PROPER FORM OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

No. I.—Form of Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of _____ Pounds free of Legacy duty* for the general purposes of the said Society to be paid within _____ calendar months next after my death, exclusively out of such part of my Personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may be bequeathed for charitable purposes and in priority to all other payments thereout but to be subject to abate proportionably with other Legacies in case my general Personal Estate shall be insufficient for payment of them all in full. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society [or each of the said Societies] shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy [or Legacies respectively].

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue, or a Share of the Residue.

And in order to give full effect to the bequest hereinafter contained for charitable purposes I direct that my Debts, the expenses of my funeral and of the probate and execution of this my Will and the Legacies bequeathed by this my Will or any Codicil thereto† shall be paid out of such part of my personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may not be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the primary Fund‡ and in case only of the same being insufficient for payment thereof then out of such part of my personal Estate as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the ultimate Fund; and subject as aforesaid, I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, for the general purposes of the said Society, such part of my residuary personal Estate as by the Laws in force may be bequeathed for charitable purposes [or if a share only of the residue be intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say, "such sum of money as shall be equal to (one-fourth or one-half, according to the intention) of my whole residuary personal Estate to be paid exclusively out of such part thereof as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes or such less sum as the said last mentioned part of my personal Estate will extend to pay"]. And I declare that the Receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said residue [or sum of money, as the case may be]. And as to the remainder if any of my general residuary personal Estate I bequeath the same &c.§

* If so intended.

† In case there be other charitable Legacies, insert here, "other than and except charitable Legacies."

‡ If it be intended also to charge the Debts and Legacies on real Estate, then add "and in the next place out of my Freehold and Copyhold Estates."

§ The latter Clause to be filled up according to the Testator's wishes; but it must not be for any charitable purpose.

Subsequently suspended for a time.

NAMES OF MISSIONARIES AND OTHER LABOURERS, MAY 1, 1860.

* By MISSIONARY, is to be understood one in Holy Orders; and by CATECHIST, one who engages in such religious care and instruction of the people as may be consistent with his character as a Layman. The letter (m) means Married.—Wives of Missionaries, &c., though not named, except when engaged in some specific employment, are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among Native Females; such as, cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing Female Adults.

A STATION is the place at which a Missionary or European Catechist is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers sent from Europe show the date of their first leaving Europe. The asterisk (*) denotes that the Missionary is on his way out; The mark (†) that he is on his way home.

Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, Clergymen making Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying to the amount of Fifty Pounds, shall be Members for Life.

V. Members and Governors of Associations who contribute the above sums shall be considered as Members and Governors of the Parent Society.

VI. The Committee shall have the power of appointing such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Members for Life, or Governors for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS.

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the First Tuesday in May; unless that day shall fall on the 7th of May, in which case the Annual Meeting shall be held, for that year, on Tuesday the 30th of April; when the Proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and a Treasurer and Committee chosen.

VIII. A Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a Quorum, shall be called at any time, at the requisition of the General Committee; or by any Thirteen Members, on addressing a Letter to the Secretary, specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in Three public Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Rules of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones established, but at the Annual Meeting, or at a Special Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the General Committee. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed, for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The Committee shall consist of Twenty-four Lay Members of the Established Church; and of all such Clergymen as are Members of the Society. Eighteen Members shall be annually appointed from the Old Committee, and Six from the General Body.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds, a Committee of Correspondence, and a Committee of Accounts. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall report the same to the General Committee.

XIII. The office of the Committee of Patronage is, to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate, to the General Committee, proper persons, as Patrons and Vice-Presidents of the Society.

XIV. The office of the Committee of Funds is, to circulate information respecting the Society; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as Agents for the Society in the principal Towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful; the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee; and Three, each of the others. In cases of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XIX. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, and President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, and Secretaries, shall be considered, ex-officio, Members of all Committees.

XX. Governors, being Members of the Established Church, shall be entitled to attend and vote at all Meetings of the General Committee.

XXI. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting.

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee, annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society, of whom, Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued: The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made, by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence, of his qualifications; and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next Meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least Three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a Special Meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot, to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose: respect, however, being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretaries.

XXIX. Each candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. That all questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between any Colonial Bishop and any Committee of the Society, shall be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, whose decision thereupon shall be final.

XXXIII. That the object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as, in any other respect, to alter the principles and practice of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations, and explained in Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Report.

The proposed reference shall be made, through His Grace the Primate, by the Committee, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the Committee may deem advisable; and the Committee will be bound so to refer all questions, falling within the scope of the Rule so understood as aforesaid, which the Colonial Bishop shall require them to refer.

While all decisions of the Bench of Bishops on questions so referred will be considered by the Committee as binding on them and their agents or representatives, the Colonial Bishops or other Ecclesiastical Authorities, unless concurring in the reference, cannot properly be considered as so bound.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The following passage, from Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Annual Report illustrates the practice of the Society in reference to this Rule:—

"The Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] our Missionaries: these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same Colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church."

APPENDIX II. TO THE THIRTY-NINTH REPORT.

REFERRED TO IN THE NOTE TO LAW XXIX.

REMARKS ON THE CONSTITUTION AND PRACTICE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY, WITH REFERENCE TO ITS ECCLESIASTICAL RELATIONS.

It is the object of the following Remarks to show, that the constitution and practice of the Church Missionary Society are in strict conformity with Ecclesiastical principles, as they are recognised in the constitution and practice of the Church of England.

Throughout the system of the Church of England there is a recognised co-operation of temporal and spiritual functions in MATTERS ECCLESIASTICAL; that is, the Laity and Clergy have not only their separate and distinct provinces, but, in many important respects, they unite their agency for the accomplishing of Ecclesiastical acts.

For instance, in supplying a vacant Church, a Lay-Patron selects and presents "his Clerk"—as the Clergyman is technically called—to the Bishop; who thereupon invests him with authority to minister in that Church. So, also, there are certain Lay-officers appointed to every Church—the Churchwardens or Sidesmen—whose duty it is, not only to guard, in conjunction with the Minister, the temporalities of the Church, but also to watch over the due performance of Divine Service, the morals of the parishioners, and the conduct of the Minister; and to report, from time to time, on each of these matters, to the Ecclesiastical Authorities. The duty of these officers is implied in the old appellation, "Sidesmen," or "Synodsmen"—men summoned to attend and give information at Synods and Visitations.

The distinction and co-operation of lay and spiritual functions in the Church of England might be further illustrated in the case of Ecclesiastical Courts, and various relations which arise out of the principle, that the Sovereign is the Supreme Ruler of the Church.

Keeping the foregoing distinction in view, the Church Missionary Society may be regarded as an Institution for discharging the temporal and lay offices necessary for the preaching of the Gospel among the Heathen. It is strictly a Lay Institution: it exercises, as a Society, no spiritual functions whatsoever.

Such being the constitution of the Society in theory—are its proceedings conducted in conformity with this theory, and with the Ecclesiastical principles of the Church of England?

In order to review these proceedings, they may be conveniently arranged under the FOUR following Heads:

I. THE COLLECTION OF THE HOME REVENUE, and THE DISBURSEMENT OF IT ABROAD.

These acts are altogether within the province of Laymen.

II. THE SELECTING AND EDUCATING CANDIDATES FOR MISSIONARY EMPLOYMENT.

In this department there is no necessary encroachments upon spiritual functions. The Colleges in our Universities are Lay-Corporations, and may, in many cases, be administered and presided over by Laymen.

Yet it may be urged, that in this department there is an approach to the peculiar province of Clergymen; because spiritual persons seem the more proper judges of a Candidate's fitness for Missionary employment: and it is generally admitted, that a Bishop may exercise a control over the education and training of Candidates to be advanced by himself to Holy Orders. Now, in both these particulars the Church Missionary Society has carefully guarded its proceedings. The examination of Missionary Candidates is referred to a Clerical Sub-Committee; and the General Committee consult and act upon the report of this Clerical trial and judgment. In respect of the other point, the education and training of Candidates for Holy Orders, the Church Missionary College at Islington has the sanction and approbation of the Bishop of London; who, in this country, admits to Holy Orders all the Society's Candidates: and his Lordship has repeatedly expressed his satisfaction at the results of the system of instruction, as they have been manifested in his examinations for Holy Orders.

III. The Third general head of the Society's proceedings is, THE SENDING FORTH, TO PARTICULAR STATIONS, THE MISSIONARIES THUS ORDAINED, OR OTHER CLERGYMEN WHO HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY ORDAINED.

Now, here an objection against the Society has been founded on the use of the term "sending forth:"—it sounds like an exercise of Ecclesiastical power. But, Ecclesiastically speaking, the Bishop of London "sends forth" every Missionary ordained by him. The Law of the land has sanctioned the Two Archbishops, and the Bishop of London, in ordaining persons to officiate abroad. The Secretary of the Church Missionary Society requests, by Letter, the Bishop of London to ordain, in conformity with the provisions of the Act of Parliament, such and such persons, whom the Society is willing to support in some Foreign Station. The Bishop, by the imposition of hands, gives them authority to preach the Gospel, with a view to their Foreign location.—In the case of persons already in Holy Orders, who may join the Society, they may be said to go forth by their own voluntary act; but their Letters of Orders, given by a Bishop of our Church, are their mission and commission, Ecclesiastically speaking.

Hence, to call the acts of the Church Missionary Society—in selecting the station, paying the passage-money, and agreeing to provide the Missionary's salary—to call these acts a SENDING FORTH of Preachers, in an Ecclesiastical sense, is to confound names with things, and to lose sight of all true Church principles.

IV. The Fourth general head under which the proceedings of the Church Missionary Society may be arranged, is, THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF MISSIONARIES IN THEIR LABOURS AMONG THE HEATHEN.

Here a distinction must be made between the case of those Foreign Stations which lie within the jurisdiction of a Colonial Bishop, and other stations, which are not so situated, and may therefore be termed Extra-diocesan.

In the first case, the Church Missionary Society has expressly determined, that all its ordained Missionaries shall be submitted for licence to the Bishop of the diocese in which they may be stationed; and that no Missionary shall exercise his spiritual functions in such diocese without a licence. The Society has further recognised the uncontrolled discretion of the Bishop to grant or withhold his licence, and the propriety of specifying in such licence a particular district as the field of labour; so that a Missionary cannot be removed from one district to another without the sanction of the Bishop.

These principles were stated in a Letter from the Society to the Bishop of Calcutta, signed by the Right Honourable the President—December 17, 1835—in a manner so satisfactory to the Bishop, that he embodied them in the four following Rules, expressed for the most part in the words of the Society's Letter: which were, at the Bishop's request, entered upon the minutes of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, as the recognised Rules of their practice:—

"1. The Bishop expresses—by granting or withholding his licence, in which the sphere of the Missionary's labour is mentioned—his approbation, or otherwise, of that location.

"2. The Bishop superintends the Missionaries afterward, as the other Clergy, in the discharge of their Ecclesiastical duties.

"3. The Bishop receives from those—the Committee and Secretary—who still stand in the relation of Lay-Patrons to the Missionary, such communications respecting his Ecclesiastical duties as may enable the Bishop to discharge that paternal superintendence to the best advantage.—The Archdeacon of Calcutta or Bombay acting under the Bishop's immediate directions when he happens to be absent.

"4. If the Bishop* or Archdeacon fills, at the request of the Society, the offices of Patron, President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, &c., he receives, further, all such confidential information, on all topics, as the Bishops officially neither could wish nor properly ask [to receive]."

The Bishop also wrote to the Parent Society in the following terms:—"You seem to me to lay down the principle most correctly..... This is to me perfectly satisfactory; as I shall instantly inform the Archbishop of Canterbury, to whom I report all the proceedings of the diocese."—9th June 1836.

It will be perceived, that the Missionaries, thus licensed, stand toward the Bishop in the relation rather of Stipendiary Curates, than of Beneficed Clergymen. For a Bishop in England cannot refuse a license or institution to a benefice, without assigning a reason which will bear investigation before a Court of Common Law; nor can he deprive a Clergyman of his benefice without a judicial process. But no law has provided any such check in the case of Missionaries: the Bishop has the power of withholding a licence, or of withdrawing it, at his sole discretion, without assigning any cause, as in the case of Stipendiary Curates in this country.

If it be asked, What are the checks and safeguards against the undue exercise of this discretionary power of the Bishop?—it may be replied, in the words of the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Parent Society, April 12, 1837:—

"We are not to take for granted, that discretionary power will be abused; but, on the contrary, to provide, by a cheerful and friendly spirit and conduct, against the likelihood of such an occurrence. If the event of arbitrary conduct should arise, or be supposed to arise, the remedies are—public opinion—an appeal to the Archbishop—and the Society's refusing to make other appointments and locations than those unreasonably objected to. Nothing is the least likely—and probability is the guide of life—to arise to impede or cramp the Committee; since they unquestionably and avowedly possess, The choice of men—The appointment of spheres of labour—The temporal power, including pecuniary support."

But though the Bishop's licence is at once the pledge and proof that the Society's Missionaries are under Episcopal superintendence and jurisdiction, and that the spiritual oversight rests altogether with the Bishop; yet the Society may seem, to some persons, to keep up a kind of spiritual jurisdiction and oversight, by requiring accounts from the Missionaries of all their proceedings, and by giving them directions, from time to time, which may bear upon their spiritual duties. But it must be remembered, that the Society stands toward its Missionaries in the relation of Trustees of the fund out of which their salaries are paid. In the case of a Beneficed Clergyman in this country, the Minister is the guardian and possessor of the temporalities of the benefice, because the benefice is an endowment; and the Patron has no further connexion with the Minister whom he has once presented to the Bishop. In our case, the office of Patron is, in a sense, perpetuated by the payment of the salary, and the possession of all the temporalities of the Mission.

This matter has been well explained by the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, May 26, 1837:—"The Missionary Committees," says his Lordship, "have a far greater latitude in India than any Lay-Patrons at home. Upon presenting his Clerk to the Bishop, the Patron at home is functus officio. The Clergyman is removed, on being once instituted and licensed, totally and for ever from the Patron, and is transferred to the superintendency of the Bishop. The Patron has nothing whatever more to do with him. But in India, the Committee is (1) the continued paymaster of the Missionary after he is duly licensed;—for institution and induction there are none. (2) They correspond with him. (3) They supply him with Catechists. (4) They report his chief proceedings home. (5) They propose removals and changes of Station to the Bishop. (6) They exercise, unavoidably, an influence which does not belong to the mere Lay-Patron; and are aiding, in a variety of ways, to the comfortable and honourable discharge of the Missionary's most exalted and most spiritual duties."

It remains to consider the case of those Stations which are Extra-diocesan; i.e. where there is no Colonial Bishop of the Church of England having jurisdiction over them.

In these cases, the Society has endeavoured to procure for such Stations the benefits of the Episcopal office from the nearest Bishop of the Church of England. Application was made by the Committee both to the late and to the present Bishop of Madras, to extend, as far as circumstances would admit, these benefits to the Mission of Travancore; which, as an independent state, not forming part of the British Dominions, was not included in the diocese of Madras. A similar application was made on behalf of the New-Zealand Mission, to the Bishop of Australia; who at once acceded to the request, and kindly promised to visit New Zealand as soon as his other duties would permit; stating, in a Letter to the Society's representatives at Sydney, "It is highly satisfactory to me, that our friends at home are taking a view of these things which proves them to belong, not only to a MISSIONARY, but also to a CHURCH Society." (See Annual Report, 1838.)

Such is a General View of the Constitution and Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society.

It is not intended to assert, that errors are not sometimes committed in the application of these principles to matters of detail. It must be remembered that Missionary operations are, alas! new and anomalous in the system of the Church of England; and that it is not always easy to draw a definite line between the two provinces which belong respectively to the Bishop and the Committee. It has been observed by the Bishop of Calcutta—Letter, May 26, 1837: "The boundaries of the power of Committees, as they approach to those of the Bishop, can be ascertained, in many points, only by time and observation." Perplexities have consequently occurred; and, unhappily, misunderstandings have sometimes arisen between the Representatives of the Society abroad and Ecclesiastical Authorities. But these are the principles by which the Home Committee have endeavoured to guide the proceedings of the Society: and they confidently respond to a sentiment expressed by the Bishop of Calcutta—"The principles of our new relations are now fully recognised: the details will soon find their level."—Letter, 9th June 1836.

In reviewing the Ecclesiastical relations of the Church Missionary Society, there are two or three points which it seems very important to notice.

1. Missionary operations, as they are conducted by the Church Missionary Society, though apparently anomalous in the system of the Church of England, are yet in strict conformity with its constitution and principles: they are analogous to many other instances of voluntary exertion for the extension of true religion within the Church, in which Ecclesiastical authority and Lay co-operation unite for the accomplishment of the same end: so that these operations may be regarded as the acts of the Church of England, putting forth its energy for the Conversion of the Heathen World. For it has been shown, that the Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth our Missionaries—that these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church. Even in the few cases in which Lutheran Clergymen are employed, this rule is observed; and all the congregations which are gathered into the fold of Christ are trained up as Members of the Church established in this land.

And here it may be observed, that nothing less than the sanction of a duly-assembled Convocation can more fully identify the acts of any Missionary Society, within the Church of England, with the Church.* Without such sanction, all associations of Churchmen must stand in the same position. Still further, not to notice the present abeyance of Convocations, it may be asserted, that even if the Church were to assemble in her provincial Convocations, and to decree and to regulate Missionary operations, such proceedings could not essentially add to, or alter, those important particulars which, under present circumstances, entitle the operations of the Church Missionary Society to be regarded as Missionary operations of the United Church of England and Ireland.

2. It must be ever borne in mind, that Missionary operations are, in their very nature, temporary and preparative:—that they are to be gradually but eventually superseded by a different order of things, when the Heathen Nations shall have become Christianized. In some cases, as in the West Indies, this change is further advanced than in others. Now, it must be expected, that in proportion as this change advances, difficulties and perplexities will arise in our Ecclesiastical relations, peculiar to this TRANSITION STATE—from Missionary operations, to that happy consummation when there shall be an endowed and established system of Christian Instruction, and a territorial division of Ministerial labour.

* The American Episcopal Church has, in Convention, thus identified itself with a Missionary Society.

February, 1839.

This consummation the Church Missionary Society has ever kept in view, and devoutly desired; and, as far as possible, has prepared for its approach. In an interview with the Bishop of Barbadoes—April 1835—this point was expressly alluded to; and it was stated by the Committee to his Lordship, "that whenever a district should be brought into the state of an organized Christian community, it should assume entirely the Parochial form, and cease to be occupied as a Missionary Station.—The Bishop entirely acquiesced in this view; and only expressed his anxiety that it should not be so acted upon as prematurely to deprive a district of the Missionary's services."—(Extracts from Committee's Minute.)

3. Lastly, it must be evident, from a review of the whole subject, that our Ecclesiastical relations depend, in many important respects, upon a mutual confidence and good understanding between the Committee and its representatives, and the Ecclesiastical Authorities both at home and abroad. This must be the case, to argue upon no higher grounds, while those relations are governed by Ecclesiastical laws and canons made without reference to Missionary operations, for an Established Church in a Christian country; and where so much is also necessarily left to the discretion of both parties. If we look to our Home operations, the Committee places confidence in the Bishop of London, that he will continue to ordain the Missionary Candidates introduced to his Lordship by the Society, according to the provisions of the Act: and the Lord Bishop of London relies upon the Committee's using every means to select, train, and duly qualify proper Candidates to be thus introduced to him.

So, also, in its Foreign operations, the Society places confidence in the Colonial Bishops—as it has been already shown, in a quotation from the Letter of Bishop Wilson—that they will not exercise an unreasonable or arbitrary discretion, in withholding or withdrawing licences from our Missionaries, or in refusing ordination to our Candidates. And the Bishops, by granting licences and ordination to the Missionaries of a voluntary Society, whose income is liable to fluctuations, and whose agents are constantly changing, manifestly place confidence in the Committees, that they will use every endeavour to keep up the Missions once established; and that they will not, on their part, act in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner, or withdraw the salary from a licensed Missionary, without reason sufficient to prove to the licensing Bishop the necessity of the proceedings.

It seems impossible to supersede this conventional understanding—as it may be termed—till Missions are supported by endowments, or till a code of Missionary canons be established by competent authority.

This mutual confidence and good understanding now exists, it may be thankfully asserted, between the Committee of the Society and the Ecclesiastical Authorities of every Colonial Diocese in which Missionaries are labouring. And may He, who is the God, not of confusion, but of peace, and "the great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls," unite together the hearts and hands of those who are labouring in this Holy Cause—"that all and every of these may, IN THEIR SEVERAL CALLINGS, serve truly and pain-fully, to the glory of His name!"

At the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Exeter Hall, Strand, on Tuesday, May the 1st, 1860, being the Sixty-first Anniversary.

The Right Hon. the EARL OF CHICHESTER, President, in the Chair,

THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE HAVING BEEN READ BY THE REV. JOHN VENN, M.A., PREBENDARY OF HEREFORD,

On the Motion of the LORD BISHOP OF WINCHESTER, V.P., seconded by ABEL SMITH, Esq., V.P., it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report, of which an Abstract has now been read, be received, and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of the Meeting be given to the Rev. H. V. Elliott, for his Sermon before the Society last evening; to His Grace the Vice-Patron; to the Right Hon. the President and the Vice-Presidents; and to all those friends who, during the past year, have exerted themselves in its behalf; and that the following Gentlemen be appointed the Committee for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies—[See List, p. iv.]

On the Motion of LIEUTENANT-COLONEL HERBERT EDWARDES, C.B., seconded by the REV. C. F. COBB, M.A., Missionary from Benares, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting desires humbly to acknowledge the duty of this nation to use increased efforts for imparting to India the blessings of Christianity. They rejoice in the labours of all Protestant Societies engaged in the benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and they trust that the Indian Government will fulfil the obligations solemnly recognised by the Imperial Parliament, of promoting "the interest and happiness of the native inhabitants of the British dominions in India," by the adoption of "such measures as may tend to the introduction among them of religious and moral improvement."

On the Motion of the Very REV. the DEAN OF CARLISLE, V.P., seconded by the REV. EMILIUS BAYLEY, Rector of St. George's, Bloomsbury, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting desires to express its humble thanks to Almighty God, for the success which He has granted to the Society's endeavours in many lands to establish a Native Ministry and Training Institutions for Scriptural Vernacular Education; and they desire to acknowledge their sole dependence upon the grace of the Holy Spirit to make these a sure foundation of a Native-Christian church, and the superstructure an holy temple in the Lord.

The last Resolution was intended to have been moved by the Lord Bishop of Sierra Leone, V.P., and seconded by the Rev. Canon Miller, but from want of time, was put to the Meeting with the third Resolution, and adopted, namely—

That while this Meeting deeply sympathizes with the Sierra Leone Mission in its late bereavements, and while they bow with submission to the Divine will, they humbly rejoice in its spiritual successes as a proof of the Divine favour, and as the result of God's blessing on the preaching of a full and free Gospel, and on the spirit of self-sacrifice in the preachers, which have ever characterized, and they trust ever will characterize, this and every other Mission of the Society.

PHILIPPIANS I, 12.

“ I WOULD YE SHOULD UNDERSTAND, BRETHREN, THAT THE THINGS WHICH HAPPENED UNTO ME HAVE FALLEN OUT RATHER UNTO THE FURTHERANCE OF THE GOSPEL.”

By the expression, “ the things which happened unto me,” we may suppose that the Apostle referred to the circumstances which led to his imprisonment at Rome, and those which accompanied it when he was actually a prisoner in that city. They were very different circumstances—those at Jerusalem, which led to his imprisonment, and those at Rome. But in each of these critical positions, we have fine lights thrown on the character of the Apostle as the model of all true Missionaries; with Missionary lessons springing up plentifully out of the events which befell him in both places; and clear testimonies to the over-ruling care and truth of the great Head of the Church. Prophesying of the amplitude of the Gentile Church by Isaiah (liv. 17) He had pledged himself to this promise! “No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper, and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment shalt thou condemn.” And now most faithfully did He make it good to St. Paul, when his experience proved that there is nothing which sharpens the weapon, or provokes the tongue of the enemy, more than the Church’s Missionary operations.

The subject, therefore, I hope, is strictly appropriate to the solemn occasion which brings us together this evening. And may the Holy Spirit be with us, Christian brethren, and especially with me, in my weakness and incompetency, while I attempt to place the argument before you.

PART THE FIRST—ST. PAUL AT JERUSALEM AND CÆSAREA.

And first, as it is presented by the Apostle’s last visit to Jerusalem, which was the proximate cause of his imprisonment at Rome. The real cause, we know, was the extreme animosity of the Jews against him as the great preacher to the Gentiles of salvation by the faith of Christ, and of their freedom from the ceremonial law of Moses. For the Jews could not endure that any other door of the divine favour should be opened to mankind except the door of Judaism. His signal Missionary successes, therefore, appeared to them, not as the glorious triumph of their Messiah according to their own Prophets, and a new and blessed era of their Church, but as the invasion of their national privileges by their own countryman—a trampling under foot of their holiest rites and symbols by a Jew—a parricidal assault on the faith of their forefathers. In this exasperated state of mind, his presence in the Temple at the feast of Pentecost, and the rumour that he had introduced into it his Gentile friends to pollute it, supplied the spark which set the whole city in a flame. Rushing into the Temple, the people dragged the sacrilegious wretch, as they deemed him, out of it, and shut the doors. In a few minutes more they would have killed him, if the chief captain, alarmed at the uproar, had not at that moment run down with a strong body of soldiers, who by main force rescued him out of their hands, and then bore him up the castle steps in their arms, while the crowd still pressed hard after him, crying, as they had cried against one holier than St. Paul, “Away with him! away with him!”

“Preach the word; be instant, in season, out of season,” was the exhortation of the Apostle to his pupil and son in the Gospel. How did he act himself? Let those castle-stairs for his pulpit, and that infuriated and bloodthirsty mob for his audience, bear witness—upon whom he turned, having gained the chief captain’s permission, and faced them; and when he had awed them by his undaunted courage and gestures into silence—deep silence—preached to them, in the Hebrew tongue, Jesus of Nazareth. And while that silence lasted, he had time to relate to them the wonderful story of his conversion, and his baptism by Ananias in the name of Jesus, for the remission of his sins. The theatre of Ephesus had no peril like this scene at Jerusalem. What a Missionary did it require! what perfect self-possession! what courage! what zeal for Christ! what pity and forgiving love for Israel!

Sometimes Missionaries have these magnificent opportunities. But they require singular qualifications, and no common grace. None who witnessed the castle-stair address could ever forget the scene. As for St. Paul, who was carried by God through it so admirably, it had been the early, the long, the fervent desire of his heart, that he might be permitted to preach Christ to his brethren the Jews in Jerusalem. When first he laid it before the Lord, his request was refused. Now it was granted to him; but in a very limited measure, and for the first and last time; for his discourse to the people from the castle-stairs was violently cut short before it was half finished; and when it was resumed the next day, before a more select assembly of the Chief Priests and the Council, his first sentence was ordered by the High Priest to be punished by a blow on the mouth. So the meeting of the hierarchy terminated as abruptly, and with as much wild confusion and bloodthirsty violence, as the previous meeting of the populace. Nay, the first audience admitted more truth to be uttered to them than the second.

Two fragments, therefore, of a message which he would freely have poured forth his life to deliver in Jerusalem, was all that the ungovernable passions of the Jews—high and low, educated, and uneducated—would accord to him. It was a striking illustration of the truth of Christ's declaration to him some twenty-five years before, "They will not receive thy testimony concerning me."

Yet short and broken as it was, it was accounted true and loyal testimony by Him to whose honour it was spoken. For on the night of the second day, "the Lord stood by him and said, Be of good cheer, Paul, for as thou hast testified of me at Jerusalem, so thou must bear witness at Rome." The short and imperfect testimony took rank by the side of that which was complete. Let the itinerating Missionary who addresses rude and hostile assemblies of the heathen, and can only deliver a fraction of his message, remember St. Paul and his vision, and never deem his labour lost.

That St. Paul's first and ardent wish after his conversion was to preach to the Jews of Jerusalem, as he had already preached to the Jews of Damascus, that Jesus was the very Christ and the Son of God, we gather from his speech on the castle-stairs. In that speech, after describing to them his early education, and zeal for Moses' law, and then his mission to Damascus, and conversion by the way, he informs them, that on his return to Jerusalem he was praying in the Temple (praying, we collect from what follows, for grace and opportunity to open his message) when he was suddenly entranced, and saw the Lord Jesus, saying, "Make haste, and get thee quickly out of Jerusalem; for they will not receive thy testimony concerning me." Whereupon he mentions how he had expostulated that no testimony could be so convincing in Jerusalem as his; seeing that he had been so cruel and notorious an enemy of the Christians, imprisoning, beating, and killing them; and that specially in the death of Stephen, they knew well he had taken an active part. Perhaps he meant, also, that he would gladly, in the very place of his crime, make the only reparation in his power by preaching the faith which he had before destroyed. All this statement was at least calculated to mollify the Jews and convince them that his patriotic affections were not extinct; that it was through no preference of the Gentiles that he had gone abroad to preach Christ; but that the Lord, who had appeared to him, rejected his petition, and fixed his destination, answering, "Depart; for I will send thee far hence unto the Gentiles."

But instead of abating their resentment, these words raised their passions into the wild fury of a hurricane. Not a syllable more would they hear from him; but with loud cries and fierce gestures, "they lifted up their voices, and said, Away with such a fellow from the earth, for it is not fit that he should live."

Such was the reception which the first and greatest of Missionaries met in the Holy City, and in a holy festival, just as he was proceeding to lay before the Jews a report which had never been paralleled of the increase of the true Church of God by the conversion of multitudes of the heathen from dumb idols, through the preaching of Christ. What a flood of light, too, would he have opened to them, streaming in upon their prophecies, their types, and all the peculiar rites and symbols of their religion! But the Jews abhorred the story, and shut their ears against it as a dishonour to Moses, and an insult to their Temple worship.

I fear that we must also confess, that even from the great mass of the Jewish Christians in Jerusalem—"many thousands" they were counted—the reception of this visit of the Apostle was not so cordial, nor their congratulations on his splendid Missionary success so unanimous, as he might have anticipated. The Apostles, indeed, themselves, with James at their head, and the Presbytery, "received him gladly," and glorified the Lord for the things which "God had wrought among the Gentiles" by St. Paul's ministry; but at the same moment they notified to him suspicions of him widely prevalent, and which required peculiar measures to remove.

Let no Missionary, therefore, be surprised or discouraged, if, upon his return from a long and hard work, and, it may be, a signal blessing upon it, he finds it not appreciated, even by his fellow-Christians, as it deserves. The fact is, that while there is always a great indifference in the natural and unconverted heart of man to the story of the conversion of his fellow-men, and, under certain phases of religious error, a secret hostility to it, the genuine welcome will only come from a simple faith, and its energetic action by love. What was St. Paul's comfort, when he found so many Christians in Jerusalem cold and distant, while the unbelieving Jews were in deadly conspiracy to take his life? Christ was his comfort. Christ knows the exact moment to instil His peace, to raise our desponding spirits, saying to us, "Be of good cheer;" and to point to fresh harvest fields, and the everlasting reward.

One more Missionary instruction I must recall from what has preceded, viz. that it belongs to Christ as the great Head of the Church to fix the Missionary's sphere of duty. No one can offer more cogent reasons for preferring a particular destination, than those which St. Paul presented to the Lord for his own allocation to Jerusalem. Yet the Lord had stronger reasons against his wishes than St. Paul had for them. "They will not receive thy testimony concerning me." Let the Missionary of the present day, and the Society which sends him forth, pray heartily, and in faith, for direction, and it will not be withheld. We may rest firm in the confidence that Christ will indicate clearly to His ministers their respective positions in His harvest, and distribute them with perfect wisdom and love.

We may not know the reasons of the divine determination, as St. Paul did. But let no Missionary, therefore, fret, if his first wishes and predilections should be thwarted. St. Paul, we see, earnestly desired to be a Missionary to the Jews in Jerusalem. But God overruled his plans, and made him a Missionary to the Gentiles. At the moment he felt, perhaps, very sensibly the disappointment. But by-and-bye, another note is heard—of joy and blessing for the grace given him "that he should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ."

So far, then, we must acknowledge that the things which happened to the Apostle at Jerusalem, and which led to his imprisonment at Rome, fell out "rather to the furtherance of the Gospel."

The two years which St. Paul spent as a prisoner at Cæsarea, waiting for a passage to Italy, in no respect belied the conclusion we have drawn from Jerusalem. That long interval was also rich in examples of the providential care with which the Lord saved His servant from the subtle and repeated plots of the Jews against his life. It presented also some of the most signal opportunities of preaching Christ, which he ever enjoyed, and that before the first personages in the country—before Felix, Festus, King Agrippa, and their courts. It brought out with the highest lustre the admirable qualities and persuasive eloquence with which God had endowed his Apostle. Never in his life had he more exalted or more attentive audiences. Never, though a prisoner, was he a more sublime "spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men," than at Jerusalem and Cæsarea. Nor did his voyage to Italy, and his shipwreck, in which God gave him the lives of all that were with him in the ship, diminish his reputation. Everything that befell him tended to recommend and advance the Gospel.(a)

PART THE SECOND.—ST. PAUL AT ROME.

We come in the second place to his actual circumstances when he wrote his Epistle to the Philippians. What were they? He was confined in a room probably in or near the guard house or barracks attached to the palace of the Emperor, upon a false charge for which he was to be tried for his life. Day and night he was kept chained—chained, however, not in the severest manner, namely, with two manacles to two soldiers—but with a single manacle to a single soldier, so that one arm was free; and he could write the letter of which my text is a part. What do we find in this letter? Any complaints of his indignities and wrongs? or of the long delay of his trial? or of the irksome restraint which never allowed him even a few minutes' solitude for prayer or study, but always fixed the perpetual sentinel at his side? Do we find any discontent or despondency at all? Or any fear of death then hanging in doubtful balance over him? Not a word of the kind. As to the life or death which were suspended in so nice an equipoise, he does indeed touch on that point; but not in any appeal for pity, nor in any outburst of indignation against his wicked enemies, nor in any alarm at the king of terrors. On the contrary, it was with him a question difficult to solve, whether he would rather die or live. "What I shall choose, I wot not; for I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart and to be with Christ, which is far better," (blessed be God for that golden light on the immediate felicity of those who die in the Lord!) Nevertheless he had the conviction that his Master had more work for him to do in the Churches which he had planted, and in particular for the Philippians, and therefore that his life would be spared. What was it that gave him this absolute serenity, this unruffled peace, under circumstances so trying? It was his loving trust in Christ's administration of all things connected with His service in the dissemination of Christianity. It was that point of view which he recommended to his beloved Church at Philippi, "I would that ye should understand that all that has befallen me has been for the furtherance of the Gospel." And then he explains to them the way in which his imprisonment wrought for this end and spread the knowledge of Christ. His own pen traces four consequences—

(a) See note at the end.

I. First then, his imprisonment had drawn attention to the subject. It was a topic of conversation in the palace, at the barracks, and in all Rome. Here was a man brought from Judæa to Rome, on an indictment never before heard of. What did he say of himself? Of himself, very little; but of one Jesus, very much. That he was risen from the dead, and that remission of sins, and, after death, eternal felicity, were given to all who believed in Him. Who was this Jesus for whom this remarkable prisoner was so ready to suffer death? Thus his chains became the advertisement of his religion. “So that my bonds in Christ are manifest in all the palace, and in all other places.”

II. Another consequence of his imprisonment was, that it infused new spirit and courage into his timid converts. But he traces this consequence with singular modesty. “And many of the brethren in the Lord, waxing confident by my bonds, are much more bold to speak the word without fear.” Do you see the modesty? His close imprisonment, taken simply, was much more apt to strike terror, and impose silence, than to breathe into them the courage which makes an open profession of faith. But it is plain that it was his calm resolution and heroic indifference to life, if only the cause of his dear Lord might gain ground, which fixed the admiration of his young disciples; and when the conversation about him became so general, made them ashamed of their former reserve, and carried them by an impulse of generous imitation across the Rubicon. They were no more afraid to confess the faith of the crucified Jesus, but took their side bravely by their noble chief under a banner which never knew defeat, for it has this inscription, “Conquering and to conquer.” But while you appreciate the invincible courage of the Apostle, appreciate also the modesty of that silence which threw into the shade the process by which his bonds wrought so great effects.

III. Did the consequences end here? in attention drawn to his cause, and admiration of the constancy with which he maintained it, instilling the like bravery? No;—the admiration was so general that the pure coin had its base copies. It produced a spurious zeal, mingling with the secret enmity which always lurks in the hypocrite’s heart against genuine religion. In the midst of those who preached Christ of good will and love, knowing that St. Paul was set for the confirmation of the Gospel, there were some who “preached Christ of envy and strife—of contention—not sincerely,” maliciously designing to add affliction to his bonds. They were probably the Judaizing party, who would fain come in for some of the glory of Christ's miracles and resurrection, just as the Pharisees at Jerusalem, in the tumult, were willing to take to their side and against the Sadducees, the credit of Paul's testimony to a resurrection, and therefore said at the moment, "We find no evil in this man," yet withal hated in their inmost soul, Paul and his uncircumcised Gentiles. Now mark how the apostle took this ungenerous and hypocritical alliance. He looked at it, not for an instant as it affected himself, but simply as it promoted the knowledge of Christ. "What then," he says, "notwithstanding every way, whether in pretence or in truth, Christ is preached"—the facts of His glorious story are declared to be true, though the motives of the preachers be far from pure; and therefore he adds, looking at it from that point of view, "I herein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice." What largeness of heart, what disinterested love of our Lord was in that joy! Let every Missionary emulate his spirit, for in all probability, in the midst of so many sects and denominations, too apt to regard with a jealous eye each others' labours and successes, he will fall into circumstances sufficiently similar to require the Apostle's singleness of eye and magnanimity of faith and love.

IV. But had he no thought at all of himself in this irritating and malicious rivalry? Yes—not of his popularity or reputation, but only how the treacherous aid might be turned into a benefit to his soul—the trial into a mercy. And on what means did he rely to convert their strife and envy to his soul's good? He relied on the sympathy and prayers of his converts. "For I know that this shall turn to my salvation through your prayer, and the supply of the Spirit of Jesus Christ." He prayed, we are sure, much and fervently for himself, but he also counted much on the prayers of his converts—even when they were as yet novices in the faith. And his imprisonment gave a peculiar force to his appeal, "I the prisoner of the Lord need and ask your prayers." How dear to him is that title, "the prisoner of the Lord,"—and with what address did he use it both in his letters to Churches and to individual Christians! Let no Missionary, no Minister, think that he can do without the prayers of his converts and his brethren. In every emergency enlist even the children's prayers on your behalf. If St. Paul needed such help, how much more we?

We see then how the Apostle looked upon the untoward events and hostile influences that attended his imprisonment and took comfort—First, from the attention to the Gospel which it had excited; Secondly, from the courage which it had inspired into the Christians in Rome; Thirdly, from the attesta-tion to the facts of Christ's history which it had elicited from those who were no friends to him or to Christ; Fourthly, from the prayers and sympathy of the brethren, young though they were in the faith, which it called forth.

What a wonderful concentration of thought and feeling on the Kingdom of his Lord, do these reflections of the Apostle Paul display. What an annihilation of self! How entirely did his estimate of all events turn on the progress of the Gospel and its prospects! From these views he derived his solid "expectation and hope, that in nothing should he be ashamed, but that with all boldness" (or freedom of speech), Christ would be magnified by his body (that was the only part of him which was imprisoned—his soul was free as air), "whether by life or death." And then he concludes with the glorious sentence, "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain."

I will add yet one more consequence of this imprisonment of St. Paul, which he has not named, although perhaps he alludes to it when he speaks of that freedom of speech (παρρησία, translated boldness), with which he expected to magnify Christ in his prison. From that hand, which was not manacled, and from that prison chamber at Rome, came forth the Epistles to Philemon, to the Ephesians, to the Colossians, and to the Philippians, and all the four in little more than one year. The Word of God was indeed not bound, as he wrote some years afterwards to Timothy. What an inestimable addition was this to the canon of Scripture! Thousands of Christians were lamenting that this noblest herald of the Gospel should be shut up for four years between four walls, and compelled to leave his infant Churches unvisited, and to forego the fresh acquisitions to Christianity which were rapidly opening to him. But never were there four years of his freest activity more valuable to the Church, not merely of that age and those countries, which his Missionary career had blessed, but of every subsequent age, and all nations of the earth; nor more honourable to himself as the chosen vessel of these inspirations of the New Testament. No, indeed, we may repeat, the Word of God was not bound. What Christian does not bless God for such an imprisonment? Let it also specially admonish the Missionary, who is laid by for a season, and separated it may be, in mid-career from his wonted ministrations, that the Lord will find him work, and noble work, in his retirement. The Lord will prevent his leisure from running to waste. If he follow in the Apostle's track, "the prisoner of the Lord" will be the world's benefactor.

PART THE THIRD.—APPLICATION OF THE SUBJECT TO THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY AND THE MUTINY IN INDIA.

Now what St. Paul thought and felt about his imprisonment, a Church Missionary Society may think and feel in regard to its checks, and restraints, the oppositions, and false accusations it encounters, from without and from within the Church. If we are calumniated as enemies to Church order or Episcopacy, or as careless and wasteful of the funds entrusted to us—if it be proposed to dissolve before the time our connexion with stations which our Missionaries originally occupied with their lives in their hands—if the first impulse of some civil and military officers in India was to lay the mutiny of 1857 at the doors of our Missionary operations in that country—let none of these things move us. False accusations bring out the truth. Measures which wear an ungracious aspect are a field of forbearance and conciliation to a spirit trained in the school of Christ. Trials of temper happen to us “rather for the furtherance of the Gospel.”

Such has been our experience, especially in that terrible mutiny which burst upon us as a volcano, and shook every institution in India; which spread tears and terror through all England; which destroyed 40,000*l.* worth of our Society's property in Missionary buildings and printing presses; which well nigh wrested the sceptre from our grasp, and cost the Company forty millions to retain it. What heroic men, what heroic women, what bright and influential examples of every Christian grace did it take from us! But still that mutiny forced the reluctant attention of England to India and to our transgressions and delinquencies as a Christian nation there.

When the king of Delhi was set up by the rebels as their head, Deen, deen (Religion, religion), was put in the forefront of his manifestos. The intercepted letters of the Sepoys to their brothers in arms in the Punjab, as Sir John Lawrence, in his celebrated Minute, informs us, told the same tale. The Sepoys, who were excluded from all knowledge of the Scriptures, as the natural result of that ignorance, were alarmed lest their religion should be surreptitiously and unawares taken from them by the touch, or the taste, or the handling of a greased cartridge. The absurd idea could never have found an entrance into minds acquainted with the first principles of Christianity.

The rebellion, therefore, to a certain extent was a religious rebellion, yet every investigation exonerated the Missionary, and proved that the Hindus were not alarmed by the open and peaceful promulgation of Christianity. Nor was the Missionary ever singled out by the insurgents in their wildest excitement as the special object of their indignation. And now they are received with more respect and attention than ever, and Christianity is discussed in Rajah's palaces and other places where it never appeared before. In fact, the Lord has done great things for us. This last year, three native Christians were admitted by our Bishop to holy orders, and three native Churches have risen up in those very North-west Provinces which were red with our blood, and out of that very mutiny which the heathen imagined would obliterate from their soil all that was European and Christian.

In another respect, also, the mutiny has fallen out "rather to the furtherance of the Gospel." It has called out the timid and languid religion of the native Christians into bolder profession and action. Our Missionaries were so cautious, that some were very slow to acknowledge the faith of these natives to be real faith. But when they saw them ready to die, rather than to apostatize, they could doubt no longer. The native Christians were at once trusted, and employed by all, as one with us for weal and woe. From that time it was felt that Christianity is a sure, nay the only sure link between us and the natives. All else around was suspicious or hostile; but in this one class we found our servants and our friends.

Again, who can forget how largely the Christians, who passed through that sea of tribulation, were comforted with the same prayerful sympathy, which comforted St. Paul in his prison? What a cloud of incense-like prayer arose from every part of this kingdom to heaven! What an agony of supplication besought the Lord that England might be roused by these sore judgments, to shake off her spiritual lethargy, and awake to her glorious mission! At first, and for awhile, there was a promise and blossom of better things amongst us. There was our public fast on October 7, 1857; and our public thanksgiving on May 1, 1859. But now our contrite and holy feelings, I hear, have to a great extent subsided. Society is fast resuming its former frivolity; and certainly the Government has hitherto done nothing to make its policy more religious. Oh that we might remember that we are still on our trial; and that a worse thing than the late mutiny may befall us!

Our main hope at present for India, and our brightest prospect is in our Missions, and in the true religion which has penetrated all classes in India—civil, military, and mercantile, to an extent never known before. Bishop Wilson says, that to be a Christian in India is to be a Christian indeed. Not a few of our Missionaries, we thank God, have reached that high mark of the Apostle, "To me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." That is the true Missionary standard. Take away Christ, and our heaven has lost its sun. All our joy, and light, and life centre in Him. He is the Author and Finisher of our faith, its Alpha and its Omega. To cite from India alone, and from those who have entered into their rest, it is impossible to read the memoirs of Buchanan, Martyn, Brown, Thomason, Corrie, Henry Fox, Weitbrecht, and Bishop Wilson, or even the brief notices of Ragland and Bishop Carr, and not to perceive that these men copied faithfully the style of the first great Apostle to the heathen. And there are others, and in increasing numbers, treading in their steps.

A Missionary Society must be judged by its Missionaries; and I am sure, if you take that criterion and examine the published journals of our deceased Missionaries, or the spirit of many of those who remain in the field, as displayed in their communications with us at home, you will be constrained to bless God for a band of men which has not been surpassed in any Missionary Society, except the first. The records of their sentiments and doings, of their lives and deaths, are among our most precious treasures. When I was at Lyons, ten years ago, I paid several visits to the Propaganda there, to read their Reports, and to see their museum. In their papers I found little worthy of note, except that the Mother of our Lord appeared to me to be had in greater honour than our Lord; but there was no lack of relics—skeletons and mementos of Missionaries, chiefly from China, who had died more for her than for Him—the skeletons clad in their monastic dress, and ready, I thought, to be turned to account for pilgrimages. But what comparison will such relics bear with the lively records of Martyn, and Henry Fox, and Weitbrecht, whose very souls are laid open to us in their journals and letters? And last, not least, in the memoir of Bishop Wilson and his Episcopate of twenty-five years, just given to the Church? Let no one object that Daniel Wilson was a Bishop, and not a Missionary, in India. He went out with the true Missionary spirit, and not from any ambition of the Bishop's rank or emolument. He weighed the enterprise in even scales—"The four Bishops, who had preceded him, had died in nine years. He was himself fifty-four years of age. He had a competent fortune, an influential and honourable position, a loving family, and many friends. India was a banishment from home and friends." This was one scale. What was the other? "I was compelled by conscience, and an indescribable desire to sacrifice myself, if God should accept me." When the decision was made he preached his last sermon at St. John's, Bedford-row for the Church Missionary Society, and as he was embarking, sums up the question in these touching words ;—" I am now come to the parting moment. I leave my country, my family, my parish, my friends. Lord, be Thou a country, a parish, a family, a friend to me! That will make up for all." The Lord grant us like overseers of our Missionaries in all our Missions!

Henry Martyn, also, and some others whom I have named, were not nominally our Missionaries because they went out before 1813—when only chaplains were permitted to enter India. But they were really Missionaries, and in constant correspondence with the Fathers of the Church Missionary Society, whose influence sent them out as Chaplains, only because the Missionary was an interdicted name. Henry Martyn, however, besides his Chaplain's duties, preached to the heathen, and translated the Scriptures into their tongue—and devoted a part of his salary to a Scriptural school for them at Dinapore. He had so much of St. Paul's spirit in him that he could not but be a Missionary.

As the senior Secretary of one of your Auxiliaries—an office which devolved on me by the death of the Rev. Robert Anderson—it has been my duty, and I shall add, my privilege, now for seventeen years, to examine your Reports and to see your Missionaries. And I owe it to the dead and to the living, and I owe it more especially to your Society, to bear my humble testimony that year by year, the impression has deepened in my mind, that there has been no work done in our day on which a larger blessing has been poured out than on the Missions of your Society. As for your Missionaries, God has evidently worked by them and with them. Four years ago I remember two of them who came as your Deputation to us. One of them was the Rev. John T. Tucker, a Missionary of fourteen years' standing in Tinnevely. He had come to England to recruit his health, and then to go back again; for he thought a Missionary's life the happiest on earth. In those fourteen years he had the honour to baptize into our Church, with his own hands, 2000 heathen. And these were not baptisms of the Jesuit style, but of candidates carefully instructed and prepared. He had also received into our Church 200 natives, won from the Roman corruption of the Christian faith. He had planned himself, and with native hands had built forty-eight churches—small indeed, and rude—in Tinnevely, and had seen twenty-four devil temples demolished by their former worshippers. He presides himself over a congregation of 3000 native Christians. How is it possible not to honour such a Missionary? not to shrink into shame and insignificance when we compare our work with his?

In that same year of his visit to us, (1856) what did the Bishop of Madras say of Mr. Tucker's and your other Missions in his diocese? In his Triennial Charge, delivered in his Cathedral Church at Madras, we read this passage—

“My last visit, more than any former one, has convinced me how great things the Lord is doing for us. If ever the Lord hath made bare His holy arm, it is in our Missions in Southern India. I have been cheered and encouraged beyond expression in witnessing the increasing number of converts, their growing intelligence and spirituality of mind, and their more enlarged and extended benevolence, as their charities abundantly testify.” Then, referring to the thronged churches, the apparently earnest responses and singing, the 2500 confirmed, and the priests and deacons ordained by him in that Visitation—of whom eight were natives—he adds—“If there is not a reality and experience of Christian truth in all this, there is no such thing as experience and reality in the world. But I am persuaded it is a real and abiding work; the manifestation of His grace and mercy”—nothing less than the power of God's Spirit, converting and changing, gradually but certainly, the hearts and habits of the people.

Such work as this only comes out of the hands of men of the Apostolic stamp.

And such your Missionaries have been judged to be by men of devoted piety, clear discernment, and exalted station. What was it that induced Sir Henry Lawrence, Col. Edwardes, and Sir Robert Montgomery, when they wanted Missionaries of the right sort to preach Christ in Peshawur and the Punjab—to send to your Committee in Salisbury-square for them; and this with no ordinary application, but with the promise of a munificent contribution on their arrival? And having made trial of your Missionaries in the Punjab, they next invited you to send them men like the others, to open another new Mission in Lucknow. Two Chief Commissioners of Oude sent that invitation—Sir Henry Lawrence before the siege; Sir Robert Montgomery after it. And thus the Lord goes on still opening new doors to us; and still, like Jonathan's arrow, almost before we have taken breath at the last new station, another is again beyond us. And so the mutiny turns out “rather for the furtherance of the Gospel:” for instead of repressing these invitations, it has certainly stimulated them.

After all this testimony, may God only grant that we may not, as a church and as a nation, too soon forget the confusion and anguish of that bloody insurrection, and the solemn lessons which He taught the church by it: the chief of which are these—

First, He taught us that as nothing is holy, so also nothing is strong without the Lord. We had foolishly believed that our empire in India stood so firm that nothing could move it. Suddenly we found that we had been building, not on a rock, but on a quicksand. Then we humbled ourselves before the Lord, and confessed that our tenure of India entirely depended on His sovereign will and pleasure. We knelt before Him, and did homage for India as His stewards. We confessed that we had too long acted as selfish and usurping owners.

Secondly, God has taught us the true nature of idolatry; that it contains the principles of every crime; that it is anti-social, anarchical, inhuman, unclean; that it is not only our folly, but our sin and our peril, to trust it; much more to cherish, and fondle, and honour it. Men cannot gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles. Yet this has been our laborious effort, our deliberate policy, our professed achievement. We have kept our Christianity in the background, and in our toleration of the religions of Hindustan, we have rather leaned to the idolater, and forgotten our duty to God and to India. Let us pray that we may not repeat the error and the sin.

Such, in fact, has been hitherto the backwardness of the Indian Government to impart its Christianity, and such the over-estimation of the moral character of the Hindu, that nothing short of this terrible demonstration of the true nature of idolatry, and all the losses and anguish connected with it, would have opened our eyes to see it in its execrable and unalterable character.

Thirdly, Hence we are plainly taught the paramount duty, nay, the absolute necessity, of evangelizing India, if we would retain it. God in His great mercy has given us back our empire, so violently and suddenly snatched from us for a time. The question now is, Shall we support Missions, or provoke God to rend from us again, and for ever, our magnificent empire, as a trust which we have too long and too fearfully abused?

And if we decide to support Missions, on what scale shall we support them? On the scale by which we subscribe to an hospital, or a penitentiary, or a deaf and dumb asylum? Oh that the Lord—the Lord of India as well as of England—may enlarge our hearts to the colossal magnitude of the work, and the extreme urgency of the crisis! A hundred and seventy millions of heathen and Mohammedans—their happiness and civilization in this life—their everlasting salvation in the world to come—this is the work to which we are called to put our hands.

And if we get the money through Him who has all hearts under his power, how shall we get the men—Missionaries of the right stamp, and in sufficient numbers? We shall never get them, unless the spirit of grace and of supplication be poured out upon us in a much larger measure—poured out on our families and our congregations, till we all daily, earnestly, and faithfully remember, and obey our Lord's solemn command, "Pray ye the Lord of the harvest, that He will thrust forth labourers into His harvest."

NOTE (a) page 8.

The argument of "Part the First (viz. St. Paul at Jerusalem and Cæsarea)," was only slightly and imperfectly sketched, when the sermon was preached. It is now expanded and completed.

I might have added to the glories of these two imprisonments, the help, or supervision, or dictation, whatever it was, which St. Luke derived from St. Paul in the preparation of his Gospel in the first imprisonment, and of the Acts of the Apostles in the second. It is certain that St. Luke, St. Paul's companion and disciple, went with him to Jerusalem, sailed with him to Italy, and was with him the whole of the two years at Rome, not as his fellow prisoner, but admitted at all times to see him, without restraint, both at Cæsarea and at Rome. His love to St. Paul would make such intercourse very constant. The first period of two years, would allow of his visits to Jerusalem, and full personal enquiries of the Apostles and other eye-witnesses—(and among them of the Mother of our Lord, if still alive)—to which he alludes as his authorities, in his preface to his Gospel. The second period of two years, by its quiet and inaction, would be the fittest time possible for the drawing up of with St. Paul's help, the Acts of the Apostles. These two dates are adopted by Burton, in his "History of the Church," by Lardner, vol. 8, chap. viii., and by Mill, in his celebrated Prolegomena.

