all evil consequences were averted, and the confidence of the natives was restored in their true friends. Mr. Booth has daily worship and exposition of the Scriptures, which are well attended ; and he occasionally visits in the neighbourhood. When Mr. Taylor attends to administer the Lord's supper, between 300 and 400 communicants are collected together from the surrounding districts.

The Rev. Wm. Ronaldson is stationed at Papawai, near Wairarapa and Grey Town. By the direction of the Bishop he divides his labours between the British settlers and the natives, the settlers contributing to the Society a portion of his salary. Hence he holds four services each Sunday, two in each language, and is compelled to travel considerable distances between the services.

The natives under his charge are estimated at 700, who all make a profession of Christianity ; but from the few religious advantages which they have had, the want of schools, and from their being mingled with ungodly Europeans, their spiritual state is very low. There are twenty-one native teachers employed in the district, but these also have had scarcely any preparation for their work, and exercise but little influence over the people. Mr. Ronaldson has great difficulties to strive against, but is zealously improving every opportunity of giving instruction to the natives, and especially to the native teachers.*

Society, as well as the increasing demands of other fields of Missionary labour, have led the Committee to determine to withdraw from this Mission as soon as provision can be made for ministerial oversight of the converts who have been collected together at Bartica Grove. The Committee have therefore determined that its connexion with this Mission shall cease at the close of the present year.

The Bishop of Guiana, however, having represented to the Committee that the financial difficulties of the colony at the present time prevent the immediate completion of the transfer, they have made a final grant of one year's salary for the resident minister; measures having been adopted for carrying on the schools at the Grove upon local funds.

The Society's Corresponding Committee at George Town, to whom the Committee have been greatly indebted for their zeal and fidelity in watching over the interests of the Society's Mission, fully concur in the necessity of this transfer.

It appears that the colony was visited by a severe epidemic in 1857, as in the previous year. The Rev. T. Hillis, in his annual letter, reports that the cholera broke out in June, and, after apparently subsiding, returned in a few months in an aggravated form, so that eleven persons were carried off in a few days, and the schools broken up. The Bishop of Guiana visited the station in the autumn, and held a confirmation, at which thirty-four persons were presented to him. He examined the schools, and expressed his satisfaction at the state of the Mission. The communicants were sixty-two. The schools contained twenty-one boys and forty-two girls.

Testimony of the Bishop of Rupert's Land.

THE Bishop of Rupert's Land returned to his diocese in October 1857, and, in a letter dated January 12, 1858, gives this general and cheering account of the aspect of the more southern portion of his diocese—

I have now officiated at each church in the settlement, and have received from each congregation a very cordial and affectionate welcome. Not the least interesting was the congregation at the Indian Settlement, on the last Sunday of the year (December 27). The number present was very large, so much so, that the church, which we thought a large one to build, is not more than sufficient to contain the worshippers. The Canadian Commissioners happened to be present, and I felt extremely glad that they should see such an assembly of Indians gathered together in God's house. They have since spoken of the gratification which they received from the sight; and I do not think, from what they say, that anywhere in Canada—perhaps not in the United States—so flourishing an Indian congregation can be found. After the morning service we had the administration of the Lord's supper, when 122 drew near to partake of the memorial of our Saviour's dying love. Never did I minister among them with more pleasure; and I trust that the faithful and affectionate ministry of the Rev. Abraham Cowley is producing fruit among them. I never saw them apparently better clothed; but, as the prices of all provisions are much raised, I fear they may suffer in the course of the winter. A few were confined from influenza, among them the old chief and his wife, or the number at the Lord's table would have been larger still.

Converts are gradually coming in from heathenism; one, I baptized myself, a grandson of the chief. And Mr. Cowley has since been very much pleased with the young woman to whom this young man has been married, and has admitted her also to baptism. They were two very satisfactory cases. Besides these, four adults of another family had been baptized by Mr. Cowley in the closing quarter of the year.

I have one native reading with me, who is a candidate for orders, and who would relieve Mr. Cowley of some of the heaviest toil. He interpreted for me when officiating below, and I was struck with his extreme readiness, and the beauty of his scriptural translations. It has been noticed by all who have heard him—by the Commissioners on that occasion, and by Professor Hinde in the summer. He was a pupil with me before I went home; and all who have witnessed his conduct while at the collegiate school speak highly of him. His name is Henry Cockran. When ordained, however, I trust he may not in any way fall upon the funds of the Society, but that he may be the first Missionary of our own, supported by ourselves, as I hinted in my last charge.

Archdeacon Hunter has charge of the Mission church of St. Andrew's, and acts as Secretary of the Corresponding Committee. He is assisted in the charge of the station by the Rev. W. W. Kirkby, who also superintends the schools of the district. The Indian Settlement has been under the care of the Rev. A. Cowley. The out-station to the east, Islington, is under the care of the country-born minister, the Rev. Robert M'Donald; and that of Portage la Prairie, to the west, under Archdeacon Cockran. There is a model and training school at St. Andrew's, under a trained master from England, Mr. Mayhew.*

The work at St. Andrew's Church is of a pastoral kind, and presents few features of Missionary interest. Archdeacon Hunter bears testimony that "the divine blessing is resting upon the labours of the Missionaries, and that the work, though slowly, is yet perceptibly making progress."

In October the Rev. E. A. Watkins arrived from James' Bay by the long journey in canoes across the country, with his wife in feeble health. They remained at Red River for the winter, and were to proceed to Cumberland in the summer.

Archdeacon Hunter gives the following notice respecting an Esquimaux convert—

Mr. Watkins brought with him an Esquimaux servant, called Peter, from Fort George, but the poor fellow has been drooping ever since he came into the settlement, the climate did not agree with him—and last week he died rather suddenly. On Tuesday, Mr. Watkins had the melancholy duty to perform of reading the burial service over his remains; he was buried in St. Andrew's churchyard, far away from his relatives in a land of strangers. We have every cause to believe that he died a sincere Christian, looking to Jesus alone for pardon and salvation. He was remarkable for honesty and truthfulness, and was a faithful, unsophisticated, and diligent servant, and invaluable to our brother and his wife. Regarding him as a specimen of the Esquimaux race, one only feels what a hopeful people they are, and how much good might be effected amongst them. Dr. Rae always told me that they are the finest Indians in the country, and the easiest to bring under Christian instruction. Mr. Watkins, with his knowledge of the Esquimaux, speaks of them with great affection, and quite confirms Dr. Rae's statement.

Mr. Kirkby gives the following view of his duties at St. Andrew's station—

My labours here consist of, generally, four full services a week. The services are all well attended by anxious and devout worshippers. It is most refreshing to see Sabbath by Sabbath so many attentive hearers of God's blessed word. It is also no small comfort to feel that we have not, in the whole parish, one habitual Sabbath-breaker, or one that neglects the service of God. The leaves of profession are certainly most abundant on the vine which God hath planted in this part of his vineyard, and I do trust that there is also a corresponding fruit. The fruits of the Spirit are abundantly manifest in many. Rooted and grounded in Christ, they receive from his fulness continual nourishment for their souls' daily life. The Bible is more known, revered, and, I believe, prayed over. Its holy precepts are reduced to daily practice. God's statutes are the songs of many in this house of their pilgrimage. I think more questions have been asked me during the last three months, about various texts, than were asked in a whole year before. This is so far good, for it shows that the Bible is read, and read with a desire to understand its real meaning. I trust that this also is an evidence of growth.

