STATIONS, MISSIONARIES, AND OTHER LABOURERS, MAY 4, 1869.

* By MISSIONARY, is to be understood one in Holy Orders; and by CATECHIST, one who engages in such religious care and instruction of the people as may be consistent with his character as a Layman. The letter (m) means Married.—Wives of Missionaries, &c., though not named, except when engaged in some specific employment, are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among Native Females; such as, cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing Female Adults.

A STATION, is the place at which a Missionary or European Catechist is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers sent from Europe show the date of their first leaving Europe.

The asterisk (*) denotes that the Missionary is on his way out. The mark (†) that he is on his way home.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS

OF THE

CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

I. THIS Institution shall be designated "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and shall be conducted by a Patron or Patrons, a Vice-Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a Committee, and such Officers as may be deemed necessary, all being Members of the Established Church.

II. The office of PATRON of the Society shall be reserved for such Members of the Royal Family as may honour it with their protection; and that of VICE-PATRON for His Grace the Primate of all England, if, being a Member of the Society, he shall accept the office. The PRESIDENT shall be such Temporal Peer or Commoner as may be appointed to that office; and VICE-PRESIDENTS shall consist of all Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, who, being Members of the Society, shall accept the office; and of such Temporal Peers and Commoners as, being also Members shall be appointed thereto.

OF MEMBERS AND GOVERNORS.

III. Annual Subscribers of One Guinea and upward, and if Clergymen, Half-a-Guinea, with Collectors of Fifty-two Shillings and upward per annum, shall be Members of the Society during the continuance of such Subscriptions or Collections. Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, Clergymen making Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying to the amount of Fifty Pounds, shall be Members for Life.

IV. Annual Subscribers of Five Guineas shall be Governors during the continuance of such Subscription; and Benefactors of Fifty Pounds and upward shall be Governors for Life.

V. Members and Governors of Associations who contribute the above sums shall be considered as Members and Governors of the Parent Society.

VI. The Committee shall have the power of appointing such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Members for Life, or Governors for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS.

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the First Tuesday in May; unless that day shall fall on the 7th of May, in which case the Annual Meeting shall be held, for that year, on Tuesday the 30th of April; when the Proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and a Treasurer and Committee chosen.

VIII. A Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a Quorum, shall be called at any time, at the requisition of the General Committee; or by any Thirteen Members, on addressing a Letter to the Secretary, specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in Three public Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Rules of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones established, but at the Annual Meeting, or at a Special Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the General Committee. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed, for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The Committee shall consist of Twenty-four Lay Members of the Established Church; and of all such Clergymen as are Members of the Society. Eighteen Members shall be annually appointed from the Old Committee, and Six from the General Body.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being Members of the Established Church), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds, a Committee of Correspondence, and a Committee of Accounts. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall report the same to the General Committee.

XIII. The office of the Committee of Patronage is, to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate, to the General Committee, proper persons as Patrons and Vice-Presidents of the Society.

XIV. The office of the Committee of Funds is, to circulate information respecting the Society; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as Agents for the Society in the principal Towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful; the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee; and Three, each of the others. In cases of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XIX. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, and President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, and Secretaries, shall be considered, ex-officio, Members of all Committees.

XX. Governors, being Members of the Established Church, shall be entitled to attend and vote at all Meetings of the General Committee.

XXI. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting.

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee, annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society, of whom, Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the Names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued: The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made, by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence, of his qualifications; and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next Meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least Three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a Special Meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot, to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose: respect, however, being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretaries.

XXIX. Each candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. That all questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between any Colonial Bishop and any Committee of the Society, shall be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the United Church of England and Ireland, whose decision thereupon shall be final.

XXXIII. That the object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as, in any other respect, to alter the principles and practice of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations, and explained in Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Report.

The proposed reference shall be made, through His Grace the Primate, by the Committee, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the Committee may deem advisable; and the Committee will be bound so to refer all questions, falling within the scope of the Rule so understood as aforesaid, which the Colonial Bishop shall require them to refer.

While all decisions of the Bench of Bishops on questions so referred will be considered by the Committee as binding on them and their agents or representatives, the Colonial Bishops or other Ecclesiastical Authorities, unless concurring in the reference, cannot properly be considered as so bound.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction, that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The following passage, from Appendix II. to the Thirty-ninth Annual Report illustrates the practice of the Society in reference to this Rule:—

"The Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] our Missionaries: these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same Colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church."

APPENDIX II. TO THE THIRTY-NINTH REPORT.

REFERRED TO IN THE NOTE TO LAW XXIX.

REMARKS ON THE CONSTITUTION AND PRACTICE OF THE
TO ITS ECCLESIASTICAL RELATIONS.

It is the object of the following Remarks to show, that the constitution and practice of the Church Missionary Society are in strict conformity with Ecclesiastical principles, as they are recognised in the constitution and practice of the Church of England.

Throughout the system of the Church of England there is a recognised co-operation of temporal and spiritual functions in MATTERS ECCLESIASTICAL; that is, the Laity and Clergy have not only their separate and distinct provinces, but, in many important respects, they unite their agency for the accomplishing of Ecclesiastical acts.

For instance, in supplying a vacant Church, a Lay-Patron selects and presents "his Clerk"—as the Clergyman is technically called—to the Bishop; who thereupon invests him with authority to minister in that Church. So, also, there are certain Lay-officers appointed to every Church—the Churchwardens or Sidesmen—whose duty it is, not only to guard, in conjunction with the Minister, the temporalities of the Church, but also to watch over the due performance of Divine Service, the morals of the parishioners, and the conduct of the Minister; and to report, from time to time, on each of these matters, to the Ecclesiastical Authorities. The duty of these officers is implied in the old appellation, "Sidesmen," or "Synodsmen"—men summoned to attend and give information at Synods and Visitations.

The distinction and co-operation of lay and spiritual functions in the Church of England might be further illustrated in the case of Ecclesiastical Courts, and various relations which arise out of the principle, that the Sovereign is the Supreme Ruler of the Church.

Keeping the foregoing distinction in view, the Church Missionary Society may be regarded as an Institution for discharging the temporal and lay offices necessary for the preaching of the Gospel among the Heathen. It is strictly a Lay Institution: it exercises, as a Society, no spiritual functions whatsoever.

Such being the constitution of the Society in theory—are its proceedings conducted in conformity with this theory, and with the Ecclesiastical principles of the Church of England?

In order to review these proceedings, they may be conveniently arranged under the FOUR following Heads:—

I. THE COLLECTION OF THE HOME REVENUE, AND THE DISBURSEMENT OF IT ABROAD.

These acts are altogether within the province of Laymen.

II. THE SELECTING AND EDUCATING CANDIDATES FOR MISSIONARY EMPLOYMENT.

In this department there is no necessary encroachment upon spiritual functions. The Colleges in our Universities are Lay-Corporations, and may, in many cases, be administered and presided over by Laymen.

Yet it may be urged, that in this department there is an approach to the peculiar province of Clergymen; because spiritual persons seem the more proper judges of a Candidate's fitness for Missionary employment: and it is generally admitted, that a Bishop may exercise a control over the education and training of Candidates to be advanced by himself to Holy Orders. Now, in both these particulars the Church Missionary Society has carefully guarded its proceedings. The examination of Missionary Candidates is referred to a Clerical Sub-Committee; and the General Committee consult and act upon the report of this Clerical trial and judgment. In respect of the other point, the education and training of Candidates for Holy Orders, the Church Missionary College at Islington has the sanction and approbation of the Bishop of London; who, in this country, admits to Holy Orders all the Society's Candidates: and his Lordship has repeatedly expressed his satisfaction at the results of the system of instruction, as they have been manifested in his examinations for Holy Orders.

III. The Third general head of the Society's proceedings is, THE SENDING FORTH, TO PARTICULAR STATIONS, THE MISSIONARIES THUS ORDAINED, OR OTHER CLERGYMEN WHO HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY ORDAINED.

Now, here an objection against the Society has been founded on the use of the term "sending forth:"—it sounds like an exercise of Ecclesiastical power. But, Ecclesiastically speaking, the Bishop of London "sends forth" every Missionary ordained by him. The Law of the land has sanctioned the Two Archbishops, and the Bishop of London, in ordaining persons to officiate abroad. The Secretary of the Church Missionary Society requests, by Letter, the Bishop of London to ordain, in conformity with the provisions of the Act of Parliament, such and such persons, whom the Society is willing to support in some Foreign Station. The Bishop, by the imposition of hands, gives them authority to preach the Gospel, with a view to their Foreign location.—In the case of persons already in Holy Orders, who may join the Society, they may be said to go forth by their own voluntary act; but their Letters of Orders, given by a Bishop of our Church, are their mission and commission, Ecclesiastically speaking.

Hence, to call the acts of the Church Missionary Society—in selecting the station, paying the passage-money, and agreeing to provide the Missionary's salary—to call these acts a SENDING FORTH of Preachers, in an Ecclesiastical sense, is to confound names with things, and to lose sight of all true Church principles.

IV. The Fourth general head under which the proceedings of the Church Missionary Society may be arranged, is, THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF MISSIONARIES IN THEIR LABOURS AMONG THE HEATHEN.

Here a distinction must be made between the case of those Foreign Stations which lie within the jurisdiction of a Colonial Bishop, and other stations, which are not so situated, and may therefore be termed Extra-diocesan.

In the first case, the Church Missionary Society has expressly determined, that all its ordained Missionaries shall be submitted for licence to the Bishop of the diocese in which they may be stationed; and that no Missionary shall exercise his spiritual functions in such diocese without a licence. The Society has further recognised the uncontrolled discretion of the Bishop to grant or withhold his licence, and the propriety of specifying in such licence a particular district as the field of labour; so that a Missionary cannot be removed from one district to another without the sanction of the Bishop.

These principles were stated in a Letter from the Society to the Bishop of Calcutta, signed by the Right Honourable the President—December 17, 1835—in a manner so satisfactory to the Bishop, that he embodied them in the four following Rules, expressed for the most part in the words of the Society's Letter: which were, at the Bishop's request, entered upon the minutes of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, as the recognised Rules of their practice:—

"1. The Bishop expresses—by granting or withholding his licence, in which the sphere of the Missionary's labour is mentioned—his approbation, or otherwise, of that location.

"2. The Bishop superintends the Missionaries afterward, as the other Clergy, in the discharge of their Ecclesiastical duties.

"3. The Bishop receives from those—the Committee and Secretary—who still stand in the relation of Lay-Patrons to the Missionary, such communications respecting his Ecclesiastical duties as may enable the Bishop to discharge that paternal superintendence to the best advantage.—The Archdeacon of Calcutta or Bombay acting under the Bishop's immediate directions when he happens to be absent.

"4. If the Bishop* or Archdeacon fills, at the request of the Society, the offices of Patron, President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, &c., he receives, further, all such confidential information, on all topics, as the Bishops officially neither could wish nor properly ask [to receive]."

The Bishop also wrote to the Parent Society in the following terms:—"You seem to me to lay down the principle most correctly..... This is to me perfectly satisfactory; as I shall instantly inform the Archbishop of Canterbury, to whom I report all the proceedings of the diocese."—9th June 1836.

It will be perceived, that the Missionaries, thus licensed, stand toward the Bishop in the relation rather of Stipendiary Curates, than of Beneficed Clergymen. For a Bishop in England cannot refuse a licence or institution to a benefice, without assigning a reason which will bear investigation before a Court of Common Law; nor can he deprive a Clergyman of his benefice without a judicial process. But no law has provided any such check in the case of Missionaries; the Bishop has the power of withholding a licence, or of withdrawing it, at his sole discretion, without assigning any cause, as in the case of Stipendiary Curates in this country.

If it be asked, What are the checks and safeguards against the undue exercise of this discretionary power of the Bishop?—it may be replied, in the words of the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Parent Society, April 12, 1837:—

"We are not to take for granted, that discretionary power will be abused; but, on the contrary, to provide, by a cheerful and friendly spirit and conduct, against the likelihood of such an occurrence. If the event of arbitrary conduct should arise, or be supposed to arise, the remedies are—public opinion—an appeal to the Archbishop—and the Society's refusing to make other appointments and locations than those unreasonably objected to. Nothing is the least likely—and probability is the guide of life—to arise to impede or cramp the Committee; since they unquestionably and avowedly possess, The choice of men—The appointment of spheres of labour—The temporal power, including pecuniary support."

* The Three Bishops of India, and the Bishop of Australia, are the Presidents of the Corresponding Committees in their respective dioceses.

But though the Bishop's licence is at once the pledge and proof that the Society's Missionaries are under Episcopal superintendence and jurisdiction, and that the spiritual oversight rests altogether with the Bishop; yet the Society may seem to some persons, to keep up a kind of spiritual jurisdiction and oversight, by requiring accounts from the Missionaries of all their proceedings, and by giving them directions, from time to time, which may bear upon their spiritual duties. But it must be remembered, that the Society stands toward its Missionaries in the relation of Trustees of the fund out of which their salaries are paid. In the case of a Beneficed Clergyman in this country, the Minister is the guardian and possessor of the temporalities of the benefice, because the benefice is an endowment; and the Patron has no further connexion with the Minister whom he has once presented to the Bishop. In our case, the office of Patron is, in a sense, perpetuated by the payment of the salary, and the possession of all the temporalities of the Mission.

This matter has been well explained by the Bishop of Calcutta, in a Letter to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, May 26, 1837:—"The Missionary Committees," says his Lordship, "have a far greater latitude in India than any Lay-patrons at home. Upon presenting his Clerk to the Bishop, the Patron at home is functus officio. The Clergyman is removed; on being once instituted and licensed, totally and for ever from the Patron, and is transferred to the superintendency of the Bishop. The Patron has nothing whatever more to do with him. But in India, the Committee is (1) the continued paymaster of the Missionary after he is duly licensed;—for institution and induction there are none. (2) They correspond with him. (3) They supply him with Catechists. (4) They report his chief proceedings home. (5) They propose removals and changes of Station to the Bishop. (6) They exercise, unavoidably, an influence which does not belong to the mere Lay-Patron; and are aiding, in a variety of ways, to the comfortable and honourable discharge of the Missionary's most exalted and most spiritual duties."

It remains to consider the case of those Stations which are Extra-diocesan; i. e. where there is no Colonial Bishop of the Church of England having jurisdiction over them.

In these cases, the Society has endeavoured to procure for such Stations the benefits of the Episcopal office from the nearest Bishop of the Church of England. Application was made by the Committee both to the late and to the present Bishop of Madras to extend, as far as circumstances would admit, these benefits to the Mission of Travancore; which as an independent state, not forming part of the British Dominions, was not included in the diocese of Madras. A similar application was made, on behalf of the New-Zealand Mission, to the Bishop of Australia; who at once acceded to the request, and kindly promised to visit New Zealand as soon as his other duties would permit; stating, in a Letter to the Society's representatives at Sydney, "It is highly satisfactory to me, that our friends at home are taking a view of these things which proves them to belong, not only to a MISSIONARY, but also to a CHURCH Society." (See Annual Report, 1838.)

Such is a General View of the Constitution and Proceedings of the Church Missionary Society.

It is not intended to assert, that errors are not sometimes committed in the application of these principles to matters of detail. It must be remembered that Missionary operations are, alas! new and anomalous in the system of the Church of England; and that it is not always easy to draw a definite line between the two provinces which belong respectively to the Bishop and the Committee. It has been observed by the Bishop of Calcutta—Letter, May 28, 1837: "The boundaries of the power of Committees, as they approach to those of the Bishop, can be ascertained, in many points, only by time and observation." Perplexities have consequently occurred; and, unhappily, misunderstandings have sometimes arisen between the Representatives of the Society abroad and Ecclesiastical Authorities. But these are the principles by which the Home Committee have endeavoured to guide the proceedings of the Society: and they confidently respond to a sentiment expressed by the Bishop of Calcutta—"The principles of our new relations are now fully recognised: the details will soon find their level."—Letter, 9th June 1836.

In reviewing the Ecclesiastical relations of the Church Missionary Society, there are two or three points which it seems very important to notice.

1. Missionary operations, as they are conducted by the Church Missionary Society, though apparently anomalous in the system of the Church of England, are yet in strict conformity with its constitution and principles: they are analogous to many other instances of voluntary exertion for the extension of true religion within the Church, in which Ecclesiastical authority and lay co-operation unite for the accomplishment of the same end: so that these operations may be regarded as the acts of the Church of England, putting forth its energy for the Conversion of the Heathen World. For it has been shown, that the Bishops of the Church, under the authority of the law of the land, ordain and send forth our Missionaries—that these Missionaries are licensed and superintended abroad, in every case where it is practicable, by Colonial Bishops of the Church of England; as are the other Clergymen of the Church officiating in the same colony. The Services which the Missionaries perform are in strict conformity with the Ritual and Discipline of the Church. Even in the few cases in which Lutheran Clergymen are employed, this rule is observed; and all the congregations which are gathered into the fold of Christ are trained up as Members of the Church established in this land.

And here it may be observed, that nothing less than the sanction of a duly-assembled Convocation can more fully identify the acts of any Missionary Society, within the Church of England, with the Church.* Without such sanction, all associations of Churchmen must stand in the same position. Still further, not to notice the present abeyance of Convocations, it may be asserted, that even if the Church were to assemble in her provincial Convocations, and to decree and to regulate Missionary operations, such proceedings could not essentially add to, or alter, those important particulars which, under present circumstances, entitle the operations of the Church Missionary Society to be regarded as Missionary operations of the United Church of England and Ireland.

2. It must be ever borne in mind, that Missionary operations are, in their very nature, temporary and preparative;—that they are to be gradually but eventually superseded by a different order of things, when the Heathen Nations shall have become Christianized. In some cases, as in the West Indies, this change is further advanced than in others. Now, it must be expected, that in proportion as this change advances, difficulties and perplexities will arise in our Ecclesiastical relations, peculiar to this TRANSITION STATE—from Missionary operations, to that happy consummation when there shall be an endowed and established system of Christian Instruction, and a territorial division of Ministerial labour. This consummation the Church Missionary Society has ever kept in view, and devoutly desired; and, as far as possible, has prepared for its approach. In an interview with the Bishop of Barbadoes—April 1835—this point was expressly alluded to; and it was stated by the Committee to his Lordship, "that whenever a district should be brought into the state of an organized Christian community, it should assume entirely the Parochial form, and cease to be occupied as a Missionary Station.—The Bishop entirely acquiesced in this view; and only expressed his anxiety that it should not be so acted upon as prematurely to deprive a district of the Missionary's services."—(Extracts from Committee's Minute.)

3. Lastly, it must be evident, from a review of the whole subject, that our Ecclesiastical relations depend, in many important respects, upon a mutual confidence and good understanding between the Committee and its representatives, and the Ecclesiastical Authorities both at home and abroad. This must be the case, to argue upon no higher grounds, while those relations are governed by Ecclesiastical laws and canons made without reference to Missionary operations, for an Established Church in a Christian country; and where so much is also necessarily left to the discretion of both parties. If we look to our Home operations, the Committee places confidence in the Bishop of London, that he will continue to ordain the Missionary Candidates introduced to his Lordship by the Society, according to the provisions of the Act: and the Lord Bishop of London relies upon the Committee's using every means to select, train, and duly qualify proper Candidates to be thus introduced to him.

So, also, in its Foreign operations, the Society places confidence in the Colonial Bishops—as it has been already shown, in a quotation from the Letter of Bishop Wilson—that they will not exercise an unreasonable or arbitrary discretion, in withholding or withdrawing licences from our Missionaries, or in refusing ordination to our Candidates. And the Bishops, by granting licences and ordination to the Missionaries of a voluntary Society, whose income is liable to fluctuations, and whose agents are constantly changing, manifestly place confidence in the Committees, that they will use every endeavour to keep up the Missions once established; and that they will not, on their part, act in an unreasonable or arbitrary manner, or withdraw the salary from a licensed Missionary, without reason sufficient to prove to the licensing Bishop the necessity of the proceedings.

It seems impossible to supersede this conventional understanding—as it may be termed—till Missions are supported by endowments, or till a code of Missionary canons be established by competent authority.

This mutual confidence and good understanding now exists, it may be thankfully asserted, between the Committee of the Society and the Ecclesiastical Authorities of every Colonial Diocese in which Missionaries are labouring. And may He, who is the God, not of confusion, but of peace, and "the great Shepherd and Bishop of Souls," unite together the hearts and hands of those who are labouring in this Holy Cause—"that all and every of these may, IN THEIR SEVERAL CALLINGS, serve truly and painfully, to the glory of His name!"

February, 1839.

* The American Episcopal Church has, in Convention, thus identified itself with a Missionary Society.

AT the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Exeter Hall, Strand, on Tuesday, May 4, 1869, being the Seventieth Anniversary—

Right Hon. and Most Rev. HIS GRACE THE LORD ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY, Vice-Patron, in the Chair, succeeded by

ONE OF THE SECRETARIES,

On the Motion of the LORD BISHOP OF RIFON, V.P., seconded by JAMES BATEMAN, Esq., and supported by LORD FITZWALTER, V.P., it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report, of which an Abstract has now been read, be received, and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of the Meeting be given to the Rev. William Harrison for his Sermon before the Society last evening; to His Grace the Vice-Patron; to the Right Hon. the President and the Vice-Presidents; and to all those friends who, during the past year, have exerted themselves in its behalf; and that the following Gentlemen be appointed the Committee for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies.—[See List, p. iv.]

On the Motion of the RIGHT REV. BISHOP RYAN, V.P., seconded by the REV. W. G. COWIE, D.D., Bishop Designate of Auckland, New Zealand, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That while the general aspect of the Society's Missions is full of encouragement, the growth and development of the Native Church, especially as seen in the resumption of Christian worship in Abeokuta without European assistance, and in the great increase in the Native Ministry in Tinnevely and other parts of India, is a cause for devout thanksgiving to Him from whom all success comes, and may be regarded not only as an ample return for the exertions which have raised an income adequate to expenditure, but also as a call for the continuance of those exertions, in order that the Society may extend its operations in every Mission, and may endeavour to attain on the East Coast of Africa that Missionary success among liberated slaves which has been gained on the West Coast.

On the Motion of the REV. G. E. MOULE, M.A., Missionary from China, seconded by the REV. J. RICHARDSON, Vicar of St. Mary's, Bury St. Edmund's, it was

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That, reviewing the history of the Society's Missions, now extending over seventy years, and having regard to the facts which, in every part of the world, show that the Gospel is still "the power of God unto salvation," this Meeting recognises, in the Society's success among men of different races and countries, the duty of proclaiming, in all its fulness and simplicity, that "truth as it is in Jesus," which the Apostles preached, which the Reformation again affirmed, and of which God's Word written is the infallible witness.

At a Second Meeting, held in Exeter Hall, on the Evening of the same Day—

SIR THOMAS FOWELL BUXTON, Bart., in the Chair,

Addresses were delivered by Joseph Hoare, Esq., the Rev. W. W. Kirkby, Missionary from Fort Simpson, Rupert's Land; and the Rev. J. McConnel Hussey, M.A., Vicar of Christ Church, Brixton.

ISAIAH LII. 14, 15.

“AS MANY WERE<sup>a</sup> ASTONIED AT THEE; HIS VISAGE WAS SO MARRED MORE THAN ANY MAN, AND HIS FORM MORE THAN THE SONS OF MEN: SO SHALL HE SPRINKLE MANY NATIONS.”

BEHOLD the compensations of Christ! the reward of the travail of His soul! the fulness of the emptying of Himself! To Him alone were these words fully intelligible; for not even yet is their comprehensiveness understood. But they are a precious tradition for His Church, and a seed of unfailing trust and hope for His people through all time. What impression they made upon the Prophet into whose mind they were breathed by the Spirit of Christ we cannot tell. But doubtless they were one of those testimonies “beforehand of His sufferings and of the glory which should follow,” which set him upon inquiring and searching diligently, “what and what manner of time the Spirit which was in him did signify.” That he had his answer and satisfaction we may gather from the statement of St. Peter. To us, however, has been more fully revealed what by the Prophets was but dimly seen; for the main teaching of the first Christians consisted in the verification of the Old Testament. The Lord Himself had set the example when, in converse with the two Disciples on the road to Emmaus, “beginning at Moses and the Prophets, He expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself.” The same plan was followed by Philip the Deacon in dealing with the subsequent portion of this very passage of Isaiah, and by St. Paul in his reasonings with the Jews. It is well that Christians in this day should be reminded of this ; and that they should remember how the interpretation of the facts of the Gospel appeals in the first place to the predictions of the Old Testament ; for the assaults which are made upon the veracity and inspiration of the Old Testament are really designed against the New. But the history of the latter is but the fulfilment of the predictions of the former.

We may well go back, then, to these founts of Gospel history when we want to refresh our spirits in the Missionary cause ; for were they not the sustaining cordials of Him who came to fulfil them ? When He sighed at the hardness of men's hearts, or marvelled at their unbelief, is it improbable that He should have taken comfort from the anticipations of His own servants ? And as His time drew nearer, and He found it needful to prepare the minds of His Apostles for that which was to befall Him, may not the very words of our text have come over His soul again and again to strengthen it for the last and most critical of His conflicts ? Let us approach them in a spirit of devout attention. Their teaching and application may be brought out under the following points—

I. THAT THE PERSON TO WHOM THEY REFER WAS TO OFFER A PARADOX TO MERE HUMAN REASON.

II. THAT HE WAS NEVERTHELESS TO BE THE SIN-PURIFIER OF THE HEATHEN WORLD AS WELL AS OF ISRAEL.

III. THAT THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS NOT ONLY, THEREFORE, A WARRANT FOR ITS DESIGNS, BUT A DISTINCT ENCOURAGEMENT TO PURSUE THEM.

I. Had it not been for the predictions of the Old Testament what would have been the difficulties of the New ? We see the perplexities of such men as Nicodemus, nay, even of the Apostles themselves. But they were all anticipated by a previous revelation. Six hundred years before they were felt by them they were declared by Isaiah—"Many were astonished at Thee. Who hath believed our report ?" Hence the importance of that witness which the Spirit of Christ had previously borne. The veracity of the Old Testament was engraved on the faith and affections, nay, even on the very corruptions of the Jew. He made his boast of the law and built the sepulchres of the prophets. When, therefore, the appeal was made from the difficulties of the Gospel to the testimony of the Old Testament, the first Christians had a platform of credibility on which to take their stand, and their faith was justified by their experience. Yet this was only one part of the difficulty. A higher and deeper power than that of outward testimony was needed. The Apostle Paul states this in the opening chapters of his first Epistle to the Corinthians. In the second chapter he gives us one of the profoundest and most humbling statements of the cause of the objections which men felt respecting Christ. In it he reveals the special character of the difficulty.—“The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God; for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.” In other words, it is not in unregenerate human nature to receive the Gospel. In spite of his Scriptures, it was a stumblingblock to the Jew. In spite of his vaunted philosophy, it was foolishness to the Greek. Hence that remarkable use of terms in the first chapter, where, with a divine irony, the Apostle speaks of the “foolishness” and “weakness” of God, and contrasts it in its results with the wisdom and might of man. The necessity for these chapters has not ceased; for the paradox of Christ is more than ever rejected by the wisdom of the natural man, though continually accepted by the foolishness of faith. It will be instructive to pursue this question.

Let us observe, then, that Christ was to be a paradox to the natural man in His person, His circumstances and His death. The Prophet’s language is very strong. It represents a state of feeling in which the shock of disappointment mingled with disgust overpowers the mind of the Jew at being told that the “Man of sorrows” was his long-expected Messiah. And it must be borne in mind, that not only had the Jew naturally enough anticipated that his coming Deliverer was to be a glorious Person, but that he had a warrant for his expectation. Could he not point to the 2nd and 110th Psalms? Could he not ask who was to be that other Prophet like unto Moses, but greater? Might he not, on the authority of the Rabbins, and more particularly on that of the Targum, claim for his Messiah the titles of "WONDERFUL COUNSELLOR, THE MIGHTY GOD, THE EVERLASTING FATHER, THE PRINCE OF PEACE?" Might he not claim that He should sit on David's throne, and that of the increase of His government there should be no end? True that the mistake which he made was in respect of the nature of this glory and empire. But the natural man, whether Jew or Gentile, could not receive that which, on the very face, seemed to contradict both the letter and the spirit of prophecy. When, therefore, Christ appeared on the scene so different in person and circumstances from what had been expected, there was aroused against Him a revulsion of feeling which neither His miracles nor His character could remove. The Jew was angered at the contrast. Hence his contemptuous treatment of the man; hence his rejection of His divine mission; hence the question—"Have any of the rulers or of the Pharisees believed on Him? But this people who knoweth not the law (that is, what the true Christ is to be like,) are cursed." Of the disfigurement of the Saviour's Person we have no mention until the closing day of His earthly work. But there is a wise reason for all absence of personal descriptions. For what would have been the almost provocation to an idolatrous representation of Him had they been recorded? We can gather the meaning of such passages as our text from inference alone. The sojourn of a pure and spotless humanity in a world of sin must have been depressing to it beyond all conception of ours. The abhorrence which the divine nature must necessarily bear towards evil must have had its counterpart in His perfect manhood; and the greater His love for the Father, the greater must have been His anguish at contact with human ingratitude. Let us take one description of His chief characteristic. The Prophet calls Him "a Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." Can we believe that this was only a characteristic of His mind? Did He not often weep in secret? Could he have witnessed the developement of evil in a generation more abominably wicked than the nation had ever been—a generation so bad that the Spirit of God asks, "Who shall declare it?" and yet not have felt it more acutely than Moses or Elijah did? And if He felt it, as we know He did, must not the eye, the cheek, the very frame have testified of the suffering? No wonder that the Prophet says, "His visage was so marred more than any man, and His form more than the sons of men. We hid, as it were, our faces from Him: He was despised, and we esteemed Him not." Now there is nothing more foreign to an unregenerate mind than to mourn for sin, especially the sins of others, because it is not only the comparatively upright who alone can do so, but because the mind of a true mourner connects all sin with the claims of God, and sees the offence in its relation to His holiness and love. The world, therefore, neither comprehends nor tolerates such a spirit. The very sacredness of the grief is hateful because it condemns it. But we should miss the deep teaching of the Saviour's griefs if they were limited to this. Jesus Christ was more than jealous for the honour of His Father. He was mourning for sin in connexion with His own responsibility. As the elder brother of mankind, taking upon Himself the blame and the condemnation of His brethren, He mourned for their rebellion against His Father and their Father as they could not mourn. His tears, His supplications, His intercessions were those of a sinless and obedient son deploring the sins of his family and pleading for their pardon. In their stead He wept. For their inadequate repentance He repented, and confessed their iniquities as His own more than an Ezra or a Daniel could. Here is the paradox of substitution, which was only seen in its full measure when His Person became the object of violence and death. If there were perplexing appearances, occasioned by His miracles, which caused the Jews to come and say, "How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ tell us plainly," the bruised face, the torn beard, the lacerated back and the fainting steps, followed as they were by those cries of anguish, must have dispelled what seemed to be an illusion, and have confirmed the national mind in the conviction that the sentiment uttered by some of them was true, "He deceiveth the people."

But whatever may have been the difficulty as regarded the person of our Lord, it was yet greater as regarded His circumstances. Born in a state of poverty and among the ranks of the artisans, a country carpenter's reputed son, Himself working at His earthly father's trade, who would have naturally realized His true condition, even though it had been known that He was born in Bethlehem and that He was of the house and lineage of David? True that the very prophecy which announced the place of His birth spoke also of His being smitten on the cheek with a rod, although His goings forth were from everlasting. But what was his own comment on the declaration of Peter when He asked, "Whom say ye that I am? Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona, for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father which is in heaven." Therefore we cannot wonder that the Jews should say at one time, "We know this man whence He is, but when Christ cometh no man knoweth whence He is;" or at another, "We know that God spake unto Moses, but as for this fellow we know not from whence He is." They could not get over the fact of His low estate in spite of the unaccountable wisdom which He displayed. "From whence hath this man these things? and what wisdom is this which is given unto Him, that even such mighty works are wrought by His hands? Is not this the carpenter?" and at another time, "How knoweth this man letters having never learned?"

But if the Person and Circumstances of our Lord were inexplicable, what was to be said of His Death? How the Apostles felt about the closing events may be seen from some of their remarks in the Gospels. Our Lord found it needful to prepare their minds repeatedly. How often did He use such language as this—"Let these sayings sink down into your ears; for the Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men?" On one occasion, indeed, Peter takes his Master to task for the statement. Compare, then, the answer of the people when He told them, "I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." "We have heard out of the law," they reply, "that Christ abideth for ever; and how sayest thou, The Son of man must be lifted up! Who is this Son of man?" Certainly we must conclude that the death of Christ was a paradox to human reason. For is there not a deep truth couched under the prophet's statement, namely, that it represents not a mere revulsion of disappointed feeling, but a fixed hereditary principle of antagonism to the holiness of God and the humbling disclosure of its own condemnation. It is not the Jew alone who is shocked at it. Every soul that looks upon Christ with eyes unenlightened by faith is equally scandalized. It would shock the feelings of such a congregation as this were I to quote the language of some modern pens in reference to the doctrines derivable from the death of Christ. But there is more than enough to show the bitterness with which the natural heart regards a remedy for its evils which contradicts its prejudices. If, however, we look at the passionate efforts which many modern writers have made to get rid of the Atonement, of the imputation of our sins to the Sin-Bearer and of His Righteousness to us, we may see the temper of the Jew and the pride of the Greek as clearly aroused against the cross of Christ as it was when St. Paul wrote to the Corinthians. Nay, let us but turn for a moment to the archives of our own minds, and ask what was the meaning of one or another difficulty and objection which we felt respecting the grounds of our own acceptance with God, and surely we shall come upon some humiliating memories. Shall we not find a deadly pride lurking beneath the folds of a lying humility? Shall we not see that, for the most part, our real hesitation arose not from a jealousy for the honour of God, but from our reluctance to admit the completeness and sufficiency of the death of Christ?

Yet how beautiful and affecting is the latent contrast between the humiliation of Christ and its blessed results! While He is "stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted," the really guilty are able to sing for joy. The very earthly condition of every nation is heightened in its comforts and enjoyments. He, who had not as much as the foxes and the birds, purchases houses and lands for His people. Every Mission among savage tribes is marked with this same result. It has been the fashion of late to say that civilization paves the way for the Gospel, whereas the very converse is the truth. Christ never had a deadlier foe than the sensualism of Rome, nor a more resolute persecutor than the accomplished and philosophic Marcus Aurelius. It is the Gospel which has transformed hordes of savages into civilized communities, which has erected comfortable homes and taught the arts of life. It is the sufferings and sorrows of its great Teacher which have made the wilderness to blossom as the rose. It has been well and truly said therefore—

“Every form of progress immediately ranges itself under the banner of the Gospel, owing it allegiance as being its product. Of course social truth is not the first object of revelation : the work of God does not begin with such matters, and would not be really of God if it did ; but social truth follows in its train with all the others, for religion embraces the whole life. Everything great, beautiful and good belongs to Christ, and is realized as a virtue going forth from Him when the world has been made ready for it.”

Thus has the “foolishness,” of God proved itself to be wiser than men, and the “weakness” of God stronger than men. For hath not God chosen the things which the world calls “foolish” to confound the wise, and the things which it calls “weak” to confound the things which are mighty ? The world, whether Jew or Gentile, is alike scandalized by the Gospel, and makes violent attempts to escape from its own condemnation. On the one hand it would build up by its side a fabric of righteousness which it seeks to incorporate and identify with that of Christ. On the other, it would rase to the ground that only real refuge for sinners, Christ’s meritorious fulfilment of that inflexible law, so glorious in its perfections and so inexorable in its judgments, yet satisfied and exhausted on His cross. Thus, also, the extremes of Jew and Gentile unbelief meet, as they will continue to do more and more, until they are fused into one, the Antichrist of the last times. But to them that believe is realized the truth so strikingly stated by a late eloquent French preacher—“All the seeds of life and regeneration are sown in sorrow and in death.”

II. But though an object of astonishment and offence to mere human reason, the Lord's servant was to deal prudently; nay, He was to be exalted, and extolled and to be very high; for He was to be the Sin-Purifier of the heathen world, as well as of Israel. "So shall He sprinkle many nations." The sprinkling is both an allusion and a fulfilment to the blood-sprinkling of the temple sacrifices. Its best and truest interpretation is in the statements of the Apostles Paul and John, when the former says, "If the blood of bulls and of goats sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh, how much more shall the blood of Christ purge your conscience?" and the latter declares, "The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin. And He is the propitiation for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world." Let us contemplate the fact.

Of all the wonders of the mind of God, that of saving sinners by the death of Christ is the most wonderful. It is a maxim of human pride to wonder at nothing. But, if we mistake not the one theme of endless admiration and of pure astonishment throughout eternity will be the work of Emmanuel. Creation offers nothing to compare with it. Magnitudes are magnitudes, distances are distances, compositions are compositions; but they are, after all, but questions of relation. The great and the small, the much and the more, are relatives. They fill us with delightful surprise or with the solemnity of awe. But what can be said of JESUS CHRIST? Where is the point of comparison, where the standard of measurement for Him? Can we compare the thing made with the maker; the clay with the potter? Can we measure the mind of the architect with the size of the building? Jesus Christ is Himself the maker, the mind, of the universe; and it is His work which will be the food of our wonderment for ever; not indeed the work of His hands or of His lips, but the work of His heart, the revelation in Him of the love of God towards men. In plain words, it is the love of Christ in becoming man, in adopting the brotherhood of the human family, and, with it, all its sorrow and guilt; in accepting the charge and responsibility of sin; in offering, in the name of His brethren, the compensation of repentance, suffering, obedience and expiation in His own sole person to the Father—it is this which will one day and for ever make every creature which is in heaven, and on earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, break forth again and again into this song. “Blessing and honour and glory and power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.” And shall we not to this say even now, “Amen?” Shall not we, as the humble attendants upon His Missionary progress, rather perhaps as the honoured, privileged workers unto His kingdom—shall not we say this very night, “Amen?” For this is but the foretaste of what is coming. He has sprinkled many nations already; but the day is coming when He shall sprinkle the whole world. It was to Jewish hands that He entrusted this wondrous baptism at first. To the same hands it will be restored in His own time. But for the present the charge is ours. Let us weigh it with trembling.

“So shall He sprinkle many nations.” This is the trust which He has committed to His Church, “Go ye and baptize.” But the baptism of blood must precede that of water; for how shall they be baptized with water who have not so much as learned to call upon His name? We follow in Apostolic steps. The nations are to be sprinkled by the preaching of Christ crucified. By this means, and by this alone, did the first Missionaries of the Gospel persuade men. This showed them what they needed, and awoke the hunger of their famished hearts, and forced out the cry, “What shall we do?” It mattered not what the condition of the hearer was. Jew or Greek, Barbarian, Scythian, bond or free—to each, to all, the message was the same. So, then, whether Paul were addressing the men of Athens or the barbarous people of Melita, he could say no more than he did to the jailer at Philippi, “Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved.” This was the sprinkling which attracted and awakened, which converted and cleansed. It was the declaration of the amnesty of God’s love to mankind, inviting all men without distinction to partake of its blessings. It was the announcement of a full, free, and present salvation, with no other condition attached to it beyond that of a willing faith. It was the renewal of that promise of remission of sins followed by the sanctification of the sinner through the power of the Holy Ghost, which was first proclaimed by the Prophets Jeremiah and Ezekiel. "After those days, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts, for I will forgive their iniquity, and remember their sin no more." It was the blessed doctrine of justification by faith without works and before works, the assurance that "to him that worketh not, but believeth on Him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness." It was the call to a new life and a new service; a spiritual life emerging out of a death to sin, and a service of perfect freedom in place of a service of bondage; of service to a living, loving Father instead of bondage to Satan, the world and the flesh. This was the commission of the Apostles. Thesame is ours; and we can neither add to nor diminish from it. Ceremonies may be adopted or changed, but the doctrines and principles of the faith once delivered to the saints can never be changed without the forfeiture of truth. For, whence the spring of its power? It is the blood of Christ, the fact that He died for the ungodly, and that He offered on the cross a full, perfect, and sufficient sacrifice, oblation and satisfaction, for the sins of the whole world.

This is the fact which permeates the whole cycle of revelation. It is the life blood of every truth which Christianity has brought into the world. Hence the intense significance of that rite which is both the symbol and epitome of the Gospel. Jesus Christ perpetuates not only the history, but the power of His death, in the Holy Supper; for just as His death was but the top stone of all His work, so the Supper is but the concentration of all the truths of the Gospel. Yes! Christ crucified is the fundamental fact and truth and summary of Christianity. It is that sun from which stream the innumerable rays of duty and love, which gild the dark passages of human life and nourish it with their warmth. But for it, what a cheerless prospect would existence be! Can this fact, therefore, be too often repeated, too vividly portrayed? Certainly the Apostles must have preached it very plainly when one of them could say of his preaching, that by it Jesus Christ had been evidently set forth before the eyes of his hearers, "crucified among them." If, then, we wish to produce the fruits of the Gospel, we must begin with the Gospel. First the root, then the fruit. First the motive, then the practice. First the doctrine, then the precept. To preach practical Christianity without doctrinal teaching is like putting a spade into the hand of a corpse and bidding it work. Christ crucified is the only constraint to Christian obedience. It behoves us, then, to remember, that in all our efforts to convert men to Christianity, this fact must be the basis of our operations. Let any other be put in its place, and the human conscience will remain unmoved and uncleansed; for what is to unseal the fountain of human love, and to make it flow towards its rightful object? In vain shall we follow the example of the Romish Missionary, and seek to Christianize men by the baptism of water. In vain shall we number our converts by thousands as a Xavier did. We should not advance one step towards the fulfilment of the text. The name might be there, but not the thing. At the best it would be a skeleton Christian, not a living, breathing one. Hear what an independent witness, an officer in Her Majesty's Navy, says of the results of the teaching of Romish Missionaries—

"The sole result of their residence among them (the Indians of the West Coast of America) was, that the Indians who had been brought under their influence had imbibed some notions of the Deity almost as vague as their own traditions, and a superstitious respect for the priests themselves, which they showed by crossing themselves devoutly whenever they met one. Occasionally, too, might be seen in their lodges pictures purporting to represent the roads to heaven and hell, in which there was no single suggestion of the dangers of vice and crime, but a great deal of the peril of Protestantism."

This sprinkling of which the Prophet speaks, on the contrary, is the application to the conscience of the death of Christ; and, if so, then it is the pledge as well as the channel of love; the love of God to His sinful children, the love which first pardons and then sanctifies, which accepts first and then qualifies, which first clothes with the merits of another and then transforms into His beauteous image. For if love be not admitted into the heart, it cannot be conceived by it. Love is the parent of love; the brooding spirit which moves upon the face of the darkened waters; which says, "Let there be light;" which takes counsel a second time with itself, and says, "Let us make man in our image, after our likeness." "So shall He sprinkle many nations." Is it not, then, when this sprinkling has touched the conscience, that the man melts under its power? "Jesus Christ! come down from that cross and let me be put there," was the cry of the poor Bechuan as he drank in the story of the crucifixion. What was there else to move him? Were it muttering lips and prostrations which could meet and respond to such a love as Christ's the whole world might be drilled into Christianity by a word of command. But if it be the heart which makes the believer, there is only the blood of sprinkling that can melt it.

But let us dwell for a moment on the force of the corresponding particle in the latter portion of the prophet's statement. The contrast which it intimates extends not only to the person and reception of the Lord's servant, but to the unexpected results of His humiliation. In like manner, "as many were astonished at Thee . . . so shall He sprinkle many nations." With what exuberance are these precious fruits promised! The comparative numbers of those who reject and of them that receive the Lord's servant and His gifts are a counterpart of the individual effects of the Saviour's work. "Not as it was by one that sinned so is the gift; for the judgment was by one unto condemnation, but the free gift is of many offences unto justification." There is a parallel between this and the national result. For, if it is one nation which rejects, it is many who receive Him. If many out of one are astonished, multitudes out of many are sprinkled. These, then, are the compensations of Christ; and this is the fruit of that travail of which He is to see and by which He is to be satisfied. We have the same idea repeated in the closing verses of the following chapter. To the same purport, indeed, the prophet had already spoken in chapter xlix., "It is a light thing that thou shouldest be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give Thee for a light to the Gentiles, that Thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth." May we not reverently imagine that these very words which we are considering were breathed into His ear by the angel as He lay trembling and prostrate in Gethsemane, bathed in that sweat of blood? That they were written for Him especially there can be no gainsaying, and who can tell what comfort they imparted to His soul in that hour of most terrible darkness? One thing we know, that the word and the will of the Father were His meat and drink. It was these which upheld Him, not merely through a fast of forty days, but through a subsequent ministry of three years, during which He was "despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief." Thus, therefore, is being fulfilled that great mystery of the Divine will, "that the Gentiles should be fellow-heirs, and of the same body, and partakers of His promise in Christ by the Gospel." These were the nations upon whom the blood of sprinkling was to be shed, which was once in its typical form the exclusive privilege of one people. What should be our estimate of the charge thus laid upon us of ministering this mercy to the world? What use should we make of the opportunity which yet remains? We must answer these questions by opening out our third and last point.

III. From what we have been considering, we may conclude "that the Church Missionary Society has not only a warrant for its designs, but a distinct encouragement to pursue them." Its prospects at least are so far commensurate with those of Christ Himself, that it will have no more and no less success than He has. Nor is it a fanciful analogy that may be drawn between the human instrument and the Divine Agent. For how often have these words been verified in Missionary experience, "As He is, so are we in this world." The disciple truly is not above his Master. Hear what one is constrained to cry in the streets:—

"You inhabitants of China do not yet believe in Jesus, who came and died for your sins, nor do you love Him. Nay, you hate Him and ridicule Him, and when I walk along the streets the boys shout and laugh, and say, 'Jesus! Jesus! how big? how high?' But I love Him, and reverence Him, and worship Him, and serve Him. I am called 'the slave of Jesus.' Men have various designations, and that is mine—'the slave of Jesus.' And no wonder, for He bought me, and paid for my price the precious treasure of His own blood. I am His slave, and most willing am I to obey His commandments. If He bid me do thus—thus I do! If He bid me not do that—that I do not!" And presently, he says, "I ceased. The books were distributed, and I walked slowly home, followed by many boys and grown people. 'Behold, a sower went forth to sow, and when he sowed, some seed fell by the wayside, some fell upon stony places, and some fell among thorns, but others fell into good ground.' Therefore Sow. If in tears, if in fears, if in much faint-heartedness—STILL sow."

Now if we contemplate the humble beginning and instruments of the Church Missionary Society as compared with the magnitude of its design, we shall see how truly the matter was of the Lord. It is needless to detail the circumstances. Twenty-five men set themselves to shake the heathen world for a second time; and they have shaken it. Yet it was not thought possible by the world in the Church. To this hour the Church Missionary Society is not a Church; but only a fraction of one. The Church of England counts her members by millions. Of these there are probably not more than half a million who subscribe to both its Missionary Societies. Yet the design was one to captivate the spirit of some who would regard it from an earthly stand-point. To subdue the world to an idea; to mould nations by a doctrine; this has fascinated men before now. It fascinated Ignatius Loyola. Beneath its inspiration he organized an army which has proved itself the most powerful machine ever wielded by man. But the principles upon which the Church Missionary Society was founded, and upon which it continues to act, are precisely those which are most unintelligible, not to say repugnant, to the natural man. We need not ask why? The paradox of Christ goes down to the deepest springs of the soul. The heart of man entertains precisely the same enmity to the doctrines of the Gospel as it did to the unexpected characteristics of its Founder. Had the Church Missionary Society offered the least bribe to the pride of human nature it would have carried many an enthusiast with it. Had it adopted the war cry of a human system it might have rivalled the success of Loyola. But it is from the purity of its principles that some of our greatest discouragements arise. It is not merely that our successes are disputed, but that the work itself is decried. Many deny us the consolations of success. Many there are who do not believe in the reality of any one conversion in India or Africa. We may point to our records. We may summon residents as witnesses. We are answered that when a heathen turns Christian he loses the little natural morality which he had. They go so far as to tell us, that to hope to evangelize India is a dream. So might some sceptic have spoken of the Missionary work of Paul. But let us be comforted. The objection is an old one, and has been answered by Christianity itself. We have this sure word of prophecy, "So shall He sprinkle many nations." This promise is enough. Its light streams like a beacon down the vista of centuries to guide us in the night of toil and discouragement. Let the world say what it will, we know that the preaching of Christ crucified will never be in vain, so long as that pledge is on record, "I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto Me." In spite of all denial, India is shaken, and China is being stirred, and even darker Africa is beginning to feel. It is not to Tinnevely that we point, nor to the fact that there are native congregations both in India and Africa supporting a native pastorate. We ask only the meaning of the agitated condition of both Hindooism and Mohammedanism in all the centres of Gospel preaching. Take the movement of the Brahmo Somaj. Whence its stir? Would it ever have been stirred but for Christianity? Men can be sceptical as well as scientific. But what mean these agitations, these disputations, these compliments offered to the Bible while rejecting its sovereignty? Do they not show that there must be some power at work to shake the complacency of the Brahman? Whence, again, the discussions between Mohammedan converts and their former co-religionists? A living and independent witness, who (to use his own words) "has traversed India from Hurdwar to Cape Comorin," says—

"There are multiplied evidences that the whole fabric of ignorance and idolatry and Mohammedanism is shaking."

Turn we, then, our eyes towards Africa, where some persons have never been able to find a Christian native. What of the fact that the Church at Sierra Leone is both self-supporting and aggressive on the heathendom around? What of the fact that there is a native Bishop, and upwards of twenty native Pastors? It is a fearful rejoinder, and which has more than once been made, that if nominal Christians doubt the reality of conversions among the heathen, the heathen also can question the superiority of such a creed as nominal Christians exemplify. More harm has been done to the Missionary cause in India, Africa, and New Zealand, not to say North America, by the ungodly lives of European Christians, than by all the prejudices of the heathen themselves. If a Hindoo were to visit London, what would be his impression as to the power of Christianity among us? Let him take his stand on any one of the bridges which span our river on a Sabbath morning, when that infinitesimal proportion of the inhabitants are wending their way to the House of Prayer, and what would be his conclusion as regards our national acknowledgement of a God? Or if he threaded our streets at night, what would be the judgment which he would form as to the superiority of our morals? Would the revelations of heathenism in Africa be as dreadful as the recent disclosures respecting the 'criminal classes' in London? The very name is a sufficient suggestion. If, therefore, we come to comparisons, the world might pronounce as strong a verdict against the continuance of Gospel ministrations among the masses of England as it does against Missionary enterprise among the heathen. But the Christian world is susceptible only to the faults outside its own pale.

But it is neither to past nor present success that Christians should look for motives for the discharge of a duty. The successes of the Gospel are independent of human purpose, though not of human agency. They mostly come as surprises, though they are the direct results of toil, and they are contrary to the preconceptions of the world. It is thus with our beloved Society, and with all Societies which are working from the same principles. We must be content to be doubted, questioned, despised. Of one thing only are we confident, and that is, victory. "God," said the Apostle James, "at the first did visit the Gentiles, to take out of them a people for His name." This, therefore, is all which we can hope to accomplish; but it is the first instalment of the success which has been promised to Christ Himself. The recovery of mankind is not the work of a generation, nor even of a dispensation; and we may measure the depth of the fall by the protracted course of the remedy. Let us, then, rebuke our impatience, and not suffer ourselves to follow that of this age, which speaks of the Gospel as an unsuccessful experiment, and as being summoned by the world to make way for a new and higher phase of progress. If the sanctification of one soul be in most instances a slow and oft interrupted development of life, what must that of mankind be? For there is a close analogy between the spiritual and physical world as well as between the race and the individual. It behoves us, therefore, as the supporters of the greatest Missionary Society of its day, as believers in the power of the Gospel, especially as intelligent and thoughtful persons, to be as sober in our expectations as we are zealous to secure them.

Let us, then, cherish an undaunted faith in the design, principles and success of the Church Missionary Society. Faith, I say, in its design. For is not the religion which it propagates not only a remedy for the ills of mankind, but the only true one? Is there any other which claims to come from JEHOVAH and that can show its credentials also? Nay, is there any other that is competent to sanctify a single human heart, or to promulgate a morality as true, as spiritual and as pure? The religion which Abraham professed was but the rudiment, and that of which Moses was the exponent but the type of this.

That upon which our Society is founded is the perfect fulfilment of them both ; and its design is to be a subordinate instrument for carrying out the great commission of its Founder, "Go ye into all the world, and make disciples of all nations." The design of the Church Missionary Society, therefore, is Christ's, and we should betray our own hopes as Christians if we harboured any doubt of it. The only two religions which aspired to universality were Buddhism and<sup>n</sup> Mohammedanism ; but who would compare them to the Gospel, whether in their characteristics or their method of propagation ? What the one retained of the original teaching of Noah, or the other borrowed from the Gospel, we cannot tell ; but there is one evidence fatal to their pretensions, and that is their tendency to deterioration, and the final disappearance from them of whatever good they seemed to have. Like some mountain streams, they run a brief course, and terminate in a wild and deleterious marsh. Not so with the Gospel. It, at least, has lost none of its youthful vigour. Wherefore ? Because it is of God, and therefore contains within itself the power of renewal. Thus it has justified the wisdom of that test by which Gamaliel advised the Sanhedrim to deal with it.—"If this counsel or this work be of men, it will come to nought ; but if it be of God ye cannot overthrow it." To this hour, therefore, it is the one religion which suits all men and all climates ; which pierces through all obstacles, assimilates to one model all characters, the vindictive Indian and the submissive Chinaman, the wild Tartar and the sluggish Esquimaux, and sets them like the varied gems in the breastplate of its High Priest. From one tongue it has learned to speak in a hundred and fifty. From one city it has travelled into every land. Out of every nation it has won its captives, not by sword, not by conscription, but by the persuasion of its principles. Let us have faith, then, likewise in the principles of our Society. They cannot be stated better than in the words of an Apostle, "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." It is to Christ alone that the Church Missionary Society would have the eyes of all heathendom directed. Adhering strictly to the teaching and doctrine of the Church out of whose bosom she has sprung, she dedicates her means and influence to promote them. With this in view, she collects and disburses her revenue. With this in view she selects and educates her candidates for the ministry to the heathen, and presents them to the Bishop of the Diocese for ordination. And for this she is a faithful trustee of the funds committed to her for disposal. As far as lies within the compass of her legitimate influence, she maintains a rigid fidelity to the principles of the Reformation. In consequence of this, the reacting influence of her example is felt in the Church itself. It is therefore a matter of frequent observation, that wherever the Church Missionary Society is heartily taken up in any parish, there will be found a reciprocal blessing among the people. It is not difficult to account for this. Those unsearchable riches, which our congregations are periodically solicited to communicate to others, become oftentimes an object of increased interest to themselves. And thus the Society enlarges its usefulness by a two-fold success. Its means and its message have thus been simultaneously developed through two generations, and it has now entered upon a third. The grandchildren of its first supporters are among its firmest friends. And if from a few hundreds of pounds it has swelled its income to tens of thousands, its Missions have correspondingly passed from the contingencies of an experiment on the African coast to a world-wide enterprise. Instead of a few scattered congregations, the Society can now speak of settled Churches. Instead of a handful of European Missionaries, lost amid the masses of degraded or hostile populations, it can now point to a subsidiary Native Pastorate (120 in number) in nearly every one of its Missions. The results of this one Society in Africa, India, New Zealand and North America alone testify that Christianity is not weakened by the decrepitude of age. Like Moses on the borders of the land of promise, she will pass into a higher dispensation with undimmed eye and unabated force.

We must have faith, therefore, lastly, in the success of our Society. Its first impulse was from Him who said, "All power is given unto Me in heaven and earth. Go ye THEREFORE." The momentum of that first commission has not ceased. It was issued by Him who launched the stars upon their several courses and maintains them therein. It is impossible that it should cease when He who gave the order possesses the power to perpetuate it. "Go ye, THEREFORE," He said. Oh, the power that is sometimes lodged in a word! That one adverb is our assurance and the power of the Gospel. Upon the strength of it went forth its first preachers. It will also be the sustaining impulse of the last and the latest. The candlesticks may be removed, the home of the Gospel may be shifted, the cords of its tent may occasionally be shortened rather than lengthened; but the order and the power of Christ's last Missionary words will not cease even with the present dispensation.

But what do we mean by success? Is it the fulfilment of our expectations or of the Lord's purposes? Christ Himself proposed no more than that the Gospel at first should be preached for a witness unto all nations. And, after all, success is but a term of relation. In some cases, not to fail is to succeed. If, for example, the expenditure of life, with which the Mission to Africa has been maintained, be considered to exceed the value of its results, let us glance for a moment at a different scene. Let us interrogate the angels as to the value of a single soul. If we want to measure that we must estimate the price that was paid for it, and who then will doubt of our actual success? Shall we grudge, therefore, that long line of noble hearts which has fallen upon the deadly battle-field of Sierra Leone? Or is there one of that army of martyrs whose bones are yet pleading for Africa out of the only resting place which she has allowed them, who would not repeat his willing toil and death for the souls for which Christ thought it worth to die? We say it humbly but confidently, of Africa, of India, of every one of our Missions, WE HAVE SUCCEEDED?

Yet let it not be supposed that the Church Missionary Society represents all that need be done for the world, or that it has no needs and no shortcomings of its own. We are here to night to thank God, not to flatter ourselves. Our very successes testify against us ; because they declare that if more were attempted more would be achieved. Let us not suppose that our Missions, but partial efforts in themselves, have means or men enough. Alas ! the world is crying out for mercy. The Committee can tell of plaintive appeals from India, from North-west America, from the depths of Africa and China, and even from the cradle of the Gospel, Palestine itself. But where is the money ? And if that were forthcoming where are the men ? England, that can spend life and treasure for the ambitions of science, that can fit out ships to discover a North-west Passage, or send out parties to explore a country or investigate a ruin, or to correct an error in geography, has no purse for souls. Yet the Missionary has done good service to science before now. Before a Speke had tracked the source of the Nile a Missionary had pointed the way. But Christians who can throng to a scientific association or a statistical inquiry on social progress look coldly on a question which made England what she is, and which involves the mightiest results that mankind will ever experience. Our Society has to plead with Christians for Christianity.

I would conclude this address, then, by summoning my hearers to examine their own personal relations to this great subject. It behoves us to ask ourselves whether we have yet understood this paradox of Christ. Upon the true apprehension of it depends our appreciation of the Missionary subject. How shall we feel that earnest desire for the extension of the Saviour's kingdom, which a true Missionary spirit involves, if we have not realized the necessity of the work as foretold in the text and the chapter which follows it ? The link of sympathy is wanting. We cannot feel for the world what we do not feel for ourselves. If we cannot personally appreciate the humiliation, the substitution, the expiatory sorrows and sufferings of the Lord's servant, how can we desire to see the nations baptized with them ? We may have learned the vanity of idols and the uselessness of their sacrifices, but we can have no true confidence in that sacrifice which alone can soothe the anguish of an awakened conscience. Our relation to the Missionary cause just depends upon our own personal relation to the work of Christ. It is possible to take a sentimental interest in it, or to give just as we give to other objects for which we are solicited. But to give ourselves, and that which is next to ourselves, our children or our prayers, is an act which can come only out of a solemn conviction of the paramount importance of the value of souls, of the remedy of the Gospel, and of the kingdom of Christ. If I wished to test the depth or even reality of a person's interest in Missions, I would not inquire how much he gave, but whether he habitually prayed about them.

Is this, then, our feeling upon this great subject? Are we so far identified with it as to feel that to promote His kingdom is the great business of life? Is this our aim in the education of our children, in our intercourse with others, in our opportunities for the world? The Christian's mission is a sublime one. It is nothing less than to be a fellow-worker with Christ unto His kingdom. We ourselves, as such, constitute part of that mystic Stone which is to break in pieces the great World-Image till its dust be "like the chaff of the summer threshing-floors;" and itself shall then fill the whole earth. Nay more, we are His representatives on earth, as He is ours in Heaven. It is our part to show the world what He is like. We are also His witnesses, as He Himself declares. We succeed to His work, and have fellowship in His straits, "and fill up that which is behind of His afflictions, for His body's sake, which is the Church." For what is ever achieved for souls without sacrifice? If the individual man, whether parent or brother or minister, must wrestle for the souls which he would rescue; if one has to travail in birth until Christ be formed in another, what ought the self-denial, the self-sacrifice of the Church to be for nations? To us is committed the privilege of representing to the world His love for sinners, His zeal and compassion for souls: to us is given the charge to cry in the mart of nations, "If any man thirst, let him come to Jesus Christ and drink." It is our province to sprinkle the nations with His blood. Ought we to be insensible, then, to such a commission? Ought India, for example, which offers scope for the exercise of the clearest intellects, and which challenges our young men to meet her on the field of disputation, to remain unconquered in the face of our Universities? Have Oxford and Cambridge and Dublin no sons worthy of such a contest? Or could they not transfer a moiety of their generous rivalries from the Thames to the Ganges or the Indus? Surely the cry of a people is the voice of God: and the cries of India and China are nothing less than the voice of Christ, issuing from the horns of His bloody altar, and saying, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" Would that this cry might penetrate those ancient hearths of the sacred fire, and awaken some young hearts to answer "Here am I; send me." Would that all Christians would rise up to this their grand mission! How would the world and worldly politics and Churches be shaken and tremble! One Elijah shook a kingdom. One Luther shook a continent. What would be the shaking of the earth if the Protestant Churches of Great Britain and America arose and wrought for the Kingdom of Christ? if, leaving "the dead to bury their dead," they would go and preach the Gospel of the kingdom through this and other Societies? Perhaps some such a time may be in store for us; for the Church, and even the world, are learning some bitter but wholesome lessons. No thoughtful person can doubt the nearness of some great social, religious and ecclesiastical changes. Those high and dreadful rings of the Providence of God are in motion in a manner so conspicuous, that they who can neither interpret nor account for their revolution are compelled to admit it. But whatever may be the changes in the relations of men, or of human laws and ordinances, or the modifications of social or political life, the relation of the Christian to Christ and His kingdom can never be changed. Christ will never cease to be the Christian's king: and the kingdom, of which he is a member, and to which he is a fellow-worker, will one day govern the world. To this end everything is working, nay, has worked, ever since Peter went down from Joppa to Cæsarea, and Paul set sail for Greece and Rome. True that the workers themselves have not designed all this, or they were unconscious of the greatness of their achievements. Like the coral insect occupied only in the preduction of its own cells, while it is forming an island or initiating a continent, they were carrying out some plans, more or less comprehensive, but which did not embrace the whole of the magnificent and Divine purpose. Here and there, like their inspired leaders, there may have been some far-sighted enough for this. But this has been the vision of the select few. The rest were working for their party, their church, or their generation. But the Head has been overlooking the whole. By steps imperceptible to us, He has evolved his plan, not only through, but by means of the contending schemes of men. The very errors of each age have been compelled to subserve to the corroboration of some precious dogma. And so His kingdom shall increase and have no end. It is on this grand issue that we are to set our steadfast gaze, as being the blessed culmination of all that our noblest aspirations can desire. The groans of the believer, the groans of nature, the groans of the very instruments of evil (which offer a perpetual protest against their own slavery), alike testify thereto. What the Apostle saw in his own pregnant words we know not. But even we can understand that there is to be a correspondence between the spiritual and the physical glory. There shall be a wondrous harmony within and without.