After St. Paul's release at Rome (A. D. 63), it does not appear that he ever revisited Jerusalem. He wrote, indeed, to the Christian Jews there, his Epistle to the Hebrews, but anonymously. Such was the prejudice against him, that his name would not have recommended his argument.

REPORT,

&c. &c.

THE Committee are happy to announce that funds have been liberally supplied during the past year for the supported their Missions. While they desire to render thanks to Him whose is the silver and the gold, they also gratefully acknowledge, to the praise of his grace, the very valuable services rendered by their zealous Collectors, and by that large body of the Clergy who advocate the cause of the Society in its various Associations throughout the country. The Associations supply four-fifths of the General Fund, and it is to the source that the Committee look for such increase of income as they trust will be soon required for the enlargement of the Missions.

The Financial Statement is as follows—

INCOME.

| GENERAL FUND—Associations, Benefactions, Legacies, &c. . . . . | £               | s.       | d        |

|                                                                | 1,990           | 2        | 10       |

| Total received at Home . . . . .                        | £145,629 | 1 | 4 |

The ordinary income of the Society this year, mainly owing to large legacies, is the highest which has ever been received, exceeding last year's by 9964*l.* and exceeding by 1286*l.* even that of 1858, which included a special donation of 10,000*l.*

In addition to this sum, received in the United Kingdom, there have been received, and expended in the various Missions of the Society upon its work, more than 18,000*l.*

EXPENDITURE.

|                                                  |          |    |    |
|--------------------------------------------------|----------|----|----|

| Total Ordinary Expenditure.....                  | £128,134 | 3  | 6  |

A comparison of the ordinary income with the ordinary expenditure of the Society presents the following result—

|                   |         |    |    |
|                   | £       | s. | d. |
| Income .....      | 132,052 | 5  | 0  |
| Expenditure ..... | 128,134 | 3  | 6  |

It will be seen that the expenditure nearly keeps pace with the income. Should the Society, as they hope, be able to send out this year a large reinforcement of Missionaries, the expense of passages and outfits will largely increase the annual expenditure, so that the Society needs the continued and enlarged exertions of their friends to meet the prospective demands upon the annual income.

SPECIAL INDIA FUND.

| Expenditure.....                | 9,448   | 1  | 9  |        |    |    |
| On account of last year.....    | 3,500   | 0  | 0  |        |    |    |
| (See Report for 1858-9, p. 12.) |         |    |    | 12,948 | 1  | 9  |
| Balance .....                   | £46,075 | 18 | 1  |        |    |    |

The larger part of the expenditure from the Special Fund has been devoted to the enlargement of the Missions in North India, and especially in the North-west Provinces. A portion of about 2000*l.* has been expended in South India. Some portion has been appropriated to the printing in this country of tracts upon Christianity in India, with a view of directing the public mind to the safe and Christian policy towards that country, so graciously given back to Great Britain.

ISLINGTON INSTITUTION.

The number of students resident in the Institution for a longer or shorter period, during the past year, has been fifty-four, against forty-nine the previous year. The average number in residence has been thirty-four, against twenty-eight in the previous year: whilst the annual average during the thirty-five years, for which the Institution has now existed, is only twenty-two in residence. Owing to this increase, the house at the west end of the premises has been appropriated to students; and a separate residence has been provided for the Vice-Principal.

The supplementary class has contained six Students.

The Report of the Principal contains the result of an investigation into the various-means by which attention is first directed to the duty of engaging actively in the Missionary work. Of forty-one students resident in the Institution it appeared that:—

Ten were first led to think seriously of the work by public addresses, six through Missionary Meetings, four through Sermons.

Thirteen by individual appeals to themselves, through a word spoken in season by the Clergyman, by the returned Missionary, or other Christian friend, who have urged obedience to the last command of our Lord, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature."

Five by the publications of the Society: three in consequence of the special appeal for men.

Two by parental influence and example.

Eleven by Missionary influences in other Institutions with which they were connected; six in Christian Young-Men's Associations, three in Sunday Schools, two in the Universities.

The Principal writes in his Report—

With much to cheer us, it will scarcely occasion surprise to the Committee to be informed that we have had our trials and discouragements also. Three Students have not realized the expectations of the Committee respecting them, and, owing to various causes, have been removed from the Institution. Whenever there is indicated the want of essential Missionary qualifications, the friends of the Society will feel, that painful as it may be to separate a Student from us, it is the imperative duty of the Committee to dissolve the connexion; and only to continue the training of those who give clear evidence of their call to the work, and in reference to whom we may entertain a well-grounded hope, that, through the Divine blessing, they will prove faithful and useful labourers in the vineyard.

The conduct of the students generally has been most satisfactory: they have diligently pursued their appointed studies, some even to the risk of their health. The Missionary spirit has been cultivated, and in proportion to the time since it commenced, and the opportunities afforded, extensive efforts have been made for the good of others. In addition to the usual branches of parochial work carried on by the students during the summer months, the seniors, at the request of the Islington Home Mission, have been engaged in open-air preaching, and were thus enabled to gain practical experience in one of the most important departments of their future work.

THE MISSIONARIES' CHILDREN'S HOME.

The number of children on the list of the 'Home' is seventy-two. The report of the Superintendent contains the following very satisfactory statement—

The progress made in the education, both of the boys and girls, continues to be satisfactory, having been maintained fully up to the standard of the last Midsummer examination, upon which a very favourable report was made to the Committee by the examiners at the time.

Of the boys who have left the Home, two are already actively engaged in Missionary work; thirteen have entered at Public Schools or Colleges, and are pursuing their studies with diligence, having taken creditable positions there in most instances from the beginning; nine are engaged in mercantile life; and of several of these reports have reached the Director, of the high value set upon them by their employers, for integrity, diligence, and general ability.

Of the girls who have left the Home, five have since been married—in two instances to Missionaries; six others are engaged in Mission Schools, under the direction of their parents, and there is a probability that the number of the latter will be largely increased. As far as may be gathered from general correspondence with their parents or themselves, the Director has good ground to believe that the principles of true religion, inculcated upon them at the Home, have borne fruit in their lives, when they have gone forth into the world.

There is every reason, therefore, to hope that the Home has answered the great purpose for which it was established, namely, to take off from the hands of the Missionaries themselves the burden and the responsibility of educating their own children, that they may be enabled to give their undivided energies to their direct Missionary work; and that while they are thus labouring abroad in the cause of Christ, for the salvation of the perishing heathen, they may feel that it is the unceasing care of the friends of Missions at home, that their children shall be brought up to follow in the footsteps of their parents, and to walk in the world consistently, holily, and unblameably before Him—in whose special service those parents are engaged.

PATRONAGE.

The Lord Bishop (elect) of Rochester, and the Lord Bishop of Sierra Leone have accepted the office of Vice-Presidents; and the Committee have added to the list of Vice-Presidents the Very Rev. the Dean of Cork, and the Rev. William Goode, Dean (designate) of Ripon.

The Committee have also added to the list of Honorary Governors for life, "having rendered very essential services to the Society," the Rev. Charles Clayton, Fellow of Caius College, Cambridge; the Rev. Sidney Gedge, late Secretary of the Birmingham Association; the Rev. J. F. Schön, the author and editor of versions of the Scriptures into several African languages; and the Rev. J. Y. Nicholson, late Secretary of the Cambridge University Association.

DECEASE OF MISSIONARIES.

West-Africa Mission—Mrs. Jones, wife of the Rev. E. Jones, died at Freetown, after child-birth, on the 11th of June. Mrs. Harrison, wife of Mr. T. Harrison, died on the 17th of July; Mrs. Millward on the 18th of July, and the Rev. John Millward, her husband, on the following day. The Rev. Christian Frederick Ehemann died at Fourah Bay on the 27th of January 1860, after nearly seventeen years of labour. The Rev. John Christopher Taylor, a Native Minister, died after having been twenty years a faithful labourer in the Mission.

Mediterranean Mission—Mrs. Hildner, wife of the Rev. F. A. Hildner, of Syra, Greece, died in the summer of 1859.

North-India Mission—The Rev. Henry Christian Krückeberg died at Munden, Hanover, on the 6th of February, after a few days' illness, having laboured in the Mission for nearly thirty years. Mrs. Vaughan, wife of the Rev. J. Vaughan, died suddenly, of cholera, at Burdwan, on the 7th of December.

South-India Mission—Mrs. Dibb, wife of the Rev. A. Dibb, died at Palamcotta on the 3rd of June. Mrs. Schaffter, wife of the Rev. P. P. Schaffter, died at Suviseshapuram on the 10th of November.

RETURN HOME OF MISSIONARIES.

The following Missionaries have returned home on account of ill-health—

SIERRA-LEONE MISSION.

Prevalence of a fatal epidemic.

THE last year has been to the Sierra-Leone Mission one of deep affliction and heavy losses. It pleased God to afflict the colony with a severe epidemic, which has had no parallel in the fatality attending it, for the last thirty years. The deaths among the Europeans were four times the usual average.

The able, devoted, and noble-hearted Bishop Bowen fell among the victims of the malady, having held the bishopric less than eighteen months. He had acted as a Missionary of the Society, at his own charges, in Mesopotamia and Palestine, for five years, where he had obtained a thorough command of the colloquial Arabic, and an acquaintance with the character and prospects of Mohammedanism. These were of great use to him in Africa. The Missionary body in Sierra Leone paid the following just and honourable tribute to his memory in a minute adopted upon his decease—

This Meeting would humbly bow under the Almighty Hand of our heavenly Father, and pray that in judgment He may remember mercy, who in his infinite wisdom has thought it good again to deprive our infant churches at Sierra Leone, the Yoruba country, and Niger Mission, of their chief pastor, by removing Bishop Bowen from us by death, after one year and five months' indefatigable and self-denying labours in Sierra Leone and the Yoruba country.

Humanly speaking, a better qualified man, physically and mentally, for the post the Lord had appointed him to in his church, could not be found. With great bodily strength, which, perhaps, proved sometimes a temptation to tax it more than was good, there was united in him a large heart, much practical common sense, deep humility, and much love, and an almost unlimited hospitality. It was therefore a cause for general rejoicing when he safely passed through his first fever, and when he returned in improved health from a visit to the Yoruba country. His plans for the material and spiritual improvement of the west coast of Africa were many and large, and, had he lived to carry them out, under the blessing of Almighty God much good might have resulted from them. Bishop Bowen was permitted to build upon the foundation of a native ministry which his predecessor, Bishop Weeks, was privileged to lay. Two natives received deacons', and two priests' orders during his episcopate in the colony.

While this Meeting acknowledges that we have much cause for humiliation and prayer, on account of the loss our native churches have now for the third time been afflicted with, they do trust that our covenant God may overrule even this also for the good of His church in Africa.

Two of the Missionaries, Mr. Ehemann, after sixteen years of devoted labour, and Mr. Millward, after four years, were removed by death; while five other European labourers were obliged to return to Europe, with little hope, except in one instance, of a renewal of their labours in Africa. So that out of thirteen European labourers who were labouring in Africa at the last anniversary, as Missionaries or Catechists, seven—being more than half—have been withdrawn. One Missionary, the Rev. J. C. Reichardt, has, in the course of the year, returned to Africa. There are at this time only four ordained Missionaries in the colony, a smaller number than for many previous years.

The Committee bow with humble reverence to this afflictive dispensation. The motto of this Mission, as in former years, must be — “Troubled on every side, yet not distressed; perplexed, but not in despair; cast down, but not destroyed.” They have a good hope that God has accompanied this heavy trial with his sanctifying grace, and that much fruit will be reaped in joy which has been sown in tears during these eventful times. The late Mr. Ehemann wrote—

Sept. 21—I believe that the judgments of God have been upon our colony and Mission for good. In many of our stations weekly prayer-meetings have lately been established for the purpose of asking for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit; for this it is our Mission stands in need of, in common with all the rest of our fellow-men. This, I think, is a move in the right direction, for I have repeatedly observed, that from the time our monthly general prayer-meetings were abolished the spiritual tone and brotherly love gradually declined. At that time Satan got an advantage over our Mission, the consequences of which can only be effaced by taking up the same weapon which we then allowed him to take out of our hands.

Miss Sass, who was herself brought back from the brink of the grave, and who has had twelve years experience in the colony, writes—

I cannot at all agree with those who think, that because this coast is generally very trying to the health, and because it may sometimes be visited with severe epidemics, as is the case this year, that, for these causes, others will be deterred from coming over to help us; but in full faith I look for others to come and offer themselves to you to supply the places of those who, having finished their course with joy, have entered into rest and peace. May God grant this, and also put it into the heart of some earnest, pious woman, to come out here for this Institution also!

Organization of the Native Church.

The Lord has wise reasons for every afflictive dispensation, and every apparent check to his work. It is for man to learn the lessons which they are designed to teach, and humbly and cheerfully to shape his course according to the divine dispensations. One lesson taught by the deaths of Europeans, is manifestly to urge forward the organization of the native church, so that the ministrations, within the colony at least, may be independent of European agency. The Bishop who has been appointed by Her Majesty to the see, Dr. Beckles, has long been a zealous friend of the Society, has had great experience as a colonial clergyman, and will direct his first attention to this object.

The native minister, the Rev. George Nicol, thus alludes to the critical circumstances of the native church, during the transition state from a Mission to an independent ecclesiastical system—

Our congregation is passing from a Missionary into a settled native church. In the process of this transfer the church is yet trembling in the hands of our European brethren, and at the same time has not the firm grasp of the native ministry. Satan will be busy and active in endeavouring to mar the good work. But “He will keep the feet of his saints.”

Popish aggression.

It was mentioned in the last Report that a Romish bishop, and several priests and sisters of charity had commenced a Mission in the colony. But the severe epidemic of last year carried off the greater number, and the survivors left the colony.

Missionary Aspect of the Native Church.

The Committee will adopt the course explained in their last year's Report. They will no longer describe the details of pastoral labour in the settled native congregations; but they will notice only the Missionary aspect of the church of Sierra-Leone in respect of its internal zeal, and its external efforts for the advancement of the Gospel.

Mr. Caiger has charge of the Pademba Road church; Mr. Hamilton is at Waterloo; Mr. Menzies at Wilberforce. Each has the general superintendence of large districts; and the pastoral ministrations in the various congregations have been supplied by native agency.

Mr. Caiger, speaking of that part of Freetown in which he labours as the stronghold of heathenism, writes—

I thank God we are able to say, that in many cases the evil one is lessening his hold, not willingly indeed, but by reason of the stronger One asserting his rightful claim to the hearts and affections of the people. We had open-air services in this part of the district previous to the rains, and now that the dry season is at hand, it is our intention to resume them on a much larger scale. There are some who will come to these who are not disposed to enter our little church here. The Christian Visitor whom I employed on these occasions might have been seen traversing the whole district with the church-bell, to tell the people it was time for assembling to hear God's word. He would be leading one poor man who was blind, and helping another who could scarcely walk. I believe that his heart is thoroughly in the work, and that the blessing of God is resting upon our labours. Several have forsaken their idolatry, and have been brought to our services; some are regular attendants at our early prayer-meeting; and some are candidates for baptism. From some source or other the heathen know the main facts and truths of our holy religion. I hope the members of our church living amongst them are Missionaries in their sphere.

If we may judge from outward appearances, the heathen are certainly not so bold: the tom-tom—the parading of “Ogoogo” through the public thoroughfares—has not been witnessed for some time. It would seem from this that they feel ashamed of their heathenism; but let it not be imagined that they have given up their practices. There is one class amongst them whose case is most desperate. They were once professed disciples of Christ, meeting around the table, class-leaders, local preachers, and they feel no shame in stating this. In many cases I believe the sin of drunkenness has suspended them from membership with the church of Christ, and this has led them from one stage to another, until they occupy now the very foremost position in the service of the devil, and are called, by way of pre-eminence, “devil-men.”

Mr. Hamilton gives an interesting account of a Missionary meeting in his district, at which speeches were made by natives, and one in the Yoruba language, called Aku in Sierra Leone.

August 31—We had a Missionary meeting in the church this afternoon. I was very anxious to have it this week, because I had Mr. Caiger here, and he is the Secretary for the Freetown Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and therefore I wished him to plead the cause of that Society before my people, as I desire to stir them up to every good work. Owing to the weather not being very good, and the meeting having been postponed, the attendance was not so good as we could have wished: but there were about 200 persons present. We commenced by singing, “From Greenland's icy mountains.” I then read Isaiah xlix., and Mr. Caiger engaged in prayer. After making a few remarks myself, I called upon S. King, an old communicant, and a class-leader, to say a few words to the meeting: he dwelt on the importance of prayer. C. Davies, the catechist, then addressed them in Aku, making special reference to a fact I had alluded to in my remarks, viz. of Thomas Williams—one of the men Mr. Hinderer took from here in the beginning of the year as a Scripture-reader—having found his mother, sister, and brother at Abeokuta, all slaves and heathen. He was enabled to redeem them with some heads of cowries. They accompanied him to Ibadan, and have been admitted as candidates for baptism, being persuaded that their Orishas could not bring Williams back to his country with wife and children; that it must be the white man's God who had done this; and therefore they cast away their Ifas and Shangos, with all their country-fashion, and worship the God who had done such great things. We then sang a hymn while a collection was made. Robert Barnes, another communicant, then addressed the meeting. He spoke especially to the young men, warning them of the dangers which lay in their path, and of the evil which awaited them if they forsook the way pointed out in the word of God. His concluding remarks were most earnest, begging them to hold fast the truth which they heard from the Missionary.

One of the native catechists alludes to the prayer-meetings held throughout the Christian world in the first week of the year; and describes also his Missionary labours within the colony—

Jan. 9, 1860—Left Benguema this morning for Freetown, to attend the Union Revival Prayer-meetings, which, commencing on Monday the 9th, were continued till Saturday the 15th. A most refreshing season indeed this was; a week to be marked with peculiar notice in the history of the entire Christian world, as a sort of Pentecostal week, in which Christians in all parts of the world were unanimously engaged in sending up their prayers and supplications to Almighty God, that He would abundantly pour out of his blessed Spirit upon us, and revive his work amongst us. We trust that these united prayers poured forth by us at this special season did proceed out of sincere hearts, and, being sent as the incense to God's high throne above, they may be the means of bringing down abundance of spiritual blessings upon our drooping souls.

We are still trying our endeavours amongst the heathen Kussos scattered about the desert tracts in our neighbourhood. Of these people it may truly be said that they are as scattered sheep having no shepherd. At Matindi town, which is the largest of these desert stations, we have already succeeded in erecting a chapel; but as the Kussos in the other petty places about Matindi town would not come there for divine worship, we therefore think it proper to seek after them, and carry the word of truth unto them. And in pursuance of this business I am most happy to say that our Scripture-reader is always found very ready and active.

EDUCATION.

The Mission has not yet been in a position to resume the class of divinity students. Those who had been under training in Fourah Bay have completed their studies, and have gone out as catechists. When the native church has become more settled, the re-opening of a theological seminary will become a primary object.

The Grammar School.

The death of the zealous and devoted Principal of this Institution, Mr. Millward, has been a severe loss, not only to the cause of education, but to the whole Mission.

The native tutor, the Rev. James Quaker, has, however, carried on the course of instruction, without interruption. Mr. Quaker, in his annual report September 30, 1859, after an affecting allusion to the death of the Principal, states that the number of pupils was sixty, thirty-five being boarders. He adds—

As regards the subjects of study, the English course, comprising the sacred Scriptures, English, Grecian, and Roman histories, grammar, geography, natural science and history, music, arithmetic, Euclid, and algebra—has been pursued by the various classes respectively, more or less, according to their attainments and the nature of the subject. In classics, there are three classes in Latin, reading Henry's Second Book, Young's New Latin Delectus, and the London Grammar respectively; two in Greek, reading Valpy's Delectus and the London Grammar.

The improvement of the pupils in the various branches above mentioned has been good, though the number of pages read in some of them has been comparatively small, on account of the repeated interruptions which the school has had, both from sickness and death, during the term.

Our Juvenile Missionary Meeting has been revived. Its attendance is better than I had anticipated, and consequently cheers our hearts, amidst the surrounding dark clouds, with the thought that the Lord is still among us of a truth.

Taking a retrospective view of the occurrences of the closing half-year, and considering the heavy trials which the school has been called to sustain, one might be led to adopt the faithless inquiry of Gideon, "If the Lord be with us, why then hath all this befallen us?" But that would be arguing God's absence by affliction; for chastisements are evidences of his presence, and mercy, and correction—of his love and of our sonship. "What son is he whom the father chasteneth not?"

The Female Institution has been carried on during the year with fair success. The devoted lady at the head of the establishment, Miss Sass, has been a severe sufferer through illness.

The Liberated Boys' School at Kissey has received a large accession of children from captured slavers, and considerable difficulties have arisen from the insubordination of some of the boys. At the close of the year the conductors of the school, Messrs. Bockstatt and Knödler, speak with more encouragement of their prospects.

Liberated-African Female School.

The Liberated-African female school, at Charlotte is under the charge of an excellent lady, the widow of a former Missionary, who died in his work. Mrs. Clemens remained for a time after his death in the Mission, in charge of this school; and after returning to her friends in Europe for the recovery of her own health, went out again to Africa to resume her former charge. That she is animated in this labour by the love of Christ sufficiently appears from the following extracts from her report of the school, Sept. 30, 1859—

It is with a heart full of overflowing thankfulness that I can give a brief account of our experiences through the last six months. The sad events of sickness and death in the colony, and our Mission particularly, affected us deeply; still we are the living—to praise our merciful God, and it was sweet, through numerous cares and anxieties, to realise his constant presence and unchanging faithfulness.

No disease came near our dwellings, with so many inmates: most of the children enjoy to this moment perfect health. But for much more than for the gift of bodily life and health have we abundant reason to be thankful. It has pleased our gracious God to send his all-quickenings Spirit, and to visit us with divine grace. "Therefore will I praise thee, O Lord, with my whole heart, I will show forth all thy marvellous works."

Mrs. Clemens describes the very satisfactory conduct of a class of the elder girls who were under preparation for baptism. After some months, eighteen were selected for adult baptism, and ten of the younger children for infant baptism. The occasion is thus described—

Sunday, the 18th of September, was the memorable day when twenty-eight of our children were, before a large congregation, given solemnly to the Lord Jesus, and by the Rev. G. Nicol from Regent, "baptized into his death." I had invited as godmothers former pupils of this school, who are married, and continue to stand in friendly attachment to us ; and I had the hearty satisfaction of being, on this occasion, surrounded by these my African daughters from all quarters—a set of truly respectable, good women, who naturally take a deeper interest in the welfare of our children than any one else.

TIMNEH MISSION.

The Rev. J. S. Wiltshire remains alone at this station. The European catechist who was associated with him has been compelled to return to Europe. The station is occasionally visited by other Missionaries. The Timneh tribes have been, during the last year, unhappily engaged in warfare with the Susus. This has seriously embarrassed the Mission. The station, though several times threatened, has been mercifully preserved from molestation ; but the work at the out-stations has been suspended.

The work at Magbeli is gradually assuming a more settled form, and engaging the attention of the Timneh speaking population. Hitherto the services have been partly in English for the benefit of the Sierra-Leone traders and settlers mingled among the Timnehs ; but it is contemplated soon to have the morning service entirely in Timneh, as the attendance of the Timnehs has been considerably on the increase. Classes have also been formed for baptism and for the holy communion. The school contains thirty-six children. Mr. Wiltshire reports the case of an interesting Mohammedan inquirer—

Sept. 8—During the day the old Mohammedan priest living in our neighbourhood called to see me. Whilst reading the Arabic Bible, two other Mohammedans came in. The old man then drew their attention to the third chapter of St. Matthew, and showed that God had there himself called Jesus Christ his beloved Son, and that the word of God cannot be denied. They were astonished at this, as also at other passages which the old man showed them. After listening to the old priest, who explained the passages to them, as also to the few words I said, they promised to come to church on Sunday. This old priest is a regular attendant at service every Sunday, and calls to see me very often during the week, when I always endeavour to draw his attention to the saving truths of the Gospel. He is a very good Arabic scholar, and I always endeavour to improve my scanty knowledge of that language during his visits.

Mr. Menzies thus writes of his visits to Magbeli—

I have made three successive trips to the Timneh country. On one occasion, when I was to address the people, it was dark ere we were ready for the meeting, but the anxiety of the people to hear our message was very apparent. Several visited us in the trader's house, and, when told of the object of our visit, said, "We are very glad." And just as we were proceeding to the place of rendezvous, a messenger met us to say the people were all waiting. We did not, however, find so many assembled as we had expected, and expressed a wish to have all the people called together. And for more than ten minutes one of the men set up a loud shouting to summon the inhabitants to the Gospel palaver. When I arose to address them it was quite dark, so that I was unable to distinguish any of their faces; but I observed a great crowd around me, some sitting, some standing, others lying down, and women with children on their backs. The word here was received with joy, the women clapping their hands, which they invariably do when they are pleased. After the meeting was over we went into the boat, and pushed out a little from the land to retire to rest. But ere we laid down for the night we talked over the events of the day, and held a prayer-meeting in the boat, praising God for his past mercies.

Revival of the Slave-trade.

During the last two or three years the slave-trade has considerably revived on different parts of the west coast, and especially south of the Line. On one occasion Her Majesty's cruisers brought into Sierra Leone a captured vessel, having no less than 469 slaves on board, who were landed in the wretched condition of former slave cargoes. Even in the immediate neighbourhood of Sierra Leone this horrid traffic is carried on by means of canoes, which creep down the rivers by night. During the last autumn, within a few weeks three such canoes were captured, having on board in all 153 slaves, mostly children, and some of a very tender age. One case of barbarous cruelty will serve to show the brutality which is inseparably connected with this inhuman traffic. There was among the slaves a mother with a slave at her breast. The infant began to cry, to the annoyance of the owner of the mother, who was afraid that thereby attention might be called to the canoe. The brute coolly took the infant from its mother, and cast it into the sea.

As these fresh importations of liberated slaves arrive in the colony, the children are sent by Government to the Liberated-African schools, the Society receiving from Government the cost of their board, clothing, &c. Mrs. Clemens thus describes one of these fresh arrivals at her establishment—

Some were accompanied by their poor mothers, who wished to see how their children were placed, and who parted from them not without hard struggles and many tears. Many touching scenes of mother's love have we witnessed, which impressed on us most forcibly the misery of this people, and our bounden duty toward the dear children so providentially brought under our care.

Our girls received the new comers with shouts of joy, suffocating them almost with their embracings, and very willingly shared with them all they had; they also took good care of the little ones, so that they soon were at home and happy here, and gave altogether much less trouble than one might expect.*

General Review of the Mission.

THE Mission has enjoyed another year of quiet progress. At the last Anniversary there were eight European labourers in the Yoruba Mission. These have all been preserved in health, and enabled to continue their labours. One has returned for a short visit to Europe, after the usual term of five years in Africa; and two European Catechists have joined the Mission.

The hopes of a rapid extension of the Mission to the north, as well as amongst the coast tribes, have been in a degree checked. The tribes to the north are chiefly Mohammedan, and they are easily stirred up by a crafty priesthood to oppose the Christian Missionary. Thus the native Missionary, Mr.

* Further information respecting the West-Africa Mission may be found in the "Church Missionary Record" for 1859, pp. 234, 271, and 301; in the "Record" for 1860, p. 5, &c.; and in the "Church Missionary Gleaner" for 1860, p. 84. A short memoir of the late Bishop Bowen was given in the "Quarterly Paper" for Michaelmas 1859.

Crowther has been forbidden to return to Rabba or the Niger, which would have proved a most important step towards the regions beyond, and which would have united the operations in the Niger with those in the Yoruba country. The coast tribes present an obstacle of another kind to the extension of Christianity. They have been long vitiated and disorganized by their connexion with the slave-trade, and with ungodly Europeans who are implicated in its gains. The coast-tribes to the east of Lagos are still under the influence of Kosoko, an expelled usurper, and the Missionary is the object of their special enmity. In the delta of the Niger they have organized a murderous assault upon the trading vessels; while, among the tribes to the west of Lagos, Christian efforts are scarcely more hopeful. It is only, therefore, within the zone lying between the Mohammedan tribes to the north and the coast tribes, that much success has appeared, and here there has been marked encouragement and extension.

The establishment of a Mission in Abbeokuta, the continuance of peace and the introduction of the elements of civilization, have brought with them an amount of commercial prosperity, which is unknown in other native towns, and which has spread its fame throughout a wide extent of country, and has induced many other large towns to invite the residence of the white man. The export of cotton to the Manchester market may now be regarded as an established branch of trade, and has given Great Britain a direct interest in the encouragement of the rising civilization of the Yoruba country. Eight years ago the first bales of cotton cleaned by machinery, and pressed and packed for the European markets, were sent from the Society's Industrial Institutions at Lagos and Abbeokuta. These were, for five years, the only channels through which a supply of cotton reached England. Now there are several hundred gins at work in Abbeokuta and in the neighbouring farms; there are also seven screw presses, some in the possession of native traders; so that the Society's Industrial Institutions, having accomplished the object of introducing a native cotton-trade, have now been transferred into the hands of other parties.

One striking fact will show the influence of lawful commerce in stopping the slave-trade at its very source. Slaves are brought from the interior of Africa to the coast, to be shipped for another continent. Owing to the vigilance of the British cruisers in the Bight of Benin, many of these miserable victims were detained for several years in baracoons on the coast, waiting the opportunity of shipment. Many of these slaves, who had been sold in Abbeokuta a few years before at 4*l.* each, were bought back again, at 12*l.* each, by the Abbeokuta heathen chiefs and cotton farmers; who have discovered that it is a better policy, as well as a Christian duty, to employ their labourers at home, instead of kidnapping and selling them to the slave-trader.

Social prosperity in Africa, as in Christendom, has its peculiar temptations and its concomitant evils. But yet the Committee recognise the good providence of God in thus connecting temporal blessings with the first introduction of Christianity into the country. This dispensation has been a palpable proclamation of the divine truth, "that godliness hath the promise of the life that now is, as well as of that which is to come."

The general character of the heathen inhabitants of Abbeokuta, amounting probably to 100,000, has been so leavened by the small Christian element, that the heathen king of a neighbouring town thus spoke to a Missionary stationed there:—"Continue patiently in your work: God will bless you in it, for it is a good work, as it has been seen in Abbeokuta. For I can remember the time when the Abbeokutans were nothing but plunderers and slave-dealers; but since then a great change has taken place, which can only be attributed to the blessing of God upon the work of the white man."

Visit of Bishop Bowen.

Bishop Bowen visited the Mission in the spring of the year, landing at Lagos March 8, 1859, and embarking, on his return, April 8. His lamented death within one month of his return to Sierra Leone prevented his sending a journal of his visitation as he had promised. In a letter written on board the steamer, April 13, he states—

I shall not now attempt to give you a detail of my short sojourn in the Yoruba country, but shall only mention a few points. I feel truly thankful to Almighty God for having permitted me to see the good that has been done in that region. There are many adversaries, but an effectual door has been opened. I landed at Lagos, March 8, Shrove Tuesday. Not being able to get a carrier, I remained the rest of the week, held a confirmation on Sunday; and on Monday, the 13th, set off and reached Abbeokuta at one P.M. on Wednesday; held confirmation on Friday; and ordained Mr. Bühler to priests' orders on Sunday. On Tuesday I set off for Ibadan, reached it on Thursday, held a confirmation on Sunday. Monday to Ijaye. Tuesday returned to Ibadan. On Wednesday to Abbeokuta again. Friday left. Spent Sunday at Otta, confirmed six. Monday to Lagos. Wednesday, April the 6th, embarked in

H. M. S. "Sharpshooter" for Cape Coast, where I remained from Friday to Tuesday, April 12. I performed the journey in general on horseback, a little pony, often was exposed to the heat of the day, which was, however imprudent, but unavoidable; so that any thing that may yet befall me is more to be attributed to want of care, than any necessary unhealthiness of the climate. The country, on the whole, is one of the finest I have ever seen, and, I should think, as healthy as any tropical country can be. The soil for the most part is sufficiently fertile, and the people, if unskilful, certainly not idle. At Lagos I confirmed 22, Abbeokuta 190, Ibadan 22, Otta 6: total 240.

The new church at Ake is a noble structure with a tower and a clock. The walls are lofty. It was well filled at the confirmation and ordination, and since also. The church at Igbein is being enlarged, and Mr. Gollmer wants to do the same as Ikija. All this is very encouraging. The natives give much evidence of spiritual life, and are more satisfactory than very many of the Sierra Leone people.

LAGOS.

The Rev. J. A. Maser has remained throughout the year at this station. The Rev. T. B. Macaulay removed, in the middle of the year, from Abbeokuta to Lagos, with a view of opening a Grammar School, for the benefit of the large body of thriving native traders who are settled at that port.

Mr. Maser reports some encouragement in his work.

June 13, 1859—Had the privilege to baptize fifteen persons yesterday, which was Whit Sunday. They had been, for the past year, under regular instruction. It was refreshing to my spirit to see them all ready for baptism. They were from fourteen to fifty years of age. May the Lord keep and preserve them, and make them a blessing to others!

Education.

Mr. Macaulay was instructed to open the grammar school on a self-supporting principle. He thus reports his proceedings—

I am thankful to be able to state, that, after certain preparations, the school was, under the divine blessing, commenced on Monday the 6th of June, with six pupils as day scholars, who pay each the sum of 1*l.* 1*s.* per quarter for the instruction imparted to them, and it is satisfactory to observe the readiness with which the parents or guardians of these pupils embrace the opportunity thus auspiciously afforded; they have all paid the quarterage in advance, according to the rules of the school. And in a contributory scheme, kindly projected by Captain Davies, towards defraying the expenses of forms, desks, &c., there was realized about 13*l.* into the hands of the captain, who also kindly undertook the procuring of them.

Since the commencement of our second quarter September 6th, our number has been increased from six to twelve pupils, who are all very regular attendants every day, from ten o'clock in the morning to three o'clock in the afternoon, excepting Sundays. On Saturdays we have school from ten o'clock A.M. to twelve o'clock noon.

The ages of the pupils range from twelve to eighteen years, divided into six senior and six junior pupils, who are all receiving instruction in reading, writing, arithmetic, English grammar and composition, geography, history, natural philosophy, geometry, &c.

The senior pupils have just begun Latin and Euclid's elements.

At the close of the year the number of pupils had increased to twenty-two, all paying one guinea per quarter.

Badagry.

One more attempt has been made to bring the people at this out-station under Christian influence. Two native catechists were placed amongst them at Midsummer—Messrs. Pearse and Buko. The latter is a converted son of one of their principal chiefs, and able to converse with them in their own language, the Popo, or Dahomian. At first there appeared to be a real movement amongst the people towards Christianity, and the fairest promises were made to the Missionaries; but before the end of the year, things had relapsed into the same indifference which has unhappily characterized this people from the first attempt of the Missionaries to bring them to Christ seventeen years ago, and the teachers were deserted.

The Popos differ from the Yorubas in having a national idolatry, which powerfully enchains its votaries, and binds them to watch over each other with a murderous jealousy in case of defection. Badagry has also the disadvantage of being resorted to by European traders of irreligious habits, so that idolatry and vice rule the people. The teachers will be shortly removed to a station where their labours will be more valued.

The evangelistic labours at Badagry have not, however, been wholly without fruit. The catechist Buko is a proof of this. Another instance was discovered by Mr. Pearse in a visit which he paid to Porto Novo, a town to the west of Badagry, long famous for its connexion with the slave-trade, and as the resort of the worst characters.

Mr. Pearse thus records the circumstances—

Oct. 9: Lord's-day—I am glad to observe a faint ray of spiritual light. Mr. Emanuel Kiki, my landlord, was one of our old Badagry boarders, and he is now one of the wealthiest of this place, and the master of a large household. This young man had left school long before the civil war at Badagry: he could then read and write tolerably well; but there was no evident sign of divine life in him. My joy was inexpressible when I witnessed the regular morning and evening prayers held by this young man in his family, though quite in a heathen land. I observed this morning that the household has become accustomed to the observance of the Sabbath. My surprise was heightened, when, pointing to an adjoining house within his premises, Kiki said, "This I intend for a chapel. We shall be thankful if you will kindly stay and address us here to-day." I accordingly met in prayer with more than 120 persons, to whom I preached from Gen. xix. 17. I spent the afternoon about in the town, as only one service is usually kept at my landlord's. Many requested me to spend another Sunday there. I found here four young men who were forced out of Badagry August 31: they also attended the service.

Oct. 12—These five days spent with Kiki I trust may be mutually beneficial to us. Mr. Kiki, being alone in his native land for years, and among heathen relatives, had been under sore temptations, which proved insurmountable to him, and he has since yielded, and sunk into polygamy. Though this young man has all necessities, yet he has been in a miserable state, suffering from remorse of mind. I have heard him with tears and heavy sighs saying, "I am not happy: shall I lose my soul and heaven because of woman?" "Lord, bless me!" "I must clear away sin from my house."

Otta.

The Rev. James White, who is in charge of this out-station, was, during the first part of the year, afflicted with severe illness, and with the death of two children. He was obliged to remove for a time to Lagos. The latter part of the year he was able to resume his labours and his residence at Otta. Six adults have been baptized during the year. The day school has been suspended in consequence of Mr. White's illness. He writes—

Our converts have been regular attendants on the means of grace, and though they have been highly commended by the King of Otta and his chiefs for their constancy and courage, yet there are many faults discernible in them, such as selfishness, self-conceit, and uncharitableness. We go out to preach to the people in the streets, market, and under shady trees. Though they have given us encouragement by their words, and a great many of them are convinced of the truth of God's word, yet they do not seem to possess resolution to come forward, and the general but poor excuse they give for their backwardness is, the reproaches of their countrymen.

Yet there are some gleams of encouragement. During Mr. White's absence from Otta it was reported in the place that Kosoko would visit it. Mr. White, later in the year, writes respecting this and some other troubles—

Our converts, under several frowning dispensations, behaved courageously. Not one of them could be frightened to swerve from the good cause in which they have joined. They all, men and women, resigned themselves to the will of their heavenly Father, and resolutely determined to undergo whatever the malice of their enemies might inflict upon them.

In one of my interviews with the Olikosi, he remarked that the book-people are rather stouthearted; that, during my absence, they could not be intimidated by any one; and that all of them kept to their post till I returned. I told the Olikosi that they were not serving me, but the living God, whose messenger I am; and that, whether I die or not, or whether I be removed to some other place, the work of God will surely be carried on: and that of these book-people are sincere worshippers of God, they would not renounce their faith, even though there be no white man among them. In another visit to King Oyede, he commended the book-people for their steadfastness and zeal. I mention these things to point out the overruling providence of God in bringing to nought the wicked devices of them that hate us, and his wonderful protection of his people from many dangers. We bless the Lord for his goodness.

Ikorodu.

The out-station of Ikorodu, on the confines of the Jebu country, is still maintained. It was visited by Mr. Maser in August 1859. He found that great opposition still prevails there against the English for interrupting the slave-trade; but he was much pleased with the behaviour of the Scripture-reader, Mr. Parks, and with the personal respect and attention which he enjoyed with the elders of his own tribe who inhabit the place. The congregation consists of six adult converts.

ABBEOKUTA.

The town is still divided into four districts—Mr. Townsend at Ake, Mr. Gollmer at Ikija, Mr. King at Igbein. A native catechist was placed at Owu, after the removal of Mr. Macaulay to Lagos.

General progress of the Mission.

The Rev. S. Crowther, after being absent for the greater part of two years at the River Niger, returned to Abbeokuta in March 1859, and thus describes his impressions of the progress of the Mission—

I was thankful to meet all the members of the Mission at Abbeokuta, in tolerable health, and the work of God prospering in their hands. Many new faces were among our old communicants and candidates, to welcome my arrival: these have, since my absence, been gathered from the scattered sheep, among the thousands who are yet wandering from the fold of God. I hope and trust many more yet will hear the call of Christ through his faithful servants, by the preaching of the Gospel.

After our enlargement of the old Ake church, it was finally given up for a larger and more substantial one, which could afford room for twice as many more as the old church could contain. The sister church at Igbein is adopting the plan of the old Ake church, by an additional length of twenty feet; and that of Ikija is preparing to follow the same plan. These increases of congregations, and enlargements of churches, are very striking to me who have been absent for a short time from the Mission, though it may be imperceptible to those who are immediately occupied on the spot. My hearty prayer is, that, not only at Abbeokuta, but in all other places where we have been permitted to have a station, obstacles may be removed out of the way, that many who are at present ready to join the church, but kept back through the fear of man, or through the influence of sin, may be released from their bondage, hear the call of Christ, and join his church.

Another striking circumstance which regards the general population of Abbeokuta, is the increased attention to the cultivation of the soil. Many, who some time ago applied themselves mostly to war and kidnapping, have, since the introduction of the palm-oil and cotton trades, turned their attention to the cultivation of the land, growing not only produce for home consumption, but largely for exportation. A stimulus has been given to cotton, not only by the Society's industrial establishment, but by the appearance of Mr. Scala in Abbeokuta, in whose cotton-cleaning factory twenty saw-gins and a screw-press are daily at work, Sunday excepted, either by hired labourers, or those who clean on their own account to sell to him; as well as by the appearance of four European Manchester merchants, who are known to have come here to buy as much cotton as Abbeokuta can produce. It cannot but be expected that such a change will influence the people differently, some for good, some for evil. It is a time of trial and test of character, when the real and the mere outward professors of the Christian religion are shown out in their true colours. This cannot be avoided, though greatly to be lamented. Yet the general good influence which the introduction of lawful commerce has on the population at large cannot be denied.

The new church to which allusion is made by Mr. Crowther, is called "Exeter Church." It is a gift from English Christians to the native church in the Yoruba country, having been erected by the private contributions of friends in Exeter and its neighbourhood, as "a token of affection to the Rev. Henry Townsend, their fellow-townsmen, and as a thank-offering to God for his abundant grace vouchsafed on the labours of the Society." It is built entirely of a tenacious mud: it is roofed with grass, and is adorned with a tower and a clock—quite a new thing in Abbeokuta. The whole cost of the building, exclusive of the clock, which was a separate contribution, was about 200*l.*, which is far below the cost at which it could be now erected, as in consequence of the social improvement of the people, the value of labour and material has much increased. The late lamented Bishop of Sierra Leone, Dr. Bowen, opened it for divine service on the 18th of last March, and confirmed on that occasion 190 persons: although capable of containing 700 persons, it was quite crowded.

Another proof of the advance of Christian feeling and intelligence is the fact, that a public meeting for the British and Foreign Bible Society was held in this church on the 20th of June 1859, which was crowded to overflowing: even the windows were blocked up from the outside by anxious black faces, who could not obtain admittance. It was well known that the object which had drawn them together was to send the collection to the Parent Society, to help to give to other parts of the world the volume, only lately made known to themselves, but now most precious in their estimation. The meeting was addressed by Europeans and natives, and the collection was in English money, in dollars, and in cowries. The cowries were 170,000, in value 7*l.* 10*s.*, and they required eight men to carry them. The whole collection was nearly 20*l.*

In connexion with these events may be mentioned the printing and publication of a newspaper twice a month, in the native language, entitled "Iwe Irohin." The paper contains local and general news. The heading of the different articles comprise Lagos, Rabba, Bida, Gbebe, together with China, Russia, England, &c. "Our printing-office," writes Mr. Townsend, "has become of great use: we have printed many things for the Mission, such as Hymn-books, Catechisms, and Prayers. My head printer was a scholar in our boarding-school, supported by the Coral-fund. Book-binding is occasionally attempted by the printers for themselves." "As an evidence also of the introduction of industrious habits, I may mention, that in the last two years I have ordered for the people around me carpenters' tools to the value of 50%, for which I have received payment in full, including expenses."

Mr. Townsend writes in his annual letter—

On our return from Illorin I wrote and printed a letter to my congregations, giving them some facts, and a little instruction arising out of our journey. I also begged them to contribute towards the increase of our Scripture-readers, stating definitely that I wanted thirty bags of cowries (about twenty dollars), and to employ two readers instead of one. The day after Christmas-day I held a public meeting in favour of this cause. Mr. Hughes was the only white person present besides myself. After stating the reasons for calling them together, I called upon Moses Ligadobi, our first Scripture-reader, to give an account of his work. I then called upon any one who might be pleased to do so to address the meeting. We had many speakers, all in favour. Mr. Hughes also spoke a few words to encourage them. We then formed a working Committee from among the natives, to collect money, to select a suitable agent, and to appoint his field of labour. My object was not merely a given work, but also to make my people active, intelligent, and responsible agents in the work. The money has since been collected, and almost all of it from the native converts. They have chosen a suitable person as Scripture-reader.

Our boarding school, mainly supported by Miss Barber, of Brighton, continues to be very useful. A part attend the day school, and a part are taught separately: there are twenty-six boys and girls, of various ages, and of various circumstances in life, some being children of chiefs, some redeemed captives, and some little orphans saved from death after having been condemned to die because their mother had died, and their other relatives would not take care of them. This school could not exist but through such assistance as Miss Barber renders, as the Society does not allow funds for boarding schools. The day school numbers 108 scholars.

I have to notice a gratifying fact, that two school feasts were given this Christmas by two native members of the church: the first invited the Igbein school to join the Ake school, and gave them a plentiful repast at his house, and, on sending them away, he gave each child forty cowries, and some of the elder ones eighty. The second was given to the Ake school alone, with a large number of adults. I hope it is a token of interest felt in the schools by the native converts.

The Rev. T. King, after describing the trials which have arisen from the ungodly conduct of some of the nominal Christians of Sierra Leone, who had come to the country as traders, adds—

Yet amidst all I am happy to state that we are on the whole steadily progressing. Sabbath and weekly duties have been uninterruptedly attended to throughout the year. Our Sabbath school is in a thriving condition. With the exception of those who are very much advanced in years, all our people attend the Sabbath school whenever they are at home. Those who are incapable of acquiring the art of reading are by no means discouraged from coming, as they are benefited by the catechizing on the subject preached on in the morning. This is always done by myself or my schoolmaster for fifteen or twenty minutes before the conclusion.

The converts on one of their farms for more than two years have held a prayer meeting of their own accord, and have been giving words of exhortation to each other on the Sabbaths. Also they keep up a brotherly supervision over each other's conduct, so far as is thought essential, as well as adjust petty quarrels among themselves, excepting great matters, which are brought to us.

The station at Owu has suffered much for want of regular attention, in consequence of the severe illness of the catechist, Mr. Phillips.

Education.

Mr. Bühler having been in Europe during the last year, the seminary has been under native teachers, with the superintendence of Mr. Townsend. The progress of the pupils has necessarily suffered from the temporary loss of the Principal.

Out-stations of Abbeokuta.

Full accounts of the work at these out-stations have not yet been received for the year under review. The principal one is the village of Oskielle, at which a native minister, the Rev. T. Moore, resides: the congregation contains forty-two communicants, with classes of candidates for baptism, and for the Lord's supper. There are also a day school and a Sunday school. Native teachers have also been stationed at Ibara, Biolorunpellu, Awaye, and other villages.

ISHAGA.

The station of Ishaga lies to the west of Abbeokuta in the direction of Ketu: it is under the charge of Mr. Smith, an European Catechist, who writes at the close of the year—

It is pleasing to observe the increasing love and zeal in our people to do good, and speak the word of truth to their fellow-sinners around them; and that though they meet with much opposition, they seem the more boldly to face it.

The king and counsellors are still very friendly and kind to us in their way. They continue to pay us occasional visits, and we have free liberty to visit them at all times. Oh that they would truly receive God's word, and give their hearts to Him. They have occasionally attended church, and they say that they would attend more frequently were it not for their many engagements.

The elders have also promised to send in their children; but we have often to wait with long patience before they do what they promise.

Mr. Gollmer, who visited Ishaga at the end of July, records a remarkable instance of the respect shown by the chiefs to the preaching of the Gospel. He was there on the Lord's-day, and the king and the chiefs on that day had appointed "Oro" to be proclaimed in the town, which is a political superstition, and confines all the females to their houses. The Missionary remonstrated against being deprived of half of his congregation, and the king gave this decision on the case—"We must do our duty, but we must not stop you from doing your's: therefore the town must be divided into two parts to-day. Oro must take the part of the town in which we reside, and you and your church people must take the part of the town in which the church and Mission-house stands, and where the converts live."

IBADAN.

The Rev. D. Hinderer has been the only European at this station. His health suffered much during the latter part of the year. At the close he was joined by an European catechist, Mr. Jefferies. The number of native Christians in Ibadan is 135, of whom 48 are communicants. Native teachers are located in three different districts in Ibadan. There is a boys' day school with twenty-four scholars, and a girls' school, under the care of Mrs. Hinderer, containing sixteen scholars. On Christmas-day Mr. Hinderer admitted sixteen adult persons to baptism, who had been for some time under instruction. The following extracts are from the annual letter of Mr. Hinderer—

Our Christmas was made a day of special interest, and, I hope, blessing to us and our whole congregation, by the baptism of sixteen persons. They were of both sexes and of every age, old and hoary men and women, and young men and maidens; and both young and old seemed very solemn, giving one the impression of people who felt what was before them, and had made up their minds manfully to fight under Christ's banner by his power; and their answers to the questions in the service, as well as to a little catechizing of the heart, were very firm and hearty. O Lord, keep them for Thine own !

Our Sunday services have been well and regularly attended, not only by the converts, communicants, and candidates for baptism, but also by heathen hearers. Though we have no open persecution, we are by no means free from its secret influence. Persons are constantly kept back from hearing the word of God by threats and fear of persecution.

We must not be sanguine in the Yoruba country of a speedy or large accession to the church of Christ. I know and fully believe that the arm of the Lord is not shortened as though it could not help, but at the same time we know that He works by means and providential circumstances of his own ordering, yet perceptible to us. The state and circumstances of the Yoruba country seem to be against rather than for a speedy adoption of Christianity. The last fifty years' slave-hunting wars have augmented the two strongholds of the devil to a fearful degree, viz. priestcraft and polygamy. The terrors of war naturally drew forth the former, and its demoralizing influence, the latter. In proof, I may just mention, that according to good native authorities, in towns of the size of Ijaye, there were before the wars no more than two or three priests of the god of thunder and lightning, but now there is hardly a compound without one of them. The increase of charm-making Moham-medans is in the same proportion. Again, as to polygamy, a man, for example, catches four persons, two men and two women: the men are sure to be sold coastward, whereas the latter are kept as additional wives: thus it happens in the warlike town of Ibadan there is hardly a man, however poor, with only one wife.

As to the towns in the interior, Ife, Ilesa, and Osogbo, though the Parent Committee hold out no prospect at present of supplying them with European Missionaries, yet I do hope that in the course of a year I shall have the great pleasure of hearing that some are on their way ready to take up those important posts. Were they only some isolated Yoruba towns, I would not press the matter; but they are central towns of large districts, and the two first capitals of two distinct Yoruba tribes.

Out-stations connected with Ibadan.

Mr. Hinderer having visited Sierra Leone, brought back with him several Scripture-readers. These he has stationed in some of the large towns which were visited in the former year; namely, in Modakeke, Ife, and Ilesa. The following is the account which Mr. Hinderer gives of his visits to these places in the course of last summer—

The king and elders of Ife seemed to be the more glad, as they consider our coming amongst them at the very juncture of their re-inhabiting the capital a good omen; and I, on the other hand, took the same opportunity to show them that they ought to consider it a duty, as well as a privilege, to recommence the rule of Ife upon the foundation of the word of God, since they and everybody knew that the very idol-worship upon which old Ife's government was based caused its destruction.

The chief of Modakeke, too, tells me that my coming to them must be of God, since their old idol master, the late king of Ife, told them, when he established their market, that they would first see trouble, but, after that, white man's foot would tread that very market, and then a better time would come. An aged war-chief of this town, who acts now as a sort of justice of peace, takes a very warm interest in our teaching: he is always ready to hear a good word.

Leaving the two Scripture-readers, Henry Thomas and Thomas William, at Ife and Modakeke, and commending them to the care and blessing of our Almighty God and Saviour, on the evening of August 31 I arrived at Ilesa. There I was welcomed as an old friend, and, during a stay of two days, had one public and one private interview with the king. His conversation, his manner, in fact his whole bearing, appeared benevolent, and people say he is so. I was glad to be able to allay a good deal of his and his people's fear of the Yorubas bringing war to them. His great ambition and anxiety is the settling of an European Missionary among them, for this, they think, would for ever prevent war coming to their town. Though the Scripture-reader, George Vincent, is a native of Ilesa country, yet the king and elders expressed their fear to me at first that they might get into trouble and disrepute with us, if the man should prove unfaithful and run away; and on delivering him, in the presence of a large assembly, to their care, according to their own wish, the speaker, in the name of the king, gave him a solemn warning not to run away from "white man's work in the master's absence."

IJAYE.

The Rev. A. Mann has laboured alone at this station. The difficulties and discouragements which have been reported in former years have increased rather than diminished. The effect of the stern discountenance of Christianity by the tyrant king checks all inquiry, and emboldens the opponents. The number of native Christians is very small, and decreasing. The parents will not send the children to school. Yet it is thought necessary to maintain Ijaye as a station, with a view to the towns beyond it. A Missionary at such a post peculiarly needs the prayers of Christians at home. In Mr. Mann's annual letter he thus writes—

Amongst the fourteen candidates, three are awaiting baptism. There is not in them that earnestness and zeal I wish to see. In their number and position lies the great discouragement. There are but three or four of them who belong to the town, in the strict sense : all the others are foreigners, and therefore free people, who are not entangled by the fetters of family, relatives, and Are. Even part of these are preparing to go away. It may well be asked "Where are the townspeople? Is our message to them lost?" I reply, "Seemingly so while Are lives. The law is such that none of the inferior chiefs dare pay us a visit. This alone is enough to frighten people, and to give licence to private persecution to any extent."

Amidst many trials and many sad hours, of which the death of our dear child was the saddest, we have been partakers of many spiritual and temporal blessings. We have, in the evil day, learned to say, "Lord, thy will be done;" and have raised up our hands in renewed petitions and supplications for ourselves, our congregation, and those who sit in darkness; and we shall continue to do so as long as there is any breath left in us.