Family prayer is beginning to become general through the whole parish, and, I doubt not, is bringing down blessings great and manifold from our prayer-hearing and prayer-answering God. Would that every "tent" had its "altar!" for of all the preservatives from sin as well as blessed means of grace, I know of none more powerful than family prayer. I trust that the increase of this holy practice amongst us is also an evidence of grace.

The Sabbaths with us are calm, quiet, holy days. Without fear of contradiction, I think I may say that they will compare well with those in any other part of God's vineyard. I trust they are to many a soul earnest and foretastes of that eternal Sabbath which remaineth for the people of God. I think that this also is an evidence of growth.

Mr. Cowley has to contend with many difficulties at the Indian Settlement, arising from the transition state of the Indians from their former habits to those of the neighbouring British settlers. He is necessarily involved in much secular work. Nevertheless, he is cheered by such evidences of the success of the work as are referred to in the extract already given from the Bishop's letter. In his annual review Mr. Cowley writes—

In the result of our labours we have great cause of gratitude to Almighty God, and of joy and congratulation amongst ourselves: nor is this any transient impression, but one which deepens with increasing years. The more I look upon the congregation—the largest but one in the country, regularly worshipping in the church, in connexion with "the rock, whence, they have been hewn," one by one, and "the hole of the pit," whence, with labour, and patience, and anxious care, they have in like manner been digged—the more am I led to rejoice for the grace of God to these Gentiles, and to exclaim, "What hath God wrought!" The past year has not been unfruitful, as we trust, in the good work of adding to the church such as shall be saved. In looking over the baptismal register I was delighted to find that I had led from the ranks of heathenism into the church of Christ, by baptism, no less than nine adult Indians, besides children : and the good Bishop has also baptized one other adult belonging to this station, making in all, ten adults. For this I bless God, and take courage.

Mr. Cowley has visited the out-station Fort Alexander, but has been repeatedly disappointed in the teachers whom he had left to carry on the work, so that he can report no progress, during the present year, in the formation of that station.

The station of Portage la Prairie is rapidly advancing in interest and importance under the care of the veteran Missionary, Archdeacon Cockran. It is proposed by the Corresponding Committee to associate with the Archdeacon another Missionary and native teachers, so as to constitute it an independent centre of Missionary action.

Mr. Kirkby, in his annual letter, thus speaks of a visit to Portage la Prairie, and of the opportunities which it affords for access to the Indians—

Whilst at La Prairie, I had the privilege of preaching the everlasting Gospel to upwards of 100 Cree Indians, who, for about a fortnight, were encamped there. I had special services, and invited them all to attend ; and though they did not do so as well as I could wish, yet certainly as well as I could expect. Poor souls, they felt not their need of Jesus, and therefore could hardly be expected to seek after his name. I frequently went to their tents, and read to them, in their own tongue, the wonders of redeeming love. Whether that word found any lodgment in their hearts I cannot tell, but I certainly look upon that fortnight as the brightest and happiest through the year ; for though it may be an equal privilege to preach the Gospel to any number of souls, under any circumstances, yet one certainly felt it to be a greater privilege to break the “bread of life” to those who had never before tasted it, than to others who were having their supplies from week to week.

Fairford-or Manitoba District.

The Rev. W. Stagg writes, Aug. 25, 1857—

I am most thankful to say the Lord has been pleased to pour out another rich blessing upon his work around us, by adding many to his church, such, I trust, “as shall be saved.” We have had, in all, thirty-four baptisms connected with this station since Jan. 1, 1857, to which date my annual letter refers. Mr. Settee baptized fifteen persons during a visit to his native place, Nelson River, this summer. I trust he had satisfactory reasons for admitting them to that holy rite. He stated he received a most satisfactory account of them from one of the Company’s servants living there, and who had instructed them in the truth of the Christian religion.

As Mr. Settee was connected with me the last year, we have been enabled to travel over a large tract of country, and preach the Gospel to its scattered inhabitants. I might say, nearly all the Saulteaux north of Red River have heard the Gospel from us, myself seeing, in winter, the Shoal River, Fort Pelly, Duck Bay, and Touchwood Hills, and the Saulteaux; Mr. Settee those of Berens River, Manitoba Port, and other smaller places. Mr. Settee also visited the Crees of his native place, Nelson River, this summer, as before stated.

At the close of the year Mr. Staggs writes—

My work at home has been chiefly among our own people. Some Indians from a distance visited the station in summer, who listened attentively to the truths of the Gospel. I also visited the Kisaskatchewan River, where I saw several families. I remained some days with them, going from tent to tent to tell of the Saviour. At Fairford only a very few heathen remained any length of time with us during the year. Indeed, I feel now, that if the Gospel is to be preached to the heathen we must apply the "aggressive system," for we have not here more than seven or eight families, strictly belonging to Fairford, who are still in the darkness of heathenism; and I believe such are not easy under its cruel yoke. There are yet many heathen who remain from sixty to eighty miles from Fairford, and whom we reach as often as we can; but as Mr. Settee left me early in the summer, after visiting Nelson River, I have not been able to travel as much as I would.

We have held, as usual, three services on the Sabbath, and one school, also daily evening worship in the schoolroom. Several also attend morning prayers in our house. We have a prayer meeting once a fortnight, not held, as formerly, in the evening, but in the middle of the day. These seasons are very refreshing, and seem doubly sweet in the wilderness. It is quite a rest to meet, after the duties of the day, at our evening worship, and to see our people gathering at the sound of the bell.

Cumberland District.

The station of Swiss Church, Cumberland, has been under the care of the Rev. H. George, who has found full occupation in the ministerial and secular duties connected with his large native flock and schools. His report is, on the whole, encouraging, but the people have undergone much privation through the scantiness of food, and of the means of support.

The Rev. H. Budd removed from Christ Church to Nepewewin, in the summer. This out-station had been for three years under a native teacher. Mr. Budd was somewhat disappointed that no accessions have been made to the number of inquirers amongst the Indians; but since his residence among them he writes—placed themselves under instruction, with their families. They are diligent inquirers after the way of truth, as opposed to their own false delusions. These I hope to be able to instruct and prepare for baptism, so that when our beloved Bishop comes next summer to visit us, they may be ready for that ordinance. The Indians here want teachers of patient and persevering endurance: these, with the blessing of God, will ultimately overcome their prejudices. The truth is, we have access to a very small portion only of the Indians, when compared with the mass beyond us who are scattered about on the border of the Great Plain in whole tribes. We are unable to go to them because our services are required at home. I am not aware that they are hostile to the "praying-religion:" on the contrary, all I have seen of them are willing to hear the Gospel. The few converts who have been brought in at the first formation of the station, though a mere handful, continue to give satisfaction, and are, I humbly trust, growing in grace.