To this end the Church Missionary Society is working, as well as many another honoured instrument. What may be the amount of work and of success allotted to each we cannot tell. It may be that these and such like agencies shall serve but for a little portion of the work, and for a short time. But of one thing let us be quite assured, that when that gathering together, and heading up of all things in Christ the King, shall take place, every agency, and every agent in bringing about this consummation, shall be acknowledged. And on that coronation day (at which may every one here present assist) not even one of the least of His fellow-workers will be overlooked. Each one, according to what he has done or purposed, even to the gift of a cup of cold water, shall be rewarded. Every heart that has longed for the kingdom of Christ, and every mouth that has prayed for it, and every hand that has lovingly denied itself to give to it, shall share in that recompence of six thousand years of sorrow, the restoration of God's empire on this earth in the person of Christ, and shall

REPORT,

WITH much thankfulness to God, and with some surprise, the Committee announce an Income adequate to Expenditure. So many disturbing influences, ecclesiastical, political, and commercial, affected the Association proceedings and arrangements, that, at the end of the third quarter of the year, the financial prospects of the Society were such as to cause anxiety. But earnest and reliable friends seem to have perceived the danger of embarrassment, and, with a promptitude which has often saved the Society in times of pecuniary exigency, increased the returns from the Associations, which for the year have amounted to 118,197*l.* 0*s.* 11*d.*, being, with the exception of last year, the largest sum ever received from this source. The average annual proceeds of Associations during the last four years have been 117,227*l.*, and during the four immediately preceding, 102,614*l.*; thus showing an increase of 14,613*l.*, in the Association returns on a comparison of these periods of four years. These figures, attained in difficult times, convince the Committee that the Society's income may, with the blessing of God, reach any point which its zealous friends may resolve to touch. The Legacies have been unusually large, amounting to 21,553*l.* 12*s.* 5*d.*, in addition to 3000*l.* received through Associations.

The balance of 3302*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.* now in hand, arises entirely from the large amount received from Legacies; and inasmuch as such an amount cannot be annually expected, the Committee are glad to commence the year with this small portion of these Legacies in reserve.

The total ordinary Income applicable to the general purposes of the Society is 155,194*l.* 8*s.* 7*d.*, being a larger amount than has hitherto been received. An addition of 2136*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.* specially contributed, and chiefly for the church at Nazareth, makes the total receipts 157,330*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.*

For a moment the Committee pause in order to record emphatically their conviction of the extended and effective service rendered by the active friends, Clerical and Lay, who have guided and sustained the Associations.

The supporters of the Society in Ireland have again nobly maintained their position. Though “troubled” about their own ecclesiastical arrangements, they are not so “distressed” as to neglect the heathen. The sum of 5462*l.* has been received from Ireland, being 70*l.* more than in the previous year.

Another ground for gratitude and praise is the fact, that not even one Missionary has died within the year:

PATRONAGE.

The office of Vice-Patron, reserved by the Society’s fundamental rules for the Primate of All England, became vacant by the death of Archbishop Longley, and has been accepted by the present Archbishop of Canterbury.

The office of Vice-President has been accepted by the Bishop of Peterborough, the Bishop of Lincoln, the Bishop of Hereford, and the Bishop of Mauritius. The Committee have appointed the Very Rev. the Dean of Ripon, the Very Rev. the Dean of Lichfield, and Sir T. Fowell Buxton, Bart., Vice-Presidents of the Society.

On the other hand the Committee have been called to lament the death of Sir Herbert B. Edwardes, K.C.B., a Vice-President of the Society.

Death of Sir Herbert B.
Edwardes.

The following have been nominated as Honorary Governors for Life—the Rev. W. R. Fremantle, M.A., Rector of Claydon, Bucks; the Rev. C. Kemble, M.A., Rector of Bath; the Rev. T. W. Meller, M.A., Rector of Woodbridge, Suffolk; the Rev. E. B. Squire, Vicar of Swansea; and Hudleston Stokes, Esq., late of the Civil Service, Madras.

DEATH OF MR. J. M. HOLL, ASSISTANT LAY SECRETARY.

The Committee record with much regret the death of Mr. J. M. Holl, Assistant-Secretary of the Society during the last fifteen years, whose great fidelity and devotedness in the discharge of his official duties, united with urbanity and consideration for all with whom, either officially or unofficially, he was associated, contributed much to promote the Society's interests.

CHURCH MISSIONARY INSTITUTION.

In accordance with the intimation given last year, arrangements have been made for placing Missionary candidates under the care of a Tutor, previous to their admission to the Islington Institution. Several candidates are already receiving instruction at Reading from the Rev. R. Bren, formerly a Missionary of the Society, with a view to their better preparation for the course of study pursued at Islington. Selections from the annual review of the Rev. T. Green, the Principal, are now made:—

The general conduct of the students has been most exemplary. They have exhibited their accustomed zeal and diligence in the prosecution of appointed studies; brotherly affection and harmony have been maintained; and, with scarcely a single exception, they have devoted themselves with cheerful readiness, during their leisure moments and on the Lord's-day, to works of faith and labours of love amongst the poor and neglected in the neighbourhood; manifesting by these and other means an earnest desire to become fitted for the great and blessed work in which they hope eventually to be engaged. It appears right to notice the alacrity with which more than one of the students responded to the sudden and unexpected appeal recently made by the Committee for a labourer to go forth immediately to the distant and scattered tribes of the Mackenzie District, in Rupert's Land. Though the students appealed to greatly prized the opportunity of study and other advantages afforded by the Institution, and had set their hearts on completing the usual course, they unhesitatingly placed themselves in the hands of the Committee, and were prepared at once to obey their bidding; thus giving a practical proof that the engagement made by each student when he enters the Institution, that he will go anywhere, at any time and in any capacity the providence of God and the voice of the Committee may direct, is regarded as no vain, unmeaning stipulation, but as a real and binding engagement.

Whilst, however, there has been so much to cheer and encourage, there are also circumstances calculated to excite regret or occasion anxiety. Though the number of students is somewhat larger than in the two preceding years, it still falls considerably below the average reached on several former occasions. Whatever the cause or causes may be, it seems impossible to ignore the fact, that comparatively few promising candidates have recently offered themselves. Some zealous friends of Missions appear to think that this need not occasion alarm or regret, inasmuch as the men specially required in the present more advanced stage of Missions are such as have had the higher advantages of an University training and culture. But all past experience shows how inadequate is the supply furnished by our Universities. Even were that supply much larger than it has hitherto been, or, humanly speaking, is likely to be, it may be questioned how far it would be desirable that our Society should be dependent mainly and solely on these ancient seats of learning. There is a large amount of vigorous, devoted piety, of earnest Missionary zeal, and superior physical and mental qualifications amongst classes of society which can never find their way to the Universities. The ranks which supplied such men as Carey, Marshman and Ward to one Evangelistic Society, and such devoted and enterprising labourers as Morrison, Milne, Moffat and Williams to another, has also given the Church Missionary Society some of its brightest ornaments, and most efficient and successful Missionaries. Besides those who have entered into their rest, many who are still labouring in the Mission field might easily be mentioned who are worthy of being placed side by side with the most valued of the honoured brethren supplied by the Universities. If, then, the vast regions of heathenism are to be evangelized, and the Church at home is, in any adequate measure, to discharge its obligation to its Lord's command, whilst we joyfully welcome fellow-labourers from our Universities (and would they were multiplied tenfold, yea, a hundredfold), yet must we at the same time pray that others less favoured in worldly circumstances, but possessing the requisite qualifications, may be raised up to take part in the work; and it will be our duty to continue to offer them the means afforded by such an Institution as this for obtaining the special preparation they require.

In consequence of the diminished number of students during the past two or three years, fewer candidates have been presented for Ordination, and fewer students have, consequently, been sent forth from the Institution. The number who have sailed for their appointed destinations during the past year have altogether, ordained and unordained, amounted to eight.

Reference may here be made to the recent gratifying visit with which the Bishop of London, so soon after entering upon the Episcopal duties of the Diocese, has favoured the Institution. Upwards of 270 students have been presented for Ordination to his Lordship's predecessors, in addition to those ordained by the Archbishops of Canterbury and the Bishops of the several Colonies to which students have been sent out, in the first instance, unordained. Eight of the present students will, it is expected, be presented to the new Bishop at his first Ordination on Trinity Sunday,—fore-runners, let us hope, of a numerous band hereafter to be set apart, by his instrumentality, to the sacred office. The words of wisdom and sympathy spoken by the Bishop on the occasion of his visit, the manifest interest exhibited in the welfare of the Institution, and the strong expressions of approval employed by him in reference to the principles and proceedings of the Society, will not easily be forgotten by those present at the time.

MISSIONARIES' CHILDREN'S HOME.

The unexpected death, after a very brief illness, of Mr. George Hall, Director of the Home, suddenly compelled the Committee to seek a suitable successor. After careful inquiry concerning the different candidates, the Rev. Isaac Durrant, M.A., Incumbent of Thornton, Lancashire, has been appointed to this important post.

ORDINATION OF MISSIONARIES.

Thirty-five of the Society's Candidates have been admitted to holy orders during the year—four by the Bishop of London, and two by the Archbishop of Canterbury; two Natives by the Bishop of Sierra Leone; two Natives by the Bishop of Calcutta; nineteen Natives by the Bishop of Madras; four Natives by the Bishop of Colombo; one Native by the Bishop of Victoria; and one Native by the Bishop of Rupert's Land.

DECEASE OF LABOURERS.

The following Labourers have been removed by death during the past year—

Niger Mission—The Rev. A. G. Coomber, Native, died at Bonny on the 7th May 1868.

North-India Mission—Mrs. Storrs, wife of the Rev. T. Storrs, died at Hull on the 10th of January 1869.

Ceylon Mission—The Rev. J. Andris de Levera, Native, died at Cotta on the 23rd of December 1868.

North-West-America Mission—Mrs. Stagg, wife of the Rev. W. Stagg, died at Barton-le-Street, Yorkshire, on the 20th of January 1869.

DEPARTURE OF MISSIONARIES TO THEIR STATIONS.

West-Africa Mission—The Rev. G. R. Caiger and Mrs. Caiger, on their return to the Mission, embarked at Liverpool on the 24th of October 1868, and arrived at Sierra Leone on the 8th of November. The Rev. C. Knödler and Mrs. Knödler, on their return to the Mission, embarked at Liverpool on the 24th of November 1868, and arrived at Sierra Leone on the 9th of December.

Yoruba Mission—The Rev. E. Roper, on his return to the Mission, and Mrs. Roper, embarked at Liverpool on the 24th of November 1868, and arrived at Lagos in January last. The Rev. L. Nicholson, on his return to the Mission, embarked at Liverpool on the 25th of January 1869, and arrived at Lagos in February.

North-India Mission—The Rev. C. Bauman, Rev. A. B. Spaight, Mr. J. Brown, from the Islington Institution, and Mr. R. J. Bell and Mrs. Bell, on their return to the Mission, embarked at Gravesend on the 25th of July 1868, and arrived at Calcutta on the 3rd of November. The Rev. R. F. Trench, B.A., and Mrs. Trench embarked at Gravesend on the 14th of September 1868, and arrived at Calcutta on the 31st of December. The Rev. R. P. Greaves and Mrs. Greaves, on their return to the Mission, embarked at Southampton on the 20th of September 1868, and arrived at Calcutta on the 9th of December. The Rev. R. Bateman, M.A., embarked at Southampton on the 17th of October 1868, and arrived at Calcutta on the 25th of November. The Rev. T. V. French, M.A., and the Rev. J. W. Knott, M.A., left London on the 7th of January 1869, for Marseilles, en route for India, and reached Lahore in March. The Rev. S. Dyson, on his return to the Mission, embarked at Southampton on the 6th of February 1869, and arrived at

South-India Mission—The Rev. J. Conn, the Rev. J. E. Padfield, and the Rev. W. Smith, from the Islington Institution, embarked at Gravesend on the 10th of September 1868, and arrived at Madras on the 14th of December.

Ceylon Mission—The Rev. W. Clark—his services having been transferred from the South-India Mission to the Tamil Cooly Mission, Ceylon—embarked at Southampton on the 20th of September 1868, and arrived at Kandy on the 28th of October.

China Mission—The Rev. G. Ensor, B.A., and Mrs. Ensor embarked at Liverpool on the 28th of July 1868, and arrived at Ningpo on the 20th of October. The Rev. W. A. Russell and Mrs. Russell, on their return to the Mission, embarked at Southampton on the 17th of October 1868, and arrived at Ningpo on the 15th of December. The Rev. F. F. Gough, on his return to the Mission, and Mrs. Gough, embarked at Liverpool on the 31st of October 1868, and arrived at Ningpo on the 28th of January 1869. The Rev. J. E. Mahood, from the Islington Institution, and Mrs. Mahood, embarked at Liverpool on the 31st of October 1868, and arrived at Fuh-chau in February last.

North-West-America Mission—The Rev. E. F. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson embarked at Liverpool on the 2nd of July 1868, and arrived at Sarnia, Upper Canada, in August. Mr. W. D. Reeve, from the Islington Institution, and Mrs. Reeve, embarked at Liverpool on the 17th of April 1869, for New York, en route for Fort Simpson, Rupert's Land.

RETURN HOME OF MISSIONARIES.

West-Africa Mission—The Rev. C. H. and Mrs. Brierley left Sierra Leone on the 30th of May 1868, and arrived at Liverpool on the 18th of June. Miss Kleiner left Sierra Leone on the 14th of August 1868, and arrived at Liverpool on the 31st of August. The Rev. J. and Mrs. Hamilton left Sierra Leone on the 1st of March 1869, and arrived in London on the 22nd of March.

Yoruba Mission—The Rev. A. and Mrs. Mann left Lagos on the 4th of September 1868, and arrived in London on the 1st of October. Mr. J. H. Ashcroft left Lagos on the 7th of July 1868, and arrived in London on the 14th of August.

The Rev. J. Buckley Wood left Lagos on the 7th of April 1869, and arrived at Liverpool on the 1st of May.

North-India Mission—The Rev. R. and Mrs. Bruce left Ishmael Khan on the 6th of January 1868, and arrived in London on the 31st of March. The Rev. A. Lockwood left Calcutta on the 13th of February 1868, and arrived in London on the 2nd of July. The Rev. W. Hooper left Calcutta on the 27th of October 1868, and arrived in England on the 3rd of December. Mr. F. and Mrs. Gmelin left Calcutta on the 13th of October 1868, and arrived at Southampton on the 23rd of January 1869. The Rev. T. R. History of a Church rather than account of a Mission. THE retrospect in Western Africa beoomes increasingly every year the history of a Church, rather than the account of a Mission. The Parochial statement is superseding the Missionary register. Churches occupied by Native Pastors are now the prominent objects in the scene, and, as if to mark especially this period of transition, a Memorial Church, intended to commemorate the Episcopate of Bishop Bowen, was consecrated at the close of the year. The church has cost 1400*l.*, and stands within the Native Pastorate of Wellington. The spiritual trials of the English Clergy seem already felt by the African Pastors. One laments that the hearts of his hearers are untouched by the Gospel, and that "the story of the Cross does not move them;" while another, speaking in the name of his Clerical brethren, invites the Laity to more decided action in promoting the kingdom of Christ, and urges that the Church is "a Christian community in which each individual member exerts his own gift for a common end."

Missionary contributions in Sierra Leone.

The contributions towards the Church Missionary Association have been well sustained, and have amounted to 463*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.* during the year. From the Sherbro country, beyond the limits of the Colony, the sum of 55*l.* 7*s.* 7*d.* has been remitted. Last year the amount was 24*l.* Similar advances in the Home Associations would soon change the aspect of the Society's Income.

The Fourah Bay Institution renders important service to the Mission by the preparation of Native Pastors and Teachers. The Female Institution still supplies the not less important service of a Christian education to the daughters of the higher classes. The Grammar School still prospers under a Native Minister, its Head Master.

Growth
Western Africa.

But growth and expansion in the Missions beyond the Colony are the characteristic features of the year. It has been clearly apprehended "that European Missionaries alone will never be able to evangelize the heathen world." Hence the desire to reach more frequently the heathen districts beyond the British territory. The dangers and difficulties connected with the visitation of the Missions in an open boat have induced the purchase of a steam launch, at a cost of 600*l.*, of which the sum of 480*l.* was raised by the friends of Missions in Sierra Leone, and the remaining 120*l.* by friends in England. Thus the Sherbro in the South, the Quiah in the interior, and the Bullom Shore in the North, can be rapidly reached. At the Sherbro, the out-stations increase. At the Quiah the work, which is wholly itinerating, is continued among a cruel, degraded and unsettled people. On the Bullom

Shore a Native Minister can enumerate 240 Christians, including 100 communicants, scattered among the heathen.

The Rev. C. A. Reichardt has given his attention to the study of the Fulah and Mendi languages, to the visitation of the Mohammedans, and to the charge of the small congregation at Cline Town.

Pademba Road.

The Rev. J. Johnson, Native Minister, who assists in the pastoral work at Pademba Road, states that the weekly classes and congregations receive continual accessions, notwithstanding the active efforts of the adherents of the Romish Church. On the other hand, there is recorded an indifference to the Gospel:—

Sinners remain continually untouched; the story of the cross does not move them; the terrors of the Lord do not alarm them: they are bold in iniquity and are happy in sin. Often have I lamented my own weakness to cause them to fear and tremble before the Lord. I want wisdom to speak the truth, and power to alarm them and send them weeping to Christ.

Wellington.

The heart of the Rev. G. J. Macaulay, Native Pastor of Memorial Wellington, was gladdened at the close of the year by the consecration of a substantial stone church, capable of affording accommodation for 600 worshippers, henceforth to be known as "Bishop Bowen's Memorial Church." Some details of the proceedings on the day of consecration, and some facts connected with this Memorial Church, will be read with interest:—

The Rev. G. J. Macaulay, Pastor in charge, respectfully requested the Bishop, on behalf of the congregation, churchwardens, &c., to consecrate the church, who at once proceeded with the service of consecration, and walked at the head of the clergy through the aisles, and back again into the rails. This being done, the service of the day was commenced.

The Prayers were read by the Rev. M. Taylor and Rev. G. J. Macaulay; the Lessons by the Rev. G. Nicol and the Rev. T. Maxwell; the Epistle and Gospel by the Rev. G. R. Caiger and the Rev. A. Menzies; and his lordship preached from the words, "Let us hold fast the profession of our faith."

The congregation numbered over a thousand: every nook and corner was filled. The interior seats were for the most part occupied by strangers, the members having, in anticipation, erected temporary sheds of palm-leaves outside for their own accommodation.

The pulpit, lectern and reading-desk are all of country wood, but are themselves in keeping with the internal construction of the building. The lectern was the gift of a young man in the congregation: a noble example to all others.

Wellington being about the last place in the colony in which the late lamented Bishop Bowen discharged his episcopal functions, his successor thought that he could not better perpetuate the memory of so worthy a predecessor, especially as nothing of the kind has been done, if we except the epitaph on his grave, than by erecting a substantial stone church here to be named the "Bishop Bowen's Memorial Church." The old frame building had been much injured by weather and the white ants.

The cost of the building is about 1400*l.*, and would in all probability have exceeded that amount, had not the congregation given free labour, which could not be estimated at anything below 150*l.* Every one who has seen the work has said that the amount spent on its construction is comparatively small, it being said to be, by some of our European Missionaries, "the only ecclesiastical-looking building in the whole colony." Of the amount spent, upwards of 250*l.*, exclusive of labour, was raised by the congregation.

The Rev. M. Taylor, of Waterloo, was pastor in charge when the work was undertaken, and under his superintendence it progressed considerably; but sickness and failing health compelled him to abandon the work, and prevented his having the gratification of completing it, it being thought that a change of station might greatly contribute to the restoration of his then shattered health; and thus the honour, no less than the task, of completing and opening devolved on his successor.

EDUCATION.

Fourah-Bay Institution.

The Principal regrets that he has not been able to obtain a sufficient supply of properly educated students, and fears that the service which the Institution is capable of rendering to Mission work in West Africa will become limited unless this difficulty can be obviated. At the close of last year there were eleven students, of whom three have recently commenced their labours as Catechists, two being employed in the colony of Sierra Leone, and the third at Bonny, under the direction of Bishop Crowther. The usual course of study at the Institution, and the estimate formed by the Principal of the mental power of his African students, are thus stated in his annual review:—

Fourah-Bay Institution.

Our business for the twelvemonth past is somewhat of this description:—In the session which ended last April we had a Scripture class every day, in which were used the ordinary Evangelical Commentaries and soundest critical works. The portions read were the Old Testament historical books subsequent to the captivity, and the four Gospels, with a special view to their harmony; the personal history of our Lord, with the teaching of the Parables. We had also the Greek Testament for an hour every day, the students being accustomed to quote from memory the most remarkable words and phrases, and to become acquainted with the chief MSS. and versions, so as to be aware of the authority we have for the text, especially of disputed passages.

We completed the reading of Butler's Analogy. On controversial points especially connected with the two Sacraments, the views so well expounded by the late Dean of Ripon and Dr. Blakeney were ever taught, the works of these two authors being constantly referred to.

On account of the greater acquaintance of the students with the Greek Testament, we have lately been reading it only every second day.

In reviewing the past year, I feel that I can never be sufficiently grateful for the abundant mercies of God. I have scarcely at all been hindered by sickness from doing my work, a boon which can only be appreciated properly in such a sickly place as Sierra Leone. I am far the healthiest person within my circle. I have perhaps still more reason to be thankful for the mutual love and respect which has existed between the students and myself. They have as a rule behaved in a way that would do credit to young Englishmen, and seem to me to be much under the influence of the truths they profess. Many troubles have visited the colony during the year, but the Lord has preserved us from them all. I need hardly say that I hold the opinion I ever had with respect to African intellect; and after, I may almost say, a daily experience of two years in teaching here, I have come to the deliberate conclusion that I would any day as soon be employed in the training of coloured students as of European, provided they had previously enjoyed the same advantages.

Grammar School.

This school continues to flourish under the management of the head master, the Rev. J. Quaker, a Native Minister. There are 111 scholars, of whom 56 are boarders. Satisfactory examinations, in which the Chief Justice of the colony took part, have been passed; and the funds exhibit an increased balance in hand of 50%, notwithstanding a special expenditure of 80% for a town lot of land immediately adjoining the school premises. Of the moral tone and Missionary spirit Mr. Quaker testifies:—

Grammar School
under a Native
Clergyman.

The moral and spiritual tone of the school has been encouraging. The pupils' weekly Prayer-meetings, and the Juvenile Monthly Missionary Meetings, have been well attended; but juvenile collection in the city, I much regret to have to state, has not been prosecuted with as much zeal and success as in the previous year.

QUIAH MISSION.

Difficulties in the Quiah Mission. Physical weakness and political agitation have combined to render the work of the young Missionary, the Rev. James Beale, at times full of anxiety. The withdrawal of Government troops from British Quiah has caused much confusion and bloodshed. The injury to Missionary progress, and to the efforts made to carry the Gospel to a cruel and degraded people, are sketched by Mr. Beale:—

Cruelties of heathenism. All political questions have a very important bearing on our work. Unless the people are at peace, they will not hear the Gospel. Nothing can be more opposed to Christianity than Native warfare. It is a succession of mean surprises and cruel robbery, and the result is always murder, slavery and starvation. One of my schoolmasters was present by arrangement, on two occasions, at the sacrifice of human beings. At the first a boy and girl were marched into the water and drowned. At the second, a boy was cast headlong into the river from a canoe. These things happened just beyond the boundary. But the people within and without jurisdiction are identically the same in race, in customs, and in darkness. At present we only occupy two stations, viz. Garahoo and Mimo. Even in these the people are thoroughly heathen.

I am still working at the Timneh language, but have been greatly interrupted by the troubles of the year. I trust, however, that with a mind at ease I shall make rapid progress. My intercourse with the Pastor at Waterloo has been thoroughly happy, and very thankful I have been for the opportunities of usefulness granted me in the parish. We have a flourishing Mission school for youths: eight attend. Some of these I hope to gain for future work in the Quiah. I have also a night school for young men. Three of these I hope will, on 1st January 1869, begin to itinerate on Sundays in the Quiah. If possible, I want to make them work something after the manner of Methodist local preachers. If I could add to their number, I feel sure that this would be the right way to spread the Gospel. I have not yet been able to find the Timneh boys I propose to instruct in my house. I long to establish a Mission school, but only time and prayer can overcome the difficulties in the way.

BULLOM MISSION.

Yongro.

The Rev. H. Boston, the Native Minister in charge of this Mission, considers the work to have been sustained, but regrets that accessions to the ranks of the Native Christians in some parts have been counterbalanced by a diminution in number in others. The Bible classes have not been so well attended, and indifference to the Gospel has been shown at some of the out-stations. Mr. Boston, however, has a Missionary charge containing 242 Native Christians, inclusive of 102 Communicants. Concerning two recent converts, and the charitable contributions of the people, he can speak in these encouraging terms:—

At Robenkeh station a native, born and bred in the heathenish Idols superstition of his country, has recently embraced the Christian faith. In the earlier part of this year he openly renounced his idols, gave them up to me to be destroyed, and received baptism. <sup>renounced and destroyed.</sup> It is also gratifying to state, that amongst the number of natives in connexion with our congregation at Yongro, who are under Christian instruction, is a young man with his wife, who are very regular in their attendance at Divine service. He was reading with me, till prevented of late by illness. He takes great delight in Schlenker's Timneh Scriptures. He had read the Gospel of St. Matthew with me, and when ill I gave him a copy of St. Mark's Gospel, which he also read through. A portion of his time was devoted to teaching his wife to read, in which she made such rapid progress as astonished us all. I heard her on Sunday, Nov. 15th, read Simpson's Primer, and she did it so well that I resolved soon to put the New Testament into her hands. Early in the morning and late at night the voice of prayer is always heard to ascend from the quiet abode of this loving couple. Their son, a little boy about six years of age, placed under instruction at our school, had been baptized at his father's request. Thus they are, in reality, living examples to evidence the principles of Christianity among their heathen neighbours, who often treat them with contempt, and whose scoffs and jests they patiently bear, and regard as nothing. Having found religious ways to be pleasant ways, they are willing to suffer shame and reproach for Christ's dear name. I am anticipating the time with earnest longings when this young man, becoming mighty in the Scriptures, shall go forth as an evangelist among his pagan countrymen, to preach Jesus and Him crucified. <sup>Converts who promise to be evangelists.</sup> I pray the Lord to preserve them steadfast in the faith to the end.

Efforts have been made to obtain subscribers and secure funds for the Bullom Evangelistic Association, the object of which is to infuse the self-supporting principle into the minds of our people. We have been so far successful in the attempt, that 10% was raised in the course of twelve months. This amount is lodged in the hands of the Superintendent of this Mission, with a view to aid in part to support an evangelist to labour with us in this field, hoping by God's grace that we may be able at some future time, as the converts grow in faith and number, to abound more in this charitable work, so as to bear, not a part only, but the whole expense for the support of one or more evangelists who may be sent to preach the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ in remote regions of this benighted land. The receipts for the year from this Mission are as follow:—Class collections, 6*l.* 10*s.*; School, 7*l.* 5*s.* 9*d.*; Sunday collections and Communion items, 5*l.*; subscriptions to the Sierra Leone Auxiliary Bible Society, 3*l.* 8*s.*; to the Native Pastorate Fund 4*l.* 1*s.*; to the Bullom Evangelistic Association, 10*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*; to the Church Missionary Society, 6*l.* 10*s.* 3*d.* Total amount of receipts for the year, 42*l.* 16*s.* 4*d.*

General View.

THE Yoruba Mission was last year the subject of prayer, and is now the subject of praise. The riotous proceedings at Abeokuta seem, by some invisible influence, to have caused Missionary progress throughout the country. The Christianity of Lagos appears to have been roused to greater effort. Contributions have been freely given towards the completion of a new church, capable of accommodating a large congregation, and for the enlargement of an old one, already having a congregation of more than 400, of whom nearly 200 are Communicants.

The retrospect of events at Abeokuta especially calls for devout thanksgiving. Without the interference of the strong arm of power, without even the presence of the European Missionary, but in response to the voice of prayer, and under the guidance of a Native Minister, the services of the sanctuary have been resumed, and the prospects of the Church have brightened. Events seemed to intimate that the Society must “stand still,” and it may now be assuredly gathered that thus only Events at Abeokuta. was it possible distinctly to “see the salvation of the Lord.” Soon after the retirement of the Europeans, it became evident that measures devised against the Native Christians could not be carried into effect. In June a Native Minister, who had withdrawn to Lagos at the time of the outbreak, returned to Abeokuta. The Christians had, amid opposition and persecution, steadily attended the services held by the Native Minister who had remained at the out-station of Oshielle. The dying Bashorun, under whose rule the outbreak had occurred, and the friendly war-chief, from whose hand the Christians had gained protection, concurred in sanctioning the resumption of Christian worship. Another chief encouraged the erection of a church in the Igbore township, the dimensions of which were precisely the same as those of the church destroyed in the adjoining Igbein township; and, as if to record the outbreak while raising the church, the foundation-stone, laid on the 23rd November 1868, contained the inscription that the church was built instead of the one “lost on the 13th October 1867, when certain heathen idolaters of Abeokuta rose suddenly against the Christians, with the intention of driving them and their religion from the country.” To the record was added the statement that one Native Minister of the Society laid the foundation-stone, and that another was the Pastor of the Christian congregation. Such was the foundation laid by Native hands. May Abeokutan believers, as “lively stones” and as “a spiritual house,” be “builded together for a habitation of God through the Spirit!”

The commencement of the present year has been marked by still more signal tokens of blessing. While the enemies of the Mission rushed recklessly into war, the war-chief, who, although a heathen, defended the Mission station, remained at home. Defeat and disaster were largely and speedily reaped in the war. Those who were not slain returned humiliated to Abeokuta, and the chief, who in the day of calamity threw his shield over the persecuted Christians, seems likely to be the future ruler of Abeokuta.

Services resumed in Ake Church, Abeokuta.

Week of prayer in Abeokuta.

Another line completes the picture. On the 3rd of January last the Native Ministers assembled the Christians for public worship in the large Ake church, which had been sufficiently, but not completely, repaired. The congregation was 800 inside, and 250 outside, the walls. The Native Minister dwelt upon the words, so applicable to the circumstances of Abeokuta, "I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt." The Communicants were more than 300. The collection was more than 2,000,000 cowries, the shell currency of the country, or rather more than 70% sterling. Then followed a week of prayer. On Monday the meeting was in the Ake church, on Tuesday in the new Igbore church, on Wednesday at Ikija, on Thursday in every church, on Friday at the Out-station of Oshielle, the Zoar of Abeokuta, and on Saturday again at all the churches.

"Be still then, and know that I am God."

Such is the present issue of the great outbreak in the Yoruba Mission, affording a strong proof of the power of the Gospel in the hearts of the Native Christians, and of their consequent ability to restore their fallen Church without European assistance. It will stand as a Missionary comment on the Psalm which opens with the vigorous words, "God is our hope and strength, a very present help in trouble," which declares that "the heathen make much ado, and the kingdoms are moved;" and which whispers in every hour of dismayed perplexity, "Be still then, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, and I will be exalted in the earth."

Conversion of two heathen priests.

At Badagry the hitherto hard and barren soil has at length yielded a spiritual harvest to the Native Catechist, who had apparently long toiled in vain, but whose success now requires his ordination in order to supply the Native Pastorate to the Christian community. Inquiry has here succeeded indifference. Adults hitherto careless have become attentive, the more earnest having sought and obtained Christian baptism. An aged heathen priest, occupying a very high position in his idolatrous system, and deriving a large income from his priesthood, has publicly renounced his idols, and is now using all his influence and employing all his energy in the cause of the Gospel. With a clear and intelligent grasp of Christian truth, he still in all humility raises the petition that he may be kept steadfast unto the end. This conversion has led almost immediately to the renunciation of idolatry and the acceptance of Christianity by another heathen priest.

At Ibadan the Rev. D. and Mrs. Hinderer, isolated from civilization and surrounded by heathenism, have completed another year of toilsome and anxious labour. The accessions from the ranks of the heathen have not been so numerous as in some previous years; but the well instructed Native Catechists and Readers have stirred the heathen masses among whom they have declared and taught the Gospel of Christ. Two of these Native Teachers visited an aged and outcast man in what was supposed to be his last illness. During the ninety years of his life he had seen great vicissitudes. He was of the royal family of the Yoruba country, and had in his youth conversed with Mungo Park in the ancient Yoruba capital. Internal wars subjected him to the chain of slavery in three African kingdoms, instead of securing to him the crown of his own country. At length he escaped from slavery in Dahomey, and fled to Ibadan. Received for a time by a relative, he was rejected when death seemed imminent, because of the responsibility of providing a burial in accordance with his royal descent. Thus the Native Evangelists found him a royal outcast in the streets of Ibadan. His strength was restored. His idols were, with a determined mind, cast away. His strong memory and sound sense enabled him, notwithstanding his advanced age, speedily to gain the knowledge required from candidates for baptism. Scripture truth once traced on his memory seemed indelibly engraven on his heart, and on Advent Sunday he, who was destined to be a king, but doomed to be a slave, was enrolled a soldier and servant of Christ in the infant Church of Ibadan.

The member of an African Royal family becomes a disciple of Christ.

A Native Pastorate Fund was commenced last year, and the sum of 20% was raised. This year the amount obtained has been 30% 5s. Should the European Missionary, from exhaustion of strength, be compelled to retire from the guidance of the infant Church, there are two Natives selected and recommended for ordination, who may be expected earnestly and intelligently to preach Christ to their countrymen.

LAGOS.

In addition to the many demands on the time and energies of the Rev. J. A. Lamb, Secretary at Lagos, the completion of a new church has occupied much of his attention. Contributions have been cheerfully given towards the excess of outlay over estimated expenditure. The more important work of building up the spiritual Church has also advanced. Mr. Lamb writes concerning these efforts:—

The building of our new church has been a great work, and it may well be called "Christ's Church" from the very gracious answers which have been granted to prayer in the supply of means, men and materials for carrying it on. In times of need helpers of different sorts have been raised up, and the work has never had to stop for lack of funds. Just recently, when we were almost at a stand, two ladies, unasked, undertook a collection in the place, and have raised upwards of 70*l.*, whilst money is very scarce and trade very dull. . . . We hope the church will be opened for Divine service early in the new year.

Crowded
Bible
meeting.

But the main thing is the progress of the spiritual building, and this I trust has, on the whole, been gradual during the past year. We have interesting proofs from time to time of spiritual life. One of our members, who was only baptized this year, has been the means of bringing eight others to join the class of candidates for baptism. Only one of our members has died during the year, and, to the best of our belief, she departed in the faith of Christ. We had a Bible meeting a few evenings since in this church, and the attendance was enormous, doors and windows being crowded, besides a well-packed inside audience, long before the proceedings commenced. A collection amounting to more than 10*l.* was made, which, in addition to upwards of 13*l.* collected in the places of worship on the preceding Sunday, made over 24*l.*, and this while both we and the Wesleyans are draining all we can for church and chapel building. Our Native Pastorate collections (a penny a week from the members of our different classes) have been regular during the year, and have amounted to about 11*s.* 6*d.* per week. The congregations have been regular and good. As I have stated in previous accounts, there are at times many things to discourage, but surely we are not without witness that God is working with us, and that our labour is not in vain.

A distinct impression of the labours in which Mr. Lamb, assisted by native agents, is engaged, will be obtained by the perusal of a brief summary of his ordinary work. Mrs. Lamb, it will be seen, is actively employed for the spiritual benefit of the female part of the community:—

spiritual
Lagos.

On the first Sunday in the month, the Lord's Supper is administered in English, and on the third in Yoruba, after morning service. On the second Sunday baptism is administered in the afternoon service. In the afternoon I go out street preaching with one of the schoolmasters; in the evening I hear the children, living with us, repeat Scripture. On Monday the schoolmasters read with me in the Old Testament from four to five P.M. At eight P.M. we have a Prayer-meeting of the agents at the station in the Mission House. On the first Monday in the month we have a leaders' meeting at seven A.M. On Tuesday I have an evening class at seven for soldiers and English-speaking young men connected with the church, whose business prevents them from attending leaders' classes in the afternoon. On Wednesday I have the class of candidates for baptism at five P.M. On Thursday the schoolmasters read Greek Testament with me, from four to five in the afternoon. On Friday, at five P.M., I have the members' class, which is conducted after the manner of a weekly lecture. On Saturday I prepare for Sunday. Every day of the week brings its own employment, besides fixed ones, which keep one's hands ever occupied. The building of the new church has absorbed a large portion of my time.

Mrs. Lamb conducts the female Sunday school, comprising adults and children, and takes an English class morning and afternoon. She teaches daily in the girls' and infants' schools, and, in doing so, is training some of the more promising girls as teachers. On Tuesdays and Fridays she has extra Bible and working classes in the afternoon. On Mondays she has a mothers' working meeting, and on Wednesdays a ladies' working party. When free from other duties her hands are always employed on behalf of our new church, towards which her basket has handsomely contributed.

The girls' school and infants' school, which have been instituted by Mrs. Lamb, are, I am thankful to say, on a self-supporting footing. The separation of the girls from the boys has been a recent work, and we are most grateful to God for having provided us with an efficient teacher.

The infant school is carried on, under Mrs. Lamb's superintendence, by one head teacher and one under teacher, besides two pupil teachers.

During the last five months of the year the Bread-fruit Church and congregation were, in consequence of the Rev. A. Mann's visit to Europe, transferred to the care of the Rev. J. B. Wood, who, while announcing the necessity for the enlargement of the church, and the readiness of the congregation to raise the required funds, is compelled at the same time to regret the existence of a moral and spiritual standard lower than he could desire. A Native minister and a Catechist assist in the public services. The day school contains 118 boys and 60 girls, and the infant school 192 children. The adult members of the congregation are 429, and the communicants 184.

A spontaneous proposal has been made to relieve the Society of the charge amounting annually to 250*l.* for the Mission Schools of Lagos. European Missionaries, Native Pastors, and Native Laymen, have formed themselves into a joint Committee for the purpose of raising the money and regulating the management. This effort to render substantial and permanent relief to the Society's funds is described by Mr. Wood:—

Mission Schools costing 250*l.* per annum to be transferred to Native
Christians.

We have arrived at the conclusion that the time has come to place our day schools in Lagos upon a self-supporting basis. At the present time these schools are maintained at an expense to the Society of 250*l.* per annum. From the payment of this amount, or, at any rate, the greater portion of it, we consider it our duty to seek to relieve the funds of the Society, and we think we have reasonable ground to expect to be successful. Our plan is to form a Committee, to be made up of Missionaries and Native Pastors in charge of stations, and about an equal number of lay Native gentlemen. The schools are to be made independent of the Society's funds, and to be supported by the fees paid by the scholars, and the subscriptions of those disposed to contribute towards the carrying out of this object. We think many will lend a helping hand. We wish also to raise the standard of our day-school teaching, so as to make our schools undeniably deserving of the local support for which we intend to ask.

A number of Native Christians who fled from Abeokuta at the time of the outbreak in October 1867, have been under the spiritual care of the Rev. V. Faulkner, at Lagos. Nearly 170 have thus been gathered together; about 100 of them being communicants, and the average attendance at the Lord's Table being more than seventy. A school has been opened in connexion with this temporary church and refugee congregation. There are in the school 124 children, and the average attendance has reached 100.

The Rev. W. Morgan, Native minister, has the spiritual oversight of a congregation at Ebute Ero, which has gradually advanced during the last two years from 80 to 120. There are seventy communicants, and the school contains nearly seventy children.

Badagry.

After much fruitful toil on a barren soil, encouragement has gladdened the heart of Mr. Pearse, the Catechist at this place. The services have been well attended, and the general aspect of the work has been hopeful. Some remarkable conversions have occurred, but before the details connected with these conversions are given, a passage on the state of the Mission may be quoted from Mr. Pearse's review:—

I am very thankful to be able to say that the aspect of the work in this place is becoming more promising and encouraging. Notwithstanding the spiritual hardness of the soil, and the frequent desertion of the place by our converts and others, yet the Lord has so vouchsafed His blessing on our humble endeavours, that a small congregation has been gathered, numbering from 80 to 120 on the average, forty-seven of whom are regular attendants of class meetings for religious instruction, and of these eighteen are communicants. Even in the estimation of some of the once notoriously indifferent Popoes, natives of this place, the name of Jesus is becoming more and more precious. In our list of candidates for baptism I have, besides others, no fewer than nine Popoes, who have renounced their idols and attended the means of grace in good earnest: there is also a day school of thirty children.

Contrasting the present progress of our work with the past, I have abundant cause to praise God for what He has been pleased to do in this place by our unworthy instrumentality.

Fourteen adults of both sexes have renounced their idols during the past year, inclusive of a few native Popoes, whose names have been enrolled in our list of candidates for baptism at their earnest request; and among them are our old friends Akibode and Musolowo. "Is any thing too hard for the Lord?" Surely none need despair who are persevering in the faithful use of the means without any apparent success. In other localities the conversion of such a few during the whole year may not be much accounted of, but in this notoriously hard soil, where all hopes had been disappointed for so many years, when we see aged sinners and Native Popoes, not only convinced, but really converted to the Lord, we exultingly exclaim, "The Lord hath done great things for us whereof we are glad." Formerly, during a whole year, we could not count one; but now as many as fourteen. Surely we may say, "What hath the Lord wrought!" May we be enabled "to see greater things than these!"

A heathen priest, of great influence, after years spent in halting between two opinions, has deliberately renounced Ifa, with all the gains connected with his priestcraft, preferring even hunger and want in God's service to plenty and sin in the service of Satan. Concerning this man Mr. Pearse gives the subjoined account:—

Akibode was suddenly moved to a speedy and public renuncia- An in-tion of all his Orishas. He was a chief of the Babalawos, and had fluent long since been convinced of the truth, but not converted. His and estabcase is very singular indeed. He had placed his children and their lished mother in the hands of the Rev. C. A. Gollmer, and this was the heathen means of their conversion. But the reputation he won by his Ifa priest recraft, not only in this place but also in Porto Novo, Okeodan, nounces his Ipokia, Addo, and even at Lagos, as a senior Babalawo, secured him idols.
a livelihood for life as a Babalawo. To embrace Christianity himself, as an old man, is to cut off his only staff of daily bread. This is the difficulty under which Akibode had been labouring. Indeed, he had partially given up the Ifa craft, but was now and then tempted by want to respond to the promising calls of the heathen to consult their Ifa, but he could not give up coming to church, unless disabled by illness. Well, he went to Addo to ask for some old debts. Whilst there, he in a few days got an unusually large amount of cowries and animals by the Ifa craft, when it irresistibly occurred to him that he was being fed for the slaughter. He quitted Addo, returned home, and called on me in great uneasiness, to tell me the state of his mind. On the 29th of July last he attended early prayers. Soon after prayers he produced at the front of the church a large bag, well tied, before us all, in the presence of his son Simeon, who lately came up on a visit. Delivering up the contents of the bag to me, he said, "I had meant to drag them through the market on a market-day, proclaiming in the hearing of the people that I forsake the devil and serve him no more; but there is no time for that now. There they are, the Devil's images. He has bound me these many years. By the power of God I bind him to-day, and lead him here in triumph. He is the Lord's captive. I believe that God, who feeds the birds and clothes the grass, will provide for me; but if not, let me die of hunger in the Lord's hands, rather than be well fed for the fuel of hell."

Not less interesting is the account of his conversion, given by Akibode himself, in a letter addressed to the Rev. C. A. Gollmer, now in England, but formerly a Missionary at Badagry:—

I am most thankful to inform you that, after mature consideration of my spiritual condition, and of the obstinate resistance I formerly made to all arguments, persuasions, and entreaties urged by yourself and several other Missionaries who have laboured in this town, it has pleased the Lord to bless those Christian efforts to my soul, and, before it is too late, to bring me to my right mind, and to enlighten me to see the great folly of idolatry. so that about the 27th day of June this year I was enabled to break through all my objections, prejudices and difficulties, and to renounce my Ifa, and every thing else that was superstitious about me, and to enlist myself among the followers and children of Jesus Christ, the only Saviour of sinners, who has borne with me so long. Is it not wonderful that Akibode should become a believer? Though there is nothing too hard for the Lord, yet you and all who know me must feel a debt of gratitude to the all-patient and all-merciful Saviour of the world for having conquered such an obstinate rebel. So you will see that the madness which reigns in this as in all other heathen countries, can be cured. You, among other Missionaries, were entrusted with the only remedy for such deeply-rooted and inveterate madness. That remedy you brought to this town and country at large, and you offered it to me. I refused it, but you compelled me to drink it when you used to visit me in my house here in Badagry, preaching the only true and right way of salvation to me. That remedy which you then compelled me to take has had the desired salutary effect, and cured me of my madness. And feeling so greatly indebted to your instrumentality on my behalf, I cannot but adopt the present course of expressing my feeble thanks to you, and, through you, to all the other Missionaries who have ever spoken to me, such as the Rev. Isaac Smith, Rev. H. Townsend, and the Rev. A. Mann, whom you will soon see in England. I must also beg you to convey and express my thanks to all Christian friends to whom I am personally unknown, such as the valuable Rev. H. Venn and others, who have so often manifested and expressed their Christian love and anxiety, and have prayed, no doubt, for my conversion.

You will doubtless be glad and thankful to hear, that, having felt A convert and proved the efficacy of that remedy to myself, prescribed and seeks to administered by you to me, I am endeavouring to prescribe and make administer the same to all with whom I have any influence, begin- known ning from my whole household to all my distant friends and rela- Christ to tions, especially those at the towns of Pokia and Addo. Since my his heathen renunciation of idolatry, I have visited these my heathen and relatives. idolatrous relations and friends about three times, endeavouring to lead them from their error and folly to the right and true way—the way of the Lord. All in my house, together with myself at the head of them, are in the class of candidates for baptism. On the 5th July last, after I had delivered my Ifa and all my other Orishas to the Catechist at this station, I had three of my children, born since you left this coast, baptized by the Rev. J. B. Wood. Two other daughters of mine, now living with my son Simon at Lagos, will be baptized shortly. In this way I am endeavouring to show my gratitude to the Lord for His sovereign mercy to me, and I crave the assistance of you all, by your prayers, to help me, that I may continue steadfast unto the end.

The conversion of Akibode soon led to that of another heathen priest, concerning whom Mr. Pearse thus writes:—

Oronyomi, a slave from Agada, a farm village of Porto Novo, and a Babalawo, is now a free man and a candidate for baptism. He was acquainted with Akibode as a senior Babalawo at Addo some two years ago. He left Agada with a view to practise the Ifa craft from place to place as far as Lagos, and then to return. He got to a place called Ijégò, near Ipokia, and there met with Akibode, who left on a short visit to his people, not as a Babalawo, but as a preacher of the Gospel of salvation to his people. The man, quite dumb with surprise and wonder, accompanied Akibode home, who introduced him to me by the name of Osu (Ifa's servant). The man said, "I am but a young man compared with Akibode: I know not the tenth part of what Akibode knows in Ifa. He sees danger in that way hereafter, and so runs from it as to abandon Ifa. Who am I to stand against a danger which makes Akibode fly? I flee at once from the wrath to come. I fly to God Himself, because I know Ifa cannot save me." I persuaded this man in vain to keep his Ifa for a little while until he had

I know that Ifa is truly the devil's implement, and therefore, as I give myself to God, I will not keep the devil's property any longer." In about a fortnight after, he came to tell me that he would not keep his name Osu, but would assume a better name, viz. "Orunyomi," i.e. "God saves me," literally, "Heaven saves me," because he is not returning again to Agada, and thus he is doubly free.

Otta.

Vacillation of a heathen king, and hesitation of the people in reference to the Gospel.

The Rev. James White, Native Minister at this place, describes the work as stationary rather than progressive. A disposition has been shown to indulge in the slave-trade, and many of the people appear to hesitate between heathenism and Christianity. The spiritual duties discharged by Mr. White, assisted by other Natives, and the vacillating state of mind exhibited by the King of Otta in reference to the Gospel, are mentioned:—

On Sundays, whilst I take the service at home, Mr. George goes out in the morning and Mr. Clarke in the afternoon, to preach to the people. On Thursday afternoons Mr. Clarke takes the service, and, according to arrangement, I visit the King for the purpose of reading God's word to him. Besides visiting the chiefs and people as often as my time permitted, I have had to attend not only to the sick among our converts, but also such of the heathen as asked my assistance, and I have endeavoured to benefit them in every possible way. In compliance with the request of His Majesty the King of Otta, I visited him once a week, for the purpose of reading a portion of the Bible to him, and his astonishment is often excited at the facts it contains. As far as I can judge of him, he is no opposer to the things of God. He professes his belief in Him, speaks with reverence of Him, and occasionally prays to Him, though at the same time he still clings to the gods of his fathers.

Latterly we have generally had good audiences in our out-door preachings, and we have generally had encouraging replies from the people. One man has boldly come forward to join us during the year. An old woman is a regular attendant at church, and several times we were pleased to see many of those whom we invited to church during Divine service.

Our Sunday and Thursday afternoon services, and the classes of communicants and candidates for baptism have been regularly kept, and the attendance in general has been good. The Lord's Supper, too, has been duly administered monthly, and our Sunday and day schools have been regularly attended.

Bishop Crowther was, on his arrival, welcomed by the elders of Otta, and proceeded to explain to them his Missionary

Friendly
reception of Bishop Crowther
by the elders of Otta.

All the elders of the town came in a body to welcome my arrival. Here also, as at Igbessa, the feelings of the people have changed in our favour. A space of twelve months has given them sufficient time to detect the lies of evil-doers and our malicious opponents. The head chiefs, and chiefs of the second rank of this town, who about this time last year came about the Mission premises, armed with the strongest suspicions of our proposed improvement with brick buildings, as intended to supplant them in their country, were the very first now to promise that all shall be decided in our favour before I leave Otta for Lagos at this visit. I took the opportunity of their visit in a body to give them ample information of my proceedings at Bonny, Brass and the Niger, and to assure them that some of the chiefs of those countries are actually paying to have what they foolishly refused to receive gratis. To convince them of this previously, I sent copies of my printed local contribution lists and receipt of school fees at Bonny and Brass to several of the Native agents in the stations in this Mission, for the information of their converts, congregations and their chiefs. I told these chiefs, as a matter of fact, that instead of urging them to let me improve the buildings in their town, I had already half promised a portion of the building materials to Mr. Morgan, of Lagos, to cover his chapel, which was lately consumed by fire.

I confirmed nine candidates. Expecting that during the service the King must send for Mr. White, I arranged duties so that he could be at liberty to leave the church at the call of the King, should he send for him, which he did. I remained at church undisturbed, and continued the service. After confirmation, I preached to an attentive though small congregation from Luke vii. 48—50, and encouraged them to go to Jesus, the friend and Saviour of the vilest sinners. After service, Mr. White returned from the meeting, and brought the heart-cheering news that the King had expounded the whole matter, vindicated our characters, had given us full permission to proceed with our brick buildings, and wished us great success.

Bishop Crowther visited Igbessa on his way to Otta. The King and chiefs received him with cordiality. The prejudices and suspicions of former years had disappeared, and the messengers of the Gospel had, by patient continuance in well doing, put to silence the ignorance of foolish men. The Bishop's own language shows the change effected during the last two years:—

When I was here last, in 1867, they were all full of fears, prejudices and distrust, which all along had characterized this people from the very first attempts made by the Rev. C. A. Gollmer, some fifteen years ago, to take up this place as a station, but which proved a failure through the malicious intrigues and wicked misrepresentations of the Lagos slave-trading party, who have been our bitterest enemies in the country. But now the authorities of the country are thinking for themselves, and are guided by their own observations. Upon the small plot allowed us for building now stands a neat mud house, occupied by our two Native agents, with their families. The front verandah of it is used for school and service on the Lord's-day. Thus the Lord has given us a footing at Igbessa in a house of our own, how small soever it be, where the people have more freedom to visit the Mission agents, and converse with them on the subject of religion, than when they were in a hired house, generally shunned by the people. Spies from our enemies at Lagos and elsewhere, and Mohammedan interest, lost no time or opportunity to watch the proceedings of the Mission agents to prejudice the minds of the Native authorities against them; but they were not alone: the Lord was with them, and made all they did to prosper. They became the sole trustworthy counsellors of the chiefs in times of perplexity, and their judicious advice was in many cases taken and followed by the chiefs. Thus the population was led to see that we had been slandered. They have found us after all to be their true friends.

Of inquirers, and more particularly of one whose gods "are already stored up in a corner of the Mission house," Bishop Crowther writes:—

quirer deposits his gods in the
house.

There are two inquirers at Igbessa: one is a Popo of Badagry, who has been residing here since the last fight at that place. He appears to be serious in mind, and begs that the Popo should not be neglected. The other was formerly a Native of Otta, who was frequently invited to attend the means of grace when at that place, but obstinately turned a deaf ear to all; but since his removal to a small village in the neighbourhood of Igbessa he has found no more comfort in his idols; so, like the prodigal son, he sat down and deliberately considered his case. The result was that he walks three or four miles to Igbessa every Saturday to attend Divine service; and he ultimately brought his Ifa, the god of palm-nuts, and his mud image of the devil, to Mr. Cross, as unprofitable things, and for the last four months has been a constant attendant on the means of grace, and is trying hard to master the alphabet of the Yoruba Primer. His gods are in our possession, stored up in a corner at the Mission house. I carefully examined and pointed out to him the danger of making a rash vow and a hasty resolution to become a Christian, lest he should regret the step hereafter; but he said he had counted the cost. The general tone of feeling among the people of Igbessa is very favourable to our work; and if, under God's all-wise disposal, such feeling should continue, we may ere long hear of great changes among the heathen.

ABEOKUTA.

Opposition and hostility having gradually subsided, two Native Ministers, the Rev. W. Moore, who had remained at the out-station of Oshielle, and the Rev. W. Allen, who had returned from Lagos, assembled the Christians for public worship in the Ake church early in the present year. The description of these services by the Rev. W. Moore will be read with much interest :—

We arranged to commence the service on the first Sunday of this year, and accordingly we agreed that all the Christians in Abeokuta should be told to meet there on that day, at the usual hour, for morning service ; that notice should be given of a collection to be made on the occasion ; and that the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper should be administered. The arrangement for the performance of the duty of the day was that I should commence it by reading the first part of the prayers, and the Rev. W. Allen the remainder, and then that I should preach to the assembly. Mr. D. Williams walked round to the houses of several Native traders of the Ake congregation, to encourage them to make a good collection. According to arrangement, on the first Sunday of the year, the 3rd of January, I rode to Abeokuta after due preparation. Mr. Allen and myself entered the church at half-past ten o'clock A.M. It was with much difficulty we made our way toward the pulpit. The large church was filled to overflowing : those who were sitting outside, for want of room within, were counted by a Native merchant, and found to be 250 souls, besides the large number within the church. The service of the day was conducted as already stated. I preached from the words, "And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midst of the bush, and he looked, and behold, the bush burned with fire and the bush was not consumed. And Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt." (Exodus iii. 2, 3.) In considering the subject before us we could not but take a brief review of the hostility of the ungodly towards the Church from the creation of the world down to our time. The desire has ever been to crush and to extirpate her, but God's will has been to uphold and to preserve her, and therefore she remains unto this day. We trust she will remain for ever, sustained by the Omnipotent. As the Church of Christ in Egypt was in the fire of tribulation and persecution many days, and was not consumed, so the Church in Abeokuta bears a resemblance to it. For many months it was in the flame of the fire of affliction and persecution, yet it was not burned. To see so many Christians assembled together this day to do homage to the great Jehovah in the name of His beloved Son Jesus Christ in Abeokuta, after they had been so much persecuted by the heathen authorities of the town, was indeed a marvellous sight. After the service, the Lord's Supper was administered by myself and the Rev. W. Allen to 316 souls. The season was very solemn, and full of much spiritual refreshment to us all.

The evening service was conducted by Mr. D. Williams, when I had the agreeable task of receiving fourteen children into the Church by baptism. The collection made on this day has been comparatively large: it amounted to 1128 heads and forty strings of cowries, besides 30s. in cash. A head of cowries being equal to 1s. 3d., the whole amount collected is equal to 72l. 1s., the largest of any of the different collections ever made in Abeokuta. The deep sense of the loss which the Society sustained by the late outbreak must have been the inducement to such a spirit of liberality on the part of the converts. Many heathen have congratulated the Christians on having been privileged to re-enter once more their largest place of worship in Abeokuta.

conduct
heathen.

Our week of prayer was celebrated in the following manner:— On Monday, the 4th of January, the Christians were, in accordance with previous arrangement, reassembled in the Ake church for prayer, which was conducted by Mr. D. Williams. On Tuesday all of us met again at Igbore for prayer, which was conducted by Mr. Allen. On Wednesday, the 6th of January, the Prayer-meeting was held at Ikija, of which I took the lead. On Thursday, the 7th, each congregation was told to hold a Prayer-meeting in its own church. On Friday all came to Oshielle, and Saturday the 9th was observed in the same manner as Thursday. I should not omit to mention the pleasing behaviour of many of the heathen towards us Christians throughout the week, while passing through the streets of the city to the different places to meet for prayer. They cheerfully greeted us, and used many expressions of goodwill to us, heartily wishing us God speed. The whole scene of the commencement of the year seems to be full of encouragement, and favourable to the Christian cause in Abeokuta. With regard to the public view in general, we sincerely hope that the Lord may vouchsafe that it may continue as favourable and improving throughout the year.

The Christians have during the suspension of Divine worship manifested the greatest abhorrence of heathen practices, and baptism has been sought to a greater extent than could have been expected, considering the opposition to Missionary effort shown by many in authority.

In November the foundation of a new church was laid at Igbore, Abeokuta. The proceedings on the occasion are also described by Mr. Moore:—

The foundation of a new church was laid on the 23rd November at Igbore, for the congregation late of Igbein, instead of the one they had been deprived of at Igbein on the 13th of October 1867. To celebrate the day as religiously as possible, all the converts of Abeokuta were invited to attend the ceremony of the day. The honour of laying the foundation was conferred on me: both Mr. Allen and myself were in our surplices on the occasion. After singing a hymn, the following inscription was read by me:—

“Abeokuta, Nov. 23, 1868. This is a happy day to the congregation late of Igbein, in that they are permitted to lay here this day, among the Igbore township, the foundation of a new church, instead of the one they lost on the 13th October 1867, when certain heathen idolaters of Abeokuta rose suddenly against the Christians, with the intention of driving them and their religion from the country. This church is built for the Church Missionary Society, the foundation of which was laid by the Rev. W. Moore, Native Minister, in the service of the said Society. The Rev. W. Allen is the present pastor of the said congregation.”

The inscription was then placed in a small European earthen jar, and the first lump of clay was also carefully placed on. Having thus done, I declared that it was duly laid in the name of the Holy and ever-blessed Trinity, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Then I spoke a few words, suitable to the occasion, to the people. Mr. Allen also spoke a few words to the people. The schoolchildren sang a hymn in English, prepared for the occasion, and I pronounced the benediction. It is hoped that the congregation will undertake all the expenses of the church. They took the exact measurement of the old church at Igbein. The inscription asserts that the 23rd day of November is a happy day to the congregation late of Igbein; and I trust the tidings of the scene of this day will be both happy and interesting to all true friends of Christ whose minds were, just about this season last year, filled with holy grief and sorrow by the tidings of the demolishing and destroying of the houses of God in Abeokuta; so that the foundation of a new church, instead of the one which was destroyed, is now laid, and will, we trust, encourage all the supporters of Missions to hope and pray for more glorious days of Gospel light in Abeokuta, when the idolatrous heathen of this part of the world shall become the heritage of the Lord Jesus, and the uttermost parts of the earth His possession.

IBADAN.

A general view of the work at Ibadan has already been given. The character, difficulties and prospects of the Mission are succinctly narrated in the Rev. D. Hinderer's own words:—

“Slow and sure,” I think may justly be the text for the retrospect of our work in Ibadan for the year now drawing to its close. The beginning of the year found us still occupied with building and repairing our dwellings. This finished within the first quarter, all went with fresh love and courage to their proper work; the schoolmasters with their little ones, Catechists and Scripture readers, chiefly among the heathen, with the message of the Gospel ; while visiting the members of the Church was not neglected ; and Mrs. Hinderer and myself were chiefly engaged at home with our few pupils, giving them the same course of lessons as mentioned in last year's report, which will be finished, or nearly so, by the end of the year ; and if in future they enjoy and have success in teaching, as they enjoyed and succeeded in their studies hitherto, we shall have cause to be thankful.