OYO.

The station of Oyo is the most advanced in a northerly direction on the road to Illorin and the Niger. It has been well sustained by the European catechist, Mr. Meakin, who writes in his annual letter—

Our building troubles are, I am sorry to say, not yet at an end, which hinders what I consider my proper work—that of visiting, or speaking the word. I find, however, that our constant work in building has brought us in contact with many people from all parts of the town, who tell to others what they see and hear, which draws many to hear us. Again, I am glad to see some of the women who have been in constant employ, now beginning to keep the Sabbath in some measure, attend the services, coming in a clean cloth, and appearing respectable; thus uniting themselves with us. This gives us a hope that the seed may, by their constant attendance, find good ground, and take root and bear fruit to the glory of our Saviour's name.

I have preached in the streets and little adjacent towns, and have proclaimed the glad tidings of salvation to many. My native teachers, two in number, have been a great help, especially my schoolmaster, who visits often, especially when others would take their leisure. But I am fearful of bestowing any praise, as often, very often, do those from whom we might expect better things, sin against light and knowledge, and disgrace the Christian profession, and show a spirit directly opposite to that of our lowly-minded Master and to his cause.

Mr. Townsend visited Oyo in the month of August, and notices in his journal—"The king received us in a public interview, and expressed publicly his approbation of Mr. Meakin, and thanked me repeatedly for his being there."

Ogbomosho.

A native Scripture-reader is placed at Ogbomosho. Mr. Meakin writes respecting a visit which he paid to the place in May—

I have just returned from a week's visit to Ogbomosho. Our visitor there is living amongst his own townspeople, who are refugees there, and amongst some of his own near relatives. Ogbomosho is composed of refugees, principally from the broken towns around: they have each their chief or elder, who is under the chief of the town.

Missionary Tours.

Mr. Townsend took an extensive journey to the northward in the month of August, with Mr. Townsend. He spent some days at Ogbomosho and at Illorin. Of the latter place, which is a Mohammedan town, Mr. Townsend writes—

I have some very old friends at Illorin who found us out—two Brazilian Emancipados. Some years ago I rendered them a great service in Abbeokuta, by delivering them from some chiefs who would have made them slaves. They were very thankful and brought us presents. Another person also brought us a present of a sheep on account of help I had rendered to him in Abbeokuta. I am persuaded that Illorin is not open to us as a Missionary station, but some good may be done in the mean time by occasional visits. Illorin, in the eyes of the natives, is a very bad town, full of robbers, housebreakers, and the like, and, from what I saw, full of beggars.

Mr. Gollmer has opened communications with the important town of Ketu, and the adjacent towns to the west of Abbeokuta. Mr. Gollmer writes—

Ketu is the western province of the Yoruba kingdom, of considerable size and strength. Its boundaries are Yoruba Proper in the north, Popo in the south, Egbado in the east, and Dahomy in the west; the river Opara, flowing from north to south, being the distinctive boundary between the two kingdoms of Yoruba and Dahomy. An intelligent native enumerated to me ninety-four towns belonging to the Ketu province. The king, a crowned head, is called Alaketu, as the king of Abbeokuta, Alake. The Alaketu, before the late king, was friendly to Europeans. His messengers were with me at Bagadry in 1851, when I asked for permission to visit Ketu. He also sought the friendship of the Missionaries at Abbeokuta, and accordingly Mr. Crowther went on a visit to Ketu in January 1853, and was well received. His successor, it would appear, was of a different disposition, and our footing gained in 1853 was again lost in 1854, since which time Ketu has been closed against us. A third king has been elected, but he is not yet crowned. In March I sent my three most experienced Scripture-readers on a friendly Mission to the Alaketu, and on this day, the 11th of April, they returned safely, and brought "good news from a new quarter." They reported that they met a very friendly reception from the king and elders of Ketu, as well as from the chiefs and people of the villages they had to pass through, and that the Alaketu says he will be glad to see the white man, &c. My messengers also related how your Yoruba Prayer-book has done some good at Ketu.

Mr. Gollmer himself visited Ketu, and met with a very friendly reception: he remained several days, and had frequent interviews with the king and the principal chiefs: assurances were given that Missionaries should be protected, and that there should be complete toleration for the converts. The question was asked—"Will the king permit the Missionary to come at any time hereafter, say in five or six months, and remain two or three weeks?" The king replied, "It will please me, but six months is too far away: if white men, messengers of God, and merchants, come, all will be glad." The following account is given of a Sabbath spent at Ketu—

Aug. 14—Yesterday morning, when our messengers went to salute the king, as usual every morning, we informed him of the approaching Lord's-day, and that we should be glad if he would permit us to keep service in his court-yard before him, his household, &c. The reply was favourable. Accordingly we went this morning to the king's place, with our tabernacle, or travelling church (i. e. Scripture-readers, carriers, servants, twenty-four in number). The king, not having taken his seat, as prepared for him outside the wall, i. e. in the piazza, we sang two Yoruba hymns, which answered the purpose of ringing a bell, calling the household together. The king appeared, and we commenced the service by singing another Yoruba hymn. I then read some of the prayers, with the Litany, and spoke from the words of the great supper now ready, to which all are invited (Luke xiv. 16—24), showing the provision God has made in the salvation through Christ, of which He wills that all should partake. There was great silence, and, I may say, attention. The king, his household, about fifty women, and a number of children, with some other people, listened well. To secure my being understood, I had my periods repeated by one of our Scripture-readers, as usual. The king and his people were under cover during the service, but we stood in the open court-yard in front of the king, and found the mid-day sun almost too much for us. After service we saluted the king, who thanked us for our work, "to make the world good again."

At the usual time of evening service, we all went into the town, and found a nice open place, and, under one of the trees, a good spot for our purpose. This congregation was by far the largest we have had since we have been itinerating, almost too large to keep sufficiently quiet, for some will talk.

The claim of Ketu for a Missionary will appear from these extracts to be of the strongest kind. The Committee have not yet been able to send one for that station. They commend his case to the prayers of their friends, and anxiously wait for such a supply of labourers as may enable them to occupy this most promising field.*

Translations of the Scriptures.

The arrival of the translation of the Book of Daniel is thus spoken of by Mr. King—

Our converts, I am happy to acquaint you, have welcomed your Book of Daniel with great pleasure. The heroic account of Daniel and his sainted companions are read by them with admirable gratification; but I am sorry to state that the quantity sent has been too insufficient.

NIGER MISSION.

(Commenced 1857.)

No European Missionary has yet joined this Mission; but five European Catechists have been set apart for the work, two of whom are at Abbeokuta and three at Sierra Leone, ready to proceed to the Niger as soon as the opportunity shall arrive for ascending the river.

The Rev. J. C. Taylor came to England in May 1859, at the invitation of the Committee, and much interesting information has been obtained from him respecting the difficulties and encouragements of the Niger Mission. During his visit he resided with the Rev. J. F. Schön, and, by his able assistance and superintendence, the Ibo language was reduced to a regular system of writing and grammar. Mr. Taylor also completed the translation of the Gospel of St. Matthew, the Morning and Evening Prayers of the Church of England, Watts's Catechism, and one or two tracts. The language has thus been clearly laid down for future translators. The British and Foreign Bible Society printed the Gospel of St. Matthew. The Committee thankfully acknowledge the very important and extensive literary labours which Mr. Schön is carrying forward in the Hausa, Ibo, and now in the Nupe (Nu-pé) languages: they recognise, in his residence in this country, a gracious provision for the completion of translations sent home from Africa. He is thus able to do far more than he could have accomplished in Africa; so that his great philological talents, instead of being lost to the African Mission, are more than ever useful to that cause, to which he early devoted himself.

Mr. Crowther has sent home a Nupe Primer, and the first seven chapters of St. Matthew's Gospel, which Mr. Schön is preparing for the press. Mr. Crowther writes—

The first parts of the Primer are constructed as a short history of the creation, the entrance of sin into the world, and the chief prophecies concerning Christ, with a view, First, of bringing from the Scriptures proofs of Christ's sonship before the Moham-medans in this country, who are painfully ignorant; Secondly, to enable the native teachers, who may not have been so well acquainted with these proofs, to refer to those portions of Scripture when required; and Thirdly, that the new converts also may be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh them a reason of the hope that is in them with meekness and fear. Thus in these short easy steps to reading, the chief truths of the Christian faith are attempted to be brought to view.

The slave wars having scattered so many Nupes among the inhabitants of the lower parts of this river, and trade being mostly transacted by nearly all people in the Nupe language, while the more informed speak Hausa also, a great many Igaras and Igbiras speak Nupe: nearly two-thirds of the inhabitants of Gbebe speak it; and I am told by a Kakanda man that all the Kakandas speak it also, the Bassa being only a slight dialect of Nupe. Taking all together, the translations into the Nupe language will be accessible to hundreds of thousands on the banks of the Niger, exclusive of the heathen population in the Nupe country itself.

The promising prospects of this Mission have received some check. In the review of the last year's Annual Report, three stations were given, Rabba, Gbebe at the Confluence, and Onitsha. The Committee regret to state that the most northerly of these, the Mohammedan town of Rabba, has been closed for the present against the Mission. Mr. Crowther left it February 18, 1859, by the land route, to visit Abbeokuta. The native authorities assured him of a friendly welcome upon his return with additional labourers. In June Mr. Crowther made another ascent of the Niger by the steamer, to visit the three stations in succession. This plan was accomplished as far as to Gbebe; but here a message met Mr. Crowther from Dr. Baikie that Rabba had been closed against Missionaries, and he was therefore unable to proceed thither. It can never be a surprise that any Mohammedan country should exclude Christian teachers; but yet some mystery hangs over the sudden change of mind alleged to have taken place in the ruling powers, which cannot be cleared up till further information arrives. Mr. Crowther spent eight weeks at Onitsha, and, altogether, five months in the river; and has furnished the Committee with interesting reports of the two stations, left for a time wholly dependent upon native Scripture-readers.

Unexpected hindrances have also arisen in the navigation of the Niger. Upon the ascent and descent of the trading steamer, the "Sunbeam," and subsequently upon the descent of the "Rainbow," through the upper part of the Delta, armed natives suddenly appeared on the banks of the river, and, without provocation or warning, fired upon the vessels with muskets and with pieces of ordnance. Two men were killed on board the "Rainbow." The matter has been referred to H. M. Government, who have undertaken to investigate the cause of this attack, and to protect, by a gunboat, British trading vessels which may pursue their lawful traffic upon the river. There can be little doubt that the attack was planned and executed by parties on the coast interested in closing the river against lawful commerce, in order to keep up the slave-trade, which now brings down a constant stream of slaves, who are distributed throughout the various branches of the river which form the Delta.

The prospects of success in the Niger Mission were so full of promise, that it was to be expected that opposition would arise, and that the spirit of evil which had hitherto held undisputed sway in those regions, and had made the Niger a by-path of cruelty, oppression, and blood, would not allow without a struggle the approach of those who preach deliverance to the captive. The Committee have, however, no fear of the frustration of their hopes. There are pledges on the banks of the Niger that the way will be kept open—in the souls quickened by the spirit of the Lord, and in the faithful teachers of his truth still residing there. Pledges there are, also, here at home—in an edition of the Gospel of St. Matthew, and in other elementary portions of divine truth, prepared for the use of the people. The Lord has ever interposed on the prayers of his people with a special providence to preserve a free course for his own blessed word. If He suffers a check to arise it is only to exercise their faith, and to call forth their prayers. The Committee, therefore, humbly rest upon the promise, “An highway shall be there, and a way; and it shall be called the way of holiness. The redeemed shall walk there.”

A very full and interesting account of the commencement of the Niger Mission is given in the Journals of Messrs. Crowther and Taylor, published by the Society, in a volume entitled “The Gospel on the banks of the Niger.”

ONITSHA.

Onitsha contains, it is estimated, 13,000 inhabitants. It is a heathen town. The people are very industrious, and fond of trade. They have been involved in continual warfare, and are now very desirous of peace and trading. The factory of Mr. Laird which has been established amongst them for the last three years has drawn many distant traders to Onitsha, and the advent of the Gospel is thus happily associated with the era of peace and social prosperity. Invitations have been sent to the Missionary from many towns within a circle of thirty miles to visit them, and open a Mission amongst them.

The Rev. S. Crowther writes, September 1, 1859—

Every thing continues to go on well at Onitsha, in which place I stayed nearly eight weeks, during the return of the “Rainbow” to the sea. The mud school-room was so far fit for use, that I opened service in it on the 26th of June, with a congregation of fifty natives, adults and children, in the morning, and thirty in the afternoon: it has varied since, increasing to 60, 79, 95, and, on the 14th of August, to 133, owing to curiosity, many being attracted by the presence of Captain Walker of the “Rainbow,” with his ship’s crew, who attended service. Many of the people are frequent attendants on the Lord’s-day: the congregation may be averaged at eighty-three. Though the number of schoolchildren is not yet fixed, and their attendance not regular, yet those who receive lessons in the schools are about forty, including some of the roving boys, who now and then come in for a lesson during the day; but as these are most at liberty in the evening, for them an evening school was opened, and we have had fifteen of these youths several times.

The most persevering of these have not only mastered their letters, but are striving to read the Primer through. Two of the candidates for baptism have drawn back, but there are now five names on the list: four of them are very hopeful ones. The work is on the fair start at Onitsha, and will advance steadily when the station is properly supplied with labourers.

Mr. Romaine, the native schoolmaster writes, November 17, 1859—

Of the scholars in our school, forty-two are very stedfast in coming day and night, and Sunday services, excepting when their time of sowing, reaping, feastings, and sundry of their fathers' superstitious customs, will keep them back sometimes. But I hope and trust that it will not be long before God shall turn away their minds from all their worshipping acts. Therefore I earnestly beg that all the Christian friends in England and elsewhere will assist us in their prayers to God in this behalf.

I feel satisfied and comfortable in the situation I am now placed in, as if called by God; and also feel happy that I was born in light, and am able, by God's assistance, to expound the little I understand about the Scriptures to my poor benighted countrymen. I must ascribe it to God's goodness that he has bestowed upon me grace to persevere in this holy work.

Mr. Crowther gives as the latest returns of this station a congregation of 100 regular attendants at public worship, 13 candidates for baptism, and 61 children in the school.

GBEBE.

The station of Gbebe differs from Onitsha in several particulars. In Onitsha there is only one tribe, and that a heathen one. In Gbebe there are several tribes, and several languages and there are Mohammedans in the midst of the heathen tribes: nevertheless, the prospects are encouraging. Mr. Crowther reports, Sept. 1859—

We arrived at Laird's Town Factory, at the Confluence, on the 26th of August. Messrs. Thomas and Clive, two of the Society's agents here, came off in a canoe, whom I was glad to find well, with every encouragement in their work at this place. I landed with them in the afternoon, and was pleased to find they had exerted themselves to the utmost of their power in putting a temporary roof over the Mission mud-house, which I had planned out for them, to secure the walls from the rains, as well as in collecting a small congregation; but, through the jealousy of the Mohammedan priests, some of their congregation, being Nupes, were frightened back. Yet there are sixteen names on the list of inquirers after the truth, two of whom are Nupes, twelve Eki, or Bunu and Yoruba slaves. The four children who came for lessons have been withdrawn. But a fresh start is being made. I have seen Ana Abokko, the chief of Gbebe, and showed him the advantage of education. He has already set the example by giving one of his nephews as a school boy. I have since received three others from the people of the town.

Mr. James Thomas, one of the native agents at Gbebe, says (Sept. 2, 1859)—

I thank God and the Church Missionary Society, whenever I consider the great things European Missionaries have done in Sierra Leone, and how they took the great pains in teaching us in Sierra Leone, that by this time some of us are able to render help in the service of the Church Missionary Society on the banks of the Niger, and especially myself, a native of Eki, or Bunu. When I was kidnapped from my dear beloved family, and brought down the river in 1834, I did not know that I should have the opportunity of returning back ; but so it has happened, by the providence of God. After I had spent twenty-five years in Sierra Leone, I was permitted to return to my native place, and on the 3d of September 1858 we reached Gbebe, which is a mile below the Confluence. A little while after we landed some of us went on shore. Myself, Edward Clive, and Mr. Isaiah Newland, walked round the town. Soon I met with my two aged uncles. They told me that many of my family were still alive, and wanted me to accompany them to my father's house at once ; but this I could not do at present, because the town of Eki is between three and four days' journey by land from our station. Our station here, in which we labour, has about 10,000 inhabitants: there are three tribes in it—Igbira, Nupe, and the Eki, besides Batta, on the other side, standing on a little hill about two miles from Gbebe. On the left side of the river there are considered to be about 16,000 people, besides children. Now I bless God, as Simeon of old—"Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, according to Thy word, for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation !" Since the factory was removed to the other side of the river, we three men remain in our lodging-place, at a Daganna's house. The Bassa town, on the left bank of the river, is a good situation. My expression to them is, that they must have patience until sufficient hands be sent out from Sierra Leone. I greatly wish to pay a visit to my own tribes (Eki), as well as the Bassa nation. If it had not been for the favour we have received from God, the heathen which surround us might harm us, or drive us out of the field of labour, but this very people have become our friends. Again, to unite with these poor people more fully we want presents, such as cloth, needles, looking-glasses, and other articles. The conduct of this people is very good : a few of them begin to know about Christ, as the Consolation for sinners. One of four candidates, and his wife, have forsaken their old country-fashion : they are now attending the means of grace. In all our visits there is no opposition in our way at all : all the chiefs we met received us as the servants of God, but a difficulty arises out of the many languages mixed in this place. Igbara, Nupe, Eki, Igara, Bassa—all these nations are near together, and every one of them speak their own language, only the Nupe and Bassa people speaking nearly the same tongue. The word which was spoken by the prophet 'Isaiah, that "the wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid," is true with us on this river, for we dwell among the wild heathen. That a wide field is opened by Providence for the extension of the kingdom of Christ among his people cannot be doubted ; and, if this be true, it becomes our duty to make every effort to occupy it. Let all our Christian friends remember the Niger Mission in their prayers ; let them beseech God to compass it about with favour, as with a shield ; that the time may come when the heathen shall be fully given to Christ for his inheritance, and the uttermost part of the earth for his possession.

Mr. Crowther gives, as the statistics of this station, a congregation of forty adults, of whom sixteen are candidates for baptism. The school-children remaining under instruction were only nine.*

Rev. John Rebmann (m.) 1846. .

MR. Rebmann has remained another year in his solitary and isolated position. The greater part of his time has been spent at Mombas, in completing his translation of the Gospel of St. Luke into Kisuaheli. His stay at Mombas was also prolonged by the partial destruction of the Mission house at Kisuludini through the violence of the rains. At the close of the year the house had been sufficiently repaired to allow of his return, with Mrs. Rebmann, to the station.†

MEDITERRANEAN MISSION.(Commenced at Malta in 1815.)Turkey.CONSTANTINOPLE.First occupied, 1819; relinquished, 1821; re-occupied, 1858.European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Charles Gottlieb Pfander, D.D. (m.), to Persia 1825; to India 1839; to Constantinople 1858.

DR. Pfander arrived at Constantinople at the close of 1858. In the present unsettled state of political affairs, he thought it advisable to commence as the minister of a small English congregation at Ortakoi, a suburb of Constantinople, instead of declaring himself at once a Missionary to the Turks. His time has been devoted to the translation of his Persian treatises, addressed to Mohammedans, into Turkish. These works, in their original Persian, had already found readers amongst learned men in Constantinople, who have from time to time visited Dr. Pfander, and conversed with him freely upon the topics of which they treat. There is hope, therefore, that in the Turkish language they will awaken considerable attention.

A house has been engaged in the city, at which two native teachers have resided. The house serves as a depôt for Christian books; and Turks are invited to attend, if they show any inclination for Christian instruction. In Dr. Pfander's annual letter, he writes—

The rooms or establishment in Constantinople have answered very well. Gregor and Athanasius are living there, and have been going among the Mussulmans offering the holy Scriptures and conversing with them in the cafés, and other places as opportunity occurred. I have not yet accompanied them in these excursions, but have confined myself to those who visit us at our rooms. Though these are not many, still their number is increasing. Some come out of mere curiosity, others to make a show of their skill in religious discussions. These are principally Persians; but a few seem to be serious, and earnest in their inquiries. As yet, however, we have no regular inquirers, nor any one who would have been willing to receive regular instruction. Turks who have come forward lately as inquirers after truth are all in connexion with the American Missionaries, through their native Missionary, Mr. Williams.* And I avoid all interference with the course the movement has taken, and have also given directions to the same effect to my native assistants. It is quite right that the Americans should have the first ingathering, having laboured so long and so faithfully in the field, and we heartily rejoice with them in the blessing thus vouchsafed.

The prospects for this work among the Mohammedans we have every reason to consider as encouraging. Mohammedanism cannot stand against European influence. In most instances, however, this influence, I regret to say, leads only to indifference and infidelity. But the distribution of the word of God, and the establishment of Protestant communities in the midst of them, has led many to inquire about Christianity. The Government is aware of the movement, and though they have not persecuted those who have been lately baptized, yet they have removed to a distance several officers who had visited Mr. Williams, as soon as they became aware of the circumstance. How wide the spirit of inquiry has spread cannot be ascertained, nor can we say what may be its immediate results; whether Government will interfere and put it down by force, which no doubt the old reactionary party would like best; or whether God, in his providence, will restrain them, so as to let it take its course. But the movement is a fact, and, as such, both matter of encouragement and cause for earnest prayer on the part of God's people, that his Spirit may descend and breathe into these dead bones the breath of life.

Mr. Wolters, from Smyrna, visited Dr. Pfander at Constantinople in the early part of 1859, for conference and mutual encouragement in the work of a Turkish Mission. The general principles upon which the operations were to be conducted, both at Constantinople and at Smyrna, were settled, in accordance with the instructions of the Society, by these two able and experienced Missionaries.

of Mr. Hildner. The present is the thirtieth year since the institution of the schools. Mr. Hildner has a large Sunday school, and many other opportunities of giving scriptural instruction to those who have formerly attended the school; and it is believed that his labours exercise a very beneficial influence upon other schools in the island, and in neighbouring parts, by testifying to the word of God as the true basis of Christian education. The New Testament and Psalter have been introduced into all the Government schools, as well as various Christian school-books, prepared by Mr. Hildner and other Missionaries. Mr. Hildner has service on the Lord's-day, both in English and German, for the Protestant community, numbering about forty. He has also a depôt for Bibles and religious publications in Greek and other languages.

SMYRNA.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. J. T. Wolters (m), to Persia, 1832; to Syra, 1837; to Smyrna, 1842.

Mr. Wolters has continued to conduct this Mission for another year, as a solitary Missionary, with the aid of two Protestant Greek catechists, Mr. Dalessio and Mr. Montesanto. The reports of the Mission assume a more encouraging character than in any former year.

Mr. Wolters writes in his journal, at the close of the year—

The year 1859 is remarkable in the history of the Smyrna Mission. The Lord has shown us some tokens for good, as I must call them, which lead us to hope that He will not withhold His blessing, if we, with a single eye to his glory and the salvation of souls, continue to do what our hands find to do, in humble and prayerful dependence on his Spirit and grace. I would close, therefore, this year with the prayer of Moses—"Let Thy work appear unto thy servants, and Thy glory unto their children. And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us; and establish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish thou it."

Our native Protestant church consists at present of fourteen adults, and twelve of their children.

In all my communications of former years I have had to lament the inaccessibility of the Turks. No way was open to approach them. During the last year, however, the Lord has made our way of access to the Mussulmans somewhat plainer, and we feel greatly encouraged in this respect. The opportunities of intercourse we have had of late with the Turks lead us to hope that they will increase, and that the Lord is gradually opening the door to proclaim the unsearchable riches of Christ to the deluded followers of the prophet of Arabia.

At the close of the year Mr. Wolters obtained the use, on Sunday morning, of an old Dutch chapel, in a good situation, in a street through which a number of people pass; and as the door is wide and left open, many casual hearers are attracted. The liturgy is used and sermons are preached alternately in Greek and in Turkish. Mr. Wolters writes, "I am very glad and thankful that our services have assumed a more public character, and that an opportunity is given to many natives to witness our simple and scriptural mode of worship, and to hear the blessed Gospel preached in a language which they understand. I consider the obtainment of this chapel as an onward step in our Mission."

Mr. Wolters bears this honourable testimony to his native assistant at Smyrna—

Our dear Mr. Dalessio has been often suffering from his chronic disease—spasmodic asthma—but he, too, has been enabled to attend to his duties, in the discharge of which his zeal is increasing as he grows older and weaker. After many a distressful night, he arises in the morning, though weak and exhausted, and attends to his duties with unabated assiduity. His happiest days and hours are those in which he finds opportunities of speaking on the way of salvation to some Turk, Jew, or nominal Christian. It is with much pleasure that I bear this testimony to Mr. Dalessio's Christian and Missionary character, and the pleasure is enhanced by the consideration that he is a "first-fruit" of the Church Missionary Society's Mission in this town, the late Rev. J. Hartley having been the means of his conversion from Romanism to the Protestant faith, and of his becoming a member of the Church of England, in 1829. Ever since then he has led a steady Christian life, and been the means of promoting Christian knowledge among the inhabitants of this large and populous town. May it please the Lord to spare him yet many a year to labour in the cause which he has in his heart, and to be cheered up in his old age by seeing some of the seed which he has sown spring up and bear fruit to the glory of Him whose he is and whom he has served faithfully so many years.

A great portion of Mr. Wolters' time has always been devoted to translational labours. Since the year 1847 he has translated and printed no less than thirty-six tracts, or rather treatises—for the average number of pages is above fifty—in three different languages, the Greek, Armenian, and Turkish. These works comprise nine of the Homilies of the Church of England, and five separate portions of the Liturgy and Occasional Services, together with the Thirty-nine Articles. These works have been mostly printed at the charge of other Societies—the Religious Tract Society, the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge, and the Prayer-book and Homily Society.

Mr. Wolters' has also printed two of the Gospels and the Acts in Modern Greek, in Roman type, for the use of a large body of Roman Catholics, to whom the Gospel is accessible only in that form. These works are at the expense of the British and Foreign Bible Society. Mr. Wolters bears this testimony to the usefulness of the Homilies of the Church of England amongst oriental Christians—

The Homilies of the Church of England are very well adapted to the capacity and taste of eastern Christians. They give line upon line, and precept upon precept, just as the people are able to bear and to comprehend.

General view of the Mission by Bishop Gobat.

The Anglican Bishop in Jerusalem gives the following general view of the state of the Mission in his annual letter—

Of Missionary work I have but little to say; yet I must candidly say that it has not progressed of late as I wished and expected; but I must also observe, that the exertion on our part has been feeble, whilst the opposition on the part of the Romanist, the Greek, and the Armenians has been increasing, with an abundance of means compared with our poverty. The native Protestant congregation at Jerusalem has kept its ground, under the care of their pastor, the Rev. Mr. Klein. At Ramleh a small native Protestant congregation has been formed, and contains some very promising members: a catechist of the Church Missionary Society and a native schoolmaster are labouring faithfully there; but the Protestants are continually exposed to petty persecution and annoyance. At Jaffa very little is done, the Missionary being too old and sickly to go about in search of lost sheep, and but few people coming to him for instruction: he is chiefly occupied in doing good by dispensing medicine to the poor. The work at Nazareth had also suffered by the absence of the Missionary, the Rev. J. Zeller, for nearly one year; but since his return, four months ago, it seems to revive: the schools especially are flourishing. The work at Nablous, which for years promised so well, has never recovered from the shock it received from the riot of April 1856. Yet there is an encouraging feature, viz. there has been so much scriptural knowledge communicated, that many people declared some time ago, that although they were reluctant to leave the Greek church, they would not conscientiously conform to its tenets; in consequence of which the clergy yielded so far, that they do not enact the fasts, nor the worship and kissing of pictures, nor prayers to the saints, &c. Thus by degrees a little light may enter the Greek church. The few native Protestants at Salt in Gilead, continue to meet almost daily to read the Bible and pray together, and they endeavour to communicate to the wild Arabs around them the little light which they possess.

JERUSALEM.

The Rev. F. A. Klein gives the following account of the Arab Protestant congregation at Jerusalem, and of his labours in the city. The congregation comprises about fifty souls—

My occupation has been, as in former years, the preaching of the Gospel in various ways and places i. e. in our chapel, in my house, in the villages around, in the houses of this city to which I can get access, by regular sermons, catechetically and in a conversational way,—to Christians of various denominations, and Moslems, as far as this is practicable in the present state of things. The amount of success which has attended our labours is small, but there has been some progress. As regards the Jerusalem Protestant congregation, I observe in some of its members a growth in the knowledge and love of the Gospel of salvation; and I cannot but think that even our enemies, Christians and Moslems, must in various points observe the enlightening and ennobling effects of the pure Gospel in some of our people. The members of our congregation are, I am happy to say, united by the bonds of brotherly love: there is neither strife nor dissension; they are endeavouring to guide and edify one another in their holy religion ; they have on several occasions contributed of their own substance and this spontaneously, in order to support their suffering brethren ; a site for a chapel, and some liberal contributions, have been offered by members of the community, and others have offered to work a number of days instead of contributing money, which they cannot do on account of their poverty. All these are signs that they really value the Gospel of Christ, and that it has, to a greater or less extent, influenced their hearts. I have been much pleased during the past year to see how they endeavoured, on several occasions, to contribute something towards the support of the Mission, though, owing to the poverty of the greater part of the community, we cannot expect much. However, we cannot expect to introduce the system of self support in any of our congregations unless they become much larger, and contain a greater proportion of the wealthier class of natives.

There is no doubt that the Gospel here is continuing to work like leaven in the masses of various Christian denominations. I think I may say that there are not many in this city who have not been called upon, more or less directly, to give their attention to the subject of the pure Gospel religion ; and I am happy to say that this work of calling the attention of the people to the pure and saving doctrine of the word of God has not been entirely left to your Missionary agents, but our own people, according to their several capacities, have been labouring as evangelists in their various circles. The subject of Christianity is constantly being discussed in the houses and in the shops, and many of the Greeks &c. are convinced of their errors : many openly acknowledge that ours is the religion of the Gospel : the system of will-worship and men's traditions is tottering, and threatening to crumble down, in many a heart ; but they fear man more than God, they love darkness rather than light, they prefer the treasures of this world to those of the kingdom of God. And this is more especially the case with the wealthy and more influential class, whom self-interest and a wrong feeling of honour prompt to support and strengthen the converts in their dominion over the heart, and in their opposition to the truth.

Bethlehem.

A small number of native Protestants have formed a congregation at Bethlehem, which has been kept together for several years by the occasional visits of Dr. Sandreczki from Jerusalem. Upon Mr. Zeller's return to Nazareth, Mr. Müller removed to Bethlehem. The chief prospects of usefulness appear to lie in the Moslem villages which surround Bethlehem, which may be visited by Mr. Müller as a Scripture-reader to any extent, and in which he is able to dispose of Bibles by sale to many intelligent Turks. His journals furnish many interesting incidents of this kind.

An European catechist, Mr. Grühler, has been placed, as a temporary arrangement, at this out-station. Mr. Klein gives the following account of the work—

In the course of the summer I went to Ramleh, and stayed there four weeks, partly in order to have a change of air, which my family greatly needed, and partly in order to have an opportunity of becoming more intimately acquainted with our work at that out-station, and to do something in furtherance of the work there. The congregation at that place consists at present of fifteen members, one more having joined a few days before I returned to Jerusalem. I think I may say of all of them that they have not joined us from any expectations of worldly gain: several of them did not leave their church (Greek) till after a long time of careful investigation and inquiry. I was glad to observe among them a Missionary spirit, several of them seizing every opportunity, in their shops, in the market, and elsewhere, to preach the Gospel. There is especially old blind Abu Yusuf, who, without being appointed, and without being paid for it, is a zealous Evangelist, setting forth the truth as it is in Jesus, to Christians and Moham-medans, without fear and without shame. A pleasing sign in this little community is, that there is not the bane of constant reliance upon the pecuniary support of Europe. Though most of them are poor, they yet do their best to do something towards the support of the work. They bought themselves a burial-ground. The necessary sum was advanced by the Bishop, and they are now paying off the debt by monthly instalments. They have also ordered a bell, which they pay for by voluntary contributions.

I am glad to be able, from personal observation, to testify that Mr. Grühler labours at Ramleh with much love and zeal, and that he possesses the affection, confidence, and esteem of his little flock, and of many others who attend the service and week-day meetings without belonging to the congregation. He is also making good progress in the knowledge of the vernacular Arabic: he speaks it pretty fluently, and, what is the chief thing, is well understood by the people. The Greeks, of course, try every means—promises, threats, and persecutions—in order to bring back the lost sheep: hitherto they have not succeeded.

KHAIFFA.

The Rev. Dr. Koelle was compelled, by the dangerous illness of his wife, and by his own failing health, to leave this station in the early part of 1859, with no prospect of returning; and as there was not one Protestant or inquirer after the truth in the place, the station must be regarded as abandoned.

NAZARETH.

This central station for Galilee was left without an ordained Missionary for the first part of the year, owing to Mr. Zeller's absence in Europe. He thus writes, after his return and the resumption of his labours—

Much joy was manifested, at our arrival at Nazareth on the 2d of July, by the members of our little community, and a number of them came to meet us on horseback at a beautiful little brook in the plain of Jezreel, about five or six miles distant from Nazareth. They were especially pleased to see amongst them Mrs. Zeller, whom they did not regard as a stranger. I found the number of Protestants greatly diminished during my absence, but the general feeling of the people of Nazareth towards myself was perhaps more friendly than formerly.

The average number of attendants at our services on Sunday is about thirty. The Bible meetings during the week were at first so little attended, that Mr. Huber and Mr. Müller often omitted them. But by my admonitions, and also by the exertions of Mr. Josephson, I soon succeeded in obtaining generally good attendance at these meetings.

Mr. Josephson has had the best possible training as school-master for Palestine. Born in Egypt, and partly educated there, Arabic is his mother tongue: he afterwards had the benefit of six years training in the Malta College, and then became teacher in the Diocesan School in Jerusalem. Besides Arabic, he understands most of the languages spoken in Palestine—English, French, and Italian. I am very glad to say that his heart is in his work. He is nearly all day long among the children, and his leisure hours are employed in working for the school, as he understands many a useful work, as carpentering, bookbinding, for instance. He has opened an evening school for young men, which is very well attended: several of them, though firm Greeks, often join our services and Bible meetings. The average number of children is at present about fifty, and there are now two respectable men at Acca who are desirous to send their children to Nazareth, to be educated at our school.

A Missionary living in so small a town as Nazareth has, of course, a different position to Missionaries in large towns. He is not, like them, comparatively unknown to the natives, nor his house strange to them, but he is a conspicuous, well-known individual; and because, as it is in Nazareth, he has not the comforts in European society, he comes much more in contact with the natives on every side. Thus I have had a great deal of conversation with Greeks, Latins, and Mohammedans, yet I am not able to speak of many inquirers in the strict sense of the word. Six men have joined our congregation in Nazareth during the last half-year, and several great sheikhs from other villages profess perfectly to agree with the doctrines of our church.

The Gospel has been proclaimed, not only in Nazareth, but also in many other places, and even among the Druses. The success is in the hand of God. Peter often threw his net in vain into the sea of Tiberias, but at last the Lord appeared, and crowned his labours with success. Shall the Arabs, who still are the sons of Abraham, never become partakers of the blessings of Abraham? Shall they never partake of the blessing wrought by their ancestor's great Son, while the ends of the earth now come to acknowledge Him as their king? It is most awful and strange how unhappy a fate, how mysterious a spell, has taken hold of the two remarkable nations sprung from the two sons of Abraham—the Israelites and the Ishmaelites. Both nations, though hating one another to this day, concur in sticking with the utmost tenacity to their creed, that there is but one God, but both reject with equal bitterness Christ as their Saviour—the one under the pretext that their Saviour, their Messiah, is still to come, the other, that their Saviour is already come, in the person of Mohammed. Oh, what depth of Satan is confusing men's minds!

Yet how different have been the destinies of these two nations! Whilst the descendants of one son never changed the possession of their old seats of habitation, their language, and their customs, the descendants of the other son, Isaac, are dispersed all over the world, speak all possible languages, and have accommodated themselves to all possible customs and degrees of civilization, yet preserving their pure blood as well as the Arabs of the desert. The one have been trodden under foot by all Christian nations; the other have been made by God the scourge even of the Christians. If we contemplate these wonderful facts, we are obliged to exclaim, with the Apostle Paul, "How unsearchable are His judgments, and his ways past finding out! Who has known the mind of the Lord, or who has been his counsellor? or who has given to him, and he shall be recompensed again?"

JAFFA.

The Rev. W. Kruse has remained at Jaffa throughout the year. His age, and the state of his health, do not allow him to travel, or to engage in active Missionary work. He has a daily concourse of patients for medical advice, but the influence of his principles and of his teaching has hitherto borne little visible fruit. Each Sunday he has three public services—one in Arabic, at which five or six attend, one in English, and one in German: in each of these latter services, there are usually about ten or twelve present.*

The Rev. J. R. T. Lieder continues to reside at Cairo; but after thirty-five years of labour in an oriental climate he is unable to carry on the work of a Missionary; so that Cairo can no longer be regarded as a Missionary station. Mr. Lieder, however, exercises an important influence upon the Coptic church in favour of Scriptural truth and Protestant worship.

DURING the past year the health of the Missionaries in the Bombay Presidency has been mercifully preserved, and no Missionary has been obliged to return to Europe. One who was at home at the last anniversary has returned to his labours in India. There has also been an addition of one native minister to the staff of the Mission. The friends in the Presidency have contributed 1471*l.* in the course of the year to the Society, which exceeds the amount of the previous year by 254*l.*

The statistics of the Western-India Mission exhibit a slight increase in the number of converts: they now amount to 461 baptized persons, of whom 108 are communicants.

BOMBAY.

The Missionary operations in Bombay are under the general superintendence of the Rev. C. W. Isenberg. The Rev. D. Pandurang was the native pastor of the converts, numbering 186, for the first part of the year: upon his removal to the Deccan, on account of the health of his family, the Rev. James Bunter came to Bombay to undertake this pastoral charge. Mr. Isenberg reports that the number of native Christians has remained stationary, the few additions by baptisms having been balanced by deaths and removals. He writes—

The spiritual growth of our native church has not been very striking during the past year; and several instances have occurred which show that there is still much lack of life and vigour of grace in their hearts. Still we have to thank God that there is some progress. In my intercourse with them at their houses, in my communicants' meetings, and in the catechetical classes, I observe an increase of scriptural knowledge, more meekness in submitting to exhortation and reproof, and generally, I think, more affectionate kindness towards one another than before.

Mr. Isenberg has carried on the work of preaching to the heathen at the native poorhouse, at Miss White's school, and at other places, as opportunities offered. A Tamil catechist is also employed amongst the converts, and the people speaking that language.

Mr. Deimler having devoted some time to the study of Hindustani has now entered upon his evangelistic labours among the Mussulmans of Bombay, and those of the east coast of Africa and of Arabia, visiting that port. Mr. Schwarz, of Junir, being in Bombay on Christmas-day took the service in the native congregation, and writes—

The congregation may have numbered about eighty persons, and of them about thirty stayed for the holy sacrament, which Mr. Isenberg, assisted by Mr. Bunter, administered. It was the first opportunity I had of preaching to so large a congregation of native Christians, our congregation at Junir being as yet like a little infant. I hope there is some real life of God in many a member belonging to our native congregation in Bombay.

Education.The Robert-Money School.

The Rev. A. H. Frost continued in charge of the Robert-Money Institution for the first half of the year 1859, while the Rev. Richard Galbraith, B.A. the new Principal, was studying the language. It was afterwards transferred to his superintendence. The Rev. J. Wilson, an East Indian, is a tutor. There has been a considerable increase in the number of boys upon the roll, 213 having been the number in January 1859, and 294 in January 1860, and the attendance was far more regular. Mr. Galbraith expresses the interest which he takes in the work, and speaks highly of the diligence, attention, and good behaviour of the pupils. All are instructed in the Scriptures, and the first class read Butler's Analogy. But not one has, during the last year, offered himself for further Christian instruction. Mr. Wilson teaches daily in the school, and Mr. Isenberg gives lectures once or twice a week. Mr. Galbraith mentions the important and promising field of Missionary labour presented to him by a class of young men, now in various employments in Bombay, who have been educated in this Institution or in Government colleges, and who are willing to meet together for reading the English Scriptures, mainly, however, for the sake of perfecting themselves in the English language. He earnestly pleads for the assistance of a Vice-Principal, both for the advantage of the Robert-Money School, and also to give him time for other departments of labour, four or six hours of the day being now occupied in the school. The local Report states—

Mr. Galbraith has gone into his work with his whole heart, and the Institution has greatly prospered in his hands.

Mr. Wilson reports—

In the evenings, before the school is dismissed, all the boys are assembled in the large hall of the school, and an address in Mahratti is delivered to them. These addresses are short, in the form of exhortations, but to the point, setting before them the errors of their own religion, and the claims of Christianity. Our Christian boys are giving us all the satisfaction we could wish for. Their Christian behaviour is quite exemplary.

Vernacular Schools.

Mr. Isenberg has devoted more labour during the last year to the vernacular schools, “in endeavouring to raise them to a higher state of efficiency as auxiliaries in the spread of the Gospel.” Mr. Sargon has carried on a regular superintendence of the schools.

Miss White superintends five female schools, containing 146 girls and 31 little boys. She writes—“I cannot yet speak of much fruit; but when I recollect what the state of things was when I put my hand to this great work, I cannot help trusting that things are undergoing a change for the better. I ascribe all praise and honour to Him whom it is due. Mr. Isenberg continues to carry on a Thursday-afternoon meeting for the natives in my school bungalow. On Sunday afternoon, also, I have a meeting of adults, when the Bible is read. Each person that can read, reads a verse: then they are questioned in it, from which they derive great benefit."

Mrs. Jerrom superintends an Orphan School, containing fifty-seven girls. twenty-four of whom are rescued African slaves.

NASIK.

The Rev. Messrs. Price, Frost, and Davidson, and the native minister, Daji Pandurang, have been stationed at Nasik. Mr. Price has charge of the native church: the others are more especially engaged in preaching to the heathen, and in itinerating.

Mr. Price gives the following account of his part of the work—

There has been an unusual increase in the number of members this year. Of the persons recently baptized, several are living in villages within a few miles of this place: they are mostly leading men, whose example is likely to exercise a considerable influence for good on many others. The Lord grant that these, which may almost be regarded as the first-fruits of the Nasik Mission, may prove the earnest of an abundant harvest. Of all whom I have baptized I hope well: so far as I am able to judge, they are men of good character, and in earnest about their souls' salvation. None of them have gained temporal advantages by the change, and several have had to pass through the usual trials incident to a separation from heathenism..

Of the state of the Christian community under my charge, I am bound to speak with thankfulness. Doubtless there is much room for improvement. Many of our poor people, just emerged from heathen superstition, are very ignorant, and need much instruction. But still they are willing to learn, and anxious to be taught. The Sunday and daily services, as well as monthly and occasional meetings for prayer, &c., are well attended, and many, I am persuaded, derive profit from these means of grace. I should like to see more spiritual life and Missionary zeal amongst them. Nevertheless, the congregation is not without signs of both, to some extent, which I trust is on the increase. Though many of the congregation are poor, earning not more than five rupees per month, they have contributed out of their poverty, during the past year, upwards of 100 rupees for Missionary and other charitable purposes. Through the year no case has occurred requiring severe discipline, and only two or three which called for reproof. All our native Christians, except a few who are real objects of charity, get an honest living with their own hands ; and, on the whole, there is amongst them an amount of sobriety, honesty, truthfulness, and brotherly love, which strikingly contrasts with the ways of the heathen, and with the conduct of too many of our fellow-countrymen in this land.

The Orphanage and Industrial Institution are working well together, and though they entail a good deal of anxiety and labour, yet the results already obtained, as well as the promises there are of future usefulness, convince me that God's blessing is upon the work, and encourage me to persevere. In order to relieve myself to some extent of the burden and responsibility of the latter institution, and to remove every ground for misapprehension as to its objects, I have thought it desirable to form a managing Committee, to consist of the Missionary brethren and an equal number of other gentlemen of the station.

Evangelistic labours have been carried on regularly, and with little intermission, by myself and native brethren during the year. My plan has been to give each native brother a field to himself, consisting of not more than two or three villages at a time, so that each may be visited twice or thrice a week. For myself, I go first with one and then with another, as I find time and opportunity. In this way the Gospel has been perseveringly preached in ten villages, situate between three and six miles from this place, and listened to with an interest and attention greater than I have ever witnessed before.

I am more and more convinced, that in order to present the Gospel fairly to the acceptance of the heathen, we must give it to them "line upon line." We must water as well as plant, if we would expect God to give "the increase." Guided by this conviction, about a year ago I took advantage of a disposition on the part of the people, and built a small house and schoolroom at Wadala, a village three miles distant. I placed there Fakeera, a young Christian man, who desired to labour in the Lord's work, and directed him to conduct a day school for boys and girls, and to assemble as many adults as he could persuade to come every morning and evening, that he might read to them the Scriptures, and exhort them to follow Christ. He went beyond my instructions, and paid weekly visits to two or three other near villages. He was not left all alone. As often as other duties allowed, some of us went to strengthen his hands and confirm his message. Difficulties rose up like mountains at first, but they dwindled away one after another. The doubts of some were satisfied, the fears of others allayed, and the ignorance of all, to a great extent, removed. Men who were indifferent, or adverse, and who came to quibble, stayed to pray. After a while a good number began to attend the Sunday services at Sharanpur, and seven persons, to whom I have referred above, desired earnestly to make an open profession of their faith in Jesus Christ. This, after a course of regular instruction, they were permitted to do on Christmas-day. Notwithstanding the trials some of them have encountered, I rejoice to add that the movement is going on: a good number have given in their names as candidates for baptism, and many more are persuaded in their minds, though at present halting through the fear of man.

The Rev. C. C. Mengé thus describes a visit to this interesting village—

I was much pleased with what I saw at Wadala, a small village near Nasik, where a school-house has been built, which serves also as a dwelling-house for a native Christian, who teaches the children of the villages, and carries on religious conversations with the grown-up people. The consequence is, that several of the villagers have been baptized. Mr. Price endeavours to carry out the same plan in other villages. The same plan is adopted by our American brethren in Ahmednuggur, and has answered, upon the whole, very well.

Mr. Frost, after his removal from Bombay, resided at Nasik, and had as his assistant the Rev. Appaji Bapaji, a converted Brahmin. Their special sphere of labour was to be the Brahmin population of Nasik. For five months they have gone out daily, speaking with such as they could meet in their verandahs, and in places of public resort. But they find this class in general hard and insensible. Mr. Frost writes—

My association with my native brother, the Rev. A. Bapaji, has been a cause of thankfulness and encouragement to me, and I trust has been, and will still continue to be, attended with mutual advantage. We have laboured together with the affection and confidence that I so much desire to see deepening between the foreign and native ministers. We have met daily to read the Scriptures and unite in prayer, and have read together various books calculated to enlarge our views of Christian truth, and strengthen us in our common work. I have found him always willing and active in carrying on any plan that we thought, after consultation, likely to be useful; and I have often listened with pleasure to his earnest and stirring appeals to his countrymen. It has also been a source of much thankfulness to see his wife gladly working with us, and enduring, even beyond her strength, the fatigue of daily journeys, in order to speak to her countrywomen the message of mercy which we were delivering to the men.

In the beginning of November we left Nasik, for the purpose of itinerating in the surrounding districts, our plan in commencing, and on which we have hitherto proceeded, has been to encamp in the neighbourhood of some large village, and to be guided in all our future encampments by any indications of our direction that might arise during our work.

JUNIR.

The Rev. Messrs. Schwarz and Hofer are the Missionaries at this station, which still exhibits little fruit of the labour bestowed upon it. The number of native converts is only twelve. Mr. Schwarz has been much interrupted by illness and by secular employments in the erection of a Mission house for his associate. At the close of the year he took a Missionary tour with some encouragement. Mr. Hofer is engaged in the study of the language.

MALLIGAUM.

The Rev. E. Rogers has had the superintendence of this station, assisted during the first part of the year by the native Minister, the Rev. Appaji Bappaji. The native congregation comprises twenty-six individuals, of whom ten are communicants. At the close of the year the Rev. C. C. Mengé was attached to this station upon his return from Europe.

Mr. Rogers has, during the year, confined his itineration to the villages within twenty miles of the station. He has been encouraged by a spirit of inquiry which has sprung up in a village twelve miles from the station, called Wadneir, where a guru of the Mahar caste, and his son, have received baptism, having been first led to inquire by other native Christians, and by reading a New Testament. Several other inquirers are in the village and neighbourhood. But the convert encounters much persecution, and, though zealous in imparting the knowledge he has obtained, meets as yet with little encouragement. Mr. Rogers writes, in reference to the native church—

The number of native Christians at the station and in the neighbourhood has varied considerably during the year. At the close of the year the number was twenty-six. Some have since left, and others have come. In a military cantonment we are always liable to these fluctuations. Sometimes a change of regiments will take away some of the most promising boys in our schools, as well as some of the members of our congregation.

The heathen who live near the room where our Sunday services were held formerly kept quite aloof from us. They have now begun to attend the services; and almost every Sunday afternoon of late there have been some of them present. I have baptized, during the year, seven persons—four adults and three infants.

The schools are prospering, containing about ninety children. Four Christian monitors are usefully employed in the boys' school. Mrs. Rogers has established a girls' school.

Mr. Mengé also speaks of the spirit of inquiry at the village of Wadneir, and mentions a remarkable fact, that a Mahar named Bhulsu Boa, who has not himself embraced Christianity, has been an instrument in the hand of God of bringing many others to the truth. He writes—

Bhulsu Boa possesses a vast amount of Christian knowledge, and has composed a great number of Christian poems, and teaches all his disciples the truth as it is in Jesus, yet still remains, outwardly at least, a heathen, fearing to lose his influence if he should be an open professor and baptized convert. He receives from the natives themselves money and food for teaching the way of salvation. This shows that Christian truth commends itself to the conscience of men, and would be professed by vast numbers in this country if it did not involve the loss of caste. Several of the most efficient native helpers in the American Mission at Ahmednugger were originally disciples of this remarkable individual.

SINDH MISSION.

European Mission Establishment :

Rev. Abraham Matchett, 1852.

Rev. Andrew Burn, B.A., 1852.

Rev. James Sheldon, 1854.

Mr. Peter Goodall 1854, Trained Schoolmaster.

Three European Missionaries have laboured throughout the year in this Mission. They have thought it best to separate, so as to occupy each of the three districts into which the province may be divided; the Rev. J. Sheldon occupying Kurra-chi, assisted by the native minister, the Rev. M. S. Seal; the Rev. A. Burn being stationed at Hyderabad, with the assistance of a native Sindhi catechist; and the Rev. A. Matchett removing to Sukkur, in Upper Sindh, accompanied by the native catechist Abdullah.

KURRACHI.

Mr. Sheldon reports of the native congregation, numbering about fifty—

This is only a small company, but, with one exception, has given me much satisfaction. At the late confirmation, nine candidates were prepared, and eight of them presented. The preparation of these youthful members of our little church proved, I trust, a season of great blessing to us all. An English congregation assembles for worship in our temporary chapel on the Sunday afternoon. The attendance has been generally good.

At no period of my Missionary career have I been more encouraged by the number of inquirers than during the last nine months. People of all classes have visited me, including residents of Kurrachi and strangers—Sindhis, Persians, Hill-men, and others—who have visited the port. Many of these have repeatedly visited me, some few statedly : as a matter of course, their motives are mixed, but I humbly trust that a faithfully declared Gospel has not been lost upon them. Many of our young inquirers, I am persuaded, are convinced of the truth of Christianity, but are kept back from an open profession, solely through fear of severing the family tie. One fact is, however, very clear, and it is most encouraging—a spirit of inquiry is stirred up, and, with the blessing of our God, will tend to glorious results. With the increase of the number of inquirers will be the sympathy of numbers, and then even the powerful tie of family will not be too strong to be severed, or prevent these youthful inquirers from following out their convictions.

The Kurrachi Committee have, in every possible way, aided me from their disposable funds in carrying on the several local institutions of the Mission. The press, the school, and bazaar shop, at an average monthly expenditure of 135 rupees, have been solely supported from this source. Grants for building purposes, to the sum of 925 rupees, have also been cheerfully voted me by the Committee.

To secure a stated place in the bazaar where the preaching could be carried on without interruption, I hired a shop in one of the principal thoroughfares, and, supplying a bookseller with a stock of Scriptures and tracts in Hindustani, Sindhi, Mahratti, Guzeratti, Persian, and English, made it available for the sale of our English books, as well as for preaching the Gospel. This attempt has, so far, been encouraging. It is now well known that we preach, and our stated visits three times a week are generally well attended.

The free school has been conducted by Mr. Goodall. As far as my other duties would admit, I have endeavoured to assist the schoolmaster by taking the first class daily, and giving lessons occasionally to the other classes. I trust that the school has, on the whole, improved, but much remains to be done before it can have the status which a Mission school in a town like Kurrachi should have. A new schoolroom is in course of erection in the Mission compound, and, when completed, will give us the double advantage of a more convenient building than the one now used, and a better situation.

Our lithographic press has been constantly at work during the last three months. In the superintendence of this I have devoted, on the average, four hours daily. Since its establishment the press has proved a powerful engine of usefulness: more than 11,000 impressions of Scriptures and tracts have been struck off. These have been circulated amongst all classes of the people, and numbers of copies, both of Scriptures and tracts, in Sindhi and Persian, have been carried away by travellers into the countries beyond the frontier. But I think the time has come when our printing establishment should be enlarged.

HYDRABAD.

Mr. Burn has occupied this station with the assistance of a native Sindhi catechist, formerly a Mohammedan. Mr. Burn writes—

The chief events of the year that has passed, to our Mission, have been the departure of Mr. Matchett and Abdullah to take up Sukkur as a permanent station, and the coming of Nasar Ullah, a native Sindhi convert from the Mission of the Church of Scotland in Bombay, to fill the place of catechist in Abdullah's stead.