Mr. George visited this station in October 1857, and writes at that date—

I have visited the Nepowewin station. It is a delightful spot, well situated for active Missionary operations. Many souls occasionally visit the place during summer. It is my belief that much more might be effected if it were not for the Company's rum. One of brother Budd's little girls, who is quick and intelligent, and trained by me for teaching last winter, had kept school for a short period, during the visit of a band of Indians; and, to mention it as a slight feature of encouragement, a few heathen children were permitted by their parents to attend during their short sojourn at the place. As to converts, I fervently hope that Mr. Budd's presence will effect something, and that ultimately souls may be gathered into the fold of Christ.

English-River District.

The Rev. R. Hunt, and Mrs. Hunt have remained at this out-post during the last year. They have only one native teacher to assist them. The number of native Christians at the close of the year was 239, and the communicants 72. The most interesting event of the year was the baptism of nineteen Chepewyan Indians, eleven being adults, which encourages the hope that many more of these remote Indians will be brought into the same fold of Christ with their Cree countrymen.

The schools, of course, vary in the amount of scholars, according as the Indians are at home, or away upon their hunting excursions. Thirteen boys and girls are permanent boarders: at times as many as seventy-eight children have been in attendance.

Mr. Hunt's time has been much occupied by the building of a church, and the completion of the Mission premises. By these engagements he has been prevented from itinerating. He thinks that it will not be advisable to establish any permanent station beyond the English River, but that occasional visits might be made in a northerly and north-westerly direction, with great advantage, as soon as there shall be a sufficient supply of books in the syllabic character adapted to the Chepewyan dialect, so that the travelling Missionary may teach the Indians to read, and leave the words of divine truth amongst them for their study in the absence of the Missionary. Mr. Hunt writes, in his annual letter—

The attendance at daily morning and evening public prayers is all but universal at the station at all times, and the Sabbath congregation very seldom falls below forty, the adults being generally the majority. Sometimes the enlarged schoolroom is too full for comfort, both on the seats and the floor. We trust the Lord is with us, and will go before us, and show us more mercy, and multiply our peace; otherwise we should not covet to remain where every thing external is hostile to peace and comfort, and the Christian Indians, even, are wilful and unthankful, and our secular tools not to be depended upon.

Moose-Fort District.

The Rev. J. Horden has continued his zealous and efficient labours at this station, visiting, as he had opportunity, the out-stations connected with it. A fellow-labourer, Mr. Fleming, joined him in the summer of last year, who is diligently studying the language.

Mr. Horden writes, in his annual letter—

Our church services have been the same as those mentioned in my last letter, the summer being devoted principally to the Indians, while in the winter, the Indians being absent, I hold a larger number of English services—four in the course of each week.

I am now engaged in revising and printing a translation of St. Matthew's Gospel, and hope, during this and the following winter (D.V.), to have a large number of copies of the four Gospels printed. Brother Watkins, who was most indefatigable in the work, left me translations of St. Luke and St. John, in the Fort-George dialect, which will require but little alteration to make them suitable for this quarter.

I remained at Albany (having accompanied Mr. Watkins and his family a part of their way to the Red River) several days after Mr. Watkins had left us, instructing chiefly those who desired to hear the word of life. Matters are proceeding satisfactorily there, many of the Indians testifying, by the correctness of their lives, the influence which Christianity has on them. I much missed my Saulteaux friends from Osnaburgh and Lac Seul, but they had long since

The Rev. W. Mason has conducted the Missionary duties at the station of York Factory. He was joined in the latter part of the year by Mr. Gardiner, an European catechist. Much progress has been made in the building of a church, of which the external structure had been completed at the end of the year. No results of the Mission are recorded of any special interest. Divine services have been regularly held, in English, for the European servants of the Company, and in Cree, for the Indian converts; and advantage has been taken of visits of distant Indians to the Factory, to impart to them some knowledge of the truths of God, and to initiate them into the reading and writing of the Cree syllabic characters. An incident recorded in Mr. Mason's journal shows the influence of Christianity upon the national habits of the Indians.

May 2, 1857—John Meyham and John Spence, jun., arrived to-day. They bring word of the sickness of old John Spence, and, from their description, he must have had a paralytic stroke. How pitiable his case! In the woods, unable to walk, and dependent upon the kindness of others for daily support, yet he has been carefully attended to during the whole winter by Christian Indians, who, at times, have great difficulty in procuring provisions for themselves. How striking the contrast, when, formerly, they left the aged and infirm to perish, deserted the sick, and, horrible to relate, had recourse to the bowstring. Christianity is producing its legitimate fruits.

In the spring of 1857 Mr. Mason visited Severn, eight or nine days' journey to the south of York Factory. Here is a small trading post of the Company, containing only six adults and four children, whose isolation from the rest of the world may be imagined from the fact that letters reach them but once each year, and those from England are two years old. The Indians Mr. Mason found to have much decreased of late: they do not now number more than 200 souls, including women and children. He paid an interesting visit to an aged and patriarchal head of a large family, John Cockran, who had been baptized at York, and had maintained a faithful Christian profession. On this first visit of a Missionary to the station, all the members of his family were baptized. The chief trader at this post, Mr. Cromartie, takes much interest in the religious welfare of the Indians.* From him Mr. Mason obtained the following particulars—

* A detailed account of Mr. Mason's visit to Severn, may be found in the "Church Missionary Record," for May 1858.

I had a long conversation with Mr. Cromatie respecting the state, &c., of the Indians here. They are very desirous of instruction. Many have travelled as far as York, on purpose to get a knowledge of the syllabic characters, that they might receive God's holy word. A few have travelled as far as Albany to receive books and instructions from "the praying chief." All have thrown away their idols of wood and stone, and are in a great measure delivered from the bonds of a fearful superstition, delight in prayer and acts of devotion; have taught themselves to read and write in the syllabic characters; strictly observe the Sabbath, and attend daily to morning and evening family prayers, excepting a few. Such was the description of the Severn Indians, which Mr. Cromartie gave me. Now all the knowledge of Christianity which they possess, which has produced such effects, has been obtained through the means of the syllabic characters, and the influence exerted on their minds by the great change produced on the first converts to Christianity, whom they met at York. These outward means, doubtless, being blessed by the Spirit of God, whose grace was more abundantly proved upon their sincere and earnestly seeking souls, to supply their lack of a living witness to declare to them the riches of Gospel-peace, and administer those ordinances which He hath himself appointed to be observed and performed in his holy church.

FORT SIMPSON.

It was announced in the last year's Report that a Missionary schoolmaster had been sent to the Red Indians on the coast of the Pacific to the west of the Rocky Mountains. Mr. W. Duncan had passed through the Highbury Training College, and willingly complied with the proposal of the Committee to proceed to this distant country, upon a notice of only a few days, the offer of a free passage having been generously made to the Committee by Captain Provost, R.N., of H. M. S. "Sattellite," with the permission of the Admiralty.