Native
Catechists and Readers
the masses.

The work among the heathen, as carried on chiefly by Catechists and Readers, has evidently produced some stir among the masses. This shows itself in various ways, as by a more numerous and constant attendance of heathen hearers at our regular services ; by some more or less decided inquirers from among them ; by others evincing a more decided hatred and opposition ; and, lastly, by some others expressing their regret, but too late, for having neglected to seek their souls' salvation, when urged in days of health to do so by Christian teachers and converts.

Altogether, Mission work is very up-hill work in every branch of it in heathen cities like this, with a purely heathen government, and where no kind of civilization can be carried on so as to go hand in hand with Christianization, its inhabitants as well as the Missionary being, from their isolated position, debarred from mechanical and other similar advantages of civilization.

This inability of outwardly improving the people keeps the most intelligent and thriving away from us, who might otherwise be the very persons to be attracted ; and the young people growing up in the Church naturally leave, to seek those means of improvement on the coast, and there they settle. It is only when God graciously sends an awakening spirit that towns and tribes, in such a case, can be expected more generally to embrace Christianity. Meanwhile, we rejoice in individual conversions, as filling up the number of God's elect, and hastening His coming to establish His kingdom with power.

The diligence and earnestness of a Native Catechist, who occupies a partly independent position, may be noted :—

and earnestness of Native
Catechist.

The change which I made in the occupation of our third station, Oke Ogunpa, where the only few promising converts were removed by death, or scattered before or on my return two years ago, has had some good result. The Catechist there is indefatigable and persevering, and from the way he goes after the people, especially those whom he has once drawn to him, we may, as far as human instrumentality is concerned, expect a blessing. The heathen there evidently are aware of his power, and persecute decidedly and persistently whenever one of their people appears really desirous of joining the Church.

The collection for a Pastorate Fund has this year reached Native 30*l.* 5*s.*, which makes 10*l.* 5*s.* more than last year, when we Pastorate had the first collection of the kind. This progress, I think, is Fund at very satisfactory; for it must be remembered that we have not one Ibadan. in our Church who can be called rich, but most of them rather poor, and no European besides myself to help even with a few pounds, but all contributions, except those of our Native Teachers, are in cowries, of which no less than a million must be collected, all but a few thousands, to make up the above sum; and people in England can perhaps hardly realize how thankful a Missionary, in a country like this, feels for such a token of good among a small Christian community surrounded by masses of heathen, together with whom they had been taught by general example for centuries past, that it is sweet indeed to receive and to take, and to take even by force, but nothing of the "more blessed to give than to receive;" but the spirit which pervaded our Meeting gave every one the impression that the blessedness of giving is beginning to be felt among our people.

The conversion of the aged man already mentioned, whose descent is traced to the Yoruba Kings, who had met, in his early days, the African traveller, Mungo Park, and who had passed through many vicissitudes, is narrated in fuller detail by Mr. Hinderer:—

I may give a short account of an old man's conversion at the eleventh hour. His heathen name is Adayemi, "A crown fits me," and he belongs to the royal family of Yoruba proper. His age cannot exactly be determined, but he cannot be very short of ninety, if not past it. He was born and lived for a long time in Katanga, the ancient capital of Yoruba, Oyo; saw there and conversed with Mungo Park and the Landers on their overland route to the Niger. Subsequently, when Ilorin devastated the country, and Oyo became desolate, those war misfortunes brought him into slavery successively in the Yoruba, Egba, and Egbado countries. From the latter he at last narrowly escaped the hands of Dahomey, and ran to Ibadan, where he was taken in by a female relative. There he became seriously ill during the latter part of last year, and as everybody expected his death, his own female relative cast him out into the street, saying that he was a king's son, and that she was too poor to bury him as such. Thus he was left to die on the dunghill, as it is called in this country. If, through a life of slavery, toil and sorrow, the crown failed him for which in his infancy he was named, it was evidently so in his apparently last hour. In this distress, and, as it was considered, his last illness, he was often addressed by our Native Teachers, Messrs. John and Lamyonu, who also relieved occasionally his bodily wants; but notwithstanding their endeavours, he remained for some time very obdurate and hostile to the Gospel; but the perseverance of Lamyonu especially was at last crowned with success. As the old man got better he was again taken into the house of another relative, and, when he had gained strength enough to move, he came to our services, and soon his old prejudices in favour of his numerous idols and against the Gospel gave way : then he joined the class of candidates for baptism, where, notwithstanding his great age, he made wonderful progress in storing his mind and feeding his heart with the new means of happiness, the leading truths of the way of salvation through Christ. I have never met a person of his age in this country with such a memory and sound sense as he possesses. A Bible story once told he will repeat the next time, almost without a mistake ; and when he sometimes embellishes it, you can clearly trace the workings of his mind in it. But for the sake of brevity I will only add, that, since his baptism on the first Sunday in Advent, he often speaks of "the crown above," while at his baptism it was evident that he could not have to wait long for its possession. It was affecting to see him making his way to the baptismal font leaning on his staff, and as I pronounced the words in Yoruba, "We receive this person into the congregation of Christ's flock," he chimed in with a truly patriarchal voice, "Amen, Amen, Amen, so let it be." Yes, and may it be so with many a poor Ibadan man like him !

NIGER MISSION.

Onitsha, 1857 ; Akassa, 1861 ; Lokoja, 1865 ; Bonny, 1866.

GENERAL VIEW.

Persecution in the Niger
Mission.

CAPTURED by a chief when last ascending the Niger, and conscious of the danger to which the Mission Stations had subsequently been exposed, Bishop Crowther this year commenced the ascent of the river with an anxious heart. Nor were his fears groundless. At Onitsha, after eleven years of quiet progress, rude hostility has been encountered. The foundation stone of a large and substantial church was laid on the 30th of November 1867, and the increase in the number of converts seems to have raised the jealousy of the heathen king and chiefs. The fixed determination of a daughter-in-law of the King and of a daughter of an influential Chief, to receive Christian baptism, notwithstanding the strenuous efforts made to dissuade them, seems to have created much opposition to the Mission. Persecution at length took an active form. The Christians were forbidden to assemble for the worship of God, and were fined. A female slave was purchased with the fine, <sup>Cruel sa-</sup> was mercilessly dragged a distance of two miles to the river, <sup>crifice of</sup> and there offered as a human sacrifice to atone for the sins of the <sup>a female</sup> people in permitting Christianity in their country. <sup>slave.</sup> On the arrival of Bishop Crowther an interview with the King was arranged. The charges against the Christians were made with much violence on the part of the King, and were answered with much calmness by the Bishop. The King strongly urged the Bishop to enact that the Christian converts should join their relatives in heathen worship, and the Bishop as strongly refused to lay any such injunction upon the Christians. Towards the close of the interview a convert appealed with much force and power to the King, by drawing the contrast between his own former life as a heathen subject and his present life as a Christian. The King admitted the strength of the argument, but afterwards ordered all Christians to quit the country. Soon, however, he cancelled the cruel edict, and solemnly guaranteed liberty of worship in Onitsha. Two effective Catechists, who have long laboured diligently in the Mission, are to be presented to Bishop Crowther for ordination on the occasion of his next visit, and will thus become the Pastors of the Church of Onitsha. The words of a Native brother of that Church, on the subject of persecutions, have a wider application than to the little band of Christians on the banks of the Niger—"Safety," says he, "evermore accompanies duty; and when we are in God's way we are under God's wing: preservation and protection we shall have if God may thereby be more glorified; but sometimes danger is better than safety, and a storm more useful than a calm."

At Lokoja Bishop Crowther found that the little Christian <sup>Lokoja</sup> Church had been distracted and disturbed by the tumult and <sup>besieged.</sup> agitation ever inseparable from war. His rescue had been effected without revenge upon his captors, and hence three piratical chiefs of the river were emboldened to assemble around Lokoja in the hope of seizing the British merchandize there accumulated. During eight months the pirates, to the number of 1200, besieged the little colony, and though always defeated in their attempts, they only retired when they had reason to expect that the British vessels, in the course of their annual visit, were approaching. Massaba, King of Nupe, sent effective aid to the beleaguered settlement, and its safety is perhaps due to the succour he rendered. But amid the conflict and confusion the Mission work proceeded with a regularity which elicited much thankfulness from Bishop Crowther. Indeed, these commotions have not prevented a measure of extension. The heathen residents of the settlement have declared in favour of the Christians. The school has made good progress, and a new Prayer-house has been erected under the auspices of a Chief. An event also occurred which tested the strength of any superstitious feeling which might still remain among the members of the Church. The British Consul desired to build a house on Mount Stirling, on which stood two large trees, regarded by the heathen as most sacred. Not even Mohammedans would approach the idolatrous grove in which they stood. These trees must be felled in order to afford a site for the proposed house, but the agent of the Government could not persuade the Natives to undertake the task, since death was considered as the certain consequence of such a daring act. In this difficulty an appeal was made by the Consul to the Christian Church. A meeting of its leading members was held, and a resolution to fell the dreaded trees was unanimously adopted. The first tree soon fell under the axes of the Native Christians. The second tree was respited by an intervening Sabbath, but fell on the following Monday. On descending the hill the Christians were congratulated by the Consul on the evidence given to the surrounding heathen and Mohammedans of the reality of their faith in Christ.

St. John's Gospel in Arabic presented to King of Nupe, and sent to
Sokato.

Connected with the Mission at the Confluence may be noticed the visit of Bishop Crowther to Massaba, King of Nupe. Eleven years had passed since the last interview, and the Mohammedan King, having heard of the Christian Bishop's capture and rescue last year, earnestly requested that he would visit him at Bidida. The Bishop was received with every mark of honour and respect. Copies of St. John's Gospel in the Arabic were accepted by the Moslem King, who also took charge of a copy for the Sultan of Sokato. Thus Bishop Crowther reaches a Sultan in the interior of Africa.

Archbishop Longley and Bishop Crowther.

Archbishop of Canterbury and Bishop
Crowther.

A connecting link between the See of Canterbury and the Niger Mission was not only formed at the consecration of Bishop Crowther in Canterbury Cathedral by Archbishop Longley, but was also maintained by a description of the progress of the Niger Mission annually transmitted by the African Bishop to the English Archbishop. It will be seen from the quotation now made from Bishop Crowther's correspondence, that the late Primate of all England, amid his numerous and onerous duties, found time to cheer the heart of the Missionary Bishop:—

The Archbishop, by his last testimony, written with his own hand a few days before he fell asleep, has left the declaration of his own feelings as an unmistakable record to the Church of Christ of the evidence of his faith, the certainty of which he was soon to realize, and has expressed his confidence in an immediate pardon and acceptance, through the only means and source provided by God the Father for man's salvation, the atoning blood of Jesus Christ His Son. It was a weighty evidence of a dying man of God, given to the Church against the corruption of the age, to warn her against the fatal rock of error.

His last letter to me, dated July 6, 1868, breathed tender sympathy with Missionaries in their difficulties among the heathen, together with joy and congratulation in their success; neither did he overlook the difficulties in the mother Church; but these he looked forward to overcome by a firm assurance of faith, expressed in these words:—

"I have to thank you very much for all your kind expressions and good wishes. The times are indeed most trying for the Church; but He who ordereth all things in heaven and earth will guide and guard it so as to accomplish His righteous purposes. It is only by the consciousness of such support that one can be sustained under all anxieties that must press on one who is placed in the position which Providence has awarded to me."

Before entering upon any details connected with the different stations on the Niger, a concise review of the events, and more especially of the persecutions of the year, from the pen of Bishop Crowther, may properly be introduced. The Bishop, it will be seen, is filled with devout gratitude to God for the preservation of the Missions on the Niger during an anxious and perplexing year:—

Bishop
Crowther's review of the Niger
Mission.

Onitsha Mission has been tried this year by persecution, but it has pleased God to deliver it from the fiery trial: the faith of the Christians has been tested, but they have come out of the furnace purified seven times.

Such an ordeal is painful to flesh and blood; but it has pleased God to permit it as His appointed test.

One cause of the persecution was, that some relatives of Chiefs have renounced heathenism, and have been baptized and numbered among the Christians. Their heathen relatives became angry because the converts have forsaken the superstition of their forefathers and adopted a new religion which is hostile in every respect to their idolatrous system. At a large meeting of the Chiefs and people at the King's house, at which a strong party of Europeans from the steamers on the river were also present, many and grievous complaints were laid against the Christians, to the effect that many of their relatives and people have forsaken the worship of their gods, and would no longer join them either in offering or in eating things sacrificed to them; that unless I would pass a law to bind them to join in these heathenish rites, they would be forcibly prevented from attending places of worship. I could pass no such law: the Christians stood firm, and resolved never to return again to the worship of dumb idols. As might have been expected, the King in Council fined the Christians to pay thirty bags of cowries, about 30% in value, and with a portion of this fine, paid by the Christians, a female slave was bought by these heathen authorities; and this poor innocent victim was offered as a sacrifice to the gods, and was dragged alive the distance of two miles from the King's house down to the river, and the mangled body was cast into the stream of the Niger, to atone, as they said, for the sin of their people in forsaking the religion of their forefathers. The persecution rose to such a height that the Mission agents were ordered to quit the country because they had estranged the minds of these people from them.

King and Chiefs of Onitsha promise not to
Christians.

But, through God's mercy and powerful interposition, the Chiefs and King were convinced of the folly of their rash proceedings, and have repealed the law against attending church. The King, moreover, swore a double oath, first by his national oath, and, as if that would not satisfy the Mission agents and the converts, he called for the Bible, the book of the Christian's God, and swore also by it that the Christians should no more be molested in his country; that every one was at liberty to go to any place of worship he pleased. Thus the God of Missions averted the impending danger of breaking up this Mission, for which we give Him the glory.

Lokoja has also had its share of troubles, though not from persecution. Three piratical Chiefs connected with Abokko in the disturbance of last year encamped against the settlement. These Chiefs manned their canoes with their slaves, with the determination of plundering the stores of the West Africa Company. For more than eight months these pirates tried to take the settlement and rob the stores under the Consul's protection, he himself being present on the spot, but, however, they failed in accomplishing their covetous wishes.

During their attacks on the settlement their bullets and slugs often flew over the houses, threatening destruction to the Mission station; but the Mission agents kept their little flock together, and continued their weekly round of religious instruction and school duties without intermission. That they were enabled to keep themselves calm, and the people together, at stated hours of religious teaching, was a matter for much thankfulness to the Lord of the vineyard for His protecting care.

That such an unsettled state of things in the country would prevent the accession of fresh candidates to the Church may easily be imagined. But all is quiet again, and I hope it will so continue.

Two of the senior boys of the Lokoja school were removed to Lagos for an advanced education in a larger school, with a view to enlarging their minds and preparing them for future usefulness on their return.

I was encouraged at Akassa station by being privileged to admit four adults into the Church by baptism. There were also six inquirers on the list of candidates for that rite. The people are attending the places of worship better than formerly, though not as yet by a large number; but we have everything to encourage us to persevere in sowing the seed in season and out of season. The first boy who was received into school at this place was brought with the two from Lokoja to Lagos for further improvement, with a view to employing them as religious teachers in their own country at some future period.

The Mission at Bonny continues to progress and to encourage: though no visible result of conversion has taken place, yet the Gospel leaven is at work. Having been absent from the Mission some five months, I can only give a paragraph from the King's letter to me, which contains all I can say of Bonny at present.

"July 1st, 1868.—My dear Bishop, you will be glad to hear that the sermon you preached in my house has, by God's assistance, taken its effect, and on the 15th ult. the horrid custom of destroying twin-born children was abolished in Bonny for ever and ever; and thanks be to God for the wonders He is working in Bonny! Who would have thought of this miraculous change? (Signed) George Pepple, Rex." King of Bonny's letter to Bishop Crowther.

Though no visible results of individual conversions have as yet taken place, yet no one can shut his eyes at the gradual national change which is taking place from barbarous practices to obedience to the preaching of the Gospel.

At Brass, the Mission is fairly started. The two Kings seem to be in earnest about its operations. They have paid 50% each to make the 100% assigned to them. A small dwelling-house of boards on piles has been erected for the use of the Mission agents. In a room where Divine service is held on the Lord's-day, the attendance averages fifty persons. Progress at Brass.

The worship of snakes and the practice of cannibalism prevail here to an incredible degree, but I do not despair, God working with us, in due time of convincing them of the abominations of these practices.

Brass.

The veneration of reptiles and the practice of cannibalism are the great difficulties here to be surmounted. The King having, in accordance with the agreement made between himself and Bishop Crowther, granted the land for a station,

impoverished by the veneration of

and cleared away the bush, Mission premises have been built. There are about fifty attendants on public worship, and twenty children in the school. Some idea of the grievous delusion and injurious superstition of the people may be gathered from the account given by the Bishop of the extent to which serpent-worship prevails. The country seems completely impoverished by the veneration with which reptiles are regarded :—

The fathers are very anxious to give their children as boarders, but there is a great difficulty in my way on account of the scarcity of provisions at this place, in a country where no rice, yams, Indian corn, beans, &c., are grown, except a very scanty supply of cassada planted by women, barely sufficient for the planters themselves, and where no live stock is to be obtained, such as bullocks, sheep, goats, &c., unless at four times the value of other places. No poultry could be reared on account of the snake cobra, a species of boa-constrictor, which is held sacred here by the people. Not to be killed because sacred, they become possessors of the bushes, and prove a great annoyance and nuisance to the country. They very often visited the poultry coops at night, and swallowed as many as they wanted ; in consequence of which no poultry could be kept, either by the Natives themselves, nor by the supercargoes in their establishments on shore : neither goats, sheep nor small pigs escaped them. Thus the country is literally impoverished by them. I myself was an eyewitness of one of these instances of late at the establishment of the Company of the African merchants, on the 13th of October, and two of these reptiles had to be removed by their devotees, after they had devoured seven fowls from the kitchen, leaving some, it is true, for Mr. Lyons for his meal, and yet he dared not kill the creatures, because, by the treaty, he would be fined one puncheon of palm-oil in value ; at the same time the treaty made no provision for compensation to the sufferers of their stock. To support this superstition, two articles in the treaty made and sanctioned by Thomas Joseph Hutchinson, Esq., H.B.M. Consul for the Bight of Biafra and the Island of Fernando Po, on November 17, 1856, run thus :—

“ Article 12th. That long detention having heretofore occurred in trade, and much angry feeling having been excited in the Natives from the destruction by white men in their ignorance of a certain species of boa-constrictor that visits the houses, and which is ju-ju, or sacred, to the Brass men, it is hereby forbidden to all British subjects to harm or destroy any such snake, but they are required, on finding the reptile on the premises, to give notice thereof to the chief man in town, who is to come and remove it away.”

“ Article 13th. That should, unfortunately, any casualty of said reptile's death again occur, the master or supercargo, who himself or his people has been guilty of the same, shall pay a fine of one puncheon of palm-oil, and his trade shall suffer no stoppage : any detention occurring after this amount has been tendered will render the chief liable to a fine of one puncheon of oil per day."

Onitsha.

Mention has already been made of the persecutions at this place. The proceedings are thus given in detail by the Bishop:—

As the converts were persecuted, and the Mission agents threatened, the question was put whether they had anything to say against the Mission agents and the converts. Then a man, who was particularly instructed to be their spokesman on this occasion, was sent for, who came into the court-yard with a large number of rough and ferocious followers. He proceeded to address the meeting in a most malicious manner, enumerating their grievances respecting the converts, who have entirely separated themselves from joining in the superstitious customs of the country, such a separation on the part of the converts being so great a loss to those who still adhere to their heathenish practices, that they would bear it no longer. Therefore they wished the King to make a law prohibiting the converts from going to church any longer, and to compel them to return to the custom of their forefathers. During his long and malicious complaints against the converts, he several times appealed to his heathen party whether what he had said was not true, to which the whole of them uttered their unanimous assent with loud yells, which were heard afar off. We waited to hear what the King would say on the subject, as the complaints were made directly to him, and he was requested to pass a law to forbid the converts going to church. The subject needed deliberation, so the King withdrew with his counsellors into the back court-yard to hold a consultation, which occupied about twenty minutes. On their return, one of the King's brothers was commissioned to deliver the decision of the King and Council as follows:—

"(1.) That the converts might go to church, but that the Bishop must pass a law to the effect that they must join their friends and relatives in performing their superstitious rites, and in eating things offered in sacrifice to idols. As their converted wives and relatives have entirely refused participating with them any longer in these things, therefore they must be ordered to do so.

Discussion between Bishop
Crowther
and the King of Onitsha.

"(2.) That as there is a particular kind of fish in the running stream at the back of Onitsha, which is sacred to the gods, the converts should be forbidden to catch and make use of such a fish as food ; and that, as they have been in the habit of doing so since they have joined the Church, as well as taking up the live fowls offered up in sacrifice to the gods and let go as living scape-birds to carry away the evil they deprecated, they be forbidden thus to use them.

“(3.) That the converts be forbidden to put on European dresses, and their wives to tie their head-bands in a particular way, because such habits resemble a masquerade of their national superstition.

“(4.) That Onitsha women should not be employed in working clay for buildings, because they would never do so for their husbands.

“(5.) That an agreement should be entered into for marriages between the children of the settlers and those of the natives of Onitsha, that all may become one people, or else they could not see how we could profess to be their friends without such arrangements.”

Having sent for a Bible as my credentials, I replied—

“That, as regarding the sacred fish in the river, it was an easy matter, which did not require any prohibition; that if the converts persisted in eating it, then two or three of them would die from the anger of the gods whose property they have stolen, and the rest would be frightened from committing such a sacrilege any longer.

“That we never urge any one to put on European dresses, nor could we instruct a woman in what way she should tie her head-band, inasmuch as we never object to the dress in which any one attended church, provided it was clean and becoming.

“That their wives were never employed in working building clay, but they were willing to be employed by us in fetching water or any such work they were able to do, for which they were paid; which plan their husbands did not adopt to insure their ready assistance in this way.

“That no law or arrangement can be made by any authority to compel marriage between different people: that this was entirely a matter of option between the parties, and not a matter of law.

“That as regarded the first and most important proposal, I told them God’s message to mankind was in the Bible, wherein He has clearly declared that His rational creatures should worship Him alone; that the idolatry which God has forbidden to all, and which I came to tell them was wrong, was the very thing they wished me to command those who obeyed God to return to; that it was as much beyond my power to command the converts to return to idolatrous worship, as it was beyond my power to prohibit the soul from leaving the body when God called it away.”

convert.

Adam Ayanbu, one of the converts, stepped forward and bravely defended the cause of Christianity, relating the good it had done at Onitsha, he himself being a living witness of its blessed effects. He appealed to them all, who could not but remember him to have been a very wicked man, a thief, a liar, an immoral character in time past, and asked whether, since his conversion to Christianity, they had ever had cause to complain of him as formerly. It was Christianity that made this change, and, therefore, rather than that any one should take his religion from him he would lose his life. This testimony before his heathen King and Chiefs, and a strong band of fierce-looking opponents to the religion whose cause he advocated, was a strong proof of the power of the Gospel, of which he was not ashamed or afraid to speak and declare boldly before the authorities, at the very time they had combined to deprive the Christians of their Christian privileges.

The naval officers could not help remarking the boldness and the depth of feeling with which Adam Ayanbu defended the cause of Christ.

Lokoja.

The Rev. T. C. John, Native Minister at Lokoja, dwells somewhat in detail upon the assault on the town, the services of the Church, and the weekly meetings for prayer:—

These men caused the greatest disturbances in the settlement, Trials at every now and then firing their large guns into the town. These Lokoja. were the “fightings without.” But, thanks be to God, in the midst of all this the work was scarcely let or hindered. Special prayers were offered up at the throne of grace to the God of hosts; and we have much reason to believe that our prayers, together with those of the Churches on our behalf, have not been in vain. It is to the prevailing efficacy of these prayers with God that we owe the preservation of our lives and the continuance of our work in this place, especially when we remember that more hopeful and promising fields have, under the like circumstances, been either vacated or abandoned. We may further add, in ascription of praise and glory to Him, “The Lord God omnipotent reigneth.” Although still confined to one spot, yet we may gladly report, that in this place the word of God has had its free course, and the glad tidings of salvation preached, and interesting conversations held with those who are without, the results being left with Him who giveth the increase.

The congregation on the Sabbath-day numbers 100 men, women and children in the morning, and between sixty and seventy in the afternoon. The Hausa and Nupe are still used as mediums for imparting instruction. The second lesson is always read in Hausa. For want of a translation of the Prayer-book at present only a few prayers can be used in Hausa. The Lord's Prayer, Ten Commandments, and Apostles' Creed, collected from Schön's Primer, have been learnt by the children at school, and are now and then repeated in church.

In addition to the Sunday services, I have also established a weekly social Prayer-meeting. This takes place every Thursday afternoon, and I am happy to state that the people take a lively interest in it. Here prayers are offered up for ourselves, our work, and for all estates and conditions of men. A Prayer-meeting is necessary at all times, in peace or in war; but we in an especial manner felt the desirableness of this kind of religious exercise during this year, when our community was every now and then disturbed by wars and rumours of wars; and not unfrequently when the enemy was firing his guns at us, we were found on our knees pouring forth our breath to the Lord of Sabaoth.

The spirit in which Bishop Crowther undertook a visit to Nupe, and the manner in which King Massaba seems disposed to regard the efforts of the British to penetrate the interior of Africa, are shown in the subjoined language of the Bishop:—

Visit of Bishop
Crowther
to the
Nupe.

As I was about to visit Massaba, the powerful Mohammedan King of Nupe, in whose dominions our Lokoja station is situated, there was great reason at this juncture to appeal directly to the Lord of the vineyard, in whose hands are the hearts of kings and rulers, that He would turn and dispose them as it seemeth good to His godly wisdom. Having thus committed this into God's hand, we have only to wait and hear what the Lord will say concerning us, and on behalf of His own purposes of mercy for the Niger.

King Massaba is becoming more and more sensible of the privilege of being recognised by Her Majesty's Government as a friendly King in the interior of this part of Africa. He not only boasts of the privileges of such a recognition, but acts up to it in meeting the wishes of that Government. He has offered Lokoja, at the confluence of the Kwara and Tshadda rivers, as a trading settlement, under the supervision of Her Majesty's Consul, and sent a detachment of his soldiers to protect it. He has opened a wide and extensive trade in his dominions in all kinds of marketable produce. The "Thomas Bazley" and the "Myrtle" were, under King Massaba's protection, both safely lying at Egga pursuing their ivory trade without the least molestation. Not only this, but the King anticipates further and more extensive good results. He distinctly expressed his wishes that Lokoja should become a large and important trading-place on the Niger, into which all from the upper and lower parts of the river may resort, and the tribes from the interior on both sides of the rivers may bring the produce of their ground. Whatever amount of presents may be given to such a King, he deserves it, inasmuch as he has already met in part the wishes of Her Majesty's Government in their philanthropic objects to civilize Africa by legitimate commerce, which will ultimately prepare the way for the downfall of slavery in the country.

Lokoja is already becoming a place of refuge to many oppressed slaves, who are made use of by their masters to go out in canoes in their piratical expeditions in the rivers. Several have deserted the pirate Agabidoko, and regained their liberty at the Consular jurisdiction, under Massaba's protection, and others are ready to follow them.

To prove that Massaba was sensible of the great privilege of being recognised as a friend by Her Majesty's Government, the King was sending two large ostriches as presents to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, but unfortunately they were so cruelly treated by the Natives who had the charge of them from Bidda to Egga (their wings and their legs being too tightly tied with cords to secure them in the canoe, the circulation of blood was stopped) that both the poor creatures died as they were being put on the gunboat at Egga, to the great regret of all.

MEDITERRANEAN MISSION.

(Commenced at Malta in 1815.)

I. Turkish Mission.—II. Greece.—III. Asia Minor.—
IV. Palestine.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

European Mission Establishment:

Rev. Sigismund Wilhelm Koelle, Ph. D. (m) to West Africa, 1847; to Palestine, 1856; to Constantinople, 1862.

RIGID restrictions, enforced with vigilant alacrity, still cast a Moslem in-paralyzing influence over the public proclamation of the <sup>tolerance.</sup> Gospel in Constantinople. Aroused by the persistent en-duration of the disciples of the Cross, and by the published evidence of the truth of Christianity, both in Europe and in Asia, the Moslem press pours forth defences of Islam and attacks on the Gospel; but, with a jealousy that seems stimulated by conscious weakness of its cause, Moslem power forbids the publication of any treatise hostile to the Mohammedan faith. Hence secrecy, the only defensive weapon of the intimidated, has of necessity marked the events of the year. An edition of the "Life of Christ," intended for the higher classes, has disappeared like outpoured water on a thirsty soil. An edition for the common people is required. Inquirers approach the Missionary silently, and almost stealthily. The candid Moslem youth of Asia Minor must become cautious when inquiring after truth in the capital. The Pasha from the same region visits the Missionary, and gazes with a deep, but departs with a silent, interest in the doctrine of the Resurrection as it stands forth, full and clear, in the fifteenth chapter of the first Epistle to the Corinthians. But woman abides more boldly by the Cross. The persecuted, reviled, threatened female inquirer, whose confession is that she looks to "none but Christ as her Saviour," and whose faith is strengthened by the daily reading of the New Testament, can meet the threats of power with the declaration that she is "ready to die, but not to deny." The courage of a female convert has brought a complete family to Christian baptism, a success not hitherto gained by the Society's Mission in this city. Impressed with the blessed influence of the Gospel over her husband, the Moslem wife inquired earnestly after a religion so manifestly divine in its effects, and last Epiphany an open profession of service to Christ was made.

While the Moslem population of the city avoid converse with the messengers of the Gospel, the mountain inhabitants of the Kurdish villages welcome the Christian Catechist, and desire his permanent residence among them.

The influence of religious treatises, especially of the "Life of Christ," to which reference has already been made, and the readiness of the Kurds to receive the Native Catechist, are noticed by the Rev. Dr. Kocle:—

Influence of religious publications in Turkey. Although our controversial publications for the Mohammedans are prohibited by Government, which prevents our publicly distributing them, yet as our private action is unfettered, we have been able to circulate a number of copies among persons who expressly applied to us for them. The tract on the "Life of Christ," printed here at the expense of the Religious Tract Society, sells publicly without hindrance; and as the first edition was intended solely for the learned, I have now nearly ready for the press a second simpler edition, to suit the wants of the common, less educated people.

A long Missionary tour was undertaken by our Native Catechist to Kurdistan. He found the Kurds he visited in their mountain villages very willing to listen to the Gospel, and brought with him a direct invitation to the Society for a teacher to live permanently among them. These Kurds yield only a forced submission to the Turks; are merely nominal Mohammedans; and one of their chiefs confessed to our Catechist, "We do not know ourselves to what nation, what book, or what religion we belong." Our Catechist regards them as Armenians, who, under Persian tyranny, lost their own language, outwardly conformed to Mohammedanism, and at last retired to these mountains to insure a degree of savage independence.

All the members of a Moslem family were received into the Christian Church by baptism on the Epiphany of the present year. This is the first time since the commencement of the Mission that an entire Moslem family has been baptized. The Mohammedan wife seems to have been much influenced by the power of the Gospel over her husband. Dr. Koelle narrates the circumstances in a recent letter:—

I have been privileged, on Epiphany-day, to admit into the Church of Christ the first entire family thus received since the establishment of this Mission. The mother, who, though unable to read, has succeeded in learning the Lord's Prayer, the Creed, and the Ten Commandments, and emphatically declared her dependence on Christ alone, and none else, for pardon and salvation. She was first baptized. Then her husband was received back into the Church, he having been baptized in his infancy, but apostatized to Mohammedanism soon after his father had perished during the massacre at Damascus. He expressed sorrow for this sin, and for some time past has been seeking mercy from the Lord, not only for himself, but his whole family, so that his Mohammedan wife confessed that a religion which had such an effect upon her husband must be true, and that she was resolved to embrace the same Gospel. Then the children were baptized—a girl two years old, and a fine, intelligent boy of six years, whose name had been Mustapha, but who some weeks before had discarded this Mohammedan name, and called himself James. On one occasion, when our Catechist asked this little fellow whether he prayed to God, he promptly replied, "Are there men who do not pray?" I hope I shall be able to secure admittance for him into a suitable school.

The management of a Mission school containing 200 girls, the maintenance of the Church services, and the circulation of the Scriptures, have mainly occupied the Rev. F. A. Hildner. Work maintained amid

Heavy rains in the spring, followed by intense heat in the summer, caused greater mortality than the visitation of the cholera three years ago. Pestilential fevers penetrated localities hitherto regarded as enjoying immunity from their influence, whilst the stagnation of commerce increased the sufferings of the community. Amid these difficulties the Mission work has been maintained, and its maintenance at such a time under a Government hostile to Christianity, and disposed to place a very limited interpretation on its promises of religious liberty, may be regarded as advance. The extended journeys undertaken of late years by the younger Mr. Wolters and the Rev. R. H. Weakley, of Constantinople, have been prevented by the prolonged illness of the latter. The little effect of temporal calamities, and the general aspect of the work, are briefly stated by the Missionaries :—

We wish it could be said that these calamities were producing a preparedness in the minds and hearts of the people to receive the Gospel message. As far as Smyrna is concerned, however, we can see no difference. On the part of the Greeks there is the same impassiveness and pride nourished by political party spirit. "We are Hellenes; we are the Orthodox Church," covering on one side superstition and ignorance, on the other religious indifference and scepticism. On the part of the Turks we meet with the same exclusiveness, the same utter aversion to talk on religious subjects, the same fear of being suspected to be at all favourably inclined towards Christianity. Our work in Smyrna has been at a stand-still. Yet not quite so. Now and then we have had intercourse with Mohammedans; from time to time Scriptures and other books have been circulated; the Greek service has been continued on Sundays, and not a few have in this way heard Gospel truth for the first time. The Bible class in Greek, too, has, with a few interruptions, been held every week. But what we want is to get at the Turks, and this we have not been able to do hitherto, or at least not to any appreciable extent. The barriers which shut us out from them have not yet been removed. We cannot visit them in their houses. In public places they are afraid to be seen talking with us. It was only the other day that a Turkish gentleman called, professing to take an interest in religious discussion. An offer was made to return the call in his own house. But he excused himself. He always had guests, and we should be unable to converse freely. Thus we are bound to wait until Turks come to us—we cannot go to them.

JERUSALEM.

Jerusalem is a peculiar and difficult field of Oriental <sup>Difficulties</sup> Christianity and Moslem delusion, in which the labourers are <sup>in Jeru-</sup> still constrained to utter their regrets, and enter their protests <sup>salem.</sup> against the manner in which religious liberty, guaranteed by the Ottoman Government, is ignored or eluded by the local authorities. Vexatious hindrances are thrown in the way of the Protestants, and little redress can be obtained. The Moslem, who are inquiring and perhaps convinced as to the truth of Christianity, are afraid to avow their convictions, and the Gospel is as much impeded in Palestine, the country where first proclaimed, as in many countries where last preached. The Missionaries are, however, cheered by the effective help rendered by a few Native brethren, who preach the Gospel with much wisdom and power. Mission schools are exercising great influence. For the purpose of supplying by sale the Scriptures and other religious books, the Rev. F. A. Klein has been authorised to open in Jerusalem a book-shop, of which he thus speaks :—

Inquiring Moslem
Sheikh.

I was enabled, during the year, to open a book-shop. We have now a supply of Arabic Bibles, New Testaments, and religious and other useful books, bought from American Missionaries at Beyrout. I hope soon to have a small supply also of Bibles and New Testaments in Turkish, Armenian, Greek and other Oriental languages, so that Natives from any part of the East may be supplied at our shop with the word of life. Many persons, Christians and Moslems, have visited our shop, and a good number of books have already been sold. In connexion with the book-shop, I may mention the case of a Mohammedan Sheikh who came to visit us there, and has since been every week several times, and also attends our Lord's-day services. He says that he has, by "comparison of the New Testament with the Koran, come to the conviction that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, that the Gospel is the divinely inspired book, and that Christianity is the true religion." He says that "there is a large body of Moslems of the same conviction with him in Persia, and that their Chief Sheikh, who has written a treatise on the Divinity of Christ proved from the statements of the Koran, has been sent into banishment." I never yet saw a Mohammedan who seemed to me to be so sincere in his professions as this man, and endowed with such a keen feeling as to what a divinely inspired religion ought to be. I have seldom met with, among the natives of this country, a Moslem who felt the weight of the argument of the high spirituality of Christianity as compared with the sensuality and outward character of Islam as this man. May the Lord lead him, and those of the same conviction, into all truth, and give them grace to confess Christ after having believed in Him !

The discouragements of this now sterile but once fruitful field should lead the servants of Christ to echo the prayer of the Missionary in Jerusalem :—

May the Lord soon pour out His Spirit in a more abundant measure on the inhabitants of this country. Yea, may His Spirit breathe into these dry bones of Oriental Christianity and Islam, and give us, His servants, a richer measure of His Spirit, of faith, zeal and devotedness, that, not despising the day of small things, we may each do his duty in his sphere, and improve the opportunities offered till the day of richer harvest arrive!

A Missionary journey in the country beyond the Jordan, Missionary the land of wild and wandering Arab tribes, has been accom- journey plished by the Rev. F. A. Klein. The Jordan was crossed, in the country and its sultry plain traversed. From the Belka mountains the beyond the hills are seen to fade northward into a blue mist, the Dead Jordan. Sea glitters in the south like polished steel, and the houses of Jericho seem in the distance to be embosomed in groves of palm-trees. In three days Ramoth-Gilead is reached. An excursion is made to the Jabbok. First descending and then ascending its precipitous banks, the Missionary arrives at the village of Burma, inhabited by Christians and Moslem. The Christians not only listen gladly to the Gospel, but receive copies of the New Testament, while in this region even the Moslem claim a right and interest in it. From Ramoth-Gilead to Kerek, the ancient capital of the Moabites, the distance in a straight line is about sixty miles, the direction being almost due south. Not an inhabited village or hamlet is to be found in the whole journey, and the Missionary, escorted by the son of a powerful Sheikh, encamped at nightfall with any Arabs with whom towards the close of the day they happened to meet.

The Gospel has thus been carried to the villages and encampments of the Trans-Jordanic country. Arrangements Mission at Ramoth in Gilead. for a Mission School at Kerek are in progress. At Ramoth-Gilead a devout Catechist and diligent Schoolmaster will probably be transferred from the Bishop of Jerusalem to the Society, and thus it may be said that "Ramoth in Gilead is ours" in a better sense and for a higher purpose than in the case of the King of Israel.

Some details are now furnished. Travelling in a northeasterly direction. Ramoth-Gilead, distant about forty miles from Jerusalem, was reached in three days. Incidents of the journey, the scenery of the country, and the situation of this place, are noted by Mr. Klein:—

The heat was very great, but still there was a refreshing breeze now and then cooling my burning face. We crossed the plain, went along the river Faria for a while, delighted to see green trees and fresh grass on its banks, and to hear the cheering sound of water bubbling on in the midst of reeds and oleanders and other plants. How differently one understands and feels in this country the meaning of the words of the Psalmist, "As the hart panteth after the water-brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee, O God!"

It was already dark when we reached that part of the Jordan where we expected to find the ferry-boat ready to take us over to the other side, but the ferry-boat had a hole in it and wanted repair, so we had to spend the night on this side the river, and swim across the next day, as people did in former days when Turkey had not yet received such a mighty impulse to imitate European civilization, and make railways, and carriage roads, and ferry-boats.

Meditations on the banks of the Jordan.

The next day I rose very early, and went to the bank of the river, where I sat down under the pleasant shade of trees and shrubs, enjoying the sight of water, remembering what had happened in the days of the Kings of Israel and the days of our Lord on the banks of this river, and the plain along which it runs, and strengthening myself for the work of the day by prayer, and supplication and meditation on God's word in this solitude, so calculated to solemnize the mind. The operation of crossing the Jordan on horseback, and carrying over the luggage on the backs of mules, was a novel sight to me, and, though complicated and tedious, I was glad to witness it. The water being very low, not reaching the back of the horse in the deepest parts, there was no danger connected with it, especially as three men familiar with the course of the river accompanied the mule each time it took over a new load. In winter, of course, the operation is more dangerous, and, almost every year, animals, and sometimes men, are carried away by the river, and drowned. They say that Government will build a bridge over it. An English engineer has been here to look at the thing, but whether, or when, it will be done no one knows: it will be a great boon if it is done. Having carried over all our luggage, we bid the Jordan farewell, and crossed the valley, then ascended the low pyramidical hills leading to the plain of the Jordan. The formation of this plain and valley is very remarkable. Here is the now dry and parched plain of the Jordan, running from north to south, between the western and eastern chain of mountains; in the midst of this plain, and lower than it, runs along the valley of the Jordan, hedged in on both sides by fantastically shaped hills and natural ramparts and embankments; and amidst this valley, now also dry and parched, without a green blade, runs along a narrow green streak of reeds, shrubs and trees, indicating the course of the river. As far as the eye could reach, there was not a tree, nor a shrub, nor a green blade to be seen now in the whole of that extensive plain except that green streak winding along its way in the valley, but there were many traces of Bedouin encampments, which cover the fertile plain in spring, when it is a magnificent pasture-ground for the numerous herds of camels and cattle. Perhaps an hour after we had started from the Jordan we reached the foot of the mountain chain which forms the western boundary of Jebel Ajlun and the Belka, and now began a steep and fatiguing ascent of about three hours, on rugged and winding paths over rocks of lime and flint stone, oak and other trees, and the broom, helping to bring some variety into the otherwise monotonous mountain scenery. When we had reached the plateau, however, we were amply rewarded for the fatigues of this ascent, by the sight of that beautiful panorama now spread out at our feet. There was the chain of mountains running along the plain, Jordan to the west, in its charming blue and lilac colours, traceable to the north to a great distance, till they seemed to dissolve themselves into a blue mist to the south, as far as the Dead Sea, which glittered in the distance like a sheet of polished steel. Jericho looked at a distance like white villas spread among groves of palm-trees. The scenery was charming even now, in the midst of dreary summer. What must it be in spring, when all is green and fragrant? Truly this plain is the jewel of Palestine. Pursuing our way on the plateau, we soon began to see signs of cultivation again, chiefly vineyards which yield the famous grapes of Ramoth-Gilead, quantities of which are dried and sent to all parts of the country, as they are the best kind of dried grapes to be met with here; and, after five hours' ride from the Jordan, we reached the far-famed city of Ramoth-Gilead. I was greatly disappointed in my expectations as to this place. I found it large, it is true, but a badly-built town, situated on the declivity of a conical hill, itself rising in the midst of a deep valley, most difficult of access from all sides, and therefore a capital place of refuge and strength against all Bedouin attacks. Horsemen would scarcely like to go down and attack its inhabitants too closely in the valley, as it would almost be as dangerous for them as for a mouse to enter a trap.

tion of Ramoth-Gilead.

From Ramoth-Gilead an excursion was made to the Zerka, that is, the Jabbok, and the Missionary is alike impressed with the sad spiritual condition of the people and the grandeur of the scenery:—

The view was grand indeed. Below us, at a great depth, in a narrow bed bordered by oleander, reeds and various shrubs, ran the river Zerka (Jabbok), the boundary, and strong natural boundary indeed, between the Belka and Jebel Ajlun. On the other side rose the mountains called Jebel Ajlun. By looking at this distinct and strong line of separation by means of a deep valley and river, with high and steep ramparts on both sides, one gets the impression that this must in former times have been the boundary between Gad and Manasseh, as it was the northern boundary of the Amorites, whose land Josephus with great correctness compares to "an island situated between three rivers, the Arnon being its southern limit, the river Jabbok determining its northern side, while Jordan itself runs along its western coast." (Antiq. iv. 5, 2.) Having missed the proper path, the work of getting down to the bed of the Zerka was rather a fatiguing task both for ourselves and our animals. The river Zerka affords facilities for hunting wild boars, of which there are plenty about here, and we just met a sturdy young man from Burma, who had watched all night, but unfortunately this time had caught nothing.

Preaching
in a village near the Jabbok.

After a steep ascent on the north side of the Zerka (i. e. Jabbok), and after having gone on for some short time on the plateau, from which one enjoys a splendid view of the Belka and the country north-east of it, we arrived about sunset at Burma, a small but beautifully situated village, surrounded by olive-trees, and close to the forest. The village is inhabited by about forty families, four being Christians, the others Mohammedans. Soon a pretty large audience of Mohammedans and Christians was collected around my tent. Most of the former looked exceedingly stupid, and could not be brought to listen with any degree of interest to a conversation on religion. The few Christians I met there were decidedly superior to them in intelligence and manliness of character, and I had a long conversation with some of them in my tent on the "one thing needful," to which they listened with great delight. They are totally neglected; but as some of them know how to read, I left them a New Testament, and exhorted them to read the Word of God, and especially to come together on the Lord's-day for the sake of prayer and reading the Word of God. The few Christian families living here and in other villages of Jebel Ajlun originally came from Ramoth-Gilead, and belong, most of them, to a family called the "Huddudin," blacksmiths, and, in fact, many of them are blacksmiths. The headman of the few Christians settled here was obliged to flee from Ramoth-Gilead, having accidentally shot a man, and, being unable to pay the heavy sum required as blood-money, he had no choice but to leave his property behind, and to remain in banishment. The customs connected with blood revenge are much more savage in this country than they are on the west side of the Jordan, and have ruined families and driven others to seek a home elsewhere. The poor people of Burma had hitherto been exposed to the periodical attacks and robberies of the Bedouins, to whom they usually left their houses, taking refuge for a week or a fortnight in the adjoining forest, with their families and the little property they had just time to carry away. Now they are at rest from this curse of the land—this obstacle to all welfare and civilization—and rejoice in the prospect of better days.

Before leaving this place I went to visit the headman of the Christians, where several people had met, and I there read and explained to them a chapter of the New Testament, to which they all listened with great attention, expressing a desire to hear oftener of these subjects.

In the midst of these wanderers of the desert, the Missionary rests on the Sabbath-day, and finds that even the Moslem are disposed to listen to the message of the Gospel:—

On the Lord's-day I had a little Arabic service with my people, and afterwards had much intercourse with Christians and Mohammedans who came to see me. The Moslems here, as well as in other parts of this country, are living on very friendly terms with the Christians, and there is not the same hostile, fanatical and proud feeling to be met here that makes the Mohammedans in many districts of Western Palestine hate Christians and keep aloof from them. Moslems here are as ignorant of their religion as Christians of theirs, and both are alike savage and indifferent to all but their worldly concerns. During the day several intelligent Mohammedans came, who listened very readily and attentively to the reading of portions of the New Testament, saying, "This is not your book alone ; it is ours as well." One of them blamed the Christians very much for being ashamed to speak of their religion in the presence of Moslems. In the evening I had a meeting at the house of one of the Christians, when ten or twelve persons, men and women, attentively listened to the exposition of a portion of Holy Scripture. These poor people are indeed like sheep without a shepherd.

Mention is made, during the journey, of Rabbah Amman, the city besieged by Joab :—

We had now for some time been pursuing our road through an exceedingly monotonous and dreary-looking plain, when we suddenly saw an ancient paved road of very rough construction, with blocks of lime and flintstone stuck in the ground on both sides. This road we pursued till, about one o'clock, we reached the famous city of Amman. We first came to the citadel, built on a hill and commanding the town, which was situated lower down in the valley, on the banks of a little river. Heaps of ruins, columns, and large stones lie about here : parts of temples and of a beautiful Christian church are still preserved. The latter is now used as a stable for camels, which the Bedouins bring in herds to the neighbourhood. This is the Rabbah that Joab besieged ; before the walls of this city Uriah fell. It is very clear that Joab took the lower city, "the city of waters," called so on account of its being built on the banks of the river, and now requested David to come and conquer the "city," built on a separate hill, and higher than the royal city itself. (2 Sam. xii. 26—31.)

Description of Rabbah Amman.

All was desolate, and we rambled about in the midst of the ruins of the citadel, and then went down into the valley without meeting a single living creature. At last we met a Bedouin shepherd, driving before him a flock of goats, and asked him whether there was not a Bedouin encampment in the neighbourhood where we might spend the night in safety. Not having obtained satisfactory information, we determined to pitch our tent in the midst of this solitude, near the bank of the river, and to watch at night so that we might not be surprised by robbers without being prepared. I had just finished my dinner, and it was nearly sunset, when we saw a respectable-looking Bedouin approach our tent. He told us he was of the Adwan tribe, but at present staying at a small encampment of the Beni Hamida Bedouins, and strongly urged us not to stay here over night. So we again packed together our things and followed our guide, who soon brought us to a very small encampment on a dreary little plain without a tree, but with plenty of rocks. We sat around a cheering fire, coffee was made, and conversation on various topics was carried on till I was tired and sleepy, and wished to retire to my tent. A young Bedouin had, in the meantime, brought a most curious instrument of parchment with a string, and regaled the company till late at night with melancholy songs to the sound of the monotonous instrument. The Bedouins are fonder of music and song than the Fellahs, and their Sheikhs exceedingly generous to poets and wandering bards.

Visit to
ancient capital of the Moabites.

Kerek is at length reached. Its situation, the character of its people, and the efforts made for their spiritual instruction, are the subjects of the concluding observations on this trans-Jordanic region, which appears at once much less civilized and less known than the country between the Jordan and the Mediterranean:—

At last we caught sight of Kerek, with its castle and town perched like an eagle's nest on the summit of a majestic-looking rocky hill, itself a fortress. Such I should have imagined to find the ancient capital of the Moabites. When we came near to Kerek we had first to descend into the deep valley, in the midst of which the mountain rises on which Kerek is built. The valley is narrow but pleasant looking, a little stream running through it, with a mill and some green gardens on its banks. We ascended the high hill on a pretty good road winding round it, and at last found ourselves in the heart of this famous town, of which I had heard and read so much, and which I had so often longed to visit. The castle, though partly ruined and much damaged, looks grand, and seems to look down with pride and contempt on the little extremely miserable looking and badly built houses of its present inhabitants. The town, however, is very large, and contains a great number of houses, built in much the same style as the houses at Ramoth-Gilead, only much worse. The people said, that since they were half Bedouins, and there was very little security hitherto to be enjoyed, they chose to build their houses in the lightest and least expensive manner. The Kerekians, Christians as well as Moslems, are more uncivilized and savage looking than the people of Ramoth-Gilead, they being still more cut off from the intercourse of their more civilized brethren on the west. I was at once conducted to the Greek church, where, under an olive-tree, our tent was pitched. The court soon filled with an assembly of rough Bedouin-like fellows: some better dressed older people were among them. As soon as I had rested a little, I went to pay a visit to the Greek priests, whom I found in a respectable little house belonging to the Greek convent, where also a boys' school is kept. This Church is under the superintendence of the Greek convent of Jerusalem, and there is a "Bishop of Kerek." The place has a population of perhaps 900 families, of which one third are Christians: these have two priests. I had some friendly conversation with the priests and some of the chief men who came, on the necessity of reading the Holy Scriptures, and forming our faith according to its teaching. They listened very attentively, and assented to what I said: only one of them looked suspicious and rather vexed at my coming. Several Christians, some of the chief men, came to me, and pressing invited me to come and live among them in order to teach them and their children. Little tracts and books were thankfully received. The Mohammedan Sheikh, the famous Mujelli, a fine looking man with an intelligent face, also paid me a visit, offered every assistance required, and asked me to open a school at Kerek.

I went to see some of the head people, who invited me to come to their houses, where I had good opportunities of speaking to those assembled of the "one thing needful." In one of the houses I visited, that of a Sheikh of the Christians, I also met one of the priests, who tried, though not openly, to prevent people from listening to what I said, or expressing their desire to have a Protestant school opened there. The master of the house, however, told him plainly that he had invited the "English" to come to Kerek: that he would give them a house to live and keep school in, that he would bring children to be taught, and that he and his friends were determined to join the Protestants; whereupon the priest smiled, and said, "You are at liberty to do what you like; on the whole there is not much difference between us, and we are all brethren in Christ." I should have liked very much to have spent at least two or three entire days here, which I should have been able to do had I not lost so much time on the road. I promised, however, to send one of our Catechists as soon as possible, to stay among them and see what can be done for them in order to have them and their children instructed in the Word of God. Sheikh Mujelli again came to me. I spent about an hour in pleasant conversation with him. The court was the whole time full of people curious to see the stranger, or to talk to him, or to get a book. The people of Kerek are "fellahies," i. e. their only occupation is the cultivation of the ground: many keep herds of sheep and goats, and a great number, especially of the Christians, spend the whole summer in black tents like the Bedouins, on account of their flocks. They are a rude and uncivilized people, and only about two years ago the Greek convent of Jerusalem began to show some interest in the spiritual and moral welfare of the Christian community there by opening a school for their children.

NAZARETH.

After much opposition and interruption, the foundations of a substantial church have been laid in Nazareth, so long the place of the Saviour's earthly abode. Although the power of error is great both in the city itself and in the adjacent country, there is every prospect of assembling within its walls many worshippers who know and love the Redeemer. Built by special contributions, the church, conspicuous from afar, will stand on the slope of the hill from the brow of which the irritated Nazarenes sought to cast the Saviour, at once a monument of the desire to leave untouched, resources intended for the heathen world, and to plant the Reformed Church of England in the city of Nazareth. Two Native Catechists have visited and preached in many villages of Northern Galilee.

The Rev. W. F. Locke Paddon is devoting himself to the language, in order to become qualified for service in the Mission. The visit of Bishop Gobat, the state of the congregation, and the efforts made to itinerate, are noticed by the Rev. J. Zeller :—

Progress at Nazareth.

In May our congregations were encouraged by the visit of the Bishop of Jerusalem, who, during his ten days' stay, had a great deal of conversation with Protestants, and with the principal men of the other communities, Christians and Mohammedans. The Bishop exhorted the Protestants to show their sincerity by their willingness to contribute to a Pastoral Fund ; but as long as the present system of extortion and heavy taxation exists, we cannot expect much from the people. In Shefamer the erection of a place of worship appears every year to be more necessary.

The spiritual life of the elder members of our congregation has evidently been strengthened and is progressing. The attendance at our services has become more regular, and the attention paid to the sermons has often been striking.

At the request of several members of the community, the Lord's Supper has been celebrated every month. A young Druse of good family, from Mount Lebanon, who is convinced of the truth of Christianity, was sent to me by the American Missionaries because he was persecuted by some of his relatives. He is now preparing for baptism, and his conduct, as well as his zeal, prove his sincerity. The indifference of the women to spiritual subjects continues to be a drawback to our work, and a matter of anxiety. We find it difficult to induce them regularly to attend a Bible class, which Mrs. Zeller and myself are conducting once a week.

Two pious young men from this place have been received into the seminary of the American Missionaries in Abeih, in order to prepare for future usefulness in our Mission here ; and two boys have been admitted into the Diocesan school of the Bishop of Jerusalem, whilst seven girls obtain their education in the school of the Prussian deaconesses at Jerusalem.

In September our Catechists, Michael Rawar and Seraphin Bon-tagi, made a Missionary tour to the north of Galilee, and preached the Gospel in a considerable number of villages. I myself travelled thrice to Jerusalem, visited Tiberias, and our out-stations in the neighbourhood, and at Shefamer and Caiffa.

Most of my time has been occupied with laying the foundations of the church. The situation, though in other respects a most excellent one, presents, on account of the sloping ground, a difficulty, and we had to dig the foundations to a very considerable depth. On account of the utter want of skilful workmen in these parts, and from the want of an experienced overseer, I was compelled to be constantly on the spot.

BOMBAY.

Native
in Bombay.

The Rev. Appaji Bappaji, Native Minister in Bombay, announces a decided improvement in his little flock, comprising 70 members and 37 communicants. The mutual duties of pastor and congregation are better understood. Contributions for the support of the pastor and for the assistance of the poor Christians have been made with readiness, and, considering the resources of the Christian community, with liberality. Monthly meetings for reading the Scriptures have been commenced, and the pastor has been gladly received in the homes of the people.

There have been six adult baptisms during the year. A brief account of these accessions to the Native Church is given, together with other statements connected with this Native Minister's work:—

During the year under report there were six adult baptisms. I baptized one man and his child last Christmas. Since his baptism he has given me entire satisfaction by his Christian walk and conversation, and by labouring independently of us for his support. Another man, who was baptized by Mr. Carss, on Easter Sunday, is also giving us and his employers satisfaction as a faithful Christian servant. The third I baptized on Whit Sunday. He reads his Bible regularly, and tries to bring his reading to account in his behaviour. He is an ornament to our congregation, and every one speaks highly of him as a consistent Christian. A fourth, an Ayah, was baptized in October last, and this month a Mohammedan was also baptized.

I have seven inquirers, who give hopes of coming out from darkness to light. One of them is a very influential man, and has a large family circle. By them he is considered a saint for his good conduct. If he comes out he will lead many to the knowledge of the truth.

Preaching
to the
heathen.

Another branch of my work is preaching to the heathen. For this I go almost twice every week to the Bhendi Bazaar. Here I have had many good opportunities of addressing large congregations of persons of all castes and creeds, and through this I have made many acquaintances among the heathen. Whenever I see them in their houses or shops they treat me very respectfully. This is also very encouraging, and it gives me an opportunity of speaking to them more closely on the subject of their faith. Besides this stated preaching-place, I have had other opportunities of preaching to the people. In my school I often get the bystanders to listen to me, and I have had long conversations with them. Again, I keep up the plan of visiting my heathen friends in their houses, with a view of having access to them for religious conversation. Also I have had, during the course of the year, a number of visits from my heathen friends, simply to talk with me on religion.

I daily visit the Money School for Bible instruction, and I have regularly taught two classes throughout the year. These two classes bring every day more than 100 boys before me for religious instruction. Besides the regular reading of the Bible, the boys put to me different questions, in order to know more of Christians and Christianity. I often have opportunity of comparing Hinduism and Christianity, and of applying the force of truth to their consciences. Many of them are grown-up young men, between 18 and 25 years of age.

I have six vernacular schools under my supervision. These vernacular schools I consider a first step to Christianity for infant heathen minds; for these, properly worked, will be of great service to our cause in time to come, when many a youth will have reason to bless his Creator for knowing the Scriptures from a child.

About 220 children, 160 of the number being girls, are taught the facts and doctrines of the Gospel in the six Marathi Schools superintended by Miss White. During the year twenty-nine promising girls have left the school to join their husbands, of whom many are illiterate cultivators. The advantages of the Christian education given in these schools have been appreciated in the homes of the cultivators, and some of them have expressed to her their thankfulness and gratitude for the instruction received by their wives. Prejudice against female education has been diminished, and the women who resort to Miss White for instruction in the truths of the Gospel often approach her with indications of affection and respect. The influence of the schools may also often be traced among the boys taught in them. Recently three young men, who had been engaged in railway works, and who seem to have been constant readers of the New Testament, applied to Miss White for hymn-books. They were not at first recognised, but afterwards it appeared that they had formerly attended the schools under her charge.

Great is the satisfaction with which the Principal of this school records that, in a numerical and financial point of view, the last year has been marked by signal success. Much assistance has been given by Mr. John Jackson, a trained English master, in the discipline of the school. The progress of every boy in each subject taught has been carefully ascertained, and the school takes a higher position among edu-catational efforts. The University is now established in Bombay; and as the Natives greatly estimate a degree, the Archbishop of Canterbury has conferred that of Master of Arts on the Rev. Thomas Carss, who has now been six years in charge of this important educational institution. There are now 440 scholars, of whom more than 340 are Hindus. It will be seen from the annexed remarks by Mr. Carss, that while rejoicing in the numerical and financial success, he is earnestly desirous of beholding some spiritual fruits of the religious instruction constantly given:—

I have introduced a very healthy system of emulation amongst the teachers, which works admirably. At the matriculation examination of 1867—68, five out of eight candidates passed. The school passed a good examination by the Government Inspector in March, and obtained a fair grant.

The school has now been in existence exactly thirty years, and most certainly never were its prospects brighter, or its standing so good, as at present. The school has suffered sadly in the past from the constant change of its Principals, who have either been removed by death after a short career, or have left the school for the much more healthy and much less laborious and trying work of itineration.

When I remember that I am not merely the Principal of an educational institution, but also a Missionary, I freely confess and deplore, that after all there are few signs of genuine success in a Missionary point of view; but yet, in the absence of other more glorious and more desired results, one cannot but feel thankful for prosperity of any kind. I hope and pray that our prosperity may be a proof that God is with us, and prospering the work of our hands.

Long and continued work in a school has a very strong tendency to deaden and to secularize. May all who take an interest in the school pray that I may be endued with more zeal and love for souls; that I may aim more, pray more and work more for results of a higher and more enduring character than we have at present attained.

NASIK.

Missionary agencies
at Nasik.

The manifold and varied Missionary agencies in operation at this station have, by the retirement of the Rev. W. S. Price to England, been deprived of his guidance and supervision; but the Rev. C. S. Cooke, aided by efficient assistants obtained in the country, has discharged the many duties devolving upon him with energy and precision. The various institutions for promoting the spiritual and moral welfare of the community, form a prominent feature of the Mission, and are thus briefly passed in review by Mr. Cooke:—

There are five institutions at this station, viz. The Orphanage, The African Asylum, Industrial Institution, Poor Asylum and Hospital.

(1.) The Orphanage provides an asylum for native orphans: in it are seventy inmates—forty-nine boys and twenty-one girls.

This Institution depends upon the Christian Public for support. Last year it was deeply in debt. The balance sheet of the Report of the 30th June 1867 showed a debt of 196*l.* 5*s.* Such being the case, we thought it well to make two special appeals—one to the Chaplains, and the other to the religious public. We are thankful to say that these appeals have been most liberally responded to, insomuch that the whole debt has been cleared off.