I looked forward with apprehension to the departure of our two oldest and ablest Missionaries, as an occasion the enemies of our work might take advantage of; but, after so many months of hard fighting, have gratefully to acknowledge the fulfilment to us of the promise made in such emergencies, of a mouth and wisdom which the adversaries have not been able to gainsay or resist.

The coming of Nasar Ullah caused considerable excitement, as, for some time, we have been met with the objection, that, after so many years of preaching, no Sindhi had been converted. This refuge, by Nasar Ullah's coming, has been taken away from them, although not through our instrumentality, and there has been a desire manifested to see and hear this "prodigy of wickedness," as they picture to themselves a recreant to their faith to be. Night after night has found us engaged in the bazaar, so long as light held out, and great, occasionally, was the wrath with which the Mussulmans, one and all, assailed the deserter from their paths. Each was anxious to give individual expression to his indignation, and his own unshaken faith, and then all would join in one discordant shout. They would not go, and would not stay: to go was to acknowledge their inability to answer; to stay was to hear what they considered blasphemy; so they swayed to and fro till truth, or a blind zeal, prevailed to fix their attention, or drive them off.

It was often an instructive scene to witness. From the fierceness and malignancy of their attacks, you would imagine some evil spirit must be the object; and it was strange, instead, to see one calm and gentle amongst them, bayed by all around—Affghaner, Dekkaner, Beluchi, and Sindhi Mussulmans, in league or by turn. It was evident that the contrast struck them as something incongruous when they gave their better feelings opportunity to work, and a Christian looking on could not but silently rejoice in the testimony thus afforded to his religion, as not a mere set of opinions, but a spirit of power and love. It is very much due to the unruffled composure and kindness, under all provocation, which our native brother has been enabled to maintain, that opposition has gradually lost a good deal of its bitterness, and a deserter from Islam is not now looked on as so black a character.

The addresses on this tour have been more especially characterized, from the turn of Nasar Ullah's preaching, by an appeal to Christ's death and resurrection, as giving to his a distinction above every other name under heaven as that alone by which we must be saved. And it has been this simple statement of facts, with the doctrine grounded on them, that has taken much hold of the attention of the people. The resurrection of Christ would seem, indeed, to have been selected by the wisdom of God as the especial seal of his revelation; it stands out so distinct, so full of the hope of life and immortality, in contrast with all the false systems it has to come in conflict with.

From this review of our proceedings, you will gather, I think, that it is the Mussulman portion of the community that has been chiefly wrought on, both from the circumstance that the chief preacher was a convert from them, and also that he was, in consequence, the better able to understand and meet their feelings and prejudices. It is this circumstance which has led us to desire to obtain the services of a Hindu convert to work with like advantage on the Hindus.

With regard to other agencies, the sale of Scriptures in the shop opened in Hyderabad by the liberality of the Bombay Committee of the Bible Society, has been encouraging. At the beginning of the year we determined to lower the prices of all our books, to an amount only sufficient to guard against their purchase as waste paper. There has been, on these terms, a steady demand, chiefly for books in Sindhi and Punjabi, in the Gurmukhi character. One whole edition of the Gospel of St. John has been sold off, and is now reprinting. Great numbers of the smaller portions of Scripture, as the sermon on the mount, &c., printed separately, both in Arabic and Gurmukhi character, have been sold to boys, scholars in Government and native schools, and, we have reason to believe, have been adopted as class books, in some instances, in the latter.

The demand for our books amongst the Hindus has been so great, that a Banyan, on his own undertaking, has hawked them for sale both in the town and country round. Since coming out on our tour we have met with several instances in which our books have been obtained and read by these several means, but our supply of works is yet very inadequate, owing, principally, to the few portions of the Scriptures or tracts yet translated.

During the past year a revision of St. John's Gospel has been made, before reprinting, the printing of which is now nearly completed at Kurrachi.

Also a new translation of St. Luke's Gospel has been completed, and considerable preparation made towards the translation of Genesis and part of Exodus, and the book of Acts.

In these translations we have been assisted by the liberality of the Bombay Committee of the Bible Society, who have hitherto defrayed the charges for the salaries of the necessary pundits and munshees engaged.

SUKKUR.

Mr. Matchett writes respecting his new station—

Various considerations led to the preference of Sukkur above other towns for the Missionary head-quarters. Subsequent experience has justified the choice. Our labours have been confined to bazaar preaching, and in this work we have in some respects met with more encouragement than in Shikarpur, the congregations in Sukkur being generally larger, more attentive, and more intelligent than in the latter. None, however, have offered themselves for instruction or baptism, except one man, a Mohammedan; but this man has hitherto shown so much indecision, that I have not felt justified in putting him down as an inquirer.

It is, however, matter of some encouragement that the people are coming by degrees to have a clearer and juster conception of the claims of our religion. And we may hope, with God's Spirit's blessing, these clearer views will eventually lead to action. We have no Mission school, and, in our present circumstances, it is not in our power to commence one. I beg to urge upon the consideration of the Committee the desirableness of employing for the work in Upper Sindh an additional catechist, and three or four Scripture-readers. If the proper men can be found, the large towns of Shikarpur, Larkanah, Kumbar, and Roree might be much more effectually worked.*

CALCUTTA.

THE Rev. Messrs. Sandys and Long have continued their patient and zealous labours in Calcutta and its neighbourhood. The Rev. J. Vaughan returned in recruited health from a sojourn at the Cape, and resumed his charge of the Mirzapore Anglo-Indian school, and his share of the general duties of the station ; the Rev. R. P. Greaves has had charge of the church in Cornwallis-square ; and the Rev. H. C. Milward of the operations in Allipore and Kidderpore till the close of the year, when the health of his family obliged him to resign his Missionary duties and return to England.

The usual annual letters have not yet been received from some of these Missionaries.

The three stations in Calcutta and its immediate neighbourhood of Mirzapore, Cornwallis-square, and Kidderpore, comprise about 400 native Christians, besides those at Agur- para, Kistopore, Khamarghatee, and Thakerpooker, which contains about as many more: between twenty and thirty adults have been baptized during the year.

Various schools are connected with these stations, numbering more than 2000 children, chiefly boys.

Mr. Long reports of his labours at the Mirzapore English school—

I have continued, as in former years, the plan of devoting the forenoon of three days weekly to the instruction in Scripture and God's book of nature, of the Christian and Hindu boys on the Mission compound. I have been struck, as in former years, with the fact how much easier and pleasanter Bible truth enters their minds when communicated through the native language; but, above all, when, with classes of Hindu boys before me, I have been astonished at the power which Hinduism, with its various rites and ceremonies, has over the young mind. The real training is with the mother and in the social circle, and until more is done in female education, I despair of seeing much effected to leaven Hindu society with Christian principles. I have aimed, in the teaching of these boys more at reaching their hearts and conscience, and interesting them more in the Bible, than in merely cramming the memory with a number of dry facts, and rather at engraving a few leading truths in their minds, than in preparing them to pass an examination in Scripture.

Mr. Vaughan reports respecting his department—

The Christian boys' school and Orphanage is in a promising condition. There are in connexion with it eighty boys. These are partly orphans, and partly the children of our native Christians—about an equal number of each. I am trying hard to break through the old system of supporting the children. It was formerly the same in this school as in the Kishnagurh district—the boys were freely fed and clothed. It is no longer so. I have established the rule that none but orphan boys shall be thus maintained. So long as our Christians do not help themselves, they will never help us in the great work we have in hand.

I daily give a Bible lesson in our English school to the senior boys. I have adopted another plan, which seems to tell well. Twice in the week I bring together the whole school, consisting of nearly 400 boys: I then read a portion of Scripture, and give them an address in Bengalee.

Preaching to the Heathen.

The Missionaries have devoted much of their time to the preaching in the streets of Calcutta, as well as in the villages, and occasionally they have taken tours, to a greater distance, sometimes with the Missionaries of other stations.

The Rev. J. Long thus describes a tour which he made to the south—

I have just returned from a visit to Orissa and the temple of Juggernath. While there, I had much intercourse with civilians, natives, &c.; and I saw very much of pundits and priests connected with the temple. I am happy to tell you that the disconnexion of the Government from direct management of the temple is producing very good effects. The superintendency has been placed in the hands of the Rajah of Khurda; and he does not give the priests half the sums Government used to allow them. The priests therefore are grumbling very much, and wishing the Government would again take the management into their own hands.

Our friends in England receive so many Missionary accounts from cities in India, and where Hinduism appears under a mild form, that people are apt to fancy Christianity is rapidly spreading through the country. Alas! all that I see of the country more and more convinces me that we have as yet only tapped the surface. I heard much of Bible and Tract distribution in Orissa; but, when I went there, almost all inquiries led to the conclusion that very, very few of the people could read—education is almost nil. I ask, as a matter of plain common sense, how can we expect Christianity to pervade the masses in this country when they are utterly unable to read God's word, and when but few Missionaries have that competent knowledge of the language which would enable oral instruction to supply the want of a knowledge of the written word? Near the temple of Juggernath I heard a pundit expounding the Shasters to an attentive body of hearers. With what force and fluency did he enlarge on the life of Krishna! his manner, intonation, were all so infinitely superior to what are used by Europeans.

In Orissa, when I stood amid the splendid shrines of ancient days, amid their deserted cities and abandoned Buddhist caves—when I saw how the votaries of Hinduism pay, aye, and that liberally, for their religion—I have felt that, after all, when we complain of the difficulty of getting native Christians to pay towards the support of their teachers and catechists, it just shows that it is not owing simply to the native character, for idolaters, as in Orissa, pay liberally;—it must be that Christianity has taken very little root in the soil of their hearts.

BURDWAN.

There has been no change in the Missionaries at this station: the Rev. B. Geidt and the Rev. A. P. Neele have conducted the Mission. Mr. Geidt reports—

Our Mission work here is going on as usual. On the whole, our congregations have walked consistently, with some exceptions; and the brethren engaged in this Mission lead a Christian life with their families. My vernacular preachers, who have frequently been out on tours alone, and at other times accompanied me, are devoted men, and well up in their work. Those who know not English, and receive but small salaries, are generally found to be by far more useful among their countrymen, than those who know a little English. The latter are often very proud, and dislike to itinerate, as it is connected with a little trouble.

The schools, too, are carried on in the same way as hitherto. Yet as preaching to the heathen is so important, I have not devoted so much time to the vernacular schools lately as in former years, but have gone frequently, with a catechist or two, in the neighbourhood around Burdwan, and proclaimed to them Christ the Saviour of sinners.

Mr. Neele has assisted in the general duties of the station, though his chief employment has been the superintendence of the educational department. He has continued to hold an evening Bible class for the benefit of youths educated in schools from which the Scriptures are excluded. He writes—

I have visited the out-station of Myramee (Meramee) once each week. The school there is well attended, and, through the fees of the pupils, contributes to its own support. The Christian catechist who lives in the place assists in the instruction, his special sphere being the religious teaching. He likewise preaches in Myramee and the surrounding neighbourhood, and strives, I trust, by the consistency of a Christian life, as well as by word, to spread a savour of the Gospel.

I am unable to report any new features or any striking results in connexion with the work of preaching. It has occupied, as formerly, a good share of my time. I have varied it, however, more than previously, by calling at the houses of educated Hindus. I generally find a ready admittance, and a willingness to discuss religious topics. I not unfrequently meet with those who, either at school or otherwise, have had serious impressions with respect to Christianity; and an opportunity is thus obtained of strengthening those impressions. In company with Mr. Milward I have been out for a few weeks on a preaching tour in the district. Upon a general view of the present condition of the Missionary work in this land, there can be no doubt that, through the instrumentality of the various operations carried on in different parts of the country, a considerable amount of scriptural knowledge is being disseminated among the people.

Education.

Mr. Neele reports—

The English school in the town of Burdwan has occupied a considerable share of my time on several days in each week. It has not, during the past year, suffered so much from fluctuations in its attendance as in other years. The numbers have been high; so much so, that at the present time there is not sitting room for a single new admission. The establishment of a few scholarships in the first class has had a good effect in inducing the youths to prolong their attendance. I would that I could report that some from amongst the number of the pupils had made up their minds to profess their faith in Jesus. This is not, indeed, the case; still evidences occasionally appear, proving that Christian teaching is exerting considerable powers, the results of which we cannot but hope will eventually become apparent in large accessions to the Christian ranks.

Our orphan-girls' school is quite full, several orphan children having been sent to us during the year. The children of the native Christians are taught with the orphans. An infants' school is also carried on. The oversight of these is chiefly undertaken by Mrs. Neele. The expenses connected with the maintenance of the orphans have been very great; but we have been able to carry on the school without drawing any thing from the Society. Mrs. Neele continues also to carry on a small school in the neighbourhood for heathen girls.

Preaching to the Heathen.

Mr. Geidt makes the following remarks upon a tour taken along the great trunk road which runs through Burdwan—

We were kindly permitted to occupy the bungalows on the great trunk road, which are twelve or thirteen miles distant from each other. In each we remained from eight to twelve days. Vaughan and I, and my two native preachers, went out every day twice, and preached the Gospel of salvation in about seventy villages, and in some places we were several times. Through God's goodness we were all preserved in health and safety.

The difference observed in favour of our religion, compared with former years, is most striking. In places where a Missionary then could hardly open his mouth, he is now heard gladly. Some who were formerly our fiercest opponents have become our friends and encourage us. A great Zemindar of ———, who formerly blasphemed the Lord Jesus Christ, and used the most offensive terms to my preachers, now asks me "to pray for them," and stay in one of his houses whilst we preach in his neighbourhood. He showed marked attention to Brother Vaughan and myself, ordering all his people to leave the place whilst we were with him, that he could open his heart and speak freely to us. In another place, where the people were most boisterous, a man, a goldsmith, told Nuddeachund that he had once received a Gospel and a tract, which had opened his eyes. He was now no longer worshipping idols, but bowed in secret before the one living God; but he dared not tell the people his convictions, as they would persecute him.

Mr. Vaughan who accompanied Mr. Geidt in this tour thus expresses his prospects of the future—

In speaking of our experience, I shall only give our general impressions. The details of a preaching tour have a good deal of sameness in them. But in going from village to village, conversing with the people and listening to their arguments, certain convictions are formed in the mind of a Missionary. These convictions are rather the result of an aggregate and extended view of the work, than derived from a few special instances: certain feelings and impressions are deepened within him the more he sees and hears, but he might not find it easy, perhaps, to give in detail the data upon which these opinions are founded. One feeling, then, which is shared in common with myself and my brother Geidt, is, that God is, in a very marked way, preparing the people of this district for some great change: we believe that it will be a blessed and a glorious change. It is impossible for a person to move about amongst this people, and to watch the workings and operation of their mind, without getting this impression. Most assuredly Hinduism is daily losing its hold upon the affections of the people: a deep and wide-spread scepticism prevails on the subject; and perhaps it is no more than the truth to say, that a large proportion of the people have no faith in it at all. The trammels of caste, also, are most certainly being broken through, especially with reference to the Brahminical order. The Brahmin is daily becoming less and less an object of superstitious awe and veneration: he is gradually sinking to the common level. And together with all this, it is abundantly clear, first, that the knowledge of Christianity is being widely diffused. You cannot visit a single village in this large district where some of the principles of the Gospel are not known. And further, it is our deliberate conviction that there is a growing feeling in the minds of multitudes, that Christianity must be the true religion. Many a time, in returning from preaching, does the remark spontaneously fall from each of us, "Depend upon it, God will ere long do a mighty work in this country."

In a subsequent letter Mr. Vaughan writes that the foregoing remarks apply to the district through which the influence of the Mission at Burdwan had extended. When he proceeded beyond that influence, the aspect of things was far less promising.

KISHNAGURH.

No change has taken place during the last year in the agents of the Kishnagurh district. The Committee had appointed a young Missionary, the Rev. J. L. Knight, B.A., to join the Mission; but his health failed after a few months' residence in India, and he was compelled to leave the country. The Committee cannot report any improvement in the general aspect of the Mission, of which a full-drawn and faithful description was given in the last year's Report.

Romish aggression.

The last Report recorded a Romish aggression upon the Sudder station. Another advance of that pernicious system has been made during the year just closed. The converts in two neighbouring districts unhappily went to law upon questions connected with land claims or rights. Some Missionary agents engaged in the law-suits, fearing that they might forfeit their office in consequence of their litigious spirit, in opposition to the remonstrances of this Missionary, and, like the unjust steward, desiring to provide against their loss of office, applied to the Romish priest at the Sudder station, to establish a Mission and a school amongst them, hoping to be taken into his pay. He came, and commenced a Mission by engaging the discontented agents. Pecuniary inducements soon filled his schools, and the congregations of weak Christians were thrown into confusion. Mr. Lincké writes, in September 1859—"After about four months' time they all returned, with the exception of four families who are in the service of the Romish Missionary. But there is no saying whether others may not go over by and by." "Religion had nothing whatever to do with the origin of this movement, neither, in fact, has it now."

At a conference of the Bengal Missionaries held at Kishnagurh on the 26th October 1859, the whole of the circumstances of this movement were reviewed or discussed; and the opinion of the conference was expressed in the following Resolution—

It appears that no religious views or feelings have had any thing to do with the movement: the gratification of private grudge, and the desire of temporal advantage, seem to be the only motives at work. Many, whose hopes of pecuniary or other assistance have not been realized, have repented of the step, and have come back; and there is little fear that persons actuated by higher principles, or possessing any stability of Christian character, will be seduced. While the brethren deeply mourn over the presence of these evils in their midst, they would fain hope that the trials may be mercifully overruled for good; and may act as a salutary test of the measure of Christian principle and firmness which exists among these flocks. They feel that they ought not to exhibit an undue anxiety to bring back those who, from unworthy motives, may apostatize, but rather leave the matter in the hands of God; using, at the same time, all proper means of guarding their people against the errors into which the adversary is attempting to beguile them. In particular, they think it desirable that the unscriptural doctrines and practices of the Romish communion should be clearly pointed out, both to the pupils of the Santipore Institution, and to the more intelligent of the children in our Christian schools, when suitable opportunities offer in the course of their religious instruction.

The Bishop of Calcutta in his Primary Charge confirms the view taken by the Missionaries in the following extract, (page 40)—

In mentioning the present causes for discouragement, we cannot pass over the misconduct of some among the native Christians themselves. For instance, in the district of Kishnagurh, of which such bright hopes were conceived a few years ago, some nominally-Christian families lately endeavoured to gratify a private grudge against a catechist, by calling into their village a Roman-Catholic priest, and placing themselves under his teaching. That I am not uncharitable in attributing this motive to their conduct, is proved by their own evidence, for out of no less than twenty-one elaborately-stated reasons which were drawn up in their justification, only one had the slightest reference to religious belief, and this was the childish argument that the Roman-Catholic body must be the true church, because we find in the creed, "I believe in the Holy Catholic church." The other twenty were simply complaints against their pastor and the catechist, including in particular such as these—that boys in the Protestant school do not get cloths and dinner free; that early marriages are discouraged; and that no pensions are given to superannuated teachers. The rest were a mere collection of village gossip and personal complaints. The movement, I hear, is dying away, either because funds to carry it on are failing, or because (what we should be glad to believe) both priest and proselyte may have felt that a change of religion for such motives is the vilest apostacy. Still the occurrence is disheartening; yet not more so than the ingratitude and instability which must have vexed St. Paul's soul at Galatia and in Corinth, when his children in Christ Jesus denied his apostleship, and were removed from him that called them into the grace of Christ to another Gospel, which is not another. And we must not forget, that by such discouragement God calls us all to review our work, to consider whether we are carrying it on with real devotion and self-sacrifice, and humbly seeking on all sides for means to improve it, not only by girding ourselves more resolutely for the Christian contest, and seeking to conform our own dispositions more exactly to Christ's image, but also by looking for help to the advice, the experience, the observation of others, knowing that at no period of history did the church of Christ require, more urgently than at present, the spirit of wisdom, as well as the spirit of zeal.

General view of the Mission.

The Rev. J. G. Lincké laments the spiritual deadness which prevails among the converts, and the dissatisfaction which they openly profess at no longer receiving the large pecuniary assistance which they once did. He writes respecting the Solo and Bollobpore congregations—

The same bad spirit has taken possession of by far the greater number of the people. Discontent, unreasonableness, stirring up of strife, and causing divisions amongst the congregation, have become quite common, and especially so at the present time. But God be praised that there are at least some, though few they be, who by their prayer, example, counsel, &c., stem the current of destruction, at least in a measure, from overflowing the whole. That their number may be increased, and they themselves strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man, in my constant and fervent prayer to God.

In the same painful terms Mr. Lincké describes the state of things at the close of the year: but he adds—

Notwithstanding these discouraging and sad appearances, my native assistants assure me that the general state of the people is infinitely better than it was in those days when so much pecuniary assistance was afforded, especially better as to religious knowledge, which I also believe.

Mr. Hasell gives a similar view of present discouragements and also of future hopes—

The Mission has been very like a large hot-house, and it is no wonder that some of the plants should fade and look sickly for a time, now that they are exposed to the influences of a more natural atmosphere. I believe, however, that in time they will be healthier and more independent, but it will take time, it may be years: meanwhile we may go on gradually withdrawing aid, and wait, and watch, and pray. Taking the history of many of the early churches as our guide, and considering the peculiar temptations to which a people like the Bengalees first emerging from heathenism are daily exposed; considering, too, that there are still living here many who were among the first baptized in the whole district, and remembering that, whether as to morals or religion, habits are only gradually formed; I do not think our people, bad though they be, are worse than many Europeans who have been brought up and educated under far more advantageous circumstances.

In these agricultural villages I do not think the time has yet come to do much in the way of general education, unless the officials connected with Government take an active interest in it. I was out during the whole of the months of December and January of last cold season, and visited all the villages in the vicinity of Dwipehunderpen and Purbosthali. The Gospel was not a new message. In some places we were unable to get hearers; in others the people listened attentively. There appears to be, however, a sort of stolid indifference in the minds of most of those who know the general features of the Gospel, or who have come in contact with the Christians, which is at times trying to the preacher. The same remark holds good with reference to the villages in the neighbourhood of Chupra: there is no desire to hear, none even for books or tracts on the subject of Christianity. It seems as though the spirit of slumber had seized the whole people, for they do not even oppose vigorously. The present appears to me to be a time of waiting and expectation, in which our faith and patience will be tried, and in which, while we use with the utmost diligence the means within our reach, we must be unceasingly wrestling for a Pentecostal blessing to be poured out on the whole population, both Christian and heathen.

Mr. Dyson gives a similar representation of the Mission—

Certainly the reports from the Kishnagurh district for a number of years have not been of a very bright hue. They seem to have settled down into unbroken despondency. The causes of this are not difficult to divine. But the obvious one of course is, that these Missions have, humanly speaking, failed—failed, i. e., with respect to the expectations that were formed of them at the commencement. But I think we should be erring as much on the side of despair as perhaps we did on the side of presumption, if we were now to conclude that these Missions were altogether barren of good results. Thus in our Sudder station of Kishnagurh, although the Papists have again established a Mission here, and although many of our so-called Christians are notorious bad characters, yet there is abundant evidence for concluding that Christianity has taken root here deeply. The Gospel of Christ is both embraced heartily, as being the only true religion, and it is exercising a living ameliorating influence upon the people. Though displaying much weakness and instability of character, and sometimes some inconsistency, there is still the root of the matter in many. And we have need of special grace that we may walk before them as spiritual men, being animated by high and holy motives, and having only a single eye to God's glory.

Education—Santipore Training Institution.

The report of the Santipore Training Institution for June 1859 states that the number of pupils, disposed in four classes, was forty-two; that thirty-five had been confirmed by the bishop upon a late visit to Kishnagurh; and that most of the boys of the last year's admission have been found more promising than those of previous admissions. With respect to the general behaviour of the pupils Mr. Stern reports—

Most of the first-class pupils, ten in number, although they are now sufficiently advanced for the management of vernacular schools, are still so young, that giving them employment now might prove detrimental to their promising, but not yet sufficiently settled characters. I therefore trust that the original plan will be carried out, and most of the first class will be permitted to enjoy another year's training. A course of lessons on the Evidences of Christianity, the Hindu and Mohammedan controversy, Church history, &c., will be highly desirable for them, as I trust some of them will, in the course of time, prove worthy of being entrusted with a more weighty charge than that of school teachers. The behaviour, as well as the diligence of our pupils, their interest in their lessons, and particularly in their Bible instruction, has, with few exceptions, been satisfactory and encouraging. We have had ample proofs that the result of our teaching and training has not only been the developing and increase of their mutual powers, but, above all, the moulding of their characters and the elevating of their minds.

I conclude this year's account by asking my brethren and fellow-labourers kindly to assist me in this arduous and responsible charge—for the performance of which the writer is sufficiently conscious of his insufficiency—by their advice, and especially by their prayers;—prayer for that Spirit from on high, who alone is able to make this Training Institution a place for training souls for an everlasting purpose, and who alone can prepare labourers and warriors for that kingdom, which, though now a hidden one, will appear in its glory at the coming of the Lord.

Mr. Cuthbert was present at the examination of the Institution in July, and reports that the proficiency of the youths in the several branches of their studies was highly creditable both to their teachers and themselves. "It is evident," he writes, "that the Santipore Institution has begun to act upon our Christian schools in improving the tone and raising the standard of teaching in them as a general rule."

BHAGULPORE.

This station has been under the charge of the Rev. Messrs. Droese and Erhardt. The Rev. T. E. Hallett joined the Mission in the course of the summer, with a special view to the work amongst the Santhals.

The Bishop of Calcutta visited the station at the close of the year, and has kindly furnished the Committee with the following remarks upon the station—

The first station visited during the present tour was Bhagulpore, where I saw Mr. Droese, Mr. Erhardt, and Mr. Hallett. The school which I examined is well managed: the first class answered some of my questions very well, and the English teaching seemed successful. In this school are some Santhals and Paharees (hill-men). These tribes are quite different, though their faces have a general resemblance, and are certainly of an African type. But their languages are different, and the Santhal religion (though vaguely acknowledging a Supreme Ruler) mainly consists of ceremonies to avert the wrath of ghosts and evil spirits: in the Paharee religion the fear of spectres is subordinate to the worship of a good spirit. Hardly any progress is yet made in the conversion of either, from the Missionaries being very imperfectly acquainted with their languages; but Mr. Hallett intends to learn Santhalee thoroughly, and will, I hope, live among the people. The jungly hill-tops in which the Paharees live, are said to be very unhealthy, but there is no such objection to the Santhal valleys, which run up between the Rajmahal hills, and here I think that two or more Missionaries should be established and work among the Santhals, as the Baptists do among the Karens. Mr. Droese and Mr. Erhardt are carrying on a good work among the Hindus in and round Bhagulpore, having about 300 native Christians under their care, who seem in a satisfactory state as to morality and industry. The Mission church is very pretty, both in architecture and situation. I was pleased both with the demeanour of the congregation and with their singing. Some of the native Christians here have become soldiers in the regiment of hill-rangers. A few of these, separated often and long from the means of grace, have fallen into evil ways, yet there are not wanting proofs that native soldiers, even under such disadvantages, may lead lives of genuine piety.

Santhal Schools.

Mr. Hallett, at the close of the year, takes this review of the work amongst the Santhals—

To sum up. We have in the Damun, or Rajmahal hills, twelve schools in connexion with the Church Missionary Society, with a register of 422 boys under instruction. The class of boys training for masters in the Bhagulpore Training School will open this term with thirty-two Santhal boys. Three or four of these are so far advanced as to lead me to hope that they will be fit to take charge of new schools by the end of the current year, by which time I trust, under God, to have some Hindu gurus, who I am placing under Mr. Erhardt for a few months training, in charge of schools in villages which have expressed a wish to have their children taught. It will from this be seen that the scheme for educating and civilizing the Santhals, so nobly undertaken by the Church Missionary Society when the Government shrank from doing its duty, is steadily making head, and promises, with the help of the Almighty, to stand recorded in the history of a nation as the turning-point where civilization and a knowledge of the true God first confronted and overthrew the ignorance of devil-worship, under which their forefathers had governed for ages. May God in his infinite mercy grant this !*

observations are embodied in the following extracts from a valuable letter, dated January 17, 1860—

At Benares the Mission is very strong, but they have not had much encouragement this year. Here I had long and interesting conversations with Mr. Smith, the senior Missionary, and one of the best Urdu scholars in India; and also with Nehemiah, the catechist, certainly one of the ablest and most remarkable of the native Christians whom I have seen, and now engaged in writing (in Sanskrit) a Refutation of the Shasters. Here, too, I examined Jay Narain's College, where the first class did well in Scripture and the outlines of English history, but ought to attend more to English literature, as it is very desirable that the Mission Colleges should be able to take a fair place in the examination of the Calcutta University. The map-drawing and English handwriting were remarkably good; some of the maps which the boys gave me will, I hope, be hung up in my study in the palace. I formed a high opinion of Timothy Luther, the native-Christian head-master, who is also very well spoken of by the Government Inspector. We also visited Mrs. Smith's school for native girls, numbering about eighty, whom she patiently, but with difficulty, gathers into her fold, by employing women to go daily from house to house and bring them.

At Chunar and Allahabad I was most favourably impressed with the two native pastors, the Rev. Davee Solomon and the Rev. David Mohun, whom I ordained in January last. Both are modest, simple, and intelligent, evidently hard at work with their flocks, and well spoken of by the chaplains and civilians of their respective stations. They retain the native dress (with some slight modifications to mark their profession); and I trust that we may see many native ministers working for Christ's cause as faithfully as they, to all outward appearance, are doing. Allahabad will, I hope, soon be occupied by a strong Mission of our Society. Its importance is great and increasing.

At Lucknow I was pleased with the promise (for of course, as yet, it is promise rather than performance) of the rising Mission. I conversed with two inquirers, likely, I hope, to become Christians—the one a fakeer, the other a Persian nobleman, late in the army of the king of Oude. The former had first been attracted to Christianity by the divine morality of St. Matthew's Gospel. Here I examined three Mission Schools: that in the city is a tolerably large one, but so recently established, and under such external disadvantages, that it is impossible to say more than that it promises well. Mr. Storrs, under whose care it is placed, devotes himself thoroughly to it, as he does with true Christian diligence to all the perplexing details arising from the charge of a native congregation, which are much less interesting, though hardly less important, than the work of preaching in bazaars and villages.

The Mission at Agra (like the reviving Mission of the Society for Propagating the Gospel at Delhi) has, I am happy to say, had a fair amount of encouragement this year. St. John's College is very satisfactory. The first class acquitted themselves thoroughly well in an examination in St. John's Gospel, and also showed marks of careful teaching when questioned in secular knowledge. They read to me, and explained, a passage (not very easy) from Wordsworth's Excursion, and also answered well in history. Every one here bears testimony to the influence and exertion of Mr. French, whose place is ably filled by Mr. Shackell. Of the latter I saw a good deal, as he was a candidate for priests' orders, and some of his papers (especially one on Christian evidences) are among the best that I have seen, either as examining chaplain or as bishop. Mr. Wright also, whom I ordained deacon, passed a very satisfactory examination, and considering that he has not had a University education, deserves great praise for the conscientious diligence with which he has devoted himself to the acquisition of theological and general knowledge. He must have a great turn for languages, and his exposition of one of the parables in Urdu was highly commended by a good scholar (a civilian) to whom I showed it, who said that it was very well suited to be addressed to the natives as a sermon.

At Meerut Mr. Medland is, for the present, working single-handed, though he is not long, I hope, to remain so. This school in the city, like that at Lucknow, and the one of the Society for Propagating the Gospel at Cawnpore, has hardly revived from the mutiny, but promises well so far. We accompanied him to Mulliana, a village where he has built a small neat church, a school, and a few houses for Christians; thus setting up the visible signs and instruments of our religion, and about, I hope, to gather a living church of men and women round his material church of brick and wood. He is trying to establish a similar group of buildings at another village, where there are a few Christians, and he wishes to place both under the pastoral charge of a native catechist and schoolmaster named Joseph, if I find him qualified for ordination. The Mission church at Meerut itself is very ugly, but sufficiently commodious. The confirmation in it was largely attended by Europeans, including General Woodford, commanding the division, and many others in influential positions.

The Punjab Missions remain to be visited, though I almost despair of reaching Mooltan before the hot weather makes travelling dangerous, as I have had more than one warning from illness that I must not attempt to do too much. But I hope at least to see Peshawur and Umritsur. The whole tour is one of deep and varied interest, and it is hard to say whether the wants of the Europeans in India, or of the natives, have the strongest claim on our exertions. I more and more feel how important it is that Missionaries should make themselves thoroughly acquainted with the languages, literature, religion, and philosophy of the Hindus, and that efforts should be increased among the educated classes. The influence exercised by Ram Chundra, the native-Christian head master of the Government school at Delhi, is very considerable, and shows the importance of winning such men to the Gospel. There is a young man now at Bishop's College, named Tara Chund, converted under his instrumentality, whom I confirmed last July, who has a very remarkable knowledge of St. Paul's Epistles, besides showing considerable ability generally, and especially in mathematics. He will, I hope, in his turn, be the means, by God's blessing, of bringing others into the church of Christ.

BENARES.

The Committee regret that they have to announce this year, as at the last anniversary, the weakening of this Mission, though, from its great importance as a Missionary station, they earnestly desire it to be made a strong Mission in all its departments. At the commencement of the year the failure of the health of Mr. Däuble obliged him to retire for a season to the Island of Mauritius; while at the close of the year Mr. Cobb, the Principal of Jay Narain's College, returned to England in consequence of the failure of his wife's health. Messrs. Reuther and Fuchs returned to Benares at the close of the year, after a visit to Europe; and Mr. Lockwood has also joined the Mission.

The native Christians in connexion with the church at Sigra number 255, including children. Mr. Hubbard has exercised the pastoral charge of this congregation, and reports—"the conduct of the people is generally good, and I have met with some encouragement in my labours among them, particularly by witnessing occasional acts of kindness shown to such as were in distress."

A new plan has been adopted of locating a steady native catechist, with his family, in some part of the city, with a view to their collecting together a little knot of converts who may be living witnesses to the truth. Mr. Smith writes—

We are having two more catechists, with their families, located in the city, and expect soon to have a little church there of at least twenty souls. When shall we have a devout congregation of (say) 100 souls, with their native pastor assembled in a proper edifice, with bells &c., (at present a room in one of Mr. Smith's girls' schools is used for the purpose,) worshipping the one living and true God, through the one Mediator, through the aid and sanctification of the one Spirit, in this city, for so many centuries wholly given to idolatry? What a glorious day that will be! I see the dawning of it. Indeed, I tell our catechists that each in his district should seek and hope to gather a little flock of Christ's sheep, and become its shepherd.

Preaching to the Heathen.

This department of labour has been carried on chiefly by Mr. Smith and the catechists. Mr. Smith writes—

I have been enabled, through God's mercy, to keep at his work another (the thirtieth) year, for which undeserved favour I desire heartily to thank Him. To bear up against both the work and the climate is beginning, I sometimes fear, to be too much for me. We have not had, generally speaking, good congregations in the city during the hot winds and rains. I do not know the reason of it. During the former part of the cold season we perambulated, I suppose, almost three-fourths of the city; but oh, how disheartening it is when a Missionary, with two or three catechists, tries to go over a city like Benares! There should be at least a dozen Missionaries regularly at work here.

I conclude, by observing that we are weak in numbers and weak in ourselves, while the work to be done is great, and requires much strength. Oh, when will the Spirit be poured out upon us from on high? The news of His gracious dealings in other places has cheered us, and I trust some of us at least are earnestly praying for, and waiting for, his advent here.

Education.

The European staff of teachers in Jay Narain's Institution has been much reduced. Instead of two experienced clergymen, as in former years, with European assistants, there has only been the Principal, and, at the close of the year, by his removal the Institution was left in the hands of two young Missionaries not yet acquainted with the language. The head master of the school department is Babu Timothy Luther, "who has conducted it with his usual ability. In the absence of the Principal, the aid of his experience has been invaluable in the general conduct of the establishment." The number of scholars is 369, showing an increase of thirty students over last year. Mr. Cobb writes—

There has been an increase, moreover, in the College during the last year of boys of a superior social standing. Not only a much larger number of respectable boys, but some lads of high birth. One of the Sikh state prisoners brought his young relative, of which I find the following entry—"Diwan Kishan Kor brought the grandson of Diwan Huken Rai to be admitted. He said the fame of the school was great; that more pains were bestowed here than even in the Government College; that his brother had got acquainted with the Sahibs by going to school; and that he thought school was a very good thing."

A rajah from Hydrabad, who resides at Benares, brought me his four sons, who had been at the Government College. I find the following entries relating to it—"Apr. 28.—Visit from the Rajah of Hydrabad about his sons coming here. He said they had so many holidays (these the Hindu and Mohammedan holidays) at the Government College, and did not get on. He gave the strongest proof a native can of sincerity, as he volunteered to pay for each of his sons a monthly fee of one rupee, the same which he had paid at the Government College, although the highest fee we were exacting was two annas, or the eighth part of a rupee."

The most interesting feature of the whole year was that of a prayer-meeting, which I established for the first time on Monday morning. At this time I required the attendance of the Christian masters and boys, but left the attendance of all others entirely optional, only informing them that we should pray for a blessing on themselves, their souls, their studies, their health and circumstances, and also for their families. I was greatly encouraged by finding this meeting attended, not only by heathen and Mohammedan boys, but by an increasing number of them.

There are several other schools for boys and girls connected with this Mission, including two girls' schools in the city, under the care of Mrs. Smith, containing from 130 to 140 children, respecting which the Director of Public Instruction N. W. P. H. Stewart Reid, Esq., wrote, in a letter to Mr. Smith, "The admirable condition of the girls' school must indeed be a source of well-earned satisfaction to Mrs. Smith"

Mr. Smith makes the following remarkable statement respecting schools, which serves to show the falseness and the danger of a profession of "neutrality" in any system of European education—

The mass of the people look upon all our schools, Government or Missionary—for they make no distinction—as intended to make them Christians, and all the teachers as Padres. They know that every Christian is a loyal subject, and they naturally, therefore, conclude that the Government wish them to become Christians; and all protestations to the contrary they put down as just so much falsehood and hypocrisy, and, in consequence, mistrust the Government.

Religious Publications.

Mr. Smith writes—

Pundit Nehemiah's work on the six Darshans is being printed, and will, I trust, be very useful. The dear good man has laboured like a horse at it, and is quite knocked up. He requires rest and change of air more than any of us. It is nevertheless a reason for thankfulness that he has been so well as he has, and able to do so much. His other work on the Veda and Purans will, it is hoped, come out next year.

A new edition of several of our tracts and books has been going through the press during the year, to which I have added two or three new ones.

Out-stations.

The out-station of Ghurwa has been under the charge of Francis Sayad, the manager of the farm. There are at present only three families, numbering fourteen souls, who meet together for prayer and exhortation at Sayad's house.

The Chunar Branch Mission is in charge of the native pastor the Rev. Davee Solomon, who reports—"I am very glad to say that the Almighty has vouchsafed his mercy in encouraging me to preach Jesus Christ in the bazaar, since August, two evenings in the week.

There is a school at Zufferabad, containing sixty boys, which is nominally under the superintendence of the Principal of Jay Narain's Institution.

The station of Jaunpore is still unoccupied. Mr. Smith writes in his journal—"I spent about three weeks at Jaunpore, and left Pundit Nehemiah there some time longer with a promising moolwee, who seemed really interested in religious questions. Jaunpore does not by any means appear a specially unpromising place, and should, I think, be re-occupied before new stations are taken up."

Allahabad may be regarded for the present as an out-station of Benares until an European Missionary takes up his residence in the place. The Committee have appointed the Rev. Brocklesby Davis, M.A., to this station, but he is residing for the present at Benares, to gain a command of the vernacular, and to acquire experience in the working of a Mission. Mr. Smith thus speaks of a visit to Allahabad—

At the beginning of the hot weather I paid a visit to Allahabad to endeavour to put the native congregation there, and its new pastor, into working order. I was much pleased and encouraged with the Christian spirit and Missionary zeal of the European residents, by whom I was kindly entertained, who willingly formed themselves into a Committee, together with the Rev. D. Mohun, the pastor, for the management of the affairs of the native congregation.

The following are extracts from the annual letter of Mr. Mohun—

The number of native Christians who have come from Agra, and over whom I have been placed as a pastor, is about 325, including children, besides other native Christians who have come from other stations.

With the exception of five or six families, all of them were employed in the Government press—some as storekeepers, compositors, pressmen, foremen, type-casters, carpenters, blacksmiths, and others as writers, &c., whence they draw good salaries, and seem to live comfortably. I think I should call it a self-supporting congregation. They also subscribe a small sum monthly towards the Pastorate fund, and manage to do many things independent of our aid. This is the thing we want in India. As long as native Christians are dependent on Missionaries, Christianity, in my humble opinion, will have very little effect on the heathen around us, who think (I mean the public at large) that people become Christians merely to get a good living from the Missionaries. But where they see that native Christians are an independent set of people like themselves, work hard, have good positions in Government and public offices, support themselves and their pastors, they will be compelled to say and feel that Christianity is not for the belly, but for the soul, and for the preparation for a better world. But I see I am digressing.

With regard to the spiritual work among them, and as to a real conversion, and how far the teaching and preaching of God's word has had success among them, it is very difficult for me to say. As it is an insensible and secret influence, and is only and fully known to Him who knoweth in secret, still I am thankful to say there are some among them who appear to have been really awakened out of the sleep of sin, and are manifesting a religious character. We must bear in mind these are babes—these are converts; we must expect to find the old leaven stuck somewhere in the corner, which cannot be eradicated at once without an outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

May the Lord confirm their hearts with the dew of his heavenly blessing. The number of communicants is about eighty.

JUBBULPORE.

The Rev. E. C. Stuart and Mr. W. Rebsch have carried on the duties of this station during the last year. They report—

We have been privileged to carry on steadily and uninterruptedly our main work here of street preaching in the town. We have generally had a good audience. Our preaching has been happily characterized by the absence for the most part of a controversial tone. This is to be attributed to the comparative fewness of Mohammedans and of learned Brahmins. As in the first days of Gospel preaching, so now, "the common people hear us gladly."

The school at this station is confined to elementary instruction, as the attempt to introduce a higher standard has failed. The teachers are native Christians.

In December 1858, and again in April 1859, Mr. Stuart visited the large and thriving town of Nursingpore, fifty-five miles S. W. of Jubbulpore, where the preaching was a novelty, and attracted great crowds, who listened with much interest. "I was encouraged," writes Mr. Stuart, "by observing that though this is a district never before visited by a Missionary, yet the subject was not altogether new to many. This is to be accounted for by the fact that so many natives take service at a distance from their homes. These, of course, bring back to their native villages more or less authentic tidings of what they have seen or heard in the more advanced and civilized provinces of the north-west and of Bengal. I met with many old pupils of our Agra College and of Jay Narain's: one was a Mohammedan trooper, and was thoroughly well acquainted with our Scriptures, and was eager to receive one of Dr. Pfander's works." Scoree, eighty-five miles from Jubbulpore, on the Dekkan road, was also visited in a Missionary tour.

GORRUCKPORE.

The Rev. H. Stern has remained alone at this station during the last year. He thus reports the state and prospect of the Mission—

In furnishing the Committee with my annual Report, I would first of all offer up my heartfelt thanks to Almighty God for the manifold blessings vouchsafed to us during the past year, and for the unmistakable tokens of His divine presence whilst engaged in doing his work. The past year is, considering all circumstances, characterized by steady progress, both as regards the re-organization of the Society's Mission here, and more especially the further extension of Christ's kingdom among the heathen. Amongst fifty baptisms which the church here has to record during the past year, there were twenty-three adult baptisms, i.e. of fourteen men, and nine women, which we would most thankfully acknowledge as a divine token that our labour is not in vain in the Lord. We take these as our earnest of a yet greater harvest, for which also the present aspect of the native population around us offers every encouragement. Six candidates for baptism remain under instruction at the close of the year. If we do not mistake the signs of the times, there are many more individuals known to us almost ready to join the little band of Christians.

A Hafiz, i.e. one of those who has learnt to say the Korán by heart, was brought to the knowledge of Jesus, by occasionally meeting with the New Testament in his brother's (a bookseller's) workshop. The reading of this enabled him to renounce the false religion of Mohammed most resolutely, and, in the face of many difficulties, to join, together with his youthful wife, the despised band of Christians. Another, a young man of the Brahmin caste, was, by his friends, persuaded into swearing a false oath in the Judges' court. This afterwards so much affected him, that, his conscience being at work, and having himself witnessed, as he had never before, the lying and deceitful practices of his countrymen, from that very time he resolved to renounce his Hindu connexion, and to become a Christian. He was lately baptized, receiving the name Joshua. Another, a fine young man, also of high Brahminical caste, and the disciple of a celebrated guru at Ayodshye, near Fyzabad, fell in with a native preacher at a fair. Having heard from him of Christ and his kingdom, he resolved on becoming a member of this kingdom, and was baptized in September, receiving the name Meseeh Dyal. In accomplishing this he had to renounce his claims to great riches and honours. How much he was esteemed by his former brotherhood in Ayodshye, and how keenly they felt the disgrace of one of their own having joined the Christian cause, is shown by the fact, that when he went to settle some affairs with his teacher, who was, however, absent on a pilgrimage to Allahabad, the whole brotherhood of fakeers received him with great distinction, but afterwards, having invited him to a great dinner, they attempted to poison him. By God's mercy, he escaped unhurt, and returned to Gorruckpore in safety.

The Christian congregation at Gorruckpore, including Basharatpore, numbers at present 278 souls, of whom 194 live in Gorruckpore, the rest at Basharatpore. The past year was not without its trials and disappointments, arising chiefly from the bad conduct of several individuals. But, on the whole, I am able to testify to the improving state of the congregation, as far as men can judge. There have been less quarrels, so often the chief sore with which the body of native Christians is afflicted; the means of grace are well attended; and I am happy to observe, also, a more decided recognition of the great duty to be a light and a salt to those without. Besides the regular Sunday services, a weekly prayer and a monthly Missionary meeting are held.

In connexion with the congregation there are two orphan establishments for girls and boys, and the infant school.

The infant school is taught by the pious blind Job. The number about eighty, learning hymns and parts of the Scriptures, which Job is a master in teaching. Poor blind Job is of great value to this Mission, and the young folks, who benefit by his fatherly instruction, will not soon forget his present labours.

The Anglo-Vernacular School has at present 247 scholars on the list.

The Christian settlement at Basharatpore has made considerable progress during the past year. Instead of the ruins of the old village, destroyed by the rebels in 1857, a new village, at a very small distance from the old one, but a higher ground, is rising, promising fair for the future. On the 1st of January 1859, the re-building of the village was commenced, with prayers for God's blessing and succour; and just before the rains set in, eleven families could be located in the new village. On July 10, divine service was held for the first time in the Mission house, which, after being partly rebuilt, was temporarily set apart for the purpose. The whole native congregation took part in the proceedings, and a collection was made for the purpose of refitting the church, amounting to 100 rupees. To the eleven families eight more were added during the year, and some ten more are waiting to be admitted during the present year. By the end of 1860 we hope to have the full number of native-Christian cultivators as formerly, with several fresh additions. I am thankful to be able to report that the settlement is in an improving condition: the native-Christian cultivators, are more than they were ever before, attached to the ground. Several new arrangements have been introduced.

General Progress of the Work.

The Rev. Messrs. Schneider, Wright, Gaster, Shackell, and Fynes-Clinton, have been labouring throughout the year at this station; Mr. Schneider has the pastoral charge of the native congregation. Messrs. Shackell and Wright are attached to the College; Messrs. Fynes-Clinton and Gaster are engaged in preaching to the heathen and in other duties of the station.

Since the destruction of the Secundra printing establishment, and the removal of the native Christians employed at the press at Allahabad, there has only been one congregation, which has assembled in the restored church of St. John, in the Kuttra, in the midst of the city, and near the Mission house and College. The congregation numbers about 250. It will gratify many friends of the late Lieutenant-Governor, the excellent Mr. Thomason, to learn that the peal of bells, and the communion-table and communion-service, presented by him to the church at Secundra, were unexpectedly recovered after the destruction of that place, and are now in St. John's Church, Agra.

Though the native congregation has not increased in numbers, there have been in this station, during the last year, several baptisms, and some of them of a remarkable and most encouraging kind. "With regard to baptisms," writes Mr. Shackell, "which are certainly one sign of progress, we have,

I think, every reason to be thankful, the number of converts during the past year having been greater than in any previous year, and three or four times as great as the average number during the few years preceding the mutiny."

Mr. Shackell gives the following particulars of some of the converts whom he admitted to baptism—

I have baptized ten adults during the year. The first, Taru Chund, was the head student in the Government College: he was formerly at Delhi, and owed most of his impressions of Christ to Ram Chundra, the celebrated Christian convert there. He it was who was the prime mover in the request of the students of the College to have a Bible class; which has been mentioned in print once or twice. Many of these had been reading with myself also: Taru Chund himself had been principally residing with Mr. French. He had at Ram Chundra's advice, determined to go to Bishop's College, Calcutta, and it was during a short preliminary stay at Agra that he made up his mind to be baptized there in presence of his friends. Soon after his baptism he went to Bishop's College, the Principal of which, Dr. Kay, gives him a most excellent character. The Bishop also, on his late visit here, spoke very highly of him. His wife, who at first left him, has since, I believe, joined him at Calcutta. His baptism was followed, after the space of about a fortnight, by that of one of his friends of Delhi, who has since been made head master of the Government school at Simla; and, after about two months, by that of Madhoo Ram here. He was formerly a student in our College, and afterwards for some time in the central school of the London Mission at Benares. In July 1858 he returned to Agra, and entered the medical college: since then he was very often with me, sometimes twice a day. Though long convinced, he did not seem to be converted in heart till about the time of Taru Chund's baptism; after which he was not long in gaining strength to take the same step himself, though formerly very wavering.

A young Mussulman, originally from Allyghur, was baptized in June; two others in September. Another convert was the man employed to beat the drum when proclamations are made in the city, Ruddore by name. He appears a very good man. He has, without any prompting, commenced a school for the children of his neighbours, whom he teaches in the one or two spare hours he gets from his work in the middle of the day.

Mr. Fynes-Clinton relates the following remarkable case of conversion—

Last Friday I baptized a native who understands English. He had been reading the Bible, he says, these last ten years, and he stated himself to be fully convinced of the truth of Christianity. He was once a Hindu. Dissatisfied with Hinduism, he became a Mohammedan; then becoming acquainted with the Bible, and comparing it with the Korán, he felt that in the Bible was the true religion. He had not any communication with Missionaries on religious subjects. I had several conversations with him soon after I first saw him. He had wonderfully clear views, and a deep sense of the preciousness of the Saviour. His wife is a rigid Mussulman, and is sick, and he held back at first for fear of injuring her health. It is delightful to meet with cases like this, where God, by his word and Spirit, does all without the intervention of human agency.

Mr. Gaster writes—

In the past year I have baptized three adults in our Mission church. The first of these was a Mussulman from Mundowlie, a convert of the Rev. T. V. French, and who is now employed in the adult school. I am happy to be able to state that this man, since his baptism, has lived a most exemplary life, and has manifested great zeal in inducing others to hear the doctrines of the Bible. His wife also has been baptized.

In conclusion, I feel that, on the whole, there is great cause for encouragement in the prosecution of our Mission work in Agra. The people are more ready than ever to listen to the Gospel; and those who hope more from the strong conviction of the truth or future success of Christianity at present working in the minds of the people, than from the number of converts, will shake off any thing like despondency; and, placing their trust in the great Missionary, will march on to the victory which He has promised to his church militant on earth.

Mr. Gaster has been successful in engaging the attention of many of the native-Christian artillerymen, and in bringing them to attend an evening adult school and Bible classes: he writes, in his annual report—

For several months a Bible class for adults used to meet in my own house, and was attended by fifteen or twenty Mussulmans and Hindus. My plan was, to commence the meeting with prayer, then to read a chapter from the New Testament in Urdu, and, after a short exposition, to close the meeting with prayer.

Missionary tours.

Each of the Missionaries has itinerated in the neighbourhood, or has addressed the heathen in the city. Mr. Schneider reports—

I have been able to visit the preaching-places in the city three times in the week. The catechists Lowther and Peter generally go out twice a day. The spirit in which our preaching is heard is I think, more decidedly in favour of Christianity than before the mutiny.

Mr. Shackell writes—

In March and October I have taken Mr. French's usual preaching journey in the direction of Jelasur, Hatras, &c., with the catechist Robert and Nur Allah, a Christian moonshee of the College. Nur Allah bids fair, I think to become a valuable man to the cause of Christianity in India. There is an increasing, and a very palpably increasing inclination in most of the villages in that direction, especially in Simrao and Nandouli, towards Christianity.

Education—Agra College.

Mr. Shackell writes, in his annual letter—

The numbers just reached 300 at one time during the year, but, as is usual, have declined towards the end of the year, and left off in December at about 280. Two of the bazaar schools in operation previous to the mutiny have been reopened as branches to the College, and now contain about eighty pupils. Mr. Clinton has kindly helped me throughout the year, by teaching one or two hours daily. Mr. Wright has always been ready to do every thing he could, and his assistance has been most valuable, especially in the vernacular department, which I was not competent to superintend. I fear I cannot say much as to the progress of Christianity among the boys of the College. One encouragement there has been, in the baptism of a boy, who received his first impression here. He is the second convert from the College.

There are several vernacular schools. Mr. Gaster has succeeded in opening a school for native girls, of which he thus writes—

This school was commenced about four months ago in Gopulpoora, by the zealous labours of a Christian friend in Agra, who has ever shown himself ready, even beyond his power, to forward every good work. For some time the school prospered, and in addition to eight girls, five young women were being educated as governesses. But owing to a misunderstanding with the person in whose house the school was held, it soon became manifest that little more progress would be made unless prompt measures were taken for the removal of the school. Accordingly, another house, in a better situation than the last, has been found, and, from the beginning of November next, the schools will be conducted there, and placed under my immediate control.

The out-station, Runkutta, has been for the present abandoned, partly because the resident native catechists were more needed elsewhere, and partly because it was at too great a distance from the city to be sufficiently superintended.

MEERUT.

The Rev. A. Medland has been the only Missionary at this station throughout the year. A brother Missionary, the Rev. J. B. Archer, joined him at the close of the year. Mr. Medland has furnished the following account of his labours—

The operations of the Meerut branch of the Church Missionary Society have been carried on during the past year with steady perseverance. Whilst the inconsistency and misconduct of some of the new converts has been a cause of anxiety, yet the consistency and steadiness of others, together with a fair addition to the native congregations, afford grounds for encouragement and belief that the labour bestowed has not altogether been in vain.