Mr. Duncan left England December 23, 1856, and arrived at Vancouver's Island June 13, 1857. After consulting with the Governor, and with other parties acquainted with the country, he determined to proceed to Fort Simpson, which the Committee had been led to regard as the most suitable station for access to the Indians. He arrived there on October 1st, and applied himself diligently to the acquisition of the Chimsyan dialect, which is supposed to be the leading dialect of the tribes on that coast, as well as that spoken by the Indians in the neighbourhood of Fort Simpson.

The Fort consists of about twenty men, servants of the Hudson's-Bay Company, comprising Europeans, Canadians, or half-breeds, amongst whom Mr. Duncan has opened a school for the few children of the Fort, and a night school for the adults. He has also held divine service on the Lord's-day.

He has collected valuable information respecting the language and customs of the Indians, of whom a large camp is situated on the outside of the Fort.

Mr. Duncan finds among these Indians the same heathen superstition and cruel practices which were found at the Red River in the early days of the Mission. The only religious rites are those performed by the "medicine" men, or conjurors, which serve only to fill the minds of the people with dark and mysterious terrors. There are some faint traces of a Supreme Being, and of a future state, and a tradition of the flood.

Mr. Duncan has found it very difficult to procure interpreters. Though the Fort has been established for twenty years, the trading intercourse with the natives has been carried on in a jargon of Indian and English words. At length he procured the assistance of a young Indian, by whose aid he acquired some hold upon the language. The Indians have taken great interest in his study of their language, and seem fully to understand and appreciate the object of his Mission. He has been able to collect more than 1100 Chimsyan sentences, which will prove a basis of the language: the prospects of this infant Mission appear to the Committee most promising. A few extracts are given of the communications of Mr. Duncan. He thus describes the locality of Fort Simpson—

The weather having been remarkably fine and frosty the last few days, I thought it a good opportunity to take a stroll over the generally soaking wet land behind the camp, to seek out a place for the Mission premises: I say, behind the camp, because the Fort and it occupy nearly all the end of this small peninsula.

As I started, the sun was setting majestically on my right, behind an island which shelters us from the heavy splash of the Pacific. Before me was the rising and irregular ground of this narrow peninsula, which, for some distance, presents nothing but grey stumps of trees, a few bushes, dead grass, and a thin scattering of snow over all. On my left was the channel, which makes this piece of land a peninsula, and over that a chain of snow-covered mountains, towering far away: their lofty white peaks, blending with the clear dark-blue sky around, presented a lively picture of purity, severity, and grandeur, in one view.

Having walked about half-a-mile—all the while gently rising, I found myself a considerable height above the Fort and camp, and, turning my face westward, my eye rested on several suitable spots for building. The partly-cleared land stretches a little further than where I stood, on the west side of the peninsula, but on the other side, close to me, began an almost impenetrable forest. Turning to go back, my eye rested upon the rugged and mountainous west-coast of America, running northward, and numbers of small islands, looking lovely enough. "Every prospect pleases, and only man is vile." Oh, when shall there be a temple raised to our God amid this glorious temple of nature? My eyes long to see these long-lost tribes winding their way to a Bethel, to meet their long-forgotten, but reconciled Father in Christ. Why did not Christians, long before this come out to lead these wanderers back? Oh, may the Lord maintain his own cause, for this people shall yet praise Him: this uttermost part of the earth shall be his possession. Then may we call upon the mountains, hills, and forests, to bless the Lord, and the winds to waft his praise abroad, but not till then.

Mr. Duncan thus describes his visit to the Indian camp, to ascertain the number and social condition of the people—

January 14, 1858—For the last few days I have been visiting the Indians. I am not in a position to do them much good, but still I thought I would at least go and see them, and endeavour to win a little of their esteem and confidence. At the same time I resolved to count them. For this it was necessary that I should see as many of them in their houses as possible; and I think I could not have had a more favourable time than the last few days to secure this arrangement. The depth of snow on the ground, and the heavy showers which continue to fall, in addition to the cold, have kept them very close indeed. I took my Indian, to act as interpreter, and to-day we have finished our calls.

I have been inside 140 houses, all large and strong buildings. The largest would measure, I guess, about sixty feet by forty feet. One house I was not permitted to enter, as they had not finished their sorceries for the season. However, they sent me out an account of their family.

In all, I counted 2156 souls, namely, 637 men, 756 women, and 763 children; and, making an addition for those away procuring fuel and at the Fort, I estimate the sum total of residents to be 2325, which is rather under than over the true number. The total number rendered by themselves, which of course includes all that belong to them, whether married into other tribes or living south, is 2567. These are divided in nine tribes, but all speak the same tongue, and have one general name—Chimsyan. So far as I am at present able to make out, I calculate other seventeen tribes, all living within fifty miles of this place, which either speak Chimsyan. or something very near to it.

It would be impossible for me to give a full description of this my first general visit, for the scenes were too exciting and too crowded to admit of it. I confess that cluster after cluster of these half-naked and painted savages round their fires was, to my unaccustomed eyes, very alarming. But the reception I met with was truly wonderful and encouraging. On entering a house I was greeted by one, two or three, of the principal persons with Clah-how-yah, which is the complimentary term used in the trading jargon. This would be repeated several times. Then a general movement and a squatting ensued, followed by a breathless silence, during which every eye was fixed on me. After a little time several would begin nodding and smiling, and at the same time, in a low tone, reiterating (Ahm—Ahm—at-met—Ahm Shimanyet) “Good—Good person—Good chief.”

In some houses they would not be content until I took the chief place near the fire, and always placed a mat upon a box for me to sit upon. My inquiries after the sick were always followed by anxious looks and deep sighs. A kind of solemn awe would spread itself at once. I found in all forty-seven sick, and three in a state of lunacy. I cannot describe the condition of this people better than by saying that it is just what might be expected in savage heathen life. I have hardly recovered from the depressing sensations which a sight of their state has awakened. Oh, dreadful, dreadful, to see one's fellow-creatures like this, when the blessed Gospel has been 1800 years in the world! Only a little time ago, my Indian asked me what we meant by saying the year 1858. How appalling to my mind when I tried to make him understand the origin of this date! I never felt the fact to be any thing like so awful before. To me it seems this very truth connected with the Gospel must form one of the greatest stumbling-blocks to all the present generation of intelligent heathen. What have Christians in ages gone by, been thinking about and what indeed are the present doing?—

There is one cheering feature connected with this people which my visit has prominently shown me, that is, they are longing for instruction. The presence of the whites, and their own visits to the south, have shaken their superstitions, and awakened inquiry, but that is all. There is a general belief amongst them that the whites do possess some grand secret about eternal things, and they are gasping to know it—this is the propitious moment; and Popery, I am afraid, will not be long before it comes to find a ready prey. Oh that the people of God were awake to their duty, responsibility, and privilege!

In a general way the Chimsyan Indians begin to break up about the beginning or middle of February. About 100 then go to Victoria, or the American Ports, which are about 500 miles south of this place. Others go to places where they make canoes, boxes, &c. About the middle of March there is a general break up for about three weeks. All that can possibly be spared from the camp, and are able to go, now proceed to take small fish in a channel a little to the north of this place. This fish is so abundant that they take it by means of a scoop-net. There also they prepare grease and oil for their yearly consumption, and for sale. They also bring immense quantities of the fish to the Fort, which is salted and served out in rations to the men all the year round. After this the Indians begin to break away in hunting and trading parties, and then is the time that large numbers of strange Indians flock here to trade. Also a second party of about 100 leave for Victoria, and other places south. This is about the latter end of April.