E. D. Stead, Esq., has kindly accepted the office of Honorary Secretary to the Institution at Bombay, and several gentlemen have joined him in forming a Committee. Through their active exertions, the balance due to the Treasurer was in a great measure reduced.

(2.) In the African Asylum there are one hundred and twenty-four inmates. These are liberated slaves, and are sent here from time to time by Government. Government makes us a monthly allowance of 14*s.* for each boy and 12*s.* for each girl, and also gives us an apprentice fee to enable us to teach the lads different trades.

All the children attend the school, and some have made very considerable progress. Five promising lads have passed the Normal College entrance examination, and we hope in due time most of these will matriculate at the Bombay University, and become good schoolmasters, either in India or in their native land. Mr. Carapit Johannes, is in charge of the Native and African boys, and Mrs. Bunter is matron over the girls.

(3.) The Industrial Institution enables us to teach our Native and African lads various useful trades, and thus to provide them with the means of earning an honest livelihood. Many of the lads instructed in this Institution have become good tradesmen, so much so, that we have not now a single heathen carpenter or smith in our School of Industry. Its carriages, chairs, &c., have an extensive sale; and at the Nagpore Exhibition of 1865 the first prize and medal was awarded to the Christian Industrial Institution for the best built pony-carriage. This School of Industry provides work for some of our poor Native Christians, and enables us to give employment to inquirers during the time of their probation. Mahadu Goray, who learnt coach-building in London, and who thoroughly understands his business, works the Institution on his own pecuniary responsibility. We make him a monthly allowance for each apprentice, and grant him the use of the buildings and tools at a mere nominal rent. In connexion with the Industrial Institution we have opened a Lithographic Press, and are glad to state that we obtain a fair amount of work for it.

(4.) The Poor Asylum consists of a building with separate small rooms for twenty inmates. It affords a refuge for a limited number of the destitute. Many poor, inhumanly neglected heathen have sought the shelter of this Asylum, and of these not a few have become believers in the Lord Jesus Christ. They came to seek the alleviation of their bodily wants, but the blessed Spirit convinced them of sin, of righteousness and of judgment. He opened their hearts to believe in Jesus, to the saving of their souls. There are at present eighteen inmates. The Institution depends chiefly for support upon the European residents and our Native Christians.

(5.) The Hospital was erected by Mr. Price, in 1858. Mr. Price's medical knowledge led him in a great measure to take upon himself the medical charge of the village. Mr. Price, knowing that I would be unable to enter upon this charge, engaged the services of the Rev. James Bunter, before leaving for England. Mr. Bunter, previous to his conversion, was for eighteen years practising medicine as an apothecary attached to a Native regiment. He thus ministers not only to the bodily wants, but also to the spiritual.

Government, in consideration of the African Asylum being associated with the Mission, passed a resolution that the Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals be allowed to sanction small indents for the supply of medicine to the Mission. We have already received two supplies, and some valuable instruments.

The arrangements for the edification of the Native Church, the temporal circumstances of its members, and their charitable contributions, are comprised in another passage of Mr. Cooke's retrospect of the year :—

For the Native Congregation two services are held on the Lord's-day. The Rev. J. Bunter, often voluntarily helps me in conducting the morning services, and Mr. Ruttonji takes the afternoon. Sunday school is held before morning prayers for all classes, and is well attended. Mahadu Goray is the superintendent. He takes great interest in the Sunday school, and is ably assisted in this work by many of the intelligent, pious Christians of the village.

Arrangements for the Native
Church at Nasik.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruttonji have classes for inquirers and poor men and women of the village.

There is a monthly administration of the Holy Communion, daily morning and evening services, and a weekly Prayer-meeting. A lecture is delivered every Tuesday evening. About sixteen of the chief men of the village and myself are the lecturers. We find that the congregation takes a great interest in this class, and that it is very largely attended. Each subject has to be submitted to me, as President, for approval. We are often cheered by seeing some fruit from them.

That power and blessing attend our efforts is strongly brought before us, by the conversion of some from amongst the heathen, by the gradual growth of many of our people in grace and in the knowledge of the truth, and in their desire to promulgate the Gospel of Christ our Saviour.

There are no wealthy members amongst the congregation, which is made up of artizans and labourers, notwithstanding it has contributed sufficient during the past year to support a probationary evangelist and schoolmaster. Its offertory and alms have amounted to nearly 20% during the year.

Mr. Ruttonji is most active in visiting, and helps me much in many ways in my work. He has not yet been presented for Ordination, as your sanction came after Bishop Harding had left for England; but we hope that in the ensuing year he will receive Orders at the hands of our new Bishop.

Evangelistic efforts by Native Agents are recorded in immediate connexion with the gradual conversion of a promising young man, and the secret conviction of a hesitating young Brahmin:—

I have under my direction eight Native Evangelists. These are Conversion sent far and wide through the Nasik district to preach the Gospel. of a promising young man, and at the monthly administration of the Holy Communion and Missionary Meeting. At the latter they strengthen our hands by giving us an account of their work. During their stay in the village they receive daily instruction from Mr. Ruttonji, and preach morning and evening in the surrounding villages. The number of our Evangelists has been reduced by three. One has resigned, another I made over to the Rev. L. E. W. Foote, who had none of his own, and a third has been called to his eternal rest. He was attacked with cholera when on his preaching tour. His companion brought him in here, but remedies were applied in vain. He was struck down when fighting as a good soldier the “good fight of faith.” His trust was in Jesus, and in Him he fell asleep, at peace with God, to wake up in His likeness. Our Native Evangelists are chosen, approved, pious men, and are doing a great work. It is through them we feel that the Missionaries can only reach the masses of the people, and commend the Gospel of Christ our Saviour to the millions of heathen. We have had much to encourage us in connexion with our evangelistic work during the past year.

Nine adults have been received into the church by baptism, and there are at present more than twelve inquirers. Amongst the number of adults baptized is a young man named Shantwan, formerly a Mahar, who struck me as being a very intelligent person, and, at his request, I placed him in the school some five months ago. He scarcely then knew how to read and write, but has since made rapid progress. At a late examination, much to my surprise, I found him possessed of a good knowledge of the Old and New Testament, and other subjects taught in the school. We expect much from this young man, as he is a sincere Christian as well as a clever man. He is studying in order to be a Vernacular Schoolmaster, and we believe he will prove a valuable agent in this respect.

In connexion with this evangelistic work we have had a Colporteur until within the last year, and hope to appoint another in a day or two to take his place. The Colporteur sold many tracts, some New Testaments and other books in the surrounding villages. Some weeks ago a poor Brahmin came to him to beg the loan of a book. He said he was unable to purchase being very poor, but that, if he were trusted with a book, he would take good care of it and duly return it. The Colporteur gave him the book he asked for. After a few days he brought it back and asked for another. In this manner he received from time to time several books. A few days ago I placed my Colporteur under Mr. Foote as an Evangelist, and on his going to the village in which this young Brahmin lived, he found him watching for him, but great was his disappointment on learning that he was no longer a seller of books. The young Brahmin then told him, that by reading the books lent him he was led to see the folly of his own religion, and to desire to become a Christian, notwithstanding we cannot induce him to come and see us. As in the days of our Lord, many believed on Him, but, for fear of the Jews, would not confess Him, so now many secretly among the heathen believe in the Saviour, but, on account of the fear of man, will not acknowledge Him.

MALLIGAUM.

In addition to the care of the small Christian community, numbering 78 persons, the Rev. C. C. Mengé has been engaged in the revision of the Marathi Prayer-book, in directing the usual arrangements for preaching among the heathen, and in superintending the schools connected with the Station. Of the work among the heathen Mr. Mengé writes :—

preaching
heathen.

During the year that is now drawing to a close the Gospel has been preached in more than 100 villages in Candeish, and to about 12,500 heathen, most of whom live at Dhoolia and the surrounding villages, where the Catechist and the Scripture-reader were stationed for about four months. The former reports that a Hindu, who owns a large weaving establishment at Dhoolia, is thoroughly convinced of the truth of Christianity, and desires to be baptized. We hope to see him soon, and to remind him of the necessity of counting the cost before he casts his lot among the followers of Christ.

Besides these two labourers who preached to the heathen at Dhoolia and the surrounding villages, two other agents preached the Gospel in many villages east of Malligaum, and two others again did the same in many villages west of Malligaum. The Rev. E. Sampson, with Native agents, who happened to be in Malligaum, assisted me in preaching to the heathen twice a week, viz. on Fridays in Malligaum, and on Wednesdays in the Camp bazaar, where we had generally many hearers, who attentively and respectfully listened to the preaching of the Gospel.

AURUNGABAD AND BOOLDANA.

With the exception of four months spent in strengthening the Mission at Booldana, the Rev. J. Wilson has continued his arduous and somewhat hazardous labours at Aurungabad. A high-caste Brahmin, with his family, after due consideration and instruction, has received Christian baptism, and fourteen adults have been added to the Church during the year. Mr. Wilson thus speaks of his ordinary duties, and of a recent convert:—

Conversion
of a high-caste Brahmin.

The operations of the Society at Aurungabad have gone on as in former years. I am thankful to add that our Anglo-vernacular school here has now a superior master, trained under Mr. Symonds at Madras. The school-work has been very energetically carried on, notwithstanding the losses we have had to sustain in the withdrawal of pupils, owing to the removal of troops from the cantonment. Mr. David speaks very favourably of the progress of the boys under him. The Marathi and Telugu schools are also doing well. The spiritual wants of the Native Christians have also been attended to. Strict Church discipline has not been resorted to. Those baptized last year and this have kept up their position as Christians in the midst of their heathen neighbours. I may confidently say that the social and moral status of our Native Christians is improving. Constant and systematic preaching in and about Aurungabad has been carried on as heretofore. I want men; and when I have got them I shall be able to carry out my plans relative to assigning districts to them, which may be thoroughly worked. Until then we must be satisfied with small results.

At Saigaum, where Bapuji Teli, the recent convert, had to put up under the shade of a tree night and day, I have at last got a small plot of ground on which to build a schoolroom: a small place has already been built, but it must soon be enlarged. I am also thankful to say that most of the residents of the station have liberally assisted me with contributions, which have enabled me to meet the wants of candidates for baptism, and to keep up a staff of teachers for our school.

JUNIR.

The Gospel carried into nearly 200 villages around Junir. Assisted by a Native Catechist and two Native Evangelists, the Rev. C. F. Schwarz was able, between February and the commencement of the rains, to carry the message of the Gospel into nearly 200 towns and villages. The experience differed little from that of previous years. Translations of the Bible and Prayer-book into the Marathi, together with the preparation of Native agents for spiritual work, have also occupied Mr. Schwarz's attention. There are 140 boys under instruction in the Mission school.

The following passage from the annual review will show the character of the work at this station:—

During the rains the nearest villages to Junir have been repeatedly visited by my Native agents, and in the town the Word has been spoken in almost every lane, but spiritual deadness still prevails. During this season I have devoted part of my time to the preparation of a text-book, for our Native agents, and especially for candidates preparing for the office of Evangelist or Catechist, by translating the excellent Bible History with Notes, most valuable and instructive, by Dr. Kurtz, Professor at Dorpet, of which I have one-third in clean copy. If I am spared, I hope to finish it during the rainy season of next year, with a view to its being printed, trusting that it will prove a great blessing and help, especially to our Native agents, inasmuch as it is well calculated to promote their self instruction. Besides, I have, in accordance with the Bible Society's request, carefully revised the book of the Prophet Jeremiah, in aid of the proposed newly-revised edition of the Marathi Bible; and in October I had great pleasure in assisting in settling the future text of the Book of Common Prayer in Marathi.

As it is always my practice, so especially, during the whole of the rainy season, I have taken care to instruct my Native agents in the Scriptures, and I believe they have benefited thereby in their own hearts, and have thus become more efficient in their evangelistic work.

SINDH MISSION.

KURACHI.

Varied experience at Kurachi. Sorrow and joy, discouragement and hope, have all entered into the experience of the year. The influence of the Gospel seems to have been less evident in the school, and the hearts of the Missionaries have been grieved by the attachment to idolatry shown by many in middle life, who, it was hoped, would avow their allegiance to Christ. Yet the little Native Church has increased in number, and progressed in decision. Three adults have been baptized, while a Brahmin and two youths are so much advanced in Christian instruction, that they will soon be added to the little Church. The dying testimony of a member of the Church seems to have quickened the zeal of the living, as will be seen from the Rev. J. Sheldon's statements :—

One of the Native Christians, a convert from Mohammedanism, <sup>A convert</sup> has been called to his rest, witnessing a good confession. <sup>strength-</sup> Almost <sup>ens the</sup> his last words, after having received the Holy Communion, were, "I <sup>Native</sup> have no other hope than in Jesus Christ." His dying testimony has <sup>Church by</sup> greatly strengthened the Native Church, and drawn forth unmis- <sup>his dying</sup> takeable evidences of zeal and spirituality. <sup>testimony.</sup> Indeed, though comparatively small in numbers, we have all the elements of a promising congregation, except a Native Pastor. To supply this want, and to secure to our infant Church more independence of thought and action, will be our constant aim. In addition to special donations, one of which was the handsome sum of 150 Rs. for improvements to the church, all contribute according to their means, at the weekly offertory, to a general fund. The disbursement of this fund is left in their own hands. They have so far devoted it to the poor amongst them—to travellers passing through Kurachi, and towards the support of inquirers ; but we hope, as our contributions increase, to be able to support a Catechist in connexion with the Mission. This testimony of a dying Christian, the self-denying spirit of his neighbours in watching over and ministering to him during his illness, the unsolicited visits paid by some of our Native brethren to the sick and the dying, in one instance to an European, and the voluntary preaching of others in the bazaar, surely show not only a sense of responsibility, but a true, loving, Christian spirit. Gladly, therefore, do I record my feelings of gratitude, as well as my conviction, that there may be, and is, as genuine piety amongst our converts here as there is in the Church at home.

Services for the heathen and for inquirers, schools for both sexes, bazaar preaching, Bible classes, and the friendly visitation of influential Natives, have been maintained. The value of the Mission school has been recognised by a grant from the municipality. Some observations upon this grant, together with others upon the girls' school, are appended :—

Perhaps the Mission at no period of its existence has numbered so many well-wishers amongst the Natives as at present. One instance of this good feeling may be mentioned. In order to augment our school funds I applied to our municipality for a monthly grant of Rs. 50. After some hesitation, the European members preferred leaving the matter wholly in the hands of the Native representatives, who, after an appeal from one of their own body, unanimously voted the grant. To this I ought to add that our preaching in the bazaar has been generally listened to with respect. On one or two occasions dust and stones have been thrown at us ; but such treatment is wholly exceptional, and arose from the presence and bitterness of a few fanatical Mohammedans. We have four preaching places, three of them being centres respectively of the Sindhi, Cutchi, and Patari quarters of the city. I think it right to state here, that, with the increasing population of Kurachi, both Hinduism and Mohammedanism have been strengthened.

The girls' school has been kept up with varied success. Mrs. Croley has, in a most praiseworthy manner, devoted herself to this work, and has struggled through many difficulties. She and Mrs. Sheldon, assisted by a mistress and a Native teacher, will now have charge of it, and make it the basis of a work amongst the parents of the children. The work is hopeful, and if we succeed in house to house visitation, and the formation of classes for females, we may, under God, look for a rapid extension of this part of the Mission's work. In addition to the above schools, a new branch school has been opened amongst the Africans, and a subsidy of 15 rupees per mensem given to the Society's school at Kotree. As an experiment, I am trying the plan of subsidizing Native vernacular schools. I have amongst the Guzerati speaking people, now supplying more pupils than any other section of the community, 325 boys, to all of whom we can give daily religious instruction ; thus securing, in a Missionary point of view, all we can expect at a trifling cost. The success of this plan will depend wholly upon constant and efficient superintendence.

HYDRABAD.

Progress at this place has not been discernible by the Missionaries, the Rev. C. H. W. Isenberg and the Rev. G. Shirt. Promising inquirers have disappointed the expectations formed of them, and the bazaar preaching has been much interrupted by fanatical Mohammedans. Mr. Isenberg, adverting to the public preaching and translation work in which he has been engaged, adds a few words in reference to a school for Native girls :—

Hindrances at Hyderabad. The bazaar preaching has been continued throughout the year as much as health and weather permitted. Our Hindustani speaking Native helper was suitably exchanged for one who can preach in Sindhi. We always had good audiences, and frequently hot controversies ; but there was little evidence of the true spirit of inquiry. I have often gone home with the inward reproach that we have been casting our pearls before swine. Often our whole time was taken up by some drunken or fanatic disturber, or by those who turned our holiest things into ridicule, and sometimes all arguments were stopped by the unanimous endless shout of "La ilaha il Allah va Mohammed rasul ullah!" certainly the most effectual argument of Mussulmans. To prevent these disturbances, and to render our meetings more efficacious, I have rented therefore a large open room at the corner of several public roads, where we can preach and discuss on our own ground, with decency and in order.

In January I set out on a small preaching tour with brother Shirt and the Catechist, but a severe cold obliged me to return after a few days. I hope to be enabled to make a longer tour this cold season, if God permit.

With the translation of the Scriptures into Sindhi I have now come as far as the second epistle to the Corinthians; and the preliminary translation of the Old Testament, with which a Native translator is occupied, will, I trust, be finished in about six months. I translated also the Services for morning and evening prayer, and the baptismal service for adults, as well as several German hymns, which we sing to the respective German tunes at our evening prayers and on Sundays.

Our little school for Native girls we removed in the beginning of the year to more favourable quarters. The average attendance was about fifteen, but very few come regularly. Those, however, who do attend regularly have made good progress. The Native prejudices against female education are gradually giving way to better convictions.

Mrs. Isenberg visits from time to time the widow of a former Ameer of Sindh, who likes on such occasions to hear Christian Sindhi hymns sung, and allows the Gospel to be read to her and the women of her household.

Concerning the Anglo-Vernacular School and the Sunday Bible class therewith connected, the Rev. G. Shirt remarks:—

There has been some advance both in numbers and attainments during the year. This will be plainly seen by comparing the Government grant-in-aid of this year with that of the former year. This year we gained Rs. 1164, while the previous year we obtained Rs. 713. The boys all manifest a willingness to learn, not only secular subjects, but also scriptural. This may partly arise from my giving Scripture a high place in the school examination; but in some cases I believe there is a real desire on the part of the boys to understand our religion as well as our language. Some, too, I doubt not, are excited by higher motives. The Sunday Bible class often affords me encouragement. It is made up of the school monitors, senior boys, and outsiders. These often speak very frankly of their difficulties, and not unfrequently bring forth some text of Scripture, which shows that the Bible is in some cases very carefully read. For putting the religious instruction of the school on a more satisfactory footing, I want Christian teachers and the Gospel in the Sindhi. Both of these wants will be partially met, I trust, in the coming year.

THE inquiry whether the Gospel of Christ will be received or <sup>Spiritual</sup> rejected by the Natives of India seems suggested by the sur-<sup>condition</sup>vey of their mental, moral and spiritual condition. The ap-<sup>of India.</sup>pearance, like that of a cloud, varies not only from constant changes, but at different standpoints. Some thoughtful, but desponding minds, can see only "cloud and darkness" in the dense mass of heathen and Moslem error, while other not less thoughtful, but more hopeful, observers can trace a "light by night" in the Divine presence and guidance. These differing judgments seem to compel an appeal to facts. The influence of error and the progress of truth must be measured. Signs of decay or of vitality must be considered, and the weakness of error, though upheld by a multitude of devotees, must be compared with the strength of truth, though proclaimed by a little company of disciples. The intellect, the power and the numbers combined in support of the false religions of India may be admitted; but these apparent advantages avail little if there be a fickle and uncertain faith in the hearts of the devotees. Now the exigencies of the erroneous systems of India increase. The light of Christian truth has revealed their more glaring and repulsive features. Men have become eclectic in religion, have retreated from the outworks of their respective systems in order the better to defend the citadel. An Indian <sup>An Indian</sup> deism has been the refuge of many agitated minds; but the <sup>Deism the</sup> faith of many of its votaries has, by reason of its manifold <sup>refuge of</sup> changes, adaptations and developments, become either shaken <sup>many</sup> or languid. Within a few years the most positive, and the most contrary, announcements have been made. At one time <sup>Incon-</sup>sacred writings alone contain truth, at another the works of <sup>sistency of</sup> nature alone give light. At one time God is all Love, at another all Justice; now the system is atheistic, now it is pantheistic; now the doctrine of an Intercessor is rejected with haughty contempt, now it is adopted with puerile credulity. The latest utterance of the votaries of this system is, "O Lord, I am a vile sinner; I am not worthy to approach the Father: do thou plead for me and help me with Thy intercessions." But to whom is the petition addressed? Not to the Divine "Mediator between God and man, the man Christ Jesus," but to the leader of the intellectual and eclectic deism of India, who, two years ago, propounded the doctrine that every remarkable man is as much a Divine incarnation as was Christ. Regarded as such an incarnation by his followers, they thus invoke him in their prayers. Such is the sad spectacle of India's spiritual condition ; such the manner in which her most advanced religionists now "walk in the light of their own fire and in the sparks that they have kindled." But surely it is impossible that even influence and intellect can impart vitality and power to such a system.

Verdict of an experienced
Indian Missionary.

Influence
Lawrence.

The position of Christian Missions, however, is not to be estimated by the inherent weakness of opposing error, whether contained in ancient creeds or modern theories, but by the inherent strength of that Gospel which now, as ever, is "the power of God unto salvation." Congenial as is the soil of the human heart for the reception of the seed of error, it has now become manifest that in every part of India the good seed of the word has taken root and brought forth fruit, some thirty, some sixty, and some a hundred fold ; and while admitting the stupendous difficulties to be encountered by those who seek to win India to Christ, the verdict of an experienced Missionary may be accepted—"The Church is extending, knowledge is increasing, and the influences of the Gospel are more and more manifested every day." The soldiers and servants of Christ may, in the presence of the multitude of idolaters, be only as "the two little flocks" before the "Syrians who filled the country," or as the few British troops before the imposing native array at Plassy ; but they are not therefore dismayed. In the spiritual, as well as in the military, conflicts of India, a little band, inspired with decision and discipline, will gain the victory over a host filled with doubt and dismay. At the present moment consolidation and extension mark the Mission work. These features have been distinctly developed under the administration of Lord Lawrence, at once the Viceroy of India and a Vice-President of the Society, who indirectly consolidated and extended Missionary operations in India by treating the Natives in accordance with the apostolic declaration that God "hath made of one blood all nations of men." But direct Missionary agencies claim attention in estimating the available spiritual power in India, and more especially must the resources of Native Christianity be considered. The distinctive feature of the year's proceedings is the increased faith, zeal and energy of the Native Christians, who have gone forth to preach in the valleys and in the bazaars, in the cities and by the wayside. Hence the possibility of consolidation and extension. A devoted Catechist is pronounced a dying man, while engaged in itinerating preaching, but persists in remaining at his post to the last. An Afghan convert, described as ever ready to speak for Christ, remained to his last hour a "living epistle, known and read of all men." A Brahmin, recently converted to Christianity, labours diligently in the Mission school during the day, and preaches earnestly in the evening in the bazaar. One European Missionary in South India, after visiting the district entrusted to a Native Pastor, declares—"I left the district with the conviction that one such Native Minister is worth two Europeans, both for edifying the Christians and for influencing the heathen;" while another affirms that he relies entirely on Native Pastors and Teachers for the spiritual care of 11,000 Christians scattered over 300 square miles.

and earnestness of a Brahmin
convert.
Value of Native
Pastors.

Such facts naturally lead the mind from the efforts of the individual to those of the community. The formation of Native Churches in India has been gradual, and, for a time, invisible. As the particles of earth and drift gradually aggregate in most Indian rivers, appear at length above the surface of the stream, and finally, under the influence of light and air, become islands clad with verdure and beauty, so in the stream of the water of life flowing through the land there may for a time be only earthy particles flowing in a troubled stream, but under the process of aggregation and consolidation they come forth in the beauty of holiness, under the influence of the light of truth and the breath of the Spirit. Thus consolidated, the work speedily extends. A Native Minister in Madras states that the number of Native Christians under his charge is 232. Of these, 116, or exactly one-half, are Communicants. What English pastor, either in town or country, would not rejoice in such statistics? At Agra the Native Pastor has been almost entirely in charge, and the contributions have increased to 1250 rupees. In the Santhal Mission 300 converts have been added within the year, and more than 100 candidates for confirmation have been presented to the Bishop. At Mengnanapuram the top-stone of the church spire was raised to its appointed place in the presence of Lord Napier, Governor of Madras, amid the acclamations of the assembled crowd. In another South Indian village the whole population have placed themselves under instruction, and the heathen temple has been found too small for the Christian inquirers. At Umritsūr the ordination of the converted Moulvie, Imaduddeen, in December, was accompanied by the baptism of his aged father, said to be a hundred years of age, of his brother, of his own wife, and of his brother's wife. The Native Pastor occupies his parsonage in the city, with his congregation around him. A reading-room for Christians has been secured, and a native Christian burial-ground provided. For a moment a still more extended view of the Native Church must occupy attention. The Bishop of Madras, in the last visitation of the southern part of his diocese, ordained nineteen Deacons presented to him by the Society. The examination was conducted for the most part by two Native Ministers, who had been previously appointed as honorary Chaplains to the Bishop. Thus in a single episcopal visitation the Native Clergy connected with the Society in South India were increased from thirty-one to fifty. Such is the extension of the Indian Missions. Truth in the hearts of a small minority is prevailing against error in the hearts of a great majority. The power of the one and the weakness of the other is illustrated by a recent conversion. A Missionary is preaching in the bazaar. A Hindu advances and declares himself a seeker after salvation. For years he had sought it in vain. He had journeyed to heathen shrines. Unmoved by the tears of his young wife, he had left her, in order to secure in solitude the purity he deemed impossible in the domestic circle. Solitude failed to bring either purity or peace. Intent on the same object, he had started for the Himalayas. He heard the Gospel in the bazaar, was convinced, converted, baptized, and now preaches the Gospel with power in his native village. Such is the crisis in India's spiritual history, and it is at such a time that French of Oxford—but not more of Oxford than of India—returns to the scene of his Mission labours, accompanied by another experienced Minister, formerly a Fellow of his college in Oxford, for the purpose not only of instructing Native Pastors and Teachers in the Moslem and Hindu controversies, but also of meeting the difficulties felt by men of intellect in their search after truth.

May these and all the servants of Christ in India be so endowed with the power of the Holy Ghost that India's sons, so long spiritually lost, deluded, dead, may lend a willing ear to the gracious words of the Son of God, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life ; no man cometh unto the Father but by me."

CALCUTTA.

Undisturbed tranquillity of the Natives and increasing facilities for Missions are the prominent objects in the retrospect of the year.

The course of events, under the administration of Sir John now Lord Lawrence, late Viceroy of India, seems to have permitted the consolidation of the Mission work. The relation between the policy of the late Viceroy and the progress of Missions is thus stated in the Report of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee :—

In reviewing the favourable conditions for the prosecution of the Missionary enterprise, the present seems a suitable opportunity for expressing, on the part of this Committee, their conviction of the debt of gratitude which India owes in its highest interests to the wise, temperate, firm and far-seeing rule of that illustrious man, who, for the last five years, has, under Divine Providence, so securely held the rudder, and guided the vessel, of the State. In Sir John Lawrence, as the Committee are well aware, an enlightened interest in Missions rests on a deeper foundation than merely the consideration of their important bearing on the social advancement of the country. But in this, their public acknowledgment of the benefits derived to the cause of Missions from Sir John Lawrence's administration as Viceroy, it is not private convictions, however sincerely held, and consistently acted upon, which they have in view. They refer principally to that humane and just policy which has ever treated the Natives of this country as men, with the same feelings, the same inalienable rights as ourselves. The Missionary duty of the Church of Christ rests upon this principle. It is to men that the Gospel is sent, which is to be preached to all nations; and its first great Missionary struck the key-note when on Mars' Hill he proclaimed the one God and common Father who had made of one blood all nations of men. And yet, so hard is it for us to see the truth which is opposed to our prejudices and imagined interests, that Missions have, in several notorious instances, been conducted on methods of forcible conversion and repression of the Native races, directly contradictory of this principle. Happily the days for the employment of the unhallowed means of fraud and force for the advancement of the Kingdom of Righteousness and Truth have long since passed away, so far, at least, as Missions in India are concerned.

Yet something of the old leaven may still cling to us, showing itself in a disregard of Native feelings, and an impatience at every thing opposed to our national predilections.

Of incalculable value, then, has been the example of a Governor whose whole administration has evinced a close study of the people, and a scrupulous regard of their just rights. And in no way could Sir John Lawrence have more effectually advanced the true work of the Missionary than by thus fearlessly upholding, in his public capacity, those principles of equity and good faith which the conscience of all men approves; his private life at the same time indicating the true sources of a Christian ruler's strength. For such benefits, as well as for the maintenance, by God's blessing, of the peace and tranquillity which, in the dark days of the mutiny, he was so signal an instrument in restoring, the Corresponding Committee feel their Missions owe a debt of gratitude to the distinguished Vice-President of the Church Missionary Society, the late Viceroy of British India. They believe that his name, like that of Lord William Bentinck, will be handed down to many generations as a tower of strength to all who devote their labours, and are ready to sacrifice their lives, to the great work of India's regeneration.

The recent changes in the Mission staff, the present number of labourers, the local funds raised for Native agency, and the extension of the Native Pastorate, receive a general notice in the Report of the Calcutta Corresponding Committee:—

Changes in Calcutta Mission
staff.

In the Missionary staff the Committee have to record several changes. One of their veteran Missionaries has been called to his rest. The Rev. John Gottlieb Lincké had laboured in the Mission field of Bengal since the year 1832. He had been identified with the Kishnagurh Mission almost from its commencement. He had witnessed the first enthusiasm which it awakened when many hundreds of villagers were flocking into the outward fold of the professing Church: he had found the tares grow up apace with the wheat, and much which had promised well turned out ill: he had seen that unreasonable expectations had been followed by as unreasonable depreciation: yet he remained steadfast to his work—a man of faith and a man of prayer. At last, under the pressure of the infirmities of age and ill-health, he sought repose in his native land, where he survived only a few months. He died at Homburg on the 15th of March. His end was calm and tranquil.

During the past year four Missionaries have left for England, in health more or less impaired. Against these temporary losses the Committee are happy to report a considerable accession to the staff of labourers, both in Missionaries returned, and in new recruits.

The Rev. W. Keene has resumed his labours amongst the Sikhs of Umritsur and its neighbourhood. Mr. Bell has returned to his educational employment at St. John's College, Agra, and the Rev. R. P. Greaves to his sphere of work (in connexion partly with the Cathedral Mission College), amongst the educated Natives at Calcutta.

The new Missionaries are the Rev. A. B. Spaight and Mr. J. Brown, of the Society's Missionary College at Islington; the Rev. Dr. Bauman, of the University of Berlin; the Rev. Rowland Bateman, of Magdalen College, Oxford; and the Rev. R. F. Trench, Trinity College, Cambridge. To one and all the Committee give the most hearty welcome, feeling well assured that in the vast field comprised within the limits of the North India Mission, extending from Calcutta to Peshawur, there is room for every variety of talent and of intellectual culture, so long as these gifts are sanctified by an unshaken obedience to the word of God, and by the vital breath of the spirit of prayer. The total number of labourers actually in the field at the end of the year was forty-eight ordained Missionaries; seven European lay agents, including Dr. Elmslie, the Medical Missionary in Cashmere; and eleven Native Ministers, pastors, for the most part, of native congregations. The funds necessary to support this body of men are drawn from England; but, in addition to this, there is a large expenditure in the support of the subordinate Native agency, and in the maintenance of schools. This is defrayed, in great part, by money subscribed in India at the different stations where the Society's work is carried on.

The Special Fund for the Cathedral Mission College has amounted to Rs. 9788.11.7, but a further sum of Rs. 10,000 will be required to meet the expenditure on the new building. Cathedral Mission Fund.

A similar special subscription to build a suitable church at Taljhari, the central station of the Santhal Mission, has been set on foot. Rupees 9034 have been contributed, and about as much again will be required to construct a building capable of containing the large number of converts who flock in from the villages on the Lord's-day.

The Committee are happy to state that two worthy men, as they have reason to believe, have been added during the past year to the number of Native Pastors. They are of very different attainments, the one being a comparatively recent convert from Moham-medanism, a man of learning and influence as a controversialist ; the other a Catechist of humble education, but well grounded in the faith, and of proved ability in the instruction and management of the village congregation at Ikla, near Meerut, to the Pastorate of which he is now ordained. Ordination of Natives in North India.

The Committee are most desirous of extending this class of agency in all their rural Missions. And with the view of raising up from among the Catechists at present employed a supply of fit men, duly tried and instructed, educated solely in their own vernacular, and thus identified in sympathy and interests with their flock, a class of preparandi has been commenced in the Bengal Mission. Seven students, carefully selected, have been placed, with this purpose in view, under the instruction of the Rev. J. Welland, who has for the last six months made this his special work.

The aggregation of materials for the future Native Church is aptly compared to the alluvial deposits which characterize the rivers of the land :—

The large accession in baptisms during the year is chiefly from among the untutored tribes of the Rajmahal Hills. Still at almost every station there have been some added to the Church ; and, in several instances, the new converts have been persons of some social position and influence. This fact makes it more and more urgent that the Native Church should be raised on a sound basis of self-support, self-government, and self-extension. Its gradual growth and development may be not inaptly compared to the formation of banks of alluvial deposit, so frequently characteristic of the rivers of this country. For a long time the aggregation of material goes on unseen : a very slight accident or obstruction determines its situation. But in the course of time the dry land begins to emerge, and to challenge observation. It solidifies, and, with an extended basis, it increases in geometrical ratio. And with its gradual elevation it begins to lose the cha- Illustration of Native Church organization in India.

racter of desolation and barrenness, and to assume the fair aspect, in the midst of the waste of waters, of an island of smiling fields, waving crops, and quiet habitations. There are not wanting indications that some of the hitherto unnoticed and despoiled congregations of Native converts may yet appear, so to speak, above the surface, and become the centres of a new and fair creation amongst the destruction, which seems inevitable, of the old religious and social systems of India.

After nearly thirty years' Missionary service in India, the Rev. J. Long is able to devote himself energetically to the spiritual welfare of the people, with whom he holds much intercourse. The Viceroy, before leaving India, visited the schools under his care, and subsequently expressed his satisfaction by a donation of 100 rupees for prizes. Mr. Long thus adverts to the Viceroy's visit:—

Our schools have been highly honoured by a visit paid to them by the Viceroy last March: he left Calcutta at five in the morning, in order to reach them in proper time. He approved of the Circle system, which is similar to that of the Hulkabundi in the North-western Provinces. His Excellency's knowledge of Hindi enabled him to understand much of what was said in Bengali, and he took part in the Bengali examination, in map-drawing, and natural history. One little girl, nine years old, drew a map of India on the black board, and marked off the chief places for His Excellency. Unfortunately we shall soon lose her, as she is about to be married; but Zenana visiting will enable this class of girls to build on the foundation laid in the schools. I showed His Excellency some of the various modes of torturing punishments adopted in these schools, which are bad not only for the boys, but drill them to practice torture in after life, as it exists still among the police. I then had drawings taken of the fifteen different modes of punishment. These I hope to see published, to which I will affix a descriptive account, and trust it may serve to draw out public sympathy more largely for these ragged or hedge schools.

My teachers and others were much struck with the interest His Excellency took in such a subject as a village or hedge school, but it is quite in accordance with the character he has won in India as the liberator of the Ryots, and enfranchiser of the masses from feudal chains.

Energy of a Missionary of 30
standing.

While the views propounded by Mr. Long in reference to the independence of Native Christians are such as might be expected to characterize the experienced Missionary, the preparations for reaching the native mind seem to possess the vigour of a labourer just entering upon his work:—

I have taken and still take the deepest interest in the rural population there, but it seems to be my duty to resign charge of it, not only on the ground of health, but also because there are other subjects pressing on my attention which cannot be so effectually carried out, as long as I retain charge of the Native Christians of Thakurpukur, and the time, I hope, is now at hand when direct European superintendence over Native Christians will cease throughout Bengal. I believe we have already had too much of it—"meddling and muddling." If men are never to venture into the water until they can swim they will never learn.

My experience here confirms that of other Missionaries that the Distinction between superintendence of Native Christians is an opiate on exertions for the Heathen and Mussulmans. The Missionary and Pastorate systems are at opposite poles. I have found this, though I have always endeavoured to act on the rule, that whatever a Native could do, the European should not engage in, as our Mission is to supplement, not to supersede, Native exertion.

There are five subjects I have been working at, and which, if Providence spares my life, I am most anxious to complete, before any thing else, by the spring of 1870.

(1.) The giving of a copy of the Vernacular Scriptures to every Native author or translator in Bengal, calling upon each, and conversing with him as to his previous knowledge of Christianity, and what he thinks of Christ.

I have more than 600 living vernacular authors, &c., on my list, and have visited about one-fourth: the three-fourths live scattered about in various parts of the country, and must be seen by a system of itinerancy. These men are a rising and important class. I have been interested in them for many years, and am glad to see that the importance of the vernacular press is being more and more recognised both by Government and Missionary bodies. The Native press is an index of the Native mind. The Bible Societies, both of London and Calcutta, have approved of the plan: the former have written to their Auxiliaries in various parts of India to carry it out in the respective languages.

(2.) Materials for a book of Indian Homilies, a kind of Manual for Readers and Village teachers, to set forth the great truths of Scripture as illustrated by emblems, similitudes and imagery, drawn either from Scripture, nature, or oriental writings. Ten years ago I published a Manual on this subject which is taught in my schools, and my work is now to write a commentary on it. The Tract Society's Committee in Calcutta have approved of the plan. The Governor-General has given me 100 rupees and the Bishop 200 rupees towards having an idiomatic translation made of my English original, as well as to present a copy, when published, to every Reader and Catechist in the country. We want sermons for Natives in the oriental mould, and I hope this book may supply some new material.

(3.) As a kindred subject to the above, may be mentioned the completing of a collection of Bengali proverbs, with an English translation and illustrative notes, to be published by the Royal Asiatic Society in London.

When Christianity shall have been made known in the vernacular through the now despised ordinance of popular preaching and Christian books, such a work may be found of use in illustrating Gospel truths.

(4.) Various subjects in connexion with vernacular literature and education, which are both assuming a position of great importance in Bengal: the current is changing, and a crisis is at hand.

(5.) The working of a system of Colportage for the circulation of useful vernacular works.

I have always felt that an European Superintendent of a village congregation was a kind of necessary evil. I have for fifteen years been looking out for a Native to act as Pastor, but hitherto in vain. I had one man who was thoroughly fitted, but he was cut off by death.

in Bengal.

The question has often been put, Why is there not more independence in the Native Churches in rural districts? One prominent reason for this state of things is, that the ryots of Bengal have been so ground down by oppression that they have in various cases lost the will and the power of self-government. It is difficult to carve on rotten wood; and to expect that a Christian self-governing Church can flourish amid the malaria of serfdom, which is the state of the ryots of Bengal, is it not partaking of enthusiasm—the end without the means? There is an intimate connexion between the social and religious condition of a people.

A more extended system of vernacular education and the emancipation of the serfs of Bengal through the action of the Christian laity of England would decidedly help to improve the condition and prospects of Christianity among the ryots. It would supply us with the raw material instead of such a limited, effeminate and denationalized class as we too often have at present.

Missionary laymen in England may shirk the question of the social degradation of the Bengal ryot; but is not his serfdom a great barrier to his becoming a Christian? The Churches of Ireland and Wales were based on the foundation of contempt for the vernacular, and indifference to the social condition of the masses. Time is bringing its Nemesis. God forbid that India should follow in this track! but there is a danger of it.

Arrangements having been made to relieve the Rev. J. Welland from educational duties in the Cathedral Mission College, he has undertaken the formation of a Preparandi Class, and has thus supplied what has been long needed in this Mission. Allusion is made to this new effort in connexion with an account of itinerating preaching conducted by himself and three Native Catechists:—

With three very efficient Native Catechists I set out westward

from Calcutta, and travelled, one way or other, about 100 miles to Itinerating the north-west. The first part of our route lay through districts preaching largely under city influences, where our message was no novelty near Calcutta. among the better classes, and we received but scant attention. The labourers were busy at harvest-work, and we had some difficulty in finding audiences. We noted with much sorrow the general decay of the country, chiefly through the ravages of a slow fever, now for some time become epidemic in many parts of Bengal. The second part of our tour lay through a less accessible part of the country, which we reached with some difficulty across a district devastated by floods and intersected by unbridged streams; but here we were gladdened with numerous and very attentive listeners, Mussulmans as well as Hindus: many visited us in camp in order to discuss, more at length, the great truths we proclaimed in their villages. This brought us as far as Burdwan, where we took train, or transferred ourselves into a new district in the neighbourhood of a large méla, which we attended. The Rev. A. P. Neele, of Burdwan, accompanied us in this last part of our tour, and was, in common with ourselves, much pleased with our reception in the méla; although in the surrounding district we could not consider ourselves successful in the same degree. Hence we returned in a single day by rail to Calcutta, where college duties required my attendance. The tour was such an one as has been many times made, and, while it was not without many small incidents of interest, presented no peculiar features worth recording here. Illness interrupted for a time my personal share in the work of actual preaching, and finally drove me into Burdwan for a few days of rest and shelter; but on the whole I look back with thankfulness on the tour as one which, by God's good blessing, prospered, a seed-sowing necessary to a harvest by-and-by to come, and, moreover, a promise of harvest, for the seed was the word of God. On my way back to Calcutta I was met by the very pleasant news that the Committee had made arrangements to set me free from educational work; and, a few days after, Mr. Neele, from Burdwan, having entered on his duties at the college, I resigned my charge there, and prepared for more directly ministerial occupations. Then I came presently into the charge of a Vernacular Preparandi Class to which I was appointed, and which has formed my chief business for the year.

Domiciliary visitation in the city, the disheartening aptitude to receive error, and the declining influence of Brahmoism, are noticed:—

Mr. Vaughan's excellent Catechist, Raj Krista, was, in domiciliary visitations, my companion, and introduced me to people in the neighbourhood all round. We have ~~always~~ been well received, and scarcely ever failed to enjoy some conversation on the best of all topics, and to press our message more or less distinctly. But as I look back on the whole series of interviews, the same reflection which I remember long ago to have been forced upon me again suggests itself. What a congenial soil for every plant of error is the human heart. From the avowed atheist, denying the existence even of moral right and wrong, up to the devout admirer of the moral teachings of laws, every kind of faith or unfaith was presented to me. I think if one could unfold the series as in a moment to the several individuals themselves, they would hardly fail to be struck with the manifest deceitfulness of the human heart ; and that self complacency, which is the ruin of every one of them, would be for once roughly shaken. In one thing only were they unanimous—the denial of the Deity of Christ and the need of His atonement. After all, this is only to be expected : how infinitely sad to have to say so ! And if they were not such as they are, you would not send me to them, nor should I go. It was the lost He came to seek and save. Brahmoism, so long as it is anything distinctive, I found but seldom, and feebly professed. It seems to have lost its hold on the young men ; and one is thus led to fear that very much of its power was due merely to its novelty. There is another alternative one is waiting for some encouragement to accept, namely, that it has been searched through and found wanting by souls who are in earnest.

Cathedral
Mission
College.

The Cathedral Mission College continues to afford religious instruction and intellectual culture to students drawn from the educated classes. New college buildings have been secured, the average attendance of students has increased, the University success has been greater, and the truths of divine revelation have been diligently inculcated. On these points the testimony of the Calcutta Church Missionary Association Report is now quoted :—

The chief event of interest in connexion with the Cathedral Mission College, during the year now under review, has been the completion of the buildings in College Square. The east wing, containing three class-rooms below, and the hall and library above, were ready in March, and were formally opened at the distribution of prizes which took place on the 3rd April, in the presence of the late Viceroy, the Lord Bishop of the diocese, and a numerous company of visitors both European and Native. Reference has already been made to this event in the Report for last year, the publication of which was delayed by the Secretary's absence from Calcutta, and there is accordingly no need to dwell upon it further here. A further addition has, however, since been made to the college buildings in the shape of a new front to the old dwelling-house, by which two new rooms are added to the accommodation provided for the college. The new buildings are now complete, and form a considerable ornament to the south side of College-square.

in India, and the scene of his first lectures to an educated Native audience, will be occupied by one of the Cathedral Missionaries engaged in the college, and thus opportunity will be afforded for friendly intercourse with the young men attending the various educational institutions in the immediate neighbourhood. The college hall, too, which has been fitted up with gas, will, it is hoped, furnish the means of gathering together from time to time audiences of Native undergraduates and others to hear lectures on religious topics, or subjects of more general interest treated in a Christian spirit.

The college staff during the past year has been composed as follows :—Rev. J. Barton, Principal; Rev. E. C. Stuart, Rev. A. P. Neele, Rev. W. Hooper, W. G. Willson, Esq., as Mathematical Professor, Babu J. G. Shome, M.A., and Pundit K. C. Banerjea. Mr. Stuart's duties as Secretary to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, necessarily leave him but little time for direct Missionary work, and the college is therefore under all the greater obligation to him for the readiness and good-will with which he has assisted in the work of instruction. Throughout the year he has lectured the 3rd and 4th classes in Philosophy and Logic, and for more than four months, during the Rev. J. Barton's absence from Calcutta, he undertook several additional lectures in English literature. In this latter department the college also enjoyed, for the first six months of the year, the efficient aid of C. Miller, Esq., Barrister-at-law; and though his appointment in July to the post of police magistrate for the town of Calcutta compelled him to relinquish his connexion with the college, he has since, on more than one occasion, rendered most kind and valuable assistance in the college examinations.

The condition of the college during the past year, both as regards numbers, and the general tone of the students, morally and intellectually, has been in every way satisfactory. The statistical table appended shows that the number on the rolls, and the average attendance, have both been considerably larger than in any previous year, being respectively 118 and 92, while the last university examinations also show an increase in the number of those who passed the first examination in arts. The results of the recent B.A. examination, for which sixteen students of the college presented themselves as candidates, are not yet known.

In the award both of exhibitions and scholarships a knowledge Scriptural of the Bible and the evidences of Christianity is made to rank and theo- equally with the subjects prescribed for the university examina- logical tions, and thus the college attempts to supply both by its regular knowledge imparted lectures, and the awards held out to the deserving, that element in Cathe- in which the university system is confessedly so deficient, the dral Mis- training of the heart and understanding for the great realities of sion Col- eternity, and the inculcation of those truths of revelation by which lege. alone God has made known His will to men, and the way in which they can be saved.

This end is also sought to be attained, as stated fully in last year's Report, by the award of special scholarships to those who display the most thorough acquaintance with the facts and doctrines of revealed religion, and by weekly addresses, of a directly religious and hortatory character, to the assembled students.

Maintenance of the College.

As to funds, it is a matter for much gratification and thankfulness that the current expenses of the college during the past year, although large, have been again fully met by the fees and grant-in-aid, supplemented by the grant of 75 rupees per mensem contributed from the funds of the Association. As the salaries of the Missionaries connected with the college are also paid from the Cathedral Mission Endowment Fund, the college is absolutely no expense whatever to the Parent Society, being maintained entirely from local funds. The entire income from fees during the year has amounted to 5553 rupees 8 as., of which a sum of 808 rupees has been refunded to the most industrious and deserving students in the shape of small monthly scholarships.

Kidderpore.

A Missionary tour, the superintendence of thirteen schools, containing 700 children, the management of Colportage and bazaar preaching, have occupied the Native Minister, the Rev. M. S. Seal, who has also taken charge of the small Native Church. Of bazaar preaching, and of the Christian village, Mr. Seal writes :—

Bazaar preaching has been daily carried on at Kidderpore, while the adjacent villages, and those lying on both sides of the river, from Kidderpore down to Ulubereah, have been occasionally visited. The number of hearers is generally from 50 to 100. There are five inquirers among the respectable residents, one of whom is a regular attendant at divine service on the Sabbath. There is a spirit of inquiry at Rajgunge, a populous village about six miles distant, on the other side of the river, and my Catechist goes there once a week.

The commencement of a Christian village near the church has been made, and a few cottages built by the pecuniary aid given by the young ladies of the Kidderpore Upper Asylum. They deserve our best thanks for their kindness. Seven families are now living in the village. Being together, they enjoy social comforts, and have every opportunity afforded them of attending the means of grace. If everything goes on well, it will be a potent means of good. May God grant that the dwellers of the Christian village may shine as burning lights in the midst of heathen darkness !

The congregation numbers eighty-four individuals, of whom twenty-one are Communicants. I have had no reason to find fault with the outward conduct of the congregation.

A spirit of inquiry among the upper classes has been manifested at this place. One well educated young man seeks for explanations of particular passages of Scripture, and others ask for full expositions of the Gospels. The difficulties in the way of Christian baptism cause hesitation and compromise. The Rev. T. Sandys and the Rev. F. J. De Rozario illustrate these difficulties by reference to an example connected with their Mission :—

In a village about four miles south of us there are several families who maintain themselves by making and selling violins. An old man among them received a Bengali Bible some years ago, and made a practice of reading it to his sons and neighbours. The result has been that several of the young men, and the old man also, felt convinced of the truth of Christianity. We have been frequently visiting them for the last three or four years, elucidating what was still dark to them, removing their doubts, answering their objections, and praying with them, they joining us, for the enlightenment of the spirit of Christ. At the commencement of this year five or six heads of families among them offered themselves for baptism ; and arrangements were made for regular instruction. As soon as this was known in the neighbourhood some of the influential men rose against them, threatening excommunication from social position, expulsion from their ancestral abodes, and deprivation of all their claims. The only alternative left to the persecuted men was either to remove elsewhere at great sacrifice, and build anew for themselves at the risk of losing their assistants in the trade, or to continue in their forefathers' dwelling after baptism, and claim their rights by legal measures. But pecuniarily they were not equal to either of these plans. The result is, that the old man and two or three of his sons, were compelled to keep back and sign a bond not to be baptized. This is not a case of apostacy, for Christ is still believed in, and Christian doctrines are held fast. It is a timid endurance of a species of moral tyranny which rich influential Hindus only know how to exercise, and poor dependent Hindus only know how to endure. But two or three others of the group, elder than the rest, are still halting and looking forward for a favourable opportunity to enlist themselves under the banner of the Cross.

The feelings towards Christianity prevalent among the Hindus, and the necessity for female education, are subjects touched by Mr. Sandys in his annual letter :—

This neighbourhood is remarkable for the number of Brahmins living in it, who have hitherto kept much aloof from the Gospel, and remained attached to their Hindu religion. They have long been sending their children to the English schools, both here and in Calcutta, that they may become qualified for good secular situations, and have not objected, or rather, have submitted to Christian instruction being given to them in the school through the medium of English. There has therefore been going on a process of weakening and loosening as to Hinduism, and now it is observable how ready the Brahmins around are to adopt the principles of the Brahmo movement, and to profess their belief in one God instead of a number of deities. This may prove a step in the right direction, and be a means of taking out of the way one of the great impediments among this people to their reception of the truth of the Gospel. At present they attempt to justify their worship of idols in which they do not believe, by its being "the custom of the people."

Another very favourable circumstance in reference to the future prospects of the Mission-work among the people is the increasingly prevalent desire for the instruction of the female part of the population. These have heretofore been left in a great measure uneducated, and they have been the staunch upholders of the idolatrous household ceremonies. Now we may hope that many will become enabled to discern between truth and error, and that many will learn the way of salvation. The method now pursued of Zenana teaching is doubtless preparing the way for the more general diffusion of light, knowledge and truth among the great body of the people, and especially among the rising generation. My dear wife spends the best part of each day in visiting and teaching the females in a number of families, in which she also employs several Native female teachers.

BURDWAN.

The Rev. A. P. Neele having been transferred from this station to the Cathedral Mission College, Calcutta, the whole direction of the Mission work has devolved upon the Rev. A. Stern, who has placed Native preachers in two towns of the district, and who proposes to adopt a similar course in reference to other places containing a large population.

KISHNAGURH.

Aspect of the Kishnagurh
Mission.

While there has been much to depress and discourage by reason of prevailing error and indifference, there have at the same time been some cheering tokens accompanying the efforts of the year. The attendance of the Native congregation has often left scarcely a vacant seat. The Gospel has been preached vigorously by Natives in the bazaars and villages. On the occasion of the Bishop's visit, twenty-one candidates were presented for confirmation. The educational institutions were inspected by the Bishop, who bears this testimony concerning them, and concerning the baptism of a Brahmin convert:—

I found Mr. and Mrs. Blumhardt's schools, Christian boys and girls, very good, as good as any schools that I have ever examined. I also visited the Anglo-vernacular schools and the Church Missionary Society's Training Institution, with its Model school. The Normal school appeared to be thoroughly satisfactory, and the scholars seemed earnest and devout in character, as well as diligent students.

There was an adult baptism of a Kolin Brahmin, well-to-do in the world. He had overcome much opposition, and seemed very attentive and devout. May God bless him and preserve him unto the end!

Another proof of the influence of the Gospel is furnished by the Rev. C. H. Blumhardt:—

I have just now another hopeful inquirer under instruction, of the Kaishto caste. He had heard the Gospel first preached by one of my Readers at Hanskali, where he had employment in the police. It is now at least six months since he came forward as a candidate for baptism. A few weeks ago he was transferred to our station here, and in order to prepare himself fully for the solemn change he is about to make, he took leave of absence for three months from his superior, to be able to prepare himself for the rite of baptism. He has now been about six weeks under instruction, and having every reason to believe in the sincerity of his wish to embrace the Gospel for the salvation of his soul, I hope to receive him into the Church of Christ by baptism next Sunday.

Compelled by ill health and domestic affliction to withdraw for a time from the supervision of the Mission schools in the Kishnagurh District, Mr. F. Gmelin can on a calm review point to many signs of advance and many causes of anxiety. The pupils of the Normal school go forth to educational positions of trust and usefulness. Each of the five principal schools in the rural districts is now in charge of a teacher trained in this Normal school, and the Deputy Inspector for the whole district was formerly a pupil in it. A passage from Mr. Gmelin's review of the year indicates the condition of the Normal school and Model school, together with the opinions expressed as to their efficiency by the Bishop of Calcutta and the Lieutenant-Governor:—

Normal School.—Of the fourteen students who left in December last, one, I am sorry to say, died from the malarious fever. He had been one of the best students, and was most anxious to begin his work as a teacher, but died on his way to the school to which he had been appointed. I have reason to believe that he died in the Lord. The remaining thirteen are, as far as I have been able to ascertain, giving satisfaction. Of some of them I have received particularly good reports. Nearly all of them are occupying important posts. The five principal schools of the Kishnagurh rural district have been entrusted to five of them; another is Deputy Inspector for the whole district; another is Inspector in connexion with the Christian Vernacular Education Society; two are head masters of the Society's Orphanages at Burdwan and Agurparah.

The number of students at the beginning of the year was thirty, and, when I left, twenty-seven, nineteen new pupils having been received in January last.

Visitation of Kish-
nagurh Schools by the Bishop of Calcutta and Lieut-Governor of Bengal.

During the year we had two important visitors, His Lordship, the Bishop of Calcutta and His Honour the Lieut.-Governor of Bengal. I am sorry his lordship saw but little of the school. He visited the Model school first, and there was not much time left for the Normal school. He, however, expressed great satisfaction with what he saw, and with the answers he received from the students, especially those on theological subjects. Looking at them, he remarked to me, "These are the young men from whom we must choose our future Native pastors." I was rejoiced to hear such a remark, as it entirely coincided with my hopes with regard to the best of them. I trust there are some, both amongst the present students and those who are now teachers, who will discharge their duties so efficiently, that, after three years' trial, they will be fitted for the work of preachers and readers, and eventually for that of pastors. We require Native pastors, but for this office we do not require ignorant or half-educated peasants, or great babus, who would tyrannize over their flocks without understanding their necessities; who, instead of removing, would perpetuate and extend present evils. It is also important that they should be men of education, that they may have a proper and wise influence over the people; men who have been brought up amongst them, that they may be able to enter into their wants and feelings. They should be men who understand schools, both theoretically and practically; for, if our Native Christian schools are to have a proper hold upon the people, the pastor and the schoolmaster must work hand in hand. As far as human judgment goes, our present organization appears to be fitted, with God's blessing, for the raising up of such men; and the encouraging reports that I have received of several who left last year lead me to believe that my hope will be realized.

The Lieut.-Governor also expressed great satisfaction at both the Model and Normal schools. He remarked that such a school as the Normal school must do an immense amount of good. He was particularly pleased with the singing and drawing of the students. Such visits are encouraging to the pupils and teachers. Comparatively few Europeans take an interest in Mission work. I must, however, not forget to mention that our Commissioner, Mr. Chapman, makes it a point to visit the schools every year during his temporary stay at Kishnagurh.

The Model School maintains its popularity. It contains more than 300 pupils. In July last I increased the schooling fees, hoping thus to decrease the number of pupils, as our school building is far too small for such a large number of boys; but not one left. I was consequently obliged to have the Scripture lessons of the upper classes given in the dining-room of my own house. The gallery class, which is taught chiefly by the students of the Normal school, consists of upwards of 100 boys. When His Honour the Lieut.-Governor saw the gallery class he was surprised, and remarked that he had not seen such a sight since he left England.

Competition, and even opposition, has been experienced in maintaining Vernacular Schools. Wealthy Hindus and Brahmos establish and support such schools. The efficiency of the Mission school has been acknowledged by the Government during the past year by a substantial addition to the grant-in-aid and by most favourable testimony from the Inspector. Some remarks on these schools are quoted:—

Missionaries are no longer the leaders in the cause of education. New schools, established by Hindus and Brahmos, arise in every direction. Sometimes they are established by babus who wish to obtain a name, and often by men of little education, who are ashamed to work or to enter into business, and who try in this way to earn a livelihood. The only plan left for us is to have our schools vigorously carried on, and to make the instruction as efficient as possible.

The average attendance at the Kutiparrah school has been about 100, and of the Ramnugger school 80. The pupils of the first class of both schools compete for the vernacular scholarships. The Kutiparrah school stood very high at the last examination. This school is, in the opinion of the Government Deputy School Inspector, the best under his inspection.

The persecution of a young widow, and its effect for a time on the Vernacular Girls' School, shows the strong prejudice of the Brahmos against Christianity:—

The Vernacular Girls' School at Santipore has again passed through a severe trial. A young widow, an orphan of Brahminical caste, who had been a pupil in the school for some years, was so much impressed with the truths of Christianity, that, after leaving the school, she visited the Catechist's wife that she might have further instruction, and to her she expressed a wish for baptism. As soon as this was known amongst her friends they used every means they could, both by threatenings and promises, to prevent the continuance of her visits, and tried their utmost to break up the school. The chief opponent of the young widow was a Brahmo. He engaged her to instruct his family in needlework, &c. She taught not only needlework, but those things of which her heart was full. Through his wife, and by means of letters, as, according to the custom of the country, he could have no personal intercourse with her, he tried to convince her that Brahmoism was the true religion, but without success. He then promised her a nice husband if she would relinquish her wish for baptism and join the Brahmos. This was no slight temptation. As a Hindu widow she was doomed to a life of privation and suffering; as a Christian she would have to tear herself away from friends and relatives, and early associations; as a Brahmo wife she had the prospect of a happy life before her. But she resisted the temptation, and left the family. The babus, being themselves baffled in their efforts, now took advantage of the Bengali press, and wrote doggerel poetry on the excellence of the Hindu and Brahmo religions; on the losses she would have to sustain if she became a Christian; on the treatment she would receive from the Padre-Sahib before and after baptism; on the wretched condition of the Christian converts, &c. &c. Copies of the paper were given her to read. She, however, continues her visits to the Catechist's house, and, when I left, was waiting for an opportunity to be baptized.

The school was in imminent danger for some time, but is now firm again, and has as many pupils as formerly.

It will be seen that the chief opposition this young widow met with was from the Brahmos. This is only one among several instances in which I have met with more opposition from Brahmos than from Hindus or Mohammedans.

The extent to which the minds of the rising generation of India may be enlightened by the truths of the Gospel is made by Mr. Gmelin the subject of some concluding remarks:—

| Enlighten-ment ofrisinggenerationof Indiaby MissionSchools. | In the schoolroom the Missionary can give "precept upon precept, and line upon line," to hearers whose attention he can secure, and whose understanding he has the means of reaching. It is for this reason that a full appreciation of schoolwork should be felt, and that the Missionary should understand it, and give to it his most thoughtful and intelligent attention. It is undoubtedly more arduous and less honourable than some other branches of Mission labour, but this is not worthy of consideration. In the grant-in-aid schools under my charge upwards of 700 heathen boys and girls regularly receive instruction in the word of God in their own language. They all possess portions of the Scriptures or Christian Catechisms, which they have purchased with their own money, and therefore prize. Most of these 700 boys and girls have sisters, brothers and parents, to whom they must sometimes speak of the things they learn in the school. |

To carry on this work aright, the spirit of wisdom and earnest prayer are needed. May God grant this to all our Christian teachers and Missionaries, and then we know that His word cannot return unto Him void.

KAPASDANGA.

“Slow, but steady progress” is this year the tenour of the Rev. F. Schurr’s account. The people have not shown much interest in the Gospel preached to them, but there are in every congregation some who value the scriptural education given to their children. On this subject, and on the absence of striking results, Mr. Schurr thus writes:—

There is now in every congregation a small body of educated and religious people, whose influence for good is beginning to be felt. They have to bear a great deal of reproach from others, but I trust they will increase in strength and in number. These better people wish to have their children educated, and feel grateful to the Society for education.

We cannot show many striking results. The nature of the work is progressive, yet I do trust that in due time it will become more aggressive upon the surrounding darkness. Our first object is to stir up the Christians to become light, in which work my wife helps me materially among the women and in the schools, so that they may become beacons and light-bearers to spread far and wide the glory of Christ.