Throughout the year divine service has been regularly performed in the Mission chapel, whilst, every morning and evening, services conducted by a catechist have been held in the schoolroom, for the benefit of those who reside in the Mission compound. The Sunday-morning congregation, averaging about ninety, presents the appearance of a well-ordered and devout assembly, and, as far as appearance is concerned, leaves nothing to be desired.

In addition to those who have been baptized during the past year, several have come to the Missionary professing a desire to be instructed in the doctrines of Christianity, with a view to their being baptized: in every case such have been encouraged, and arrangements made for their instruction; but as soon as they discovered that no pay was allowed to inquirers, and that it was necessary for them to work for their livelihood, they quickly absented themselves, and nothing more has been heard or seen of them. Since the late outbreak it has been deemed advisable to discontinue making any allowances to inquirers, and to refuse to baptize any who could not support themselves independently of aid from the Mission. By this means a number of idle fellows, who are in the habit of going from Mission to Mission, are got rid of, whilst the sincerity of honest inquirers is made apparent.

During the year two or three excursions have been taken in the district. In the early part of the year, in consequence of repeated applications from some people at Shaderuh, near Delhi, the Missionary was induced to visit them. On his arrival he was gladly received, and a large congregation quickly assembled, and listened with much attention and apparent interest to the truths declared. They also much wished that arrangements might be made for their further instruction, and a school established for their children. This has since been done by the Missionary of the Gospel-Propagation Society, who has arrived in Delhi, and is doing what he can to supply their need. Both in going and returning opportunities were presented for declaring the Gospel message in several towns and villages. As is generally the case, there were crowds of listeners, but the ignorance of the people was lamentably apparent: in the smaller villages scarcely any could read, and they appeared to know or care for nothing beyond their fields and daily sustenance.

Education.

The City Mission school, as far as numbers are concerned, may now be said to have recovered the check it received during the terrible disasters of 1857, and in a short time it is hoped that the attainments of the pupils will be equal, if not superior, to those previous to the late outbreak. Great credit is due to the head master for his persevering diligence, and his prayerful efforts to instil into the mind of his pupils that knowledge which is able to make them "wise unto salvation." The school in the Mission compound is by no means in a satisfactory state, either as regards the numbers or attainments of the scholars: this may be accounted for by the want of a more efficient head master, the partial depopulation of the neighbourhood, and the migratory habits of the people who frequent a military cantonment.

Out-stations.

Dehra Dhoon.—The new colony of native Christians on Major Rind's estate in Dehra Dhoon has also been visited by the Missionary. The native pastor, the Rev. Tulse Paul, in charge of it appears to have entered upon his labours with persevering energy. The colonists, at present numbering 124, young and old, present the appearance of a very interesting and devout assembly. In order to meet the convenience of the people, a mid-day service has been established, when all who can do so attend. The Missionary was present on one such occasion, and addressed the people, and was much pleased with their general demeanour. The new settlers appear to have been diligent in clearing the ground and cultivating their crops, which have yielded a very fair return. A school has been established, and the progress made by the children is very satisfactory, reflecting great credit on those who have had the management of it. Those in the higher classes read in the Gospels very fairly, and answered intelligently the questions put to them. Every thing in this new colony is yet in its infancy: a shed serves for a church, whilst the native pastor's house and schoolroom are not much better. Suitable buildings for a church, schoolroom, and parsonage have been projected, and will, it is expected, be shortly commenced.

Mulliana.—The work which had been commenced so favourably in this village during the previous year, and which presented so many promising features, has for the present been somewhat checked. This has arisen partly from quarrels amongst the people themselves, and partly from the disappointed hopes of some who had expected temporal gain by their embracing Christianity. Others have brought complaints against the catechist who is located there, and have asked for his removal; but as their object was too plainly to get one of their own number appointed in his stead, their request could not be complied with, particularly as the man they desired was by no means competent, and his general conduct not satisfactory. The consequences of these unpleasantnesses are, that several of the men who have been baptized refuse to allow their wives to become so, or to receive instruction, and that they also absent themselves from the daily services. Notwithstanding, the work has been steadily carried on: the church, which was in course of erection when the last Report was issued, has been completed and opened for divine service, and every Sunday the sound of the "church-going bell" may now be heard, calling the little flock to worship, and witnessing against the ungodliness and idolatry around. On the occasion of opening the church, two men, three women, and three children were baptized, and since that time one man, two women, and a child, have also been admitted into the Christian church by the rite of baptism. In the month of September six families from a distant village voluntarily came to Mulliana to put themselves under Christian instruction. Arrangements have been made for their permanent residence, and it is hoped, that after receiving due instruction, they too will be admitted into the Christian church. The Missionary or a superior catechist from Meerut conducts the Sunday services as often as their other duties allow: at other times the resident catechist officiates, who also visits the surrounding villages during the week, and conducts a small school which has recently been established.

Kunher Khera.—Some notice of the commencement of work in this village was given in the last Report, since which a good school-room and a catechist's house have been erected. The school, which was opened on the first of June, now numbers thirty-three lads. Several men come of an evening to receive instruction, and there is some prospect of several families from another village coming for the like purpose. Since the commencement of our work in this village last year, six men, five women, and ten children have been baptized. The new converts attend the Meerut chapel on Sunday mornings, and in the afternoon the catechist conducts a service in the schoolroom. It is sincerely hoped that the erection of a church will soon be needed.

Publa.—The commencement of the work at Mulliana brought to the Missionary's notice an old Christian pundit residing in the village of Publa, about twenty miles from Meerut. His village and neighbourhood have been visited, and so good did the old man's conduct appear, and his influence such, that it was deemed advisable to employ him as a reader. He is now engaged in going from village to village, where he is well known, reading the Scriptures and holding converse with the people. In one village, where he is accustomed to visit, many appear favourably disposed towards Christianity; so much so, that on one occasion the Missionary was induced specially to visit the place, in order to learn the wishes of the people. A meeting was arranged, when about fifty men, heads of families, assembled: the objects and advantages of the Christian religion were discussed, and at the conclusion one of the most influential men present stood forward, and publicly avowed his and his family's readiness to embrace Christianity. The rest of the people, fearing that matters were being brought too speedily to a crisis, held back, the influence of a wealthy man in the neighbourhood appearing greatly to influence them. The old pundit, however, continues his visits, and it is hoped that, in due time, the way will be opened for more systematic efforts to bring these people under the influence and power of the Christian religion.

The local Report adds the following concluding remarks upon the chief want in the North-Indian Missions—

In concluding the foregoing review of the Meerut Mission for the past year, we cannot but remark, that, whilst endeavouring to extend the bounds of the Mission, the want of able and intelligent native agents is increasingly and painfully felt. It is true that Mulliana and Kunker Khera have recently been occupied, but in neither village have we "the right men in the right places," whilst for want of men the large and important towns of Boolundshuhur, Haupper, Pilkwuh, and Moosuffernugger, all of which, although within a few miles of Meerut, are left unoccupied. In each of these towns schools, and Branch Missions might with advantage be commenced, and the neighbourhood of each brought more or less under Missionary influence. The attention, therefore, of the Parent and Corresponding Committees of the Church Missionary Society cannot be too strongly directed to this subject, for until a better and a more intelligent class of native agents than are generally engaged in our Missions are raised up, we cannot, humanly speaking, expect to make much way in reaching or influencing the teeming population by which we are surrounded.

Mrs. Lamb, the widow of our late Missionary, who is perfectly acquainted with the native character and language, gives the following interesting account of her visit to Dehra Dhoon, and of the labours of its native pastor, long known to her as one of her husband's catechists and fellow-labourers.

I have lately returned from a sojourn of three months in the Dhoon, at the new Christian colony, which commenced with seven families, who were baptized by my late husband, so that I naturally took a lively interest in them and every thing connected with the colony. It is twenty miles from Dehra, and two miles from the Jumna, at the western end of the Dhoon, a valley which averages fourteen miles in breadth. The Christian settlement is beautifully situated in the centre, with the Himalayas stretching from east to west, and the Sewallic range on the south. You will be glad to hear that it is prospering: there are now eighty, including children, and independent of the schoolmaster's family, and I took down the names of 100 more who will join as soon as practicable.

Major and Mrs. Rind, and myself, were rejoiced to welcome Paul as its pastor; and already we find that his presence is having a very beneficial effect on the people. Although an elderly-looking man, he is still energetic: his heart is evidently in the work, and he is anxious for the welfare of the colony. He retains his former simple manners, and yet he commands respect from all: indeed, I am truly delighted with the spirit in which he has come amongst these people, so full of love to their souls, and "desiring to know nothing but Christ Jesus, and Him crucified." He preaches and explains Gospel truths most clearly and decidedly. You must not suppose that Paul is going to settle down, and give up preaching wherever he finds openings and opportunity: this would make him most unhappy. He is now away for a fortnight, having been five days at the great Hurdwar mela, exactly at the other end of the Dhoon; and on his way back he is coming up to Landour for two or three days, to consult us regarding some matters connected with his charge. I sent a trustworthy Christian servant with him, and both were greatly pleased at the deep attention of the multitudes, who listened with even more interest than formerly. A spirit of fear seems to pervade them in consequence of all the terrible doings that have taken place; and, far from being interrupted, numbers besought him, with joined hands, to go on telling them about the great God and salvation, saying, "It is all true! it is all true!" Paul is quite sanguine, that if his life be spared, he shall baptize hundreds in their own villages, if it is the Lord's will that the work should progress, and men's minds continue disposed, as they now seem in many places.

Paul says he considers his first and chief work to be at the Christian colony, of which he is pastor. The eyes of so many are on this, with so many different feelings towards it—some with great interest watching its temporal, others its spiritual success—that we feel most solicitous that no occasion should be given for the taunting remark, "Aha! aha! so would we have it."

LUCKNOW.

Messrs. Mengé, Ball, and Storrs, have continued at this station during the last year. Mr. Mengé writes—

I can truly say, that neither in Gorruckpore, where I spent many years, neither in Jaunpore nor Benares, which stations I often visited, have I been able to collect day after day so many, in a very short time, as I have done in Lucknow. It may be said these people come out of curiosity to hear what the Feringhee pastor has to say. Although there cannot be a doubt that many come from no better motive than this, yet when we consider that not a few come again and again to listen to the Gospel, and that I am received not merely with respect, but even with cordiality, by not a few, one cannot but be convinced that God has work for us to do here. I have met with few instances of opposition and real hatred, and in questioning such closely, I generally found that it was on account of some grievance of which they imagined that they had reason to complain against the Government.

The more respectable natives cannot be reached by the public ministrations of the Gospel in the streets and thoroughfares of the city, as they do not stop to listen if they should happen to pass by when the Missionary is preaching. They therefore must be visited at their own houses if we wish them to become acquainted with the truths of the Bible. Accordingly, I have made it a point to visit as many as I conveniently could during the past year. I have called, among others, on the near relatives of the ex-king of Oude, on several princes and nawabs as well as rajahs, respectable native doctors, muftis, and molwis. I was generally received with politeness, sometimes even with cordiality, by a few with fear, and by one or two with dislike. I presented the Mohammedans with Pfander's work and a Gospel of St. Matthew, and the Hindus with Dr. Muir's Sanskrit and Hindu tracts, as well as a Gospel of St. Matthew. What the results of these visits may be it is not for me to say. I believe God in his infinite mercy has opened a door of usefulness in a most wonderful manner, and that He alone knows when the sowing and when the reaping time is to be. Still it is a good sign that several of those whom I visited, have returned my visit.

I have baptized a respectable Mohammedan, lately a native doctor in the Company's service, now a Zemindar in the district of Hurdui about eighty miles from Lucknow. He visited me very frequently, and told me that for many years past he had been persuaded that Mohammedanism was not true, but that he had not been able to overcome the difficulty of believing that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. We read the sacred Scriptures together, and I explained to him the nature of the plan of salvation, and we often prayed together, and on the 3rd July I baptized him. He has promised to do all in his power to make known the Gospel to his relatives and dependants.

Mrs. Mengé in a letter to the Society for Promoting Female Education in the East, writes—

I have twice visited the family of Wajid Ali, who saved Mrs. Orr and Miss Jackson when they were in captivity in the Kaiser Bagh. Through him I have made the acquaintance of four begums belonging to the king of Oude's family, one of whom is the wife of the general who accompanied the late queen-mother to England. The begums permitted me to read part of a chapter in the New Testament to them, and to the other women in the zenana, to which they listened with attention; and when I had concluded, one of the women exclaimed "Shavash!" ("How good!") I have ten girls in my school: eight are the children of native-Christians from Loodiana, Agra, and Benares, and two are orphans. The elder of these two lost her parents at Umritsur, and was sent to Lucknow to her grandfather; but as he was nowhere to be found, having, as it is supposed, joined the rebels, the poor girl was sent to us. We hope to collect more orphans, as my husband has sent a circular to the chief officials, begging them to send us as many as they can obtain.

KOTGHUR.

The future arrangements proper for the Kotghur Mission were very carefully discussed in October, in the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, after receiving the opinions of various friends of Missions who had visited the station. The result of these deliberations was to the effect that the Mission should not be abandoned—that a good schoolmaster should be maintained—that at present there should be no permanent resident Missionary at Kotghur—that the station be placed under the supervision of the Missionaries at Kangra—that a catechist of the Society also be maintained at Kotghur, in addition to the Government schoolmaster.

No reports of the station have been yet received.

III. THE PUNJAB.

The Punjab Mission comprises four principal Stations—Umritsur (commenced 1852); Kangra (1854); Peshawar (1855); Mooltan (1856).

Changes in the Mission.

The failure of health has again occasioned the withdrawal of Missionaries, and the weakening of important stations. Mr. Leighton's health failing in the latter part of the year, Mr. Keene was removed from Kotghur to Umritsur. Mr. Leighton has since been compelled to return to England. Dr. Trumpp's health also suddenly broke down, which has obliged him to leave India.

UMRITSUR.

Messrs. Strawbridge, Leighton, and Bruce occupied this station for the first part of the year 1859. Upon Mr. Leighton's removal, Mr. Keene joined the station.

Mr. Strawbridge reports, in his annual letter—

The past year has been a remarkable one in many respects. We have been permitted to admit into the outward church a larger number of converts than in any preceding year. The heaven is evidently beginning to work. The good seed is bringing forth fruit. Not only are the minds of men being awakened, but their hearts are being converted to the Lord. Secondly, Among those baptized, there have been a larger number of respectable and well-informed and independent men, from among whom we cannot but hope that in due time some will be found fit to go forth to be instruments in the Lord's hand of turning many from darkness to light. Thirdly, Owing to the almost daily instances of men coming forward for instruction, I have been much "pressed in spirit," and have felt the need of being constantly among the people, seeking out Christ's sheep that are scattered abroad. Everywhere doors of usefulness have been opened to us; everywhere the minds of men appear to be occupied about religion. By means of former itinerations, and especially by the distribution of books, a blow has been struck, and everywhere the individuals are to be found who are anxious to be instructed in the word of God more perfectly. This I know will be to you encouraging, but I cannot convey to you any idea of the feelings it produces upon our minds.

One of the most interesting and encouraging occurrences at this station is that to which reference was made in the last Report, namely, a spirit of inquiry which had appeared amongst the soldiers of the 24th Punjab Native Infantry. This regiment had distinguished itself at the siege of Delhi. Amidst the spoils of that city a few religious books and tracts fell into their hands. The reading of these raised a desire in the minds of several to be taught the Christian religion. They applied to their Christian officers. These gave them instruction and encouragement, and called in the aid of the Missionaries. A class of inquirers was formed, and some were baptized. When the regiment removed from the neighbourhood of Missions, the Christian officers met their new Christian brethren in social worship, and encouraged the inquirers in their study of the Scriptures. There was every prospect that the whole regiment would have joined the movement, for these men were a class of Sikhs who had become disconnected with Hinduism and the Sikh religion. They were outcasts from all prevailing religions of India, and were encouraged by the welcome they were receiving from Christian men.

At this point the Government of India stepped in and issued an order, not to this regiment alone, but to every Punjab regiment, for every officer to hold himself aloof from this Christian movement. This order naturally put a stop, at least for a time, to the progress of inquiry, for the men could not but believe that the Government were offended with all who became Christians. Those men who had already embraced Christianity remained firm; but inquirers into the truth are discouraged, and stand in doubt of the course they shall pursue, and the rest of this regiment are left with doubts unsatisfied; ignorant of Christianity, the victims of atheism or idolatry; being cut off, by having enlisted amongst Her Majesty's troops, from opportunities which the rest of their class enjoy of free access to a Missionary.

When the regiment afterwards removed into the neighbourhood of Peshawar, it was visited by Mr. Clark, who thus describes the state of things—

Shumshabad, Nov 2, 1859—I have been staying here on my way for the last two days with the Christians of the 24th Punjab Native Infantry. I have often told you of them, and of the orders which have been issued by the supreme Government in Calcutta, cautioning the officers against taking any part whatever in the spread of Christianity in the regiment. It was an unchristian order, and an impolitic one; for the officers were doing nothing more than Christian men should do, and were in no ways unduly using any official influence to the prejudice of the native religions. The effects of the order have been, however, most unfavourable to Christianity. Before it came the men were pressing forward, eagerly and earnestly inquiring into the subject of Christianity; but from the moment they heard that the Governor-General in Council had interfered, and had written, through official channels, to their officers about it, they naturally understood this to mean that the English Government directly discouraged the spirit of inquiry, and were averse to any baptisms in the corps: from that time to the present not one soldier has come forward to ask for either instruction or baptism. The Christians stand dismayed at seeing the interest in their spiritual welfare suddenly lost, and the school has dwindled down to less than half its numbers. The officers may not converse with the native Christians about Christianity; they may not hold a service for them, or even worship God with them, although they are their fellow-Christians, much less speak to any one who are not yet baptized. Every thing is in a state of doubt and uncertainty, even as regards what a Missionary may do in the corps; whether he may enter into the lines at all, and if so, whether he may hold a service in a native-Christian's house; and, above all, whether he may admit those to his service who are still heathen. I was certainly grieved to find that the orders were of such a nature as to leave every one in doubt whether a Missionary might or might not visit, as a pastor, a large native-Christian flock of thirty persons, including ten sepoy, because they happened to live in the lines of a regiment; but it was thought better that our services should be held away from the lines, in one of the officer's quarters. I held one full service and two shorter ones with them, and administered the Lord's Supper to five adults. I also married two native Christians belonging to the regimental band; but even there the officers could not be present, although they take much interest in the parties, and although none but Christians were present at the wedding. Our Government surely cannot know the consequences which such orders lead to, or they would be more careful in making them. No rule had ever been transgressed, and nothing done to call for such an order. The only apparent fact was, that some of the soldiers had been baptized; and no sooner does the Government hear of this, than it steps in with its veto, and checks the whole proceeding, as if the baptism of ten sepoy was something dangerous or something out of order; and a summons is forthwith sent, not to this regiment alone, but to every Punjab regiment, for every officer to hold himself clear of such untoward events. If it had been another plot against their very existence they could hardly have done more. The little band of thirty Christians, however, still remains, and they have a catechist and schoolmaster. May they be upheld and strengthened; and even though European Christians are obliged for a time to seem to forsake them, may they find that help which never fails in times of trial!

An out-station of Umritsur, under the charge of Mr. Bruce, is Narrowal, a village containing 6000 or 7000 inhabitants, and the centre of a most thickly-inhabited district. The native catechist at this place was, before his conversion, a resident and a leading man in the place. Mr. Bruce gives the following accounts of his conduct and influence—“Paulos is the head, both of the town and of a very large and respectable class of Mohammedans residing in this and many neighbouring towns. He was a great man (and a wicked one) in the eye of the people. His clan now, for the most part, hate him, and made an attempt lately to malign his character and drive him from the town. Despite of their religious hatred, nothing can be higher than the testimony universally given to his character and the trust placed in his word. There are certain failings, perhaps, in the lives of most at least who have been brought late from a life of sin to the knowledge of Jesus. But though that love of order and simple earnestness which are needful for a pastor, and for the religious superintendant of a school such as, I trust, with God’s blessing, this will be, may be wanting, his influence here, I am sure, is for the highest good, and, I trust, will finally conquer in his own family. Indeed, I am thankful to feel that the knowledge of the truth has made way, though slowly, among them since I came here, some months since, with Mr. Leighton.

KANGRA.

Mr. Merk has continued his labours at this station during the past year, but he can report no special events. His congregation has rather diminished than increased, in consequence of many removals, and does not number more than twenty. His school has increased in numbers, but from his want of an efficient master the school has been in an unsatisfactory state, and has drawn too largely upon his own time and strength. Mrs. Merk conducts a girls’ school, containing from ten to fifteen pupils.

PESHAWUR.

This station is distinguished from other stations in India as the furthest outpost of Christian Missions—as the connecting link between India and Central Asia—as the place of course for men of many nations and of various tongues.

The Missionaries are necessitated to carry on their work in four languages—Persian, Pushtu, Hindi, and Hindustani. The character of the Mohammedan population is haughty, wild, and intolerant.

The year 1859 has been one of trial. At its commencement there were four Missionaries, strong to labour and able to address the people in each of the four languages; but the health of two of the party soon gave way—Mr. M'Carthy was withdrawn for a time: Dr. Trumpp was compelled to leave India without the hope of returning. A painful disappointment of another kind has also afflicted the Mission. An officer of a Queen's regiment, stationed at Peshawar, being an Unitarian, tampered with the faith of the native converts who had been recently brought out of Mohammedanism, and represented to them that his form of faith had powerful sanction in the ancient seats of Christianity, and that the Missionaries only represented a section of the Christian church. He thus shook the faith of two or three, especially of the only catechist employed in the Mission, whom he detached from his first friends, took him into his own pay, and employed him as a disseminator of his own heresy. In a few weeks, however, the catechist publicly confessed his error, with protestations of penitence and sorrow, and entered into Government employment at Lahore.

At the close of the year there were only eight baptized converts and three promising inquirers, several having been dispersed to other places. There were six adult baptisms in the course of the year: one was the son of a moulwee; and the other an Affghan, a young man seventeen years old, who has exhibited great diligence and earnestness in learning the Scriptures. "When he came to me," writes Dr. Trumpp, "he did not know his letters: he can now, after six months, read a part of the word of God fluently."

A service has been held in Hindustani every Sunday morning, in a chapel near the Mission house, and a second service in Persian was commenced by Dr. Trumpp.

Review of the Mission presented in the Local Report.

The Peshawar Mission, cradled with the prayers of many devoted Christians, has nearly reached the conclusion of the fifth year of its existence. Its origin was ordered rather by God than by man, and it is He who has guided, preserved it, and blessed it ever since. For nearly five years, in one of the great strongholds of Mohammedanism, and even during a time when society was convulsed, and British power in India seemed shaken to its very centre, Missionary work has been carried on, without intermission, in all its details. Experience thus stands out in bold relief to the fears which were once expressed, and has here added another proof, more forcible than any reasoning, that there is no real danger in following wherever God leads the way, and in endeavouring, in all circumstances, to obey his commands.

The local Annual Report states—

The direct preaching to the heathen has been shared by all the Missionaries who are now, or ever have been, at this station. A suitable and very convenient chapel has been erected by Colonel Martin in the most crowded bazaar, in the very heart of the city; and there, as also in many other parts of the town, Christ, the only Saviour of sinners, has been openly proclaimed. This preaching has never ceased, even during the worst time of the mutinies. It was Dr. Pfander's honour, in the midst of that unparalleled crisis, unmoved in the midst of danger, to continue this work; and, in his absence, this Mission desires to record their thankfulness to God for giving him a faith which never wavered, and a courage which never failed at so fearful a time. Sufficient unto the day was the strength imparted; and it is a cause for gratitude also, both on his behalf and on that of Colonel Martin and Mr. M'Carthy, who were associated with him at the time, that not a hair of their heads was even harmed. There was many a sullen look and angry glance, betokening the heaving surge of passions, which could barely be restrained, but a shield was thrown around them; and though moving daily among the people, no evil was allowed to come near them.

The same faces are continually observed in the crowd; and there is reason to believe that many of the principal doctrines of Christianity are becoming known in Peshawar. Men of some note and influence have occasionally taken their places in front of such street congregations. They have been received and noticed by the Missionaries with the honour due to their position; and it has been remarked how great a difference at once appears amongst the people on such occasions. Ignorance is silent in the presence of one of superior and well-known information: the people give way to him, and quietly leave the discussion to himself or to some one of his attendants. The same happy results have also been experienced whenever the Missionaries have been accompanied in their preaching by some pious European friend. When the Missionary goes into the city thus accompanied the people have seen that interest in their behalf is not confined to the few who preach to them; and an interest manifested in them awakens an interest in the subject, which is thus invested with more importance in their eyes.

Mrs. Clark has found access into several zenanas in the city, but her work has been much hindered by ill health.

Advantage of Lay-Missionaries.

The Peshawar Mission has been peculiarly favoured in having a lay-Missionary—Lieut.-Colonel Martin—of considerable standing, associated with the ordained Missionaries. The local Report thus recounts the services he has rendered—

The erection of our chapel in the city, and its adjoining room, the new buildings of the school, the purchase of the residences of the Missionaries and of the station chapel, the distribution of the alms to the poor, and searching out separately each deserving case, the procuring funds for the publication of Dr. Pfanders's works, the establishment of the general library, the whole correspondence of the Mission and the management of the accounts, are some of the labours in which he is engaged. In the necessary absence of the Missionaries from Peshawar, he has supplied their places in the school, and has accompanied the catechists to preach. The happy results of the association of a lay-Missionary with ordained ones has thus been witnessed; and after the experience of nearly five years this Mission may serve as an example of what may be done by Christian laymen in direct Missionary labours. It is hoped that other pious officers or residents in India may be encouraged by this example to offer themselves for this work with similar advantages to other Missionary stations.

Support of the Mission by local friends.

The local contributions at this station have been most liberal: not only have they defrayed the whole local expenses of the Mission, but also the salary of one Missionary. Another Missionary is supported by the contributions of a single Juvenile Association in London; and 100*l.* a year is given by a gentleman in England towards the salary of a third Missionary at Peshawar.

The local Report thus records the still more important assistance which it has received in the countenance and Christian sympathy of local friends—

Especially does this Mission desire to be grateful for the countenance and support ever afforded by the civil authorities. Given not unwillingly, but as a duty to their country and their religion, to their heavenly Sovereign as well as to their earthly Queen, and as due also to the people entrusted to their charge, they have felt it a privilege to encourage that which alone is conducive to stability and order, and to both earthly and heavenly peace, without which men can neither be good subjects nor true servants of God. The name of Colonel Herbert Edwardes will never be mentioned with more honour, in connexion with Peshawar, than on account of his earnest desire and wise and judicious efforts to spread abroad ideas of humanity, and civilization, and knowledge, through the means of Christianity; and how great the blessing which has everywhere accompanied him! A more successful administration of a more difficult frontier tract of country, in more perilous times, has been rarely witnessed. His government has been emphatically a strong one, characterized by the highest moral character, by decision, gentleness, and power, which has given him, amongst the people themselves, the appellation of a model ruler. As Chairman of our local Committee, he has, in his private capacity, given the best advice in every thing that has been undertaken. One of his latest acts was to secure the continuance of his subscription of 100 rupees a month, or 120*l.* a year, to the Mission, after he himself had left the station, through the rent of his private dwelling-house, valued at 7000 rupees, which, shortly before his departure, he presented to the Mission. Nor is his a single instance of men in power affecting the interests of the Mission for good. The influence of Sir Robert Montgomery and of Mr. M'Leod, and especially of Sir John Lawrence, our late chief ruler, has likewise, in many ways, been felt at Peshawar. Sir John Lawrence has twice presided at our annual examinations, and presented the prizes which he and Colonel Edwardes had given, when both of them have addressed the scholars in the presence of large assemblies of both Europeans and natives, in words which some of the people themselves affirmed to be better far than all their gifts. May God grant that men like these, who have been honoured and blessed by that God whom they themselves had owned—men who have saved the Punjab, if not the whole of India, and upheld the honour of the Christian faith—may long remain in power, a blessing to the country and to the Church! If, in a few short years, the Punjab has attained an eminence which has perhaps never yet been accorded to a province so soon after its acquisition, the Christian feels that it is but another instance of the promise and decree, that it is righteousness which exalteth a nation.

Dr. Trumpp thus records his impression of the work during his brief stay at Peshawar—

I had the privilege to work hardly one small year in this blessed Mission, when I was so unexpectedly removed by a severe illness. Yet, from what I have witnessed myself, I do not hesitate to say that there is a most glorious field open at Peshawar, and blessed are they whom the Lord permits to work for Him there. We had, in the short time of six months, seven inquirers, who were regularly instructed in God's word; and the attendance near our city chapel was rather increasing than diminishing. There is no doubt that the preaching of the Gospel was beginning to be felt there, and that the people became more friendly the more they began to understand what our real object was. We were never once insulted or harmed in any way: wherever we came we were friendly greeted and respected by everybody, and the preaching of the Gospel of peace never once resulted in any disturbance; yea, the mollahs began to be so seriously alarmed at our preaching, that they commenced a counter-preaching against us, begging and exhorting their countrymen not to come to us, and not to listen to us, as we were seducers, who would bring them to hell. When I heard of this I thanked God for his mercy and the blessing He had laid upon his unworthy servants, for it seemed to me a great sign of speedy victory over the prince of darkness. Oh, if it had only once come to this, that the great battle could be fought with spiritual weapons, about the issue of the contest we need not be anxious.

Mr. Clark gives the following account of a Missionary tour—

The last two months of the year have been spent in a tour on the frontier in company with the Rev. M. Loewenthal of the American Board of Missions. We travelled down the left bank of the river Indus, to Muklund, where we took boat to Kalabagh. We proceeded thence, also by river, to Dera Ismael Khan, which was the limit of our journey. Our homeward course then lay on the right bank of the Indus on the border of our territories, and we came on, stage by stage, through Bunnoo and Kohat, back again to Peshawar. The whole route had never before been visited by a Missionary, and it proved to us how open the field of labour is, wherever Missionaries may go. On the very border the Gospel may be preached without further difficulties than are met with at Peshawar. The country through which we passed would form openings for two additional very important Missions, if the men were at hand to conduct them. The first would be established for the salt range, and include the whole country from Puid Dadan Khan to Kalabagh; whilst the second would be a Mission to the Affghans, on the right bank of the Indus, intermediate between Peshawar and Mooltan, with its centre at Dera Ismael Khan, including Bunnoo within its limits. There would not be the slightest difficulty on the part either of the civil authorities, or of the people themselves, to the immediate establishment of such Missions. The way is perfectly open, and the ground is yet untouched, and only awaits the labourers. May the Lord of the harvest, in His own power and love, be pleased to appoint them Himself.

We preached, during this tour, at every town and village we came to, and distributed, chiefly by sale at nominal prices, a large number of portions of the Scriptures and other Christian books. I ought not to omit to record the truly kind welcome and aid which we received, as the first Missionaries who had visited them, from the English residents at Dera Ismael Khan and Bunnoo. In both places considerable contributions were collected for our work, without any solicitation on our part, and, in one case, without our knowledge, until the money was forwarded to us.

Education—The English School.

Mr. M'Carthy, the superintendant of the English school, writes—

In assuming the charge of the school from Mr. Clark, in the latter end of March 1857, I found it in a state of prosperity and good order and discipline, very surprising when the difficulties are considered which had to be encountered in its establishment. There were then 105 names on the roll. Soon the mutiny broke out, and the attendance at the school began to languish: the numbers sank to less than 50. With the suppression of the revolt the school began to prosper again, and at the close of 1858 there were 144 names on the register. On the 30th September 1859, 186 names were enrolled. The intellectual progress of the pupils has been considerable.

So far, the state of the school is gratifying enough. But it has not as yet begun to work out its grand object—the conversion of souls. The Holy Scriptures are extensively read, and, in addition to this, a vernacular lecture is delivered daily at the opening and closing of the school, in which the chief facts, precepts, and doctrines of the Christian religion are familiarly explained. But the soil on which we have to work is a most unfavourable one, and until God pours out abundantly of his Holy Spirit, our labours must be fruitless. The baptism of Joseph is as yet the only one which we have to record.

A change of character, however, has been very apparent in many of the scholars, which is noticed in their very countenances. This is especially observable in those who have been the longest under Christian influences. Truthfulness and uprightness, in many cases, have taken the place of deceit and double-dealing, and though many have not yet the courage to make a confession of the Christian faith, there can be no doubt that, from conviction of its truth, some of the scholars are, to a certain degree, influenced by Christian principles.

I have been greatly helped in my labours in the school by my colleagues, the Rev. Messrs. Clark and Tuting. During my absence on sick leave, in July, Mr. Tuting undertook the duties of superintendant, and since then both he and Mr. Clark have continued to perform a liberal share of my work.

Translations and Publications.

Mr. Clark, during the last year, has written and published a tract in Pushtoo, on the Sonship of Christ, and has also revised his translation in the same language of the Gospel of St. John, the original manuscript of which was destroyed in the Secundra press during the mutiny. Dr. Trumpp has translated a great part of the Common-Prayer Book into Persian, which will be used by the native congregation.

MOOLTAN.

The Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick has remained alone at this station. The Committee have, however, been able to send him a fellow-labourer at the close of last year. Mr. Fitzpatrick writes in his Annual Report—

We have very recently been encouraged in our general labours by the baptism of a Mohammedan moonshee. He is a young man of about twenty-two years of age, of good natural abilities, and pleasing deportment. He first heard the Gospel in this city two years and a half ago. After suffering much reproach from influential natives, and his former companions in Government employment, he has openly embraced the Gospel, and become the first-fruits of this Mission. Thus we have good reason to rejoice in the Lord's goodness, and go on in faith and expectation that He will yet call others out of darkness, and give them grace to turn and love Him.

It was sad to be compelled to break up our little school last year, when there was no one to superintend it in my absence, but I have collected several of our former scholars, and established a far better institution. The present school was opened in May, for instruction in English and Persian, and has an average attendance of 34 scholars, most of whom have learnt portions of God's word, in their own language, and have received a good deal of secular instruction. I have spent a few hours of every day in this sphere of labour, and have reason to think it time well occupied. Few places can require a Mission school more than Mooltan, and the commencement we have made seems tolerably encouraging.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick's little class of five (three girls and two boys) receive her best attention, and have acquired a good deal of knowledge.

We are not able to overthrow idolatry, or any other superstition, with the ease and rapidity some have imagined possible. But we are, under God's guidance and power, doing something every day towards this grand consummation. I think we have every reason to be thankful, and look forward with hope. God has done for us, and by us, more than we would have imagined. Even in my own Mission I can see signs of improvement.

My preaching is peaceable, and the hearers frequently attentive, and very recently, when we went into camp, I sold fifty portions of Scripture, and tracts at nominal prices. All this seems to me a ground of encouragement, and may help to assure us that He whose work it is, will, in due time, multiply the seed sown, and “gather the wheat into his garner.”*

Statistics of the South-India Mission.

THE statistics of the Church Missionary Society's operations in South India, for the year ending December 31 1859, exhibit a very marked increase, for which the Committee desire to return thanks to Him “who worketh all in all.” The number of baptized native Christians is 26,636, being an increase of 1354 during the year; while the number of catechumens is 10,604, being only 177 less than last year; showing that the ranks of inquirers are kept up by fresh accessions from heathenism. The number of communicants is 6031, showing an increase of 289 within the year. The number of children and young persons of both sexes under instruction amounts of 11,621, being an increase of 528, the majority being girls, upon the returns of the preceding year. The Madras Church Missionary Record, in commenting upon these facts, adds—

In judging of the educational work connected with the Society's operations, it should be borne in mind that of the 7983 boys and youths under instruction, about 1200 are pursuing, in English boarding and training institutions, a course of study of a high character: and that of the 3638 girls, one sixth part is under the daily influence and instruction of the Missionary's wife in the different station boarding schools. We feel, however, that the feature of greatest encouragement connected with the statistical returns, is the circumstance, that the staff of our native clergymen has increased from fifteen to twenty-three in numbers, owing to the ordination of eight Tamil catechists.

It was stated in the last Report that two fanatical outbreaks had taken place at the close of 1858 against native Christians—the one a riot in the town of Tinnevely on occasion of the funeral of a native Christian, and the other an outrageous attempt to prevent native-Christian females from covering their chests with their garments, as such apparel was alleged to be a badge appropriated to a higher caste. In each case the Government interposed its authority, and the grievances were redressed, and there has been no attempt at further outbreaks.

An attempt was, however, made by a fanatical party at Madras to overawe the Government by a “monster” memorial, complaining of Government sanction being given to schemes of proselytism, chiefly by the sanction of official persons given to Missionary Societies, and by Government Grants-in-aid to Missionary schools. The memorial was adopted at a public meeting held April 9, 1859, at Madras, called by the Hindu and Mohammedan members of a “Madras Native Association,” presided over by the high-priest of Conjeveram. The memorial received a courteous but sufficiently decisive negative both from the Governor of Madras and from Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India. Such events as these are proofs that Christianity is no longer regarded by the natives, as formerly, with indifference, but that the fear of its final triumph has fallen upon the people of the land. One sentence in the Minute (21st June 1859) of Sir Charles Trevelyan upon the memorial expresses an important principle for the guidance of Christian officers of the Indian Government. “Officers of Government, whether Christian, Mohammedan, or Hindu, have a right, in their private capacity, to recommend their respective religions by all proper means; and they will be able to do so without disturbing the public tranquillity in proportion, as it is generally believed, that under no circumstances coercion or favouritism in matters of religion are possible, while the British crown holds dominion in India.”

The Mission at Madras, which was reported last year to be in a very weak state, has received no accession, but has been still further reduced. Mr. Bilderbeck was absent during the whole time, and Mr. Foulkes the greater part of the year; while the Rev. L. Cradock, Principal of the Harris School, and the Rev. R. H. Vickers, have returned to England. Mr. Harley was transferred from the Mission at Travancore to Madras after the close of 1859, so that the Society's operations in Madras were nearly suspended. There is, indeed, a better prospect for the current year, but the Committee earnestly desire to have such a supply of Missionaries at each important station, as to prevent the occurrence of such a check as they deplore in the present case.

The Harris School.

Mr. Walker, who is in charge of this Institution, has given the following report at the end of the year 1859—

In sending you this, my first report of the Harris school, as you requested, I do not feel so much satisfaction in regard to the numbers, as I trust another opportunity may give me; yet there are such unmistakeable marks of improvement, both in the tone and increase, that I am led to hope, under the favour of God, there may be a good and flourishing school established shortly. It will be seen, by the subjoined table, there has been a steady increase from the commencement; and when the prejudice against Christian, prayer, and Scripture-reading, the Mussulman's indifference to education, and the late opposing influence of the Madrissa are considered, the steadiness of increase in numbers will be more a matter of surprise than its slowness.

The chief obstacles we have had hitherto to contend with, I need hardly say, have been prayer and reading the Scriptures. The former at first was found to be the greater, as a prayer could not be offered for a blessing on the Institution without a petition for the greatest of all blessings to be conferred on these strangers and aliens to divine truth—the blessing of eternal salvation. This, in the perversity of the human heart, caused confusion amongst them, almost to the interruption of the prayer, and, to some of them, perhaps offence; but, to our great thankfulness, this has subsided, and now when their temporal as well as their spiritual condition, with that of their relatives, is remembered, they are not only quiet and attentive, but I imagine I can also observe a gratified feeling. May this be a manifestation of the work of the Holy Spirit in their hearts!

The Scriptures, too, have become less distasteful to them: new scholars do, indeed, evince a reluctance to read them in their own language, but those who have been with us some time not only read them willingly, but even have a desire to become acquainted with facts, and, to my surprise, remember much of their lessons. Those who are thus becoming tractable to the only knowledge which is able to make them wise, are principally of the elder and thinking portion, who have before so strongly opposed it, and are those, too, over whom the molwis and imams exercise the greatest control. Fourteen, also, of these are from twenty to thirty years of age, and are capable of distinguishing between right and wrong, did not prejudice hold its sway in their minds. The influence, then, which these exert upon the younger portion is very great. The respectability of the scholars is another source of satisfaction, of whom nearly all were, under the Mohammedan rule, the favoured class. One, easily distinguished by his profusion of ornaments, is the son of the late nawab, and another the son of his commander-in-chief; and, in short, all are of the ameers, jungs, khans, or bahadurs of his court.

* The highest number of pupils on the roll of this school in each year has been—6 in 1856; 17 in 1857; 42 in 1858; 67 in 1859.

General view of the Tinnevelly Mission.

The Committee regret that the Mission of Tinnevelly is also to be numbered amongst those which have been reduced in the staff of European Missionaries by the failure of health. The Rev. J. Whitchurch has been compelled to return to England, after ten years' labour, and the Rev. J. Buncher, sent out in June last, was only able to remain in India a few months, as his constitution proved to be unsuited to a tropical climate.

The work of the Tinnevelly Mission comprises the pastoral care of nearly 30,000 souls, dispersed in 551 villages: there are 399 churches and prayer-houses, together with more than 300 schools, and nearly 8000 children under education. There are large educational establishments for theological students, and for training schoolmasters; various religious Societies to be kept up; and a surrounding heathen population to be visited. Such a work could only be sustained by a well organized system of native agency; and it is matter of devout praise to the great Head of the Church that He has preserved the more experienced Missionaries in health and ability to sustain such weighty responsibilities, and has endued them with the spirit of power and love, and a sound mind, without which gifts the work would soon languish, or fall into confusion.

At the close of the year the Bishop of Madras held a visitation in Tinnevelly, of which a grateful mention is made in the journals of all the Missionaries. His Lordship admitted several of the European Missionaries and some of the native deacons to priests' orders, and seven native catechists to deacons' orders. These ordinations will, in some measure, supply the lack of European Missionaries, but only in part; and the Committee are most anxious to send out fresh Missionaries to this most important of all the Mission fields throughout India.

The Committee can only select from the journals and annual letters of the Missionaries a few extracts, which are selected in the hope that, taken together, they will convey a fair representation of the work carried on by the labourers in this vineyard of the Lord.

The faithful senior Missionary, Mr. Schaffter, who has laboured for thirty-three years in Tinnevelly, writes, in his annual letter—prosperity for this Mission. Since the energetical vindication of the right of society, in the town of Tinnevely, by Mr. Levinge, the heathen have, on the whole, been quiet and well-behaved towards us ; and, on our part, we endeavour to meet them, on all occasions, in the spirit and with acts of Christian kindness. We are now building a fine choultry, (a traveller's rest,) principally for their accommodation, and the cost of which is, in a great measure, defrayed by the native Christians. At this time, also, when the cholera is going on its annual round of devastation, and which, where it rages, strikes such fear among the people as to drive many from their homes, forsaking their relatives, we pay two native doctors, who go about the district administering medical help to the heathen as well as the Christians. These, and similar deeds of Christian benevolence, go very far in allaying the bitter feelings which the present comparatively rapid progress of Christianity is calculated to produce.

Though we cannot say that the last year has passed without troubles, for such there have been—during the Mohurram feast the Mohammedans surrounded our church of Nuntherakullum, and performed all their fooleries, probably to provoke the Christians to resistance—yet we can say that the troubles have been, comparatively, very few, and easily arranged, for the adversaries felt that they could not rely on public support. The outward progress of Christianity in these parts is certainly considerable: there is a strong feeling among high and low that Christianity is destined to continue and prevail in this land. I have made very minute inquiries on this point. During the past year, in my small district alone, more than 450 people have applied to be received under Christian instruction, 300 of whom only have been admitted ; the rest attend prayer and divine worship, but, for various reasons, we have not thought it right as yet to insert their names in the list.

With all this it must still be said that very much is wanting. During the last year we have had to exclude several persons from the congregations for gross departures ; but the most alarming feature of the whole is the indifference for divine things, and the worldly-mindedness which still prevails in the nominal Christians. This deficiency we see, and deeply feel, and know, also, that only the grace imparted by the Spirit of God can make it up. For this human efforts are powerless ; so we have most cheerfully responded to the invitation made to us from Madras to join the people of God—in different parts of the world—in entreating the assistance of that Divine Teacher ; making the second week in January a time of special prayer for that object.

May the God of all grace in a rich measure answer all our poor prayers ! then we shall be able to tell you of greater and better things than our letters and reports now contain.

Mr. Thomas, whose remarkable energy and powers of arrangement enable him to sustain the most considerable share of the work, in the superintendence of four districts, has furnished the Committee with a most valuable annual letter, containing a digest of the work which has been carried on under his direction, by the aid of five ordained natives, and more than 100 other native agents.

It may give some idea of the advance of your Missions, to notice that this one Missionary, by the aid of native teachers, has the oversight of 10,398 converts, residing in 127 villages, having 73 schools, and 1266 communicants; as large a number of communicants as the Society's list contained in all its Missions in 1832, under 60 Missionaries, after thirty years of labour. The following are extracts from the letter of Mr. Thomas—

I am thankful to say that the congregations are in a healthful state, and are progressing favourably. The word of God is daily read and expounded to the people; and, through the munificent grants made by the Christian-Knowledge and Bible Societies, it is also in the hands of a great number of individuals who are able to read and study it for themselves. These advantages, coupled with the regular services of the church, cannot fail, under the blessing of the Holy Spirit, to enlighten, sanctify, and save them. I believe that there is much more of true piety among the people than comes to the knowledge of the European Missionary. I constantly hear from the catechists of happy deaths among the Christians; and there is every reason to hope that, at all events, our communicants, whose number is large, are truly in earnest.

The number of communicants at present is 1266, being an increase of 35 upon the former year. The number of deaths has not been taken into account, and a large number to be admitted in January from amongst the confirmation candidates will appear in next year's returns.

It is a very gratifying fact, that, during the past year, about 1400 people have been brought over from the ranks of heathenism in these districts—from demon-worship, and all its debasing ceremonies—to the reception of Christianity, and are now being instructed in its saving truths, pure morality, and elevating doctrine. Of these, upwards of 900 have been entered in the statistical returns: the others, having but recently joined, are continued on probation. It is interesting to watch how these results are often silently but surely brought about. I may give an instance in the brief history of one village near Mengnanapuram. Upwards of sixteen years ago a few families joined at Vellalenvellei. This was followed, shortly afterwards, by about 300 persons, who gave up their demon-temple, which was cleansed, and fitted up as a prayer-house. Our chief reason for taking possession of these places, and converting them into prayer-houses, is, that in many instances, as here, no other site can be obtained for erecting a place of worship.

The Merasdar now set up a fierce opposition; and I well remember going there one Sunday evening, with the intention of holding divine service, and being prevented in the way by the catechist, who gave information that a large crowd of heathen was assembled at the place, with sticks, guns, &c., ready to create a disturbance. I heard the report of their guns as I proceeded, and as I had already learnt that it was better to avoid a danger of the kind in this country than to go into it, and afterwards seek redress, I turned aside to another village, and had prayer there.

Very many backslided then, forcibly took possession of the prayer-house, and restored it to its former use. For a time I met the people under a banyan tree, but we ultimately obtained a site for building a place of worship, and by the end of last year the congregation amounted to 200 souls. I am happy to say that the number at present is 633. These, having lived so many years amongst Christians, and having become acquainted with the Gospel, were no longer able to resist their convictions, and placed themselves under instruction. I have appointed an additional catechist, so that the truths of Christianity will be taught from house to house, to men, women, and children, and the possibility of backsliding will thus be in a great measure removed. The devil temple has been so entirely destroyed this time, that not a vestige remains. As in very many other places, so here, the Roman Catholics endeavoured to thwart us by setting up opposition, which I am happy to say did not succeed. The way this is done generally is by the opposing party, if there be one, going to a Roman-Catholic catechist, and offering him inducements to take them under instruction. This is instantly done, the matter is favourably represented to the priest, and, within a month, all are baptized. It would be gratuitous to assume that the priests are always cognizant as to how matters stand. The catechist comes with his plausible representations, and they are acted upon as a matter of course.

The conduct of all the catechists has been uniformly satisfactory, and I am happy to add, that, compared with twenty years ago, this class of agents is vastly improved. They are qualified for their work by a wider range of knowledge, better intellectual training, and a higher estimate of their calling, so that the difficulty of superintending them is very much lessened. A kind and affectionate bearing towards them, as Christian brethren labouring under one Master, Christ, and an equal amount of firmness, make every thing go on smoothly and happily.

The visit of the Lord Bishop of Madras during the present month was, as usual, looked upon by our native Christians with great interest. His lordship held confirmations at Satthankulam, Asirvadhapuram, and here, and the number of the candidates amounted altogether to 611. Under the blessing of God, I think much good may be expected from this means of grace; especially when the candidates, for the most part, were well prepared, when earnest living prayer is offered, and followed by such appropriate addresses as those which the bishop delivered at the different places. One great excellence of his lordship's addresses—the greatest being their purely evangelical character—is their conciseness and clearness, so that they may readily be rendered into Tamil, without losing any of their peculiar point and effect.

The ordination at Panneivilei, on the 18th instant, was a happy day for the Church of Tinnevelly. Five native deacons were made Presbyters, and eight catechists admitted to the diaconate. I think the heathen could say, "The Lord hath done great things for them;" and I am sure every Christian heart in the province will echo the words with devoutest gratitude, "The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." It devolved upon me to preach the ordination sermon in Tamil, and I hope it may prove a word in season to the native brethren. The subject was, "The faithful steward," 1 Cor. iv. 2. And after an experience of twenty-three years, I endeavoured to bring in all the points respecting which it is of importance that our native brethren should be dealt with very faithfully.

Mr. Sargent, in his annual letter, makes the following remarks upon the state of mind prevalent among the educated heathen of Tinnevelly—

In the minds of many, the sublime nature of Christianity, and the desirableness of embracing it, are points already considered and settled; and were idolatry the religion of the Hindus, as it is among other heathen nations, the convictions already in exercise would be sufficient to compel them to embrace the Gospel. But with the Hindus caste holds the place of religion, and idolatry is their plaything. This they can regard with indifference; but that is the powerful chain which binds their minds, influences their actions, and forms every habit. This, in fact, is the battle-field on which Hinduism stands, and not on her religious tenets. But the grace of God can do wonders, where the might of man is of no avail.

The Rev. J. T. Tucker is able to give a no less encouraging report than his brethren already quoted—

At the commencement of last year I expressed an opinion that I had good reason to hope that many, then heathen, would cast away their idols and embrace the Christian religion. The fact that upwards of 900 persons in the Panneivilei district alone having, during the past year, renounced heathenism, and placed themselves under Christian instruction, shows that I have not been disappointed in my hope. These new converts are not included in the statistical returns, it being a rule with me not to account for such in the returns until their sincerity has undergone some test. However, I have not much doubt of their real intention of casting off idolatry, and endeavouring to serve God, as far as they know Him.

Through the zeal of the Panneivilei congregation upwards of 200 persons have recently been persuaded to join the Christian religion, and all these are within sound of the Panneivilei church bell, so that they have the additional advantage of being able to attend, on every Sabbath, the large church.

The Gospel has been preached, by myself or catechist, in almost every town, village, and hamlet, during the twelvemonth; besides which, a great number of religious tracts and portions of the Scriptures have been distributed among the heathen, Romanists, and Mohammedans.

The Lord has been pleased to raise up another man of extraordinary powers of eloquence, faith, and zeal, in the person of a Malayalim man. I took him with me to see what he was made of, during my recent tour; and I must say that the impression he has made on me is, that his heart is full to overflowing with the love of Christ, and that he is the most eloquent native preacher I have heard in India. In one village he spoke for an hour and a half most eloquently to some Brahmins, and so clearly exposed the fallacies of Hinduism, and brought forward so beautifully the grand scheme of salvation through Jesus Christ alone, that the Brahmins were ashamed of themselves, and all the people were compelled to acknowledge that idolatry was sin and folly, and the Christian religion the one from God.

The Bishop's ordination, referred to by Mr. Thomas, was held in Mr. Tucker's church. He thus describes the scene—

The Bishop met his clergy at the door of the church, and proceeded at once, after asking God's blessing upon the proceedings of the day, to the chancel. A large church crowded with native Christians is not to be seen every day by some of the European friends then present: a few of them, therefore, were not a little pleased to see with their own eyes a congregation of upwards of 1100 converts from among the Hindus. To me, indeed, it was a grand sight. Including the Bishop and Missionaries, there were 29 Europeans, and 6 native clergymen, besides the 13 then ordained, also a crowded congregation of precious souls, who, had it not been for the Church Missionary Society and the Society for Propagating the Gospel, would have been living in the darkness of heathenism, without hope, and without God in the world. When I first commenced my labours at Panneivilei, I did not dream of such a church, and such an assembly of worshippers of the Lord God Almighty collected in this Panneivilei jungle. Much less did I ever imagine that thirteen native Christians would be ordained in one day at any period of my life in the Panneivilei church. Oh, how infinitely more gracious is God to us than our own thoughts! We are constantly tempted to imagine that nothing is doing around us, as regards any real spiritual work; but what greater evidence can we have of God's gracious presence, than that He, year by ear, strengthens our hands, adds souls to his church, and, even now, in his providence sends forth thirteen men, who were once heathen, as his ordained servants to labour in his vineyard. Still the harvest is great, great indeed, but, after all, the labourers are few. Oh, let us not be tired of praying the Lord of the harvest that He will even send more labourers into his vineyard.

In one of the districts, Kadatchapuram, the system of employing female Bible-readers has been introduced with encouraging prospects of success. Mr. Devasagayam writes—“ I am sorry my health has not permitted me to visit so often as I did formerly, but my assistants have been active, and we have employed also several pious schoolmistresses, who show a sincere desire for the work, and go about with the Bible in their hands. They have been gladly received by many of their sex, and we encourage them to do their duty in the spirit of prayer and faith.”

An incident in the journal of the Rev. A. B. Valpy illustrates the zeal of some individual converts to bring over their neighbours to Christianity.

Ukkirankottei, Oct. 7—Preached to the heathen in the bazaar. Delighted to meet an old Maravar Christian of Rusthar, a neighbouring village. He is a most zealous and a most pious man. Twenty years ago he stood alone in his village, and endured much persecution. Now he has the pleasure of seeing some thirty-five souls who have joined themselves to the Rusthar congregation. He is constantly doing his utmost to bring over the remainder of the village. Thank God, he is known by all as a most upright and consistent man. After evening service at Ukkirankottei, had an interesting class of some thirty or forty at the night school.