In the summer, those that are left employ themselves in procuring salmon, herring-spawn, and berries; all of which they meet with in abundance near at hand.

At the latter part of the year the Indians who went south return bringing great quantites of rum, and various kinds of property.*

CONCLUSION.

THE Committee, in conclusion, revert to the subject of the Indian Crisis, and to the measures which they have already taken in connexion with this great event; an event, the consequences of which they regard as equally momentous to the best interests of British India, and of the whole British empire. They conceive that the obligation of England towards India is to be regarded in a three-fold light.

In the first place, England stands related to India as exercising sovereignty over the people. Under the British Constitution, every man has a share of responsibility in the principles of Government. Details of administration belong to statesmen; but every British subject is bound by a solemn obligation to use his influence that the great principles of religion and morality may be the basis of the British throne. The Committee have regarded it, therefore, as a part of their duty to declare explicitly their views upon the future Government of India, in relation to the moral and religious welfare of the Natives; and they have humbly presented these views in a Memorial to the Queen. They trust that the great Christian community, of which the Church Missionary Society is a representative, will not cease to urge the Government of India to avow its Christianity, to admit the Bible into the system of Government Education, and to decree that all connexion with Hindú or Mohammedan superstition shall at once, and for ever, cease and determine.

The second relation in which England stands towards India is that of a parent to uneducated children. We are bound to provide education for the masses of its population. Too long have we neglected this duty. Knowing the people to be sunk in a debasing ignorance, without the possibility of extricating themselves, we have "passed by on the other side." The Government has very lately taken measures to promote vernacular education; and it is for Missionary Societies to provide for the religious element in such education. This is a work in which all denominations of Christians must unite for its effectual accomplishment. The Christian education of a heathen population precedes all questions of ecclesiastical polity. The Committee are thankful to announce the formation of a Society for this object upon the principle laid down by the Bishop of Calcutta in these memorable words: "Unity and love prevail amongst the different divisions of the Protestant family. We no longer maintain the old and fatal mistake, that Christian men are not to co-operate for any-thing till they agree in every-thing. We now hold the antagonistic and true maxim that Christian men should act together, so far as they are agreed."

The third relation in which England stands to India is that of a Christian towards a heathen country. Hence the obligation on England to impart to India the inestimable benefits of the Ministry of the Word of Christ; first, through European agency, and then, as soon as possible, through a Native Pastorate. Here each Missionary Society must carry on its own work. And, blessed be God, each Missionary Society has arisen to new and enlarged efforts for its performance. The Committee called together a Special Meeting of this Society on the 12th of January last, to inaugurate these measures. They appealed for a Special Fund, for the Indian Missions. That appeal has been liberally answered. In four months, as

This Special Fund for India will, the Committee trust, be faithfully devoted to the enlargements of the Indian Missions. To secure this, they propose that the General Fund shall still be distributed in the usual proportion amongst the Indian and other Missions of the Society. The Special Fund will be added to India's proportion of the General Fund. By this arrangement the Indian Missions will be greatly enriched, while those of Africa and China, and other parts will not be impoverished. It is hoped, also, that only a small portion of the Special Fund need be applied to repairing the loss of Missionary buildings. The far larger part will be employed in sending out men; the Committee feeling assured that the liberality of the church in future years will provide for the support of as many as they can send out, if only they be men devoted to their Master's work.

In the location of Missionaries who may be assigned to India, the Committee do not propose, as their first object, to open new Missions; but rather to strengthen and complete those which promise well. One strong Mission, they are persuaded, is better than several weak ones. There should be at each central station a sufficient staff of men, first to maintain an effective pastoral superintendence over native converts; secondly, to carry on education to its crowning point, a training Institution for Native Teachers; thirdly, to undertake a thorough district itinerant preaching to the heathen.

In respect of new stations in India, as soon as the Society are able to establish them, the Committee regard themselves as pledged in the first instance to the kingdom of Oude.

Here the Committee must close. They have pointed to the open doors—to the inviting fields of labour, not only white to the harvest, but where the harvest is now falling under the sickle of reapers already on the field. They have given abundant testimony that the Lord has gone out before the Missionary band, to prepare their way, and to meet and bless them upon their arrival. They have especially appealed for India. The funds are being liberally supplied. They now appeal for men. Year by year have the Committee, at their Anniversary Meetings, made this appeal; and they thank God that there has been a gradual increase of Missionary candidates. But the Committee feel that the work has far outgrown this gradual supply, and that it needs at once a great company of preachers. They therefore invite to more general and fervent prayer, that the Lord may so revive his work at home, that his Church may both furnish an adequate supply of men, able to endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ, and willing to go forth for his name's sake; and also an adequate supply of such as esteem it their great privilege to be fellow-helpers to the truth by contributing to the support of those who go forth to preach it.

Let England furnish such a supply, both of men and means, and she will be no loser by it. For, "Prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it. And all nations shall call you blessed, for ye shall be a delightsome land, saith the Lord of Hosts." (Mal. iii. 10. 12.)

APPENDIX I.

(See p. 28.)

STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY UPON THE INDIAN CRISIS.

THE Committee beg to lay before this Special Meeting a brief statement of the measures which they have already adopted in reference to the crisis in India, as well as of those which they propose to adopt, when that land, through the mercy of God, shall have been restored to tranquillity.

On the approach of the day of public humiliation, appointed by Her Most Gracious Majesty, the Committee put forth a Minute, Sept. 1857, on the Christian aspect of the Indian Crisis. Having had the largest share in the efforts hitherto made for evangelizing India, they are acquainted with the obstructions which impede the attainment of their object. These obstructions have partly arisen from the course of Government, partly from the apathy of the church. An overwhelming national calamity has now awakened the church; and it has made "India" a great national question, not a mere problem for statesmen or military commanders. Christian men must not shrink from the responsibility imposed by the British Constitution upon all good citizens, of sharing the faults or shortcomings of the Government. The Committee, therefore, felt themselves called upon to deal with the religious question of India in all its breadth, as respects—

First.—The influence of Government upon the progress of Christianity.

Thirdly.—The need of enlarged Missionary operations.

I. The views of the Committee on the Christian duty of the Government of India have been embodied in a Memorial to the Queen, and in an accompanying Explanatory Statement. The Committee do not propose the Memorial for adoption to the present Meeting; for they conceive that its weight will depend upon the well-considered judgment of each person who signs it, rather than upon numbers. They trust that the friends and supporters of Missions throughout the country will study this great question; and that, by petitions to Parliament, and by communications with their representatives, they will help to secure a more Christian policy in the future government of British India.