Six congregations, six Branch Missions, 4000 Christians, <sup>among</sup> eight schools for the Christians, and double that number for the <sup>4000</sup> heathen, are under the care of the Rev. F. Schurr. By reason <sup>Christians</sup> of the adoption of a higher spiritual standard, the number of <sup>and the</sup> communicants has decreased, but the congregations are in a <sup>surround-</sup> more satisfactory state, and the Native Teachers have shown <sup>ing hea-</sup> greater zeal and devotedness. There is a prospect of making <sup>then in</sup> the Gospel known among the female part of the population. <sup>Kapas-</sup> Concerning Native agency, efforts among the females, and a remarkable incident in one of the schools for the heathen, Mr. Schurr states:—

The number of paid Mission agents has been considerably reduced, unprofitable persons having been dismissed; yet the work instead of suffering has rather increased in efficiency, for the Catechists are now working harder than they ever did before. More responsibility is put upon them than was ever the case, and they have conducted themselves worthy of the confidence placed in them. Only one has failed, but another has supplied his place, and the

result is most hopeful, for the children come more regularly to school and the adults to church. Several of the male teachers also preach to the heathen as opportunity offers, and it is encouraging that several female teachers and two other women go about in the villages and take the message of salvation to the women, who formerly scorned to hear of Christ, and now eagerly ask to be instructed in the way of life. We were particularly pleased at Solo. The Catechist's wife took Mrs. Schurr to the heathen women of an adjoining village, who most gladly welcomed her and her message of love, and one evening even asked her to call me to them. When I arrived they listened most attentively and intelligently to the word of God. Evidently a change is coming over the people of Bengal. Though we perceive no true repentance, no real sorrow for sin, yet we find that the people think about sin and its consequences, and when the Holy Spirit comes, repentance and faith will follow. I have observed more earnestness in our Mission agents than in former days, and a desire to bring others to Jesus, for which they also pray.

There are sixteen schools for the heathen. In October one was closed under rather curious circumstances. One of the boys, about ten years of age, spoke against the idols, and refused to worship them; so the parents became frightened, and asked the Catechist and teacher to abstain from teaching Christianity: this being refused, they withheld their children, and established a school of their own. Our school-house has now been turned into a preaching chapel.

BHAGULPORE.

Though there is not much to be noted as distinct from the usual proceedings at this station, yet the Rev. E. Dröese regards the work with somewhat more satisfaction. He has not been, as heretofore, enabled to accomplish as much direct preaching to the heathen as he could wish, by reason of the duties devolving upon him in connexion with the Orphanage and other schools. A few words upon the Girls' School may be quoted from Mr. Dröese's annual letter:—

The orphan girls' school has, as in former years, been under Mrs. Dröese's charge. Miss Dröese has throughout the year assisted in the management and instruction of the children. One Native female teacher from the Benares Training Institution has been working faithfully and ably in the classes assigned to her. She has been assisted by another teacher, who has not had the advantage of being trained for her work, but, however, tries to do her best. The care and labour bestowed upon these children, one cannot but admit, has not been in vain. There is a very good spirit among them.

SANTHAL MISSION.

Cheered by continued tokens of spiritual grace and blessing, Continued the Rev. W. T. Storrs can again record large accessions from expansion the heathen. About 300 converts have been baptized during in the the year. Evangelistic and pastoral work have been con-Santhal Mission. ducted both with vigour and success. Mr. Storrs is specially devoting his attention to the preparation and developement of Native agency, of which he speaks in emphatic terms at the close of the subjoined quotation :—

Evangelistic work has been quietly and steadily carried on. God has given me this year a very able, enthusiastic and conscientious Catechist, who was formerly in connexion with the Baptists, having received from them his first religious impressions. Two other new men have been employed by me for a short time, but I have again discharged them, for I cannot bear to see God's work done by those who have really no heart in it ; and though I do not accord with every axiom of the Church Missionary Society, yet I do most thoroughly with this, that only spiritual men can do a spiritual work. My Santhal readers are improving, and work very well on very small pay. I offered to increase the pay of one who gets five rupees a month : he declined any increase. Two others have gone back to their farming, but both, I believe, frequently preach the Gospel. We have made more efforts among Hindus and Mohammedans this year, not passing them over, and confining ourselves to the Santhals as in former years ; and in the immediate neighbourhood of Taljhari there are some indications that God will own and bless His word among the Hindus as well as Santhals. It is a mistaken policy to confine one's work to any race or class.

In pastoral work this year we have made great progress. May Preparation God grant that it may be increasing and permanent. At the end of last cold season I chose out five young men on whose love and earnestness I could rely, and have formed them into a class. These Natives for Mission work. read with me every week from Tuesday to Friday, indeed they form a theological class. On Saturday four out of the five go out to minister to four little churches, at a distance of fourteen to thirty-two or thirty-five miles from Taljhari, but the roads are so bad that I can get or give little idea of distance : one remaining in Taljhari to help me with my Sunday's work. The four return again on Monday. On Thursday evening all five go to neighbouring villages containing Christians, and hold services ; so that any in the neighbourhood who may be prevented from attending church on Sunday may yet hear the Word of God. These services are especially needful for the aged and for the women. I have been most pleased with their heartiness in their work, and thank God He has raised up such to carry on His work. In Taljhari I have taken the greater part of the services myself ; but ably helped in the Hindi services by my dear and respected senior Catechist, Samuel Shital, and in the Santhal services by each one of my class in turn. We have four services every Sunday—two in Hindi, two in Santhali, one in Hindi on Wednesday evening, in which I have given, during the year, expositions of the Prayer-book, and have now begun the Pilgrim's Progress. Prayers are held every morning with a short exposition. The people have been liberal according to their means, some very liberal, and I believe each year will see an improvement in this respect. In Taljhari there are two offertories every Sunday, one in each of the churches.

During the hot weather and rains the work seemed to stagnate very much, scarcely any coming forward for baptism ; but since the commencement of the cold weather the work looks much more hopeful again, and every month some few have applied for baptism. The one great thing that we need here is good Native agency. I have no belief in the power of Europeans to do anything more than superintend ; and the work of the Missionary here is to educate those who can do the work much better than he can.

Consistency of Santhal
Christians.

I cannot help noticing the absence of immorality and crime among all classes of Native Christians, and the consistent conduct of most. To God be all the glory !

Early in the present year the following particulars concerning the visit of the Bishop of Calcutta, the confirmation of 106 candidates, and the baptism of 130 persons during the closing months of the last year, were transmitted by Mr. Storrs :—

The Church has been commenced, but we are laying the foundations so deep and wide that they are not yet above the ground. It is to hold 500 people. The Bishop laid the foundation stone on the 4th of January, but the work really commenced fully two months ago. The Bishop also confirmed 106 people on the same day. There must have been at least 350 if not 400 Christians gathered together on the occasion. The Bishop was very pleased, and gave me 50*l.* for the church, and has given another 10*l.* since. I have now about 900*l.* for the Church, but I shall want another 900*l.* before I can finish it.

I have baptized perhaps 130 since October. There is now quite a little congregation at or near Nandiha. Things look very hopeful a few miles north of this, near Maharajpore. The least satisfactory Church is the one near Patna, where Mokindo Lal was. The Rev. H. W. Shackell is itinerating in the Godda district for this cold weather, and will, I hope, take up the work there permanently next cold season. Mr. J. Brown, a lay helper, has come out from England, and will be ordained next Christmas. My class goes on very well. I should like to add two more to it, but I cannot see any men earnest and spiritual enough. My wife's girls' school prospers: ten well grown girls and thirty infants. It certainly is the prettiest sight in Taljhari. Three of the girls read Santhali fluently in Roman, and the rest are getting on very fairly. Our Sunday congregations are very good. The singing at the Santhali services is quite hearty. Two or three of the hymns we have written are very popular. The number of village schools has gone down very much, and I cannot increase them. We have scarcely a school in the Rajmahal district, about ten or twelve in the Godda district, and eight or nine in the Pakour district. The training school goes on pretty well. I am just building a small serai for strangers and for the Native Christians who often come in for a day or two.

An independent observer, Captain A. M. Lang, of the Royal Bengal Engineers, has recently visited the Santhal country, and thus records his impression of the people and the Mission:—

Independent testimony to the work among the Santhals.

A few miles east of us is Rajmahal; immediately west of us rise the hills; a few isolated rounded ironstone hillocks, belonging to that range, crop up like islands from the flat Gangetic alluvium. Clustering round the base of one of these hillocks are the thatched bungalows which constitute the Taljhari Mission. On the top of the hillock is laid the foundation of a church. A few hundred yards off runs, from north to south, the railroad. The station is called Teen Pahâr, being built at the foot of three contiguous hillocks like this Taljhari hill. From Teen Pahâr (which is six miles south of Taljhari) the Rajmahal branch railway starts. It is all jungle here—low sâl and dhâk jungle; full of tigers, elephants, pigs and deer of all sorts. Scattered hamlets of Santhals may be seen here and there amid the low jungle. The Mission staff just now consists of Mr. and Mrs. Storrs in the main bungalow. The Lay Assistant, just out from home, a Mr. Brown, a bachelor, lives in the next bungalow. Then there are three trained Catechists, and four or five trained teachers. Five young Santhals are training as Catechists, and there is a school of thirty Santhals, picked from the twenty-four village schools, the school here being as it were a college recruited by the best scholars from the villages. All are Christians but the thirty schoolboys, and of these more than half are Christian. The Rev. H. W. Shackell, from Agra, is also at present attached to this Mission; but he is itinerating in camp. It would be a wild, desolate spot indeed, apparently quite remote from the civilized world, were it not that a dozen trains a day, panting and puffing past, quite preclude that idea, and link Taljhari with the European world. The Santhals are, as you know, Aborigines, or, at any rate, pre-Aryan inhabitants of this country. They are not Aryans: they are short, ugly, woolly-haired African-featured little fellows; very cheerful, happy people; honest, truthful and moral; great sportsmen; and among them Christianity makes way. There are about 500 Christians within reach of this place, and the church is designed for 500 seats. It must be a very interesting field; and Mr. Storrs, with his English pluck and fire, is just the man for the Santhals, and for the rough country, riding thirty or forty miles out to distant villages, and winning the hearts of the people by his manly style, and by his healing powers too, for he is a trained physician.

II. North-west Provinces.

The North-west Provinces comprise eleven principal Districts, viz. Agra (commenced 1813); Meerut (1815); Benares (1817); Goruckpore (1823); Juanpore (1831); Kotgurh (1847); Jubbulpore (1854); Lucknow (1858); Allahabad (1859); Azimgurh (1861); Fyzabad (1862).

ALLAHABAD.

Although the Gospel has been preached with all diligence in this place, yet little spiritual fruit is apparent as the result of the message thus delivered through another year. The

Rev. B. Davis summarizes in few words the principal duties in which he has been engaged :—

Our work has gone on at Allahabad during the past year with little change from that of previous years. The same weekly and daily preaching in the bazaars; the same meetings for worship and instruction on Sundays and week-days of our Native flock; the same work in our Sunday and other schools have been carried on; only, as has been mentioned in my journals and quarterly letters, our principal Anglo-vernacular school has moderately increased, and one of our bazaar schools has been transferred from the Kyd-gunge suburb to a village called Chundpoor, as the opening seemed better in the latter locality.

JUBBULPORE.

A general religious movement cannot be recorded; but a Brahmin Brahmin convert baptized within the year has become not only an earnest Christian teacher in the school, but a zealous preacher in the bazaar. A Native teacher has been placed among the Gonds, and arrangements made for the more frequent intercourse of the Missionaries with the Native city and the Native Christians. The Rev. E. Champion writes :—

As heretofore, my work has been of the most composite character. Our central English vernacular school and nine branch schools contain more than 700 scholars of all ages and attainments, from the little boy just beginning his Hindi or Urdu alphabet to the intelligent youth going up for the matriculation examination of the Calcutta University. My Native Christian head-masters, Babus U. C. Ghose and K. C. Bhose, have been of the utmost assistance to me in this large sphere of work. The former, especially, has rendered me essential help in arranging and superintending the branch schools. The Bible is read by all the boys who are sufficiently advanced, and other Christian books are used in the lower classes. Of present spiritual results we can say but little. Two or three of the boys are regular in their attendance at our preaching, and one of the vernacular masters (as will hereafter be mentioned) has been baptized; but while there is thus not wanting ground for hope, no religious movement of any importance can be mentioned.

I have, during the year, removed the Mission premises, and this has cost me considerable time and labour; but the change has both brought Missionaries near each other, near the Native city, and near the Native Christians; a most desirable result, and one calculated to have a beneficial effect on the work here as long as Jubbulpore is a Mission.

The baptism of an adult Brahmin convert, the first Hindi master in the central school above referred to, has added an intelligent and zealous member to our congregation. He was no less earnest in his study of the Word of God before his baptism (he frequently sat with me two or three hours at a time hearing and asking questions) than he has been in its dissemination since, having voluntarily gone into the bazaar almost every evening, after his work in the school was ended, to assist the preachers.

The small Native Church has been under my pastoral charge, and its members have given me great satisfaction by their improved and Christian conduct.

The Gonds, too, have not been lost sight of, though, with the above work on hand, they have necessarily received less of my attention than usual. I have, however, just located a Native Christian teacher among them, and hope this cold weather to make some definite advances towards them.

The Missionary itinerancy is here a field of labour, in which the work is only limited by the character of the climate and the number of the preachers. The people are not strongly attached to any heathen system, and the females often join the crowd that gathers around the Christian Missionary. Some of these features of the work are noticed by the Rev. J. Stuart:—

of the females
Gonds to hear the Gospel.

Our audiences, with scarcely one exception, were most attentive and exceedingly friendly, and, in nine cases out of ten, told us that they had never had a visit from a Missionary before. I remember to have had as many as thirty Gondi women present, some of whom, in connexion by their intelligent answering regarding subjects which they had never heard before, rejoiced me not a little. Perhaps many an English reader would see nothing to be surprised at in all that. True; but who, save a Native, carefully understands the effort that it costs one of these women to come into the presence of a "Sahib" as one of the audience to whom he is about to talk? and who, save those who have witnessed it, can really believe that a timid creature, such as the Native woman proverbially is, would attempt to reply to questions asked; and yet in many cases numbers of women did come, and intelligently answer too, and I would venture to say, that those who heard us once would with but little difficulty be persuaded to come again. In a word, we have here an open door, and, save our unworthy selves, no one to shut it. We are treading on an unbeaten track. The vast majority of the people are nearly as ignorant of their own religion as they are of ours; so that, save the natural tendency of the unrenowned heart, there is but little to impede the spread of the Gospel.

Not less promising is the aspect of the bazaar preaching, where the Missionary is compelled, ere he commences, to draw a circle on the ground, and to request that, while he takes his stand within the circumference, the hearers will remain outside it:—

Bazaar preaching is daily becoming more and more interesting. Six months ago our audiences might sometimes be counted by tens, but now they may be reckoned by fifties and by hundreds. Formerly, like the half-dead man in the parable, nearly all classes passed by “on the other side.” Now crowds come, a few to pour in “the oil and wine” of sympathy and support, (heathen though in name they be), and all (though no doubt unintentionally) to cheer us by their presence. By way of illustrating the above, I may remark, that on going to the bazaar daily, my first act is to take either my own or some other man’s staff and draw a circle on the ground, at the same time issuing strict injunctions for no one save ourselves to enter its precincts. For a short time the command is duly respected, but soon the line is approached closer and closer still, till finally, when perhaps I am engaged talking, some clever one draws a circle within a circle, effacing the first, and, lo and behold, we soon find ourselves half suffocated, with scarcely elbow room in the midst of a dense crowd. Formerly there were but two of us to fight the battle, but now we have just double that number, that is, in the evening. We have a Native brother from the north-west, who I hope will render us good assistance, together with our worthy brother Jagernath, who, if I remember rightly, has not been once absent since the morning of his baptism. He is but poorly paid, getting, if I mistake not, but fifteen rupees for his school teaching, and yet he volunteers to accompany us, and is ready, in season and out of season, to take his full share of the preaching in the bazaar. His presence is the secret of our increased audiences. From the time of his first appearing publicly as a preacher in the bazaar, a visible stir might have been observed. Several come to dispute with him—a few as his personal friends, who even yet revere him as a kind of “Guru,” or spiritual guide. This, to my mind, is very hopeful. Some abuse him, attributing the most unworthy motives to him, but he calmly listens to it all. I scarcely think it possible to put him out of temper. He is as simple and as manageable as a child. His wife, a girl of about sixteen, to whom he is much attached, comes with the orphan children to my wife for lessons. She can read Hindi nicely, all through her husband’s instruction and care. My wife is quite delighted with her, and speaks of her as bright, cheerful and happy. Thus she too will, I hope, ere long become a member with her husband of Christ’s militant Church.

The conduct of one who is “almost persuaded to be a Christian” is the more encouraging to the Missionary, because the friend of this vacillating heathen, now a decided and earnest Christian, formerly trod the path of religious inquiry with the same hesitating step. Of this man Mr. Stuart writes :—

He often comes to us in the bazaar, and generally attends church. He knelt in church last Sunday, which he has never done before, and which is quite unique in a man of his class. He bought a Hindi Prayer-book, and came to me some Sundays ago to get the places marked. Last Sunday he took a chair with us at our outdoor service before the city chapel, and actually, in the public streets, espoused our cause in open discussion. Jagernath did exactly the same before his baptism. I trust I may say that he is not far from the kingdom of God. This much I am sure of, he is fully convinced of the truth as it is in Jesus.

The conversion of a Pundit seems to have caused much agitation among the heathen, and much attention to the Gospel. Mr. Stuart depicts a scene in the bazaar during the Pundit's preaching :—

Converted Pundit
preaching
in the

Crowds as great as ever ; curiosity aroused to the very highest pitch ; every preparation made for a grand attack on us. There were several ringleaders ; one, an old wrangler, and another one of the senior young men from our large school. I insisted on silence, and succeeded, otherwise we should have had one general uproar. The Pundit commenced first, and, in less than five minutes, had a congregation of quite a hundred people. In my own address I explained why we objected to their teaching in the bazaar, and told them how delighted we should be to see any of them at our place, or, if invited by them, to visit them at their own. When the Pundit was preaching, a lad behind me interrupted. I begged of him to be silent and hear what was going on. "What!" he says to me, "is it a right thing of a Brahmin to give up his old religion?" This is to them an act in itself mysterious. This is what puzzles them. Oh ! to night how I did, I trust, heartily thank God when standing in the bazaar, as our new brother levelled argument after argument of a Brahmin Fakeer's to the ground. May His word and work prosper in our midst ! A thorough awakening seems to have begun amongst us.

BENARES.

After thirty-eight years' labour the Rev. W. Smith has been somewhat interrupted in his work by broken health. He is constrained to lament that the hearts of men are, in this capital of Hinduism, hardened in idolatry. The spiritual deadness of the place is noticed by Mr. Smith in connexion with the more encouraging testimony of the Catechists :—

With regard to our doings of the past year, I have no results, alas! to state. The machinery, so to speak, has been kept going as usual, my Catechists, excepting two evenings in the week, going twice a day among the people, or meeting with me for instruction and prayer; and I going my seven or eight times, besides the two services on Sunday. But still there appears no awakening. The people indeed hear, sometimes in great numbers, and quietly and attentively; and in conversation and discussion enmity and hatred are seldom manifested. We have had a Bengali inquirer for some time, but he does not seem of the right kind. One of the inquirers, a satisfactory one, mentioned in my last report as being so very near becoming a Christian, told Catechist Samuel a few months ago that he was still fully determined, and that soon, to take the step. A few days after he was seized with cholera, and died immediately.

During the cold season we itinerated up the Allahabad Road as far as Gopiganj, and then eastward to Zamania; thence to Sakaldia and Baburi, and down to Sasuram. We had some encouragement, thank God. One man, who has since visited me twice or thrice at my house, seems to have strong convictions.

The Catechists speak of some encouragement. One of them writes—"The people often hear well, and assent to what we say, and declare that idolatry is wrong. But then, again, they say, 'What can we do? The fear and shame from the world are great in us, and the words of our forefathers have sunk into our hearts. Nevertheless, in a short time we shall all, no doubt, come over to you.' Of this I am convinced, there are increasing signs. The Lord hasten it in His time. Amen.

Cheerfully and vigorously has the Rev. C. B. Leupolt continued during another year in the same important but difficult field. After a rapid glance at his usual duties, he gives a brief account of the conversion of a Hindu Brahmin:—

The work at Benares has been carried on as usual. We continue to proclaim salvation in Christ, and in Him alone, and in nothing else. Conversion of a Hindu Brahmin at Benares.

At the beginning of the year I enlisted our Normal school teachers and those of the Orphan schools to be helpers in the city. We meet every Tuesday afternoon. One of us in turn reads a written address for the bazaar; this is commented on, and, after that, two engage in prayer. We then divide, sometimes in two, sometimes in three parties; and if the address read in the meeting be adapted to the people of the bazaar, it is made the substance of our preaching that evening. Two laymen join, the one in addressing the people in the city, the other in visiting. Both are superior men, especially the latter.

Our assemblies have been good. Of late the Hindus have remained silent; the only persons that have opposed us were Mohammedans. They seem very active just now.

Old inquirers acknowledge now that they have no excuse to offer for not embracing Christianity. They seem to comfort themselves with the old idea, that, being Christians at heart, they are all right; for they ask, "Who is the better man, he that believes in Christ, but is not baptized, or he that is baptized but does in reality not believe in Christ?" My reply is, they are about alike: the one is ashamed of Christ, the other a shame to Christ.

A Hindu, formerly a Brahmin, has embraced the Gospel. He heard the Gospel first from Dr. Valentine, Medical Missionary at Jeypore. His uncle, a great man with the Ranee of Jeypore, was anxious to prevent his nephew from embracing Christianity. He entreated him not to bring this disgrace upon his house; he had him put in the stocks, imprisoned him in his house; but to no purpose. To make sure, however, of his nephew, the uncle sent him to a distant part of the country; but the inquirer had fixed his mind upon Christ: he had given Him his heart, and he would be His. He escaped, came to Benares, and, after a few months, made a public profession of his belief in the only Saviour Jesus Christ, and had his heart's wish fulfilled by being admitted into the Church of Christ.

The operations in various Mission schools, and the efforts of Colporteurs supported by the British and Foreign Bible Society, are also noticed by Mr. Leupolt:—

(1.) The Orphan Institution—This is still in my charge. The boys receive their instructions as heretofore in the Practising and Model school. Their conduct at home has been good. I continue to examine them on Thursdays on the sermons of the previous Sunday, and if the preacher has been impressive, the answers are clear and usually good. Among the elder boys there are some thinking ones, from whom I have received good answers whilst reading with them, in our evening prayers, Titus and the Hebrews.

Some five or six are expecting to enter the Normal school at the beginning of next year.

(2.) Normal Schools—Both the Normal schools continue to prosper. In the course of the year the number of scholars in the male department was reduced from forty to thirty-two. The number of girls in the Institution is forty, but we shall soon lose some, as they will be sent out as teachers.

I continue my Bible lessons with the pupils of both Institutions. We have just finished that delightful and instructive book, the prophecy of Daniel.

(3.) Various Schools.

Infant School—Infant schools are a blessing to a Mission. Ours is so to our Mission. The school flourishes. Our orphans attend the Model and Practising school. I have also ten Vernacular schools with upwards of 300 boys. They are supported by the Christian Vernacular Education Society and Government grants.

Village schools up the country here are difficult to manage, because the boys stay but a short time at school. Whenever they have learnt to read and write, and are able to compute the rent of their fathers' lands, they leave. Still every boy takes something of divine truth away with him, and we hope and pray that the same may be blessed to them in after life. All the boys pay fees.

Our Colporteurs, paid by the Bible Society, go their rounds, selling and offering for sale, the Word of God. My Readers made a tour to the south of Benares, and on their return they expressed themselves astonished at the amount of knowledge of divine truth of which they found the people possessed. I should say this is greatly owing to the circulation of the Word of God. Our Colporteurs have sold several hundred Testaments and portions of Scriptures and Tracts among these people. May the Lord quicken the word to many readers !

A trooper once employed under Lord Clyde, who was Orphan brought up in the Orphan school, now manages, says Mr. School Leupolt, this school :—

Our Orphan school goes on quietly. My right hand in the out-ward management of it is Benjamin, who was brought up in it, joined, during the mutiny, the Irregular Cavalry, was chosen by Lord Clyde as one of his troopers, and receives now a pension of Rs. 15½ per mensem. He manages every thing very well. We have some promising lads among them.

Jay Narain's College and Free School.

This important educational Institution has maintained its position. The subscriptions of Native gentlemen for prizes have increased. On the removal, in March, of the Rev. S. Carter to Gorruckpore, Mr. Pink, of Peshawur, was appointed to assist in the Institution. Of the arrangements, management, and number of studies, the Rev. H. D. Hubbard, the Principal, thus writes :—

The number of students is at present 481, of whom 266 are in the Oriental and 215 in the English department. The daily average attendance has been 386. The fees have been slightly raised, especially in the English classes, and the whole amount Rs. 1461·13·9. shows an increase of nearly Rs. 350 as compared with last year. It should be stated that tuition fees are not paid by the whole school, 100 students being educated freely (or at a nominal fee paid every month) on Rajah Jay Narain's foundation, who are selected from the really poor and deserving portion of the boys, so that as far as these are concerned the Institution keeps up its original designation of Jay Narain's Free school.

Successful
students in Jay Narain's
College.

Six of our students were successful in passing the University examination in December last, one in the Arts, and five for matriculation. Ganpat Gir, the student who passed in the Arts being unable to continue his studies, has obtained employment as head master of Maza school near Allahabad, and Jetha Singh, who passed in the entrance class is engaged as head master of Bijaipore.

Our College class consists of four students, three of our own and one from the Central Provinces, who holds a Government scholarship of Rs. 15 per mensem. No scholarships were granted to our own students this year, although they have always received them in former years, and no reason has been assigned for the alteration. They will, however, I trust, be enabled to continue their studies with the comparatively small assistance which the College is able to afford them. They have read with me for two hours daily in English literature and mathematics, and have also had some assistance in the latter subject from the Rev. C. B. Leupolt. The head master has taken them with Abercrombie's Mental Philosophy and Paley's Evidences on alternate days, and their vernacular studies have been superintended by the Moulvie and Pundit. Latterly Mr. Pink has relieved me of part of their studies by taking them in English History. The conduct of the class has been good, and their general progress very satisfactory.

The two lower classes, which at the commencement of the year were under Mr. Carter's superintendence, have lately been in the charge of Mr. Pink for their scriptural and other studies. The oriental department has been under the care of the head master, who reports favourably of their condition and progress. The following is a statement of the numbers in the various departments:—

|------------------------|-------|
| Sanskrit . . . . .     | 41    |
| Urdu-Persian . . . . . | 81    |
| Bengali . . . . .      | 67    |
| Hindi . . . . .        | 79    |
|                        | <hr/> |
|                        | <hr/> |

The general progress of the various classes has been, on the whole, satisfactory, and their conduct such as to give encouragement to those who have charge of them. But although we have no reason to be dissatisfied with their attainments in useful and secular knowledge, yet as a Missionary Institution it must ever be our great aim to spread the knowledge of Christ among our students.

AZIMGURH.

Improvement in the schools, which, inclusive of those at the decaying Moslem city of Juanpore, contain 500 boys and 100 girls, is especially mentioned by the Rev. W. G. Mallett, who, when the Rev. A. Lockwood left for England, early in the year, was transferred from the Punjab to Azimgurh. Mr. Mallett states generally the character of his duties, and refers especially to the assistance received from Native teachers:—

In direct Missionary work I may report the establishing of a Church Committee in connexion with the congregation. This Committee has raised during six months above Rs. 373. It has established daily morning prayers, has commenced a weekly offertory, and has provided for the church the necessary furniture, &c.; paid all expenses of divine service, entertained inquirers, paid some portion of the salaries of poorer Christians, and provided for the services of the sub-assistant surgeon, paying for six months in advance. It has also established a savings-bank.

The opening of the book-shop adjoining the boys' school compound in the principal bazaar may be mentioned. This has been established by the second master of our schools, who has paid all expenses. The sales from April to September amounted to Rs. 381·13·6, of which Rs. 30 were realized for Bibles. An assistant Coolie was engaged part of the year as Colporteur, but his services have been discontinued for the present.

Evangelistic work has been carried on by me, although not to that extent I should wish, assisted by the reader appointed in May last, and my head master and the teachers in the schools. No Missionary, I am sure, could have a better set of Christian teachers than those employed here. There has been daily preaching in the city and surrounding villages.

FYZABAD.

Itinerating preaching is the chief characteristic of the work at this station. The Christian congregation is small; but the little itinerating band, consisting of one European and two Natives, has been cheered by the manner in which the Gospel message is received in the surrounding country. After adverting to the sanctity and veneration with which the Hindus regard a place in the immediate neighbourhood of Fyzabad, the Rev. C. Reuther gives both an outline of the itinerating preaching and an illustration of the converting grace which sometimes attends such preaching:—

Ajodhiya is five miles distant from Fyzabad. It is of great Hindu sanctity. In some respects it is considered superior even to Benares. Under the Mohammedan rule it was kept down by the fire and sword of Islam, but under English liberty it is recovering its influence and greatness. Splendid Hindu temples and convents are fast springing up, and many of the great spend here their last days ; and hence they hope to go straight to heaven. It contains above 2000 religious mendicants of all orders. We have visited above ninety of their convents, and have held religious discussions with many of the devotees. But so great is their imagined sanctity, and so pleasant their life of idleness, that they have hitherto turned a deaf ear to the Gospel message. They consider that they do not stand in need of Christianity, because they are residing at Ajodhiya, which, in their opinion, is the very gate of heaven. Some men in this bigoted place are well acquainted with the Gospel ; but they have no strength as yet to declare themselves for Christ, and to take the consequences connected with such a step. We should have two Native helpers here.

Last cold season we were permitted to spend five months in itinerating. Our opportunities for making known the Gospel were numerous. We were often cheered by the way in which the word of God was received by the poor villagers of our district. At the same time we could not but feel our great insufficiency for the amount of work to be done ; and this made us cry unto the Lord to send more labourers into His harvest. The part of Oudh in which we travelled is most thickly peopled, so that our hearers must be reckoned by tens of thousands ; and the preachers were only three in number, one European and two Native helpers. Each of the four principal places visited by us contains many thousands of inhabitants, and must be supplied with Native helpers whenever the Lord may be pleased to give them to us.

after truth finds it in the Gospel preached in the

At Fyzabad, bazaar preaching has been carried on every day during the time we have been at home ; and here the Lord has not left us entirely without fruit, for which we bless His holy name. One evening we stood as usual in the bazaar, when a Hindu made himself known to us as a seeker of salvation. He was on his way to the Himalaya mountains, in search of peace. But if the words he had heard about Jesus were true, he said, they would seem to meet his case. The day following he came to the Mission house for more information. We proved to him from the Bible that it was Jesus who saved His people from their sins ; that He was able to save to the uttermost all that turn to Him in faith. The Lord opened his heart to attend to these things. As he could read well, we gave him the Word of God, and sent him home again to his village. His village is in the neighbourhood of Tanda, forty miles from Fyzabad. After some time he came back, and we found that he had most carefully read the books he had received from us, and that he longed for more information. After due time he was baptized in the primitive way, by immersion in the river. As he is an intelligent man, and we had reason to believe that he had tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, and was made partaker of the Holy Ghost, we set him apart for making known in his village the great things the Lord had done for his soul. His case is making a great stir now in that part of the country, and we are prayerfully waiting to see what the Lord will bring out of it.

This case is a great proof of the truth of Christianity. For years he had been seeking after salvation. He had made several journeys to Hindu shrines. He had put his young wife away, thinking that a married man could not be as holy as he ought to be. His poor wife cried, but he turned a deaf ear. He left the world, and went into a solitary place to seek and to serve God only. But he soon found that the world around him was gone, but not the world in his heart, and he obtained no peace. After three years' fruitless trial he left his solitary place for the hills, when he was arrested by the word of God at Fyzabad.

LUCKNOW.

The congregation here has increased. Among those baptized during the year are two Moslem women and a Punjabi Brahmin.

Educational efforts, especially for females, form a prominent feature in this Mission. Mrs. Fuchs, the wife of the Missionary, is much engaged in female education, concerning which the Rev. J. Fuchs writes :—

We have had the pleasure of welcoming the Misses Hamilton, appointed by one of the Societies which especially carries on Zenana work, to join Mrs. Fuchs in this sphere of labour, who single-handed, and with many other duties on hand, could not give so much time to the work as was needful to effect greater progress and efficiency ; but now the schools have been regularly visited, examined and taught. To the subjects in which the pupils were previously instructed, geography has been added. The Misses Hamilton succeeded in opening a fifth school. About the time of their arrival one of the wives of my Catechists was also appointed to go to these schools in turn to teach needlework, with which arrangement both pupils and teachers were much pleased, and she, as well as the wife of another Catechist that subsequently succeeded her, have always met with a very friendly reception.

The number on the rolls at the close of the year was ninety-eight, with an average attendance of seventy-two during the last quarter. The pupils are of the middle, not higher, classes : the latter will not yet allow their females to go in covered doolies to school, but these schools have been the means of Mrs. Fuchs becoming known to a number of very good and highly-connected families, in whose houses her visits are always most welcome.

It is to be observed that the whole circle of those spoken of is Mohammedan, but Miss O. Hamilton has been introduced into the Zenanas of three Bengali babus and through her Mrs. Fuchs also. A beginning of the work among the Hindus has thus been made.

The statistics of the schools under the care of Mr. Weber are summarily given by him :—

When, in January 1867, at the departure of the Rev. J. Erhardt, I was transferred from Benares to take charge of the educational department of this Mission, I found here two Anglo-vernacular schools, one, the main school, at Wazeergunj, and the other, a branch school, at Victoria Road; both containing together 190 scholars.

The work in these schools has hitherto been carried on without any serious interruption; and the sphere of labour has been enlarged by the opening of new schools.

At present we have four Anglo-vernacular and two vernacular day schools and one Anglo-vernacular evening school in this city, containing in all 578 scholars.

Above 500 boys have been taught the Bible for half an hour daily, either by myself or by some Christian master, and may we not hope that God's word will have a saving effect on some of them? It is encouraging to see that the more the boys know of the holy book the more they like it; and the effect of the Christian teaching is very manifest in the good conduct of most of them.

Amid many difficulties the Rev. J. Fuchs has been cheered by the sympathy and aid of residents who are conversant with the work :—

Sympathy and assistance from the residents at Lucknow. Regarding my labour in the city it may suffice to say that I have become more known among the people, and have had many precious opportunities to make Jesus known, but I cannot speak of any movement going on. A Cashmiri Brahmin is visiting me as an inquirer, who is in government employ in the engineer department. He is fully convinced of the truth, but cannot muster courage to take the reproach of Christ upon him. The Moulvies are as a class the most unsatisfactory people to converse with. I am happy to say that I have been liberally supported by the residents of the station, and thereby enabled to meet the expenses of all the schools and Catechists, without applying for pecuniary help to the Calcutta Corresponding Committee, and the circle of Christian friends whom we have continued to meet once a week has been a source of strength and refreshment to us. Mrs. Fuchs, amid difficulties that often beset her work in the Zenana schools, is yet full of hope, and her interest in the work has continued to increase.

—AGBA.

Engaged for the most part in the exegesis of the New Testament, the Rev. F. E. Schneider has nevertheless been able to visit Delhi, Meerut, Saharanpore and Hurdwar. He was accompanied sometimes by one, sometimes by another, Native

Minister or Catechist, and Mr. Schneider's thirty years of Missionary service have thus been made available in preaching the word.

The Native Pastor, the Rev. Joseph Jacob, has been placed more entirely in charge of the congregation at Agra, in consequence of the Rev. H. W. Shackell's employment in the Santhal Mission during four or five months of the cold season. The contributions of the Native Christians have been especially liberal, amounting to 1254 rupees. On this and other subjects connected with the congregation the language of Mr. Shackell may be quoted :—

Pastor's work at Agra.

The Rev. Joseph Jacob has conducted the Sunday services in the Agra church, and has thus been left still more exclusively sole pastor of that congregation.

In Agra things have gone on regularly without any special change or interruption. On my leaving for this place (Taljhari) I made over the Chairmanship of the Church Council to the Rev. C. E. Vines, while a Bengali Babu, a teacher in the college, was appointed Treasurer. The congregation has slightly decreased during the year.

In a money point of view our people have been specially liberal this year. They have given no less than 1250 rupees through our hands, partly for the Pastorate Fund, partly in sacramental offerings, partly to relieve the distress in Bengal, and to assist in rebuilding the church destroyed by the cyclone in the Mauritius. It must, however, be regarded as an exceptional year : we cannot expect so much as a regular thing. So far as I remember (for I have not documents by me), there have been, up to the present time (November 23rd), six adult baptisms in the church this year ; the most noticeable of them being a Bengali Babu, baptized by Mr. Vines. The congregation have agreed to pay from their Church Fund a reader or teacher, to be appointed in a neighbouring village, owned by an Indigo planter, who is very favourable to and will help in the undertaking ; but there has been delay in making the appointment, and the man who was at last fixed upon was prevented from going by illness, so that as yet the opening has not been taken up. Two inquirers have, however, appeared from the village, and are under instruction with Mr. Jacob.

St. John's College.

The large number of students has necessitated the erection of additional school buildings. Although the fees have been raised during the year, and the scholars have consequently contributed 2500 rupees, yet the classes have been full. Success in the University examinations has also been obtained, while instruction in the Scriptures has received careful attention. The Rev. C. E. Vines adverts to examinations, having the latter object specially in view :—

The joint examination of Mission schools in the North-west Provinces took place as usual in October. It is held for the purpose of comparing and assimilating the mode of instruction, and counteracting the tendency which the University examinations may have to make heathen students neglect the study of the Bible. The students of only three of the Mission schools contended for four prizes for proficiency in Scripture, and three of the prizes fell to Christian students of St. John's College. In the month of May I baptized a Bengali, who had been three months under my instruction. He was originally educated in a Mission school in Calcutta.

SECUNDRA.

The account of his proceedings for the year was transmitted at so late a date by the Rev. C. G. Däuble, that it is not possible to furnish any details. The Secundra Orphanage contains 175 boys and 145 girls.

Allygurh.

The little Christian flock at this place has given satisfaction to the Missionary, and has made a commencement in the direction of self-support. There have been seven adult baptisms since last year, and Mr. Steller gives the annexed account of his itinerating preaching :—

I, together with my Reader, and two Colporteurs allowed me by the Bible Society, have been out the greater part of the cold season and have had much opportunity to make known the Word of God. We have been to all the more important towns, and to a great number of villages throughout the district, and a little beyond.

I have been pleased with the diligence of my assistants, and the interest they take in the work.

We have continued to take a small price for every tract or portion of Scripture distributed, and, considering that the books we sell speak of an alien religion, and were formerly given to them gratis, we have sold a good number.

MEERUT.

Arrived at the sixty-fifth year of his natural, and the thirty-seventh of his Missionary life, the Rev. C. T. Hoernle has, with the exception of a month spent on the Hills, been permitted to continue throughout another year the various agencies of the Meerut Mission. The year has been one of persevering Mission labour, unattended by any special incident. Arrangements for enlisting the Natives in the Mission service, and for the developement of the Native Pastorate, have been kept steadily in view, as is evident from the following account given by Mr. Hoernle :—

This Mission may be divided into two chief branches, the city department and the out-stations. The plan of giving trustworthy and tried Native Assistants the opportunity of more independent action in separate spheres of labour has had, since the Meeting of 1857, and more especially since I have had charge of this Mission, unremitting attention, and the result has been a circle of out-stations which now are nine in number. It is a mark of progress, Zenana that, after many trials, a Zenana school has been opened, which is School at attended by twenty-four high-caste girls and young women. Its Meerut. success, so far as it at present goes, is due to the perseverance of my eldest daughter. The Zenanas of several Hindu families are also visited by her and Mrs. Hoernle, and their visits are generally liked and appreciated.

An ordained Native Christian, F. Abel by name, and one of the Develop- Secundra Orphans belonging to the generation before the destruction ment of of that Institution in the Mutiny of 1857, a steady and intelligent the Native young man, has been appointed to this Mission by the Calcutta Church at Committee. He has just arrived from Bareilly, and will have full Meerut. responsible charge of the cantonment section of the Meerut Mission community, together with the congregations of Muliwana and Ranker Rhera, which, being situated near each other, form a compact and proper sphere for a Native Pastor. His salary will henceforth be defrayed partly by subscriptions raised among the members of his flock, partly by a grant from the Calcutta Pastorate Fund, supplemented, so long as necessary, from a local Church Endowment Fund, and thus gradually cease to be a burden on the resources of the Church Missionary Society. To assist him in the management of the congregational portion of his duties, a Church Council is intended to be established as soon as circumstances will allow, and suitable members can be appointed. A similar arrangement will, ere long, be made for the congregation at Ikla. The Catechist hitherto in charge here, also one of my former orphans, and now for many years a faithful labourer, went to Umritsur for ordination, after having obtained the sanction of the Parent Committee. On his return he will have pastoral charge of the Ikla congregation, and by-and-by be similarly supported as the Rev. F. Abel.

KOTGHUR.

There has been inquiry at this place after the truth of Christianity, resulting in the reception of several converts to Christian baptism. Three Native brethren have zealously aided the Rev. W. Rebsch in evangelistic labour. The heathen have shewn much opposition and hostility towards those who have expressed a desire to become Christians. In one case a whole family became the mark of persecuting animosity, merely because the members of it had manifested a desire to receive Christian baptism. The appended account exhibits the difficulties through which young converts are called to pass:—

of a female convert under persecution.

The case of a girl about nineteen years old is rather interesting, and shows that our teaching is not lost labour. She was in school nearly six years, left it four years ago at the desire of her relatives, but was never happy, wishing always to return and stay with us; on account of which her relatives watched her closely for months, but at last she found an opportunity to run away and came to the Mission compound for protection in the night. Her relatives intended to take her back by force, which we could not allow. The poor girl had been stripped of all clothing and whatever she had, so that we were obliged to provide for her to be able to come out of the house next morning. She resolutely refused to go with them to her village, as she said that for years she had believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, and would have nothing to do with idolatry, to which she would be exposed among them. She told them that she would live and die among the Christians. We asked the people whether they had any complaints to make against the girl, whether she had behaved ill or done anything wrong at home. "Nothing," was the reply, but they would not suffer her to become a Christian: then much abuse followed. The girl being of age, according to the ideas of these people, and no longer a child, we reasoned with them as much as possible. Our Native Christians said that they would not allow anybody who had taken refuge in the Mission compound, in order to become a Christian, to be taken away by force, and that they would protect the poor girl to the utmost. This settled the question at last. The people left our compound, and the girl wished to be baptized as soon as possible. Her wish was complied with after a fortnight. Her relatives have since given her up, and she is happy, being a Christian.

III. The Punjab.

The Punjab Mission comprises six principal Stations—Unrisaur, commenced 1852; Kangra, 1854; Peshawur, 1855; Multan, 1856; Derajat, 1861, Cashmir, 1863.

UMRITSUR.

The ordination of Imaduddeen, the converted Moulvie, stands forth prominently among the events of the year. Early in December the Bishop of Calcutta ordained this convert from Islam to the Gospel at Umritsur, where, by his confession of Christ, he had already joined the Native Church, and forsaken the Moslem ranks. Imaduddeen has thus relinquished the service of the Government and entered upon the ministry of the Gospel. The Bishop also confirmed 50 Native Christians, examined 1600 children, inclusive of 350 girls, in the schools, and, on his departure, gave a donation of 500 rupees to the Mission. Subjoined is a sketch of the arrangements for the developement of the Native Church made by the Rev. R. Clark:—

The arrangements connected with the location of the Native Christians in the city have now been completed. The Native Pastor is living in his own parsonage in the city, with his congregation around him. Opposite to his house is the Christian Serai, where travellers and inquirers are entertained. A handsome frontage of a row of shops has been added to the serai opening into the bazaar, where Christians who wish to be shopkeepers may at any time carry on their trades, without experiencing any of the difficulties and annoyances to which at times they are liable when renting houses from Hindus or Mohammedans. Two of the shops have been fitted up as a reading-room for the Christians, where they can meet their friends, and where, in due time, they may have a library. Two more are intended for shops for religious books, where it is proposed that every kind of Christian vernacular literature may be on hand for sale, and may be always procured by those who desire such books. The rent of the remaining six shops will provide subsistence allowance for inquirers, hospitality for strangers, and funds for repairs. Behind the Pastor's house, in a large separate compound, opening into his, a row of four houses (which may at any time be added to,) has been erected for young men, or for any Christians, whom it is not thought desirable to expose to the temptations of life in the bazaar. A Native Christian burial-ground has lately been made in a convenient spot in the neighbourhood, and will, God willing, be consecrated at the approaching visitation of the Bishop. Every immediate want has, with God's blessing, been provided. Not one thing that was desired has been withheld. The Mission has obtained a solid footing in the city, where it is hoped it will prove to be the nucleus and germ of an indigenous church. By gathering to itself and assimilating the surrounding elements it will expand and grow in strength and vigour. The Christians will gradually come to live in their own, or in rented houses, under no other control from the Mission than spiritual control. Throwing off what Bishop Cotton termed the artificial hot-house system of Mission compound villages, they will assume their proper position as independent Christian men.

The preliminary outward work has thus been accomplished. The work of keeping themselves unspotted from the world, and of holding out the light of God's truth to their countrymen from a more favourable stand-point, now commences. The future of their Church must in a great measure depend upon themselves.

Indeed, one of the chief objects kept in view during the past year has been the self-government and self-support of the Native Church. Its numbers are yearly increasing, whilst the number of English Missionaries in the country does not increase. In a few years the work of instruction alone will be such that foreign Missionaries will not be able to overtake it. Even if they could be sent in sufficient numbers, it would be injurious to the Native Church for them to perform it.

Facts connected with the Native Church in Umritsur. Additional facts connected with the Native Church, and with the baptism of converts, are given by Mr. Clark. The aged father of Imaduddeen is mentioned among those baptized during the year :—

The Native Christians have continued to make praiseworthy efforts during the year towards the self-support of their church. In the course of nine months they have received for their Church Fund no less than Rs. 1324, of which Rs. 401 have been subscribed by Natives. Compared with the amount subscribed by them in 1867, the increase in 1868 (had the collections been continued for the whole year instead of nine months) would have been Rs. 70, exclusive of Rs. 49 received from Native Christians who have lodged in the Serai. The management of the Church Fund is in their own hands; and it is thought important that it should remain so; and that they should continue to make all arrangements connected with the Serai and the houses for the Native Christians. When they see the special value of their own contributions, as tending to prepare the way for an independent self-supporting Christian Church, the congregation will give more liberally. They have given from their collections Rs. 50 a month towards the support of their Native Pastor, Rs. 25 of which are a grant from the Calcutta Committee for this purpose. They have also afforded relief both to inquirers and to their own poor; and have made considerable grants to the city Mission buildings that have been completed during the year. The importance of these efforts towards self-government and self-support on the part of the Native Church cannot be overrated. They are worthy of every possible encouragement. The advice of the late Mr. Thomason, of Agra, may well be kept in mind by all of us who are Missionaries—"Carry the people with you, aid their efforts, rather than remove from them all stimulus to exertion, by making the effort yourself."

The number of Native Christians connected with Umritsur and <sup>Baptism</sup> its out-stations, including Lahore, is 252, of whom 83 are commu- <sup>of several</sup> nicants. There have been 25 baptisms in the last nine months, <sup>members of</sup> of whom six are adults. Amongst the latter are Moulvie Serajud- <sup>Imadud-</sup> deen of Paniput, the aged father of Moulvie Imaduddeen, <sup>deen's</sup> (who <sup>family.</sup> is said to be a hundred years old, and who remembers some of the events of North Indian history in the last century); and also his brother, Moulvie Khairuddeen, his own wife, and his brother's wife. Of this family only one brother, Moulvie Karimuddeen, Deputy Inspector of Schools, the author of very many of the vernacular educational works in the Punjab, now remains unbaptized. It was thought at one time that he would have been the first of his family boldly to acknowledge Christ; and his expected baptism was openly spoken of many months ago in one of the English newspapers at Lahore; but though called the first, he has been the last to bear the Cross and reproach of Christ, which all must do who hope to wear His crown. One of the other converts is the wife of one of the readers in the Mission. He went to bring her to Umritsur from her home near Indore, in Central India, and induced her to return with him; but so prejudiced was she against Christianity, that, shortly after her arrival at Umritsur, she insisted on his taking her back again to her parents in Indore. After much remonstrance he did so, and was preparing to leave her there, when she repented of her conduct, and entreated to be allowed to come back again with him. She thus came a second time to Umritsur, but her bigotry and hatred to Christianity remained. At last, after many months, her hard heart became softened, and she was baptized at her own request, and is believed to be now a true believer in Christ. The women of India have far more influence than is generally believed. If we would have the Christian Church to be established or enlarged in India the women must first be gained.

The disciples of Mohammed seem to have been roused by the definite form which the Native Church has assumed, and a second mosque has arisen near the house of the Native Pastor. This movement in Umritsur, the operations in adjoining districts, and the influence of Imaduddeen's controversial writings, are described by the same pen:—

The influence of the congregation living in the city has been, it is believed, for good; and a decidedly friendly feeling has been generally shown on the part of the people. A second mosque, however, is observed rising opposite the Mission compound wall, between the Mission house and the Native Pastor's house; and the Muezzin's cry, which seems to have been provoked by the sound of the gong calling together the Christians to daily prayer, is also now heard loudly sounding five times a day over the quarter of the town where all before was still.

Yuhanna, one of the Catechists, has been stationed during the whole year in Batala, where his efforts continue to be acceptable to the people. Paulus and Nasrut Ullah have generally remained in Narowal. Edward is still at Jhundiala. John has accompanied Dr. Elmslie to Cashmir, where he has rendered good assistance. He has been very seriously ill, but God has mercifully restored him. Sadik has spent his time chiefly in itinerations, a work for which he was specially trained by the Rev. J. M. Brown, and for which he is admirably adapted. The Rev. Daud Sing, the Native Pastor, has been entirely laid aside during the last four months by such severe illness that serious apprehensions had been entertained for his life. This has altogether put a stop to his long-cherished plans of travelling about the country, and of carrying the Gospel to his countrymen.

Influence
deen's con-
writings.

The reply to the Ijâzi-Isawi (called the Hidayat-ul-Mussalmin) by Moulvie Imaduddeen, referred to in the last two Reports, is now nearly printed, and will be ready in two or three weeks. Copies of it have been repeatedly applied for by Natives in different parts of India. During the past nine months the Moulvie has also published eight numbers of a monthly series of tracts, which have met with a ready sale, and have been circulated in many stations, from Bombay and Madras up to Peshawur. Each tract (of about sixteen pages) enforces some special Christian doctrine, and they are so arranged that the twelve numbers may be bound together.

As indicative of the energy and independence existing among the Christian community, the following scheme for the creation of a Christian settlement attracts attention. It is proposed to establish a Christian village without assistance from the Missionary :—

Four Native Christian gentlemen have applied for a tract of waste land, about 1900 acres in extent, about thirty-five miles from Lahore, in the direction of Multan, for the purpose of forming a Native Christian settlement. Through the kindness of Government, after a good deal of correspondence carried on through several years, the prospect has been held out to them of the land being leased to them at a low rate for ten years; and that at the termination of this period they will receive the proprietary right of as much of the land as they have been able to bring into cultivation during the ten years. With a perfect knowledge of the country and of the people, and possessing as they do the confidence of the Native Christians, they will have the management of the whole undertaking in their own hands. The land is advantageously situated near the Multan railway, and is also near to a canal, and, with the capital they have to work it, they have the prospect before them of gaining in the course of a few years a position of competence and influence in their own country. They have guaranteed to give employment to all Native Christians who apply for it, and who are willing to work honestly for their support; and they have undertaken to establish schools for their children, and to pay for the salaries of masters and of a Catechist for them; and also of a Native Pastor whenever one may be required. The experiment of forming a Christian settlement has on several occasions been made by European Missionaries, and in some cases has failed. The experiment will here be made by Natives. We shall now prove whether they are able to carry it out. If by their tact and prudence, and by means of their personal influence and resources, even a small Christian community can be attracted together, who will live together in harmony, supported by their own labour without any foreign support, they will accomplish a work which will be greatly beneficial to the interests of Christianity in the country, as well as profitable to themselves.

KANGRA.

An addition of four adults has been made to the small Christian congregation at Kangra. The Mission schools contain 220 boys and 40 girls. At the Palampore mela, held in November, the educational Durbar of the Deputy-Commissioner attracted special attention. The Kangra Mission school was commended for efficiency. The Rev. J. P. Mengé refers to this mela, and to the satisfactory conduct of a recent convert:—

Only a few Rajahs visited the mela, and remained but a short time there. Still the Catechists were able to preach the truths of the Gospel to numerous congregations, but as few present were able to read, they could not distribute many books and tracts. One of the chief attractions of the mela was the Deputy Commissioner's educational Durbar, where the boys of the various schools in the Kangra district were examined, and received prizes. The Kangra Mission school was the most advanced of all, and several of the boys received prizes, with which they were much pleased.

An intelligent young man preaches in the bazaar. One of the young men I baptized a few months ago is naturally very clever. He gets on very well with his studies, and likewise teaches daily in the Mission school. Indeed he is my best English scholar in the school, and has read several Persian books as well. This young man, nineteen years of age, is a true Christian, as far as man can judge. Of his own accord he now and then goes to the bazaar, and endeavours to make known to his countrymen the glorious truths of the Gospel. May the Lord in mercy keep him humble and faithful!

MULTAN.

Preaching to the heathen in the bazaars and elsewhere has been continued, but with less regularity and success. The little Christian community seems incapable of making much impression on the mass of surrounding heathenism, but, on the other hand, intelligent inquirers multiply. The Missionary, the Rev. G. Yeates, thus speaks of the encouragement felt in this respect:—

Increase of intelligent inquirers in and around Multan. Many intelligent inquirers have come forward, not only in Multan itself, but in the outlying towns. Only this day I received a letter by post from a well-read man, asking for a supply of Christian books, including the whole Bible, and some controversial works by Imaduddeen of Umritsur. A similar application was made from another quarter, at the beginning of the year; and so particular was the request, that I felt it my duty to go out and visit the Moulvie who had made it. A young man, chief of one of the leading tribes here, a sort of hereditary priest among the Moham-medans, has also been a constant visitor and pupil during the year. This man holds a very high position, and from his exemplary conduct, is held in great esteem by the people. It is contrary to his interest to be seen with us, or to be known to have anything to do with Christians; yet he has braved all, has accepted a gift of the New Testament and the Proverbs, and has continued his studies.

I wish I could say that it was a real feeling of spiritual need, hunger and thirst, that impelled him, but as yet he is wrapped up in self-righteousness: it is the intellectual superiority of Christianity, its largeness and purity, that at present attract him. I may just mention one instance to show how much men of this kind stand in need of instruction. A short time ago, in conversation with him, I had occasion to speak of the Trinity, when, to my surprise (for in his own book, "The Koran," he is well read), I found that he thought Christians held the Trinity to consist of God, Christ and the Virgin Mary! Upon making inquiries afterwards, I found that this belief is by no means uncommon among even learned Mohammedans.

Bible classes in the Vernacular have specially engaged the attention of Mr. Yeates. One interesting class contains scholars who are eighteen years of age and upwards. Assisted by a well-qualified Native woman, Mrs. Yeates has succeeded in improving the instruction given to girls, who have been allowed to attend more regularly and to remain longer at school. Three schools for boys contain more than 300 scholars. The religious and moral influence seem to stand in favourable contrast to that exercised by the Government school:—

It is frequently urged that schools such as these are not directly Missionary work, that they are beneath the attention of a Missionary, who, by devoting his energies to them, becomes a mere education-<sup>Bible</sup>alist. Well, if our schools only provided an education with a view of raising the people, and so fitting them, by enlightening them in secular things, for the reception of the Gospel, then we should plead guilty to the charge. But this is not the case. It is true that our schools do afford the means of raising the people, and I am glad to be able to report that there is a growing conviction in the minds of the people that a better secular education is given in the Mission schools than in the Government ones; but it is also the fact, that the knowledge of the Scriptures, of Christian doctrine and practice, is being spread far and wide by these means that gives to our schools their great importance in a Missionary point of view. Among the people at large there is no idea of morality, no sense of responsibility; and if in nothing more than in laying the foundation of a religion by impressing some idea of these upon the lads trained in them, our schools have accomplished a valuable work. In these respects so marked a difference is there between the lads under scriptural influence and those trained in the Government schools, that during the past year we have been obliged to introduce a rule excluding all boys who have been under instruction in the Government school, because such boys brought with them an indifference to all religion. But, further than this, not only are the lads themselves furnished with a good knowledge of Gospel history and doctrine, but they carry it home with them, and spread it among their families. This knowledge may all lie dormant for a time, but it is there, to be called into active exercise whenever it may please the Lord of the harvest to breathe life into their souls.

The three thousand souls added to the Church on the day of Pentecost did not hear the truths Peter spoke for the first time then. We are "to make ready a people prepared for the Lord."

DERAJÂT.

The great object of the young Missionary, the Rev. D. Brodie, during the Rev. R. Bruce's visit home, has been to sustain the operations ordinarily conducted by the latter.

School
teachers engage voluntarily in bazaar

The energies of Mr. Brodie have thus been heavily taxed, especially as the lack of an easy command over the language incapacitated him from bazaar preaching. This important part of Mission duty has, however, been in some measure undertaken voluntarily by two of the teachers in the school, who have thus preached Christ to their fellow-countrymen. Mr. Brodie thus adverts to school labours:—

We have had, during the past year, four schools in Dera Ismail Khan and one in Bunnoo. In the former place are the main schools, with more than 200 boys, and three branch schools, containing at least another 100. These latter are now closed, awaiting help from Government, or the increase of local subscriptions. The school in Bunnoo has had many difficulties to contend with from the beginning. There are now, however, more than 100 boys on the roll. All in our schools learn the Word of God either in English or the vernacular, and it is only in exceptional cases that any opposition is shown to the reading of it. We see fruits, although they are not just what we should wish. It is remarkable how most of the superstitions of the heathen fade away before the simplest education. On one occasion a boy in the school, and in the presence of the master, reprovingly said to another who had been absent the day before performing religious ceremonies—"Don't you know that an idol is nothing but stone? the Bible tells you that." Again, lads have been overheard talking about religion, and expressing their willingness and desire to become Christians, but that they feared to face the anger and opposition of their relatives. I comfort myself that, by means of these institutions, many hearts are being prepared for the time when God shall pour out His Spirit on this people.

PESHAWUR.

Progress at Peshawur. The small Christian congregation gathered at this frontier station has shown more life and vigour. A zealous Afghan convert and evangelist has died. Controversy against Islam has been successfully conducted. An eminent Moslem has sought Christian baptism. In recording these facts, the local Report glances also at difficulties arising from the careless Christianity of Englishmen:—

We are thankful to record that the Christians have manifested some signs of increased spiritual life and earnestness, for besides evincing a greater desire for the means of grace, they have contributed one hundred and nine rupees during the year. This Church Fund is entirely managed by the Natives themselves, and is used by them for the relief of needy brethren and other objects of charity. No relief is given to Christians from the Mission: if deserving and needy persons present themselves their cases are brought before the Native Church meeting, and the Christians themselves dispose of them.

Our small Christian community has sustained a severe loss in the death of Fazl-i-Haqq, an Afghan convert, whose name will be familiar to many as the Christian who visited Kafiristan. He had great Missionary zeal and earnestness, and was always ready to speak a word for Christ in whatever company he was. He was in deed and in truth “a living epistle known and read of all men.”

Preaching in the bazaar is carried on by the Rev. T. P. Hughes and the Catechists. Large crowds assemble and listen attentively for a time.

A number of copies of Moulvie Saifdar Ali's new work, the “Nyáz-Náma,” have been distributed amongst the Moulvies of the city, and have done much towards directing the attention of the learned to the evidences of our religion. We believe the distribution of controversial works to be one of the most effectual, whilst it is certainly one of the most unobtrusive, ways of directing the Mohammedans to the study of Christian truth.

There are at present two interesting inquirers. One is an Afghan of high position, who most decidedly professes his faith in Christ and his rejection of Mohammed, and is willing to be baptized. The other is a Moulvie of a Government village school, who is reading the New Testament and other Christian works.

The Missionaries are constantly receiving visits from Natives, and embrace every opportunity of making known the Gospel amongst the people.

The difficulties of our work are “legion.” The domestic training, and the literature of the people, together with their various customs, give them the strongest bias in favour of their religion; whilst the disregard for spiritual things, and the general indifference to religion amongst the majority of Englishmen in India, tend to weaken the belief of Mohammedans in the sincerity of English Christianity. Not very long ago a Mohammedan said to the Missionary in the bazaar—“Why do you wish us to give up our creed? Why, we are more religious and more attentive to the observances of our religion” than the English people are to theirs. They only worship God once a week, and then they do not kneel down to worship Him." The Missionary of course gave a reply, but as he left the bazaar he was obliged to confess to the Native Catechist that there was some truth in the man's remarks.

The Rev. W. Ridley has removed from the cantonment to the Mission house in the heart of the city. Mrs. Ridley and himself are the only Europeans dwelling in the midst of a Native population of 70,000. Thus they are in daily intercourse with the Afghan Christians, and are able to give much attention to the schools, which are prospering, notwithstanding many drawbacks, which are now attracting scholars from the higher classes, and in which not less than 2000 of the inhabitants of Peshawur have received a knowledge of Christianity. Some of the boys now at school, and some who were once taught in it, often attend the Bible classes held on Sunday morning. Mr. Ridley alludes with satisfaction to the efforts in behalf of female education and Zenana work made by his wife:—

education and Zenana work at Peshawur.