It must not, however, be supposed that the Missionaries in Tinnevelly have no discouragement, or that the work is one of unchecked progress. Even the most prosperous districts have passed through great trials, and some are still involved in trouble.

The Rev. J. Pickford entered, at the commencement of last year, upon the charge of the Dohnavur district. This district, in consequence of various unfavourable circumstances, was in a sad state of disorganization, and the converts at the principal stations had, in a body, withdrawn from public worship. Such trials occasionally affect the Missionary, even in the midst of a prosperous Mission. After a few months, however, the unreasonable conduct of the converts gave way, and Mr. Pickford thus reports the result—

The people of Dohnavur have, I am thankful to say, been brought to a better mind. They came in a body, with many expressions of sorrow for the past, and promised to be obedient to discipline, to attend church, and to learn. After many conversations with them, in which these points were fully explained and insisted upon, I felt it to be my duty to readmit them to the outward privileges of the Gospel. I have been encouraged for more than four months, not only by a nice congregation, but by a remarkable attention to the preaching of the word of God. The hand of the Lord has been laid heavily upon them by a severe visitation of cholera. There is a general feeling that it is the hand of God, and many are separating themselves more entirely from the heathen. A class of young men has been drawn together for the reading of the Scriptures. They were at first ashamed to come to read the Scriptures, but this feeling has worn off. From eight to nine meet together in the vestry after midday service on the Lord's day, and there is no part of my work of which I am more hopeful, or in which I find greater pleasure, than the work which has been begun among these rough lads. Their rough ways and blunt mode of talking, remind me of a similar class of lads (weavers) which I had during my first curacy at Idle in the West Riding of Yorkshire. Mrs. Pickford has collected a class of women which has, during the year, increased from nine to twenty-four, and she speaks hopefully of several. We have been made to feel the importance of working while it is day, by the deaths of two of these poor women by cholera during the past month.

The congregation at Ediarkullam has, by a recent arrangement of the Madras Committee, been placed under the pastoral care of the Rev. M. Devaprasadham. The Committee will, I am sure, watch with peculiar interest the progress which shall be made here. Our native brethren are on their trial, and every one who loves the Tinnevely church will pray for them, and seek in every possible way to encourage them and strengthen their hands.

In the Nullur District there has been an outbreak of persecution in one of the villages, Koilutta, in which a native minister, the Rev. D. Gnanamuttu is stationed, upon the death of a Christian headman. Nearly half the congregation were turned aside, and even some baptized converts were driven to apostacy. But even this occurrence has been overruled to good, as it has stirred up some to prepare for baptism who had long neglected it; and the faithful Christians have been more than ever zealous in uniting in prayer-meetings for obtaining help from God.

Tinnevelly Educational Establishments.

Mr. Sargent reports of the Preparandi Institution, at the end of the year—

In this establishment the good work has been carried on, by the blessing of God, without interruption. The demand for young men for the Training Institution has not allowed of our having so large a number of students sent to us as in former years; but those who have been sent were, on the whole, more advanced in their education. So far as systematic training is of any account, we have all that we could wish. Every agent engaged in teaching performs his work cheerfully and efficiently; and the students, as a body, encourage the teachers by their application, their willing obedience, and, more or less, by their prayerful habits also. During the past year we have been privileged to see seventeen young men leave the institution with a good character; thirteen of them as readers, and four as schoolmasters. Two others, however, have been dismissed for improper conduct.

The Vernacular Training Institution is under the charge of the Rev. T. Spratt, and comprises three departments—

First, The students in training as schoolmasters, formed into four classes, about fifty in number. These students form the Normal School, as it is termed.

Secondly, Youths who are preparing for the Normal School, about thirty in number, who form a Model School, under Mr. Scamell.

Thirdly, A Practising School, containing about fifty children.

The Rev. P. S. Royston, who visited Palamcotta in the autumn, writes respecting this institution—

It is under the able superintendence of Mr. Spratt, is now taking its proper position in the Mission, and its importance is felt by all. It never was in a more efficient state than at present, well repaying Mr. Spratt for his unwearied and self-denying labours in the prosecution of this good work. Its moral tone is all that could be expected, and a healthful spirit of emulation pervades the whole place. The Committee have every reason to rejoice in the appointment of Mr. Spratt to this responsible post. The first-class students come in, in turns, to practice teaching in the junior school, and many of them conduct lessons as well as their white brethren in kindred institutions in England.

The Rev. T. Spratt, who has been for eighteen months Principal of this Institution, suggests in his last annual letter many important plans for raising the position and increasing the efficiency of the village schoolmasters, and gives this general review of his work—

I am thankful to say that I can look back upon the past eighteen months of my connexion with the Training Institution with much satisfaction. There is unmistakeable evidence of progress, and more especially, I believe, in the moral tone of the institution. The preparation of the candidates for the Lord's Supper before we knew of the Bishop's visit, and then the preparation of candidates for confirmation, brought me into closer personal intercourse with many of the students. I could not but perceive that there was a feeling of seriousness and earnestness pervading them. Of some I have the hope that the impression then made has not entirely been effaced. We look out with anxious eagerness for every sign of an improved moral feeling, for it is only in proportion as this rises, that we can expect them to take higher views of the dignity, importance, and responsibility of their work as instructors of the young. Still my experience of native character leads me to accept, with mingled feelings of hope and suspicion, what in individuals less practised in the art of dissimulation would be treated as signs of the greatest promise. So long as the students in our institution are dependent upon us for their education and support, and so long as they look only to the Mission for provision for the future, so long will it be difficult for us not to fear that they may be acting a character. I have no doubt that there are among them some sincere characters—that there are those who are free, open, and ingenuous, and who are above the servile motive of acting to “please master.” I have had more than one instance of an independence of mind greater than is common, and this has perhaps inspired with more hope than any one circumstance besides: nevertheless our motto must continue to be, “Rejoice with trembling.”

I have perhaps already dwelt more than sufficiently long on points connected with my own work, but I have a growing conviction of the importance of the schoolmaster's work. No one can visit many of the congregations in the various districts, without coming to the conclusion that we cannot hope that any future congregation of Christians will be worthy of the name, unless much is now done for the moral and intellectual improvement of the children. The effect of the want of all early culture is painfully manifest, not to say in the deadness of the moral sense of so many of them, but even in their very looks, the absence of every ray of intelligence in their countenances being only too sure an indication of the darkness which reigns within. We have indeed abundant proofs all around us that our efforts to improve them shall not be unsuccessful. We can point to numbers, whose lives, whose shrewdness and intelligence, bear ample testimony to the “receptivity” of our training, both moral and intellectual, even by the lowest castes. On every side we see hopeful signs and grounds of encouragement; we see that much has been accomplished by the due and prayerful use of means; and in this fact we discover the Lord's gracious will that we should diligently persevere in the use of those means. May He strengthen us all for the more earnest, faithful, and constant employment of every means, and at the same time mercifully preserve us from looking for success, except through the outpouring of his own Holy Spirit!

The Institution was examined in August by several of the Missionaries, each taking a separate department. Mr. Fenn reports respecting the part he took in this examination—

Having for the last two or three years taken my part with the other Missionaries in the examination of this Institution, I have no hesitation in saying, that in the papers now looked over there is observable a very decided improvement in one point of the greatest importance—accuracy. There is still perhaps room for some further advance in this particular, even in the Normal School, and still more so in the Model School.

Having been asked to take the chair at the vivâ voce examination, I have much pleasure in giving utterance to what was, I believe, the general feeling, that the result was very encouraging. But the accuracy shown in arithmetic, algebra, physiology, and geography, and the great range of knowledge acquired in the last of these, was truly gratifying.

The Sarah Tucker Institution for training female teachers was commenced at the close of 1858, by Mrs. Dibb, wife of the Rev. A. Dibb. But it pleased God to disappoint the bright hopes of the Institution by the removal of Mrs. Dibb to a better world. Temporary arrangements have been made for the continuance of the Institution, and the permanent building has been commenced.

The Rev. T. Spratt, writing August 23, says—

You will be glad to hear that the first stone of the Sarah Tucker Institution was laid this morning. We assembled all the students of both Institutions, together with the girls belonging to Mrs. Sargent's and Mrs. Scamell's schools. After the reading of a Psalm, and the offering of prayer by myself, Mr. Sargent addressed all present on the subject of the proposed Institution, briefly noticing the zealous and pious efforts of Miss Tucker for the promotion of female education in the East. The stone was then laid by Mr. Sargent, and after earnestly entreating God's blessing on the new undertaking, we concluded with the Doxology.

The Native English School was first opened in March 1844 by Mr. Cruickshanks, and it has been ever since under his direction. During these sixteen years, 2050 boys have been admitted into the school, of whom only ten have embraced Christianity. More than fifty of those who have been educated in the school hold public employment in Tinnevelly. The school has been liable to many fluctuations; whenever a conversion has occurred a large number of the pupils are withdrawn. Such was the case during the last year, when the numbers fell to eighty-one. At the close of the year they had risen to 129. The school is the chief educational establishment in the province; for at a late examination for the uncovenanted Civil Service, when forty names were published in the official Gazette as “passed candidates,” twenty-eight had been or were pupils of the school, and eight or ten of the rest had also been in the school, though they suppressed the fact before the examiners.

Mr. Sargent bears this testimony to the indirect and latent benefit of the education imparted in the native English school—

If I were asked what, under God, seems to be the instrumentality operating towards the conversions in the higher classes reported during the last two years, I would reply, that in the case of those who have learned in our native English School, there has been a preparedness of mind, inducing the conviction that idolatry is folly, and that Christianity is true; but the persuading and prevailing influence has come from intercourse chiefly with our converted munshis, who, with one exception, never attended our native English School. And this I am inclined to believe, will be the way in which God will carry on any extensive movement among our native population, viz. by the devoted character and personal efforts of Christian natives operating on the masses among whom they live, and affecting, perhaps, at first only the younger part of the community.

I must not omit to mention here that Mr. Cruikshanks’ intercourse with the youths in his classes, has always a good influence, and that he is invariably regarded with great love and respect by them, and in some cases, I think, we may suppose that these feelings co-operate in disposing the mind to the consideration of Gospel truth.

During the early part of the year now under review, Mr. Fenn was the only European Missionary in this extensive district, to carry forward a work which had been lately shared by three brethren. But he was endued with strength to bear this burden, and the congregations in the south furnished him with additional catechists. At the close of the half year, June 30, 1859, he writes—

tion of the 1400 heathen villages. With the oversight of Christians and inquirers in about sixty different villages, it seemed at one time impossible to make the necessary arrangements ; but through the continued help afforded by the native churches in the south, and by some slight modifications of the plan hitherto pursued, the difficulty has, under God's blessing, been surmounted. The native church has supplied fifteen catechists in monthly rotation, besides six permanent itinerators : three of these have been with us all the half year, and the other three for the last six weeks, so that their labour has been equivalent to about twenty-two monthly catechists, making an aggregate total of thirty-seven months' labour furnished by the native church during the half year for the heathen of North Tinnevelly.

The permanent itinerators are catechists who have offered themselves, and are supported by the native church for the express purpose of living among and preaching to the heathen of our itinerancy. Houses are built for them at the expense of the Tinnevelly (native) Church Missionary Association ; and from the village in which they are located they are to visit constantly every place within three miles ; and, at least once in each half year, those within five miles distance, and are also to be prepared at any time to take large excursions, or to come for a few days to the tents of the itinerators. In each case they have a few, but only a very few, Christian families, and these for the most part scattered in different villages within their reach, to whom they minister on the Sunday. This gives them also the advantage, that they can point the heathen to the beginning of a Christian church, which they may join. Three of these permanent itinerators have been with us since March of last year : the other three joined us this last May : a seventh is, I believe, to come shortly. The three who have been longest with us seem to be really liked by the heathen of their respective neighbourhoods, and all have the appearance of being, what it was intended they should be, rather above the average of catechists in ability and zeal. Of the thirteen villages in which there have been adult baptisms during the half year, four are under the charge of one or other of these itinerating catechists.

During the second half year Mr. Fenn was joined by Mr. Gray. These two Missionaries have furnished a joint report of the itinerating Mission, for the half-year ending Dec. 31, from which the following are extracts—

Among the events of the year, two important facts connected with the native agency deserve prominent notice. The first is, that the permanent itinerating catechists, supported by the native church in the province, and labouring among the heathen of North Tinnevelly, have increased during the year from three to seven ; and the other, that in December that long-looked-for event, the ordination of our three native brethren, took place in Panneivilei ; an event, which we trust will be followed, in answer to the prayers that have been offered up in connexion with it, by lasting benefits to our whole district.

From the statistical return which we append, it will be seen that we have had additions during the past year, as we increased from 634 to 741, the actual number of baptisms having been 45 adults and 58 children. The communicants have also increased from 114 to 219. This last, which is the largest proportional increase, does not, we fear, involve a corresponding improvement in the department of the work to which we feel the first and main efforts of the Missionary in charge, and of the native clergy, will have to be directed.

We wish to draw the attention of the Committee to a feature of our congregations, which continues to distinguish them from those of other districts in Tinnevely—we mean their small and scattered character. The addition to the baptized during the last two years of rather more than 100 in each year has been very much from villages at which there were previously no Christians, and thus the expectation with which the itinerancy was started, that converts would be given to us as individuals rather than as bodies, and which, for the first two or three years of its existence, seemed to be exactly reversed, is now at length being realized.

It is also an interesting fact, in reference to the baptisms of the last two years, that they have not merely been from many different villages—fifteen or twenty—in which before there were no Christians, but also that the adults among those newly baptized, belonged, as heathen, to as many as fifteen different castes, each perfectly distinct from the rest. So that there is reason to hope that, speaking politically as well as geographically, the leaven is penetrating the mass.

In the last week of the year we had the pleasure of a visit from the Secretary of the Madras Corresponding Committee, in consultation with whom we endeavoured to take a calm review of the past and present of North Tinnevely, and to determine our course for the future. Many circumstances seem, just at this juncture, to call upon us to do so. First, there is the fact that we are drawing to the close of the sixth year of our itinerancy, and that for the last five half years the Gospel has been preached every half year at least once, and in many cases several times, in every one of its 1400 villages and hamlets. The ordination of our native brethren again calls for some arrangement in reference to their new duties: we propose, therefore, to divide the district into three parts, assigning one to each of the three native ministers, and we shall ourselves be prepared to go on to the “regions beyond.”

An incidental testimony to the results of the labours of the itinerating Missionaries is borne by the catechists of a neighbouring district, who thus contrast the heathen in one of the long-established districts with those who had been under the new system—“My catechists,” writes Mr. Valpy, “who went to preach at a heathen festival held at a town on the borders of the Sivagasi district, spoke with surprise of the intelligence of that portion of their audience who had come down from those parts which lie under the superintendence of the itinerating Missionaries."

General Review of the Mission.

The Mission in Travancore and Cochin comprises the pastoral charge of 6500 native Christians, dispersed in forty-six towns or villages. The number of communicants is 1250, and there are 2700 children under education. The Missionary duties are discharged by seven European Missionaries and six native ministers. There is a printing press in the employment of the Mission, a college for imparting a superior education, and a theological seminary for the preparation of native teachers. An event which took place in the month of July will serve to mark the progress of the work. It is thus described by Mr. Hawksworth—

The past year has witnessed our first gathering of Mission agents. This took place in July at Cottayam.* All our hearts were cheered at the sight of such a goodly gathering—150 native fellow-labourers of a much superior class to the few employed when I entered the Mission twenty years ago. We were then obliged to employ heathen schoolmasters. Now every Mission agent is at least a professing Christian, and a member of our church. Many are spiritually-minded men, and faithfully serve the Saviour whom they love. It was deeply interesting to see so many of our Master's servants from east, west, north, and south—some from the mountains, some from the plains, who had never met before. All seemed surprised to realize, for the first time, the fact of having so many fellow-workmen. None of us seemed to have been fully aware that our Master had so many servants in this corner of his vineyard. Our dear brother Beüttler gave an address. We had a Missionary meeting, and then partook together of the Lord's Supper.

At this conference the question was discussed—What signs of progress are to be observed in the Mission? Two of the senior Missionaries replied—"First, the zeal of the converts to bring their own relatives into the fold of Christ; secondly, a decided improvement in the general conduct of the converts; and, thirdly, a more marked spirit of inquiry, a more ready reception of the Gospel message among the lower orders, though not among the higher."

Mr. Hawksworth mentions also the visitation of the Bishop of Madras as marking an era in the history of the Mission—

The visit of our beloved Bishop has been very refreshing, as usual. In addition to the confirmation, we had five of our Missionary party admitted to priests' orders. Four of these were native deacons, and the other an English brother Missionary. These progressive steps in the Mission assure us that God is with us of a truth, and is graciously carrying on his own work.

The Bishop expressed to me his delight and surprise to find the whole Travancore Mission had not retrograded as he had feared, but had made a decided advance.

The senior Missionary, Mr. Peet, gives the following concise but emphatic report of his Mission for the last year—

The history of the Mavelicara Mission, for the year 1859, presents a chequered scene—trials, sorrows, conquests, comforts, much cause for humiliation, still greater for gratitude and praise. In one branch of the Mission there has been a systematic and determined effort to root out our Mission establishment. It began two years before by burning down my place of worship, and proceeded to personal outrage and plunder of property; but after much pecuniary loss and difficulty, I hope the worst is over, and that the opposition will the more firmly establish the whole Mission.

Mr. Hawksworth thus describes the state of the districts under his charge—

The past year has also been marked, as regards these two districts—

Cottayam and Tiruwella—by more conversions from heathenism than have taken place in any previous year. Amongst those baptized in the Tiruwella district are several children and grandchildren of an aged woman at Thallawaddi, who, on the day of her own baptism, several years ago, was turned out of doors by her husband and her eldest son. She then declared that they knew not what they did, and that she would pray for them to the Lord Jesus, assured that her prayer would be heard. Her prayers have been heard. Her husband and her eldest son, and all her other sons, with their wives, and her daughters, with their husbands and children, have been brought into the church of Christ; so that she has been the honoured instrument of bringing thirty souls to renounce heathenism, and to worship Christ. One daughter only still remains a heathen, and for her believing, persevering prayer is made. If every convert prayed and laboured for Christ like this poor woman, we might soon have to report that the converts were being multiplied thirty-fold, sixty-fold, an hundred-fold.

We still have to lament the fact that the higher castes have not been reached. As yet we have scarcely any access to them. Our great need is a warm-hearted Missionary spirit among our older converts. This would strengthen our hands, cheer our hearts, and be the means of reaching the outer classes, and the “regions beyond.”

The Rev. H. Baker, jun., furnishes encouraging accounts of the progress of the work amongst the hill tribes. The following is an account of one of his visits to the chief station—

May 1859—I left Cottayam on Good-Friday night for Mundakayam, and had a most happy Sabbath with my dear people. About eighty, from all my southern stations, partook of the sacrament together. A holy, happy feeling that we were all of one united family seemed evidently present to the minds of all, and those who came from a distance were provided with food and lodging free by the people of the place. Sometimes I am sadly troubled with doubts—Are my people, any of them, practical Christians? But such days as last Easter Sunday serve to comfort and strengthen me, and surely the Spirit of our Father is not withheld on such festivals. Could our friends at home have joined us on that day, and seen the meek, humble look, the fervent prayer and thankfulness of many in being permitted to be partakers of that holy feast, their souls would have leaped for joy in having in any way assisted in bringing them into the fold.

An old man at Assapian, the richest Arrian in the place, whose brother had been a devil-dancer, is dead. Before he departed, he called all the people of the place, and thanked God before them that He had been pleased to make him a Christian, had given him an assurance that He had places prepared near Him for so insignificant a being as himself. He then prayed for his neighbours, his family, and his minister, and so he took leave and died. The old man has for six or eight years been a consistent Christian, and an example to the rest; and now that he has sealed his faith by his last testimony, it will be of as much service to me as a living teacher, for he being dead yet speaketh. His hold on Christ was always great.

The Rev. P. S. Royston thus describes the visit of the Bishop to these tribes, and the confirmation he held—

I had the pleasure of accompanying the Bishop from Cottayam to hold his confirmation at Mundakayam, and was rejoiced to find how delighted his lordship appeared to be with all he saw. Indeed, who could fail to be so, when 111 men and 62 women were confirmed by the first Protestant Bishop who had ever ascended those beautiful mountains? A few of these had come no less than fifty miles for this service, and Mr. B. had reason to believe that the total number of confirmed would have amounted to 300 persons, had they not been scattered over many mountain ranges, engaged in gathering in some of their hill crops, just then at their maturity. On the day but one after the confirmation a large number of the candidates received the Lord's Supper, for the first time, with us, thus considerably swelling the comparatively small number of communicants—65. On the same day eighteen adults and five children were baptized. The total number of adherents now amounts to 793, of whom 350 are as yet unbaptized. There seems little doubt that the Bishop's visit to this secluded and most interesting station will, under God's blessing, greatly tend to the strengthening of the hands of its laborious Missionary, and remove all fears, if such were entertained, regarding the permanency of its occupation.

Mr. Hawksworth refers to the success of the Gospel amongst the slave population of Travancore in the following terms—

December 30, 1859—Yesterday we had the first baptism of slave converts in the Velloor school: between fifty and sixty were present, and of the numerous candidates for baptism nineteen were admitted into the visible church of Christ. Their countenances, indicative of the deepest interest in the privilege to which they were being introduced, and the worship in which they were engaged, as also their hearty responses and decided, brief, and pointed answers as to motives, &c., in addition to their strictly consistent Christian conduct for many months past, as was borne witness to on this occasion by several Syrian Christian neighbours, who came to witness the baptism, left no doubt on our minds that many of these converts, I hope all, were already members of the invisible church of Christ. The women were not one whit behind the men; I might almost say in advance. To a question put by my dear fellow-labourer, the Rev. Koshi Koshi, who was present, as to what is meant by the words "Thy kingdom come," one woman, when the silence of others made it her turn to speak, modestly replied, "We therein pray that grace may reign in every heart."

The Rev. Koshi Koshi gives the following interesting account of a baptism of slaves in the district of Cottayam—

August 11—Went to Komerakum to attend the baptism of the slaves there. Above eighty were assembled in the school. Four Missionaries, with several students from the college, were present. It was a cheering and refreshing sight to witness the devout countenances and tearful eyes of several among the adult candidates, when each family, with a grandfather and grandmother, and in one or two cases even with a great grandmother, in the interesting group, stepped forward to receive the sacred rite. God grant that similar scenes may be more frequent in this and in every other heathen land. The number of the baptized was fifty-six, and the whole service lasted from ten in the morning till three in the afternoon.

Another native minister, the Rev. Oomen Mamen, relates the circumstances of a confirmation of the slave converts—

The slaves of Tiruwella, Mundakayam, and Cottayam were confirmed. We had at Tiruwella about 150 candidates. Some very respectable and influential men were confirmed. It was a pleasant sight to see the poor slaves and their masters kneel together. Strange to say, many of the rich Syrians came as surveyors (spectators), and knelt down in the church with others, their own slaves, who were candidates.

Effect of the Mission upon the Syrians.

Mr. Koshi Koshi in his annual letter, gives the following interesting account of the improvement perceptible amongst the Syrian Christians—

There is a cheering prospect for good among our Syrian neighbours. Several respectable men amongst them have been favourably disposed, and come to our church on Sundays to hear the word of God. Among these there are two young men to whom the preaching of truth has been specially blessed. To their pious and disinterested co-operation and help chiefly, under God's blessing, I attribute the present happy movement among the Syrians of Olesha. By the exertions of these two Christian brothers, people who were ignorant and careless have been awakened to some concern for their souls, disposed to the reading of Scripture and prayer, and the observance of Sunday. They have also commenced a weekly prayer-meeting, in which they were opposed at first by their own relatives, who spoke against it as Protestant innovation, and a scheme to draw them away from the religion of their forefathers. But opposition was overcome, and the meeting goes on. I am delighted to observe that this movement among the Syrians is attended with a happy reaction on our own people, to whom it is a novel and animating sight to behold other people anxious to secure the blessings which, though conveyed by their church, they themselves were careless about, or only half awakened to appreciate. The two young men above mentioned have not so entirely broken off all connexion with their old church yet as to be considered members of our congregation; yet I rejoice to see them as lights shining in a dark place, and I heartily wish that their spirit and their zeal on behalf of truth were imitated by our own people, and that the presence and power of living Christianity in each heart were likewise evidenced by its exhibiting that leavening and diffusive character which invariably belongs to it.

Another Missionary remarks, "You may see, not only in the houses of our converts but in those of many of the Syrians, posted up in some conspicuous part 'A Prayer for the Holy Spirit.'"

Cottayam College.

Mr. Collins, the Principal of the College, gives the following annual review of its progress—

With regard to the College, I hope that, on the whole, we are, under God's favour, prospering and progressing. I observe that our standard of attainment has gradually risen, and, I trust, has not yet culminated.

The boys number at present sixty-four, who are in the classes in the College, and fifty-five who are in the preparatory school: of the latter, twenty-five are boarders, and the remainder Cottayam boys, so that there are eighty-nine lads living in the college.

Several of the former pupils are at present giving every satisfaction in their work: one with Mr. Hawksworth at Olesha, two with Mr. Andrews, one under Mr. Baker, Jun., and two others in my own employ in the preparatory school.

Of the religious aspect of the College I believe I may speak favourably; and I desire to thank God when I say that I hope there are signs that a spirit of prayer is increasing among us. Twenty-nine boys were confirmed at the Bishop's last visit, some of whom at once became communicants, to be followed, I trust, by many others. The elder boys still teach the slaves at Komerakum and Vellur, every Sunday going to these places two and two. They seem to teach, or in fact, to preach very intelligently and acceptedly. I took the first class, some time back, down to Komerakum to see forty or fifty slaves baptized, the first-fruits of our little Mission amongst them : and since that time their sympathies seem to have been increasingly drawn out towards these poor outcasts.

I may mention, that every Monday evening the teachers and scholars meet me to offer our united prayers to our gracious God, for guidance in our work, and that the college may become more and more, under the Holy Spirit's influence, a seed-bed for the church. I feel sure that many of our friends will remember us at this solemn hour, for it is only when near God that we are strong ; and perhaps we are never so near a blessing as when we unite in making our supplications.

A sum of money was raised at Cambridge, chiefly by the junior members of the University, as a testimonial to the zeal and courtesy of the Rev. J. Y. Nicholson, M.A., Fellow and Tutor of Emanuel College, in conducting the University branch of the Cambridge Church Missionary Association. It was determined, at Mr. Nicholson's request, to devote the money to the erection of a Theological Seminary for Native Teachers in the Missions of the Society. Travancore was selected, and Mr. Hawksworth was appointed by the Society to undertake the erection of the building, and to commence the instruction of pupils. At the close of the year Mr. Hawksworth thus writes :—

I take this opportunity of sending a report of the incipient Nicholson Cambridge Institution. The foundation-stone was laid on the 13th August, and the stonework would have been nearly completed, I believe, ere this, if the terrible sickness which has reigned throughout the country had not driven away the workmen, and so brought the building to a stand for several weeks. But I hope to resume it very shortly. Meanwhile, students are being collected, and a commencement made in their course of study. We have at present nine on the list, but one of these joined us only a few days previous to examination and holidays, so that he is not put in class.

A model school, designed to instruct the students of the Institution in an improved method of teaching has been opened. It contains upwards of forty children, all eager to reach school early in the morning. The children are pleased with the picture lessons and have already begun to think, which is an immense thing for vernacular schools in this country.

Operations of the Printing-Press.

Mr. Hawksworth has the general superintendence of the Printing-establishment. He reports—

During Mr. Royston's visit he went over the press, and kindly expressed himself as much pleased with the style of binding &c., as being a decided improvement. Doubtless he will have reported his impressions, so that I need only say, on this branch of the Mission work, that Mr. Schaffter has been very attentive in both binding, printing, and type-casting departments. The Old Testament in one neat portable volume has just been published: it was previously in three volumes. During the past year an edition of 3000 copies of the Old Testament has been completed, 2000 copies of abridged Common Prayer printed; 2500 of entire Common Prayer Book have been three parts completed, with various other works; making the issues from the Cottayam Press 117,300 copies, or very nearly four and half million of pages, during the past year. We have now orders for 30,000 books and tracts to be printed. These include a new edition of the Old Testament in large type, and a separate edition of the Psalms of 5000 copies. The British and Foreign Bible Society's Home Committee, as I am informed, has just made us a noble grant of nearly £700 for printing Scriptures in Malayalam. Satan cannot view these efforts unmoved; and therefore, whilst we are busy printing the word of God, there are strong and, I believe, true rumours, that Papists have just recently been burning Bibles across the river.

As if to inaugurate an improved state of things under our new Resident, the native government has made a fresh educational movement, and sent us an order for 600 rupees worth of school-books. Here is a heathen government teaching Christian school-books! What an importance is thus given to the Church Missionary press here!

COCHIN.

The native minister, Rev. G. Curian, has continued to minister to the native congregation, comprising more than 300 souls. There has been no special increase in the converts; but the general conduct of the people has been satisfactory, and their attendance at several special means of grace, such as Sunday-schools and sacramental lectures, is encouraging. Mr. Curian writes—"Several means were planned and adopted during the course of the year for the improvement of our people, and for promoting family religion among them, for all which I am greatly indebted to the invaluable counsel and co-operation of dear Mr. Whitehouse, whose predominant and untiring love to the Mission cause has suggested them."

The need of a church, in which the large congregation might assemble regularly, having been long felt, the Committee were glad to purchase a suitable edifice, lately erected by a Mission from the church of Scotland, now abandoned. The church retains the name of St. Andrew's church, and was first opened with the service of the Church of England, May 29th, 1859. The Rev. T. Whitehouse, describes the lamentable state of things at Cochin since it was taken from the Dutch in 1795. For the greater part of the time "there were none to marry, bury, or baptize, save the Company's civil servants. The people have been perishing for lack of knowledge, and even the professed Protestant community, sinking lower and lower in moral degradation, till the place must have become a proverb and a byword amongst the heathen that are now about us. But there have been bright spots in Cochin's history. The endowment of a free school by a pious chaplain, in the time of Bishop Middleton, and the efforts made by a Church Mission Society Missionary, the Rev. S. Ridsdale, have left the deepest traces of good behind them. And I look upon the opening of the new church in connexion with that Society as one of the happiest steps in advance which Cochin has yet seen; especially as that church already has its native pastor, and the continuance of such ministrations are in the fair way of being perpetuated throughout all future generations, by an endowment sufficient for his comfortable maintenance."

Mr. Whitehouse writes—

The Cochin schools are going on capitally, improving in those branches of literature which an English and vernacular education affords. Our neighbours, the Romish Padres, have tried all they can to withdraw the children of their persuasion, but they have not entirely succeeded in their efforts, which is an evidence of the good opinion the parents have of the teaching in our schools. We have, during the last year, opened a school at Kundanad, which is a central place between Cottayam and Trichur, and I had recommended it as a suitable place for establishing the centre of a Mission district. This school, also, is advancing nicely in members and progress, being attended by Syrians, Syro-Romans, and heathen. The people in and near the place anxiously desire a resident Missionary.

TRICHUR AND KUNNUNKULLAM.

Mr. Harley having, on account of age and family circumstances, removed from Trichur, the station was placed under the charge of Mr. Beüttler, in addition to his own station of Kunnunkullam, Mr. Wilkinson being associated with him in the work. It subsequently pleased God to afflict Mr. Beüttler with a severe attack of jungle fever, and he was compelled to remove to the hills for the recovery of his health. He has furnished the Committee from thence with an annual letter, in which he writes—

Notwithstanding many interruptions during the year, I had on several occasions the joy to gather a few lost sheep into Christ's fold. I would particularly mention a lad of eighteen years, who, as far as outward evidence can be a test, has taken a saving hold of his Redeemer. He was the first pupil received into Mr. Hawksworth's new Institution. I have also had other cases of hope and encouragement.

As regards my work at Trichur, the congregation has kept together far more than my fears led me to expect. Whenever I went the church was full and the people attentive. I had also a few adult baptisms there, and sent some promising boys to the Cottayam Institution. I have always looked upon Trichur as a very important field, and it might be extended in all directions. At the Bishop's late visit forty-three persons were confirmed.

Mr. Beüttler mentions a remarkable fact, which confirms the view already given of the indirect effort of the Mission, upon the Syrian Church—

Circumstances show me that our work is gradually taking root. The principal inhabitants of Kunnankullam being Syrians, came to the conviction, that as a Christian church they were in duty bound to send the light of the Gospel to the heathen. To give it effect, they agreed to raise by monthly subscriptions a sum sufficient for the support of three readers, whose duty it should be to go daily among the heathen to preach. I thought of the passage, "He that is not against us is on our part," and on this account promised them all the Gospels and tracts they should desire.

V. TELUGU MISSION.

The Mission comprises 3 stations, viz. 1. Masulipatam, 1841; 2. Ellore, 1854; 3. Bezvara, 1858.

Mission Establishment:

Rev. Robert Turlington Noble, B.A., 1841.

Rev. John Edmund Sharkey (m) } Educated in India.

Rev. Thomas Young Darling (m)

Rev. Charles Tanner (m) 1857.

Rev. F. W. Nassau Alexander, B.A., 1857.

Mr. Francis Goodall, 1856, Trained Schoolmaster.

The stations and the labourers remain as described in the last Report: Messrs. Noble and Sharkey conduct the operations in Masulipatam, Mr. Alexander at Ellore, and Mr. Darling at Bezvara.

MASULIPATAM.

In the early part of the year, Mr. Noble made an earnest appeal to the Committee to increase the staff of Missionaries for the Telugu district, under the conviction that the promise of corresponding success would justify the enlargement. The Committee are not yet in a position to make the increase for which Mr. Noble pleads; but they put his statement on record, that the friends of the Society may understand the urgency of the calls for additional help from the Mission field. The same appeal might be urged with equal justice by at least twenty of our other Missionary districts. May the Lord enlarge the zeal and charity of the church at home, proportionately with the providential openings abroad! Mr. Noble writes—

I write to you, to tell you of our destitution, and to implore your aid. It is large aid we want. You know, I think, that, on an average, it takes two years before a new comer from the west is fitted to work efficiently and fully, either in our schools or among the people. No man is more than half efficient till he knows the language well, and at least two years are required for this, during which, if he attends school, it can only be for a few hours a day, otherwise his progress in the language will be sadly impeded. What we want are two educated men at Bezvara, beside Mr. Darling. Two years after they arrive must pass, before they can be of much use. One is wanted to itinerate with Mr. Darling, the other to manage the school. Two are required at Ellore—one to itinerate with Mr. Alexander, the other to work with Mr. Howley—to raise up, if the Lord have mercy on us, a native agency. At least four are required at Masulipatam—two to itinerate with Mr. Sharkey, one to manage his school, and two in our school of near 200 youths, out of which my humble hope is, that the Lord may, by His Spirit, call forth teachers and preachers to extend our work among the people in his own time. Five dear youths comfort my heart, and have set their hearts, not on Government employ, for which they are very competent, but on the grand work of saving souls. Men we want of very decided piety, willing to be nothing, and to have nothing, if only Jesus may, through them, be glorified; yet withal, men of a thoroughly good education, men like Henry Fox, apt to learn, apt to teach, of firm purpose, and a single eye to God's glory in Christ.

The chief feature in the operations at this station is educational. The school is thus spoken of by the Government Inspector of Schools, in his official report—"The native-English Boys' School at Masulipatam, under Mr. Noble, is far ahead of all the educational institutions in the Northern Circars (districts), and is steadily progressing towards a still higher standard. It enjoys the singular advantage of being under the close and constant supervision of one of the most earnest and experienced Missionaries in India." "I have, in my former Reports, borne testimony to the excellence of the instruction imparted in Mr. Sharkey's female boarding-school. Every year I see some improvement in it."

In the month of October 1859, the Governor of Madras, Sir Charles Trevelyan, K.C.B., visited and examined the Society's Schools at Masulipatam, and in his minute he records his great satisfaction at the "state of the educational institutions at Masulipatam, and the high state of efficiency in which an industrial school for boys and a boarding school for girls are maintained by the Rev. J. E. and Mrs. Sharkey," who, with Mr. Noble, and others engaged in educational pursuits, "will be known, hereafter, as those who have planted the germs of an improved learning in this interesting and important part of the Madras Presidency."

ELLORE.

The Missionary duties at this station have been perseveringly maintained throughout the year by Mr. Alexander, but his annual Report has not yet reached the Committee.

BEZWARA.

In connexion with this station it has pleased God to manifest the sovereignty of his grace by stirring up a spirit of inquiry in the hearts of a few villagers before he brought them under the notice of the Missionary. Such instances have been already noticed in other parts of India, and they may well serve to support the faith and patience of those who all the day long stretch forth their hands to a disobedient and gainsaying people. At a mela, or heathen festival, at Bezvara, Mr. Darling had gone out amongst a multitude "mad after their idols," and had found no hearing, and scarcely standing-ground for his feet. In the outskirts of the crowd he met, however, a few groups, to whom he addressed the message of salvation, and returned home. On the afternoon of the same day six men came towards the Mission house, and stopped a few yards from it. They were invited to enter. When quietly seated, and after a few preliminary remarks, there came the cheering declaration from their lips that they wished to hear what the Missionary could teach them regarding "the one God the Saviour." Some of the parties had heard the Missionary in the outskirts of the crowd, and had returned to their companions, and told them of the glad tidings.

The previous history of the men is thus given by Mr. Darling—

The class from which these converts have been gathered are Melas—some of them cultivators, others weavers, all of them in their position well to do, and very comfortable in this world's goods—from a village twenty-four miles from Bezvara, towards the Hyderabad country. The same kind of people upon whom God has in mercy been pouring out his Spirit in the Cuddapah district and Palnad country. Now the light of the Gospel has dawned upon these parts also, an earnest, I trust, of a bright and glorious day.

Though the word preached may be said not to have reached their ears, for, with one exception, none of them had ever seen a Christian Missionary, yet the savour of Christianity had gone abroad. A tract, too, had found its way amongst them. Once or twice a native Christian from the Guntur district had borne witness for Christ at a neighbouring village, and these people had learned that Jehovah is God alone. They had heard, also, that many in distant parts and other districts had acknowledged Him as their Saviour.

The good work seems to have commenced in earnest, in a remarkable manner, about three years ago, in the heart of the head-man of the village, Venkiah by name. He cannot now account for it: he can only say that he was secretly led by an unseen power to consider his idols but vanities, and to despise them. About the same time he had a strange dream, which greatly alarmed him. From that moment he ceased to be an idolater; refused to be even present (nor allowed any of his family to be so) at any heathen ceremony, and declared, amidst the scoffs and ridicule of his people, that he and his house would serve “the one God the Saviour.” He was so very consistent in all he did afterwards, that, in a short while, his motives commanded the respect of all his connexions and friends, who ceased to trouble him; and, moreover, began to feel that there was something substantial in what he perseveringly asserted and maintained, namely, that “the gods of the heathen are lifeless blocks and stones, which possess no virtues save what superstition and fear have falsely attributed to them.”

When I had concluded my address to them, Venkiah put his hands together, and said, “This is the Saviour whom I will serve.” All the rest, but one, declared their belief. We ended by reading a few verses of Scripture, and all that were present knelt.”

The men had another interview with Mr. Darling the next morning. He afterwards visited them at their village, and was so well satisfied with their sincerity that he baptized eight men, one woman, and seven children.

Education.

The school at Bezvara was visited and examined in May 1859 by E. E. Merrall, Esq., Civil Engineer, who gives the result of his observation in these terms—

In conclusion, I cannot forbear expressing the pleasure I felt in the plain, sound, practical knowledge imparted in this school, as compared with the abstruse rubbish taught by many of the native teachers; and it is impossible to suppose that even the slight amount of information acquired by even the youngest scholar can be entirely thrown away.

Proposed extension of the Mission to a new field on the banks of the Godavery.

A large district of country in the northern part of the Telugu country, through which the Godavery river flows, has been lately rendered accessible, and its fertility greatly increased by engineering improvements in the navigation of the river, and by extensive works for internal irrigation. Many of the engineering officers employed in these works have been men of Christian zeal and philanthropy, and they have earnestly desired to aid the communication of richer blessings to the native inhabitants than temporal wealth, by causing to flow in those regions the "river that maketh glad the city of God." Since the works began there has been held, without intermission, a stated prayer-meeting among some of the engineering officers and their men, that God might sanctify the undertaking to his own glory. An appeal to this Society was made several years ago to send Missionaries into this district; but the Society had not the resources at its command to justify the opening of a new Mission. The Special India Fund has at length supplied the pecuniary means for a new Mission, and the Committee have already assigned two students of the Islington College for the work, who will proceed in the first instance to the Telugu Mission, in order to acquire that language, and afterwards will either themselves go forward to the Godavery river, or release some of the Telugu Missionaries, of more experience, to open the new Mission, if that arrangement shall appear the more desirable.

Colonel Arthur Cotton, of the Madras Engineers, who has had the direction of the works, has furnished the Committee with a most valuable paper upon the proposed Mission, in which he points out the prospect of a large European population settling in the newly-opened districts, and adds these wise and Christian remarks—

The importance of pre-occupying the districts with those who should be the salt of the earth, cannot possibly be over estimated. The greatest mischief will be done if a great European community grows up without the minister of Christ being beforehand to instruct the nation.

The sowing has already been accomplished, to a very great extent. Several faithful men have diligently preached throughout the Delta for more than twenty years; and a considerable impression has been made, and some earnest converts. Others have laboured, and we are sure that they cannot have laboured in vain; but a preliminary work must have been accomplished, for God's word shall not return to Him void, though it may be, as it usually is, that one labours and another enters into his labours.

The Missionaries will have great advantage in the universal water communications, giving them access, without expense, to every village of the Delta, and also giving access to Madras by the coasting steamer at present, and no doubt, before long, by the coast canal.

The whole of the Delta of the Kistna will, in the same way, be connected with that of the Godavery; and thus the Mission may easily spread over a tract at present containing about one and a half million.

The present Missionaries have often been encouraged by meeting an intelligent spirit of inquiry; and the door seems thus opened in every way.

Upon these grounds, if the Society is able to extend its operations by means of the India Fund, this seems to be a very clear opening.

The Upper Godavery passes through the Koï population, the aborigines; chiefly occupying the forest country of Gondwana, and belonging to the same family as the Gonds, Khonds, Coolies, and probably the Santhals, all aboriginal races, not Hindus, and without any systematic religion or caste. I consider that God has, in the most marked manner, now directed us to these aboriginal races, who have not been involved in those masterpieces of Satanic device—the Hindu and Buddhist religions. Nothing can be more certain than that, at this moment, the great Missionary successes are among the Shanars, Arrians, Coolies, and Karens.

And they receive the Missionaries generally in a manner quite different from the Hindus or Buddhists. Those who have preached to the Koïs all bear strong testimony to this. Their willingness to be instructed, their sense of their own ignorance, and that of the kindness of those who come to instruct them, mark them as essentially different from the Hindus. I cannot help myself thinking that this is the main opening for the establishing of the Gospel in India; that is, through the aboriginal races. The Koïs seem to have scarcely a trace of any religious system. When I was in —'s camp, a villager sent him a present of fowls and Indian corn; and the reason he assigned for it was to express their gratitude for his taking so much trouble to come to them and preach the Gospel to them. They seemed, like the Karens, to a great extent sensible of their need of instruction.

This whole tract of Gondwana has been hitherto almost untouched by Europeans. At this moment no Europeans reside between Raipur, in the basin of the Mahanaddi, and Warungal, south of the Godavery; nor between Vizianagarum east and Chandah west; and a great portion of this tract has never even been traversed by a European. How desirable it is that, if possible, their first impressions of Christianity should be from those who come in the spirit of Christ. As yet they have scarcely received any accounts of Europeans, except from those connected with the works under Captain Haig, by whose Christian influence the whole of the operations were in the main effected. Thus no stumbling-block has yet been thrown in their way, but the contrary.

A chain of Mission stations—four or five thus extending from Chanda to Rajahmundry, and supported by one or two in the interior of Gondwanah; one probably at Raipur, and one at Jugdulpur—would soon influence extensively this tract. Telugu would be the language used all along the river, and it is understood generally by the Koīs here; but for the interior the Koī language, Gondi, and, in Nagpore, Mahratta, would be required.

There is at present every hope that the Government works will be so conducted as to be a great support, and not a hindrance, to the Mission. It is evident that a body of Europeans, in immediate contact with the people in the matters of the ordinary business of life, and setting an example of kindness and honesty in their dealings, introducing also, at the same time, various things which would most essentially improve the material welfare of the people, and especially checking the oppression and disorders of the petty Zemindars, would have a very beneficial effect in connexion with the Missions.*

The Committee, in closing their review of the Indian Missions, revert to one of the topics which has occurred in the reports of their Missionaries, namely, the action of the Government of India in respect of the progress of Christianity.

The Church Missionary Society has long taken a part in advocating such measures as a Christian Government should adopt, in order to give its heathen subjects the opportunity of learning the true principles of morality and religion, and the foundation upon which the British Crown and Sceptre rest, namely, the word of God. In the year 1813, William Wilberforce took counsel with this Society in drawing up his noble declaration of the true policy of the Indian Government in these words—"That it is the duty of this country to promote the interest and happiness of the native inhabitants of the British dominions in India, and such measures ought to be adopted as may tend to the introduction among them of useful knowledge, and of religious and moral improvement." This declaration was, through God's blessing on his efforts, made the law of the land. It is still THE POLICY ESTABLISHED BY LAW, however contrary the action of individual officers of the Government may at times appear. There has been no surrender of this high ground. When the awful events of the late Indian mutiny awakened this nation to consider its ways, this Society addressed a memorial to the Queen, praying "that the Government of India might no longer profess or maintain a position of neutrality between the Christian and false religions, but that the countenance and aid of Government might be given to any legitimate measures for bringing the Christian religion under the notice and investigation of Her Majesty's subjects in India."

Information respecting the South-India Mission may also be found in the "Church Missionary Record" 1860, pp. 35 and 65; the "Church Missionary Gleaner" 1860, pp. 19 and 27; and the "Church Missionary Intelligencer" 1859, p. 193.

The advocates of a Christian policy thought it right to wait whilst the tumult of the mutiny occupied the attention of Government, and afterwards the transfer of the administration of India to the Crown. But at the close of the last session of Parliament, the Committee joined a deputation, under the leadership of His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, consisting of a large body of various denominations and classes, which waited on the Prime Minister and the Minister of India, "to request a removal of the authoritative exclusion of the word of God from the system of education in Government Schools in India, so that none, who may be so disposed, be interdicted from the hearing or the reading of the Bible in school hours, provided always that such safeguards be adopted against undue interference with the religions of the natives as may appear just and proper to the chief local authorities in the several governments of India." This particular measure was selected, not under the notion erroneously attributed to it, that it was to be a panacea for all the evils of India, but as a step in the right direction of a true Christian policy, and as a quiet but significant abjuration of the "neutral policy."

The Committee are happy to report, that, at this interview, Sir Charles Wood, the Minister for India, observed—"No persons can be more anxious to promote the spread of Christianity in India than we are. Independently of Christian considerations, I believe that every additional Christian in India is an additional bond of union with this country, and an additional source of strength to the empire." And the Prime Minister, Lord Palmerston, remarked—" We seem to be all agreed as to the end. It is not only our duty, but it is our interest, to promote the diffusion of Christianity as far as possible throughout the whole length and breadth of India. . . . If the Christian schoolmaster, who is capable of teaching Christianity, is to be allowed to assemble, for half-an-hour before the Government School opens, that portion of his pupils who are willing to receive Christian instruction, why that is authoritative instruction in Christianity." Your Committee earnestly hope that these wise and Christian principles, enunciated by the Government at home, will be fully carried out by the Government abroad. But when these principles appear to be violated, the Society is bound, in fidelity to the cause of Christ, and in consistency with its former declarations, to raise its voice ; as it now protests against such governmental action as has been lately witnessed in the case of the 24th Punjab Native Infantry, and against the withdrawal of Grants-in-aid from the Santhal Schools, and the withholding them from Missionary Schools in the Bombay Presidency. The enactment of 1813 was won against strenuous opposition, by the firm demand of Christian men in Parliament ; and your Committee feel persuaded that the supporters of this Society will not be found wanting in the re-assertion in the present day of the great Christian principles of right government, in respect of the " religious and moral improvement " of their fellow-subjects in India.

General Remarks.

THE Ceylon Mission has had its full complement of Missionaries during the greater part of the year 1859; and all departments of the work have been, therefore, efficiently prosecuted. The chief hindrance to progress arises from the want of efficient native teachers, both as catechists and schoolmasters. This want, it is hoped, is being gradually supplied through the training system of the Cotta Institution; but it cannot be effectually removed till there be, through the grace of God, a larger body of lively Christians, from whom native teachers may be selected and trained for their future work.

The pecuniary collections in aid of the Society's operations throughout the southern portion of the Mission have been encouraging. The sum contributed by Europeans has been 829*l.* and by native Christians 216*l.*

I. COLOMBO AND COTTA DISTRICT.*COLOMBO.

The usual services in English, Tamil and Singhalese, have been conducted in the Mission church in Colombo. During the first five months of 1859, Mr. Whitley resided at Cotta, to superintend the Institution during Mr. Fenn's absence in Europe. The Mission among the Singhalese in Slave Island has been regularly worked, as well as among the Tamils in Colombo, by Mr. Whitley and his catechists: the several schools have been sustained. Mr. Whitley, in his annual Report states—

I may say generally that I believe the Gospel is listened to with more readiness and attention than was formerly the case. Rough treatment and rude manners I have often met with, but, still more frequently, somewhat large and attentive congregations amongst the Tamil-speaking people. Of the Singhalese, we speak to knots of three or four, but of the Tamil, to gatherings of from ten to thirty.

On the whole, I may say that I seldom walk home after these street labours without feeling thankful for the manner in which the Lord's message has been received, only regretting that one man can do so little.

Looking at the various classes among whom it is my privilege to labour, whether as Missionary or minister, and any thing in this Report to the contrary notwithstanding, a view of the past year affords encouragement; if not great encouragement, we have a little, and let this suffice to lift up our hearts in praise to God. Let us join, also, with our fellow-Christians, of whom we rejoice to hear in America, in Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and last, not least, in England, and even in Ceylon, in praying for the speedy outpouring of the Holy Spirit. We are stirred up to prayer, and we have begun to unite more in this blessed exercise.

COTTA.

The Cotta District is divided into three portions, one of which is superintended by the Rev. I. Wood, another by the native minister, the Rev. C. Jayesinhe, and the smaller portion by the Rev. C. C. Fenn. Mr. Wood's district comprises about twenty villages, with an average of thirty Protestant Christians in each. There are seventy communicants. Each congregation is visited weekly by the catechists, and occasionally by the Missionary. The Missionary laments that there is very little spiritual religion manifest among the people, or zeal for the conversion of their countrymen. Only a few instances of sincere and lively faith encourage his labours.

The schools are twenty-two for boys, and twenty for girls, with 1531 children on the books.

Mr. Wood mentions in his report the death of one of the native communicants, who, for eighty-three years, maintained a consistent Christian profession from the time when he first received a Singhalese translation of the Holy Scriptures, as a boy of twelve years of age, till his peaceful death at the age of ninety-five, during the last summer. "He was known to maintain habitual prayer (writes Mr. Wood), and was also for many years a constant and cheerful attendant on the means of grace. Even up to within a few weeks of his death he might have been seen walking, with the aid of his staff, to the house of God. At such times he appeared very happy. He was highly esteemed by his fellow-villagers, as an exceedingly honourable and upright character."

Mr. Jayesinhe's district comprises twelve villages, with an aggregate of 600 converts, together with twenty schools. He is assisted by several catechists in his visitation of the people. Mr. Jayesinhe reports the death of two very aged native Christians, whose long consistent course and peaceful deaths had given much encouragement to the church. Of one of them he writes—

He was an old schoolmaster, employed by the Government for a considerable number of years, and lived at Borella. He was a man of humble piety, resigned to the will of the Almighty, patient in suffering, and contented under abject poverty. With a trembling frame and half-withered limbs, he used to attend church and the communion. At the latter it was observed that his whole soul, as it were, was engaged on the all-sufficient sacrifice of Christ. On his death-bed, when the catechist of the district visited him, and inquired as to the state of his mind and the hope in him, he said, "I am prepared to die. I have no fear for death. I believe I have obtained pardon for my sins from Jesus Christ. I have consolation of mind by believing. I shall be free from all my present trials, and death will be gain to me."

Education—Cotta Institution.

The Institution was under the charge of the Rev. H. Whitley during Mr. Fenn's absence in Europe. Upon Mr. Fenn's return, in May, he resumed the superintendence, and bears testimony that he found it "in quite as flourishing a condition as when he left it." Mr. Fenn is assisted by Mr. Sorrell, Mr. Barton having removed to the Collegiate school at Kandy. A public examination was held in the month of August, at which the late Chief Justice, Sir W. C. Rowe, presided, when the students acquitted themselves satisfactorily. Mr. Fenn reports—

Systematic efforts are made for the spiritual and moral benefit of the youths. Every pupil, besides instruction in Christian evidences and catechisms, and of Christian doctrine and history, receives two distinct lessons in Holy Scripture daily. One of them is a gallery lesson, given to three or four classes simultaneously, and the other is a lesson to each class separately. In this way

Scripture truth is brought to bear upon their minds to an extent rarely found in any but Mission schools, either in Ceylon or in England.

In his annual letter, Mr. Fenn reports—

Our numbers are very nearly the same as before—fifty boarders, ninety day scholars; the boarders paying monthly fees varying from 1*l.* to 6*s.*, and the day scholars from 5*s.* to 6*d.* After the 1st of January 1860 all new comers are to pay 1*l.* 5*s.* Thus I trust we shall begin to make some approach towards self-support in a pecuniary point of view.

As regards efficiency in the native teachers, the Institution was never in so favourable a state as now. I have three very able and energetic assistants, though I do not think any one of them would go on long very well without European superintendence. There are two more coming on, who are exceedingly hopeful in respect of teaching powers.