II. The second division of the Indian question, under its Christian aspect, is the vernacular education of the masses of the population. If the next generation is to be raised above the dark and cruel level of their forefathers,—if their minds are to be prepared in any degree for appreciating the value of the truth when presented to them,—if faithful native officials are to be raised up,—an improved system of vernacular education must be introduced. Upon the usual calculation, from fifteen to twenty millions of heathen and Mohammedan children should be brought under education. Such a gigantic undertaking is far beyond the power of Missionary Societies, if their means were increased a thousandfold. The Government is alone capable of effectually undertaking the education of the masses; and it is a cause of much gratitude to God, that, in their late educational despatch, the Government of India has acknowledged the obligation, and has, in many provinces, already accomplished great improvements in secular instruction. But it is still required that the Bible should be introduced into Government Schools, before they can confer moral benefits, or ameliorate the national character.

In the department of education the Government may reasonably expect the aid and co-operation of Missionary Societies, especially in the training up of Native-Christian Schoolmasters, in the translation of elementary school-books, and in the provision of a vernacular Christian literature. As all Protestant and Evangelical Missionary Societies are equally interested in these objects, and might with great advantage co-operate for their accomplishment, the Committee put forth a suggestion, in their Minute, Sept. 1857, which they have now to announce has been adopted. An independent Society for these particular objects has been formed, under the joint auspices of the several great Missionary Societies of this metropolis—The Christian Vernacular Education Society for India. The Committee are persuaded that the work of vernacular education can be best accomplished by a Society wholly devoted to this one object, and they rejoice to regard it as a common ground of co-operation for the different sections of the Christian Church.

III. The Committee, having thus dealt with the more general questions connected with the progress of Christianity in India, address themselves to the duties belonging to their more special province of Missionary agency; and beg to lay before this Meeting a few points, of special importance, bearing upon the discharge of these duties.

1. They entertain, in common with the conductors of all other Missionary Societies, the solemn conviction that God has called the Christian Church, by his late dispensations, to new and greatly enlarged efforts for the conversion of India; and has opened a wider door than ever for its accomplishment. The same conviction rests upon the minds of Missionary labourers abroad. At a Conference lately held by the Missionaries of this Society labouring in Bengal, the following expression of their opinion was unanimously adopted:—

“On reviewing the whole circumstances of this awful visitation of God’s wrath, which they are constrained to confess the sins of Europeans in this country may have helped to provoke, the brethren do not give way to any feelings of despondency in looking forward to the future and ultimate success of their labours. On the contrary, they perceive many reasons for hope and encouragement, and many inducements to press forward in faith and hope. They feel more urgently than ever the need of redoubled efforts on the part of God’s people, both here and in England, to diffuse the knowledge of the Gospel through this land. Especially when it is considered that this rebellion, unspeakably disastrous as it is, is likely to break down some of the most formidable barriers to the free course of the Gospel: not the least of these is the system of caste.”

2. The Committee feel bound to notice an inquiry which has been sometimes made with no friendly intentions, What success have Indian Missions as yet achieved? Under ordinary circumstances, in such a meeting as the present, it would be superfluous to notice this inquiry. But every question connected with India must now be sifted to the bottom; and therefore those who desire to be fully informed upon this point, are referred to two pamphlets, entitled “The Results of Missionary Labours in India,” and “The Statistics of Indian Missions,” compiled in 1852 by the Rev. Mr. Mullens,* an experienced and able Missionary in Calcutta, published on the spot, and subjected to the careful revision of a Missionary Conference. The Committee will quote but one sentence of these documents—

“A complete inquiry into the statistics of Christian Missions in Hindústan exhibits those Missions as occupying a higher position, and as being blessed with larger fruits, than previous researches had ever before shown, or their warmest friends had ever anticipated.”†

3. The present crisis has not only brought out the genuine Christian character of the native converts, and tested their fidelity, but it has also exhibited the estimation in which they are held even by their unconverted countrymen. The largest body of native converts are in South India, and they, upon the breaking out of the mutiny, nobly professed their loyalty, and offered their aid to the Governor of Madras in any way in which their agency could be employed at this crisis. The native Christians of Kishnagurh, in Bengal, exhibited the same spirit. In the North-west Provinces there were, at the time of the outbreak, between 2000 and 3000 native Christians, connected with different Missionary Societies, scattered in various stations; and, to the praise of † Statistics, p. 6.

God's grace, it is reported that, as a body, they have stood firm to their God, and to their allegiance to the Queen. They have shared everywhere the same losses and the same sufferings, even to martyrdom, with European Christians. It has not yet been ascertained that more than a few individuals amongst them have been induced by fear to renounce their Christian religion; while at Bareilly and Futehgurh, 100 are said to have perished with the Europeans. At Delhi, a native preacher, Waylayat Ali, a Mohammedan convert, suffered nobly for Christ under a cruel death. At Amritsar a native pastor, Daoud, a converted Sikh, was living in the midst of an excited population, who abused the native Christians, and warned them that their days were numbered. Upon his being invited to remove to a place of safety, he magnanimously replied that he would rather die in his house than flee, as he daily exhorted the people not to fear them who can kill the body, but to fear God. At Allahabad a native preacher, Gopenath Nundy, the companion in suffering of Ensign Cheek, endured cruel torments with unshaken fidelity, sustaining himself by repeating the verses, "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." (Matt. v. 11, 12.)

In other districts, converts exposed to the rage of mutineers have found protection with their heathen countrymen.

Two catechists of this Society were located in a village twelve miles from Benares, in the midst of a heathen population. When the whole surrounding country was scoured by plunderers and murderers, the Missionaries at Benares invited those two catechists to come in to them for safety. But the villagers remonstrated against their leaving, and pledged themselves to their defence; and they have continued their peaceful labours throughout the revolt.

At Gorruckpur this Society has a Christian village comprising 200 native Christians, with a church and schools. The Government thought it right, from its proximity to Oude, to remove all the Europeans and the treasure to other stations. A Hindú rajah came forward and guaranteed the protection and safe custody of the Christian village, and of all the Mission property: a written list was signed by himself, and given to the Missionary upon his departure, that all might be delivered up again safely when the troubles should be over. The Station of Gorruckpur was immediately occupied by Oude mutineers, and the green flag unfurled upon the Residency. But the native Christians remained for many weeks in safety in their village, till the Mohammedan officer at Gorruckpur drove them away.

The fidelity of the native Christians has also given them a new position in the sight of Europeans in India. Their help has been earnestly sought by those who had been deserted by their heathen attendants in their hour of need. The local authorities at Benares and Agra have invited them to enlist as policemen, and as gunners; and in the Punjab a Commissioner has invited into the public service, in his department, any who may be qualified for admission.

4. The Committee have reason to thank God, that though much of the property of the Society has been destroyed, not one of their Missionaries has perished. They sympathize with their elder sister, the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, in the loss of her valued sons; and with other Societies so afflicted. They admire the faith in which those bereaved Societies have appealed for fresh candidates to be "baptized for the dead;" but in their own case they trust that motives of gratitude to the God who has preserved the lives of their brethren may also prevail for the increase of their ranks.