Female education is making very fair progress. The Inspector of schools writes that the Peshawur Mission girls' school for Mussulmānis is the largest and most promising in the Punjab, and strongly recommends Government to give a grant-in-aid. Hitherto no Missionary's wife has been able steadily to pursue any plan for reaching the females, on account of the pressure of family cares and anxieties. As we live in the city, and as Mrs. Ridley has good health, and is free from the cares of a family, she is able to lay herself out for the benefitting of her own sex. From the time of our first arrival she has been pursuing the study of, first, Urdu, then Pushtoo, and at present Persian, with different Munshis. Before going to school she reads two hours with her Munshi; after that, spends two hours in school teaching, reading, writing, and different kinds of needlework; then, leaving school, she goes to one or other of the several Zenanas and teaches the same to the inmates; arriving home at half-past one daily. This latter branch of work is entirely new in Peshawur, and it almost astonishes those who know anything of this bigoted city to be told that the Bible is taught regularly to the daughters and grand-daughters of the senior Qazi of the city. In the girls' school the Bible is read and explained daily, and one little blind girl can repeat the first twenty-two chapters of St. Matthew's Gospel by heart.

CASHMIR.

Less interrupted and opposed during the past year, Dr. Elmslie has been able, as a Medical Missionary, to relieve the physical sufferings of a large number of persons, and to minister at the same time to their spiritual necessities. In the course of five months the Medical Dispensary was visited by more than 4000 patients. His brief account of the present aspect of the Mission is given:—

Success of the Medical
Cashmir.

This year, so far as medicine and surgery are concerned, has been very successful—indeed the most successful year the Mission has yet seen. From the 8th May to the 12th October, a period of five months and four days, 4161 individual patients have received medical and surgical aid at the Mission Dispensary.

All these persons have heard the Gospel, more or less, and many of them have obtained books. Many of these people come very considerable distances. We have had several merchants from the interior of Asia as patients: some of these have seen the Russians. But nearly the whole of the number are Cashmiries, living in the valley or on the surrounding mountains. These people are much less bigoted than formerly. We can speak to them much more freely and plainly without fear of offending them; and a very large number of the inhabitants of the valley, both high and low, now look upon us as their friends, and, in their difficulties and sorrows, come to us for advice and sympathy. There are not any converts this season: several are in a very hopeful state. May God reveal himself in Christ to them, and influence their hearts with love to Him for what He has done for them.

Forty-two of the fifty Native Clergy of South India are connected with the Native Church scheme.

IN the general view of Indian Missions already given in connexion with Calcutta, the great extension of the Native Ministry in the South India Mission has been especially noticed. It may here be added that forty-two of the fifty Native Clergy in this Mission are labouring as pastors under the Native Church scheme adopted by the Society. Indeed the documents and despatches connected with South India so continually advert to this aspect of the Society's work, that the report necessarily contains much information on the subject of the Native Pastorate.

Applying his energies to the pastoral care of one of the five Native congregations in Madras and to Vernacular schools, the Rev. R. C. Macdonald is at the same time endeavouring so to improve the school organization, as to enable him with greater frequency to join in the itinerating preaching among the rural population. Some observations on the labours of Native Pastors in Madras, and on his own educational efforts, are made by Mr. Macdonald :—

The tripartite division of the Northern District has done much good. The Rev. V. Sandosham rejoices in his independent position, and has set to work in right good earnest. He has collected around him many who had neglected the house of God : his able preaching, kind hearted manner and pastoral visitations have effected much.

The Rev. W. T. Saththianadhan does more the work of a European Missionary than that of a Native Pastor, having schools to superintend, agents to direct, &c. As he is naturally of a studious disposition, and gives himself much to literary work, he rather directs the Catechist in his pastoral work, than engages in it himself, confining himself for the most part to the celebration of Church services and religious ordinances.

I am very glad that, as at all events a temporary measure, the Royapuram District was separated from Black Town. Mr. Sandosham's earnestness and energy have stirred me up much, and the life-work going on amongst his people has reached the other side of the city walls, and we are feeling the benefit of it. The attendance on the means of grace is improving much, and three Bible classes have been formed, and are well attended, at a place where, two years ago, it was difficult to get any people to attend even service.

Vernacular school work has occupied much of my time, and absorbed much of my energy. I am thankful to be able to feel each year signs of progress, and to feel more and more that this is the work to which my taste and feelings direct me. The real difficulty which lies in my way is the procuring of suitable agents.

The organization of the Native Church in Madras is becoming more complete and compact. The Native Church Council, under the presidency of the Rev. D. Fenn, has assiduously met and carefully discussed the various questions which of necessity arise in the formation of a Church intended to acquire independent action and vitality. The Native Church Council has rightly judged that a summary of the year's proceedings would be acceptable to the Committee of the Society, and Mr. Fenn, as Chairman, transmits the following account :—

We are thankful to say that, by the aid of the liberal grant made by the Parent Committee of Rs. 300 a month, the Treasurers of the Native Church Fund have been able to defray the salaries of the three Native Pastors and of three Catechists, for the whole year, besides that of a fourth Catechist for part of the year. The expenses of this last were also paid by us on his return in broken health to Tinnevely.

Our monthly meetings have been held regularly, and the attendance has been good. Twice we have had all the nine members present, and the average has been more than seven each time, five being the quorum. The members are much scattered in this wide-spread city, and attendance has sometimes been given at considerable inconvenience. Add to this, that for five out of the eleven months that have passed one member has been absent from Madras, and has, in fact, sent in his resignation in consequence.

We are not without hope that our Madras Council may be able, in course of time, to ask for less than the large proportion of our whole income, which we at present receive. Certainly the contributions of the Native Church have been very liberal, considering their means. Perhaps, now they see that the Native Church Council is a real working body, with bond fide independent action, they may do yet more. Public meetings, as in previous years, have been held in connexion with two of the Pastorates in support of the Church Fund and Church expenses, when the nature and object of the new arrangements and the relation in which the three Pastorates now stand to the Parent Society were distinctly explained.

We are thankful to say, that, through God's mercy, our Council meetings have been very harmonious, and we think that, as months roll on, the interest felt by each member, and in many cases the practical help rendered, are on the increase. We hope that the native congregations which we represent will not be forgotten in the prayers of English Christians.

A clear conception of the character and extent of a Native Minister's sphere of labour in a Presidency city may be obtained from the Rev. W. T. Satthianadhan's statements as to the number, the steadfastness and the liberality of his congregation. A few lines on school work are also added:—

a Native Pastor's sphere in Madras.

My pastoral charge, which was confined to John Pereira's, has been enlarged since the beginning of July last year, as it includes Chintadrepettah also. In the two congregations the number of baptized is 232, of whom half, viz, 116, are communicants. There are two services on Sunday and one service on the week-day in each congregation. Three of the four Sunday services, as well as week-day ones, I generally conduct myself. The Lord's Supper is administered regularly twice a month, the first Sunday at John Pereira's, and the second Sunday at Chintadrepettah.

The congregation at John Pereira's has been scattered of late, owing to circumstances over which we have no control. The erection of the central station of the Madras railway in the neighbourhood, and the decision of Government to connect the General Post Office with it, have ended in the removal of many Native houses, including my own. I am now living in New Town, half a mile from John Pereira's, and, like myself, several other Christian families have been obliged to quit the neighbourhood and fix their residences in other parts of the city. Although I naturally entertained strong fears and misgivings that these changes might affect the stability and numerical strength of the congregation at John Pereira's, yet it is a gratifying fact that my fears have not been realized, and that the attendance of the people at divine service is as good as ever.

Their contributions also afford much cause for encouragement and thankfulness. The whole income of the year amounts to 608 rupees, which exceeds that of the previous year by 84 rupees. And even deducting the sum of 140 rupees, contributed by European Christians, still the large difference of about 470 rupees is, I consider, very good for a congregation of about 240 souls, including children. Out of this sum my people have contributed 520 rupees to the Native Church Fund for the support of teachers for the present year.

In addition to pastoral work, I superintend seven vernacular schools,—three for boys and four for girls. Out of the four girls' schools three are exclusively for caste girls, which you know are under my wife's special charge. The number of boys is 99, and that of girls is 116, amounting in all to 215. The average daily attendance of boys and girls is 146.

Lady Napier and other English ladies have shown much interest in the Zenana work undertaken by Mrs. Sathianadhan, the wife of this Native Minister. Some particulars are given of a conversion resulting from these Zenana efforts:—

I may perhaps be permitted to state, that, besides the three caste schools, my wife has several Zenanas, having about twenty young females under instruction. Lady Napier and many other English ladies evince great interest in her work, and sometimes accompany her to the Zenanas, and bear pleasing testimony to the importance and reality of the work. Through God's great goodness we have been permitted to see the first-fruits of Zenana instruction, in what we believe a case of genuine conversion during the year. A young female, of the Vannier caste (a class of Súdra farmers), who had been under instruction for about two years, openly declared herself a Christian, and was received into the church by baptism last June. She has no father, but has a mother and sister, who are in circumstances above want, and who are greatly attached to her. They tried to win her back, but by God's special mercy she has stood firm. She is living in my house, and, I am thankful to add, improving in Christian experience and character. She was admitted to the Lord's Table in the beginning of this month, and is now usefully employed in aiding my wife in one of the girls' schools. The Lord bless her and keep her steadfast, humble and holy unto the end.

Attention may also be directed to the remarks made by this experienced Native Minister on the Native Church system:—

I feel more and more convinced that a great duty and heavy responsibility rest upon the Native Christians, inasmuch as they have to exhibit, by the consistency and holiness of their lives, the beauty, purity and divinity of Christianity, before their heathen countrymen, and thus allure them to Christ. In order to accomplish this end, the Native church needs to be organized on the self-supporting basis. I cannot, therefore, over estimate the importance of the step taken by the Parent Committee to make the Native congregations in Madras self-supporting.

On the whole the scheme has worked well. It has served to infuse a Missionary spirit into the congregations, and to draw forth their liberality to a larger extent than ever. It has given more freedom to the Native Clergy, in the expression of their views and sentiments in matters connected with their congregations, and stimulated their zeal and activity. In fine, it gives them a good training for the future. When the Native Church becomes entirely self-supporting, it will enable them to conduct its affairs wisely and judiciously, in the absence of European counsel and direction.

The Native Pastor for the eastern division of Black Town is the Rev. A. Theophilus, who furnishes the following account of the charge entrusted to him :—

The number of baptized members of our church is 131, of whom there are 30 men, 55 women and 46 children. The number of communicants on the roll is 59. The average attendance at the Sabbath morning service is very satisfactory, but I cannot give an equally favourable account of the afternoon service. This partly arises from the fact that some of the people live at a great distance from the church. In addition to the usual services, we have a Sabbath school for boys, which promises to be a blessing. The attendance at first was very discouraging, but I am happy to say there has been a gradual improvement, in this respect, during the last eight or nine months. We hold a meeting every Tuesday for adult females, and every Thursday for adult males, for the purpose of prayer and the exposition of the Scriptures. In addition to this, we hold our usual prayer-meeting every Friday at the central school.

Itinerating around Madras.

Itinerating
Madras.

Moving from place to place and dwelling in tents has been the manner of life adopted by the Revs. D. Fenn and V. W. Harcourt during the year, for the purpose of preaching the Gospel over a large tract of country around Madras. The Rev. G. M. Gordon, who is learning the Tamil language, in order permanently to join this itinerancy, has frequently pitched his tent with the brethren now engaged in it. Some facts and statistics, together with observations on the spiritual and physical aspect of the field as compared with North Tinnevely, are given by Messrs. Fenn and Harcourt :—

In the first half of the year we visited 450 villages from twenty-four encampments. In the current half-year we have had, in fact, only three working months, one month of the five having been spent by Mr. Gordon and myself in a trip to the Society's Telugu Mission, and another month by all three of us in Madras, during the height of the monsoon; so that we have had but fourteen encampments and visited 340 villages. We have been traversing the same ground as in the former half year, with the exception of three out of the fourteen encampments. Since the beginning of the year we have thus pitched twice in eleven places, and given a second visit to about 240 villages, and in sixteen more places have encamped once, and given a single visit from them to some 300 villages. That the number of villages visited may not be over-estimated, I ought to add that we reckon as a separate village each portion or hamlet, and that very many villages have Pariah hamlets quite away from the main street.

I have been carefully watching the way in which people receive us on our second round. In some places familiarity appears to breed contempt, and Brahmins, in particular, have been ruder than before. In other places, and these certainly form the majority, a better acquaintance has called forth an increase of friendly feeling. I have noticed in several instances the pleased surprise with which a man has recognised us in some distant village, perhaps twenty or thirty miles from the place where he had seen us six months before. God grant that as they know us better, they may feel more disposed to welcome our message as well as ourselves.

In comparing our present field with that of North Tinnevelly we find some points of difference, but perhaps more of resemblance. With regard to the general aspect of the country, both here and there we find ourselves on a level plain, studded with villages: there, the monotony was relieved by the majestic line of the western Ghauts, stretching right across the horizon, as we looked out from our tents, to the west and north-west: here, the far greater picturesqueness of the villages makes us almost forget that we have lost our favourite mountain range. The trees around each are more numerous, and the foliage more varied. Mango topes, unknown in North Tinnevelly, intersperse their dark rich green with the broader banyan and the more towering elm-like tamarind. The palmyra, though the most frequent, is not, as there, the only representative of its tribe, but is constantly mingled with the more feathery coconut and date palms; while here and there the clustering and delicately-formed branches of the bamboo add their peculiar richness to the woodland scene. While the larger tanks for irrigation are quite as common as in Tinnevelly, the smaller village tanks are more frequent, and this, added perhaps to a greater richness in the soil, seems one cause of the luxuriant foliage, and gives to some parts of the country an almost park-like appearance.

As might be expected so near the Presidency town, English is more known, and we constantly meet with men who have learnt in some of the Mission or Government schools in Madras. It is not easy to say whether they are more or less inclined on this account to listen to our message. If addressed in English, they are generally flattered by it, and are courteous; if they stand among the crowd, they are sometimes anxious to show their superior attainments by greater rudeness. Upon the whole, however, the people do not seem to differ materially from those of North Tinnevely. Like them they are agriculturists, and, upon the whole, simple-minded. There hardly seems to be a larger proportion of them able to read. They show the same activity and energy in what has to do with the supply of their bodily wants, the same apathy and unbelief in higher things. There is also the same superstition: the village temples are, if anything, more numerous, and are certainly better built. The red brick gōpuram rising above its kindred temple, and that again surrounded by its large high wall, is a common sight among the clustering trees of even the smaller villages. We have not met with the same opposition from Brahmins that we did in North Tinnevely, though they at times show plainly that our absence would be more acceptable than our company. Positive rudeness we have endeavoured calmly but firmly to check. From two classes we have had a cordial welcome and a willing hearing, not indeed universally, but in the majority of instances: these are the Pariahs and the Fisher caste. With the latter we have sat down beside their nets and boats on the sandy beach, and often had almost all the little village around us, while we have read of the miraculous draught, or the parable of the net drawn to shore. With the Pariahs, particularly in some parts of the district, we have had still larger audiences; and when we have sat down in the little verandah of one of their houses, or stood up in their street (always built at a distance from the main village), and told them the story of the Prodigal, or set forth the love of God in Christ, we have felt, as we saw their earnest, attentive looks, how true was that word of the Saviour, "To the poor the Gospel is preached."

A feature of this itinerancy well worthy of attention is the aid given by Native Ministers and Teachers, belonging to different Protestant Missionary Societies, and having a centre of operations in Madras. Mr. Fenn alludes to this feature, and to the expansion of the itinerating work:—

I may mention the commencement of a supply which I quite hope will prove regular, of voluntary Native help from different portions of the Christian body in Madras. In January we had visits of from eight to ten days each from two Native Ministers, one connected with the London and the other with the Wesleyan Missionary Society. One of them was accompanied by three theological students. All rendered us very efficient aid, accompanying us morning and evening to villages within reach of our tents. Since the beginning of this month we have had two of our Church Missionary Society Native Pastors rendering us similar aid. Mr. Sathianadhan was with us last week, and Mr. Sandhosham is now writing at the same table with myself. We have also had two catechists from St. Thomas' Mount, which may be called the Woolwich of Madras, being eight miles from the town, and the head-quarters of the Artillery. One of these Catechists is connected with the Chaplain of the station, the other is an agent of the London Missionary Society. They are working harmoniously together, and are to be altogether a fortnight with us. The Free Kirk of Scotland Missionaries have also promised to send their evangelists to us in due time.

The Native Ministers are treated as our guests. To get this kind of help is a great boon, and may, by God's mercy, be kindling a Missionary spirit in the Native Church at Madras. Already I see indications of interest excited.

Another feature of interest connected with our Mission is, that Mr. Gordon, having now acquired sufficient knowledge of the language to make himself understood in village preaching, we have begun to have always two encampments, and can thus disperse ourselves more widely over the field, and have already, in that part of it south of Madras, branched out, since the new year commenced, further inland than before; and I do not despair of stretching still further towards the western boundary forty miles inland, on which we agreed after conference with the Arcot American Missionaries fourteen months ago.

Recently we commenced our third round among the villages already preached in. It is only twenty days more than a year since we started on our first round. So we are almost keeping to a half-yearly circuit. In some places considerable interest is shown in our message, and friendly feeling to ourselves is on the increase.

EDUCATION.

Harris School.

Much commotion has been caused among the Moslem inhabitants of the city by the publication of a treatise on the Mohammedan controversy. Although this treatise did not emanate from the Society, yet it probably created a strong feeling of hostility towards the Harris School, where seventy or eighty Mohammedan boys were under instruction. The boys shortly afterwards refused to pronounce the words "Son of God" when reading the Gospels. The Society's representatives in Madras could not sanction the mutilation of the Scriptures, and the number of boys has for the time been diminished.

PALAMCOTTAH.

Ordination scene in Tinnevely. Greatly would Christians at home have rejoiced could they have looked upon the ordination scene at Palamcottah on the 31st January last. The number of Natives added to the Christian Ministry in this ordination of the Bishop of Madras marks a new era in the Tinnevely Church. The two principal examiners were Native Clergymen, who have been appointed Honorary Chaplains to the Bishop; and the whole scene, as depicted by the Rev. P. S. Royston, must have gladdened the hearts of those who were permitted to look upon it:—

The Native candidates presented to the Bishop have now all been admitted into the Ministry. I have already informed you of the four additions to the staff of our Malayalim Native Clergy at the ordination held at Cottayam in December. I have now the further pleasure of reporting the ordination of fifteen Tamil Catechists of our Tinnevely Mission to the office of Native Pastor. Twelve of these were from our venerable friend, the Rev. J. Thomas', combined districts; two from that of our late honoured brother, the Rev. J. T. Tucker's district of Panneivilei, now under the Rev. J. D. Simmons' charge; and one from the Rev. E. Sargent's district of Palamcottah. Thus has our staff of Native Ministers in this South India Mission increased within the last few weeks from 31 to 50. It is not by might, nor by number, that our great Master is generally pleased to work ; but we cannot but believe that in this instance the "Lord has given the word," and therefore "great is the number of the preachers." We trust that these men have all given evidence that they are truly called by His Spirit to this work and Ministry ; and so, while we rejoice with trembling, we cannot but expect from Him a further blessing in the use of the instruments which He has himself prepared.

I suppose that such an ordination as that which took place on Ordination Sunday, January 31st, in the beautiful church of this favoured station, has never occurred in modern Mission history—perhaps, if the circumstances of Apostolic times are duly considered, not even in the history of ancient Missions. In this still heathen province of Tinnevely—for, alas ! such it still is, even with its 50,000 scattered Christians—there was then gathered together a body of some sixty Clergymen, all, with the exception of the Bishop's Chaplain, engaged in Mission work. Of these, fourteen were Europeans and the remainder Natives, including the fifteen candidates of our own Society, and seven more of the Propagation Society's Mission. Twelve of them were also admitted to Priests' orders, viz. four of our own and eight of the sister Mission, including one European in each case. These twenty-two Deacons and twelve Priests presented the unwonted sight, at an Indian ordination, of three sets of occupants of the Communion rails in a fairly-sized chancel. It was my privilege to be present at the last great Indian ordination, viz. at Panneivilei in 1859, when the late Bishop Dealtry admitted, I think, seventeen into both orders ; but on the present occasion there were, as I have stated, thirty-four. All that was then reported to you of the impressive nature of the service, the united and deep responses, the beautiful appearance of such a crowded congregation, all clothed in white, occupying every part of a spacious church and gallery, is increasingly true of the present occasion. But there was this further interest involved, viz. that all these Deacons, while the examiners had proved their attainments to be nowise behind their predecessors, are designated to the genuine Native Pastorate, in connexion with local "Church Councils" and their funds ; and that the examination was conducted mainly by two Native Clergymen, the Rev. J. Cornelius, of the Church Missionary Society, and the Rev. M. Samuel, of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, assessors to the Rev. O. Dene, the Bishop's Chaplain ; the ordination sermon also being preached by the Rev. V. Devanayagam, of our Sivagasi district. If the great Head of the Church add His blessing, it will prove a day much to be remembered in the annals of His people in Tinnevely. We trust that it may awaken fresh and sustained interest in the welfare of the Tamil Church, now extending, and, we hope, strengthening itself. You will be interested in learning that the three or four highest men in the results of the examination were from our district of Menguanapuram. Its now venerable Missionary, Mr. Thomas, was present, though in weakened health through indisposition and a fall from a horse. You will further be interested in hearing that the Missionary conference is of opinion, that the existing standard of ordination examination is one to which all future candidates for the Native Pastorate may be, and should be, unquestionably raised.

Not only have individual converts often remained firm under opposition and trial, but in one case the inhabitants of the whole village have placed themselves under instruction, the heathen devil-temple being changed into a Christian prayer-house, and being found too small for its new and sacred purpose. A selection of facts of this character may be narrated in the Rev. E. Sargent's own language:—

Brahmin
under
and trial.

The relatives of a Brahmin youth came and wished to see a young man who had placed himself under my instruction. He had been to me frequently before, and had expressed an earnest desire for baptism. I told him (as I always advise in such cases) that he should first of all fairly tell his relatives what his intentions were, and then I would receive him. He did so, and came to me on Sunday, December 1st. I allowed his friends—two men with his mother and aunt—to talk to him as much as they pleased, and said that if he were willing to go home with them he was at perfect liberty to do so, but after a very prolonged interview he persisted in remaining here and becoming a Christian. The mother no sooner got outside the house, than she made a most doleful noise, took both hands full of earth and put it into her mouth and on her head. She then threw herself on the ground, rolling over and over and crying loudly. All this was most painful to behold, and of course very trying to the young man, but he still refused to go home.

Whole vil-
under Christian instruction.

I recently visited for the first time a village, in which all the people have placed themselves under Christian instruction. Till within the last few months we had only five or six families of Christians there, and these were always visited weekly by the Catechist of a neighbouring village. Now the whole of the people have joined, and turned their demon-temple into a Christian prayer-house, but it is too small to accommodate so large a number, and I was obliged to have the service in an open shed in front.

The manner in which the heart of a child was touched by the story of the cross, and the earnest appeal of the boy to his father, "Come to the Missionary and let us become Christians," is thus briefly stated:—

About a month ago, as I came out of my house in the evening, I saw a man and boy waiting to speak to me, so I asked the man what he wanted. He said, "I want to become a Christian."

"Well," I said, "I am glad to hear that, but please tell me what A child makes you desire such a thing?" "Well, sir," he replied, "to tell leads his you the truth, it is because of this little boy: he is my son, and, father to since he has learnt to read, he has got hold of some of your little embrace books, and he now gives me no rest, saying always, 'Come to the Christ-ianity. Missionary, and let us become Christians.'" The little lad, about eleven years of age, now broke in with great earnestness, "Yes, sir, you must receive us, and teach us. I am not going to be a heathen any longer." I was very much struck with the earnestness of the lad, and promised to undertake the happy duty they required of me. Next day I sent a Catechist to the place (seven miles off), to inquire after these people, and found that they were very well reported of by the neighbours. They are of the humble Pallar caste.

Vernacular Training Institution.

After having been in charge of the Vernacular Training Institution for ten years, it is natural that the Rev. T. Spratt should review his past efforts. The institution had only been established two years when he became Principal. It has supplied 196 trained masters for the instruction of the rising generation of Tinnevely, and of these 158 hold Government certificates. At present fifty-one students, characterized by a serious and religious spirit, are under training. Mr. Spratt also superintends the Kadachapuram district, where the pastoral work devolves on the Native Minister, the Rev. Jesudasen John. Before referring to the statements of the latter, a quotation may be made from Mr. Spratt's annual letter, showing the effect of the spirit of the Missionary on the work of his Mission:—

I feel an undiminished interest in, and attachment to, the work. It is not without its little difficulties and trials, but its many pleasures vastly outweigh these. My experience is, that we feel our work to be advancing and succeeding in proportion to the heartiness with which we give ourselves to it. When the Missionary sees little or no good in his people, when he can recount nothing but discouragements and disappointments, it is safe, as a general rule, to assume that he has lost much of his fervour, and that he is not hard at work. In a new Mission the spiritual tone of the people rises and falls with the spiritual character of the Missionary.

Mr. T. Kember's increased facilities in the language have enabled him to take a greater share of the teaching than was formerly possible.

Sarah Tucker Female Training Institution.

A female agency, well fitted for future Mission service in Tinnevelly, seems rising under the care of the Rev. A. H. and Mrs. Lash, who have now been conducting the Institution for a year. The girls were found to be well acquainted with Scripture, and it will be seen from Mr. Lash's review that the work is full of promise:—

the Sarah
Female
tion.

The girls were required to exceed twelve years of age, and to be able to pass an examination in reading, writing, and the first four simple and compound rules of arithmetic. Thirty-seven reached the standard, three failed. Our numbers at present are forty-five. In the day-school we have sixty children from Palamcottah itself, of whom an average of forty attend.

It was feared that the girls would not come from great distances to the Institution, but the presence of forty-five girls, representatives of every district, dispelled this fear.

The Missionaries endeavour to send such girls as will probably marry Catechists or schoolmasters trained in one or other of the institutions, and who will, therefore, be placed exactly where they are wanted, viz. in the villages where they may greatly assist their husbands by taking charge of the girls' schools. Even when they are not so advantageously placed, may we not hope that our labours will not be in vain, and that they will endeavour to bless and benefit their families and neighbours? The 1000*l.* given by Miss H. Usborne appears likely, by the application of the interest to prizes, to do all the good its benevolent donor could wish. It offers an increased inducement for the educated Native Christians to send their daughters to us, and increases the desire of the girls themselves to come, stimulating them to exertion in their studies at an age when they are too apt to grow sluggish. The scheme adopted for the disposal of the interest of this money seems wise, and calculated to work well.

Anglo-Vernacular School.

The Anglo-Vernacular School, under Mr. W. Cruickshanks, maintains its position. Since its commencement, twenty-five years ago, 3266 pupils have passed through it, and there are now 263 under instruction. The youth, whose conversion was last year mentioned, continues to manifest a decided Christian profession, both in his duties as a teacher and in his life as a Christian.

The conversion of a Brahmin youth, the thirty-sixth distinct renunciation of heathenism which has occurred in the school conducted by Mr. Cruickshanks, is thus recorded:—

A Brahmin youth, about eighteen years of age, who had four months previously been in my school, has lately embraced Christianity. It seems while in school he used to visit a police-inspector, a respectable Native Christian, for the purpose of improving himself in English. After he had left school he continued to attend at the inspector's, where he had an opportunity of observing how Christians, morning and evening, read the Scriptures and joined in family prayer. On one of these occasions he asked the inspector whether Christianity was the only true religion, and what advantage there was in embracing it? This having been explained to him, he continued to visit him as before till his removal to Streevigoondam, whither the youth accompanied him; but the inspector, having been sent to Tencāsy, he directed the youth to the Rev. E. Sargent, with a letter informing him that the youth wished to become a Christian. He was requested to make his mother and grandmother aware of his resolution, and returned to the inspector. There he was pursued by his relatives, delivered up to them, and went home with them. After this he went again to Mr. Sargent, who this time received him. His relatives again claimed him, but on the youth's refusing to accompany them, they appealed to the civil judge, who summoned the youth before him, and being convinced on examination that he was of sufficient age to act for himself in the matter of religion, allowed him to return to Mr. Sargent, who shortly after baptized him.

This case adds one more to the thirty-five converted from among those educated in the Church Missionary Society's Palamcottah Native English school.

KADACHAPURAM.

There are 1360 Christians, of whom 530 are communicants, together with 315 adults attached to Bible classes, and 344 children in schools, under the charge of the Rev. Jesudasen John, who describes the calm death of two members of his flock, and the state of the community not yet brought under Christian influence:—

I wish to write down briefly the following particulars about the death of two of our communicants. Paripuram was the daughter of the late pious woman called Pethavadime, who had died some years ago. She was the mother of five children. All the children are receiving their education in our day school at A—. This woman was imitating her mother in her piety and her Christian conduct. It pleased the Lord to visit her by consumption. Until she was laid up in bed she was very regular in coming to church to receive the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Whenever she found any bad temper or neglect of the means of grace among her children, she would be much grieved at them, and rebuke them with holy indignation, and pray for them. She seemed to recover in March last, but her disease burst forth again with

Christ."

violence. Nothing could arrest its progress. I, at her request, administered the Lord's Supper. She said, "Sir, I long to be with Christ, but yet I think it is wrong to desire to quit the flesh before God's own time." I asked her, "See, you are blessed with so many children, don't you feel the separation painful?" She replied, "No; I can't do anything for them by my cares: the Lord Jesus I know is caring for them, that will be quite sufficient." This dear sister gradually became worse, and at last expired on the 17th of April, finishing her course with joy, and leaving a bright example that a Christian is really happy in life and in death. Another case is that of Gnanapragasa, Catechist of Meyyur. This good man had also been suffering from consumption for nearly a year, but this disease rapidly increased from October last. The Rev. T. Spratt kindly advised him to go to Kadachapuram and be free from taking any duty; so that he was at Kadachapuram until his death took place. I trust he loved his Saviour and earned a good name. To his last hour he enjoyed in a remarkable manner the distinct sense of God's sustaining hand beneath him. A week before his death he said, "Sir, I am afraid I did wrong last night while my pain was excessive: it seemed as if I could not bear it, and I felt some impatience to be gone. I then asked my wife to pray for me. She prayed Christ's prayer in the garden to remove the bitter cup if possible." On the morning of his death I called on him and as soon as he saw me he said: "I am going, I am going: please, sir, commend my soul into the hands of Jesus." "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." About an hour after I left his spirit left its earthly tenement.

Weakening of prejudice
among the
heathen.

It is quite evident that the people in general have very little reverence for their own religious systems, their creeds, and the customs of their forefathers. In my conversation with a learned heathen about nine months ago he declared to me that "their gods were without power, and their religion composed of men." Alas! there is, however, little concern about the soul and the world to come. A respectable Mohammedan, a poet, living at Udenkudy, often visits me, and listens with much pleasure to the Gospel, and readily acknowledges that Christianity is the only true religion. He had received a New Testament from me, and reads it with much pleasure. He does this privately. I pray to God to show him that Jesus Christ is the way, the truth, and the life. Prejudices are weakening among the heathen, and many acknowledge the superiority of the Gospel. The attention paid in the streets of Thankei, Sittiabattu and Piravikkudy to the word preached, and the open acknowledgment sometimes made by many regarding the falsehood of the Hindoo Shasters, &c., are all proofs to us that God is beginning to visit these deluded people.

MENGNANAPURAM.

Little apparent change, but some perceptible growth and vigour, are the characteristics of another year's labour in this important Mission district, where the European Missionaries rely upon their Native fellow-labourers for the discharge of all the pastoral duties connected with 11,000 Native Christians, who are scattered over at least 300 square miles. The Rev. J. Thomas can bear favourable testimony to the work of the Catechists, fifty-three in number. The liberality of the Christians has not abated. Five students have been sent to the Preparandi, with a view to future service as Native agents. Twelve candidates, having been duly prepared for ordination, have been recently admitted to holy orders by the Bishop of Madras. Concerning them, and the Native Clergy now labouring in the district, Mr. Thomas thus writes:—

of twelve
clergymen.

The most pleasing item of intelligence connected with our work has been the preparation of twelve candidates for the Native Pastorate. The general knowledge of the Bible, and the different branches of theology which these men acquired as Catechists, formed a good and broad foundation to begin upon. They are well grounded in the doctrine of the sacraments, church government, and all the questions in controversy between us and Rome; and, above all, they are taught to look upon the Sixth Article as the full exponent of our Church's teaching.—“Holy Scripture containeth all things necessary to salvation.”

The Native Clergy who labour in these districts are three in number. Two of them are assistant Missionaries, and they discharge those duties which would devolve upon an European Missionary, such as visiting congregations and administering the Lord's Supper at various localities. To the Society each of them is the saving of the salary of an European Missionary, and it will be difficult to do without this class of agents. Two of the three are in this position, and one of them in Deacons' orders is pastor of a large congregation not far distant. He is an agent of the Native Church, and is paid from its funds.

Lord Napier, Governor of the Madras Presidency, accompanied by Lady Napier, visited the station in October, and the top-stone of the spire of the spacious church was then raised to its appointed place. A short service, attended by 2700 men, women and children, was held in the church, and between 4000 and 5000 thronged around it. A succinct account of this visit is given by Mr. Thomas:—

Lord and Lady Napier to Mengnanapuram.

The church greatly astonished and pleased the Governor and Lady Napier. The children from our village schools shortly after assembled in the church, to the number of 1100. The Governor and Lady Napier came to see them, and wished to hear them sing, and they joined in singing a doxology to the hundredth psalm tune. This pleased our visitors greatly, and Lady Napier remarked that

It was the first time she had heard the Natives sing, without the disagreeable nasal twang in which they are so fond of indulging. In the evening they walked round the village, and were much pleased. At night Lady Napier left for Palamcottah. On Saturday the Governor saw the girls' and boys' boarding schools, examined them, and expressed himself much gratified.

Allusion is also made to the visit of Lord Napier, who was accompanied by the Rev. J. D. Thomas, who especially undertakes the educational work of the district, and who, after having assembled 1200 vernacular school children at Mengnattapuram, accompanied the Governor of Madras to several villages. Concerning the visit and school statistics, Mr. J. D. Thomas says:—

His Lordship has had the opportunity of seeing for himself a considerable number of those, whom it has pleased God to call out of heathen darkness to the knowledge and love of Himself in these parts. We also had a gathering of 1200 children from our village vernacular day schools, which would give some vivid idea of our educational work. Lord Napier expressed a wish to see some of our outlying Christian villages. Accordingly, next morning I rode with him, and we visited these neighbouring congregations, and passed through as many heathen villages. His Lordship has now seen several phases of our work, and must know more about the Mission than many civilians and military men who have spent several years in Tinnevely.

At present we have sixty-six village vernacular day schools, that is, two more than last year. The number of children on the books has been increased by thirty-seven, making a total of 2241, of whom 1455 are boys and 786 girls. The average daily attendance is better in proportion this year than it was in 1867, being now 1474, or 112 more than that of last year. So far this is satisfactory. But it is hard work to keep up to the mark. "Wind and tide are against us," or in other words, parents and children are opposed to education, or, at least so far, that they are utterly careless and oblivious to all its advantages.

SUVISESHAPURAM.

The secession last year of a body of nominal Christians from the Church reduced the number of Native Christians in this district. More than three hundred have been added to the Church during the present year, and the ground previously gained from heathenism has been more than maintained. There are 5000 Christians, inclusive of 700 communicants, under the care of the Rev. W. P. Schuffter, who, after narrating the circumstances under which the devil-temple promises to become a Mission school in connexion with the substantial church already erected by the Christians, mentions examples of the power of the Gospel in the hearts of individuals :—

The number of unbaptized adherents of Christianity has increased. I am well satisfied with the general conduct of these converts. They attend willingly and joyfully the means of grace, and a number of them are coming forward for baptism. Almost the whole of these converts belong to the village of Minadchinathapuram, where already a congregation of Christians existed. As heathen, they collected about 30*l*. among themselves to build a small but substantial devil-temple, so as not to be behind the Christians, who had built a substantial gothic church; but as almost all the worshippers at the devil-temple now worship in the Christian church, the former will soon be used for the Christian village school. In that same village a good old Christian died lately of consumption, bearing witness to the very last to God's goodness, and Christ's ability to save to the uttermost all who come unto Him. Poor David was a great sufferer for more than two years. Day and night he was harassed with a troublesome cough. He often came to me for medicines, but always assured me, in a quiet and happy manner, that he knew he would not recover of this illness. He liked to talk of Christ and of heaven, and even courted it. Long before death he settled all his worldly matters, that he might have nothing worldly, as he told me one day, to prevent his full communion with Christ in his last moments. Another ripe sheaf from the Suviseshapuram district has been gathered into the heavenly garner. It is most encouraging to me to recall to my mind seven examples of persons who have died in the faith, of whose salvation I have every reason to feel well assured. Their's was not a death-bed conversion. For years they had followed Jesus faithfully, some amidst much weakness, trial and temptation, but now they live with their Saviour in heaven. May I, their pastor, be kept like them steadfast to the end, that I may share their joy, their eternal glory!

DOHNAVUR.

Thankful that it has been his privilege to spend the thirteen years of his Missionary career in Tinnevely, the Rev. Ashton Dibb supplies at the same time statistics which are justly a ground for such thankfulness. His charge of 2789 Christians is scattered in sixty-three villages, and the prospects of the Native Church are better than at any former time. There are 262 communicants. General remarks on the state of the district, and special references to the spiritual instruction given by the Native teachers, are selected from Mr. Dibb's review of the year :—

Steady progress at Dohnavur.

Speaking generally, I may say that the state of the Dohnavur district is such as calls for deep and earnest thankfulness. I have never known it in better order, whether as regards Native agents, congregations or schools, or whether we regard numbers or quality in them. I am not disposed to speak better of things than facts will allow, or to look only at what is pleasing and overlook the rest. I may add that I am far from being satisfied with what has already been attained ; but I feel quite confident in saying that the people of this district are in a better position, as a Native Church, than they ever were before. There have been times of more excitement amongst us. There have been times in which larger accessions were made from heathenism ; but there never was a time in which such obvious, decided, and even rapid progress has been made in knowledge, stability, and organization as of late years.

A few months ago, when visiting a village in the district, I took up a book which one of the congregation, a young boy, had brought with him to church, and found on the fly-leaf, in his own handwriting, these questions, with others, for self-examination :—“ What have I done this day for God ? ” “ Have I kept my soul in the exercise of faith, hope and love ? ” These questions had not been copied from any book : the Catechist had taught the people thus to watch over themselves. Another fact will also bear upon this point. Spent the day at Kandiguperie. Was much pleased with the progress which had been made. The congregation has improved, and the school has increased. The Catechist's wife, educated in the Dohnavur boarding-school, is an example to the Christian women, and the relation between pastor and people appears to be properly maintained.

Church collection inspected by Lord Napier.

One of the most illustrious visitors, and certainly not one of the least careful, active, or keen observers we ever had, came to see us at the end of September 1868. Lord Napier, Governor of Madras, was present at two of our services on Sunday, conducted, of course, altogether in Tamil, inspected even the houses of the people, visited all three of our schools in Dohnavur itself, and asked very many questions ; all, however, clear, simple and pertinent as to the work at large. Observing a collection going on at noon at the close of the service—the collection which is made and has been made from the very commencement of the Mission, every Sunday of the year—he asked afterwards to see the bag and all it contained. He counted the coins one by one to see the proportion of givers to those present. The result even then was not unsatisfactory, but I have often made good use of the incident since, in reminding our people of a still greater eye which is always upon the treasury.

His Lordship expressed himself pleased with what he saw, and both our people and their Missionary will always remember his visit with pleasure.

PANNEIVILEI.

Voluntary efforts, made by lay members of the Native Christian congregations, seem to be the distinctive feature of the past year's labour in this district. On the other hand a spiritual stagnation has been perceptible in some congregations. The Rev. J. D. Simmons, the Missionary, thus surveys the field under his care, mentioning also the contributions for benevolent objects, and the influence of village schools :—

A calm review and careful consultation with the Native agency have convinced me that progress has been made during the year. Those of whom we had a good hope in former years have not only held on their course, but have, I believe, in most instances, grown in grace. And though we cannot speak confidently of instances of new conversions of heart, I do hope that grace is quietly working in a few, and that by and by we shall see the full-grown ear. Some of the older and more established Christians have shown an increase of zeal in the matter of self-support, and in efforts for the conversion of their countrymen who are yet heathen. A few in most of the congregations, men and women, are in the habit of speaking for Christ whenever they have an opportunity, especially upon occasions of marriages, and other assemblies when their relatives and friends congregate in large numbers. On one occasion, when the Rev. Isaac Abraham made a preaching tour to the heathen, a member of one of the congregations accompanied him for several days. Upon their return, he spoke with great admiration of the zeal, humility, patience and love of his companion. The visit was refreshing to both, and the success they met with was encouraging. Upon another occasion of a first visit to some people who had just put themselves under instruction, several Christians, unasked by me, accompanied us. Two of them addressed the new comers respecting the blessings of Christianity, and the trials to which they would be exposed, and exhorted them to give themselves with full purpose of heart unto the Lord Jesus. Several women from various congregations have visited these new learners for the purpose of instructing the women, and establishing them in the Gospel. Such help is most beneficial to all parties, and I trust that the practice will become more general. Others have rendered more pecuniary help than formerly. The sum total for all purposes, given by the Christians in the district, is Rs. 1452.

The direct results of the village schools upon the heathen are not very apparent, yet they are doing Missionary work. Upon inquiry of the schoolmasters as to whether they knew of any heathen children who were impressed by the truths they learned, they gave three instances of young boys in different schools who were anxious to become Christians, and who urge their parents to become Christians. One of them is so in earnest, that he daily threatens to burn his father's idols and devil-temple, and to run away to Panneivilei, if his father will not become a Christian. These schools are of great importance to the Christians.

PANEIKULLAM.

Concerning the Native agency, schools and Church members, the latter numbering 3000, a favourable account is given by the Rev. J. Whitchurch. There has been a large accession from heathenism in point of numbers; but the Missionary feels that some, influenced by local and temporary causes, may again withdraw from the Christian congregations. Mr. Whitchurch's opinion is expressed in few words:—

Paneikul-
lam. I look anxiously for the time when four or five good men, as pastors, can supply the place of a large number of Readers. One, at least, I hope to offer for Orders within a short time. As you will notice a considerable increase, viz. 574, in the number of those who have joined us during the year, it may not be amiss to say a few words respecting them. I do not attach importance to numbers, as I know that it is only in the spirituality and devoted zeal of Christians that real strength consists. Yet, to say the least, it is a proof that Christian influence is, somehow or other, being exerted over heathenism. Many of those who have joined us have done so from mixed motives, and several of them will perhaps leave us again.

NALLUR.

On the transfer of the Rev. W. Clark to the Tamil Cooly Mission in Ceylon, this District was temporarily placed under the Rev. H. Dixon, who has been assisted by the two Native Ministers, the Rev. D. Gnanamuttu and the Rev. A. Samuel. The number of Christians has been steadily increasing, and is now nearly 3000. This increase is greater than in any year since 1857, and the communicants are rather more than one-seventh of the whole number of Christians. Although Mr. Dixon has been in weak health, he has been able to spend much time in preaching and superintending schools, which, exclusive of two boarding-schools, are thirty-four in number, and in all of which the Scriptures are taught. An incident of his Missionary travels is narrated by Mr. Dixon:—

While at Kadeiyam, Kathar Khan, the converted Mussulman, who is head constable of the place, came to pay me a visit. He informed me that a Native English school had been started in the village by some of the inhabitants, who were anxious to hand it over to the Mission. He introduced to me a respectable looking Native, who was one of the chief supporters of the school, and who informed me that twenty-two children were in attendance, who paid fees of eight and twelve annas monthly. The school, it seems, was held in the temple, and a Brahmin was at present the head master. I offered to go and see it; but finding that the boys had been dismissed, I promised to take the matter into consideration.

SURANDEI.

A Native Pastor assists the Rev. N. Honiss in this district. Encouragement is derived from a steady increase in the number of Christians, and from some decided proofs of the work of the Holy Spirit on the hearts of individuals. A faithful and efficient Catechist, who had, "after a searching examination, extending over several days," been recommended for ordination, died before he could enter the Ministry. Mr. Honiss especially refers to Lord Napier's visit to Surandei, and gives generally the statistics of the district:—

The Governor of Madras, when on a tour in Tinnevely in September, paid a visit to Surandei. His lordship rode over from Courtallum on Saturday the 19th, and returned on the following evening. On Sunday morning we walked through the village, where our people were assembled to pay their salaams. His lordship made especial inquiries respecting their social condition, and was much interested in inspecting their dwellings and mode of life. Such condescension was most astounding to our people, who are accustomed to approach the authorities only through the medium of a Vakeel, when they have wrongs to redress, or punishment to anticipate. But to see the Governor of Madras walking their streets, entering their homes with a friendly smile, and kneeling with them in their church to worship the same God, was a phenomenon they could not solve. The school children were examined, and his lordship was much pleased with their cleanliness and intelligence. The visit of the Queen's representative to Surandei will long be remembered: it will raise our Christians in the estimation of the heathen, and it will encourage a more kindly feeling for their rulers. I have lately received from Government House a substantial proof that Surandei is not forgotten by His Excellency.

While our converts are increasing, the number of our agents remains the same. Indeed we had one Catechist more when we had 700 people less. This is an economical consideration with reference to the funds of the Society, but not so satisfactory for the work. If our new comers were, or could be, located in the villages already occupied by a Catechist and a church, they would entail no further expenditure; but this, I am sorry to say, seldom happens. As already remarked, four new churches have been built, where, of course, there were no churches before. Almost every accession of a small congregation necessitates a new church, and should, in more instances than we allow, be supplied with an additional Catechist. In 1865 we had 1924 people under instruction, with twenty-one Catechists; now we have 2680 in our congregations, with only twenty Catechists. However, every congregation is visited at least twice a week, and though our people have less instruction, our Catechists have more work. The work of the Lord progresses, though not so thoroughly, as far as human means are concerned, as heretofore.

The conversion of a man whose previous life seems to have been occupied in agrarian crime is mentioned by Mr. Honiss:—

Conversion of a robber. The man was formerly the head of a gang of robbers. He was the terror not only of his own village, but of all others in the neighbourhood. If any one in the village wished to be revenged upon another, he was always ready, for a consideration, to effect the object. To set fire to a stack of straw, to poison a bullock, or to raise a false and irritating report was his familiar occupation and daily bread. Last year a village would rather have met with a cobra snake, than with this man. Now he may be seen continually at prayers in our church, and is one of the most exemplary of Christians.

His conversion was on this wise. While passing through Palamcottah he was detained there by one of his bullocks having broken its leg. In the Mission chuttram where he put up, a good old woman who visited the place daily to collect cow-dung, spoke to him of his evil ways, told him to believe in Christ and he would be saved from his sins. After this he attended church once in Palamcottah, and on returning to Uthumalie declared that henceforth he would be a Christian. A short time after, he was baptized by the name of Jacob. He has given Rs. 3 to the Mission, and shows every sign of true Christianity.

SIVAGASI.

Efficiency of Native Clergymen. Three Native Ministers are associated with the Rev. R. B. Meadows in the spiritual care of this district. Concerning one of these Native Clergy the English Missionary states that, both for edifying the Church and for influencing the heathen he is worth more than two European Missionaries. Weak and inconsistent conduct among some of the Native Christians has caused the removal of their names from the register of the church, but the vigour and vitality of the whole body seem to have been increased by the discipline thus exercised. In reference to the contributions of the people and the labours of one of the Native Ministers, Mr. Meadows makes these remarks :—

The contributions of the whole district, including the subdivision under the three Native brethren, have again increased so much as to enable us to support thirteen Mission Agents, instead of eleven last year. I hardly know how to account for this ; for, first, I made less special effort this year than last to collect funds. Some who contributed last year have been dismissed and some have fallen away, so that our numbers are actually smaller. However, the Native Clergy made great efforts in canvassing their parts of the district, and there are some few, I know, of the Christians who make it a matter of conscience to give some increase each year, and I believe nearly all do so, as a matter of fact. The sum total for the Native Church Fund collected from December 1st, 1867 to November 30th, 1868 is Rs. 1568.

Working of Native Church
Fund.

Although the whole expense of the district and schools amounted to Rs. 9378 in the year, yet the actual cost to the Church Missionary Society was only Rs. 6131. Of the remainder Rs. 758 was supplied from the Native Church Fund.

I spent a week among the congregations of one of my districts accompanied by the Native Minister in charge of it. The increase of congregations, the respectability of some of the converts, the undoubted genuineness of others, were encouraging facts. The Native Minister's own influence among both heathen and Christians is very great. His knowledge of native character, his own singleness of purpose and openness of conduct have gained him this influence. I rejoice to see how the district has grown in every way during my absence, and his presence for several years. I left the district with the conviction that one such Native Minister is worth two European Missionaries, both for edifying the Christian Church, and for influencing the heathen. But the Native must be like him ; his heart truly converted ; his love to God and man, striking ; his aim most single and unselfish.

A disposition to attend to the Gospel seems to have grown simultaneously with a decline in the influence of heathenism among the people under the care of the Native Minister, the Rev. J. Cornelius. Persecution has also been endured by Christian converts. The death of the zealous wife of a zealous catechist is recorded by Mr. Cornelius :—

We have had very few deaths this year, but the one which we all felt most was the death of the pious wife of a pious and useful Catechist. Her removal was to us all a heavy loss. It was the loss not of a family or of a congregation, but of the whole district. Samuel Sandhosham and his wife Pakiam were our old friends, and had become endeared to us from the very days of the itinerancy. Gentle and amiable in disposition, they had devoted themselves entirely to the Lord's work, in the tent and Kalbodhee where they lived. After Mr. Ragland's death they made themselves very useful; she especially in teaching young women to read God's Word, and in reading and speaking to them about the Saviour of sinners. In Lingampatti, where she spent her last eight years, she did the same. Not a few young women who are now able to read were taught by her, and among them are to be seen some heathen also. Her gentle, quiet and loving disposition was a lesson to every one that came in contact with her. She set a bright Christian example to all around her. Whenever I had an opportunity of exhorting Christian women I pointed her out as a worthy example for them to imitate. In the midst of her useful career she was attacked by dropsy, and after suffering great pain for nearly two years she succumbed to the disease. As in her life, so also in her death she glorified her Saviour. Just before she breathed her last she exhorted her good husband not to leave the people after her death, but to abound in the work of the Lord more and more. She said she was going to a place where they hunger no more nor thirst any more, and gently fell asleep in Jesus. We mourn over her loss. Oh for many such pious Christian women among our people. She was indeed a shining light in my district. May the Christian example she has left behind stir up many to go and do likewise!

III. Travancore and Cochin.

(Commenced in 1816.)

The Mission comprises nine districts: 1. Allepie, 1816; 2. Cottayam, 1817; 3. Cochin, 1817; 4. Mavelikara, 1839; 5. Trichur, 1842; 6. Pallam, 1845; 7. Tiruwella, 1849; 8. Kunnankullam, 1854; 9. Mundakayam, 1855.

COTTAYAM.

Chiefly occupied with the charge of this Institution, the Cambridge Rev. J. M. Speechly is thankful to announce that its efficiency Nicholson Institution. has not been impaired by his failing health. Indeed, progress has been made. Every Mission is now represented by a student in the institution. The number of students is thirty-one. A Mission district, containing nearly 700 Native Christians, of whom 200 are communicants, has also been superintended by Mr. Speechly, who regrets the lack of spiritual vigour perceptible in some parts of the district. A few general remarks by Mr. Speechly are appended:—

Each department of labour which has been committed to me needs a more vigorous activity in conducting it than I have been able to give. My health has been such that my duties have often been painful to perform, and my energies are so low that my work is not conducted as it should be. I shortly expect to leave Madras for England. I trust I may regain my health in my native land.

In leaving my work, my prayer is that the great Head of the Church, who knows what is best, will glorify Himself by His own agency raised up for it, and that I may profit by the lessons my early withdrawal impresses upon me.

Having passed nearly a year as Principal of this College, the Rev. J. H. Bishop feels strongly its importance among the educational institutions now rapidly springing up in India. The usual course of study, the special attention given to the study of the Scriptures, and the Syrian class of Deacons, are mentioned by Mr. Bishop:—

There are from 130 to 150 scholars, divided into two departments—the College and the Grammar School; the predominant element in the former being the Protestant; of the latter, consisting entirely of day scholars, the Syrian Christian. As the College is affiliated with the Madras University, we have followed during the year the course of study marked out by the Madras Government for the matriculation examination. But the first hour, from eight to nine, is always devoted to the study of the Word of God, and consequently the knowledge the boys obtain of Scripture, whether you examine them in the English or Malayalim Bible, is one of the brightest and most encouraging features of our work.

Deacons of the Syrian Church form a class in the Cottayam College. The Syriac class, consisting of some seven or eight Deacons, have, in addition to the study of that language, been taught by Mr. Lane, and latterly also by one of the Native teachers, through the vernacular, the Scripture proofs of the Thirty-nine Articles, Church history, and especially the Bible. I trust that they will prove, in the highest sense, reforming Catanars.

Mr. Thomas Lane has not only devoted much time to the work of the College, but has undertaken the better organization of the Grammar School, which now contains fifty Syrian and eight heathen boys.

PALLAM, &c.

The figures of these Missionary districts may well represent their facts. The Rev. H. Baker, assisted by four Native Ministers, has charge of 6408 Christians, of whom 1477 are communicants. There are 1014 children in the schools. From these statistics it will easily be understood that arrangements for the organization, guidance and superintendence of the Native Church demand the most careful consideration of those appointed to direct the Society's Missions.

Two hundred adult slaves embrace Christianity.

Transferred in August from Cochin, where he had laboured for thirteen years, the Rev. G. Curian, Native Minister, now takes charge of Pallam and two other districts, under the general superintendence of Mr. Baker. Another Native Minister, the Rev. K. Jaco, under the same superintendence, states that 200 adult slaves have, within the year, embraced Christianity, while a third, the Rev. Oomen Mamen, announces the accession of ninety from the ranks of the heathen.

MAVELIKARA.

Two Native Ministers aid the Rev. R. H. Maddox in this district, to which Allepie has temporarily been added. Notwithstanding the amount of congregational work involved in ministering to 3400 Christians, and in the superintendence of twenty-four schools containing 800 children, Mr. Maddox has made some extensive Missionary tours. Some remarks on the formation of new congregations, and on a case of conversion, are given:—

During the past year I have formed two new congregations, one near this place and the other near Chenganore, for slaves. This movement is a new one as far as this district is concerned, but I have every reason to hope well of it. The slaves appear very anxious to learn, and show remarkable signs of intelligence and piety. Several cases of persecution have occurred from heathen Christian masters, because the slaves refuse to work on Sunday, and persist in coming to the Prayer-house to learn. But the poor people have borne it patiently, and consequently the opposition, being all on one side, has spent itself, and they are left to act as they wish in the matter. I could narrate many very interesting facts did space permit, regarding the simple piety and really exemplary conduct of this once degraded but fast rising people. I may mention that from the first they are learning habits of self-reliance. They have commenced a Church Fund, and are in the habit of paying for the books I supply to them.

I have received a young Nair into the Church by baptism this year. His is an interesting case. He belongs to a good family, and is reckoned somewhat of a scholar. For a long time he has been in an anxious state of mind, and has been reading the Puranas and other Hindu works, with the hope of finding rest to his soul. At length a tract, called "The way of life," by the Rev. J. G. Beüttler, given him by one of our Christians, was made the instrument, under God, of leading his anxious soul to Christ. I believe this little work, with another, "Hindu arguments examined," have been the means of bringing home the truth to very many inquiring Hindus. The first time this young Nair visited me he brought his book with him as a great treasure that he had read again and again, until he had all the matter by heart. He told me he had from the beginning been in the habit of using a short and simple prayer, very suitably introduced into the book. He has since been baptized by the name of Nathaniel. He is now studying with me, and I am hoping to send him to the Institution at Cottayam at the next vacation.

Thallawaddie.

The Rev. G. Matthan, Native Minister, has recently been placed at Thallawaddie, whence the Rev. J. Chandy, another Native Minister, was compelled, by reason of ill health, to retire. This is the largest of six village congregations, containing altogether 583 Native Christians, inclusive of 240 communicants. Mr. Matthan mentions in connexion with a neighbouring Minister of the Syrian Church, a fact, which illustrates the value of the Society's College at Cottayam :—

Having had his education in our College at Cottayam, he is prepared to support the reformation of his Church to the fullest extent consistent with its distinct existence. He has discontinued the Invocation of Saints, Prayers for the Dead, and Auricular Confession. He uses the vulgar tongue in the Church Services, solemnizes matrimony on week days, and administers the elements in both kinds. Some of our people observed to me, with regret, that the better portion of the Syrians in this neighbourhood would ere this have come over to us, had it not been for the faithful ministry of this man among them ; but I told them that we should rather rejoice in the success of all Christian Ministers if they did indeed preach Christ and Him crucified, as this man did, for the object of our Mission was not so much to gain proselytes to our Church, as to win souls for Christ.

TRICHUR.

The Rev. K. Koshi, Native Minister, has devoted himself earnestly, and with some success, to the difficult task of raising the spiritual tone of the Christian community at Trichur. Temptation, inseparable perhaps from a large and important heathen town, has injuriously affected the Christian congregation. But a wholesome change has been wrought. Mr. Koshi has now 237 Native Christians, including 147 communicants, under his spiritual care. The manner in which the evangelistic work is conducted, and the account of a discussion with a learned Pundit, are noticed :—

Evangelistic work in Travan-
core.

Fridays are especially devoted for this purpose, when all the readers assemble at my house, and we have prayers together for the heathen, asking also for grace and opportunities to speak to them with effect. Then we leave together in a body, and sometimes disperse ourselves in parties of two or more. Taunts and raileries occasionally meet us, but generally we receive attention, and once had a most interesting discussion and preaching before the Brahmins' Sanskrit College. Other occasions we have had at the same place before and since, but the one just referred to was the most interesting of all, the learned, intelligent and courteous Pundit of the College being present. On hearing the sublime account of the creation and of the fall we read from Genesis, he said that he had read that part in the Scriptures given him by the Rev. O. Mamen. When I stated at some length the plan of salvation revealed in those Scriptures some of the other Brahmins started objections, which the Pundit himself answered partly, and on others being referred to me for answers he silenced the objectors declaring that I was right. He requested my assistance in explaining some hard points he found in the Bible, and this of course I gladly promised, but have never been able to obtain another interview with him. If the Lord has designed him to be a vessel of mercy, the attempt, if any, on the part of those about him to prevent our seeing each other again, will be of no avail.

MASULIPATAM.

The satisfaction caused by the growth and success of the Anglo-Vernacular School, to which the late Rev. R. T. Noble devoted his life, is somewhat diminished by the consideration of the great burden of duty devolving upon the Rev. J. Sharp, in consequence of the inability of the Committee to send a suitable coadjutor to his assistance. The school having again advanced, both in numbers and attendance, the necessity for a well-qualified assistant to Mr. Sharp is very urgent. The year is briefly reviewed:—

The Anglo-Vernacular School was opened November 21, 1843, so that it has now been in existence more than a quarter of a century. The two devoted Missionaries, who opened it with one pupil each, have gone to their rest; but “the little mustard-seed,” as Noble called it, still grows, and their labour has not been in vain in the Lord. The average number on the rolls for 1868 has been 279, Continued against 256 in 1867; and the average daily attendance has been progress of 249, the highest annual attendance which the school has ever had. the Masulipatam School. Is it a small matter that to 249 boys and young men, besides fourteen heathen teachers, the Word of God has been daily taught line upon line? Prayer, too, to Jehovah, through Jesus, has been daily made in their hearing. Must not some influence from this have been carried by them into many a family? Of the present pupils, 101 are Brahmins. I have most scrupulously refrained from anything which could cause a sudden and fictitious increase. On the contrary, the times of admission have been reduced; the fee has been considerably raised, and will be still more so in 1869; promotion has been refused till the fixed standard of each class was attained; those who proved irregular in attendance, or behindhand in payment, are soon removed. And “there has been no concealment of our main object, the making known the Gospel to our fellow-creatures. I do not say the conversion of the hearers, for conversion is God’s work, not man’s.” I quote here the words of the Chairman (J. Rohde, Esq., C. S.) at the first public examination of the school, July 11, 1844, and I trust they are as true of the school now as then.

Although isolated facts fail to represent adequately the spiritual influence of this important school, yet the conversion of one person and the death of another may be noticed:—

of a youth
in the Mission School, Masulipa-
tam.

In the month of August last the Lord gladdened our hearts by adding one more to the little company of those who, in connexion with this school, have left all to follow Christ. This youth, a respectable Sudra, is a cousin of, and lived with, one of the masters of the school, who was drowned in the cyclone of 1864, along with seven members of his family. Just before the house wall fell on them the schoolmaster had been calling on the Lord Jesus, whose disciple he had often wished publicly to profess himself. The adjoining wall, against which the convert, his family and a brother of the schoolmaster’s had taken refuge, did not fall; and these two youths continued in the school, the schoolmaster’s brother being enabled to do so by help given, first by Mr. Noble, and since by myself. The conversion of his cousin has now obliged him to leave the school; but he has been almost the only one withdrawn on that account, which shows a considerable change of feeling on the subject in the Native mind.

late Rev. R.
T. Noble’s first convert.

In July, P. David died here. He was baptized by Mr. Noble in August 1846, and may, though not so entirely indebted to it as some of those since, be considered the first convert from it. (Fox’s Memoir, p. 244, &c.; Noble’s Memoir, p. 206, “4” &c.) By his own desire he was buried close to Mr. Noble’s grave. In his last hour he confessed himself a great sinner, but at peace in his mind through the blood of Christ.