As regards the moral tone of the Institution, we exercise what vigilance we can. But when I remember that we have here upwards of fifty young men, the children of heathen, Romanist, and careless Protestant parents, I cannot but believe that wrong practices not unfrequently go on, of which I and Mr. Sorrell are ignorant. On the other hand, however, I feel certain that good is going on. There are certainly indications of more spiritual work among the resident students, but I refrain from mentioning them from fear of their proving fallacious. The number of voluntary Sunday-school teachers, and the interest they seem to take in their work, are unabated. But I more and more feel that it is their thorough and genuine conversion to God at which I must aim: other matters, even the preparation of teachers, must be regarded as secondary.

It appears, from a review of the Institution during the last seven years, that it has furnished twenty-five agents to the Church Missionary Society, and seven or eight more employed by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, or by Government; while others occupy respectable stations as surveyors, proctors, or clerks, who do much credit to the education they have received.

Mr. Fenn thus closes his report of the Institution and of the district under his charge—

There are several circumstances, both in the Institution and in the Cotta District and elsewhere, that lead me to look forward to the commencing year with joyful hope that our heavenly Father is about to vouchsafe a more evident blessing on our labours than we have hitherto experienced.

II. BADDAGAMA.

This district has been under the charge of the native

minister, the Rev. A. Goonesekera, assisted by catechists; the European Missionary, Mr. Parsons, having been absent in England. The district comprises the village of Baddagama and a few hamlets in the neighbourhood. The Christians in connexion with the Mission are scattered throughout the district, and assemble for Divine Service in Baddagama church, or in the village schools. The native minister is diligent in preaching, in visiting his people, and in holding cottage lectures. A few additions from the heathen occasionally take place, and a few who depart in faith and peace give encouragement to the labourers. Four places on the sea-coast comprise the maritime portion of the district, viz. Kittulampity, Hiccadawa, Tollagamuwa and Balapity Modera. Each station is under the care of a catechist, and has a small vernacular school. Mr. Goonesekera thus concludes his annual Report—

I would conclude with humble praise to the great Master of the Mission field for his blessings on the labours bestowed on the district during the past year, and with earnest prayer to Him for a greater display of his converting grace on the heathen, and his protection of the converted under every trial, and for more spiritual strength, wisdom, and guidance to his servants, in accordance with his gracious promise.

III. KANDY.

The work in connexion with Kandy is divided into three departments. The station duties are under the charge of the Rev. W. Oakley; the itinerating work under the Rev. E. T. Higgins; and the Tamil Cooly Mission under the Rev. Septimus Hobbs.

Mr. Oakley reports that the services have been kept up as in former years, and that the attendance of the people is regular, but no events of special interest have occurred, nor any increase of the Christian church.

The Kandy Collegiate School has been under the able and zealous superintendence of the Rev. J. I. Jones. He was assisted in the latter part of the year by Mr. Barton, who removed from Cotta to Kandy. This school has been subject to many variations and trials, and has hitherto not fulfilled the expectations with which it was established, of attracting the youths of the Kandian population to avail themselves of a superior education, founded upon sound scriptural instruction. The average of the scholars during the year has been 65 on the books, and 52 in daily attendance. The boys have made fair progress in their studies.

The following extract from Mr. Jones' report will show the spirit in which he carries on his work—

The review of a year's work, while it brings to mind very many causes for gratitude and praise, recalls also reasons for deep humiliation. How little is done in the year—how coldly and formally is that little done—how little is there in us, as there should be, of constraining love to Christ, and to the souls perishing around us! There is a sad tendency to regard heathenism, when one becomes familiarized with its sounds and sights, as a thing and matter of course, and to forget that the beings around us, full of life and intelligence, are ignorant of the love of God and of the death of his Son, and are the blind votaries of demoralizing and wretched superstition. There is, indeed, deep necessity to cry for pardon of what is past, and to seek more the grace and teaching of the Holy Spirit, and more of the love, gentleness, and sympathy of Christ, that we may be the more earnest and devoted for the future.

The Rev. E. T. Higgins has diligently pursued his itinerating labours in the Kandian country during the last year, with the assistance of catechists. His report states—

The Gospel has been preached, during the year, to between 9000 and 10,000 individuals, young and old, the majority of whom had never heard it before. All of that number, also, who were able to read, have been supplied with copies of the Gospel of St. John, or tracts, from which they may learn, if they will, the chief truths of salvation.

A more settled work in the town of Kornegalle has been carried on during the year by a catechist residing in the place, superintended by the Missionary, who has visited the town on the last Saturday and Monday of each month. Services are held, both by the Missionary and catechist, in Singhalese and in English. The growing importance of the town of Kornegalle renders it necessary that steps should be taken, as early as possible, to place in it an energetic native or burgher-ordained minister, without which the work already begun cannot be effectually maintained.

Mr. Higgins gives the following review of his itinerating labours in the Kandian district—

I rejoice in being able to say, that although there are at present no positive results in the way of known conversions, yet there are many circumstances which show that our work is not in vain in the Lord. We are able, in almost every place, to collect fair congregations (in proportion to the size and scattered state of the villages), and our preaching is listened to with quiet and sometimes deep attention. In all the villages previously visited we have proof, from the conversations and more intelligent questions of the people, that a knowledge of the Gospel is spreading abroad, and that many are beginning to form some definite ideas respecting its leading doctrines, while not a few speak favourably of it, and, in several different localities, there are individuals who seem to be thinking and inquiring, with something like a sincere desire to find out and embrace the truth. These are, it is true, but "small things," but still they are sufficient to show that past efforts have not been lost, and to give encouragement and hope for the time to come. Our work has, I think, been more widely extended during the past year than at any former period.

A new congregation of low-country Singhalese (nominal Christians) has been formed at a place about three miles from the town. About thirty attend service, and among them are about a dozen young people anxious to be instructed and baptized.

Tamil Cooly Mission.

The population to which this Mission is directed is in a constant state of fluctuation, through the arrival and return of emigrants. During 1859 the number of coolies in Ceylon fell below the average. In 1858, 96,479 coolies arrived, and about one half of that number returned to India, leaving an increase of 48,000 in the island. In 1859 only 40,105 arrived while 48,718 returned to India. This diminution in the cooly population reduces of course the statistics of the Mission. There are still however 585 Tamil Christians under instruction, 79 of whom are communicants. The number of coolies to whom the Gospel has been preached in the course of the year is estimated at 65,000.

Mr. Hobbs bears an honourable testimony to the efficiency of his native helpers, and describes the progress of the work in these terms—

The zeal, diligence, and faithfulness of the catechists during the year, has been such that it has never been surpassed in my experience if ever equalled.

The attention paid to the message by the coolies is greater and more gratifying than ever. One remarkable feature is, that the Mohammedans generally listen with gratitude, and several have declared their conviction that Christianity is the true religion, although as yet they fear openly to confess Christ.

In schools we have been more successful this year. The Kandy Tamil school has now forty-two boys on its list, and is entirely self-supporting. The other school is on an estate, and I scarcely know whether I am right in including that in the statistics, as it is not directly connected with the Mission, but is entirely supported by the proprietor of the estate. I however, at his request, supplied the masters and the school-books (for which he paid) and I occasionally examine the school, so that I do not think that I am wrong in mentioning it. In its present state it is an indirect effect of the Mission.

The funds of the Mission have much improved during the last two months, and my staff of catechists being very low (only seven including the Budutta catechist) I have applied to Tinnevely for more, and have great hope that I shall get them. In a very interesting letter which I received yesterday from my friend and brother Missionary, Mr. Sargent, he tells me that he has had applications for Tamil Christians from Wynaad, and even as far as Bundelcund. It is very remarkable that the race amongst which the truth has been most largely received should be spreading itself all over the country, and very gratifying that wherever they go applications are made for Christians. May God in his good providence and grace speedily make his way known everywhere upon earth, "his saving health among all nations!"

IV. JAFFNA DISTRICT.

The operations of the Society in the Jaffna district are now under the superintendence of two European Missionaries, the Rev. R. Pargiter, an experienced Missionary of long standing, having just returned, with recruited health, from a visit to Europe; and the Rev. C. C. M'Arthur having just joined the Mission, with all the energy, freshness, and vivid first impressions which characterize the young Missionary.

JAFFNA.

Mr. Pargiter returned to this station, July 1859, after an absence of two years. During a part of this time the station had been left, through the sudden illness of Mr. Bren, without European superintendence. Mr. Pargiter writes, upon his arrival (Aug. 8, 1859)—

To say that the Mission did not suffer in the absence of European superintendence would be saying too much; but so far as I have been able to ascertain, the various agents were diligent in their work, and satisfactory in their conduct. Catechist Hensman had a class of catechumens ready for baptism, to whom I administered that rite on Whit-Sunday. The examination of the various schools occupied several days, as I was anxious to see the progress made during my absence. I found the English school at Chundicully in a very flourishing condition, and the written examination, as well as the public one, gave great satisfaction. A large number of persons interested in education were present, and the Assistant Government Agent and Civil Engineer took part in it.

The girls at Nellore were as usual thoroughly efficient in their studies, especially in Scripture. They have amassed a store of scriptural truth in their minds, which cannot but be beneficial, by the blessing of God, both to themselves and to those with whom they may come into contact.

The Copay Institution is maintaining its standing, but our great deficiency is the want of suitable candidates for training—Christian young men who wish to be employed in doing good. Those who have passed through the Institution, and are now employed in schools, are giving great satisfaction, and the vernacular schools, in consequence, are assuming a more important standing amongst the people. The great pity is that our efforts in education are not more commensurate with the actual requirements of the people. In this respect we may say, “O Lord, the heathen are come into thine inheritance.” Formerly we held the education of the place in our hands: the Bible was read by all the children capable of reading. Now, heathen schools are springing up on every hand and supplanting ours, as well as counteracting the good which we were promoting around us. I hope the Committee will afford us the means of reopening the schools we were obliged to close, as soon as we can secure and appoint properly trained masters for them. We are about to introduce the payment of a small fee in all our vernacular schools.

NELLORE.

Mr. M'Arthur is stationed at Nellore. His reports present, in some respects, a contrast with those of the older Missionaries who have laboured at Nellore, and may serve to mark an advanced state of the Mission, even beyond the conception of those who had toiled in earlier days. Formerly it was difficult to procure agents of any kind, and the Missionaries were glad to work with those who were imperfectly prepared. Mr. M'Arthur has introduced a higher standard, and many of the older catechists and schoolmasters have left the Mission. Formerly Missionaries were thankful to obtain scholars, chiefly among boys, to fill their schools, by a free education, and even temporal allurements. Mr. M'Arthur finds himself able to break through the old system, by introducing the payment of fees, and to give female education a new prominence. The Committee trust that his health may be spared to enable him to carry out all his plans, and that wisdom from above may be given to guide his energy and his independence of thought into the right channels.

Mr. M'Arthur reports—

In the Nellore congregation we have 72 baptized persons, including 27 children, also 3 inquirers, and an average attendance of 6 heathen. The character of our communicants is far below what I would like to see, but I trust there is a manifest improvement in them all. In the church of Nellore we have two services, and one at Navatcully. Now that I am able to conduct service myself in Tamil, I have a daily service in our church at nine o'clock. We have an average attendance of 80 boys, and as many girls, together with most of the Christians about the station. To see so many assembling every morning is to me a gratifying sight. We have only a selection of the church prayers, and we are now going through Matthew, verse by verse, which I explain catechetically to the whole church. The boys and girls answer in their turn, and there is the deepest interest throughout the whole service.

In education, the girls' boarding school is the most successful part of our work. Our present number is 35 girls, but it ought to be at least 60. But even our present number is 13 over the number of last year. All these 13 are paying one rupee a month, and finding their own clothes besides. Many of the others, also, are paying, some 1s. 6d., and others 1s. per month; so that I hope to get in school fees 25l. this year. The seven first-class girls, who are all communicants, I have appointed as monitors. We believe them to be truly converted. When they go home at their vacation, many of them try to teach their parents and friends the way to heaven. They teach also the poor heathen girls in our day school to pray, and are very anxious to lead them to Jesus. I wish the Committee could see this school, for I feel sure they would no longer think that Jaffna was an unfruitful field. They would no longer think that we were spending our strength for nought. The piety of some of these girls greatly endears them to us, and Mrs. M'Arthur and myself spend some time with them every day. We have also a girls' day school, which is another bright spot in Nellore, and one where we hope to reap much fruit. Our number is fifty at present. It is the largest girls' school in the Northern Province, and it is entirely taught by two girls from our own boarding school. All other schools for girls are taught by men, except the needlework. I was told, six months ago, that I might as well try to set the Thames on fire, as to try to conduct a school by two females, but we have already outstripped all other schools in the province.*

MAURITIUS MISSION.(Commenced 1856.)*

The Mission is divided into departments: 1. The Tamil Coolies from South India; 2. The Coolies speaking Bengalee or Hindustanee, from North India and other parts.

Mission Establishment :

Rev. Stephen Hobbs (m), to South India, 1839; to Mauritius, 1856.
 Rev. Paul Anson (m), to Bengal, 1845; to Mauritius, 1857.

General Remarks.

THE hope was expressed by the Committee upon their commencement of the Mauritius Mission, that it would prove a promising field of labour, as the coolies would be less under the bondage of their native superstitions, than in the midst of their ancient idolatrous associations. This hope has been fully realized; whilst the extent of this field of labour is far beyond the first estimate. The number of Indian coolies was stated in the last Report to be 143,000. During the year 1859, 44,000 coolies, in round numbers, arrived in the island, and only 7000 returned to India; so that there was an accession of 37,000 in a single year. The coolies who remain for a few years in the colony, return to India greatly improved in their social condition. "The contrast (writes the Bishop) between their appearance when they come and when they leave is very striking, and the disposition which by far the larger portion of them show to remain here, rather than go back to India, proves the advantages they enjoy here. Mr. Richards, our excellent seaman's chaplain, stated the other day, at a meeting of the Mauritius Church Association, that the greatest proof to him of the good the Indians receive here, was the testimony of captains, who had said that many were not like the same beings: they went back quiet, reading, praying, instead of the uncivilized savages they were in coming."

The two Missionaries of the Society divide their labours by the distinction of languages; the Rev. S. Hobbs taking the Tamil coolies from South India, and the Rev. P. Anson the coolies from North India speaking the Bengalee or Hindustanee. The Bishop bears high testimony to the zeal, devotedness, and success of the Missionaries. He writes—

It is an intense relief to my mind that Mr. Hobbs and Mr.

Ansorge have traversed the island in so many directions. A power seems to accompany Mr. Hobbs in his itinerant labours. French and English planters are delighted to see him; and Madrassees of all kinds, coolies, squatters, shopkeepers, domestic servants, and proprietors, welcome his visit. Mr. Ansorge's energy as an evangelist and pastor are most exemplary.

Tamil Department.

The Madras Christians are so scattered that they cannot be collected for divine service in any numbers. Mr. Hobbs' list contains 20 native Christian families, consisting of upwards of 100 souls, and 13 individuals. A Tamil service has been held at Moka on Sunday afternoons, with a congregation varying from 15 to 25.

Mr. Hobbs writes, in his annual letter—

My journals show that the Lord is with us, preparing the way for the future triumph of his truth, and that the favourable appearance, which cheered us at the outset of our labours, has not only been sustained, but steadily increased. We are getting to be well known to all classes of the people throughout the island, and in proportion as our objects are understood, they appear to be approved and esteemed, even in quarters where we could hardly have hoped they would be more than tolerated. The subscription list shows a total amount of nearly 140*l.*, about 20*l.* more than last year.

Bengalee and Hindustanee Department.

Mr. Ansorge states that the number of native Christians from the north of India on his list is 132, including children, of whom twenty-one are communicants. He writes, in his annual letter—

Divine services have been conducted by myself regularly at the emigration dépôt; the morning service, in Bengalee, at 11 o'clock; the afternoon service, in Hindui, at 3 o'clock. The average attendance on Sunday has been thirty to thirty-five Christians. On special occasions the number of attendants has been larger. Besides the Christians, there have always been Hindus and Moham-medans attending: sometimes there were forty to fifty Hindus present. I had the privilege to administer holy baptism to 14 adults—7 men and 7 women—and to 19 children. Twelve adults, baptized in former years, were confirmed by the Bishop in November.

Two weekly evening prayer-meetings are regularly conducted, chiefly by the catechist, at which, on several occasions, the number has been about twenty. Charles Kooshallee, my catechist, labours with great energy among the Christians, and is really a man of prayer. The more I see of him, the more I have cause to rejoice.

I have three schools; one in the town, numbering seventeen children; another at Grand River, numbering 15 children; and a third at Captain I——'s premises, which is entirely supported by that gentleman.

In respect of preaching to the heathen, I have, during the past year, taken three different Missionary tours of a month each. Wherever I have gone the Indians received me in a friendly manner. They soon bring any sort of seat, if it be nothing but a basket turned upside down. Soon I have ten or twelve, sometimes a larger number, around me, listening attentively to my address. On some estates I have had almost all the men of the camp attending, and have been able to put before a good number our Saviour's love for poor sinners. As I acquire more and more boldness in speaking Hindui, my sphere of labours extends itself more and more. Here I meet a Bengalee, there a man from the Northern Provinces, and he is delighted to hear me speak to him in his language. On other occasions I meet a Mussulman, who is well pleased when I read to him a few passages in his Hindustanee. I find in general much greater hardness of heart among the Mohammedans than among the Hindus. The Gospel is also proclaimed in jails and in the hospital. I go alternately on Tuesdays to the jail and to the hospital. In these places I have sometimes seventy, and even sometimes 100 Indians listening to the word of Jesus. Often, when standing in the yard of the emigration dépôt, I have found opportunity to address a number of heathen. Sometimes 1000 are waiting to return, or have just arrived, and I easily get from twenty to fifty to listen to me. I have during the past year only met two Christians coming from Calcutta, while many come from the Madras Presidency.

Government Orphan Asylum.

During the past year the Government of the colony have established an Indian Orphan Asylum, which has been placed under the superintendence of Mr. and Mrs. Ansorge, until other help can be obtained. The asylum already contains more than 100 Indian children. Mr. Ansorge has the free exercise of all his Missionary functions, both within and without the precincts of the asylum.

Local support of Schools.

It is not the intention of the local Committee at present to increase the expenditure in the item of schools. They have reason to hope that this important subject is engaging the attention of many of the proprietors, and that such of them as have considerable numbers of children in their camps will take early measures to provide elementary education for them on the spot, the Missionaries undertaking to supply books and make periodical visits, to see that the teachers fulfil their duties properly. On this plan it is hoped several schools will soon be in operation, without any expense to the Society, and at only a small cost to the patrons, who will generally find some persons capable of the charge, amongst their labourers, glad to undertake the labour of the schoolroom in exchange for that of the field for a part of each day. The educational wants of the numberless Indian children in the colony may thus be supplied to a far greater extent than could possibly be effected by the most strenuous efforts of a Society having to collect funds for the payment of teachers.*

The Committee cannot conclude their account of the Mauritius Mission without a grateful acknowledgment of the encouragement and aid given to it by His Excellency the Governor, his lordship the Bishop, and by many of the highest officials of the colony.

General Remarks.

Another year has passed over without any serious effort on the part of the Christian church to fulfil its responsibilities to China, so wonderfully opened in the providence of God to the Christian Missionary. This Society must bear its share of the reproach. It has only kept up in China the diminished staff of labourers announced in the Report of the preceding year, and this staff, though sustained in numbers, has been weakened in efficiency; for one Missionary has returned home after four years residence, and the full acquisition of the language, in consequence of the failure of his wife's health: his place is supplied by a young Missionary, who must labour for another four years, before he can repair the breach caused by the retirement of his elder brother.

The results of political events in China have exhibited a remarkable synchronism with the supineness of the Christian church. The open opportunity has become partially closed. The Elgin Treaty, from which so much facility was anticipated to Missionary enterprise, as described in our last Report in the vivid language of the Bishop of Victoria, failed to arouse any response in the heart of the church of Christ; and that treaty has begun to fail, and is to be renewed only at the cost of British treasure and blood.

The Bishop of Victoria was absent on a visit to Australia during the early part of the year under review; but, at its close, was about to visit the northern ports. In his lordship's annual letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury he writes respecting St. Paul's College, Hong Kong—

Our work is uniform and monotonous. The same kind and method of education is pursued. There have been 40 Chinese boarders during the year, in addition to 3 young Chinese assistant teachers, and 1 Chinese graduate teacher. The Rev. W. R. Beach is now sub-warden and tutor. Ten of the pupils are about to be admitted to baptism.

Review of the Society's Missions.

The Missionary operations of the Society may be said to have been almost confined to one station, Ningpo. For at Fuhchau, and at Shanghai, the Missionaries have been chiefly engaged in the study of the language, and have been too weak in numbers to make any impression upon the heathen.

FUH-CHAU.

The Rev. M. Fearnley and Rev. G. Smith were at this station during the year 1859. Mr. Fearnley was engaged in preaching in the streets—Mr. Smith in the study of the language. There is as yet no convert or professed inquirer, no school or preaching chapel, and no catechist. Mr. Smith, however, pleads zealously for the continuing and strengthening of the Mission, on the ground of the importance of the city, the position which has been acquired by the residence of two Missionaries within the city walls, the general acquaintance of the neighbours and of the literary students with the objects of the Mission, and their toleration of its establishment. These are solid advantages, on which it is hoped an effective Mission may be established, if additional Missionaries can be sent out to the station.

The health of Mrs. Fearnley having obliged her husband to retire from China, the Committee have pleasure in inserting the following extract from the journal of Mr. Smith, to show that Mrs. Fearnley had entered upon her Missionary career with good prospect of success. Mr. Smith writes—

March 31, 1859.—Again passing the house of, I can hardly yet say my fellow-labourer, but I hope soon to be his fellow-labourer, the ground at the back was quite covered with sedans, which had brought a large party of Chinese ladies, not to look over the house, not to amuse themselves with viewing foreign things, but confessedly and avowedly to hear from Mrs. Fearnley the doctrines of Christianity; nor is this the only visit Chinese ladies have paid for this purpose. Thus Missionary ladies are needed here as well as men, and the Americans have recognised this, by strengthening their Mission by the accession of three married Missionaries.

NINGPO.

The three “married” Missionaries, Messrs. Russell, Gough, and Moule, who are all able to speak and preach in the vernacular dialect, have pursued their labours at this station, throughout the year, without interruptions from sickness or political disturbances. Mr. Russell thus describes the effect of the repulse of the British and French embassies on their way to Peking, in a letter dated September 10, 1859—

The first and natural result of our defeat at the Peiho, as soon as it became generally known, was the gradual decrease of our prestige in the eyes of the Chinese, and the consequent insecurity of our lives and property, which hitherto, under God, seem principally to have been secured by it. This has been exhibited to us in various ways, especially by the late wicked attempts of certain parties, both at Shanghai and here—whether with or without the knowledge and sanction of the native authorities it is difficult to say—to exasperate the people against us by posting up, in the thoroughfares of the city and the surrounding villages, anonymous placards of a most inflammatory character; representing foreigners as kidnappers of the worst kind, who are constantly crimping poor honest people, old and young, male and female, without distinction; either to bring them to the Peiho to put them into the forefront of the battle there, or to carry them off to some foreign country to convert their blood into opium, and their brains into medicine, which they design again to bring back to China as merchandise to be sold to the Chinese; and, in conclusion, calling upon the people in self-defence to rise en masse, and utterly to exterminate the perpetrators of such nefarious deeds.

A plot was laid to implicate the Missionaries at Ningpo, and the Mission-station at Sæmpo, in the kidnapping of three men. By Mr. Russell's spirit and promptitude, and perfect knowledge of the native language and character, the plot was detected, and the chief delinquent brought to confession. Mr. Russell writes—

This led the English and American Consuls to demand from the native authorities the issue of proclamations explanatory of the whole affair, which has tended much, under God, to quiet the minds of the people, and to restore that friendly feeling which previously existed between foreigners and natives at this port.

During the continuance of the excitement, which prevailed about a fortnight, our lives seemed placed in the most imminent jeopardy, and doubtless there would have been, as at Shanghai, a very serious outbreak of popular indignation against us, had it not been providentially prevented by the timely exposure of the imposition, and the punishment, or the threatened punishment (for this is all we can as yet say) of the principal parties connected with it.

The little body of native Christians here seems now in as satisfactory a condition as I have ever known it. The addition to its ranks during the last six months is also considerably greater than in any previous similar period of its history: a fact solely to be attributed to an enlarged exercise of power and mercy on the part of God, and not at all to the employment of any unwonted efforts on the part of man; which, probably, during the same period, have been even more feeble than usual. To our gracious God alone is all the praise and the glory due.

There have been sixteen adult baptisms during the year, and four, who had previously embraced the Romish religion in combination with the worship of ancestors, have renounced their errors, and joined the Protestant Mission. One of the latter class was a gentleman of independent position in society. Three years before, he had joined the Romanists, and received baptism, under a conviction of sin, and a desire to obtain peace of mind. He had acquired a full acquaintance with the Romish system and ceremonies, and was zealous for their propagation. This first led him to attempt to bring over the native catechist to the same views. The appeal to Scripture, however, soon shook his faith in the worship of saints and the mediation of the Virgin. He owned at last that he had found no true peace; he yielded to the entreaties of the catechist to seek it in Christ alone; and here he found the pearl of great price, and immediately cast away all his Romish notions, and embraced the religion of the Bible.*

At the close of the year the whole number of baptized converts had risen from 77 to 105, and the communicants from 32 to 66. There are now 6 schools, and 143 scholars under instruction.

Mrs. Gough, whose knowledge of the language enables her to take a share in Mission work, both in teaching the schools and the native women, has furnished the following detailed and interesting account of the routine employments of the Mission—

An increased spirit of inquiry has been manifested of late amongst the hearers in the chapels, and there have been additions to all the churches. About two months ago our American Presbyterian brethren received twelve members into the church on one Sabbath; and our communion has also shared in the blessing. My husband has succeeded in establishing several cottage-meetings amongst the converts. On two evenings in different neighbourhoods the Christians who live near together assemble for prayer and either my husband or the catechist presides. On other afternoons my husband goes to the house of a convert, who gets any of the neighbours he can to come in, and then he gives them a familiar address. The daily preaching in the chapels has also produced fruit, and some encouraging results have attended the daily preaching at Dr. Parker's medical hospital. Dr. Parker is a Scotch Presbyterian, but he engages the services of Missionaries from the different churches, each taking a share in the work on which it is their duty to address the patients in the house, as well as those who come for advice, and they are all assembled at the ringing of a bell in the chapel attached to the hospital. One old man, who has been cured of opium smoking under Dr. Parker's care, is about to be received into our church. Dr. Parker is doing much good here, by making his professional skill a means of bringing great numbers under the sound of the Gospel by all the means in his power. Whilst Mr. Russell is busily engaged in the translation of the Scripture with one of our American brethren, and Mr. Moule in the study of the language, with periodical visits to Sæn-po, my husband's time is given chiefly to the superintendence of the converts. Our good catechist's health is failing, but he is still very useful, and the young man who was baptized at the same time with him proves an excellent helper in a subordinate position: he comes to our house every morning for directions, and writes a journal for my husband, in which he details his visits to the sick, those absent from the services, &c. The schools connected with our own Mission are all going on much as usual.

The little I can do is amongst our schools, and my mornings are now divided between my girls' day school and the boys' day school. The latter come to me in two classes: the first class numbers fifteen, who can all read easily, and repeat portions of Scripture and hymns to me daily. The second class numbers from twelve to fifteen, and these are only learning to read and receiving instruction by word of mouth. The girls' school at the South gate is progressing very satisfactorily, and several of the older pupils repeat a large portion of Scripture to me when I go to visit them. The days seem only too short for all that has to be done, and our evenings too are fully occupied.

In a subsequent letter, Nov. 16, Mrs. Gough writes—

Several of the girls in the day school in my house have been with me now four years; but though we have at times met with decided encouragement to believe that the seed has not been sown altogether in vain, many cherished hopes have been blighted, and not one of my girls has yet been received into the church of Christ. In more than one case, where we have felt satisfied with regard to the child, the parents or relatives have so opposed their baptism, that we have been obliged to leave the matter, for a time at least. At the South-gate school there are twenty-five girls in very regular attendance, and their young Christian teacher, Ruth, continues to give me much satisfaction. Of course, in a day school, where the girls are so easily taken away from our care, needlework is a very secondary matter; but I may mention, that during the school-time allotted each afternoon to this employment, Ruth has taken so much pains with the girls, that their needlework would rival, if not exceed in neatness, most that I have seen in our schools at home.

Sæn-po district.

The work at this out-station has been steadily though slowly advancing. The converts are under the care of a native catechist, with the occasional visits of the Missionary. They are thus trained to habits of self-support; and though they often require the exercise of discipline by the Missionaries, yet they are doubtless exercising a more pervading influence with their countrymen, than if they were held together, and kept in order, by a foreign leader.

The Rev. G. E. Moule gives the following interesting narrative of his visit to the district (June 21, 1859)—

On the Sunday I had the privilege of baptizing six adults. Of these, five were baptized during the morning service, in the Kwun-hæ-we chapel. The sixth, named 'Ong, who is, in some sense, patriarch of the hamlet, being too ill to come in from his hamlet—about a mile off—and apparently in a very critical state of health, I baptized in the afternoon at the house of one of the Christians.

As I had the presence of five native Christians, I used the office for Public Baptism. The poor man (Long-hwu) seemed very thankful that he had at last received baptism. He had pressed me to administer it to him in March, but I was not then convinced of his danger, and therefore deferred it, in the hope that he might eventually be able to come to the chapel. Of the other five baptized, two of the most interesting were a mother and son of the name of Sing. The son, aged about forty, is an intelligent husbandman, and has shown, I think, most satisfactory signs of conversion to God. The name by which he is generally known is Ming-piao. His mother, though not so well instructed, seems not less earnest than himself. She, and the two other elderly women who were baptized, received the names respectively of Dorcas (Tokyüô), Rhodâ (Lo-da), and Lydia (Li-ti-üô).

At a subsequent visit, on arriving at Kwun-hæ-we, I learnt that the sick man, Long-hwu, whom I baptized, as I have mentioned above, died only the day before. I questioned Ming-piao, his nearest neighbour, on the circumstances of his death, and from the account he gave me, I have gathered a strong hope that he was really accepted through the Saviour's merits. Ming-piao visited him and prayed with him morning and evening; and Long-hwu repaid the kindness by earnest exhortations to his friend "never to waver in his adherence to the truth." He was buried under the superintendence of his friend, in the presence of heathen relatives, but without any idolatrous rites, Dzing-sin-sang, the assistant, offering up prayer and reading 1 Corinthians xv. in the house and at the grave. The Burial Service has not as yet been turned into the vernacular.

SHANGHAE.

At this station the excited state of public feeling, after the disaster at Peiho, received additional intensity, and burst into actual outrage, upon the arrival in the port of a French ship with a cargo of Chinese coolies on board, and the attempt of the captain to obtain an additional number of coolies at Shanghai. A murderous attack was made by the mob upon European sailors who were found alone. The Rev. J. Hobson, the consular chaplain, interfered, with a friend, to save the life of an English sailor thus assailed. The mob turned upon Mr. Hobson and his friend, and their lives were only preserved by the remarkable interposition of Divine Providence. The companion received several stabs and the sailor was killed. A strong party from the men-of-war was however landed, and quietness was restored, but not till several European sailors had been murdered, and two Mission chapels belonging to another Society destroyed. These disturbances occurred in July. There was no renewal of them for the rest of the year.

The Mission has only been feebly sustained in Shanghai throughout the year. Mr. Burdon was absent at other stations: Mr. Collins was only partially acquainted with the language. At the close of the year Mr. Burdon returned to Shanghai. In his annual letter he writes—

The results at Shanghai thus far are very, very small. In connexion with our Mission we had only six baptized persons, three of whom are communicants. One of these is a man of the name of Dgan, who was baptized by Mr. M'Clatchie before leaving in 1853. During the last five or six years he has grown much in knowledge of God's word and in Christian experience, and he seems to be fitting for increasing usefulness. For the last three years he has been the teacher of our boarding school, but it has been thought best for our work, and best for his own soul, that he should have a more directly Missionary sphere. It was proposed to him to take a place in Shanghai, answering to that of our Scripture-readers at home, to go from house to house with tracts and portions of the Bible, and press the truths of the Gospel home upon as many as possible. After taking a few days to think over the matter, he came to the resolution of throwing himself into such a work with heart and soul, but at the same time spoke so feelingly of his own unworthiness and his inability to meet alone the difficulties connected with such a post, that I could not but thank God on his behalf, and look hopefully to the future.

Mr. Collins reports of his own labours:—

The superintendence of the school, which has devolved on me, has been in great part nominal during the past year. I think, however, that the school is in a fair state of efficiency, owing to the labour which had been previously bestowed upon it, and to the presence of our Christian teacher, San-sien-sang. Symptoms are not wanting to indicate, that though so little of the seed sown has hitherto sprung up, its vitality yet remains. Four boys have recently expressed a desire to be baptized, and appeared to be earnestly desiring to secure the salvation of their souls; but as, in one or two instances they failed through fear of ridicule, it was decided to wait until the work of the Spirit, which we trust is begun in their hearts, should be more evident: one of the boys has been ten years in the school; the other three are much younger.

Attempt to establish a Mission at Hang-Chow.

It was stated in the last Report that the Committee had sanctioned a proposal of the Bishop and Missionaries in China to take up the important city of Hang-Chow as a station. This plan was promptly adopted by those on the spot, and the Rev. J. Burdon left Shanghai on the 18th of January 1859, and proceeded to Hang-Chow. He was compelled for some weeks to live in his boat, from the difficulty of procuring lodgings. He was allowed, however, to pass the custom-house: scarcely any rudeness was exhibited by the people, and he was allowed freely to distribute tracts and to speak with strangers. He was then joined by an American Missionary, and they shortly afterwards obtained lodgings at a Buddhist monastery. Mr. Burdon writes—

That a Buddhist monastery should be taken as a place of residence by a Christian Missionary is by no means what we would wish. It tends too much to identify us with a class, of all others in China the most despised, and deservedly so; but, as in many other places, either this stepping-stone must be used to something better, or none; and it was therefore with real thankfulness that I accepted such an offer, as it gave the hope of a permanent footing either to myself or to any other Missionary who might finally settle at Hang-Chow. When the difficulties connected with this city are borne in mind, my feelings will be understood as I took up my residence within its walls, even though it was an old broken down monastery. Not long before, it had been considered a hazardous thing even to approach within some miles of the forbidden city; and only a year before my settlement there, Messrs. Russell and Nevins, on being discovered in the vicinity of Hang-Chow, were politely compelled, under an official escort, to retrace their steps, and to retire from such a sacred neighbourhood. With this precedent before me, I hardly dared to hope that I would be permitted to remain unmolested.

Day after day, and week after week, passed, and no sign appeared of the displeasure of the authorities. I was permitted to maintain my position in my own hired rooms. I walked about the streets freely, and had many opportunities of distributing books and of speaking to the people. Many came to visit me at the monastery, and all seemed to take my residence among them as a matter of course.

After a visit to Shanghai in May, Mr. Burdon returned to Hang-Chow, and then proceeded to Ningpo, to make his final arrangements for settling at Hang Chow, in company with a brother Missionary and native teachers. But while at Ningpo the news of the repulse of the British and French embassies from the mouths of the Peiho, arrived, and immediately the whole aspect of affairs was changed. Mr. Burdon writes, "Instead of planning extended operations in regions beyond, it soon became a question whether we could maintain the ground which we have held so peaceably since 1842. The people, who, in all our previous troubles, had shewn the utmost friendliness, became all at once incensed against us. And designing men, whether connected with the Government or not it is hard to say, worked upon their feelings, and the cooly traffic soon afforded the desired occasion of bringing it out." A formal request from the authorities at Hang-Chow soon came to the American Consul for the removal of the Missionary who remained in that city, which was complied with. After, however, the American legation had been received at Peking, it was hoped that at least an American Missionary might be allowed to remain at Hang-Chow. Mr. Burdon, therefore, returned thither, in company with the Secretary of the American legation; but, after remaining a few weeks, he was obliged again to withdraw. At the close of the year he was residing at Shanghai, and sharing the labours of that station with Mr. Collins; devoting, however, a daily portion of his time to the study of the Hang-Chow dialect, so as to be prepared for resuming that Mission as soon as the way shall be providentially open.*

NEW-ZEALAND MISSION.

General Remarks upon the whole Mission.

THE event of chief interest in the past year has been the holding of a convention of the whole New-Zealand branch of the Church of England in Wellington, in March and April 1859, at which the Society's Missionary the Venerable Archdeacon William Williams, LL.D., was consecrated Bishop of Waiapu by the Metropolitan Bishop of New Zealand, and his suffragan Bishops under the Queen's letters patent. By this consecration the New-Zealand church comprises five bishoprics, with more than sixty clergymen. The Metropolitan Synod was attended by an equal number of lay as of clerical representatives, and various subjects were discussed connected with the regulation of church affairs, and the spiritual welfare of the European and native races. Upon the introduction of Missionary topics the Bishop of Waiapu made the following observations—

It might be naturally expected that I should have some remarks to make upon that part of the Resolutions which referred to Home Missions among the natives. And here I may venture upon a statement in which I know that I shall be borne out by those members of the Synod who were among the older settlers in this country. It is this—that upon the first settlement of the New-Zealand Company at Wellington, the difficulties which were anticipated were much diminished by the fact that the natives of this place had, for the most part, made a profession of Christianity. Instead of being met by a hostile array of savages, ready to commit outrages on every occasion, the settlers found a people under the influence of religion, clothed, and in their right minds. Soon after this event it was felt by the English Government to be necessary to establish British authority in the country; and when it was proposed to the native chiefs to cede the sovereignty of the country to the Queen, by signing the treaty of Waitangi, and there was an attempt to raise an opposition to this measure, it was found that the influence of the Christian natives bore down this opposition, and this important end was secured without difficulty. Then, again, a few years later, when the unhappy collision broke out in the north, it was owing to the influence of Christianity that the termination of this outbreak was so favourable.

I will only here allude to one little incident, to show how different was the manner in which the natives then carried on their warfare, from what it would have been at an earlier period. It was witnessed by our Secretary, the Rev. R. Burrows. The troops were quartered at the time at Waimate, having to receive their supplies from the ships lying at anchor at Kororika: these were conveyed by water to Kerikeri, and from thence by land carriage, a distance of ten miles, to Waimate. Mr. Burrows was on his way from that place to Kerikeri, and met two drays, one laden with ammunition, the other with provisions, and accompanied only by two soldiers and the drivers of the drays. Proceeding a little further, a party of about a dozen natives suddenly jumped out of the fern, and asked Mr. Burrows if he had met the drays which had just passed, adding, that they had seen them, and could have killed the people without difficulty, and have taken possession of all the drays contained, but that they would not act treacherously—they liked open fighting.

The fact, then, that Christianity was in some measure established before the country became colonized, has been of incalculable benefit to the colonists, and a duty is thus laid upon us to requite this obligation as much as may be to the natives, by securing to them a continuance of that Christian instruction which has been productive of such good results to ourselves. It is through the agency of the Church Missionary Society, for the most part, that Christianity has been established among the natives, though I would not omit to mention the Wesleyan Mission, which has also done a large portion of this work. But the Church Missionary Society wishes now gradually to withdraw its Mission. Since the country has become a British colony, and a regular church system is being established, it considers that the more proper sphere for its labours is in those countries which are still in a state of heathenism. In pursuance of this intention, while they do not propose to withdraw any of their Missionaries who are in active employment, they decline to fill up any vacancies which may occur through sickness or death. The consequence is, that there are many interesting tribes who are left unprovided for: they are as sheep without a shepherd. Our lay representative from Taranaki has told us of the condition of the natives there; how that, within his observation, they had gone back in every way. Those natives some years ago were living at Waikanae, under the charge of Archdeacon Hadfield; but when peace between the tribes was established, they returned to their homes at Taranaki, and now they have no teachers. There are many other tribes in a like condition. There is another body of people still nearer to us, in the valley of the Hutt: they are much scattered; but three Sundays ago there were 200 of these assembled on the occasion of the opening of a weather-board church which they had built at their own expense at the Upper Hutt, when the Rev. S. Williams administered the Lord's supper to forty communicants, on which occasion the Offertory collection amounted to upwards of four pounds; and on the Sunday following I had a congregation of forty at the Lower Hutt, when that venerable old chief, Te Puni, whose portrait is hanging before us, was present, and after service, according to custom, attended school, and repeated in his place the Catechism of our church:

but all these natives, since the removal of Mr. Hutton, are without instruction.

It has been proposed, that in the districts where the population consists of a mixture of the races, the clergyman who has charge of our own countrymen shall be also held responsible for the native race, but experience tells us in most cases the system will not work. A clergyman whose special care is the white population, having withal a new language to learn, finds that the charge is difficult; and while the English settlers will have seven-eighths of his attention, the natives will scarcely receive the remaining portion. The only remedy for this state of things is to raise up a native pastorate, and I am thankful to be able to state, for the information of the Synod, that there is every prospect that this provision will be made. There is already the Rev. Rotu Waitoa at the East Cape, who has now been several years a native clergyman, much respected by his countrymen, over whom he exercises a most beneficial influence. Then, again, there is the Rev. Riwai Te Ahu, who was with us at St. Peter's Church yesterday. He, too, is a most satisfactory instance to show how well the plan of a native pastorate is likely to succeed. There are many other natives also preparing for ordination at the central schools at Turanga, Auckland, and elsewhere.

One great difficulty must be the means of support for a native ministry; but the subject of endowment has been already before the natives, and there are many who enter into it with spirit. Among the natives of East Cape many contributions have been brought together, and more than 100*l.* now forms the basis of a fund to which those members of our church who are able to do so will do well to add. I trust, therefore, it will be recognised as a duty resting upon the church in general to promote the establishment of a native pastorate, and that this subject will be recommended by the Synod to the consideration of the several Diocesan Synods.

After considerable discussion, a series of important Resolutions were agreed to, acknowledging with gratitude the great services rendered, under God, to the island, by the Church Missionary Society, urging the continuation of the efforts of the Society, and calling forth at the same time the exertions of the newly-planted church, both to complete its own internal organization, and to diffuse among the surrounding heathen the blessings of Christianity. The Resolutions are as follows—

1. This Synod wishes to avow its sense of the responsibility resting upon the church in these islands to extend, as far as in it lies, the knowledge of our blessed Lord and Saviour, and the enjoyment of his means of grace, to every creature within this ecclesiastical province, and to the heathen beyond.

2. The Synod desires to record its conviction that it is the duty of every member of the church to give, according as God has prospered him, to the furtherance of these objects, and that it is the duty of every clergyman to bring those obligations periodically before his flock, with the view of stimulating their bounty.

3. This Synod commends to the several Diocesan Synods the early consideration of measures for securing a regular contribution from the congregations of the several dioceses, and for apportioning the same to the several objects—

I. Of Missions to the settlers of thinly-peopled districts.

II. Of Missions to the natives within each diocese.

III. And of the existing Missionary endeavours amongst the heathen of the Pacific Islands which have hitherto been carried on by the Bishop of New Zealand.

4. That with a view to the spiritual wants of the natives of New Zealand the time has now arrived, in the opinion of the Synod, when the natives should themselves be stimulated to further efforts for the support of the church in New Zealand.

5. That it is due to the Church Missionary Society to communicate to them the Resolutions which have been passed by the Synod with reference to measures for drawing out the contributions of this church in support of Home and Foreign Missions, and to accompany the communication with a grateful recognition of their labours for the evangelization of the aborigines of these islands, and with the expression of the opinion of the Synod, that, since the colonization of New Zealand, there has never been a period when the native race more urgently required the undiminished efforts of the Church Missionary Society than at the present moment.

Change in the division of Districts.

The erection of the Bishopric of Waiapu has occasioned some change in the district hitherto styled the Middle District. Part has been attached to the Eastern District, and the rest to the Northern District. The divisions therefore, for the future, will be three—the Northern, the Eastern, and the Western. Those stations only will be enumerated which are occupied by European Missionaries of the Society.

NORTHERN DISTRICT.

1. Bay of Islands, 1814; 2. Paihia, 1823; 3. Waimate, 1830; 4. Hauraki (mouth of Thames), 1833; 5. Kaitia, 1834; 6. Waikato, 1840; 7. Otawhao, 1841; 8. Taupiri, 1843; 9. Auckland, 1845; 10. Taupo, 1855.

Puckey labour; the Bay of Islands and Waimate, in which Archd. H. Williams, the Rev. R. Davis, and the Rev. C. P. Davies, conduct the Mission; Auckland, at which Archdeacon Kissling resides, the Rev. Robert Burrows, Secretary of the Mission, and the Rev. J. A. Wilson; Hauraki, east of Auckland, at which the Rev. T. Lanfear is located; and three stations south of Auckland, viz. Waikato Heads, Taupiri, and Otawhao, occupied by Archdeacon Maunsell, the Rev. B. Y. Ashwell, and the Rev. J. Morgan; also one far out-lying station, Taupo, at which the Rev. T. S. Grace has lately commenced a Mission.

KAITAIA.

The Annual Report and letter of the two Missionaries, labouring at this station, are full of interest and encouragement. In taking a retrospect of the past, they write—

Our settlement has now been established more than twenty years, and great have been the mercies that we have received at the hands of God. We can subscribe to what Bishop Hall says, “God will not be in any man’s debt.” The number of natives baptized from the commencement has been 1940. There are but very few individuals in the district who do not regularly attend the means of grace on the Sabbath-day. The native teachers and monitors, who render us much help, for which we desire to thank the Good Shepherd and Lord of the harvest, number about thirty. We have a meeting on Saturdays for the especial use of teachers and monitors; and sometimes we have visitors from the farthest portion of our district. It is the custom of those who attend to send the notes taken at the meeting to the teachers afar off.

The report contains, also, the following particulars—

The past year has been an eventful one, as regards the prospe-

city and comfort of this portion of Christ's church. Our reports allude to this in the erection of seven new chapels, and four others put in good repair. This mercy, together with the coming forward of more than eighty candidates to be examined and instructed before confirmation, and seventy-four for adult baptism, during six months, we look upon as an answer to prayer for a revival. The coming of the candidates for the rites of confirmation and baptism, weekly and fortnightly, for scriptural instruction, gave us rich opportunities of doing good; and they themselves seem to have enjoyed these meetings much. There was scarcely one confirmed who could not read tolerably well in the New Testament, repeat the Church Catechism, and answer questions thereon.

On the 12th of June the Metropolitan Bishop of New Zealand held at our settlement a confirmation, at which he admitted, after a patient and interesting examination, eighty-six to that solemn rite. The Bishop invited Mr. Matthews to proceed as soon as possible to Auckland, to take priests' orders, observing, "I now waive all objections." Mr. Matthews desires to express his thanks for the utmost kindness which his lordship showed him. His ordination took place on Sunday, August 7, at St. Paul's. The native Christians of the district hail with delight the new privilege conferred on us in the administration of the Lord's Supper as often as may be desired.

It is pleasing to notice in the journals of these far-separated labourers of our church the warm sympathy of the revival movement at home and in America—

On hearing of the great religious revivals in America, we desired to sympathize with them and pray for a revival amongst our own people here, and also for the churches and heathen in the islands afar off. We converted our European social prayer-meeting into a mixed meeting for natives also, and we find that it answers well. We read the Psalms for the day in English, and the second lesson in native, and all are desired to pray for the spread of the Gospel in all lands. It was remarkable that natives who had been exhorted to build chapels, but had been very backward to do so, almost simultaneously erected chapels in important places, and others have been put in good repair, and there has been much desire manifested to obtain the word of God.

The native teachers of Parengarenga appear to go on steadily and perseveringly, and their conduct, as well as the conduct of their people generally, affords us much encouragement. The teachers there, at times, have met with sharp trials, but they have hitherto stood very firmly. Having received twenty copies of the Old Testament, from Proverbs to Malachi, from a friend in Auckland, as a present to our teachers, one copy was sent for the whole of the North-Cape teachers, but we were delighted to find, that, having knowledge of a new spring having been opened, they eagerly sent to Auckland for a few copies, and they have now seven. One of the teachers observed, "When we have any new portions of God's word we cannot rest till we have read it all through."

Our resident magistrate lately made this observation—"I feel more than usual for the natives, because of the many Europeans coming to live amongst them; and, if it could be managed, I think that a properly-qualified native minister would have, in addition to religious considerations, a healthy and moral effect upon the Aborigines. Some persons think that they will rapidly decrease to the extinction of their race, but we think that they will last longer than many desire. The Government have, in their parental capacity, sent a surgeon for this district, giving him a salary of 100*l.* per annum, and we have reason to believe that he is both a worthy and clever young man. All natives may apply for help freely, but if any send for him the rule is that the person applying must furnish a horse and pay his fees.

BAY OF ISLANDS.

Archdeacon Henry Williams reports a general improvement in the various congregations of which he has the oversight in the neighbourhood of the Bay of Islands. His reports of the different places may be judged of by that which he gives of his own station—"The people have continued orderly and attentive to their Christian duties, with certain exceptions, and a full proportion of perplexities."

His Report, also, states—

Once each quarter the communicants from the distant villages in connexion with Paihia assemble at this place, and the communicants in connection with Kororarika assemble at Kororarika for examination previous to the administration of the Lord's Supper. This duty has always a beneficial effect. At these two places I meet on the average about 160 communicants, though the number exceeds 300 who attend during the year, to whom the Lord's Supper is administered. But in these church duties the people require line upon line, as with Europeans, such is the spiritual opposition with which they have to contend.

During January, February, and March, I was enabled to visit, in my little vessel, the native settlements on the coast, my old Mission seat, which places, from various causes, have not been under any Missionary care or inspection since 1850. At the places south of Cape Brett I met large parties who assembled from various quarters. I found good raupo chapels erected, and the people full of inquiry. Many came forward for baptism, and I administered the communion at each place.

Mr. C. P. Davies has rendered essential service in the Bay by his residence at Paihia—though unable to move beyond the settlement—in giving instruction to candidates for baptism and for the communion. He has conducted the services of the place when his health would admit of his doing so.

WAIMATE.

The Rev. Richard Davis reports of his station—

We take care to point out to the natives from time to time what the ever-blessed God is doing in different parts of the world, in gracious revivals with which many places have been visited. This appears to have had a good effect upon their minds. In short, we have heard the natives express themselves on religious subjects in a way and manner which is quite new: this leads us to hope that it is the work of the Divine Spirit, and although the work at present is confined to one or two here and there, it is the best encouragement we have had for many years. Hundreds of professors remain at their old standard. This is not satisfactory, yet I firmly believe, that, with all their ignorance, many of them are in a state of salvation.

Much good has been done by the newly-appointed native assessors in the present year. They adjust, in a quiet way, many things which in former years caused much disturbance. A court is now held at Waimate about once in two months, and it is pleasant to see the natives put themselves under the protection of British law.

AUCKLAND.

Archdeacon Kissling has charge of the native chapel of St. Barnabas, of which he gives the following report—

The native congregations at St. Barnabas, both morning and evening, on the Lord's-day have improved during the past year; the attendance has been regular, and the number has increased. The Gospel preached to them has evidently manifested its blessed fruit in the life and conduct of the people. There is little or no drunkenness amongst them; no disputes or quarrels are exhibited to the public; few, very few, native prisoners are in the jail; marriages, too, have become closer; their offspring is more cared for; sin has been shunned and reproved; the means of grace have been appreciated, and I trust that there are some who walk humbly with their God. The number of communicants may be stated at twenty.

An English congregation also assembles in St. Barnabas church, to which the Archdeacon ministers. This congregation contributes liberally to the expenses of the Missions.

Archdeacon Kissling has also charge of the Institution for training native teachers. At the close of the year there were ten students, all of them married men, and many with families, who have been recommended by the Missionaries, to whom they have been long known. The greater number of these teachers were prepared for ordination, and were likely to be admitted as candidates in the course of a few months, when they would return to the spheres of their former labours. Mr. Kissling has been very successful in his mode of instruction and management in this institution.

The Rev. J. A. Wilson visits, from Auckland as headquarters, the scattered groups of natives at a distance from the city. The work is discouraging and difficult, from the vagrant habits of the people, and their abject poverty. While at Auckland, he visits the natives who may be in the hospital or jail. The Government also support a hostelry, for the use of the natives visiting Auckland. In one end of the building a room is set apart for a chapel. Mr. Wilson gives a service there while in Auckland, and in his absence the native in charge of the hostelry, having been a native teacher, is able to keep up the service daily.

WAIKATO HEADS.

This station is under the charge of Archdeacon Maunsell, who reports favourably of the social progress of the native population, and of their steadiness, generally speaking, in their Christian profession. There is a flourishing boarding-school at the station, of which Mr. J. W. Stack has had charge, till his removal, with the consent of the Committee, to a pastoral charge in the diocese of Nelson. Mr. Stack gives the following graphic description of a religious meeting of the natives.

An interesting meeting of the Waikato school took place last Christmas, at Rangirui, about thirty miles from here. Besides our own, there was Mr. Ashwell's and three native schools, amounting in all to 230. The fine native church at Rangirui was quite full, and many were obliged to remain outside. The total congregation could not have been less than 500.

After service we partook of our Christmas dinner in a log booth ; after which we held a meeting in the church in behalf of two objects, the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the Native Schools. The native magistrate of the district took the chair, and several natives spoke on the Resolutions. Some of these native remarks may afford useful hints at home. One native said "that a liberal response to the appeal for funds would be the best evidence that they sincerely accorded with the resolution." Another native remarked—"Several of you have said that we have met to advocate two separate causes. I deny that. He that advocates the cause of the Bible is equally an advocate of schools. You see Waikato flowing there: it has many channels, but the water in all is one. The school is one channel through which the water of life will flow to the people. Here lie India and China, like the wounded man in the parable: do not pass by: it is your duty to assist. Soon you will pass from the stage of life. Oh, work while it is called day."

TAUPIRI.

The Rev. B. Y. Ashwell gives the following account of his station in a letter, July 21, 1859—

The Taupiri Institution has, for the last twelve years, been labouring to sow the good seed among the adults and children, and we have not been left without a token for good, in the happy deaths of some of our scholars, and in the prospect of the future usefulness of others.

Two of the native teachers from the school are candidates for holy orders, and one, my faithful Seth, is now at St. Stephen's with Archdeacon Kissling, preparing for the ministry: the other, William Smith Hikairo, a clever, good young man, whom I lately married to one of our school-girls, is helping me at the boys' school at Hopuhopu. If two Christian ministers to their countrymen have been raised up in the school, our labours have not been useless; but this is not all: we are now witnessing, if I may use the expression, the working of the school leaven, or rather the leaven of the Gospel in its influence on the parents, who have seen the results of our schools upon their children, and which has induced a general desire for boarding-schools at their native villages.