5. When to the prospects abroad is added the consideration of the present awakened zeal of the church at home in favour of Indian Missions, a ground is laid for bright anticipations of future results, if only the adequate means be supplied for enlarged Missionary operations.

The Committee humbly trust that men will not be waiting for the work. They have lately received an increase of Missionary candidates. They believe that this supply has been granted in answer to prayer; and they would earnestly repeat the appeal, often addressed to their friends and supporters on such occasions as the present, to bear continually the need of additional labourers on their hearts before the Lord of the harvest.

The hopes of Missions centre in native agency, under European superintendence; and now the quality of such an agency may be "known and read of all men." The proofs of the genuineness of native Christianity, which have been already cited, are encouraging, if viewed only as the results of past Missionary labour. That a large proportion of the converts are infirm and immature Christians is confessed by all. But many bright exceptions there are; and these are the staple from which native teachers may be obtained.

6. Lastly, on the present solemn and important occasion, in humble dependence upon the presence of Christ, promised specially to the Missionary exertions of his church, the Committee state their belief that the time is come when the evangelization of the whole of India may be proposed to the Protestant Christians of Europe and America as an object to be aimed at, or at least to be kept in view, in laying out all future plans of operation.

Hitherto the efforts of Christendom on behalf of India have been few and feeble. There is not more than one European Missionary to half-a-million of its inhabitants. Vast tracts of country, comprising many millions of souls, have never heard the sound of the Gospel. Not one in a thousand of India's sons and daughters has embraced the faith of Christ.

The Committee rejoice in the fact that more than twenty Protestant Missionary Societies of Europe and America have directed their efforts to India. The Lord has given spiritual blessings to all; thus owning their labourers as sent forth by Himself. Though each Society may follow its own form of discipline, each presents to the natives, as the "pearl of great price," our common salvation. There is no difficulty in the native mind in recognising the essential unity of the church of Christ, under the strong contrast and the essential difference between the true and false religions. The future of the native church may well be left in the hands of the great Shepherd and

Bishop of souls. Let the preaching of the faith of Christ throughout all India be but the first great object. Let it be entered upon with renewed vigour in the name of the Lord, and in the spirit of harmony and Christian sympathy, by all Protestant and Evangelical Christians, as the special work of this day and generation.

The Committee, for their part, will anxiously consider how they may best dispense the additional means which may be placed at their disposal. They will review the map of Indian Missions, both in reference to the labours of other Societies, and also in reference to the most influential races, and the most commanding situations of India.

On the present occasion, the Committee will refer only to the North-west Provinces as the disturbed districts of India. Many stations in these districts need immediate help. Additional labourers are required at Gorruckpur, on the confines of Oude; at Bhagulpur, with its Santhal tribes; at Jubbulpur, for Central India; in the Punjab, at Amritsar, Peshawur, and Multan. The claims of the Punjab upon England's gratitude will be allowed by acclamation. The Society also stands pledged to extend its Missions into Oude, both by the acceptance of an offer of £1000 for the first Missionary sent there; and, in a far higher degree, by the earnest invitation of one of India's noblest statesmen and heroes, the late Sir Henry Lawrence. It was he who prompted the Society to send its Missionaries into the Punjab upon his first settlement of the country; he generously contributed to their support; and he desired that the Society's Missionaries might enter Oude concurrently with the establishment of his own Civil Government. The Missionary occupation of Oude is now become doubly incumbent upon this Society, when that province shall be given back to British authority.

While the Committee contemplate the extension of their Missions, they will not lose sight of an equally important principle, namely, to keep up the strength of a Mission. Experience has shown that each Missionary Station, to be effective, must be well manned. Several Missionaries must be attached to central stations, that all the departments of Missionary labour, such as pastoral work, educational establishments, Missionary itinerancy, may be sustained amidst the uncertainties of an Indian climate.

Such are the grounds on which the Society pleads for a Special Indian Fund. If the enterprise is to be taken up on the principles already suggested, a large annual increase of funds will be required. The Committee thankfully acknowledge many encouraging promises of support which they have already received. They will need, however, the continuance of such support from year to year. They will need contributions from the wealthier classes, as they have long received them from the poorer classes—weekly, monthly, quarterly contributions, as the Lord prospers them. All will depend, under God, upon the response which the friends of the Society will make to this appeal, towards the realization of the blessed prospects now opening before its Indian Missions.

Let the words of the prophet of old be our encouragement—"Thus saith the Lord, the maker thereof, the Lord that formed it, to establish it; the Lord is his name; Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and shew thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest not." (Jer. xxxiii. 2, 3.)

SPECIAL APPEAL FOR INDIA.

THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY lay the following Appeal for Funds, IN AID OF THE EXTENSION OF THEIR INDIAN MISSIONS, before their Friends and supporters throughout the country. And in so doing, they only give expression to the desire that has already reached them from many parts of England, and has been even now anticipated by various liberal donations already transmitted to them for that purpose.

To have made this Appeal, however, at an earlier period, would have been premature. The Committee, in their recent Minute on India, explained that they would not then urge any special pecuniary effort, because they were desirous in no way to interfere with the Indian Sufferers' Relief Fund, which has now received such large and universal support, that they feel at liberty to go forward. They were also desirous to give the first place to their Memorial to Her Majesty. The vindication of the principles therein contained, and the consequent removal of existing obstacles in the way of Missionary effort, appeared to them essential to the success of future measures for the evangelization of India.

The mutiny has swept through districts occupied by various Missionary bodies. The Committee deeply sympathize with those Societies, which, at Delhi, Cawnpur, Futtehgurh, Bareilly, and Sealcote, have to deplore the massacre of at least ten of their agents in the indiscriminate slaughter of Europeans; while they acknowledge with unfeigned thankfulness to a merciful Providence, that their own Missionary brethren, though surrounded by imminent danger, have been hitherto preserved in the midst of this terrible outbreak. At Mirut, where the revolt first commenced, in the North-west Provinces, as also at Juanpur, our Missionaries were delivered amidst the destruction of our Mission premises. At Jubbulpur, and at Benares, prompt measures arrested the designs of the mutineers; whilst at the latter place Mr. Leupolt rendered essential service to the English troops, as the estimation in which he was held by the surrounding villagers enabled him to act, like Schwartz in the early days of British India, as a temporary commissary, and to procure for our forces the necessary supplies, which would otherwise have been withheld. At Agra, five of our Missionaries found refuge in the beleaguered fort of whose deliverance we have just received the tidings. After the first battle in front of the city, 800 native Christians presented themselves at one of the fort gates, and having, after some natural suspicion, obtained admission there, performed the duties of servants to the English refugees, when their heathen domestics deserted.

The preservation of every member of our band of Missionaries calls loudly for a thankoffering to Him whose hand has shielded them from the bloody and deceitful man. But as the labours of the Church Missionary Society are the most extensive Missionary labours within the disturbed districts, so its pecuniary losses have been the largest. The destroyed Mission property has been estimated at not less than 32,000*l*. At Mírut, Azimgurh, Juanpur, and Gorruckpur, their Mission bungalows have been plundered and burnt, their school-houses destroyed, and their churches injured; whilst at Agra—the centre of their operations in that district of India—five Missionaries' bungalows have been plundered and burnt; a large Christian village containing 200 houses has been burnt to the ground; the churches have been damaged; the English college dismantled; and, in the suburb of Secundra, the largest printing-press in India, with types, machinery lithographic stones, and stores of paper, utterly destroyed.