Need of a Master for the Rugby Fox
School, Masulipa-
tam.

Earnestly does Mr. Sharp plead that another link may be added to the chain of “Rugby Fox” Masters at Masulipatam. He glances at the origin of this Mastership, and at the subsequent occupation of the post:—

It is now above twenty years since I listened to the first “Fox” sermon at Rugby, preached by the present Archbishop of Canterbury, then Master of Rugby School, on All Saints’ Day 1848, a few days after Fox himself had been summoned to his rest. The subscription list has been sustained ever since, but where is the chain of men? The Rev. T. K. Nicholson held the post of Rugby Fox Master from 1830 to 1854; after a vacancy of three years, Mr. Jellicoe was appointed, and held office about three years; again it was vacant two years before I came out, and three years more before I was appointed to it, in June 1864. Sixteen months afterwards it became vacant again by my becoming Head Master on Mr. Noble's death. Above three years more have again elapsed, and still the post is vacant. "How I should rejoice to hear of a Rugbeian going to take my place there," wrote Fox in 1848. I re-echo his words with all my heart. May the Lord of the harvest thrust forth the right man at the right time, and meantime give us confidence to trust Him, patience to wait His will, prayerfulness to call humbly and perseveringly for His help, strength, zeal and wisdom to maintain His work for Christ's sake!

How interesting and encouraging that work is (albeit not without its troubles and disappointments, beneficial, because humbling to man,) men would soon find out if they would only come and give themselves to it in the right spirit.

The Training Institution, under Mr. J. Thornton, is rendering efficient service to the Mission by the preparation of well qualified vernacular agents. The Normal system has received special attention during the year. The day school in connexion with the Training School elicited commendation from the Government Inspector on the occasion of a recent visit. The number of Christian boys has increased since last year from thirty-five to fifty-six. In a spirit of thankfulness for the progress made, Mr. Thornton mentions some facts and circumstances of his work:—

At the close of last year I was able to report the existence of a class of six youths under training for vernacular teachers. This number was greatly augmented at the commencement of this year by the formation of a second training class. A number of young men, in different parts of the school, of varied attainments, but all labouring under the disadvantage of having commenced their education at a somewhat advanced age, were gathered into one class, and put under the immediate charge of one of my most efficient masters. In this way, not only have the numbers of the form of students been considerably augmented, but the prospect of the young men themselves becoming efficient for employment as Mission agents has been greatly increased. We could scarcely expect them to compete on equal terms with boys who had enjoyed the advantages of an early education, and even had they been able to do so, their progress would have been necessarily retarded. One of these students has already gone out as a schoolmaster, and I expect others will shortly follow. From the first training class, five young men went up for the Government examination for certificates in August last. The list of successful candidates which has just been published contains the names of four of these, one only having failed. These results are very encouraging, and lead us to hope that before very long an efficient body of vernacular agents may be raised up to supply the ever increasing wants of the district.

The Rev. W. Ellington has removed during the year from Bezvara to this city, in order to devote himself to pastoral and evangelistic work.

ELLORE.

Salient points of the work at Ellore.

The salient points of the past year's labour are the occupation of three new villages and the addition of 104 Native Christians. Several families in Ellore have renounced heathenism, but the accessions have been chiefly from the villages. Native teachers are more extensively engaged in the Mission, and to their efforts the Rev. F. W. N. Alexander thus refers :—

My work during the last year has assumed quite a new aspect. Whereas in former years my time was wholly taken up by preaching to the heathen and preparing inquirers for baptism, I have now much less time for preaching to the heathen, and I am chiefly occupied in testing the work done by my Native agents, and in bringing on the teachers themselves in scriptural knowledge. It is evident to me that there is a fine field in our Mission for an itinerating agency. On all sides the Malas are stretching out their hands to us, but we who are engaged in consolidating the advances already made cannot carry out fresh works all over the country. No real advance is made by having a large number of nominal adherents whom we cannot really leaven with Christian influences.

In Church organization some progress has been made. G. Krishnyya, formerly a Brahmin, has been reading steadily under me for the last six months, with a view to Holy Orders.

Education.

After having gained experience in the Masulipatam school, the Rev. A. H. Arden was appointed in June to the charge of the Anglo-Vernacular School in this place. By reason of the ill-health of the former master the number of boys had been reduced to 90 ; but before the close of October they had risen to 160. Mr. Arden records in a few sentences his impression of the value of the school, as affording a constant opportunity for making known Christ to the young, and as promising an ample return in the next generation:—

When I first offered myself to the Society, I did so for direct district work, but since my arrival in the country I have learnt the immense value of school work: indeed I believe (humanly speaking, for we cannot limit the operations of the Spirit) the only way effectually to reach the upper classes is through Anglo-Vernacular schools.

Looking merely at preaching, the actual sermons delivered are far more constant and effectual in a school than could be delivered by any Missionary in any district, however zealous he might be. This is of course speaking of high-caste people only. Moreover, the result, though it may appear to a certain extent now, yet will not be properly seen and felt till after this generation has passed away.

BEZWARA.

While the Rev. T. Y. Darling considers the Native Church in the Telugu country as at present only an infant Church, he recognises signs of vitality and vigour which give promise of developement. Comparing the past with the present, and adverting to the spiritual service rendered by Natives, Mr. Darling says:—

No one who has watched the state of the Telugu Mission of the Church Missionary Society for any number of years can have failed to notice the marked progress which it has made in all its branches. I can bear testimony to this effect, for (it is my privilege to say so) my experience in the good work dates from the year 1847. I am proud to say it, and thank God for it, that I was a contemporary of Henry Fox. Looking back, then, upon the years gone by, and remembering what things God has wrought amongst the Telugu people during that period, by the instrumentality which He has been pleased to use, I am obliged to exclaim, "It is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes."

You are already aware that Robert Noble's school has borne fruit, both in his own day and since it has been under the superintendence of the Rev. J. Sharp: two of these converts have now been labouring for some years as ordained ministers of the Gospel (others are preparing to do the same), and their faithfulness and zeal testify to the grace of God bestowed upon them. Their labours for the conversion of their countrymen are abundant and unceasing. God, who has called them, first from heathen darkness to the marvellous light of the Gospel, and then to the sacred ministry of His word in His Church, thus assures us of His abiding mercy towards the Telugus; that His purposes towards them are they should be saved, and that He will therefore continue to them the means of the precious Gospel.

Marked progress in the Telugu Mission.

Converts in the Mission School become Native Ministers.

Native
Christian Agency effective in
country.

The Gospel is now, I am thankful to say, being vigorously made known. By whom? True it is that your Missionaries are all men who desire more and more that utterance may be given unto them that they may open their mouth boldly to make known the mystery of the Gospel, but it is not of them that I write. I have just stated that our "living temple" has become reproductive of spiritual life: so it has. Our Native Christian agency generally is doing a wonderful work of evangelization. In each village, where the Gospel has been planted, there will be found some who not only witness for Jesus Christ our Saviour, by their lives, but who also constantly invite others to turn to Him likewise. In a few places we have been enabled to locate a Native Christian schoolmaster, reader, or Catechist, each of whom, it is expected, receives some assistance towards his support from the Native Church. But this is not our limit. In many instances men and women voluntarily, without any remuneration, make it a practice, wherever they go, to tell of the good things of Christ's salvation which they themselves have learned. And this means is bearing its fruit. All around our three principal centres, Masulipatam, Ellore, and Bezwarra, this is the case. I noticed it to some extent when I had charge of the Masulipatam district for nearly nine months of this year. I saw the same in active operation when I visited Ellore, and I know it to be so in my own district. I have recently returned from a long Missionary tour, in which I was accompanied by our Native brother, the Rev. A. Bhushanam, full of joy and encouragement. The sound of the Gospel had gone forth in various directions. Our Christian people, while attending to their own business in visiting these villages, had also carried with them the precious seed, and scattered it; and thus from many quarters came to us the invitation, repeated frequently in the most earnest manner, to go over, and help them. We did go as far as lay in our power, yet in several instances the villages were so far distant that it was impracticable for the present to render any assistance.

CEYLON MISSION.

(Commenced 1817.)

Division of Mission.—I. Colombo. II. Waddagama. III. Kandy.
IV Jaffna.

I. Colombo.

European Mission Establishment :

Rev. John Ireland Jones, B.A. (m), 1857.
Rev. William Edward Rowlands, B.A. (m), 1861.
Rev. Stephen Coles (m), 1860.
Rev. J. C. Mill (m).

General View.

THE aspect of the Ceylon Mission has become much more cheering. The Jubilee has stimulated the zeal of the Native Christians and strengthened the faith of the European labourers. A sum exceeding 400*l.* has been raised as a Jubilee Fund, and the Natives have entered earnestly into the proceedings of the Jubilee Meetings. At Kandy, where a contribution of 150*l.* was made, all the speakers were Singhalese Christians. The funds raised for the Native Church have also increased. The annual fund raised in connexion with the Kandy Pastorate has reached 150*l.*, and two congregations entrusted to the care of a newly-ordained Native Deacon have supplied double the amount hitherto given. And even in the Cotta district, where the number of Christians has been diminished by the exercise of a stricter discipline, the contributions have been increased. Four Native Deacons have been ordained during the year, and one earnest Native Minister has been removed by death, leaving ten Native Clergy in Ceylon. Both by Tamils and Singhalese greater attention to the Gospel is shown; while in the Tamil Cooly Mission the labourers on 1000 coffee estates are reached.

Encouragement in almost every part of the Mission, a marked improvement both in the condition of the Christian congregations and in the attention of the heathen to the Gospel, is the tenor of the statements made by the Rev. W. Oakley, Secretary to the Mission, in reference to the past year. The annexed view of the South Ceylon Mission is furnished by Mr. Oakley, after thirty-four years' labour as a Missionary :—

At the Cotta and Talangama stations there has been a severe process of weeding going on for some time past. Many of the inefficient agents have been dismissed ; many of the unsatisfactory members of the congregations have been separated, and a more healthy state of affairs is already apparent. The subscriptions to the Native Church have considerably increased during the past year, and, with the increase of the Native Pastorate, we hope to see an increase of spiritual blessings, an increase of Christian life and Christian zeal throughout the district.

Death of a "good and faithful" Native Minister. A heavy loss has been sustained in the district and in the whole Mission by the removal by death of the Rev. J. A. De Livera. He was a good and faithful man, and seemed to us to be almost necessary for the formation and establishment of the Native Church. But our Master has thought otherwise. He has taken His servant to Himself, and by this very step will probably impress upon the Native Church that we must rest upon Christ and not upon man, and that we must work while it is day, for that the night cometh when no man can work.

At Colombo, both among the Tamil people and among the Singhalese, an interesting and encouraging work is going on, especially in street preaching, where large numbers assemble to hear the Word of God and to learn the way of salvation.

In some parts of the Baddagama District, especially at Dodandua, there is much to encourage. The Lord appears to be working in that district, and we trust the seed which has been so long sown there will yet spring up and bring forth fruit to the praise and glory of God.

The number of baptisms which have taken place during the past year, in connexion with the Kandy itinerating, and the present number of candidates for baptism, prove that the good work, some years since commenced at Talampitia, and in the neighbouring villages, is still going forward. The Tamil Cooly Mission, which has been so greatly strengthened by the appointment of the Rev. W. Clark, is full of encouragement. Not fewer than 1000 coffee estates are now reached by Catechists in connexion with that Mission.

Progress of the Native Pastorate at Kandy. The Kandy Native Pastorate appears to be progressing very satisfactorily. The amount of subscriptions received during the past year is about 150/. The ordination of Mr. Daniel Jayasinha, and his appointment to the charge of Gatamba and Katukelle congregations, appear to have given much satisfaction. The subscriptions received from the members of these congregations has been at least double that received in the preceding year.

COLOMBO.

The retrospect of the year encourages the Rev. W. E. Rowlands, who has been assisted in some departments of Mission duty by the Rev. J. C. Mill. The numbers in attendance at the Tamil services have been maintained, but at the Singhalese services have diminished. Street preaching, both in Tamil and Singhalese, has been regularly continued. The general aspect of the Mission, and the growing liberality of the Tamil Christians, receive the following comments in Mr. Rowlands' annual review :—

I am thankful to say that I think the year just past has, upon the whole, been an encouraging one, not so much on account of any striking advance that has been made, but rather from the aspect of things in general. The ordinary work of the station, English, Tamil, and Singhalese, has been carried on as for some years previously ; but in addition to this, as you may be already aware, our dear Brother Mill has interested himself in the inmates of one of the jails, as well as in the patients at the large Government hospital at Borella ; and besides visiting these two places frequently, and giving regular instruction to those desirous of receiving it, he has lately commenced a kind of itineration (on a limited scale) through the cinnamon and cocoanut estates to the north of Colombo, for the purpose of preaching, as far as opportunity may be afforded, to the Tamil coolies employed upon them. The hospital has proved this year, more than ever before, a favourable field for Missionary labours. I cannot but think that God's Spirit has been at work in the hearts of some of the poor creatures who have been patients there during the last twelve months. Six men, one after another, have professed faith in Jesus Christ as the only Saviour, and have, at their own earnest request, been baptized in His name. Some of these have since died, declaring to their fellow sufferers that they had found a peace and comfort in Christianity such as they had never known before.

A spirit of liberality amongst our Tamil Christians is, I trust, gradually upon the increase. The total amount contributed for different objects by the congregations above-mentioned, during the year, has been 22*l.*, to set against about 18*l.* collected last year. We are still without a Native Pastor for the Tamil congregation of Slave Island, but I have little doubt that if only we are able to meet with a faithful man suited to the people, they will be ready, in proportion to their means, to do a good deal towards his support.

Much exertion has been made by Mr. Rowlands to establish boarding school for Tamil girls. The important influence of such an Institution on the more respectable part of the female population, and the near approach towards the completion of this ardently cherished scheme, are stated in another quotation:—

The most noteworthy event of the year has been the completion of our Tamil Girls' boarding school, and Tamil Mission house. We took possession of the latter in the beginning of September, but the work of neither building was fully completed until the end of October. There was a good deal of unnecessary delay from first to last, on the part of the contractor ; but now that both house and school are finished we look upon them, as you will easily understand, with no small degree of pleasure and thankfulness. When writing twelve months ago, I reported that our total receipts for the building fund amounted to 1376*l.* They have now reached 1670*l.*, i. e. we have received nearly 300*l.* during the year. For this we heartily thank God, and the more so when we remember that the funds raised for this purpose have been quite independent of those for the ordinary purposes of the Mission, and have in no way entrenched upon them. The balance of which we still stand in need is about 100*l.* There cannot be a doubt that if we are enabled to carry on the school as we desire, and if the Divine blessing follow our efforts, as we daily pray it may do, the school, by supplying a great want in Colombo and the neighbouring districts, will, as far as its influence can reach, tend very much to improve the condition of the more respectable part of the female population, and thereby confer a benefit which cannot easily be over estimated upon the Tamil people generally. Nor is it to be overlooked, that inasmuch as the Tamil part of our Mission here has by this step been strengthened and established, it has now a status very superior to that which it possessed in former days. God grant that we may see more and more fruits in precious souls gathered into His kingdom ; then shall we feel that we have indeed not laboured in vain !

COTTA.

Discipline exercised in Cotta.

Strict discipline, with a view to raise the spiritual tone of the Native Church, has induced the Rev. J. I. Jones to remove the names of many nominal Christians from the rolls of Church members. The effect has been that, while the numbers in attendance at public worship have not been much diminished, signs of greater vitality have been perceptible. Mr. Jones reviews the work generally, adverting, towards the close of the following quotation, to the special efforts made in connexion with the jubilee in Ceylon:—

There has been no general awakening among either Christians or heathen, and the applicants for Christian instruction and baptism have been very few. Here and there glimpses of spiritual life have been seen, when two or three have met together privately for prayer, or when individuals have tried to do something to bring their neighbours to a knowledge of Christ. One woman has thus steadily acted throughout the year; but, taken as a whole, our people have not shown any very deep interest either in their own salvation or that of others. The number to be regarded as Christians is at present small; I fear, too, that it must be still smaller. We have been pulling down a building, the materials of which were to a great extent decayed and worthless, and it is useless attempting to rebuild till all this has been removed, and a firm foundation reached.

The encouraging point is, that though our numbers are so reduced the Native contributions are larger than they have ever been, and the attendance at the various places of worship but little smaller than last year. I trust this indicates, that of the present members a fair proportion are really attached to Christianity, and have some sense of the value of its privileges.

A confirmation was held here in October, and thirty young people were presented to the Bishop. They had been carefully prepared, and in every instance had a good knowledge of Christian truth, and some appeared to have also a deep feeling of the importance of the promises they then took upon themselves.

The work of reorganization has gone on steadily in the district, and now approaches completion.

Our Catechist, Hendrick de Silva, was ordained on October 25th, so that there are now three ordained Pastors in the district.

I have dismissed several Catechists on account of inefficiency, but the Pastors and Catechists at present employed have given satisfaction, steadily pursuing their work. I could wish to see increased activity and earnestness in some, but think improvement is perceptible in almost every case.

The Jubilee of the Society's operations in Ceylon has been celebrated during the year. The first meeting was held at Cotta, and a collection made amounting to 110*l.*, of which about 40*l.* came from this district. This was, of course, independent of the monthly subscriptions on behalf of the Church Fund, which, during the year, have amounted to about 60*l.*

The Church Council of this district has met monthly, and has, I think, exercised a decidedly beneficial influence. As its meaning and usefulness become better known, I have no doubt it will be powerful for good.

We wait for the outpouring of that Spirit without which our work, however pleasing an exterior it may present, can have no real vitality, but we wait hopefully, for we know that "He is faithful that promised."

COTTA TRAINING INSTITUTIONS.

The Cotta Christian Institution ceased to receive boarders at the close of 1867. The Training Institutions for Catechists and Schoolmasters were removed early in 1868 from Baddagama to Cotta, and placed under the Rev. S. Coles, whose account of these Institutions for the year is now introduced:—

Training
tions at Cotta.

During the first quarter, which ended at Christmas 1867, I had charge of the Cotta Christian Institution, in which there were twenty-four boarders and twenty-six day scholars. The general conduct of the boys was satisfactory, and several among them were candidates for baptism; but in consequence of the closing of the boarding part of the institution last Christmas they left, and went either to other villages or other schools in the island, so that I lost sight of them. I pray that the Shepherd of Israel may bring them into His fold, though it be through other instrumentality than mine, so that He alone may be glorified, and precious souls saved.

After the Christmas vacation the Training Institutions for Catechists and Schoolmasters were transferred from Baddagama to this place, and committed to my care and tuition. There were seven students at that time in the institutions, to which number fifteen more were immediately added by new admissions: three more were subsequently admitted; of these twenty-five students, three left the Institution to become Teachers in Mission Schools, three were dismissed, and two resigned from inability to carry on their studies, leaving a total of seventeen, of whom five are in the Preparandi and twelve in the Schoolmaster's class.

The work of an Evangelist is also pursued by Mr. Coles and his assistants. In the early Sunday morning they go forth and preach to audiences that may be gathered by the roadside. Similar preaching in the streets of Colombo is also undertaken:—

staff engaged in street-
preaching.

The most important and interesting part of our evangelical work is that carried on in the streets of Colombo. Our audiences vary from one to three or four hundred; and frequently they are very attentive and serious. It is seldom that they attempt to argue or dispute with us on the Christian religion, and we ourselves generally avoid argument but confine ourselves to the original Missionary subject, viz. "Repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ." We have been privileged to declare to many thousands the way of life; and pray that many may be constrained to accept the free offers of life and mercy declared to them in the Gospel. I have had some very interesting conversations with some persons after our discourses, and have been much encouraged in several instances. I had frequently noticed a Singhalese man most attentive while we were preaching, and sought an opportunity of speaking to him privately, when I asked him if he had gone to Jesus for refuge. His answer was, "O yes, I have gone and He has saved me." I know that the Lord has some such children in this land, and doubtless He has many of whom I have never heard, but I pray and look for the time when the little one shall become a thousand and the small one a strong nation, and when, instead of worshipping a vain personification of wisdom according to the precepts of Buddha, they may all be partakers of the heavenly wisdom which consists in the fear and love of God through Jesus Christ our Lord.

The death of the Rev. J. A. De Livera, a Native Minister, is noticed by the Rev. J. I. Jones, who speaks of the loss sustained by the Native Christians in the removal of his "friend and Native brother":—

I never saw more general anxiety, more prayerful, earnest desire European for the recovery of any one; but it was not our Father's will to spare him to us, and He has taken him to Himself. Missionary records the

He is buried between his church and the boys' school, and I trust many, as they look on his tomb, may be reminded of his holy, useful life, and led to follow his example. To the Native Church his loss is one which will be severely felt, and one which God alone can make up. death of a Native friend and brother."

BADDAGAMA.

Impaired health has constrained the Rev. E. T. Higgins to retire for a time from his labours. The Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin announces a sound and healthy progress. Old ground has been maintained and new ground has been occupied. The Native Christians are making efforts in the direction of self-support. Some brief remarks on the congregations, on the schools, and on a new feature of the work, are quoted:—

The congregations are satisfactory, and contribute fairly to the Native Church Fund. The most praiseworthy of these are in Dandund, which exhibits, under its able Catechist, most of the features of a Native Pastorate.

The schools are in good order, and, upon the whole, well attended. The number of girls in the Baddagama school is somewhat less now, which may be accounted for by there being no lady to superintend it as formerly.

The boarding-school, opened in October last, promises very fairly, and, as it becomes better known, will, I think, be well attended.

A remarkable feature during the year has been the willingness of the leading men of Kosgoda (hitherto so much opposed), to the number of forty-five or fifty, to hear the Gospel preached. On two occasions they came to the Catechist's house, where I was, and listened very attentively for two hours, and on another occasion for three hours, uninterruptedly.

Others have manifested an active opposition, owing to the fear of our Christian influence, and have opened four boys' schools, in order to keep their children away from us.

The contrast between the persecution experienced a few years ago by a Catechist in a Ceylon village, and the proceedings at a successful Missionary Meeting in which he recently took part, shows the influence exercised over the village by a Native convert:—

About six or seven years ago the Mission was established, owing to the conversion of an influential man in the village, who importuned our Missionary to begin to work, and gave him no rest until the field was secured, and work for Christ commenced in it. About six years previously the Missionary had written of this place that it was apparently hopeless, and that he could not secure a house in which to preach for longer than a fortnight, at the end of which time he was turned out, and a devil ceremony performed in it. It is, most undoubtedly, a stronghold of Buddhism, and the bulk of the people are strongly opposed to Christianity. The person I have mentioned has never ceased to take the deepest interest in the work, in which he has been well seconded by his equally devoted wife and eldest daughter. The latter, of her own accord, and without any salary, has a girls' school in her father's house, to which she devotes five or six hours daily. But it is with more special reference to a Missionary Meeting just held, and to the confession of the faith in Jesus by one of the school girls, and her subsequent persecution, that I write. The Missionary Meeting was a great success. Every available place was crowded: forms were placed outside even, and yet many people had to stand while listening to the various speakers. A report read by the Catechist showed an increase of 6*l*. over last year, with an increased attendance at the Sunday Services, and of day scholars in the several schools. One of the speakers on this occasion was the first Catechist placed in the village by the Missionary. His reception at that time by the people was anything but flattering to his feelings or agreeable to his person. They abused and even beat him, and went so far as to threaten his destruction, and turned him out of the house in which he had taken up his abode. He left the place after a time, but the work was taken up by another; and now, after a few years, the man who was reviled and beaten had the pleasure of addressing a Meeting crowded to overflowing in that very village, and almost opposite to the house in which he had suffered for the sake of the Gospel.

The little company of believers have, during the year, contributed 9% towards the salary of their Catechist; and now they are desirous of erecting a new school, as the verandah of the house now occupied is too small.

KANDY.

A brief notice of the celebration of the Kandy Jubilee, in Celebration connexion with which the sum of 150% was collected, is given of the by the Rev. J. Allcock. Early in the present year the Jubilee Jubilee in contributions had reached 430%:— Kandy.

The large schoolroom on the Mission premises was very elegantly and tastefully decorated by some members of the Kandy congregation, and the speakers were all Singhalese Christians. The large sum of 150% was collected for the Jubilee Fund, and nearly all of it was contributed by Native Christians. The sum of 60% was collected by one Singhalese Christian.

The Rev. C. Jayasinha, long a Native Minister in Ceylon, and now Native Pastor at Kandy, can speak with satisfaction of his Native flock. Eleven candidates were, in March, presented to the Bishop of Colombo for confirmation. Before noticing the statements respecting the congregation, and their exertions in the direction of self-support, a passage may be quoted showing the attachment to the Society of one long employed in its service. Mr. Jayasinha says on this subject:—

In all changes of life I forget not the obligations I owe to the Attach-Church Missionary Society for their invariable kindness to me ever ment of a since I became a Catechist of the Society. I must confess that Native many were the privileges conferred on me, great was the kindness the Society.

shown to me, and much more was the confidence reposed in me at every stage of my official life in the Mission. I trust I have not abused these privileges, at least I am not conscious of having done so. I shall always retain a lively and thankful recollection of them, and endeavour to prove that I do sincerely appreciate them by seeking diligently to fulfil the responsible duties of my new post, to the advantage of the people among whom I dwell, and to the satisfaction of the Church Missionary Society, whose paramount object is to establish Native Churches with Native Ministers and with self-supporting resources.

an earnest
Native
Christian
lady.

This little Christian community has lost by death one who was at once an accomplished Native lady and an earnest Christian. Passing from the mention of this individual to the state and prospects of the Native Church, Mr. Jayasinha makes the annexed remarks:—

The Kandy congregation is a respectable and important one; it is scarcely necessary for me to say anything with respect to their condition, further than that I found it a well-organized small body of Christians, a small plantation of choice plants. I hope that, under vigilant care and proper management, the dew of heaven will strengthen and multiply them. They feel thankful for the present arrangement for their becoming a self-supporting church. As time passes and knowledge increases, anything yet wanting in them would be granted to them from above, that they may become perfect and unblamable, for I humbly trust that by our frequent waiting on our God as we do now, greater zeal and energy will be kindled in us for the cause of Christ.

We are pushing forward for a self-supporting church. A Church Council, with representatives of congregations, and a Pastoral Fund, have been formed, and contributions are being gathered in. Both Europeans and Natives have come forward very liberally. The donations and subscriptions (independent of other collections) during the year amounted to 92*l* 2*s*.

While I am labouring for Christians I do not lose sight of the heathen around me. They are visited, admonished, and invited to Christ. As long as I am surrounded with hundreds and thousands of heathen, perishing for lack of wisdom which comes from above, I cannot forget that I am a messenger to them as well as to others.

KANDY ITINERANCY.

Energetically has the Gospel been preached to the heathen. Among the converts of the year is a heathen priest, concerning whom, and the general aspect of the Itinerancy, the Rev. J. Allcock thus writes:—

The Kandy Nine agents have carried on direct labour among the heathen itinerancy. with as much energy and zeal as in former years. I have no certain means of ascertaining the number of people who have heard of the message of grace and peace by this agency, but I think they cannot be less than 30,000 or 40,000. It is very difficult to report the results of this agency with exactness, but I have observed two things which have followed. In the first place much opposition has been stirred up among the heathen ; and secondly, many are reading the Bible ; some for the sake of truth, and some for the alone sake of cavilling, but what the end of this will be it is impossible to say. Yet I may mention, that during the last ten months seventeen persons have been baptized—thirteen adults and four infants : one of the former was a priest of the Hawandawala temple, and all the others born and brought up in heathen darkness. Some of them were baptized at the extreme ages of seventy and seventy-five. There are also forty-seven inquirers, a larger number than I remember before in the Kandy itinerancy.

The ordination of a Native Minister, and advance in the Native Church organization, are the prominent features of the Pastoral work of the year. The Singhalese Church Council and the contributions of the Native Christians are noticed in another paragraph of Mr. Allcock's annual review :—

The most important event of the past year is the formation of a Singhalese Church Council, at present composed of one European Missionary, two Native Pastors and five Singhalese laymen. The Council meets on the last Saturday of every month for consideration of the affairs of the Native Church, and so far I think it may be regarded as a success. The liberality of the Native Christians is much more than I expected, and I think deserves notice here. During the past year the sum of 92*l.* has been contributed to the Kandy Native Pastorate Fund. The second important event to notice is the increase of the Native Pastorate. I am thankful to be able to report that Mr. D. Jayasinha, formerly Catechist at Kandy, has been ordained Deacon by the Lord Bishop of Colombo, and licensed as Pastor of the congregations of Katukelle and Gatambê. He has been under special instruction for the last ten months, and an agent of the Society for nearly twenty years. I have good hope and trust that his ordination will be a blessing to many. In fact, the good results of it are evident already. One good effect is the increased respect of the people, and they look unto him now as their Pastor and father, separated by God and the Church.

JAFFNA.

Instances of individual piety.

Instances of individual piety cheer the hearts of the Missionaries, the Rev. T. Good and Rev. D. Wood, in the absence of any general spiritual movement. Four Native Pastors throw themselves heartily into the duties devolving upon them. There are 1500 children, of whom 300 are girls under instruction. The testimony of the Missionaries concerning work among the heathen, journeys for the sale of the Scriptures, efforts on cocoa-nut estates, Jubilee proceedings, and the general features of the Mission, is now given:—

Bible
Meeting in Ceylon.

The work among the heathen is carried on chiefly by means of public meetings held in school bungalows, private houses, and in the open air. These meetings, and especially those held by moonlight, are well attended, and are often deeply interesting. Sometimes the claims of the Bible are specially enforced, and always the great truths of the everlasting Gospel are set forth, and the hearers earnestly directed to Jesus as the Saviour of sinners. At a Bible Meeting held in the Nellore Church, upwards of 400 persons were present, the majority of whom wore the marks of heathenism on their foreheads. There is also carried on a systematic house to house visitation. The visitors are well received, and, in some cases, looked for. We cannot help feeling that the attachment of the more intelligent of the heathen to idolatry arises more from custom and love or fear of the world, than from any real belief in heathenism. Many of them are reading the Scriptures, if it is only to cavil, while others, we believe, read earnestly. The objections of Bishop Colenso and others are often reproduced here, and perplexing questions put to our helpers. We are glad that they search, if it be only for "contention." God will bless His own word.

During the year a series of Bible tours, five in number, have been made into the districts of Coil-a-Kandy, Navatcooly, Kaithady, the cocoa-nut estates, &c. The plan adopted was that of sending a number of Catechists together, who held meetings, conversed with the people, sold portions of the Scriptures, and distributed tracts. The reports of these tours are very interesting.

The work at the cocoa-nut estates, situated about twenty-five miles from the town of Jaffna, has been carried on till recently by periodical visits from a Native Pastor accompanied by a Catechist.

We have, however, found it necessary to station a Catechist in that district. This work appears to present a very encouraging aspect.

Perhaps the most important event of the year, in many respects, is the holding of our Jubilee Meetings. It is matter for great thankfulness to the God of Missions that He has permitted our Society's work in Ceylon to reach its Jubilee year without interruption. One circumstance may be mentioned, namely, the surprise expressed by the heathen at the progress of Christianity. While meetings were being held at Nellore, the heathen crowded round the door and windows, and were heard to remark that they did not know there were so many Christians in Jaffna.

In reviewing the past year, and the work which is still comparatively new to us, we cannot but thank God for all His goodness, and look forward hopefully to the future. It is true there is much to discourage, but there is also that which often makes our hearts glad. Earnestly do we ask that God's people would continue to bear us and our work before the throne of grace, that we ourselves may be faithful to our high trust, and, if it be God's will, successful Missionaries of the cross; that our Christians may be steadfast in the midst of heathen and popish darkness, and that from the thousands of Jaffna heathen, multitudes of souls may be gathered into the Redeemer's fold, and become living monuments of Divine Grace to their fellows. May God's kingdom speedily come, and "His will be done on earth, as it is done in heaven!"

Inquirers
tius.

Deaths, departures, and changes have been adverse both to the Missions among the heathen and to the operations of the local Association. There has been a large number of inquirers in the vicinity of the station, some of whom have been baptized. A disposition to relinquish idolatry is mentioned by the Rev. S. Hobbs:—

No attempts have been made during the year to resuscitate the idolatrous practices which were formerly kept up with considerable vigour in our valley, but have been dying out of late years, and I believe the longer they are neglected the more difficult their promoters will find it to set them again on foot. It is impossible to tell with certainty how far the decay of those heathen customs is to be traced to our constant testimony against them, but I have a cheering conviction that, by the blessing of the Lord, the earnest admonitions and instructions of the Catechists and myself from house to house have been amongst the causes, and that this negative success is a gradual preparation for success of a more positive and satisfactory kind.

A virulent fever has prostrated the strength of the Rev. P. Ansorgé, and a violent hurricane has destroyed his church. In the congregation twenty-six deaths occurred from fever, and the zealous Native Minister, the Rev. C. Kooshalee, was for a time compelled by fever to relinquish his ministerial duties. Five Native Teachers are employed under Mr. Ansorgé, who is much occupied with the charge of the Orphan Asylum.

Plains Wilhems.

Thankful for the health and strength enjoyed almost uninterruptedly during the year, and still more grateful for the tokens of the Divine blessing which have been manifested, the Rev. H. D. Buswell describes the varied character of his work:—

Our work amongst the Tamils has been sustained but not extended. I have ventured to take charge of four boys, the best that we could obtain from the Powder Mills Asylum.

If it please God to spare me and them, I hope they may be trained and fitted for the service of the Mission. They of course occupy a fair share of my time. I cannot, however, but regard the work of training as one worthy of all my time and of my best prayerful energies.

The Lord has opened up to us another and a very promising sphere of usefulness. The Government has opened in the Plains Wilhems district a Central Poor Asylum.

We expect that about 900 paupers will be brought within a mile of our house. This is an interesting field. Accommodation has at present been provided for about 250. The Creoles almost to a man are Roman Catholics. The Indians are chiefly heathen. God has already greatly disposed their minds to receive our teaching. Some have been baptized, others are being instructed. We trust that many of these poor have been brought within sound of the Gospel, in order that they may become rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom.

The Native Minister, the Rev. C. Kooshalee, has been stationed in this district, in consequence of the Lord having set before us this open door. It is a cause of thankfulness to Almighty God that we are now enabled to hold services in the district in English, French, Tamil and Bengali. We require now some one to labour amongst the Bombay Indians and the Chinese, and we should then be able to provide for nearly all classes of our population.

Mahebourg.

Engaged partly in Chaplaincy duties, the Rev. W. W. Wright has not been able to devote himself so exclusively as he desired to Missionary work. The Native Christians are about fifty in number, and during the year twenty adults have been received by baptism from the ranks of the heathen. It will be seen that the newly baptized include several complete families:—

A feature in the baptisms this year has been that in three or four instances the whole family, husband, wife, and children were all baptized together. This is to my mind a peculiarly interesting and encouraging fact. The last baptism was one of this character. A chemist's assistant, his wife and daughter, were all baptized, and seemed as devout in attention as they were respectable in appearance.

Madagascar Mission.(Commenced 1863.)*

Rev. Thomas Campbell, 1863.

Rev. Herbert Maundrell (m), 1863.Events in
car.

Fear predominated over hope in the hearts of all the Missionaries when the new Queen of Madagascar adopted at her coronation a name identified with the persecution of Christians. The anticipation of a return of evil days has not, however, been realized. So far have events occurred otherwise, that the conflict with sin and superstition has not only been continued without hindrance from the Government, but the idolatry of the nation seems to have fallen with the life of one Queen, and the Gospel of Christ seems to have arisen in strength with the accession of another. But the history of the Madagascar Mission, and more especially at the capital, belongs to the London Missionary Society, and the Church Missionary Society can only rejoice in the great results which that Society now, after much anxious labour and bitter persecution, announces.

The Rev. H. Maundrell thus adverts to the political changes, and to the Mission work :—

Political changes in
car.

Important changes have taken place in the history of Madagascar. Rasoheryna is dead, and Ranaivalona II. succeeds her on the throne ; the ominous name by which she was crowned, reminding all in Madagascar of the horrid cruelties and persecutions of Ranaivalona I., made it doubtful in the minds of many whether Christianity would be tolerated or not. But it soon became apparent that the policy of the present Government is more favourable to the spread of the truth than that of any former. The Queen has publicly disclaimed the worship of idols and faith in witchcraft ; and has replaced many superstitions and vain laws by wise and good ones. Since the coronation the Prime Minister, though still a heathen, has openly attended Divine service, and a great majority of the nobles and members of Government have avowed themselves Christians ; a step which we may hope will soon be taken by the Queen and Prime Minister themselves.

work advanced
by course of events in
car.

Our own Mission at Andovoranto has naturally benefited by these changes. All fear of public persecution for the sake of Christ has been taken away. They who wish may love and serve the Lord, "and none shall make them afraid." Our services are now attended by nearly twice the number of persons we formerly had ; but no change of government can overcome the prejudices of a whole nation. The real battle between Christianity and the sin and superstition in which the Malagassy as a people are sunk, has yet to be fought ; it is, indeed, but the few who have joined us ; the many are still opposed to us.

By means of Native agents regular services have been established at Tanimandry, Maromby and Ranomafana. Most of the men we employ are far from efficient, and we could not make use of them were more able men available.

The teachers at Vohimare, it appears, are working well. They paid us a visit at Andevoranto in June last. Since then two of their catechumens, while in Government service at Tamatave, were baptized by the Rev. J. Holding, who expressed himself well satisfied with them.

The pastoral work at Andevoranto has devolved for the most part on the Rev. H. Maundrell, who announces steady advance in the Mission, notwithstanding many hindrances consequent upon inadequate agency. The baptism of a local Malagassy Governor, and other proceedings on Christmas Day, will convey an impression of the work in which Mr. Maundrell is engaged:—

Our church here was decorated nicely yesterday by the school children, assisted by a few adults. They did their work well. The church, a plain Malagassy house, looked very neat and nice. The people at Tanimandry joined us here, so that at this morning's service I had a congregation of 150 persons. Before this large assembly I married Elkanah and Hannah, whom I baptized a few weeks ago, and baptized Rahaga, the Governor of Tanimandry. Most of the people present, I am happy to say, were Betsimisarakas. After the morning's service, the bullock was killed and divided among the congregations of Tanimandry and Andevoranto. The Christians of this town made a feast, to which they invited their heathen neighbours and friends, by way of winning them over to Christianity. The children I took to myself, and feasted them under the verandah of our house, and after the evening service they came and amused themselves on the lawn.

Owing to the increase of our numbers, the Christians of Ranomafana, Maromby and Vohiboahazo met together at the latter village, to which the Rev. T. Campbell is gone to keep Christmas with them.

Contrasting to-day's proceedings with those of Christmas 1866, there is much cause for thankfulness and encouragement. But oh, how much remains to be done!

Fianarantsoa has again been visited by the Rev. T. Campbell, who first proceeded in a north-westerly direction to Ambohimanga, the chief town of the Antanalas; then turned southward to Fianarantsoa, and afterwards penetrated the southern country, where the Hovas appear to exercise a feeble authority over the people. Small Christian communities were found throughout the whole tour, and the Missionary was gladly welcomed by these scattered disciples. The account of the reception at Ambohimanga may be introduced:—

When I reached Ambohimanga, capital of the Antanala country, I sent a messenger to announce my proximity; but just then the rain, which had been pelting us for some time, came down in torrents; but this we were obliged to bear till a messenger came and told us to proceed. The white flag of Ranavalona was then hoisted, and the Malagasy national anthem played, an honour I had never before received since I came to the country. I was met at the entrance to the town by Rasolo, the only baptized Christian belonging to it, and was led by him to the rova, where I was received by the Governor and her family with all honours. It was pouring with rain at the time; but the courtyard was crowded with people, who looked at me in wondering astonishment, not unmixed with fear, if I might judge from their looks. The band, having played the national anthem, preceded me to the house which had been prepared; and on entering I found the Governor and her officers, who had gone by another route, waiting to receive me, and to see that I was made comfortable. All the persons in authority here are Antanalas, and I, being the first European who ever visited the town, they did everything in their power to do me honour.

Having settled down a little, I was presented with abundance of rice, &c, and in the evening had my house crammed while I sang a few tunes with those who meet for prayer every Lord's-day. After reading a Psalm, and giving a short exposition of Christian doctrine and practice, I concluded with prayer, and was thankful that I had reached thus far in safety, and to find so many people inclined to listen to the message of salvation.

Eagerness to behold the Missionary induces many of the people to assemble from the surrounding country, and the great doctrines of the Gospel are summarily announced, the European face being as strange to the eyes of many of the audience, as the message of Divine mercy to their ears:—

As soon as the news of my arrival had spread, numbers of people, old and young, came in from the country to see me; and from the early morning till late in the evening, except for a short interval at meals, my house was crowded. One old man was excessively inquisitive, and asked me many questions about our manners and customs—the food we eat—the distance of our country, &c. I not only answered all these inquiries, but took advantage of the opportunity to declare to all assembled the Gospel of our blessed Saviour, and salvation through His atoning blood. I also told them of His death, resurrection and ascension into heaven; of His coming again to judge the world, and of the resurrection from the dead of every human being; of the day of judgment; of the everlasting happiness of the righteous, and of the eternal misery of the wicked. They appeared to comprehend these strange things, and an old Betsileo, who often came in to talk with me, repeated much of my story over again to those who were duller of comprehension.

A barbarous and inhuman traffic in slaves still disgraces the coast, and desolates the interior of East Africa. A prospect of restricting the slave-trade within narrower limits has of late arisen, and the Society anticipates the possibility of gathering rescued slaves under the ministry of the Gospel. The position of the West African Church seems to constrain the Committee to undertake a similar course in reference to the negroes of the Eastern Coast. The Society's Missionaries at Mombas, the Rev. J. Rebmann and the Rev. T. H. Sparshott, have of late been exposed to much danger, and, while a basis is retained in East Africa, one of the labourers may be transferred to the Seychelles, where the opportunity would be afforded of instructing liberated slaves in the truths of the Gospel under British law and government.

aspect of Mission work in China.

THE characteristic features of Missionary operations in the Chinese Empire are almost as varied as its climates and languages. In some provinces a friendly disposition is shown towards the Gospel by an attentive consideration of its doctrines; in others, a jealous hostility is exhibited by a factious persecution of its disciples. On the one hand the literary classes, directly and indirectly, exert their utmost efforts to silence the preacher of the "truth as it is in Jesus;" on the other, the common people openly and publicly encourage the ambassador of Christ. Hong-Kong is, spiritually, a barren and isolated rock, compared with the fruitful and expansive field of Ningpo. At Peking energy is mainly directed to the preparation of Scripture translations, at Fuh-Chau it is chiefly employed in the proclamation of Gospel truth. But amid these diversities, one most encouraging characteristic of the China Mission is the anxiety of Chinese converts for the salvation of their families and friends. Much of the increase in the ranks of the Christians can be traced to the home influence of the converts, and this characteristic is a cheering ray in the thick darkness of Chinese heathenism.

The Bishop of Victoria has been enabled, by passing rapidly along the extensive coast of China, to see the work in which the Society is engaged. Confirmations have been held. In the city of Fuh-Chau a Catechist was ordained, whose ministry seems even to attract the attention of the literary classes. The Bishop reached the distant capital, Peking, and records, in connexion with the preaching of the Gospel in that city, a somewhat remarkable conversion. A native police-officer, in the course of his ordinary duty, took his stand at the door of the preaching chapel for the purpose of keeping order. Thus occupied, he heard the Gospel, which seems to have reached his heart with something of the power, though without the attendant miracle, with which it reached the heart of the Philippian jailer. He has been instructed, baptized, confirmed, and now leads a very consistent life amid many difficulties.

Not less remarkable, and more significant, is the fact that a Peking Missionary, with his Native Assistant, itinerating in the villages around the capital, preached Christ in a heathen temple, the site of which had been given by this Native, when a heathen, for idolatrous purposes. Here he stood by the side of the European Missionary, and preached against the idolatry he formerly desired to promote.

Those brethren in the flesh, as well as in the Ningpo Mission, the two Moules, meet for a time under a father's roof, in order to regain health and vigour, hereafter to be expended in the China Mission.

The encouraging features of inquiry on the part of the heathen, and of endurance on the part of the Christians, are distinctly to be traced in China. A village containing 6000 inhabitants earnestly pleads for the Native Christian Teacher who may instruct them publicly, and from house to house; but for the present only the occasional and voluntary services of two converts in an adjoining village can be supplied. Nor is the endurance of the Christians less manifest than the inquiry of the heathen. A convert who had attained the B.A. degree has devoted himself to the cause of the Gospel. Persecuted by the literary classes, and threatened not only with degradation from the degree he has gained, but also with the loss of his ancestral property, he still continues his spiritual duties as a Catechist of the Society. Nor should one of humbler position be unnoticed in this reference to the power of enduring hardness shown by Chinese converts. A carpenter, whose business compelled him to reside during four months thirty-five miles away from the Mission chapel, spent the whole of Saturday and Monday in walking this distance, in order to join the Sabbath services of the Mission chapel.

Commencement of a Mission
in Japan.

Japan is at length included in the Society's Mission field. On the 23rd January, its first Missionary to that land, a Cambridge graduate, reached Nagasaki. Already in some measure acquainted with the language, his energies will be directed to its complete acquisition. Meanwhile it is hoped that Japanese prejudice will be dispelled, and prohibitory statutes be annulled. Within a few days of landing, the Missionary met accidentally several Japanese gentlemen whom he had known in London, and who, notwithstanding their clear comprehension of his Mission among them, manifested much courtesy and consideration. Thus, while many "run to and fro," and "knowledge is increased," may the "knowledge of the glory of the Lord cover the earth, as the waters cover the sea!"

HONG-KONG.

Unable to announce accessions from the heathen, the Rev. J. Piper asks earnestly for the prayers of Christians on behalf of the Hong-Kong Mission, where the spiritual stagnation seems to be in striking contrast to the spiritual progress in the Fuh-Chau district. The little Christian flock at Hong-Kong has, however, grown in grace and knowledge. The difficulties and peculiarities of this Mission are described by Mr. Piper, who speaks also of the efforts made on behalf of the heathen:—

It seems, that as in the natural world there are years of unfruitfulness, so in the spiritual there are times of barrenness, when the seed of Divine truth falls upon hard and unproductive ground.

As in the days of St. Paul at Athens there were few converts, whilst at Corinth numbers joined themselves to the Lord's people, in like manner, whilst our brethren at Fuh-chau are rejoicing (and we rejoice with them) at the large draught which the net in their hands has inclosed, we seem to be toiling all night without taking anything.

Peculiar
character
of the Hong-

There is preaching to the heathen five evenings in the week. The number which come to these services is sometimes very large. In the summer months the attendance is best, the average number being about seventy; in the winter months the average is not above thirty. The class of hearers in our church in Hong-Kong is very different from those in an inland city. Many Chinese come from the mainland, and stay only a few days, to get a sight of the Europeans and their customs. Then, again, the line of steamers running across the Pacific to California is the cause of large numbers coming almost monthly to hear the word of life. These have usually to wait a few days in this island, and thus have an opportunity of listening to the Missionary speaking of Jesus. The truth is therefore set before a great many; but the unsettled character of the people deprives us of the pleasure of witnessing the results which arise from these casual visits, and which we should have were they permanently fixed here.

FUH-CHAU.

In this populous city, the basis of Missionary operations for an extensive district, the Revs. J. R. Wolfe and A. W. Cribb have completed another year of successful labour. Although the number of baptisms during the twelve months has not been so great as was anticipated, yet in other respects satisfactory advance has been made. The literary classes have persecuted converts and inquirers, but the Chinese magistrates have manifested a disposition to protect them. The more prominent facts may be introduced by general remarks made by Mr. Wolfe:—

In taking a review of the work here for the past year, I rejoice to be able to say, that notwithstanding many trials and difficulties and some disappointments, decided general progress has been the prominent feature of the year's labours. This progress is seen, not so much in the number of Christians gathered into the Church of Christ by baptism, as in the general interest which has been excited in favour of Christianity in the more extensive diffusion of Christian ideas, in the more correct knowledge of Christian doctrine attained by the masses, and in the consequent breaking down of many old foolish and absurd prejudices against us and our religion. I do not wish to insinuate by this that no prejudice exists, or that no opposition is manifested against the truth. Alas! alas! far otherwise is the case. But progress has been made, and that neither inconsiderable nor unimportant. This remark applies more especially, though not exclusively, to the country work. Looking at the darkness of former years, and comparing the slow progress of the past with the present interesting and comparatively rapid way in which the light of Christian truth is spreading through the country, the contrast is indeed remarkable, the progress that has been made is great, and calls for much thankfulness, and raises cheering hopes for the future. Throughout the country stations during the past year there has been much to encourage and cheer one in the work of Christ. The heathen, generally speaking, have given a favourable hearing to the messengers of Christ, whether Native or foreign, and have shown a very friendly disposition towards the Gospel. Many of them, through our preaching and teaching, have been led to believe in the superiority of Christianity to any of their own false systems; and though these have not in any great numbers joined themselves to Christ, many of them have been induced to give up idolatry, and relinquish their faith in many foolish and absurd heathen practices. In some villages spontaneous efforts have been made by the people to have Christian teachers amongst them, and in two of these places we have felt it our duty to comply with their requests.

The Native Minister, the Rev. Wong Kiu Taik, has assisted Mr. Wolfe in the city of Fuh-Chau, where the aspect of the work appears less encouraging than in the out-stations:—

Rev. Wong Kiu Taik and the Fuh-Chau Mission. The central Mission chapel in South Street has been under my own special charge, and, assisted by the valuable labours of the Rev. Wong Kiu Taik, I am thankful to say the work carried on here has, on the whole, been well sustained during the year in this most important public thoroughfare. The chapel has generally been crowded with as quiet and as orderly an audience as we could desire to see anywhere. The discussions carried on have oftentimes been extremely interesting. The literary classes have attended more numerous than on former years, and have taken part in the discussions and listened attentively to the preaching. I have seen some of them very often remain and listen for an hour or more to a discourse delivered either by myself or Mr. Wong Kiu Taik. In former years this was a very rare occurrence. During the year many thousands must have heard the "glad tidings" in this chapel, and many of those who have thus heard it must have carried it to the most distant parts of the province. Two or three individuals, who have been converted in the country, can trace their first impressions of the truth to what they had heard in this chapel. In this way I have reason to believe, though we are not permitted to see much fruit at present in the city itself, as the result of all this constant work of preaching and teaching, that this chapel, and our other chapels also, are being the means of scattering the seed of the word of life over the most distant parts of the country, which in due time may spring up and yield an abundant harvest.

Out-Stations.

A Chinese Mandarin cannot believe the accusations against Christians. Opposition from the literary classes sometimes, as at Lieng Kong, arrests the progress of the Gospel, but the Chinese authorities are becoming slow to believe evil of the Christians, and on a recent occasion a Mandarin declared to subordinate officers, who had brought accusations against them, "I fear you are not telling the truth against these Christians: I cannot believe that the followers of Jesus are evil-disposed people." At Tang-Long a decided advance has been made. The Rev. J. R. Wolfe, accompanied by the recently ordained Native, the Rev. Wong Kiu Taik, visited this place. Mr. Wolfe describes both the progress of the Christian community and the circumstances of individual converts:—

The work at Tang-long has made considerable progress, both as regards the spread of religious truth and additions to the church. Fifteen candidates presented themselves for baptism, ten of whom I accepted and baptized on this occasion. The Rev. Wong Kiu Taik accompanied me, and the whole of the Sabbath morning was occupied by us both carefully examining the several candidates. Our little chapel was too small to contain even the Christians, and most of the inquirers and others had to be excluded on the occasion for want of room. Amongst those who were baptized was the village schoolmaster, who has been a steady inquirer for over twelve months. He still continues to teach in one of the village heathen schools. Another is a respectable shopkeeper in the town, who, with his wife and four children, received the sacred rite. The third is a farmer in the neighbourhood, whose wife and only daughter were also baptized. All these have been brought to a knowledge of the truth chiefly through the instrumentality of the old patriarch, who was the first to take upon him the name of Christ in Tang-long. He is now very old and feeble, and standing as it were on the brink of eternity; and as he was the first to enter the Church of Christ in this place, so it is very probable that he will also be the first from the same place to enter into the joy of his Lord. He loves the Saviour, and though he lacks knowledge on many points, this love constrains him to tell of Christ to others, and we have seen how God has blessed his simple testimony to the conversion of others. The shopkeeper's wife is a most interesting woman, and the entire family is quite an important addition to the little church. A few days after their entrance into the church, they were called upon to suffer severe persecution for the name of Christ. Some of the family were actually beaten, and the shop was torn down by the violence of the persecutors. Their former customers were threatened with all sorts of punishment if they continued to deal with them, and their debtors were assured that it was a most meritorious act to defraud them of their just dues. Thus all at once, and without any notice, the storm burst with full fury upon this Christian family, and threatened to overwhelm them as in a moment. But the enemy was not allowed to prevail. The faith of the husband was sorely tried, but the wife and son never faltered. They appealed to me for protection. I advised them to take it patiently, and trust altogether in the power and love of God. There is always a danger in taking up the cause of young Christians and recent converts, and calling in the arm of the civil magistrate to defend them. This should be done very sparingly. It injures the spirituality of the convert, and identifies him more with foreigners in the eyes of his countrymen than is desirable in a Missionary point of view. Yet it is right he should be protected from violence on account of his faith, and especially as the laws of the Empire recognise this protection as his right. In this case I sent a message to the persecuting party, informing them of the laws of the Empire on the subject, and exhorted them to abstain from acts of violence against Christians, lest their conduct might bring them into trouble with the proper guardians of the Emperor's laws. I also advised them, as a matter of right and justice, to make compensation to the Christian for the injuries they had done him; to let reason prevail, and settle the matter in peace and harmony. This message was entrusted to the Lo-Nguong Christian father, and full powers were given him to act in behalf of the Church in the settlement of the matter, if the persecuting party were willing to listen to the voice of justice and peace. The matter could not have been placed in better hands, and the venerable old Christian went to Tang-long in the capacity of a "peace maker." He assembled the elders, placed the whole matter fully before them, and delivered to them my message. They acknowledged the reasonableness of it, and at once called for the principal men of the persecuting party and exhorted them to come to a proper arrangement. After a long discussion it was agreed that compensation should be made to the injured Christian, and that he should not again be submitted to any persecution on account of his religion. His shop was at once repaired by those who injured it, and thus this troublesome affair was ended.

of a Chinese Government official remarkable for

At Lo-Nguong we found the cause of the Gospel very interesting and deeply encouraging. Since I last visited it the progress became very marked. Fifteen presented themselves for baptism, but I was enabled to accept and baptize only six. The rest I put off to my next visit. The number of inquirers also has increased very considerably, and on the whole we may, I think, look forward to a large increase of converts in connexion with this out-station. It would be interesting to relate the history of most of those who were baptized on the occasion, but I must content myself with a notice of one of them. He is an old man, about sixty years of age, and connected with the Government in the city. His honesty and general character have gained for him a well-merited fame in the city, and throughout the districts. His position gives him an additional influence, and his conversion to Christianity has caused a great stir, and brought many to inquire more carefully into the doctrines of our faith. His conversion has, in addition, taken away in some measure the reproach and suspicion with which the convert is looked upon. It is now a common plea, the Catechists and converts assure me, of those who are taunted with the name of Christian, to refer to this man's example, and say, "If so-and-so has become a Christian, surely there can be nothing wrong, at least, in becoming a Christian." And against this man's example very few will be found bold enough to, at least, strongly object. His son was baptized the same day. His wife is a candidate, and some more of his friends and relatives are inquirers. On the same occasion I baptized an old man seventy-five years of age, who, before his conversion, kept an opium shop, which brought him great gain. He has abandoned his unholy traffic, and is now to all appearance a devoted Christian. He lives in a village three miles from the city, and notwithstanding his old age, and the hilly nature of the road, he comes regularly to service on Sundays, and to prayers on Thursday nights. There are six or seven other interesting inquirers in this man's village. The following day I visited this village, and dined with this aged Christian, in company with the Rev. Wong Kiu Taik, the schoolmaster, and two other Christians who accompanied us from the city. The work was never half so interesting in these parts as it is at present, and I trust and hope that our prayers, and the prayers of the Committee, will increasingly go up to heaven on behalf of the infant Church at Lo-Nguong.

* Similar is the testimony of the Rev. A. W. Cribb, who has carefully and thoughtfully reviewed the labours of the year. A quotation from his retrospect is appended, illustrating the difficulties encountered by men of learning, when undertaking Missionary service among their countrymen:—

At Ku-ch'eng, a graduate of the Sew-tsai, or B.A. degree, a young man baptized at Fuh-Chau in December last, has become our Catechist. I felt rather anxious in placing so important a station under the charge of so inexperienced a Christian, but we believed him to be sincere, and knew him to be well qualified in other respects. We see no reason to regret the appointment. On the contrary, we believe he will do much good. No sooner did he commence his work there, than a violent storm of persecution arose against him from the literati of Ku-ch'eng, as well as from distant members of his own family. Besides attempting to compel him to support idolatry, they threatened to cause his degree to be taken away from him, and to deprive him of his share in the inheritance of his forefathers. To show that they were in earnest in this latter particular, they refused to give him his share of pork, which, according to the will of his ancestors, was to be given to every member of the family, old or young, male or female, on a given day in every year. This of course is only a small matter in a pecuniary point of view, but is a prelude to an attempt to deprive him of the produce of some fields which is due to him once in three years, and worth about 350 dollars. Small, however, as it may appear, this circumstance has been noised abroad throughout the Ku-ch'eng district, and has had the effect of frightening most, if not all, the inquirers not only at Ku-ch'eng city but also at Sek-Paik-Tu, and Sang-Long, so that for a time, at least, they are afraid to profess themselves Christians. While, therefore, we mourn over the loss of many who for some time had been inquirers at our chapels, we cannot but praise God for the firmness with which His servant has endured all his trials, and for his determination that, come what may, he will not deny his Master ; and we cannot but think that such conduct will eventually be productive of much good. He needs the prayers of God's people that he may be kept steadfast in the faith, and may witness a good confession before his fellow-countrymen.

Three men, two women, and two children, have been baptized at this station during the year. Fifteen candidates were confirmed by the Bishop on his memorable visit to this station.

NINGPO.

Operations
at Ningpo.

Trial has been the appointed portion of the Mission in this place. Much bodily sickness has afflicted both the European Missionaries and the Native converts, and some of the former have been compelled to retire for a time on account of ill health. Blessings have, however, been mingled with sorrows, and a year of deep anxiety closed with bright anticipations. The Rev. W. A. Russell and the Rev. F. F. Gough, both experienced Missionaries, reached Ningpo at the close of the year, Mr. Russell having been appointed to superintend, as Secretary, the China Mission, and Mr. Gough having been especially directed to complete the preparation of candidates for Holy Orders. The number of baptisms has been thirty-one, exactly the same as last year ; and notwithstanding the mortality among the little Christian flock, it now numbers 379 Native Christians, of whom 154 are communicants. Some remarks by the Rev. A. E. Moule, upon the firm faith of some converts when brought to their dying hour, and upon the prospect of a spiritual agency, from the younger men of the present generation, are now added :—

deaths in the Ningpo
Mission.

The many deaths which have saddened our little church, are, I trust, with but one exception, gatherings into the heavenly garner, and as such they are more to be rejoiced over than many baptisms. It is delightful to welcome one and another into the visible Church ; but to feel that one and another is safe for evermore where the wicked cease from troubling ; where it is no longer a hard struggle to keep the sabbath ; where Satan cannot roam ; where the voice of mockery and the whisper of enticing temptation are never heard ; this is a deep and wonderful joy, which in great measure hushes the mourning over the departed. Such joys God has given to us during this sorrowful year. The Catechist Deo Dao-yüong, passed away in harness after one short twelve months' earnest labour. The old man Simeon, of the Tsong-gyiao Church, whose brief memoir appeared in the September "Gleaner," by his zeal put to shame (by their own confession) the Christians who had been in Christ long before him ; and in Soen-poh, the happy death-bed and the dying words of old Sing-yi-seng have been followed by the baptism of his third son, and of a relative. Another of the Christians in that district, who has recently died, had, I found, been in the habit of exhorting his son-in-law, and speaking to him of Christianity, though we had looked upon the old man as a peculiarly lifeless and speechless Christian.

Our Catechists are, I trust, as a body, growing in grace and in <sup>Efficiency</sup> ~~real~~. The younger men are becoming more reliable and more manly. <sup>of Cate-</sup> I have continued, during the year, my monthly Bible class with <sup>chists at</sup> the city and country Catechists. Lately I have begun lectures <sup>Ningpo.</sup> on the Articles at these classes, and most of the Catechists have brought me papers of Scripture proofs, with remarks of their own in some cases appended, on the Article given out the previous month. Some of these papers are models, not merely of neat writing and lucid arrangement, but show also much thought and Scripture knowledge, for we have at present no Chinese Bible Concordance. During the partial suspension, which I have so deeply regretted, of my itinerating work, I have hoped that these classes would tend in some measure to fit the Natives better for their own aggressive and pastoral work.

The qualifications of the Native agents, the cessation of open opposition to the Gospel, the difficulties which beset Chinese inquirers, and the promising aspect of the Mission, are noticed by Mr. Russell :—

I have seen and have had long interviews with most of the <sup>Qualifica-</sup> Native Catechists. They have left upon my mind the conviction <sup>tions of Na-</sup> that they are thoroughly in earnest, and admirably adapted to this <sup>tive Agents</sup> work. They all seem to have two great qualifications for efficiency <sup>and Mis-</sup> amongst their own people, namely, a very remarkable acquaintance <sup>sionary</sup> with the Bible, and a thorough knowledge of the habits and customs <sup>prospects</sup> at Ningpo. of their own countrymen. Indeed, as a Native agency, they seem to be everything one could desire. We have altogether about twenty of them, and their united pay does not amount to as much as that of a single European Missionary. This is another very important consideration in the present state of things. Depend upon it, as we go on, we shall be compelled to work less through the Foreign and more through the Native agency ; and this, too, is as it ought to be.