Within the last eighteen months seven boarding-schools for native children, kept by experienced native teachers, have sprung up within the Taupiri district, and more than 100 native children are taught and boarded at the expense of their parents. Large rush buildings have been erected, and others are now being built. The native teachers in particular, and the natives generally, manifest much interest in these schools. I do trust, that, in answer to our monthly Missionary prayer-meetings, which are well attended by the teachers, a blessing from God has been obtained; but I rejoice with trembling, for it is characteristic of the New Zealander, that he will for a time devote his energies to any thing which may strike his fancy.

Any contribution, either to the Taupiri Institution or these native boarding schools, will indeed be helping forward the work of Christ in this land. Could our Christian friends have witnessed the clean, orderly appearance of 300 New-Zealand children assembled last Christmas at Rangiriri; could they have heard their intelligent answers to Scripture and other questions put by their teachers; and, above all, could they have joined with them in singing the praises of redeeming love, their hearts would have warmed within them, and they would all joyfully contribute something to feed these lambs of Christ, although children of cannibals. Our only hope to preserve the New Zealanders is, under God, the schools. The mortality there is much less than in the native villages.

The Rev. R. Burrows having, in company with Bishop Williams, visited the three Mission stations on the Waikato River, namely, Otawhao, Taupiri, and Waikato Heads, writes—

It is truly gratifying to see the earnestness and activity of the Society's labourers here in their schools, as well as to witness the result of their labours throughout the districts. There is a desire for school among the people of these districts which I have not witnessed elsewhere. I trust it may result in much good to the rising generation, and that other parts of the country may catch something of the spirit which at present pervades the minds of this people. I hope also that the present anxiety of the parents to have their children instructed, will result in their putting a helping hand toward supplying food and clothing for their children at these schools. They have done some little, but not what they ought to have done. A steady perseverance on the part of our Missionaries in urging upon them their duty, will, I believe, be attended with much good.

TAUPO.

The Rev. T. S. Grace gives this encouraging account of the progress of this lately-established Mission—

The past year has been one of mingled trial and advancement, and in looking back upon it, there is much to fill us with thankfulness and hope.

Attendance at the Sunday services at the station has improved. Weather permitting, many have come in their canoes from other villages on Saturday evenings, and have stayed with us until Sunday morning. At different villages three new chapels have been built. On my visits I have found the people very attentive and anxious for instruction. Native teachers, who have to work for food and clothing for themselves and families, cannot now devote the same time to teaching as formerly, so that it is not astonishing if the people learn slowly. It must also be remembered that the native teachers of Taupo have not had the advantages of those at most of our other stations. For many years they were left to themselves, and since we have been here we have not been able to give them the same amount of instruction, that we were accustomed to give to the teachers at Tauranga.

We have commenced a native boarding school, which is supported by the natives themselves. In September I engaged a tutor for my own boys, when I proposed to the natives, that if they would carry out what I had before proposed, namely, if they would send their children to school, and provide them with food and clothing, that I would devote half of the young man's time to their children. They consented—and in October, thirty-one children were brought, with food for them. This school has gone on most satisfactorily: the parents and teachers have taken the greatest interest in it. This is as it ought to be.

The Sunday-evening school for repeating and being questioned on the Gospel, Epistle, and Collect for the day, still continues. The people's interest in it is not at all abated. I spent Christmas-day at Motutera, when, after service, more than fifty stood up to repeat their lessons. Most of them had committed the whole three lessons to memory, and many of them without a fault. The questioning afterwards showed that they had not been inattentive as to the meaning of what they had learned. These Sunday-evening classes are quite voluntary.

EASTERN DISTRICT.

Six stations are occupied in this district, of which the chronological order is the following—1. Tauranga, 1835; 2. Maketu, 1835; 3. Rotorua, 1835; 4. Turanga, 1840; 5. East Cape, 1842; 6. Wairoa, 1844.

European Missionaries :

The Bishop of Waiapu, (m) 1825.
 Ven. Archdeacon, A. N. Brown, 1829.
 Rev. James Hamlin, 1825.
 Rev. Charles Baker (m) 1827.
 Rev. Thomas Chapman (m) 1830.
 Rev. Seymour M. Spencer (m) 1841.
 Rev. W. Leonard Williams, B.A. (m) 1853.
 Mr. Carl S. Volkner, engaged in New Zealand.

Following the geographical order of the stations in this district, it comprises Tauranga, at which Archdeacon Brown and the Rev. C. Baker reside; Maketu, the station of the Rev. T. Chapman; Rotorua, in the interior, where the Rev. S. M. Spencer labours; East Cape, which is under the native minister, Rev. Rota Waitoa; Turanga on the East Coast, the residence of the Bishop of Waiapu, who is assisted by his son, the Rev. W. L. Williams, and Mr. C. S. Volkner; Wairoa, still further to the south, where the Rev. J. Hamlin is stationed.

The Eastern District is comprised in the diocese of Waiapu. The number of natives is estimated at 20,000.

The Bishop gives the following report of this District, in a letter dated December 19, 1859—

At the close of another year of our Missionary labours, I proceed to give you some account of the work in that part of the country with which I have most to do. In the present day we claim but a small amount of interest in the vast Mission field. The exciting events of India and China, and the opening fields of Africa, give encouragement to increased exertion, which swallows up the attention, while you are unable to meet the pressing demands made upon you. The interest which springs from novelty is wearing away, while the small number of our population naturally leads you to give a diminished attention to this little family. It is a cause for much thankfulness, then, that you are prepared to continue your support to the Mission, though it may be at a diminished rate. Our native church, after advancing rapidly in its early days, has reached a point at which its movement is scarcely to be perceived. It is just in that state in which, if left to itself, it will be like the embers of a blazing fire, which, being neglected, will quickly go out; but if stirred up and put together and fed, will still give out a glowing heat. As to the natives themselves, there is no falling away, no giving up of their Christian profession, excepting in solitary cases. There is rather a reaction, and a desire shown that more attention should be given to them, and that they should not be allowed to fall into a state of deadness. Our congregations keep up to their usual numbers, and the communicants also, though not equal to what they were some years ago.

The natives of the East Cape continue, I believe, in a satisfactory state. It is now more than two years since Mr. Baker was obliged to withdraw from his station there, through ill health; but Rota Waitoa, the native deacon on the north side of the Waiapu, together with the teachers, have kept the people from going back. When Raniera also shall be located there as a pastor, their condition will be still better. The natives in the different localities, in the hope of having ministers of their own, are coming forward with contributions toward a fund for endowment, which will much promote the settlement of this system.

In a subsequent letter, the Bishop of Waiapu writes—

Efforts have been making on the Eastern Coast to form endowment funds for those localities where it is desirable to have native ministers stationed. It is a cause for much thankfulness to our heavenly Father, that the natives are feeling a necessity of having ministers to watch over them, that they are ready to receive their own countrymen in this capacity, and that they are willing to contribute to their support. If these measures are carried out, we cannot fail, under God's blessing, to see a strong reaction for good in the New-Zealand church.

TAURANGA.

Archdeacon Brown reports a very unsettled state of the natives in his immediate district, from disputes on land claims. He makes these important remarks upon the necessity of adopting new ministerial plans for the altered state of the country.

I trust that plans will be adopted for extending the Gospel more effectually than heretofore throughout this new diocese, by the agency of schools, and by the education of native teachers for ordination. One thing is certain, that while ministerial services are confined to European Missionaries, the wheels of our Mission chariot will drag heavily along. Take Tauranga Bay as an instance: 500 natives are probably assembled every Sabbath to worship. But instead of being chiefly congregated, as they were a few years back, in two pas, and thus in reach of their Missionary, they now assemble at fifteen different places.

Central School near Turanga.

The Rev. Leonard Williams gives the following Report of the central schools near Turanga—

Our schools, I am thankful to be able to state, are still on the increase. We have now 100 under instruction daily. Our numbers might easily be doubled, for there is no lack of candidates for admission, particularly among the Waiapu people, but we are obliged to keep them back for want of accommodation. This is our great difficulty, and a great drawback to the efficiency of all our schools at this place. Having never had any building-fund, nor even any grant of money sufficient to cover the removal of the station from Whakato, we have been obliged to find means of building where we can, and our pupils at present are housed only in perishable raupo houses, detached from one another as a safeguard against fire. Under these circumstances, it is impossible to keep up any desirable degree of discipline, or to wean the people from any objectionable habits in their manner of living, which they all acquire, or rather are brought up in at their own homes.

The progress of our pupils has been very satisfactory, and they give us as little trouble as we could expect, considering all the circumstances. Of our two students who have been under Archdeacon Kissling's charge at St. Stephen's, Auckland, for nearly two years, one, Raniera Kawhia, is about to be admitted to deacons' orders. We hope also to send some more students early in the ensuing year to the same institution, where, besides the advantage of more special training, they will also have that of being entirely removed from people who live in their own careless way, and in very undesirable habits in their domestic economy.

WAIROA.

The Rev. J. Hamlin has laboured at the station of Wairoa, amidst many discouragements from the unsettled state of land questions, from the want of efficient native teachers, and from the backward state of the natives in point of civilization, compared with other tribes; neither is there any boarding school in this district. Added to all these trials, the loss of his wife, and his own enfeebled health, call for the Christian sympathy and the prayers of the friends of the Society.

WESTERN DISTRICT.

The district was first occupied by Archdeacon Hadfield in 1839. It now comprises five stations: 1. Wanganui, 1840; 2. Otaki, 1842; 3. Heretaunga, 1844; 4. Papawai (Palliser Bay), 1856; 5. Pipiriki, on the Wanganui river, 1856.

European Missionaries:

Ven. Archdeacon Octavius Hadfield (m) 1833.

Rev. Richard Taylor, M.A. (m) 1836.

Rev. Samuel Williams (m), born in New Zealand.

Rev. William Ronaldson (m) 1855.

Mr. James Booth (m) 1852, Schoolmaster.

The Western District comprises two stations north of Wellington—Wanganui, at which the Rev. R. Taylor resides, assisted by Mr. James Booth; and Otaki, at which is Archd. Hadfield, assisted by the native minister, the Rev. Rewai Te Ahu; and two stations to the east of Wellington—Papawai, where the Rev. W. Ronaldson labours; and Heretaunga, occupied by the Rev. S. Williams. The district is comprised in the diocese of Wellington.

WANGANUI.

Mr. Taylor's long acquaintance with New Zealand, and his deep researches in all that concerns their superstitions, habits, and modes of thought, give a peculiar weight to his remarks. In a letter, dated June 3, 1859, he writes—

On the first of the month I received a box from the Church

Missionary Society, containing a small edition of the Prayer-book, and the concluding portion of the Old Testament. I could not help thinking of George the Third's wish that every man in his empire might possess a copy of the Scriptures, and that now, by the divine blessing, that wish is likely to be realized far beyond even the thought of the good old king. Here we have, in these remote regions of the world, which were only just known in his time, the word of God in the tongue of its inhabitants. I hail, therefore, the arrival of this last remaining part of God's holy word as an epoch in the history of New Zealand, which must be followed with important results, and I trust now we shall soon receive the whole Scriptures in one volume, and of a portable size.

I am happy to say that the general attendance on the means of grace is very good, not only on the Sabbath, but on week-days as well. I have a Scripture class every morning when at home, which the natives appear to take much pleasure in. The two great stumbling-blocks which now stand in the way of their improvement are Popery and the "king" movement: by the former my discipline is in a great measure destroyed. I cannot now punish the evil-doer by temporary separation from church communion: he immediately goes over to Popery, and is received with open arms. This king movement, also, is very rife; in fact, the native chiefs have been, as a body, overlooked, and whatever may have been done for them, and whatever interest may have been taken in their behalf by the Government, it has not led to any permanent good. The view I took on this subject five years ago, in the Te Ika a Maui,* remain unchanged. Were I to re-write that chapter on native chiefs, I should not alter the opinion there given. We talk of the advantages gained by the native becoming a British subject, but he does not feel them: he is attached to us, but the only feeling in his favour is that of using his bias towards us to acquire land; and immediately that is done, the natives would be treated as dogs if they had not spirit and energy enough to hinder it. They are shut out from all participation in political rights; and though it is allowed they are entitled to them, nothing is done to fit them for the enjoyment of them. This is felt by all the great chiefs, and leads them to combine under one head to maintain their political independence. I am also sorry to say, that now the new restriction of the sale of ammunition has been withdrawn, the natives have been purchasing powder and arms at a most exorbitant rate, and the Upper Wanganui tribes have bought between two and three tons of gunpowder. The same may be said of the restrictions on the sale of ardent spirits: there can be no doubt that the love of them has greatly increased since permission has been given them to buy. The young men and boys, I am sorry to say, are those who drink the most, and, in the vicinity of towns, these are the persons least under the Missionary control. Still, with all these drawbacks, I can report much that is good and encouraging. The attendance at the Lord's table increases, and the natives, as a body, are living in peace and quietness.

At the close of the year Mr. Taylor reports favourably of the state of his district, but expresses much apprehension of the progress of the king movement, combined with the neglect of conciliatory measures, upon the part of the legislature, towards the native race.

Mr. Booth, who was stationed at Pipiriki, on the upper part of the Wanganui river, was compelled, early in the year, to remove, with his wife, in consequence of extreme illness, into the town of Wanganui, where he has been employed in a Mission school. He greatly laments his separation from his Missionary duties, as he met with much confidence and attention amongst the natives, and was able to counteract in some measure the pernicious doctrines of the Romanists, of whom four priests and two lay agents are located in the Wanganui.

OTAKI.

Archdeacon Hadfield reports of his district, Otaki—

I returned from England early in April 1859. During my absence the Rev. R. Taylor paid several visits to my district, and the Rev. Rewai Te Ahu laboured here. The native converts very cordially welcomed me back. Some disagreements and disputes had arisen amongst them on the subject of land sales to the Government, but these are now becoming settled, and their evil effects passing away. I everywhere throughout the district observed greater attention and more earnestness on the subject of religion. There was more regularity in attendance on divine worship, a greater desire to learn, a stronger determination to persevere in a right course, a deeper conviction of the necessity of religion to restrain men from vice, and to produce good conduct, to give comfort and secure peace, than I had before witnessed. Several persons who had led irregular lives, having previously disregarded religion, now appeared to have thoroughly reformed, and ascribed their reformation to the power of the Gospel. Many, also, who had been indifferent, now sought instruction. After careful inquiry and examination, I have been so satisfied with the reality of the change in many of these, that they have been baptized. Many also, who had for some time neglected to partake of the Lord's Supper, have confessed the error of their past conduct, and have again sought for comfort and strength in Christ's holy ordinance.

I would therefore, at the conclusion of this year, desire to praise God for what his grace has accomplished in these people. I was absent from my flock for a year ; and on my return I found them improved : their knowledge, perhaps, had not increased, but they had acquired a deeper sense of their own ignorance and need of spiritual light and strength.

The Bishop of Wellington gives the following account of a visit to the Society's station at Otaki—

On arriving at Otaki, I found the natives were coming in from many quarters to make acquaintance with their new Bishop ; and on Sunday morning it was indeed a pleasant sight to see 500 picturesquely-dressed Maories, of all ages and both sexes, arranged on their mats in rows all over their large and beautiful chapel, which they built themselves, and ornamented in their own arabesque style.

They would have been disappointed if I had not preached to them ; but almost the greatest treat to myself was to hear the Archdeacon (Hadfield) preach in the afternoon. His thoroughly idiomatic language and exquisite pronunciation, his energy and taste, made the most perfect specimen of Missionary preaching in the Maori language that I had ever heard, and I could see that the Maories enjoyed it as much I did. The Archdeacon is engaged in two branches of the same work :—first, regenerating his Maori school for boys and girls, and secondly, looking out for candidates for the native ministry ;—that the Maori church may in due time become self-supporting.

PAPAWAI.

The Rev. W. Ronaldson is stationed at Papawai, in the district of Wairarapa, to the east of Wellington. His labours are partly directed to the English settlers, who are mingled amongst the native settlements. But the greater part of his time, and of his pastoral ministrations, is devoted to the native race, who are nowhere collected together in any number, but are scattered over the district in small parties.*

General review of the social and religious progress of Rupert's Land, contained in the Charge of the Bishop.

THE Bishop of Rupert's Land held his triennial visitation in the Red-River Settlement, January 6th, 1860. In the opening of his charge he takes the following comprehensive view of the position and prospects of the church in Rupert's Land—

Politically, no change has as yet passed over the land. Several social improvements have taken place, marking a new era, and betokening progress. The river communication has been opened up; the road over the prairies has been traversed; and the appliances of modern science have rendered more easy the production of some of the necessities of life.* But the greater change has not yet come. There is a general expectation that the present year may usher it in, and that during its course the southern portion of the land, or at least our own settlement, may become a direct colony of the Crown. The boon was granted with great promptitude by the late Colonial Secretary to British Columbia, and I can scarcely doubt that the nobleman who has succeeded him in office, and whose attention has for so many years been directed to the subject, will be prepared ere long with a comprehensive measure bearing on the condition of this territory. For this, as a body, we have ourselves petitioned the two Houses of Parliament, from the persuasion that the highest interests of the country may in this way be best promoted. Whenever the change shall take place, a new class of duties and responsibilities will arise. It will be your part, brethren, to guide and direct the minds of the people in the new channel, so that there may be a healthy and hearty co-operation from all,—so that they may exercise the privileges which may be committed to them, to the good of their fellow-men and the glory of God.

Ecclesiastically, we ought to feel in measure strengthened. Two new dioceses, the eighth and ninth in British North America, have been formed since we last met; so that we have an additional one on either side of us—that of Huron on the east, and that of British Columbia on the west. The uncertainty regarding the extent of our own jurisdiction has been removed; our boundary is now marked and definite, and the Rocky Mountains would limit our view in looking towards the Pacific. We have, too, a third new diocese immediately adjoining us to the south—that of Minnesota, in the Sister Church of the United States. All this has a tendency to support us. And yet, in comparison of all the other dioceses, we are still of a very unweildy shape, and, though small in population and number of clergy, our distances are almost as great as before. In each of the other eight dioceses the clergy can, on all such occasions as this, meet almost all of them together: here we can scarcely ever expect to succeed in gathering more than a half. In this diocese alone can it be said that one is absent from us 2500 miles distant to the north-west (Mr. Kirkby, at Fort Simpson); that another is unable to be with us, being 1200 miles to the east (the Rev. J. Horden, at Moose, James' Bay). Ungava Bay, the Rocky Mountains, and the Arctic Sea, our present limits, are limits rather for the eye and the imagination to rest upon, than possible to be overtaken by any amount of personal labour. And at the heart and centre we remain very isolated—we are still the oasis in the wilderness. After repeated efforts, the difficulty is found to be great to bridge over the intervening distance on each side—to throw out branches which may connect us with our neighbours in Canada and Columbia, and make us to be, in something more than name, the highway of the west.

With this measure of apparent outward strength, there are some causes and hindrances which, I think you will agree with me, tend to cripple and retard our work.

There is the very migratory character of our most settled population. This may, in the good providence of God, carry onward the tide of population, and scatter it over the wilderness. It may thus ultimately answer a good purpose; but its tendency at the time is felt by most of us very painfully. It weakens parishes, and very materially checks education, rendering it more expensive and difficult to be extended to all. It keeps the mass in a state of greater poverty, and prevents their growth and rise. It lessens the amount of public spirit and local attachment, and perpetuates many of the habits of Indian life. It parts and separates, where, if united, all would be combination and strength.

There is, too, the want of a deeper religious life, even amongst the more advanced Christians. Here there is stagnation instead of movement. The Word is heard with joy and received with readiness; but it is the development of the rich fruit which the minister looks for, and looks too often in vain. Measuring themselves rather by that from which God hath saved them—the condition of the heathen who know not God—than by the standard of by-gone generations and of other countries, they are satisfied with smaller attainments—they rest contented with a lower level, and do not press forward to the measure of the stature of a perfect man. Their condition is a matter of rejoicing to the minister of God, at first, as they are eager to hear. It is in their after course that he suffers disappointment. The building stops before he is prepared: the growth terminates suddenly, after advancing for a time with rapidity; and there is not the higher experience of the divine life.

There is, moreover, an additional check in the Indian work. It is a transition period; change is anticipated. An excitement has seized the Indian mind, and he is little inclined to give a calm and patient attention to the claims of the Gospel. A wider competition is afloat; and baits are held out by the unscrupulous which the poor Indian is too weak to resist. A greater difficulty has thus been found in selecting and planting new stations, while at the old-established Missions the steadfastness of the convert has been very sorely tried, if not in some cases too successfully shaken. Direct conversions have, in consequence, been less numerous during the last two years, and I much fear that the next two or three may continue to tell the same tale. At all events the Indian is less hopeful and more difficult to act upon than he was found to be five years ago.

With these and other causes impeding the progress of our work, and materially affecting its character, the testimony of all of us would, if I mistake not, be somewhat similar to-day,—our common acknowledgment would be, that the interval since we last met has not been marked with such distinct success as previous periods—that some of our more sanguine expectations have only been faintly realized.

Printing of the Scriptures and Prayer-book in Cree.

The Rev. W. Mason remains in England for another year, in order to complete the printing of the Old Testament in Cree. The ship which took out the supply of New Testaments and Prayer books last year has not been heard of, and there is too much reason to fear that it has been lost at sea. The presence of Mr. Mason in England has providentially enabled him to recommence the printing of an additional supply.

I. RED-RIVER DISTRICT.

The stations occupied are St. Andrew's, formerly the Grand Rapids, 1832; The Indian Settlement, 1833; Portage la Prairie, 1856; Westbourne, 1859.

ST. ANDREW'S.

The Mission church of St. Andrew's was placed under the care of the Rev. W. W. Kirkby, during the visit of Archdeacon Hunter to the Mackenzie River. Mr. Kirkby proceeded to that distant post in the summer of the year 1859, and Archdeacon Hunter returned and resumed his duties at Red River. The ministerial duties of the station are altogether of a pastoral character.

THE INDIAN SETTLEMENT.

This interesting native-Christian village has been under the watchful and experienced care of the Rev. A. Cowley. The duties are those of a pastoral minister. Mr. Cowley is assisted by a native minister, the Rev. Henry Cockran; and the Committee trust that the European Missionary will be enabled to devote his attention to the aggressive work of the Mission. The small commencement of an attempt to sustain Missionary efforts by local funds is thus mentioned in the journal of Mr. Cowley—

March 30—The lectures and duties of the week much as usual. Engaged Joseph Monkman, a very excellent person, to be lay Missionary to the heathen of the neighbourhood of the Red-River colony and settlements. He will derive his salary from St. John's, St. Paul's, and St. Peter's. He will labour in union and connexion with all the clergy, travelling through all the parishes, with a view of visiting all the heathen, to offer them the inestimable blessing of salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ. I rejoice exceedingly in this arrangement: it was a great desideratum. Our ecclesiastical machinery might be said to be now complete. May God graciously accept us, and bless the effort to his own glory in the salvation of many perishing souls!

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE.

Archdeacon Cockran has charge of the station of La Prairie. The majority of his charge are settlers. But he has also an Indian congregation. His annual Report has not been yet received.

WESTBOURNE.

The Rupert's-Land Corresponding Committee having authorised Mr. George to select a suitable station to the westward of Portage la Prairie, in order that access might be obtained to the Plain Indians, he chose, under the guidance of Archdeacon Cockran, a place called White-Mud River, about sixteen miles west of La Prairie. The Bishop desires to change the name to "Westbourne"—in commemoration of the first Missionary to Rupert's Land, the Rev. J. West. The station is very advantageously situated for fishing and for farming, a precaution essential for securing an Indian settlement. Mr. George commenced the station in July 1849. At the close of the year he writes—

I am thankful to report that what has been done up to this date is beyond my most sanguine expectations. My buildings have rapidly progressed, and the most satisfactory trait in my operations, is the gathering of many souls around me, and my success in gaining the respect and goodwill of heathen and Roman-Catholic Indians. For the most part there has, without intermission, been sixty souls residing. These now claim an inheritance in the soil. Our number will be greatly augmented in the course of time. My school, which I personally superintend, averages fourteen—a number not to be despised in the very first beginning of a new station. Five Indians with families have already applied for assistance in raising their houses and in opening farms. A Cree-Indian service is every Sunday well attended. Likewise, divine service in English is performed, for the benefit of the domestics and half-breed residents.

Out-stations.

Two out-stations are connected with the Red-River District—Islington to the east, and Fort Pelly to the north-west, beyond Portage la Prairie.

Islington is under the pastoral charge of a country-born Missionary, the Rev. Robert M'Donald, who reports a more than usual scarcity of food, and the consequent severe sufferings of the Indians during the last year. There is a church and school at the station. Mr. M'Donald reports—

The largest number of the congregation at any time during the last year has been forty. The Indians are very seldom all here together; and then they are not all present at either morning or evening service, but attend alternately. They are very serious and devout at all the services; and I hope that they are growing in that knowledge which maketh wise unto salvation. The school is making a little advance. In the day school the number of children is sixteen.

The heathen Indians are, I hope, gradually relaxing their adhesion to their own customs, and becoming more disposed to receive the Gospel. The increasing scarcity is producing in some of them a desire to cultivate the soil; and as they always associate Christianity with farming, they profess their willingness to give up themselves for religious instruction.

Fort Pelly and Qu' Appelle have been under the pastoral charge of the native minister, the Rev. J. Settee, who writes, at the close of the year 1859—

The Committee will be very sorry to hear that at both places there were great quantities of spirits used by the poor Indians, which of course stood a barrier in the way of their turning to our holy profession. How often have I heard the heathen say, "Take away the fire water, and I will learn to pray." This baneful article is still employed among them at this moment, which is a dagger to the Missionary's heart. The poor creatures who have been brought over from their heathenism to Christianity are without a Christian home; there is no settled place for them to resort to: they still are obliged to follow their relatives, and must be in danger of falling into a relapse of their heathen customs. Though I have not heard of any such case, it is very likely for them to be led into temptations. There have been fifty-three baptisms since I entered on this field of operation, whereof twenty-three are half-breed children, and thirty are pure Indians.

II. MANITOBA DISTRICT.

This district remains under the charge of the Rev. W. Stagg. The Mission station is called Fairford. Mr. Stagg writes at the end of the year 1859—

I am taught by experience to speak carefully of the people of my charge. The attendance of my people at the means of grace has been very regular and encouraging. I often feel strengthened with their regard for the Sabbath. A casual observer would undoubtedly feel, on entering our school chapel on the Sabbath, that my people are every thing I could wish them to be, and it is cheering to see them; but this is not enough. We want to see more sorrow for sin—more humility—more love—more faith. But I perhaps, like many others, expect too much from recent converts to Christianity. I forget the darkness they long remained in, and demand more of them than I, in proportion to the light I have enjoyed, render to God.

Our communicants are steady and consistent in their conduct, and would, I believe, bear comparison with the same number in any congregation at home; but this I know should not satisfy us, as it does not. We would see them live up nearer to the Gospel standard; and I earnestly beg the prayers of Christian friends on their behalf. Our dear friends should never forget our converts while they pray for the conversion of the heathen.

Our school goes on nicely. Mrs. Stagg and our kind fellow-labourer, Miss Thompson, have given much of their time to teaching the children; and I think we never had such good order and attendance before. The children live at home with their parents; and most of our girls having married, we have none in our house now but orphans, collected from Berens River. We are still obliged to assist the children who live at home in clothing, to enable them to attend decently at school, and also a little in food, not regularly, but at particular seasons, when it is difficult for the parents to procure fish.

I have made several Missionary journeys during the year. My journeys were all more or less encouraging. Everywhere I was listened to attentively, and met with a kind reception. I know that it takes up time, and the labour seems sometimes beyond endurance, especially in winter. And some ask, "What is the use of running about?" But I ask again what I ought to do? My conscience is burdened. The Committee have sent me to labour among "a people scattered and peeled," and shall I settle in my "nest," and wait till they come to me, (when will they come?) or shall I go forth in search of them? To visit the above places I travelled about 1000 miles, and the number of souls I saw was about 300.

The Bishop, on a voyage through Lake Winnipeg to visit Cumberland, fell in with Mr. Stagg. He thus recounts this casual interview—

He was on one of his errands of mercy, and seemed as happy and joyful as if he had found much treasure in having obtained five orphans and two widows on the other side of the lake. This precious cargo he had in his boat, and he was about to leave them at Jack-Head River (where there is a rich abundance of fish), go on himself to the Red River to purchase flour, and then pick them up on his return, and take them on for Christian instruction to Fairford. We had a most happy afternoon, having met so unexpectedly in the providence of God. He had a sail-wind, but seemed unwilling to move. We dined together, and then paced up and down the sandy beach until the evening drew on, when I said we could have prayers together with the two crews. It is always a pleasure to mark Mr. Stagg's earnest and warm-hearted piety: he has always his one great object before him—to win souls to the Saviour, and gain some orphans for his Home. His warmth and affectionate manner are very contagious, and he is a great favourite wherever he goes.

III. CUMBERLAND DISTRICT.

The Rev. E. A. Watkins has charge of the Cumberland Station. The Station Church is named Christ Church. There are two out-stations. The native minister, the Rev. Henry Budd, occupies the out-station of Nepowewin, and a native teacher that of Moose Lake.

It was intimated in the last Report that Mr. Watkins was disappointed, upon his arrival at this station, in the spiritual attainments of the people. In addition to this cause of depression, the past year has been one of peculiar trials. A failure of food, and of the supplies, which were lost in the "Kitty," together with other events, have obliged Mr. Watkins to devote nearly his whole time to secular employments, in order to secure the necessaries of life. Yet his journal exhibits evidences that a work of grace is going on around him; and a visit of the Bishop to his station, in the summer, has furnished the Committee with a more cheering view of the state of things than the report of the Missionary afforded. The Bishop writes—

June 28th was our sacramental day, and on it I had requested Mr. Budd to preach, that I might hear his voice in what was formerly his station for some years. He preached very earnestly and energetically, taking two separate verses from 1 Cor. xi. 24, 26, "This do in remembrance of me . . . For as often as ye eat this bread and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till He come." We then proceeded to the administration of the Lord's Supper. We were, in all, eighty-eight, but five of these were of my own crew: they must, therefore, be deducted, but there must be added a woman, in extreme weakness, who wished to receive it in private. This would make eighty-four; surely a goodly number to partake quite in the wilderness.

In the afternoon I held the confirmation, and had also an adult baptism. At the former forty were presented to me—fifteen young men and twenty-five young women.

Before proceeding with the account of the remainder of our trip, I would give expression to my unqualified delight and satisfaction with what I saw at Christ Church; I mean, as far as their minister and his excellent wife are concerned. I do not for a moment repent having brought them that long and toilsome journey of 1700 miles across country—nay, even more than that, of 2000, and somewhat more from Fort George—to where they are. They are in their right place, and that is a pleasure to feel. Whatever holiness and prayerful labour will do will be attempted for the people. And I trust their chief difficulties are over, and that they have now the affections of the people. The difficulty they feel at Cumberland as well as at English River, is the Indian problem, the means of subsistence, if the Indians are to be induced to live at one central spot. Mr. Watkins feels this deeply, and intends to keep always a stock in advance of ammunition and twine: these are the life of the Indian. He is also about to commence the teaching of the Syllabic system (for which many of the old have asked), to both old and young. The black board was ready for the purpose. Instead of the routine of daily prayer, which became very formal with them, he has divided the week; has one evening for a prayer-meeting, another for a Bible-class, a third for the Syllabic system, and so on. He is very conscientious, and very methodical; and this, with a deeply prayerful and humble tone of mind, will carry with them God's blessing. Souls will, I doubt not, be gathered in there, to the praise of the glory of God's grace, who shall call Him blessed in the day of Christ's appearing.

The native minister, the Rev. H. Budd, has occupied the out-station of Nepowewin throughout the year. The pastoral duties of the station have been diligently discharged, but the extreme difficulty of procuring sufficient food for his family, and for the support of the schoolchildren, has interrupted the Missionary excursions which Mr. Budd has been able in other years to undertake. He thus expresses his humble confidence in the providential supply of sufficient food, even in a time of extremity—

March 8—We have been preparing to-day for sending off the men again in search for a little more provisions. This is the only means of living within our reach just now. When this fails us we must be in great want. However, I am never much troubled when we get out this way. We have been in similar circumstances before now, but we have invariably found that some unseen hand was ordering these things for us, and providing our necessities for us in a manner which we know nothing of. Our heavenly Father has always provided, and we can surely trust Him for the future.

IV. ENGLISH-RIVER DISTRICT.

The Rev. R. Hunt and his family have passed another winter in this remote and inhospitable station. The scarcity of food, as in the other northern stations, has brought with it many additional trials, especially in the dispersion and distraction of mind of the Indians. The duties of the station have been, however, diligently attended to throughout the year; and two special events have rendered the past year memorable, namely, the visit of the Bishop to the station, and the admission into the Christian church of the first-fruits of the Chipewyan Indians.

The Bishop arrived at the station on the 9th July, the next day being Sunday, and remained till the Thursday following. He held a confirmation, at which twenty-two males and thirty-five females were confirmed. A large body of Chipewyans, with their wives and families, had come to meet and confer with the Bishop. The adults were not sufficiently instructed in the Christian faith, but their children were admitted into the church of Christ as the first-fruits of the tribe, and a pledge for the perseverance of the parents in seeking the same admission for themselves, when better prepared for an intelligent reception of the vows of the Gospel. The following are extracts from the Bishop's narrative of his visit—

It was a pleasure to see Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, after an interval of six years, and to find them still as ever occupied in doing good, unwearied in their attention to their flock, the sheep committed to them in the wilderness.

The Monday was to be given especially to the Chipewyans: it was called a secular day, and the conference with them was to be its feature, and yet that conference had partly a temporal, but, in a measure, a spiritual character too.

We met soon after ten A.M., and the sight was indeed a cheering one: not a handful of men or small deputation, but nearly fifty adults, with their wives and children, scattered through the church, the men on benches in front of us. It was rather tedious to conduct, as a double interpreter was necessary—the station interpreter on one part, to give it in Cree, and then the Beaver or Basilinné on their part, to report the Cree to them. The two leading chiefs spoke at length, and were followed by others. By proposing, however, a few leading questions, I found out that they were sent to ask for a minister—a minister of their own; that they would like him planted at the northern end of Deer Lake; that subsistence was easy among them, but that wood (for building) was difficult to procure; that they would like an interpreter sent for from Churchill, who understands both Cree and Chipewyan; and that they would point out James Denning's son as one who might suit.

I answered as fully as I could at the moment, and more fully at a second interview, that I could not at once promise them all that they wished, but that I would write home to the Society that sent out Mr. Hunt, to send out another minister.

With the Committee I would only use one argument, and allow it to have its due weight. I only wish that all the Parent Committee had been in my place, and heard the Chipewyans face to face. The result then would have been, I am convinced, that they would unanimously, without one dissentient voice, have acceded to the petition, and granted the prayer. Though absent,

I trust they will act in the same spirit, and send a Chipewyan Missionary.*

The church, when finished, will be by much the prettiest yet raised in Rupert's Land : it has a triple aisle, with rows of pillars separating the nave and aisles : the roof of the nave rises above the rest of the building, and has on each side five double lancet windows : there is a chancel, with a large eastern window, filled, as well as the other windows, with plain stained-glass. The tower has already attained some height. An octagon was raised upon it during my stay, and the steeple, which will surmount the octagon, and rise out of it, was all ready to be raised. It will make the entire height seventy-three feet, and the church will show to extreme advantage going up or down the river. The structure is plain and simple, but well planned in its details. In first seeing it I felt inclined to say, in the words of the poet—but remembering that it was only of wood, and thinking of the perishable nature of the material, I felt that I must recal the words. Were it of stone it would do perfectly for my own cathedral, and be almost all that I could desire. It is very creditable to Mr. Hunt's taste and patient toil ; and I would only add that the stained glass has been given by Mrs. Hunt and himself, who have besides contributed largely from their own means towards the erection.

“ A thing of beauty is a joy for ever ;”

The Bishop again alludes, as to his remarks upon the Cumberland station, to the great drawback upon the progress of the Gospel in Rupert's Land—

Difficulties at the two stations remain, nor would I conceal them ; but they are the universal Indian difficulties—the want of food, and the consequent inability to maintain the families around a central point. This is the Indian problem—the same throughout the land—which has still to be worked out, and requires much patient thought. The work is committed, I feel assured, into the hands of two men of God, whose “ pains and prayer ” will not be without some reward.

Mr. Hunt has given a very large amount of mental labour, to mould and adapt the Syllabic system to the cultivation of the Chipewyan language. In beauty and ingenuity it is deserving of the highest praise : perhaps at present it is a little too elaborate. Additional thought, and practical use of it, may yet simplify its details, and then he will be abundantly recompensed in seeing it effectual for its grand purpose, the dissemination of God's truth.

Mr. Hunt thus speaks of the progress of the Gospel at his station, in his annual letter at the close of the year—

* Mr. Smith was already on his way to join Mr. Hunt before this letter was received. See page 26.

The fact that there are ninety-four baptized Chipewyans in this little colony and church, proves that the people of this tribe, hunting N.E., N., and N.W. to a distance of from 400 to 500 miles hence, are receiving and welcoming religious impressions, and that through this extensive field their cry is, "Come over, and help us."

The Cree portion of our charge is in a much more advanced state. There is the blade, the ear, and the corn in the ear and a number of sheaves are safely garnered by the heavenly Husbandman. The tares also appear, and some plants that promised well up to an advanced stage, have been retarded by a time of trial, and in some instances the imperfect fruit in the ear has withered under a blighting influence.

V. MACKENZIE-RIVER DISTRICT.

The exploratory journey of Archdeacon Hunter, described in last year's Report, has resulted in the establishment of another Missionary District to the field of the Society's operations. The commencement of the year 1859 found the Archdeacon zealously discharging his Missionary duties at Fort Simpson, amongst the various tribes of Indians who visited that station, most of whom could be instructed by the aid of our interpreter in the Chipewyan language, named Cadieu. Many were admitted to baptism, for they proved to be a very simple and confiding race, by no means equal in intelligence to other tribes of Indians. Six or eight Romish Missionaries are amongst them, endeavouring to prejudice their minds against Protestant Missionaries, and to occupy their thoughts with the frivolities of image-worship; but here, as elsewhere in the Mission field, the word of God, intelligently received, is effectual to dispel the delusions both of popish and of pagan idolatry. When the Scriptures shall have been rendered into the Chipewyan dialect, and presented in the Syllabic character, our Missionaries will be furnished with the antidote of every error. To this work both Mr. Hunt and Mr. Kirkby are diligently applying themselves.

The Indians are indeed thinly scattered in these regions, probably not more than two or three thousand in a thousand square miles! They are now only the remains of nations, but they are living remains; and if it has been justly esteemed an enterprise worth much sacrifice of treasure and life to search through these very regions for the unburied bones of Franklin and his brave companions, surely the church of Christ cannot refuse to send forth its messengers to search out and to bring to life everlasting remnants of tribes dead in trespasses and sins, yet inviting us by a living voice to go over and help them.

Archdeacon Hunter remained at Fort Simpson till June 1859, and then returned to the Red River, Mr. Kirkby leaving the Red River at the same time to occupy for a few years this hyperborean outpost of Christian Missions. The following are extracts from the communications of Archdeacon Hunter—

Jan. 12—To day I baptized Du Nord and his family, consisting of himself, his wife, and five children, in all, seven persons, and also an aged Indian called Misère. Du Nord's wife was unable to be present; but I went to her tent and baptized her there, and her infant child, in his rabbit-skin bag for his baptismal robe. The water was nearly freezing on my fingers when baptizing them. The mother was called Mary, and the infant, James. This is the first party of Slave Indians whom I have baptized, the first-fruits, I trust, of an abundant harvest of souls.

March 7—Baptized two Nahannee Indians. It is quite pleasing to see the simple and childlike faith manifested by these Indians: they have few, or perhaps not any religious ideas of their own, and embrace the blessed doctrines of the Gospel—salvation through a crucified Redeemer—without any scruple or hesitation. They asked the interpreter to relate to them again and again the story of redeeming love, and kept him up the greater part of the night, hearing him and asking him questions. They were anxious to impress these glad tidings upon their memories, that, returning to their camp among the Nahannee mountains, they might relate to their friends the wonderful things they had heard. Thus the blessed seed of the Gospel will be sown far and wide, and awaken a spirit of inquiry among these widely-scattered tribes, leading them to flock to the Missionaries for further information and instruction.

I feel it a great privilege so far to have carried the tidings of the blessed Gospel down this mighty river, and thus to become a witness for Jesus “to the uttermost part of the earth.” May He graciously crown this feeble attempt with abundant success: for the first time, since the command was given to his disciples, has the Gospel been proclaimed here, and we cannot but believe and hope that He has many souls here which shall become jewels in his royal crown, who shall be built into the living temple of the living God, and be numbered among those who have “washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.” I cannot, I will not think that my visit thus far has been in vain, but will indulge the pleasing thought that I am only opening the way for others to enter in and reap an abundant harvest of immortal souls. Surely the time to favour these poor benighted Indians is come; surely these smiling faces I see around me will no longer be left in darkness, no man caring for their souls. They look all energy and intelligence, and listen gladly to the message of redeeming love. Surely we will never allow the idolatry and superstition of Rome to be chained around their souls, and the mark of the beast to be imprinted on their foreheads. Having advanced to this point, no thought of retreat must be entertained. We must not show our back to the enemy, but go straight forward and possess the land. I feel, however, that all events are in the keeping of our faithful and covenant God ; that in his gracious providence He has brought me here to proclaim his truth ; and I cannot but believe that He has purposes of love and mercy towards these poor benighted Indians, and that He will, in his own good time, raise up and send his faithful servants to preach among them the unsearchable riches of Christ. Labour is our's, results are his ; and I therefore leave all in his hands.

VI. YORK FACTORY.

The Rev. J. P. Gardiner is the Missionary in charge of this station. Being of only two years' standing, his command of the Indian language is not yet sufficiently perfect, and his duties at the station have not allowed of Missionary excursions. No special events are recorded in his communications.

VII. JAMES-BAY DISTRICT.

This district is assuming increasing importance by the extensive operations which are carried on by the two zealous Missionaries, the Rev. Messrs. Horden and Fleming, assisted by two catechists, Mr. Vincent and Mr. Mackay, engaged in the country. The press at Moose Fort has proved a powerful Missionary help, and the enterprising journeys of the Missionaries have brought the truth before numerous tribes and families of the wandering Indians. A great advance has been made during the last year towards the evangelization of the Esquimaux upon the East Main, by the laborious bodily and mental efforts of Mr. Fleming.

Mr. Horden thus alludes to his pastoral duties amongst the Indians, when writing about the translations of Scripture, and of the Prayer book which he had prepared in the Moose dialect—

These books, and the Prayer-book I have sent home, when printed, will provide the Indians with much of life-giving food. I dedicate all to God. In a desire to extend his kingdom they were undertaken, that the inhabitants of this quarter of the world may be able to read in their own tongue of the wonderful works of God ; that they may see what has induced the white man to pity their condition, what reason they have to fear and love God, the abundance of the mercies obtained through Christ, happiness below, happiness and eternal life above. I hope my spiritual children will be deeply grateful for all that is done for them, and that they may grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Many of them are now increasing in knowledge. They had first put into their hands the first Catechism by Dr. Watts, then the Bible and Gospel History; the Gospel by St. Matthew followed; and now the whole of the Gospels are printed for their use. Glory be to thee, O Lord!

May 22: Lord's-day—Our church was crowded with Indians: standing-room could scarcely be obtained. I addressed them in the morning from the ninth chapter of St. Mark, making them turn up with me the parallel passages in the other Gospels. Some of them experience a difficulty in doing this, as but a short time has elapsed since they obtained books containing the four Gospels; but many turn up any passage named with great readiness. The interest evinced was deep. At the afternoon service the sacrament was administered to fifty-three communicants: the communion was confined to the Indians.

In the month of August Mr. Horden paid his annual visit to Albany, where he met many Indians, and made the most of the few days which he could spend amongst them, by assembling them in classes for Bible instruction. He writes—

It gave me heartfelt pleasure to find that, during my absence, the Indian services have been conducted by the Indians themselves, with the same regularity and decorum as when I was present. They held two prayer-meetings during the week, and on the Sabbath regular church service was held, one reading the chapters from the Testament, and another the Litany, while the old chief addressed his brethren with energy and feeling on their duty as Christians to God and to one another. Seeing this, we thank God and take courage.

Mr. Fleming took a long and most arduous journey, in the month of March 1859, in order to meet the Esquimaux who come down from the Labrador coast. He travelled from Moose Fort, along the eastern shores of James' Bay, to the Great Whale River, from whence he wrote—

That I was glad to be at rest may be easily imagined, after a whole month's snow-shoe walking, and a walk of 500 miles. Twenty days I walked, each day a distance of from eighteen to forty miles; and eighteen nights I slept beneath the spangled heavens, under a temperature of from 10° to 37° below zero by Fahrenheit.

The Great Whale River post was next reached, from whence, after a few days' rest, our Missionary proceeded on his journey in a sledge, drawn by nine Esquimaux dogs, and thus Little Whale River was at length attained, where he met the Esquimaux. The census forwarded by him from this place contains the names of seventy-one families, numbering 430 persons, and of these Mr. Fleming saw 351, in little parties, for they were continually coming and going on their sleds; and earnestly did he occupy himself during the time of his continuance with them in communicating divine instruction.

I strove to explain to them how God extends pardon and forgiveness to the most guilty sinners who turn and repent of their sins, believing on Jesus. Oh! it is most painful to find them so attentive, manifestly desiring to hear more of the word of life, and yet be able to communicate with them in broken accents only. I cannot, however, but acknowledge the hand of God to be with me, for they have caught up my meaning in a wonderfully quick manner.

The great object of the Missionary was to teach them to read the syllabic characters, which in so short a time are learned, and then to place in their hands rolls containing the Lord's Prayer and Ten Commandments, and brief portions of Scripture, such as John iii. 16, 17, verses which most of them had learned by heart. After nearly four months' residence among them, during which we may trust much precious seed was sown in the hearts of these poor wanderers, our Missionary left, with many a chimo ("Good bye") from the Esquimaux.

For quickness and intelligence they stand far above the Indians. I gave two little books containing the Lord's Prayer, and commandments, and also a copy of the characters, to one in each family, that it might help to make them keep in mind what I have taught them until they come in again. They quite shouted for joy when they received them.*

FORT SIMPSON—SHORES OF THE PACIFIC.

The indefatigable Missionary, Mr. W. Duncan, continues his self-denying and solitary labours on the far west of America. It has been a matter of deep regret to the Committee that they have hitherto been unable to send a second labourer to this remote station. They are thankful to say that an ordained student at Islington has now been assigned to the station, and will shortly proceed to join Mr. Duncan.

British colonization on the coasts of the Pacific has brought this infant Mission nearer to the boundary-line of civilized man; but at present, as is too frequently the case, the result has been felt rather in respect to the hurtful than the ameliorating influences of civilization. Still the proximity of the new colony of British Columbia affords facilities for the prosecution of Mission work which did not exist previously, and, under God, may be made the means of sustaining the work.

Mr. Duncan has zealously and with much Christian wisdom, pursued the course of Missionary labours in the Indian camp described in the last Report, while residing in the Fort. The turbulent spirit of the heathen Indians, and the evils of intoxication have frequently excited bloody tumults, and at one time resulted in the destruction of the school-house. Amidst all these trials, Mr. Duncan has been sustained by the grace of God in his patient perseverance in well-doing. One extract from a very interesting journal will sufficiently exhibit the spirit in which Mr. Duncan discharges his arduous Mission—

These murders and riots are all tending very powerfully to awaken the minds of those who have been under instruction, and to wean them more and more from this place of darkness. I find many flock around me now to speak of their trouble, and they listen with much more attention and seriousness to the Gospel message. I have been for some time desiring to speak to the cannibal chief. To-day the opportunity was afforded me, and I had some talk with him. This man heads the most degrading superstition this people have got; but he is a young man, and has a noble look. It will be a hard struggle if he ever sets himself to escape from the meshes of that horrid custom which he has taken upon himself to perpetuate; but I hope and pray God may give him light and strength for the conflict, and bring him clothed and in his right mind to the feet of Jesus. He met my proposals very kindly, and promised to come under my instruction when he returns from a place whither he is going to purchase food.*

CONCLUSION.

YOUR Committee trust that this review of the past year's operations will confirm the conviction which has been expressed on many previous occasions, that a great and blessed advance of the kingdom of Christ is at hand, in all lands.

Your Committee have placed before you the testimony of many men of God, of large Missionary experience, who write from the spot their vivid impressions of the prospect spread before them. You have had evidence of a spontaneous vegetation, as it were, little bands of inquirers, "churches in the house," in spots where the foot of the Missionary had never trod. You have heard of the rapid extension of the Yoruba Mission in Africa, over new ground, and the invitations from the "regions beyond." And your Committee rejoice to be able to say that other kindred Societies, having the same object in view, have similar encouragement. Amidst these cheering prospects for Protestant Missions, we see the heavy hand of God upon Rome. She is permitted, indeed, to show her inherent spirit of aggression, and her power to hinder the work, but the restraint of God is upon her. These indications, taken in connexion with the general aspect of the world, and the word of prophecy, call upon the servants of God to "lift up their heads."

Under these solemn impressions your Committee invite your attention to the evidence which they have laid before you, that this Society was never so well prepared as now to meet coming events. Never before could they announce that the problem of a native ministry in India was solved. Never before could they announce that the New-Zealand native church had its indigenous ministry. Never before could they announce that a Mission had been opened, of great promise, solely by native agency, as in the case of the Niger, where European agency will only supplement a native pioneering ministry. Never before could your Committee speak with the same confidence of the efficiency of their Normal Training Schools, by which the Society is prepared to meet even a sudden expansion of the native church by the only element of stability—a sound scriptural vernacular education; whilst they rejoice to add that there are other Societies—such as the Christian Vernacular Education Society for India, and the Malta College for the Levant—prepared to strengthen and relieve this, and all other Protestant Missionary Societies in the work of Christian education.

and of enlarged opportunities, your Committee have anxiously considered what could be done for the perfection of their machinery, and for the more effectual disposition of their means and agency, at home and abroad.

But, in respect of fundamental principles, your Committee see no occasion for any deliberation. The Protestant and evangelical spirit which the founders of this Society infused, by the help of God, into its very constitution and framework, has stood the test of sixty years; that it has received a blessing from the Lord, and has won the confidence of the church of Christ, the present Report bears abundant evidence. The fundamental principles, to which your Committee specially refer are such as these—that the Lord will guide his own work by the leadings of a special providence:—that the only solid foundation of a Mission is the individual conversion of souls to Christ:—that the Gospel of the grace of God is to be preached, in its fulness, and in its distinctness, by the pioneer Missionary, and by the faithful Pastor of 10,000 converts, in the bazaar, under the shade of a tree, in the capacious Mission Church, in the Vernacular School, and in the Training College:—that a preached Gospel is “the power of God” for the formation and the perfection of a Mission:—that all other arrangements must give way to the fullest development of a preached Gospel:—that the preacher of the Gospel is the true leader of a Mission till a spiritual church is raised, and the external organization of constituted authorities becomes expedient:—that then the Mission has accomplished its work, and this Society will be ready to withdraw its agency;—though, as in New Zealand, it may be difficult on both sides to break the relationships which spiritual principles have cemented and consecrated.

These principles your Committee now transmit to their successors, uncompromised and unimpaired, to be the guiding star, in a shifting age, of every successive Committee of the Church Missionary Society.

* * * This mark * denotes that the Sermon was preached at St. Ann's, Blackfriars; this †, that it was preached at St. Bride's, Fleet Street; the Twenty-third was preached at Christ Church, Newgate Street; the Thirty-first at St. Sepulchre's; the Thirty-second at St. Clement Danes; and the Thirty-third at St. Andrew's, Holborn.

The Collections at the Sixteenth and subsequent Anniversaries include the sums contributed at the Annual Meetings.

NOTICE TO THE TREASURERS AND SECRETARIES OF ASSOCIATIONS.

THE Committee of the Church Missionary Society request the Treasurers or Secretaries of Associations to transmit the proceeds of their respective Associations, together with the Contribution Lists and Accounts, as soon after the close of their Financial Year as possible. The Lists and Accounts should be written legibly, to avoid mistakes in printing, and made up in the manner in which the same are printed in the Parent Society's Report. The Local Officers being appointed by the Associations, their names, as well as the date at which the Accounts of the Association are closed, should be specified. Where the Account or the List is a printed one, two copies should be forwarded.

The Committee would also point out, for more universal adoption, the convenience of a practice already very generally observed by Associations, of making remittances on account whenever any considerable proportion of the year's receipts is in the hands of the Local Treasurer. This practice, they have reason to believe, would be acceptable to many of their Contributors, and would tend to equalize in a greater degree the income and expenditure in the earlier months of the Society's Financial Year.

The Society's General Accounts are closed on the 31st of March, and all Moneys and Lists belonging to the year must be received at the Society's House by that date, in order to the Lists being inserted in their proper place in the Report.

The appending to the Annual Report of the Lists and Accounts of the Associations is a general acknowledgment to the Local Contributors that their Contributions have been received by the Parent Society; and the Committee are desirous of preventing the dissatisfaction which they are aware is occasioned by the omission of the Lists in the Report in consequence of the Money or the List having been received too late for insertion.

Where an Association has Branches connected with it, it is manifest that the Accounts of the Branches must be forwarded to the Secretary of the Association some time before the period for forwarding the Accounts of the Association to London. When this is not done within a reasonable time, such Branches should be considered as self-excluded, and the Accounts forwarded without them.

To prevent mistakes, it is requested that Branch Associations will in every case forward their Money and Lists through the Association with which they are connected, and not direct to the Parent Society.

The Committee return their cordial thanks to the Treasurers of Associations, and to those friends who kindly fill the office of Secretary—an office which, they are well aware, draws largely on the time and attention of those who occupy it, but on the efficient discharge of the duties of which the prosperity of an Association chiefly depends.

N.B. Benefactors of Ten Pounds and upward, whose Names have appeared in former Lists of the Associations, will now find them in the List of "Benefactions of former Years."