Besides these losses, the Committee are constrained to anticipate a serious, and, for the present, almost total, defalcation in the local funds received and expended in Northern India. For several years past these local contributions, upon which the Committee set a high value, as testifying to the estimation in which the Society is held by men who have the opportunity of judging of its operations on the spot, have averaged 8000*l*. or 10,000*l*. a year. In 1854, they amounted to 12,693*l*. Such contributions defrayed almost the entire charge of their Missions in the Punjab. The tranquillity of those districts during the recent revolt, in which, with the countenance and encouragement of the highest local authorities, Missions were commenced simultaneously with the British occupation, contributed mainly to the crushing of the Sepoy rebellion. On these local funds the Committee cannot for some time hence calculate. Many of the former contributors have lost their all; many are numbered with the dead. The gallant Sir Henry Lawrence was a liberal patron of the Society's labours. A civilian, who wished only to be known as "A Sinner," was in the habit of transmitting a monthly donation of 40*l*. to the Society's Missions, and he has perished in the recent troubles.

It is not, however, for the repair of past losses, or the rebuilding of material churches or schools, that the Committee chiefly appeal to their Friends and supporters. They appeal to them for a prolonged effort, to be sustained by settled Christian principle long after the present excitement is past, for the evangelization of that great country, of which the King of kings has put England in trust. The best memorial of the crisis will be the living temple of regenerated India. The Committee propose to open AN ANNUAL FUND for the extension of their Missions in India. They thankfully acknowledge the donations which have reached them; but periodical subscriptions, on a scale commensurate to the occasion, can alone enable them to discharge their duty adequately to India. Let Christians, in the spirit of self-sacrifice, in the strength of God, after the example of their Master and only Saviour, arise to the discharge of the duty to which a voice from heaven is so plainly calling them. Let the rich give as the poor do, weekly or monthly, "as God has prospered them," and in due proportion to their larger means. Our present efforts for the evangelization of India are painfully feeble. There is not more than one Christian Missionary to half-a-million of the people of Hindústan. Two-thirds of the Missionary Stations in the British territories of India are even now not twenty years old; yet the simple word of God has proved mighty in the hands of his servants, and there are now in India at least 112,000 native Christian converts, who have definitively renounced idolatry, more than 20,000 of whom are communicants. Enough has been achieved to prove that complete success is certain, if only adequate means are employed, and the divine blessing bestowed upon them.

Delhi, Mírut, Agra, Rohilcund, Allahabad, and Benares,)—the district which has been the focus of the recent rebellion —the density of the population reaches its highest point, namely, 420 to the square mile, a population of thirty millions and a quarter being comprehended within an area of 72,054 square miles. Only 46 Missionaries of all Protestant denominations are labouring amongst these masses, and only 13 of this number belong to the Church Missionary Society. Yet they reckon at Agra, 800 native Christians; at Benares, 300; at Gorruckpur, 200; at Mírut, 130 more. The scholars in the Schools amount to 2300. Let us thank God and take courage to go on.

Those who have traced the course of the Society during the fifty-seven years of its eventful history, have marked the hand of Divine Providence enabling it from time to time to meet extraordinary calls, and to put forth extraordinary efforts.
On the renewal of the East-India Company's Charter in 1813, India was first thrown open to Protestant Missionaries.
In five years from that date the Society's supply of men and means increased nearly ninefold. An Indian crisis has now once more arrived, such as we have never seen before, and, it is hoped, may never see again. All previous events seem to shrink into insignificance before it. It is unparalleled in the history, not merely of England, but of Europe. God has spoken to us in language that cannot be mistaken.
The cruelty and pollution of the dark places of the earth have been laid bare before our eyes. We are admonished of the sin of a century of neglect. May we "hear the rod, and who hath appointed it?"

The Committee are deeply impressed with the magnitude and solemnity of the present conjuncture. They feel persuaded that unprecedented facilities are now presented for the entrance of the Gospel of peace. They are prepared to revise the whole system of their Missions in Northern India, which has been dislocated by the recent convulsions. Their stations at Peshawur, Múltan, Amritsar, Mírut, Agra, Jubbulpur, Gorruckpur,

Juanpur, Benares, Bhagulpur, Burdwan, Kishnagurh, Santipur, and Calcutta, are so many centres for Missionary action, with vast power of immediate expansion.
They are resolved to prosecute this great enterprise on a new scale of comprehensiveness and vigour. They appeal therefore earnestly to the junior clergy, to the Universities, to all ranks and orders of the community, for the MEN to carry forward the work. They ask also the fervent prayers, the warm-hearted charity, the lasting self-denial, of the Christian Church at large. Let us contemplate nothing less than that, in our own day and generation, by God's help and blessing, India may become Christian; a mighty enterprise, but not too great for Him who loved us, and gave Himself for us; who makes his people willing in the day of his power; and who hath declared that when His "judgments are abroad in the earth, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness."

NOTICE TO TREASURERS AND SECRETARIES OF ASSOCIATIONS.

THE Committee of the Church Missionary Society request the Treasurers or Secretaries of Associations to transmit to the Society's House in Salisbury Square, as soon after the 31st of December as possible, the Contribution Lists and Accounts of their respective Associations, made up in the manner in which the same are printed in the Parent Society's Report. The names of the present Officers and the date at which the Accounts of the Association are closed should be specified. Where the Account or the List is a printed one, two copies should be forwarded.

The Society's General Accounts are closed on the 31st of March, and all Moneys and Lists belonging to the year must be received at the Society's House by that date, in order to the Lists being inserted in the Report.

The appending to the Annual Report of the Lists and Accounts of the Associations is a general acknowledgment to the Local Contributors that their Contributions have been received by the Parent Society; and the Committee are desirous of preventing the dissatisfaction which they are aware is occasioned by the omission of the Lists in the Report in consequence of the Money or the List having been received after date, and too late for insertion.

Where an Association has Branches connected with it, it is manifest that the Accounts of the Branches must be forwarded to the Secretary of the Association some time before the period for forwarding the Accounts of the Association to London. When this is not done within a reasonable time, such Branches should be considered as self-excluded, and the Accounts forwarded without them.

To prevent mistakes, it is requested that Branch Associations will in every case forward their Money and Lists through the Association with which they are connected, and not direct to the Parent Society.

The Committee return their cordial thanks to the Treasurers of Associations, and to those friends who kindly fill the office of Secretary—an office which, they are well aware, draws largely on the time and attention of those who occupy it, but on the efficient discharge of the duties of which the prosperity of an Association chiefly depends.

** The Committee would be glad to receive information respecting any names in the List of "Benefactions of former Years," which should be expunged, or altered, from death or other causes.

N.B. Benefactors of Ten Pounds and upward, whose Names have appeared in former Lists of the Associations, will now find them in the List of "Benefactions of former Years."