From all that I could gather from the Catechists, our work at present has reached a most interesting stage. Open opposition to us has well nigh entirely ceased. The people, as a rule, all commend our teaching as right and proper, and incline towards the adoption of Christianity, but for two difficulties ; one, the necessity of discontinuing "ancestral worship," and thus surrendering their right to entailed property ; the other, the necessity of keeping the Sabbath, and thus, in many instances, also giving up the hope of a livelihood. The former is the difficulty of the rich, the latter of the poor. Still everything looks most hopeful, as compared with the state of things which existed here when I first came to Ningpo, more than twenty years ago ; and it is my firm conviction that twenty years hence will see marvellous changes in China in a Missionary point of view, if not also throughout the whole Mission field. Everything everywhere seems to me to indicate the speedy and general downfall of idolatry, and the general adoption of Christianity by the inhabitants of our world. May God indeed grant that this may be so !

HANG-CHOW.

Alone in this populous city, and engaged in acquiring the language, the Rev. H. Gretton has found many difficulties in guiding the little Christian community. Two of the converts having proved inconsistent, their separation from the Native Christians was inevitable. Dissension arose, but the diminution of numbers will conduce to the strength of those who still remain. Mr. Gretton thus concludes in reference to the experience of this trying year :—

On the whole I think we may take courage. The work may appear to a casual observer to have gone back instead of making progress, but I feel sure that it is a backward step that was needed, and will I trust only help to give us an increased impetus in a forward direction. I have felt the difficulty of my position, placed here alone, and not knowing the language, so at least as to be able to speak with ease and fluency ; but this is a difficulty that frequently happens in the Mission field. I trust that ere long the Committee may be able to send out help. This vast empire has claims on the Christians at home which are but inadequately recognised ; could the vastness of the field and the paucity of labourers be fully realized we should see more offering themselves for the work in China.

May the Lord of the harvest open the hearts of His people in England to be more active in spreading the Gospel among the heathen in this land !

PEKING.

Preparation for effective future labour occupies the Missionaries in this great city. A Mission chapel has been erected during the year. While much of the Rev. J. S. Burdon's time has been devoted to the translation of the Scriptures and religious books into the language of Peking, he has also given special attention to the instruction of youths likely to become useful in the Mission. These duties, together with an account of a confirmation held in Peking are described by Mr. Burdon :—

The work of translation takes up, as you are aware, most of my time from day to day. As the translation of the New Testament is being done by a Committee, it gets on more slowly than if it were the work of one man. In addition to the time spent by each of us in his own study on the translation, the text of every verse separately is settled in Committee. It is this last process that lengthens out the time, though it is essential to the good execution of the work. Some days, though our sittings last four hours, we settle the text of but three or four verses. Still we are advancing, and I look forward to the completion of the work within next year. We are now on the Epistle to the Colossians. Each book of the New Testament is printed as it is finished.

I am also engaged on the translation of the books that are very necessary to us in carrying on our work, but the translation of the New Testament takes up so much time that I find it hard to bring them to a completion.

I now advert to the work of teaching. The pupils in my school require and obtain daily attention from me. I give them an hour of Bible instruction every morning. This I consider very important, as four of them are young men rather than boys, their age varying from sixteen to twenty-four. Three of the latter were baptized and confirmed lately during a short visit paid us by the Bishop. They had long ago applied for baptism and had been for months instructed with reference to it. I had always intended to baptize them, if they went on satisfactorily, on the completion of my new chapel, and the visit of the Bishop just about the time that it was finished presented a good opportunity of carrying out the intention. They, with four others prepared by the Rev. W. H. Collins, were baptized on the 17th of October in Mr. Collins's new chapel, and on the following Sunday they were confirmed by the Bishop in my chapel. It was the first time that a public Christian service had been held in either building, and both services were therefore peculiarly interesting both to Mr. Collins and myself. On each occasion the Bishop gave a simple, earnest address, which was interpreted, sentence by sentence, as he delivered it. When the candidates for confirmation (twelve in number) came up to be confirmed, the Bishop laid his hand on the head of each, repeating the prayer in English, and while he still continued in the same position, I repeated the prayer in Chinese. It was a solemn and impressive service and I hope much good will yet spring from it. At the conclusion of the confirmation, the Holy Communion was administered.

Slowly as the Gospel seems to have advanced in this vast heathen city, the review of the last six years affords encouragement to those who have undertaken to hold forth the word of life in this region of spiritual darkness and death:—

When I entered the capital of China six years ago there was no Protestant Missionary, no Mission school, no Christian congregation,

no chapel, no public preaching of God's Word. Now it is very different, though far from what we would like to see. There are at present nine or ten Protestant Missionaries, seven or eight Mission schools for boys and girls, about the same number of chapels in which the Gospel is preached either daily to the heathen or on Sunday to small Christian congregations. The New Testament and other books are being translated into the spoken tongue of this people, and are being circulated amongst them, and so the truths of the Bible are being told both on the printed page and by the living voice. A good number of Natives have been baptized here in the various Missions and some give fair promise of becoming one day, efficient helpers in the work. All this is encouraging where there is much to discourage. It is the day of small things I admit, but where was ever an enterprise such as ours commenced without its day—sometimes a long one—of small things? There was a time when the followers of Jesus could all be gathered together in an upper room in Jerusalem. It would now take a large number of "upper rooms" to contain all Christ's faithful followers in a small village in England and many another land. And what has taken place in western lands will yet take place in China.

land.

WAR is still the bitter portion of the New Zealand colony. The smouldering embers of Maori hostility have been fiercely enkindled by the landing on the East Coast of the prisoners escaped from the Chatham Islands, and on the West Coast a daring Maori leader has driven the colonists in terror from a tract of country lately occupied. The horrible massacre at Poverty Bay seems rather to have been directed against colonists than Missionaries. While, therefore, the "rumour of oppression and deceit, of unsuccessful or successful war," still falls upon the "pained ear" of British Christians, the security of the Missionaries and the state of the Mission deserve attention. Some of the European Missionaries have visited the most disturbed districts, and have found the Natives ready to listen to the Gospel, while the ordained Natives have sustained the work of God with energy and fidelity. Although the Native mind has been much excited by the distracted state of the country, yet the Rev. T. S. Grace has been able to make four journeys into the interior, and to assemble the Natives for spiritual instruction. Kindness was shown to him as the messenger of the Gospel, not only by Natives who acknowledged the English Queen, but also by those who espoused the cause of the Maori King. Indeed, signs of a spiritual revival of true religion have been discernible almost in every direction; and had not war, with its innumerable evil influences, again raged, there is reason to believe that the spiritual improvement would have been marked and manifest. In one district the Natives have, within the year, raised a new Mission chapel, at a cost to themselves of 150*l*. In another there are 300 communicants and fifty Native Teachers, who render voluntary, hearty and effective aid in the Mission work. An aged chief, who had long halted between two opinions, and who had, during many years, regularly attended the ministry of the late Archdeacon Henry Williams, but had never advanced beyond this tacit assent to Christianity, has now declared boldly and distinctly in favour of the Gospel. Engaged in a quarrel when the Archdeacon died, he suspended hostilities between the death and the funeral of the Missionary. He then announced that he had resolved to be a soldier of Christ, and that he would fight no more in earthly battles. He sought earnestly for Christian instruction, and has, by baptism, been added to the Maori Church in its day of trial and tribulation. His knowledge, though not extensive, was found to be distinct, as is indicated by his reply to some perplexing questions from his examiners. "You may puzzle me," said he, "by your questions; but one thing I know, Jesus Christ died upon the cross for my sins, and I depend upon Him."

In contrast with this living convert, so lately received into the fold of Christ's Church, stands the death of a Christian chief, long the faithful friend of the European. His last words were in harmony with his whole career, and showed how ardently he desired the peace of the country and the progress of the truth. Three hundred Europeans followed him to the grave, where his sorrowing brother leaned upon the silver-headed staff presented to him by the Queen of England.

The manner in which New Zealand Christianity has stood the severe trial of prolonged war is thus stated, at a Missionary meeting in his diocese, by the present Bishop of Lichfield:—

Testimony to the character of New Zealand Christianity.

The case of New Zealand was simply this: In 1814 the first Missionary Catechist went out, and when he (the Bishop) went there, a quarter of a century later, the greater part of the people of New Zealand had made a profession of Christianity. Then came the troubles which inevitably followed from the occupation of a country by a new race. It was always the case. Take the example of Scotland, the example of Wales, of Ireland, of Poland, Hungary, or any nation they liked, and they would find exactly the same circumstances: for a period, in some cases extending to fifty or a hundred years, in the case of Ireland to centuries, all the local grudges of past times were maintained; all the provocations, the aggressions, the spoliations, the dispossession of land, were remembered, and they witnessed Fenian insurrections and agrarian outrages, in which any one who was known to be the agent, the bailiff or the middle-man of one who had become the possessor of land which they thought was by right theirs, was marked by the descendants of those who had once possessed the land. Let them not, then, give way because of reports of outrages. There was the bounden duty of every Christian to spread the Gospel: whether God were pleased to give fruit for their work must be left entirely to Him. The result was not their's, but His; the work was their's. Let, then, the Missionary workers persevere, being assured that "in due time we shall reap, if we faint not." God's work could never fail; it had not failed in New Zealand. In the diocese of Bishop Williams there were ten more New Zealanders who had been ordained, and during the whole of the unhappy troubles not one of those ordained New Zealanders had swerved from his allegiance to Queen Victoria, or his faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. These would be accepted by workers at home in the Missionary cause as words of comfort and encouragement.

BAY OF ISLANDS.

Many hopeful signs are perceived by the Rev. E. B. Clarke. The Native Christians inquire earnestly for the Maori New Testament and Prayer-book. Christian marriage is anxiously sought, and drunkenness is less prevalent. Congregations and communicants are increasing. Mr. Clarke touches upon these subjects in connexion with the service rendered by a Native Minister:—

I must mention the good influence of my worthy Native coadjutor, the Rev. Matiu Taupaki. A large feast was given at Kawakawa last autumn, attended by about 700 people from all parts of the northern district: 80% were set apart for the purchase of drink. Matiu waited upon the chiefs who were giving the feast, and induced them not to have any at all. The consequence was, that the meeting, which had been looked forward to with considerable anxiety, passed off without any disturbance.

Again, the congregations throughout the district are increasing, Church as also the number of communicants. At Mangakaahia they have just completed a pretty little church at a cost of 300%, which I hope to have the privilege of opening next month. These are all promising and encouraging buds which are obvious to every one acquainted with these Natives. It is true that I cannot say much on the increase of spirituality, and advance in the Christian graces, but am thankful that the outward observances of religion are better attended to.

HAURAKI.

Natives conducting

Desire to find gold has suddenly brought a large number of Natives to this station. Vice and immorality seem to have followed the rapid acquisition of money. The Rev. G. Maunsell has therefore directed his energies more exclusively to the population immediately around him, and has thus been prevented from undertaking extensive itinerating preaching. Several Natives, who assisted the early Missionaries, now conduct Christian worship in districts which the Missionary can rarely reach. Mr. Maunsell's sphere of duty may be understood from his own account:—

The congregations here steadily keep up, though to many who attend church it is but the form of godliness. The numbers present vary very much according to the weather, but only once that I can remember was I without a congregation. The largest number that I have had present at one service has been 150. This is the largest Maori congregation that I have met since my return. So crowded was my little chapel, that I begin to contemplate enlarging it. About half the congregation were strangers from the Ngapuhi and Rarawa tribes, who have come to seek their fortune in our auriferous hills: they are chiefly young men, under the charge of steady elders of their own tribes. Some of them come a distance of fully five miles, their plan being to assemble from their various claims at certain central spots, and then come in a body to church. It is a happy thing that these young men do not allow themselves to be so absorbed by their pursuit of earthly wealth as to abandon the search after heavenly treasures.

KAITAIA.

Although this district has been disturbed by some isolated acts of cruelty, yet it has continued to a great extent exempt from the scourge of war. Some of the Natives who were attracted to the Thames gold fields, have maintained their Christian walk and conversation under circumstances of temptation. There are 300 Native Communicants in the Kaitaia district, which is under the charge of the Rev. J. Matthews, Mr. W. G. Puckey, and a Native deacon. The European Missionaries thus speak in their review of the year:—

The duties of the settlement and district have been attended to by us as usual. Divine service has been held twice on the Lord's-day, once for Natives and once for Europeans. We have also kept open the Sabbath school for all ages. We have had sometimes two services on the Sabbath for Natives. We have each visited the Natives at their villages on the Sabbath alternately, and we need not say that they are always glad to see us and welcome the preached word.

We thankfully acknowledge the gratuitous services of our teachers and monitors, about fifty in number, and we notice that when one is removed by death another steps forward and takes his place. A meeting for teachers has been held every Saturday, and with the usual interest and results: much good has been effected by these meetings. The weekly average attendance has been from five to fifteen.

The Holy Communion has been administered thirteen times at Kaitaia and in the district. We can report with gratitude that the communicants have been solemnly attentive and orderly. The number of communicants has been about 170. Owing to the very wet season and very bad roads, we have not yet been able to visit the more distant of our people.

We are thankful to state in this letter that our Native deacon at Oruru continues to go on well in his course, and his assistance in our district has been very valuable, and is much esteemed by the Natives near him. He has, we trust, found a good and educated wife in the widow of the late Rev. Rota Waitoa.

AUCKLAND.

The Rev. C. Baker has discharged at Auckland such spiritual duties as have been possible amid agitation and war. Natives have been visited in the stockade, the jail and the hospital. One Maori pupil has regularly received instruction from Mr. Baker in Auckland, and nine Maori communicants at the village of Orakei have had the advantage of his ministrations.

After thirty-six years' labour in this Mission, the Rev. B. Y. Ashwell continues to visit, from Auckland as a centre, Natives dwelling both north and south of that place. Compared with the spiritual success of former years, the present condition of the Maoris is discouraging. There is, however, evidence that the message of the Gospel has not been delivered in vain. Mr. Ashwell writes:—

I lately visited the Maori settlement of Te Muri, distant thirty-five miles north of Auckland. It contains about forty Natives. They have built a neat weather-boarded church, with pulpit, communion rails, seats and everything in order. Thirty-two well-dressed Natives attended service. All were attentive and thankful for my visit. After the service I catechized them, and was pleased with their knowledge of the Scriptures. Many of their children spoke English, and the teacher assured me that not one of their party drank ardent spirits or strong drinks. They requested me to visit them again and administer the Lord's Supper, which I purpose doing. There are about sixteen communicants.

TAUPO.

It has been already stated that visits to the interior have been made by the Rev. T. S. Grace, who, in the following terms, deplures the evils of renewed war, and adverts to his Missionary labours:—

I have been able during the year to make four journeys into the interior and on the coast, and must say that I have been thankful to find a slow but steady improvement. There is much to deplore, much to make the heart sad, at the same time some things to encourage, among both the Queenites and Kingites. I have seen that things are not what they were; in several instances where I could not arrange to stay a night, I found the people willing to lay aside their work and assemble for instruction in the middle of the day. I also met with much attention to my personal comforts in places and from parties where I had least reason to expect it.

The want of Native teachers is beginning more and more to be felt by many of the Natives themselves. Often, when inquiring as to whether they had resumed daily worship and reading of the Scriptures, I have been met with the remark that they had no minister or teacher.

On my last journey, at an out of the way village on the borders of a forest, I spent a Sunday, and between the services made inquiries respecting their former teacher, who, like many others, died of fever just as Hauhausism was becoming rampant, when I was pleased to learn that the poor fellow, when he found his end was drawing near, kept his Testament next to his heart, and was frequently reading it. Shortly before he died he told the people not to be sorry for him; that he was going to heaven, and that Jesus was taking him ("huhia," to cover up, protect) from the evil of the world, probably referring to the then growing Hauhausism.

II. Eastern District.

Six stations have been occupied in this district in the following chronological order—1. Tauranga, 1835; 2. Maketu, 1835; 3. Rotorua, 1835; 4. Turanga, 1840; 5. East Cape, 1842; 6. Wairoa, 1844.

The Bishop of Waiapu, writing immediately after the massacre at Poverty Bay, naturally looks back to the time when the Missionary pursued his peaceful and successful work among a people unaffected and undisturbed by temptations to worldliness and wealth. The Bishop's knowledge of the country has been gathered during forty-four years of active Missionary service, and he has been able personally to observe the changes which have occurred, and the causes from which they have arisen. Amid much conflict and confusion, he can with satisfaction speak of the labours of the Native Ministers :—

The papers will give an appalling account of the state of the Bishop of country, which is now worse than it has ever been before. When Waiapu's the seed is sown broad-cast it is no wonder if a plentiful crop remarks on shall spring up. The good seed of the Gospel was sown in this the Native country, and things seemed to prosper, until the enemy came upon the colonization of the country. It was the device of Satan to work through the agency of the evil examples of nominal Christians, and of temptation to worldliness, brought by the easy acquisition of property, and of that which money procures.

The present war on the West Coast, and the threatened hostilities at Waikato, are proceeding from the same cause. The hostile proceedings on the East Coast, and particularly at Poverty Bay, are for the purpose of obtaining revenge for the deaths of those who have fallen in the war. Matters are now becoming so serious, that I believe there is a growing feeling in the right direction. We have had a succession of alarming reverses, and it has seemed as though the hand of God was against us, and that it is incumbent upon us to humble ourselves before Him, and to seek His direction and blessing. A check has just been given, the first now after a long succession of reverses, but it is remarkable that it has been given by our friendly Natives. They, I believe, have gone forth as a body of Christian men, and would not, I am sure, pass a day without committing themselves to the protection of God, and seeking His blessing. In the massacre which has taken place at Poverty Bay, there is a large number of friendly Natives, many of them nearly related to the miscreant Kooti, who were butchered because they would not join the Hauhaus, but preferred to live as a Christian people. May God grant that this evil may be overruled for good. "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth."

With regard to the state of the population generally, I believe that if this unhappy contest were at an end we should soon have a improvement prevented by the New

great improvement. Even the Natives most alienated from us are heartily tired of the war, and would gladly come back again to that happy order of things which existed before the war. In the midst of these deadening influences the flame is still kept alive in various parts of the country. At Waiapu, and in villages to the south of it, are three Native Clergymen, whose congregations keep together, but at this time the people are for the most part in the field fighting in our behalf. At Poverty Bay, which has been the scene of the late disasters, it is remarkable that, a few weeks before this deadly attack, my son reported that the congregation at the old Church, which ought to have been over three hundred, but was usually under twenty, had all at once increased to ninety, and then on the following Sunday to a hundred and forty. It seemed as if a reaction were taking place; but now the best men have been cut off, and among them two Native teachers. At the village of Mohaka, and at various villages in the neighbourhood of Napier, the congregations meet as in old times. At one of these villages we have a Native Clergyman, the Rev. Raniera Wiki, and there are three villages anxious to have Clergymen, whom we are not able to provide.

It is not, however, all dark. We see many all over the country who are sincere worshippers of God. We have fourteen Native Clergymen who are faithful in their work, and we have the never failing promises of God, which we know will be fulfilled when God's appointed time shall arrive.

TAURANGA.

The sad story of war and desolation which pervades all intelligence from New Zealand is echoed by Archdeacon Brown and the two Native deacons who labour with him in this district. Violence and viciousness prevail, alike fostered by internecine war and wild fanaticism. As a contrast to this gloomy picture the following fact stated by the Archdeacon may be presented:—

The Native
Deacon acceptable to the Maori congregation.

A new chapel has been erected by the Natives of Maketu at a cost of 150*l.*, and my Native deacon has been favourably received by good congregations during four visits (occupying more than two months) which he has made to Matata, the Lakes, and other places in this district. In March, also, I assembled, during two or three weeks which I spent at Tarawera and the Lakes, larger congregations than I have met since the breaking out of the war.

ROTORUA, &c.

Travelling among a scattered and changing population, the Rev. S. M. Spencer has had ample opportunities for observing the disposition of the Natives amid the distractions which have marked the year. From the remarks of Mr. Spencer it would seem that there is great difficulty in assembling the Maoris for religious instruction, but that, when the opportunity is afforded, it is readily embraced:—

Notwithstanding the general neglect of religious ordinances, attributable, in a great measure, to the distracting effects of the war, in most cases the heads of families are prompt in presenting their children for baptism, and with few exceptions the people are devout and orderly whenever and wherever a party may be found assembled.

It is indeed difficult in these times of outward trouble and religious declension, to assemble any considerable number for Sabbath worship, but gregarious sympathies of a religious tendency are more particularly manifested on public works, which bring numbers together, and I have sometimes been cheered and interested to find them drawn up in quiet order as I came in sight, and requesting me to hold service with them.

TURANGA.

Mercifully preserved at the time of the Poverty Bay Massacre, Archdeacon W. L. Williams transmitted details of the atrocities then perpetrated. Considering the disturbing and distracting influence of the war, it is satisfactory to receive the subjoined account from Archdeacon Williams:—

In this immediate neighbourhood there has been a great increase in the numbers attending Divine Service on Sundays. In one place, where the average attendance last year was about twenty, there have been as many lately as one hundred and forty. It may help you to understand the actual state of things if I mention that, four years ago, three hundred or more was the usual congregation at the same place on a Sunday morning.

The different places to the north of this, as far as Hicks' Bay, have all exhibited, in a greater or less degree signs of improvement during the past year. Te Kawakawa, formerly the parish of the late Rev. Rota Waitoa, is at the present time under the care of Wirema Paraire, a candidate for ordination, who is to be admitted to deacon's orders as soon as arrangements can conveniently be made for so doing.

Tokomaru, which I mentioned last year as the darkest spot in the whole district, is now in a much more hopeful state. Early in the year, the people expressed a wish to have their old pastor, the Rev. Matiaha Pahewa, resident among them again; and in March they sent a deputation to fetch him. He is now living at Tangoiro, a village on this side of Tokomaru, among the best-disposed section of his former parishioners, and is I hope doing good work amongst them.

At Uawa, and other places on the coast, a strong determination has been expressed to commence at once raising an endowment fund, that they may be in a position to have a Clergyman constantly resident among them.

From Nukutaurua there have been urgent demands made for a Clergyman, an endowment having been already provided, but unfortunately there is no Clergyman available.

The last-named place is, as well as Mohaka, under the care of the Rev. Tamihana Huata. At the Wairoa there is, perhaps, less improvement than elsewhere. The tribe inhabiting the upper Wairoa under their chief, Te Waru, have never been in a satisfactory state, for the last four years, and now they have all joined the escaped prisoners. Some of them have been foremost in the commission of the late atrocities in this neighbourhood.

The present state of things here is gloomy enough ; but our trust is in God, who can and will, in His own good time, cause light to arise in the darkness, and under whose wise arrangement all things must work together for good to those that love Him.

III. Western District.

The district was first occupied by Archdeacon Hadfield in 1839. It now comprises five stations: 1. Wanganui, 1840; 2. Otaki, 1842; 3. Heretaunga, 1844; 4. Papawai (Palliser Bay), 1856; 5. Pipiriki, on the Wanganui river, 1856.

OTAKI.

The Missionary trusted, but the Colonist distrusted. In this district jealousy of the European seems largely to have taken possession of the Native mind. Archdeacon Hadfield, who has for more than thirty years sought to instruct the Maori in the Gospel, is personally held in esteem, but Europeans generally are distrusted. The Archdeacon thus states present difficulties and trials:—

It is simply impossible to carry out any plans for the extension of schools, or more united action in spreading religion, while men are kept in daily uncertainty whether they will not be compelled either to defend themselves or migrate to some other part of the island: such has been the state of the Natives in my district from the beginning of the year. There is, I believe, at the present moment, more suspicion of the white man's motives and designs than I ever noticed before. I cannot, therefore, notify any decided progress in my work in this district: still, I feel thankful to report that there has been no further falling off in the Sunday congregations during this year, and that my ministrations are received with the same readiness as in times past. There are Hauhaus in this district. On two occasions recently I had an opportunity of talking quietly with some of them. They assured me they had not abandoned their faith. They led me to understand that their dissent arose from their conviction that the object of the white man was to conquer and subdue them; and that Missionaries must be expected to sympathize with their own countrymen; that a Maori form of religion was therefore necessary for them. A rumour having arisen that I was about to leave the district, they strongly expressed a hope that nothing would induce me to do so.

I feel deeply convinced that the true remedy for the present distracted state of the Native Church is to prepare Natives to minister to congregations of their countrymen.

I have attended during the year to all the out-lying districts as heretofore.

WANGANUI.

"Trouble and anxiety" is the account from Wanganui. The successes of the Hauhaus enabled them almost to besiege the place, and the Rev. Basil K. Taylor found it difficult amid distraction, excitement and distress to continue his work; but in satisfactory contrast to the disheartening tidings of war and violence stands the narrative of the last hours of a New Zealand chief, whose faithfulness and friendship elicited the respect both of Europeans and Natives:—

I must say a few words on the death of our old chief Hori-Kingi, Funeral of one who has ever done his best to befriend the Europeans, and who a Christian accompanied Sir George Grey to the different parts during the last chief in campaign. He had been suffering some time from rheumatism and New Zealand large-paralysis, and gradually grew weaker, till on the 18th of September by attended he breathed his last, while Abraham and I were commending him by Europeans to the care of his Heavenly Father; indeed, so calmly and peacefully did his spirit take its flight, we scarcely knew when he was gone. His last words breathed the tenor of his life—anxiety for the welfare of his friends the Europeans, and the preservation of peace between the two races. The Europeans testified their sense of his worth and their loss by attending his funeral to the number of about 300, and showed every respect to his memory, the principal people in the place acting as his pall-bearers. It was quite touching to see the only surviving brother leaning over the grave on his silver-headed staff sent him by Her Majesty, bowed down with sorrow at his irreparable loss. Hori's wife died only a fortnight before him, after a short illness.

Privation and suffering in North-West America. MUCH privation and suffering have been endured at almost all the stations in North-west America. In some places the destitution has been very great, and the hearts of the Missionaries have been grieved by the sight of want and wretchedness which they had little power to alleviate.

has been added to the distress caused by the famine. But, amid all these trials and difficulties, the Mission has steadily advanced. In St. John's College Archdeacon McLean has succeeded beyond the most sanguine expectations formed in prosperous times. One student has been ordained during the year; but another, who gave promise of much spiritual usefulness among his countrymen, has been removed by death. At the Indian Settlement, the Native Pastorate, so successfully commenced last year, has been continued amid many indications of efficiency. After Missionary service in Rupert's Land during sixteen years, passed chiefly at the remote and difficult station of Fort Simpson, the Rev. W. W. Kirkby has returned for a time to England. In the Athabasca District the Rev. W. C. Bompas has, by frequent itineration among the Indians, counteracted the influence of the Romish Missions. At the distant Youcon the country-born Pastor is engaged, not only in preaching to the heathen, but also in ministering to Indians who are specially characterized as sound and simple Protestants.

The Bishop of Rupert's Land has recently visited the Moose District, and has expressed in strong terms his satisfaction with the Missionary operations of the Society. At Rupert's House a confirmation was held. There were seventy-eight candidates presented. On a subsequent review of this episcopal visit, the Bishop affirms that he had never confirmed any persons to whom "less opportunity for instruction had been afforded," and that he had never confirmed "with a more pleasing feeling that sufficient knowledge was possessed."

General distress, caused by famine, necessarily occupies a prominent place in the review of the Mission made by the Ven. Archdeacon Cowley, who has been long engaged in the Society's service, and who is now Secretary of the Mission. The Archdeacon is enabled to bear favourable testimony to the Native Pastorate at the Indian Settlement, commenced last year under the Rev. Henry Cochrane; and, amid commercial changes likely to affect the future of the country, can rejoice in thought that the influence of the Society's past efforts will be felt in the future history of the people:—

We are suffering from the effects of one of those terrible visitations of the Almighty with which His ancient people were familiar. "God brought grasshoppers upon the land, and they devoured the fruits of the ground." In the Indian Settlement there is not, perhaps, a single bushel of grain to be found, except what Mr. Cochrane or ourselves happen to have laid by in store long since. The rabbits are extremely few, and birds as an article of food cannot be mentioned. The "fall fisheries" were not very productive, and the buffalo have failed to be reached from this. Our people are now living upon their cattle, and the few fish that can be taken under the ice. The cattle will soon be consumed, and the future it is fearful to contemplate. Nor are the Indians alone in their distress; the whole Protestant settlement abounds with instances of great destitution, and among the Roman Catholics, always the poorest of the poor, I fear want is vastly intensified.

A general Relief Committee is actively engaged procuring, receiving and distributing food to the most necessitous, so as, if possible, to preserve life.

Successful
Native
Pastorate.

I am delighted in being able, after another year's experience, again to endorse my report of last year as to the success of the arrangement which constituted the Indian Settlement a regular parish, and appointed a Native Pastor to the charge. All the duties of the Ministry are performed in it in an evangelical spirit, and the congregation seems blessed of God. Mr. Cochrane, the Native Pastor, who is respected and beloved by his people, will report to you for that portion of the Indian Settlement which is assigned to him. I believe, however, that during the past year there has been the same amount of steady plodding labour for Christ as usual.

I.—RED RIVER DISTRICT.

ST. ANDREW'S.

At St. Andrew's, where the Rev. J. P. Gardiner labours, great distress has prevailed, for the most part among a European and country-born people. A tornado has added to the difficulties arising from scarcity and famine. The damage caused by the storm to the church and premises is estimated at 500*l*.

St. John's College.

To the success of the College, even in times of much depression and suffering, the Bishop of Rupert's Land thus refers:—

I rejoice to say that St. John's College is admirably succeeding. We cannot all feel too thankful. There were forty-two entered in the Collegiate School this term; a perfectly marvellous number considering our small population and our distressed condition as a settlement. Everything is of course owing to the ability, energy and faithfulness of the Warden. Deeply did I regret to hear in my wanderings of the death of George Prince, your most promising pure Indian scholar. Your senior Catechist, Baptiste Spence, has been ordained. The Warden is highly pleased with his conduct and thoroughly reliable character. He is also humble, pious, diligent, but it is difficult for him to acquire knowledge ; still I believe he will make a most useful Native Pastor. The Rev. G. Bruce, who is now with us preparing for Priests' Orders, has had charge of my parish of St. Paul's during my absence in the Moose District, under the general direction of Archdeacon McLean. He has given great satisfaction, and would make, I believe, an acceptable Minister in the Settlement. I am sure he will do credit to your Society and be very useful. He has improved greatly in every way.

INDIAN SETTLEMENT.

The Native Pastor, the Rev. H. Cochrane, has remained in charge at the Indian Settlement, and, while deploring the misconduct of some, is able to trace the evidences of spiritual life among others. The members of the Church are about 680, including about 170 communicants. Scarcity of food has injuriously affected the schools. While asking the promoters of Missions to pray that Native Ministers may obtain "a deep acquaintance with the mind of God and their own hearts," Mr. Cochrane speaks of the services for the living and of the testimony of those who have died in the faith of Christ :—

Although there is much in the conduct of some of our people during the past year which we cannot but deplore, there is also much cause for thankfulness, and proof that our labour has not been in vain in the Lord. Our Sunday school and services at the Upper School are always nicely attended. Yesterday I counted 175 old and young. From that I go down to the Lower School room, in which service generally commences about half-past five o'clock, and which is always crowded : very often many have to stand for want of room in the seats. This is the routine I pursue every Sunday, excepting the first Sunday afternoon of every month I go up to the Ven. Archdeacon Cowley's church. Among those departed this life in the faith and hope of the Gospel, it is impossible not to notice some who came to their graves in full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in season : such an one was Thomas Thomes, between 90 and 100 years of age, who fell asleep in Jesus last August. He was one of those who came from the sea coast, and among the first to embrace the religion of Jesus, and almost the last of his age to be taken away. Many of his children and grand-children went before him, and many other relatives whom I humbly trust are now in heaven with him, enjoying those satisfying pleasures which are at God's right hand for evermore. He was a Swampy Cree. The other, John Smith, an old star, a Saulteaux, was also an aged Christian who died peaceably and ripe for Jesus. After administering the Sacrament to him, he said, "Thank you, thank you ; it will not be long. Soon, soon I shall be with the Saviour."

Another, an aged woman, whose son is now preparing for the ministry, said, "This is what I have been watching for day and night in prayer. It is come at last." Many other, young and middle-aged, have given satisfactory proofs of their sincere interest in Jesus. I trust many have been added to the Church triumphant from this parish during the past year, among whom was dear George Prince, a promising young man, whom God, in His mysterious love, took to Himself instead of permitting him to labour among his countrymen. "His will be done."

Scanterbury.

The country-born Minister, the Rev. J. Settee, speaks of obstacles in the way of the heathen, arising from the conduct of professed Christians. Both the Native congregation and the school are small. Mr. Settee expresses his hope that the famine with which the land is afflicted may have a salutary influence in his district:—

The evil example set before them by those who profess and call themselves Christians has been a hindrance to the heathen. We fear in many instances that an evil example set before the heathen has done an immense injury to the cause of Christ, and much injustice to the poor red man. But my opinion is that now prospects are brightening. We trust that the famine in the land has reminded us that we have not done our duty, and may it lead us to humble ourselves before God.

LA PRAIRIE.

Famine, consequent upon the failure of the crops, has been added to the difficulties already sufficiently numerous at this station. The heathen are demoralized by the introduction of intoxicating liquors, but the Native Christians, about 200 in number, inclusive of 50 communicants, constitute an influential leaven of consistent Christianity. The "Parish Library," and the "Mutual Improvement Society," have become successfully established in the little Christian community.

LANSDOWNE.

Difficulties arising from the interference of the Indians. While the Rev. R. Phair can announce less mortality from epidemic disease, he is compelled to record that drunkenness still exercises a potent influence over the Indians under his charge. The food raised with much labour by tillage is foolishly exchanged for intoxicating drinks when the trader visits the station. Dark as is this picture, the

Amidst all that appears adverse and discouraging in my district, there is yet something to cheer one a little, especially when I survey the whole period of my stay among them. Heathenism has certainly a much slighter hold now upon the people than when I first came. The medicine men, who at first delighted in opposing in every possible way, can deceive the people no longer as they did : on the contrary, they themselves come to me for medicine when visited by sickness.

II.—MANITOBA DISTRICT.

FAIRFORD.

Amid much of a disheartening character, the Rev. D. B. Hale discerns signs of spiritual vitality among the Indians. The duties are pastoral rather than Missionary. There has been an improved attendance at Sunday services and schools, both at Fairford and Manitoba. Bible classes and catechetical meetings at the former place are thus noticed :—

Our adult Bible classes give me much encouragement, and the tone of a religious feeling among the majority of the members, is certainly becoming healthier. In connexion with these classes I have, on alternate Sunday afternoons, a catechetical meeting in church. There is no part of the work of which I am more hopeful, or upon which God's blessing more manifestly rests. The attendance on "question Sundays" is always large, and a most pleasing interest is taken in the service. The answers, which must be corroborated by a quotation from Scripture, point, as a whole, to a very intelligent study of the lesson ; and the eagerness with which the proofs are searched for, and the intense effort made to read well and without mistake, is very gratifying.

III.—CUMBERLAND DISTRICT.

DEVON.

Although still called to pass through the furnace of domestic affliction, the Rev. H. Budd has been enabled to minister to the scattered people around him. His Mission duties and domestic sorrows are thus mentioned in his last letter :—

We have no heathen Indians at all at Devon, and very few about Cumberland House, but at the Nepowewin, the utmost extremity of the Cumberland district, and at Moose Lake and the Grand Rapids, there are still many heathen.

Ministerial labours and domestic sorrows of
Rev. H.
Budd.

I have now had time to test the real work of grace in the lives and conduct of the Devon Indians, and I thank God that there is an evident progress of the work of God's Holy Spirit in them. To use their own emphatic expression, "We have seen and understood very partially, like people looking at objects in the glimmering of day; but now we trust we see and understand more clearly. It is like clear day with us now." This is their own testimony as to the progressive state of the Divine life within them. They have certainly improved in spiritual things: so far as man can judge most of them are living Christians. But their advancement in temporal things, I must confess, has been very small, at least so far as the comforts of civilized life goes. They have followed too much the old way of living, forsaking their houses and farms, and taking to the hunting fires and living on the chase. They are much poorer now in houses, cattle and fields of potatoes than they were fifteen years ago. However, they are resolved to try and redeem the time they have lost, and attend more regularly to the cultivation of the soil, renew their houses, live in them, and keep cattle. About half a dozen houses are being put up this summer to be occupied next winter, and others will get their house timber cut this next winter, and there may be, I hope, other half-dozen houses put up next summer. Thus, with perseverance, they may be able to come back to their former state. One great drawback with them is that there has been much sickness among them since the middle of March last, and this has in a great measure retarded their efforts. Most of the old people, especially the old men, have been carried away by the disease. Most of these I have seen on their death-bed, and have witnessed the peace and child-like meekness which attended them to the valley and shadow of death. We have endeavoured to improve their death to the good of us all. I have much reason to be thankful that, though I have been much about the sick and dying, I have been mercifully spared, and the epidemic has not been allowed to enter my dwelling as yet; and I bless God that my own personal growth in grace has been much stimulated by personal conversation with the sick and dying. Many a time, coming home in the dark night to my own cheerless home, with not a living soul to cheer it, from the dying bed of a Christian brother, I have been enabled to say, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless His holy name."

My own personal afflictions and family bereavements, which have again been sent by the gracious hand of an unerring Father, have, I trust, by the grace of God, been sanctified to my good. Another dear boy, just blooming into life, full of youthful vigour, has been taken away from this world of sin and sorrow to bloom in the atmosphere of heaven. Mysterious indeed are the ways of God's providence! This is now the fourth child that I have lost while being educated in that school, St. John's. They have all been pro-missing, and had a prospect of being useful to the Church in their day. But God has seen it fit to take them away in their youth. I am thankful, most heartily thankful, that the Bishop of Rupert's Land and Archdeacon McLean have been enabled to give such a hopeful account of the dear boy's last hours, and I trust, by His grace, I can resign all to Him with "It is the Lord, let Him do what seemeth Him good."

IV.—ENGLISH RIVER DISTRICT.

STANLEY.

The Country-born minister, the Rev. J. A. Mackay, finds the people under his care ready to render assistance in the Mission. Little has occurred to vary the usual routine duties of the station. The agent of the Church of Rome is zealous and active, but the Protestant Missionary has maintained his ground.

V.—JAMES' BAY DISTRICT.

MOOSE FORT.

Famine and distress have reached this remote district, and the heart of the Missionary, the Rev. J. Horden, has been grieved by the sight of the sufferings endured by his people. On the other hand, a large harvest of spiritual blessing has been reaped. The Rev. T. Vincent, the Country-born Minister, has successfully laboured at Albany. Mr. Horden's review of the past year will be read with much interest:—

Spiritual
harvest in the Moose District.

In spiritual matters God has largely vouchsafed us His blessing, and perhaps, taking all things together, scarcely ever more so in any preceding year. The early part of it I was fully engaged here at Moose, principally in tuition, and in the regular routine of the Mission; our school was large, and the attendance of the scholars all that I could desire, while the number of adults who place themselves under instruction was very large; our school this winter is somewhat larger, still embracing, as it does, every child residing at the place, and the number of adults is fully maintained, while our church services are very well attended.

I had hoped to proceed to Rupert's House early in June, but expecting our good Bishop, I waited until his Lordship's arrival, and then set off with him to that post. Our journey thither was most pleasant, and most expeditiously performed, and our sojourn there all that could have been desired. Our labour was heavy, but very satisfactory, and I think his Lordship was even more than pleased at the proficiency and knowledge of the Indians; seventy-eight were confirmed—twenty-two approached the Table of the Lord. We afterwards went to Albany, where seventy-five were confirmed, while at Moose forty-three were confirmed, a large number, considering that this was the fourth confirmation.

VI.—YORK FACTORY DISTRICT.

The aspect of the work has remained unchanged at York, but the prospects at Churchill and the Severn cause some anxiety. Death has removed many Indians from the latter out-station, and the former is threatened with a visitation of Romish Priests who have established themselves at Deer Lake.

At York there are more than fifty communicants, and the Christian Indians generally seem to be growing in grace, and in the knowledge of their Lord and Saviour.

After mentioning the state of the congregations and school, the Rev. W. Mason speaks of the study of the Bible in the syllabic character by some Trout Lake Indians, whose sad condition calls for the presence of the Missionary:—

This Mission presents the same general features as formerly. The Christian Indians continue uniform in their conduct, manifesting a steady and, I trust, a growing love to the Saviour; by a regular attendance on the means of grace—devoutly worshipping God both in public and private—daily perusing His Holy Word and singing His praises.

The house of God has been during the whole year well attended by the Indians. The contributions of the poor Indians to the self-supporting fund have considerably increased, women and children taking an interest in giving something to the good cause as well as the men.

Trout Lake has never been visited by any European Missionary, yet a goodly number there are to be seen reading and studying their Bibles and Prayer-books, a knowledge of which they have obtained through the means of the syllabic characters.

Some continue their heathen customs, although they read the Scriptures. The rest are entirely heathen.

A family this spring turned cannibals, and, after eating the father, who died through starvation, the children were devoured. Two only survived, who were murdered by the heathen Trout Lake Indians when a knowledge of the two women being cannibals was known. “The dark places of the earth are full of the habitations of cruelty.”

Exhortations delivered by converted Indians to their countrymen are thus noticed by Mr. Mason in his Journal:—

Sunday was a beautiful morning, and I rose with happy feelings, anticipating the holy duties and enjoyments of this sacred day of rest.

Attended the early service conducted by a converted Indian, who read the Litany and the first chapter of Genesis, on which he founded his address to fifty of his countrymen. He urged upon his brethren a perfect trust and confidence in God through Christ. Converted Indians preaching to their countrymen.

Another convert gave us an eloquent discourse in Cree. He is a good speaker and Indian orator. He is one of my sons in the Gospel, being brought to a knowledge of the truth under my ministry during my first visits to Oxford, where I baptized him and his family.

VII.—MACKENZIE RIVER DISTRICT.

FORT SIMPSON.

After sixteen years' Missionary service in Rupert's Land, passed chiefly in the remote and difficult station of Fort Simpson, the Rev. W. W. Kirkby returned to England in October. The Rev. W. C. Bompas has, during Mr. Kirkby's absence, occupied the post, which is one of much difficulty and trial, not only from the indifference and migratory habits of the Indian tribes, but also from the activity and strength of the Romanist Missions.

THE YOUCON.

The account of the Rev. R. M'Donald's proceedings for the year having arrived too late for this Report, it is not possible to furnish any details.

ATHABASCA LAKE.

The Church of Rome is steadily and vigilantly at work in this district, in which the Rev. W. C. Bompas has laboured during the past year. It will be seen from his statements that there are advantages for creating a permanent Mission:—

My labours here during the past year have been quite of a preliminary character, with the view of reporting on the advisability of forming a station in the district. This course appears to me much called for. This is, so far as I am aware, the only district in the country that is quite neglected, and its non-occupation rendered quite isolated our remote Missions on the Mackenzie and Youcon rivers, while a station here would link the chain of Missionary influence throughout the whole breadth of this vast territory.

We have at this post Indians that have been brought up in the Mission schools at Red River and the neighbourhood, who are now married and with families, and who in their education, habit of life and deportment, do great credit to their instructors. The seed sown at Red River is thus bearing fruit at a distance of more than 1000 miles. Of the sixty Protestants in this district only three are Europeans, so that the Christianity is quite indigenous; and in some instances those of pure Indian blood, in their habits and deportment, cannot be at all distinguished from those of European descent.

SARNIA.

Gospel
preached to the Indians
in Canada.

With a view to making known the Gospel to the Indians scattered on the Reserved lands assigned to them by the Canadian Government, and for the purpose of preparing a Native Agency, which, extending its Missionary efforts North and West, may ultimately join the Red River Settlement, the services of the Rev. E. F. Wilson, son of the Vicar of Islington, have been secured by the Committee.

Mr. Wilson had, prior to his engagement with the Society, visited the Indians in Upper Canada and made some progress in the acquisition of their language. The rapid advance already made will be gathered from his own account of operations:—

Description of the Indian Settlement at Sarnia.

On the banks of the broad River St. Clair, near the Town of Sarnia, Canada West, is an Indian Settlement, extending over some seven or eight thousand acres, and occupied by some four hundred or more Chippeway Indians. The shore of the river is fringed with their little fishing shanties, netting apparatus, and canoes; and back from the river extends the wild bush for many a mile, dotted here and there with little log huts, each with a small clearing round it, cultivated more or less, according to the industry and perseverance of the owner. The bush is wild in the extreme:—deep-rutted wheel tracks the only apology for roads, these often rendered impassable by fallen trees, or in rainy weather lying completely under water. On all sides rise gaunt and naked stems, spreading out their huge arms over the saplings and underwood which, sprouting up beneath, form a forest of themselves.

It is on this spot,—high up on the bank of the beautiful St. Clair River,—that the first signs of this new Mission are now to be seen: a neat little church, with four wooden walls, a tiny bell tower, and five little windows; and by its side the Mission house, a comfortable eight-roomed wooden cottage, with stable behind, and a plot of bare ground in front, intended one day to become a model garden.

Here are the head-quarters of the new Mission,—a Mission destined in the course of time, with God's blessing, and under His special guidance, to strike its roots deep into the soil that has received it.

Our progress so far is certainly a matter of deep thankfulness to God, who has thus opened our way and made plain our path. We came to this Mission on the 15th of August last (1868), and at that time had only a little log-hut to hold our services in, and a congregation of from fifteen to twenty; but warm hearts and willing hands can with God's blessing accomplish great things. Indians set to work with their hands, and white friends contributed freely from their purses, and the result is, that we now have our comfortable little church and snug parsonage, within six months,—built, finished, and in use. When we commenced to build in the middle of September last, we had not a penny to meet the expense; now, under God's blessing, nearly the whole is paid for, and money is still coming in.

Our ordinary routine of work among the people consists at present of two services every Sunday in our little church, a Bible class and Sunday school; and on the week day a prayer meeting, which is held at one or another of the Indians' log-huts every Friday afternoon.

Then in addition to our Sarnia Mission, we have an out-station thirty miles distant, called Kettle Point, to which a visit is paid once a month. At this station there are about one hundred Indians, and we have just settled a Native Catechist among them, who conducts service on the Sunday, and teaches school during the week. There is at present no regular school-house, and the children are taught in a little temporary building, which is very small. The Indians, however, are quite stirred up to the work, and are at the present time cutting down trees with which to build a school. The two principal men at this place are still pagans, but they take a lively interest in our efforts for their good, and have already presented their families for baptism.

ing resting on Metlahkatlah.

The dew of Divine blessing still seems to rest, like the dew on Gideon's fleece, upon the Christian village of Metlahkatlah, but the adjacent wilderness is not altogether spiritually arid. Heathen tribes, impressed with the blessings enjoyed by the Christian settlement, ask that the preacher of the Gospel may dwell among them. Natives who visit Metlahkatlah to carry on trade, and who have hitherto been reluctant even to hear the voice of the Christian preacher, are now ready to listen, either to the Missionary or his Native Teachers, when the business of the day is done. His Excellency Governor Seymour represented in his despatches to the Duke of Buckingham, as Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies, the prosperity and progress of Metlahkatlah, and His Grace expressed through the Governor the gratification with which he regarded the Mission Settlement. The scene on which the eye of the successful Missionary now rests on the morning of the Sabbath, when the old and the young, the heathen murderer of a former day, and the Christian child of the present time, together wend their way to the House of God, is graphically sketched by Mr. Duncan, who adverts also to the manner in which the Christians have spontaneously sought to increase their knowledge of the Scriptures:—

Scene on a Sabbath morning at Metlahkat-
lah.

Our Sunday services continue to be well attended and almost invariably to include numbers of visitors from surrounding heathen tribes. I cannot but be cheered to see the crowds that flock to hear God's Word, and especially so when I reflect who they are that compose those crowds. Lately, on a Sabbath morn, as I looked out of my room window when the bell was ringing for church, what my eye saw filled my cup to overflowing, and raised my heart to God in adoring gratitude. First, there was a very aged woman, staff in hand, stepping with such solemn earnestness. After her came one that had been a very notorious gambler, though now almost crippled with disease, yet he seemed to be forgetting infirmity, and literally to be leaping along. Next followed a once dissipated youth, now reclaimed, and after him a Chief who had dared, a few years ago, proudly to lift up his hand to stop the work of God, now with humble mien wending his way to worship. Then came a once still more haughty man of rank, and after him a mother, carrying her infant child, and a father leading his infant son; a grandmother, with more than a mother's care, watching the steps of her little grandson. Then followed a widow, then a young woman that had been snatched from the jaws of infamy. After them came a once roving spirit, now meek and settled; then there followed a once notorious thief, and the last I reflected upon was a man walking with solemn gait, yet hope fixed in his look. When a heathen he was a murderer. He had murdered his own wife and burnt her to ashes. What are all these now, I thought, and the crowds that accompany them? Whither are they going, and what to do? Blessed sight for angels! Oh the preciousness of a Saviour's blood! If there is joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, with what delight must angels gaze on such a sight as this. I felt such a flow of gratitude to God come over me. My heart was stirred within me, for who could have joined such a congregation as this in worship and have been cold? And who could have preached the Gospel to such a people and not have felt he was standing where God was working.

A very encouraging and hopeful movement has developed itself during the past year. After each service on the Sunday, most of the young and middle-aged Indians reassemble for reading the Scriptures. The adult males, numbering about one hundred, are superintended by four Native teachers, and the females who assemble in separate houses are taught by the young women who have passed through a course of training in the Mission house. All the teachers come to me at the close of each service for special instruction for a few minutes. They then proceed to the several classes. All read over carefully the text—translate it word by word—simple comments or addresses are offered by the teachers, concluding with singing and prayer.

This is a spontaneous and to me a very pleasing movement, and through it I hope and pray God will put forward those of the Natives to whom the Ministry of His word may be entrusted. One of the teachers, Samuel Marsden, a very consistent and energetic Christian young man, already feels himself called upon to give himself up to God's work, and is asking to be taken into the staff of the Mission. I contemplate engaging him soon; and at no very distant period, I hope, through God's help and blessing, to be able to place Native teachers in several of the heathen tribes around us. Many of the tribes are stretching out their hands for help, and God seems preparing His servants at Metlahkatlah to carry it to them. The accomplishment of this plan, I regard as the next great step to be taken in the affairs of this Mission.

Already the Native teacher of Metlahkatlah is found at the utmost limits of British Dominion, as will be seen from the appended account of the manner in which the Christian camp.

Indian, engaged as an interpreter to a surveying expedition, conducted Divine service on Sunday. The description is given by a Naval officer, not by the Missionary :—

We pitched our tent near the camp on the Saturday ; and on Sunday, Thomas, our interpreter, a Christian Indian from Metlahkathah, held Divine service, morning, afternoon and evening. Thomas had a fluency of language that must have astonished the Natives. The singing was very good, the female voices especially ; but the smoke of an Indian house in which salmon was being dried, being anything but conducive to comfort, and our knowledge of Tsimshian being very limited, detracted somewhat from our pleasant participation in the interesting ceremony. We suppose, that Thomas must take to himself the credit of being the first who taught Christianity at the end of British Dominion ; we were then camped on the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia, and it was quite a different matter to preaching the Gospel in a snug house at Metlahkatlah, which was then about 130 miles away to the southward.

The latest intelligence received from Metlahkatlah seems to show that the converts are “growing in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.” Mr. Duncan thus speaks of the little Christian flock under his charge :—

My people were never more affectionate and obedient than at present, and I have good reason to take courage and press on vigorously.

On landing here from my recent visit to Victoria, the people rushed down to the boat, and greeted me so warmly, that a stranger—a gentleman who landed with me—exclaimed :—“Well, Mr. Duncan, no wonder you were so anxious to get back here ;” and at our midnight meeting a few nights ago, my people surrounded me in the church, and would not leave till every one had pressed my hand, which they seized with such earnestness and looks of affection as completely overpowered me.

God's Word

I rejoice even more to say that their relish for God's Word is on the increase. I have upwards of 400 at each service, and always some strangers present. Crowds of adults flock to the Sunday school, and literally spend the day pondering over God's Word.

The Missionary pioneer in the Pacific.

The endeavour to repeat the success obtained at Metlahkatlah is steadily made by the Rev. R. Tomlinson, from whose journal a few words are extracted, showing the rough life of a Missionary pioneer in the wilderness :—

We have made considerable progress with the school house, though we were only able to work at times, as the weather was so unsettled. Sometimes we have been obliged to knock off before noon, the snow was falling so fast. Many of the days in November when we were at work the snow was nearly up to our knees, but once it became so very heavy that it was impossible to see clearly what we were doing.

We have been at work on the school house, though we were obliged to use the pickaxe to remove the large blocks of ice and snow.

Everything is often frozen hard : warm water freezes in my basin in a quarter of an hour. I have been very anxious to have two large trees behind the house cut down, but the continuance of northerly winds prevented me for a time from carrying out my wish. On a calm day I set two boys to cut down the largest. They had almost completed their task, when a sudden gust of wind brought the tree down on the roof of the house just over my rooms. Of course this portion of the roof was completely smashed in ; but though my two rooms were left unroofed and full of débris, no further harm was done. That night I was left without any roof over me, except the canvass tent, which only partially answered the purpose. Though the frost was intense, I thank God that I suffered no harm.

CONCLUSION.

Seventieth year completed in strength and vigour. THE Society completes its seventieth year in strength and vigour. Born in a day marked by the recognition and revival of the principles of the blessed Reformation, it rose during half the period of its present life to a high and strong position in the hearts of earnest Protestant Churchmen. Then the "enemy came in like a flood." A Romeward movement commenced within the Church. As soon as the tide of Romish tendency had ebbed, the deadening influence of a Rationalistic reaction threatened a paralysis of faith and zeal.

Dangers already encountered. The chilling frigidity of Rationalism is now less prominent than the captivating frenzy of Ritualism; but as Romish doctrine is declared to be expressed by Ritualistic symbolism, and as Rationalistic scepticism still widely prevails, the Society, supported by the defenders of the "faith once delivered to the saints," is necessarily impeded by these systems and speculations, which are at once departures from the teaching of revealed truth and from the Articles of the Reformed Church.

But "none of these things have moved" the Society from its high purpose and great mission. The excrescences have disfigured the body of the Church, but have not disturbed the action of the sound Protestant heart of the country. Even the thoughtful heathen can discern the feebleness and folly of the last developement of error. "I have," said a learned Hindu in Calcutta, after reading a pamphlet presenting sacramental theories and sacerdotal pretensions in a Ritualistic garb, "I have studied the Bible and held converse with Christian Missionaries. My regard for Christianity has been growing up to this time; but, if this pamphlet be a true representation of Christianity, I can only say, let me rather die a Hindu than perish a Christian idolater."

Dangers to be encountered. But while impotent to bless, the system may be potent in depriving of blessing. Gross idolatry at Bethel diminished the true worship at Jerusalem. Hence the necessity for vigilance and vigour. Conscious of the dangers and difficulties of the present day, the Committee urge, with all the emphasis and earnestness which language can express, a more perfect organization of the Associations throughout the country. The time has arrived when the Society's friends may be found in almost every parish, hamlet and house, but amid the manifold engagements and excitements of life, much pecuniary help, ranging from the pence of the poor to the gold of the rich, is not gathered into the Society's treasury. The active Christianity of the day gives increased facilities for the collection of subscriptions from every class, and the Committee would most earnestly and especially entreat their clerical friends to organize and direct a movement to enlist deeper sympathy and secure greater support throughout the country.

The encouragements to discharge the steady, stern duty of collecting funds are such as never before existed. If, in some measure and for a time, it may be said that the "light is darkened in the heavens" of the Church at home, yet the "light of the glorious Gospel of Christ" shines with clear radiance in heathen lands. Western Africa exhibits rather a Church than a Mission. The infant Church in the Yoruba country has risen from its ruins, but not even one stone has been touched by the European Missionary. The Niger Mission has successfully endured persecution, and will soon be strengthened by additional Native Pastors. The great reflux wave which now carries back Christianity from the West to the East, flows with a quickening power over the long barren soil of Palestine. In China the converts multiply, notwithstanding the jealous prejudices of the ignorant and the active persecution of the learned. The Native Churches in South India "lengthen their cords and strengthen their stakes." In North India the Christian Ministry receives within a single year the learned Moslem convert and the simple Missionary Catechist. Indeed the Native Ministry may well be adopted as the measure of Missionary success. Within the year it has increased thirty per cent. The ordained Natives, differing much in race, language and country, are about 120 in number. Vividly does the picture of Missionary labour in the very earliest days of the Gospel rise before the mind. The words seem to fall on the ear, "the number of the names together were about 120." Here, however, the parallel ceases, for while the Scripture record is concerning disciples in the city of Jerusalem, the Missionary statement is concerning Ministers in "the uttermost parts of the earth." These Jerusalem disciples might possibly be the poor saints for whom St. Paul collected contributions; but the Native Ministers stand forth in the Missions of our day, largely supported by their own people.

Such is the encouragement God has given. Such is the ground on which the Committee ask for steady, systematic support in days of difficulty.

Thus is the doctrine of Christ crucified now widely preached, not only by European Missionaries, but by Native Pastors. Standing beneath the cross, listening to the plaintive and prophetic words of the Psalmist, "they pierced my hands and my feet," and surveying from Calvary's Mount the present aspect of the Mission field, the ear seems to catch the sound of other words of the same Psalm, blended together in one voice of prophecy and promise, "All the ends of the world shall remember themselves, and be turned unto the Lord; and all the kindreds of the nations shall worship before Him."

PROPER FORM OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

No. I.—Form of Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of Pounds free of Legacy duty* for the general purposes of the said Society to be paid within calendar months next after my death, exclusively out of such part of my Personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may be bequeathed for charitable purposes and in priority to all other payments thereout but to be subject to abate proportionably with other Legacies in case my general Personal Estate shall be insufficient for payment of them all in full. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society [or each of the said Societies] shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy [or Legacies respectively].

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue, or a Share of the Residue.

And in order to give full effect to the bequest hereinafter contained for charitable purposes I direct that my Debts, the expenses of my funeral and of the probate and execution of this my Will and the Legacies bequeathed by this my Will or any Codicil thereto shall be paid out of such part of my personal Estate as by the Laws in force at my death may not be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the primary Fund; and in case only of the same being insufficient for payment thereof then out of such part of my personal Estate as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes as the ultimate Fund; and subject as aforesaid, I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, for the general purposes of the said Society, such part of my residuary personal Estate as by the Laws in force may be bequeathed for charitable purposes [or if a share only of the residue be intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say, "such sum of money as shall be equal to one-fourth or one-half, (according to the intention) of my whole residuary personal Estate to be paid exclusively out of such part thereof as may be bequeathed for charitable purposes or such less sum as the said last mentioned part of my personal Estate will extend to pay"]. And I declare that the Receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said residue [or sum of money, as the case may be]. And as to the remainder if any of my general residuary personal Estate I bequeath the same, &c.†

‡ If it be intended also to charge the Debts and Legacies on real Estate, then add "and in the next place out of my Freehold and Copyhold Estates."

§ The latter Clause to be filled up according to the Testator's wishes; but it must not be for any charitable purpose.

* This mark * denotes that the Sermon was preached at St. Ann's, Blackfriars; this †, that it was preached at St. Bride's, Fleet Street; the Twenty-third was preached at Christ Church, Newgate Street; the Thirty-first at St. Sepulchre's; the Thirty-second at St. Clement Danes; and the Thirty-third at St. Andrew's, Holborn.

The Collections at the Sixteenth and subsequent Anniversaries include the sums contributed at the Annual Meetings.

NOTICE TO TREASURERS AND SECRETARIES OF ASSOCIATIONS.

THE Committee of the Church Missionary Society request the Treasurers or Secretaries of Associations to transmit the proceeds of their respective Associations, together with the Contribution Lists and Accounts, as soon after the close of their Financial Year as possible. The Lists and Accounts should be written legibly to avoid mistakes in printing, and made up in the manner in which the same are printed in the Parent Society's Report. The Local Officers being appointed by the Associations, their names, as well as the date at which the Accounts of the Association are closed, should be specified. Where the Account or the List is a printed one, two copies should be forwarded.

The Committee would also point out, for wider adoption, the convenience of a practice already very generally observed by Associations, of making remittances on account whenever any considerable proportion of the year's receipts is in the hands of the Local Treasurer. This practice, they have reason to believe, would be acceptable to many of their Contributors, and would tend to equalize in a greater degree the income and expenditure in the earlier months of the Society's Financial Year.

The Society's General Accounts are closed on the 31st of March, and all Moneys and Lists belonging to the year must be received at the Society's House by that date, in order that the Lists may be inserted in their proper place in the Report.

The appending of the Lists and Accounts of the Associations to the Annual Report is a general acknowledgment to the Local Contributors that their Contributions have been received by the Parent Society; and the Committee are desirous of preventing the dissatisfaction which they are aware is occasioned by the omission of the Lists in the Report in consequence of the Money or the List having been received too late for insertion.

Where an Association has Branches connected with it, the Accounts of the Branches should be forwarded to the Secretary of the Association some time before the period for forwarding the Accounts of the Association to London. When this is not done within a reasonable time, such Branches should be considered as self-excluded, and the Accounts forwarded without them.

To prevent mistakes, it is requested that Branch Associations will in every case, where practicable, forward their Money and Lists through the Association with which they are connected, and not direct to the Parent Society.

The Committee return their cordial thanks to the Treasurers of Associations, and to those friends who kindly fill the office of Secretary—an office which, they are well aware, draws largely on the time and attention of those who occupy it, but on the efficient discharge of the duties of which, the prosperity of an Association chiefly depends.

N.B. Benefactors of Ten Pounds and upward, whose Names have appeared in former Lists of the Associations, will find them in the List of "Benefactions of former Years."
